Poll in Illinois has Mondale pulling even

Democratic presidential rivals awaited the verdict of Illinois voters today in a volatile primary struggle that could signal whether Walter F. Mondale or Gary Hart has the long-range advantage in their competition for the party's nomination.

The final public opinion poll indicated a dead heat - 39 percent of the support for a surging Mondale, 39 percent for Hart and 17 percent for the third contender, the Rev. Jesse Jackson.

At issue was the biggest single prize in the campaign calendar so far, 171 delegates to the Democratic national convention.

But more than that, the rivals were looking to Illinois

With so much at stake, none of the three was willing to offer a clearcut prediction. 'If I lose it, it's not going to be helpful," Mondale said as he wrapped up his campaign on Monday. Said Hart, "I think it will be a very close race."

Jackson told a reporter, "I'll leave the predictions to that competition. people like yourselves." Hart has made a startling rise to prominence in the Democratic campaign, and a win in Illinois would be fresh evidence that his campaign of 'new ideas" has struck a chord nationally, even though he will continue to trail Mondale in national convention delegates. Mondale is ahead in delegates so far, 514 to 286 for Hart and 60 for Jackson.

Delegates will be elected separately from the presidential preference vote in Illinois, and Mondale's aides seem confident he will win

Illinois aside, Minnesota Democrats held party caucuses during the day, and Mondale was the heavy favorite in his home state.

The candidates' final campaign efforts came against a backdrop of a Washington Post-ABC News poll that indicated Mondale has erased the lead Hart had been holding for several days. The 39-39 tie was in a survey of an unspecified number of voters, with 6 percent undecided. The poll had a margin of error of plus or minus 5 percentage Lengths of public school years and days should not be lengthened as proposed by the Select Committee on Public Education, all six school board candidates agreed Monday.

The group was participating in a forum cosponsored by the Deaf Smith County Area Chamber of Commerce and Hereford Classroom Teachers Association. It was conducted in Shirley Intermediate School's media center, where approximately 50 gathered to view the hour-and-a-half activity.

Those seeking at-large ection this spring to the Hereford Independent School District board of education are Bob Baker and John Fuston along with incumbents R.C. Hoelscher and Bill Townsend. Running for the District 2 spot, one of five the district would have under a proposed election plan, are Jo Garcia and Ronnie Elections are to be held Saturday, April 7, when two Hereford City Commission and three Deaf Smith General Hospital board of directors posts are also to be decided.

Last Thursday the select committee, chaired by H. Ross Perot, completed work on defining several educational reforms. Among them are lengthening the school year by 10 days and sevenhour days with mandatory two-hour tutoring for elementary school students in need of extra instruction. The state panel also voted to increase teacher salaries through a career ladder, require basic skills testing for instructors and increase homework partly by decreasing extracurricular activities.

If students have not learned enough the current number of school days, Townsend said, 10 more days would not make much difference. Regarding the length of days, he remarked, "The mind can learn about as much as a seat can endure," and seats are put through enough now. Fuston agreed a longer school day "won't accomplish much.

"I think you (teachers) keep the students long enough," Garcia offered.

Nunley said he was "definitely" for more pay to teachers, while Garcia felt 'decent salaries" are needed to help prevent good instructors from leaving due to low wages. Fuston said he favored "some form of merit system." Baker questioned merit pay since it would be difficult to find someone capable of accurately evaluating teacher performances, though he did say he favored pay increases. Hoelscher admitted he, as a board member, voted against a teacher salaries hike within the last two years. However, he explained, that vote was made on the assumption state legislation for more pay would pass.

Proclaiming themselves against teacher competency tests were Garcia and Nunley, while Fuston said he "has a hard time" with such a proposal. Baker said he did not oppose the idea, explaining when he was teaching, instructors were required to 'go back to school" every other year in a hope "to keep us informed."

Candidates were also asked they would favor local limits on the amount of days students may miss for extracurricular activities should related state legislation not pass. Garcia and Nunely, the first to reply, said they favored limits.

Baker disagreed, saying he

Kids, Inc. receives money

Kids, Inc., which sponsors a summer baseball program, was granted $2,000 Monday night by the Hereford City

The donation will help defray the $30,000 expected needed for the program this year. Seven people were present Monday to represent Kids, which initially requested city assistance at the March 5 commission meeting. Emory Brownlow, commissioner from Place 4, said in his motion the gift would be a lump sum which Kids could reapply for next spring should it so desired. In other business, city fathers authorized bids be requested for street repairs along with a computer, cab and chassis for the Hereford Volunteer Fire Department. Action on purchasing a copier for the police department was postponed to allow more study by City Manager Dudley

Frank Barrett, Charles Brown, James Bullock, Phil Haynes and Ken Morrison were reappointed to the Panhandle-Plains Higher Education Authority. Don Cates was also appointed to replace Hershel Kime, who is moving out of the area.

Nuclear dump briefings set

The sites in Deaf Smith and Swisher Counties being considered for nuclear waste dumps are to be reduced in size, the U.S. Department of Energy was to announce this afternoon in Amarillo.

Wednesday, officials from DOE and Battelle Memorial Institute of Columbus, Ohio, are to meet with Deaf Smith and Swisher landowners from noon to 2 p.m. The simulataneous meetings, to be held in Hereford Community Center and Tulia's Swisher County Memorial Building, are reportedly to discuss DOE purchasing property. Also Wednesday, public briefings are to be held in both towns from 4 to 6 p.m. The one in Hereford is to be at the community center. Linda McClain, DOE program manager for Texas studies, is supposed to be here along with Jim Gould, project manager for Batelle.

Absentee rules clarified

County Clerk David Ruland clarified on Monday that absentee voting must take place at separate locations for all elections planned for April 7.

Only the wet-dry question can be voted on at the county clerk's office, while absentee voting for the other elections is being held at city hall, the hospital's administrative secretary's office and the school district administration

Ruland also stressed that the local liquor option election will be conducted in the county's 12 voting precincts, while the other ballots are to be available at the Hereford Community Center.

Many attend cooperative meeting

By REED PARSELL Managing Editor Saturday night during the annual membership meeting of Deaf Smith Electric Cooperative, Inc., which provides rural electric services to four area counties.

The affair, conducted in Deaf Smith County Bull Barn, featured distribution of $300,000 worth of capital credits, election of two directors and a report of DSEC finances.

Checks given to memberowners Saturday night represented portions of the 1970 and 1972 capital credits. Since 1951, DSEC has paid out a little more than $5 million in capital credits, with approximately $9.3 million remaining from 1971 to the present.

Eldred Brown, who lives in Deaf Smith County 28 miles west of Hereford, was reelected to the DSEC board of directors after having already been on it for 17 years. If elected, he pledged according to a profile in the meeting's program, "he will strive for dependable electric service, at the lowest cost to membership while maintaining a financially sound Elected as director to represent Castro County was Anthony Acker, a lifelong resident of the Nazareth community. and dry summer meant 1983 "certainly was not a normal year" for DSEC, Hull reported. He said the year featured a reduced need of new services, a smaller employee force (now 45; it had been as high as 60), a corresponding $61,000 drop in salaries and a small increase in member equity. The current 40 percent equity is "very, very above average" for a rural electric cooperative, Hull claimed.

During 1983, DSEC took in $16,121,028 and spent $15,390,797. The $730,231 profit represented an increase over the previous year of almost 42 percent. Last year was also the first time since DSEC was formed in 1937, Hull thought, that long-term debts decreased. They dipped more than $360,000.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) - Prosecutors have won a temporary injunction ordering a University of Texas medical facility not to "destroy or permit the destruction" of any records relevant to an investigation into nurse Genene Jones.

She has been charged with administering a lifethreatening injection to a month-old boy at Medical Center's pediatrics intensive care unit.

Bexar County District Attorney Sam Millsap has been looking into unexplained infant deaths and illnesses at the pediatrics unit for more than 14 months.

Millsap sought the injunction last week after discovering 25 tons of medical records from the health science center in a shredding company's warehouse.

No injuries or release of radioactivity was reported. The plant will be closed for at least a month because of the fire, which broke out at 9:51 p.m. on a turbine deck where the facility's generators are kept, said Sacramento Municipal Utility District spokesman Ron Scott.

The plant was put on alert, but no one was evacuated,

AP news analysis

Major test today

An AP News Analysis By DAVID ESPO Associated Press Writer

CHICAGO (AP) - More than any primary to date, the showdown in Illinois between Gary Hart and Walter F. Mondale could determine who has the upper hand in the long fight still to come for the Democratic presidential nomination.

For the third man in the race, the Rev. Jesse Jackson, Illinois is another step along the road toward what he calls 'peer politics' demonstrating enough voter support and winning enough national convention delegates to influence the outcome of a close race that he cannot realistically expect to win.

A victory for Hart in today's Illinois presidential preferential balloting would provide convincing evidence that he can sustain his swift rise in the public opinion polls, as well as show that his "new ideas" candidacy is potent enough to overturn Mondale's vaunted organization in the first big industrialized state at stake. Illinois is where Mondale originally hoped to clinch the nomination, and his campaign has devoted an enormous amount of attention to the state.

A Hart triumph would also put a severe crimp in the comeback that Mondale is claiming, one that flourished over the weekend with a primary victory in Puerto Rico and caucus triumphs in Michigan and Arkansas.

Perhaps most importantly, a victory for Hart would give him momentum going into industrial state primaries in the next three weeks - Connecticut next Tuesday, New York on April 3 and Pennnsylvania on April 10.

A total of 476 delegates is at stake in those three primaries, and despite his stunning rise, Hart still trails Mondale in delegates, 514 to 286, with 1,967 needed for the nomination.

Whatever the outcome in the preferential vote in Illinois, Mondale will pad his delegate lead. He is favored to do well in electing delegates in Illinois, but also is heavily favored to win caucuses in his home state of Minnesota.

Should Mondale win the Illinois presidential primary, the momentum would be his as the calendar turned to the other industrialized states.

But more importantly, he could move on to Connecticut, New York and Pennsylvania as a winner in a major state of the type a Democrat must carry if he is to defeat President Reagan in the fall campaign.

In addition, a Mondale victory would give standing to his claim of a comeback.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You surely hit the nail on the head when you said parents who do without so their children can have the best of everything make a big

I gave my children piano lessons, ballet, paid for modeling school, charm school, business school and expensive clothes. I wore dresses I picked up at the Salvaton Army, and my sister's hand-me-down shoes. Every one of my children turned out spoiled and selfish.

DEAR CALIFORNIA: How sharper than a serpent's tooth it is to have a thankless child." My condolences.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I was one of those who could not stop smoking "cold turkey" because I couldn't face the fact that I would never have another cigarette. I failed miserably to quit many times.

However, I was able to cut down to 20 a day. After a week I said, "Hey, if I can make it on 20, I can make it on 19." One week later it was 18, and so on. As the weeks progressed, I tended to hoard my allotment so I would always have a cigarette to look forward to.

Eventually it was one a week, then one a month and finally NONE!

That was 30 years ago, and for 29 of those years I have rarely thought of a cigarette. Thank God I kicked the habit. Believe me, it's wonderful to be free of those coffin nails.

For those who wonder why so many people quit and start again, I offer the following. 'Habit is not a kitten to be thrown out the window, but a tiger to be led down the stairs and carefully out of the house."--Ex-Addict In Decatur

DEAR EX-ADDIC; If the system worked for you, "Bravo!" Most addicts, however, find that cold turkey, while more painful, is more effective.

I don' t know where the quote came from, but I wish I had said it. Thanks for sharing your experience. It surely is worth a try.

DEAR AXE: People who overdose on antibiotics kill off the susceptible bacteria. Strains of non-susceptible bacteria may develop and remain immune to the medication. Doesn't she have a physician?

County Extension agent Spring will be here before long, and that means gardening time-a great time for 4-H'ers. Gardening can be a wholesome and worthwhile learning experience for 4-H'ers that can result in lots of fresh, mouth-watering vegetables such as cucumbers, tomatoes, green watermelons, beans. radishes, onions and lettuce.

4-H'ers can take an active part in growing these tasty treats through a 4-H gardening project.

Gardening is a good way for 4-H'ers to help their families beat the high cost of living and provide good homegrown meals. Furthermore, a gardening project helps youth learn responsibility gain knowledge about such things as seed germination, plant growth and development, pollination and flowering. Young people can also learn the basics of insect and disease control and fertilization principles.

A gardening project can range from a window box or pots and cans to a full-fledged backyard pot.

Plants grown in containers will have to be watered and fertilized more often than those grown in the ground. Soil should be a mix of organic matter, peat moss and sand. Vegetables can also be grown around the edges of flower beds. A border of lettuce, onions, carrots or parsley is attractive as well as edible. Plant tomatoes, peppers or eggplants with taller flowers and put beans and cucumbers against a fence or screen so they have climbing space.

Whatever the size of the garden and the types of crops grown, a 4-H gardening project can be a most rewarding experience for youth.

Contact the county extension office to get started in your 4-H gardening project.

High school rodeo concludes

It was not the best of days for the Hereford Tri-State Rodeo club Sunday. A gusty afternoon wind proceeded to get stronger and colder as the day progressed.

The weather did not seem to affect the competitors as much as the fans, who could be seen scurrying about the arena to enter their cars to escape the dust storm.

Channing High School took team first place in the boys division of more than 15 competing schools. HHS had two events with finishers in the top three. Chet Burrows finished second place in the bull riding and Burrows and Shawn McConnell joined for a third-place finish in the team

BEAUMONT, Texas (AP) Senior forward Michael Norman hit two free throws in a one-on-one situation, with no time remaining, to help Santa Clara defeat Lamar University 76-74 in the second round of the National Invitational Tournament.

Spring break is not the most convenient time to participate in a track meet, if you want to take first place.

The HHS girls varsity track squad experienced this Saturday as it placed third of six teams at the Rangerette Relays in Perryton.

"We did not have five of our varsity girls ... including (All-District sprinter Lisa) Redmon ... because of various reasons - including spring break," girls track coach Martha Emerson reported.

Dalhart (143) and Borger (114) finished ahead of the Whitefaces (108) in the team standings.

racketeering, conspiracy, extortion and threats of violence, possession of 13 kilos of cocaine and conspiracy to import 400 kilos of cocaine.

When reports of the federal investigation came out last year, McLain admitted he was "no angel," but denied involvement in loan-sharking and narcotics.

Two of those indicted currently are behind bars. And the other four were arrested in Los Angeles, Convent Station, N.J., and Miami.

Local resident Betty Koelzer flew to Atlanta, Ga., Sunday, planning to arrive about a week before the birth of the first grandchild in the Werner Koelzer family.

However, little Robyn Kathleen Grace decided to arrive early also. She made her appearance at the Douglas County Hospital on Sunday morning, weighing in at 6 pounds, 15 ounces, shortly before the new grandmother arrived.

Robyn's parents are Jeanie and Bob Grace.

Crafty with coconut

DEAR POLLY - Please tell me how to get the inside of a coconut out of the shell easily. Also, how should it be stored once it's out of the shell. I like fresh coconut in my coconut - CRISTY

DEAR CRISTY — Ummmm, so do I. Isn't fresh coconut much more flavorful than that sweetened stuff in bags? Too bad all that flavor is so hard to get at! You'll be able to enjoy your favorite dessert much more easily if you follow these directions for cracking that particularly tough nut.

Place the coconut in a preheated 400-degree oven for 15 minutes. Don't leave it in much longer or the coconut may take on a cooked flavor. With hot pads (Careful! it will be very hot) remove the coconut and tap firmly all'around the shell with a hammer. When you hit the right spot, the shell will crack. Continue tapping at the crack until all the shell falls off or can be gently pried off the coconut meat. It's easier than it sounds. You don't have to bang hard, just tap firmly. The brown skin covering the coconut meat can be pared off with a swivel-bladed vegetable peeler.

The cleaned coconut meat can be stored in the refrigerator for three or four days tightly wrapped in plastic wrap. Or, you can wrap it snugly in freezer-proof wrap and store it in the freezer for two to three months. It's handy to keep a chunk in the freezer to grate off a bit whenever you want a little as garnish; you don't even have to wait for it to thaw.

— POLLY

DEAR POLLY — Do you know what to use on men's polyester-shirt collars to make them stiff? I have tried spray starch, but to no avail. In Korea, when we sent several of my husband's shirts to the laundry, they came back with heavily starched collars, which my husband wants.

Another problem. How do you get grease or food stains out of the heavy cotton-polyester skirts that are so popular? I have tried spraying with a laundry pre-spray, but the spots always reappear. These are usually from something like spaghetti, soup or vegetables. - R.E.R

DEAR R.E.R. - Check your supermarket shelves for oldfashioned laundry starch — the kind that comes in a box, not a can. This is mixed in solution with water. The article to be starched is saturated with the solution, allowed to dry only until still damp, then ironed for a crisp finish. Follow package directions. These starches generally work better than spray-ons, although the spray cans are quicker and easier.

I've found that most food stains such as you described can best be removed while the stain is still fresh. Simply wash the spot out under running water with hand soap or dishwashing liquid. Once the garment has been laundered, of course, the stain may be permanently set in. Also be sure to test a hidden spot on the garment to make sure it will not stain from the water, soap or laundry product you're using. Sometimes a spot that reappears after laundering is caused not by the original staining agent, but a stain left by whatever was applied to clean the spot! — POLLY

Computers enter stock market

By JOHN CUNNIFF AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) -Precise data, mathematically hard and objective, is pushing deeper each year into the world of stock analysis, a field where dogma, theory, opinion, hunch and other soft criteria still thrive.

Though not new - concerns such as Value Line and Wright Investors' Service have long relied on objective criteria - the momentum has quickened as personal computers become more

The net impact on the field of analysis, with its proliferation of market letter writers and gurus, is still unclear, but the potential is obvious: With good software, amateur investors could challenge the

When provided with a database, for example, personal computer users can 'screen" large lists of stocks sought-after characteristics, a task that than 6,000 stocks traded on various exchanges.

Perritt's search for small companies is based on academic studies that show small-company stocks equity capitalization no higher than $80 million - provide an "excess rate of over listed stocks in general.

After his first computer screen eliminates the larger stocks, Perritt's company, Chicago-based Investment Information Services, further trims the list by eliminating companies listed only in regional markets.

The next screen removes companies which fail to have at least five years of data available, and a fourth screen eliminates those that fail to achieve a five-year sales growth in excess of 14 percent

With 400 or more companies remaining, the refining process continues. In the most recent screening, companies with a large deficit in not long ago was far more the past year were complicated or even impossi- eliminated, along with those with heavy institutional ownership or unusually high price-earnings ratios. Further screening resulted in the deletion of real estate companies from a list of more investment trusts, public utilities and stocks with very low prices. Total: 144 stocks, small enough for individuals to prospect for buys.

Value Line, the largest and one of the oldest investment advisers, has just launched Value-Screen, a data diskette service that permits owners of some personal computers to screen 1,650 stocks for 32 variable characteristics.

The diskette, updated monthly, allows the user in minutes to distill those companies that meet precise criteria, in effect allowing the user to call up a made-toorder stock.

In all, the 32 variables generally allow a user to shrink the list of 1,650 stocks to a small number that can be examined for possible invest-

So far, Value-Screen, which sells for $495 a year, is compatabile with IBM and Apple II-plus and IIe personal computers, but the company is now adapting it to run on other systems.

Child killer gets life sentence

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — A life sentence has been imposed by a federal judge on an El Paso man convicted of killing his 6-year-old son and burying the child's body in the New Mexico desert.

U.S. District Judge Harry Lee Hudspeth also sentenced Keith Webb to two 30-year prison terms for his conviction of two counts of injury to a child. The judge said Monday the 30-year sentences are to be served concurrently with the life sentence.

Webb, 22, waived his right to a jury trial in late January, when he opted to defend himself on charges that he killed Steve Marcel Wilson.

Webb was arrested in September 1983 after he accompanied June Webb to the Criminal Investigation Division at Fort Bliss, where she said she wanted to report that she had been raped.

After meeting privately with investigators, however, June Webb said there had been no rape. She then said her husband had killed her son, witnesses testified during Webb's trial.

Army criminal investigator Floyd M. Lanier said Webb fled after learning of June Webb's charges. He was discovered later 150 feet above the ground on a communications tower. Lanier testified that when Webb was found on the tower, he said, "Get me a priest and get my wife over here and I'll tell you where the body is."

FBI agent David Beiter said Webb led authorities to the child's badly decomposed body after he was coaxed down from the tower and was to register an objection. Byrd then apologized to Hatfield. "I can understand the umbrage that the senator may or may not have taken. I quite often feel that same way about the great state of West Virginia."

He said often people mistake him for being from Virginia.

"So I try upon every such occasion to stand firmly in defense of the sacred name of my great state, West, by God, Virginia."

Meanwhile, Baker's turn came the following day for getting confused over a senator's state. During discussion of legislation to provide food relief for Africa,

Baker referred to Sen. John C. Danforth, R-Mo., as "the senator from Africa." -

During a meeting of the House Budget Committee, Rep. Thomas Downey, D-N.Y., was questioning Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger on a matter of military spending. He said he wanted to get in one more question "since it's your last appearance up here..."

"Do you know something I don't?" said Weinberger. "We live in hope up here," Downey replied. -

HOME DESIGN by Larry Farnsworth

More than 1244 square feet of living space is provided by this model and the family room behind the garage on its lower level is included in the count. Note how tidily this plan adapts to uneven ground contours, utilizing them for both practicality and extra charm.

Steps lead up to the single door main entrance and a central entry just inside carefully channels traffic in an efficient manner to all levels of the house. The large comfortable living room, complete a wide view of the separate dining room at the rear, for an even greater feeling of

The back of the house kitchen has a convenient modified U-shaped work area with plenty of counter and cabinet space and a dining counter too. Sliding doors give access to the rear of the lot and stairs lead from here to the lower level family room and garage.

On this lower floor the double garage is backed up to a big family room, a bath, and laundry facilities are also included. On the uppermost level, reached by another flight of stairs from the central entry on the main floor, are three bedexterior designs enabling this home to reflect perfectly its owner's individual taste all the way from the roof line down to the style of the garage doors and the paving leading to them.

With all of these pleasant features in 1244 square feet, plus its overall practicality it is no wonder that this attractive design continues to be a most popular choice. Optional basement plans are
