THE HARD-HIT DOWNTOWN AREA - Much of the estimated $8 million in damages from Wednesday's Hale Center tornado occurred within the confines of the photograph above. The town's main intersection is located at lower center and was struck a head-on blow. City hall, once located at the lower right carner, was complutely demolished. On the upper right intersection corner, the First National Bank received a glancing blast, losing windows and part of the roof. No building in the black at center escaped unscathed. The ruins of the First Baptist Church can be observed at top center

Three died, more than 70 were injured and the vitals of Hale Center were ripped out Wednesday night, a few minutes after most prayer meeting goers had left the churches of this town of 2,900

Raw white, unbelievably loud and its power hard to believe, the tornado flicked over steel and brick, denuded trees, crushed automobiles, maimed, frightened, killed. Within minutes, the ugly, churning funnel had exited opposite its westside entry point, and the wounds began to sting.

The twister - nature's most violenceconcentrated storm - first hit Cotton Center, a tiny farm community southwest of this Hale County village. One died there. With little warning, it ground into Hale Center, struck and pulverized a low-rent housing area, handed an elementary school and church fatal blows and plowed into downtown. Then across the express way, the angry menace hit more homes, a gin and moved into the open. As a final gesture, the awesome protuberance dumped tons of debris into an empty field.

An eight million dollar blow, say the authorities. There is no city hall, no post office, no fire department, no hotel. Strike out one church, one school, scores of businesses, dozens of homes. This scene is recorded in the accompanying photographs, taken from the air and amid the feverish clean-up activity Thursday afternoon, less than 18 hours after Hale Center's most anguished moment.

'He Headed For Hole'

The sanctuary of the First Baptist Church was built in 1952 and members, who usually number about 300 on Sunday morning, held their first service therein October. To the immediate east, the old two-story stucco church became an educational building and together, the two structures formed a somewhat imposing plant in west Hale Center. Last Wednesday night, prayer meeting services were conducted as usual and everyone was out and on their way home by 8:50 p.m. Custodian J. D. Ritchey locked the doors and started home himself, watchful but not averly disturbed at the gathering storm clouds overhead, He listened to the 9 p.m. radio news report and heard no warning of weather danger. But minutes later the fire siren began to blow, and he turned on his television set, learning, for the first time, of a tornado alert. "Boy, whenever they let go with that second whistle I headed for a hole in the ground," he said. At 9:36 p.m. a tornado hit the First Baptist Church, leaving it in the shambles seen below. In the picture above, Ritchey looks at the electric clock in the sanctuary, stopped by the twister which inaugurated the third building program undertaken this century by Baptists in Hale Center.

Hail Kayos Big Wheat Acreage

A late-afternoon hailstorm Wednesday thrashed a 15mile swath through southern Deaf Smith County, ruining some wheat crops which farmers said would have yielded a bumper harvest and causing extensive damage from pounding rain and wind.

The Wednesday afternoon storm dropped rain and lessdisastrous hail on a wide portion of the county, with rainfall amounts ranging up to three inches in an area just southeast of Hereford.

Extensive damage to crops — hundreds of thousands of dollars worth — occurred in a strip from Summerfield to an area six to eight miles southeast of Hereford. The belt of heaviest damage appeared to be from two to five miles wide and some 15 miles long, reports indicated,

Some crops were "wiped out," farmers said. Beaten To Ground

Wheat stands, considered by many as offering promise of one of the best wheat crops in several years, were thrashed to the ground by golf ball-sized hail.

Heaviest damage was in an area some three miles southwest of Hereford, where wheat was literally levelled by a 30-minute onslaught of hail, wind and rain estimated at three inches.

Potatoes, sugar beets, cotton, carrots and grain sor ghum also suffered damage in varying amounts.

The system of thunderstorms which traversed the county dropped rainfall and hall on most portions, although no reports of heavy damage were received outside the area to the south of Hereford.

Hall Falls in Hereford In the city, rain measured three-quarters of an inch. Marble-sized hail fell. Showers tapered off south of the Castro county line.

No sprinkles fell at the Easter community. To the west, about a half inch of moisture accompanied by small hail fell at Westway, but no damage was n that area. A report from 13 miles north of Hereford said the area received minor hail damage and some .75 inch rain, At Dawn, less than a quarter inch of rain fell. This was also accompanied by a few small hailstones. Concerning crops in the hard-hit area south of Herefor, area agriculturalists said damage to sugar beets would not be "too bad" although vines were shredded by hail. Potatoes Are Hard-Hit

Extensive damage was suffered by potatoes in the area, however, as some fields were almost cleared of vines which were beaten off and washed away. Farmers were voicing a "wait and see" attitude concerning spud losses. Many were applying anhydrous and other stimulants in an attempt to revitalize the crops.

Several farmers in the area said wheat losses on some patches would be "100 per cent."

"A lot of people don't believe you when you talk about a 100 per cent loss at this time of the year," said Charles R. Hoover, who farms four miles southeast of Hereford . . . but I doubt we'll bother to pull a combine into...

Already Planted Three Times Hoover added that he, like most farmers in the area, had planted cotton three times. "I guess we'll try it again if the ground dries soon enough."

Hoover said the hail broke his rain gage, but estimated some three inches of rain fell on the area. Many roads in the area were underwater following the Run-off water from cropland carried with it hail from the fields. Hailstones were piled up a foot deep for a 100yard-long distance over one road shortly after the storm.

Frank Bezner, whose farm adjoins the Hoover place to the west, reported similar crop losses. He said he had "a beautiful stand" of potatoes, which were beaten down by the golf ball-sized hail.

"I don't know whether it will ruin them or not," he said. Some had hen-egg sized spuds on them already.

Carrots Look 'Plowed' Also hard hit by the storm was the Denzil Pulliam farm, located in the same area.

"We had a stand of carrots up . . . now it looks like they've been plowed after the hail," Mrs. Pulliam said. She added that her husband farmed three farms in the area. "The hail got all three of them."

She added that some buildings in the area suffered damage to windows and rooftops, "but not too many o

Hail also broke the rain gages at the Pulliam farm, "but it looked like a lot of rain, that's for sure," she Wheat losses on the Pulliam farms also ranged up 100 per cent in spots. A. H. Reinart, who farms six miles south of Hereford on the Dimmitt highway, said hail damage apparently was heaviest from his place north.

Hall At Sun He said only about a half inch fell at his farm and wheat damage would be less than 50 per cent loss. He added that his cotton crop would probably make it.

To the west, at Summerfield, more heavy half losses At the Earl Lance Sr. farm, two and a half miles west of Summerfield, 1.35 inches of rain fell along with marblesized hall. Wind and hall there caused some patches of 100 per cent loss on wheat, Mrs. Lance said, Similar damage was reported at the Thurman Atchley farm, two miles northwest of Summerfield. Mrs. Atchiey said losses there ranged from 70 to 90 per cent on some wheat, but thought the cotton crop might be o.k.

The talk of the town this week has been the devastating hail storm which laid waste to hundreds of acres of wheat southeast and southwest of Hereford, coupled with the disastrous tornado which took three lives and injured many others in the South Plains town of Hale Center. Many local families, including my own, have relatives in Hale Center and Cotton Center.

Mrs. Jess Odom of Westway, whose parents live in Hale Center, drove down Thursday to find all well, but somewhat shaken. The tornado barely missed the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ross White, parents of Mrs. Odom. One of our relatives, although uninjured, did suffer considerable property damage. My wife's aunt, Mrs. Fannie Riley, emerged from the cellar after the storm Wednesday night to find a large gaping hole in the attic directly above the second floor of her half-century old frame house located in Hale Center. A bathtub, blown from who knows where, had been deposited in the attic.

Pull the Gehl 72 Flail Chopper along side any other make. Feature for feature - round after round - the "72" proves its right to be the leader. Here's why:

Unitized fan blades and knives give exclusive cut-andthrow action. Crops don't thresh around. They're in, cut, then blown to the farthest wagon corner.

New Easy-Swing drawber adjusts right from the tractor seat. No wrenches needed. Just pull the rope control to change chopper pulling positions for easy maneuvering in tight places.

Flatts are reversible . . . give full 6-ft. cut. The 39 interchangeable flails are mounted in gangs and easy to switch. They're double edged for double chopping life. Powered doubte chopping. After the crop is flail-cut, it's augered directly to the unitized fan and knives. Here forage is cut again against an adjustable shear bar. Lets you cut as fast and short as needed.

These features - and many more - make the Gehl 72 the best fiail chopper

Beef Improvement Meet Expected To Draw Persons From 25 States

- More than 400 persons from 25 states will attend the Coordinated Beef Improvement Conference here July 19-30. The session, to be held at Texas A&M University and the nearby Ramada Inn, is a combina tion of A&M's annual Livestock and Meat Marketing Institute and the Beef Cattle Shortcourse. Ed Uvacek, Extension livestock marketing specialist in the A&M Agricultural Economics and Sociology Department, said the general theme is "Economic Opportunities in a Changing Market for Cattle and Beef."

THE CONFERENCE is spon sored by the American National Cattlemen's Association, Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association, and Texas A&M.

Uvacek said a special feature is a series of five workshops dealing with coordination of marketing volume and quality and its effect on price, reducing cost and waste in cattle and beef marketing, education of and dination of marketing information, and alternative systems for marketing cattle and beef.

Three noted economists will head a speaking lineup of more than 25 beef industry leaders. The economists are George L. Mehren, assistant secretary of agriculture; Raymond J. Doll, vice president and senior economist of the Federal Reserve Bank in Kansas City; and Paul L. Farris, project leader in meats and poultry for the National Commission on Food Marketing.

ANOTHER SPECIAL attraction, Uvacek said, is a cattle futures forum.

"Here is your chance to find out just what futures trading means and how it can be used," the specialist said, "A panel of experts who is actually hedging and speculating in the market

RARE TREE FAST GROWER

NORMAN PARK, Ga. 49 - A rare tree known as the Dawn Redwood, which once was believed to be extinct, is being planted on the campus of Norman College.

The tree is a gift from Harvey Tempeton of Winchester, Tenn. A few of the Dawn Redwood trees were found in China in 1945 by a Harvard expedition and some of the seeds were brought to the United States.

The tree grows rapidly. James S. Spooner, professor of biology, said one at Oak Ridge, Tenn., has grown as much as 10 feet in a year.

Hale Center - 'We'll Rebuild'

SWAYBACKED — The powerful forces of the tornado unroofed part of the educational building of the First Baptist Church (above) at W. Sixth St. and Ave. H and shoved the walls into dangerous sagging positions. The church's pastor, the Rev. Charles Broadhurst was in Dallas when the twister hit. He returned to see the interior of the church's main auditorium in the disrupted state shown below. "We'll rebuild this back, people are already responding," he said. "We're more interested in those who have lost loved ones or who were hurt."

End At South Ward

South Ward Elementary School in Hale Center wasn't a dilapidated structure — but, built in 1911, it was aging, and the second story was locked and sealed after being condemned by building inspectors. But school activities continued on a reduced scale on the ground floor with first and second graders in attendance. How much longer the school would have been used is now a moot question. The facility found itself in the path of Wednesday's tornado and sustained damages that probably will dictate its demise. Loretta Tiffin (at right) attended the school in the first and second grades and was back there Thursday helping salvage books and other paraphernalia. She was at home on the farm when the twister hit but came to town to aid Red Cross workers in sheltering the homeless at the high school gymnasium.

BIGGEST FRAGMENT AROUND — This automobile, its top completely crushed on one side and its glasses shattered, was virtually the largest object remaining on one side of a long block on W. Fifth St. An entire street side of modest frame homes was totally wiped out when hit by Wednesframe homes was totally wiped out when hit by Wednesday's tornado. THE AFTERMATH — The appearance at 7th St. and Main was one of utter destruction. The rows of small shops that lined the west side of Main were left nothing but battered shells filled with splintered debris. Power scoops were at work Thursday afternoon

Disaster Strikes Again On Plains

Periodically we are violently shaken from complacent existence through the ap-pearance of weather hazards, and the twister which swept through nearby Hale Center this week was certainly no excep-

From time to time, it seems, we can expect tornadoes in this territory - and ile we all agree that we should prepare for them, the twisters invariably hit the most unexpected places and at the most inopportune times. For many years the Plains was not considered "tornado country", but if we look over the record we can no longer make such an assumption.

Old timers recall the twister which swept through Amarillo some years back, leaving in its wake tremendous damage: this was followed by another tornado a few years later which pretty well razed Higgins; another few years saw similar disaster strike Silverton. More recently, the Sunnyside community became the victim, and this week Hale Center and Cotton Center faced the same disaster. Meanwhile, several communities, like Hereford, have reported near-strikes as tornado funnels traveled routes near the townsites.

No one will probably ever be ready for such disaster, but we can at least do our best to keep things in the best state of preparedness possible. People, for instance, would do well to locate some place to go in case tornado warnings do come to us; our alert system, too often ignored. should take on new meaning for each of us, Important, also, is the extending of assistance and any help possible to victims of the twisters, first from a humanitarian standpoint; also because the next time we may be the victims.

Success Recipe

There are a lot of recipes for success nowadays and the old time recipe as practiced by Horatio Alger which would have a young man work hard, save his money and get ahead through thrift and industry out of date.

Times have changed and times are easier for young people, yet they must learn to live in a most complex world that is getting more complex all the time.

This is the week that Perryton high school graduates finish their schooling on the local level, and at commencement time next Tuesday there will be some misty eyes as the class looks back on their high school career. But these eyes will dry and spirits will soar as they think of life ahead and the challenges which confront them.

Success means different things to different people. All of us want to share in the material comforts of life; to a point, sharing in the economic abundance appeals to our sense of moral and Christian virtue. But America has no need for a race of young people fitted to the pattern of what someone called "prosperous conformity."

National dependence on and worship of wealth comes at the expense of other values and goals.

What the older generation wants to see is a nation that continues to produce large numbers of morally alert, upstanding people - citizens not lightly to be stepped on or muzzled, not to be herded about or managed, people who love freedom of choice and opportunity above security and material comforts.

At the christening of her baby boy, a mother asked the general, Robert E. Lee, for some wisdom that would help her guide her son along the road to manhood. The general's immediate answer was

"Teach him to deny himself." Where are the fathers and mothers

Americans of all ages, not merely the current crop of graduates, would do well to heed this kind of advice.

Growth Binge

Despite all of the things you may have read and heard, Hereford is still on a growth binge. Nothing sensational these days, but steady consistent growth which seems destined to continue indefinitely.

A large portion of the million-dollarplus gain the first five months of this year over 1964 can, of course, be attributed to business expansion which was expected and even perdicted. The fact that we have 99 new homes this year against 101 in the same period last year, however, comes as a surprise to many observers. Fifty percent of last year's figure would, in fact, be considered very good, and the 99 count may well be regarded as sensational. Interesting, too, is the fact that our commercial expansion is bringing new businesses, new classifications of business and new faces on the scene. Needless to say, both of these factors indicate continued growth during the next decade.

If we place Hereford's population today at 10,000, more and more people are swinging around to the idea that Hereford may, after all, hit that preposterous sounding 25,000 population by 1975 - and even the die-hards on this topic are beginning to agree that the 25,000 is not nearly so impossible as it looked 12 months back.

Junior Colleges Sought In State

This season of the Texas legislature recorded requests for new junior colleges to be located in Scurry, Bee, Maverick, Tarrant, and Mclennen counties. This trend, we believe, is destined to spread extensively in coming years, and it comprises one phase of growth in which our area may well be dragging its feet.

In part, this is perhaps due to our proximity to West Texas State University which provides a most desirable situation. However, a junior college here might well affiliate with the university curriculum, and create an even more desirable situation. This, at least, has been accomplished in neighboring Levelland with excellent results through cooperative planning with Texas Tech.

Continued emphasis on education and we see no indicated let-down in the near future — will almost demand a local two-year college, which in the course of time will come to be as widely used and accepted as Hereford High School, This trend is already underway, especially in the more congested areas of the East and in California to the West, Primarily, it eliminates over-crowded freshman years in larger schools, but perhaps the most beneficial result is that of making two more years of education available to the average student, who can live at home, eat at home. and even hold a part-time job which may be important to him.

Whether Deaf Smith County and Hereford need - or even want - a similar school to the junior college remains, to be seen. We do feel, however, that it is an item which should be discussed at length and carefuly investigated. Something is bound to happen along this line within the next few years - and it seems much smarter to familiarize ourselves with the advantages and disadvantages than to sit idly by while neighboring towns and cities get the jump on us. Generally, this is not the way we do things.

Uproar At BA

Egads! Will scandals never cease? Cheating at cards has always been one of the most heinous of charges that can be leveled in any social gathering. In frontier days in Texas, at least you had to smile when you leveled it.

The uproar caused by "certain irregularities" of play in the international bridge tournament at Buenos Aires has touched off memories of some of the most dreadful of drawing room scandals in the late 19th and early 20th centuries.

It is particularly unfortunate that the complaint had to be made by American players against a British team. It is bound to widen the sluice gates of British newspaper criticism of American foreign policy in Viet Nam and the Caribbean, It may well lead President de Gaulle to draw himself up in redoubled grandeur in denouncing this latest instance of Americans shooting from the hip, Texas-style, by ladging the protest with tournament afficials.

THE BOOTLEG ——Philosopher

Editor's note: The Bootleg Philosopher on his Bindweed farm apparently doesn't take prize fighting too seriously, his letter this week

Dear editor:

While I don't understand boxing, what I mean is, the way I get it is, if Clay had hit Liston hard enough the fight fans would have been satisfied, whether the fight lasted one minute or thirty, but a gentle tap about like you'd use to get a cat off the dining table if you allow cats in the house makes everybody unhappy and feeling cheated, still the thing about the whole affair is the clamor for an investigation.

It's a fact, fight fans are demanding that the fight be investigated, and several Washington officials have risen to the call.

What they say is, here Liston and Clay have fought twice, for a total of about four minutes, and the fans have paid out over eight million dollars to see it, either firsthand or an closed-circuit television, and they are fired of getting cheated and Congress ought to do something

This is what I don't understand. If the fans are convinced the fights are fakes, why trouble Congress to pass a law to keep them from wasting their money? Why don't they just stay away? Why don't they allow nature to take its course? When a football team loses nine games in a row, how many fans show up for the tenth one?

I tell you, when Congress takes on the job of passing laws to keep the public from wasting its money on phony entertainment, it'll be tied up from now on. In fact, if it succeeded, it'd wreck television.

Personally, I've always figured picking the world's champion boxer was about like picking Miss America. There's no such thing as the prettiest girl in the United States, anymore than there's such a thing as the world's best refrigerator. After a refrigerator manages to hold the temperature inside it at 38 degrees night and day, anything beyond that is ridiculous. There are thousands of girls in this country, each as pretty as the other, but the ritual requires one to be selected. I doubt if there's anything there worth investigating.

However, if I was a Congressman, I believe I'd rather try to find out what's wrong with boxing than what the answer is to Viet Nam.

Yours faithfully,
