YMCA drive marches on

$508,000-plus collected so far; $925,000 goal

By REED PARSELL Managing Editor

More than $500,000 in cash and pledges have been collected for the local YMCA's new building fund drive, according to President Sid

The drive, which officially began July 6, has a goal of $925,000. Money will be used to construct and furnish a general-activities facility on Fifteenth Street, approximately one-half mile east of 25 Mile Avenue.

So far, the YMCA has received pledges totaling $175,825 and cash to the tune of $332,384.58. The entire sum is therefore $508,209.58.

Officials of the project hope to receive several services, materials and labor hours for free. Shaw said until a contractor's bid has been accepted, however, there is no way of knowing how much the charity work and services might be worth.

Among the funding possibilities not yet fully explored are memorials and honorariums. They may be given for specified rooms or areas of the proposed struc-

Included in the list of memorial and honorarium opportunities are a gymnasium ($350,000), exercise room ($75,000), men's fitness center ($66,500), women's fitness center ($61,000) and youth center ($45,000).

Though large donations are most welcome, YMCA General Director Weldon Knabe stressed any amounts would help.

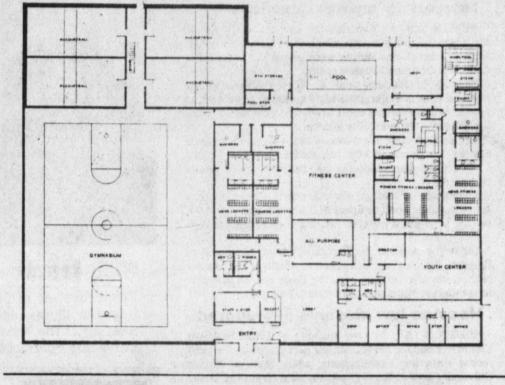

The building, as planned, would cover about 25,000 square feet of ground. The entire project, which includes a parking lot, would take up around 75,000 square feet, Shaw guessed.

The project's land has been provided to the YMCA by the City of Hereford, which is leasing the property for 100 years at $1 per year. In order for the lease - granted during the summer - to reamin in effect, construction had to begin by Jan. 1, 1984. Leveling of the site has already

As shown in the diagram, the building would contain, among other things, four raquetball courts, a nursing facility and offices for Big Brothers-Big Sisters and the United Way.

"Despite the programs currently provided by the Hereford YMCA," Shaw wrote in a publicity pamphlet, "our board feels its is time to expand the services our YMCA can offer the community. We want to see programs of gymnastics, aquatic exercise, fitness testing, handball, raquetball, informal education classes and wrestling, to name a few.

After the fund drive was officially started, its organizers hoped to reach the $925,000 goal by Sept. 1. At July 6's kick-off breakfast, it was announced approximately $295,000 had so far been collected or pledged.

U.S., Soviets plan to resume talks

By THOMAS W. NETTER Associated Press Writer

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) - U.S. and Soviet arms negotiators were scheduled to resume medium-range missile talks today, two days after their shortest bargaining session ever, but France's president said the Soviets are on the verge of a walkout.

Moscow has threatened to withdraw from the talks if NATO began deploying new U.S. cruise and Pershing 2 nuclear missiles in Western Europe.

The first cruise missiles arrived in Britain on Monday, but on Tuesday - after a negotiating session of only 35 minutes - Soviet Ambassador Yuli A. Kvitsinsky agreed to meet the Americans again today.

Tuesday's session was the shortest plenary meeting in more than 100 negotiating sessions since the intermediate-range nuclear force talks began two years

President Francois Mitterrand of France predicted Wednesday the Soviets will walk out of talks in Geneva when the first Pershing 2s are deployed in West Germany next month. He said, in a national television interview, he did not think "the rupture would last a long time" and promised that France would 'use all of its means" to help the negotiations resume if they are broken off.

The NATO missiles, including 108 Pershing 2s and 464 cruises, are to be deployed over the next five years in West Germany, Britain, Belgium, Italy and the Netherlands, to counter 243 triple-warhead Soviet SS-20s already targeted on Western Europe.

Officials at the State Department in Washington said the U.S. and Soviet delegations were scheduled to hold a "working group" meeting in Geneva Wednesday, and had "not requested a recess" for Thursday.

The working group was to discuss a new U.S. proposal aimed at reducing the number of U.S.-Soviet warheads to 420 each. This would cut but not eliminate the number of Soviet warheads already in place and the U.S. missiles to be deployed.

There has been a lot of criticism leveled at the Reagan administration by the national news media for not allowing war correspondents to accompany the troops into Grenada. While we believe strongly in freedom of the press, we beg to differ with our big brothers on this issue.

There are two primary reasons we think the military made the right decision when they left the media at home, and they both involve comparisons with World War II and the more recent conflicts:

(1) There were no television cameras in World War II, and (2) the war correspondents covering the battlefield were on our side. (In Korean and Vietnam, we're not sure which side some of them were on.)

During World War II, reporters didn't have television camera crews interviewing bombing victims in Berlin. and no one paid Hitler for an exclusive interview. No one went across enemy lines to the other side to show the effect of strafing, bombing or war-caused shortages.

Had the door been opened for the media in Grenada, the television crews and press corps might have outnumbered the local inhabitants in a couple of days. Like the Vietnam war effort, it may have become a political and public relations campaign instead of a military action.

There is a long list of duties that are performed by volunteers, including helping with shopping housework, writing letters, problem solving through team consultation and simply being there to listen.

A person who is deciding whether or not to become a hospice volunteer should keep that in mind."

Reagan receives support

Claiming that the media has portrayed women as being against President Reagan and many of his policies women in several states including Texas have formed bipartisan political organizations to dispel that image.

Clara Gillentine, a local spokesperson for "Texas Women Supporting the President," said the rapidlygrowing group wants to counteract what they call "bad information" about the American woman's confidence in Reagan's leadership abilities.

Peaches Reinauer of Hereford announced Wednesday that bumper stickers which declare "Women for Reagan" are available at Griffin Real Estate and Investments, 508 South 25 Mile Avenue in Hereford, for a contribution of $1

Gillentine said the organization in Texas has not planned to hold meetings, which they say are costly and timeconsuming, but instead is asking each woman to work for her belief in the president on an individual and community level. Purchase of a sticker is also used as a membership fee which places women on the state mailing list.

County business stable

Compared with last year, business appears to be stable in Deaf Smith and most neighboring counties.

According to figures released by State Comptroller Bob Bullock, all but two of seven nearby counties reported increased receipts from city sales taxes.

The sales tax check mailed to Potter County was 7.36 percent more than this time last year, with Oldham County receiving a 7.16 percent higher rebate check. Other increases ranged from 3.13 percent in Swisher County to 6.62 percent for Moore County. Deaf Smith has received 3.46 more than in 1982.

Only Parmer and Castro Counties had lower figures in the Panhandle. City sales tax receipts were up in Houston, Dallas, Fort Worth, Austin and San Antonio.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) - A medical school dean admitted that he was worried about civil liability, but denied ever "intentionally or deliberately" withholding any documents from an investigation into

A Bexar County grand jury has been investigating a string of suspicious infant deaths at the pediatric intensive care unit of Medical Center Hospital between 1978 and early 1982. District Attorney Sam

Millsap filed the contempt charge Nov. 3, contending Dunn had failed to fully comply with a sweeping subpoena demanding all papers related to the case.

Dunn remained adamant that he had complied, despite pointed questioning from Chief Deputy District Attorney Nick Rothe, who has been heading the massive investigation.

"I've never failed to turn over a document, willfully or intentionally, that I thought the grand jury was entitled to receive for any reason - civil liability or otherwise," Dunn testified.

"There was obviously no attempt to destroy and I can tell you there was no attempt to conceal," he said. The doctor turned over a stack of documents when the subpoena was issued in March, but did not surrender until October some handwritten notes and the preliminary draft of the results of an internal hospital investigation. Dunn's attorney, Gerald Goldstein, pointed out that the administrator turned those documents over to investigators later without an additional subpoena. "Dr. Dunn, without further request, voluntarily produced materials which he was not required to produce and which the grand jury could not have otherwise compelled," Goldstein argued in a legal brief.

The attorney offered other complicated arguments, and contended the contempt motion was rendered moot when Dunn turned over the second batch of papers.

Dunn testified that he had 'misfiled" the preliminary report and that his attorneys had told him his handwritten notes were not covered by the subpoena. But Rothe told Ber-chelmann that if Dunn were not found in contempt, a grand jury subpoena "wouldn't be worth the paper it's written on. The recipient of that subpoena could just do whatever he wanted." The prosecutor has been

Lawyers to answer questions

AUSTIN (AP) - Two Houston lawyers whose secret testimony led to the commercial bribery indictment of Attorney General Jim Mattox were asked to answer questions about the case in public today.

Thomas R. McDade and J. Wiley Caldwell of the Houston firm of Fulbright and Jaworski were ordered to appear in state district court to answer questions by Mattox's defense attorney, Roy Minton.

McDade has told reporters of his complaints against Mattox last summer, but until today neither he nor Caldwell had ever made the accusations in public while under oath.

A trial date for Mattox, who is accused of threatening to ruin the public bond business of Fulbright and Jaworski, has not been set. A pre-trial hearing is scheduled for Dec.

Today's depositions had originally been scheduled in Houston, but they were switched to Austin at the request of District Attorney Ronnie Earle. Earle has not said why he wanted the statements switched to Austin.

Houston law students ill-prepared

HOUSTON (AP) - Law students at Texas Southern University had the lowest passing percentage on the most recent state bar examinations, while those at Baylor University scored the highest, statistics from the Texas Supreme Court and Board of Law Examiners show.

Passing grades on the examination were down sharply overall, with only 69 percent being allowed to practice law, statistics showed. The statewide passing rate in recent years has been between 81 percent and 85 percent.

According to results released Tuesday, the Houstonbased Texas Southern University had only 17 of 124 law students — 14 percent — passing the bar exam. That was the worst record among the state's eight laws schools on the test given in July.

South Texas College of Law in Houston had the second worst rate, 65 percent. The University of Houston, at 69 percent, matched the state average.

Of the other schools, the University of Texas had a 76 percent passing rate; Southern Methodist, 77 percent; St. Mary's University in San Antonio, 80 percent; Texas Tech, 85; and Baylor, 93 percent.

Breast feeding may help heart

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) - Studies on animals suggest that breast feeding makes long-term changes in the way the body uses cholesterol - suggesting that nursing may protect against heart disease later in life.

The results are preliminary, and it will be at least a year before researchers can determine with reasonable accuracy whether breast feeding lowers the risk of heart disease, said Glen Mott, a biochemist at the University of Texas Health Science Center in San Antonio.

Heart disease is known to have its origins in childhood, however, and so it is reasonable to assume that breast feeding could affect the risks, Mott said in an interview.

In a report presented Tuesday during the annual meeting of the American Heart Association, Mott said he compared the effect of breast feeding and formula feeding

Rebels claim win

By G.G. LaBELLE Associated Press Writer

TRIPOLI, Lebanon (AP) -Palestinian rebels today declared victory in their war against Yasser Arafat, but he vowed to fight on as a pocket of his besieged loyalists held out north of Tripoli.

Lebanon's state radio reported that Arafat had ordered his troops in northern Lebanon to cease fire, but the chairman of the Palestine Liberation Organization told reporters today he would continue fighting.

"It is difficult. But we have no choice," Arafat said in a brief news conference at his headquarters in Tripoli. One of his hands was wrapped in a bandage, but he said it was "not a wound." He gave no further explanation.

In Beirut, the 1,600-man U.S. Marine contingent of the multinational peacekeeping force began its rotation today after a six-month stay in Lebanon. The stint included the Oct. 23 truck-bombing that killed 239 Marines and other U.S. servicemen, the worst terrorist attack on the U.S. military since the Vietnam War.

Lebanese police said the death toll had climbed to 43 from Israel's air raid Wednesday on a Bekaa Valley base of pro-Iranian extremists suspected of engineering truck-bomb attacks on U.S., French and Israeli posts in Lebanon.

Arafat and his aides said there were still some loyalist fighters in positions on the southern edge of the Baddawi Palestinian refugee camp, taken by the rebels in fierce hand-to-hand fighting Wednesday. The camp was Arafat's last Middle East stronghold.

Most of today's fighting was in an area called Mankubin, just southwest of Rockets, Baddawi. machineguns and rocketpropelled grenades were being fired by both sides. "We will win. I keep telling Jibril spoke today at Arafat's one-time headquarters in the camp. He urged Arafat to surrender and "receive the punishment he deserves for the mistakes and crimes he committed against the Palestinian people.'

Unconfirmed radio reports said 100 were killed and 600 wounded in the final assault on Baddawi.

The PLO war in north Lebanon broke out Nov. 3. On Nov. 6 the mutineers overran the loyalist camp of Nahr el-Bared, and Arafat's men fled to Baddawi. It was not known how many loyalists were in Baddawi when the mutineers fought their way in.

The PLO rebels accused Arafat of abandoning military struggle against Israel, but Arafat said the mutiny was part of an effort by Syria to gain control of the PLO.

The state radio said a tentative count of casualties during the two-week PLO war showed 345 combatants and civilians were killed and more than 800 wounded. Beirut police said the figures could go much higher.

In Israel, military sources quoted by Israel radio said officials decided to launch the Bekaa Valley air strikes after it became clear the United States did not intend to retaliate for the Oct. 23 bombing of the Marine headquarters in Beirut.

A U.S. official in Washington, speaking on conthe United States would not comment on possible retaliation, and that it was not consulted in advance about the Israeli raid.

However, the political bureau of Lebanon's largest Shiite militia, Amal, charged today that the raid had U.S. endorsement.

The jets struck at midmorning near Nabi Sheet, where bases of Shiite Moslem Lebanese extremists loyal to revolutionary Iran's patriarch Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini are located.

Israel's military command said all pilots returned safely and reported direct hits on the camps.

Beirut police said at least 43 Shiite militiamen and Iranian Islamic Revolutionary guards were killed and more than 80 wounded in the air raid.

The 1,600 Marines in the 24th Marine Amphibious Unit are being replaced by the 22nd MAU, commanded by Brig. Gen. Jim R. Joy, who is the first general to command a Marine force in Beirut. Previous units were headed by a colonel.

Marine spokesman Capt. Wayne Jones said the changeover began this morning, but would give no details on how it was being accomplished.

Senate renews federal credit

By JIM LUTHER Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) The Senate today voted to renew the federal government's credit, giving the Reagan administration authority over the next three months to borrow another $225 for every woman, man and child in the United States.

> Government credit ran out on Nov. 1, a day after the Senate rejected a higher debt limit as a protest against record federal deficits. By a 58-40 margin, the Senate agreed shortly after midnight to boost the old $1.389 trillion borrowing authority to $1.45 trillion - enough to last through about mid-February.

Unless the higher credit limit becomes law, the Reagan administration says. some government checks will start bouncing on about Dec. 1. But the fight isn't over yet because the House voted to give the administration the full $1.615 trillion authority it asked. Senate and House negotiators will have to work out a compromise between the two figures. Before approving the higher debt limit, the Senate used a technicality to avoid a straight yes-or-no vote on a proposal to raise taxes and cut spending by $78 billion to slash the record federal deficit over the next three years. On a 65-33 vote, the Senate refused to consider the package, which was put together by Sens. Pete Domenici, R-N.M., and Lawton Chiles, D-Fla., chairman and senior Democrat, respectively, on the Budget Committee. That vote left considerable doubt that Congress will take any significant action until after the 1984 elections to reduce projected $200-billiona-year deficits. But leaders of the House and Senate tried to keep the deficit-reduction drive alive.

The Senate planned to consider today a $28 billion, three-year package that includes $13 billion in tax increases and reductions in the growth of federal health programs. The Senate Finance Com-

Then, Democrats began voting. On the final count, 20 Democrats joined 38 Republicans in voting for the increase: 24 Democrats and 16 Republicans opposed it.

Her interest in plants and gardening began when she was in high school, at which time she started dividing and rooting plants and giving them away.

Paula is a native of Hereford as is her husband, James D. Hamby Jr., who was recently promoted to senior process technician at Holly Sugar Corp.

After completing her freshman year at West Texas State University, Paula went to work for American National Insurance until the office here was closed. She has not worked outside of her home for the past three vears.

Her involvement in Bud to Blossom occupies much of her time. She is currently serving as secretary-recorder, and at the club's last flower show, she was a clerk, working closely with the chairman and hearing firsthand the judge's critiques, which she cited as an educational ex-

Paula stressed that the flower show is open to all interested non-professional persons, both adults and youth. Entrants do not have to belong to a garden club.

Club members will be accepting entries from 10:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday and the show will be open to the public from 1 to 4:30 p.m. Sunday in the East Banquet Room of the Hereford Community Center.

She noted that many of the entries will center around a holiday theme, from wreaths using dried materials to some fresh flowers.

Paula and a fellow club member recently attended a flower show school in Odessa, where they studied procedure, horticulture and design and took a written exam. "You have to take three courses to become a judge," explained Paula.

She takes these courses for her own personal satisfaction and noted that the training in color and design has even helped her to better coordinate the colors in her home and wardrobe.

Paula has presented programs on basic flower arranging, conditioning of plant material, horticulture of crysanthemums, and growing tips for poinsettias, among other topics, to garden club members, and said that she usually learns most about a topic when she is the one

"The summer before last, when the county hosted a diagnostic clinic, they toured my garden," said Paula. "It was my first real attempt at one and I learned so much from the guests they brought in from Texas A&M. They pointed out problems and gave suggestions on what to do about diseased plants."

Besides her involvement in garden club, Paula and her husband are active in Community Church. They like animals and currently have six cats and a Norwegian

Paula enjoys running, although she is not doing so right now because of a foot injury. She joined the YMCA running club in Amarillo and used to run about five and a half miles a day. She won second place for her division in a 10K run and also participated in a 4-mile run at Both use honey rather than sugar, and Paula noted that as a general rule, "when baking with a natural sweetener like honey, molasses, or pure maple syrup instead of white granulated sugar, it is good to reduce the liquid in the recipe by one-third cup.

HHS picked last; Decker is optimistic

By REED PARSELL Managing Editor

Coming off a 6-22 season in 1982-1983 (1-15 in District 3-5A), the Hereford High School boys basketball team has been picked to finish last in the district again this year.

HHS coach Bobby Decker, though, earlier this week sounded a bit more optimistic than the area's basketball previewers. "If our young kids come around and mature really quickly," he said, "we may not do too badly."

Of the four lettermen returning to the Whiteface squad, senior guard Jeff Streun is the only one who started last season. Junior Kevin Redus, a post player, saw a little action, according to Decker.

The biggest player on the team is Coby Lassiter, a 6-foot-5 senior. Decker does not expect him to start, however, leaving a pair of 6-foot-3 boys - senior Shawn Patrick and junior Lee Brockman - as Hereford's expected to play at a forward position. "He's got really good jumping ability. He's a really good shot in the lane," Decker claimed. "We'll depend on him for a lot of rebounds."

Decker will also depend on Brockman and Eric Walterscheid, a 6-foot-2 senior, for lots of 'bounds. "Those two are very aggressive beneath the backboards."

Junior guards Blair Rogers, Mike Scott and Sammy Suarez, all under 6-feet tall, are supposed to be heavy contributors to team speed. "All three of them are really quick outside," Decker said. We'll probably pass a lot with them out there. All are pretty good outside shooters."

For the first time ever, Decker will be carrying 15 on his varsity roster. This will create a more competitive atmosphere than existed with a dozen players, he hopes.

After practice began this week, Decker felt "the competition is pretty intense. I think it's already helping us."

There are about 30 boys in the HHS basketball program, though there might not be enough for a sophomore team. Decker's assistants are Mark Turner and Buddy

Last season, the Whitefaces were outscored by an average of 65-59. They averaged 29.2 rebounds per contest, shot 45 percent from the floor and hit on 63 percent of their foul shots.

Decker is concerned with the free throw shooting this year. "That will probably hurt us really early, but I hope we improve in that

3 Kansas City players face sentencing today on drug charges

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP) - Three members of the 1983 Kansas City Royals who pleaded guilty to federal charges of attempting to possess cocaine - Willie Aikens, Jerry Martin and allstar centerfielder Willie Wilson - faced sentencing in federal court.

The maximum penalties in each case are a $5,000 fine and or one year imprisonment. Federal prosecutors indicated the players could be placed on probation.

The sentences were scheduled to be handed out separately teday by U.S. Magistrate J. Milton Sullivant, who accepted the pleas on misdemeanor charges last month in the culmination of a drug investigation which rocked this city and its baseball team.

Former Royals pitcher Vida Blue, who pleaded guilty to possession of three grams of cocaine and faces the same maximum penalties, was granted a request for a delay of his sentencing until Dec.

Aikens, the Royals' regular first baseman, Martin, an outfielder who has since been released by the Royals, and Wilson have all pleaded guilty. Prosecutors said in open court that FBI wiretaps had intercepted the three players trying to buy cocaine last June from a residence in suburban Johnson County,

At a news conference following the grand jury's dismissal on Oct. 18, U.S. Attorney Jim Marquez said he hoped the investigation will bring more attention to the fact that there is a problem in professional sports. I think the professional leagues need to address this problem before any more cases go to

"I think I can say they shed light on the case," he said. "I would not say their information helped to make or break the case.'

The four players still could face disciplinary action or fines by baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn, who has said he will not make a decision until the court proceedings have concluded.

Wilson, who won the 1982 American League batting championship, has been one of the game's top stars since 1979. Last week he appeared at a news conference with Royals majority owner Ewing Kauffman to publicly apologize for his involvement in the drug case and to announce that he will help fund and do volunteer work for a drug and alcohol rehabilitation program that Kauffman intends to develop. No details on the plan were given.

Seven-foot-4 Mark Eaton was so slow and unpolished that he hardly played as a collegian at UCLA. The Utah Jazz took a chance on him, however, and sometimes the gamble pays off with aces.

Eaton scored 10 of his 17 points in the final quarter and blocked two shots in the final three minutes as the Jazz snapped Boston's nine-game winning streak with a 122-109 National Basketball Association decision Wednesday

'Eaton was the difference. He was the whole story," Boston Coach K.C. Jones said. "What did he do - block 10 to 15 shots? He would not let us shoot inside. None of us

Eaton, the heaviest player in the NBA at 290 pounds, actually rejected six Boston shots as the surprising Jazz improved their record to 5-5 before a crowd of 12,743, the club's largest attendance since it moved to Utah in 1979. Boston is 9-2, still the best mark in the league.

In other NBA games, Philadelphia tripped New York 102-97, Detroit edged Seattle 122-120 and Phoenix beat Cleveland 115-104.

The Jazz led 94-85 at th of the third period, but the Celtics cut that to 98-96 with 7:19 left in the game on Larry Bird's basket from the corner. Bird, center Robert Parish and guard Gerald Henderson keyed the 11-4 Celtics spurt.

Parish, who finished with 25 points to lead Boston, scored on a turnaround jump shot with 4:26 left to cut Utah's lead to 103-100.

Then Eaton saved the Jazz, blocking a shot by Bird with 2:43 to go and scoring at the other end. Less than a minute later, Eaton rejected a shot by Boston's Kevin McHale and converted a three-point play to put Utah up 109-100 with 1:49 left. The Jazz held the lead from there with the help of three technical foul calls on the Celtics.

"Mark can do anything," Jazz Coach Frank Layden said. "But he isn't always on the floor. If he gets his minutes, he then shows production.'

"I wanted to get a rebound, block a shot, do anything to just get something going," said Eaton of the closing moments.

Once the Jazz rebuilt the lead. Eaton said, "All I could think was, 'We're beating the Boston Celtics. We're beating the Boston Celtics."

John Drew and Adrian Dantley, the NBA's leading scorer, led the Jazz in scoring with 29 and 26 points, respectively. Drew had 14 points in the second quarter to help the Jazz take a 68-59 halftime lead.

McHale finished with 24 points, while Henderson had 19 for the Celtics. Bird, the fifth-leading scorer in the league with a 26-point average hit only four of 15 shots for eight points. 76ers 102, Knicks 97

The Cavaliers, who got 24 points from Lonnie Shelton, led for most of the first three quarters and had a 74-72 lead going into the final period. But Davis' three-point play gave the Suns a 75-74 edge and started a 33-20 advantage in the fourth quarter. Pistons 122, SuperSonics 126

Kelly Tripucka scored 31 points for the Pistons at Detroit and twice hit field goals immediately after Seattle had pulled to within one point in the fourth quarter.

Bill Laimbeer added 28 points and 13 rebounds for the Pistons, including 17 points in the first quarter. Isiah Thomas had 27 points for Detroit, which beat the SuperSonics for only the third time in their last 19 meetings. Jack Sikma led Seattle with

WBC rules Holmes-Frazier fight will not be championship bout

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) -Larry Holmes says if Marvis Frazier beats him next week he'll give Frazier his World Boxing Council heavyweight title belts even though the bout is not being sanctioned by the WBC.

"Tell him he can have all my (title) belts, my limousine, my house," said Holmes. "I wouldn't want it."

The WBC has refused to sanction next Friday's bout as a title fight because he owes the organization a mandatory title defense and the young Frazier isn't ranked among the top 10 heavyweights.

The Nevada State Athletic Commission has approved the fight as a 12-round nontitle bout, but has allowed promoters to bill it as a world heavyweight championship fight. Should Frazier defeat Holmes, the WBC and the NSAC would consider the crown vacant.

Frazier, the son of former heavyweight champion Joe Frazier, said at a Wednesday press conference that, though, he would like the WBC crown, he will consider himself the heavyweight champion if he tops Holmes.

"If they don't give me the belt, just knowing I've beaten the champion is good enough for me," said Frazier. "It would be great if the WBC would sanction the fight, but I believe the people will make the decision. Anytime a champion fights in the ring, his title is on the line." Holmes, who has successfully defended his crown 16 times — the latest a fifthround knockout of Scott Frank on Sept. 10, says there is little chance of Frazier upsetting him.

"I'm not worried about what Marvis will do," he said. "I know his father has bit off a little more than he can chew, there's no way in hell Marvis Frazier is going to whip me. I'm looking for a good fight, but a short fight."

The 23-year-old Frazier has had only 10 professional fights, winning all of them while scoring six knockouts. But Holmes says that hardly stacks up against his 15 years in the ring and 44 victories as a pro against no defeats.

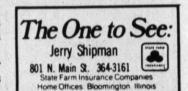

'He's not quite ready for me," the champion said. "It's like fighting a gorilla.

Sometimes they think they can win, but it's a no-win situation." But Joe Frazier promised a different ending.

"He's been a fine champion but now it's time to move on," said Frazier. "We've all been there. I moved along and now it's his time to move on. We're going to put him on the grazing pasture."

The fight will be held at the 15,200-seat outdoor stadium at Caesars Palace and will be televised by NBC.

INDEPENDENT SPENDERS

Independent spending — funding by groups other than a candidate's own campaign organization — totaled $5.75 million in the 1981-82 congressional elections. Spending by the National Conservative Political Action Committee alone comprised 55 percent of that total, while funding by the other nine groups listed accounted for more than 35 percent.

Chemical firm waging war on bully fire ants

Houston chemical company is spending more than $2 million in a battle to come up with an environmentally safe product to get rid of fire ants. the bully of insects.

"He will kill anything that lands in his territory. Other insects have to wait until he's finished eating before they can eat ... and when he gets through there's nothing left," George Moore, product director for Stauffer Chemical Co.

Stauffer Chemical is applying its Pro-Drone insecticide in an experiment against fire ants on open range land near Winnie, about 60 miles east of Houston.

The chemical mimics the ant's juvenile sex hormone and stalls development of worker ants, said Dennis J. Paustenbach, a toxicologist at Stauffer.

"We apply it and within six hours the worker ants will come out of the mound and carry it back to feed the colony," he says. "Once a worker ant eats the chemical, it will no longer forage for food. Eventually the colony will die of starvation."

One problem, however, is that the chemical works slowly. It takes 12 to 20 weeks and two applications before the ants are eliminated.

Softball was developed in 1887 in Chicago and was originally designed as an indoor game.

WINNIE, Texas (AP) - A Large areas need to be sprayed because the queen fire ants migrate after mating, sometimes several hundred yards.

Moore says chemicals now on the market kill ants close to the surface but new ants hatch six weeks later.

"People could combine those products with ours and have an effective control for fire ants in their yards," he

The company hopes to market the chemical sometime next year for home use. It also is attempting to gain Environmental Protection Agency approval for use on crop lands.

"It's simply a matter of spraying and then testing crops to see if they absorb it," Moore says.

Paustenbach says the chemical breaks down into carbon, hydrogen and oxygen and does not seem to have any harmful effects on other animals. Chemical companies have been scrambling to come up with new insecticides since 1976 when the EPA banned the two most commonly used commercial poisons. The fire ant arrived in the U.S. in the 1930s aboard a Brazilian banana boat which docked in Mobile, Ala. Since then, it has migrated to at least eight Southern states. infesting an estimated 250 million acres.

Moore says some open country in Texas has 200 to 600 ant mounds per acre.

"They attack anything moist," he says. "A newborn calf or colt will die when they passages and attack its eyes.

The loss to ranchers is in the hundreds of millions." Paustenbach says U.S. Department of Agriculture statistics show more than 50 percent of people sensitive to fire ant bites require hospitalization and there are at least eight documented cases of people dying from fire ant attacks.

A: No. It means that you'll have little harder time changing it. To do so, engage the parking brake, chock the rear whells and jack up the front end. Put a drain pan under the transmission pan then loosen, but do not remove, all the transmision pan attaching bolts with a socket wrench. Hold the pan with one hand while removing all but the bolts holding the front of the pan to the transmission case. Now, carefully lower the free end of the pan, allowing the fluid to drain into the drain pan. Make very sure the engine is cold before draining transmission fluid since hot fluid can cause extremely

Non-smokers asked to help the addicted

A cigarette bonfire in a Georgia town kicked off today's Great American Smokeout as nonsmokers cajoled the addicted into quitting for 24 hours with coldturkey sandwiches, chances at free vacations and friendly support backed up by "gum and candy and clubs."

Eight psychiatrists put taped messages on a nationwide hotline, offering tips for what the American Cancer Society hoped would be 20 million people trying to kick the tobacco habit in the 7th annual event.

An estimated 19 million of the nation's 55 million smokers participated last year. The society hopes its "adopt-a-smoker" theme, calling on non-smokers to help smokers get through the day without a cigarette, would enlist even more this year.

Smokers were warned that lighting up today in the west Georgia town of Carrollton, population 15,000, could be especially dangerous to their health because of a town-wide pledge to quit.

bell rang and a teacher rushed into our room yelling, "GET OUT!" She was holding a radio that kept blaring, "This is not a test..."

Outside was pandemonium. Cars were racing at 100 m.p.h. Fathers were trying to get home and mothers were rushing to schools. We could hear them crashing into each other all over town.

CBS wins big—NBC, ABC tie

LOS ANGELES (AP) -Two of CBS' most popular regular shows - "60 Minutes" and "Dallas" and the miniseries "Chiefs" paced the network to a decisive ratings victory in the November sweeps.

CBS dominated the Top 10 for the week ended Nov. 13, grabbing the first five spots and winning seven out of 10. CBS was more than three ratings points ahead of NBC and ABC, which tied for second place.

ABC, which beat CBS last week, had one show in the Top 10. NBC, which had two shows in the Top 10, placed higher than third for the first time in the 7-week-old fall

At the top was "60 Minutes," followed by "Dallas" in second place. The opening chapter of the spillover into prime time of CBS' coverage of regional NFL football games tied for fourth with CBS' "Simon & Simon.'

NBC's "The A-Team" was sixth and its "TV's Greatest Censored Bloopers' was seventh. ABC's "Dynasty" was eighth. CBS' "Falcon Crest" and "Magnum, P.I." were ninth and tenth.

CBS won the A.C. Nielsen Co. survey with a network average of 19.6. NBC and ABC tied for second with an average of 16.3 and also had the same share of 25. The networks say this means that in an average prime-time minute, 19.6 percent of the nation's TV homes were tuned to CBS.

The lowest-rated show once again was NBC's "First Camera," and once again the five bottom shows were all highly touted miniseries NBC's. The bottom shows in "Chiefs" was third. The descending order were "Mr. Commercial Bloopers,"

Smoking said to cause premature death

WASHINGTON (AP) — Unless cigarette smoking habits change, one tenth of everyone alive in the United States today could die prematurely of heart disease, the surgeon general said today.

People who smoke two or more packs of cigarettes a day are 200 percent more likely to die of the disease than non-smokers, while average smokers are 70 percent more likely, said Surgeon General C. Everett Koop in the government's annual report on the effects of smoking on health.

Heart disease each year kills 170,000 Americans, 30 percent of whom smoked, the report being released today said.

The risk of dying from the disease increases with the number of cigarettes smoked each day, the total years of cigarette smoking and the degree of inhalation, the report said.

"Unless smoking habits of the American population change, perhaps 10 percent of all persons now alive may die prematurely of heart disease attributable to their smoking behavior," Koop said. "The total number of such premature deaths may exceed 24 million."

However, the risk of heart disease from cigarettes is reversible when smokers give up the habit, according to the report. And, the number of deaths from heart disease has been declining for several years.

Smoking also has declined, most sharply between 1966 and 1970. Between 1964 when the first surgeon general's report was released and 1980, the proportion of smokers in the population declined about 25 percent.

However, Dr. Edward N. Brandt Jr., the assistant secretary for health, said of the new study: "The overall finding of this report is clear: cigarette smoking should be considered the most important of the known modifiable risk factors for coronary heart disease in the United States."

Half of all American deaths each year — 960,000 of 1.98 million — are attributable to cardiovascular diseases. About 565,000 of these are from heart disease.

By comparison, cancer killed 416,000 Americans in 1980. According t, the 1981 surgeon general's report 129,000 people who died of cancer were smokers.

The Tobacco Institute, the trade association for the nation's cigarette makers, disputed the report's conclusions and said the evidence of a cause and effect relationship between smoking and heart disease is inconclusive.

"Whether cigarette smoking is causally related to heart disease is not scientifically established," the institute said in a 44-page booklet on smoking and heart disease which it prepared in anticipation of the surgeon general's report.

Figures compiled by the institute show that Americans spent $25.3 billion on tobacco products in 1982 and $23.4 billion or 93 percent of that was for cigarettes. Cigarette consumption averaged 3,746 cigarettes per person during the year, compared to the peak figure of 4,345 in 1963.

Texas man gets execution date

ROCKPORT, Texas (AP)

— Condemned murderer
Doyle Skillern, one of eight inmates whose lawsuit may force the U.S. Food and Drug Administration to prove that drugs used in executions are quick and painless, has been ordered to die Dec. 15, one day after a fellow inmate is scheduled to be put to death.

State District Judge Ronald Yeager set the new execution date without a hearing, said the death row inmate's attorney, Shannon Slayer of Corpus Christi.

Yeager was not his office and could not be reached for comment.

Skillern, 47, was convicted of capital murder in the Oct. 23, 1974, slaying of state narcotics officer Patrick Allen Randel in George West, Texas. Skillern has received three execution stays, and his case currently is being reviewed by the Fifth U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

Salyer said he was appealing the execution order, and Live Oak County District Attorney Thomas Bridges predicted Skillern would be granted his fourth stay.

"I expect he'll get a stay,"
Bridges said. "I think Judge Yeager set the date to just move the case along. It's been in the 5th Circuit now for some time."

Skillern's execution is set to begin just 24 hours after Thomas Andy Barefoot, 38, has been ordered to die by injection for the slaying of a Harker Heights, Texas, police officer.

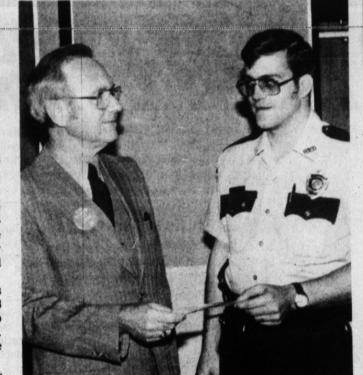

police officer.

Skillern and another man,
Charles Sanne, were both convicted in Randel's death at a 1975 trial in George West.
Skillern received the death sentence, and Sanne was sentenced to life in prison.

The Texas Court of Criminal Appeals reversed the conviction, and Yeager moved the case to Rockport for a second trial.

In the second trial, both men were convicted of capital murder and given death sentences. However, the state appeals court reduced Sanne's sentence to life in prison. Sanne is currently being held at the Eastham Unit.

Skillern and seven other death row inmates in Texas and Oklahoma filed the suit, claiming the FDA had violated its own rules in refusing to regulate the use of drugs in executions.

Decorating ideas for Thanksgiving presented

Thanksgiving decorations that can be created by children were displayed at the Monday meeting of the Young Mothers Study Club. Members met at 7:30 p.m. at the Hereford State Bank to hear Susan Raney, assistant county agent, give ideas on decorating for the upcoming holiday.

President Kathy Boyd presented a report on the crafts show, and the group gave an engraved baby spoon to Doris Artho. Raney concluded her demonstration by preparing three kinds of punch and sharing the recipes. Members of the club then made their own banana splits. Those who indulged were Alice Lockmiller and Jeanne Lomas, hostesses; Ms. Artho, Georgia Aukerman, Lisa Blakely, Ms. Boyd, Dee Dee Coker.

SANTA LUCIA, Mexico (AP) — The nation's defense minister said Mexico will purchase more training and transport planes for its air force, despite the nation's current severe recession.

"In spite of the economic limitations that the country is suffering, more training and cargo planes will be acquired for the Mexican Air Force," the official, Gen. Juan Arevalo Gardoqui, said Tuesday during a speech marking the air force's 58th anniversary.

The ceremonies included demonstration flights by F-5 planes purchased from the United States. Arevalo said the air force would modernize its installations and improve the training of servicemen, in addition to purchasing more planes.

The defense secretary did not say how many planes will be acquired or what models they would be. He also did not disclose the cost of his upgrading plans.

The Santa Lucia air base is in the state of Mexico, just beyond the Mexico City line.

The air force's objectives, Arevalo said, "are to achieve a level of technical selfsufficiency which will mean a savings, considering that the greater percentage of material, equipment and repairs we now use are foreign."

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The Mexico City subway will be the fifth largest system in the world after its plans to add 46 miles of track are completed.

The official El Nacional newspaper reported Wednesday that currently 10 subway systems in the world currently cover more ground than the city's Metro, which has 51 miles of track.

Earlier this week, the government announced plans to launch the fourth construction stage of the 14-year-old sytem. The project is expected to cost $3.2 billion, with work scheduled to begin Nov. 21.

El Nacional said that after the new track is completed, only London, New York, Paris and Moscow will have more extensive systems.

Metro officials have said that there are no plans to raise the current fare of one peso — less than one penny which is the lowest subway fare in the world.

MEXICO CITY (AP) — President Miguel de la Madrid says he plans to streamline operations of the country's postal system, cutting delivery time by more than half.

De la Madrid said mail service deteriorated significantly in recent years because the nation is growing at such a rapid pace. He spoke at ceremonies commemorating Mailmen's Day, which officially was Nov. 12.

The president said he will add 5,000 new postal jobs, 500 post offices and four new "classification centers" to speed up work. He also said he plans to decentralize the classification of mail.

De la Madrid said his goal is to reduce delivery time by 60 percent.

It currently takes about four days for a domestic letter to reach its destination. It takes letters mailed from New York a week to two weeks to reach Mexico City.

"We've done everything possible that we know of." Searchers had hoped four

In New York

Rate of AIDS increase may be tapering off

DALLAS (AP) - The reported number of new cases of AIDS in New York City is tapering off, indicating that homosexual and bisexual men may be taking steps to protect themselves from possible transmission of the ailment through sexual contact, federal health officials say.

But the disorder known as Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome, which reduces the body's resistance to fight normally rare diseases, remains largely a mystery to the medical profession and will pose a major health problem for the rest of the decade, according to experts.

Dr. William Foege, director of the Centers for Disease Control in Atlanta, said Wednesday that although no cure for AIDS is on the horizon, victims of the disease will benefit from improved treatment in the Speaking to the annual convention of the American Public Health Association, Foege said 2,678 cases of AIDS have been diagnosed. The disorder has accounted for 1,102 deaths, he said.

The CDC expects the number of confirmed AIDS cases to hit 3,000 by the end of the year, Foege said.

Foege also said some 5,000 people are "already programmed to contract AIDS over the next five years.

"We are dealing with a problem that will continue to plague us for the coming decade," he said.

AIDS is a serious condition characterized by a specific defect in the body's natual immunity against disease. People who suffer from AIDS become susceptible to a wide variety of diseases not common in people whose immune systems are normal.

Over 95 percent of AIDS victims fall into one of four categories: sexually active homosexual or bisexual men with multiple sex partners; intravenous drug abusers; Haitian immigrants into the U.S.; and hemophiliacs.

About 90 percent of AIDS victims are male.

Researchers believe the disease is linked with direct sexual contact and exposure to contaminated blood products, such as through hypodermic needles and syr-

Dr. Anne Hardy, a member of CDC's task force on AIDS, said most of the identified AIDS cases have been in New York and California, mainly in the metropolitan areas of New York City, Los Angeles and San Francisco.

"There are preliminary indications in New York City that the rate of increase is starting to decrease," Ms. Hardy said.

Foege said there have been 114 AIDS cases per million population in New York City, while 102 cases per million population have been reported in San Francisco.

Another task force member, Dr. Peter Drotman, said that homosexual and bisexual men, following publicity surrounding AIDS, may be limiting the number of sexual partners and reducing the number of anonymous

Ms. Hardy suggested that AIDS may have saturated the susceptible population in New York, but said that more research would be needed to determine if the increase had hit a plateau.

Foege said AIDS cases could also be lowered by providing clean needles and syringes for drug abusers.

Referring to the high amount of public concern surrounding the disorder, Foege said the AIDS death rate of 41 percent is greater than rabies and toxic shock syndrome, but less than the rate of motor vehicle crashes, cigarette smoking and tuberculosis.

"It (AIDS) has priority in this country because its cause is unknown and must be solved," Foege saidd.

A "rapid breakthrough" could be in sight for treating and controlling the ailment, but a cure or prevention, such as a vaccine, is not likely in the near future, Foege said.

Diverticulosis

DEAR DR. LAMB - I am becomes inflamed. But clines. They all have essenextremely concerned about what foods are likely to cause trouble now that my physician has diagnosed diverticulosis. Do you have a brochure or something to help me know what to avoid? Even though I am trying to be careful, there is often a heaviness in my stomach that is quite uncomfortable. But I do want to avoid diverticulitis.

DEAR READER - Keep in mind that those little pockets of the colon are extremely common. Some estimate that as many as 70 percent of older people have them and they are not rare in people below age 50. In many people, they cause no symptoms at all. But a spastic colon, which does cause symptoms, may cause diverticulosis. When a spasm exists and pressure builds up in the colon, the pressure causes a "blowout" or tiny ruptures of the wall of the colon known as diverticula or pockets of the

The heaviness you describe may be from a basic poor function of your colon rather than the diverticula. Let your doctor guide you, but the usual advice today is to use more bulk in the diet. This includes whole-wheat products, per-haps some miller's bran and avoid foods that do not contain any bulk.

I have discussed the current thinking about diet in diverticular disease in The Health Lettr 5-6, Diverticulosis, which I am sending you. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, selfaddressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY

The complications of diverticulosis may cause symptoms. Diverticulitis, which means inflammation of one of the small pockets, causes pain and symptoms similar to appendicitis. But it is usually on the left side. That is because the diverticula are mostly on the left side of the colon. These symptoms are different from the symptoms of a spastic colon. We do not know why a diverticulum becomes inflamed any more than we know why the appendix cases are not on this basis. Probably the best thing you can do is follow a sensible diet that encourages good colon function. Laxatives should be avoided, as well as any foods that cause you to have symptoms. DEAR DR. LAMB -Could you please provide a description of the drug tetracycline and what it is generally prescribed for?

We have had several discussions on this drug because it is prescribed so much for different ailments. We were wondering if you could set us straight.

DEAR READER - There are a number of antibiotics included in the group of medicines known as tetracysome are short and others long acting. They affect the basic metabolism within bacteria, making it nearly impossible for the bacteria to reproduce or multiply. When you keep bacteria from multiplying, as the old bacteria die new ones are not available to take their place. The result is that within a few hours, the growth of bacteria may slow, and finally the bacteria causing the infection are eradicated.

That feature of antibiotics explains why you should take your antibiotics as long as your doctor told you to do so. If you stop short of that time, the remaining bacteria may start multiplying again. Tetracyclines are effective against many bacteria. That is why they are frequently prescribed for any illness caused by a large number of different bacteria.

Make own seasonings

DEAR POLLY - I'm on a low-sodium, low-cholesterol diet. I don't care for fried foods and am happy to bake or boil most things, but I'd like my food to have some sort of taste. I'd like a good salad dressing. I love salads. — CLARA
DEAR CLARA — The following seasoning mixture can be used at the table just like salt to perk up almost any food. It's also good blended into low-sodium tomato juice to make a salad dressing (start with two to three teaspoons seasoning mixture to one cup tomato juice and adjust seasoning to your taste.) Or you can sprinkle it on a salad, then sprinkle on plain lemon juice or wine vinegar. Anyway, here's the

Mix four teaspoons onion powder, four teaspoons garlic powder, three teaspoons ground black pepper and two teaspoons paprika. Pour into salt shaker or clean spice jar with shaker top. Use at the table instead of salt or in cooking. Other herbs and spices can be added to your taste — a little basil or oregano would be wonderful in the tomato juice salad dressing. (Be sure you buy onion and garlic POWDER - not onion or garlic salt, which are high in sodium!) -

DEAR POLLY - Mix half kitchen cleanser and half baking soda, and put it into an empty shaker container. This cleans as well as all cleanser, but doesn't suds as much, and

Pour vegetable oil into an empty squeeze bottle (I use a liquid margarine bottle.) Use a larger bottle for jellies and jams. Since the opening must be larger for jellies and jams, cut the spout off until the hole is large enough. This is great for the kids to use and makes less of a mess than regular

HOW CAN WE TRY HIM WITHOUT A CHARGE?

"When they came here for trial," (Festus continued) "I called the case the very next day and ordered Paul brought in. But the accusations made against him weren't at all what I supposed they would be. It was something about their religion, and about someone called Jesus who died, but Paul insists is alive! I was perplexed as to how to decide a case of this kind and asked him whether he would be willing to stand trial on these charges in Jerusalem. But Paul appealed to Caesar! So I ordered him back to jail until I could arrange to get him to the Emperor.'

"I'd like to hear the man myself," Agrippa said. And Festus replied, "You shall - tomorrow."

So the next day, after the king and Bernice had arrived at the courtroom with great pomp, accompanied by military officers and prominent men of the city, Festus ordered Paul brought in. Then Festus addressed the audience: "King Agrippa and all present," he said, "this is the man whose death is demanded by both the local Jews and by those in Jerusalem! But in my opinion he has done nothing worthy of death. However, he appealed his case to Caesar, and I have no alternative but to send him! So I have brought him before you all, and especially you, King Agrippa, to examine him and then tell me what to write. For it doesn't seem reasonable to send a prisoner to the Emperor without any charges against him." Acts 25:17-27
