Teacher Resignations Accepted By Trustees

By O.G. NIEMAN
Publisher-Editor

The Hereford School Board in regular session Tuesday evening and night, adopted a controversial history text as a "reference book," approved the resignations and employment of several teachers, heard a curriculum presentation from the speech therapy department, discussed the need of moving the school tax office, appointed three members to the board of equalization, heard a request from the ISTA insurance committee to consider employer contribution for employee health insurance, heard general reports and approved bills.

The lengthy session was highlighted by discussion of a textbook, "The Ecumene," which had been deleted last month from the textbook adoption list. (The matter is reported in detail in a separate article.)

Trustees were read a letter from First National Bank, informing the school district that the building which houses the tax office will be torn down. The school district was requested to vacate the offices by Oct. 21.

Later in the meeting, Supt. Harrell Holder advocated that a feasibility study be made on constructing an addition to the administrative building. He said there was a possibility that funds could be borrowed to make the capital improvements. Trustees authorized the superintendent to contact the architect for proposals and cost estimates on such a project.

The board appointed Frank Zinser Jr., Troy Carmichael and Raymond Schlabs to the school's board of equalization. A joint meeting of the city, county and school equalization boards is scheduled for June 6.

The resignations accepted by the board included that of Ray Todd, Stanton Junior High Principal, who will be moving to Grapevine as principal of a new middle school. Roy Hartman, former Hereford superintendent, is now the superintendent at Grapevine.

Other resignations, effective at the end of the school year, include Barry Arnwine, Bobby Anderson, Donna Crawford, and Bill Trammell—all at high school, Michael Crawford, Viola Marlow, Cheryl Meyer and Billie Sue Thomas—La Plata; Betty Carlson, Kathy Long and Carolyn Taulor—Bluebonnet, and Joe Nell Trammell, Northwest Teachers now on temporary employment and approved for regular contracts were Bonna Reed at La Plata and Barbara Trickey at Bluebonnet. Aides Vivian Jimenez at Bluebonnet and Delma Martinez at West Central resigned, and aides Eleanor Zepeda and Diana Torres were employed.

Marjorie Lassiter, director of special education, introduced the curriculum program on speech therapy. Mary Nell Rudder and Joan Hargrove presented slides and voice tapes on the work being done in the speech therapy department.

The school system currently has five speech therapists, serving 311 students in elementary schools and 11 in junior and high school. Officials estimate that one in 10 children need therapy in speech. The speech therapists see their students from once to several times a week, explaining that scheduling is very difficult.

Ray Barber, representing the teacher insurance committee, told board members that he would come to the board next month to present a proposal for the school to help personnel on their health insurance. Out of some 570 employees, only 260 are signed up in the present program, which is paid entirely by the teacher or employer.

Barber said more participation is needed to reduce the rates, and "we need employer contributions to get more participation."

National Economy Shows Expansion

WASHINGTON (AP)—The nation's economy apparently expanded at a rate of about 4.5 per cent in the first three months of this year, nearly double the gain of the previous three-month period, government economists say.

The increase, calculated at an annual rate, is encouraging to the Carter administration. These same economists were predicting just a few weeks ago that first quarter economic growth would be less than 4 per cent because of the hard winter.

Four per cent growth is considered the level necessary to keep unemployment from increasing. Gains above that level should reduce the nation's jobless rate, which was 7.3 per cent in March.

A strong economic rebound in March improved the economic outlook several economists said Tuesday. They said it was fueled partly by advance spending by consumers of the $50 rebates they have expected from Washington.

They said that if Congress now fails to approve the rebates, consumers might slow their spending and reverse the gains of the first quarter.

The Commerce Department will release official figures on first-quarter economic growth, as reflected by the nation's gross national product, on April 20.

As recently as March 30, Commerce Secretary Juanita Kreps said GNP growth would be less than 4 per cent, at an annual rate, in the first quarter

Cracing The City Scene

Anyone strolling through a city's business area would hardly expect to find delicate flowers adding their own special touch to the scenario, but if you happen past the First National Bank's drive up facility these days, you're likely to find some striking evidence that spring has finally sprung in the Texas Panhandle. These red tulips give off a riotous display of color at the drive-up facility, adding their brilliant hues to the local environment, after braving recent winds to bestow their beauty. (Photo By Jim Steiert)

Nominations Submitted For Board Members In Referendum

By JIM STEIERT
Brand Farm Editor

Members of District I of the Texas Corn Growers Association met in Dimmitt last night to discuss a proposed corn check-off referendum.

NOMINATIONS WERE also submitted for the board of directors to oversee the corn check-off program, in the event that it is approved.

Jay Boston of Hereford was one of the nominees for District I director.

The District I area includes Castro, Deaf Smith, Parmer, Lamb and Bailey counties, and represents a gross corn average of some 700,000 acres, according to Carl King, president of TCGA.

Included in the association's District II area are Hale, Swisher, Floyd, Briscoe and Randall counties, and District III is made up of Moore, Dallam, Sherman, Hansford, Ochiltree, Hartley, Hutchison and Carson counties.

KING EXPLAINED that according to Texas referendum law, at least 10 names must be included on each petition in support of a nominee, and any individual with 10 signatures in his support can be placed on the ballot for the board.

According to King, the 18 county area in the Texas Panhandle which would be involved in the corn check-off program produces more than 89 per cent of all the corn grown in Texas.

"Hopefully, a hearing will be called for around the first of May. Then, it will be determined whether we qualify to hold an election," said King.

"The maximum assessment under the check-off program would not exceed one-half cent per bushel, although the actual assessment would be set by the board later on," he continued.

THE BOARD would consist of six men, with directors selected on the basis of

Saccharin Sales May Continue

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Food and Drug Administration, which has enraged diabetics and weight-watchers with its proposed ban on saccharin, wants to allow continued sale of the artificial sweetener as an additive in food and beverages, but The Associated Press learned Tuesday that the agency is preparing to recommend that it be available as an over-the-counter drug, like headache remedies and antacids.

U.S. Sends Aid

KINSHASA, Zaire (AP)—Moroccan troops are digging in around the copper mining center of Kalwezi and consolidating their supply lines as the lull in the fighting in southern Zaire continues. The 1,500 Moroccans flown to Zaire over the weekend are familiarizing themselves with the region and getting their food and ammunition supplies organized, diplomatic sources in Kinshasa said. The U.S. government announced its second shipment of emergency aid to Mobutu.

Following Controversial Session

School Board Rescinds Stand On History Text

In an unusual controversy over selection of a history book for the local textbook adoption list, the Hereford School Board Tuesday evening rescinded an earlier action and adopted, on a split 4-3 vote, the book with the provision it be used only as reference material.

The vote came after a lengthy discussion on the content and merit of "The Ecumene," a world history book Mrs. Leon Vogler headed the opposition of the book, while N.D. Kelso, chairman of the social studies department, represented the textbook committee's desires to adopt the book.

A large group of citizens attended the board meeting and several expressed opinions on the issue. Mrs. Vogler had voiced objections to the book at the board meeting last month, with the treatment of the evolution of man as a primary reason. The board, at that time, voted to delete the book from the adoption list.

At last month's session, Supt. Harrell Holder agreed the book contained some questionable statements but argued that teachers would use it only for reference and would treat the material "with maturity and integrity." He added that it would be difficult to adopt books that pleased everyone.

READING A letter submitted to the board Tuesday night, Kelso said teachers had carefully considered Mrs. Vogler's objections and "believe the objections are an inaccurate evaluation of the book." He added that many of the objections were partial statements or quotations out of context.

Kelso pointed out that "the committee of social studies teachers did not choose "The Ecumene" for use as a class text because the reading level is too difficult for ninth and tenth grade students." He added, however, that the committee felt it would be valuable as a resource book for the classroom.

"As professional educators, the teachers of the social studies department are strongly committed to the belief that evolution should be taught as theory, not as fact. These teachers are competent to present the theory of evolution to the students. This does not mean students are taught that man evolved from a lower form of life," stated Kelso.

Since many of the objections to the book were of a religious nature, said Kelso, he had asked several local ministers to review "The Ecumene" and Mrs. Vogler's objections. A written critique from four ministers were presented to the board, along with a request to review its previous decision on the book.

The letters from the ministers, all expressing support of the book, or indicating the objections were not valid, came from Rev. Doug Manning, Dr. Jordan Grooms, Bob Wear, and Mack McCarter. Kelso pointed out that 17 history books were proposed on the state level, and only five were adopted.

MRS. VOGLER, who expressed surprise "that this matter has come before the board again," said she had studied the book in more depth since arguments had been raised to retain it. She admitted there were places "where the author goes into more explanation" after making what she thought were objectionable statements.

"I am concerned what the students will get out of this book, not the teachers. We are fortunate to have qualified teachers here," stated Mrs. Vogler. She added, however, that this could change later and some teachers "might not use the book as a tool, but as the final authority."

Mrs. Vogler called on Jana Daniel of Amarillo to express her opinion of the book in question. Mrs. Daniel was introduced as an Amarillo Christian School teacher and wife of a Church of Christ minister.

"I am much appalled and distressed by the content of the book in dealing with 'pre-humans,' even if it is labeled as theory," said Mrs. Daniel. "I am glad it was disregarded as a text, but some teachers might rely heavily upon the book as a supplementary text—maybe not now but it could happen in the future."

MRS. DANIEL called the attention of the trustees to one paragraph in the book, which she said was the crux of the book. The statement was: "But in a world in which everything changed—even the established truths of religion—what was there left to believe in, except the fact of change itself?"

She claimed that everyone knows "there are absolutes," and charged that the book attacks spiritual beliefs. Though it is not mentioned in the book, Mrs. Daniel said it sounds "like a subtle indoctrination of humanism." She added that the theory of humanism is "that there is no right or wrong except in a person's own eyes; there are no absolutes, and each person is urged to do his own thing."

School board members asked questions and made comments during the discussion. Mack Tubb asked Mrs. Daniel, at the close of her presentation, "At what point would you expose students to some of these thoughts and theories?"

"I really don't know," answered Mrs. Daniel. "Maybe it shouldn't be taught at all, unless in the home or church. Only facts should be taught in the classroom."

Mrs. Vogler pointed out that the book had been contested in other areas and by other people. "I hope the board will stand by its decision to delete the book from the list. I'd like each board member to consider if they would want their child to study this book."

KELSO POINTED out that

Ann Landers Needs No Assistance

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Please print these pointers for the husband who found out his wife had been cheating on him after 20 years of happy (?) marriage. He refused to forgive her until she humbled herself and practically groveled at his feet. He signed himself, "Needing Assistance."

1. Just keep on being "a good husband and father." Nothing more. You'll bore her to death.
2. Don't listen to her problems. You do enough of that at work.
3. Spend a lot of time at your job—nights and weekends, if you feel like it. You aren't greedy, you just want to get ahead—for HER and the kids.
4. Don't throw away money on a sitter so you can take her out on a Friday or Saturday night. After all, she should be thrilled to cook for you all week and stay home and watch television every night.
5. Don't buy her a little gift for no reason. What does she need? After all, she has YOU!
6. Remind her often of her "mistake." But please remember, when a married woman is looking, what she's looking for is what she can't find at home. (The same goes for a married man.)

Mrs. Scott Is Hostess For HD Club

Mrs. Ira Scott was hostess in her home Friday afternoon when members of Cultural Home Demonstration Club met in regular session with Mrs. W.M. Sumner presiding. Mrs. Burke Inman gave a brief program on shortcuts in sewing.

A trio of 4-H adult leaders, including Mrs. Edwin Morrison, Kay Rhodes and Mrs. Charles Myers, introduced four Deaf Smith County 4-H members, who gave two demonstrations. Staci Rhodes and Kathy Morrison gave a presentation on "fire co-op prevention." Pamela and Gay Myers gave a program on photography and the care of cameras. Welcomed as a guest was Minnie Cannon of Clarendon. Members present were Mmes. J.G. Gandy, Tom Hargrave, John Hunter, Inman, Mina Mae Love, Grady Parsons, Sumner and Ada Hauser.

DEAR HUSBAND: You'll probably be considered a traitor to your sex, but your letter is a good one and I thank you for writing it.

DEAR ANN: Our 18-year-old daughter, Nancy, runs with a group of girls who come from well-to-do families. I believe this has made her much more conscious of money and "things" than she should be. (She's still in high school, by the way. A year of illness put her one grade behind.)

Friday night Nancy had a date with a 21-year-old fellow she described on several occasions as a "dumb jerk." Like most mothers I sleep with one eye open till all my children are home.

When Nancy came in at 3:00 a.m., I witnessed a kiss at the door that would have made Madame Pompadour look like an amateur. When I asked her why such affection for a "dumb jerk" she replied, "He's going to buy me a $40 bottle of perfume."

It seems my daughter's mode of operation is to lead a fellow on until he gives her a lovely gift—then she bounces him.

I am horrified by her mercenary approach. Am I old-fashioned? Is this what the girls are doing these days?—Stone Age Mom

DEAR MOM: Some adolescent females are eager for evidence that they can capture the male animal in large numbers. The "gift" is the scalp on the belt.

When Nancy grows up she'll discover that one nice guy is worth 40 "dumb jerks" and she'll put away her geiger counter.

CONFIDENTIAL to On A Clear Day You Can See Catalina: By all means TELL her. Women who sit on public platforms should cross their ankles—not their knees.

Texico Students In Science Fair

State-Line (Special) Texico High School, which is located on the State-Line in Texico, N. Mex. was well represented when 17 students went to Roswell, N.M. for the Regional Science Fair, April 2nd.

Eight of the students came back with honors. Debra Coffey was chosen as alternate to National Competition. In the Junior Division, Britt Crooks and Neal Hail took first place. High School Division: Mary Lou Roberts won a second in chemistry and received a scholarship to ENMU, in Portales, N.M., for a semester and a handbook of chemistry and physics.

Other second place winners were Sabrina Kittrell in behavior and social sciences; Penny Fahsoltz, zoology and Debra Wilks, medicine and health. Billie Jo Potts and Linda Bibbs took two third place awards in chemistry.

Miss Debra Coffey, 16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O.B. Coffey of Texico, N.M. won first in zoology at Roswell during the Regional Science Fair. She was chosen as alternate to the National Science Fair at Cleveland, Ohio, May 8-12th.

She will travel by charter plane with the other regional winners from Albuquerque, N.M.

The Texico High School, Texico, New Mexico, Pep Club sponsored a style show, "The Spring Tree", Saturday night April 9 in the Texico Wolverine gymnasium. The money raised will be used for buying trees to landscape the school yard.

The Teen Scene and Lucile's of Hiltop Plaza, Clovis, N.M., merchants provided the clothes which cheerleaders and pep club members from Bovina, Farwell, Texico and Clovis, N.M. modeled.

Even the Easter Bunny and her helper found time to make a visit to the style show.

Quay County Cites Pioneer Veterinary

State-Line (Special) Congratulation to a special pioneer, Frank Jester, who lives on the Caprock Rim, and is well known for his veterinary work through a vast territory for more than 65 years.

A host of friends, neighbors and well-wishers were on hand, Saturday when special autographing festivities were held at the Quay County Office Machines in Tucumcari, New Mexico, to honor Frank Jester who has just finished publishing his first book, "Where The Coyote Howls."

Frank Jester, a renowned old-time horse doctor, well-read and self-educated in the field of veterinary work of all kinds. Time and hours have never been an element in his work. He has gone all hours of the day and night over the four states of New Mexico, Texas, Colorado and Kansas to help his friends, neighbors and anyone else in the need of assistance with their animals, to which he so capably ministered.

Not only does Frank have a heart for animals, he loves music, plays the piano and violin quite well, and has danced many a time quite gracefully.

Frank is quite crafty, having completely made and designed a saddle from pieces of wood and leather. His being the old time cowboy gave him the intuition to accomplish this goal and to turn out a beautiful finished product.

Frank was about four years old when he came to New Mexico from Schofield, Missouri, with his parents and grandparents, and he still lives near the old family homestead.

In his book he tells of the trials and tribulations of the early pioneer, and his boyhood days. He tells of his various experiences as he strived and succeeded in helping mankind with their animals, as he touches on various persons through out the general area and makes a comparison of early days versus modern living.

A "true tribute to a man of such character," Frank Jester.

Council Organizes Rituals Ceremony

Final plans for the Beta Sigma Phi Sorority Rituals were discussed by the BSP City Council Monday night at the Hereford State Bank.

The Rituals ceremony, scheduled at 7 p.m. Tuesday at the Community Center, will involve each of the four local BSP chapters. New sorority pledges will be installed and several members will be advancing to other chapters.

Also of importance on the sorority calendar is BSP Founder's Day. The local chapters will observe the anniversary at a dinner at K-Bob's Steak House beginning at 7 p.m. Friday, April 29. Council members in attendance Monday were Mmes. Tommy Stoy, Chuck Laing, Max Stipe, Coy Mason, Randy Jones, R.J. Cramer, Jim Cramer, Ken Glenn, Joe Paetzold, Dan Warrick, Steve Jones, Eldon Koch, Joe Williamson, Fred Ruland and Nelson Kendall, Ijejan Williams and Betty Barrett.

Bank Has Unusual Assets In Form Of Human Skin

DALLAS (AP)—When Dr. Charles Baxter of the University of Texas Southwestern Medical School talks about giving someone "some skin" he does not mean the usual friendly slap on the palm of the hand.

To Dr. Baxter, chief of the four-year-old Skin Transplant Center for Burns, skin is a scarce commodity that can mean life or death to burn patients.

The bank stores human skin in one of the largest civilian installations of its kind in the country. Last year, it stored 1,000 square feet of skin from 135 donors, mostly victims of accidents, suicides or persons who died of natural causes.

"We could easily use 3,000 square feet a year," said Dr.

Ellen Heck, executive director of the bank. "We routinely turn down three to five requests a week from institutions outside of this area."

Most of the skin is used for patients in the burn center at Parkland Hospital.

"We could use it all on our own patients and not helping anybody else, but sharing will improve burn care all over the country," Dr. Baxter said.

He added skin transplants have become more common because modern medicine can keep more burn patients alive. He said also that a new method of skin preservation by freezing also helped.

This is how the bank works. The Medical Examiner's office calls the skin bank to alert the staff that there is a potential donor. Bank workers contact the next of kin to gain permission. The skin must be removed within 24 hours after death to be usable if the body is kept under refrigeration and sooner if it is not.

The skin from persons with cancer, hepatitis, venereal disease and certain other infections is not used, nor is skin from murder victims.

If permission is granted, a special surgical team from the bank removes the skin from the back and back of the legs of the cadaver. The skin, only .014 of an inch thick, is placed in a low temperature freezer and then stored in liquid nitrogen at a temperature of 196 centigrades below zero. When needed for use it is thawed in a saline solution at room temperature.

The bank charges a relatively low price—$50 per square foot, compared to $200 in other banks. Even that price can be high considering that it takes about 8.5 square feet just to cover one leg.

The stored skin is used as a temporary dressing for burn victims. The transplanted skin may remain in place for several months until the patient has regenerated enough skin on his or her body to be transplanted to injured area.

Judge Signs Order To Allow Patient's Use Of Laetrile

NEW YORK (AP)—A federal judge signed an order Tuesday permitting a 69-year-old terminal cancer patient to use the illegal drug Laetrile.

The order, issued by U.S. District Judge Mark A. Costantino, bars the U.S. Customs Service and the Federal Department of Health, Education and Welfare from interfering with Joseph Rizzo's purchase and importation of the drug.

Rizzo, of New York, suffers from cancer of the pancreas. His personal doctor supported his bid to use the drug because of the patient's condition.

Laetrile, a chemical manufactured in Mexico from apricot pits and bitter almonds, is used in more than 20 countries to treat cancer. The Food and Drug Administration refused to permit its sales or use, contending it has not found that it is an effective cancer treatment.

Under Costantino's ruling, Rizzo will be allowed to import 278 three-gram vials, plus 278 500-milligram pills. The judge said the amount prescribed represents a three-month oral supply and a three-month intravenous supply.

The order also provides that the drug will be kept by Rizzo's doctor, Dr. B.B. Cumella, who will be required to file an affidavit every 30 days outlining how much of the drug Rizzo has used.

If Rizzo dies during the three-month period or if any amount of Laetrile is left at that time, Dr. Cumella would be required to turn it over to authorities.

Rizzo's two sons-in-law were expected to travel to Mexico to purchase the drug.

Baptist Convention Urges Conservation

DALLAS (AP)—The Baptist General Convention of Texas is urging churches to re-examine their utility and travel needs with an eye towards conserving energy.

Dr. James Harris of Fort Worth, president of the convention, and Dr. James Landes of Dallas, the convention's executive director, said at a Dallas news conference Monday that conservation is a moral and spiritual obligation and urged the more than two million convention members to take the lead in relieving the energy crunch.

Among the recommendations for churches were to:

- re-examine the use of air conditioning for the next two months.
- re-evaluate travel needs.
- study meeting frequencies and locations for all church organizations. Many more meetings might be in homes to avoid cooling and lighting church buildings. —search for practical, common-sense ways to challenge wasteful practices. Churches may need to become collection points for waste paper and other recyclable materials.

"We believe that Texas Christians in this rich state should take the lead in challenging greedy, short-sighted policies and practices that would leave our own grandchildren impoverished," they said in a statement.

Harris said Texans shouldn't wait for government to act on the energy crisis but "should take the initiative in responsible conservation and energy-use policies."

Harris and Landes called on churches, denominational agencies and Texas Baptist institutions to share with the organization's offices the ways they intend to save water, electricity and natural gas.

Request For Ferrari

Casket To Be Honored

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A Beverly Hills woman's wish to be buried in her sports car has been honored by a court commissioner who found her request "unusual, but not illegal."

In a special hearing to determine the legality of Sandra Ilene West's unusual burial instructions, Superior Court Commissioner Franklin Dana said he knew of no law preventing the burial in the Ferrari alongside her husband.

Mrs. West, who died March 10 at age 37, wrote in the 1972 will that she wanted to be buried "next to my husband in my lace nightgown and by Porter Loring in my Ferrari, with the seat slanted comfortably."

Porter Loring is the name the San Antonio Mortuary where Mrs. West's husband, millionaire oilman Ike West Jr., is buried.

The will has been contested by a San Antonio lawyer who says another, later will left by Mrs. West names him as chief beneficiary of her estimated $2.5 million estate and makes no mention of burial instructions.

The hearing Monday was not intended to verify either of the wills, but was "to see that this poor lady is buried as soon as possible," Dana said. Both wills are in probate court here.

Mrs. West's body has been embalmed and is temporarily entombed in a San Antonio mausoleum. Directors for the mortuary specified by Mrs. West in her 1972 handwritten will have stated they will not bury Mrs. West unless legal disputes over her burial are dropped.

Fiorello La Guardia, mayor of New York from 1934 to 1946, was raised in Prescott, Ariz. He was, however, born in New York City of an Italian father and a Jewish mother.

Robert E. Lee served as superintendent of the U.S. Military Academy at West Point from 1852 to 1855.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—One of two young Unification Church members freed from their parents' custody by a court order says he was locked in a motel room for days because he refused to listen to "deprogrammers" trying to get him to break away from the controversial sect.

"I had all of my meals in my room and I was not allowed to go out of the room for exercise or for any other purpose," John Howard, 23, said Monday in a statement filed with the state Court of Appeal.

Howard, who said he had no access to books, telephones or television in the motel room, added that he was told he was under confinement as "punishment" for refusing to listen to the deprogrammers.

A Superior Court judge last month granted conservatorships, or 30-day custody periods, to the parents of five Moonies.

A few days later, the Court of Appeal ruled that during the period the parents could not force their children to listen to professional deprogrammers hired to win them away from the church, headed by the Rev. Sun Myung Moon.

The three-judge panel said Monday it has "serious doubts" about the constitutionality of placing young cult members in their parents' custody for deprogramming.

The court ordered a halt to the conservatorships granted to Howard's parents, John and Gail Howard of Danville, Calif., and to Beatrice Kaplan of Toledo, Ohio, the mother of Janice Kaplan. It is considering whether to appoint a hearing examiner to determine whether Howard's parents disobeyed the court orders.

The other three of the original five Moonies—Barbara Underwood, 25, of Portland, Ore.; Leslie Brown, 24, of Berkeley Heights, N.J.; and Jacqueline Katz, 21, of Walcott, N.Y.—were not covered by Monday's court decision, although they sat in court flanked by their parents and members of a deprogramming team from the Freedom of Thought Foundation.

All three say they have left Moon's church and entered into voluntary conservatorships with their parents, remaining in their

Economic Benefits Cited For Racing

AUSTIN (AP)—Backers of horse racing in Texas told House members Tuesday that legalization of pari-mutuel betting would be a half-billion dollar boon to the economy and create 15,000 jobs.

"The voices of Texans who favor horse racing should not be restricted," Rep. Bill Hall, D-Laredo, one of four co-sponsors of the local option bill, told the House Committee on Intergovernmental Affairs. The House chamber was crowded for the hearing with a large portion of the spectators sporting big hats and boots. Most wore lapel stickers favoring horse racing.

After supporters of the bill spoke, a long list of opponents were heard.

Contempt of court citations had been filed against the parents of the four young women. Miss Kaplan, 24, said Monday she would not prosecute the action against her parents.

Howard said following the hearing that he was "constantly forced by my parents to listen to deprogrammers," but that he always refused.

"I was confronted with accusations against the church," he said. "I didn't want to listen to the accusations. I didn't want to have to defend the church in that environment."

Hall pointed out that the state constitution does not prohibit horse race betting, like it does bingo and raffles. The state law could be changed by any legislature, he said.

Hall also noted that a 1974 voters referendum showed all counties south of a line from Eagle Pass to San Antonio and Victoria to be in favor of horse race betting.

"Thirty-two other states have horse racing and Texas is the largest not to have it," he said.

Former Gov. Ronald Reagan of California had been invited to speak for the bill but sent word he was unable to make it.

FPC Could Force Gas Firm To Take Loss In Case

WASHINGTON (AP)—Consumers could save millions of dollars if a Federal Power Commission case involving emergency winter fuel supplies goes against one of the nation's largest natural gas pipeline firms, an administrative judge says.

In a preliminary hearing Monday into charges against Columbia Gas Transmission Co., Judge Samuel Kanell acknowledged that the commission could force the firm to take a loss on higher-priced natural gas it supplied during last winter's frigid weather.

The ruling would depend on whether the FPC can prove that the company contributed to the natural gas shortage and resulting higher prices by "imprudently" depleting its reserves last October before the severe weather.

The company blames the shortages entirely on the unexpected cold wave.

FPC counsel Richard Mattingly said the higher cost has not been passed on to Columbia consumers yet because all wholesale price increases are subject to FPC approval. If Columbia loses the case, it could be stuck with footing the higher bills itself.

The size of any consumer savings would depend in part on how much of the October reserves went to low-priority industrial users and how much went to residential customers.

It will probably be fall at the earliest before the case is settled. Kanell scheduled a hearing for Aug. 23, granting the FPC four months to prepare its case. Any ruling by Kanell would be subject to review by the full commission.

Columbia buys gas from producers and sells it to utility companies serving millions of customers in seven states and the District of Columbia. The states are Kentucky, Maryland, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Virginia and West Virginia.

Columbia is accused of violating an FPC rationing plan that applies to all pipeline firms and limits natural gas sales used for low priority customers.

The firm is accused of draining 21.2 billion cubic feet of gas from reserves last October and selling it to utilities which in turn passed it on to industries.

If the charge is accurate, the gas could have remained in storage for residential users for sale during the winter crunch.

Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, filed the original complaint against Columbia with the FPC, and the FPC agreed to pursue the case.

Metzenbaum's aides said the gas on reserve in October cost $1 per thousand cubic feet while the emergency supplies cost from two to three times more.

Columbia was able to buy the emergency supplies from Texas and Louisiana after Congress and the Carter administration lifted the price ceilings on natural gas that previously had been used only within the Southwestern states.

Heroic Miner Undergoes Successful Arm Reimplant

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Nearly two weeks ago, David Lynn Jackson closed his eyes to shut out the terror. When he opened them 18 hours later he had reason to rejoice.

Jackson, 19, lost both arms in a desperate attempt to save a fellow miner as a sheet of steel plummeted 1,000 feet in a mine shaft toward them.

He was rushed to Jewish Hospital here where a team of surgeons successfully reimplanted arms in a delicate 12-hour operation April 1. Doctors say Jackson should regain 60 per cent use of his right arm and up to 40 per cent use of his left.

Jackson, of Bloomington Springs, Tenn., said at a news conference Monday that he and a fellow worker, Jerry Lee Duncan, 25, were working in a zinc mine at Gordonsville, Tenn., when a sheet of metal being lowered into the shaft broke loose. Duncan was directly below.

"It sounded like a hammer," he said. "It fell about 1,000 feet and it was hitting the sides of the shaft."

He said he ran toward Duncan and bumped him hard enough to get the bulk of his body out of the way. But the plate severed Duncan's right arm, mangling it severely enough to prevent reimplantation.

"The next thing I knew my face was against the steel and I was hurting real bad," Jackson said. "I tried to push myself up with my left hand and I couldn't. I figured I'd try to use my right, but I looked over and I saw my right arm wasn't there."

"Then I heard everyone hollering that my arms had fallen to the bottom."

"I remember them putting my arms in a bucket and I closed my eyes 'cause I didn't want to see them," he said.

After the operation he awoke to find his arms were back in place.

"I was happy when I saw that," he said. "I'm just thankful there's a place like this."

Auditors Investigate Knorp Records

AMARILLO (AP)—Money records in the office of Potter County Atty. Kerry Knorp are being investigated by two auditors from Texas Gov. Dolph Briscoe's Criminal Justice Division.

The auditors, George Bishop and Ron Misfeldt, said they would remain in Amarillo through this week looking into money obtained from grants by the federal Law Enforcement Assistance Administration.

Knorp is under several indictments for misuse of county funds.

Potter County Auditor H.C. Pestor was working with the two state auditors in looking into several grants.

POPE PAUL is recovering from a bout with the flu and a fever. The 75-year-old pontiff is reported in poor health, giving rise to speculation that he might resign. The Vatican has denied the rumors.

Dr. Richards said she had taken the Barr Body chromosome test in Little Rock, Ark., two weeks ago, and it had shown her to possess more than the minimum amount of female chromosomes to qualify her for European championship play...

She added that she already has been accepted to play in the French and Italian opens on the basis of the results, and that she now feared those acceptances to be in jeopardy...

"If it turns out that this requirement of the 1977 U.S. Open Committee does indeed jeopardize my acceptance for the European tournaments, I will instruct my attorney to institute a personal damage suit on the issue of personal discrimination against the U.S. Tennis Association..."

The USTA's Open Committee decided at a Monday meeting that all women players must take the Barr Body test at the Lenox Hill Hospital Institute of Sports Medicine in New York before competing at Forest Hills...

George Gowen, a USTA attorney, said, "We are looking and not specifically at Renee Richards..."

"There's no distrust of any other tests. It's a matter of standardization," said USTA President W.E. Hester Jr. "The policy of the USTA, as far as the Open is concerned, is that Lenox Hill's sports medicine center is the official standard of testing for all women in the tournament..."

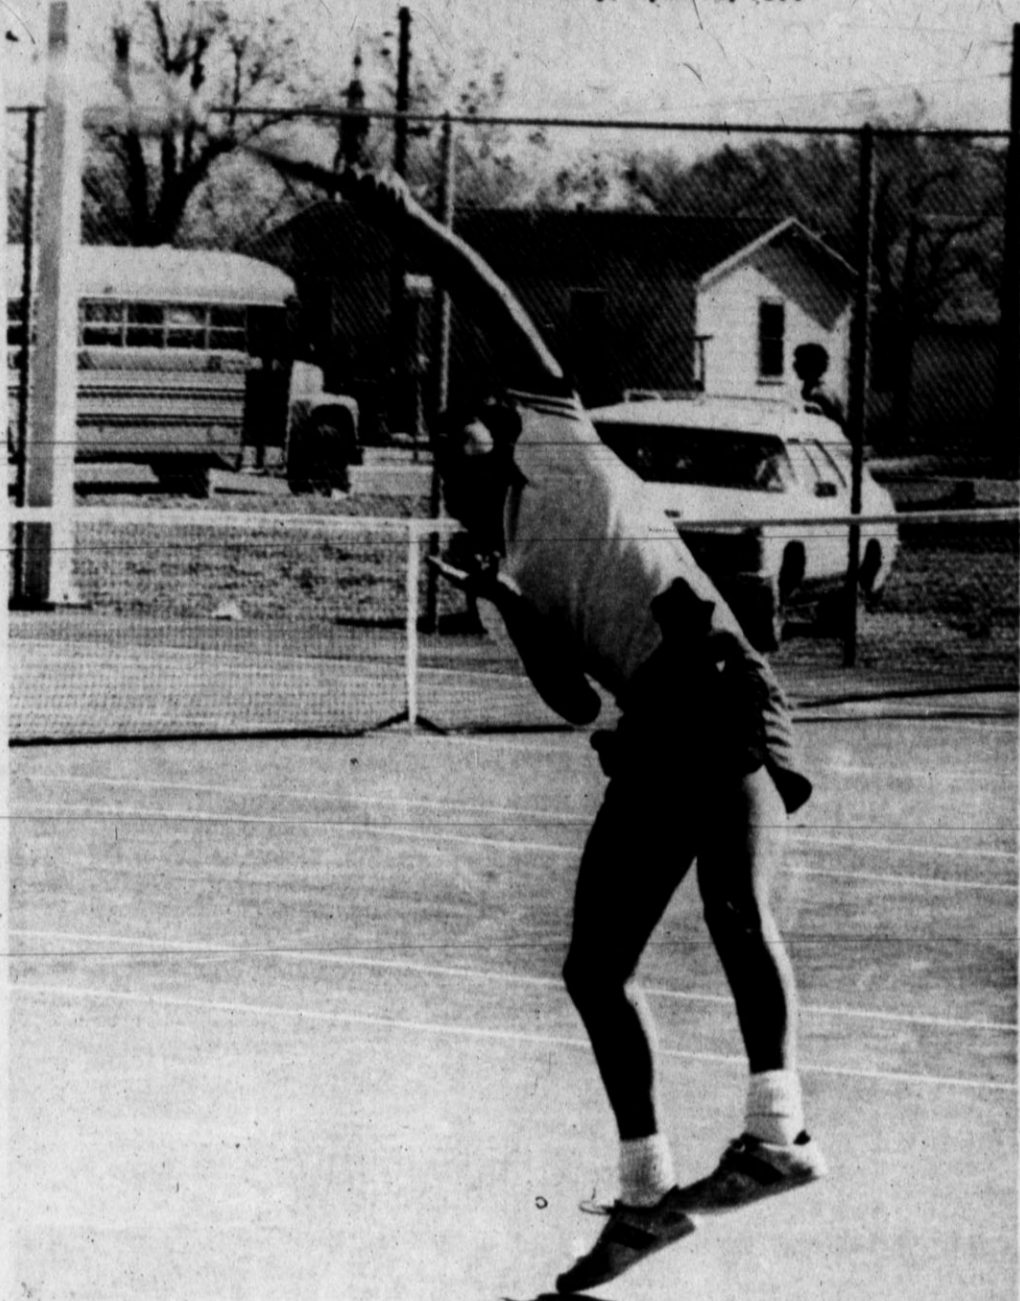

Dr. Richards said she would take the test if all other women were required to take it...

Scott Sparks Celts Over Spurs

BY ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer
Outside Boston Garden, referees Ed Rush, Lee Jones, Manny Sokol and Wally Rooney were manning a picket line, bearing signs which read, "NBA Unfair to Labor."
Inside, however, it was business as usual as the National Basketball Association playoffs opened on schedule. And the Boston Celtics were most businesslike, beginning defense of their NBA title with a 104-94 victory over the San Antonio Spurs.

Guard Charlie Scott, who missed nearly the entire second half of the regular season with two broken bones in his left forearm, sparked the Celtics with 19 points, including seven in a row in a decisive fourth-quarter burst.
"We spurred at the right time and it was just my turn to streak," said Scott.

In other NBA playoff openers, the Detroit Pistons upset the Golden State Warriors 95-90 and the Portland Trail Blazers beat the Chicago Bulls 96-83.
The other best-of-three first-round series begin tonight when the Cleveland Cavaliers and Washington Bullets meet at Landover, Md.
The 24 members of the referees' union remain on strike, so the opening games were refereed by non-union men Richie Powers and Earl Strom and four officials from the pool of backups hastily recruited by the NBA.

Rush, speaking for the four referees who manned the picket line in Boston, said the union hopes to have pickets at as many games as possible. But there were none at ... games at Portland or Golden State.
"We don't have the financial resources to fly a couple of dozen men around the country," Rush said, "but we'll continue picketing games throughout the playoffs."
Celtics 104, Spurs 94
Scott scored 13 points in the fourth quarter as Boston, seeking a record 14th NBA championship, pulled away from San Antonio.
Jo Jo White led the Celtics with 24 points. George Gervin and Larry Kenon each scored 20 for the Spurs.
The second game of the series is Friday night at San Antonio.
Pistons 95, Warriors 90
The Pistons erased an 18-point deficit in beating Golden State, holding the Warriors scoreless over the final 6½ minutes. The Pistons can eliminate the Warriors at Detroit Thursday night.
Bob Lanier, who missed 18 games late in the season with a broken hand, led Detroit with 28 points. He put the Pistons ahead 91-90 with a jumper with 4:25 to go, then hit another jumper 2½ minutes later to clinch the victory.
Rick Barry topped the Warriors with 31 points, including 14 in the second period when Golden State raced to a 54-36 lead.

Blazers 96, Bulls 83
Maurice Lucas hit 10 consecutive shots and finished with 29 points for the Blazers, who jumped to a 12-point lead in the first quarter, saw the Bulls pull even 77-77 with seven minutes to go, then pulled away. A jumper by Lucas put Portland ahead to stay.
Mickey Johnson led the Bulls with 19 points. The series resumes Friday night at Chicago.

Wrigley Innovative; Resisted Pressures

CHICAGO (AP) - Philip K. Wrigley, a giant in two national pastimes - chewing gum and baseball - is dead at the age of 82.
The multimillionaire owner of the Chicago Cubs, who saw little of the team at the unique field that bears his family's name, died of a gastrointestinal hemorrhage Tuesday at Lake-Land Hospital in Elkhorn, Wis.
Wrigley, owner of the world's largest gum company with more than $30 million in profits last year, was stricken Monday night at his home in Lake Geneva, Wis.
The shy, modest Wrigley, who took over the family fortune, the Cubs and his father's chewing gum company, preferred to follow his team on television and radio.
But as domed stadia and artificial turf replaced sunlight and grass, Wrigley steadfastly insisted on keeping lights out of Wrigley Field and ivy on its walls.
He reasoned that night baseball would inconvenience the people who lived in the thickly populated North Side neighborhood in which the ballpark is nestled. And he banned advertisements from the stadium's fences.
While resisting the trend toward night baseball at the potential expense of revenue, Wrigley still had a knack for innovations. But some did not work.
One of his best known attempts to try and bring the Cubs their first National League pennant since 1945 was the creation of a college of Coaches.

From 1961-1965, a staff of coaches, instead of a manager, ran the team. The idea was to have eight of 12 coaches with each taking a turn at the job of head coach. But the plan was unproductive and Leo Durocher became sole manager in 1966.
The William Wrigley Jr. Co., the family chewing-gum business, was not immune to his unorthodox practices.
He once quit the board of directors over a suggestion that the quality of gum be reduced in favor of bigger profits. And in 1971, he expressed disappointment when the company raised the price of a five-stick pack of gum from five cents, its cost since the firm's founding by his father in 1893.
His death, five days after his Cubs opened the 1977 season, in which they, again, are expected to be also-rans, brought out pourings of praise and grief from baseball and government men.

Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn said, "Phil loved the game as passionately as anyone in it... Never afraid to be different, he had his own conceptions and the courage to follow them. Baseball history may call him prophetic."
"A tremendous shock," said Ernie Banks, the happy-go-lucky former Cubs star and Hall of Famer. News of Wrigley's death "was like somebody dropped a rock on my head." He said Wrigley often attended home games and sat in the grandstand dressed like other fans.
The club announced that in Wrigley's memory, the players would wear black armbands on their left sleeves, right below the patch of a cub, for the rest of the season.
Wrigley's son, William III, was expected to assume the club presidency.

CALENDAR FISHING

Fish such as striped bass and walleye are not native to Texas, but they are becoming more numerous as a result of the department's stocking efforts. These fish fill an ecological niche by utilizing open water forage fish such as shad for food. In addition, they provide anglers with excellent table fare.
Another popular stocking program is the rainbow trout fishery. These fish are stocked on a put-and-take basis to provide anglers with another game fish that is fun to catch and good to eat.
Peak months for catching native species like crappie, white bass and largemouth bass are during spawning periods in early spring. As the chart indicates, however, they can be caught throughout the year.
When is fishing good in Texas? The angler can find action any time the weather permits!

The Philadelphia Phillies have a distinction they can do without. They hold the World Series record for consecutive losses by one run... the last four in 1915 and the first three in 1950.

Casey Stengel was the manager in more World Series games than any other pilot in baseball history. Casey was at the helm in 63 contests.

Casey Stengel was the winningest manager in World Series history. He won 37 as pilot of the New York Yankees.

The great John McGraw of the New York Giants had the unhappy distinction of losing more World Series games than any other manager, a total of 28.

Eddie Arcaro is the only jockey to ride two Triple Crown winners. Arcaro scored with Whirlaway in 1941 and Citation in 1948.

Correlation was favored for all three Triple Crown events in 1954 and lost them all.

NBC used $5-million-worth of electronic gear in televising Super Bowl XI at Pasadena, Calif. The gear included 20 color cameras, five videotape machines and seven slow-motion replay and stop-action disks.

The New York Jets hold the Super Bowl record for fewest kickoff returns in one game. The Jets only brought back one Baltimore Colt kickoff en route to a 16-7 victory in 1969 at Miami's Orange Bowl.

Two Super Bowl teams have gone through an entire championship game without incurring a penalty. The Miami Dolphins did it against the Dallas Cowboys while losing, 24-3, in 1972. And Pittsburgh also did it against Dallas in 1976 while winning, 21-17.

The Cincinnati Reds have gone through 25 straight World Series games without a pitcher going the route. The last Red-leg hurler to do it was Bob Purkey in a 3-2 loss to the Yankees in the third game of the 1961 classic.

District 3-A Girl's Track Meet Here

Bovina High School was acting as the host school when the District 3-A girl's track teams got together today at Hereford's Whiteface Field for their district meet. Other schools to be on hand include Kress, Hart, Vega, Farwell, and Springlake-Earth.
The District 3-A boys teams will conduct their district meet at Whiteface Field next Wednesday, April 20.
In addition, the local junior high teams will compete along with Plainview and Canyon in the South Zone Track Meet at Whiteface Field Thursday.
Both boys and girls teams from La Plata and Stanton will be in action from the 7th through the 9th grade.
A U.S. patent is valid for 17 years and may not be renewed.

Johnny Bench, star catcher for the Cincinnati Reds and head of the American Cancer Society's "Athletes Against Cancer" group, helps the ACS deliver a life-saving pitch: "Give to the American Cancer Society and help wipe out cancer in your lifetime."

Anniversary Of Tragic Tornado Observed

ROCKSPRINGS, Tex. (AP)—No one living in Rocksprings 50 years ago this month will ever forget it. A tornado ripped the little town to shreds, ultimately leaving one-tenth of its population—about 100 people—dead.

Only two tornadoes in Texas history—at Goliad on May 18, 1902, and at Waco on May 11, 1953—left higher death tolls. Today, many of the 1,200 residents of the Edwards County town 70 miles northwest of San Antonio, still recall the vicious storm that smashed their community on April 12, 1927.

Claud Gilmer, a former speaker of the Texas House of Representatives, was the young Edwards County judge when the storm hit.

"A black cloud had been building up in the north and west, one of the blackest I ever saw. I thought we might get hail out of it, but I never thought of anything else," Gilmer recalled recently.

Gilmer and his wife, Georgia, sat down in front of the fireplace in their home as the cloud billowed. Their baby daughter was on Mrs. Gilmer's lap.

The hail came first—huge chunks of ice weighing 10 or 12 pounds each, Gilmer said.

"Suddenly, the wind from the east just stopped and there was an eerie, dead calm. By this time every light in town had been knocked out—power gone—and it was pitch black.

"In a second, I heard a roar coming out of the West, a little north of west. I'll never forget that roar," he remembered.

"By this time there was a terrible lightning storm, one crash after another. I was looking out the west window and in one flash of lightning I saw the Methodist Church and parsonage still standing.

"On the next flash, they were gone. Both the minister and his wife were killed.

"About this time, all the bricks in our chimney crashed into the room and the roof went," he said.

When the storm started to subside, the Gilmers stepped out into a scene of horror. Houses were torn apart. Debris was scattered everywhere. And all around were the dead, dying and injured.

"After the tornado," Gilmer recalled, "I saw straw and weed stems driven right into telephone poles."

There were only about two storm cellars in the little town, recalled Mrs. Dudley Edwards, a historian of the storm. Her father and mother had one of those cellars.

The safest place in Rocksprings that awful night may well have been the county jail.

The small, two-story stone building, with its thick walls, still stands in the corner of the courthouse yard as it did 50 years ago.

The tornado did some damage to the roof, but that was all.

Ironically, there was not a single person—prisoner or otherwise—in the jail that night.

Phillips Presents Plaques

Two corporate officers of Hereford Butane were presented plaques here Tuesday "in recognition of 30 years as a seller of Phillips 66 products." L.E. Rapier, left, district manager of Phillips Petroleum from Amarillo, presented the plaques to Mary Allred and Carlos Anderson. Rapier also noted that Jimmy Allred, Allred Oil Co., is currently in his 43rd year as a seller of Phillips 66 products. Mrs. Allred is also an officer of Allred Oil Co.

Rotary Club Hosts English Visitors

Six men from England attended the Hereford Rotary Club meeting here Monday as a part of the Group Study Exchange program sponsored by Rotary International.

Each of the men made brief remarks about their visit to Texas, with all expressing complimentary factors about the Panhandle area—and their findings being "very different from what was envisioned."

Rotarians from this district (573) sent a group of Texans to England last year to visit with a "sister" district there. That district (113) in England sent the group to Texas this year, according to Roger Ruland, president of the Hereford club.

The Group Study Exchange is an educational program designed to provide to outstanding young business and professional men opportunities to study another country, its people and institutions; to further international understanding by allowing men-of goodwill to meet, talk and live with each other in a spirit of fellowship so that they may get to know each other's problems and aspirations, and to permit such personal contacts to ripen into lasting friendships.

Ronald Preston is the team leader of the visiting group. A former president of the Rotary Club at Edgeware and Stanmore, he is in the real estate business. Other members include Dick Harper, bank note production controller; Ian Clark, financial reporting manager; Gray Hetherington, lawyer; Simon Browne, woodware manufacturer; and Geoff Smith, health service administrator.

Henry C. Traute, the gogetter who fathered matchbook advertising, also thought up what may be the world's most ignored safety suggestion: "Close Cover Before Striking."

Board Wants Reconsideration Of Cut In Rates On Property

AUSTIN (AP)—The insurance industry has asked the State Insurance Board to reconsider its March 25 decision to cut property rates by a statewide average of 2.8 per cent.

The motion for rehearing is a necessary prelude to a lawsuit, if the insurance companies choose to file one, contesting the rates.

Board Chairman Joe Christie indicated the board would act next week on the motion for rehearing filed by the Texas Insurance Advisory Association.

When the board ordered the rate cut, the association's lawyer indicated a suit might be filed challenging the adequacy of the rates. A court could not consider such a suit, however, unless a motion for rehearing were filed with the board. The association's motion said the reductions would be "confiscatory" because they would not allow full recovery of company expenses, particularly gross premium taxes.

A reduction became possible after the board altered its rating formula to reduce the amount allowed for company expenses. That increased the percentage of the premium dollar dedicated to settling policy-holder claims.

Showers Should Continue To Fall Until Thursday

By The Associated Press
Occasionally heavy showers and thunderstorms dotted broad reaches of Texas today, and they promised to persist into Thursday.

Clouds covered the state except for a few clear spots here and there in the Panhandle and East Texas and near the coast.

One area of showers was concentrated from near Fredericksburg and San Antonio toward Corpus Christi and Victoria in South Texas. Another brought rain along the border near Del Rio, Eagle Pass and Laredo into Mexico.

Other damp spots were around Dalhart and Stratford in the Texas Panhandle into neighboring New Mexico and Oklahoma, in the Wichita Falls vicinity, close to Midland and Odessa in West Texas and in the Davis Mountains of far West Texas.

There were patches of early morning fog in Central, South and East Texas. Visibility shrank to a mile at College Station.

Overnight temperatures ranged from 45 degrees at Dalhart up to 70 at Brownsville in the Lower Rio Grande Valley. Top mark Tuesday was 90 at Presidio in the Big Bend of West Texas.

Increasing thunderstorms were predicted tonight and Thursday in West and North Texas, and chances for others were seen in South Texas.

PLAN FOR INFORMAL LIVING

MORE SPACE DEVOTED TO FAMILY LIVING

FEATURE HOMES

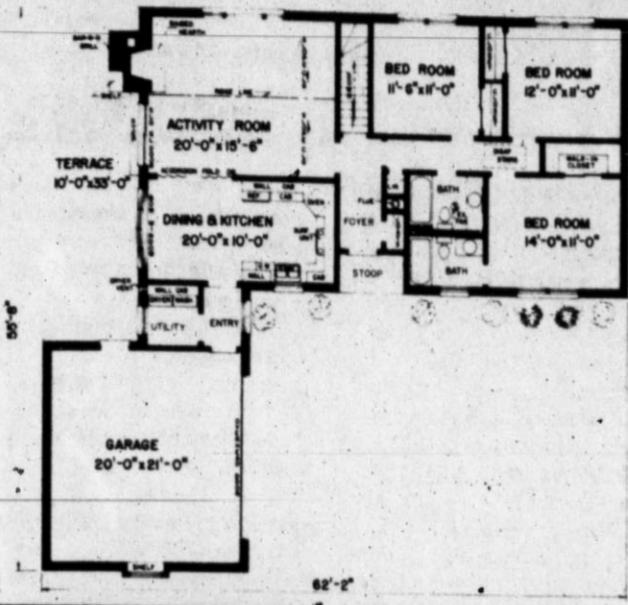

By W. D. FARMER

The trend of spaciousness in budget homes and luxury homes is accomplished by the omission of the formal living and/or dining rooms. The majority of time for the modern family is devoted to informal living.

The kitchen and dining rooms are adequately sized to accommodate any cooking and eating situation. The kitchen includes built-in appliances. The bow window shown in dining room offers atmospheric view and extra light. The utility room is adjacent to this area, conveniently located between double garage and kitchen.

This plan offers three large bedrooms, two full baths, surplus closet space and separate foyer. The best feature of this plan is the large activity room. It is a full 20 feet by 15 feet six inches, has slope ceiling, fireplace with raised hearth, glass doors to private patio and exceptional wall space for furniture placement. Notice that the fireplace includes Bar B Q grill from patio for outdoor cooking.

The plan includes a full basement with stairs from the central hall. Disappearing stairs are also indicated for access to extra attic storage. A playroom may be completed in the basement and an additional fireplace opening from same chimney. The exterior style is Early American, accented by divided and diamond-lite shuttered windows, horizontal siding in gable ends and recessed entry with crossbuck doors. The plan is Number 433. It includes 1,475 square feet on main floor with 642 square feet of optional basement space. For further information write W. D. Farmer, P.O. Box 49463, Atlanta, Ga. 30359.

Energy Department Bill Could Cut Participation On Part Of The Public

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional researchers say President Carter's bill to create a Department of Energy appears to open the door for energy policy to be established with a "minimum" of public participation.

The Board of Hearings and Appeals created by the legislation "may quickly become a vestigial organ with little to do," according to a Library of Congress study released Tuesday by Sen. Bill Roth, R-Del.

Roth, who asked the library's Congressional Research Service to make the study, said it showed that the Carter bill has "serious, but not fatal flaws."

He said the bill "would deliver to one person the power to govern with an iron rule through secret meetings, without hearings, without notice, without any precautions whatsoever."

"While we need a strong office and swift decision making, the study makes it clear that safeguards need to be built into the procedure," Roth said. He predicted the Senate would pass the bill after amending it.

The proposed new department would replace the Federal Energy Administration, Energy Research and Development Administration and Federal Power Commission and would take over some functions of other agencies.

The department would be headed by a cabinet-level secretary.

The study said the Board of Hearings and Appeals "appears to provide some independent counterpart" for the FPC but "much of what is presently being done by the FPC would become vested with the secretary and the board would play only a minor role."

"The functions of a major independent regulatory commission have never before been transferred to a cabinet department," the researchers said.

They said departmental policy was likely to be largely formulated "by informal rule making with the possibility of minimal public participation" and "probably little or no hearings process."

The Federal Power Commission is an independent agency which regulates natural gas and electricity. Many of its decisions, such as the granting of permits to natural gas companies and establishing rules governing the writing off of investments for tax purposes, may be made only after hearings.

"In a March 1 fact sheet explaining the proposed legislation, the White House said that "initially, it is anticipated that all proceedings conducted on the record under the practice of the constituent agencies and commissions involved would continue to be so conducted."

The Library of Congress

analysis, however, said the rule making power of the proposed board would be narrower than that of the present commission and "the residual rule making authority would rest with the secretary of the department of energy."

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Questions chest pains

DEAR DR. LAMB — For the past four to five years I have been troubled by heart poundings and palpitations, chest heaviness and sometimes chest pain under my front lower ribs, after exercising or after emotional or physical stress. I have consulted and have confidence in our two internists. They have done electrocardiograms while I was resting and after exercise, given a stress test, done blood work, tried Isordil on a temporary basis and have declared me a healthy middle-aged woman.

I'm 51 years old, 5 feet 8 and weigh 148 pounds. My blood pressure is 110 over 70. I had a complete hysterectomy in 1969. My parents are living, aged 78. My grandparents died of heart disease in their 80s.

Exercise is a part of our family. We swim year round, play tennis, walk and I ride a bike. Our habits are moderate and we do not smoke or do a thing in excess. We have la dolce vita.

Why then do these feelings persist? When it happens I try to ease off the exercise for a day or two and then do feel better. I also get some relief by taking two aspirin or a Valium at night when the palpitations interfere with sleep. They are getting worse and I am beginning to treat myself like an invalid and have almost stopped participating in these sports which I love.

My husband also has the same symptoms and he, too, has checked out in perfect health. What to do? Is there something we may be doing to cause this? Are we overdoing the exercise department? I would be grateful for your help.

DEAR READER — With the good evaluation you describe it is unlikely that there is anything seriously wrong with your heart. Palpitations and even certain forms of chest discomfort with the palpitations can occur in people who have no heart disease at all. Nevertheless, the sensations you describe are discomforting to say the least and they are real.

Exercise seldom produces such symptoms in healthy people except in people who really are overdoing it beyond the level of their physical fitness. We could take an office worker and have him do too much exercise too soon and he could develop such symptoms. He could accomplish the same level of fitness without symptoms if he progresses at a slower rate, taking months instead of weeks to get in shape.

Coffee and other drinks containing caffeine may be a factor. Since you don't smoke you can forget about cigarettes as a cause. Digestive disorders can trigger such attacks in some people. You need to be sure you don't have a hiatal hernia (hernia of part of the stomach through the diaphragm) and make some effort to correct any digestive disorders you may have such as spastic colon with trapping of gas. A good diet including adequate amounts of cereal bulk should help in that department.

Anxiety and nervousness can contribute to such attacks. A tranquilizer in these instances may help. Regular vigorous exercise may be associated with a slight decrease in potassium content which may be your problem. This can be important. To prevent this, an 8-ounce glass of orange juice a day will keep your potassium levels up.

Restaurant Soup "Restaurant" was originally the name of a soup invented in 1557 by a Frenchman named Palissy. The soup consisted of finely-minced lard and broth highly spiced with cinnamon and coriander. In 1785 a tavern was opened in Paris under the title "Restaurant" for the purpose of supplying this soup.

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve is with the cake mixes and other recipes that call for the addition of eggs but never tell one what size eggs to use. This can make a difference in the results. — MRS. R.Y.

DEAR POLLY — I have a nice safe way to keep cats away from one's yard and garden. I put orange peels in my garden and it keeps them away as they do not like that odor. Every time I eat an orange I put the peel in the garden and know this works. — ELEANOR.

DEAR POLLY — I found my hands did not get so cold while shoveling snow during the freezing weather we have had this winter if I put a plastic bag over each of my gloves and then secured them around the wrists with rubber bands. — MRS. A.K.

DEAR POLLY — Mrs. J.C. wanted to know how she could use nickel billiard balls. I suggest making a triangular, square or oblong macramé or crocheted hanging for the billiard room. The macramé or crochet would cover the balls with a net-like look and the strings connecting the balls could be in varying lengths and attached to a dowel stick or curtain rod. Bright string or cord could be used for this work.

The hard water we have in Southern California leaves a crust on chrome fixtures and basins. To soften I soak a sponge or towel with vinegar, wrap it around the fixture and let it stand. Then I wipe the crust away.

I also find that vinegar will remove the soap scum from a washing machine. I start with two cups of vinegar added to clear water (low cycle) and run through the rinse cycle. If this does not quite do it experiment with more vinegar. A cupful of vinegar in the dishwasher about once a month will also keep the appliance clean and help the dishes. — MRS. E.E.

DEAR POLLY — I use a lot of iron-on patches but find they last much longer if I stitch all around the patch. This is especially good for boys' pants as the patches will stay on after many washings. — MRS. J.W.S.

DEAR POLLY — I found a great new way to thicken stew. I was out of flour and cornstarch, too, so all I had to use was some potato pancake mix. It worked like magic. — HAZEL.

Ullmann's 'Changing' Disappoints

CHANGING. By Liv Ullmann. Knopf. 244 Pages. $8.95. Liv Ullmann begins this book by saying it is not her intention to write an autobiography. Rather, she says, she wants to write about love and loneliness and being a woman. One wishes she had written a little more about being Liv Ullmann.

The book has some of the static quality of a slide show. In the first section, Miss Ullmann moves rapidly between flashes of her present life, in which she is an international actress and single mother, and her past as a lonely child whose father died too soon. She moves quickly through an early marriage, telling the reader only that "our dreams were different."

Her five years with Ingmar Bergman are distilled into 28 pages. She gives glimpses of their happiness, their fights, her loneliness, but allows the reader no real understanding or knowledge. Liv Ullmann, the actress who reveals so much to the camera, seems frightened, perhaps, by the reality of written words. "Now," she writes, "I feel that I am afraid of revealing myself. Afraid that what I write will leave me vulnerable and no longer able to defend myself."

Yet she shares with the reader some truly moving scenes, of herself lonely on the Swedish island of Faro, sitting with her arms around Siri, the big island peasant woman, sharing lives. She writes of herself, after her breakup with Bergman, hiding from reporters. One warns to Liv Ullmann in her second best dress nervously tugging off a cleaner's tag as she walks out the door with Henry Kissinger, or being so nervous the night of the Academy Awards that she can't smile.

The last two sections of "Changing," about life after Hollywood discovered her, are the most readable.

$263 Million Teacher Pay Bill Clears House Committee

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) - A $263 million teacher pay bill that gives beginners next to nothing but old hands a 12.5 per cent salary boost cleared a House committee Tuesday.

Before passing out the bill, the House Public Education Committee rejected, 7-3, an amendment that would have more than doubled its cost.

Rep. Tom Massey, D-San Angelo, the committee chairman, said he hoped to get a House vote on the measure after representatives pass the general appropriation bill. That means the teacher pay bill could come up as early as next week.

The bill raises state-guaranteed salaries for beginning teachers with bachelors degrees from $8,000 to $8,084 in the coming school year - a far cry from the $10,000 minimum sought by the Texas State Teachers Association.

But it raises some 14,500 teachers who have been in the top pay grade for at least three years from $11,780 to $13,254, a 12.5 per cent jump.

Additional raises would come in the 1978-79 school year, but they would be much smaller. Beginning teachers would get $80 a year more, while those at top scale would get an additional $133.

The TSTA wanted a 25 per cent across-the-board increase for all teachers and administrators. The committee bill provides the top-ranked superintendents raises of only 3.42 per cent.

Reps. Ron Coleman, D-El Paso, and Frank Madla, D-San Antonio, sought to provide larger raises - but not as great as the TSTA sought. Their proposal would have raised a BA teacher with three years' experience from the $9,400 provided by the bill to $9,900. That pay level is the index figure used in the bill for computing all other salaries. It would have raised a beginner to $8,514 instead of the $8,084 provided by the measure that was approved.

Staff director L.T. Cave said the amendment would double the cost of the bill. "It seems to me that anyone who is the head of a household and a family should be somewhere above the poverty level...Dedication is one thing, but it doesn't buy any food and it doesn't support your family," Coleman said.

Massey replied that the committee had tried its best, within funds available, to provide for the most experienced teachers.

"It's just a matter of money," he said.

Reps. Ruben Torres, D-Brownsville, and Jim Nugent, D-Kerrville, said Coleman would run the risk of sending the bill to the comptroller for certification, only to find sufficient funds were not available.

"If we allow our emotions to run away with us and plug an awful lot of money into this bill, the teachers may get nothing," Nugent said.

"This committee has a responsibility to the House to tell them what we really think in terms of dollars," Coleman replied.

The amendment failed, 7-3.

Earlier in the morning, a busload of Brownsville teachers arrived to lobby for higher salaries. Josephine McLean, their spokeswoman, called the committee bill inadequate.

They stood on the front steps of the Capitol and sang, to the tune of "Side by Side":

"Tell our legislators in Austin that we'll have a tea party like Boston!"

"If they don't pass some bills 'Curing the ills of teacher pay."

President Signs Law Governing Pay Hikes For Congressmen

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter signed a law Tuesday that ensures that Congress gets no future pay raises without first voting on them.

The law also resurrects a program which expired March 31 to provide emergency benefits for the long-term unemployed.

The new pay raise law will retain the special commission to make recommendations to the President on pay raises for Congress and other top officials and the President still will have the decision on whether to submit the recommendation to Congress. But both the House and Senate then will have to approve the increase by a roll call vote before it can go into effect. Under the old law, the hike automatically went into effect unless either house vetoed it.

The new law is a result of the public outcry that occurred when a 29 per cent pay raise for Congress, federal judges and other top federal officials took effect in February without a record vote by the House and Senate.

The February raise increased top congressional salaries to $57,500 a year. The increase, recommended by President Gerald R. Ford before he left office, took effect after the Senate tabled a motion to kill it and the House failed to vote on a similar motion.

The new law also will provide unemployment benefits for persons who have exhausted the 39 weeks of aid under regular state and extended federal-state compensation laws.

This will cost taxpayers $528 million this budget year ending Sept. 30 and $215 million next year.

Benefits will be denied to those who are not actively seeking work or who refuse suitable work offers.

Under the law, unemployment benefits will continue until Oct. 31.

ONE OF THE local school principals called us this week to see if we knew anything about a campaign to save label off cans of food and turn them in to help buy kidney machines. We checked with the Texas Medical Association in Austin and learned that it was a hoax.

The TMA office has been deluged with calls about the so-called campaign. They had checked with the National Kidney Foundation, and found there was no truth to the rumor and no one knew where it got started.

A GOOD PORTION of the school board meeting Tuesday evening involved the discussion on whether or not to adopt a history book for use in high school. While the issue was a controversial one, with strong feelings on both sides, the debate was conducted in an amicable fashion.

Board President Clark Andrews gave every interested person an opportunity to speak to the question, and chaired the session in what we thought was a fair and efficient manner. The 4-3 vote was an indication, perhaps, of the toughness of the question.

We think those who opposed the adoption of the book were very sincere in

I do not mean to belittle the efforts of those who want to make certain we have the best textbooks possible in our schools. We need their input and involvement. I'm glad they questioned this book. Their objections and had a point to make. Citizens with a real concern for our educational system need to take a stand at times, to draw the line on questionable material.

We could not help but contrast two portions of the school board meeting, however. Later in the meeting, the speech therapy department presented a program on the work being done with students who have speech problems. It takes a special kind of teacher to spend two or three years getting a child to put together a three-word phrase.

But, the thought occurred to me that we need a special kind of person to teach our children any subject. Maybe we should let the school board know, first, that we are concerned with securing quality teachers.

After all, a teacher is forever.

total corn acreage in each district. District I would have three directors while District II would have one and there would be two from District III.

"The check-off program for corn would be similar to those already in use for grain sorghum and wheat." King emphasized.

"It has come down to a problem of funding corn programs, and the state simply does not have enough money to take care of all of the research programs corn producers need at this time. Funds from the check-off would not only finance more extensive research on such problems as the corn borer, but would also aid in market development for the crop.

sify the book as reference material, only. The amendment passed on a 5-2 vote, with Hutchins and Strain opposed. The motion then passed on a 4-3 vote, with Hutchins, Strain and Andrews opposed.

Andrews, board chairman, closed the matter by saying that he could "see both sides of the question." Personally, said Andrews, "I would like to have ignored the matter, but the board must act, right or wrong. This is our system, and I think most of us agree it is better than any other system we know."

Holder said he would like to make two points before the interested group of citizens left.

"First, we will not advocate the teaching of evolution as fact. I believe Mr. Kelso's views on this are very similar to those who objected to the book. Second, I want to apologize to the textbook committee and interested citizens for the manner in which this controversy occurred. We will set up a better procedure for hearing objections in the future."

Supt. Holder pointed out that all books are questioned, and "teachers don't relish the job of making the selections." He added that any subject "depends on the integrity of the teacher as to how it is taught."

the book was on world history, and it was therefore necessary that it deal with religions of all nations. Although some objections were raised to the book, and to others, he pointed out that the state board of education had approved the book in question.

Mack McCarter, First Christian minister, was at the meeting and said he had some questions "as to the fears which had been raised." The minister said citizens should be careful of the intent of their actions. "If we try to protect our children from discussion on murder, incest, idolatry and other objectionable matters, then we will have to take away parts of the Bible. I have faith in our teachers," he said.

Rev. Prentice Smith, Greenwood Baptist pastor, also attended the meeting and rose to object to the book. "I was not one of the ministers contacted to write a critique, so I want to speak against it tonight. He said the book raised doubts about religious beliefs, "and our children already have too many questions, they need answers." He added that the Bible has those answers.

Trustee Sallie Strain said she had looked over the book before "the controversy started, and I found lots of things-- aside from religion--which I thought were not dealt with properly."

DAVID HUTCHINS said he knew most of the people on the textbook committee, and he expressed appreciation for the tough job they had in adopting books. However, he added, "the board should not rubber-stamp everything to come before it. I know, from personal experience, that we sometimes get an unfit teacher. I recommend the board let its action stand."

James Gentry said it was his opinion that the book be put on the adoption list, with the restriction by the board that "it be used only as a research book. Tubb said he didn't see anything harmful about the book, and that objections were taken out of context. James Arney stated that he had confidence in the teaching staff. "I think it is good to challenge the thinking of students in high school, while they are still at home and have some guidance."

Perhaps a key point was mentioned by trustee Lynton Allred when he noted that "we have to trust our teachers, remembering that what they teach does not have to come out of textbooks." He added that "we cannot shelter our children from the world." Allred, noting he voted to delete the book the first time, said he probably would support the adoption this time with the book being for reference material only.

Supt. Holder pointed out that all books are questioned, and "teachers don't relish the job of making the selections." He added that any subject "depends on the integrity of the teacher as to how it is taught."

TUBB MADE the motion to rescind the board's previous action and to include "The Ecumene" on the adoption list. Gentry then offered an amendment which would clas-serious energy crisis, including spot shortages in supplies of home heating fuels.... There is therefore, a real need for energy conservation and efficiency among all sectors of the economy including the air industry, the most fuel-intensive intercity passenger mode," the FEA said.

Proposed Concorde Flights Are Challenged By FEA

AUSTIN (AP) - The Federal Energy Administration has challenged proposed Concorde flights between Washington, D.C., and Dallas-Fort Worth Regional Airport, according to correspondence released here Tuesday.

Rep. Chris Miller, D-Fort Worth, made public a letter from FEA Administrator John F. O'Leary, who sent her a copy of the FEA's comments to the Civil Aeronautics Board about the Concorde flights.

Under the proposal, Braniff Airways crews would fly the Concorde from Dulles International Airport in Washington to DFW at subsonic speeds, pick up trans-Atlantic passengers and fly back to Washington. Air France and British Airways crews then would complete the flights to London and Paris at supersonic speeds.

Passengers would pay a 10 per cent domestic surcharge for the benefit of one-stop, single-plane service to London or Paris and save 14 minutes on the DFW-Dulles leg of their journey.
