Fourth-Floor Storage

WASHINGTON (AP) — Even if President Carter succeeds in severing SALT II from the furor over Soviet troops in Cuba, the treaty still faces an uphill struggle in the Senate.

The timing and outcome of the chamber's debate are clouded by procedural delays, parliamentary maneuvering, filibusters and stormy debate over issues ranging from whether Soviet compliance with the treaty terms can be verified to demands for sharp increases in defense spending.

The Senate's Democratic leaders want to begin floor debate this year to avoid entangling the treaty in the presidential and congressional contests of 1980.

But majority leader Robert C. Byrd says that timing would hold only if the pact clearly has the 67 votes needed for ratification.

On Tuesday, Byrd's Republican counterpart, minority leader Howard H. Baker of Tennessee, said that as of now there are probably fewer than 60 senators prepared to vote for the treaty.

And there are conflicting predictions as to when the treaty will reach the floor.

Baker said it might be as early as late October, with debate limited to a month or less.

But Sen. John Tower of Texas, chairman of the Senate Republican conference, said debate might be put off until March or April.

The chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, said he is prepared to end hearings on the pact and to proceed with the committee's consideration of proposed changes.

But Church also says he believes there is no chance the Senate will ratify SALT II as long as the Soviet brigade is in Cuba.

Senate aides say Church is considering a strategy to permit SALT II's ratification with a reservation stating that the treaty would not take effect until the president certifies the brigade has been withdrawn or dismantled.

Baker, however, said this approach is a "cop-out" that dodges the issue and one he won't accept.

Gold Prices Fall, Still Above $400

LONDON (AP) — Gold lost some of its glitter on the bullion markets today following a day of wild fluctuations. The dollar posted slight gains and losses against key currencies.

Gold began trading in London at $412.50 an ounce, then edged up to $417. That was well below the London record price of $444.00 reached during trading Tuesday and also below Tuesday's closing price of $424.00.

In Zurich, gold fell to $423.50 in early trading from $438.00 at the close Tuesday.

In Tokyo, the dollar improved to 225.475 Yen from 224.875 Tuesday.

Tokyo dealers said that the Bank of Japan intervened to try to stop the dollar's rise by selling up to $200 million, but the dollar kept going up amid speculation that the United States will take measures to defend its currency.

The dollar also improved in London. Gold prices fluctuated wildly Tuesday in what one New York trader called hysteria buying and selling.

After hitting $444 an ounce in Europe, the price slipped as low as $405 as rumors spread of a dollar-rescue effort, then recovered.

County Offices Outgrowing Quarters

Courthouse — Beauty Skin Deep

By PAUL SIMS
Managing Editor

Deaf Smith County Courthouse, since 1910, has been quite an impressive sight on the edge of downtown Hereford.

Its marble walls and statuesque columns have long made it the envy of West Texas courthouses.

But some Deaf Smith County officials aren't paying attention to the beauty of the courthouse these days, and are instead realizing the four-story structure doesn't have the space to accommodate their ever-growing offices.

Privacy is out for some county employees because of cramped quarters. Records, often dating back to the early 1900's, consume as much space as employee desks in a few offices. There are no empty offices which can be used for expansion, and storage rooms, which could possibly accommodate employee desks, are full of records.

Upstairs, on the fourth floor, valuable county records are stacked in piles and even in cardboard boxes, some of which once contained detergent and cereal. The records are placed in the upstairs storage room because the county has no organized archives in which to store them.

County Judge Glen Nelson, elected overseer of the courthouse last year, realizes the space problem and much of his first term in office has been taken up by a personal investigation into the matter.

"Yes, we're cramped—in just about any area you look at, we need more room. The justice of the peace office is overcrowded. The county clerk's office is running out of space. The juvenile office is needing space," Nelson said.

"We're going to have a problem if we keep growing, and we are going to continue to grow. But, right now we aren't able to do much because there are some other things we have to take care of."

Among those things are moving the county law library from the commissioners' courtroom on the second floor to a storage room upstairs and the repair of cracks and weak structural places on the outside of the courthouse in a $28,000 attempt to restore it to its original beauty.

Moving the law library—a proposal of local attorneys, who claim it is inconvenient to hunt for law books during commission meetings—actually is related to the space problem, since the proposed area on the south side of the fourth floor contains books and junk which will have to be moved elsewhere.

"We don't have sufficient room to keep our records," Nelson said. "Some of them are kept on the fourth floor where we're going to put our library. Where we are going to put them hasn't been decided yet."

County Clerk B.F. Cain, whose office is responsible for most of the courthouse records, says a space problem should be alleviated when the documents are microfilmed.

Pope Preaches Love, Service, Reconciliation

NEW YORK (AP) — Pope John Paul II joined in prayer with religious professionals and in song with school children today, telling both the adults and the youngsters that in Christ they can find love.

The pope started his third day in the United States with a morning prayer service, then went to Madison Square Garden for a songfest with 19,000 students from Roman Catholic schools.

He told the more than 2,500 nuns, priests and church workers who packed St. Patrick's Cathedral for a morning prayer service of about 40 minutes that they should embrace the world in "love, in service, in healing and in reconciliation."

He said that through prayer it is possible to share with Christ the travail and hopes of all humanity. Through Him, the pope said, we can bring "without the anguish and hopes, the joys and sorrows of all our brothers and sisters in the world."

John Paul told the children that Catholic education means "to know Christ as a friend, as someone who cares about you and the person next to you and, all the people here and everywhere... Only in Christ do we find real love and the fullness of life.

"When you wonder about the mystery of yourself, look to Christ who gives you the meaning of life. When you wonder what it means to be a mature person, look to Christ, who gives you the meaning of life."

The prayer service marked the start of another grueling and hectic day for the pope — a day that will end in Philadelphia, the third of six U.S. cities he is visiting. The day's schedule also included a ticker-tape parade down Broadway, en route to Battery Park on the southern tip of Manhattan for a major address.

The pope began the service on the front steps of St. Patrick's, leading an estimated 8,000 people gathered on Fifth Avenue: "In the name of the Father, the Son and the Holy Spirit, God come to my assistance." He ended the service outdoors as well, with a blessing in Latin and praise — "Very nice!" — for the crowd's response.

A steady drizzle fell as the pope entered the church, but had eased by the time he left. He was greeted by cries of: "Long live the pope!" which prompted the pontiff to grin and reply: "He does."

In a whirlwind first day in New York, the pope met and prayed and sang with New York's poorest and proudest. Again and again he pleaded: Share the wealth with those in need.

"You must never be content to leave them just the crumbs from the feast," he declared Tuesday night to more than 75,000 worshippers packed into Yankee Stadium for a pontifical Mass.

At the stadium, the 59-year-old pontiff was a gentle — and weary-looking — teacher in tall, glittering miter and golden cloak.

"We cannot stand idly by, enjoying our own riches and freedom, if in any place the Lazarus of the 20th century stands at our door," he told the throng surrounding him in the stands and on the field.

In his richly accented English, he

Frances Berry Named Women's Division Head

The officers who will serve under Frances Berry, president-elect of the Chamber of Commerce Women's Division, were chosen for the 1980 term during last night's quarterly membership meeting at the Community Center.

Mrs. Berry was recently elected as Women's Division president for the coming year by the Chamber of Commerce board of directors. She will be assuming the executive post now filled by Mary Herring when the Chamber Women conduct their installation in early January.

Serving with her will be three new officers, first vice president, Betty Gilbert, and directors Mary Thomas and Leatrice Clark. Entering the second year of two-year terms on the board will be Mrs. Herring, parliamentarian; Olivia Denning and Marcia Snyder.

WHEN THE COOL front blew in last night, it reminded me that September is already gone and the Christmas toys will be passed out in less than 90 days.

The September weather was ideal, with warm—almost hot—days giving some of our crops a real boost. It's almost unbelievable that a new decade is just around the corner.

Makes me wonder what the phrase makers will name the Seventies. We had the Gay Nineties, the Roaring Sixties. For some of us, the decade of the Seventies went by so fast that we hardly had time to get acquainted with it, much less give it a name.

What will the recorders of history remember most about the Seventies? Maybe some will relate it to the "Computerized Seventies." Many of us may think more about the time when inflation went out of control, prices kept zooming, and we lost confidence in our governmental leaders.

One writer has suggested the "Lite Seventies." The decade was marked by the entry of a number of "lite" beers, as well as "Light" cigarettes. In the next

Crack Forces Halt in Efforts To Repair Runaway Oil Well

MEXICO CITY (AP) — A crack in a $25 million U.S.-made steel cone forced Mexican oil workers to postpone their latest attempt to control the runaway offshore oil well in the Bay of Campeche that has stained beaches as far away as Texas, an official of the state-run oil company said.

The PEMEX executive told The Associated Press Tuesday that the 125-ton inverted cone was lowered over the rogue Ixtoc I well last week in an attempt to control the gusher. But it cracked under water and had to be returned to Brown and Root, the manufacturer, in Houston, Tex., the source said.

"That cone cost us at least $25 million," said the PEMEX executive who asked anonymity. "It is back in Houston right now being repaired. It was returned right after it cracked."

PEMEX spokesmen said at the time operations were suspended that a gear on the derrick designed to lower the steel cap had been damaged and that repairs would take two weeks. But the executive who revealed the cone cracked said he did not know how long it would take Brown and Root to fix it.

Brown and Root officials were not immediately available for comment.

The offshore blowout, the worst oil spill in history, occurred June 3 when a gas explosion cut the drilling tower like an acetylene torch. It has defied repeated efforts to tame it by Mexican, European and American troubleshooters.

Over 110 million gallons of crude has surfaced from Ixtoc I since the blowout. It spewed out 1.25 million gallons of oil a day initially, but PEMEX officials say they have reduced the flow to about 420,000 gallons.

Ixtoc I is 500 miles south of the Texas border. Parts of the lower Texas Gulf Coast were coated by muck drifting from ribbons of reddish brown slick, some over 100 miles long, that seriously affected the tourist business in the area.

Beachside businessmen demanded PEMEX cover their losses but President Jose Lopez Portillo rejected their plea because the United States fouled Mexican farmland in the Mexicali Valley in northern Mexico years ago with saline water from the Colorado River and never paid for the lost cotton crops.

Boy, 14, Holds

Students, Surrenders

HOUSTON (AP) — A 14-year-old Pasadena student was released to his parents and suspended indefinitely after holding a teacher and about 25 classmates at gunpoint before surrendering the loaded weapon to uniformed police.

Elmer Bondy, assistant superintendent of elementary schools for the Pasadena Independent School District, said the youth pulled a .45-caliber pistol from a paper sack shortly after 9 a.m. at George Thompson Intermediate School.

"He apparently had had bad words with classmates the day before," Bondy said. He said the boy was a nice kid, the "quiet type" who had not been in trouble before.

The assistant principal at the school, Ben Lenamon, said the boy's problems stemmed from his parents' separation. He said the boy had told classmates his mother didn't want him.

Lenamon said the youth pulled the gun, which belonged to his father, yelled, "Everybody freeze," then expressed his feelings about how people would not listen to him.

The teacher, who was standing near the door, signaled to persons in the hall for help.

New Material

Presented in Trial

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — David McCrory's boss injected new testimony into the Cullen Davis murder-solicitation trial and chief prosecutor Jack Strickland indicated his intentions to explore the new material and find out why it wasn't presented earlier.

Art Smith, president of the Davis-owned Jet Air Corporation, took the stand late Tuesday to discuss the hiring and dismissal of McCrory during 1978.

McCrory is the star state witness in the trial, testifying Davis tried to get him to arrange the murders of several people that summer, including Davis' divorcee judge Joe Eidsen.

Instead, McCrory says, he went to the FBI and informed on Davis, leading to the millionaire's arrest Aug. 20, 1978.

Smith said he hired McCrory as a sales representative, at Davis' request, and paid him a salary of $20,000 despite a lack of previous experience.

"He was a friend of Mr. Davis and Mr. Davis was trying to find him a job and he asked me to give him every consideration," Smith said.

Later, though, Smith complained to Davis that McCrory was not working out. "He said if McCrory didn't straighten out and express a willingness to work, fire him," Smith recalled from the witness stand.

White Says Mexico

Might Still Pay

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The Attorney General of Texas says he thinks Mexican President Jose Lopez-Portillo may not have completely closed the door to paying for damage from a runaway Mexican oil well.

Lopez-Portillo said Monday Mexico will not pay Texans for damages from the world's largest oil spill because the United States did not pay when salt water from the U.S. ruined Mexican croplands in 1972.

But Attorney General Mark White said Tuesday he views those remarks as an opening to start negotiations, not the last word on the subject.

"I believe...there is some linkage with the problem of salinity in the Colorado River," White said.

White admitted the chances for a settlement "are going to be remote" in light of Lopez-Portillo's remarks, but said "I think we have seen, in this salinity thing, hopefully an area of negotiation. I am glad to see we have some possibilities."

Three spill-related damage suits totaling $355 million have been filed against Pemex, the Mexican oil monopoly; Permargo, a private Mexican drilling contractor; and SEDCO, the Dallas-based oil company which leased Pemex the equipment used on the blown-out well.

Kaufman County

Needs DPS Troopers

KAUFMAN, Texas (AP) — There's quite a contrast between Atascosa and Kaufman Counties in Texas. Both counties are concerned about their law enforcement situation involving Department of Public Safety troopers, but that's where all resemblance ends.

In Atascosa County, officials want to get rid of all their DPS troopers. In Kaufman County, they say they don't have enough.

The trouble in Atascosa County stems from a DS crackdown on drunken driving which resulted in the arrest of the sons of two high-ranking local politicians.

One of them, County Commissioner Smith Tausch, spearheaded a move to get the troopers evicted from their county-owned building, and the county judge spoke personally to DS Director Col. Wilson Speir about removing all six troopers from the county completely.

But Kaufman County is down to one full time DPS patrolman, after a rash of resignations during the spring, and has made several requests for more, all to no avail.

"Send us all the troopers you can get from anywhere you can get them," said Kaufman County Sheriff Roy Brockway Tuesday. "We'll trade even with Atascosa County."

Texas Briefs

HOUSTON (AP) — A six-month federal grand jury investigation of campaign contributions and other City Hall financial matters has been suspended until after Houston's Nov. 6 general election.

U.S. Attorney Tony Canales said he took the action on his own initiative in that he does not want the investigation to become an issue in the election.

The investigation began before a six-count extortion indictment alleging acceptance of kickbacks on city contracts was returned against Jack Key, a former city purchasing director.

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texas operators reported 16 oil discoveries and 30 gas discoveries during the last half of September, the Texas Railroad Commission reported Tuesday.

The TRC Oil and Gas Division also reported 895 gas and 362 oil discoveries in the state in the first nine months of 1979. Those figures compare with 805 gas and 344 oil finds in the same period of 1978.

The late September oil discoveries included four in West Central Texas; three in the far South Texas area; two each in the Midland, Lubbock and North Texas areas; and one each in East Texas, Southeast Texas and San Angelo.

The gas finds included 20 in deep South Texas, six in the Refugio area, three in Southeast Texas and one in the Panhandle.

Livingston oil field has been reduced by more than half, the Texas Railroad Commission said Tuesday.

The production rate for the Polk County field was cut to 612 barrels daily from the previous 1,400 barrels.

The field was discovered in 1932 and presently has 38 wells producing from the Yegua formation. The reduced rate was supported by Exxon, the largest operator with 10 oil wells and one gas well in the field.

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — The El Paso Times has gone to court against the city Civil Service Commission, to try to force the agency to keep its meetings open.

District Judge Brunson Moore granted a temporary restraining order Monday to prevent the commission from destroying records dealing with city Personnel Director Sam Navarro.

The suit contends the commission illegally closed two September meetings, one to discuss complaints about Navarro's performance and one in which commissioners voted on the matter, then illegally refused to let a Times reporter see minutes of the meetings.

The newspaper suit said the commission violated the Texas Open Meetings law, the El Paso city charter and the commission's own rules.

HOUSTON (AP) — Port Houston union contract hourly workers have received 9 percent wage increases.

Port commissioners approved the increases that approximate an 80-cent hourly hike for about 300 waterfront laborers.

The increase was negotiated as the last portion of a three-year contract between the West Gulf Maritime Association and the International Longshoremen's Association. The contract was agreed upon before President Carter set current wage guidelines.

Common Cause Founder Attacks Public Service

WASHINGTON (AP) — John Gardner, the crusader who brought citizens' politics of age when he created Common Cause, now has a new cause — saving the private sector of public service.

A task force headed by Gardner has just completed a blueprint for organizing the nation's charities and other voluntary organizations into a giant coalition capable of doing battle with inflation, modern methods and government encroachment.

In recent years, people and organizations concerned with the independent sector have gradually and increasingly awakened to a shared uneasiness," Gardner said in announcing his new project.

"Problems are developing that make the sector less useful to society than it could be and in some danger of decline."

The main problem is the same affecting other sectors — the double punch of inflation in a recession economy. Money is tight, and charitable donations generally are the first thing cut by a family balancing a budget.

Charities also are manpower intensive, with much of their overhead tied up in office and field staffs who raise and distribute their money or services. This is one of the first areas hurt by inflation.

But Gardner sees a more serious and insidious danger — private charities being shoved aside by growing government regulation and competition.

While Gardner recognizes there are some charlatans in the field, he says some of the laws and regulations being applied to private fund raising are worse than the abuses they remedy.

Already 35 states and the District of Columbia have passed laws governing charitable solicitations, Gardner, who pushed the same kind of policing of political solicitations as head of Common Cause, says he agrees with the intent but some of the methods "are unacceptable."

For example, Gardner acknowledges that established fund drives that burn up most of their income in overhead are probably out of line, but blanket laws limiting overhead can keep legitimate new groups out of the field.

"When you are forming a new organization of this type, you may need to plow nearly all of your income back into growth, building membership."

he said. "If you can't spend the money it takes to build membership, you can't grow and you won't last long."

Gardner also says a lot of the new regulations intended to curtail cranks and crooks also work to stifle perfectly proper but unpopular causes from public solicitations.

"The nature of much of the regulation and the nightmare complexity and patchwork of it threaten to inhibit the freedoms of speech, assembly and petition," Gardner's report says.

Charity also is falling victim to the spirit of Proposition 13 and the budget balancers. There is growing support for the idea that a good way to improve budget deficits is to disallow income tax deductions for charitable gifts.

Residents Push Lake Construction

SULPHUR SPRINGS, Texas (AP) — More than 2,000 persons rallied in Sulphur Springs Tuesday night to push for completion of the troubled Cooper Lake project — a proposed reservoir that would provide water for cities from Irving to Texarkana.

"Your being here tonight has served notice to the snakes and turtles in the Sulphur River bottom that they are going to have to hunt higher ground," said Lowell Cable of Sulphur Springs, a sponsor of the rally.

The project was first proposed in the late 1940s and enabling legislation was passed in 1955. However, the project has been plagued by a series of delays, the latest linked to the National Environmental Protection Act of 1970.

A federal judge blocked the U.S. Army from proceeding with construction of the dam, finding the project's environmental impact statement deficient.

Brig. Gen. James Donovan, commander of the Southwest Division of the Corps of Engineers, said Tuesday night that they hope to correct the deficiencies by 1980.

"We're going to build Cooper Lake if it harelips every dog in Texas," U.S. Rep. Sam Hall Jr., D-Marshall, told the rally.

Project sponsors, the North Texas Municipal Water District and the Sulphur River Municipal Water District, said the lake must be completed by 1985 to meet projected needs.

Col. Don Palladino of the Corps of Engineers said 98 percent of the 31,000 acres needed for the lake already had been purchased.

some of my hearings.

The JP secretaries' desks are within 10 feet of Neal's desk in the adjacent office. "Everything that goes on in my office, if someone is talking to my secretaries, he can hear everything that's being said in my office," said Neal, who last week proposed to commissioners moving the next-door social security office elsewhere, thereby giving him additional space.

Sheriff Travis McPherson also approached commissioners with a proposal recently. McPherson, speaking for the Texas Department of Public Safety office, asked that troopers change places with state driver's license personnel, who have a larger office.

The proposal was shot down in the meeting by Nelson, who said that county officials, and not state employees, should have priority in receiving additional space.

There are six DPS troopers and the state game warden working out of one small office. The DPS sergeant has his own office. The troopers share three desks.

"If each one had his own desk, he could keep his stuff in there instead of taking it home with him. That's why I asked that they be given a larger office," McPherson said.

The sheriff, with 13 employees, said he has his space problems, too.

"We're crowded—we have three people to one office in each of three offices. Our jailers can operate out of the jail. But our secretaries and dispatchers and deputies are crowded. I don't know what the solution is, I'm just resigned to the fact that there's not any more room," McPherson said.

Tax Assessor-Collector Nell Miller, who has six employees, said that although her office has ample space, "it's starting to get piled up on us."

Juvenile Officer Roger Bowers was unavailable for comment, but has stated on past occasions that he needs additional space for privacy. Bowers, an assistant and a secretary are cramped into two tiny offices on the first floor, next to the justice of the peace.

Nelson said he must study every option before proposing anything definite to commissioners.

"If we start shifting some people around now, everybody will feel they should have some relief, too. That's why we couldn't go along with the sheriff's proposal right now," Nelson said.

"We're proud to have the DPS here, but I feel the elected county officials should have first choice of any office space available."

Nelson said he has looked into the possibility of either purchasing or constructing a nearby courthouse annex. He also has studied the possibility of building an addition on top of the jail.

"We also may go underground, especially for the storage of records. But, so far, everything's been just talk," Nelson said.

"We just have to take things a step at a time. Right now, we're confronted with a pretty large expense in repairs to the outside of the courthouse. We'll have to get that done pretty soon, or it'll get more expensive," the judge said.

Community Concert Drive Begins

Local residents now have the opportunity to become members of Hereford Community Concert Association in time for the 1979-80 season, which begins Oct. 24. One week for recruitment of new members (Sept. 30-Oct. 5) will conclude the membership drive.

The annual fall membership campaign was officially launched Sunday with a kick-off dinner at the Country Club for drive chairmen and captains. The membership drive is conducted on a volunteer basis and headquarters of the effort will be the Chamber of Commerce office.

The Community Concert Association is a non-profit program wherein each member's annual dues entitle him to attend all concerts for the season. This creates an "audience in advance" and establishes funds in a local bank for the allocation of concerts selected by the Association.

The Concert Association conducts an annual membership campaign, offering season membership to all interested persons. When the campaign closes, no memberships are offered for another year. The CCA stresses that no tickets are sold to individual performances and admission to concerts is by membership card only.

Local CCA dues are priced at $12 for an adult, $6 for students and $30 for a family membership. All money collected as dues are spent on attractions for the coming season and local presentation expenses.

Directing this year's drive are Ted and Mary Panciera, Association president; Jean Ballard, membership chairman; and Amy Gilliland and Cynthia Streun, membership co-chairmen.

Three local concerts are guaranteed annually (Hereford will have four this season). An added bonus of joining CCA is that members share reciprocity with concert associations in Lubbock, Dalhart, Borger and Clovis, N.M. This means that one year's membership entitles a person to attend a minimum of 15 area concerts. Only the highest standards qualify an artist or group to be part of the concert series.

Concerts to be presented in the Hereford High School auditorium for the 1979-80 CCA season are:

Bob Crosby and the Bobcats—Featuring the returning sound of the big bands performed by the musicians who originated it. To appear here at 8 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 24.

Harvey Pittel Trio—Spotlighting Harvey Pittel's expertise with the saxophone, the trio also includes a cellist and pianist with a repertoire of chamber music by composers such as Bach, Duke Ellington, Maurice Ravel and Richard Rogers. To perform here at 8 p.m. Saturday, Jan. 12, 1980.

Santiago Rodriguez—Prizeholder in ten national piano competitions. Rodriguez was one of five unranked Finalists in the Leventritt International Competition in 1976. Performance date is 3 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 10, 1980.

The New York Vocal Arts Ensemble—Composed of four singers and a pianist, the Vocal Arts Ensemble is the only professional organization in this country to perform a repertoire of music written in the 18th and 19th centuries by master composers. To present concert here at 8 p.m. Saturday, April 19, 1980.

CCA Proclamation

The annual fall membership campaign for the Hereford Community Concert Association includes the signing of a proclamation declaring the week of Sept. 30-Oct. 5 as recruitment of new members week. Before having Mayor Bartley Dowell sign the proclamation, Florence Vacano, New York CCA representative and Jean Ballard, local membership chairman, were able to recruit the mayor and his wife as new members. Brother-Sister Relationship

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have a very serious problem, and I'm scared to death. If my husband knew or even suspected anything, he'd go through the ceiling. Can you help? My niece and nephew (brother and sister) have been living together for four years. They are in their mid-20s, and neither one of them dates. Naturally, there have been some ugly rumors, but I refused to believe them.

Recently my niece started to act very strange. One evening, when my husband was out of town, she came over and told me what her life has been like these last several years. It was so bizarre I was speechless. The woman is pregnant. The baby was fathered by her brother. She is terrified that the child will be born deformed or retarded.

brother-sister relationship will have a significant problem of one type or another.

You realize, of course, this risk is much higher than if the child had been conceived by a couple who are not blood relatives.

Since your niece is determined to have the child, I wish her luck. She may have a perfectly normal baby. Please tell her that the odds are that she will.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: For nearly a year, I've been seeing a lot of an attractive guy. He is separated from his wife, but not divorced. Orv and I are together from Monday until Friday. He spends every weekend (and holidays) with his wife and children. When I say "with" I mean he moves into his wife's bed, although he says they do not have intimate relations. (They're short of space and the couch is lumpy).

Friendship Night Attracts 60 Guests

OES members present represented chapters in Clarendon, Plainview, Dimmitt, Lockney and Hereford. Serving as hosts and hostesses were Bernard and Opal Roberson, Darolyn Sauter, Larry and Linda Knowles, Shirley Barber and Sadie Shaw.

Representatives of the Hereford Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, traveled to Prairie Acres Rest Home in Friona Sunday to present Mrs. Lee Cocanougher with her 50-year service pin and certificate of merit.

Representing the Order were Worthy Matron Beverly Brooke, Karen White, Wylene Wheeler, Argen Draper and Horace and Juanita Hershey. Others making the trip were Mrs. Cocanougher's husband and her sister and brother-in-law, Gladys and Barney Cameron, all of Hereford.

Meat Leads Increases In Nation's Supermarkets

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

Meat prices led the way as supermarket bills increased by almost half a percent last month, an Associated Press marketbasket survey shows.

The latest increase brought the total rise in grocery prices for the first three-quarters of the year to just over 6 percent. One of the few encouraging signs in September was a drop in coffee prices.

The AP drew up a random list of 14 commonly purchased food and non-food products and checked the prices at one supermarket in each of 13 cities on March 1, 1973. The prices have been rechecked on or about the start of each succeeding month.

Among the highlights of the latest survey:

—Prices for the three meats checked by the AP went up in more than half the cities, with chopped chuck leading the way. The price of a pound of chopped chuck increased at the checklist store in eight cities. On the average, a pound of chopped chuck at the checklist stores cost $1.96 at the start of October, up

5 percent from a month earlier and up almost one-third from the start of the year. Meats accounted for 21 percent of the items in the AP survey and 43 percent of the increases.

—The marketbasket total went up during September at the checklist store in seven cities and went down in seven cities. It was unchanged in two cities. The increases were sharper than the decreases and on an overall basis, the marketbasket bill rose by four-tenths of a percent during September. That compared with an increase of nine-tenths of a percent in August.

—Since Jan. 1, the marketbasket bill has risen by an average of 6.1 percent at the checklist store. Food prices generally have fluctuated more than non-foods. During September, for example, non-foods accounted for only 8 percent of the increases although, like meats, they represented 21 percent of the items on the list.

—Coffee prices dropped slightly after rising for several months. The increases followed a frost in Brazil which dashed hopes of a coffee surplus. The latest survey showed the price of a pound of coffee dropped at the checklist store in six cities. On the average, coffee cost $3.16 a pound at the start of October, 2 1/4 percent below the $3.24 level of a month earlier, but more than 4 percent above the Aug. 1 price of $3.03.

No attempt was made to weigh the AP survey results. Nor did the AP try to compare actual prices from city to city. Comparisons were made only in terms of percentages of increase or decrease.

The items on the AP checklist were: chopped chuck, center cut pork chops, frozen orange juice concentrate, coffee, paper towels, butter, Grade-A medium white eggs, creamy peanut butter, laundry detergent, fabric softener, tomato sauce, milk, frankfurters and granulated sugar. The cities checked were: Albuquerque, N.M., Atlanta, Boston, Chicago, Dallas, Detroit, Los Angeles, Miami, New York, Philadelphia, Providence, R.I., Salt Lake City and Seattle.

The Lighter Side

RENO, Nev. (AP) — The groom excused himself from a poker table just minutes before the ceremony. The bride had left a bit earlier to put on a long beige gown and veil.

But many others remained at the gaming tables as Ruth Willson and John Talisman were married Monday in the Sahara-Reno hotel-casino's poker room.

"As far as I could see, nobody even stopped playing poker," said Rev. Frank Murtha, who married the couple. "They just kept playing as if nothing was going on."

Mr. and Mrs. Morton Talisman, the groom's parents from Pasadena, Calif., got up from a nearby blackjack table to witness the ceremony.

"We both love to play cards and we've spent many enjoyable hours here," said Talisman, a professional gambler. Miss Willson is a San Francisco Bay Area card room dealer. "We didn't want to get married some place we'd never been before and would never be again," Talisman said. "We knew all the folks here and it just seemed like a nice thing."

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Don't bet on winning the new Cadillac and 25,000 Susan B. Anthony dollars offered by a Boardwalk casino hotel this weekend.

Officials at Caesars' Boardwalk Regency admit that the chances of your winning the publicity gimmick are a billion to one and of anyone winning at all are about four to one or worse.

The casino hotel has parked the new car, with sparkling dollar coins in its trunk, in its gambling hall and promises to give it all away Sunday night when a celebrity chooses nine numbers from a gigantic popcorn machine.

The winner will be the person whose Social Security number matches the winning number. If the winner is present at the drawing, he will get $100,000 and the car.

But the selection of a nine-digit number makes it a billion-to-one shot that any individual's Social Security number will be picked.

In addition, federal officials say that only about 265 million Social Security numbers have been issued since the 1930s — and that doesn't include cardholders who have died.

"We know people would recognize that this is a tremendous longshot," he said.

casino spokesman William Carlos said Monday. "We're not trying to kid anybody that the odds are great against any individual winning. But there is an exciting feeling, a sense of anticipation."

To continue the hype, Caesars on Monday placed a million Susan B. Anthony dollars in a plexiglass triangle in the casino. Caesars is calling the coins "Suzie B's."

Charity has the best chance of winning the $25,000. Caesars says it will turn it over to an unidentified charity if no one claims the money by Nov. 7.

Cabbie-Priest Combines 2 Jobs

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — There is in this city a priest who earns his living taking women to their jobs at massage parlors and ferrying drinkers to gin mills as a full-time cab driver.

And if that's not enough of a contradiction, this same man was for seven years one of Connecticut's highest-ranking public-health executives.

In between was a life change that ended a $23,000-a-year career and the ownership of a Porsche 914. It propelled the Rev. Arthur Jarvis into the priesthood at a late age, giving this city both its most unusual member of the clergy and its most unusual cabbie.

Jarvis, 46, works for Yellow Cab Co. five days a week. On Sunday afternoons he conducts Mass at St. Paul's Community Catholic Church, which isn't a church in the classic sense. It is simply a group of people who meet at the Hill Center to practice an unorthodox form of Catholicism that disregards some basic Roman Catholic teachings.

He drives a cab because one of the precepts of the community church is that its pastor is not to rely on the parish for support. Instead, he must work.

So on weekday mornings, Jarvis puts on his clerical collar and starts up the cab with the crucifix hanging from the rear-view mirror and sets off

Balloon Forced Down, But Adventurers Safe

VAN WERT, Ohio (AP) — The helium balloon carrying four adventurers trying to make the first transcontinental flight went down near this western Ohio community in a thunderstorm early Tuesday, but the crew was safe, the balloon's flight command post said.

"We were concerned at first about the status of the crew, but they're all OK," said Tom Edmonds, a spokesman for Weather Service Corp. in Bedford, Mass. "We got a communications from them as the balloon was descending and they indicated they were going to use their chutes and jump, but they didn't. They rode the balloon all the way down, and they're all fine."

The Allen County Sheriff's Department reported there had been at least one injury, but there were no details available.

The sheriff's department said the balloon went down near Spencerville, about 15 miles southeast of here in western Ohio.

A spokeswoman for Weather Service Corp., which has been monitoring the balloon's movement, said the last contact with the crew was through a ham radio patch at 11:56 p.m. EDT.

"They said the ground was coming up fast and they were ballasting, dumping everything out," said the spokeswoman, Leslie Edmonds.

Harriet Davis, a dispatcher for the Van Wert County Sheriff's department confirmed reports that the balloon was down. "I have men out looking for it, but they haven't found it yet," she said.

The balloon had last been reported moving through eastern Indiana about 25 miles ahead of a thunderstorm, according to the balloon's command post in St. Louis.

Today In History

By The Associated Press
Today is Wednesday, Oct. 3, the 276th day of 1979. There are 89 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1952, the British exploded their first atomic bomb, in a test off the coast of Australia.

On this date: In 1866, war between Austria and Italy was ended by the Treaty of Vienna.

In 1932, Iraq joined the League of Nations as a British mandate ended.

In 1935, Italy defied a covenant under the League of Nations and invaded Ethiopia.

In 1944, during World War II, U.S. troops cracked the Siegfried Line north of Aachen, Germany.

In 1963, the United States, Britain and the Soviet Union agreed in principle to ban nuclear weapons from space vehicles in orbit.

In 1968, the army in Peru overthrew the government of President Fernando Belunde Terry.

Ten years ago: The threat of a strike against major U.S.

railroads was averted for 60 days as President Richard Nixon set up an emergency fact-finding board.

Five years ago: Former President Nixon asked U.S. District Court Judge John Sirica to quash two subpoenas ordering Nixon's appearance at the Watergate cover-up trial in Washington.

One year ago: The Pentagon said Turkey had agreed to reopen four military bases the U.S. had used for gathering intelligence information from the Soviet Union. The action came after Congress voted to lift an arms embargo against the Turks.

Today's birthdays: Writer Gore Vidal is 54 years old. Orchestra conductor Stanislaw Skrowaczewski is 56.

Thought for today: No one is so poor as he who is ignorant — the Jewish Talmud.

'Nixon Didn't Take Hint'

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Richard Nixon didn't take the hint when President Dwight Eisenhower tried to ease him off the 1956 Republican ticket, says a Carnegie-Mellon University professor who has a gotten a look at Eisenhower's private papers.

Eisenhower stopped short of asking Nixon to step aside, said Dr. John P. Crencine, dean of CMU's college of humanities and social sciences. "He didn't want to fire him outright...but Nixon didn't take the hint."

Crencine said he discovered the anti-Nixon sentiment, plus a little-known intellectual side to the one-time military hero, in Eisenhower's diaries, memos and presidential correspondence. The papers were made available through the Eisenhower Library in Abilene, Kan.

In a transcript of a Feb. 9, 1956, conversation with Republican National Chairman Len Hall, Eisenhower said, "I think that at this moment, if I could have my favorite fellow, my first choice would be Bob Anderson." Anderson was undersecretary of Treasury.

The transcript also shows Eisenhower and Hall discussed how to persuade Nixon to accept a cabinet post instead of running again.

"The easiest thing (would be) to get Nixon out of the picture willingly," Hall is quoted as telling the president. Eisenhower concluded by telling Hall, "Talk to him, but be very, very gentle."

While Nixon impressed Eisenhower as bright and very loyal early in his 1952-56 term, he later irked the president by his arrogant behavior abroad, said Crencine. Nixon is rarely mentioned in Eisenhower's writings during the second administration, Crencine said. Eisenhower also did not campaign for Nixon in 1960, when Nixon was beaten by John F. Kennedy. Nixon reached the White House in 1968.

In a follow-up conversation on April 9, 1956, Eisenhower recounted to Hall a talk with Nixon in which he gave the vice president the choice of staying on the ticket or dropping off, according to a transcript.

"I still insist you must make your decision as to what you want to do," Eisenhower is recorded as telling Nixon. "If the answer is yes, I will be happy to have you on the ticket."

The Nixon episode was a sidelight to Crencine's five years of research into fiscal policymaking from 1948-1972. Crencine said he and two assistants examined "half a million" documents.

He also learned from Eisenhower's extensive diaries, that the former supreme Allied commander of World War II was far from a benign, ineffectual administrator, as he has been portrayed.

"The image of Eisenhower as non-assertive, ineffectual and someone who didn't do his homework is not sustained in the documents," he said. "He was articulate, forceful, and a damned good politician."

Crencine said the diaries reveal a reflective side to Eisenhower that doesn't emerge from his public statements. "It's surprising the number of occasions he found to write down his thoughts about the direction of society and the role of government and its role in the military," the professor said.

Eat Less, Gain Weight?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Eat less and grow slim? Not necessarily so, scientists warn.

As a matter of fact, Americans as a group are eating less and growing fatter at the same time, concludes an Agriculture Department study released Tuesday.

The catch seems to be that while we are consuming fewer calories, we also are getting less exercise.

The findings are based on a survey of information compiled from 1965 to 1977.

"If further analysis of distributions within groups does not explain what is going on, then we probably have to conclude that there have been rather large decreases in physical activity — shifts to more sedentary work — that the national jogging kick has not balanced," said D. Mark Hegstead, administrator of the Agriculture Department's Human Nutrition Center.

Hegstead told a conference on nutrition and the American food system that the decline in caloric consumption is making it more difficult for some segments of the population to consume the "recommended daily allowances" of nutrients.

"Indeed, a 'well-balanced' diet by most definitions will not meet the recommended daily allowance for several nutrients," he said.

He said researchers are beginning "to see some response" to advice to reduce consumption of fat, sugar and salt and to increase consumption of fruits, vegetables and grain products.

But he said the increase in obesity and higher levels of sweeteners and alcohol were discouraging.

In another dietary development, scientists raised the possibility Tuesday that the nation's eating habits could be linked to cancer.

That warning came during a hearing by the Senate Agriculture subcommittee on nutrition. Dr. Arthur C. Upton, head of the National Cancer Institute, told senators the agency will begin studying that possibility, and said some cancer-causing substances already have been found in smoked and grilled meat.

Upton suggested that one way to help avoid cancer would be to keep weight down while eating fruits and vegetables and low fat, high fiber foods.

The subcommittee's chairman, Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., said the government has put too much emphasis on finding cures to cancer rather than ways to prevent the disease.

Dr. Stanley J. Dudrick, chairman of the surgery department at the University of Texas medical school, testified that "the inadequate attention to nutrition must rank as one of the most shameful shortcomings of American medicine today."

Dismembered Body Baffles Authorities

DENTON, Texas (AP) — Sheriff's deputies admit they may have trouble identifying an elderly woman who apparently was killed and cut to pieces.

Texas Highway Department work crews made the initial discovery near Krum, about four miles east of here.

The gruesome discovery prompted a seven-hour search Tuesday afternoon by Sheriff's deputies and Highway Patrolmen. They found parts of her body stuffed in plastic bags and strewn along 17 miles of Highway 380 in Denton and Wise Counties.

They said her teeth and eyes had been removed, possibly to hamper identification.

The remains were taken to Denton County pathologist Dr. Lloyd White for an autopsy, said sheriff's captain Dwight Crawford.

a dismembered body and you'll have to take it at that.

"Tentative identification from the pathologist indicated a middle age to elderly white female," he said. "We have zero suspects."

Investigators said the body parts may have been thrown from a moving vehicle at various overpasses along the roadway between Decatur and Denton.

Crawford said the sheriff's office had no reports of missing persons who would fit the general description of the victim.

Termites generally attack only dead wood or wood products, but a species found in Panama carries fungi with it to kill trees so the insects can eat them.

Nearly half of all adult women will be in the work force by 1985, compared with 39 percent in 1965, the Conference Board projects.

Brownwood Gets Beat, Childress Pressing In

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The closest race for No. 1 in any of the four classifications in The Associated Press Schoolboy Football poll is in Class 2A where Childress is pressing No. 1 rated Pittsburg.

Pittsburg, unscored on in three games this season, scooped up 11 first place votes to only three for Childress but Pittsburg leads by only an 180-172 margin in total points.

Meanwhile, Abilene Cooper in 4A, Jasper in 3A and China

Springs in Class A, all maintained comfortable leads over the runners-up.

Abilene Cooper and La Porte, ranked 1-2 in 4A, both had open dates last week but Cooper still voted 19 of the 20 first place votes for a solid 198-163 lead over La Porte.

There were three upset victims in Class 3A but Jasper, which blasted Crockett, kept the new No. 2 ranked team, Kerrville Tivy, at a safe distance.

Lubbock Estacado, No. 2 last week, lost 7-0 to Class 4A Lubbock Monterey and dropped into eighth place on the Class 3A list.

Defending 3A state champion Brownwood, No. 6 last week, and No. 8 McKinney also suffered their second losses of the season and dropped from the rankings.

San Angelo Lakeview, with only a 15-14 loss to No. 2 Kerrville, moved into the No. 9 position and Pecos, 4-0 is ranked No. 10.

Kerrville, Beaumont Hebert and Paris all moved up one step to second, third and fourth and Gregory-Portland and Gainesville to advance to fifth, sixth and seventh.

San Antonio Randolph dropped from fourth to 10th in the Class 2A rankings after a 7-6 loss to Karnes City and No. 9 Comanche disappeared after a loss to Stephenville and was replaced by Hallettsville, 4-0.

A week of no upsets among the Class A ranks resulted in only minor adjustments involving the bottom five teams.

Fifth ranked Glen Rose and No. 6 Seagraves exchanged places while Dilley, seventh last week, dropped to 10th after an open date.

Troup, which received one first place vote, jumped from 10th to eighth.

Midland Lee, 3-0, and San Antonio Churchill, 4-0, received 11 and 10 points respectively in 4A balloting while Highland Park, which dropped to a 2-1 record, received eight points.

Other Class 3A teams mentioned were Waxahachie, 4-0, 17 points; Bay City, 2-0-1, 13; and Raymondville, 4-0, 12 points including one first place vote.

Unbeaten Hays Consolidated, 4-0, narrowly missed the top 10 in Class 2A with 16 points and Idalou polled 13. Lovelady and Knox City each received 13 points in Class A voting.

Bryant "Bearing" Down On Stag Record

AUBURN, Ala. (AP) — Down here in the lush Alabama plains, when a stranger inadvertently drops the name of Bear Bryant people make an imaginary sign in the air and spit through it.

"I wouldn't say the Bear is very popular hereabouts," says Ralph (Shug) Jordan, former longtime coach of Auburn University's football team, referring to his longtime rival over in Tuscaloosa.

"We've done a lot of leg-pulling in our time but we always have had a fine relationship. Personally, I think Bryant is the best coach in the country."

Such talk is virtual sacrilege but of 'Shug is the only man who could get away with it. He is an untouchable Auburn legend, a tactician who led the Tigers to 175 victories in his 25-year tenure.

He retired in 1975 at the age of 65 but left a legacy of a national championship, 12 bowl teams and a score of All-Americans in addition to having his name carved in concrete on the Jordan-Hare Stadium, being expanded from 61,500 to 72,500 seats.

The Jordan-Bryant rivalry gave a rich flavor to one of the keenest and bitterest football feuds in Dixie. Largely because of the ferocity of the battles, the series between the intrastate universities was stopped in 1907 and not continued until 1948.

"No, I am not surprised that Bryant elected to continue coaching." Jordan said. "I think the Bear will overtake Stagg's record."

The late Amos Alonzo Stagg left the greatest winning mark in college football — 314 victories. Bryant, 66, showing no inclination to retire, is bearing down with a 287-77-16 record, including three this season. He has won four national titles at Alabama.

"It's true that Alabama has a big advantage over everyone in the south in recruiting," Jordan said. "When you find a fine high school prospect, he more often as not will say, 'I want to go to Alabama.' You ask, 'Why?' 'Because,' he will reply, 'I want to play on a national championship team. I want to go to a big bowl.'"

"It's hard to overtake that kind of prestige and historical significance. It's the same with teams like Southern Cal, Michigan, Notre Dame, Oklahoma, Texas and Ohio State.

"Success breeds success." "He (Bryant) has always recruited great quarterbacks — Pat Trammel, Joe Namath, Steve Sloan, Ken Stabler, Scott Hunter, Richard Todd and Jeff Rutledge. But, like a lot of us, he still clings to some of that old Major Neyland (Bob Neyland, Tennessee) doctrine — the kicking game, covering punts and kickoffs, defense."

Shug Jordan was one of the best at using this technique and he had the distinction of being the only coach ever to beat Alabama five in a row, starting in 1954.

"We've got some things that even the Bear hasn't got," he brags with relish. "A Heisman Trophy winner (Pat Sullivan in 1971), a an Outland Trophy winner (Zeke Smith, 1953). We built a hospitality house for our team. The Bear copied it. We enlarged our press box and he did the same. They put my name on our Stadium. Bryant got his name put on his stadium. I kid him about stealing us blind."

AL Playoffs Begin Tonight, Pittsburgh Wins In 11th

BALTIMORE (AP) — The California Angels, with their pitching staff strengthened and armed with a scouting report that even describes the Baltimore crowds, face the favored Orioles with renewed confidence in the opener of the American League playoffs tonight.

"We just got our pitching back to where it was when we left spring training," California Manager Jim Fregosi said prior to the start of the best-of-5 series that shifts to the West Coast Friday for the third game and any more that are necessary.

Fregosi said Nolan Ryan, Dave Frost and Frank Tanana, who will start the first three games in that order, missed close to 60 starts during the regular season for the Western Division champs, who are making their first appearance in postseason play.

"We lost about 30 games when we scored five runs or more," Fregosi said, "and six when we scored at least 10 runs. We scored more than 100 more runs than the Orioles, but they kept their pitching intact all year."

Baltimore had trouble for ailing starters, too, with Scott McGregor out for a month and Jim Palmer, the first game starter, missing about 14 starts because of various elbow, shoulder and back ailments.

The Orioles held a commanding 9-3 edge over the Angels in the season series, but Fregosi said: "I don't think they can take three of those and win the playoffs. We're going in 0-0."

California's potent attack is led by Don Baylor, a former Oriole who drove in 139 runs while hitting 36 home runs. Bobby Grich, another former Oriole, and Dan Ford each had 101 RBI.

"When we traded Frank Robinson in 1972 to make room for Baylor," said Weaver, "we knew he would be a star and had the ingredients to become the Most Valuable Player in the league."

Baylor was traded to Oakland in 1976, in a deal for Reggie Jackson, and joined the Angels the following year in the re-entry draft.

In an effort to stop the Angels, Baltimore Manager Earl Weaver bypassed 23-game winner Mike Flanagan and opted for Palmer, the three-time Cy Young Award winner who posted a 10-6 record in 1979.

Fregosi nominated Ryan, 16-14, who has lost his last six decisions to Baltimore and has a 5-13 lifetime mark against the Orioles.

At practice Tuesday, Fregosi revealed that his scouting report on the Orioles included a section on the record crowds that many observers thought played a major role in helping them to their first division title in five years.

"The crowd probably will be the widest of the year," the report said. "A guy with a full beard and a white hat will have 52,000 people spelling out 'Orioles' the whole game. It will be a wild and enthusiastic crowd, so be ready."

CINCINNATI (AP) — Willie Stargell says he's given out nearly 6,000 gold stars to his teammates for game-winning hits or outstanding plays, but he declined to give himself one for his three-run homer which won the opening game of the National League playoffs.

Stargell's shot to deep right-center field in the 11th inning Tuesday night boosted the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 5-2 victory over the Cincinnati Reds and gave the Pirates the early edge in their best-of-five series.

"Those stars cost about 25 cents apiece," Stargell said, explaining why he wouldn't award himself one. "At the rate I'm giving them out, they're going to bankrupt me."

The Reds sent rookie Frank Pastore to the mound in today's second game against Jim Bibby of the Pirates. Stargell, as usual, was expected to be at first base, batting cleanup for Pittsburgh.

Pittsburgh Manager Chuck Tanner usually lets the 38-year-old Stargell take the day off following a night game, but that won't be the case in the championship series.

"Stargell's going to play the rest of the way," Tanner said. "He's the Most Valuable Player in the league, in my opinion."

Stargell's homer came off loser Tom Hume after Tim Foli and Dave Parker had singled to open the 11th inning.

"If I hadn't done it, somebody else would have," Stargell said. "I was just concentrating on staying down. Bob Skinner told me I'd been pulling out on the ball."

"So when I didn't see the bunt sign, I just closed my eyes and swung," Stargell joked. "The next thing I knew, the ball was going out of the park."

The Pirates scored twice in the third inning as Phil Garner hit a leadoff homer to right field and Omar Moreno tripled, scoring on Foli's sacrifice fly.

Moreno's speed — he was the National League leader in stolen bases with 77 this season — induced right fielder Dave Collins to try to make a shoeing catch of Moreno's sinking liner. But the ball bounced in front of Collins and got through him for a triple.

"Our game plan was to keep Moreno led off the bases," Collins said. "I gambled on the play and it hurt us, but I don't think it cost us the ballgame."

"I did the same thing four innings later on a ball Dave Parker hit, and I made a good play on it."

The Reds got those two runs back in the fourth inning when Dave Concepcion led off with a single and George Foster followed with a towering home run to the second deck behind left-center field.

Cincinnati starter Tom Seaver allowed just two more singles before leaving the game for a pinch hitter.

"Tom felt he could go on, but it was the last half of the eighth inning and we needed one run," said Cincinnati Manager John McNamara. "We had Tom Hume, who has done the job for us all year."

McNamara said losing the opening game of the series merely meant that "it's down to a four-game series for us."

"It's definitely not over. One team has to win three games," McNamara said.

John Candelaria started for Pittsburgh but left after seven innings because his side started bothering him. Tanner used five pitchers altogether, with reliever Grant Jackson getting the

Smith Won't Be Dazzled

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Astros President and General Manager Tal Smith won't be dazzled by big names or gaudy records when he tries to improve the Astros in the off-season trade market.

The crafty Smith, who rebuilt the Astros from a last place team to a pennant contender, also said the massive reaches of the Astrodome would keep him from going after some power hitters.

"Our philosophy has been to deal more with the young non-established player that we feel will become an outstanding player," Smith said Tuesday in reflecting on the Astros' surprising second place finish to Cincinnati in the National League Western Division.

"That's been our game plan in the past and we'll continue to use it. Performances change from year to year and we will stand by our scouting reports in not the record book or past performances."

Another factor in Smith's off-season search involves scouting reports on how players from other teams hit in the Astrodome as compared to other parks.

"A lot of players hit home runs in other parks that would be just fly balls in the Astrodome," Smith said. "In 1978, Atlanta had some power hitters but in nine games in the Astrodome they didn't hit a home run."

Smith also noted that Philadelphia's Mike Schmidt, who hit 45 homers last season compared to Houston's 49 as a team, was not a good long ball hitter in the Astrodome.

"Mike Schmidt is a fine player but in 36 games here over the last five years he has hit only three home runs," Smith said.

When Smith took charge of the Astros in August 1975, he finished 43 12 games out of first place. When the Astros finished their season in Los Angeles Sunday, they were only 12 games behind the champion Reds.

Smith would like to add power to the Astros' attack next season but he won't sacrifice his original game plan—to win the low-scoring games with tight pitching, timely hitting and aggressiveness on the base paths.

"You can win games 1-0 or you can win them 10-9," Smith said. "If we can add power, we'd like to but I'm not going to destroy what we have now."

Houston became the first major league team in 30 years to hit more triples than homers last season, something a power hitter could remedy.

"I suppose a power hitter is on everyone's shopping list but it's not that easy," Smith said. "Trading is an interesting subject and something everyone likes to talk about but in reality it's a hard thing to put over."

Smith said trading is becoming less of a factor in rebuilding a team because of no trade contracts and changes in players' contracts. He said only half of the 26 major league teams made trades that were significant.

A later match between Victor Pecci of Paraguay and Jimmy Connors of the United States was postponed until Thursday because of an unspecified shoulder injury to Connors. Connors is scheduled to play his first match tonight against Vilas while Pecci plays Nastase.

Borger connected on pass plays of 65 and 35 yards in the second quarter to down LaPlata Junior High seventh grade 32-12.

The Mavericks jumped on the scoreboard right away in the first quarter with a 55 yard scoring run by Mark Salas. The extra point conversion was missed and La Plata led 6-0. Borger came right back with two long touchdown passes and converted both extra points for a 16-6 halftime lead.

Borger picked up touchdowns in both the third and fourth quarters on a 34 and 10 yard run.

The Mavericks picked up a final touchdown in the fourth quarter on a 25 yard run by Robbie Snyder. The extra point was converted for a final score of 32-14.

La Plata will entertain Dumas White here at 4 p.m.

Royals Manager Fired

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — By refusing to say why he fired Whitey Herzog, the most successful and popular manager in the 11-year history of the Kansas City Royals, Joe Burke does two things, both bad.

He invites speculation and wild rumor. How dark and hideous could Herzog's sins have been? Surely, no manager who wins 410 games and three division championships in 4½ years while building immense popularity among players, fans and media could be released on a whim.

Or could he? That's bad thing No. 2. For Joe Burke's sake, the Royals better not waste any time regaining the American League West title they just yielded by three games to California.

If they don't win next year, it will be commonly accepted that Herzog was fired because owner Ewing Kauffman just didn't like him. Attendance plummeted and Burke comes off as a bungling milquetoast.

Herzog, in the meantime, will no doubt be holding down a good job with a good organization somewhere. His record as a manager and as a front-office executive with the New York Mets is excellent.

"I accept full responsibility for the decision," Burke said Tuesday.

Moments before, a pale, shaken Herzog had emerged from Burke's office to tell waiting newsmen. "They're not going to renew my contract."

"Only time will tell whether I was right or wrong," said Burke. "I know the fans will disagree because they don't know the reasons why I did it. And the reasons, I will not discuss."

Burke is one of the most courteous, genteel men in baseball. But this hasn't quelled constant criticism from media and fans for failure to land the two or three key players the team's needed to reach the top.

"It's easy for people to criticize who don't know the facts," said Burke. "I know that by not saying why I did it, I'm opening myself wide open for a ton of criticism. But, I'm not going to do anything to hurt Whitey Herzog, the players or the organization. I'll take the brunt of the attack."

Burke insisted there "was no forced pressure from ownership." But few players ever believe this. The strained relationship between the two has become common knowledge, primarily because Kauffman seemed to want it that way. Several times the past two years the self-made millionaire has upbraided Herzog in the presence of others. And one of Kauffman's chief gripes is supposed to be the manager's tendency to criticize players publicly.

Center Hopes For Heisman

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

Arkansas has played three games, so Mike Burlingame figures he's three steps closer to his goal of winning the 1979 Heisman Trophy.

Unfortunately, Burlingame plays center for the Razorbacks and no interior linemen, offensive or defensive, has ever won the Heisman. The only linemen honored were two-way ends Larry Kelley of Yale in 1936 and Leon Hart of Notre Dame in 1949.

But that's not stopping Burlingame, a 6-foot-2, 233-pound senior from Norman, Okla.

"I figure it's about time for an offensive lineman to win it," he says. "Everyone else on the line has a goal, so I need one, too. Phillip Moon (tackle) wants to be governor. George Stewart (guard) wants to be a quarterback. Chuck Herman (left guard) wants to play on the right side of the line in the pros and Greg Kolenda (tackle) wants to get married. I had to come up with a goal, so I figured I'd set my sights high."

But why the Heisman?

"Oh, I've always thought about it, ever since I was in the fourth grade. Even then I was a center, but I wanted to be a receiver or a quarterback eventually. I used to sleep in the same position as that guy on the Wheaties box — you know, arms outstretched, ready to catch a pass."

Rick Schaeffer, Arkansas' sports information director, doesn't put much stock in the burgeoning campaign so Burlingame lined up his own P.R. committee — Stewart, quarterback Kevin Scanlon and running back Thomas Brown. They've ordered 100 bumper stickers reading, "Holding for the Heisman in 1979 — 'Game' No. 50."

"We think they'll be a hot item," says Burlingame. "We're giving away the first 100. Then we'll start selling them. We could become another McDonald's and have franchises all over the country. Everyone on the team wants one and most want two so they can send one home to their parents. You know, spread them all over the area."

"Game," even has it all figured out why he's a shoo-in.

"There are so many great running backs they'll probably split up the votes," he says. "I should get all the center votes. Plus, I have some pretty good selling points. I've never been offside and I touch or am around the ball a lot more than any back."

Temple Coach Wayne Hardin has a secret ambition.

"Temple played in the first Sugar Bowl back in 1935 (Tulane 20, Temple 14)," Hardin says, "and it would be nice to go back."

Hardin knows, of course, that the Sugar Bowl isn't really interested in Temple despite the Owls' 3-1 record. The only blemish is last Saturday's 10-9 loss to Pitt and the Owls crushed Drake, which beat Colorado, which beat Indiana, which beat Iowa 30-26, which was one point more than Nebraska beat the Hawkeyes.

Outdoor grill sparkles

DEAR POLLY — I would like to have some information on cleaning outdoor gas grills, both inside and out. Also, how about the racks? — MRS. D.C.M.

DEAR MRS. D.C.M. — For average cleaning after use, turn the grill on high to burn off the grease, then remove the loose grease with a wire brush. The "burning off" should take about 10 minutes.

For a more thorough cleaning that may not be necessary more than once or twice a season, remove racks, etc. and put in a bucket with hot detergent suds. Soak about 15 to 20 minutes and then scrub with a nylon pad or brass bristled brush. NEVER use steel wool.

The inside of the body can be cleaned with oven cleaner but never put any part in a self-cleaning oven. The exterior can be washed with detergent and then rinsed. If the outside becomes quite worn looking it can be cleaned with stove polish or painted with a paint that will withstand a high temperature. Remember, one can strive to have the grill too clean and lose the "seasoning" like that of a cast-iron skillet. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — Our child is afraid of thunder so we turn a fan on in his room during a storm to help drown out the noise. When the feet in a child's sleepers become worn, cover the bottoms of the feet with iron-on patches. — RITA

DEAR POLLY — I just had to write and tell you how well the boiled linseed oil worked on laminated plastic. My Danish walnut table was severely marked with smudges and everything I had used seemed to make them worse. Thanks to your Pointer it almost looks like new again. — MRS. C.M.

DEAR POLLY — I always make a point of having a raw potato in the house to use for minor burns. Scoop out a hole and stick your finger in the potato. The burning stops and the healing starts. If needed for a larger area I use a potato peeler to make a little pile of raw potato and use it as a poultice. Burning sensation stops immediately. — PHYLLIS

DEAR POLLY — My husband has a favorite ice bucket that is made of cork. It is in perfect condition except the rich dark color of the cork has faded and become dull looking. Is there some way I could restore the nice brown color again? — MRS. W.G.V.

DEAR MRS. W.G.V. — Your question is one of those that has no pat answer and may require a bit of experimenting. If the ice bucket were mine, I would go over the exterior with brown liquid shoe polish using the applicator that comes in the bottle. If some spots are much lighter than others, they might be touched up first. Let dry. Since cork is porous, it might require more than one coat. Test a small area first. After the desired color is attained, a coat of liquid wax could be applied to restore the luster. Good luck! — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — Ever since I started wearing bifocals I have had trouble threading my sewing machine needle. Now I loosen the needle screw, remove the needle, thread and replace it. My frustrations are over. — MRS. J.M.

DEAR POLLY — Before heating milk, I spray the inside of the pan with a no-stick substance and find it much easier to wash the pan after the milk is heated.

When making a gelatin salad or dessert, I put the boiling water in the bowl FIRST and then sprinkle the powder on top and stir. The gelatin dissolves easily. No thick substance settles in the bottom of the container as is often the result when the powder is put in first. — LORRAINE

DEAR POLLY — Always wear flesh-colored panty hose with white pants and there will be no line to mar the straight, clean look of the slacks. — MRS. M.L.M.

Tourist Industry Booms in Italy

ROME (AP) — Venice is fighting "people jams" on its sidewalks, border posts are waving thousands of German and Swiss tourists through every day and Italy's major airports have all but abandoned customs checks in a desperate effort to cope with "human waves."

"We haven't seen anything like it, somebody must have spread rumors that the Colosseum is crumbling and won't last long," says Guido Bruschi, a Rome travel agent.

"I can't get a clear shot of St. Peter's (Basilica) because of all those buses," says Susan Wadsworth, a 21-year-old student from Minneapolis, in exasperation, pointing to dozens of tall, sightseeing buses blocking the St. Peter's Square.

Despite the threat of terrorism, foreign tourists are streaming into Italy in record numbers, and government officials expect the nation's total earnings from tourism will go over the $7 billion mark this year, a whopping 27 percent increase over 1978.

The National Tourist Office (ENTI) says Italy received 15.5 million foreign visitors last year and, based on the first seven months' record, it expects at least a 15 percent increase this year.

What attracts foreigners to Italy?

"You get your money's worth here," says Wiebke Kuhn, a 34-year-old schoolteacher from Hamburg. "The lovely weather, good and relatively inexpensive food, the pope who talks sense, and above all the treasures of art."

In Rome, a tourist can still find restaurants offering a full-course meal for 6,000 lire or $7.50. But inflation, running at 18 percent a year, is already cutting into these bargains.

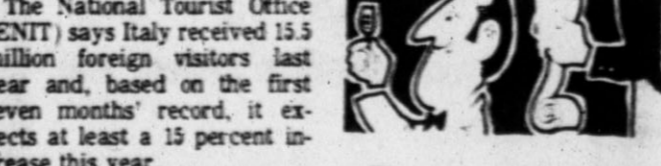

A double room with bath in a good Rome hotel costs more than 50,000 lire, or $62, a year ago. Still, the bus fare in Rome is

HEALTH
Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.
A variety of causes

DEAR DR. LAMB — I wonder if you could advise me. I'm in my middle 80s. Last summer I had an attack of diarrhea. It lasted two weeks, then I had a week of relief from it, followed by another two weeks of diarrhea. I saw the doctor and he said I was O.K.

What would cause me to have diarrhea and will I have it again?

DEAR READER — There are many causes for diarrhea. Sometimes it's simple food poisoning. These are usually caused by bacteria or chemicals that have been formed by a bacteria in food. In addition, a person can have intermittent diarrhea associated with a complication of diabetes or it can be caused by certain medicines. Some people who complain of diarrhea are actually taking laxatives.

Some people, adults in particular, are intolerant to milk and that may cause them to have diarrhea. Others may be taking an antibiotic for an infection and the diarrhea may be a complication of that. Then there are a few people with ulcerative colitis who have recurrent attacks of diarrhea because of ulcerations and changes in the colon itself.

So you can better understand what causes diarrhea and the mechanisms, I am sending you The Health Letter number 13-8: What You Need To Know About Diarrhea. Other readers who want this issue can send 75 cents in check or coin with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Some people have increased intestinal motility. Their intestines contract frequently and strongly. This may be associated with tension and sometimes medications are helpful in controlling this.

You can't really say whether you'll have diarrhea again or not since you really don't know what caused the first episode. I hope not. Most of the ordinary varieties of diarrhea are not dangerous and are self-limiting diseases. The biggest problem is that they wash out too much salt and water from the body and cause a person to feel very tired. In extreme cases, of course, salt and water have to be replaced.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am low in potassium salt but I don't take any diuretics at all. What would cause this deficiency? Would a regular daily vitamin tablet with minerals be sufficient to bring my potassium up to normal? What are some of the foods that have potassium in them?

DEAR READER — It's important to know why you are low on potassium. If you're not taking a diuretic and have not been fasting to lose weight, it would be relatively uncommon. In any case, you'll not get very much potassium in a regular daily vitamin pill with minerals. There may be some potassium but not enough for your purpose.

You'd be far better off to have two or three glasses of orange juice a day or eat several oranges. You could also use bananas or other fresh fruits and fruit juices. The fruits and fruit juices are the best dietary source of potassium. Usually three glasses of orange juice a day provides as much potassium as a doctor would prescribe in potassium pills to raise a person's potassium level.

There is no way I can tell you whether an irregular heartbeat in your case is important or not. It's important to know whether you have any symptoms and what your other physical findings are, and the results of a good medical examination.

I can tell you that many young healthy people have sporadic irregular heartbeats that mean nothing at all in terms of heart disease or any other medical disease. I observed these frequently in healthy young members of the U.S. Air Force flying crew. And, indeed, almost all the astronauts had an occasional irregular heartbeat. The truth is we all have an irregular beat now and then if we were able to check our records on a

DEAR DR. LAMB — I had a physical for a job and they told me I had an irregular heartbeat. I don't have the money for a good physical so I'm wondering what this means at my age of 25. Does it mean I have to limit my activity? Also does it mean I could have a heart attack? What causes this? I'd appreciate any information you could give me.

DEAR READER — Your letter distresses me because it means that you've been deeply concerned about a medical problem which may or may not be important. It is my personal opinion that anyone within the medical profession, whether it's a technician, office assistant, nurse or doctor, who finds any evidence of a medical problem should make it very clear to the patient what the finding is and whether or not it has any real significance.

Meanwhile, if you're not having any symptoms from it and you feel healthy otherwise, I think the best thing for you to do is ignore it unless you can afford to get a medical examination of sufficient detail to establish what you really have.

These irregular beats are sometimes made worse by people's life style. You can help prevent them by avoiding cigarettes, coffee, tea, colas, chocolate or any source of caffeine. In healthy people such extra beats will sometimes decrease as they improve their level of physical fitness.

If you are not in good shape, why don't you start a gradual exercise program? You could start by walking about 15 minutes a day and gradually build up to walking as much as an hour at a time. Do this every day and then progress to something more if you like. At your age, with the change in habits that I recommended above, that could be a big help to you.

tion of Sentiments laid the foundation for the women's-rights struggle.

The document, which states in its preface that "all men and women are created equal, demanded that women be given more equitable tax and divorce laws, job equality and the right to attend college and to vote in elections.

Rebecca Holden, president of the hall, says nominations to the hall are screened by a 10-member research committee, which then passes its recommendations to a national honors committee for a final decision.

Leaders in Many Fields Honored In New Women's Hall of Fame

SENECA FALLS, N.Y. (AP) — The place where the national women's-rights movement began in 1848 is a laundromat today in this picturesque central New York village.

But less than two blocks away, a more lasting memory to the birth of the women's-rights struggle survives in the recently opened national Women's Hall of Fame.

The idea for a hall was conceived 11 years ago when a group of Seneca Falls women sat down to tea and decided women who had made significant contributions to American history should be honored.

"There was no place to come to learn about the women who have contributed to this country," said Carole Stallone, executive secretary of the hall.

"There's a football hall of fame and a hockey hall, but there aren't any women honored in these various fields."

The women organized and chartered a hall of fame in 1969 and then began a 10-year campaign to find the permanent headquarters necessary to "make it viable."

A $152,000 fund drive last fall finally made that dream possible, and this past summer the hall moved from its temporary headquarters to a permanent home in the old Seneca Falls Savings Bank.

A list of the hall's 23 members reads like a Who's Who directory of women who have excelled in fields ranging from the arts to aviation.

There is actress Helen Hayes, poet Emily Dickinson, novelist Pearl S. Buck, conservationist Rachel Louise Carson, anthropologist Margaret Mead and aviation pioneer Amelia Earhart.

Other well-known women enshrined in the hall include Helen Keller, Eleanor Roosevelt and Margaret Chase Smith, the former U.S. senator from Maine.

Coincidentally, five women honored in the hall all lived in the Finger Lakes region of central New York during the last half of the 19th century. These women are honored in a special section of the hall, which contains exhibits dedicated to each of the inducted women.

Perhaps the best known of these New York women is Elizabeth Cady Stanton, who lived in Seneca Falls and with Quaker leader Lucretia Mott planned a convention in July of 1848 to discuss women's rights.

Sugar Beet Field Day Scheduled for Tomorrow

By JIM STEIERT
Brand Farm Editor

The USDA Research Center at Bushland will host a field day and tour covering the latest developments in sugar beet research in the Texas Panhandle tomorrow beginning at 9:30 a.m. near the greenhouses at the Bushland facility.

Recent research on methods to improve yields and performance from beets under a variety of conditions will be covered by Dr. Steve Winter, who conducts sugar beet research with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station at the center.

Winter's work with beets under limited irrigation and dryland conditions has garnered particular attention during the past two years, as the researcher has found that beets have no critical reproductive stage at which they must have water, and will respond to an irrigation application whenever water becomes available.

According to Winter, new methods available to growers today could enable them to average 25 tons of sugar beets per acre with a sugar content of 16.5 percent.

"My research shows that technology and methods are available to produce high tonnage and sucrose with only occasional hand labor," Winter commented.

Winter is expecting this year's test plots to give yields very similar to 1978 when up to 43 tons of beets per acre were produced in some plots with sugar content of 17.5 percent.

Nine levels of beet irrigation along with a limited irrigation experiment involving only one water application in July will be reviewed during tomorrow's tour.

Fertility trials involving various levels of phosphate, zinc, boron and nitrogen will also be featured, and tour stops will include an advanced variety trial, furrow blocking experiments and a root rot study.

Sponsors of the tour include the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, USDA, Science and Education Administration, the Texas-New Mexico Sugar Beet Growers Association, and Holly Sugar Corporation.

TSCRA President Testifies for Import Law

FORT WORTH — The president of the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association has presented testimony in Washington, D.C. strongly supporting amendments that would strengthen the 1964 Meat Import Act.

John B. Armstrong, representing 14,000 calf/calf producers in Texas, Oklahoma and surrounding states, told the subcommittee on international trade of the Senate Finance Committee that "We are already dependent on other countries for our oil supply. The last thing we want and need is for this country to become dependent on foreign beef and meat supplies as well. Failure to enact this legislation (S.B.55) into law eventually could contribute to that kind of result."

The new legislation proposes a countercyclical import quota which allows imports to increase when domestic beef output has declined and decreases imports when U.S. production becomes plentiful.

Armstrong said the bill is anti-inflationary because it has a stabilizing effect on domestic cattle prices. It encourages cattlemen to rebuild their herds because it smooths out the highs and lows of the cattle cycle.

Last year, the Carter Administration pocket-vetoed similar legislation. This was done over the objections of TSCRA and cattlemen throughout the nation.

"That action adversely affected the confidence of cattlemen and delayed the buildup in breeding herds necessary for increased beef supplies," Armstrong said. The new legislation spells out in detail the circumstances under which the President may increase meat imports beyond quota levels.

The U.S. currently imports 30 percent of all beef traded in the world market and provides beef-exporting nations with about seven and one-half percent of its domestic market, Armstrong said. On the export side, in 1979, the U.S. will sell only two-tenths of one percent of domestic production.

Many U.S. cattlemen believe that beef-exporting nations use the U.S. as a dumping ground for their periodic surpluses and Armstrong underscored this feeling by saying, "It is obvious to us that beef trade is not a two-way street, especially with the tariffs, trade barriers and restrictions on beef imports imposed by Japan and the European Economic Commu-

ity. This legislation would take a lot of politics out of the world trade issue."

Washington observers generally agree that the legislation is in strong hands and will pass.

despite previous arguments with the Administration over the minimum import levels. A compromise figure of 1.25 billion pounds was reached in negotiations between procattlemen legislators and the Administration recently. The Administration set the 1979 quota at 1.57 billion pounds, but so far, exporting nations have been unable to meet the quota.

Hearings Held On Bentsen Beef Bill

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Senator Lloyd Bentsen recently presided over hearings on the Bentsen Counter-cyclical Beef Import Bill, similar to legislation approved by Congress but vetoed by the President last year.

The hearings were before the Senate Finance Subcommittee on International Trade.

"Aggravation of the cattle cycle, caused by the pro-cyclical formula in the current meat import law, only makes the lows lower and the highs higher,"

Bentsen said in his opening statement.

"It bankrupts the young cattleman, the rancher who's just starting out, and then a year or two later it leads to higher prices across the counter for the consumer."

The Bentsen bill would replace the pro-cyclical Meat Import Act of 1964. The counter-cyclical approach proposed by Bentsen would allow fewer beef imports into this country when domestic supplies are abundant and more imports when domestic supplies dwindle. The pro-cyclical approach in existing law has the reverse effect, allowing more imports as domestic supplies increase.

The Bentsen bill was approved by Congress last year but vetoed by the President after Congress adjourned. A new version of the bill, offered by Bentsen this year, increases somewhat the President's authority to raise import quotas when domestic beef supplies are short.

"I understand that my modification of this legislation has been agreed to by both the Administration and the cattle industry and I am hopeful that the question of Presidential discretion—which I understand was a key factor in last year's veto—has been resolved," Bentsen said.

"Enactment of a counter-cyclical meat import bill is long overdue. I hope that these hearings can help reach a consensus on this issue which will lead to speedy enactment of this much-needed legislation," Senator Bentsen said.

NCGA Names Soleta Alcohol Director

Bob Soleta is the Director of Alcohol Fuels Program for the National Corn Growers Association, a newly-created staff position of the NCGA. A farmer-businessman from Windom, Minnesota and a former administrator of the National Gasohol Commission, Soleta also served as an agribusiness consultant to the Minnesota Department of Economic Development.

Soleta says that the U.S. agricultural system has been misidentified as merely a food/feed production system rather than a renewable energy and materials production system. Also, that the conversion of excess starch/sugar from farm crops to alcohols is the true and proper method of concentrating the nutrition of cereal grains for improved and expanded world feed supplies. Ethanol is the by-product of this product.

After 23 years of agribusiness and community development in Minnesota, Soleta is dedicated to the role of spokesman for the National Corn Growers Association to bring this message to the farmers of America.

Gifford-Hill Will Acquire Amcord

DALLAS — Gifford-Hill & Co., Inc. and Amcord, Inc. have announced that Gifford-Hill has purchased from William T. Pascoe, III, Chairman of the Board and Chief Executive Officer of Amcord, 441,176 shares of Amcord common stock for $34 per share. Gifford-Hill and Mr. Pascoe and certain other shareholders of Amcord have entered into agreements for Gifford-Hill to purchase additional shares of Amcord common stock at the same price.

Together, these holdings represent approximately 20 percent of the common stock of Amcord.

Gifford-Hill intends to enter into a cash merger agreement with Amcord to acquire the balance of Amcord's outstanding common stock at $34 per share pursuant to which a cash tender offer for any and all shares of Amcord common stock will be made. It is expected that the tender offer will commence on or about October 30, 1979. There are approximately 6,900,000 shares of Amcord common stock outstanding, including these held by Mr. Pascoe.

The transactions are subject to the approval of the Boards of Directors of both Amcord and Gifford-Hill at meetings to be held the week of October 8, 1979 and various other conditions.

Gifford-Hill, based in Dallas, Texas, is primarily engaged in the production and sale of construction materials, metal building products and irrigation products and in the specialized transportation of commodities.

Amcord, based on Newport Beach, California, is a producer of portland cement, building systems and components and leisure products.

Stricter Vaccine Rules Are Proposed by USDA

WASHINGTON — Public comments will be accepted until Nov. 21 on a U.S. Department of Agriculture proposal to restrict the use of four veterinary biological products.

Under the proposal, tuberculin-PPD bovis—used to test cattle for tuberculosis—and rabies vaccines would be limited to use by or under the direction of a veterinarian. The distribution and sale of brucellosis vaccine and antigen—already limited to use by or under the direction of a veterinarian—would have even stricter controls on distribution.

Veterinarians of the department's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service said the restrictions would reduce the misuse of these biologics. It would also help strengthen programs to eliminate tuberculosis, brucellosis and rabies by giving state animal health officials flexibility in controlling the use of each product in accordance with local needs.

The proposed change is being made at the request of a number of professional groups, including the U.S. Animal Health Association, the American Veterinary Medical Association and the Conference of State and Territorial Epidemiologists.

Notice of the proposal is scheduled to be published in the Sept. 21 Federal Register. Comments should be sent to the deputy administrator, veterinary services, APHIS, USDA, rm. 828-A, Federal Building, Hyattsville, Md., 20782, where they will be available for public inspection during regular business hours.
