

Tax Board Moves on Central School Location

By JIM STEIERT
Managing Editor

After a number of slow-moving sessions the Deaf Smith County tax appraisal board marked real progress toward establishing a central appraisal and collection office here during a regular session held last night in the board room of Deaf Smith General Hospital. Board members accepted a tentative budget after hearing a proposal from Hereford Independent School District Superintendent Dr. Harrell Holder providing for a complete upgrading of facilities in the old Central School building by building trades students, thus providing suitable space for a central appraisal and collection office. Under Dr. Holder's proposal, space on the first floor of the Central School building would be used to house the tax office.

Complete reconditioning of the area would be performed by building trades classes from the school system, with the space then made available to the tax district at basically the cost of reconditioning. "The reconditioning should cost less than $40,000 and would involve work including installation of paneling on all the walls, a new dropped ceiling, total new wiring, new lighting, carpeting, air conditioning and heating. The facility would be totally reconditioned with the exception of the door facings," stated Dr. Holder.

Tax board Chairman Bruce Coleman reported that the space would be made available basically at the cost of renovation and the cost could be paid back to the school district over a five year period, after which a $1 per year rent arrangement might be made.

"Board members went over and looked at the building and also looked at some similar work done by the building trades classes and after viewing the work, we voted to pursue locating at the old Central School building under the arrangement suggested by Dr. Holder," stated Coleman.

propose alterations in the budget which they feel are advisable. The budget will then be officially adopted and figures will be placed in the contracts for the entities and sent back to them for their signatures," stated Coleman. "We will go ahead with our plans and try to temporarily house the assessing process in the county's current offices and the collecting process at the school tax office. When renovation is complete we will move everything into one location at Central School," he continued.

With a projected location finally in their sights and some tentative cost figures for establishing a central tax office here finally in hand, tax board members then turned their attention to the matter of a budget, which has been delayed for the past several sessions due to lack of information on an office location and cost.

Dr. Holder informed the tax board that renovations at Central School will probably be completed sometime in the early summer of 1981.

Board members tentatively accepted a budget based on cost figures for renovating the Central School space and then scheduled a budget hearing for Nov. 7 at 2 p.m. at city hall.

Coleman indicated that the estimated cost of renovation can be paid over a five year period that will cover the school's cost and interest, and also allow a contingency fund of about $200 per month.

"By Tuesday the proposed budget will have been delivered to all of the entities to be involved in the central tax office, and a hearing is required to be held at least 10 days later for budget consideration. All of the taxing bodies will be invited to attend and offer comments or

"Nobody will be making any money off anyone else with this plan," Coleman stated. "We couldn't match this plan in terms of housing in any other facilities we could find considering cost to the taxpayer," he added.

More Burglary Attempts Noted

Hereford police logged reports of two more attempted burglaries in the downtown area of the city last night, bringing the week's total to three attempts and one successful entry into a local business which resulted in theft losses in excess of $13,000.

The latest attempted burglaries were reported at Little's Department Store at 237 North Main and at Western Auto at 241 North Main.

Thieves at both locations attempted to gain entry by prying open the back door, but failed in their attempts Thursday night.

Earlier this week, an attempted burglary was reported at the C.R. Anthony store in downtown Hereford, while Stairway to Fashion in downtown Hereford was broken into and dresses, jewelry and other items valued at $13,152 were taken.

Thieves used the same mode of operation in all of the incidents, leading police to believe the same culprits are responsible in all of the instances.

The J.C. Penney store in Sugarland Mall informed police that a man entered the store yesterday and walked off with a jacket valued at $85.

Doyle Hemphill of 208 Northwest Drive reported the theft of a bicycle valued at $50.

Rosemary Tijerina of 718 Ave. G reported that she was assaulted during a family disturbance last night but no charges were filed in the incident.

Police investigated several instances of minor Halloween vandalism.

Patrolling officers discovered a broken window at Max's Big Burger at 711 First Street Thursday morning and further investigation revealed that $240 had been taken from the business, while approximately $30 worth of damage was inflicted in the break-in.

Candidates Talk Shakespeare, Hollywood in Hot Campaigning

By The Associated Press

Ronald Reagan evoked Shakespeare to criticize Jimmy Carter and the president suggested sending the former actor back to Hollywood as the two candidates campaigned furiously toward the denouement of the 1980 election.

But whatever drama there was in the campaign Thursday came more from possible embarrassments to the candidates than from their on-the-road rhetoric.

For Reagan, there was the withdrawal from the campaign of his chief foreign policy adviser amid a controversy, and for Carter, the disclosure of a Justice Department report criticizing him in the handling of the Billy Carter-Libya affair.

The campaign rhetoric had Reagan continuing to hammer away at Carter's economic policies — "a tragic comedy of errors," he dubbed them — while the president again harped on the Republican's statements about calling out the troops.

"Let's make sure that we don't have to find out when he'll call for use of American military forces next year by sending him back to Hollywood, California, where American military forces won't listen to his voice," Carter said at a rally in New York's garment district.

Independent candidate John Anderson was making a last desperate bid to get Carter to debate him, meanwhile, calling on the president to make good on the statement that he would consider other debate challenges after his face-to-face meeting with Reagan.

Anderson's lawyer, Mitchell Rogovin, sent a telegram to Carter campaign manager Robert Strauss reminding the president of his pledge. While there was no immediate answer, it was highly unlikely Carter would debate Anderson in the last crush of the campaign.

Today, both major party candidates were again racing from political rally to political rally, Carter trying to keep an uneasy hold on his native South, and Reagan trying to tie up large and as yet undecided industrial states in the Northeast and Midwest. Anderson was campaigning in New England and New York.

The Reagan campaign announced Thursday that foreign policy adviser Richard V. Allen was withdrawing from the camaign. That came two days after the Wall Street Journal reported he used his influence, while he was in the Nixon White House, to obtain lucrative consulting contracts. Allen has denied any wrongdoing.

"He withdrew, so in the last few days he will not become an issue," said Reagan, who had turned the Allen matter over to his chief of staff, Ed Meese.

Meese issued a statement saying, "It is clear that any allegation or implication of improper conduct is untrue. Allen continues to have the full confidence of Ronald Reagan and the campaign organization."

The president's troubles came with the disclosure of a Justice Department report (See CAMPAIGN, Page 2)

Hostage Release Hinted Anew

By The Associated Press

Iran has drafted a "just method" for releasing the 52 American hostages, Tehran radio said today, and Swedish airline officials reported a request for a standby airliner, possibly to fly the hostages out of Iran.

The radio statement said Iran's hostage plan, which it did not detail, should not be viewed as a sign of weakness because it will "expose the long criminal history of the U.S.A."

Tehran radio announced today that President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr would hold a news conference Saturday, but shortly afterward a spokesman said the conference was cancelled because the president had to "get out of town on urgent business." There was a brief flurry of speculation the conference had been called to deal with new developments in the hostage crisis.

In Stockholm, airline officials said a 199-seat DC-8 airliner is on standby possibly to fly the hostages out of Tehran on two-hour notice. The officials of Scanair, a subsidiary of SAS, Scandinavian Airline System, told reporters an unidentified company in London, acting on behalf of an undisclosed client, made the request.

Swedish Foreign Ministry spokesman Erik Pierre said the Foreign Ministry had been notified by Scanair of the request for a plane.

Foreign Minister Ola Ullsten, in a separate phone call to The Associated Press, said "the Foreign Ministry is not involved in this case." The U.S. State Department declined to comment on the report.

In Washington, a State Department official who asked not to be identified said he was aware of the Tehran radio commentary, but "actions speak louder than words."

George Havens, a spokesman for the department's Iran Working Group, said the United States is hoping that the Iranian Parliament will make a favorable decision Sunday on release of the hostages.

Three days of Parliament debate on the hostages ended in sharp disagreement Wednesday and a public session scheduled for Thursday was postponed because recalcitrant deputies staged a boycott and prevented a quorum. They said they did not want any action on the hostages until after the U.S. presidential elections and did not want to help President Carter.

Prime Minister Mohammad Ali Rajai, in a separate statement, said Iran was not prepared to "accept becoming servants of the U.S.A." to obtain spare military parts it claims the Carter administration owes it.

"The spare parts which the arch Satan owes us we will (See HOSTAGE, Page 2)

That feller on Tierra Blanca Creek says go get 'em Herd, knock those Coronado Mustangs off the unbeaten list!

We hope that Whiteface Stadium will be packed tonight when the Herd takes on the state-ranked Mustangs of Lubbock Coronado. It promises to be quite a football game.

The Whitefaces are in a must-win situation against the unbeaten Mustangs. But, win or lose, we're sure the Herd will give its best, and they need all of us there for moral support.

Coronado is ranked 7th in the state by one poll, but is ranked 61st in the Harris Poll. The latter poll has Plainview ranked one point above Coronado, while Hereford is rated No. 115—just eight points back of the Mustangs.

Polls, however, just give us something to talk about and provide a relative power rating. The important thing is how the teams execute on the field tonight, and we think the Whitefaces will be ready to give a strong battle against the Mustangs.

Hereford's overall athletic program is strong this year, and the Whiteface Booster Club has responded with positive support under the leadership of Bob Josseland. The club sent out a newsletter to members this week. It outlined the success of current programs and listed basketball scheduled. This is a unique activity for the club, and we tip our hat to these loyal fans!

Another report meeting is scheduled this afternoon for the United Way campaign, and we hope for a big increase in the total pledged. The employee division just got going this week, so a big addition to the overall goal should be reported by another week.

The advance and special gifts from business firms got the drive off to a good start, but the community must have a strong employee division total in order to reach the goal. We urge employees to consider giving a fair share, and payroll deduction is an easy way to do that!

Would you believe Ralph Nader has gone to Hollywood? He will not star in a movie. His plans are much worse than that. He hopes to form a coalition of anti-establishment, environmentalist-type movie stars and producers. The objective will be to produce movies to promote Nader's ideas and causes.

According to some reports, the movement came as an outgrowth of the success of the Jane Fonda movie, "China Syndrome." The horror movie was based on a nuclear power plant story that was filled with unfactual and impossible situations.

Apparently the group feels they can stir up folks on many environmental themes that will not only make money for the producers but also promote Ralph's causes. And, Nader needs a boost because folks are beginning to realize what some of his promotions are doing to jobs, the economy and our ability to deal with the energy crisis and inflation in general.

Sr. Citizens in Close Brush With Cold

By ALLISON RYAN

The Hereford Senior Citizens were almost left literally in the cold following an announcement by the Community Action Agency that it will move its office from the old Central School building that the two organizations have been sharing as headquarters.

But some quick negotiations with the Hereford Independent School District have apparently eased the problem of heating the Senior Citizens facilities, at least for the moment.

The Senior Citizens Center was put in somewhat of a bind by the announcement from the Community Action Agency, due largely to the fact that CAA had been paying the utility bills incurred at the old school building.

According to Marjorie Daniels, director of the Senior Citizens Center, the building, located at 406 W. 4th, is heated by an old boiler and special care is needed to operate it.

"While Community Action was here, a Green Thumb worker was employed to service the boiler. A lot of expense and work is needed to keep the boiler running, and Community Action always took care of it," Mrs. Daniels said.

The school building is still owned by the Hereford Independent School District.

Mrs. Daniels and Dr. Harrell Holder, HISD superintendent, met this week to see if some arrangement could be made for continuing to heat the Senior Citizens Center.

Dr. Holder reported that following a meeting with Mrs. Daniels an agreement was reached under which the HISD will continue to operate the boiler this winter, while the Senior Citizens Center Works out more permanent arrangements on heating and utilities.

"The school district will probably operate the boiler this winter, but we can't be spending $3,000 to $4,000 all the time to keep the boiler operating. The school district will handle the boiler this winter and then leave it up to the Senior Citizens to find (See COLD, Page 2)

Although the Hereford Senior Citizens Center was without heat for a short time, work continued as usual as those using the facility made the best of the situation. Here, Mary Newman, Roy Morton and Marjorie Daniels, director, work together to begin the lining of a quilt. The Senior Citizens Center ran into a utilities problem when the Community Action Agency announced that it was moving its offices from the Central School building the organizations shared. Two Men Dead; Policeman Wounded

LAREDO, Texas (AP) — Investigators were attempting to determine what ignited a gun battle that killed two men and left a policeman wounded after an undercover investigation of a gang suspected of mugging illegal aliens in this border city.

Police said the shootout occurred about 9 p.m. Thursday when undercover police and Webb County sheriff's deputies encountered the men near a railroad line in a largely Hispanic section of the city.

Authorities suspected the gang of robbing Mexicans crossing the Rio Grande into the United States.

The identities of the dead men were being withheld pending notification of relatives. Police officer Tony Reyes was in good condition in Mercy Hospital with a bullet wound in the leg, authorities said.

Police Chief Victor Garcia said it had not been determined which group opened fire. Two witnesses told officers they heard about 25 shots.

The task force had dressed as Mexicans crossing the border to try to lure the gang of muggers, police said.

Man Rescues Boy;

Lifts 1,800 Pounds

SOUTHGATE, Mich. (AP) — Arnold Lemerand says he avoided picking up heavy things after a heart attack six years ago. But he didn't stop to think before picking up a 1,800-pound cast iron pipe to save 5-year-old Philip Toth, officials say.

According to Philip's mother, Patricia Toth, and Southgate Police, the child was playing on one of several 18-foot lengths of pipe near their kindergarden when one of the pipes rolled slightly.

Philip fell under it. "I was getting out of my car when I heard these teenage girls screaming," Lemerand, 56, said Thursday of the incident the day before. "The pipe was on his head. He couldn't make any noise."

"I just walked over, picked it up, and the girls dragged him out of there. When I picked it up I thought it must weigh 300 or 400 pounds."

When Lemerand went back later, he could not budge the pipe. Neither could his grown sons, 33-year-old police officer John Piquard or newspaper reporters and photographers.

"God just had to have given him a surge of strength, that's why my son is still here," said Mrs. Toth.

Philip was undergoing tests at a Lincoln Park hospital, she said, but could be released today.

White: Candidates'

Names Public Record

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The names of unsuccessful candidates for school superintendent or police chief are too important to the public to keep them secret, Attorney General Mark White has held, reversing his earlier opinion.

White responded to inquiries from William Bingham, lawyer for the Austin Independent School District, and Robert Nordhaus, city attorney of Plano.

His opinion reversed a previous holding that names of unsuccessful applicants could be withheld from the public if they could show disclosure would jeopardize their present jobs.

White said he based the original opinion on a 1978 Florida court decision, which was reversed this year by that state's Supreme Court.

White said the request to the Austin Independent School District seeks the names and addresses of all original applicants for the superintendent's job, as well as the names of the seven finalists selected by a screening committee.

The request to Plano, he said, seeks the names of the 11 finalists for police chief.

"This information, consisting as it does merely of names and addresses, has no relation to any of the 'zones of privacy' delineated by the United States Supreme Court and adopted by the Texas Supreme Court" in a 1976 case, White said. Therefore, he said, "its disclosure could not possibly infringe upon the constitutional privacy of any individual."

NYC Woman

Arrested in Manila

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — President Ferdinand Marcos announced today the arrest of a Filipino woman from New York City who he said has "tearfully confessed" to planting the bomb that injured 18 people at an American tourist agents' convention earlier this month.

Marcos identified the woman as Doris N. Baffrey, who he said is a Filipina married to an American. She had been working as a contract employee at the Philippine Tourism Office in New York, he said.

Fifteen other people linked to previous terrorist bombings had also been arrested in connection with the Oct. 19 explosion, Marcos said, but he did not release their names.

The announcement came in a presidential palace news release based on an interview Marcos had with local reporters.

The release said Mrs. Baffrey "tearfully confessed that she thought the device she had planted at the (convention center) was just an oversized firecracker and that nobody would get hurt."

It said that while the woman was alone when she planted the device, one other accomplice was in the vicinity.

Iraqi Artillery Pounds Abadan

BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP) — Iraqi artillery pounded residential districts of Iran's oil refinery city of Abadan with a "murderous barrage" today as diehard Iranian revolutionary guardsmen fought to block an Iraqi tank attack on the beleaguered city, Iran's official Tehran Radio said.

Iraq said its forces completed the encirclement of Abadan today and its infantry and armor "mopped one pocket after another of Persian enemy resistance" in preparation for a final drive on the island city, Iran's main stronghold on the eastern coast of the embattled Shatt al-Arab waterway.

The governor's office in Abadan reported six persons injured by Iraqi shellfire, Tehran Radio said. It also reported two Iranians killed in running clashes with Iraqi troops on the main Abadan-Bandar Shahpur highway.

Iraq claims its forces severed Abadan's highway, railway and pipeline links with the rest of Iran, including Tehran, two weeks ago and have since been pounding the besieged city of 350,000 with air raids and artillery fire to soften its defenses. Abadan's giant refinery complex, which provided 60 percent of Iran's petroleum products, has been in flames since the early in the 40-day-old war.

Tehran Radio said revolutionary guards continued to hold the vital river bridge connecting Abadan with Iran's oil port city of Khorramshahr, nine miles to the north. The bridge is the key link in Iraq's long-awaited drive on Abadan.

An Iraqi tank commander told Western correspondents in Khorramshahr on Thursday that he was waiting for orders to send a demolition team to check that the Iranians had not wired the bow-shaped concrete bridge with explosives before he storms it with his tanks. He said he expected Iraqi forces to cross the bridge within the next day or two.

The visiting reporters, escorted by Iraqi Information Ministry officials, found Iraqi forces in control of Khorramshahr, which Iraq said it overran a week ago. But they said Iranian defenders still held the bridge to Abadan.

"The heros of Islam are again preventing the heretic forces of Iraq from the crossing" the Khorramshahr bridge, Tehran Radio said.

It also accused Iraqi forces of "raiding and looting" civilian homes in Khorramshahr and said "enemy positions west of the river in the city are being bombed by Iranian artillery and warplanes."

The radio claimed two of Iraq's Soviet-made MiG jet fighters were shot down and one tank was destroyed in action along the rest of the 300-mile-long warfront in western and southwestern Iran.

The Iraqi military command claimed its troops killed 64 Iranian soldiers when the Iranian's tried to break through an Iraqi siege line near the town of Qasr-e-Shirin on the northern end of the border Thursday night. A communique said 28 Iraqis were killed in the fighting.

It also claimed two U.S.-made F-5 Iranian jets were brought down by ground fire during a Thursday night raid on the northern Iraqi city of Suleimaniyah that killed one civilian and wounded two others.

Men Escape

Injury

In Wreck

Two men escaped serious injury in a semi-truck pickup collision west of Hereford at the Caviness Packing Co. intersection 1.1 miles west of the city on Highway 60.

According to an investigating DPS officer a 1979 Chevy Blazer pickup driven by Nick Milburn, 77, and a 1979 International tractor-trailer driven by Steven Monasco, 23, collided at the intersection.

The force of the impact reportedly knocked the front axle from beneath the truck.

Although two ambulances were dispatched to the scene, along with units of the Hereford Volunteer Fire Department, neither of the drivers required hospitalization.

Texas Briefs

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP) — The wife of a slain U.S. border patrol agent was charged with murder Thursday in connection with her husband's shooting death.

Justice of the Peace Roy Weaver set a $5,000 bond for Selina Veloz, 29, who was arrested Wednesday night and put in the Cameron County jail, Texas Ranger Bruce Casteel said.

The body of Jose Jorge Veloz, 28, was discovered Saturday afternoon by fellow officers when he failed to show up for work. He had been shot once in the head, said Gene Wood, chief border patrol agent in McAllen.

The body was found in the couple's Los Indios home. Veloz had joined the border patrol June 2 and only recently graduated from its training academy.

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP) — A federal judge has tossed out charges against two seafood businessmen who were accused of illegally importing and selling 8½ tons of meat from the Pacific Ridley turtle.

Pat Pace, owner of Pace Fish Co. of Brownsville, and Ben Soloff, a Philadelphia seafood distributor, were indicted by a federal grand jury in July following a year-long investigation by a special U.S. Justice Department task force.

Judge Filemon Vela said Wednesday that government lawyer Joe Toro failed to present enough evidence in 1½ days of testimony to prove his case.

Vela said Pace may have violated the law when he brought turtle meat into the county labeled as fish filets, but added the government had not proved the meat was from the endangered Pacific Ridley species.

DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas Times Herald endorsed Ronald Reagan for president in an editorial in Thursday's editions.

The Republican nominee was described as "a man of experience in government who is devoted to individual freedom, economic stability and military strength."

Gov. Reagan demonstrated, during his eight years as governor of California, an ability to work effectively with diverse groups and an understanding of the need to restrain as much as possible government intrusion into private lives and into business affairs," the newspaper said.

The Times Herald endorsed Gerald Ford for president in 1976.

drag out of his throat," he told a cheering crowd attending Friday prayers at Tehran University. Iran is believed to be in need of parts for the old U.S. military equipment it is using in its war with Iraq.

Tehran Radio did not describe the "just method" for a hostage release nor did it attribute the statement to any Iranian official. But it appeared to be a reference to conditions for the Americans' release proposed by a special commission planning to make its report to Parliament, the Majlis, if the assembly discusses the hostage issue at a meeting scheduled Sunday.

"I really do appreciate the attitude of the school system and what they're doing to try and help us. It makes it a lot more pleasant to try and accomplish something when everyone is working with you, and all of the entities have remained on good terms through this process," Coleman remarked.

Coleman pointed out that while the central tax office will handle two basic functions here—appraisal and collection, re-appraisal work will also have to be considered somewhere down the line.

"You can either contract out re-appraisal work or develop your own in-house process, and we feel that we can eventually save money by doing it ourselves, although it is an expense that will raise the tax appraisal district's budget once we get into it. That's a fact of life, although we hope to get by on doing re-appraisals only as often as we have to. There is a time in the future, though, when our budget will have to go up to effect those services.

We have somewhere around 14,000 parcels and bids on re-appraising that run from $10 to $25 per parcel, which amounts to an impressive sum of money. That's why we are concerned with developing a system where we can do re-appraisal ourselves and eliminate a major portion of the costs," Coleman concluded.

another option. The school district is simply stepping in during the interim period while the Senior Citizens are working something out in the way of budgeting for utilities," stated Holder.

"We won't leave the center. We are just going to have to look at different ways to solve the problem. A lot of the decision depends on what the school does with the boiler. We had heat yesterday, because the school sent someone here to light the boiler," Mrs. Daniels remarked.

The center receives United Way funds to pay the bills to operate the center, but we may have to raise funds to help pay the bills, stated Mrs. Daniels.

Mrs. Daniels said the cold has been a little inconvenient. "They (senior citizens) fuss a little when it's cold, but today it has been cold all day and no one has fussed," she said.

"I'm not defeated. When a problem comes up, I just look for a solution. This is just a stepping stone to cross which will improve the center," she said.

The center has been operating here since 1975. A nutrition program was initiated in January of 1979, and a new dining room was constructed in October of the same year.

"The kitchen and dining room are warm, which is good since we have about 135 people eating at the center," Mrs. Daniels continued.

"We are just trying to find a solution for the problem and, I know it is within reach," she concluded.

saying he had been "remarkably uncooperative" in its investigation of his brother Billy's dealings with Libya.

Sources familiar with the report said Carter on at least three occasions had refused to meet with department investigators.

Carter, asked about the report, would only say, "We've cooperated."

His press secretary, Jody

Powell, accused the Republicans of leaking the report and, though he said he had not seen the document, added that it "doesn't say the White House was uncooperative."

Reagan brought up Shakespeare's "The Comedy of Errors" in Texarkana on the Texas-Arkansas border, while saying of the president, "He gave us five economic programs, and yet our economic mess has only worsened. He's punished us long enough....He has not earned the loyalty of those who supported him."

Carter, after his New York rally Thursday, went to Michigan, then to Missouri, then to Columbia, S.C., for the night. At his final rally of the day, he told a crowd at a shopping center in St. Louis that "Governor Reagan has become an expert in rewriting the history of his own record."

He called Reagan's changes of position "political plastic surgery," citing the former California governor's original opposition to John F. Kennedy's Medicare program; his statement, now denied, that Social Security should be voluntary; and his support for grain sales to the Soviet Union, which he once opposed.

"I can understand and sympathize with your sufferings and your inner torment," Pahlavi said to the Iranian people more than 1,000 miles away. "I share your misery and frustration. I shed the tears which you must hide."

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Steve McQueen is back at his California ranch after checking out of a Mexican clinic where he underwent cancer treatments in August.

Warren Cowan, a spokesman for the actor, said he had not been in touch with McQueen other than to confirm that the star of such movies as "Bullitt" was back at his Santa Paula ranch. Cowan said he did not know if McQueen would return soon to Plaza Santa Maria Hospital in Baja California. Asked about McQueen's condition, Cowan said Thursday, "I'm told he's stable, but I'm not sure how accurate that is."

McQueen left the hospital earlier this week, Cowan said. Two weeks ago, the doctor in charge of McQueen's care said he expected the actor to stay at the clinic for another two months. Dr. Rodrigo Rodriguez said McQueen's cancer apparently had been halted.

Rodriguez could not be reached for comment Thursday.

McQueen was on a program that included Laetrile — a substance that has not won acceptance in the U.S. medical community. He also received a vegetarian diet of unprocessed foods, vitamins, minerals and enzymes.

Among the members to display their artwork are from all over the country are expected to show their wares, also. The public is invited to attend the extravaganza both Saturday and Sunday.

Small Talk

By SUE COLEMAN

Leta Dene Swartzell of Jacksonville, Florida, who formerly lived in Hereford, is visiting her mother, Ester Springer, and will be here until Wednesday.

She grew up in the Frio and Hereford communities and graduated from Hereford High School in 1949 and then from West Texas State University. She has not lived here since that time but does have a lot of friends here.

October is leaving us with double emphasis on its reputation as our golden month. Don't know when there have been so many yellow leaves in golden vistas along every street, and of course the sun and the moon have put on their usual harvesttime shows.

Even the Chinese elms are getting fall color in their leaves after our recent small rains, instead of just dropping off as they do in some dry years. Black locusts, like those in a row at the Carl McCaslin home, have been pumpkin-yellow; willow and elder trees have had only slightly less brilliant color.

Now the cottonwoods along Tierra Blanca Creek and in some yards over town, are getting brighter and brighter. There is a big one, calculated to stop traffic as passers-by look, in the 800 block of Knight Street.

Yellow is not the only color in the leaves, and though we are short of big shade trees with scarlet around, there are plenty of ornamental trees and shrubs around homes, decorating our streets.

But gold dominates the picture now and is even underfoot since hard freezes of the past week, followed by brisk wind that whisked leaves from trees to the ground.

It's hail and farewell to golden October, our finest month, but it looks like we'll have a golden November, at least for a while.

While I was visiting at Jennie Buckner's house the other day the postman brought her a package and she exclaimed, "O good! It's my surprise of the month!" Well, there are all sorts of things-of-the-month but a surprise was one I hadn't heard about.

Mrs. Buckner explained that her daughter, Barbara Ford of New Orleans, sends her a package every month with surprise contents, not for any special occasion but just a thoughtful message. Isn't that a great idea for reaching across the miles?

Sometimes the package holds only a small token, Mrs. Buckner says, and sometimes a gift of greater value, but the main attraction is the surprise and the thought behind the gift.

This time there was a set of colorful place mats. Next month—what?

For somewhere to go this weekend, remember the Art Guild's show and sale all day Saturday and Sunday afternoon at the Community Center. There is always plenty to see at that yearly event and you may see something you want to buy.

If not, it costs nothing to look. Besides the Art Guild members, artists and craftsmen from over the Panhandle and farther bring their work to the show and add to the display.

Dance Scheduled

The Catholic Youth Organization has scheduled a dance after the football game tonight between Hereford and Lubbock Coronado.

The dance will begin after the game and will continue until 12:30 a.m. Admission is $3 for singles and $5 for couples. Bryan Peeler and John Foster will provide the music for the dance.

U.S. Army Culinary Arts Team To Exhibit Skills at School

When does food become art? Students at Hereford High School will find out as three traveling members of the U.S. Army Culinary Arts Team exhibit their skills Nov. 10 at 8:30 a.m. at the school. The team members display in local, national and international culinary art shows and are certified by the American Culinary Federation.

Staff Sergeant Charles Clark, Staff Sergeant Gerald Ullah and Specialist Fifth Class Carolyn Morgenstern will show students how to create edible art by demonstrating the basic skills in flower making and garnishing on cakes plus fruit and vegetable carving. They are assigned to the Food Service School at Fort Lee, Va., as instructors in food service.

In addition to instruction in preparing food for art, Clark, Ullah and Morgenstern will also answer any questions concerning the Army's food service program and other jobs available in the Army.

Further information may be obtained from the local Army recruiting office at 308 16th Street, Canyon, 655-1154.

Local Recipes Needed For Brand Publication

A tabloid of recipes submitted by local residents will be published with the Thanksgiving issue of The Brand on Nov. 26, it has been announced by Women's Editor Allison Ryan.

Recipes are now being accepted for the special section from Deaf Smith County cooks. Recipes will be published in the tabloid if they are received prior to Nov. 12. Emphasis will be placed on recipes for the holiday season.

All recipes are welcomed for the section, which is being compiled after the good response to the Brand's previous recipe tabloids. Contributed recipes should be legibly printed or typed on 8" by 10" paper. The name of the contributor should appear along with their address and phone number. Recipes should be mailed to The Hereford Brand, P.O. Box 673, Hereford, Tx. 79045, or brought to the newspaper office, 130 W. 4th St.

Any questions concerning the recipe tabloid should be directed to Ryan or Denise Smith, 364-2030.

Local cooks are urged to submit their recipes as soon as possible.

Fellowship To Follow Herd Game

A Youth Fellowship will be held tonight after the football game between Hereford and Lubbock Coronado.

Junior high students and high school sophomores are invited to attend the activity at the First Christian Church. Tom LeGate will provide the music.

The fellowship will conclude at midnight. Admission: $2 for singles and $3 for couples.

Watson Will Be Guest Minister For Methodist

A young West Texas singer and composer, Johnny Ray Watson, will be the guest minister at First United Methodist Church Sunday, when Laity Day will be observed by the congregation.

Watson will conduct the service in music and song at the morning worship hour beginning at 10:50 a.m. He will meet with youth at 5 p.m. in the church sanctuary, then present a concert and speak informally at a 7 p.m. meeting in fellowship hall, after a covered dish meal is served at 6 p.m.

Rev. William McReynolds, pastor, and members of the congregation invite the public to all these special services which will emphasize the Laity Day theme, Called To Be The Church.

As a result of upgrading the entire Paris-Bordeaux mainline (360 miles) to 125 mph standards, French National Railways has cut the nonstop time between these cities to under four hours. This is Europe's fastest intercity service.

Ann Landers One-Night Stands

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am writing for all teenage girls who have had it with one-night stands from guys who use them and toss them aside.

I went out with "Greg" (made-up name) a few times and really got to liking him a lot. We talked on the phone, and he gave me the impression he thought I was super.

One night he suggested we go to his place because no one was at home. He started to get pretty intimate. I let him do things I had never allowed any boy to do before. We didn't go all the way, but it was awfully close. I thought it was OK because of the way he talked. He said I was special to him. When he took me home my head was in the clouds.

Two weeks have passed, and I haven't heard one word from the rat. I guess I was just another one-night stand he can add to the list.

I am mad. I want to fight back. It's rotten the way guys abuse girls and get away with it. I hate to be so cynical that I would never trust a guy again, yet when you run into so many creeps like Greg, what is a girl to think? Please tell us how to win-Fed Up In St. Louis

DEAR FED: The way to win is to say NO. Keep your dignity, behave in a manner that commands respect and you'll get it.

When "Greg" suggested his place because no one was home, you should have known what he had in mind.

I'm not saying all guys are skunks, but most of them will take anything they can get. And why not? What do they have to lose? Your body belongs to you. You don't owe anybody trespassing privileges just because he gave you a line about how "special" you are. The time to learn this lesson is now—before you get into trouble.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our 10-year-old son is very bright. He was an early walker and an early talker—way ahead of our other two children. But the boy has never done well in school. I had a talk with Roger's teacher, and she says he may have a learning disability and we should have him tested. Does this mean he is emotionally disturbed? Please give me some information. Thank you in advance.—Concerned In White Plains

DEAR W.P.: Herbert Yahraes, an authority on the subject, says that just because a child has a learning problem it should never be assumed he has a learning disability.

Millions Spent To Keep Carter

WASHINGTON (AP) — They're not wild about their candidate. Yet, they're spending more than $10 million and have mobilized 140,000 volunteers to work like never before to keep Jimmy Carter in the White House.

They are the political machines of the labor movement — among the most effective campaign organizations in presidential politics. And they are using computerized precision to sell President Carter to an estimated 35 million unionists and voting-age family members.

Except for two big unions — the Teamsters are backing Ronald Reagan and the Machinists are neutral — organized labor has united to mount the biggest effort in its history on behalf of a presidential candidate, according to a score of union officials.

This campaign lacks the passion and devotion to a candidate such as John F. Kennedy generated in 1960, Hubert Humphrey in 1968, or even Edward M. Kennedy in this year's primaries. To much of the labor movement, Carter is what Kennedy branded him: a Republican in Democratic clothing.

But good political machines do not run just on emotion. They run on money, computers, discipline and smart strategy. On these measures, labor's drive in 1980 appears unsurpassed.

The strongest emotions in this campaign are negative, a hatred for Ronald Reagan and a fear that he would cut the labor movement down if he gets into the White House.

At least Carter believes the labor movement should exist, and he is a part-time supporter of its causes, union leaders reason.

The 550,000-member American Federation of Teachers, a diehard Kennedy supporter in the primaries and among the last unions to join the Carter effort, is now running a predominantly anti-Reagan campaign.

"We're doing more for Carter and we're doing it better than ever before," said Rachelle Horowitz, the union's political director. "It's a very determined effort as opposed to wild enthusiasm."

"Our people are working enthusiastically, not because they've changed their feelings about Carter but because they're afraid of Reagan," said James B. Booe, political director of the Communications Workers of America.

Reagan is slashing Carter over unemployment to attract union members who normally vote Democratic. Labor's job is to keep Reagan from getting more than the one-third of union votes that Republicans traditionally get.

The hardest working unions include the auto workers, steelworkers, communications workers, food and commercial workers, clothing and garment workers, teachers, seafarers and the building trades. Union political directors say their efforts are paying off and members are returning to the Democratic fold.

Federal law lets unions tap general dues for partisan purposes as long as the activities are limited to members. And the money has been flowing for the past two months, perhaps $11 million or more, first on voter registration drives, more recently on selling Carter and congressional candidates, nearly all of them Democrats.

Halloween Activities

Children of First Baptist Kindergarten have been involved in many fun Halloween activities. A field trip to a local pumpkin field by bus, courtesy of the local Campfire Council began the activities. Each class selected a pumpkin for a jack-o-lantern. The rooms were decorated by the children with many traditional Halloween witches, ghosts, and goblins. The highlight of the week's activities was a party, parade, and program presented to the parents, grandparents and friends.

ABC Survey Drawing Fire

NEW YORK (AP) — An unscientific ABC News telephone survey, taken after the presidential debate, is drawing fire not only from aides of President Carter, who lost in the survey to Ronald Reagan, but from ABC's own pollster.

Louis Harris, who regularly surveys public opinion for the network, said on ABC's "Nightline" program Wednesday night that he had examined the telephone technique and concluded that "it just couldn't be used for any kind of election time polling."

"Maybe for a Miss America contest, fun and games, but no way (politics)," he said. "And I have to say categorically that I was very surprised to find that ABC News was doing this."

What ABC did was pay American Telephone & Telegraph to count calls after the Carter-Reagan debate on Tuesday night on who "gained the most in this debate." AT&T took calls — charging each respondent 50 cents each — through seven regional receiving points.

The result after the 100 minutes permitted was 477,815 calls registered for Reagan and 243,554 for Carter — a 2-4-1 "defeat" for the president.

A scientific Associated Press poll of 1,062 voters questioned before and after the debate indicated a gain of 6 percent for each candidate, mostly from the ranks of the undecided.

ABC stressed throughout its survey that the poll was not scientific, but simply a bid to gauge quickly the impact of the debate on voters.

However, its results drew quick criticism.

"No credence at all should be given the figures," said Dr. George Gallup Sr., a leading poll taker.

Harris and Carter pollster Pat Cadell faulted the AT&T system because one side could "stack the deck" with repeated calls; Republicans, traditionally wealthier, could better afford to participate; non-activist voters, which Harris said might make up 70 percent of the electorate, probably would not call; the system failed to handle a heavy load of urban area calls, which might go to Carter; and many on the East Coast, where Carter is seen as strong, had gone to bed.

Carter press secretary Jody Powell said: "I don't think it will have much effect on the election one way or the other but it is sort of a shame that that sort of a thing which has no scientific basis at all and no credibility at all got as much attention as it did."

Pope Ends Two-Year Dispensation Freeze

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John Paul II has ended a two-year freeze on granting dispensations from vows of priestly celibacy with guidelines that appear more relaxed than the standards used by Pope Paul VI, Vatican experts said today.

"It will depend on the Vatican's interpretation of the pope's guidelines," said a top-ranking Rome cleric who asked that his name not be used.

The new papal directive, which refers only to priests and not to nuns, was contained in a letter sent Wednesday to bishops and heads of religious orders from Cardinal Franjo Seper, the prefect of the Vatican's Sacred Congregation for the Doctrine of the Faith.

The Roman Catholic Church's celibacy rule is believed to be the reason for the sharp increase in the defections of priests in recent years. Defections are running at the annual rate of about 4,000, or one percent of the world's 400,000 priests. In the United States alone, nearly 8,000 priests are said to have left the priesthood since 1965.

In 1963, there were 167 requests for dispensation worldwide but by 1968 the number soared to 2,263 and most of them were granted by Pope Paul.

However, sources said Paul, who died in 1978, had tightened the rules in the last years of his pontificate and would not, for example, consider the case of a man only ordained for a few years.

The letter said the new "norms" are the results of a long study ordered by the pope "to determine the causes involved and to find a suitable solution" to the increasing requests for release from celibacy vows.

It includes the caution that "a process of such serious importance as this not be considered as a right which the Church should recognize indiscriminately."

"Equally to be avoided is the notion that a dispensation from celibacy in recent times can be considered to be the result of some quasi-automatic summary administrative process."

But one expert said the guidelines were "more precise and somewhat more relaxed than the ones used by Pope Paul," toward the end of his papacy.

Consultant Hired To Decide Who Gets Medicaid Contract

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The State Board of Human Resources has decided the lowest and best bidder for Texas' $2 billion Medicaid insurance business will get the four-year contract — even if it is not Bradford National Corp.

Board members made their decision Wednesday and hired Touche Ross Co. as consultant to help them choose between Bradford and H. Ross Perot's National Heritage Insurance Co.

A state district court judge had scheduled a hearing for today on Perot's suit to prevent the board from signing a contract with Bradford, a New York firm.

Former Attorney John Hill, Perot's lawyer, said he would announce today whether the suit would be dropped in view of the board's latest action.

The board voted July 15 to give the contract to Bradford after its staff and actuarial consultant said Bradford would do the job cheaper than Perot's firm. Attorney General Mark White said this month the vote created a binding contract.

Marshall Doke, Bradford's attorney, insisted Bradford has a binding contract but said the firm would cooperate with the Touche Ross study "to the extent we can do so without prejudicing Bradford's rights."

After White held earlier this month that Bradford had the contract, board Chairman Hilmar Moore said the board had no choice but to sign.

Moore said Wednesday, however, a "clarification of the attorney general's opinion" empowered the board to break the contract "at any stage if we deem it not in the best interest of the state."

The contract could be terminated even before it is signed if the board determined NHIC would do a better job, Moore said.

Perot asked the board to require both bidders to disclose "any criminal investigations of their companies" involving bribery or pay-offs to get or keep contracts.

The Dallas millionaire said he would be willing to make such an agreement and challenged Bradford to say the same.

"We respond to the board, not to Mr. Perot," Doke later told reporters.

Board members also resolved to review the process by which its staff and consultants arrived at their recommendation of Bradford and to "determine the weight, if any, to be given to that recommendation."

Perot has maintained the staff misled the board into thinking Bradford would be the least expensive while NHIC really was the low bidder.

Millions of dollars ride on the decision — NHIC made a $3.8 million profit last year from its current Medicaid contract, while Bradford expects $5 million to $10 million in profit over the next four years.

'Edith Bunker's' Death Arrives Sunday Night

LOS ANGELES (AP) — I've had this nagging sense of remorse about the new season, a feeling born months ago that has remained at large in my head. I've isolated it now. It is a dread of "Archie Bunker's Place," production No. 0201 (second season, first episode of the renamed "All in the Family").

With the broadcast of this episode, Edith Bunker is dead.

The long-suffering first lady of Queens, America's beloved dingbat, died during the off-season, victim of reality's rude intrusion into a lovely fantasy.

Jean Stapleton, who played Edith on "All in the Family" for 10 years, wanted to appear less often on the show so she could pursue other opportunities. Last year, Carroll O'Connor decided that occasional Edith wasn't enough. It limited Archie.

The death sentence was pronounced.

The actors' strike delayed the melancholy moment. It arrives at last on Sunday night in a special hour-long premiere.

The death of Edith Bunker passes by with only a tiny fraction of the noise attending the revelation of who shot J.R. Ewing, but it is a special moment in television's powerful relationship with our culture. Edith Bunker, for better or worse, was the personification of TV's pervasive reach. She was real, so rendered by creative minds and a thousand living room visits.

The 10-year metamorphosis of Edith Bunker saw her progress from a crude, Archie-like suburban wretch (the earliest episodes) to easy-natured dingbat (the middle years) to mature, slightly liberated grandmother who had last learned to stand her ground (at selected moments).

Through it all, she was America's Ma, much less the shallow caricature the occasional viewer might have supposed. In the course of her residence on Queens' Hauser Street, Edith Bunker was assaulted by a rapist, confronted with menopause, tempted by the "Total Woman" fad, tempered by feminism and made a grandparent.

Through most of it, her basic character — warm, outwardly involved, happy — prevailed. She was carefully sewn into the American fabric and isn't easily ripped out.

Sunday's ripping out of Edith is gently done, focusing on Archie's typically retentive response to Edith's death. It's less a requiem for a dingbat than a device meant to move the series along. Archie refuses to sleep in their bed or move Edith's things, refuses even to sign her death certificate for insurance before finally letting the grief through.

It's a heartfelt moment, guaranteed to loosen a million prime time tears.

So long, Edith. See you in the reruns.

Hungry Singles
Singles are a boon to the restaurant business. The Conference Board notes. Americans in their 20s and early 30s who live alone or with another person spend almost 6 percent of their budget on eating out, compared with 4.5 percent spent by the typical American family. Singles account for nearly 16 percent of all restaurant sales and drink 20 percent of the alcohol sold.

DISAGREE, BUT DON'T BE DISAGREEABLE
Give a warm welcome to any brother who wants to join you, even though his faith is weak. Don't criticize him for having different ideas from yours about what is right and wrong.

For instance, don't argue with him about whether or not to eat meat that has been offered to idols. You may believe there is no harm in this, but the faith of others is weaker; they think it is wrong, and will go without any meat at all and eat vegetables rather than eat that kind of meat.

Those who think it is all right to eat such meat must not look down on those who won't. And if you are one of those who won't, don't find fault with those who do. For God has accepted them to be His children.

They are God's servants, not yours. They are responsible to Him, not to you. Let Him tell them whether they are right or wrong. And God is able to make them do as they should.

Some think that Christians should observe the Jewish holidays as special days to worship God, but others say it is wrong and foolish to go to all that trouble, for every day alike belongs to God. On questions of this kind every one must decide for himself.

If you have special days for worshiping the Lord, you are trying to honor Him; you are doing a good thing. So is the person who eats meat that has been offered to idols; he is thankful to the Lord for it; he is doing right. And the person who won't touch such meat, he, too, is anxious to please the Lord, and is thankful.

We are not our own bosses to live or die as we ourselves might choose.

Living or dying we follow the Lord. Either way we are His.

Christ died and rose again for this very purpose, so that He can be our Lord both while we live and when we die.

THE HOT DOG VENDOR

There was a man who lived by the side of the road and sold hot dogs.
He sold very good hot dogs.
He put up signs along the highway and advertised in the newspaper telling how good they were.
He stood on the side of the road and cried:
"Buy a hot dog, Mister?"
And people bought.
He increased his meat and bun orders.
He bought a bigger stove to take care of his trade.
He finally got his son home from college to help him out.
But then something happened.
His son said, "Father, haven't you been listening to the radio and watching TV?"

There's a big depression.
The foreign situation is terrible.
The domestic situation is worse."
Whereupon the father thought, "Well, my son's been to college, he listens to the radio and watches TV and he ought to know."
So the father cut down on his meat and bun orders, took down his signs and cancelled his newspaper ads and no longer bothered to stand out on the highway to sell his hot dogs.
And his hot dog sales fell almost overnight.
"You're right, son" the father said to the boy.
"We certainly are in the middle of a great depression."

HALLOWEEN SHOWS US SOME MISCONCEPTIONS ABOUT FAITH

Everyone knows Halloween as an occasion of fun and mysterious excitement for children, as well as costume parties for all ages. However, few of us are aware of the true religious origin of this October event, and there some confusion reigns because of the similarity of this ancient Druid festival in name and date to the All Hallows' Eve of the Christian tradition. This is but one minor example of the many misconceptions about religion, as well as the commercialism of all our holidays. You and your family should learn the truth about your own faith, including the origin of its customs and proper observance of its holidays; and the best place to separate fact from fantasy is at the Church of your choice, at any time.

"...in the later times some shall depart from the faith, giving heed to seducing spirits, and doctrines of devils."

Following 37-0 Routing Over Monterey

Shorthorns Up Record to 7-2

The Hereford sophomore Shorthorns chopped off their fifth shutout on the year here Thursday as the squad trounced a beleaguered Monterey Plainsmen crew beyond all recognition 37-0.

The victory boosted the Herd's overall ledger on the year to 7-2 going into its last clash of the season against the Plainview Bulldogs two weeks away. The team is scheduled for an open date next week.

Both crews were held scoreless during opening quarter play, but as the second quarter rolled around the HHS squad found trouble in not scoring.

Issac Gamboa capped a long first quarter 60-yard scoring drive on the first play of the second period as he scrambled in from six yards out to bring the Whitefaces out front 6-0. The PAT shot by David Zeniga was no good.

Quarterback Glenn Phibbs pushed his way to paydirt shortly afterward after taking advantage of a short Monterey punt. The HHS advantage was 12-0 at that point after a two-point conversion play was stopped.

Then following another short MHS punt that was partially blocked by nose guard Robbie Christie, Phibbs netted a brief jaunt for a sizeable 18-0 lead.

And as it turned out, the squad would continue to reek havoc on the Plainsmen throughout the remainder of the contest.

Just before intermission, HHS linebacker Freddie Garcia recovered a MHS fumble to set up a Phibbs score coming off a roll-out pass scramble. Place kicker Zeniga made his PAT shot and Hereford walked into the locker room at the half toting a 25-0 mark.

In opening third quarter play, HHS runningback Joe Castillo took a punt return back for 25 yards before Eddie Villareal capped the 40-yard drive with a TD from three yards out. The PAT was blocked and the Whitefaces jotted down a 31-0 tally.

Finally, the Plainsmen crew was put out of its misery in the fourth period as Edward Swain made the scoring list complete with a three-yard TD. That finishing score completed a 70-yard drive and added yet another victory to the Shorthorn's long string of victories.

Knicks Beat Hawks

NEW YORK (AP) — Guards are not supposed to win games with offensive rebounds. Then again, Michael Ray Richardson is not an ordinary guard.

The 6-foot-5 Richardson grabbed nine rebounds for New York Thursday night, including one off the offensive boards that he turned into the winning basket with six seconds left in overtime as the Knicks beat the Atlanta Hawks 116-115 in the only National Basketball Association game played Thursday night.

"It's a great win for them and a tough loss for us," said Hawks Coach Hubie Brown. "The key play was when New York missed a shot at the end of overtime, Richardson got the offensive rebound and put it in. Give him credit — he outjumped our three front-court guys, who were all there, got the ball, pumped and got the shot off.

"When we miss as many foul shots (15) and let their guard beat us off the offensive boards, we don't deserve to win."

Prepared for District Meet

The Hereford High boy's and girl's cross-country teams, shown above will go into the final segments of their competition this year as they travel to Lubbock Saturday to compete in the district 4-5A cross-country meet. The squad has continually bettered its marks each week (the girl's team managed to cap a second place trophy in last week's competition at Plainview while the boys placed fourth in their particular field) in hopes of establishing competitive times in the district showdown. Members of the boy's

Coronado JV Drum Hereford

The Hereford junior variety Longhorns saw their hopes for an unblemished record fade away Thursday as the previously undefeated Coronado drilled the crew by a margin of 20-7 in Lubbock.

The Mustang team pushed its string of victories to 7-0-1 on the year while Hereford dropped to a still successful 7-1 ledger.

The Whitefaces jabbed their way into the front-runner's lane early in the game with a 65-yard touchdown gallop provided by running back Alfred Ball. Rod Simon booted his PAT shot successfully and the squad held on to a 7-0 lead until late in second quarter play. But eight costly turnovers ebbed their way into the Herd's scheme of things to reverse that advantage trend.

Following one of those miscues, CHS receiver Don Christian hauled down a 17-yard pass from Jerry Foster for a touchdown and an unsuccessful PAT shot brought the Lubbock team to within one point shy of Hereford's lead.

After that initial scoring jaunt was completed, the Mustangs then added another to increase their advantage to 12-0 after a 20-yard gallop by Mark Rickman. Quarterback Jerry Foster capped the performance on a two-point conversion run for a 14-0 lead.

CHS defender Jimmy Hilton netted the final Lubbock score off an intercepted Charles McDowell pass for 40 yards to nail the lid shut on the contest.

Scottish Boxer Ready

GLASGOW, Scotland (AP) — Jim Watt, the World Boxing Council lightweight champion, has a special motivation for his meeting with American challenger Sean O'Grady.

Watt, who fights 21-year-old O'Grady at the Kelvin Hall Arena here before dawn Saturday, will be bidding for a record number of world title fight wins by a Scottish boxer.

The fight will be televised live in the United States tonight at 9 p.m. EST by ABC.

Watt, who jabs with clinical precision, will be making his fourth defense of the title he won by defeating Alfredo Pitalua of Colombia in April last year.

The 32-year-old champion will be facing a challenger 11 years his junior who has lost only one of his 74 professional fights.

But those statistics don't scare Watt, who is unbeaten since 1976, when manager Terry Lawless saved his flagging career.

"O'Grady seems to stand and take punishment," said the champion. "I haven't been impressed by what I have seen of him on film.

"The kid makes a lot of mistakes. He tends to take a punch then leave his jaw hanging out. He gets in some bad positions and he's not been punished for that."

Watt, a rich and successful businessman, can have few title fights left in him, but he has psyched himself up for his contest with the 21-year-old "bubble gum kid," as O'Grady has been dubbed.

Experience is the issue.

The 80's. As we enter a new decade, we face serious and growing challenges in the economy, energy, agriculture, education. To solve these problems—to make the important decisions which will affect all our lives for years to come—will take more than just good intentions. It'll take experience and leadership.

The kind of experience and leadership we have in Bob Price.

Bob Price. Farmer, rancher, businessman. Experienced as our former congressman for eight years. Effective as our state senator for the last three years. A leader in Austin.

Energy

Bob Price knows we must fully and rapidly develop alternate sources of energy to help control inflation and expand the area's economy. As a member of the Senate Natural Resources Committee, he passed bills to encourage production and sale of gasohol utilizing Texas grain crops (S.B. 988) and to promote solar and wind-powered energy production (S.B. 204).

The Economy

As our congressman for eight years, Bob Price worked for policies to promote more jobs and better wages for our area's working men and women. As our State Senator, Bob continues to reach these goals through legislation which encourages new industry; through tax and budget reform and through elimination of governmental interference and over-regulation of business.

Education

Bob Price is committed to quality public education and fair wages for teachers, and feels these goals can be accomplished without increasing taxes. Bob knows that we must properly train the future leaders of Texas in the schools of today.

Agriculture

As a working farmer and rancher, Bob Price knows the problems facing this vital industry and those who provide services and products to the agricultural community. In the last session, Bob's version of S.B. 1321—a landmark piece of legislation—provided authority for the Ogallala Water Import Authority which will allow planning for desperately needed water for the area. Bob also passed the Family Farm Security Act which was overwhelmingly approved by voters in November, 1979.

We face one of the most important peacetime elections in years. On November 4th, remember:

Experience is the issue.

Bob Price is the answer.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE IN THE HEREFORD BRAND

IT APPEARS THAT Labor Secretary Ray Marshall does not want to join the unemployment statistics compiled by his department. He has spent much of his time in recent weeks on the campaign trail, telling union members that "the Republican Party has been captured by some of the most anti-labor people in this country."

The Speaker Reports

by Bill Clayton

AUSTIN—For many reasons legal problems have increased concerning property matters especially those involving spouses. Proposed Constitutional Amendment 9 attempts to relieve this situation by providing for the conversion of marital community property into separate property. Under this proposed legislation spouses would be allowed to agree in writing that the income or property arising from one spouse's separate property will be separate property of that spouse. This agreement could effect present property and property acquired in the future. The amendment would permit individuals to partition property before being married, and it creates a presumption in the constitution that the scope of a gift of property from one spouse to the other includes all income or property that might arise from that gift. Thus, this amendment provides new means of deviating from the Texas marital community property system. This system is basically that all property acquired during a marriage, other than property specifically exempted by law, becomes the community, or shared property of both spouses. There are advantages to having this amendment. It would reduce the complexity of a process of converting community property to separate property and it allows for persons to make alternative property arrangements in their best interest. Arguments against the amendment say that the present system promotes the welfare of the majority of spouses and that the proposed amendment is so great a deviation that it would foster the creation of an entirely different system. The result would be confusion. The lack of safeguards would provide the possibility for a dishonest spouse to take unfair advantage from the other spouse. In reviewing this amendment we must be aware of escalating court costs, the increasing number of divorces, and the growing tendency of single women to own property before marriage. Our laws should serve the people, and they can and should be revised when we feel it is necessary for the best interest of the people of Texas.

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Learn to save a life

DEAR DR LAMB - My husband and I had been married for 27 years. He was a wonderful person and never seemed to have any medical problems. He was sitting at the table talking to me and drinking a glass of milk before bed. Then he just slumped over and was gone. The doctor said he had a heart attack. I felt so helpless as I didn't know what to do. Ever since this happened the thought keeps nagging me that I might have been able to save his life. Is that possible? If so, please encourage other wives to learn how before it is too late.

DEAR READER - It's always a shock when it happens to you. Heart attacks still account for about one out of four deaths. Often they occur suddenly in a person who appeared to be in good health. That's why prevention is so important.

Also it is a good idea for everyone to know how to resuscitate a person who collapses with a heart attack. In many instances, these occur in people who have a sudden irregularity of the heart so that it cannot beat effectively. The heart itself may not be badly damaged but if there is no circulation for four minutes the person may have brain damage or not survive. Most local chapters of the American Heart Association, the Red Cross and sometimes other community organizations now offer courses in cardiopulmonary resuscitation, called CPR. I'm also sending you The Health Letter number 7-4, Save A Life: Heart and Lung Arrest, that outlines the procedure. Others who want this information can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB - I would like some information about the lime deposits in water, especially from well water that contains a lot of minerals. Some doctors say that lime deposits won't hurt you and that they're really good for you. I've heard others say, particularly in advertisements for distilled water, that such lime water will cause deposits in the arterial walls and cause them to become hard and brittle. Which is right?

DEAR READER - The doctors that you've heard say that lime deposits aren't harmful to your health are right. Lime is made up mostly of calcium salts. You have to have a certain amount of calcium in your diet. In fact, calcium deficiency is probably one of the most widespread nutritional deficiencies in the United States and Canada today. That's because adults often don't drink as much milk as they should. Calcium, whether it's in your water or in a glass of milk, is partially absorbed in your digestive system. If a normal person absorbs more calcium than his body needs, the excess is simply eliminated through the kidneys.

There have been some studies that show that in areas of the country where people use hard water, there are less heart attacks than occur among individuals who drink soft water. Just exactly what difference this makes is difficult to establish although there are quite a few opinions about it.

The calcium in your drinking water isn't going to affect your arteries anymore than the calcium in your diet. And in fact, for many people who are on relatively low-calcium diets it is helpful.

POLLY'S PROBLEM

DEAR POLLY - My husband leaned on a black wrought iron railing and got black smudges on his white casual coat that is 100 percent polyester. They would not wash out and then I used bleach and a spot pretreater but they are still there. What else can I try? - KAREN

DEAR KAREN - Evidently they are paint smudges so I would try turpentine. First test in an inconspicuous spot to see effect on the fabric and after using launder as usual. - POLLY

DEAR POLLY - A marvelous way to keep slippery fabrics from sliding off the sewing machine table is to place a rubber mat on the left side table area of the machine. - B.L.K.

DEAR POLLY - I had two hanging flower holders so I put flowers in the one hanging on top and my phone on the bottom one and think it looks most attractive. - PAULINE

DEAR POLLY - I often want to go out to the clothes line or the yard before the morning dew is gone and would always get my shoes and feet wet. Now I keep a couple of bread bags in the garage and whenever I want to go out there I slip the bags over my shoes, put a twist tie on each and just slip the bag a little and slip them off when I come in and am clean and dry. - MRS. M.

DEAR POLLY - Like Mary M. we, too, had a lot of trouble with big black ants until it was suggested that we lay bay leaves in the corners of all the floors in the house and leave them there permanently. That was three years ago and we have not seen a black ant since. We were told they are allergic to bay leaves and to date I have to agree. - KATH RYN

DEAR POLLY - I always look for ant hills out of doors and whenever I find one I pour in some of my solution of ammonia water. I use about one-fourth to one-third ammonia and three-fourths to two-thirds water and keep this in a bottle with a small hole in the cap. A plastic squeeze bottle is good as it forces the fluid into the hole. Keep watch and keep pouring the solution in any hills you see. Mark what bottle contents are and keep away from children and pets. - IRENE

DEAR POLLY - The last time we went on a trip, I took a skirt out of my suitcase. It was wrinkled, and I did not have an iron with me. I laid the skirt flat on a counter and ran a warm curling iron over the wrinkles. That did the job. - CAROL

DEAR READERS - If you do not have a curling iron, try wetting a washcloth in hot water and wringing it out as dry as possible. Rub this over the wrinkles and then hang up the garment. The wrinkles usually disappear. - POLLY.
