B-R-R-R! Arctic front chills area

By The Associated Press
What a difference a day - or even a few hours - can make when it comes to Texas weather.
Jack Frost nipped at the noses of most Texans as the arctic cold front that moved into the Panhandle late Thursday pushed its way across the state Friday night. Most parts of the state were under a freeze warning and wind advisory.

Snow flurries dusted the Panhandle Friday as temperatures dipped from the 70s into the 30s. Forecasters predicted that the West Texas flurries would taper off, leaving cold temperatures for the weekend.
The National Weather Service

urged Texans to protect pets and plants while officials at several zoos scampered to find warm places for their residents.

Temperatures across the state plunged from the spring-like 70s to frigid digits that had Texans rummaging for winter garb.

The bitter weather brought Wichita Falls its earliest recorded snowfall since the National Weather Service started keeping snowfall records in 1931.

For Hereford, the National Weather Service is calling for clear skies Saturday night with a low around 20 degrees and light and variable winds.

Sunday, look for sunny skies and warmer temperatures, with a high in the lower 60s and southwest winds at 5-15 mph.

North Texas can look forward to lows in the mid-20s with a chance of light snow over the weekend. No accumulation is expected.

Alliance gets KAB award

Hereford Beautification Alliance this week received a 1993 "Certificate of Merit" award from Keep America Beautiful, Inc., it was announced by Jan Furr, HBA executive director.

Keep America Beautiful honors individuals, groups and companies who, through ongoing efforts, are utilizing public/private partnerships to improve their community's waste-handling practices and environment.

Hereford's alliance was one of 60 groups from Texas to apply for a grant and received a Certificate of Merit. Furr said HBA will apply for a KAB grant again in 1994.

HBA is funded by donations, business and individual memberships. City and county residents who wish to help with HBA's efforts to make Hereford a more attractive place to live can call 364-7109. Contributions are accepted to HBA at P.O. Box 1367, Hereford 79045.

Golden K Kiwanians read to local day care children

By GEORGIA TYLER
Staff Writer

Golden K Kiwanis Club of Hereford didn't have to look very long for a worthwhile project in Hereford. Art Stoy found one that fit into the international service organization's special three-year emphasis, Reading is Fundamental.

Stoy spread the word about the program in reading readiness at Hereford Day Care. And, he went to the center once each week to read stories to children.

On his recommendation, too, the club made donations to the facility to purchase materials to help with the reading program.

Stoy spent about a year as the "story teller" at the center before turning it over to others. He didn't relinquish interest, though.

Now, the privilege belongs to a retired teacher, Ruben McGilvary. "Art has done lots of things for us," said Bettie Dickson, administrator of the day care center. She acknowledges the assistance he's given on special projects.

"When I said we needed new carpet for a room, he wanted to know how much it would cost," she recalled. "Then he helped raise the money in the community."

Stoy said his association with the day care "has given me an insight into day care and needs of children."

He's especially appreciative of the opportunity "to do something" for the children.

His successor as the center's storyteller, McGilvary, retired from teaching in 1991. He creates excitement just by walking in the door at 9:30 a.m. every Wednesday.

Assuming the day care responsibility may have eased the withdrawal pangs he could have experienced on leaving the classroom.

But, the three and four-year-old children are considerably different from the older elementary children he once taught.

"They aren't old enough to know they're supposed to 'hate' the teacher," laughed McGilvary. "They're very affectionate."

The former teacher recognizes that the attention span of his audience is not very long.

"About 10 minutes is as long as they can listen," he continued. The result is an emphasis on short stories that he can finish quickly.

McGilvary has carried his concern for children over from his teaching days in another area, too. He's a participant in the "Help One Student to Succeed" in a Hereford school. He spends 30 minutes each week at West Central School as a HOSTS tutor.

But, there's some difference between the day care and the school. Bettie Dickson, day care administrator, said the purpose of the program for the three and four-year-old children is to get them interested in reading, not teaching them to read.

She is particularly grateful for the assistance given by Golden K members because the volunteers fill a big need.

Dickson also said that the men involved in the program provide an extra dimension in day care.

"It's good for the children to see a male in day care . . . it helps them relate to men," she continued.

Dickson welcomed the Golden K club's involvement with day care. "They came to us, we didn't go out and recruit them," she said appreciatively.

When Ruben McGilvary arrives on Wednesday mornings, the children are eager to gather around him for their stories. He could be a model for the storyteller figures often found in New Mexico arts and crafts shows.

He sits in a chair and 10 to 12 youngsters gather around to listen to the stories. McGilvary said when he leaves, the children are reluctant to let him go.

"They mob me and it's hard to leave," said McGilvary.

When he was asked to help, McGilvary said "it seemed like the thing to do."

He hasn't regretted it for a minute and expects to stay with it "as long as I'm healthy."

Hospital expands work with addition of clinic

With a mission to serve all the people of Deaf Smith County and the area, the county hospital recently changed its name to Hereford Regional Medical Center, and one example of expanded service is the organization of a rural health clinic.

Hereford Health Clinic, located at 1011 E. Park Ave., is set up so that all patients, regardless of ability to pay, can be seen in the clinic setting. The clinic will accept patients with Medicare, Medicaid, or private insurance.

Ron Rives, CEO of HRMC, points out that the clinic will also relieve some of the pressure on the hospital's emergency room.

"Care given in the ER is expensive and, in the past, we've seen the emergency room misused for minor illnesses by patients who didn't have a family doctor or were on Medicaid," said Rives.

The hospital recently entered into an agreement with Dr. Jesse Perales to operate the clinic. In addition, Ron Brock, a physician's assistant who has the training to handle minor illnesses, will assist Dr. Perales. Official federal certification of the clinic is pending.

Patients will be seen during expanded hours. "The clinic will be open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Monday, Wednesday and Thursday, and 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. on Tuesday and Friday," said Rives. "We know how difficult it is for patients to miss work to bring in a sick child, for example.

The clinic will offer the Early Periodic Screening, Diagnosis and Treatment (EPSDT) for patients up to 21 years of age. The idea behind this federally-funded program is disease prevention and health promotion.

"It is the only well-child program (See HOSPITAL, Page 2A)

Voters to cast ballots on state amendments

Deaf Smith County voters will go to the polls Tuesday, along with Texans statewide, to decide the fate of 16 proposed amendments to the state's oft-amended Constitution.

A summary of the amendments can be found on Page 5A of today's Hereford Brand.

More than 300 voters took advantage of voting laws during a 2 1/2-week period, through 5 p.m. Friday, to mark ballots prior to election day.

The office of Deaf Smith County Clerk David Ruland reported 313 early votes cast by mid-afternoon Friday.

Polls will be open at nine sites Tuesday, from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Set clocks back 1 hour

WASHINGTON (AP) - It's time to change your clock.

Most of America falls back to standard time this weekend, turning clocks back one hour Saturday night.

The official time for the change is 2 a.m., local time, Sunday. Daylight time returns next April 3.

Safety experts are urging people to add fire safety to the equation by replacing smoke detector batteries this weekend also. The batteries normally last about a year, and the slogan "change your clock, change your battery" provides a handy reminder to make the switch.

A few areas do not need to worry about turning the clocks back because they did not go on daylight time last spring. Those include Arizona, Hawaii, the part of Indiana in the Eastern time zone, Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands and American Samoa.

California fires burn on, with damage to hundreds of houses

By MAURA REYNOLDS
Associated Press Writer

Wary firefighters struggled to extinguish relentless blazes, contained other fires and nervously awaited today's predicted dry desert winds that could further fuel Southern California's wildfires.

Exhausted from 48-hour-plus shifts in stifling heat, emergency crews braced for the expected return today of the hot Santa Ana winds that drove the fires to consume about 720 structures and race across more than 152,000 acres since Tuesday.

Crews have extinguished four of the 13 blazes that raced through cities and canyons from the Mexican border north through Ventura County. Damage was estimated at $330.9 million and rising.

However, some fires were only partially contained and at least one blaze raging in the hills above Altadena seemed unstoppable.

That fire might not be contained for days, and it may not be fully extinguished until the winter rains set in, U.S. Forest Service officer Tom Harbour said. "And then we'll have mudslides," he said.

Winds that blow in from the deserts east of Los Angeles could whip up 40 mph today, forecasters said. "This area burns very aggressively with no winds at all. I'm very worried," Harbour said.

Some 25,000 people have been displaced and 62 firefighters and civilians hurt by the fires. Refugees poured into shelters, some wearing what few possessions they had, while others fled to hotels, friends and family.

Some returned to the rubble that was once their homes, searching for even the smallest charred link to their old lives.

"This was my wife's dream house," said LaMonte Westmoreland, standing at the ruins of his home in Altadena where 118 homes and buildings were torched. "We'll rebuild. We have to rebuild."

Meanwhile, FBI agents studied more than 30 letters mailed to police and fire stations and to San Fernando Valley residents since Sept. 1, Los Angeles city fire spokesman Brian Humphrey said late Friday.

The letters described a fascination with fire and threatened to spark huge blazes in Southern California but did not say where, he said. He said fire investigators pored over the letters then turned them over to the FBI for further review.

"At this point in time, there is nothing to link the letters to the fires from a legal standpoint," he said.

Police did not say whether they thought all the letters came from the same source.

A transient accused of starting the Altadena wildfire when he lit some brush to warm himself pleaded innocent Friday in a Pasadena court to one count of setting a fire without a permit.

Andres Huang, 35, was held on $25,000 bail. He could face six months in jail and a $1,000 fine if convicted.

Authorities said arsonists set at least six of the fires.

Forums set to debate state education needs

Texas citizens have an opportunity to help improve the quality of education in the state through an input process to determine the skills and knowledge that young people need to be successful in the real world.

"Raising Expectations to Meet Real-World Needs," is an initiative sponsored by the Texas Education Agency in cooperation with the Office of Governor Ann Richards, the Texas Department of Commerce, the Texas Employment Commission, the Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board and the Texas Business and Education Coalition.

It will involve Real-World Forums in cities and towns across the state between now and the end of November.

Forums will be held in Hereford at 7 p.m. Nov. 8 and 9 in the Hereford Community Center.

Other small group forums are being scheduled by individuals who have received training in how to direct them. Individuals from the community will be trained in leading the forums at a later date.

"We are encouraging citizens from all walks of life to participate by attending or hosting a Real-World Forum," said Nena Veazey of the Hereford Independent School District. "Forums can be hosted within a neighborhood, community, school, church, civic, business or social group."

Information about the forums is available by contacting the HISD central office, 364-0606.

Pumpkin maker

Mariela Gonzales, 4, gives a felt pumpkin a face at one activity station in a Hereford school pre-kindergarten Halloween party hosted Friday by the Hereford Kiwanis Club. Students in the 4-year-old kindergarten program received candy treats, stomped balloons, crawled under tables and built pumpkin faces at the party. Afterwards, students in the SOAR Junior and Senior high school classes served cupcakes and punch to the little ones.

Morales may have Demo AG challenger for 1994

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) - Attorney General Dan Morales may find another Democratic hat thrown into the ring for his job next year.

Morales, a first-term Democrat seeking re-election next year, may have a challenger from his own party, U.S. Rep. Jim Chapman of Sulphur Springs, the Fort Worth Star-Telegram reports in Saturday's editions.

Gay Erwin, Morales' campaign manager, said the attorney general has not been informed of Chapman's intentions, but knows that Chapman has contacted potential supporters.

Ms. Erwin said Morales is confident he will be re-elected despite several GOP challengers.

Chapman, an attorney, had been considered a likely Democratic contender for a U.S. Senate race in 1994. But in recent weeks he has made key contacts about the attorney general's office, sources told the Star-Telegram.

Bill Mashek, a Chapman aide in Washington, D.C., declined to comment on reports that Chapman disclosed his intentions to challenge Morales to some key Democrats this week. He will announce his decision next week, Mashek said.

Both parties' primary elections are March 8. Candidates must state their intentions to run by Jan. 3.

AFL-CIO President Joe Gunn confirmed that Chapman had solicited support from his group.

"I have been in meetings where I've heard it discussed," Gunn said.

Morales' handling of accusations against top assistant Gary Bledsoe has angered blacks in Chapman's native East Texas, one Democrat said.

Bledsoe is president of the Texas National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

HOSPITAL

that Medicaid offers," Rives said. Children can obtain physical and developmental assessments periodically from birth up to 21 years of age. During the first two years of life, the child can be seen 10 times. Older children's exams are less frequent.

"It's an excellent way for parents to assure their children's good health," said Brock. "During the various EPSDT screenings, we monitor the child's mental, physical and nutritional development. We give any needed immunizations and do basic lab work."

The health professionals who screen the youngsters also do any health education needed, and make any necessary referrals. "By doing the screenings and exams, we can spot potential problems, and send the child on to a physician, if needed," Brock explained.

Rives said the hospital's emergency room is designed to handle true emergencies--traumas resulting from auto accidents, for example, or for handling heart attacks. "This is expensive and misuse of the facility has had a negative impact on the financial picture for the ER."

Rives thinks many of those patients will now seek care at Hereford Health Clinic. "Taking a baby with a simple ear ache to the emergency room is like calling in a Supreme Court justice to hear a traffic case. It is simply an overuse of the resources," he added.

"We think this clinic will be a valuable asset to the patients and to the medical community, said Rives. It's another example of HRMC's drive to find innovative ways of serving the community," he concluded.

Uncooked meat rules to be issued

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Agriculture Department is issuing new rules next week that will require safe-handling information for all uncooked meat by the end of March, according to department officials who spoke on condition of anonymity.

The new regulations also will require all raw meat products to have labels by April 15, the officials said. But this time, there will be a longer period for public comment before the rules take effect.

U.S. District Judge James Nowlin in Austin, Texas, had blocked enforcement of the original regulations in a ruling Oct. 14, a day before they were take effect. He said they were applied too quickly and too broadly.

Judge Nowlin agreed with food industry groups that the department had failed to show enough of a food-safety emergency to require labels with just two months' notice.

The department had announced the labeling requirement in mid-August as one of several measures to combat serious and sometimes fatal illnesses linked to pathogens found in uncooked meat.

published next week, mean consumers could see mandatory labels on ground meat along with safe-handling information accompanying all other uncooked meat by the end of March, according to department officials who spoke on condition of anonymity.

HJH Roundup

By CAROLYN WATERS

Have you noticed that sometimes teenagers ears fall off? They don't seem to hear a thing we say! Seventh and eighth grade can mark a confusing time of changes for the average 12-14 year old and sometimes these changes are frightening and even traumatic. That, in itself, can cause the "loss of hearing" problem.

Proud Parents of HJH, a newly formed group, will be communicating by way of a two-week calendar that will be sent home with students twice monthly. The calendar will include activities of HJH. Parents are asked to sign and return the lower portion of the calendar to their student's history teacher and to take advantage of the opportunity to get involved as a volunteer in some of these activities. This can be an experience in "hearing" our teens.

Builders Club members and sponsors would like to thank parents, administrators and officers and sponsors from Kiwanis Club for the successful "Parents Night." Special guest for the event was Erin Spies, Lt. Governor of Division 10 Keywayettes.

Progress reports were sent home last week from each team. Most teams have required students to have these signed and returned.

Geography Bee practice is underway. About a dozen boys have turned out, so far, for this event. We need some girls to participate, also. This can be an exciting, learning experience for the entire family!

Tuesday was an exciting day for HJH. The day began with a pep rally where the volleyball and football teams and coaches were honored. United Way contributions were recognized, also. Then, about 11:10, a "fire drill" was announced. Students and teachers very quickly realized that "Baby, It's Cold Outside." There was an electrical fire which was quickly confined. Through it all, students conducted themselves well. Thanks, Proud Crowd!

Group pictures were taken Friday for the yearbook. Members of the groups will be able to purchase copies later. Individual pictures that were taken a while back need to be returned and orders placed.

The junior high age young person is probably capable of the same range of affections and emotions—romance, sympathy, compassion—to name a few, but they lack the understanding of these emotions that an older person would have. This means, perhaps, that we, as adult leaders, need to work harder to prevent our ears from "falling off" when dealing with our teens. We need to listen, too!

Woman may be named in Packwood diaries; seeks to keep privacy

WASHINGTON (AP) - A woman who says she may be mentioned in Sen. Bob Packwood's diaries wants the Senate Ethics Committee to back off its subpoena for the journals until her privacy can be assured, her lawyer said Friday.

"Production of these personal diaries and the material both private and irrelevant might cause irreparable damage to the reputation of my client and other similarly situated," Mark B. Sandground, an attorney in Vienna, Va., said in a letter to the panel.

The woman, identified only as "Mrs. Jane Doe," wants the Senate to postpone Monday's scheduled vote on whether to seek a court order forcing Packwood to turn over the diaries.

She has nothing to do with sexual misconduct charges leveled against the Oregon Republican senator, "but has reason to believe she will be named in the diaries if they are ever made public," Sandground said in an interview.

Sandground refused to describe his client's relationship with Packwood beyond a reference in his letter that said the two knew each other after the senator's divorce became final.

"She is an individual who is prominent within the country and who has a family and is now married. She believes she has an independent right of privacy that would be invaded unless the subpoena is in some way restricted, edited or censored to delete anything that could affect the innocent," he said.

Sandground asked the panel to appoint an independent neutral examiner to review the documents and remove irrelevant parts before they are reviewed by the committee.

"Hypothetically, these diary entries may include material of an intimate nature, purely personal, involving the consensual sexual activities of Senator Packwood," Sandground wrote.

"It is my understanding that the activities in question took place at the time that Senator Packwood was finally divorced, and these activities had absolutely no nexus to his public responsibilities or duties," he said.

A spokeswoman for the Senate Ethics Committee said Friday no one was available to comment on the letter.

A number of Republican senators have expressed sympathy for Packwood's position that the committee is violating his constitutional right to privacy. Most of them were noncommittal when asked whether they would support Packwood on Monday.

James Fitzpatrick, Packwood's attorney, said Friday he expected the Senate to vote on Monday but that he suspects most senators would rather reach a compromise.

Until recently, the ethics probe was limited to allegations of unwanted sexual advances and attempts to intimidate and discredit female witnesses.

On Thursday, Chairman Richard Bryan released a five-page statement that said the diaries "raised questions about a possible violation of one or more laws, including criminal laws."

More than 900,000 copies of The Hereford Brand were distributed in 1992. If your advertising message was not included in many of these issues, you need to call Mauri Montgomery or Julius Bodner, 364-2030, and let them put together an advertising schedule to fit your budget.

America's best legitimate advertising buy is still the local newspaper that is involved in your community. Junk mailers don't contribute a dime to the betterment of Hereford. They take and don't give back.

LET THE PERSPECTIVE BUYER VISUALIZE

To obtain the best possible price for your home, the perspective buyer must visualize their furnishings and themselves in your home. There are a few things you (the seller) can do to help them visualize. Replace the light bulbs with soft white bulbs of the correct wattage. Low wattage lighting will make a room look dull and dingy. If it's a cool gray day, have the fireplace ready to light. So when the agent calls to let you know they will be showing your home, all it will take is a match. The fire makes a home feel comfortable, and also shows the perspective buyer it works. A professional agent often will see the small things that should be fixed and can make suggestions. Obviously, the seller should do a walk through to make sure all needed repairs are made before the house is listed, unless it is being sold as is. ## U.N. tries to keep hopes of democracy alive in Haiti on day Aristide to return

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti (AP) - On the day Jean-Bertrand Aristide was to return to Haiti, U.N. officials struggled to keep alive plans for restoring democracy and warned the army against trying to appoint a new government.

Even so, pro-army leaders opposed to the exiled president's return made clear they believed the U.N.-brokered accord was dead.

More troops than usual patrolled the streets Friday night.

Reynold Georges, head of the rightist Alliance for the Liberation of Haiti, said in a radio interview, "We will tell (Prime Minister Robert) Malval in advance that we will have a new government on Sunday."

Malval, appointed by Aristide, heads a transition Cabinet that was to prepare for the president's return today. Malval's government has been powerless in face of army-backed terrorism and assassinations, including that of the justice minister.

"The political class is more and more in favor of closing off the negotiations" for Aristide's return, said Hubert de Ronceray, who heads another rightist party that advocates new elections.

Aristide swept Haiti's first free elections in December 1990, but was ousted by the military in a bloody coup in September 1991.

"I told the nation already that the international community has betrayed us. It is time for us to decide in our own way how we will solve our own problems," said Joseph Nerette, a rightist justice who briefly was made provisional president by the army following Aristide's ouster.

U.N. envoy Dante Caputo read a message Friday from U.N. Secretary-General Boutros

Boutros-Ghali asking all parties to meet early next week to work out the unfulfilled conditions of the accord.

The plan had called for army commander Lt. Gen. Raoul Cedras to resign after parliament passed a general amnesty and put the police under civilian control.

Many lawmakers, fearing army terror, haven't turned up to vote on the measures, and Cedras has refused to resign until they do. Aristide has refused to return until Cedras and other officers resign.

The agreement, signed July 3 by Aristide and Cedras, "remains fully in force as the only valid framework for the solution of the crisis in Haiti," Boutros-Ghali's statement said.

In a radio interview broadcast Friday, Cedras said the agreement couldn't be declared valid past today without his consent since he co-signed it. He declared it invalid until both he and Aristide decide otherwise.

The U.N. statement warned "sectors opposed to a democratic transition" against trying to form a provisional government.

"This would be nothing but an attempt to simulate a democratic transition in order to ignore the will of the people of Haiti" as expressed in the 1990 elections, the statement said.

An American warship, one of several foreign ships enforcing an oil and weapons embargo against Haiti, sailed into Port-au-Prince harbor Friday night, the first to come that close in three days.

The incidents have infuriated right-wing Haitians, who call them provocations and a violation of sovereignty. The embargo, which not only stopped deliveries but locked up fuel supplies already on the island, has reduced traffic drastically.

A strike called by rightists and a drivers' union closed most businesses in this seaside capital Friday. It protested the failure of Malval to order gasoline distributors to deliver to service stations. He did release an unspecified amount of diesel from government reserves Friday.

That feller on Tierra Blanca Creek says the average man thinks he isn't.

Language is like a white tablecloth—it always looks better when it's clean.

Dissent—this country was founded on this important principle. That's why we have competing political parties to promote differing views. That's also why we have "letters to the editor" space in our newspaper. We may not agree with a writer, but we'll sure defend his or her right to express an opinion.

We've been covering local governmental meetings for more than 35 years. We haven't always agreed with some of the decisions made and, in fact, board members often disagreed. In the democratic process, however, the majority still prevails.

We've seen a number of controversial actions by boards over those years. We've known some board members who may have been misinformed or uninformed...maybe even a few along the way who had their own axe to grind, but we never encountered one on the local level who was dishonest.

Judgment calls are mere decisions based on the best information available at the time. Sometimes those judgment calls may turn out wrong, but that doesn't make them sinister acts.

We've seen some boards get beat in a bond election because they forgot to inform the people. If you don't lay the cards on the table and explain why something is needed, the people will be suspicious, every time.

Disagreement, if done with respect for another's opinion, can also be healthy. Energy and concern from reasonable people, presented in a positive manner, usually avoids controversy and benefits all.

The Census Bureau has released its annual estimate on the number of people living in poverty in this country—37 million.

That's bad news and we all sympathize with the poor, but raw numbers paint a misleading portrait of the condition of the poor. It is much different to be "poor" in America than any other nation in the world.

The next time you see federal government statistics on the number of "poor," think of this: Almost two-thirds of those families classified as living in poverty own their own autos; about a third have a microwave oven, and almost four out of 10 own their own home.

These facts come from a study made by the Heritage Foundation, which also concluded that in terms of household living space, nutrition, amenities and other measures of well being, the average person in America living below the poverty line is better off than the average middle class family in Western Europe.

The Census Bureau increased the poverty level again this year to $14,335 annual income for a family of four. This is gross cash income for the year. It does not take into account the multitude of public and private benefits that a poor family receives from the government and private charities.

There are government programs such as food stamps, public housing, Medicare, Medicaid, welfare assistance, job training, utility payment assistance, unemployment compensation and many other assistance programs available. All together, the government spends more than $306 billion each year on poverty programs.

If that dollar figure is divided by the number of people below the poverty line, it results in the astounding result that the taxpayers are spending more than $33,000 a year for a family of four in poverty. Less than half of that spending would bring every poor person above the poverty dividing line.

So, when a government agency talks about the "poor," remember that bleeding heart liberals want more social programs and the votes they get for promising assistance; that labor unions use the poverty numbers to justify an increase in minimum wage (and, thus higher maximums); and that homeless advocates use the numbers to secure more public housing.

The figures on those in poverty may be true when you use the government guidelines, but they do not reflect the true state of being poor in America today.

Out of the Blue

By Garry Wesner

Captain Kirk, where are you? Your home planet desperately needs you and the Enterprise is the only starship in the quadrant. If you do not come to our aide, it is likely that your future will never come into being.

I can just imagine this scenario between Star Fleet Command and the U.S.S. Enterprise if the fictional starship were to look at the 20th Century U.S. space program.

In fact, I could hardly blame the erstwhile Captain Kirk from becoming rather morose at his future if he were to look at the shape our space program is in today.

From what began in the 1960s with President Kennedy's call to space to today, we've gone barely farther than the moon -- and just that far in person.

The handful of moon landings netted us a bunch of rocks, some pretty neat videos and the ever-catchy "One Small Step For Man, One Giant Leap For Mankind" quote.

The only thing Skylab proved is that gravity still works and that we were incredibly lucky not to have a giant hunk of space pollution drop on someone's head.

Missions to Mars, Venus and other planets have netted nothing much other than computerized messages that there was nobody home on any of these planets.

The Hubble telescope, which was supposed to show us the greatest views ever of the galaxy, is a giant space lemon that cost billions of dollars, but doesn't work.

The space shuttle is pretty useless as well. Astronauts trot up there every so often to drop off another satellite and test tools (or whatever), but don't come up with anything particularly practical.

The latest space shuttle mission included research on how rats' bodies are affected by weightlessness.

Wowee, I can hardly wait to hear what we learn there!

Then there's the much-vaunted Space Station -- our first leap into Space on a permanent (rather than transitory) basis.

But that has been cut back and cut back to it's little more than a Motel 6 in the sky being built on a French Riviera resort budget.

Oh sure, we benefit from the many, many, many satellites that are floating up there, but I wonder how many of them are REALLY necessary and how many are just Cold War-era "Keeping up with the Joneses (or Stalins)" pieces of propaganda.

Now you may think I'm exaggerating a little bit on the waste of time and money that the space program has been.

OK, let's take a little test: -- Name three commercial products that were developed based on research done in space.

-- Name one medical product that is manufactured in space for commercial use.

-- Tell in as many words as it takes how your life has been impacted by man having travelled to the moon (other than that you no longer believe it is made of green cheese).

-- Explain succinctly what missions to Mars will mean in terms of life in Hereford, Texas.

-- Using the total money spent on the space program in the last 30 years, determine how much smaller the federal deficit would be today.

Does this all mean I'm opposed to America having a space program?

Well, I might not go quite that far, but it seems silly for the U.S. government to be spending billions of dollars on something that has shown no return -- and is unlikely to in the future.

First off, I think there is pretty good evidence that there is no other life in the universe (either that or they don't want to talk to us!).

I mean, we have been beaming (not as in "Star Trek," but as in transmitting) radio signals to the heavens for years hoping for some response, but we have heard nothing back.

We have sent out probes to other planets and confirmed they are lifeless.

We have built larger and larger telescopes that have shown us nothing new.

So, I propose that we do several things with our current space program.

First, quit funding it! There are many things much more important than the space program. Put that money directly into deficit reduction. A measly few billion dollars isn't much, but it's a start.

Second, sell off the component parts to private enterprise.

For example, sell the space shuttles and Cape Kennedy space center to a company that would offer missions to private corporations, foundations and universities for research, testing, or whatever.

The proceeds from such a sale would then also be dumped right into deficit reduction.

Another company could purchase many of the government-operated satellites and satellite tracking systems -- and probably operate them cheaper and more efficiently than does the government.

In fact, those same companies could then contract with the government to provide monitoring of government-owned military satellites.

The government would win, with a reduced deficit and future savings of expenditures previously needed for the space program, and private enterprise would get a great money-making product to sell.

I think what I'm really trying to say is, let's keep space travel on television, in the books and in our imaginations.

Captain Kirk is a fictional character, the Enterprise is pretend and so are Vulcans.

Let's find better ways to spend our money.

Smoker protest

BY JAMES ROBERTS
Andrews County News

We're convinced that an ornery streak exists in all of us—it just comes out more often in some.

Ours came out Monday. We were in Houston all day for a series of medical tests for insurance purposes. And being poked, prodded, speared, stuck, stretched, hammered and squeezed—all without benefit of either coffee or cigarettes—is not our favorite way to spend a Monday.

Knowing that Houston in general and the medical complex in particular is paranoid about smoking, we carried a fake cigarette with us on our trip.

It looks exactly like a cigarette, complete with a filter on one end and a simulated red fire tip on the other.

Medical folks at the complex are so hung up about smoking they've not only outlawed smoking in the open air atriums at most hospitals, but also banned smoking on the sidewalks surrounding the buildings.

Needless to say, our cigarette drew a lot of attention--and all of it bad.

It was our only pleasure during the eight-hour ordeal--and the longer we had to wait between tests in the various waiting rooms, the more we dangled the fake cigarette. We had a ball:

--The little boy tugged at his mother's skirt in the crowded elevator. "Momma, that man's got a cigarette?"

"Hush, junior!"
"But Momma, he's smoking!"
"Shut up, junior." And to us, she said, "You know you can't smoke in this building!"

"Yes ma'am, I know that."
And she immediately stabbed the number for the next floor and hustled she and junior off the elevator.

--In one waiting room, we dangled the phony tube from our lips and hid behind a copy of the Houston Chronicle. We lowered the paper every few minutes in order for a big heavy-set woman to spot us--and glare.

Eventually, she got up, rambled toward the receptionist and told her that "that man over there is smoking!" She and the receptionist paid us an immediate visit to inform us that the entire building was off limits for the likes of us.

When we handed her the fake cigarette, she returned to her desk, and immediately called our name for the next test.

--In one waiting room, we put the cigarette to our lips and the glares and mumbling became so intense that a friend who accompanied us decided to leave his seat and move to the other side of the room.

--On the sidewalk outside St. Luke's Hospital, where we had inadvertently left the phony cigarette in our mouth, we were approached by an elderly black man who evidently was a gardener tending the vegetation outside the building.

"You know that this is a non-smoking area, don't you?"
"Yes, I know that."
"You know them things can kill ya, doncha?"
"Yep!"

And then we explained about the fake, why we were in Houston, where we were from, and the way we felt about all the no-smoking signs.

"I had a brother-in-law from West Texas. Never could understand that man. Stubborn'est feller I ever met--you kinda remind me of him."

--We were standing alone waiting on an elevator when this spiffy nurse walked up, took one look at our fake cigarette and without a word, slapped it out of our mouth.

In our knee-jerk response, our arm flew up and inadvertently knocked the nurse's cap off. We recovered both the cigarette and cap from the floor, handed her the cap, and she scooted to the next bank of elevators.

--But our day was made when the well-dressed woman sauntered over and said: "That's not a real cigarette, is it?"

"Nope!"
"You're doing this just for the pure devilment of it, aren't you?"
"Yes, ma'am."

Then she turned to our companion and handed him her card, saying: "Keep an eye on him. He may turn violent!"

The card was that of a Houston psychiatrist.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

It is far from my intention to become involved in a highly publicized controversy with members of the HISD board of trustees over the purchase of the "Smith building."

However, my conscience cannot but allow me to feel that it is my duty to call to the Board's attention that certain of their decisions involving the spending of taxpayer money triggers controversy and strife among the citizens of this community.

I also want the Board, the Hereford Brand, and the readers of the newspaper to know that not all of the names appearing on the letter to the editor delivered to the Superintendent of Schools, Charles Greenawalt, on Oct. 21st of this year were signatures of members of United We Stand America.

Some signatures were of concerned citizens who attended the chapter's meeting, which are open to the public. That reason played a major part in my becoming a member of UWSA in the first place--to voice my opinions and join others who desire a voice in our government that seems to have strayed away from "of the people, for the people, and by the people."

At meetings of UWSA, anyone may rise and, upon proper recognition of the chair, speak. The only restriction on non-members is the privilege of voting within the chapter. But by rising and speaking, points made by the speaker are likely to be brought to the chapter's attention and voted upon by the members.

Personally, after reading Chip Formby's letter to the editor published in the Brand, after the meeting in which the Board of Trustees voted in the negative to purchase the building, I wrote Chip a letter commending him. At that time I was not aware of the effect the tax base would have on the community. However, upon some understanding of the tax effect, I changed my mind.

The masses of people I have visited with express the desire they don't want a split 4-3 Board vote deciding the purchase of such enormous controversy, but wish the issue could be decided by a vote of taxpayers.

As pointed out in the publisher's "Hereford Bull" column last Sunday, attendees of HISD meetings are not permitted to participate in any manner other than the "public comment" agenda item.

One does not have to go to a foreign nation with a like leadership of the 1930s and 40s, that led the whole world into a state of disarray, to get the feeling of totalitarianism. We are receiving a pretty good taste of it right here in this little city in which we reside.

I would like to take this opportunity to explain to Don Cumpston that I, for one, did not leave the meeting in the middle of his report to the Board to be interpreted as not being interested in his report. As a taxpayer, my leaving was of a whole other meaning.

Sincerely,
Charlie Ward

Dear Editor:

Hereford Independent School District and the Drug Abuse Resistance Education (DARE) program would like to thank the community for its support of our recent spaghetti supper. Business and individual assistance with this project is greatly appreciated and will help to provide the necessary funds to purchase T-shirts and provide summer camp for students who successfully complete the DARE program.

Thank you for support in our fund raising project and the interest shown in our young people. With assistance such as this, the DARE program is able to make a positive impact on our young people.

Sincerely,
HISD, Hereford DARE,
Hereford Police Dept.

Dear Editor:

On Nov. 2, we, the people of Texas have a chance to express our opinion on a state income tax.

Proposition 4 addresses that issue and, on the surface, it looks like a Yes vote is the way to go. We will only have an income tax if it is for education purposes only.

How can you go against that? I want my kids to have the best education possible and I am willing to pay for it...

BUT, WE'VE BEEN HAD!

Our legislators and governor want an income tax but they know that if they enacted one, it would be political suicide. So, they are skillfully leading us voters down the road to a self-induced income tax under the guise of paying for education. (And we thought the lottery would eliminate our education woes?)

Don't worry though, it doesn't really matter how you vote anyway. We have a judge downstate who is taking care of our educational system for us and he will decide what is fair for us all. Money is not the problem solver for education and never will be. Until we realize that all students are not equal and cannot be treated as so, our education system will continue to decline.

I am voting NO on Proposition 4 and will continue to vote NO on ANY state income tax issue!

Our elected state legislators have the authority to enact an income tax if they see fit. Doing it through a proposition vote is a "cop out" on their part and will turn them loose with even more of our tax dollars.

Thanks for your attention,
Dennis Hicks

Dear Editor:

Once again it is voting time in Texas, and our elected officials have asked us to dig deep into our savings and come up with $1 billion to expand the Texas Department of Criminal Justice.

In 1985 the total population of TDC was less than 40,000 and the federal government was enforcing an overcrowding law that released prisoners early. The politicians' answer to the problem was a massive building campaign that would keep the bad guys behind bars. Six years later, and countless millions of dollars later, the problem is still there!

Could it be that the politicians and TDC were wrong and that building new facilities is not the answer? The state's population has not doubled, so why must the population of TDC?

As ex-inmate #413459, I can attest to the fact that there is a record amount of recidivism in the system. But I can also tell you that there is no effort to rehabilitate, and any attempt to educate yourself while in the system is punished instead of encouraged.

There are certainly many people such as Kenneth McDuff in the system, but there are also many times more people such as myself--who simply made a mistake and needed a chance to get their life together.

Instead of locking every felon away forever, why don't we hire some more parole commissioners. These people are over-worked and must make, basically, snap decisions about hundreds of people per day. They must make a mistake eventually. A little more time per inmate could make a lot of difference in the prison population and to the people of Texas.

Do the voters of Texas really want to let the politicians sell you with "scare tactics"? Let's look at past performances and see who has the most to gain from a billion-dollar tax.

Think before you vote! Don't be intimidated!

Tom Timberlake

Dear Editor:

I would like to thank all of you who voiced your opinions on all matters concerning the Hereford School District. I want and appreciate any concerns regardless of your position on any subject.

Please be aware we operate under the Roberts Rule of Order and the Board Policy Manual. A member may not bring a previously voted subject before the board unless he voted on the prevailing side of that subject.

Once again, I appreciate all opinions.

Aspin orders review of weapons arsenal

By SUSANNE M. SCHAFER

AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - Defense Secretary Les Aspin ordered the first post-Cold War review of the nation's nuclear weapons arsenal Friday and warned that renegade states or terrorists could threaten America with weapons of mass destruction.

"It is a new nuclear threat we face," Aspin said at a Pentagon press conference.

"The old nuclear danger was thousands of warheads from the Soviet Union. That threat has subsided but the arsenal still exists," Aspin said. "The new nuclear danger stems from the possibility of a handful of weapons in less reliable hands."

The secretary said the goal of the review is to help design a long-term strategy and structure for the nation's nuclear force, and help shape thinking for events that could occur decades from now.

Aspin said, no terrorist groups are known to have nuclear weapons in their possession at this time, but such a development shouldn't be ruled out.

"This is a different animal," Aspin said of the potential for the proliferation of nuclear weaponry.

Aspin said the review should be completed in the spring and that it would take a fresh look at every aspect of nuclear policy.

The study will also review plans for targeting nuclear weapons, counter-proliferation issues and operational plans to determine which forces need to be on alert, Aspin said.

Developing relationships with the newly emerging states of the former Soviet Union will have to be dealt with in the review, given their continued possession of nuclear weapons.

Aspin said the review is in line with President Clinton's directive to "redefine the size and shape of our forces," both nuclear and conventional, in the post-Cold War era.

He ordered that both civilian and military officials conduct the review, putting it in the hands of Ash Carter, the assistant secretary of defense for nuclear security and counterproliferation, and Lt. Gen. Barry McCaffrey, the director for strategic plans and policy for the Joint Staff.

The United States has about 8,000 nuclear weapons, but is expected to deploy only about 3,500 following the ratification and implementation of the START II nuclear weapons treaty signed under President Bush.

Portales laundromat owner claims latest Lotto jackpot

PORTALES, N.M. (AP) - "A dry hole" has finally paid off for a laundromat owner who said he played the Texas lottery for four months without success until now.

Marvin Foster said he learned from a Wednesday night telecast that he had won a $3 million lotto drawing with a ticket he had purchased Tuesday night.

But Foster said he waited about half an hour or more Wednesday night - until after he finished cleaning up the kitchen - before he compared his ticket with the numbers he had copied off the TV screen.

Asked how he could wait, he said: "Well, when you've lost as many times as I did ..."

Texas lottery director Nora Linares said the winning ticket bore the numbers 5-14-35-38-24-1.

Foster said he received confirmation from the lottery claims office in Lubbock, Texas, on Thursday and was heading to Austin today to accept his prize, which is to be spread over 20 years of payments.

Asked what he would do with the money, he said: "I'm going to pay some debts off."

Would he buy any new vehicles or do anything flashy?

"I have no intention to," he said. "I'm going to take an annual vacation in March, but that was already planned."

Foster, 56, said he and son Mark, co-owners of two Portales laundromats, shared in the winning ticket he purchased at the Hughes True Value store in Farwell, Texas.

Store clerk Andrea Chadwick said Foster is a regular customer whom she calls "the 27-dollar man" because he always buys $27 worth of tickets.

"That's because I play a nine-number combination. That's how much that costs," Foster said.

Herd thaws out in 2nd half to edge Caprock

By JAY PEDEN
Sports Editor

Hereford found the secret to running in snow--run straight ahead--and turned a 9-0 halftime deficit into a 17-9 win over Caprock Friday night in windy, frozen Dick Bivins Stadium in Amarillo.

Hereford improved to 3-6 overall and 2-2 in district and still has a shot at a playoff berth. Caprock falls to 1-8 and 0-4.

A strong north wind and temperatures in the 20s pushed the wind chill factor down below zero. There were maybe 50 fans on each side at the peak of attendance. The wind, cold and a light dusting of snow made for difficult passing and cutting and made for easy fumbling.

Hereford was hurt by all that in the first half--an interception, a fumble and no traction on the toss sweeps helped Caprock score twice in the half.

Caprock had the right offensive philosophy, running up the middle nearly every play. Fullback Johnny Martinez ran for 98 of his 112 yards in the first half.

Hereford took the hint, and virtually tossed the toss from the offense. The Herd ran the ball straight ahead and controlled the ball for nearly all of the second half. Hereford tailback Marquise Brown ran between the tackles for most of his 158 yards, 122 of which he had in the second half. Fullback Justin Wright had his best night of the season with 94 yards--74 in the second half--and two touchdowns.

"I tried to approach it like the weather wasn't there," Herd coach Danny Haney said. "The weather hurt us on our outside game, on our cutbacks... They were sitting on the toss."

"We went inside (at halftime) and decided we've got to run between the tackles with the way they were playing us, and the offensive line did a good job."

Hereford's blocking was a mess for much of the first half, as Hereford gained 22 yards on its first four possessions. On Hereford's last possession of the first half and all the second half, the Herd offensive line consistently blew Caprock's line backyards.

"We just didn't have the intensity we needed. We weren't getting off the ball," said senior guard Ben Celaya. "Right before the half we had that little drive, then in the second half we were just running basic plays: power and base. It started working."

The Herd defense also stiffened, and Caprock ran only 13 plays in the entire second half.

Hereford's first drive of the game ended with an interception and set Caprock up at its own 28. After a first down, Martinez ran between the tackles, then cut outside for 44 yards before Michael Marquez caught him at the Hereford 18-yard line. Three plays later, on third-and-10, Chris Mason found Derrick Gardner for an 18-yard touchdown pass. The run for two points failed.

That touchdown pass was the majority of the aerial yardage for both teams. Mason was 2-of-6 for 24 yards, with one interception, and Hereford's Elias Reyna was 2-of-8 for 10 yards with two interceptions. They likely couldn't feel their hands, much less the ball.

The cold contributed to another turnover for Hereford and another score for Caprock. Brown dropped a pitch from Reyna and Caprock recovered at the Hereford 39.

When the teams switched sides for the second quarter, Caprock got the wind at its back. Mason tried two passes, but both went incomplete. Eric Hernandez came on and kicked a wind-aided 47-yard field goal--reportedly a Caprock record. Caprock led 9-0 with 11:44 left in the half.

Later in the quarter, Martinez tried a 53-yard attempt, but left it short.

On the last possession before the half, Hereford discovered how to move the ball and drove down to the Caprock 22. Hereford ran out of time, though, and failed when forced to pass into the wind. A field goal would have been impossible.

Hereford kept the ball moving in the second half. The Herd took the opening kickoff at the 21 after Hayden Andrews' 16-yard return and drove 79-yards into the wind in 15 plays--all running. Wright ran the final two yards, and Terance High kicked the extra point into the wind.

"It was a little bit slippery on the field and it was hard to get traction," Wright said. "They were keying on Marquise on film, and it started opening up inside. Plus, the offensive line started wearing them out."

Hereford's defense stopped Caprock cold, forcing a punt that went only 35 yards even with the wind. Hereford kept driving the ball, using only Brown and Wright up the middle, but a holding penalty forced a pass which was picked off by Steve Atchley at the Caprock 1-yard line.

Hereford stopped Caprock again early in the fourth quarter, with Jacob Lopez getting a tackle for a one-yard loss on third-and-5. This time, Caprock had to punt into the wind, and it went only 16 yards to the Caprock 24. Brown ran 12 yards on the first play, but on third-and-1, he was stopped in the backfield by Jonathan Paris.

Haney faced a decision: go for it on fourth-and-three, or go for a 22-yard field goal with the wind at High's back. He called High's number.

"I felt like we needed to get something out of the drive," Haney said. "We'd been down there before and hadn't gotten anything. And of course, a field goal gives us the lead. If it hadn't given us the lead, I'd have gone for a touchdown."

High came on and nailed it. It could have been the winning points.

"I was trying to concentrate on keeping my head down," High said, admitting he was nervous before the play started--"a little at first, until he snapped the ball. Then I had to concentrate on what I was doing."

Hereford led 10-9 with 7:44 left in the game.

Caprock got one first down--their first since early in the second quarter--but was stopped when Hereford end Richard Hicks sacked Mason for an eight-yard loss on third down.

It forced a 17-yard punt, and Hereford drove 46 yards in nine plays, using up most of the remaining time.

Here comes the hit

Hereford linebacker Robert Jimenez prepares to hit Caprock fullback Johnny Martinez. Hereford survived freezing conditions and a cold start to win 17-9 Friday in Amarillo.

Pampa clinches playoff berth Hereford needs help from Caprock

Pampa clinched a playoff berth with a 18-8 win over Borger Friday, and Randall shut out Dumas 29-0. That sets up a showdown for District 1-4A supremacy between Pampa and Randall Friday in Canyon.

Pampa is 4-0 in district play and would wrap up the outright district title with a win. Randall is 3-1, but with a win over Pampa, Randall would advance as the district's top playoff representative, while Pampa would still go as the runner-up. In case of a tie, Pampa is the top team and Randall is the runner-up.

Hereford (2-2) kept itself in the playoff hunt with a 17-9 win over Caprock Friday in Amarillo. Hereford will make the playoffs if: Hereford beats Dumas; Pampa beats Randall; and Caprock beats or ties Borger. Hereford and Randall would be tied for second at 3-2, but Hereford would advance because of its win over Randall.

A Borger win Friday would put Borger, Randall and Hereford in a tie for second, but Hereford would be the first team eliminated by plus-points. Borger holds the maximum 15 over Hereford, Randall holds the maximum 15 over Borger, but Hereford holds only two points over Randall. Hereford is eliminated, and Randall beats Borger because of its win head-to-head.

Borger, now 2-2 after a 2-0 start, was eliminated Friday. Dumas (1-3) and Caprock (0-4) also are out of the picture.

The overall records of the district's teams are: Pampa, 8-1; Randall, 7-2; Borger, 5-4; Hereford, 3-6; Dumas, 2-7; and Caprock, 1-8.

Scrambling

Caprock quarterback Chris Mason tries his best to stay away from Hereford linebacker Jacob Lopez (40) and end Mark Kuper (approaching him from behind). The cold conditions made passing futile and made footing perilous.

Gotcha

Hereford linebacker Chris Vallejo wraps up Caprock fullback Johnny Martinez.

1993 Herd volleyball team

Spikers to meet Lamesa in bi-district

Just like Christmas, a bi-district matchup between Hereford and Lamesa comes every year.

They've met each of the last three years. Each time, Hereford found the shiny toy train under the tree, while Lamesa got socks.

In the four-year existence of District 2-4A, Lamesa has not lost a district match. Each year, though, the Golden Tornadoes have gone on to lose to the runner-up in 1-4A: Hereford.

Hereford coach Brenda Reeh would like to see that continue when the two meet again at 7:30 p.m. at Lubbock's Monterey High School. Lamesa record is 16-6; Hereford's is 23-6.

She's received a little information through the coaching grapevine, that may help the Herd.

"Their biggest weapon is (outside hitter) Kechia Mason," Reeh said. "She can be just a devastating weapon if she gets hot. What we'll try to do is hit the ball in spaces where they have to work hard to get to it so she won't get anything good to hit."

A bad pass or bad dig would lead to a bad set, neutralizing Mason. "As far as their other hitters are concerned, I don't think they'll hit the ball nearly as hard (as Mason) but they'll hit it deep, so we've got to cover the deep hits."

Dumas, 1-4A's champion, awaits the winner of a one-match playoff between Snyder and Levelland, which was to be played Saturday.

Netters fall to Big Spring

The fall season ended Friday for the Hereford tennis team, when the Whitefaces lost to second-seeded Big Spring in the second round of the Region 1-4A Tennis Tournament in Lubbock.

Big Spring won the team match 10-6. Hereford coach Ed Coplen said it could have been even closer; there were two matches still going when Big Spring won its 10th match, and both had just split sets.

"Everybody played as good as they could today," Coplen said.

Hereford beat Arlington Heights early Friday to advance to the Big Spring meeting. Look for complete results in Tuesday's Brand.

Winter blankets games across northern Texas

By JAIME ARON
Associated Press Writer

DALLAS (AP) - Fierce, wintry conditions, considered "football weather" by some, swept through high school games across the state this weekend, but it had little effect on the outcome of most games.

Only two ranked teams lost Friday night on a cold, wet and windy ninth weekend that featured several district title races being wrapped up and a clearer playoff picture for most areas.

The biggest game visited by Mother Nature was the duel between No. 4 Odessa Permian and Amarillo Cooper, which likely would mean the District 4-5A title for the winner.

Playing in more than an inch of snow, Permian won 15-7 behind 177 yards from John Williams. His 75-yard touchdown run in the third quarter iced the victory for the Panthers before 13,000 shivering fans at Shotwell Stadium.

The Mojo defense kept Cooper from locking up its first 4-5A title since 1979 by holding Cooper running back Mike Rose to 98 yards and the Cougars to 183 total yards. They had averaged 448 yards per game.

Permian (7-0-1) needs a victory over San Angelo Central next weekend for the 4-5A crown. Cooper (6-2-1) must hope Permian loses and it must beat Midland Lee, which tied Permian last weekend.

The Panthers trailed 7-6 at halftime and decided to take the ball instead of having the wind at their backs. The 30-mile gusts had little effect on their play calling because they threw only 11 passes all game.

Permian coach Tam Hollingshead simply decided to let Williams take over, running him five times for 39 yards.

But his sixth carry resulted in a fumble at the Cooper 1-yard line.

What could have been a game-saving play by the Cougars turned into two points for Permian when quarterback Zac Allen was called for intentional grounding on second down.

The safety gave Permian its first lead of the night, 8-7.

"That was a big, big play," Hollingshead said. "There seemed to be a big momentum change after that play."

"It was a tough game because of the elements," Cougars coach Randy Allen said. "They played outstanding defense, and we never really got a drive going."

The same could be said by North Dallas coach Emo Black after No. 1 Dallas Carter thumped his Bulldogs 53-0.

Andre Richardson rushed for 121 yards and two TDs, including one on a 90-yard kickoff return, and the Cowboys' defense limited the Bulldogs to 18 total yards of offense and one first down.

HERD

Brown ran three times for 20 yards; Wright ran six times for 26 yards, including the final two. High's extra point gave Hereford a 17-9 lead with 29 seconds left.

The touchdown didn't quite ice the game, though. Atchley returned the kickoff 37 yards to the Hereford 45, and somehow only three seconds drained off the clock. It didn't matter though: the wind batted down Mason's pass, right into the arms of Hereford linebacker Gabriel Medrano, who almost returned it for another TD.

One play ran out the clock.

OVERLAND PARK, Kan. (AP) - Student athletes under NCAA supervision continue to use fewer drugs, according to figures released by the athletic group.

The latest report from the NCAA, covering 1992 athletic competition, disclosed that only 10 athletes out of 4,782 tested were ruled ineligible because a test came back positive. That was a percentage of 0.2.

The downward trend has continued in the drug-testing program, which was inaugurated in 1986. The failure figure for the 1991 period was 0.3.

Butler has effected a compromise. After dropping an opponent, he helps him to his feet and says: "The Lord loves you."

Philadelphia coach doesn't think Pokes should be 11-point picks

By RALPH BERNSTEIN

AP Sports Writer
PHILADELPHIA (AP) - Coach Rich Kotite rejects the notion his Philadelphia Eagles must play a perfect game Sunday to beat the Dallas Cowboys.

"When you say you have to play a perfect game, that means that we're really not worth a damn," Kotite said. "I don't believe that. Nobody plays a perfect game."

The Eagles are 11-point home underdogs against the Cowboys. Nobody can recall when in the last decade the Eagles drew such little respect at home.

Kotite doesn't think it's lack of respect, nor does he agree the Cowboys deserve to be rated 11 points over his crippled team.

"I think that every week point spreads are sometimes lopsided, and teams do overcome that," the coach said.

"I think that basically what the prognosticators or whoever does those point spreads probably is saying is, 'Well, they're without Randall (Cunningham). They're without Freddy (Barnett). They're without Kenny Rose.' I think that's what it's based upon. I don't know if the word is respect or whatever."

Kotite said the big number in a series between such bitter rivals didn't bother him or his players.

"I sometimes think that when we're a favorite, it bothers me more than when we're underdogs," he declared.

Kotite is fully aware the Super Bowl champions are on a roll with four straight victories. The Eagles have lost two after opening with four straight wins.

"But our records are the same (4-2)," he said. "Who knows what it's going to be? We still think we're a respectable, good team. We're a competitive team. And we're going to do all we can to go out and beat the Dallas Cowboys."

Kotite conceded the Cowboys have one of the most powerful offenses in the NFL.

"It's important that we limit their time on the field. We have to sustain drives and score points," he said.

Is running Herschel Walker 25 or more times a game to keep the clock running a viable option?

"Yes, but Herschel used in other roles also is a viable option," Kotite said. "Sometimes your short passing game is construed as a style of run in keeping the chains moving."

Does Kotite have any tricks up his sleeve for the Halloween day game.

"You don't go out there and try to gimmick Dallas," he responded. "The gist that I get is that we better have a double flea-flicker pass to get into the end zone. I think that there are some things that we do well and we have to be ourselves, do the things that we do best."

The Eagles are hurting. They have 11 first-rate players who won't play in Sunday's game: quarterbacks Cunningham and Bubba Brister; receivers Barnett and Jeff Sydnor (also a kick returner); defensive tackle Keith Millard; linebackers Rose and Scott Kowalkowski; tight end Tim Harris; offensive linemen Rob Selby and Eric Floyd; and strong safety Andre Waters.

For all his team's injuries, Kotite said, "it's easy as hell to feel sorry for yourself, because you have some built-in things that you can use if you want. We have to work our way out of this."

"We have to be as good, as tough and as smart as we can to contain Emmitt Smith. He's a great player. We went back to fundamentals during our bye week. We weren't blocking. We weren't tackling the way we should have been. And that's the foundation of this game ever since it was first played."

Smith isn't expecting anything less than a strong effort from the Eagles.

"They look fine to me, you can't count out the Philadelphia Eagles defense," he said. "It has been the backbone of that team for a long time. I still think it will be the backbone for a long time."

"Everybody gets up to play the Cowboys, especially Eagles. Their fans and everybody just hate the Cowboys. When we get there, it will be a tough game."

Ken O'Brien, who joined the team Oct. 4, a day after Cunningham broke his left leg, is starting because of the injuries.

"I've had the extra week, more chance to get repetitions, to get used to the guys who are out there. And for them to get used to me. That should definitely help. Every day I'm around it gets a little easier."

What's at stake is remaining in contention for the division lead. The Giants (5-1) lead the Cowboys and Eagles by one game.

Oilers starting to heal wounds

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ

AP Sports Writer
HOUSTON (AP) - No one can be certain, but the disaster-prone Houston Oilers may be running low on controversy.

Warren Moon is back at quarterback, although still uncertain of his status; the offense and defense have stopped fighting each other and David Williams is trying to become known as a football player again instead of the nation's best-known father.

After a preseason of bitter contract wars, a three-game losing streak, divisiveness between Buddy Ryan's defense and Kevin Gilbride's offense, the Oilers spent their off-week promoting the healing process.

Together they are making a stand. "I'm seeing a lot more guys trying to pull together," defensive end William Fuller said. "We started this year more divided than in the past. We had the situation with Buddy coming in and defending the defense."

"There were a lot of sparring sessions in training camp. We knew we were a team but we just had problems when one side or the other didn't pull its load."

Fuller and running back Spencer Tillman helped start the healing at half time of last Sunday's game against Cincinnati. They Oilers trailed 9-7 at the half against the winless Bengals who had led at the half in only one other game all season.

"I went over to the offensive side of the lockerroom and said 'hey, let's all get it going,'" Fuller said. "Spencer came over to the defensive side and did the same thing. It was just a good feeling."

"How much effect it will have the rest of the season remains to be seen but it's a start."

The string of controversy started in preseason.

Defensive tackle Ray Childress, wide receiver Ernest Givins and running back Lorenzo White had contract disputes. Ryan's well-publicized disdain of the run-and-shoot brought on enmity between offensive and defensive players.

More recently, the three-game losing streak brought rumors that coach Jack Pardee's job was in jeopardy; Moon was benched for part of one game because of ineffectiveness and wide receiver Hayward Jeffries got into a sidelines shouting match with Gilbride at New England.

Williams created a national furor by skipping the Oilers' Oct. 17 game against New England to remain in Houston with his wife and newborn son.

Despite a Thursday night taped appearance on Eye to Eye with Connie Chung, Williams wants to be anonymous again.

"I think we've turned the corner but we can continue to grow," Gilbride said. "We aren't where we needed to be offensively. We just needed to win to prove we still could. I think that will lead to more wins down the road."

Moon, replaced by Cody Carlson prior to the New England game, returned to lead the Oilers to victory against the Patriots and was named AFC player of the week following the Oilers' 28-12 victory over Cincinnati on Oct. 24.

The flames of controversy have dimmed and that is a concern to defensive end Sean Jones.

"If we think we've turned the corner just because we won two games, we're in trouble," Jones said. "Every time we say that we fall apart."

Buckner's Mavs have nowhere to go but up

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

DALLAS (AP) — Quinn Buckner has spent the last two years as NBC's studio analyst on NBA games. Now, he gets to put all his theories into practice with one of the worst teams in league history.

The Dallas Mavericks just missed the NBA record book for consecutive losses and losses in one season last year.

Dallas finished 11-71 for the worst record in franchise history. Dallas was 7-14 over its final 21 games to avoid the worst-record tag. At one point, Dallas lost 19 consecutive games.

Buckner, one of only seven players in basketball history to win NCAA, Olympic and NBA titles, hasn't been around losing like he's seen at Reunion Arena.

Bobby Knight, Buckner's coach at Indiana, asked Buckner: "Why would you leave a job where you worked 60 days a year for one where you'll probably work 360?"

Buckner replied: "For the challenge."

Coaching the Mavs will be a challenge although they recently signed talented Jamal Mashburn of Kentucky who will join Jim Jackson as two of the best young players in the NBA.

"This is one of those rare opportunities in life where you get to be part of something from the ground up," said the 38-year-old coach.

Buckner said he can guarantee disenchanted Mavericks fans one thing: "We'll play hard. And we'll try to play smart."

The Mavs will have to do both because of inexperience and injuries.

Jackson, who remained unsigned for the first 54 games, averaged 16 points over the final 28 games after the Mavs finally signed him to the contract he had been asking for all along.

Jackson, out of Ohio State, caught Buckner's eye when he saw the team play.

"He's got character and I think you win with character and people who can play," Buckner said. "You've got to have somebody on the court who can exert authority. I believe Jim Jackson will have the kind of rapport where he can lead his teammates."

Buckner took the team to Waco to work out where Baylor University plays so he could install his work ethic.

Mashburn missed that camp but signed after a week. He came to Dallas as the fourth overall NBA selection after leading the Wildcats to a 30-4 record and a Final Four berth.

"Jamal has the ability to play both forward positions," said Mavs vice president Rick Sund.

Mashburn said, "I feel comfortable coming into a situation where there's not a lot of pressure. You can make a few mistakes and learn how to correct them."

Buckner has numerous injuries to sweat.

Sean Rooks, the Mavs' second-round draft choice two years ago, was a pleasant surprise last season by averaging 13 points and 7 rebounds. He has a foot injury that could keep him out a month.

Terry Davis, who is trying to recover from a car accident in May that shattered his left elbow, was the rebound leader on the team last year.

"My elbow feels better and when the regular season starts I'll be ready even if I have to play with one arm," Davis said.

Other problems have plagued the Mavs training camp, including Randy White's bad knee and Doug Smith's dehydration.

The settling force on the Mavs is guard Derek Harper, who is entering his 11th NBA season. Harper averaged 18 points last year.

Roy Tarpley, who was banned from the NBA because of drug use, is eligible for reinstatement this year and the Mavs still retain his rights. However, Tarpley was expected to play a full season in Greece again this year.

Other Mavs expected to make contributions this year include veteran guard Tim Legler, center Donald Hodge, second-round pick Lucious Harris of Long Beach State, and Ron "Popeye" Jones, a 6-8 forward whose rights were acquired from the Houston Rockets. Jones played in Italy last year.

Spurs get Rodman to add muscle

By KELLEY SHANNON
Associated Press Writer

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — The San Antonio Spurs aspire to be Eastern Conference tough, and they're hoping Detroit import Dennis Rodman is the demolition man to help them do it.

"We won't be the traditional team that just scoots up and down the court like we did," said Spurs coach John Lucas. "We'll want to win defensively. We'll almost be like an East Coast team."

Almost. The Spurs aren't meddling completely with their Western Conference squad, anchored by All-Star center David Robinson. Forwards Terry Cummings, Antoine Carr and J.R. Reid are back this season. So are guards Dale Ellis, Willie Anderson, Lloyd Daniels and Vinny Del Negro.

But on Oct. 1, the Spurs made a major trade, sending fan-favorite Sean Elliott to the Pistons for Rodman.

Rodman promised to do for the Spurs what made him the NBA's leading rebounder the past two seasons — when he averaged 18.7 and 18.3 boards, respectively — and what got him named to the NBA All-Defensive team five consecutive years.

"On the East Coast, you have to be real physical. You can't be real soft or you're going to get beat," Rodman said. "I feel like they need a person who can come in and get the job done, no matter what it takes."

Lucas describes Rodman as a defensive blue-collar worker, someone who "gives us defensive insight and intuitiveness that we didn't have before."

Rodman has led San Antonio in rebounding during the exhibition season.

He's also spiced things up for the sometimes sedate Spurs.

Most notably, Rodman showed up late one evening to a public shoot-around sporting with a tuft of freshly dyed bright yellow hair, similar to the style worn by Wesley Snipes in "Demolition Man."

If others have been baffled by Rodman's unpredictable ways in the past, Lucas seems to welcome his individuality.

"He's just been a pleasant, delight to coach," Lucas said. "He's always got another challenge for us. I've got to find some new ones for him — other than blond hair."

Robinson, now entering his fifth NBA season, said the trade of his friend Elliott was emotional for him, but he predicted good things for San Antonio with the addition of Rodman.

"There's no denying this is a man who can help us move to another level," said Robinson. "I hope the fans are going to be excited about what we're going to do."

Since the Spurs' Robinson-era began with the 1989-90 season, team executives have promised San Antonio is close to attaining a championship team. The Spurs' new ownership group has renewed that pledge.

The Spurs finished second in the Midwest Division last season with a 49-33 record, then advanced to the Western Conference semifinals before losing to the Phoenix Suns in six games.

Spurs officials keep pointing out they're back at full force this year with the return of Cummings and Anderson, both of whom missed much of last season with injuries.

"Terry Cummings is really almost just about back to being 100 percent. Willie is too," Lucas said. "If they continue to play that way we'll be good. We'll be a different team."

A question mark for the Spurs is at point guard.

Club officials chose not to re-sign Avery Johnson, last year's sporadic starter at the point. Johnson recently signed with Golden State, whom the Spurs face in their season-opener Nov. 5 in the new Alamodome.

Lucas said he's looking closely at veteran Sleepy Floyd and rookie Chris Whitney, a second-round draft pick from Clemson, to fill the spot.

This season marks the first full year as coach for Lucas, a former player in his first NBA coaching job. Lucas, a recovering drug and alcohol abuser who now operates treatment programs for athletes, was hired to replace Jerry Tarkanian in December 1992.

In running his first training camp, Lucas has stressed conditioning. And defense.

"I don't think we were a soft team. I think we were an offensive-oriented team," Lucas said. "Now we want to go out and try to shut people down and stop them defensively with steals and stuff."

"We won't win pretty, I hope, but I hope we win."

Nadia Comaneci of Romania was only 14 when she earned the first perfect score in Olympic gymnastics in 1976.

Rockets' ship sailing smoothly for Rudy T.

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ
AP Sports Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — The preseason has been a smooth ride for the Houston Rockets.

For awhile they couldn't shoot straight and coach Rudy Tomjanovich is still trying to boost the team's rebounding percentage. But his biggest worry is the happy problem of having too many good players.

Tomjanovich has some decisions to make before the season opener Friday against New Jersey in The Summit.

"We've got 11 guys that we are trying to work in," Tomjanovich said. "We did a 9 1/2 man rotation last year and that's what I'm comfortable with. Tree Rollins was the half because he played only against exceptionally big centers."

"We've got more who can play this year, so that's a nice problem. There's still a problem because it splits minutes and people have to be able to deal with that," Tomjanovich said.

But most of Tomjanovich's problems have been "nice" during the exhibition season. There are no contract hassles. Hakeem Olajuwon is healthy and relaxed. Top draft pick Sam Cassell has been impressive.

Tomjanovich's lineup is set with Olajuwon at center, Otis Thorpe and Robert Horry at forwards and guards Kenny Smith and Vernon Maxwell.

"We still have the rebounding problem," Tomjanovich said.

"We're thinking of different ways to work on that."

Errant field goal shooting is improving after an early preseason lull.

"We've got that back," Tomjanovich said. "We hit 44 percent against New York (on Sunday) and they've been holding people to 33 percent," Tomjanovich said. "I'm feeling good about that. I just think the guys will get their second wind."

Olajuwon starts the season calm and confident.

"I don't play to prove a point anymore," he said. "I play because it's my career and I love the game. You can't prove yourself to people.

Even if you win three championships, they say you can't win four.

"I play the game because I enjoy it."

Olajuwon's mood has a lot to do with Tomjanovich's temperament.

"He's got a very positive attitude and physically he's right at his peak," Tomjanovich said. "Also, his attitude has been great. He has respect for the guys on this team and he has confidence in this team. His mental approach is fine."

Three-point specialist Matt Bullard has been sidelined by injuries but he's expected to be ready for the season opener. The Rockets obtained Mario Elie from Portland and he's been a positive influence so far.

"I feel like we've upgraded our bench," Maxwell said. "We got Mario and Sam. We made some positive moves so that we can go out and compete."

"We carved a little respect for ourselves last year. Now we have to be ready to play every night. We won't be surprising anybody."

Horry was plagued by a knee injury last season but he tested his knee in summer league play and it passed the test.

"That's why I played the summer leagues," Horry said. "I wanted to see if it would hold up. It'll swell a little but hopefully by the start of the season it'll be OK."

Smith has tendinitis in both knees and has rested some during the preseason.

The Rockets won a franchise-record 55 games last season and captured their second Midwest Division crown. They also had a franchise record 15-game winning streak and their best-ever road record of 24-17.

Tomjanovich was runnerup to New York's Pat Riley in the coach of the year voting and Olajuwon was voted the league's defensive Player of the Year.

It all adds up to a tough act to follow this season.

"Now, everywhere we play, it's not just another team," Maxwell said. "It's the Houston Rockets and they'll all be trying to beat us. We won't sneak up on anybody this time."

Metal roof provides authenticity to house

By POPULAR MECHANICS
For AP Newsfeatures

Topping off your turn-of-the-century house with an authentic metal roof may be the finishing touch your restoration needs.

Fortunately, there are still a few manufacturers who supply metal shingles, along with standing and batten-seamed sheetmetal roofing, to the restoration market.

Popular metal shingle designs include stamped diamond and fish-scale patterns. You'll also find patterns that look like Spanish clay tiles and those that resemble classic slate shingles.

Some of the materials used years ago, like copper and tin plate (terne), are still used in manufacturing today. The advances made in industry over the years have seen the addition of self-healing or corrosion-resistant metals, along with those that are factory finished (painted).

One of the major advantages of a metal roof is its longevity. Although the guarantee on many materials today is 20 years, when properly installed and maintained, you can expect some metals, like copper and terne, to last much longer. For example, history has shown that a properly installed and maintained terne can last at least 50 years and in some cases more.

Of course, the length of time any metal roof will last depends on lots of factors. One of the main ones is the effect of climatic conditions in the area. Like many other materials, environmental factors like salt air, acid rain and smog all play a part in speeding the metal's aging process.

Metal roofing also has a high degree of wind resistance. Because of the way they lock together, metal shingles are more resistant to wind than composition shingles. So it's rare to lose them in a storm. Metal roofing is also considered fire resistant, in that the material resists ignition from sparks and flames.

When installed properly these lightweight roofs are watertight and, aside from the periodic painting of some metals, virtually maintenance-free. Another advantage of metal roofing is the natural ability to shed snow. When the sun heats the face, it facilitates the natural melting of snow and ice.

Although the initial cost outlay may be more than that for other types of roofing, when you consider its durability a metal roof is a wise investment. It's possible to find metal roofing in a variety of materials, including copper, terne, galvanized steel, terne-coated stainless steel (TCS) and aluminum steel or Galvalume.

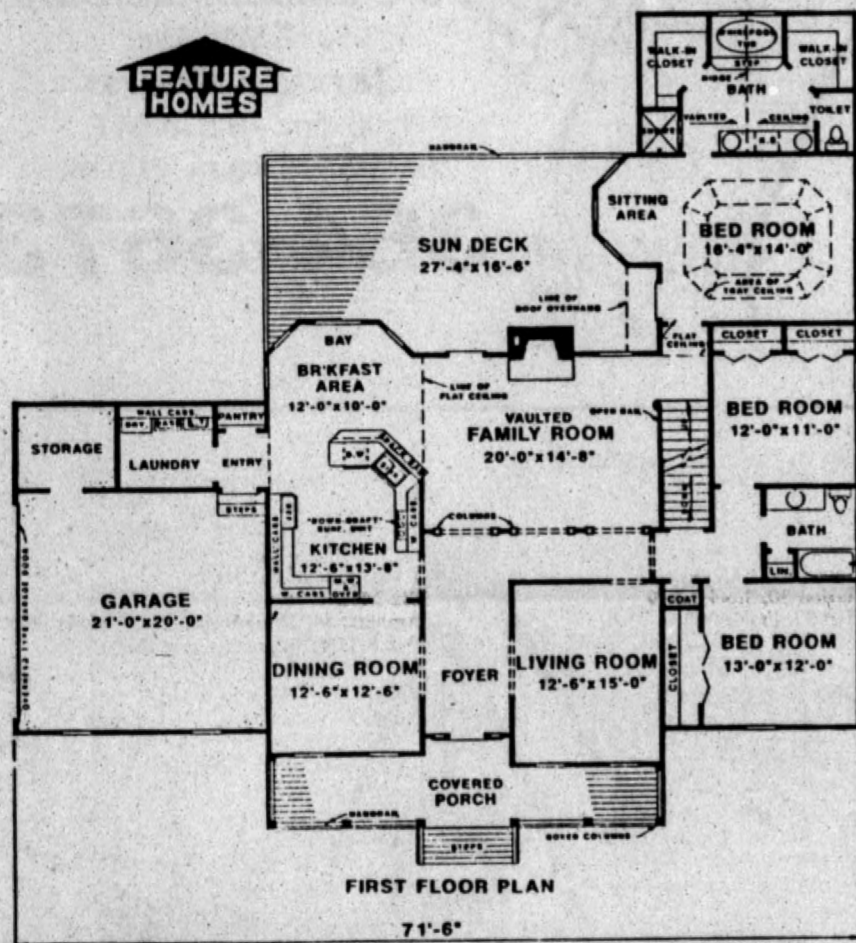

Considered the top-of-the-line metal roofing material, copper shingles and sheets need no painting. Naturally resistant to corrosion, a copper roof changes color slowly when it's exposed to weather. Its initial bright, shiny appearance will likely pass through various warm tones of brown and sometimes green (depending on climate), eventually progressing to form a dark patina. Expect to pay more for copper than other materials.

Terne, which consists of a mixture of lead (about 80 percent) and tin (about 20 percent) on steel plates, has been used for roofing since Colonial times, when it was produced and imported from Wales.

MASTER SUITE WITH SITTING AREA

Four Bed Rooms And A Bonus Room

© BY W.D. FARMER, F.A.I.B.D.

Steps lead upward to a distinctive front porch and into the open foyer. Most any part of the home is accessible from the wide foyer. The traffic pattern is excellent through the entertainment portion of the home.

The family room is vaulted and columns separate it from an open hall leading to two of the bedrooms. These two bedrooms share a large central bath with a linen closet.

The living room and dining room are on opposite sides of the foyer, and are separate but yet remain available for daily use.

The kitchen is designed for convenience to the family chef. The sink overlooks the vaulted family room and a snack bar is located on the other side. The breakfast area with bay window overlooks the large sun deck. A laundry room and oversized pantry area are nearby for convenience.

Stairs up, located above stairs down to the basement, lead to a large bonus room with dormer windows and the fourth bedroom with private bath and walk in closet.

The master bed room suite is almost totally independent from the rest of the home. It is showcased with an octagonal tray ceiling and a bay window sitting area with access to the sun deck. The vaulted master bath is designed for convenience as well as comfort. The his and hers walk in closets flank a step up whirlpool tub. The twin vanity includes a knee space, and a shower stall is shown as well.

The exterior is upscale country style with arch top windows both on the dormers and under the porch.

Corn leader to address trade pact for Rotary

The chairman of the Texas Corn Growers Association, Carl King of Dimmitt, will be the guest speaker Monday at the noon luncheon meeting of the Rotary Club of Hereford.

King has called on Congress to defeat the North American Free Trade Agreement as it is written now.

Serving as chairman of the board of the American Corn Producers Association, also, King claims that a study of evidence shows harmful effects on U.S. farmers by the Canadian Free Trade Agreement.

The complex relationship among all agriculture products causes lower market prices for corn producers if other commodities are adversely affected, said King.

Since the CFTA was implemented, King said Canadian exports of peanut butter and peanut paste to the U.S. have increased 567 percent and a 249 percent increase in cattle exported by Canada cost U.S. producers $40 per head.

King said his organization opposes the North American Free Trade Agreement as it now is written.

Japan leads in farming foreign aid

By MARGARET SCHERF
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) - Japan has replaced the United States as the world's largest donor of foreign aid to farming, according to a report by the International Food Policy Research Institute.

The institute said in a recent report that its survey showed the United States dropped from supplying 30 percent of bilateral agriculture assistance in 1980 to 15 percent in 1990.

"In 1980, the United States contributed nearly $1.4 billion in agricultural development assistance, grants and loans, but by 1990 that figure had dropped to less than $400 million," it said.

"Meanwhile, Japan increased its agricultural aid from just over $450 million in 1980 to more than $1 billion in 1990 - and became the world's top government donor to agriculture. By 1990, one-quarter of total bilateral agricultural assistance came from Japan."

The report said agricultural assistance to the world's poorest countries from major governments and international institutions has declined drastically over the past decade.

And it said that because agriculture forms the economic base of most developing countries, the cuts in financial assistance to agricultural development could threaten economic growth and political stability in volatile regions of the world.

WASHINGTON (AP) - School lunch and breakfast programs would have to meet federal nutrition guidelines under legislation being introduced today by Sen. Patrick Leahy, D-Vt., chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee.

Leahy said the bill is needed because the federal child nutrition programs, run by the Agriculture Department, have ignored the government's dietary recommendations.

School meals programs will be required to cut the amount of fat, sodium and sugars while increasing fibers, fruits and vegetables.

Congress appropriated $6.8 billion for child nutrition programs, including school lunches and breakfasts, this year.

Sugar beet harvest rolls along

Scenes such as this at the Holly Sugar station at Dawn are prominent these days as farmers dig sugar beets from their fields. Bobtail trucks unload at the Dawn station, then return to the fields for another load while semi-trucks take the beets to the Holly plant.

Congressional delegation reminded of ag products

AUSTIN -- Beef jerky, salsas, muffin mixes, chip dips, breakfast pastries, wine and non-alcoholic beer were among food items packed into Congressional gift baskets recently to highlight the importance of Texas ag products exported to Mexico.

"Some companies represented in the baskets already are exporting items, such as beef products, salsas and breakfast pastries to Mexico," said Texas Agriculture Commissioner Rick Perry.

"Others are eager to enter the market in Mexico and they plan to do so once trade barriers are reduced under the proposed North American Free Trade Agreement," added Perry.

Baskets emphasizing the value of opening the Mexico market to the state's fiber, food and beverage industries were prepared for 32 members of the Texas Congressional delegation.

In addition to the food and beverage items, the Texas Cotton Ginners Association donated miniature cotton bales to be included in the baskets.

Perry said the items in the basket are just a small sample of the "high value agricultural goods we are shipping or that we can ship" to Mexico each year.

He said U.S. exports of high-value ag products to Mexico have risen by more than 40 percent in the last six years. High-value products account for 70 percent of the nation's agricultural sales to Mexico.

Perry claims that rejection of NAFTA could jeopardize a growing market for U.S., and Texas, farmers, ranchers and processors.

The baskets of products assembled by Perry's office "represent not only quality Texas-manufactured foods, but also jobs," he said. "About 21,000 jobs are supported by the industries that donated products for the baskets."

The commissioner said the baskets will "send the message to the Texas Congressional delegation that we can't afford to rebuff a growing market for our agricultural products and we can't afford to lose the jobs that are supported by our exports."

Companies providing items for the baskets were Adams Extract, Cracker Barrel of Vernon, DiFranco Foods, Double B Foods Inc., Fall Creek Vineyards, Lowell Farms, Merico Inc., Pace Foods, Pioneer Flour Mills, Richland Beverage Corporation and Texas High Class Trash. Pier 1 Imports of Fort Worth donated the baskets.

Research develops new line of cotton

WASHINGTON (AP) - A new line of cotton developed by an Agriculture Department researcher requires less pesticide and can be harvested earlier than other varieties.

"Yields of our new breeding line of early-season cotton have equaled or exceeded varieties harvested two weeks later or more. That's unusual for our area," said Charles G. Cook, a researcher at an Agricultural Research Service laboratory in Weslaco, Texas.

The new line, named C21S781-2, was released this month in cooperation with Rio Farms Inc., a private research institute in Monte Alto, Texas, and the Texas A&M Experiment Station in College Station.

It generally takes three to eight years to turn a breeding line into a commercial variety. Cook thinks one based on C21S781-2 probably would be grown first in Texas.

Early harvest also reduces the use of pesticide and its cost, said Cook, a geneticist.

No commercial cotton is yet ready to harvest sooner than Cook's line. "It's ready in mid-July, about 18 to 20 weeks after planting, and 10 to 14 days before typical full-season cotton," he said.

The new line also is completely void of plant hairs, which attract whiteflies, tobacco budworms, bollworms and other pests looking for a secure spot to lay eggs.

Cook tested his new line for two years at six sites in south Texas and Mexico, and compared it with four full-season varieties. At 125 to 130 days after planting, yields from the new line were 55 percent to 117 percent higher than the four. At full crop maturity, about 150 days after planting, its yields ranged from the same to 32 percent higher.

Rare animal exhibits set

WASHINGTON (AP) - George Washington's historic home at Mount Vernon, Va., soon will have exhibits featuring rare breeds of farm animals similar to those raised 200 years ago by the nation's first president.

"George Washington's skills as a statesman are widely appreciated, yet few are aware of his strong interest in farming and agricultural engineering," said an announcement of a new "Livestock Heritage" tour and exhibit.

"At Mount Vernon, Washington experimented with many innovative farming techniques, including breeding livestock. For example, Washington was the first person to introduce the mule to the American agrarian community," it said.

The Mount Vernon Ladies' Association has maintained Washington's estate since 1858.

How to deal with dehydration

Many people are not aware of the dangers of isotonic dehydration, which can be serious, especially for the elderly.

Caused by diarrhea and vomiting, this type of dehydration cannot be effectively treated just by drinking more water, but requires restoration of both water and electrolytes.

According to medical professionals, older people are particularly prone to dehydration because of their reduced thirst sensation, intolerance to heat and decreased kidney function.

Scientists at Ross Products Division, Abbott Laboratories have developed a product called Equalyte which, given at the first sign of diarrhea or vomiting, can help replace the lost fluids and electrolytes.

Extension News

BY BEVERLY HARDER

Many people enjoy making their own beef or other meat jerky. Making this food in a home dehydrator often saves money, but food safety precautions are necessary.

Because the potential for food born illness is high with protein foods, special precautions need to be taken. Clean hands and equipment are crucial and the meat should be handled as little as possible. The salty marinade is important. Use thin strips of meat. Keep good circulation in the dehydrator and be sure meat is thoroughly dry. It should crack easily when bent.

Storage of the dried jerky in a well-shaped moisture-vapor proof plastic or glass container is necessary to prevent rehydration of the product. Absorption of moisture by the product can allow bacterial growth, making the food unsafe. Also, failure to allow the jerky to cook before closing it in the container may allow condensation to collect on the surface and create an environment suitable for bacterial and mold growth.

An additional precaution is to heat the raw strips of meat in the marinade to 145 to 150 degrees before drying. This can be done easily on the range and will help destroy any salmonella bacteria that may be present, while retaining the quality of the jerky.

Another consideration is the fact that those who are at special risk for food born illness, those with weakened immune systems, should be extra cautious in consuming home prepared jerky.

Pep Community planning annual Thanksgiving festival

The Pep Community is now making preparations for its annual Thanksgiving Festival to be held on Thanksgiving Day, Nov. 25 in the St. Philip Neri Parish Hall.

Between The Covers

By REBECCA WALLS

With the change in temperature comes the natural desire to set in a nice cozy spot and read a good book. The new book selection is a little better this week with the arrival of a new book order. Among the new titles you will find The Whole Ten Yards by Frank Gifford. Frank Gifford is the son of an itinerant oil worker who knew the life of hardship, struggle and despair. The Gifford family once moved fifteen times in one year striving to survive as best they knew how. Frank learned the value of an education late and worked hard to atone for lost time. He became the biggest man on USC's campus, appeared in a score of films, took All-Pro honor 6 times and was inducted into the Hall of Fame. Surviving 13 years working with Howard Cossell, Frank logged more prime time hours before the cameras than any other person in the history of television. This classic sports memoir allows this intensely private man to talk about his life as a football, sports broadcaster, and family man. Some believe Frank Gifford to be one of the few genuine heroes of our time.

Many of you readers have enjoyed the numerous books written by Janette Oke. This week you will be able to read about this remarkable lady in Janette Oke: A Heart for the Prairie written by Laurel Oke Logan, her daughter. Janette was born in a Canadian prairie farmhouse where her parents Fred & Amy Steeves feared for her life. The news of the sickly infant traveled to aunts, uncles, grandparents and neighbors who prayed that the tiny girl gain strength and health. Those prayers were answered and during the next few months Janette's small body did become strong and healthy. Janette had experienced much of life's joys as well as hardships before writing her first novel Love Comes Softly. The strength of family connections and spiritual values that has shaped the life of Janette Oke is the basis for many of the characters and events written about in her novels.

Summer of Fear by Jefferson Parker is set in Orange County, California and deals with a killer more deadly than any Russ Monroe has ever encountered. This killer is massacring entire families. There is a disturbing detail the police are not telling anyone, trying to keep the killings under wraps. Russ Monroe is a Laguna Beach cop turned crime writer and becomes involved in these murders when he accidentally stumbles onto one of the scenes. The trouble is Russ knew these victims well, or maybe he didn't know them as well as he thought. The maddening thing about this case is that the police aren't even conducting an investigation. Something is very wrong here and Russ is getting dangerously involved. The maddening thing about this case is that the police aren't even conducting an investigation. Something is very wrong here and Russ is getting dangerously involved.

Joseph Wambaugh's Finnegan's Week sends an unforgettable trio on a mission to try to make some sense of a seemingly irrational conspiracy involving deadly toxic waste and a theft of U.S. Navy goods. San Diego police Detective Finbar Brendan Finnegan is a man approaching 50 years of age and an aspiring actor. The environmental crimes cop, Nell Salter is fortyish, good looking whose nose was broken by the only man she ever married, a mistake she has vowed never to make again. U.S. Navy investigator Bobbie Ann Doggett is twenty eight and becomes smitten by older Detective Fin Finnegan. Nell is disgusted by the couple and their display of puppy love and calls Fin a "Peter Pan policeman." Sparks, fur and insults fly when the trio begin their investigation that reveals two disgruntled truckers, hauling a load of toxic waste for disposal, deciding to steal two thousand pairs of shoes from the U.S. Navy and sell them on the Mexican Black market. Once they cross the border their impulsive scheme goes haywire resulting in horror and death.

Stranger in My Arms by R.J. Kaiser is the chilling story of a young woman who wakes up one day in a hospital in France with no idea of who she is, or how she arrived at this place. Carter Bass, a disarmingly attractive man, claims to be her husband and calls her Hillary. Hillary dreams of roses and a fulfilled longing while she lives in a world of strangers. As pieces of her past begin to come to the surface Hillary discovers a woman driven by willful passions, harboring treacherous secrets that is the prime suspect in a scandalous murder. Hillary begins to fall in love again with her husband just as she learns the real dangers of forgetting.

Another title that you may find intriguing is America's Least Competent Criminals by Chuck Shepherd. These are "true tales of would-be outlaws who have botched, bungled, and otherwise haplessly but hilariously fumbled their crimes." These stories are bound to bring a smile to your face.

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP) - Roman Catholic churches opened their doors for the night and urged people to pray and tie black ribbons on trees. What brought it all about is Madonna's "Girlie Show."

The Rev. Edgardo Lopez, a Catholic Diocese spokesman, asked parishioners to pray during Madonna's performance Tuesday.

Protestants also objected. The Rev. Jorge Rasche, leader of the evangelical Clamor a Dios Ministry, said Madonna's show "goes against Christian morality and Puerto Rican culture."

Make unique seasonal necklace

From tots to teens, necklace-making is a popular pastime. While toddlers love to string shoelaces with clunky wooden beads in primary colors, teens enjoy crafting beaded necklaces of intricate designs and exotic shapes.

For the school-age "in-betweeners" in your family, here are some fun ideas when they want to string up some special jewelry, too.

SEED NECKLACES AND BRACELETS

Save and wash pumpkin seeds. While the seeds are still soft, poke a hole in each one with a large needle (younger children will need adult assistance). Color the seeds with markers, paint them with poster paint or set them in small jars in a mixture of water and a few drops of food coloring. Let the seeds dry on paper toweling. Thread a blunt needle with elastic or buttonhole thread. String the colorful seeds one at a time. When complete, remove the needle and knot the two ends of the elastic or thread.

CORN NECKLACE

Look for a colorful ear of Indian corn at a supermarket or flower shop. Remove the kernels from the cob and soak them in water until soft. String the kernels as described above.

String Cheerios, small pretzels, candies with holes in the center and licorice cut in one-inch pieces on a length of dental floss. This is a good birthday party activity and favor. You may even get the kids to floss after they eat their snack!

On Sept. 16, 1639, the combined fleets of Spain and Portugal were defeated by a Dutch fleet under Martin Van Tromp.

WORDS OF WISDOM X

If you would now be forgotten as soon as you are dead, either write things worth reading or do things worth writing. - Benjamin Franklin

Benjamin Franklin enjoyed a good amount of fame and admiration during his 84 years. Franklin possessed many skills. He worked as an inventor, a writer, a diplomat and a printer to name just a few.

Today, Franklin still enjoys a respectable amount of name recognition. He wrote things worth reading and did things of great value for our democracy. He is often quoted today and his words of wisdom frequently appear in this column.

Today's column will be devoted to the sayings of people like Franklin. Folks who have contributed something of lasting value to this earth. Don't look for a quote from Madonna, Elton, or a $5 million-a-year sports hero. You'll have to read their words elsewhere or watch their carefully edited comments on those cutesy TV shows.

Of lasting value

- For what will it profit a man if he gains the whole world and forfeits his life? - Jesus Christ
- Associate with men of good quality if you esteem your own reputation; for it is better to be alone than if bad company. - George Washington
- Old minds are like old horses; you must exercise them if you wish to keep them in working order. - John Quincy Adams
- The average person puts only 25 percent of his energy and ability into his work. The world takes off its hat to those who put in more than 50 percent of their capacity, and stands on its head for those few and far between souls who devote 100 percent. - Andrew Carnegie
- I was born an American; I live as an American; I shall die an American. - Daniel Webster
- I never give them hell; I just tell them the truth and they think it is hell. - Harry S. Truman
- It is much easier to be critical than to be correct. - Benjamin Disraeli
- I thank God for my handicaps, for through them, I have found myself, my work and my God. - Helen Keller
- These are the times that try men's souls. - Thomas Paine

- I only regret that I have but one life to give for my country. - Nathan Hale
- With malice toward none, with charity for all, with firmness in the right as God give us to see the right, let us finish the work we are in. - Abraham Lincoln
- Ninety-nine percent of the failures come from people who have the habit of making excuses. - George Washington Carver
- We have too many high sounding words, and too few actions that correspond with them. - Abigail Adams
- Only our individual faith in freedom can keep us free. - Dwight D. Eisenhower
- Justice is the insurance which we have on our property. Obedience is the premium we pay for it. - William Penn
- Human kindness has never weakened the stamina or softened the fiber of a free people. A Nation does not have to be cruel in order to be tough. - Franklin Delano Roosevelt
- All authority belongs to the people. - Thomas Jefferson
- Energy and persistence conquer all things. - Benjamin Franklin

Tips for business travelers

These five travel tips for business travelers from the experts at Air Travel Card should put executives on the road to productivity and economy when they're away from the office.

1. Use the expertise of your company's corporate travel planner or a professional travel agent for the best air fares and other helpful travel information.

Two New York Army National Guard soldiers emerged heroic after a bomb exploded at the World Trade Center in Manhattan, wreaking havoc at the city's largest buildings.

2. Bring along trade magazines or business reports for reading in the plane or airport. Take along notes and background material to utilize your time writing letters or reports.

3. Consider joining an airline club so you can take advantage of airport amenities to utilize your extra time in a productive atmosphere.

4. Know the difference between non-stop flights (which have no immediate stops) and direct flights (which can involve more than one stop before your final destination).

5. Pay for your airfare by corporate charge card, if available, for easier record keeping, payment and cost accounting. Your account can be credited for cancelled trips.

"TEXAS" to be featured at national convention

Dancers from the "TEXAS" musical drama that plays each summer in Palo Duro Canyon State Park will be the featured entertainment at the National Tour Association Convention in Atlantic City, New Jersey on Nov. 8-10.

The National Tour Association is America's largest group travel industry association. NTA membership includes tour companies, hotels, restaurants, airlines, railroads, cruise lines, attractions, state and provincial tourism offices, convention and visitors bureaus and chambers of commerce.

"The appearance by the 'TEXAS' dancers at this national convention is an incredible opportunity to showcase this region," said Scott Owings, director of Tourism for the Amarillo Convention and Visitors Council. "Its impact and value in boosting this region's presence as a tourism destination spot are immeasurable."

More than 40 singers and dancers representing the internationally recognized musical drama written by Paul Green will be traveling from Amarillo to Atlantic City.

"Our group has been working hard," said "TEXAS" artistic director Neil Hess. "We are excited about the trip and proud to be representing this area as well as the entire state."

The performance will consist of country-western oriented numbers typical of the numbers that have entertained almost 2.5 million visitors to "TEXAS" since 1966.

A massive backdrop, depicting the Palo Duro Canyon where the show plays nightly except Sundays from mid-June through late-August each year, is being prepared in Dallas for the performance in Atlantic City.

"TEXAS" is one of the best known tourist attractions in the state. In 1993, visitors came from every state and 97 foreign countries to see the show. It is recognized by the National Institute of Outdoor Drama in Chapel Hill, N.C., as the best attended outdoor drama in the nation. Almost 700 groups attended the show this season.

"We do a tremendous amount of business with tour directors and with the motorcoach industry," said

"TEXAS" manager Patty Bryant. "We are very pleased to have our performers featured at the national convention. Motorcoach tour operators bring a tremendous amount of business to the area, and the offerings of this region will be underscored by our presence in Atlantic City."

— YOUR EYES —

GETTING USED TO NEW GLASSES

How long does it take to become accustomed to new eyeglasses? You may be surprised to learn that there may be no adjustment period at all. It's an individual situation. A youngster with his or her first pair of glasses may be delighted immediately to discover a whole new world not seen previously, and adjustment may be instantaneous.

Regular eye exams, with prescription changes as needed, make it easy for the eyes to get used to new lenses. But if there's a time lag, if the change in prescription is a large one, it may take longer for the eyes -- and the brain -- to get used to it.

It also may take a while to adjust to the first pair of reading glasses, or the first bifocals. Your eye professional will help you learn to use them effectively. Even a new frame may require a period of adjustment. Perhaps it's larger than your old frame, or a different color or shape. If there is any discomfort, of course, your optometrist can adjust the fit.

Gary Coleman has settled his differences with his parents and an ex-manager over money he earned starring in television's "Diff'rent Strokes."

The deal ends four years of court-fighting over Coleman's income from the series that ran from 1978 to 1986.

Terms of the settlement weren't disclosed, Coleman's lawyer, Philip Boesch, said Monday.

The 26-year-old actor had sued his parents, W.G. and Edmonia Sue Coleman, and former business manager Anita De Thomas in 1989, claiming they skimmed his earnings.

Santa Monica Superior Court Judge Hiroshi Fujisaki ruled in his favor earlier this year, saying
Coleman should be awarded nearly $1.3 million.

But that didn't end other lawsuits regarding Coleman's battle with his parents over their desire to appoint a guardian for him, citing his financial and health needs. Coleman suffers from a kidney ailment that stunted his growth.

Monday's settlement concludes all litigation.

Coleman said he was "extremely pleased with the judge's findings and very happy with the settlement."

BRANSON, Mo. (AP) - The odd couple of retired Chrysler Chairman
Lee Iacocca and crooner Pat Boone are bringing Broadway to America's newest country music mecca.

Iacocca announced Monday that he's investing in a group that plans to bring "The Will Rogers Follies" to Branson, which expects to greet 5 million tourists this year.

Boone will star in this production of the Follies, which won six Tony Awards on Broadway.

Broadway producer Pierre
Cossette will produce the show in a 2,200 seat theater due to be vacated next year by Mel Tillis.

The Newspaper BIBLE

BEHOLD THE RUIN FROM ONE ROTTEN RUMOR!

The whole population of the city was electrified by these accusations and a great riot followed. Paul was dragged out of the Temple, and immediately the gates were closed behind him.

As they were killing him, word reached the commander of the Roman garrison that all Jerusalem was in an uproar. He quickly ordered out his soldiers and officers and ran down among the crowd. When the mob saw the troops coming, they quit beating Paul.

The commander arrested him and ordered him bound with double chains. Then he asked the crowd who he was and what he had done. Some shouted one thing and some another. When he couldn't find out anything in all the uproar and confusion, he ordered Paul to be taken to the armory.

As they reached the stairs, the mob grew so violent that the soldiers lifted Paul to their shoulders to protect him, and the crowd surged behind shouting, "Away with him, away with him!"

As Paul was about to be taken inside, he said to the commander, "May I have a word with you?"
"Do you know Greek?" the commander asked, surprised. "Aren't you that Egyptian who led a rebellion a few years ago and took 4,000 members of the Assassins with him into the desert?"

"No," Paul replied, "I am a Jew from Tarsus in Cilicia which is no small town. I request permission to talk to these people." The commander agreed.

Local DAR chapter hosts tea

Texas State Regent Daughters of the American Revolution, Mrs. John Kenneth Harrell of San Antonio, was the honored guest of Los Ciboleros Chapter at a tea held in the Golden K Room of the Hereford Senior Citizens Center Oct. 25.

She was accompanied by Mrs. Sidney A. Parnell of Canadian, Texas State DAR Chairman, Division I.

Before the tea, State Regent Harrell and Mrs. Parnell were guests of Ruth Newsom and Lois Gililland for lunch at the Senior Citizens Center. They were introduced as special guests in the dining room and were given a tour of the center after lunch.

Members and guests were served from a tea table enhanced by an antique crocheted cloth belonging to Helen Rose. This cloth was made for the grandmother of Helen Rose and Kathryn Ruga by her sister at the time of her wedding.

Regent Harrell presented an address entitled "What Is Happening At the National Society." She advised members and guests that the project of the current President General, Mrs. Donald Shattuck Blair, is the restoration of Constitution Hall in Washington, D.C. "The auditorium of Constitution Hall has a capacity of 4,000 and is the largest in the nation's capital and one of the largest of its kind in the world. The NSDAR built Constitution Hall in 1928 for its annual Continental Congress. The hall belongs to each member of DAR and it is our responsibility to maintain it," she stated.

Her address highlighted the work of many committees, especially those working with schools and youth. Included were: American History Month, DAR Good Citizens, Junior American Citizens, Constitution Week, DAR Scholarship and Outstanding Teacher of American History. Regent Harrell stated that "DAR is a service organization and that there is now available a DAR sign to be placed on community organization sign boards at the entrance to towns."

She concluded her address by encouraging members to be active in their schools and to care about the youth of America.

Regent Ruga presented the Texas State Regent with a donation from Los Ciboleros Chapter to the State Regent's project which is The Endowment of a Scholarship in Occupational Therapy at the University of Texas Medical School in Galveston.

Regent Harrell and Mrs. Parnell were given a tour of the Deaf Smith County Historical Museum and the E.B. Black House by Lois Gililland following the tea.

Special guests at the tea included Mrs. Harrell, Mrs. Parnell, and Grant and Troyce Hanna, who represented the American Legion and the American Legion Auxiliary. Also, present were Margie Daniels, executive director of the Hereford Senior Citizens Center, and Beth Burran and Mildred Fuhrmann.

Members present were Ruga, Rose, Newsom, Margaret Bell, Patricia Robinson, Juanita Brownd, Nell Norvell, Gililland, Charlotte Clark, Argen Draper, Margaret Ann Durham and Wanda Jones.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: This is for that bonehead who didn't want to be in the delivery room when his wife gave birth:

Grow up, mister. Your wife has endured morning sickness, fatigue, indigestion, swollen ankles, weight gain, hemorrhoids and stretch marks. The least you can do is be there when she delivers your child. If you can't stand the sight of blood, look at the ceiling or the floor or, better yet, into your wife's eyes while you hold her hand.--Durham N.C.

DEAR DURHAM: I was totally unprepared for the intensity of the responses to that column. Want to look over my shoulder?

From Fort Worth: I'm another husband who didn't want to be in the delivery room. My wife and I argued about it for four months. Those arguments were unnecessary. The baby was born on the front lawn of the hospital.

Princeton, N.J.: I was determined to be the first one to welcome our child to the world, although I've always been scared to death of needles, even for a flu shot.

Watching my daughter's birth was the most awe-inspiring, fulfilling and exhilarating experience of my life. In a single instant I suddenly understood the miracle of it all.

Just Ohio: My father was a dentist, who during dental school had to take many courses required for physicians. He wanted to be present at my birth in 1952, but husbands were not permitted in the delivery room in those days. Because he was a doctor, however, they let him in. This man, who extracted teeth daily and performed root-canal surgery, fainted dead away. When my sister was born three years later, he opted for the waiting room, which was just as well.

Santa Ana, Calif.: My husband didn't want to be in the delivery room, so I didn't push it, but I hoped he'd change his mind. He stayed for the labor but departed hastily when the doctor said, "Here it comes." When our second child was due, the nurses had him almost sold on staying. They even had him in a gown and booties. When he heard the woman in the next room screaming her head off, he changed his mind. He felt terribly ashamed of himself the following year when his brother saw his child born and couldn't stop raving about the beauty of it. If we have another child, you can bet my husband will be there.

Brisbane, Australia: I've never met a man who was not delighted to be present for the conception. That being the case, I would damn well insist that he stick around for the result.

Everett, Wash.: I had my children alone, but it wasn't my husband's choice. The first was born when my husband was in the Persian Gulf. The second was born when he was helping enforce Iraq's "No-Fly Zone" on the U.S.S. Nimitz. I know he would have been thrilled to change places with that guy in California.

Minnesota: I was 39 when I became pregnant with my fourth child. I was mad as the dickens. My other children were 20, 19 and 13. I insisted that my husband be with me this last time, even though I knew he couldn't handle it. That's how angry I was about the pregnancy, he was white as a sheet, fainted, fell off the stool and broke his nose. The nurses had to attend to him instead of me. It was a mess. I say if a man doesn't want to be there, don't push it.

The only triple dead-heat in a major stake race occurred at Aqueduct in 1944 when Brownie, Bossuet and Wait A Bit finished on even terms in the Carter Handicap.

Bridge tournament planned

'House of Secrets' offers chilling twists, turns

BY JOHN CROOK

Melissa Gilbert (left) stars as a wife who tries to kill her troublesome husband (Bruce Boxleitner), only to find he may still be alive, in "House of Secrets," airing Monday on NBC. Set in New Orleans' French Quarter, the movie also stars Kate Vernon, Cicely Tyson and Michael Boatman.

An abused wife and an embittered mistress plot to murder a sadistic doctor in "House of Secrets," a psychological thriller based on the same source material as the acclaimed 1955 French film "Diabolique." The TV movie, which stars Melissa Gilbert, Bruce Boxleitner and Kate Vernon, airs Monday, Nov. 1, on NBC.

In the French Quarter of New Orleans, Marion Ravinel (Gilbert) runs a sanitarium established by her father in the family's ancestral mansion. As the story opens, Marion is growing dismayed at the increasingly cruel and abusive behavior of her husband, Frank (Boxleitner). Plagued by heart problems, she is at a loss as to how she can stop Frank from selling the sanitarium to a real-estate developer.

Laura Morell (Vernon), the institution's recreation therapist, is more pragmatic. While Marion is painfully aware that Frank and Laura have been having an affair, Laura also reveals another secret: Frank has been black-mailing her over a past prison sentence she served - for homicide.

Together the women devise a plan to murder Frank and dump his body in a mineral pool on the sanitarium grounds. Late one night, Marion lures her husband to Laura's cottage deep in the bayou, where she serves him lemonade laced with knockout powder. After Frank loses consciousness, the women dump him into the bathtub and drown him, then take his corpse back home and drop it into the pool as planned.

The next morning, Marion and Laura are stunned to find Frank's body is missing. Even more disturbing is the fact that friends and family members speak of having seen Frank that very morning. And Marion receives a chilling note reading, "My Darling - I'll be home tonight."

The teleplay by Andrew Laskos ("Deadly Matrimony") and direction by Mimi Leder ("China Beach") do justice to the spine-tingling material, falling short only in the final moments by veering into conventional horror-movie shtick. Enhancing the eerie mood is Anthony Marinelli's haunting (no pun intended) score.

The three principals are all strong. Vernon is beautiful and suitably ambiguous, while real-life couple Boxleitner and Gilbert make formidable adversaries. Watch in particular for the scene in which Marion must steel herself to give her husband the spiked lemonade - the tension becomes almost excruciating.

Usually cast in charming nice-guy parts like his title character in "Scarecrow and Mrs. King," Boxleitner probably never before has played as big a monster as he does here, and he is strikingly effective at it (his close-cropped hair sharpens his features and makes him look harsher than usual, too). It is Gilbert, however, who really drives the piece. No frail magnolia, her Marion has a strong will and a frank sensuality that make her far more interesting than the conventional "victim." She may have cardiac problems, but there's nothing wrong with her backbone.

The supporting cast is interesting as well. Cicely Tyson, underused in what essentially is the window-dressing role of Evangeline, portrays a voodoo priestess, while Michael Boatman ("The Jackie Thomas Show") is likable, if improbably sympathetic, as an investigating detective.

Ultimately, despite some flaws, "House of Secrets" delivers the goods. Don't miss it.

"The Gift of Love"

Q: A few years ago I saw a TV movie with Lee Remick and Mart Hulswit. Remick played a woman who, after the death of her mother (Angela Lansbury) and the bankruptcy of their department store during the Christmas season, lapses into a dream. In the dream, her mother guides her through a look at herself in the past and at home with her parents. What was the name of the movie, and will we see it again this Christmas? If not, can I find it on video? -M. Bavaro, Inverness, Fla.

A: The name of the movie is "The Gift of Love: A Christmas Story." Unfortunately, the 1983 telefilm, scripted by "The Waltons" creator Earl Hamner, has not been released on video. However, CBS often airs the movie on Christmas Day.

Q: Yours is an interesting spot in the paper; you come up with the answers. I have two questions. First, is "Cockeyed Cowboys of Calico County," with Dan Blocker, Mickey Rooney and others, available on video? Second, I remember a movie with George C. Scott, Don Ameche, Sylvia Sidney and a teen-age girl. The three old people live in a trailer court. On a fishing trip, they find a drug-car with a large sum of money in the trunk. For the rest of the movie, they flee the drug bunch. The teen-age girl, whom I believe they pick up as a hitchhiker, does the driving. All ends well. What is the title, and is it available on video? -Chester Wheatley, Thayer, Kan.

A: There's one hit and one miss to report. Unfortunately, 1970's "Cowboys of Calico County" has not been released on video. The title of the second movie you refer to is "Pals," and it is available on video. Susan Rinell plays the part of the young hitchhiker.

Q: I am highly impressed with actor Mark Frankel, who plays Simon Bolt on the drama "Sisters." I recently saw him in a film about Catherine the Great, in which he played Catherine's lover. What are some of his other credits, and what personal information do you have about him? Also, where can I write to him? -L.H., Akron, Ohio.

A: Frankel, who comes from a long line of musicians and artists, earned a scholarship to the Webber Douglas Academy of Dramatic Arts in London after completing high school. During a performance of his first professional play, he was scouted by a casting agent and won the lead in the TNT miniseries "Michelangelo - A Season of Giants." His other television credits include "Maigret" and, of course, "Young Catherine," in which he starred with Vanessa Redgrave. Christopher Plummer and Maximilian Schell. Frankel has appeared in the films "Little Hands," "Sentimental," "A Private Death" and the European release "Leon the Pig Farmer," and his work on stage includes "Agamemnon" (as Agamemnon), "Days of Cavafy" and "A Streetcar Named Desire" (as Stanley Kowalski). Frankel lives in London and Los Angeles and enjoys reading and customizing vintage motorcycles. Write to him in care of NBC, 3000 W. Alameda Ave., Burbank, Calif. 91523.

Q: I would love to see "Cornbread, Earl and Me" again. Where can I write to request that it be shown? It's been so long since I've seen it that I can't even remember who starred in it. -Mrs. C. Logan, Columbus, Miss.

A: You can write your local TV stations with your request, but the 1975 film is available on video. Ask your video store to help you track it down. The movie starred Moses Gunn, Bernice Casey and Rosalind Cash.

Letterman's crack staff lines up sports guests

BY MICHAEL SCOGIN

Since David Letterman brought his talk show to its "better time, new station" on Aug. 30, the number of appearances by sports personalities seems to have increased. New York Yankees pitcher Jim Abbott, professional boxer Tim "Doughboy" Tomashak, jockey Julie Krone and Philadelphia Phillies first baseman John Kruk are just a few of the names that have visited the Ed Sullivan Theatre in recent weeks. So, without further adieu, from the home office, here are the top 10 reasons Letterman is having so many sports guests on the new show.

10. More Steinbrenner!
9. Now that Michael Jordan is retired, Dave finally has a chance to win the slam dunk title.
8. Gets to invite Vince Coleman to the neighborhood to give 4th of July safety tips to preschoolers.
7. Marv Albert still drops by to trade hairpiece stories.

6. Finally with a network that has a sports contract.
5. John Kruk comes over to polish off commissary leftovers.
4. Likes to hit the showers after the show.
3. Might have a shot at free New York Mets season tickets next year.
2. Complimentary Cruex!
1. Good excuse to say the name "Mookie."
