AROUND TOWN

Sights and Faces Seen

R. H. Womack was in Monday to change his brand to Cross Plains. He plans to make his 20th renewal in two weeks, he said. He has been getting the brand without interruption for the past 25 years.

Theodore Rohrbach of Simms community has found that raising cucumbers is profitable business. In his irrigated garden he has a tenth acre cucumber patch, 10 feet wide by 40 feet, and from it he has in two pickings gathered 12 bushels of cucumbers, which he sold locally at $1 a bushel. It is estimated that Mr. Rohrbach will gather about six bushels each week from now until frost.

There is a moving boom in Hereford—people moving distances ranging from across the hall to across town. Among those who have moved about two during the week were D. W. Crawford, Edwin Mauk, Bill Davison, R. V. Millers, Ralph Rodens, Adrian Odams and Sherman Morgans. The George Clarks are getting ready to move, and there was evidence of other moving, although other names were not obtained.

W. R. Schehagen was painfully injured Tuesday night when he got emery dust in his left eye. With his eye bandaged, he will be without his services for a few days.

The Line Rider, Amarillo newspaper columnist, says "The Will Rogers of the affair Wednesday night (old-time T-Anchor cowboy reunion) was Rat Jowell of Hereford, pioneer cowboy and cattleman. Among those he met and renewed old acquaintances with were John Alexander whom he had last seen on the 7D's in 1906."

Mrs. J. H. Harris reports that she and Mr. Harris were sitting on their front porch and beheld the beautiful phenomenon of the meteor reported last week by Harry Rice.

W. L. Alexander's face appears although it had been run through a mill. Mr. Alexander sticks to the story that he was carrying a table down stairs and dropped it on his face, which, although a strange place for a table to fall, is a good story.

Jack Rose appears to be the type of fellow who, when cigars are passed around on special occasions, takes two.

Grant Extension On Wheat Loans

Wheat loans have been extended for 30 days, according to information received last week in the wheat loan office from Washington, and the maximum loan has been raised from $200 to $400. The period for making loans was to have expired Monday, but was extended until October 1. Both actions were said to have been brought about through the efforts of Congressman Marvin Jones.

QUESTIONNAIRE SENT TO WORK SHEET SIGNERS

A questionnaire is being sent out this week to all farmers who signed work sheets under the Domestic Allotment Act. Sent from the county agent's office, it is a questionnaire on land and cropping systems for this year. A model map is included as an assistance to the farmers in making their own maps. This work is being done in preparation for measurement and inspection of the land. So many work sheets were turned in on farms that are laying to that filling out the questionnaires will be a big assistance in expediting completion of the job, Mr. Bateman stated.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. McFarling and children, J. L., Jr., and Tricie, returned Sunday from a two week vacation in South Texas and

Former Hereford Physician Hurt

DR. T. L. MORGAN IS INJURED IN AUTOMOBILE CRASH NEAR VAN HORN

Dr. T. L. Morgan, former Hereford physician now of Lubbock, was slightly injured last Friday night in an automobile accident in which R. C. Smith, Lubbock ice cream manufacturer and prominent civic leader, was killed.

The crash occurred, it was reported, when the automobile in which Dr. Morgan was riding with Mr. Smith, struck a calf on the highway and was deflected into a concrete culvert. Dr. Morgan was painfully but not seriously injured. The men were enroute to Southwest Texas.

Mrs. Morgan was visiting friends here when the accident occurred. She was notified of the crash, but advised not to go to Van Horn but to meet her husband in Lubbock. She left Saturday morning. The Morgans left Hereford about a year ago to make their home in Lubbock.

Cattle Sales On Increase

Cattle shipments out of Deaf Smith county during August showed a substantial increase over the preceding month, although still considerably below spring figures. The increase was caused by large individual shipments.

Three hundred and sixty-five head were shipped to Oklahoma City and Amarillo during the month, as compared with 181 head in July. The number of individual shipments were reduced from 12 to 8. H. W. Engle was the largest shipper, sending out 165 head.

The shipments, as reported to the commissioners court by Inspector Walk Bradley, were as follows: R. K. Gresson, 15, mixed; Hutchinson, 15, mixed; Engle 165, mixed; Joe Mitchell, 20 bulls; T. W. Roberson, 40 heifer yearlings; Gresson, 17 mixed; Noah Ewton, 88 heifer yearlings, and Engle, 126 mixed. In addition, W. L. Davis shipped 50 hides.

Erosion Heads Seeking Action

Judge Noel McDade of Dumas called a special meeting of the wind erosion committee in Amarillo Sunday to confer with Congressman Marvin Jones. The session was held at the home of J. O. Guleke, where the group had dinner.

The committee presented difficulties facing the special districts to Jones and solicited his help in getting direct action as soon as possible. The Congressman planned to leave this week on a special trip to Washington in this connection.

With two dozen lads, ranging in stature a bit taller than last year's regional runner-up team, reporting for drills, this year's edition of the Whiteface football machine is going through its training periods twice daily at Whiteface Field.

Court Adjourns At Completion Of Third Week

ACTION CAUSED BY ILLNESS OF DISTRICT ATTORNEY WITHERSPOON

Following completion of the third term of district court here Saturday morning, Judge Reese Tatum adjourned the August term without holding its fourth week, because of the illness of District Attorney Jimmie Witherspoon. Several cases, including six indictments on criminal charge returned last week by the grand jury, were bound over until the next term.

Six judgments were returned during the final week. They were as follows: E. R. Williams, Jr., vs. Lora Williams, judgment for plaintiff; E. Witherspoon vs. W. D. Farmer et al, judgment for plaintiff; J. W. Lusk vs. B. B. Parmer, judgment for plaintiff; Marie Hadden et al vs. C. L. Bracken, instructed verdict for plaintiff; C. J. Faddock vs. Bertha M. Stuble et al, judgment for plaintiff and co-plaintiff, and L. A. Arnold vs. W. I. Valentine et al, judgment for plaintiff.

Three cases were dismissed and one, a misdemeanor, was transferred to county court because of lack of jurisdiction. Those cases dismissed were Maude Malone vs. P. L. London et al; Edna M. Rice vs. Louis H. Rice et al, and Panhandle Construction Co. vs. Henry Hellman et al. The state's case against Bill Weems was transferred to county court.

Former Resident Is Buried Here

Funeral services were conducted from the First Baptist church here Sunday afternoon by Rev. Ware of Dimmitt for Mrs. S. B. Straley, 63, who passed away last Wednesday at Comstock. She was the mother of Mrs. C. C. New and J. B. Straley of Hereford and a former resident of this community. Burial was at West Park Cemetery.

Mrs. Straley had made her home with different children since the death of her husband six years ago. She went to Comstock early in July after a stay here. She was an active member of the Baptist Church until she became ill several years ago. Mr. and Mrs. Straley first came to Hereford to make their home in 1928. Survivors include four daughters, Mrs. New, Mrs. Harry O'Neal of Comstock, Mrs. Vera O'Brien of Putnam, Illinois, Mrs. Suzzie Robbins of Dallas; three sons, J. S. Straley, J. H. Straley of Comstock, and I. W. Straley of Buck Grove, Iowa, and nine grand children.

Twenty-two of the candidates were in uniform Tuesday. Another was on the field, but because of a slight injury was unable to work. A half dozen more may be added after school starts Monday. In this group, Ashlock was picked out as the fastest. He is getting some of the speed back he had two years ago but for some reason seemed to lose last year.

State Farm Head To Speak Here

ADDRESS LIONS SEPTEMBER 17; FARMERS MEET NEXT DAY IN LUBBOCK

H. G. Lucas of Brownwood, president of the Texas Farmers Association and the leader of the farmers' congratulatory visit with President Roosevelt in May, 1934, will speak at the Lions Club lunch here Wednesday, September 16, County Agent Alex R. Bateman announced.

The talk will be one of numerous such events over the state. On the following day, Thursday, September 17, between 5,000 and 6,000 farmers and their families will meet at Lubbock for an old fashion basket picnic. This meeting will be addressed by Dr. R. H. Montgomery of Washington, D. C., a noted agricultural authority.

The purpose of the talks and meetings will be to acquaint both farmers and civic leaders in each community with the program now being carried on and what it is attempting to do. Some farmer or farm leader will address a civic club in every town in Texas on September 16, according to present plans.

As many farmers as possibly can do so are urged to attend the Lubbock session. Several are expected to attend from this section. Mr. Bateman and other members of his staff will be on hand. It will give farmers an excellent chance to learn of the work being done in other sections of the Southwest, as well as receive valuable information from farm leaders and be thoroughly entertained.

Lions Enter Softball Meet

Hereford Lions go to Amarillo this afternoon with strong hopes of returning with the district softball championship in a battle with three other Lions Club teams. Clubs had entered from Dalhart, Panhandle, Amarillo and Hereford.

CITY COMPLIMENTED ON WATER SYSTEM CHANGES

A letter of congratulation "on the complimentary report which our district engineer, J. C. Oliver, has recently made on your water supply" has been received by Mayor C. J. Paddock from V. M. Ehlers, director of the bureau of sanitary engineering, State Department of Health, at Austin.

Mr. Ehlers states that with the exception of covering the reservoir all recommendations made by the department have been put into effect. This includes sealing with mortar the large opening into one of the production units, raising of the reservoir, raising of manhole on the underground reservoir three inches, with all openings sealed and the air vent turned down and screened, and the licensing of operator. "Please be assured that we appreciate your cooperation and interest and we feel that you have already made a very excellent record of accomplishment," Mr. Ehlers concluded.

EXPLOSION IS UNSOLVED MYSTERY

An explosion which occurred near the city, probably in Hereford State Park, Sunday night, like a series of blasts near Amarillo recently, remained an unsolved mystery. The only explanation advanced was that some one had shot off a dynamite cap in fun.

WALK BRADLY RE-NAMED TO T-ANCHOR ROUND-UP EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE

C. R. (Cecl) Walker of Hereford was re-elected president of the old-time cowpunchers round-up on the T-Anchor Range last Thursday, and J. Walk Bradley of Hereford was re-named a member of the organization's executive committee. All officers were re-elected, including J. D. Christian, Claude, vice-president; Judge L. Gough, Amarillo, secretary-treasurer, and Tom Dowlin, Canyon, and John Isaacs, Canadian, members of the executive committee.

The old-timers met Wednesday night and all day Thursday in a great reunion at Wragge Park. They swapped yarns, made speeches, were entertained with music and ate picnic lunches. "Rat" Jowell was one of the speakers. They paid tribute to the 17 members of their group who died during the past year, including W. D. Kellehor of Hereford.

Between 200 and 300 people, including the old-time T-Anchor punchers, members of their families and their children's families enjoyed the occasion. "Our ranks are thinning fast," one of the members stated. "You know most of us are getting up around and beyond 70." They worked on the famous T-Anchor in the seventies, eighties and nineties.

HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS GET BOOKS TOMORROW; OTHERS MEET MONDAY

All schools in Deaf Smith county will open for their 1936-37 terms Monday. Hereford High School students are to get the jump on the others by completing registration and receiving books by tomorrow.

Central and rural schools will begin operations Monday. The rural schools, however, will call a halt Tuesday while teachers gather at the county superintendent's office for the purpose of straightening out problems and making definite plans for the year. Study will be resumed Wednesday.

To Issue Books Friday. The issuance of books in high school will start at 8 o'clock tomorrow morning. High school teachers will hold their first meeting at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon, and will be ready to start regular instruction Monday. Football practice, which has been going on this week, will be reduced to the regular afternoon practice each day.

Seventeen credits are required for high school graduation. Students may take subjects only one year below their regular classification for credits. A new course is being offered eighth graders. It is a course in general mathematics, designed to bridge the gap between seventh grade arithmetic and Algebra.

Central School Remodeled

Students who attend Central school will find a completely remodeled building awaiting them. The new east wing will be ready for use at the start of the year, but additional work is required on the west wing before it can be used. The greater improvements in the old portion of the building include refinished desks, hardwood floors, lighter walls and halls, and increased locker facilities.

The number of rural schools to be in operation is still indefinite. County Judge Mal Stewart, saying that trustees at Dean had not reached a definite decision. Either 13 or 14 rural schools will be in operation, including Messinger, Summerfield, Walcott, Progressive, Dawn, Wyche, Ward, Westway, Daniel, Fairview, Ford, Helseman and Hippus.

Contour Work In County Praised

Dewey Reed and J. K. Edwards of the regional soil conservation offices in Amarillo, Friday inspected work being done in Deaf Smith county by the special erosion district and under the supervision of Assistant County Agent C. E. Marcum.

"The amount of contour work being done in the county is surprising," Mr. Reed, former Deaf Smith county agent, remarked. "We are well pleased with it." He said that about twice as much work had been done here as compared with other erosion districts. County agent files indicate that about 240,000 acres in the county have been contoured, but some of the lines have not been maintained.

Mr. Reed stressed encouraging farmers to seed wheat on the contours, pointing to the advantages that have become evident because of the practice. The group also visited several contoured pastures and noted excellent results. All these pastures are well worth inspection by anyone interested in preparing their pastures in this manner, Mr. Reed stated.

TEXAS HISTORY STARTED NOT 100 YEARS AGO, BUT 400

As Texas celebrates her Centennial, we are apt to accept the notion that history began in Texas just 100 years ago. That conception is far from the actual truth. Spanish historians tell us that the first white man came to Texas not 100 years ago, but 400 years ago.

When Texas was a Republic, the live stock industry of this country was already ancient, it is pointed out by Arthur Ikin, British consul to Texas in 1841. Ikin wrote a "Guide to Emigrants" which he had published in London for the purpose of inducing English colonists to come to the new country and in which he discussed practically every aspect of the Texas of that time. A copy of this rare little book is in the Texas Collection of the University of Texas Library.

The raising of stock has been upwards of a century the staple and favorite occupation of the Texian settler, and though herds of horned cattle are so numerous as they were in the war, many of the breeds are still covered with a "bleed" Ikin wrote. "The settler is not without a horse; and more than one hundred has been known to be raised in a year, the produce of a single year.

The advantages and inducements which Texas presents to the settler are certainly very conspicuous.

In the first place, the amount of capital to be invested is small, stock may be bought of the local trader, in western Texas at less than $5 a head per head. They scarcely demand any care or expenditure than that of the prairie; no preparation of hay or fodder being required for the winter, nor further than that afforded by the prairie.

The milch cows alone sometimes give a little corn upon them domestic. The rest in good condition all the round on the pasture of the prairie, and in early summer become very fat. A couple of men are thus sufficient to raise a herd of 1,000.

The open prairie land is the object of the grazer, if not too far removed from water; and such land is much cheaper than that running immediately on the banks of the streams.

The increase of stock is very great. It is usually estimated that 100 cows and calves, purchased for 1,000 dollars, will in ten years have increased, allowing for every casualty, 80-fold, thus numbering 8,000, worth, at the same price, $8,000 dollars. They may, however, as before observed, be often bought at only half the cost here calculated, from the Mexicans in the western frontier, and sold at the increased price among the settlements.

There is in Texas not only a great and increasing home consumption of beef, but a profitable trade in cattle already opened with New Orleans and other southern markets across the Sabine; independently of which, the West Indian islands present a market within a few days' sail, which must soon be rendered available, for from no other quarter can they be so cheaply and readily supplied, and the Texans will in return import large quantities of coffee, which is their common beverage. Salt, for curing, is to be obtained everywhere near the coast; and the hides, and horns, and tallow shipped to Europe will alone pay more than the cost of the beast.

The rearing of horses and mules is also a favorite and profitable pursuit, and presents equal prospects of a large export trade.

"Sheep in the upper country do very well, indeed, but require folding, not being so well able to protect themselves from the wolves and other beasts of prey, as are the horned cattle.

"Perhaps no kind of live stock yields so great a profit to the planter as the hog, which, in large numbers, is always found about his farm, and whose flesh constitutes his favorite food.

"This animal is said to multiply fifty fold in a single twelvemonth. He finds in the woods, at the fall of the year, mast of excellent quality, sufficient to fatten him; and at no season requires more corn than will induce him to return to the homestead.

"Poultry lay and breed throughout the year, within which period the progeny from a single hen (her chicks having produced the same season) has been known to exceed 100.

"Bees might be rendered valuable sources of profit. There are great numbers of wild swarms among the hills, and the flowery prairies would support myriads. In Mexico, the demand for wax is very extensive.

The modes of husbandry in Texas are of the most simple description. The planter usually prefers the borders of a wood near a stream, on which to open his farm; but the widest prairies, by digging for water—which is everywhere found within 10 to 30 feet of the surface—and by a proper system of fencing, (Note: There are species of thorn well suited to the formation of quick-set hedges.) may be rendered capable of supporting a dense population. At present, they are useful chiefly as ranges for cattle, and it is difficult for the eye, wandering over their vast and somewhat drear expanse, to picture the future scene of smiling plenty, with which their rich soil will in all likelihood be crowned.

"The first object of the farmer, after building a small and temporary log house, is to enclose a sufficient space of the open land adjoining, but the erection of a rail fence, piled up in a zigzag form, so as to dispense with posts as fastenings. He then proceeds to break up the land with a light plough, which is usually drawn by oxen. A yoke of large oxen, broken, is worth thirty to sixty dollars; a horse for general agricultural purposes, about twenty dollars. The first ploughing, or breaking-up of the sward, is of course more difficult than after the processes of tillage, which, by the loose, friable nature of the soil, are rendered very easy. The Texian farmers generally content themselves with one ploughing previously to planting. Manuring is altogether dispensed with. The seed time for maize, cotton, and most other crops, is in February and March. As a general rule, the earlier the better. A few hoeings, to destroy weeds, to thin, and to earth up the young plants, is all that is required on the part of the farmer to bring them to perfection. The heavy dews are very beneficial; and a drought sufficiently long, materially to injure the crops, rarely occurs.

"In the month of June, the first crop of Indian corn is cut. Where there is a second, it seldom ripens before the latter part of November.

"In Texas, there is scarcely an acre of open land unfit for the plough; that is not well adapted to grazing.

"The long dry grass of the prairies is twice a year (summer and winter) set on fire; after which, the first rains which fall renew the face of the earth with the richest verdure."

RIGHT KIND OF FOOD IMPORTANT TO HEALTH

That vigorous good health depends not alone upon freedom from disease, but upon the proper kinds and amounts of foods eaten is stressed in a statement from Dr. John W. Brown, state health officer.

"The human body," he said, "may be compared to a steam engine burning fuel for the steam, which furnishes power. The food we eat is fuel and when digested and absorbed gives the energy necessary to live and go about our daily activities.

"In considering the proper amount of food for our individual needs, we should take into consideration the kind of work our body will be called upon to perform during the days. When more food is taken into the body than is needed to carry on its activities, extra work is thrown on the organs that carry off the waste. This is especially true of the kidneys, and often results in serious after effects.

"The growing child will need more tissue building food than older people, but must also have the foods which supply heat and energy, and minerals to regulate the body. The foods which contain vitamins, such as fruits, vegetables and milk, are necessary to old and young alike.

"The various kinds of foods needed by the body are: Tissue-building foods, meat, fish, milk, beans and nuts. Energy and heat giving foods, bread and cereals, fats and all sweets. Foods containing minerals, vegetables, fruits and whole wheat. Foods rich in vitamins, milk, vegetables and fruits.

"An important thing to remember in our food problem is the fact that it is not necessary to eat until we feel 'filled up.' Take plenty of time eating and do not follow food fads or eat certain things because they agree with some friend who has recommended them to you. If your food does not agree with you, go to your physician and let him find out what is causing the trouble."

OUR CENTENNIAL LETTER

The letters of Mrs. G. M. Hudson are being printed in series in this Brand because of the interesting highlights they give on the Texas Centennial Exposition at Dallas.

Texas Centennial Exposition, Dear Mid: Dallas

You'd never dream that a scientific exhibit could be so extremely interesting and instructive as the du Pont Company has made its display. The building is air-cooled and really is conducive to remaining and absorbing the information offered. They give a series of five successive five-minute talks and demonstrations. The wonderful part of it is that only a generation or so ago, men considered many of these chemical achievements impossible. The du Pont Company buys wood pulp, molasses, cotton, corn products, turpentine and rosin from the farmers and turns them into explosives, seed disinfectants, fertilizers, termite controls, and paints.

Mid, you'd be surprised what chemistry can make out of ordinary black coal. It makes plastics; most of our colored dress buttons started their days in a coal mine. That's where the synthetic wax came from to make the tall candles on your buffet. Then there are the aromatic bases that wind up as perfumes, cosmetics and aqua yelva. Rubber products are turned into bathing caps and hot water bottles, and you know, of course, tar dyes.

From ordinary salt du Pont has made the first practical man-made rubber, Duprene, and sodium and metal cyanide for use in safety razors and pliers.

Molasses turns into alcohol for use in shaving cream and into lactic acid for use in tanning leather and correcting digestive disturbances in babies. From miscellaneous ores come the ceramic colors that are responsible for much of our pretty modern dishes and glassware. Then there are refrigerators.

Nancy and Junior were amazed to learn that the dry colors used in linoleum and funny papers come from sulphur. Most peroxides owe their bleached appearance to sulphur.

From various vegetable oils come ergosterol and the red drene shampoo. Mid, did you know that your new washable purse is made from turpentine? It is and so is your hair brush and comb, as well as the binding of your college year-book. Turpentine is turned into synthetic camphor for making plastics and pyroxylin coated fabrics, such as fabrikoid sandals and washable table cloths. It is also used in the manufacture of Duco enamel and plastacelle for shoe heels, lamp shades and tooth-brushes.

Chemistry weaves its magic spell and turns cotton and wood into rayon, cellophane and cellophane velvet for your evening gown. It also makes X-ray film, smokeless powder, raincoats and duco cement.

Mid, the dime fee for a ride about the exposition grounds in one of the sight-seeing busses gives you a chance to see the outstanding buildings and open-air exhibits from a distance that allows for better appreciation of their architectural beauty.

The most unusual buildings are the Old Mill, exhibiting the progressive methods used by modern millers, and the mammoth cash register. In the space at the top of the machine where the normal

SAVES ALL ABOARD FOR SAN FRANCISCO

It's a mammoth entertainment! In "San Francisco" you will see Clark Gable as Blackie Norton, the roughest, toughest dive owner on the old Barbary Coast when that colorful street was the toughest drag from Singapore to Paris and back!

You'll see lovely Jeanette McDonald as Mary Blake, the modest small town girl who became an opera star and then went into Blackie's Paradise Dance Hall and sang to the deliriums of that place, because she loved her man. And you'll hear Miss McDonald singing as she never sang before, beautiful operatic arias, ragtime tunes—even the most beautiful religious hymns.

You'll see Spencer Tracy in the most amazing roll of his career, as a priest conducting a little mission in the world's wickedest street! And you'll see the most thrilling and breath-taking disaster scenes ever filmed before in this new production.

Don't miss the exciting trip to the STAR Theatre to see "SAN FRANCISCO," Sunday and Monday, September 13-14.

STATE AID FOR PUBLIC LIBRARIES

When the State Democratic convention convenes in Fort Worth next Tuesday, it will be presented with a resolution having a strong bearing on the future of education in the State of Texas. The Brand heartily endorses the resolution and urges its adoption.

The resolution has to do with State aid for public libraries. Its contents are, in effect: "The people have found during the period of depression that public library service is indispensable, but that it does not receive adequate support from State or community. We call upon the Legislature of the State of Texas to make provision for this integral part of the people's education."

The free public library is definitely recognized today as a necessary educational agency. The part it plays in the improvement of the public mind and use of leisure cannot be overemphasized. Yet Texas has only 60 tax supported libraries. It has 3,000,000 rural people with no library facilities. It ranks 39th among the states in public libraries. With state aid, these people may receive this educational opportunity, which would be equalized for rural and urban people. It would enable public officials to provide library service for their constituents just as they have provided roads and schools.

What is the importance of our public library? During the depression, the use of books in Texas libraries increased 400 per cent, but at the same time library budgets decreased. Books have become obsolete and worn, and there have been little funds with which to replace them.

The value of a public library may be illustrated here in Hereford perhaps better than any other place, because Hereford has an outstanding library, a librarian whose services are almost unequalled because of her interest in better reading, in books and in keeping her clients supplied with the latest and best the library can afford. The Deaf Smith county library last year received a rating of B-High, being excelled in small library classification in the State only by those at Cleburne and Wichita Falls. That rating, in the opinion of Miss Lillie Hostetler, librarian, will be lowered this year, not because of a decrease in interest or management, but purely because of a decrease in funds with which to carry on the work.

Last year 53,000 books were circulated through the local library. The figure this year has been set at 48,000, the decrease being due to a decrease in available volumes. Most encouraging is the increase in reading of non-fiction, with its greater stimulus upon the minds of the people of this area. In the six years of the county library, non-fiction reading has increased from 11 per cent of the total number of books circulated to 28 per cent, and all the time the number of books circulated has been increasing.

This has been accomplished by the Deaf Smith county library with the support of local funds. Think of the greater advantages it could offer with assistance of the State of Texas! The public libraries have become recognized as the greatest asset to school activities, for few or no school libraries are sufficient to handle the needs of the students. The public libraries have opened avenues of adventure and study that could not have been provided elsewhere, consuming time that probably would have been diverted to cheap literature and degrading magazines had not the public libraries provided better reading sources.

The public library is one of the community's greatest assets, ranking with its churches and schools and civic and social organizations. Millions have been spent on these, yet the public libraries have been woefully neglected. It is time for Texas to act in behalf of its libraries. This resolution to be presented to the State Democratic convention opens the way. The Brand urges its adoption.

ON THE PRESIDENTIAL BANKING SITUATION

The annual report of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation shows that over 99 per cent of the 31,108 depositors in 36 insured banks which closed were paid off in full; it shows that in the 60 insured banks closed since the FDIC went into effect on January 1, 1934, less than one-half of one per cent of the depositors were not fully protected, because their several deposits exceeded the $5,000 statutory limit; it shows that the 66,035 deposits were paid in full by the FDIC within 10 days after the banks had closed.

The FDIC was one of President Roosevelt's many modern steps in Government protection of its people. Governor Alf Landon, on September 6, 1933, said to the American Bankers Association: "There is no question in my mind but that the guaranty on bank deposits is a greater blow to the ultimate welfare of the American people than the wildest inflation of the currency could possibly be."

FDIC not only reimbursed depositors in insured banks, but it operated since its beginning at a net profit of $6,600,000, without touching its insurance assessments of $28,000,000 annually. And under its operation, bank deposits have reached the highest level in history. Obviously, no comment is necessary.

TO MEXICO CITY IN COMFORT

Soon thousands of visitors to Mexico City will traverse the new Pan-American highway, entering Mexico at Laredo. Every comfort is being provided in the manner of tourist camps, food, filling stations and a safe highway. The route is advertised as being safe for a 15-year-old girl to make the trip alone. Perhaps so, but we certainly wouldn't advise it.

EMERGENCY OPERATION FOR BILLY ROBERSON

Billy Roberson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Roberson, underwent an emergency operation last Tuesday night at 11:30 o'clock. Attendees at the Deaf Smith county hospital reported his condition as satisfactory. The operation was for appendicitis.

Undergoes Major Operation.

Word was received Tuesday by relatives that Mrs. Dean Rice, the former Imogene Wilson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Wilson, of this city, had undergone a major abdominal operation. The report gave her condition as serious. Mr. and Mrs. Rice live at Galveston.

A LONG TIME AGO IN HEREFORD

(From The Hereford Brand, September 1, 1905.)

A long list of premiums to be given as prizes in the animal and farm produce show the following Saturday was headed by $10 for best herd bull and four cows.

Castro county commissioners had named the Western National Bank as depository on their bid of 3 per cent on daily balance.

Oil lamps and candles had been stored in the various attics. Tucker and Jacobsen had completed installation of a new electric light plant, most of the business houses and many residences were using electric lights, and Hereford was numbered among the very few Panhandle cities then using electricity.

The Santa Fe survey from Weatherford to Texico had been completed, and there was speculation as to whether the company would build from Weather or Coleman or San Angelo.

Judging by cards of thanks in the Brand, the editor was being well fed by subscribers who brought in samples of fruits, vegetables, etc.

The biggest headline in the paper told of three jurors who had been cured of cholera morbus with one small bottle of a wonderful colic remedy.

J. B. Harlam had bought a section of land near Dimmitt for $6 per acre.

Newt Reeves and Shelly Bros. each had shipped cars of horses to Oklahoma.

(From The Hereford Brand, September 3, 1915.)

The recently formed Old Settlers Association had enjoyed a splendid picnic and basket dinner at the court house the preceding Wednesday.

A gentleman from Indiana was rowing up and down the beautiful Tierra Blanca, and was vastly surprised when a big, fine bass jumped clear of the water and landed in the boat.

Master Lester Boardman was publicly declared the champion peach raiser of this vicinity.

A herd of 147 mixed cattle sold in Plainview for $11,000. The Jewells sold to Ray Barber one bull for $800. Other Panhandle sales included 600 head of 2-year-olds in Donley county at $65 around.

O. M. Shore, agent, had sold a new Maxwell to Rolla Tuff.

A two-room house was offered for sale at $75. A corner lot two blocks from court house, 100 by 140 feet was offered at $75, and P. O. Box 352 wanted a second hand top buggy.

"It is easier to work than it is to think. That is why there has always been a premium on brains. Men invent machinery to do, but nobody has ever invented a machine to PLAN," remarked the Publishers' Auxiliary.

Married, Thursday, August 26, at the Methodist parsonage in Amarillo, Mr. C. A. Skelton and Miss Gladys Johnston, both of Hereford. The newlyweds were to make their home in Portales, New Mexico, where the groom was manager of the Kemp Lumber Co. yard.

DOLORES COSTELLO BARRYMORE RETURNS

Dolores Costello Barrymore makes her return to the screen after four years absence, sharing stellar honors with Freddie Bartholomew in Selznick International's "Little Lord Fauntleroy" beginning Sunday at the Star and continuing through Monday.

The star, who has added her recently divorced husband's name to her own, plays "Dearest," the beautiful mother of Ceddie Errol, the little American boy who becomes Lord Fauntleroy in this dramatization of the world famous Frances Hodgson Burnett story which marks the first independent production of David O. Selznick.

The familiar story which Hugh Walpole adapted to the screen, is laid in America and England of 1885 and depicts the softening influence of Fauntleroy's devotion upon his trisolic old grandfather, the Earl of Dorincourt.

When the death of the Earl's third son makes Ceddie his heir, the Earl takes the boy into Dorincourt Castle, but refuses to recognize Dearest, the penniless American girl whom his son had married against his wishes. Just when the transformation of the old Earl is complete, his new found happiness is threatened by the appearance of a woman who claims he son, an unpleasant brat, is the rightful heir. This situation has the effect of bringing the old Earl and Dearest together and the story ends happily with Ceddie's right to the title of Little Lord Fauntleroy established.

Don't fail to see this, one of the most beautiful love stories ever told. It comes to the Star for two days, beginning Sunday.

L. A. Ray and family left Wednesday for California, where they expect to make their home.

COLON IRRIGATION

The absorption of toxins from sluggish intestines is the cause of a large percentage of all disorders. Colds, influenza, rheumatism and headaches are the most common ailments; mucous colitis, stomach ulcers, Bright's disease and sugar diabetes are the chronic disorders that arise from the absorption of toxins into the blood stream.

Colon Irrigation is one of the most scientific methods of freeing the system of waste and toxins, that accumulate over a period of time.

We have one of the most modern Colon Irrigation units in the South, and we have been rendering this service for the past four years. Protect your HEALTH. Investigate this service. Dr. R. E. Perkins, 710 North Main St., phone 246.

MISS SWISHER JOINS AMARILLO ACADEMY

Miss Mattie Mae Swisher, prominent instructor of music in Hereford, has been added to the faculty of the Academy of Music and Arts in Amarillo.

Hereford will not only lose one of its most popular music teachers at Miss Swisher's departure, but religious and social circles will also be among the first to feel her absence. She was vitally interested in the musical and social life of local young people, and her influence has been a guiding factor toward the establishment of various study groups among them. She has been connected with musical societies throughout the state for many years, and her work in them has received widespread acclaim. At present she is state treasurer of the Texas Federation of Music Clubs.

Miss Swisher has been visiting with her relatives in Grafton, West Virginia, this summer. She will take up her work as instructor of voice in the Academy on September 8.

Sixty riders headed by the Christian Troupe of seven Italian equestrians will be seen along with Al G. Barnes' 40 dancing horses and 40 dancing girls. The Waiters troupe of aerialists, who perform high in the dome of the big top will thrill. Sixty acrobats and 60 clowns will be part of the super-program.

For more than 25 years this circus has excelled in trained wild animals. More than a score of trainers will be seen, among whom will be Bert Nelson, in America fresh from foreign triumphs. He presents a group of 40 lions and tigers in a display of courage and patience.

Tillie, fan-dancing elephant, has gone highhat with her ostrich plumed crown, and will have the women ogling her jealously. Mary Cornell has a prominent place in Tillie's howdah.

The "Fiesta of the Rio Grande," gorgeous processional with the charm and romance of old Spain, a glorious fairyland, will open the circus. It is the crowning spectacle in the long career of Al G. Barnes. One thousand men and women, horses and animals participate. Companies of trained singers, orchestras of vast size, grand organs, cymbals and trumpets will be heard. Wardrobes alone cost $70,000.

Performances will be given at 2 and 8 p. m. The doors will open at 1 and 7 p. m. to permit an inspection of the zoological collection or to enjoy a concert of popular and operatic music by Prof. Woeckner's military band.

Mrs. Ardelle S. George received an offer this week from Theophilus Fitz, manager of the Centennial Opera Co., to join his company for a three months tour giving excerpts from the opera "Tejas." Mrs. George was called to San Antonio last fall to confer with Mr. Fitz, and at that time agreed to sing the contralto role when the opera was produced, but because of so much delay in raising funds with which to produce the opera, Mrs. George had already made arrangements for other work for the winter months and feels it is impossible to accept the offer.

WORK ON WHEAT FORMS IS DELAYED BY CHANGE

The entire office force at the county agent's office has been working day and night in an effort to get wheat compliance forms in condition to be sent to Washington for payment, since it was announced that payments under the old Agricultural Adjustment Administration would be made, Agent Alex Bateman said Monday.

However, a change in the ruling halted work this week until additional information is received. The work was speeded in order to get them in early for quicker payment. It is believed now that it will be only a short time until they are ready to go to Washington.

Mrs. Grace Guthrie and son, Keith, were in Sanford Saturday. Keith teaches in the Sanford public schools.

CAUGHT IN THE WILD

The policeman had started up stream with the outfit. He walked across the now shallow ford without getting a drop of water over the tops of his heavily greased shoe-packs. Garth swung Lillith on his shoulder like a sack of meal and splashed after Dillon. At the far bank Dillon stopped to put on a pair of snowshoes. Garth lowered the girl upon a bare rock, and ran down the left bank to swing aboard the cabin plane. With him he took the blankets. When he came ashore he had on dry socks and moccasins.

He frowned at Lillith. She was flopping awkwardly along on snowshoes behind the policeman. "Take off those webs and get into the cabin," he ordered. "I will not," she refused. "I'm going with you. I came to see that beast arrested." "Don't be a fool. We'll be there and back before you're more than got started. There's no time to wait for you. Blizzard may swoop down any minute." He had slipped on the third pair of snowshoes. He took his rifle from Dillon and started off as guide. The constable followed at the same rapid gait. He was an experienced snowshoe runner. Lillith tried to imitate their deft swinging stride with the webs. She tripped and plunged face-down into a drift. Instead of turning back at the girl's cry of appeal, Garth quickened his stride to a run. A severe blizzard would thicken the skim ice and close the water lane out from the stream mouth. That would mean a wait until the stream ran dry with the freeze-up of the glacier.

Above the site of his old camp Garth halted and signed for his companion to listen. Down through the snowy stillness came a clear ring of metal on metal.

"They're drilling below the frost-line to blast a shaft," he said. "Richer gravel on bedrock, at the foot of the placer trough."

Dillon forged into the lead. "You'll trail me now, sir." Without any protest, Garth fell in behind. The Law was now in command. A few strides brought them to the dyke of igneous rock that walled the lower end of the placer trough. From behind a stunted spruce they peered across the treeless width of rock to where a large fire was flaming at the edge of the matter timberline scrub.

Over the fire hung three big iron kettles. Beside it stood a small cradle for rocking gravel. But there was no one working the rocker, nor was there anyone in sight. Even the ring of sledge on drill in the newly dug pit, just beyond the fire, had ceased.

"Not so good," Garth murmured. "I'm not so sure it's a surprise."

"You'll stay here, sir."

"No." Constable Dillon spoke with cool logic: "If it's a surprise, I need no assistance. If he is warned and prepared to resist, better for you to support me from cover."

"Well—perhaps." "The only way, sir. You stood responsible for bringing the young lady."

"Very well, Dillon," he agreed. "Wait till I take position."

He shifted to the left side of the stunted spruce and crouched down where he could peer between the lower branches. At the other side, the constable stood up and stepped out into the open. Hardly was he clear of cover when a harsh shout came from the scrub beside the fire: "Halt! Throw up your hands!" Constable Dillon paused. But he did not put up his hands. The Northwest police do not surrender. Dillon merely swung the barrel of his carbine backward under his arm, and made quiet reply.

"I have here a warrant for the arrest of Vivian Huxby for theft and assault to murder. Any persons who interfere with his arrest will make themselves liable." "Bah, you cock-capped red jay, you can't bluff me," Huxby replied. "You're covered. Move and you get a bullet through you. Drop that gun and shove up your hands!"

A sideward jumping down-throw would have put the constable back in cover. But he was a member of the Northwest Mounted Police. Retreat could no more be considered by him than surrender. Also, he had no authority to shoot his man. The warrant called only for the arrest of the accused. He had to do his duty at whatever risk.

"You will be well advised not to resist," he said. With that he raised his right snowshoe and slid it with a low crossing-drift in a forward step. As he bent forward to bring up the other web, a rifle roared in the dense shrub.

Garth fired into the faint haze-puff of smokeless powder. Back

He swung the Body of the Constable Across His Shoulders. A bullet that clipped a branch at his left elbow. He shifted sideways towards the tree trunk, and rose to peer through a higher opening. A slight movement of a spruce spray in the scrub brought his rifle to his shoulder.

Another twitch of that spruce twig. His finger tightened on the trigger. Crash! He hurled down on his right side. The first thought that flashed into his mind was that his rifle had burst. His right arm had gone numb as if broken by the shock.

Luckily, he did not at once try to spring up. As he paused to feel at the numb arm with his left hand, the bark flew from a limb close over his head. The scar of white wood showed that the bullet had been fired from off to his left.

He flattened down and crawled into the snowless hollow alongside the tree trunk. In the hollow lay his rifle. It had not burst. But that was no consolation. The first shot from off to the left had struck square against the side of the breech and smashed the magazine.

One look at the weapon showed that it was ruined. He wormed past it to the far side of the tree trunk. During all the many seconds that had passed since the firing of the first shot, he had heard no call nor any sound whatever from Constable Dillon. He peered out under the low dropped spruce boughs on that side of the tree.

As he expected, the worst had happened. The policeman lay on his back. He had been shot through the heart. One glance told Garth the fact that his companion was beyond all aid.

He looked for the constable's carbine. It was nowhere in sight. The low drift behind which Dillon had fallen gave Garth enough cover to crawl-out beside the body. But the carbine was not under its owner.

Garth pulled the snowshoes from the feet of the dead man. On the heel of one web he perched the constable's cap. He reached out sideways and lifted the cap so that it peered above the top of the drift. The cap flipped back off the snowshoe, pierced through by a bullet from the scrub behind the fire.

At the roar of the shot, Garth bobbed up three feet to the left to look for the missing carbine. It lay half buried in the snow, a long ten feet away. When shot, Dillon must have flung out his hands as he pitched over backwards.

Hawley had proved he could shoot a rifle with deadly accuracy, and his men were nearly as expert. To make a dash for the carbine would be equivalent to committing suicide. To lie quiet would give the killers time to realize there was no rifle waiting to meet their attack. The fourth man might already be circling to creep in from the rear.

With his knife Garth slashed out the webs of Dillon's snowshoes. Then, worming his way backwards he started to drag the body down-slope. The tree put him under cover from the two killers near the fire. A drift enabled him to crawl to another tree without being seen by the man off to the left.

A sideward shift brought him to the shallow hamlet of the frozen spring rill. He swung the Just figure how far you go between gas-station stops... with your present gasoline and with the new Phillips 66 Poly Gas! That will tell you why so many more miles at rock-bottom cost.

Certainly there's a reason. No other gasoline, not a single one, is so accurately matched to the constant changes in your climate. In September or April, every day in the year, Phillips 66 Poly Gas is 100% custom-tailored to the weather at the very place in which you are driving.

Every gallon is, in addition, enriched with extra energy units by the patented POLYMERIZATION process. So less gas does more. This not only helps mileage, but steps up the power-output of your motor.

You'll notice that the extra power saves shifting in a line of crawling traffic. You will feel the fast, smooth, flexible response every time your toe says "go" to the engine. Knock and noise are so reduced that the motor is as easy on the ears as this improved gasoline is easy on the pocketbook.

For greater driving economy and pleasure, make your car an outstanding performer... by filling up with Phillips 66 Poly Gas... the stand-out gasoline that costs nothing extra.

body of the constable across his shoulders, stepped into his snowshoes and ran aslant down-slope. Every few seconds that passed without the roar of a rifle behind him meant a widened margin of safety.

Whatever the cause of their delay, he had gained a long start before more yells told him they had cut his trail. At the outburst, Garth eased off a little on his desperate speed.

His fast mashing had already covered three-fourths of the distance to the stream. It was now a simple manner of running on to increase his handicap over the killers. Only a little time would be needed to cast free the cabin plane. As she drifted out in the current, the cross-wind would swing her around. Then a quick run out the water lane and the take-off—
