Final Results Tabulated For Recent Israeli Election

By JONATHAN IMMANUEL
Associated Press Writer
TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Prime Minister Menachem Begin claims he has lined up the majority he needs to form a new government. Some converts to Judaism may have to pay the price for Begin's renewed alliance with Orthodox Jews.

"I think I can say we have 61 members of Parliament who are ready to support the government I am about to form," Begin said in an Israel Television interview Wednesday.

Israeli President Yitzhak

Navon is to make the next move when he formally designates Begin to set up a government, probably next week.

Begin said he hopes he can do it in less than the 21 days allotted by law.

He is believed to have lined up the orthodox National Religious Party, its breakaway TAMI faction and the ultra-orthodox agudat Israel Party, with a total of 13 seats, to join his conservative Likud bloc that would control 61 seats in the 120-seat Knesset or Parliament. Members of all three parties served in the outgoing government.

The National Election Commission announced official results today, giving the Likud bloc 48 seats and Labor 47 seats. The two major parties were separated by 10,405 popular votes and the one-seat edge by Likud in Parliament is the closest between the two parties in Israel's 33-year history.

Hinting at the price for support from Agudat Israel, Begin came out publicly in favor of a legal change to

Sesquicentennial Book Soon To Be Released

WASHINGTON (AP) — A handbook with 101 entries? Not another edition of the Son of a Son of 101 Aggie jokes! Nope.

The handbook of 101 ideas that will go out in Texas shortly is from the Texas Sesquicentennial Commission.

Sesquicentennial means 1 1/2 centuries, and the pamphlet has 101 suggestions for community projects that towns and cities across the state can come up with to commemorate the 150th anniversary since Texas became a republic in 1836.

The celebration, in 1986, is still five years away, but the commission counsels that there's no substitute for an early start.

To help communities get off the mark, the commission will soon make available its handbook of ideas — ranging from strewing roadsides with wildflower seeds, as Nacogdoches is doing, to collecting oral histories and folk tales as special projects for high school students.

Rep. Jim Mattox, D-Dallas, says the state commission has already met two of its goals.

The commission, chaired by State Rep. Chris Victor Semos of Oak Cliff, has a commitment from the U.S. Postal Service to issue a special Texas stamp in 1986. And it has picked, through a statewide contest, a winning design for the logo that will symbolize the Sesquicentennial.

"As a member of the Texas Congressional Sesquicentennial Advisory Committee, I'm happy to see all these preparations moving forward and to help in whatever way I can," Mattox said.

The handbook can be ordered from the Texas 1986 Sesquicentennial Commission, P.O. Box 19860, Southeast Station, Austin, Texas 78760.

By following the guidelines in the handbook, a community or county can be designated a Texas Independence community or county.

"The greatest good of the Sesquicentennial celebration could be the drawing together of a broad cross-section of a community in the creation of something special — a new awareness of our unique history, a renovation, a festival, or any of the many worthwhile projects suggested by the commission," Mattox said.

Here are some of the suggestions for community projects to be found in the "Community Handbook to Organization":

- print a special Sesquicentennial edition of the local newspaper, involving the local historical society, public library and public schools.
- hold a special old-timers' community reunion during 1986.
- hold a contest to design an official community flag of the Sesquicentennial.
- begin a downtown revitalization project. So far, 25 communities have indicated their intention of doing

Hail in Deaf Smith County Tuesday evening and early Wednesday morning, accompanying an unconfirmed tornado, did several million dollars in damage to crops and farm buildings.

John Fuston, ASCS executive director for the county, said more accurate estimates of the damage will be compiled today at a meeting with the extension service and other agencies. However, Fuston said rough estimates show damages between $6 and $10 million.

"We don't know yet how the milo will respond," said Fuston. "We don't know yet how the sugar beets will come out of it. We know the cotton won't come back."

He also said a lot of corn had been ruined, and some farm buildings and improvements were damaged by the hail and high winds.

Tony and Marcella Hoffman, who farm northwest of Hereford and at Dawn, were surveying the damage Wednesday afternoon. He said the hail covered a path about four miles north and south, and 10 miles east and west near Horizon Seeds Inc., Dawn.

Farmers who lost cotton may plant sunflowers, but probably will wait until fall and plant wheat instead. Sugar beet producers will lose poundage, but the crop should recover, according to Hoffman.

Hail damage was found at Dawn, northwest of the city and near Westway.

Finance Committee Ready For Tax Relief Compromise

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairman of the Republican-controlled Senate Finance Committee is ready to talk compromise with House Democrats on extra tax relief for low- and middle-income Americans, saying that "would not do violence" to President Reagan's tax plan.

"Between now and next week I hope to have some dialogue with the House Ways and Means Committee," Sen. Bob Dole, R-Kan., said Wednesday. The House panel was resuming work today on its own version of the tax cut.

Dole's committee already has approved a tax-cut plan mirroring Reagan's recommendation for an across-the-board 25 percent cut in personal tax rates over 33 months starting Oct. 1.

Democrats, saying a three-year tax cut would worsen inflation, are pressing a two-year plan with more relief for people making less than $50,000 a year. In addition, their proposal for reducing business taxes is considerably different from the one advanced by Dole's committee.

"We could sit down and work out our differences on the business tax cuts in two hours," Dole said in an interview on CBS Radio. On individual tax reductions, he said, "I think they (Democrats) could give up the third year; we could give up the skewing."

House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill made clear once again Wednesday that the "skewing" issue — targeting more relief to those with incomes under $50,000 a year — is the major question.

"The whole issue is the $50,000 question," O'Neill told reporters. "If you earn less than $50,000, you benefit by the Democratic bill. If you earn more than $50,000, you would want Reagan's bill."

The Reagan administration has opposed tilting a tax cut to low- and middle-income Americans, contending that wealthier people are more likely to invest the savings in ways that would benefit the economy. But Dole said the Democratic plan "would not do violence to the tax bill."

The congressional Joint Committee on Taxation estimates that 34.7 percent of the individual tax cuts in Reagan's bill would go to those with incomes above $50,000 a year, compared with 20.6 percent in the Democratic proposal.

Democrats say those with incomes under $50,000 must be given a larger share than Reagan recommends because they are hit hardest by inflation and rising Social Security taxes.

O'Neill repeated his promise that the House will complete action on the tax bill by Aug. 1. He said Rep. Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill., the Ways and Means chairman, described as "complete hogwash" Reagan's claim that there can be no tax cut at all this year unless both the House and the Senate pass a compromise version before their August vacation.

The Internal Revenue Service says it needs six weeks after a tax bill is passed to prepare and distribute new tax-withholding tables. If the tax cuts go into effect Oct. 1, that presumably would mean the IRS would have to have the final bill in hand by mid-August.

Senate Democratic leader Robert C. Byrd said it would be very difficult — although possible — for Congress to enact the bill before starting its month-long summer recess on Aug. 7. But he added he sees no need to rush just to meet such a timetable.

Some Reagan advisers have accused Democrats of deliberately stalling action on the tax bill. O'Neill denied it.

Missile Meeting Here Tomorrow

Dr. Herbert Scoville, Jr., former Senior Scientist for the Atomic Energy Commission and former Assistant Director for Scientific Intelligence and Deputy Director for Research for the Central Intelligence Agency, will be in Hereford Friday morning to offer his views on the MX Missile.

Dr. Scoville, 66, a Yale University graduate, is the author of several anti-nuclear arms publication, including, "MX, Prescription for Disaster," "Missile Madness," and "Toward a Strategic Arms Limitation Agreement."

Dr. Scoville will be meeting with interested citizens at 10:30 a.m. Friday in the Banquet Room of the community center.

Reagan Investigating Possibility of Draft

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite its commitment to an all-volunteer military, the Reagan administration will examine the possibility of reinstating the draft to increase the armed forces by 10 percent over the next four years, a senior Pentagon official says.

A draft will be among prospective manpower policies considered by a new task force headed by Defense Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger.

The administration estimates it will have to add some 200,000 troops to the current military force of 2.1 million by 1985 to meet its strategic objectives, said the official, who discussed the task force at a news briefing Wednesday on the condition that he not be identified.

The Washington Post, meanwhile, reported today that the Army has expressed doubts in a secret report to Weinberger that its required manpower can be recruited under the voluntary concept instituted when the draft ended in 1973.

The secret report did not contain a recommendation for a "draft" or "conscription," the newspaper said. But the Post quoted unidentified Pentagon sources as saying the Army is counting on a draft eventually.

Weinberger told the Post through a spokesman that "the draft is not anything anybody is considering."

The strategic objectives cited by the Pentagon official who briefed reporters include providing the United States with the ability to fight a lengthy non-nuclear war and responding to crises around the world.

The official said it was possible that some of the 200,000 new positions could be filled by civilian Defense Department employees or contract personnel.

Although acknowledging that the task force study could encourage speculation that the administration is backing away from its anti-draft stance, the official said, "These questions have to be faced one way or another."

A White House statement said the task force "will provide recommendations to the president to increase the effectiveness of the active and reserve all-volunteer services." But the official said this wording should not be interpreted to mean that the Weinberger panel will not consider the draft as well.

The task force is to study a range of matters affecting

British Riots Continue

MANCHESTER, England (AP) — A thousand youths besieged a Manchester police station, screaming "Kill! Kill!" as Britain had its sixth straight night of street violence despite an appeal for calm from Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher.

The mob smashed windows and set fire to police vehicles and private cars in the station yard until truncheon-wielding bobbies, protected by plastic riot shields and reinforced safety helmets, drove the youths off, a police spokesman said.

Elsewhere in this northern industrial city on the hot and humid night, shops were set afire, broken into and looted in a repetition of the violence in London and Liverpool on the previous nights.

The police said "simultaneous and apparently well-coordinated attacks" were made on shops, pubs, garages and other buildings.

A police spokesman said 17 people were arrested, and three police officers were injured, including one hit in the arm by a crossbow bolt. The spokesman said the streets were quiet by 3:30 a.m.

More than 700 officers were deployed to quell the rioting.

Minor disturbances were reported in the week's other two trouble centers. Liverpool police reported two of their cars attacked, shop windows broken by a crowd of youths, and police stoned

Nimitz Victim Moved to Serious List

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — The condition of a sailor burned in the fiery crash aboard the USS Nimitz on May 26 has been upgraded from critical to serious at Brooke Army Medical Center.

Seaman Apprentice Stephen Pass, 21, of Calhoun, Ga., has "improved considerably," physicians at the Brooke burn ward reported Wednesday.

Pass was placed on the serious list along with Airman George W. Butz, 23, of Hockessin, Del., who was removed from the critical list at mid-June.

Still listed in critical condition at the hospital located at Fort Sam Houston were Petty Officer Second Class Richard H. Hokanson, 21, of Hauppauge, N.Y., and Airman Recruit Richard M. Simpson, 22, of Gray, Me.

The crash and resultant fire killed 14 men and injured 48 others aboard the aircraft carrier.

Health Officials Say

Skunk Rabid

HOUSTON (AP) — Harris County health officials say a skunk that scaled a six-foot wood fence and attacked two large dogs before it was shot had rabies.

Spokesman Teddi Pamphilis said the skunk — the fourth discovered this year to have contracted the dreaded disease — was killed July 3 at a southwest Houston home after it attacked the two pets.

One of the dogs was vaccinated and will be quarantined at least two weeks, Ms. Pamphilis said. But the other dog, only four months old, was not vaccinated and may have to be destroyed, she said.

In nearby Fort Bend County, health officials have reported 26 cases or rabies in skunks so far this year, she said.

Most Power Restored at Hospital

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — John Peter Smith Hospital officials say that normal operations are not expected to resume at the hospital until next Monday at the earliest.

Officials said Wednesday that power was restored to most of the hospital, but the air conditioning was still out.

Electricity was functioning in all but a few areas of the hospital, but "more than 100 air conditioning components had to be sent to Dallas to be repaired," said spokeswoman Sally Blaydes.

Three pumps that circulate chilled air were damaged, along with electric generators, when 5 feet of rainwater flooded a tunnel below the hospital Friday night.

Ms. Blaydes says if "all goes perfectly," the emergency room could reopen Sunday night and elective surgery could resume Monday. The outpatient clinic will be closed at least the rest of the week.

The number of patients increased Wednesday, from 166 to 185, for the first time since the power outage. The new patients were pregnant mothers, the only type of patients being admitted, although walk-in patients are being treated if they do not require admission, she said.

Hospital officials were allowing patients only two visitors at a time, she said.

The spokesman said no additional patients had checked out against their doctors' advice since the weekend, when four left of their own accord as temperatures inside the hospital approached 100 degrees. Some patients still were being dismissed a bit early, she added.

Even if the air conditioning is repaired Friday, "it still takes 24 hours to cool the building," she said. "Sometime Saturday or Sunday we hope to get hot water and steam," which are necessary for surgery and food and laundry service.

Three portable air conditioners from Carswell Air Force Base are being used to cool the intensive care unit.

Astronauts Complete Mock Flight

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Astronauts Joe Engle and Richard Truly dodged solar flares, tested the space shuttle Columbia's radiator system and operated the remote-controlled manipulator arm that will unload the craft's freight bay.

But the crew's 33-hour mock flight, completed late Wednesday, didn't go off without a hitch.

The simulated malfunctions were delayed for nearly two hours when the computer which designs the simulated malfunctions developed problems, said a Johnson Space Center spokesman Steve Nesbitt.

Another mock flight is scheduled in August, about a month before the scheduled Sept. 30 launch of the Columbia.

Teen Helps Family

Bury Son

HOUSTON (AP) — A 17-year-old boy "who wanted to hear something good said about teen-agers today" donated $980 of his savings to help an Ohio family bury their son.

Troy Bates said he gave the money to David and Linda Snodgrass to help pay the funeral expenses for their 15-year-old son, Billy. The youth was killed July 4 in a car accident and was buried Wednesday.

"I just did it to show that someone cares," Bates said. "That's why I tried to do it without them knowing. I just wanted to hear something good about teen-agers today."

The couple, who has four other children, sold most of their belongings before they moved to Texas recently.

When word of the boy's death spread through the apartment complex, a "stream of people" offered the family money, food and furniture, Snodgrass said.

Blind Man Says His Missing Child Kept Him From Suicide

TYLER, Texas (AP) — The anxious parents of one missing Tyler girl now know the body found floating in a creek near here is not their daughter, but the fearful wait continues for Gene McRoy, who says his missing 11-year-old once kept him from suicide.

Dallas County medical examiners continue their efforts today to identify the badly decomposed body, discovered Tuesday by a fisherman about five miles from the home from which Trisha McRoy disappeared Saturday while her blind parents slept.

"The autopsy is not complete yet," said Peace Justice Mary Guthrie of Troup after the inquest was suspended Wednesday. "...There has not been an ID made."

She said she did not know why the investigation was delayed "unless it's just for additional records or something."

McRoy, 36, is a victim of retinitis pigmentosa, an incurable inherited eye disease. McRoy and his wife, Jan, both work at the Lighthouse for the Blind, and he says he needs his daughter.

"When I first found out about it (the disease), I thought I would kill myself," the former bricklayer said. "But Trisha made all the difference to me. I love all three of my children, but I'll always hold a certain spot for her."

He begged for her return. "The only thing we could give her was love," he said. "We want our little girl back."

Another Tyler family learned Wednesday their daughter was safe. Investigators had thought the body could be that of 14-year-old Sharon Irving, who disappeared June 27 in Galveston while vacationing with her family.

But a spokesman for the Smith County sheriff's office said Sharon called home and said she was safe late Wednesday afternoon.

Barbara Irving said her daughter called from Houston and said she was coming home.

"I heard from my daughter this afternoon. She sounded a little strange but she said she's OK," Mrs. Irving said. She said she asked Sharon what had happened after she left the Galveston motel room to get some drinking glasses, and the girl said, "I don't know."

Before Sharon called, Mrs. Irving said she and her husband Charles had been "waiting to hear from Sharon. We've been sitting going crazy, worrying and wondering."

Gene and Jan McRoy were still waiting for word of their little girl, and an anonymous donor's $50,000 reward that has been offered for Trisha's safe return is still in a Tyler bank.

Lawmen Toughen Tactics

The Reagan administration's patience with kidnapers was reflected in Atlanta when the kidnapper came out of FBI headquarters feet first.

A former mental patient with an arsenal of weapons invaded the office, took 12 employees hostage, and began to issue demands...

When the talking was climaxed by some threatening gestures by the gunman, a SWAT team moved in for a shootout.

Two hostages were wounded; not seriously. The kidnapper was dead.

Reagan administration policy has been enunciated clearly: No more timidity. Skyjackers will not be refunded, ransom will not be paid, we will not bargain with kidnapers.

All that the FBI will do — and will not do — in hostage situations should not be delineated publicly.

But it might be useful for anybody contemplating hostage crime to know that the Bureau has no prepared countermeasures.

Experience teaches that hostage kidnapers generally fit one of four categories. Most are mentally disturbed, or...

Criminals trapped during the commission of a crime, or... Prisoners who are revolting, or...

Political terrorists seeking thus to promote some social change. The first are the worst. Approximately 52 percent of all hostage incidents involve individuals who are mentally disturbed.

These may be paranoid schizophrenics, or... Manic depressives, or... Antisocial psychotics, or... Individuals with "inadequate personality."

J. Edgar Hoover used to say, "Never try to anticipate with logic somebody who is mentally sick; if you could understand how he thinks, then we'd have to worry about you."

Nonetheless, it helps to recognize certain behavior patterns. For example, paranoid schizophrenics are usually above average in intelligence. Don't try to trick them. Don't lie to them.

The manic depressive already wants to be punished; don't threaten him. The latter two categories are individuals seeking to "show the world that they are somebody." Try to give them an "out" without the feeling of having failed again.

Force remains the last resort of the lawman in a hostage crisis. First he will try persuasion. After that, chemical weapons. After that, snipers. After that, SWAT.

But no more of the limitless negotiation which has encouraged an unprecedented escalation of such crime. No more of that.

while clearing a rubble barricade. In London's East End youths stoned a police car. Two people were arrested in Liverpool and five in London.

The violence that began last Friday night in London's Southall district spread to Manchester's Moss Side district Tuesday night. It was renewed Wednesday night within two hours of Mrs. Thatcher's warning, in a nationwide broadcast, that "violence will destroy everything we value."

"A free society will only survive if we, its citizens, obey the law and teach our children to do so," she said.

"That is why the violence must be stopped. The law must be upheld, people must be protected."

Like the mobs in London and Liverpool, the youths in Manchester appeared to be motivated by hatred of the police and authority, venting burning resentment because of joblessness and lack of opportunity, or just out for excitement.

"I think it's just terrible. I never minded it here, but I do now," said an onlooker, Irish-born Michael McGrath, 38, who has lived in Moss Side since he was 8 years old.

McGrath said he and two other people tried to persuade a retired couple to drive with them to a quieter part of the city, but the old people were too frightened to leave their apartment.

People leaned out of their windows or stood on the sidewalks, watching groups of police huddled behind their riot shields and plastic face visors. Circling police cars were stoned whenever they appeared.

The prospects of obtaining a majority on such a delicate issue are slim, considering the long-time opposition to such a change by the Labor Party, which with 47 seats commands the largest opposition bloc in the new Parliament.

But Begin did go out of his way to demonstrate personal sympathy for Agudat Israel's position.

However, he stopped short of saying he would try to force such a law through the Knesset in return for Agudat Israel's support.

"Many do not share my opinion, and I cannot force them," he said. "I can only try and persuade. If I succeed, the change in the law will be accepted. As long as there is no majority for it, it is not worthwhile to propose such a law."

American Design Fashion Goes Ethnic This Year

NEW YORK (NEA) — The recent American Designer Showings shot off a whole group of big guns on their first day. The message for fall was equally big — big in silhouettes, big in ethnic inspiration, big in opulence. You couldn't find a hint of "preppie" anywhere.

You couldn't find any mini lengths, either. Europe has gone all out for length, so the American fall look will be mid-calf, full-cut and cinched at the waist. Since quality fabrics are expensive nowadays, everyone seems to have said, "Let's go for broke," and used yards of the best wools, cashmeres, leathers and metallics. Ethnic-inspired prints, in bold patterns and colors, aren't cheap.

Paisley is the leading favorite, in dresses and such ideas as Albert Nipon's paisley harem pants and short, fitted, quilted jacket. He also used it as a full skirt with brown velvet vest and fringed shawl.

The whole Nipon collection was full of big shawls. In fact, shawls have become part of the costume, not merely an accessory, in almost every collection.

Although noted for dresses, Nipon did a lot of pants outfits, many in the Renaissance striping launched by Italy's Giorgio Armani, others in ethnic zigzag stripes. His sleeves stand up at the shoulders with gathers and often puff out in lantern shape.

Nipon's evening group offers every shape from the skimmer in midnight blue velvet, with a white Pierrotruffle collar, to full-skirted gowns in red satin, gray and black, almost always liberally laced with gold. A group of red-gold lame dresses takes us back to the 1930s with its bias-cut flow.

Bill Blass, a longtime champion of opulence, starts right off with furred green velvet for a dinner suit. He slips in red plaid for his three-quarter coat, but a mohair poncho over gray pants, a beige cashmere pantsuit with fur-edged shawl and a velvet-trimmed gray and red plaid suit make day clothes opulent.

Evening clothes include a fur-bordered coat in glittered wool, a costume of camel cashmere coat, gold lame blouson and brown velvet skirt, and many tunics, often in satin in Russian styles.

Palette Workshop

Leola Cook and other members of the Hereford Art Guild met Monday in the Community Center for a palette workshop. The workshop was instructed by Guild Vice President Eunice Petersen and is a part of the Art Guild's summer program.

Ann Landers A Big Mistake

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I think my husband wrote that letter to you complaining about his "workaholic wife."

We married 45 years ago and spent a three-day honeymoon in a wretched hotel without a bathroom. The ugly memories will be with me forever.

He grew up on the edge of a cornfield, graduated from a 10th-grade rural school and was a clod. But I thought, "I will teach him and he will grow." BIG MISTAKE.

Because he lacks polish and skills, his income has remained just above poverty level. I have to work outside the home as well as within. He has no social status, so of course I don't have any either.

I have never spoken a word against him to our two children. On the plus side he is honest, dependable, neatlooking, compassionate, affectionate and has a good sense of humor.

At night he comes to the table bombed, slurps his soup, smacks his lips, chews with his mouth open and belches. I can't stand the sight of him, and my hostility grows. I hate myself even more than I hate him because I made such a poor selection for my life's mate. I would have left him long ago, but we could never afford two residences — in fact, we can barely afford one.

Our splendid children are established in their own homes, while their father and I grow old and miserable with our medical problems. He is nearly impotent and I have no desire to have sex along with all the other grubby chores. I don't know why I'm writing. Maybe I just need to tell somebody. —Mrs. X. From Nowhere

DEAR MRS. X: As I read your letter, I wondered how many women would just love to have a man who is "honest, dependable, neat-looking, compassionate, affectionate, and has a good sense of humor."

I wondered, too, what your man would say about YOU if he wrote to Ann Landers. Try to write that letter in your head. Perhaps it will reduce your bitterness toward him and ultimately toward yourself.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I love my job. I have had people swear at me, hang the phone up in my ear and threaten to sue. They have also cried on my shoulder, told me they loved me and sent gifts of gratitude. I am a customer service representative.

Last year I answered over 10,000 phone calls. They were orders for merchandise, complaints and requests for help. I am also responsible for answering letters from dissatisfied customers.

You could do the public and my fellow customer service reps a favor by printing the following guidelines for people who want to contact a manufacturer about unsatisfactory merchandise.

1. Always give the model number and size of item you are writing about. This should be on the item or the box it came in.

2. State where the item was purchased.

3. Always PRINT your name and complete address after signing your letter.

Many problems people complain about could be solved by returning the item to the place of purchase. Satisfaction can usually be obtained from the retailer.

Only when the retailer fails to respond should the manufacturer be contacted. Your problem will then be dealt with in a fair and responsible manner. That's what I'm paid to do and I find it very rewarding. —Customer Service, May I Help You

DEAR HELP: Thanks for those valuable tips. I learned something today.

COMMENTARY

The president's day in court Don Graff

In a government of separated powers, separation from any part of the power for a prolonged period raises special problems. Consider the Republicans, who are still suffering from a touch of the congressional bends after having been shut out of a meaningful role in the decision-making process on Capitol Hill for the greater part of the last half century. Never mind that they held the White House off and on for respectable stretches in that period. That contributed nothing to the party's legislative expertise and reserves of talent. It is the public popularity and personal politicking of the president himself, abetted by Democratic disarray, that is largely responsible for the administration's current and impressive budget victories in Congress, not the uncertain skills of a Republican leadership long unused to leading. Or consider the Democrats, who have good reason for concern that they may be well into a similar lengthy dry period in determining the membership and thus shaping the ideological inclination of the Supreme Court. Unusually early in his administration, Ronald Reagan has been presented with the opportunity of naming a justice to influential collegial organ of government in the world. Congress legislates, but it frequently falls to the Supreme Court to define precisely the impact of that legislation upon the nation. All of Reagan's recent Republican predecessors have been able to exercise their appointive powers in respect to the court. It has been a significantly different story for Democrats occupying the White House, however. Jimmy Carter was shut out completely. The last justice named by a Democratic president joined the court 14 years ago. Only two of those now sitting are Democratic appointees. And the situation, from the Democratic point of view, is likely to get worse before there is hope of partisan improvement. Presidents rightly prize their power to name the members of the Supreme Court. It holds out the promise of institutionalizing their philosophies through the selection of like-minded appointees and, theoretically, of extending their influence over national policies and programs long beyond their own presidencies. Franklin D. Roosevelt's struggle with and conquest of the court is always the object lesson. His initial effort to pack a conservative court — expand membership to give him sufficient new appointments to shift the ideological balance — failed. But the court eventually shifted anyway, joining the political mainstream of the later Roosevelt terms. And in the natural course of events he got his appointments anyway — nine of them. Roosevelt appointees dominated the court until almost the end of the Eisenhower presidency and the last one — William O. Douglas — did not leave the bench until 1975. It is an axiom of the system of separation of powers as practiced in the United States, however, that no president can be certain how his appointees will vote once on the court and what the long-term impact upon the nation will be. The object lesson here is Dwight Eisenhower, whose appointee as chief justice, Earl Warren, proceeded to the president's frequent distress to preside over the most liberally activist Supreme Court in history.

There is the Quarter Horse Lounge in Amarillo and The Zoo in Wichita Falls. Austin has the Rabbit Lounge, while Lubbock is the home of Fat Dawg's next to the White Pig Drive In. But, according to the really cool cats, they haven't got a thing on the "Kitty Kat Haven" here in Hereford.

Humans may enjoy waking with hangovers but the cats in Hereford have a different idea of the "good life" and many of them find it at the home of Mary Kay Sandoval.

Ms. Sandoval resides at 606 Stanton with her two daughters and her mother along with her many feline friends. Though she moved here from Amarillo in 1970 Ms. Sandoval still calls San Jon, N.M., where she was raised, home.

She has been employed by Furr Foods for five years and is the mother of two daughters, Kim and Angie, and two sons Jimmy and Timmy. She loves yard work, being outdoors and being around people.

Ms. Sandoval enjoys working with older people and says she shares an affinity with them. "You can learn so much from them," she comments. When she has the time she also enjoys houseplants, drawing and painting.

Mrs. Cooper, her mother, resides with them doing housekeeping and staying with her grandchildren. Kim, a 17 year-old senior at Hereford High School whose hobby is swimming and "enjoys life," and Angie, who will be in the eighth grade at Stanton next year. Angie earns money babysitting, and her hobbies include baton twirling and sports. She will be on the "W" staff at school next year.

Ms. Sandoval's son Jimmy is employed at Amstar in Dimmitt. He and his wife, Lorraine, have two children Chad, 6, and Kara 5. Her younger son Timmy is a veteran of three years in the Navy and is now employed by Teledyne.

"Having children of all ages keeps you young and gives you a good outlook on life," says Ms. Sandoval.

Along with their other activities, Ms. Sandoval needs all the energy she has to keep up with the joint interest the family shares in their love of cats. "We have even had people leave them on the doorstep," she says of the many stray cats they have adopted over the years.

"Happy Hour" at the Sandoval household may consist of a saucer of milk for the cats, but the family members list their favorite dish as Cracker Crumb Chicken.

Love Them Cats!

Mary Kay Sandoval is seen here with her daughter Angie and her mother Mrs. Cooper. Angie is holding Frosty, one of the kittens currently living in the Sandoval household where the usually large cat census is currently down to five. Over the years they have given a home to as many as 11 cats at a time.

Delegates Depart To Fort Worth

Delegates to the Department convention to be held at the Americana Hotel in Ft. Worth July 23-25 were elected in the joint meeting of the American Legion and Auxiliary held Tuesday evening June 7.

Troyce Hanna discussed the recommended changes of the constitution and by-laws for the Department which will be voted upon at the convention including the change of membership dues of $2.50. Jennifer Jesko and Crystal Finley gave a musical program preceding the business session which was conducted by President Beverly Jesko.

The unit voted to sponsor a garage sale Aug. 8, in the American Legion Hall with Ruth King and Ethel Logan to co-chair the project.

Edwina Thomas and Beverly Jesko will co-chair the project for the Aug. 22, Jubilee.

Beverly Jesko and Pet Ott gave reports on the Fourth

Division convention held in Amarillo June 7.

The 15 members present were served refreshments by Clara Trowbridge and Vernice Parsons.

The next meeting will be Aug. 4 and will include installation of new officers.

At Wits End

BY ERMA BOMBECK

Our son is the victim of parental brutality. Loosely translated, that means he's going to summer school.

"You'd think he was serving time for something he didn't do. 'I go to school for nine long months,' he said. 'Every morning, I get out of bed, get dressed, grab 80 pounds of books and drag through four long dreary classes with nothing in between but three free periods and lunch. If it weren't for history class, I wouldn't get any sleep at all. Then as soon as I check out, I have to play tennis for another two hours. I paid my dues to education last winter. This summer do I get to sleep in and relax a little bit? No! You've got me going right back into the front line of academia with another class. What is it with you? Did you promise the board of education your first-born if they'd pass you in driver's ed or something?'"

"You're overreacting," I said. "Somehow I don't see a course in party guitar as the front line of academia."

"That's all you know. YOU try to reach an E-flat when your hands are sweaty."

"Did you know there's a group of students in San Francisco who are protesting because they don't have more classes?"

"Are those the same people you're always going to send my Fiesta Broccoli to because they're starving?"

"Don't get cute. I'm saying that somewhere there are people who want to learn more. They're all immigrants and when the school board cut out their last period in the day, they demanded they reinstate the class. A student from Nicaragua said, 'We're not here to make trouble. We're here to learn.'"

"Maybe if I was in another country," he said, "I'd want to learn too."

I hate to admit it, but maybe the kid has stumbled onto something that might be a solution to educational apathy in this country. As long as we're busing anyway, why not bus them to other countries where education isn't regarded as a sentence, but a luxury?

It's painful, but allow me to be the first to volunteer for export one child who gets up at the crack of noon, watches three game shows, two soaps, eats down to the frost in the refrigerator, then ambles over to the school where he stretches his searching mind and his sweaty hands for an E-flat.

Poultry

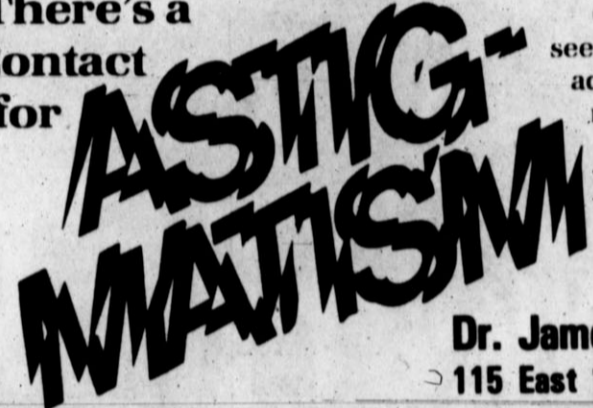

Cracker Crumb Chicken

Fryer, 3 lb.
Salt and pepper
Two cups cracker crumbs
Melted butter

Cut up the fryer, season with salt and pepper to taste. Dip each piece in melted butter and roll in cracker crumbs. (Mashing your own cracker crumbs gives a better flavor). Bake at 350 degrees until tender, about one hour. Delicious served with tossed salad or potato salad and hot bread.

Time Nears For Pageant

Members of the Chamber of Commerce Steering committee convened noon Wednesday in the C of C boardroom for discussion of the upcoming Miss Hereford Pageant scheduled Aug. 15 at 7:30 p.m. in the high school auditorium. Special guest at the meeting was

Crochet Tops For Summer, Too

The World Almanac®

NEW YORK (NEA) — "Folkloric" is simply the new word for what was called "ethnic" fashion a few seasons ago. Folkloric is now applied to everything from worldwide native clothes to such familiar American handwork as knits and crochets.

Folkloric fashions usually mean textured fabrics and surfaces. Last year's handknit sweater rage involved textures so three-dimensional you could crunch them. Now the spotlight is turning to crochet. Its more refined textures and many traditional patterns fit the folkloric trend in any season.

Start working now on Bucilla's diamond-mattened camisole, in their Cresian Tempo yarn. Quick and easy to make, the camisole will go with your summer skirts and culottes, then become a fall evening top. With its tied crocheted spaghetti straps, it looks as good in fall black as in summer pastels.

At Coats and Clark, they choose a crocheted tunic as an all-season topper. The textured surface is in an adaptation of the traditional "pineapple" pattern. The yarn used is their Cresian Red Heart Lustersheen, which comes in 27 colors, including four which are variegated. With a simple bateau neckline and easy elbow-length sleeves, the tunic works as a daytime top for skirts or pants, and can be dressed up with jewelry to go with a long skirt for party wear.

Instructions for both styles are available from the yarn companies. For the camisole, request instructions for Style No. 4604 and send stamped, self-addressed envelope to Bucilla, Dept. ACY 81, 230 Fifth Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10001.

For the tunic, request instructions for Style PC-9469, enclose 75 cents, and write to Coats & Clark, Inc., Dept. NEA 3-81, P.O. Box 1009, Toccoa, Ga. 30577.

Jewelry Buying Guides

NEW YORK (NEA) — Michael D. Roman, chairman of Jewelers of America Inc., is concerned about the rush to buy gold and other fine jewelry. It's good for his 12,000 members, who are all retail jewelers, but he's afraid many new jewelry buyers lack the knowledge to buy jewelry wisely.

"Our association decided we should aid consumers," says Roman. "The only source of advice available to most consumers is the retail jeweler. We decided to identify our member shops by a large 'J' logo they could stick on the door or display window. The logo is our signal to consumers that this shop will give reliable advice on fine jewelry buying."

The Jewelers of America Inc. also prepared four brochures for consumers. They are titled "What You Should Know About..." Each brochure deals with some aspect of fine jewelry, such as karat gold.

Tone Sisters To Present Concert

Melody and Chere Tone will be singing a concert of gospel music at the Frio Baptist Church Sunday morning, July 19 at 11 a.m.

Melody and Chere are accompanied on the piano and electric piano by Sheri Evans.

The Tone girls have been singing together since they were small children. They have been giving one to two concerts every weekend this summer throughout West Texas. They sing often at the Globe of the Great South-west's Brand New Opry and will be singing in the Gospel competition there in September 1981.

Melody and Chere Tone are the daughters of Rev. and Mrs. Gene Tone. Rev. Tone is the pastor of the Frio Baptist Church.

Teen Dance Scheduled

A Teen Dance is scheduled for Friday night, July 10, from 8:30 to 12:30 at the Knights of Columbus Hall. Music will be provided by the Sound Barrier with Michael Foster and Dennis Detten. Cost will be $2.50 per person or $4.50 per couple.

The chaperoned dance is being sponsored by Campfire Girls. Proceeds will be used to subsidize some of the 26 girls who are planning to attend in International Horizon Club conference to be held at the Air Force Academy in Colorado Springs, Colo. July 17-24.

The baker's doughnuts are preinflation size, all right, but have you checked on the diameter of the holes?

Melody is a senior at the University of Texas of the Permian Basin. Chere attended Angelo State University and Sheri Evans is a sophomore at Odessa College. All three presently live in Odessa.

"They sing contemporary and old time gospel music," according to Rev. Tone who also invites the public to attend the special Sunday service.

Mary Jo Kuskowski and Brent Combs Married in Holy Trinity Catholic Church

C of C July Artist

Chamber of Commerce artist Marian Goodin, works mainly in oils, using local subject matter such as farming. "I think farming is very important to our area," she said. Mrs. Goodin started painting at West Texas State University in 1976. She graduated in May with a bachelor of fine arts. She has shown her art in the Amarillo Art Center, Mountain View College in Dallas, both the formal and the student galleries at WTSU and the Cowgirl Hall of Fame. Mrs. Goodin, the wife of Calvin Goodin, is also the mother of three children.

Miss Mary Jo Kuskowski and Brent Combs, both of Dallas, were married recently in Holy Trinity Catholic Church at Dallas with the Rev. George Weber, pastor, officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Kuskowski of Green Bay, Wisc. The groom is the son of Mrs. Ann Combs of Hereford and the late Leslie W. Combs.

Attending as matron of honor was the bride's sister, Jeanne Kuskowski of Green Bay. James Jorde of Hereford was the groom's best man.

Serving as ushers were Steven Kuskowski of Green Bay, the bride's brother; and Greg Combs, the groom's brother of Dallas.

The groom's niece and nephew, Leslie and Patrick, served as flower girl and ring bearer. They are the children of Dick Combs of Denver, Colo.

The bride's principal wedding selections of "Pachelbel's Canon in D," and "Lord's Prayer," were rendered on the organ by Don Essmiller. He was accompanied by vocalist Joel West.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a sleeveless white chiffon gown featuring a handkerchief hemline. She wore a ring of roses and baby's breath upon her head and carried a bouquet of lavender roses and baby's breath. Her attendant wore lavender floral print dresses of chiffon, also featuring the handkerchief hemline. She carried a nosegay of violets.

A reception followed the wedding ceremony in the Melrose Hotel. The bride's three-tiered wedding cake was served by Angela Jacobs and Mary Ann Fair, both of Dallas. Punch and coffee were served by Susan Amis and Kerre Clark, both of Dallas.

The bride's table was decorated with a canopy and two floral arrangements. The groom's cake was chocolate. The couple will make their home in Dallas after a wedding trip to Santa Fe, N.M.

The bride is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin receiving her interior design degree. She is currently employed by Stewart's-Dallas as an interior designer.

The groom, a 1972 graduate of Hereford High School, graduated from Texas Tech University in 1977. He is presently employed by Lindgren Design Studio in Dallas as a graphic designer.

Mrs. Combs hosted a rehearsal dinner prior to the wedding at Lakewood Country Club in Dallas.

Fuel Saving Ideas for the 'Fridge.

NEW YORK (NEA) - A mixed blessing, your refrigerator: It runs, you eat; unfortunately, it eats, too. Fuel. But you can curb its energetic appetite, says Jean Hopwood, manager of consumer affairs for General Electric's Major Appliance Business Group in Louisville, Ky.

For one thing, keep the door shut as much as possible. "Every time the refrigerator is opened, cool air escapes, warm air gets in and eventually the motor must go on to keep down the temperature," she says. "Remember, a refrigerator cools by expelling heated air, so the less warm air that gets in, the better."

But be disabused of the notion that the thicker the frost in the freezer, the better.

"All built-up frost does is make the freezer work harder to remove heated air since it acts as an insulator," she says. And the more frost, the more there is for the freezer to cool. Pointlessly. So, if defrosting is in your hands, and not a built-in function of the refrigerator, do it, she says, "when the ice is no more than one-quarter inch thick." It won't take long, you won't have to tiptoe to the sink with an overflowing water tray, and you'll end up with more storage space in the freezer and less chance of uncovering meatballs you froze so long ago, they're unusable.

Speaking of which, you can avoid the buy-it, freeze-it, forget-it, toss-it syndrome, she says, by keeping a list on the freezer door, or nearby, of the date and place you stow something, for example: 1-1-81, veal patties, rear left-hand corner. "That way," says Ms. Hopwood, "you won't go out and duplicate and you'll use what you have within good storage time."

Do take advantage of the space you've got in the freezer to stock up on sale items, or, if you don't fancy a six-month supply of sliced zucchini, store water at least. "Freeze ice cubes for future use so that you're not paying for cooling empty space," she says.

And, when you go on vacation, give the refrigerator a rest too. "Use up your perishables (milk, vegetables, etc.) before you leave. Then follow the instruction manual and turn down the controls on the refrigerator," she says. "It doesn't have to operate at the usual temperature while you're away and, at a higher temperature, it won't run that often."

And as long as the oven is hot, if you really want to conserve energy, double whatever you're making and freeze half. Unless, of course, it fails the taste test.

Discussing Splints

Coupe was one of 35 high school trainers to attend the session. (TCU Photo).

Coupe Attends Trainer School

FORT WORTH - Kevin Coupe of Hereford was among 35 high school students who studied care, rehabilitation and prevention of athletic injuries during an intensive one-week training program conducted by Texas Christian University.

Designed for students interested in or presently working as athletic trainers, the June 14-19 workshop provided supervised study of the nature of athletic injuries and the trainer's role. The week's curriculum included classroom instruction in addition to experience and practice in the training room.

Coordinating the workshop was Ross Bailey, TCU's athletic trainer. Holder of a degree in physical education with emphasis on athletic training as well as a master's degree in educational supervision from TCU, he is a certified member of the National Athletic Trainers Association as well as the Southwest ATA.

Kevin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dick Coupe of 300 Westhaven, is a senior at Hereford High School.

Ellenberger Plans Appeal Despite His Light Sentence

By JIM McELROY
Associated Press Writer
ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — The judge called convicted former University of New Mexico basketball Coach Norm Ellenberger a cog in the machine, and did not put him in jail because he refused to be part of "hypocrisy."

It was the only thing Ellenberger liked about the trial, and he said Wednesday he still plans to appeal his convictions. A district court jury returned guilty verdicts Tuesday on 21 counts of fraud and making false public vouchers, all fourth-degree felonies. The jury also found Ellenberger innocent on one count of fraud over $2,500, a third-degree felony that could have carried a maximum sentence of 2-10 years in prison.

"I'm not guilty. The compassion of the court didn't change that," Ellenberger said in announcing he would pursue an appeal. "I don't agree I should have been sentenced at all. I do not believe it erases the cloud and weight going to do everything possible to change make restitution. Ellenberger, 48, could have received maximum prison sentences of 1-5 years on each count. "I could have received 105 years. I feel a lot better about this. I'm certainly pleased with this part of the trial. Some other parts did not enthruse me too much," a smiling Ellenberger told reporters as he emerged from the courtroom. Balamonte spent several minutes blasting major college athletics in the United States, characterizing it as "minor league but professional."

Tulsa, Amarillo Post Wins

The Tulsa Drillers exploded for eight runs in the third inning, but had to withstand a strong rally in the ninth inning Wednesday night to take an 11-10 Texas League baseball victory over the Arkansas Travelers. In other Texas League action, Jackson shut out Shreveport, 4-0, Amarillo beat El Paso, 9-2, and San Antonio whipped Midland, 6-1. Dave Kable's ninth homer of the year helped give Arkansas a 2-0 lead in the first inning, but Tulsa sent 13 men to the plate as they scored eight runs in the third inning.

Catcher Ron Tingley had five hits in five trips to the plate as the Amarillo Gold Sox beat the El Paso Diablos, 9-2. Tim Hamm, 9-6, went the distance to pick up the pitching victory. Tagged with the loss was Mike Madden, 5-6.

John Sees Break In Baseball Strike Soon

By KEN RAPPOPORT AP Sports Writer

Tommy John, self-appointed Pollyanna of the New York Yankees, sees a crack in the baseball strike. "Maybe I'm too optimistic, but I have faith that the strike will end soon, within the next three days," says the Yankee pitcher.

John's high hopes, despite noise by most other players to the contrary, are linked to the efforts of George Steinbrenner. The Yankee owner is reportedly working on a plan — as yet unrevealed publicly — that hopefully will snap the logjam between players and owners.

Apparently, that will be one of the matters discussed when major league owners meet in midtown Manhattan tonight.

"I think George can do it — his idea is close to what the players have been proposing since April," says John, who didn't elaborate on Steinbrenner's secret weapon.

"And I think that the other liberal owners — the guys like (the New York Mets' Fred) Wilpon, (the Texas Rangers' Eddie) Chiles, (the Baltimore Orioles' Edward Bennett) Williams — will follow and create a sort of momentum."

John says if the strike does end within the next few days or so, "it'll be because of George's new proposal."

Steinbrenner will be among 26 major league owners expected to be at tonight's meeting chaired by Ray Grebey, chief negotiator of the owners' bargaining committee in these strike talks. There were reports that Grebey lacks support from all 26 owners and that tonight's meeting might be a stormy one.

"I have unanimity where I need it, on the board of directors of the Player Relations Committee," he said. "You never expect unanimity from 26 clubs. If you get a 26-0 vote, it's a fix."

Grebeys said he was not angry with Chiles and Williams, identified earlier as the only owners who have not sent telegrams of support to the PRC.

"The last time I talked to Eddie, he said I had his complete support and he said he was going to pray for me the next time he went to church," Grebey said. "I'm not mad at Mr. Williams, but I doubt Ed prayed for me."

Earlier this week, players met here and reaffirmed their unified stand against management. It's expected that the owners will throw their wholehearted support behind their negotiating committee as well in tonight's meeting.

"I'd be willing to bet anything that the meeting results in strong support for the committee's position," says owner Jerry Reinsdorf of the Chicago White Sox. "If the meeting had occurred prior to last Saturday I think it would have been different. But our committee made a major move Saturday."

Reinsdorf's reference was to last Saturday's negotiating session between management and players, where the owners came up with a new proposal in an effort to resolve the key issue in the strike, free agent compensation.

They proposed a limit of 12 on the number of ranking free agents who would require professional players as compensation in any re-entry draft. The proposal was rejected by the Major League Players Association and Grebeys says that management was prepared to alter its offer, but never got the opportunity because the players' union broke off talks.

Grebeys said he wished to continue the negotiations Wednesday, but had to attend a National Labor Relations Board hearing on the union's unfair labor practice charge that the owners have failed to bargain in good faith.

"We've made some moves and had some more to make last Saturday when we asked the union to stay and negotiate," Grebeys said. "I'd have rather postponed this hearing (Wednesday) and spent the time at the bargaining table."

In answer to Grebeys' contention that the players shut off any further discussion Saturday, Marvin Miller, head of the players' union, insisted that Grebeys was at fault himself for discontinuing negotiations at that time.

"It has now come out that Mr. Grebeys had considerable more room than he gave our committee Saturday," Miller said Wednesday. "He was authorized to make a more liberal proposal and didn't do it."

Miller didn't say how he knew of the supposed latitude possessed by Grebeys. But Grebeys was quoted in the New York News' Thursday editions as saying, "I had the authority to go further. There was room to move." However, he did not elaborate on this position.

Reinsdorf, who ad Wednesday's NLRB hearings, said he wasn't aware that Grebeys was authorized to offer more than he did.

"I do know what he did," said the White Sox owner. "He made a major move and he said everything was negotiable. Whatever coalition of militant or moderate owners there might have been disintegrated Saturday when Mr. Grebeys made that proposal."

The players, Reinsdorf said, should have reacted with a counter-proposal, adding: "The people I talk to who I would consider moderate consider it an insult that there's no counter-offer and all there is is a stalemate."

Federal mediator Kenneth Moffett reportedly is attempting to set up a Friday meeting between players and owners to try to settle the strike, now in its 29th day.

The owners are pushing for direct compensation in the area of free agency, with a team signing a top-quality free agent giving up a roster player in return. The players who went on strike June 12, have proposed compensation from a pool of players, with each club contributing to the pool.

Morgan Turns Down UT For Trucking

SEMINOLE, Okla. (AP) — Curtis Morgan of Seminole has been offered a full scholarship by Texas University, but he's walking away from baseball to continue his present job as vice president of Tiger Trucking Co., a tank truck service started by his father 10 years ago.

Curtis was the Most Valuable Player in the Junior College National Tournament in Grand Junction, Colo., last May as he hit a sizzling .636 while leading Seminole Juco to a second-place finish. He was also on the juco all-American team.

It's normal for MVPs at the JUCO tournament to sign pro contracts, or at the very least, sign with a major college and get a chance to play two more years.

Morgan visited Austin and Texas coach Cliff Gustafson gave him the big tour. Gustafson said: "We feel like the key to our recruiting could be Curtis Morgan. He's an outstanding left-handed hitter."

"That made it a lot harder," Curtis said from his office here. "I reached a point in my career where I needed to go to work or decide what I was going to do.

Public Notice

Southwestern Bell, in accordance with the rules of the Public Utility Commission of Texas, hereby gives notice of the company's intent to implement a new schedule of telephone rates in Texas effective July 21, 1981, unless otherwise determined by the Commission.

It is expected that the requested rate schedule will furnish a 15.8 percent increase in the company's intrastate revenues.

A complete copy of the new rate schedule is on file with the Public Utility Commission at Austin, Texas, and with each affected municipality served by Southwestern Bell, and is available for inspection in each of the company's public business offices in Texas.

Notice to Customers of Other Telephone Companies

The filing includes, but is not limited to, proposals to increase rates for interexchange private line and foreign exchange (FX) service. Changes in such rates would also affect customers of other telephone companies because such companies provide interexchange private line and foreign exchange service in accordance with rates specified in Southwestern Bell's tariffs.

Aviso Público

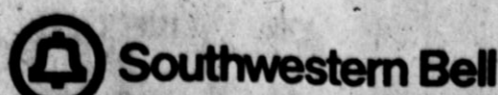

Southwestern Bell, en conformidad a las reglas del Public Utility Commission (Comisión de Servicios Públicos) de Texas, por la presente hace saber su intención de establecer un nuevo arancel para servicio de teléfono en Texas con vigencia a partir del 21 de Julio de 1981, a menos que la Comisión haga otra determinación.

Se espera que el nuevo arancel que se ha solicitado rendirá un aumento de 15.8 por ciento en los ingresos intraestatales de la compañía.

Una copia completa del nuevo arancel se ha archivado en las oficinas del Public Utility Commission en Austin, Texas, al igual que en cada municipalidad afectada y servida por Southwestern Bell, y cada una de las oficinas de la compañía para negocios con el público en Texas tiene una copia para lectura pública.

Aviso a los Clientes de Otras Compañías de Teléfono

El registro incluye, pero no se limita a, propuestas para aumentar las tarifas para servicio de línea privada entre centrales telefónicas (interexchange private line) y servicio de central telefónica extranjera (foreign exchange FX). Cambios en dichas tarifas de servicio también afectarían a clientes de otras compañías de teléfono porque dichas compañías proveen los servicios ya mencionados en conformidad a tarifas especificadas por Southwestern Bell.

Weight Loss Magnate Buys Philadelphia 76ers

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Philadelphia 76ers, winners on the court but losers at the box office, have been sold to weight-loss entrepreneur Harold Katz.

F. Eugene Dixon, who has owned the team since 1976, was expected to make the official announcement of the sale at a press conference today. The sale was confirmed by a source close to the team, who asked not to be identified.

The purchase price was believed to be between $7 million and $11 million.

Katz, 44, of suburban Huntingdon Valley, owns and operates Nutri-Systems, Inc., which markets diet plans. A former overeater himself, Katz started his weight loss centers in 1972, emphasizing diet and psychological counseling.

The sale had been rumored ever since Lou Scheinfeld resigned as president about a month ago. Scheinfeld was named president Jan. 30, 1980, in an effort to boost dwindling attendance.

Dixon's teams never had a losing record. The 76ers won 50 games in their first season, 55 in their second year and 62 last year. But despite such top players as Julius Erving and Darryl Dawkins, the 76ers failed to draw at home.

The 76ers also did not win any NBA championships under Dixon, and last season, even playoff games failed to fill the home court at the Spectrum. In April, Scheinfeld said the team's regular season attendance averaged 11,448, while they needed 15,500 to break even.

The loss of fans and the failure to win the title apparently led Dixon to unload the franchise.

"For me, it won't last too much longer," Dixon said in April, contemplating the attendance figures. "The financial impact of this is so great that, with the current attendance and the current costs, it's just impractical for me to continue much farther."

Dixon purchased the Sixers in 1976 from Irv Kosloff, a Philadelphia paper manufacturer who retained an interest in the team. Kosloff said he would retain his interest under the new ownership.

"I have certain connections with the team that will be continued," Kosloff said. "But that's not what's important now. What's important is what's happening."

Besides the 76ers, Dixon has owned a portion of the Philadelphia Eagles football team, and at one time was the second-largest stockholder in the Phillies baseball team. He also owned the Philadelphia Wings lacrosse team.

Katz, a former grocer, 7rush salesman, life insurance salesman and burglar alarm entrepreneur, is an avid sports fan and a 76ers season ticket holder.

His Nutri-Systems, Inc., now has 412 offices, each of them offering psychological counseling, medical checkups, mild exercise and a line of packaged foods. From August 1980 through April 1981, it reported gross revenues of $31.3 million.

"I know what people want," said Katz in a recent interview about his business successes.

Connors Boosts U.S. Davis Cup Chances

NEW YORK (AP) — "I've always been a loner. I'm not a team man in any way," says Jimmy Connors. But Connors' decision to join the U.S. Davis Cup team for the first time since 1976 has boosted his country's chances in this weekend's series against defending champion Czechoslovakia.

Connors and Wimbledon champion John McEnroe will play the four singles matches for the U.S. team, while veterans Stan Smith and Bob Lutz will play the doubles in the best-of-five quarterfinal competition at the National Tennis Center. Two singles matches will be played Friday, the doubles Saturday and the remaining two singles matches Sunday on the fast, cement courts.

"There's a lot of experience on our team," observed Arthur Ashe, the non-playing captain of the U.S. squad. "All the players we have here are used to pressure situations and play well on cement. Jimmy won the Open here in 1978 and John won it here the last two years, so they've shown they play well here."

Czechoslovakia's key player is 22-year-old Ivan Lendl, who is ranked fourth in the world behind McEnroe, Bjorn Borg and Connors. Tomas Smid, Pavel Slozil and Stanislav Birner complete the Czechoslovakian team.

"We have two strategies," said Ashe. "One strategy is to beat Smid twice (in singles) and win the doubles. The other strategy is to try to win 5-0. But Lendl is so good it's not out of the realm of reality that he could win two singles. That brings us back to our first strategy."

And that strategy relies on winning the doubles, where Smith and Lutz have a 12-1 record in Davis Cup competition dating back to 1968. They are generally considered the second-best doubles combination in the world, behind the team of McEnroe and Peter Fleming, who beat Smith-Lutz in last week's Wimbledon final. Ashe said Smith and Lutz were picked because he did not want McEnroe to play three best-of-five set matches in three days.

McEnroe is at the top of his game, having dethroned Borg at Wimbledon and gained the No. 1 spot in this week's computer rankings. But Connors is also playing well, as evidenced by his tough five-set semifinal loss to Borg at Wimbledon, and he's beaten Lendl all seven times they've played.

Connors lost his last Davis Cup match, to Mexico's Raul Ramirez in 1976, but did not play since because of "private reasons and personal conflicts. I didn't enjoy it — I'll leave it at that. Why do something and not be happy doing it?"

Connors had his differences with past Davis Cup captains, but over dinner last January he told Ashe he'd like to play this year. Why the switch?

"Four words: I feel like it," he said. "It's something I haven't done in a long time. Most of the time I've played for myself, which is good in some ways, but to play for the United States is good, too. I'm looking forward to it."

"I don't question his motivation," said Ashe. "He decided he was ready and I'm just delighted to have him."

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Most of golf's biggest names again are missing, but tradition indicates some of the best scores of the year will be recorded this weekend in the $250,000 Greater Milwaukee Open golf tournament.

Lon Hinkle, Bobby Clampett, Ed Fiori and George Archer — the only golfers among the year's top 30 money winners entered — were favored as the 72-hole event began today over the 7,010-yard, par 72 Tuckaway Country Club course.

HEALTH
Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.
Slow heart rate

DEAR DR. LAMB - When I was pregnant I developed jaundice. When my son was born he was born without jaundice, but when he was about 7 years old I was told he had a heart murmur but not to worry about it. He is now married and has no problems but the doctor said his heart was slower than average. I don't understand. They haven't given him any medicine or put him on any restrictions. What does it mean for a slower heart beat? Is it better than a fast beat?

DEAR READER - It all boils down to the fact that your son's doctor doesn't think he has anything wrong with his health. A slow heart rate is often an indication of good health rather than something being wrong. Endurance athletes tend to have slow heart rates. Roger Bannister had a heart rate of only 38 beats a minute when he was in training to break the four-minute mile. Before training his resting heart rate was in the 70s. That should tell you that developing high levels of physical fitness can produce a slow heart rate.

I think the resting heart rate is one of the most neglected simple indicators of health. If a person has a resting heart rate much above 80, it usually means that he is anxious, has bad habits such as smoking cigarettes, drinks too much coffee, or other beverages containing caffeine, is in poor physical condition from lack of exercise or may have an underlying medical problem. The most common cause for high normal heart rates in adults is poor levels of physical fitness accompanied with being overweight and having bad habits. Now, heart disease can cause slow heart rates. This is most commonly seen in middle-aged or older people with heart disease that produces a form of heart block. These are the people who often need a pacemaker to maintain their heart rate at adequate levels. So the extremes of the meaning of a slow heart rate vary from being a champion athlete to a person with a serious heart disease.
