

Clayton Grabs Berths On 6 Committees

By BETTY HANNA
Capitol Correspondent
Rep. Bill Clayton of Springlake will serve on six Texas House of Representative committees this legislative session, two in leadership capacities.

Gus Mutscher, Speaker of the House, appointed Clayton on Thursday as chairman of the Committee on Counties and vice chairman of the Committee on Banks and Banking. Clayton also will serve on the Rules, State Affairs, Conservation and Reclamation Committees.

A week earlier, State Sen. Max Sherman of Amarillo drew his committee assignments. Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes named Sherman the vice chairman of the Oil and Gas Committee and placed him also on the Agriculture and Livestock, Water and Conservation, Finance, Constitutional Amendments, Interstate Cooperation, Privileges and Elections, State Affairs, State Departments and Institutions, Transportation and Environmental Matters Committees.

The governor called for a vote by the people on a constitutional amendment this session, which means before June 1. Clayton was impressed with Smith's ideas. "The governor's proposals may be a good way to meet the pressing needs of the state without raising taxes," Clayton said. "I heartily commend the governor for trying to meet these problems, and feel he has worked hard to come up with a solution."

HELPS OUT — When high school band director Ben Gollehon makes appearances at basketball games or elsewhere with the select Stage Band, made up mostly of career-minded musicians, he says "I'd rather be playing than just standing there." The electric bass in the picture is one of several instruments he is proficient in. He could play only the clarinet when he graduated from high school, but he is giving his Stage Band members a head start of what they will have to learn in college by teaching them to play several instruments each now.

Ben Built His Band With Ex-Coach's Idea

By CHARLES RICHARDS

Ben Gollehon figures the best way to produce a good band with a good sound is to go about it like a good football coach would.

"My philosophy is sort of funny, I guess," said the 28-year-old Gollehon, whose bands at Hereford High School have hammered out coveted Sweepstakes awards for the past eight years in a row.

He played junior high football at Dimmitt under Coach John Blaine, now in the Texas Hall of Fame, and was impressed with the way Blaine hired assistants who were strong in the areas he himself was weakest. "Where there was a weakness, Blaine hired somebody strong to make up for it. He was a winner, and just being around him had an effect on me. When I came here, I tried to set up the same sort of organization he had. I was weak on brass instruments, so I hired a strong brass man. He was weak on woodwinds, but I was proficient there."

"I" rating every year during University Interscholastic League competition.

Although Priest and Vaughn will each try to push his own kids to victory over the rival junior high school in competitions as a band as a whole, there is teamwork between them. Vaughn teaches beginning woodwinds in both Stanton and La Plata, and Priest teaches brass instruments in both schools. Gollehon and Wright then work also with the junior high bands each day to offer their suggestions on individual improvement.

Each band is split into four small groups, much like a football coach might send the offensive linemen off with one coach and the running backs off with another coach. "In other words, every child has the same as a private lesson each day from an expert, no matter what his instrument. They're working with specialists from the very first day they get their instruments," Gollehon pointed out.

"By starting in the seventh grade with a real thorough program, and working with these specialists, by the time one of our children gets to high school, he's in real good shape," Gollehon said.

Hereford High School hadn't had a Sweepstakes winner in 14 years when Gollehon left after two years at Pampa Junior High to take the job here 11 years ago, in 1960. He embarked on a building program the first two years and then, in the 1962-63 school year, his band won Sweepstakes. Even today, that stands as the biggest thrill of his 13 years as a director.

"That first Sweepstakes was an almost impossible task. I See BAND Page Two

The land just east of South Main opposite the present golf course has "tremendous potential" for development into a city park, a Texas Tech parks and administration official said here Friday.

The official, Dr. James Kitchen, and an aide toured the 110-acre site with City Manager Dudley Bayne and then talked enthusiastically with him in his office for two hours.

"This land we looked at has terrific potential," Kitchen said. "It is quite a contrast to the flat land surrounding it, and its trees, small creek and contour is what appeals to the people." Kitchen and Dewey Shore, also of Tech, came to Hereford at the request of Bayne and the Hereford City Commission. They got a firsthand look at the area to help them in laying plans for proposed improvements.

Kitchen said his office will draw up plans concerning how the land would be best used and then submit the proposals to Bayne for presentation to city commissioners.

The plans possibly will include routing of roads, a series of lakes, trees, grass, picnic and family areas and a sprinkling system, Bayne said.

The financing of the improvements will be done on a phase type operation when the money is available to the city. Bayne said some of the money from the city sales tax will be used in the developing of the park, but this will all depend on how much is available when it is needed.

"We are just starting off with an overall plan," Bayne said. "We don't know what it will include, other than the suggestions he made during the tour of the land."

"When we have our next city commission meeting we may have some of his proposals back by then, but even if we don't we are going to have to put some amount in the city budget because that has to be done real soon."

In addition to the proposed development of the park, Bayne See CITY Page Two

Break Seen In Grain Theft Case

Sheriff's officers are planning additional arrests soon, of top men in the grain theft operation that was unveiled with the arrest of two Littlefield men last week.

Deputy Sheriff Harold Wheeler said the sheriff's office is awaiting a conference with the new 69th Judicial District Attorney before further arrests are made.

The two men, one a Denver, Colo., resident and the other a Littlefield resident, are believed to be two of the top men in the several-state grain theft operation that has sapped more than a million dollars out of the area in the past eight years. "Since the district attorney is new at his job, we have decided to wait and have him handle the case and consult with him before doing anything," Wheeler said.

The district attorney, Michael P. Metcalf of Dumas, was appointed by Gov. Preston Smith to the post just last week after the former district attorney, Jerry Tucker, submitted his resignation.

The probe into the grain thefts began Dec. 30 of last year when reports from local elevators led to the discovery of what is believed to be a major theft operation.

Two Littlefield men, Wayne Richard Vaughn, 21, and Roy Stewart, were arrested Tuesday in Littlefield and charged with theft over $50. Their arrests were the result of an investigation by local sheriff's officers into an attempted theft of grain from Farmers Corner elevator just north of Hereford on Jan. 12.

Both men have been released on bond, Wheeler said.

"We have everything ready to go," Wheeler said. "We are going after the top boys and if we get them, the rest will naturally quit."

"We knew who these two men were from the start when we began investigating this case in December. The other two we arrested last week were just peons hired for wages. The ones we are going after now are the ones who instigated, planned and went along with the entire operation," he said.

Wheeler said further investigation by the sheriff's office has revealed where some of the grain has been sold. He said there were indications some of the grain has been sold to feedlots throughout the area.

Feb. 4 Meeting Set For Revival Of Jaycees

A meeting to reactivate and reorganize the Hereford Jaycees is scheduled for 8 p. m. Thursday, Feb. 4 at the Community Center.

A number of local businessmen will present talks about the Jaycees organization and members of the Amarillo Jaycees will also be on hand to help in the reorganization.

Cosmetology Class Opens New Doors For HS Girls

Hereford High School offers a class to junior and senior girls that will enable them, after completion of the course and the tests that follow, to step from a little or no income life to that of a high-paid professional.

Vanna Thurlow, instructor for the high school cosmetology department, said a girl, after completing two years of the course at the high school, can become a licensed beautician and step into one of the most sought-after professions of the day.

The course, offered to junior and senior girls, consists of a three-hour per day, 36-week block where students learn the skills of cosmetology. The 36 weeks give the students approximately 540 class-room hours during the course of one year, but two years are required before a student can take tests to get her license.

"At the end of the second year they will have the 1,000 hours required by state law,"

Mrs. Thurlow said. "However, recent legislation makes it mandatory for these girls to have 1,500 hours."

She said the state has submitted to the protests of the number of hours, and has now agreed to let schools count related courses in the total.

"Upon completion of the course, the girls are eligible to take state examination tests and if they pass they get their license where they can operate in any shop in the state," the instructor said.

While the three-hour block is dedicated to the training of girls in the styling and caring of hair other areas are also discussed. These include anatomy, basic electricity, chemistry, business and bacteriology, and are essential in completing the course.

This year Mrs. Thurlow, who is in her third year as instructor, has 30 girls enrolled in the class. Each student is graded each day on a progress chart and on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of each week, women go to the school to have their hair done at lower rates.

Mrs. Thurlow said the class gets about $65 a week in doing the hair of their patrons and to this point have earned enough money to have the cosmetology department carpeted, a library constructed, and more mannequins purchased.

"Sometimes it is as late as 9 p. m. on Thursdays when we finally get through," she said.

Though the cosmetology department is primarily for the teaching of beautician skills, the department also adopts a needy family at Thanksgiving and Christmas, giving it food, toys, presents and other items.

"In the future we plan to go to both junior highs to give programs for those girls who might be interested in cosmetology. We would also like to see our course expanded to a unit-and-a-half because there are so many students who would like to take cosmetology but can't because of the time factor," she said.

Coronado Is Opponent Here Tuesday

Herd Opens 4A Action

The District 4-AAAA basketball race got off to a surprising start Friday night, and the Hereford Whitefaces will try to continue the trend at La Plata Gym Tuesday night.

Coach Ron Mayberry's team will host the Lubbock Coronado Mustangs in an 8 p. m. encounter, with the sophomores from the two schools meeting at 4:30 p. m. and the junior varsities at 6:15 p. m.

It will be Hereford's first league game ever in Class AAAA.

Coronado is 8-15 for the season and 6-1 in conference action, having lost 53-30 to league favorite Plainview Friday night.

Sharing the early 1-0 league lead with Plainview is Lubbock

High, which startled Lubbock Monterey 29-27 Friday night before a standing-room-only crowd of 3,000. Monterey was a co-favorite with Plainview for the district title, but one loss is a serious blow for the Plainsmen's chances of winning the first half title.

Hereford took a 17-6 record and a heavy favorite's role into Seminole Saturday night for a final non-conference match before entering district play.

The Whitefaces will be favored over Coronado Tuesday, despite being the unanimous pre-season choice for last place in the league. Coronado has the only losing record of the five district teams and has now lost three in a row.

Probable starters for Coronado will be Bill Wallis, 6-4 senior Mark Stafford, 6-5 senior Donnie Malone, 6-1 junior Mark Curry and 6-3 junior Larry Williams.

Mayberry will go with 6-10 sophomore Keith Kitchens, 5-10 senior Mike Wartes, 6-4 senior Blake Arwine, 6-2 senior David Myers and 6-3 senior John McNeely.

Hereford will be either second or tied for fourth in league standings after its game Tuesday night.

A victory would put the Herd at 1-0, behind only the 2-0 record of the winner between Lubbock High and Plainview at Plainview. The loser and Coronado would have 1-1 marks and 15.

Team-Teaching Approach Sent Local Band On Its Big Success Voyage

(Continued From Page One) was still the youngest AAA band director in the state at the time, and I felt like I had done something great," Gollehon recalled with a grin.

"When we got Honor Band (state's outstanding Class AAA band in 1967) was a big moment, but still it didn't even touch that first Sweepstakes."

"Ben has done an outstanding job of coordinating and developing the entire music program for our schools. I doubt anyone, anywhere, could have done better. I think that's evident by however many straight Sweepstakes his bands have won since he has come here," Supt. Roy Hartman said of Gollehon.

"Hereford was one of the very first schools in the state to use the team-teaching method, and you can see the results. It has carried over into our junior high program, as well. He is one of the most talented individuals I know in the field of music."

"In talking about Sweepstakes, Gollehon is confident about future successes. In trying to recall how many his bands have notched, he said: "This year will be the ninth year." Only after a couple of seconds did he add, "... if we make it."

"It's like a brand new ball game, though, being in AAAA. We have a winning tradition that carries us a little bit. They (his students) know what it tastes like."

He credits his team-teaching approach, borrowed from Blaine, for his bands' successes. Among other things, when a junior high bandsman advances into high school, Gollehon hasn't had to spend any time trying to get to know the student and how well he performs. He's been working with the student for three years already.

"Also, this approach lets us project several years ahead. When we start with beginners, we try to determine what the band will be like when they're seniors. We try to keep the band balanced, putting so many on that instrument and so many on that. We have all the instruments covered with good players," he said.

He enjoys a good rapport with his students. "Mr. Gollehon has the talent to bring out every bit of music possible from a band," said one of his former top students, Chris Hutcherson, who made first chair clarinet on the All-State Band not long ago.

"This may seem somewhat like 'hero worship' but is a fact. He makes you want to work, and his hard work has really been the impetus for our band's success."

Gollehon, in addition to his clarinet abilities at Dimmitt High School, was a vocalist. He took voice lessons in Hereford from Miss Mattie Fowler, winning a '1' rating every year, on the All-State Choir. Subsequently, when we went to West Texas State University, he majored in both voice and instrumental. In fact, he was determined to be a choir director.

"That's what I was going to do, but I had a friend — Knox Kinard, who was superintendent here in the 40s. My last year in college he was superintendent at Pampa and he just called me and told me I was going to be band director at Pampa Junior High. He really just told me, you're going to be. So I went down there."

His grandfather was choir director for 25 years at the Methodist Church in Dimmitt, and now Ben is choir director at First Christian Church in Hereford.

"That's really my 'instrument.' I enjoy the singing part of it. That's my 'territory' as they say," he said.

At West Texas State, he sang baritone on a quartet called the Hi-Fis, which sang at almost every banquet in the Panhandle for the four years he was in college. The other members were Dean Kelley, now a sportscaster with KFDA-TV; Jim Restine, Amarillo Caprock director; and Roy Lowe, a controller at Tinker Air Force Base.

His father and his aunt — who were twins — sang duets when they were young and later with Ben's grandfather and grandmother formed the Gollehon Quartet. Ben's father and grandfather were instrumental in getting music in the Dimmitt schools. They all sang and played the piano, and his great-uncle played the banjo. All were active in the singing conventions that predominated throughout this area earlier in the century.

He still sings before the public on occasions, but most of his public appearances are with his band, such as at football games or at concerts.

His bands have always had a goal to shoot for, and right now it's an appearance before the national music educators' convention.

"We played at the state convention in 1967 as the honor band and we would like now to play at the national convention. You have to be invited to audition, and the committee selects three bands out of the whole nation. That's pretty hard to get in on because there are so many bands across the country," Gollehon said.

It takes a pretty good reputation to even get invited to audition, and that's what he is working on.

He also would like to appear at halftime on national TV football games, although he feels marching bands are moving more and more out of favor for halftime shows, in favor of spectacles featuring top-name artists.

"People are getting tired of marching bands, I think. We try to change our routine so we will not be like everybody else. I think the trend is going to things like variety shows, three-ring circuses, flag-waving, good arrangements, and so forth," he said.

"If halftimes are to survive, they are going to have to have everything from rhythm routines, singing, scenery sets, special lighting effects, something that will attract your attention. I think the traditional marching band is going to have to adapt. I get so tired of those silly halftime shows."

Gollehon is putting the emphasis on feature numbers, good music, on the theory that people never get tired of hearing good sound.

"It's kind of like a football game with no passing. To me it's the most boring thing in the world," he said. "Arrangements are the thing, not just the music. So much band music is arranged so poorly. It's expensive to get good arrangements."

He estimated it costs about $100 to get a good arrangement, because it takes time to work out a pleasing combination.

"But there are people in New York who just jot out these things and they're real bad. A school can get them for about $2, and they're something to play, but they're just the melody of songs people are accustomed to hearing, and otherwise poorly done."

The alternatives are to shell out good money to get good arrangements or to have an arranger on your staff. Hereford does both.

"All of us do our own thing — we get, we get pretty good arrangements, too. We just spend more for good marching arrangements. We try to be as good musically as we can. Most of the time, we're working on trying to get a good sound than we are on marching."

Someone asked Gollehon what he would do for a living if Congress suddenly declared that music was taboo, nobody could teach it or work with it.

"Golly, I don't know. I'm afraid my life would end. I've never thought of anything else. Maybe selling; this is a selling business in a way. You spend 35 years working in one thing and then you couldn't do it anymore, that would be, I don't know. Saying there could be no more music would be like saying there would be no United States."

About 173 million tons of man-made toxic materials pollute United States air each year — roughly a ton for every man, woman and child in the country.

ON WITH PRACTICE — The writing on the blackboard in the high school band department indicates the humor that settles on the place and students' rapport with their director. The blackboard reads: "Ben Gollehon, Ph.D." but other writing is underneath, amplifying the Ph.D. to mean "Post Hole Digger." Director in this picture is Gollehon's assistant, Ronnie Wright, while Gollehon works with a second band about 100 feet away, in the high school auditorium.

Alcoholism Council To Get Money

By MARSHALL DAY
Staff Writer

The Deaf Smith County Council on Alcoholism will be eligible for federal financing during the coming year, a representative of the Texas Commission on Alcoholism told the local organization Thursday.

Bradley E. Priebe, regional coordinator for the state commission, said during a meeting Thursday that a recent bill signed by President Nixon will make federal money available to every state in its programs of treatment, education and research of alcoholism.

"Probably the most exciting news since Dr. Howard Rush said alcoholism is a disease, is the Hughes Bill that will provide $300 million over the next three years in the fight against alcoholism," Priebe said.

Under the new law, cities may, through their alcoholism programs, apply to the governor's Criminal Justice Council for the funds. This council, through Law Enforcement Assistance Administration action grants, allow the various city political bodies, such as county and city commissions, apply for the funds.

Priebe said the federal government will supply 60 per cent of the money needed to operate a city's organization and the city itself must provide the other 40 per cent. He said his office has already written one such grant and that was for the Austin Rehabilitation Center which is run for the rehabilitation of alcoholics.

"Of course," he said, "there are other ways of getting around putting out a flat 40 per cent of the total in just dollars. You can use what we call in-kind service where a doctor might agree to donate his time to helping with the program.

"In such a case, the commission would take about 5 per cent of his annual income and use this as a part of the in-kind service, although the doctor is not actually spending his money."

There are a number of ways in-kind service can be counted toward the 40 per cent the city must come up with, Priebe said, but the councils should be careful not to over-do in-kind service.

"You have to come up with some hard cash, regardless how much in-kind service you get," he said.

Priebe, who is in charge of 83 counties in this state, said he will have to complete a formal application telling where all the money will be spent in each of his counties.

He said for this particular region, Amarillo will probably be designated the focal point with perhaps Borger, Plainview, Pampa and Hereford designated as out stations that could get funds for paid alcoholism workers.

Under the Hughes bill, no state will receive less than $200,000 and Priebe said Texas, with its influence in this department, hopes to get as much as

$4 million for the first year. The law says that the first year of the three-year program, only $80 million will be disbursed, with $100 million the second year and $120 million the third year.

"This is quite a jump from about $16 million a year to about $100 million a year," Priebe said.

Priebe, using figures provided by Police Chief Don Brush, said Hereford is indeed in a position where funds could be used to fight alcoholism.

"In Hereford, if you take the DWI, drunk and disorderly conduct cases of last year, you will find that they make up 64 per cent of the total arrests made," he said. "And on the nation a 1 average, 50 per cent of all accidents are alcohol-related. Divorces and juvenile delinquency are fast becoming alcohol-related areas."

"Lots of times we forget we must establish the problem of alcoholism. Currently the drug scene in the thing in focus. It is harder to get people to talk about the alcoholics than it is the drug problem when in reality they are just the same.

"If we start talking about these series of drug problems and put all the alcoholics on one side and all the drug problems on the other, we are going to find they are about equal," he said.

The state and federal government recognizes the alcohol problem, Priebe said, but it is hard to get ordinary people to even talk about it in a mature manner. He said new teaching methods have been devised that are completely contrary to what has been taught in the past.

"You have heard about giving a drunk coffee to sober him up and this is one of the things we have got to convince the people that is not true. You can give a drunk five gallons of coffee and all you have is a wide-awake drunk," he said.

Merriott Assumes Realtor Presidency

Virgil Merriott was installed Thursday night as president of the Hereford Board of Realtors during the annual installation banquet at the Country Club.

Melvin Jayroe, who served as president of the association during the past year was installed as vice president, Mary French as secretary-treasurer and Ben Scott and Morris Easley as directors.

Installation ceremonies were conducted by Franklin A. Jeffers of Amarillo, vice president of Region I, Texas Association of Realtors.

Jayroe gave a short talk on the achievements of the local board of realtors which included the board's annual scholarship to a high school senior, representation by the local board at various meetings throughout the state, the receiving of the award for the largest increase in membership in this region, and work put into the observance of Realtor's Week.

"This has been a real good year and I know our new president will get as much cooperation out of you other people as I did," Jayroe said.

Entertainment for the evening was provided by a band of high school students.

OLD PETS

PEORIA, Ill — An Ohio veterinarian says older dogs have a 50 per cent better chance to survive surgery than was possible 10 years ago.

Dr. W. H. Crago, of Youngstown, spoke to members of the Mississippi Valley Veterinary Medical Association during a convention.

He said new developments in inhalation anesthesia are encouraging veterinarians to attempt operations on older pets which would have been unthinkable previously. The new anesthesia methods replace the older and very dangerous practices which depended on ether.

Crago estimates he treats about 6,000 dogs a year. He said the major problems today are congenital because more purebred dogs are being born.

Former Resident Here For Visit

A former Hereford resident, Mrs. Dexter Lillie of Grand Junction, Colo., is visiting friends here and was a guest Thursday afternoon of Bay View Study Club, in which she held membership while she lived in this city.

She and her late husband, who was a department manager with Holly Sugar, moved from Hereford to California a few years ago. Both were actively identified with civic organizations here.

RECORD CROWD — Most of the 541 girls in the local Camp Fire organization entertained their fathers at the annual Camp Fire Father-Daughter Banquet Friday night at the Bull Barn. More than 1,000 persons attended the fete which set a record for attendance. The highlight of the banquet was presentation of the WoHeLo medallion to Charlotte Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Delmo Williams. This is the highest award in the Camp Fire organization.

KIWANIS SPEAKER — Andy Shuval, Deaf Smith County Attorney, told Kiwanians Thursday what he does as county attorney and gave steps taken in court in handling misdemeanor, criminal, and civil cases. Shuval, introduced by Billy Hodges, program chairman, encouraged businesses to be more careful in taking out-of-state checks and asked respect from the community for the entire law enforcement body for their protection to law-abiding citizens. Also shown above is Miss Patty Nowotny, Kiwanis Sweetheart.

New Term For DAR Officers

Officers were elected to serve second two-year terms at a Thursday afternoon meeting of Las Ciboleros Chapter, Daughters of American Revolution, with Mrs. Jess Robinson as Regent.

Mrs. Earl Holt was re-elected vice-regent, Mrs. Alfred Smith secretary, Mrs. LeRoy Williams correspondent, Mrs. Sue James treasurer; Mrs. Bruce Carter registrar; Mrs. Charles Bell historian; Mrs. H. M. Booser librarian, Mrs. V. O. Hennen parliamentarian, and Mrs. Joe Reinauer chaplain.

Elected as delegate to the state convention in San Antonio March 17-19 was Mrs. Jeff Smart with Mrs. Joe Reinauer as alternate. Regent is automatically a delegate and vice-regent is alternate.

One new member, Mrs. Tom Harkey, was welcomed by Mrs. Smart.

Mrs. Bruce Carter led the program on Flag of the United States. She told how the flag was designed, its symbolism and the acts of congress which finally fixed the 13 stripes to represent original states in the Union while stars are added to represent new states.

History of the pledge of allegiance to the flag was also traced; it was drawn up in 1892 in the office of Youth's Companion magazine, Mrs. Carter said, first used in a public school that year and officially recognized by Congress in 1942. The phrase, "under God," was added by Congress in 1954 with the approval of President Eisenhower.

Mrs. Hull New Bay View Head

Headed by Mrs. James Hull as president, officers for a new term in Bay View Study Club were elected at the annual business meeting Thursday in the home of the president, Mrs. Colby Conkright.

To serve with Mrs. Hull, members elected Mrs. E. J. McMillan vice president, Mrs. Herman Ford secretary, Mrs. Wilson Humphrey correspondent and Mrs. H. L. Benefield treasurer. They will be installed at a May 6 luncheon in Hereford Country Club.

Each committee chairman gave her report for the year. Mrs. Howard Gault, membership chairman, told of addition of seven new members. Mrs. Tom Sawyer said the program committee's accomplishment is seen in the current study series on Women's Role in the 70's.

Mrs. Si Darling reported two meetings at which the social committee had hostess duties, with the May luncheon to make a third. Mrs. J. R. Allison numbered messages and gifts sent by the cheer committee.

The telephone committee, Mrs. Jack Wilcox reported, reminds members of such changes as that made for the March meeting, to be in Mrs. Darling's home instead of the place originally set.

A special project, sponsoring educational activities at Deaf Smith Historical Museum, was reported by Mrs. Juston Mc-

Hostess were Mmes. Williams and Booser. Others present were Mmes. J. T. Downing, Tom Sawyer, Ray Carille and Roy Smith.

Bride. Welfare projects carried out by special committees include contributions to the Public Health Clinic and Day Care Center, sponsorship of a Camp Fire Girls group and gifts to patients in the Wichita Falls State Hospital at Christmas.

Mrs. Conkright summed up the year by saying, "Bay View Club has been active for 62 years, meeting many civic responsibilities in a rapidly growing community, and we hope for another such 62 years."

RIGHT ON RED
LOUISVILLE, Ky. — A Louisville motorist, W. Paul Dodge, approached an intersection recently and although the light was green, there was a car stopped in his lane.

Dodge, a bit perturbed, gave a slight beep on his horn. The woman driver in front of him turned around and pointed to a sign reading: "Stop — Turn Right On Red."

Sure enough, as soon as the light turned red the lady took a right turn and went merrily on her way.

—Small Talk—

By SUE COLEMAN
Women's Editor

With a name indicating that they might spend their time in frivolous pursuits, L'Allegra probably scores more solid accomplishment in a year than any other women's organization in town.

MEMBERS OF OTHER clubs, poised to hurl brickbats at my head, will please note that I hedged with the word "probably" but I'm ready to give reasons for my choice.

The twenty-odd young matrons who make up that club don't fool away their meetings appointing committees which never do anything or debating about spending $1.98 on some big gift to help the underprivileged.

They get their teeth into some good solid service projects and then put out work — plain old work with their hands and backs as well as their heads — to accomplish their aims.

When they need money — and what project doesn't — they pitch in and work some more to raise it.

When money won't buy all that is needed, as in their sponsorship of a crippled girl at Girlstown a few years ago, and their present aid to the County Health Center, they give their own time and sympathy and thoughtfulness — and work.

THOSE THOUGHTS occurred to me when I started to tell you that L'Allegra Club will bring some unusual entertainment to the community March 18, when it sponsors a Musical in Review by Mary Allen Vincent of Dallas.

For quite a few years pretty Mrs. Vincent has been giving this type of review. It's a unique show; you may imagine a one-woman version of a musical comedy by someone who can sing the songs as she tells the story, and she is assisted by a piano accompanist.

The show she will present here is "I Do, I Do" a sparkling success as a Broadway comedy which some Hereford people saw done by a road company in Amarillo not too long ago.

HELEN ANN McWHORTE R, who heard Mrs. Vincent give this review in Dallas, recommended it heartily to L'Allegra members.

A member of the club, Barbara McCrary, heard the reviewer's first effort, The Unsinkable Molly Brown, and she too is enthusiastic about bringing her here.

Tickets are on sale now; the review will be presented in First Baptist fellowship hall which seats only 400 so early purchase might be a good idea.

And L'Allegra is doing another good deed for the town in adding to our opportunities to enjoy first-class live entertainment.

County Oldtimer Recently Buried

Mrs. Della Higgins Boyd of Hammond, Ind., former resident of Hereford, died recently and was buried at Hammond. She was a member of the family of Mr. and Mrs. Billy Higgins, which came to Deaf Smith County about 1890 in covered wagons.

She married W. B. Boyd, who was county judge here in the 1902 term, and they lived here a number of years after their marriage. A sister of the late John H. Higgins and aunt of the late Fred Higgins, Mrs. Boyd would have been 93 years old in March.

GLADYS MILLER was in Canyon recently to hear her daughter, Mrs. Jerry Jacobs of that city, review Gladys book, Junior Dear, for the Newcomers Club.

Talking briefly with Gladys, who was giving me an announcement about the County Federation of Women's Club lunch next Friday, she also mentioned that she spent several days around New Years in Holbrook, Ariz., visiting her son's family.

Robert Miller owns a drug store there; his family includes twin girls and another daughter. Gladys says that early-1971 cold spell was certainly cold in Arizona, about 19 below like it was here.

Visiting Priest Descendant Of Prayer Week Founder

A recent visitor to the Hereford area, the Rev. Michael Daniel, is a direct descendant of the founder of the Week of Prayer for Christian Unity, which Christians in Hereford and all points of the world celebrated in unison this past week.

Father Michael, Superior General of the Graymoor Friars, who serve the Catholic parishes in Hereford, Bovina and Friona, holds the same position as Father Paul, who started the week of prayer in the early 1900's.

Father Paul, an Episcopalian minister in Maryland, started the community of religious Friars in 1899. In 1909, the Anglican order was accepted into the Roman Catholic Church, the first such massive acceptance within the Church.

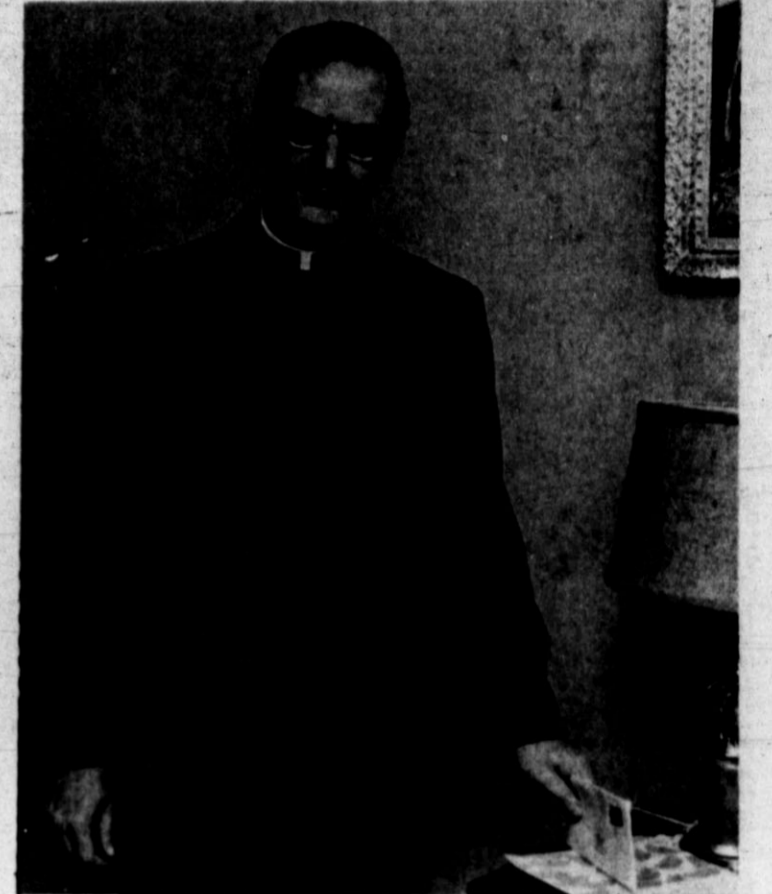

The World Council of Churches and the National Council of churches in the United States now accept the Week of Prayer for Christian Unity as an Ecumenical endeavor to unite all Christians.

Father Michael Daniel has been Superior General since the June 1967 death of Father Alexander Beaton, a former associate pastor of St. Anthony's in Hereford. Father Alexander died in an airplane crash just three weeks after his own election as leader of the Friars. At that time, Father Michael was elected second-in-command, as Vicar General.

Following Father Alexander's death, a second election placed Father Michael in command.

Father Michael, supervisor of about 250 priests and brothers, spends three-fourths of his time traveling from his offices at Chappaqua, N. Y. to meetings and points of ministry of the Friars. Houses and parishes are located in London, Rome, Japan, Brazil, British Columbia, North Carolina, Rhode Island, Massachusetts, New York and Texas.

Father Michael previously worked four years in the then new missions in Brazil, now supervised by Father Bonaventura Koelzer, a former Hereford resident, who served as Superior General of the Friars for six years until the 1967 election.

Sgt. Dave Griffin Is Guest Speaker

Detective Sergeant Dave Griffin from the Intelligence Department of the Amarillo Police Department was guest speaker at St. Anthony's Catholic Antonian Circle meeting Thursday evening, with 23 members attending.

Sgt. Griffin discussed dangers of marijuana, LSD, hashish, and glue sniffing and displayed drug samples including those confiscated during raids in Amarillo.

He said a single marijuana cigarette costs one dollar and through continuous smoking of the drug, damage can be seen in the lungs and brain of the user.

LSD tablets or "orange sunshine" cost $5 each. Capsules on display were very small and orange in color and when taken affect a person's sight, hearing and tasting senses.

It is considered the most dangerous of all drugs. Sgt. Griffin gave examples of a youth on LSD who became terrified when he "saw" a giant spider about to attack him in the hall of the high school.

A 25-minute film on Drug Addiction which told the story of a boy who went from bennies (pep pills) to marijuana to LSD and finally heroin, followed.

In business the group of women discussed the possibility of all women's clubs of St. Anthony's being combined into one organization. This will be discussed further at later meetings.

Hostesses for the meeting were Mmes. Andy Shuval, Melvin Kalka and Joe Tijerna, and Greg Banner.

The Circle will hold a chip 'n dip party for their husbands Feb. 20 in the Knights of Columbus Hall beginning at 8 p.m. Music for dancing will be provided.

Federal Land Bank Reduces

Woodrow B. Wilson, manager of the Federal Land Bank Association of Hereford, received word Saturday that The Federal Land Bank of Houston has reduced the interest billing rate in variable loans to 8 per cent.

"This reduction affects more than 90 million dollars of variable rate loans to more than 2800 farmers and ranchers throughout Texas," Wilson said.

The variable rate loan plan introduced by the Houston bank in July 1969 lets the interest rate "float" over the variations in the money market. In large measure, therefore, the rate in any specific year will reflect the changes in prices which the bank must pay for the money it makes available for farm mortgage loans.

Wilson said this action is in line with the bank's policy in providing farmers and ranchers "credit at the lowest possible cost consistent with sound business practices."

The Federal Land Bank of Houston makes long term real estate loans on farm and ranch lands throughout Texas. On Jan. 1 of this year, the Bank had over $529 million in volume of loans outstanding.

The local association makes and services loans in Deaf Smith and Farmer counties. Members of the local board of directors are Ira Scott, President; Frank J. Bezner, Vice

H.D. CHATTER Acquainted Before Move
 By Mrs. Argen Draper

As we've said many times, we wish people would quite moving from this county.
AT NORTH HEREFORD Home Demonstration Club Thursday we were told that Mr. and Mrs. John Jones are moving to Tarrant County. Jane Jones had said previously they were thinking of moving and she had done a unique job of getting acquainted even before they go to their newly chosen home.
 At the state convention of the Texas Home Demonstration Association in Fort Worth in September 1967, club women of Tarrant County sold a cook book to help pay the expenses.
 Thelma Sorrells who was a delegate to that convention bought a cook book for Jane and since the move to Fort Worth has been considered Jane has studied the cook book, learning club members names and where they attend club.
 We think this is very clever and know Jane will get acquainted quickly when she gets settled in their new home.
 Jane Jones has shared with us a lot of good recipes and a good food; this is Monday's Casserole and will keep any Monday from being blue.
MONDAY'S CASSESOLE
 1. 7 Ounce pkg. ready cut spaghetti
 2. 2 cups left over foul meat (1/2 fryer)
 3. 1 Can mushroom soup
 4. 2 Cup sliced stuffed olives
 5. 1/4 Cup-diced green pepper
 6. Two-thirds Cup sweet milk
 7. Crushed potato chips
 8. 1/2 Cup grated cheese
 Cook spaghetti as directed.
 Blend milk, soup. Add green pepper, olives, and grated cheese. Combine spaghetti meat and soup mixture. Pour into greased casserole. Top with crushed potato chips. Bake at 325 degrees for 30 minutes Serves 6.

THANKS TO LEO Witkowski for a Porkcure Cookbook.
 Next week will feature pork cuts for cooking on the grill. Leo recommends some choice pork cuts for barbecue.

THOUGHT OF THE WEEK
 Sit your work schedule to your personality. Find the time of day when you're more efficient and work then. Some of us are morning people, others are afternoon people. Save low efficiency periods for reading, resting, or outright dawdling.

Mrs. Crofford Has Sweet And Fancy Study

Mrs. J. A. Crofford gave a demonstration on cream cheese icing to members of Sweet and Fancy Decorating Club Friday morning in the Community Center.

 Members in attendance were Mmes. Jackie Edwards, M. D. Henson, Jay Kerr, Lynn Pittard, L. C. Roots, Richard Sims, P. M. Miller and Richard Fortenberry.

TWIN CITIES
FULTON, Ky. — This southwestern Kentucky city and its neighbor across the railroad tracks, South Fulton, Tenn., have long been called "Twin Cities." But how apt that designation was became clear when preliminary 1970 census figures showed each city with a population of 3,154.

USDA Changes Requirement For Recent Harvest On Set-Aside

The Department of Agriculture has modified its ruling which would have required that land diverted under the new set-aside program must have been harvested in at least one of the past three years.

U. S. Rep. Bob Price said he had told Secretary Clifford Hardin last week this would mean the plowing up of thousands of acres of land that have been planted in grass to prevent soil erosion. As a result, the Department of Agriculture has agreed that this soil bank or ACP land can be used for set-aside in 1971.

"I am pleased that the Department has made this decision and am hopeful that during the next year we can convince them to allow this practice to continue after 1971," Price said.

The Agriculture Department advised the Panhandle Congressman last week it will allow county ASCS committees to determine dates for grazing diverted acres so long as they are uniform within a specific area.

Department officials have refused, however, to designate barley as a feed grain for 1971, but will offer a price support loan of $1 cents per bushel on barley produced on allotted acres.

CUSTOM CARS

OAK BROOK, Ill. — Frank Osgood Butler, II, a member of the wealthy Butler family has pursued a life-long interest in sports — swimming, sky-diving, bicycling, surfing, trampolining — and now is joining the custom-car building ranks, and Knoxville, Tenn. Knoxville, Tenn.

Butler said he owned his first gasoline-powered vehicle when he was five. It was a gift received in 1933. Butler operated the miniature car on the polo grounds on the family's 3,000-acre farm west of Chicago.

"At one time, I had a stable of eight cars," Butler said. "But I had more fun installing gimmicks and was more concerned with how a car looked than in racing."

"The Chicago area provides a ready source for equipment," he said, "but the milder weather in Tennessee will enable us to test cars during months when it will be impossible in the north."

DANGEROUS DRIVING

NEW YORK — Night travel by automobile is three times more dangerous than day travel in spite of the reduced traffic flow, the Street and Highway Safety Lighting Bureau warns.

Citing figures from the National Safety Council showing a fatality rate of 6.3 per 100,000,000 vehicle miles after dark compared to 2.3 during daylight, the Bureau urged:

Use care driving at night.
Follow well-lighted roads as often as possible during the dark.

Prince Valiant
IN THE DAYS OF KING ARTHUR
By Hal Foster
Our Story: PRINCE VALIANT'S NIMBLE SWORD CLEARED THE WAY FOR THOSE WHO FOLLOWED CLOSE BEHIND. SIR ASTARIC IS TAKEN BY SURPRISE. "TO THE STAIRWAY," HE BELLOWS.

NOW ASTARIC AND HIS CARLS HAVE THE ADVANTAGE AS MORE OF HIS MEN LEAVE THE BATTLEMENTS AND JOIN THE FIGHT. "THE ARCHERS! CALL DOWN THE ARCHERS FROM THE TOWERS," HE COMMANDS.

THE ARCHERS SWARM ONTO THE MUSICIANS' BALCONY AND BEGIN TO PICK OFF BURNFORD'S MEN. "TAKE SHELTER UNDER THE TABLES," VAL ORDERS, FOR A PLAN IS TAKING FORM. WORD IS PASSED ALONG AND THE TABLES FORM A LINE.

"CHARGE!" AND THE HEAVY OAKEN TABLES BECOME ONE LONG BATTERING RAM. PROPELLED BY HALF A HUNDRED WARRIORS IT CRASHES AGAINST THE PILLAR SUPPORTING THE GALLERY. AMID THE WRECKAGE THE FIGHT ENDS.

GUIVERIC HAD BELIEVED THAT A HERO COULD ALWAYS HEW HIS WAY TO VICTORY, AS THE TROUBADOURS USED TO SING. BUT THE FIRST GRINNING VETERAN HE MEETS LAYS HIM LOW. PERHAPS HE IS NOT A HERO.

THE CAUSE OF ALL THIS UNREST IS RELEASED. "WHAT KEPT YOU SO LONG, FATHER?" SHE COMPLAINS. THEN FLINGING HERSELF INTO EARL BURNFORD'S ARMS SHE BURSTS INTO TEARS OF RELIEF. "AND GUIVERIC, IS HE SAFE?" SHE INQUIRES.

VICTORY! THE CASTLE HAS BEEN WON, THE FAIR MAID RESCUED, AND GUIVERIC HAS SURVIVED HIS FIRST BATTLE. VAL SHEATHES THE 'SINGING SWORD'. SOMEHOW THERE IS NO FEELING OF DANGER FACED, ODDS OVERCOME... JUST WEARINESS.

hints from Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:
After years of baking escalloped potatoes and having a baking dish or pan to scrub clean, I tried using my teflon angel-food pan.
Wow, sure wish I had thought of that way before now. Not only is it easier to clean (not like that baking dish or pan that you'd have to scrub and scrub and then end up soaking overnight) but it just washed clean in no time at all. And another great thing was that the potatoes cooked in half the time. The tube in the middle allowed the heat to go through the potatoes more evenly, thus cooking faster.

This really helps me, as I don't have to start the potatoes as early, and they brown beautifully.

Also, the pan can be used for other dishes such as macaroni and cheese, etc., and it's deep enough so that there is no problem of food baking over the sides.
B. Shartwell

Well, gals, is that a winner or not??
Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:
Here's a hint that I think all mothers of small fry could use:
I take empty baby-aspirin bottles (the ones with the caps that little ones can't open) and use them for regular aspirin. Of course, I make up a new label so as not to confuse my hubby.

The regular aspirin bottles make it too easy for children to get at the contents.
Mrs. T. Schussel

DEAR HELOISE:
I'm twelve years old and have a foam-rubber pillow, which I always take to pajama parties. By the time I reach the party my pillowcase is dirty.
Now, before I leave, I turn the pillowcase inside out. Then when I'm ready to go to sleep, I just turn the pillowcase to the right side and I have a clean place to lay my head.
Patti

And, remember, all you "stumber party cuties," by bringing your own pillow it helps your hostess out because not many of us have a lot of extra pillows on hand.
Love to you, Patti,
Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:
For people who use many small hairpins, keep a six-inch fold of several thicknesses of nylon net and stick the pins in from any and all directions.

It will hold hundreds and can be thrown in or taken out of drawers with never a pin going astray.
A Reader

LIPSTICK TRICK
DEAR HELOISE:
Here's a suggestion for stretching your tissue supply:
Quarter the tissues and place them in a square box (a sandwich-size plastic container works fine) on vanity or bathroom make-up areas to use for lipstick blotting. Just the right size—a large tissue isn't needed.
Mrs. L.

DEAR HELOISE:
When our first baby arrives, my aunt gave us a marvelous gift... a scrapbook in which she had pasted your hints for and about children, along with cartoons, pictures and little sayings.
It was the best thing she could have given me—not only a terrific help, but an endless source of pleasure.
Mrs. A. P.

DEAR HELOISE:
When wrapping gifts that are square or slightly rectangular, it saves time and wasted ribbon if I measure the ribbon as follows:
I wrap the ribbon two and a half times around the longest side of the package and cut it. Then I wrap and tie the ribbon in the conventional manner.
This gives enough for a single bow of the proper proportion to the size of the package without having a long end to cut off. Happy wrapping!
Mrs. R. Worrick

DEAR HELOISE:
I have always had trouble with keeping my name marked on my gym clothes after they have been washed.
This summer while I was trying out some of my liquid embroidery paints, I thought that this might work on my gym clothes.

I tried it and it worked just fine. I even scrubbed and used bleach on them and the markings stayed on, just as clean as when I first marked the clothes.
L. D.

DEAR HELOISE:
I'm eleven years old and have a four-year-old sister. Since we are growing our hair out long, we get so many tangles. I can get mine out, but I have to comb hers for her.
She counts to ten and, while she has her mind on counting, I brush her hair. This way she forgets that I am pulling her hair.
She is too busy trying to remember what number comes next.
Pat (4)
Barb (11)

DEAR HELOISE:
Here's a suggestion for the secretary who wants to make her work neater and save time:
Keep pre-moistened towelettes in your desk to wipe carbon smudges off your hands. Saves time going to the powder room.
Mrs. J. L.

DEAR HELOISE:
If you find it hard to hold a peach when peeling it, as I do, try this method:
I put them in the top of a water glass and then just turn the glass around to peel.
Maurice Eby

YOU ARE in a squeeze here two ways. First, you are asked to fit the numbers 1, 2, 3, 4, 5 and 6 in the empty spaces above in such a way that the sum of all rows of four numbers is equal.

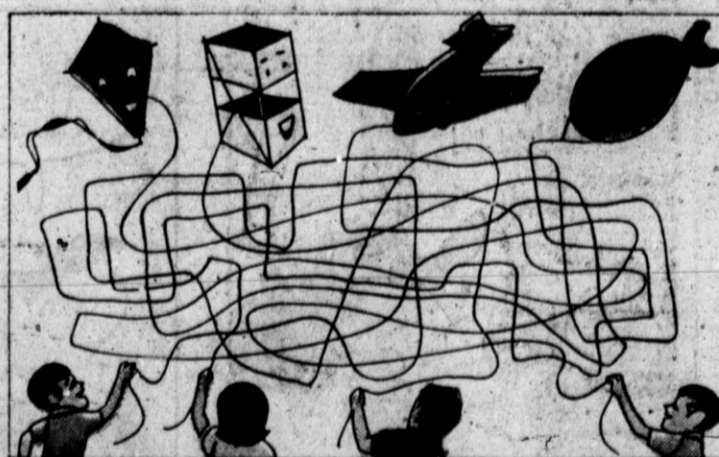

Secondly, you are asked to do this within two minutes' time.

In case you need help, here's a clue: The sum of the four numbers in each row will be between 15 and 20.

Deaf Smith Pioneer's Old Home Is Moved To Museum

By SUE COLEMAN
Women's Editor

A pioneer Deaf Smith County family, the Jowells, will see their ancestral home preserved as a part of the Ranch Headquarters Museum on the campus of Texas Tech at Lubbock. Arrangements have been completed to move the Joly Ranch house, built about 1872 in Western Palo Pinto County, to Lubbock and place it with some 20 other buildings moved from ranches over West Texas.

Not only houses, but barns, windmills, dugouts and other adjuncts of the early ranches will be in the outdoor exhibit, a memorial to pioneer families of the area.

The old Jowell home is interesting for its unusual construction, resembling a stone fort, and for the way it was recently rediscovered after sitting in an isolated valley for years.

RESEMBLANCE TO a fort

Dawn Baptist Church To Hold Revival Week

Beginning today, revival services in Dawn Baptist Church will continue through this week with the Rev. Dale Pruitt, evangelist who lives in Lubbock, as the speaker and Soapy Dollar of Canyon song leader.

Evening services will begin at 7:30 p. m. each day and noon meetings at lunch are scheduled between 12 and 1 p. m., the Rev. Jerry Haley, pastor, announces. The public is invited to all meetings.

The evangelist, former pastor of West Park Baptist Church in Odessa where 540 members were added to the church during his three years there, is a graduate of Wayland Baptist College. He served as music director, educational director and associate pastor of churches and in summer missions work before he became a full-time evangelist.

Dollar, who has led songs in a number of revivals, is a senior at West Texas State University. He was reared at Cal Farley's Boys Ranch.

was intentional; when George R. Jowell, who later came to Deaf Smith County as one of its first settlers, built the house on the Joly ranch, so called because of his cattle brand, his family had just lost their log home and all belongings in a fire set by raiding Indians.

The square stone house has few windows, but there are holes in one wall through which shots could be fired.

In the 1880's, Jowell sold the Palo Pinto County ranch and moved west, running his cattle on free range in Stonewall County for a few years before he established, in 1887, the Lucky Hit Ranch on Tierra Blanca Creek southeast of Hereford and brought his family to home there, traveling in wagons.

HE WAS THE FATHER of George Ratliff Jowell, who was called Ratliff or by the nickname Rat and was sheriff here soon after the town of Hereford was founded. Ratliff Jowell was also a rancher; he and a partner are credited with bringing the first registered Hereford cattle to the county.

He was the only one of the family who continued to make Hereford his home. His children still living here are George III, Richard, Corinne (Mrs. Henry Neely) and Louise (Mrs. Glenn Roberson, George Jowell IV of Amarillo, known as Bud, carries on the name.

The original George Jowell was one of the founders of the town of Hereford, helped organize the first public school here and gave to an old friend, Dr. Randolph Clark of Waco, 160 acres of land on which Panhandle Christian College was later built.

HIS FATHER WAS J. A. Jo-

well, who in 1857 helped organize Palo Pinto County, where he had moved two years earlier. After Civil War service, George Jowell married Leannah Dobbs, daughter of another pioneer family.

The family was living in a log house on Bluff Creek when Jowell, leaving on a trail trip with cattle, left his wife and children in care of a hired man on the ranch.

The horses and cattle became restless one night and Mrs. Jowell stepped outside the house. A rock rolled down a hill and she felt sure Indians were near.

The hired man saddled horses and the family rode several miles to a neighbor's.

In a few days they returned home, to find all their belongings destroyed except clothes which Mrs. Jowell had hung on bushes in the yard after washing.

THEY LIVED WITH neighbors until the stone house was completed.

That house has been unoccupied for years, standing on what is now part of the Seaman Ranch, bought by L. E. Seaman of Mineral Wells in 1906. The Seaman heirs donated it to Ranch Headquarters Museum at the request of Mary Whatley Clarke, Palo Pinto County historian.

Hans Weichsel Jr., a Bell Helicopter Co. vice president, flying over the ranch on a business trip in 1969, saw the house and thought it was a pioneer fort. His inquiries about it brought him to Mrs. Clarke, who knew something of its history and set out to find more.

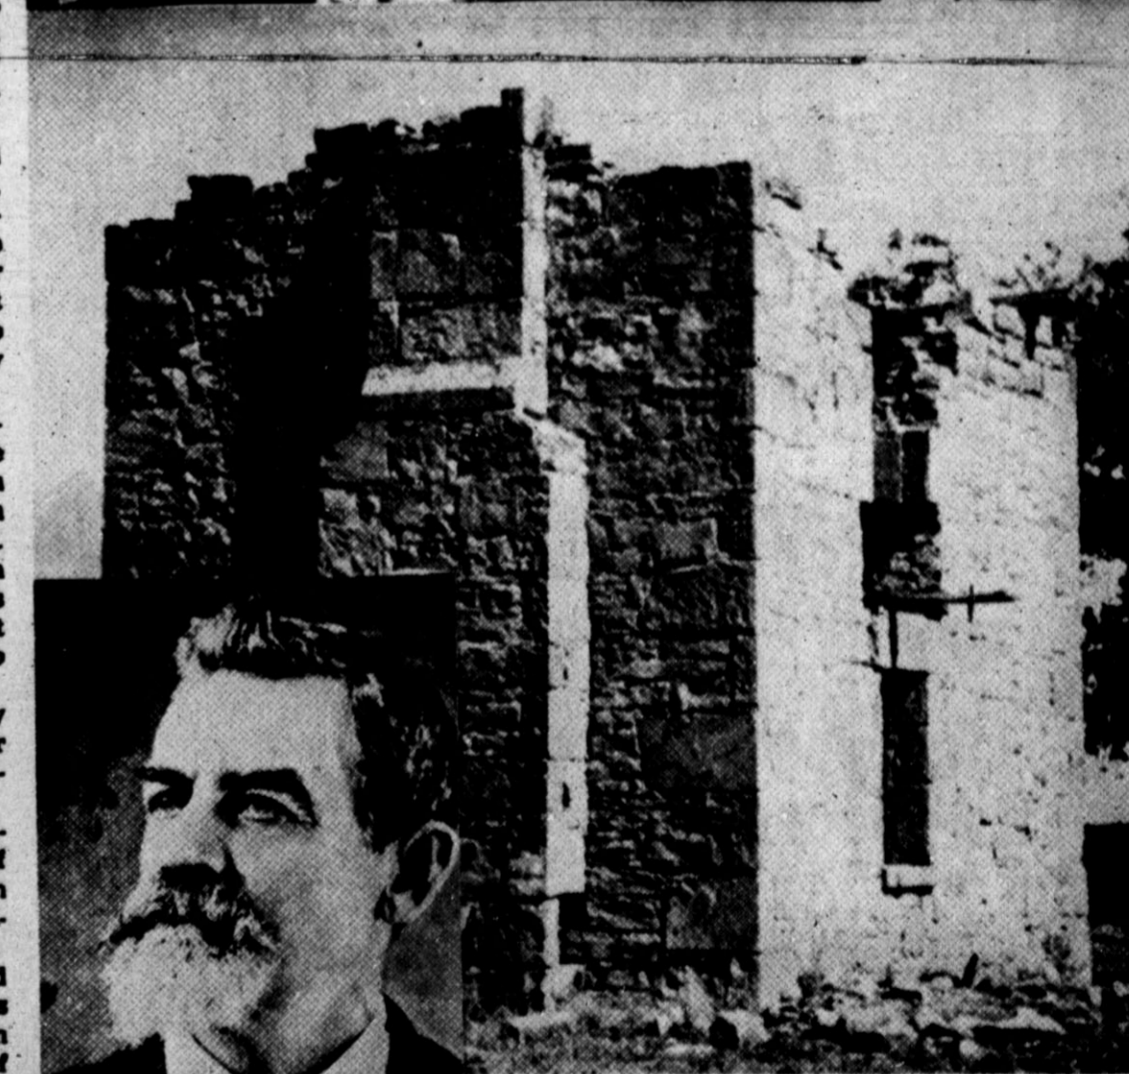

At that time the former Empriss Jowell, daughter of the George Jowells who was then Mrs. Robert Ball, was living in Fort Worth, and from her Mrs. Clarke got the information which convinced Ranch Headquarters Association board members that it would be a worthy addition to the campus museum.

SHE ALSO WROTE the story of the house for the December issue of The Cattleman magazine.

Present members of the Jowell family are members of Ranch Headquarters Association which had its first annual meeting in Lubbock last October.

At that time it was announced that Ranch Headquarters has been accepted for participation in the 1976-1983 observance of the bi-centennial of the American Revolution, as "an excellent example of how the American West can participate in the nationwide celebration."

Representing the Jowell ranch as one of the hosts at that meeting was Holt Jowell of Midland, and as a program participant, Mrs. Denise Davis of Lubbock, both cousins of local family members.

ton, Calif.; Mabel Jowell Randall of Long Beach, Calif.; George Jowell III and Louise Jowell Roberson, both of Hereford. Their grandfather, inset bottom left, who settled on a ranch southeast of Hereford in 1887, built the fort-like stone house in Palo Pinto County which is being moved to Texas Tech campus as part of a unique museum.

IS ENGAGED — June 5 is the wedding date chosen by Miss Sherry Jeanese Hamburger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Hamburger, Lawton, Okla., and Eddie Clayton Tucker, son of Mr. and Mrs. James I. Tucker, 341 Centre. The couple plan to be married in the First Christian Church at Lawton by Dr. T. R. Leen. Miss Hamburger, now a sophomore at Cameron State College at Lawton, is a graduate of Eisenhower High School Tucker graduated from Tascosa High in Amarillo and is a Texas Tech graduate of 1968 where he majored in business administration. He is a first lieutenant with III Corps Army Headquarters, due to return from Vietnam in June.

Glodys' Garden

By Gladys Howton Manjeot

The past few weeks I have been asked numerous questions relative to trees, and the park that I have made mention of. One of the questions most frequently asked, is: Who owns the land on which the trees grow that you have been describing?"

Since I was not sure I had been correctly informed, I asked T. E. Seigler, Administrator of Deaf Smith County Hospital, where the property line was on the east side, for the hospital, and to whom the park belongs.

The Deaf Smith County Hospital building, he said, comes within 10 feet of the hospital's east property line, and the adjoining land, which is the park, belongs to The City of Hereford. The land has belonged to other organizations at times, but is now city property.

The past few weeks I have had some time in which I have done much research on trees. This topic I have found most interesting and informative. It has been fascinating and I know now I am better acquainted with our trees, plants, and flowers, throughout the U. S. A.

The most important criteria regarding the selection of a tree for planting is not so much its availability and demand, but where it is to be planted.

Do not select and plant a tree on the spur of the moment. The wrong choice and the wrong location can be regretted for years, and often the tree has to be relocated or entirely destroyed, which is a great waste.

Always keep in mind when selecting a tree for planting, that it takes time and study... often it is quite difficult to find just the tree you want, so be patient. Do not hasten in your selection and placement.

Shape plays a vital part in the selection, as does adaptability of the tree to the locale or climatic conditions. The purchaser should know something of the history and habits of the tree as well as its popularity. Here are the 12 most popular trees grown in The United States, why they have been grown through hundreds of years, and why they are so well liked:

1. American Beech (Fagus grandifolia) Has dense foliage. Pyramid shape. Very heavy and strong.

2. White Oak (Quercus Alba) Is a beautiful majestic tree. Has long trunk. Tree of Massive strength, and is popular in the commercial world.

3. Sugar Maple (Acre Saccharum) Is the most valuable of all the hardwood trees, grows to a height of 120 feet. Makes a cool heavy shade, which invites the passer-by to rest a bit and receive protection from weather elements. Sugar element is important.

4. Black Tupelo (Mysa Sglvatic) Has oval - tear - drop shape. Produces sweet small white blossoms, which later fruits, and makes it popular for wild life. Is noted as one of the main sources for paper pulp, from which comes our newspapers, magazines, and other paper products.

5. Redwood (Sequoia sempervirens) Rapidly growing tree. One of long life, has been known to live over 2000 years. Does best in a humid climate. Lumber material.

6. Shortleaf Pine (Pinus Echinata) Fire does not kill roots, will grow again, and re-seeds itself. Replenishes land quickly.

ly. Source of turpentine. Wood is soft and light.

7. Douglas Fir (Pseudotsuga Menziesii) Massive tree, when full grown, grows to a height of 300 feet. Popular as commercial product, used extensively for plywood veneer. Pretty, sturdy tree.

8. Sitka Spruce (Picea Sitchensis) Must be grown near water, or where there is much humidity. Became very popular in its uses for aircraft parts, during the wars. Grows tall and straight. Attractive.

9. Western Hemlock (Teuga heteropyella) Very important economically, chief source of tannic acid. Pulp used for many purposes.

10. Ponderosa Pine (Pinus Ponderosa) Does well in dry region, will thrive where other trees will not, this being made possible by its Deep root system, and resistance to climatic conditions. Very deep root system, on ground where fires have raged, sometimes re-seeded as many as 10,000 trees to the acre. Used for Christmas trees, as small trees must be thinned to produce commercial products.

The history of the next two named is not good, as they have practically become extinct because of a fungus. They are: American Elm (Ulmus Americana) - The fungus which has attacked these beautiful trees throughout the USA comes from Europe, and is brought on the feet of a small beetle. While on a trip which took us to various parts of the U. S., Art and I noticed this disease, and also that the tree doctors were very busy trying to check the fungus.

This tree does well in Hereford, and many can be found in town. Some of the trees are more than 50 years old. The 12th tree for popularity, also almost extinct, is the American Chestnut (Castonia Dentata). The fungus disease has been more difficult to check on the American Chestnut. It is a beautiful tree, and the pioneers counted it as one of their favorites. Has a dense shade, and produces delicious nuts, which are good for man and beast. Very few remain in the areas in which they have grown so well.

REMINDERS: Let me again re-emphasize the importance of watering the lawns, trees, shrubs and other plants. Do not neglect feeding the house plants. Some may need to be re-potted, or you may want to plant some new ones. When a plant has to be re-potted or potted anew in the winter and no gravel is available to put in for drainage (this is important) one can substitute pieces of nylon net crumpled up and, put in the bottom of the pot. This keeps the pot or container cleaner and allows water to drain through it. Nature cleans air. A blade of grass has no moving parts, yet an average home lawn will release enough oxygen (we cannot live without it.....) to supply the daily requirements of the average U. S. family. A blade of grass removes sulfur dioxide, Ozone, peroxycetyl nitrate, and hydrogen flouride from the air. In place of these POLLUTANTS, it (the grass) gives off PURE oxygen. Take care of your lawns, and other vegetation.

MORE APPLAUSE
BLACKOOL, England - Delegates at the recent Conservative party conference were puzzled why the faster speakers were getting more applause. Then one noticed that off-duty shorthand stenographers were touching off waves of clapping and foot-stamping in order to give their colleagues at work a chance to catch up.

Which Prescription For A Better Year?

Any way you figure it, this is going to be "health" year in Washington, with a lot of talk and probably some action to try to cope with rising costs and worrisome inadequacies in health care.

There are ample reasons. Doctors' fees, hospital charges and other health costs have been a major source of rising living costs in recent years. Even reasonably well-off families can be bankrupted by a major illness. Some isolated towns and poor neighborhoods have almost no medical services. The United States is well down the list of major nations in infant survival and life expectancy.

But while all these factors constitute an open invitation to political intervention, there probably are few fields where there is greater risk that a Federal remedy will make the patient worse rather than better.

The proposals are diverse. President Nixon's health message to Congress is expected to prescribe a new Federal insurance aid for the needy and for major illnesses and Federal promotion of more efficient forms of medical practice. Some Democratic Congressmen, including Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, are backing the ultimate "remedy," a vast national health insurance scheme that would cost some $37 billion a year and bring most health care under Federal influence.

The biggest danger, however, is that Washington, in attempting to protect more people through insurance and other schemes, will merely expand the demand for medical services, not the supply. And the most likely result of that is further inflation of medical costs, with no real improvement in service. Some authorities believe that Medicare and Medicaid, launched in mid-1966, were mainly responsible for the health-cost inflation of the last four years.

To increase the availability of medical service, the key necessity is to find some way to sharply increase the number of doctors. That's easier said than done, given the cost and complexity of medical training, the limited facilities available and the control that doctors, through their medical societies, exercise over standards for admission to practice.

Doctors, of course, have frequently been accused of deliberately restricting access to the profession so as to assure themselves of high incomes. Most doctors bitterly resent the charge but their local societies and the American Medical Association often have responded to it in less-than-positive ways.

Still, that may be changing. One of the best-sounding proposals for enlarging the supply of doctors comes from Dr. Walter C. Bornemeier, president of the AMA. He proposes a drastic shortening of conventional medical training, aiming for entry into practice some six years after high school. While research or an advanced specialty might require 11 to 15 years of training, general practice does not, in the view of Dr. Bornemeier and some other authorities.

Faster training would open up more medical school places and reduce the extremely high cost of medical training. Dr. Bornemeier also thinks, as do many other doctors, that medical practice could make greater use of people with even more limited training, such as former military medics, in routine medical practice jobs.

Under a proposal that may well be included in President Nixon's program the Government would seek to encourage group practice—through clinics and the like—which would permit more experienced doctors to supervise those who are less experienced.

There is in fact a great deal of new thinking, both inside the medical profession and in Government, about ways to expand medical service. Dr. Bornemeier has warned his fellow doctors to participate in the new thinking and help foster rather than attempt to retard change. Not to do so, he warns, will lead to "strangling Government regulation."

The alternative to a positive response almost certainly will be greater Government efforts to regulate doctor and hospital fees, health insurance benefits and other elements of health care. This will not only be distasteful to doctors but its benefits to the public, at least initially will be dubious.

The results are fairly predictable: More doctors, resentful of regulation, will leave private practice, which already has been drained of professional manpower by the lure of less taxing hospital, research and teaching jobs. An entitlement to insured and regulated care will not be worth much to the sick if there are too few doctors to provide it.

The Government should place its priorities on fostering an expansion of professional manpower in health care. Doctors should cooperate with such efforts as if their continuing influence in their own profession depended upon it, because it does.

These are the kinds of measures that will make good care available to more people and curb rising medical costs. When the availability has been expanded, thought can be given to new forms of medical insurance if, indeed, they are by then needed.

Just A Coincidence?

The fact that the Federal Bureau of Investigation and a Grand Jury are now working alongside the Securities and Exchange Commission probing a stock manipulation deal involving high officials of the Texas government brings about a question that has bothered a lot of Americans. Is it coincidence that so many politicians go into public service as paupers, and retire as millionaires?

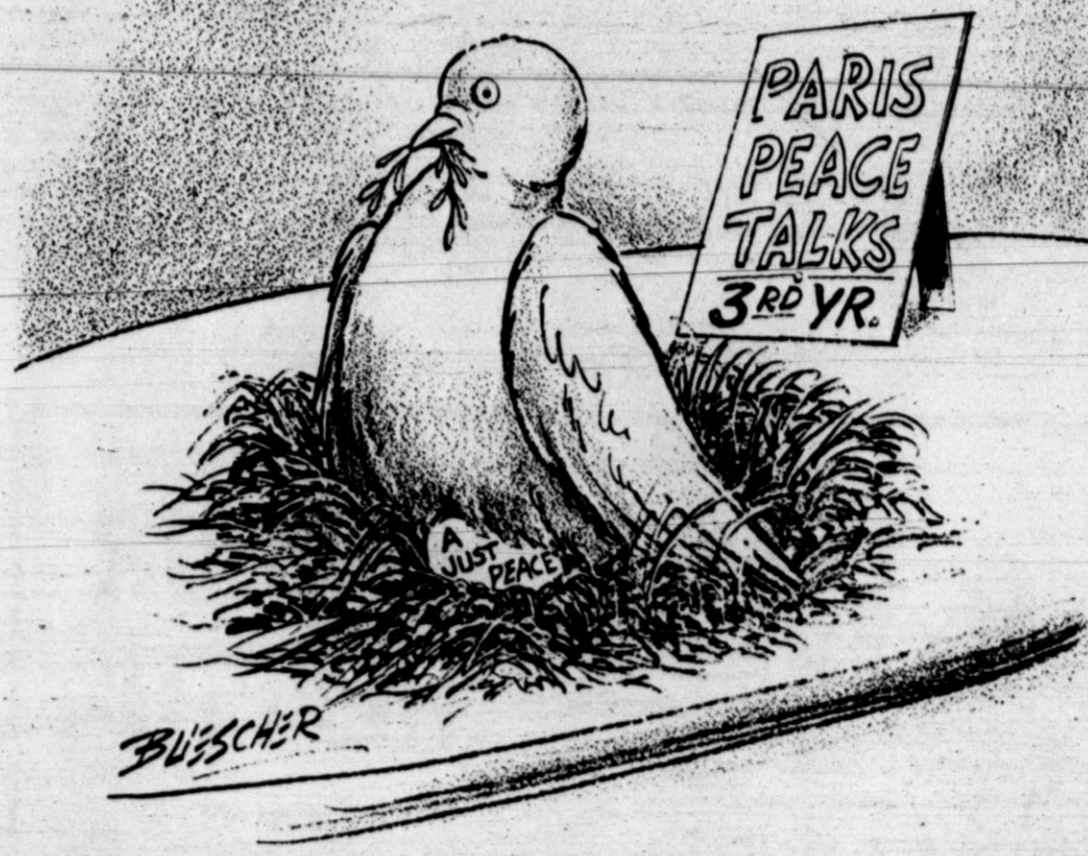

Perhaps that's overstating the question a bit, but the point we're making is that too many so-called "public servants" come out of office wealthy. Very few go in that way.

We realize of course, that being a public official lends itself to being on the "inside" whenever the good deals come around and perhaps this is the reason that so many accumulate so much in such a short time, but we're afraid that too often the key may indeed be political hanky-panky.

We hear a lot of rhetoric during the campaigns about serving the interests of the people, but again, it would appear that too many politicians are more interested in their own welfare than that of the folks back home.

"Did You Know?" asks Commerce magazine, "During this year, food distributors will accept approximately 7,500 new products. On an average, each distributor will take on only one out of every eight new items offered. And more than 50 percent of the accepted new items will be discontinued before the year is out."

SETTING A RECORD

MAIN STREET, U. S. A.

EPA Administrator Going All Out Against Polluters

By BERT MILLS

Washington, D. C. — Uncle Sam's new pollution policeman is William D. Ruckelshaus, a bright young man from Indiana whose name newsmen are still learning to spell but who has already made an impact on corporate boards of directors, state governors, and city mayors.

Ruckelshaus is Administrator of the brand new Environmental Protection Agency. President Nixon established E. P. A. as an independent agency after Congress accepted a reorganization plan which brought four pollution agencies and components of 15 departments and agencies under a single tent. E. P. A. has been operating only since December 2, 1970.

Some idea of the breadth of the assignment given the new environmental agency can be gained from the fact that the plan to create E. P. A. was referred for study to five Senate committees. Another noteworthy statistic is that E. P. A. began with about $1.5 billion in annual appropriations and nearly 6,000 employees.

Enforcement is the principle role of E. P. A. Mr. Ruckelshaus described his own assignment as follows: "To do something about the environment, to clean up the air, to clean up the water, and to do something about the harmful substances and hazardous substances such as pesticides and radiation, to do something about solid waste disposal."

The day President Nixon announced his intention to nominate Ruckelshaus to head the new agency, the 38-year-old Indiana attorney and state legislator announced flatly, at a White House press conference, "we are going after the polluters." He is already doing that, to the consternation of corporations and state and local officials.

Asks "Citizen Pressure Administrator Ruckelshaus does not agree that there is little the average citizen can do about pollution. He has received hundreds of letters in recent weeks which "convey a sense of massive frustration." People from all over the nation "protest their powerlessness to direct the forces of technology and growth."

He answers: "Actually, people are not without power. Everyone — the scientist, the student, the housewife — can, and in my view must, make a contribution to environmental improvement, individually by their own actions and collectively as well, by raising their voices in favor of environmental sanity."

Ruckelshaus plans to tour the country soon, to listen, to give advice, and to ask how he can help. He will tell the public he is "heartily in favor of responsible citizen court actions against polluters — of citizen pressure against government at every level including the Federal government and my own agency."

In a few weeks on the job, Ruckelshaus has already made important enemies among corporations, governors, and mayors. He dusted off an almost forgotten 1899 law and induced President Nixon to require business firms to obtain permits before they dump waste into navigable waters.

He took water quality enforcement actions against Atlanta, Detroit and Cleveland. He wrote all governors to urge them to review their pollution advisory and regulatory bodies to insure they had not "chosen foxes to watch the chickens." ARMCO Steel, Jones and Laughlin Steel, U. S. Plywood have been sued for violation of water quality standards, and Union Carbide has been ordered to speed up control of air pollution.

Republican "Mr. Clean"? Mr. Ruckelshaus came to Washington when the Nixon team moved in two years ago. Until promoted to his new post, he was Assistant Attorney General at the Justice Department. He was in charge of the Civil Division, with 220 lawyers working under him, and 21,000 cases pending.

Already well known in Indiana as a state legislator and U. S. Senate nominee in 1968, he is in the national spotlight now. If he can make headway against pollution, his future political prospects appear bright. He may become the Republican answer to Senator Edmund Muskie of Maine, whose anti-pollution image made him the Democratic Vice Presidential candidate in 1968 and the current front runner of his party for nomination as President in 1972.

A reputation as "Mr. Clean" is about the most valuable asset a politician can possess these days. Maybe spelling the Ruckelshaus name will come easy for everybody before long.

Talk of Texas

By JACK MAGUIRE

WHEN LIQUOR WAS CHEAPER — During the depression days, a principal industry in the Brazo River cedar brakes of Somervell County was the manufacture of moonshine whiskey in home-made stills.

Glen Rose was the unofficial capital of the "whiskey woods," as the forested river banks were called. As many as 25 stills operated in the area on a 24-hour basis, turning out corn whiskey for market as far west as Abilene and Lubbock and as far south as Austin.

Today moonshining in Texas is a dying art. Only six illicit stills were located last year and they're getting harder to find. Lawmen estimate that there are fewer than 50 moonshiners still operating in the state.

CORRECTING THE HISTORIANS — William Alexander Wallace, known to history by his nickname, "Big Foot," actually didn't have big feet at all.

He came by the monicker because he couldn't find any shoes large enough to fit him while he was visiting Mexico City in the early 1830's. But he actually wore a No. 11 shoe, not at all large by today's standards. He admitted, however, that a No. 12 sometimes felt a bit more comfortable.

GOOFY GEOGRAPHY — There is one community that literally is a dot on the Texas map. It's Dot in Falls County.

LEGENDS THAT LIVE — The late J. M. (Silver Dollar) West, the Houston millionaire who got his nickname because of his penchant for carrying around pockets full of silver dollars, also liked to brag that he owned one of the most powerful radio stations in the U. S.

Driving home one day in one of his 40 automobile, he encountered some interference when he tried to tune in his station on his car radio. He demanded that an aide find out why, and discovered that a station on the French Riviera was broadcasting on the same frequency.

West ordered the station purchased immediately and taken off the air.

TRAVELING TEXAS — Ashton Villa, the Galveston home that probably was the first brick residence built in Texas, soon will be open to tourists.

Built in 1859 by James M. Brown, who burned some of the bricks in a kiln in his backyard, Ashton Villa is one of the most historic homes still standing in the state. It was used as an emergency hospital when yellow fever hit the Gulf coast in the 1880's and it was in its parlor that the Confederate Army west of the Mississippi River surrendered in 1865.

Owned for many years by the Galveston Masonic Lodge, the home is being sold to the city for restoration as a tourist attraction.

SENSING THE NEWS

By Anthony Harrigan

EXECUTIVE VICE PRESIDENT

Southern States Industrial Council

In allowing a Canadian television team to interview two American airmen held prisoner in North Vietnam, the Hanoi regime sought to present the captives as opponents of America's Asian policies. The communists also endeavored to give the impression that the prisoners of war are well treated. As usual, Hanoi was engaged in trickery.

Americans trotted out for questioning by Western newsmen aren't free to express their real feelings. If they report the brutal and degrading treatment to which they are subjected, they or their fellow prisoners may be tortured or killed. Even if the men being interviewed don't fear for themselves, they aren't likely to say anything that will endanger their comrades.

If the television networks want to present an accurate account of life inside a North Vietnamese prison, they can interview the handful of Americans who have been released as an international political gesture. One of these former prisoners of war is Lt. Col. Norris M. Overly, USAF, who was shot down over North Vietnam in 1967 and spent five months in communist captivity.

In a recent talk at the annual Air Force Association meeting, Col. Overly told how he was wired to a 50-gallon oil drum and transported across the country. Women, children and old people, he reported, "Would pick up rocks and come right up to you and bash you in the face."

Col. Overly was confined for a time in a little hut divided into 12 bamboo cells. He was placed in one of these cells, lying on his stomach with his feet in wooden stocks. His arms were tied behind him with wet ropes. He was forced to stay in this position for 29 days.

Arriving at the main POW prison in Hanoi, Col. Overly was placed in a tiny cell. Many of the cells have leg irons on the bed boards. The prison routine is arranged in such a way that the prisoners don't see each other and have no way of buttressing their morale by a group presence. During the day, the prisoners are exposed to endless propaganda broadcasts. "This is what our men have been going through," Col. Overly said, "some for as long as six years."

While American New Left spokesman regularly visit Hanoi and report the prisoners are being well-treated, Col. Overly described the true conditions. "I think we can safely say," he concluded, "that the North Vietnamese will go down in history as the most inhumane and cruel enemy we have ever fought because of the sheer number of years they are making so many of our men suffer."

Col. Overly's testimony should be borne in mind when one hears New Left apologists for Hanoi say that we should accept their "peace" terms and allow them to have a role in the government of South Vietnam. To allow this brutal regime to extend its will over additional millions of people would be an unconscionable act.

Bryant-Martin Wedding Is Conducted Saturday

The marriage of Miss Connie Lea Bryant and Randy Reed Martin was solemnized in Central Church of Christ Saturday in a twilight ceremony conducted by the bridegroom's father, the Rev. James B. Martin, a Baptist minister.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Bryant, Country Club Drive, and the bridegroom's parents live at 119 Beach.

Fresh smilax trimmed an archway holding 45 lighted candles as a background for the wedding party. Spiral candelabra and pedestal bouquets of white gladiolas, stock and chrysanthemums stood on either side of the arch.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attended by her cousin, Miss Carol Nichols of Burkburnett, as maid of honor; her college roommate, Miss Jackie Baker of Hobbs; the bridegroom's sister, Miss Alice Martin, and Miss Patricia Hale as bridesmaids.

Larry Kuper acted as best man, Ross Baird of Westway, Weldon Knabe and Johnny Johnson as groomsmen. Tammy Martin, younger sister of the bridegroom, was flower girl, and Greg Martin, younger brother, the ring bearer.

Ronnie Baker of Hobbs and Alvin Earl Smith lighted the candles.

The best man was one of the wedding soloists, singing If Ever I Would Leave You and Wedding Prayer. Miss Linda Brooks' solo was More, and Miss Judy Brownlow's, Twelfth of Never. A group of students from Lubbock Christian College formed a chorus to present the marches.

Snowflake crepe made the bride's A-line dress, with a lace panel down the front and fitted lace sleeves scalloped at the wrist. Lace trim was repeated on the back of the skirt, which flowed into a chapel train.

A satin bow marked the back waistline, and another held the waistlength lace veil. Her bouquet of stephanotis and white carnations was centered with a white orchid which was removed and worn with her traveling costume.

The maid of honor was dressed in green satin with puff sleeves, the waist circled by a blue cummerbund with a bow and long streamers down the back. The flower girl's frock was in the same fashion, and bridesmaids' dresses reversed the colors with a green cummerbund on blue gowns.

At the reception in the church fellowship hall, Miss Gwen Whitaker of Lubbock and Miss Gayla Hasey of Oil Center served refreshments from a table decorated in the wedding colors.

After a brief honeymoon, the couple will be at home next week at 605 - 18th Street in Canyon. For travel Mrs. Martin changed to a green suit with double-breasted jacket and pink and green striped shell.

She has been a junior student at Lubbock Christian College majoring in elementary education, president of Kappa Phi Kappa sorority and member of the Meistersingers chorus two years. She attended West Texas State University one semester after graduation from Hereford High School.

Mr. Martin is a music major at WTSU, where he is a sophomore student. He is a member of the University Chorale and of

PROCLAMATION — County Judge H. C. Williams, seated, signs a proclamation designating Monday through Friday as "3.76 in '76" week in Deaf Smith County. Watching are Homer Garrison, left, chairman of the program building committee, and Juston McBride, county agriculture agent.

County Seeks Big Jump In Farm Income

Deaf Smith County agriculture is expected to jump approximately $39 million over the next five years as a result of a statewide project to increase Texas agricultural cash receipts by more than $1 billion by the end of 1976.

Jan. 25-29 has been designated in Deaf Smith County and across the state as "3.76 in '76" week. This program is a statewide push to hike the agricultural receipts of last year's $2.76-billion to a record of $3.76-billion by 1976.

County Judge H. C. Williams signed a proclamation designating Jan. 25-29 as "3.76 in '76" in Deaf Smith County. Governor Preston Smith also signed a similar proclamation for the entire state.

Texas presently accounts for about 5 per cent of the total national agricultural cash receipts, but to achieve the goal set for 1976, the state must come up with almost 10 per cent of the projected national increase.

Guidelines in the program are meant to increase production and improve quality during the five-year period, County Agricultural Agent Juston McBride said.

"Cash income to farmers and ranchers in Deaf Smith County should be more than $116 million by the end of 1976," he said. "This will be an increase of more than $39 million from 1968-69 figures, with beef cattle feeding contributing a large part of the gain."

"These projections are based on studies of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service and are part of the "3.76 in '76" program."

Total cash receipts from all agricultural enterprises in Deaf Smith County are presently about $85 million, McBride said, with the most important being beef cattle, grain sorghum, wheat and sugar beets. These four commodities are expected to account for about 81 per cent of the projected 1976 totals.

In an effort to increase the production efforts in this County, McBride said, a special conference will be held Feb. 18 to discuss improved production of grain sorghum, corn, alfalfa, wheat and soybeans. Homer Garrison has been named chairman of the program building committee for this county. This committee, made up of businessmen and producers, makes the projections for this county along with goals for the various agricultural commodity groups.
