Wallace Lauds AAA, Flays Industry In Amarillo Talk

AGRICULTURE SECRETARY FIGHTS FOR LIFE OF CONTROL PROGRAM

A determined fight to save the Agricultural Adjustment Act is being waged by Henry A. Wallace, as an alternative he suggests doing way with the tariff. The Secretary of Agriculture spoke to at least 5,000 farm men and women in the city auditorium Monday afternoon.

Wallace is touring the entire Southwest in his battle for the very life of AAA. The former farm magazine editor and farmer himself made a passionate talk, based purely on reasoning and it found favor with farmers and stockmen who heard it.

"Let's tell industry," he urged, "that we will do away with processing taxes and they can do away with the tariff on imports. The ultimate result will be the same. The benefit payment is to agriculture what the tariff protection is to the manufacturer."

An Iowa citizen, Wallace showed he was also a citizen of the Panhandle and surrounding area. He discussed the purely Panhandle problems, stressing the soil erosion program. Eventually, he said, control of agriculture will be built around soil conservation programs.

Immediate needs of this area in battling wind erosion he discussed, referring to recently designated areas for control projects, including the one authorized for Deaf Smith in Washington Saturday.

Wallace described the AAA as an attempt to give agriculture a square deal and equal opportunity with industry, pointing out that it was the first planned program ever inaugurated for the benefit of the farmer and stockman.

"We must," he said, "realize how much times have changed and in what ways, then attempt to adjust ourselves to those changes. No longer is it possible, since the frontiers are gone, for farmers to move further west and get new and cheaper land. No longer," he added, "is the demand for farm products greater than the supply."

Therefore it is up to agriculture to adjust its production to the demand and not produce more than can be used. Since the war the United States is a creditor instead of a debtor nation and has consequently lost its exporting power. It has lost exporting also because other nations are producing more and more agricultural commodities.

Flying critics of AAA, the secretary said, "There is a lot of squalling, and it sounds like a stuck pig, over what is termed centralization of power by the administration in putting the farm program into effect. But this same power of centralization was used to build up industry and banking."

He brought out the crop insurance features of AAA which resulted from basing benefit payment on past production rather than current. "There would not have been any benefit payments to wheat growers in the Panhandle had the allotment been based on current production. By controlling production this insurance can be made a permanent thing and should be."

"It is up to us to accept the fact that it will be better for ourselves and all agriculture to go down the line keeping 30 or 40 million acres out of cultivation. As a matter of fact, much of the land must be returned to grass."

Frequent reference to the wind erosion in the Panhandle were made with the suggestion that agriculture in this area will suffer serious consequences unless this destructive menace is brought under control. Grass, cover crops and proper tillage methods are the answer.

"We have not yet come to the property our rich soil entitles us to—it is a process of working out our economic machinery. We

The boy, Jimmy L., was the biggest, weighing five pounds and ten ounces. The girls, Joan and Jaqueline, weighed five and one-half pounds each. They were born at Mrs. A. D. Godwin's private hospital where they and the mother are getting along fine.

Continue to Offer Free Erosion Seed

Seed with which to plant strip crops in the fight on erosion are just about gone, according to the word from the county agent's office. But there is still some left and farmers are urged to call for it.

There are kafir, barn and maize. It does not cost anything, the farmer signing a promise to plant it as cover crop. Farmers can obtain the seed by making application at the county agent's office. They are urged to do so as the offer will be closed soon.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Jennings were visiting in Littlefield and Lubbock the first of the week.

In the AAA consider county control of production a means of making the most significant contribution of this age."

Men and women from the whole Panhandle, from Oklahoma, New Mexico, Colorado and Kansas heard the secretary propose equal rules for agriculture and industry alike as the way to economic security for those who wrest their livelihood from the soil. Numbers were from Deaf Smith county.

Anna Ruth New Is Winner In Beauty Contest At Show

Anna Ruth New was chosen "Miss Hereford" by a committee of out-of-town judges at the Star Theatre last Friday night. Thirty-two girls competed in the two-day contest. The audience picked 15 of the contestants on Thursday night.

All of the girls appeared Friday evening in evening dress, after which the favored 15 appeared in bathing suits. The judges picked six from the 15 and then ranked the six in order, Miss New being the winner.

Second was Alamae Thomson; third, Ann Ainsmith; fourth, Evelyn Van Sweringen; fifth, Marguerite Key; sixth, Frances Borden.

Miss Hereford will be awarded a trip to Roswell, leaving August 13 and staying three days. She will compete there with girls from other cities of the area for the title, "Queen of the Southwest."

On the Roswell trip the girls will go to Carlsbad Caverns, into the mountains and attend several dinners and dances given in their honor. The winner will be given a free trip to Hollywood with all expenses paid, where Paramount will give her a screen test. In addition there will be several side trips and a number of social events in her honor.

Merchants of the city sponsored the girls in the contest. Charley Hardwick, manager of the Star, expressed his gratitude to both the girls and the cooperating business houses for making the contest a success.

AAA Will Offer New Contracts To US Farmers

FACTS TO COVER PERIOD OF FOUR YEARS; READY SOON

Present crop control contracts of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration will expire with the 1935 crop year. It has been announced definitely there will be new contracts.

New wheat contracts have not been fully prepared but will be within the next few weeks. Farmers will sign up for four years on the new agreements, from 1930 through 1939.

Wheat reduction for next year has already been set at 15 per cent. This year it was 10 per cent. It was 15 per cent for the first year of the contracts.

Stricter regulations as to compliance will be enforced, officials say. Overplanting will not be tolerated, such action by farmers being construed as violation of the contract. New contract signers may execute contracts, using a two-year base period to determine acreage, but their allotment payments will be based on a three-year average. The allotment will still be based upon domestic consumption, 54 per cent of the basic production.

Corn, hog, wheat and cotton programs as well as reduction programs in all the other basic commodities will be instituted by the AAA and will be continued until such time as the whole thing is adjudged contrary to the Constitution or approved by the Supreme Court.

Adopt Strict New Waterfowl Rules

New and stringent regulations covering the hunting of ducks were approved last week by the President upon the recommendations of J. N. (Ding) Darling, chief of the Biological Survey. The new rules, Darling says, are designed to save half of this year's increase of ducks.

No live decoys may be used this year and hunting over baited water or land will be prohibited. Shooting will be permitted only between the hours of 7 in the morning and 4 in the afternoon.

Possession of more than one day's bag limit, which was reduced from 12 to 10, will be illegal. Automatic and repeating shotguns will be limited to three-shell capacity. The season here will open November 20 and last until December 19. There will be no state zones, all of Texas being open at the same time and subject to the same regulations.

As was the case last year, hunters will be required to carry the Federal Waterfowl Stamp. These may be obtained at any first or second class post office. The Department of Agriculture gives the following information regarding the stamps:

Where? Stamps may be bought at first and second class post offices and at other points convenient to waterfowl centers.

When? Stamps are on sale on and after July 1 and are not valid after the following June 30.

Validation: Before hunting waterfowl, a hunter must validate his stamp by writing his signature in ink across the face of it.

Any person may purchase stamps singly or in blocks, or in sheets for hunting, for stamp collection, or simply to aid the waterfowl-restriction program.

Application blanks for stamps are obtainable from postmasters, and may be executed by the purchaser or his representative.

It is unlawful to hunt waterfowl without having a validated stamp in possession. Such illegal hunting is punishable by a fine of not more than $500, or by imprisonment for not more than six months, or by fine and imprisonment.

The stamp does not exempt hunters from complying with State laws and Federal regulations. A validated stamp is not transferable during the period of its validity. It must be carried on the person of the hunter while he is

New Law On Erosion To Become Effective In County Tomorrow

CITIZENS MUST VOTE TO USE STATE PROPERTY TAXES IN FIGHT ON BLOWING SOIL; PLAN TO CALL ELECTION HERE AT ONCE

An effective weapon with which to fight wind erosion will be made available to Deaf Smith county tomorrow when the law enacted by the legislature last spring becomes effective. Under the new law the people may create a county-wide erosion district by a favorable vote.

If the district is created, then the commissioners may require owners to give their lands proper attention as to tillage methods and other means they might deem advisable in controlling erosion by wind.

To finance the fight the state, under the bill, will remit to the county all state taxes levied on property for 1935 and 1936. The court may also assess landowners who do not give their land the recommended attention to help defray expense.

County Judge C. W. Humble is in Washington this week, but commissioners indicated that a petition is being prepared for presentation to the court which would require that an election be called.

The law was adopted last spring after judges and commissioners of the Panhandle had urged their legislators to sponsor it. It becomes effective tomorrow, 90 days after adjournment of the legislature.

By the remission of state taxes Deaf Smith county will have almost $40,000 a year to spend in the fight. The commissioners plan to work with the soil erosion service in determining just what steps will be taken to prevent erosion, if the voters see fit to take advantage of the new law.

SCHOOL OPENING DATE HERE TO BE MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 2

Old Fiddlers Will Enter Competition On Next Saturday

Tunes of other days will be the order Saturday afternoon here when old fiddlers will gather for a downtown contest at Third and Main, beginning at 3:30. Old Fiddlers are invited to get in the contest. They may do so by reporting at the stand that will be erected at the place of the contest. They must enter before 3:15. There will be no fee for contestants.

Cash prizes will be given winners. The champion will get $10, and the runner up $7.50. Third place carries a prize of $5.00; fourth, $2.50, and the next five, $1.00 apiece. Merchants of the city are donating the money for prizes and the chamber of commerce is handling the contest.

Rules will be announced by the judges just before the contest starts. They will also specify the number of tunes each fiddler shall play. In addition, these judges will pick the winner, basing selections upon applause by the crowd.

Ralph Smith and his band will play a downtown concert before the contest, playing at three places and winding up at Third and Main, where the contest will be held.

B. H. Hopkins, Mont Baker and Frank Givan have been assigned the job of judging. They will lay down the rules, then pick the winners.

Brings Rain.

Credit for rains in the Panhandle last week was claimed by John T. Sprouse, genial general manager for Rockwell Bros. & Co., who came up from Houston to visit local manager John Olson Saturday and Sunday. Sprouse was in Amarillo Friday and that city received a big downpour. No sooner had he reached Hereford Saturday than the deluge came. He'll be welcomed back.

Parker D. Hanna of Amarillo, district agricultural agent, was in Hereford Tuesday.

hunting waterfowl. It must be exhibited for inspection on request of any Federal or State official authorized to enforce the game laws.

Over An Inch Of Rain Falls Here Saturday

DOWNPOUR NOT GENERAL: LAKES FILLED IN SOME SECTIONS

Enough rain for an appetizer—but one that was beneficial—fell here and in the surrounding area last Saturday afternoon. In Hereford, the total precipitation was in excess on an inch and a half.

The rain was not general. The Jumbo community, long without rain, did not get enough to matter. On the west the fall reached to Westway, where it was light, and did not extend much farther.

It rained all the way to Canyon and beyond east of here, although the fall was perceptibly lighter at Dawn and grew lighter all the way east. To the south it rained harder than in Hereford. Auto travel on 25-Mile Avenue southward was still impossible Sunday.

Over in the northeast part of Deaf Smith county toward Wildorado the rain was extremely hard. Dick, Alfred, for instance, reported three inches at his place. Lakes in that area are full to overflowing as they are between Hereford and Canyon and to the southwest around Dimmitt.

The rain started here shortly after 2 o'clock and kept up with interruptions until 7 o'clock in the evening. Row crops in the rain area as well as grass benefited enormously from the moisture. Farmers say, however, that several times as much rain will be needed to get fields in shape to plant wheat in the fall.

Twenty-one skilled workman and a foreman from the Palo Duro CCC camps have been assigned to duty on the Hereford State Park project in order to speed work to completion. The men are stone masons and carpenters, and it is expected they will continue here until the buildings are finished. Four of the men have been attached to Company 1862 CCC for maintenance while the others are transported to and from Palo Duro each day. Another change in the early morning shift was made the first of the week in order to meet the demand for water for the young trees of the park. Eighteen men, nine of whom are on the tree watering crew and nine on the rock crew, were organized to report for work at six o'clock each morning in order that two crews a day might be used in the operation of machinery. The Red Cross First Aid class which has been organized since July 1, was finished Tuesday when 13 enrollees were graduated. Twenty-three began the class, which consisted of 15 hours work in ten lessons under Lieut. Leslie D. Hancock, Medical Reserve, who was assisted in the instruction by Assistant Leaders Fred C. Clift and Guy C. Roberts.

Competition for district and corps area honors in the baseball field were somewhat muddled Sunday when the home team took the small end of a 11 to 10 score from Company 1828 of Palo Duro. In order to compete for the district championship to be played at Fort Sill, it will be necessary for 1862 to win the two play-off games with 1828. Incentive was added when Capt. Louis D. Cooper showed the men a handsome trophy to be awarded the winning team.

Capt. Louis D. Cooper, sub-district commander of District 'O', paid his last official visit to the Camp Thursday, when he relinquished command of the sub-district to Capt. Wm. Bolton. Capt. Bolton took over under the Lubbock district August 1. Since the organization of Company 1862 in July a year ago, 565 men have been enrolled in its ranks. Of these 397 have received discharges, the majority to accept employment in private life. At the present time the company strength number 168.

Among those who have recently received discharges to accept employment were Wm. C. Goodnough, M. Gallegos and F. S. Olive. W. D. Jackson, E. W. Fletcher and E. L. Thomason were sent to Station Hospital, Fort Sill, Oklahoma, Tuesday for observation and treatment.

Word has been received from individual members of the cadre which left for Lubbock last week that they are working hard preparing their new camp, which will be a state park. According to word received, there has been no enrollments as yet.

ABOUT THE SCHOOL BOOK AMENDMENT

Opposition to the proposed amendment to the Texas Constitution which would have the state provide text books for private and sectarian schools is being voiced by the press of the state. There are numerous reasons given, all good, why it should be defeated.

At the recent state convention of the Order of De Molay a resolution of unanimous opposition was adopted. "We are unalterably opposed," said the resolution, "to the same building housing a school, a church and a seat of government. . . . These books, representative of those being carried to and from the public schools by millions of boys and girls each day, are just as vital symbols of our liberties as the Holy Bible, which is the rule and guide of our faith, or the flag which protects the church, the school and the seats of government."

It is just a step, say critics of the proposal, from furnishing books to furnishing teachers, and another step to provide buildings for private schools. All children are afforded the opportunity of attending public schools and thus be furnished free text books. Why, it is asked, should public school funds be diverted to purchase books for children in these schools when the books are already available to them if they will but attend the public schools?

When a man grows a bale of cotton or a bushel of wheat, harvesting one in the hot July sun and picking the other under a blazing September sky, and carries them to market, he has a right as an American citizen to the same market conditions as any other man, and until somebody can show us a better plan I say let us ride on this train.—Marvin Jones.

Through depression years, industry in the main reduced its volume and largely maintained its prices. Agriculture largely maintained its volume and its prices were greatly reduced. The whole philosophy of the agricultural adjustment program is to apply business principles to agriculture.—Marvin Jones.

By Their Words AND OURS

There has been, we hear, a lot of criticism of Charley Hardwick, Star Theatre manager, for allowing out-of-town girls to enter the beauty contest. Charley made a generous gesture in agreeing to send the high ranking Hereford girl as well as the winner to Roswell, should an outside girl win the contest. Hereford seeks trade from all the surrounding territory. It considers the area for a radius of some 20 miles as Hereford's own. Hardwick, we believe, was perfectly right in allowing girls from Dimmitt, Vega, Friona and all surrounding towns and communities to enter the contest.

Farmers of this area felt much better after hearing what Secretary Wallace had to say Monday in Amarillo. Most of them realized that the secretary of agriculture is fighting for the very existence of the AAA. Farmers now know they have a fighter representing them in Washington who will go right down the line to the bitter end with their battles.

Deaf Smith county should and probably will take advantage of the new law making it possible to fight erosion by creating a county-wide erosion district, which could use all the state property taxes for the work during the next two years. The question will be submitted to voters some time soon.

Some Texas newspaper editors say the committee having for its work the distribution of the $500,000 allotted for advertising the Texas Centennial are hiring high powered writers of free dope to be sent out to all Texas papers, who will be asked to run this special "news features" to help the Centennial make a success while the high powered writers get a princely salary. Sounds reasonable to all the weekly papers who have returned to this committee their free dope, with their rate card suggesting that said committee

CHINESE MOVES TO FORCE HAWAIIAN JAIL TO KEEP HIM

Honolulu.—Ching Sam King likes his prison life so well he is asking a Federal court for an order forcing prison authorities to let him serve the remainder of his sentence.

"The 75 year old Chinese, convicted on a narcotics charge in 1933, was sentenced to serve six years. Recently the Hawaiian Prison Board was informed by the United States Department of Labor that a parole had been granted to Ching on condition that he be deported. To this Ching demurred.

"More better four years more calaboose; China no likee," he said.

Transferred to the custody of immigration officials, the elderly Chinese demanded a lawyer, and filed a petition in Federal court to force prison authorities to give him room and board again.

Hereford High Among First In State to Offer Course In Occupations Study

By G. M. Hudson

In 1908, in Boston, there began a movement which has spread over the entire educational system of the U. S. This was the Vocational Guidance Movement, first advocated by Frank Parsons and Meyer Bloomfield, directors of the Breadwinners Institute of Boston, a branch of the Boston Civil Service. Because of their contact with so many men who were obvious misfits in their choice of an occupation, Parsons and Bloomfield were impressed with the need for guiding youths who were just beginning to select careers. Through such guidance they hoped to reduce the number of workers who turned out to be round pegs in square holes.

Within a year or two the Boston public school board had taken up the program and placed guidance counselors in each high school in Boston. The idea spread rapidly for the need was evident everywhere, and soon the leading school systems of the North and East were making a place for the guidance program. The approach of the World War caused a slump in the expansion program of schools everywhere so that some sections of the country did not get started on guidance work until after the war period.

The Texas department of education officially recognized the guidance work in 1925, by announcing it would grant one-half credit to high schools that met the requirements for affiliation. The name given this course thus affiliated was "Occupations."

Hereford high school first offered this course in the fall of 1929. At that time eight schools in the state had received affiliation in the course. With the exception of 1933-34, the course had been given here each year since. This fall, two sections or classes will be opened to freshmen and sophomores. It is hoped that freshmen especially will take advantage of the opportunity to enroll in one of these classes.

Contrary to the name of the course, and to the idea that one might naturally form of the work, the course is not exclusively about choosing an occupation, neither is the student urged to make immediate selection of a vocation. The aim of course is three-fold.

First, to give accurate information about various kinds of occupations. Naturally, locally prominent occupations are given major consideration. However, typical vocations in the various fields of work are considered. General requirements for success in these occupations learned, training required, health hazards of the job, promotional opportunities, personal characteristics needed, etc. are all considered. Job analysis is made, both by class groups and by individual students.

Second, educational plans are discussed. Requirements for graduation from Hereford high school, possible elective courses, and their value for special types of vocations are stressed. Types and purposes of colleges are studied, with estimates as to expenses, etc. Outside educational opportunities for those who do not attend college are explained. (Students are not advised to attend college just to be "going to college".)

Third, one strong feature of the course is the effort to instill into the student's mind the idea that it is not necessary to have a "white collar" job in order to have a worthwhile one. The idea of the dignity and honor of all real, useful, honest labor is constantly held up to the student in an effort to help him to appreciate the contribution that all groups can and do make to our national welfare. He is taught to honor and respect the man whose daily labor gets his hands and clothes soiled just as much as he honors the man whose work permits or insists that he appear before the public well dressed.

Advocates of such courses as the Occupations course do not, of course, claim that it is a "cure all" for all sorts of maladjustments in the educational and vocational plans of the student, but they do believe that it is able to render aid in many cases—that the results that have so far been secured more than justify the work, and that continued effort will tax. The boycott is the favorite weapon of labor against industry. So far the farmer has gone on producing, taking what was offered for his produce, without any method of protest. The millers are making a mistake in fighting the processing tax, and the boycott is only the reasonable answer of the farmers who see the possibilities of their business being again wrecked by low prices. The processing tax is a protective tariff in favor of the farmer. It is the first real move to bring about reasonable recovery for those who produce the wealth of the nation.—Clyde Warwick, Canyon News.

A lady who has three grown daughters says that if she has something that she wishes to hide from the girls she places it in a bowl and stacks dirty dishes on top of it. Pie, cake, candy, etc., are as safe there as if placed in a safety deposit vault.—Donley County Leader.

Time Magazine did a gross business of $6,701,000 in 1934 and had a net profit of $1,773,1000. The Curtis Publishing Co. last year had a gross of $31,513,900 and a net profit of $5,700,000. Such profits as these were made in what we call a depression year out in the Panhandle. Editor and Publisher, commenting on these profits, says: "The prosperity of the Times organization is, of course, to be directly credited to editorial brains." Now we know why The Herald has not been making money the past three or four years: It looks like we can't blame losses on the drought any longer.—Dave Warren, Panhandle Herald.

The "Split and Whittle Club" has changed its name. At a mass meeting of all the charter members, it was voted to give it a more dignified title of "Orate and Expect 't' Orate Guild."—Curry County, New Mexico, Times.

I saw bacon and eggs sizzling and frying on the hot concrete at the Phillips station on West Kingsmill. Charles Maisei was the cook. Charles then decided he needed some toast, so he put two slices of bread in a hot place. Just then a customer came up. Charles forgot the toast and burned it on one side. No kiddin'.—Pampa News.

The wheat farmers are making a small threat of boycott against the millers who are seeking injunctions against the processing

OLD-FASHIONED SIMPLICITY

TELEPHONE SERVICE IN this country is modern. It leads the world. Yet there is an old-fashioned simplicity about the Bell System. This applies to capital structure and financial methods as well as to the nationwide plan of decentralized operation under centralized control.

The American Telephone and Telegraph Company has only one class of stock and that stock is not watered.

It has 675,000 stockholders living in every corner of the land. Their average holding is twenty-eight shares. No individual or organization owns as much as one per cent of the stock. There are no secret reserves or hidden assets.

This structure is not of recent origin, but dates back many years to the early days of the telephone. It has lived on because it is right and in the best interest of the public. It has been fundamental in making the Bell System a distinctive American business.

In the Bell System, the American Telephone & Telegraph Company is the parent company, and operates the long distance lines connecting the 84 regional Bell companies. Bell Laboratories carries on the research work; Western Electric manufactures, purchases, and distributes.

Without this specialized organization back of the men and women of the Southwestern Bell, telephone service might be possible. But it could not be service as uniformly good, as quickly accurate, as far reaching, and as inexpensive as the service you know today.

 Attending were Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Walters, Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Walters and children, and Mrs.

G. B. Snodgrass and children, all of Brownfield; Mrs. C. L. Dickson and son, Mrs. R. C. Lloyd and daughter, Lubbock; Mr. Smith's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Smith, and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Smith and children of Hereford.

GOLDEN WEDDING OBSERVED BY MR. AND MRS. KOELZER

Fifty years of married life was celebrated by Mr. and Mrs. John Koelzer on Sunday, July 28. Seven of their family of 13 children and 41 grand children gathered for the celebration at the home a mile south of town to spend the day.
 Then there was an all-day celebration on Monday at St. Anthony's church. A solemn high mass opened the day with the pastor as celebrant; Rev. Charles Dvorak of White Deer, deacon; Bro. Bonaventure Koelzer, son of the jubilarians, Washington, D. C. sub-deacon; Bro. James Salvi, S. A., Washington, master of ceremonies; Rev. Gabriel Diamanti, S. A., Lubbock, preacher.
 Following the mass there was a basket dinner at St. Anthony's church hall at noon. The hall and guest table were decorated in white and old gold. Mrs. N. Elliston was in charge of a musical program. A program at the hall in the evening capped a day of celebration.
 Brother Salvi gave a piano recital. Mrs. Carl Moutitz sang several solos, including songs dedicated to Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Wagner and the Koelzers. Miss Katherine Kirby gave several readings. At the conclusion the Most Rev. Robert E. Lucey, Bishop of Amarillo, lauded the Koelzers in a short talk. Rev. J. J. Dolje of Umbarger, and Rev. John Steinlage of Amarillo were other visiting clergymen.

Jones-Hill Engagement Is Announced

Engagement of Miss Wilma Jo Jones to Joe Hill, Jr., was announced at a breakfast given by the mother of the bride-elect, Mrs. A. M. Jones, Wednesday morning. The wedding will take place on Sunday, August 18.

Six tables were laid for the guests—intimate friends and relatives. The center of each table was a mound of snow with a South Pole in the center. At the top of each pole was a hand-painted flag bearing the words, "Little America—South Pole." A penguin was mounted atop each flag with four streamers extending from its mouth, one to each guest at the table.

At the end of each streamer was the announcement, "Wilma Jo Jones and Joe Hill, August 19, 1935." Hand-painted cards marked the guests' places.
 Miss Jones is the elder daughter of the late A. M. Jones and Mrs. Jones. She is one of Hereford's most popular young ladies. Mr. Hill is the son of President and Mrs. J. A. Hill of West Texas State Teachers College at Canyon, where the romance began.

Young Hill achieved no small measure of fame as a member of the Byrd Antarctic Expedition. After a wedding trip, following the ceremony, the couple will enter Texas University in the fall.

Tribute Is Paid to C. D. Spencer

C. D. Spencer was born October 11, 1881, in Union Alabama. He died July 31, 1935, at the age of 53 years, eight months and 20 days. When a young man he was converted and joined the Methodist Church. In 1905 he married Miss Nannie Phillips at Wellington, Texas. To this union were born four sons, Jack, Bradford, Marvin and Earl, who survive him. Soon after his marriage he joined the Baptist Church, and was a devoted and sincere worker until his death.
 Mr. and Mrs. Spencer and sons moved to the Jumbo community early in the year of 1923. They proved themselves good neighbors and made many friends. In 1932 Mrs. Spencer died.

It was with deep sorrow that we, the Sunday school class of Mr. Spencer, give a few words of love from our hearts to our beloved teacher. For a long period of years he was a constant worker for and with the Sunday school of Jumbo. His many sayings and deeds will live in the hearts of boys and girls as well as his class who loved him so dearly. His large class of the older folks in this community speaks for itself, for we have never had a teacher who gave his life wholly to his people. He was always on time, and had a Godly message prepared for his class. His sunny disposition and cheerful ways always made us glad for the time to come when the class would meet. When we say we miss him it is only a small thing. But we are glad in our hearts that some one has said, "God chooses those that are prepared, and our loss is heaven's gain."

ABOLISHES SERFDOM

Addis Ababa, Ethiopia. — Emperor Haile Selassie recently issued a decree abolishing serfdom throughout Ethiopia and equalizing the system of land taxation. An announcement said that the masses acclaimed the steps and added that the abolition of unequal land taxation would advance Ethiopia 1000 years in civilization.
 Ethiopia for centuries was one of the most profitable centers of the African slave trade and while other countries gradually abolished the traffic, the institution remained in that country even after its admission to the League of Nations. In recent years, slavery there has taken the form of forced labor and debt peonage.
 Italian newspapers recently urged the intervention of Italy in Ethiopia on the ground that slavery still existed and that a civilized influence was needed.

Old Indians
Recalls Early
Dust Storms

Oklahoma City.—To gauge the eventual effect of the 1935 dust storms, historical authorities draw a parallel between conditions now in the wind-eroded area and those resulting from the march of buffaloes over the Southwestern Plains.

Today in the grasslands the plows have left beaten tracks of pulverized ground miles wide, unprotected by vegetation and at the mercy of the winds that blow. In other days, mighty buffalo herds left such trails behind them, eventually changing the whole picture of things.

Those great herds traveled northward in the spring, southward each fall. Before then the prairie was lush with heavy grass, small shrubs and hardy wild flowers. In their wake all vegetation was gone, and there remained dust to a depth of five or six inches.

Then came the wind and rain to carry the fine soil into the beds of streams. To fill up pleasant valleys.

Indians say the North Canadian river, now a comparatively small stream, once ran wide and deep and the terrain shows it. In Oklahoma City diggers on buildings sites have turned up old riverbeds in the sand ground underlying the metropolitan area.

In the voluminous personal archives and vivid memory of Claude E. Hensley, one of the early newspapermen of El Reno, Oklahoma, is a first-hand statistical evidence of the magnitude of this buffalo erosion.

"One Sunday more than forty years ago, I sat on the banks of the South Canadian River near Union City, watching its swirling flood waters," said Hensley. "And old Indian was talking to his son in the sign language. The son said, 'The old man is telling something interesting.'"

"Many, many years ago, more than 100 years (interpreted the young Indian) a mighty flood came down the river, its waters extending from bluff to bluff."

Continuing, the old man related that the North Canadian River was a big, wide river, a long time before the flood mentioned in the South Canadian, and, according to stories told by Indians, buffalo herds "made heap dust," and the ensuing dust storms filled the North Canadian and made a little river of it.

To support his contention that erosion from buffalo herds could have caused such extensive changes in the terrain of the Southwest, Hensley had stupendous figures gleaned from many authorities and remembered from his personal contact with the frontiersmen.

Commentators speak of buffalo herds massed thick over a twenty to fifty mile front and of unknown depth. Territorial records tells of early day travelers riding all day long without ever getting out of the herds.

Court testimony in the Greer county case, a border wrangle between Texas and Oklahoma, tells us of buffalo dust filling up river beds.

In 1868 Gen. Phillip Sheridan, Major Henry Inman, a frontier officer, and E. M. Wright, pioneer business man, sat down at Dodge City, Kansas, to figure out just how many buffaloes there were between Dodge City and Camp Supply. Their first estimate was 10 billions, which they quickly discarded because no one would believe it. They finally pared their figures down to 100 million.

When railroad transportation gave commercial value to the buffalo and the slaughter began, there were forthcoming amazing figures on the immensity of the herds. Major Inman reported that between 1868 and 1871 two and one-half million dollars was paid for buffalo bones gathered up on the prairies and shipped East to be used in the manufacture of fertilizer. It took 100 carcasses to make a ton of bones, and at $5 a ton, the sum paid represented the slaughter of 31 million buffaloes.

Railroad records show that from 1872 to 1874, 1,878,859 hides were shipped; 6,751,000 pounds of buffalo meat, and 32,380,050 pounds of bones.

It is not very hard, say the historians, to believe that the ravages of astronomical numbers of the great beasts literally fattened the prairies and that erosion from their paths filled up the rivers and changed the topography of the Plains.

The same sort of change this time caused by plowing that leaves conditions comparable to the trails of buffaloes in olden days, is changing the terrain of the dust-ridden districts of Oklahoma, Texas and Colorado.

Of course your wife has poor judgment—think of whom she married.

FRANCE LEADS RACE TO BULE ATLANTIC

In 1840 Samuel Cunard, founder of the British shipping line, began regular ocean sailings with the building of the first group of sister-ships, Britannia, Acadia, Columbia and Caledonia. The latest ocean greyhound, the French Line's Normandie, has just docked at the new Hudson River pier after her maiden voyage.

The Queen Mary, the British bid for Atlantic supremacy, will come a year later. The Literary Digest reports that enormous first class dining salons of either of these superliners easily could hold the Britannia, which made a record ocean crossing in 1840 from Liverpool to New York of 14 days and eight hours.

Financed in part by government banks, work was begun on the French Normandie and the British Queen Mary to win for one or the other the tourist and luxury passengers to Europe.

Simple in line, an honest, sturdy, seaworthy ship, the 1,018-foot Queen Mary, now a mere hull, will dock in the Hudson River some time in 1936. But the sleek, pert, smart Normandie, with all the chic of the latest creation by a Paris dressmaker, has taken the lead. Her predecessor in the French Line docked in New York from Havre in 1864, a mere 340 feet long, and 3,400 tons.

Eleven Stories High.
Approximately 1,028 feet long, of 79,280 gross tons, eleven stories high, 125 feet from keel to top of chart room, the Normandie is equipped to carry 2,000 passengers and a crew of 1,358.

Her beam of 119 feet and six inches will not permit her to pass through the Panama Canal. Needed New Docks.
To dock such an immense floating mass, New York City, through a PWA grant of $1,193,000, has erected a three-story steel and concrete shed at Dock No. 68 in the Hudson at a total cost of $4,275,500.

Dredging operations to assure a depth of forty feet—the Normandie draws thirty-eight feet—and supplanting the present twenty-three piers by thirteen larger of steel and concrete will cost $19,200,000.

SAW FISH IN SIAM
"WALK" 466 YARDS

Dr. Hugh M. Smith, former chief of the United States Bureau of Fisheries, who has just returned after ten years as biological adviser to the Siamese government, brought some stories of Siam's strange "Walking fishes."

He said he saw a fish taken out of a garden pool which the owner wished to clean. The fish was placed in a pall of water and given to a native servant to deposit in another pool about a quarter of a mile away. The fish got out of the pall and in a half hour "walked" about 400 yards back to his home pool.

This apparently demonstrated Dr. Smith declared, not only the creature's ability to make progress on dry land but a sense of direction—and a homing instinct.

In parts of Siam during the dry season, Dr. Smith asserted, men go fishing with spades in the desert, and it is a profitable occupation. The "desert" was covered with water or transversed by small streams a few months earlier. With the coming of a drouth, the fish burrow deeper and deeper into the mud, which becomes baked above them. There they remain, like hibernating animals, waiting for the rains to come again.

The fishermen spade up the baked clay in layers and send these to market. Sometimes the fishes will burrow to a depth of more than a meter.

There is at least one family of fishes in Siam, Dr. Smith reports, that will "drown" if kept too long under water. The gills of these fish are so small that they cannot get enough oxygen under the surface and must come up every now and then for air.

Among the more fantastic specimens of Siamese zoology that Dr. Smith is exhibiting to his Washington friends is a centipede nearly a foot long which lives under brush piles and has piercing fangs and poison glands.

Unbelievable But True

DO YOU KNOW that today—in this highly enlightened world—there are millions of people who never heard of tooth-paste; millions who never saw a fountain pen and wouldn't know what it was for if they saw it; who never tasted ginger ale or owned a flashlight; millions of women who never heard of a permanent; boys and girls who wouldn't know a tennis racket from a basketball!

Unbelievable, but true! And why? Just because in the remote places where these people live there are no newspapers and folks seldom, if ever, see a magazine.

Contrast this with your standards of living—an electric clock on your mantel, an electric refrigerator in your kitchen, a vacuum cleaner, colorful draperies, modish clothing of fine fabrics, foods carefully prepared for you by great manufacturers, shoes and hats in the latest style—and then say a great big "THANK YOU" for advertising.

Without advertising you would be living in a past generation. Listening, open-mouthed, to the stories of some wayfarer with tales of radios, telephones, furniture, cosmetics, silk underthings he has seen in his travels.

Read the advertisements. Always there is something new, always something of interest, always something to save you money, time or trouble.

Amendments Are Explained By Secretary of State

By Gerald Mann, Secretary of State

Probably chief interest in the August 24 election on the seven proposed Constitutional Amendments will center on Proposition No. 3 on the ballot—the repeal of Prohibition, according to Secretary of State Gerald C. Mann.

The Constitution at present prohibits the sale, manufacture and transportation of alcoholic liquors (except 3-2 beer). This prohibition would be stricken out by adoption of the repeal amendment.

The proposed amendment specifically prohibits the return of the open saloon—and it would be up to the Legislature to define the term "open saloon."

No machinery is set up for the sale of liquor. The legislature would have the authority to determine just who and just how liquor is to be sold. This could be done by state monopoly or through private channels. The legislature would have the authority to pass laws regulating local option elections.

If the amendment is adopted all counties, cities and precincts that were dry in 1919 when statewide prohibition was adopted, would be dry now—at least until local option elections were held to determine otherwise.

It is well to remember, Secretary Mann points out, that there will be an election next year in November to determine whether the state shall sell liquor through a state monopoly system. If the repeal amendment is adopted in August the state MAY establish a state control and monopoly system. If the repeal amendment is defeated in August, it will in effect be submitted again in November, 1936, in the State Monopoly Amendment which says the state SHALL have a liquor monopoly. To retain the present dry status both the August 24 amendment and the November, 1936, amendment must be defeated. Passage of either will repeal the present prohibition section of the Constitution.

At present the legislature can submit proposed changes in the Constitution only at regular sessions—held every two years.

Proposed No. 4 on the ballot for the August 24 election would revise the Constitution to permit the submission of amendments at special sessions. It is pointed out that emergency cases, particularly on relief matters, that it might be necessary for Texas voters to vote on an emergency measure at a time when the regular session of the legislature is quite far distant in the future.

The original purpose of the provision which makes submission possible only at regular sessions was to make the fundamental law hard to amendment change. Two schools of thought are at variance here. The one believing that the Constitution should be easy to change, particularly in emergency cases, and the other that every safeguard should be placed around it to make it difficult to change.

If the proposed amendment is adopted the legislature in any special session can submit proposed amendments to the voters—provided such amendments are submitted by the Governor for the legislature's consideration. If the amendment is rejected the present system will obtain; that is, constitutional amendments can be submitted to the people only at the regular sessions of the legislature.

The 44th Legislature submitted 13 amendments to the voters, seven in August this year and six in November of 1936. These were all submitted during the regular session. Under the proposed change the 44th might yet submit additional amendments for the voters' consideration.
