hazardous waste disposal sites, and the federal Nuclear Waste Policy Act of 1982. The committee held two hearings in Houston concerning hazardous waste disposal and now has turned its attention to the proposed nuclear waste dumping sites in Deaf Smith and Swisher Counties.

The state legislature has become involved in the selection process for one primary reason: NWPA provisions confer consultation and review responsibilities on the state, and gives it power to veto the repository should a Texas site be selected. That veto can be overridden only by vote of both houses of the U.S. Congress.

The committee will report to the 69th Legislature that is will likely cover such topics as the authority vested by NWPA in the legislatures of affected states; the history, status, and propriety of the Department of Energy's site narrowing process; and the relative merits of, and the implications of, placing the first repository at either of the two Texas cities.

Mondale expects to reap Hispanic vote in Texas orters of Democratic presidential candidate Valter Mondale predict the former vice president will reap support by the state's Mexican-American community on May 5.

All three Democratic presidential campaigns say the Mexican-American vote will be vital in selection national convention delegates.

"I think Hispanics like Walter Mondale," said Dwayne Holman, Mondale's Texas campaign manager. They see his record, what he's done in the past, what he's saying now."

"He's a proven friend," added Juan Maldonado, chairman of Mexican-American Democrats and a member of Mondale's state steering

But the campaigns of Gary Hart and Jesse Jackson disagree, and a Hart official said Friday that Mondale has an "Alice in Wonderland" attitude about the Texas race for delegates.

U.S. Rep. Martin Frost, Texas campaign chairman for Hart, and state Rep. Al Edwards, who heads Jackson's campaign, both said Mondale lacks a solid grip on Mexican-American

"But that's not the case. I hope they continue to be complacent, and then on May 6 they'll wake up and wonder what happend," he said.

"I have about as much belief in (a Mondale grip on Mexican-American votes) as I did in (predictions) them having the campaign locked up by March 13," Edwards

To demonstrate Mondale's support, Holman points to a lengthy list of endorsements and the recent Mexican-American Democrats convention, where Mondale outpolled the other candidates.

"He's been strong on the Voting Rights Act. He's been strong on civil rights issues We're impressed by that," Maldonado said.

At the group's state convention, where delegates represting 8,000 members gathered, Maldonado said Mondale pulled in about 90 percent of the vote cast for the three presidential candidates.

Edwards said Jackson's "Rainbow Coalition" appeals to Mexican-Americans along with other groups - "the Indian vote, the gay vote, the

Fun Breakfast to feature a salute to 'Deaf' Smith

A salute to the county's namesake, Erastus "Deaf" Smith, will be on the program when the next Fun Breakfast is sponsored by Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce on Thursday, April 19.

Smith, hero of the battle of San Jacinto, was born April 19, 1787 in New York state and was reared in Mississippi. He moved to Texas in 1821. During the Texas fight for independence, Smith was commander of the scouts under General Sam Houston.

Mayor Wes Fisher will proclaim April 19 as "Deaf Smith Day" at the breakfast. Another special event during the day will be the unveiling of a portrait of Deaf Smith, which will be presented to the coun-ty at a 10 a.m. ceremony at Northwest Elementary School. The public is invited to attend. Smith's great-great-great granddaughter has accepted an invitation to attend the event. Mike Carr, C of C executive vice president, said the Fun Breakfast will include other exciting games and announcements, and there will be drawings for Deaf Smith County "Bucks." A Bull Chip award is also scheduled to be presented.

Doug Manning will be emcee for the breakfast. Tickets are $3.75 each and all interested citizens are invited. Carr requests that those planning to attend call the chamber, 364-3333, so ample food will be prepared. The Breakfast will begin at 6:30 a.m. in the Community Center.

Mexico orders price hikes to fight severe recession

MEXICO CITY (AP) President Miguel de la Madrid has authorized price increases for gasoline, sugar, eggs, corn and wheat after calling for more "sacrfices and efforts" to fight Mexico's severe recession.

We have to continue marching with determination toward economic recovery, vanquishing inflation," he declared Friday. Economists said the price boosts would fuel inflation.

Gasoline prices went up 29 and 37 percent, depending on the type, with leaded gas now costing 87 cents a gallon and unleaded premium $1.18. The government has been increasing fuel prices every four months for the past year.

Eggs, which are sold by weight, increased 40 percent to 36 cents a pound, and sugar went up 24 percent to 13 cents a pound.

Government support prices for food grains were hiked between 20 and 40 percent to provide more cash to farmers. The support price is the amount the government offers farmers if they cannot sell their produce.

Forum set Tuesday for candidates

The third in a series of local candidate forum nights is planned for Tuesday at the Hereford Community Center.

The 12 candidates for Deaf Smith County Commissioner Precincts 1 and 3, have been invited to appear at the 7 p.m. event. Each will be given time for personal campaign remarks before and after the question-and-answer session to be conducted by a panel from the legislative affairs committee of the Deaf Smith Chamber of Commerce.

Precinct 1 candidates are incumbent Bill Bradly, Don Cherry, Nancy Hill "Bussy" Kaul, Tex Rhodes and Larry Ulibarri.

Running for Commissioner of Precinct 3, being vacated by Bruce Coleman, are Bill Allen, Larry D. Bain, Ron Crist, Lynn Jones, Troy Don Moore and George Zetszche. Allen is a Republican; the other candidates have filed as Democrats.

Members of the public can submit questions in written form to the Chamber of Commerce office before 4 p.m. on Monday. Questions from spectators will not be allowed during the forum.

Town & Country Jubilee set

Plans are well underway for Hereford's fourth annual Town and Country Jubilee, and the parade committee has begun taking entries. The weeklong event is set for Aug. 4 through 11, and the theme is "Deaf Smith-Scouting for a Better Future." The jubilee committee said parade entries should focus on the historical aspects of Deaf Smith, the explorer and scout for whom the county is named, or express an idea about Hereford's future growth and prosperity.

The Hereford Breakfast Kiwanis Club is again in charge of the parade, and questions can be addressed to chairman Jim Ward at 364-4407.

Floats, marching bands, cars, antique vehicles and color guards are among suggested parade entries.

Governor's staff sets hearing

Governor Mark White, who along with several state agencies has criticized the Department of Energy in its nuclear waste site selection process, will send members of his staff to the Panhandle later this month.

The staff will conduct a 7 p.m. hearing on April 23 in the Tulia High School auditorium, and another on April 26, at 7 p.m. in the Hereford High School auditorium. The governor said his office wants to get citizen reactions to federal proposals for high-level nuclear waste repositories.

The DOE announced last month that sites under consideration in Deaf Smith and Swisher counties had been narrowed to nine square miles each. DOE claimed the narrowing process was to make the areas comparable in size to ones in five other states, and would not affect the status of the sites as far as the selection process is con-

Lucas given death penalty

SAN ANGELO, Texas (AP) - The jury that convicted self-proclaimed mass killer Henry Lee Lucas of capital murder condemned him to death Friday night for the Halloween 1979 slaying of a young unidentified hitchhiker.

It was the first such verdict for Lucas, who previously received a life sentence and a 75-year prison term in two other Texas murder cases.

The jury deliberated for only about 40 minutes before deciding Lucas should die by lethal injection for the slay-

Lucas, who contended all along he expected, perhaps welcomed a death penalty, told newsmen as he was being led from the courthouse in handcuffs, "I still feel the same as I did. I haven't changed.

"I didn't do it, but I'm happy anyway," Lucas said. He was smiling.

Defense attorney Don Higginbotham said, "I think Henry is crying out for help, no matter what you think about him... He's had such a tormented life, there's nothing else of much import anymore."

Crew working on torn track

WIGGINS, Colo. (AP) - Railroad crews worked today to repair track mangled in the fatal head-on collision of two freight trains, while investigators tried to learn why one of the trains sped through a red warning signal just before the thundering crash.

Five crewmen died and two were hurt when the Burlington Northern trains, pulling a total of 149 cars and each with five diesel locomotives, collided before dawn in this tiny farming community 60 miles northeast of Denver.

The collision, a few hundred yards from mobile homes and houses, tossed rail cars like toys and left a twisted trail of wreckage and charred debris. It was loud enough to wake nearly everyone in the town of 530 people, residents said.

Robe goes on public display

ARGENTEUIL, France (AP) - A brown woolen tunic said to have been worn by Jesus Christ is being put on public display today for the first time in 50 years to mark the Easter season.

The robe, which contains traces of human blood, will be displayed in a glass globe until April 23 and is expected to be viewed by up to 60,000 people.

"I really don't know why it's shown only every 50 years. It's just the tradition," said the Rev. Marcel Guyard from the Basilica of Saint Denys in this northern Paris suburb, where the robe has been kept for nearly 1,200 years.

We chose the Easter period for this showing because we thought it would remind people of Christ's love for mankind," Guyard said.

WITTERN IN LABOUR TO THE WATER

Procedure, criteria on liquor license explained

BY KIM THOGMARTIN Staff Writer

Of the 20 Panhandle counties served by the Texas Alcoholic Beverage Commission office in Amarillo, only Moore County allows countywide sales of liquor.

Deaf Smith on Thursday officially became one of eleven counties that is at least partially "wet," following a wellattended election on Saturday that ushered in the proposition by a margin of 218 votes.

Danny Williams, assistant supervisor at the district office, this week explained the procedure for obtaining a liquor license and the criteria

A person who wants permission to manufacture, sell or distribute liquor in Texas must first go to the city secretary to have his application verified and signed. The next step is the courthouse, where a copy must go on file with the county clerk for 10

The applicant's intentions must be published in a local newspaper and posted on the courthouse door, then the county judge is asked to grant his approval of the request.

In the meantime, the potential permit holder must have a sales tax permit and file with the local tax assessor to pay state and county sales tax on the license.

The final step is up to the Alcoholic Beverage Commission, which issues a clearance permit. They have the power to refuse the license even if the county judge signs his approval. By the same token, the ABC can approve an application denied by a county judge.

Williams said a package store permit costs $300 a year, while a "wine only" permit is $75 and it costs $60 to sell beer only. A combina-tion beer and wine retailers license also costs $60.

Williams added that those permits are to sell beer and wine with an alcoholic content of 14 percent and under, which would preclude malt in

There's a long list of personal criteria the commission looks for, which Williams listed "not in any particular order."

The applicant must be 19 years of age, physically and mentally competent and not indebted to the state for taxes, fees or penalties imposed by the Alcoholic Beverage Code.

Williams said the commission could say no if the place and manner in which the apposal is adopted by the commission, Texas would clearly plicant intends to conduct his business warrants a refusal based on the general welfare, health, peace, morals, safety and sense of decency of the people. The ABC can also refuse a license to a person who is in the habit of using alcoholic beverages to an ex-

An applicant for a liquor license must have been a citizen of Texas at least three years and been free of felony convictions for two priors to his request.

Other requirements, which Williams agreed might be a bit difficult to determine, are that the person be of good moral character and have a reputation for being a peaceable, law-abiding citizen.

Williams said the judge may refuse an applicant if he falsely or incorrectly answers any question on the application or if the person has violated a provision of the code within two years immediately preceding filing of the application.

The commission also controls advertising, according to Williams. He said a package store is allowed just one exterior sign, with the wording allowed depending on the type of license the fir

owner has. A store that sells beef for off-premise consumption can advertise with a sign that simply says "beer" or "beer to go" in letters not to exceed 12 inches in height. "You can't even say 'cold beer' on the sign," Williams commented. The ABC requires specific information be included in newspaper advertising, and the ads can offer no type of inducement or make mention of any special offer or giveaways.

The commission officially started accepting applications on Thursday after Deaf Smith County Commissioners certified the election. Williams said approval normally takes two-and-a-half to four weeks.

Sometime Wednesday, April 11, 1984 or Thursday, April 12, 1984, person(s) stole a saddle and one pair of spurs from Champion Feedyard. The saddle is described as oneyear old shop-make adult Jr. Grey, brown square, oak leaf design, scar on right side of cantle, initials J.T. under cantle, serial no. 283. The spurs are Argentine Snaffle made by Hall, 11/2" band silver on outside band, "Hall" stamped on inside of band. Value of the saddle and spurs is $1,400. Anyone giving information leading to the arrest and indictment of the person responsible for the Crime-of-the-Week will receive a $500 reward. Anyone having information may contact the Crime Stoppers Clue Line at 364-2583

Any information regarding a felony may be given to the Clue Line. Anyone giving information leading to the arrest and indictment in a felony case may be eligible for a reward. The caller may remain anonymous.

AT&T might seek long distance hike come from long distance companies, like AT&T, that depend on Bell's network.

An association of small long distance companies in Texas said Friday it is not convinced that Bell needs any more money.

Jones said a small increase in local bills would force a big jump in long distance tolls. The 36-cent increase misleads the public, he said.

"It ignores the fact that additional costs are being passed to the long distance carriers who in turn must recover those costs from someone, and that someone is the customers in Texas," he told reporters. "If this pro-

Maverick lawyer rides herd on justice in Texas

TYLER, Texas (AP) - The first and only black prosecutor to work in the Eastern Judicial District of Texas may be the man who sends multimillionaire rancher and convicted drug smuggler Rex Cauble to jail.

David Baugh, 36, a flamboyant, charming and acerbic attorney now in private practice in Virginia, was in Tyler last week to relive memories of the 1982 Cauble Cauble, 70, is asking a federal judge to give him a second trial. But if Cauble's bids fails, Baugh can add another notch to his belt for the more than two dozen convictions he won in the "Cowboy Mafia" trials.

Before he was transferred to Richmond, Va., in 1981, Baugh sent to jail a group of defendants whom prosecutors said operated the largest marijuana smuggling operation in Texas, using Cauble's airplanes, ranches and influence as a banker to obtain unsecured loans.

In spite of an impressive number of convictions racked up in Beaumont and Richmond for drug-related offenses and white-collar crime, Baugh was fired two years ago by the Justice Department.

Built like a fullback, the burly attorney does not shy away from big names, big money or titles. He has a history of questioning senior at the predominately black Virginia State College, he and others were protesting the transfer of the school's agriculture program to a white university, a scheme devised to comply with federal desegregation guidelines.

"I was a child of the '60s," Baugh says, brushing off the incident's significance.

Yet the experience of watching ACLU attorneys sue the Commonwealth of Virginia so he could graduate from college caused the youthful protester to choose law as a career. He later graduated from Texas Southern University in Houston.

'My senior year, sitting in a courtroom and watching it happen made me want to be a trial lawyer," Baugh says.

John Hannah, a U.S. Attorney from 1978-1981, says he hired Baugh as part of a deliiberate effort "to add some blacks, browns and women to the face of the Justice Department." Hannah was tipped off to Baugh by a Houston judge impressed with the young man's performance in his courtroom.

Hannah, now in private practice in Tyler, says Baugh "could become one of the I've seen. He can digest and retain the largest amount of facts of any lawyer I've ever seen," Hannah says.

Bob Wortham, the current U.S. attorney who worked with Baugh during the Cauble trial in Tyler, concurs. He says the pair "became about as intimate as you can become with anyone except your wife."

Wortham says he and Baugh spent 16-hour days, seven days a week, side-byside in hotel rooms during three months of Cauble trial preparation. He says if he had the chance, he would rehire Baugh tomorrow.

Neither Hannah nor Wortham could have predicted their protege would take on two federal judges in separate incidents which resulted in one of the judges banning Baugh from his courtroom and in the second judge getting Baugh fired. Years after one Richmond

The episode went like this: Warriner had just sentenced a white-collar criminal on two of 20 counts of fraud. Baugh muttered from the "Interesting lectern, "What's interesting?" Warriner replied.

The Justice Department accepted Baugh's resignation and denied transfer to Texas.

A spokesman for the Justice Department termed the incident "an internal personnel matter." Baugh later remarked,"There's nothing like knowing the attorney general of the United States saw your face on the front page of the paper while he tain amount of satisfaction the incident cost Warriner an appointment to the Fourth Circuit Court of Appeals. Warriner's staff refused to comment on the incident.

Warriner was the second judge with whom Baugh went one-on-one. During the prosecutor's 1978-1981 tenure in Beaumont, he had a steamy confrontation with U.S. District Judge Joe J. Fisher. After a legal battle Baugh won at the appeals level, Fisher refused to preside

Public Notice

Southwestern Bell Telephone Company, in accordance with rules and orders promulgated by the Public Utility Commission of Texas, hereby gives notice of a public hearing to begin at 10 a.m. on Monday, May 14, 1984, in the offices of the Public Utility Commission, 7800 Shoal Creek Blvd., Austin, Texas, concerning proposals made by the company to add three optional services and delete two services from the list of local exchange services available to its Texas customers.

Proposed additions to the local exchange tariffs include an optional Local Measured Service under which all residence customers and single-line business customers could pay monthly rates less than flat rate for one-party service, with an additional charge for each completed outgoing call to be determined by the time of day, distance and duration of each call; and a subsidized LIFELINE local service to be made available to qualified individuals, as determined by the Public Utility Commission. The monthly rate for LIFELINE service would include an allowance of 25 outgoing calls per month, plus a charge for each additional call.

Proposed for deletion from the local exchange tariffs are one-element measured service offerings for residence customers and singleline business customers, but current customers would not be

The company does not anticipate that these additional services will result in an increase in revenue to Southwestern Bell Telephone.

Persons who wish to intervene or otherwise participate in these proceedings should notify the Commission as soon as possible. A request to intervene, participate, or for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard, Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78757. Aviso al Publico

Por medio del presente aviso y en conformidad con las reglas y dictámenes de la Comisión de Servicios Públicos de Texas, la compañía Southwestern Bell Telephone anuncia la audiencia pública que se llevará a cabo a partir de las 10 de la mañana del día lunes 14 de mayo de 1984 en las oficinas de la Comisión de Servicios Públicos, 7800 Shoal Creek Blvd., Austin, Texas, con respecto a la propuesta de la compañía, que consiste en agregar tres servicios opcionales y suprimir dos servicios de la lista de servicios telefónicos locales a disposición del usuario en

Las adiciones propuestas al arancel del servicio telefónico local incluyen un Servicio Medido Local opcional según el cual todos los clientes residenciales y los clientes comerciales con línea única pagarían tarifas mensuales menores que la tarifa fija para servicios de línea única, con un cargo adicional por cada llamada completa efectuada desde ese teléfono, establecido según la hora, la distancia y la duración de cada llamada; así como un servicio local subvencionado de LIFELINE que estaría disponible para determinadas personas, según lo establezca la Comisión de Servicios Públicos. La tarifa mensual para el servicio de LIFELINE incluiría 25 llamadas mensuales con un cargo adicional por cada llamada en exceso de 25.

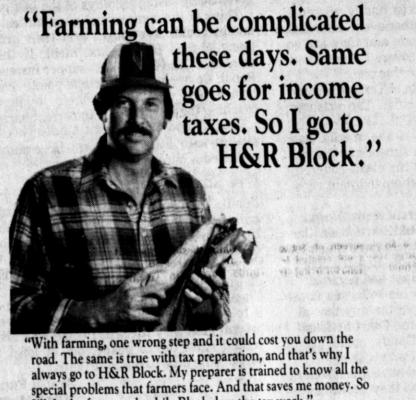

Se propone suprimir del arancel del servicio telefónico local las opciones de servicio medido de un elemento para clientes residenciales y clientes comerciales con línea única, pero esto no afectaría a los clientes

La companta no espera que estos servicios adicionales produzcan un aumento de ingresos para Southwestern Bell Telephone.

Toda persona que desee intervenir o participar en el proceso debe notificar a la Comisión lo antes posible. Salaries: Too high, too low?

The average working American has trouble relating to the huge salaries being commanded by today's sports and entertainment figures, even though their salaries are well publicized.

Ralph Sampson, a talented 7-4 basketball player for the University of Virginia, signed a contract with the Houston Rockets a while back for $4 million for four

Moses Malone left the Houston Rockets for a job with the Philadelphia 76ers at a reported $2 million a

It was reported that under terms of his contract, Malone gets the gate receipts from the first 14,000 people into the Philadelphia arena for each home game. Since the arena holds 17,000 this must leave only 3,000 tickets for the owners and the rest of the team.

David Hartman is being paid $2.1 million a year for serving as a host on ABC's "Good Morning America." The last figure for Tom Brokaw's contract with NBC was $1.9 million a year. Dan Rather and Barbara Walters make more than a million dollars a year on television.

The average salary of players in the National Basketball League is now more than $200,000 a year.

Dolly Parton received $700,000 for a week's work in Las Vegas.

The rock groups that tour the land expect to pick up $60,000 or so per concert and play one nearly every night.

What is right about this?

Do athletes and entertainers deserve to be paid such huge sums just to entertain others?

Certainly they don't work longer hours or study for more years or demonstrate more intelligence than people in other lines of work.

The sad truth of the matter is that as long as we live in a free society in which values are fixed in a free market place, it is pointless to contend that nurses should earn more than garbage collectors or that school teachers deserve more money than basketball players.

Money paid for services depend upon factors that are wholly unrelated to ethics or morals or other factors. It is a matter of supply and demand.

Good basketball players produce victories and people pay more to see winners than losers. Attractive television people produce higher ratings and thus the stations can charge more advertising dollars to see

The Soviet Union has a different system. The state fixes all salaries and the skilled machinist makes more than the brain surgeon, the railroad engineer more than the high school principal.

So it goes. If the owners of the Houston Rockets believe they can pay Ralph Sampson $4 million and make money, that's the way it is. Maybe not right, but

As the Years Turn

75 YEARS AGO

On Tuesday "Flag Day" was very appropriately observed by the pupils and teachers of the first four grades of the city schools.

Dry weather is causing distress in the area while the crops are due to be growing, but are not for want of moisture. In the great Panhandle, drouths seldom do more harm than cause some tenderfoot to sell out and pull for the East. Home people know they can prosper if rains fall by June 1.

50 YEARS AGO

More than 70 seats have been purchased for the new bleacher stands at Whiteface field. The seats were sold by high school pupils.

First place in poultry judging and second in dairy cattle were won by teams of the vocational agriculture department of Hereford High School at the Panhandle-Plains Dairy Show in Plainview Monday.

More than a half inch of rain fell here Monday night, just as the good effects on March 15-inch snow were about spent.

25 YEARS AGO

Wednesday evening at about 10 p.m. the brooder house on Westway farm caught fire and caused the death of approximately 100 chickens. The chickens belonged to Mr. and Mrs. W.D. Patterson.

A large number of bids on various modernization projects for Stanton Junior High School are expected by trustees of the Hereford Rural High School District for their meeting Tuesday night.

10 YEARS AGO Led by Hereford High School Whiteface Band, an antilitter parade of Hereford youth organizations will initiate spring cleanup week Saturday morning, followed by trash pickup in various sections of town by the youth groups, each assigned to a work area. Hereford City Commissioners may be forced to use their quarter of a million dollars left from revenue sharing funds just to take care of the city trash problems.

1 YEAR AGO Millions of taxpayers are lining up in banks, accounants' offices and at post offices today to square things with Uncle Sam for another year. NASA officials monitored weather conditions between here and Florida today to determine whether the stranded space shuttle Challenger could resume its piggyback cross country voyage.

PUBLIC EXECUTIONS

By golly, the TV networks finally missed a great chance to cover another event. Now that there are so many channels and they are so desperate for events to cover, I don't know how they managed to miss this one.

A few weeks ago the state of Texas executed a prisoner by lethal injection. The prisoner wanted the event covered by TV. The authorities said no, but if the media had screamed about the first amendment some judge would have ordered the event covered. Getting pious about the first amendment rarely fails.

This could have been a great show. Howard Cosell and Dandy Don could have been the commentators. Neither of them have much to do until the fall football season. Howard could have done one of his "up close and personal" gigs. He could have put on his soft "see how much I care" voice, and told the guy that at lunch with the entire Supreme Court he found out there was no hope. Dandy could sing "Turn Out the Lights, The Party's Over."

The Goodyear blimp could have given some great shots of the prison and they could have given some instant replays of the last gasp.

Think of the commercial possibilities. Companies could have fought over their products being chosen for the last meal. If the guy wanted a Coke for the last supper instead of a Pepsi, Coke could have made points over the choice and then played their jingle about teaching the world to sing in perfect harmony.

The guy could have worn Adidas shoes and clothes with little alligators. He could have collected a bundle in the process.

Pharmaceutical companies would pay a bundle to furnish the drugs. They could be called the official sponsor for the 1984 executions. That makes as much sense as the official sponsor of the Olympics.

The networks could justify all of this by claiming it was done for the public good. There seems to be a rule that as soon as money is to be made, public good will be discovered. I am glad they missed. People who are executed can't die in peace, but at least they ought to be able to die in private.

Bootleg Philospher

All in the name of civil rights?

Philosopher on his Deaf Smith County grass farm reports on an odd dream he had recently.

Dear editor:

A few weeks back, due to basketball games and political debates filling the airways, I had an odd dream.

I dreamed I was watching three candidates debate a proposal to change the height of the basket on basketball courts. The TV network considered it an issue of national

The moderator explained it this way: Basketball, which used to be a game of agility, has now become a game of height. The taller your players, the better your chance of winning. Since the number of 7-foot boys who can run without tripping is very limited, there aren't enough in the entire world to satisfy more than half a dozen teams. You'll recall that the two college teams that made it to the national play-off each had a 7-foot player. Teams with 6-footers and less fell by the wayside. Therefore, it has been suggested by some of the leading university scholars that to make the game fair to all size

Editor's note: The Bootleg boys, the baskets in all gyms everywhere should be raised from the present 10 feet to 15. This would eliminate slamdunking and return the game to skilled shooting. The moderator then called for Bi

The first candidate said: "I think it's a fresh new idea and I'm for fresh new ideas. Let's raise the basket."

The second candidate said: 'There 's still something to be said for sound, traditional ideas. Instead of raising the basket, where he has served admirably for years, I think we ought to leave it where it is and lower the floor."

The third candidate said: "I don't care where the basket is, so long as every kid in the nation has a free basketball."

Candidates then began calling each other names and complaining about the others' television ads.

About that time I woke up. I never did find out where the basket wound up or what the candidates were running for. It was either for President or Senator of Justice of the Peace. These days it's hard to tell which.

Letters to the Editor

A CONCERNED

CITIZEN It saddens me how wasteful we are in the United States. but more so here in Hereford. We have one of God's most precious gifts to us and we abuse it. I'm talking about that life giving substance called water. I see people in this town wasting hundreds of gallons of water washing piles of dirt off their drive ways and parking lots, when a broom and scoop will do the same job faster and cheaper.

Water is a resource we can not do without. All we have to do is turn on the faucet. It is so readily available for our use we take this resource for granted. There are countries in the world that have bearly any water at all and surely not the quality as ours. The people have to walk miles to water and then carry it back home. I dare to say that most of us would not drink that water. There are two things mankind can not do without. One is the living water that we receive by accepting Jesus Christ as Lord and Saviour. The second is the natural water, the liquid we drink to substain our bodies.

There are steps everyone can take to stop wasting our water supply. One is through discipline and conservation or another is the cost could be raised high enough we cannot afford it. I know none of us want the latter, but other communities have much higher rates than ours.

Now do not take this wrong. I write this letter not to condemn but to draw attention to this matter. I like to see everything pretty and green but not to the extent of over watering or running it down the gutter never to be used grief and agony without vicious gossip, which I feel is due to the article written by Mr. Parsell.

This is a plea for people in Hereford to learn the facts before making judgments. Sincerely,

Tami Weston

EDITOR'S NOTE: We regret any additional grief the article might have caused. Our information came from investigating officers.

Dear editor: I cannot help but think that many people in Deaf Smith County are someday going to regret very much the outcome of last Saturday's wetdry election. Some, of course are already disappointed in the results. I am among those hearing the daily number of DWI citations issued in our area and am wondering what kind of increase that figure might soon show. We have a fine community no doubt; but we also have a great deal of alcohol in our community and the amount of consumption within the county is only going to increase - under no circurnstances is this good. wonder about both the votes that were cast and those that were not. I worry that many "yes" votes were tallied from people who simply saw the chance of having to drive a few blocks instead of a few miles to buy their alcohol. I worry that others may have been forgotten simply because they weren't old enough to vote for themselves. I wonder if there may not be some parents and future parents who will someday wish they hadn't suphave influence on my ported the issue that, at the time, seemed so appealing. I also have to think about those Too many times people are unkind to others when it is not who were sure that the motion would be defeated and those times. I've had enough didn't take the time to vote for themselves; perhaps this is the saddest neglect of all.

I honestly don't enjoy seeing unhappy people so I hope the true will of Deaf Smith County has been cast. Certainly everyone is prepared to share in the benefits of package liquor sales, but I hope the community is also prepared for the responsibilities involved with such a decision. It still seems to me though, that economic gains under these auspices are severely tainted indeed.

Sincerely. C. Jeffrey Hill

Dear editor: The Deaf Smith County Sheriff's Reserve was chartered in 1975, and since that time the officers in the organization have received many compliments from the citizens of Deaf Smith County. Even though most citizens understand and support our reason for being, it is good from time to time to restate our goals, and objectives.

Some of the activities of the organization include manning roadblocks, regulating traffic at major wrecks, crowd control at the Bull Barn, carnivals, rodeos, and dances, readiness during storm watches or other natural disasters and, finally, assisting regular deputies with regular departmental functions. All of these services are provided without compensation to the individual officer.

Currently, the Reserves number 17 active members. About one-third of these members have, as early as 1975, privately purchased their own high-band police radios which operate on the Sheriff's frequency. Fortunately, our organization has received many generous donations in return for various services we have performed for the community. As a result, our organization was able to purchase radios for the remainder of our membership. This is important as these radios provide direct communication with the Sheriff's department. The Reserves provide a vital service to those people who depend on them for help in an emergency-it has been a worthwhile expense. All other necessary personal equipment (firearms, uniforms, etc.) are provided by the individual officer.

The individual members of the organization do get some calls because they are known by their neighbors to be a Reserve deputy. When such a problem arises, the Reserve officer responds, advises the department and a regular deputy is dispatched at that time. The Reserve officer then proceeds to the call and does what can be done until the situation is resolved andor the regular officer arrives and takes charge.

On occasion, Reserve officers have patrolled the county in personal vehicles. On occasion, Reserve officers have stopped cars when it was necessary at the direction of the Sheriff himself or the Chief Deputy. A Reserve in an unmarked car might attempt to stop another vehicle which is driven in such a manner as to endanger the lives of others, a vehicle pulling away from a business after hours, or an individual engaged in other suspicious activities. Because all Reserves are certified by the Texas Commission on Law Enforcement Standards and Education, the force, in reality, expands the regular deputies capabilities to cover law enforcement in all sectors of the county.

The Reserve Deputies are trained and certified under the Texas Commision on Law Enforcement Standards and Education requirements and commissioned by the Sheriff. Their duties, requirements, and responsibilities when on duty are the same as any law enforcement officer. They are required to attend and pass classes in all phases of law enforcement including firearms training. For the past nine years, the Reserves have qualified with firearms four times a year with records kept on each individual member. This far exceeds the State requirement.

Our organization is a member of the Reserve Law Officers Association of America. This organization has members in 49 states and over 2,500 cities nationwide.

Finally, we want to publically address the citizens of this county as well as other law enforcement personnel. If there is a complaint or comment about our organization or a member, you may address it to any member of the organization or the Sheriff. In the last three years the captain has not received one complaint, verbal or written, about an individual officer or the organization from the public or from the Sheriff's department. We appreciate your support.

Bike-a-thon slated May 5

bikes are beginning to see action again as youngsters all over town drag them out, pump air into deflated tires and prepare for an annual rite of spring-the Cystic Fibrosis Bike-a-Thon.

The event on Saturday, May 5, at Veteran's Park is staged every year to help raise money for research into cystic fibrosis, a chronic fatal lung and digestive disease.

"It's wonderful to see kids turn out year after year to raise money for their peers who, because of cystic fibrosis, can't always enjoy the luxury of a long bike ride," said Roland Saul, chairman of the bike-a-thon along with the entire staff of the Office of the District At-

"We hope to have an even bigger turnout thi syear. In the spring of 1983 there were 86 riders who generated $8,700 which was heralded by the National Cystic Fibrosis Foundation in Maryland as one of the finest projects of this type. I urge everyone who has a bicycle-and this includes adults, too - to come out to Veteran's Park for a morning of fun and exercise.

According to Saul, participants in the bike-a-thon raise money by asking friends, relatives and neighbors to underwrite each mile they complete. Prizes

Proceeds will help scientists continue to search for a cure or control for cystic fibrosis. Although improvements in treatment have dramatically increased survival age from about five years to 20 today, cystic fibrosis still kills more children each year than any other inherited disease.

Scientists still do not know what causes cystic fibrosis, nor can they test to see who the approximately 20 million carriers of the cystic fibrosis gene may be.

"The bottom line is more money for more research," Saul said "Last year's bike-athon raised $8,700 and with the help of everyone, we can easily raise money in 1984."

Vitamin linked to problems

COLLEGE STATION --People who munch on chewable vitamin C tablets to ward off the common cold could be damaging their teeth, says a Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service nutritionist. The ascorbid acid in vitamin C has long been associated with dental erosion, says Mary K. Sweeten. Vitamin C syrup which clings to the teeth is not recommended for this reason.

Until recently, vitamin C tablets were not thought to be related to dental erosion. But the marketing of chewable vitamin C tablets containing mega-dose levels may present dental health problems, says the specialist.

A recent American Dental

Association report indicated that the acidic level of three 500-milligram chewable vitamin C tablets, when dissolved in distilled water, is about equal to that of stornach acid. While saliva has a certain buffering effect, it can provide only limited protection when there is daily direct contact between ascorbic acid and teeth.

If you are using chewable vitamin C tablets regularly, check with a dentist for any sign of a dental problem, advises Sweeten.

Walk-a-thon scheduled

St. Anthony's Elementary School is scheduled to participate in a walk-a-thon April 30 to help raise funds for St. Jude's Children's Research Hospital in Memphis, Tenn. The institution is funded strictly by donations.

The walk-a-thon will last one hour and is set to begin at 1:30 p.m. at Whiteface track. Students are to walk or run as many laps around teh 440 yard track as they can in one hour.

First through sixth graders will begin seeking sponsors for the walk-a-thon this week. Local residents who volunteer to sponsor a child will be asked to pledge a given amount per lap that the walker completes.

Are you growing tired of car trips with your children? Are you board with checking in and out of hotels with your young family? Consider a cruise. An ocean liner offers a closed boundary of wonderfully relaxing alternatives for you and your family. There are no worries about getting lost, no dreaming up activities for the kids, no packing in and out of rooms. Most major cruise lines offer discounts for children. Sitmar Cruises, for example, actively courts the family crowd with a bounty of youth programs and nursery care for infants. Another good alternative for vacationing with children, is Club Med's Mini Clubs, where the four to twelve set will be intrigued by innovative activities ranging from computer workshops to circus training.

Our consultants at HEREFORD TRAVEL CENTER are very knowledgeable in the world of travel so rely on us to make all the arrangements for your next family trip. Speaking of Sports

By STAN GODEK Sports Editor

Its that time of year. Sports enthusiasts refer to it as excitement. Everything's happening: Hockey playoffs; NBA playoffs; the Master's Tournament; Major League Baseball; kids gearing up for state meets in high school track; the Boston Marathon; and the Kentucky Derby and Indianapolis 500 are just around the corner. National Hockey League playoffs: Who cares if the New York Islanders win for the 12th straight time.

NBA Playoffs: It's history. The Celtics have it wrapped up.

The Master's Tournament: I got to go with Gary Player because I like his name.

Major League Baseball: I do not have much to say on this topic except; THE ATLANTA BRAVES ARE NOT AMERICA'S TEAM NO MATTER WHAT TED TURNER AND HIS CABLE TV EMPIRE SAYS; The Houston Astros should have let J.R. Richard pitch this year; Yogi Berra should go back to stealing picnic baskets in Jellystone Park; The Ranger's Frank Banana has lost it; The best manager in the majors is out of a job; Minnesota should have kept Billy Martin; Detroit should have kept Billy Martin; Texas should have too, and New York, and Oakland, and New York again ...; My heroes as a kid were Al Kaline and Roberto Clemente and Bob Gibson, Willie McCovey, Walt "no neck" Williams and Blue Moon Odom.

State Championships For High School Track, Tennis, Golf, Baseball etc ...: "What's gonna happen, is what's gonna happen." To quote Yogi Berra.

The Boston Marathon: I think this race starts and finishes in Central Park.

The Kentucky Derby: It'll probably be between Foolish Pleasure, Honest Pleasure and Devil's Advocate.

The Indianapolis 500: Auto races are boring watching the cars go around and around and around. But things get a little exciting when Things won't be this busy until autumn when we get Herd football; the World Series; college football; the presidential election; NFL football; boys and girls cross country; Monday Night Football, girls volleyball; and Canadian Football. Some may say the presidential election is not a sport but their is growing support that "mud-slinging" is on the increase in the business and political communities. Well, anyway, that's what I read in the paper.

Basketball regular season ends today

By WILLIAM R. BARNARD AP Sports Writer

The National Basketball Association's 38th regular season ends Sunday, a prelude to a championship playoff with the biggest field ever but dominated by perennial powers. Boston, Los Angeles and Philadelphia, titlists the past three seasons, take the top records into the playoffs, although the defendingchampion 76ers fell nearly 20 wins short of their spectacular 68-victory regular season in 1982-83.

The NBA Board of Governors decided last summer to expand the playoffs from 12 teams to 16. So the four division champions will have to series, which open Tuesday, rather than receive a bye.

As the weekend of the season approached, Boston and Los Angeles had clinched the Atlantic and Pacific division titles, while Utah and Dallas battled for Midwest crown and Detroit and Milwaukee for the Central championship.

The eight Eastern Conference playoff qualifiers -Boston, Philadelphia, Milwaukee, Detroit, New York, New Jersey, Atlanta and Washington - were decided, while Golden State, Kansas City and San Antonio fought for the last Western Conference spot. Los Angeles, Portland, play a first-round best-of-5 Seattle, Utah, Dallas, Denver and Phoenix had clinched berths in the West.

Utah, with a 30-52 record the previous season, and Dallas, an expansion team in only its fourth year, were the surprise teams in the NBA. Both were led by high-scoring forwards, Adrian Dantley of the Jazz and Mark Aguirre of the Mavericks.

Like their two teams, who exchanged the lead in the division, the pair fought all season for the NBA's scoring championship. Both hovered near the 30 points-per-game level, with Dantley, who played only 22 games the previous season because of a fractured wrist, holding a slight edge.

Jones, one of nine head coaches in their first season with a new team, slackened the reins held tight by the previous coach, Bill Fitch. The Celtics also benefitted from the acquisition of defense-minded guard Dennis Johnson and the continued frontcourt brilliance of Larry Bird, Robert Parish and

Kevin McHale. The 76ers didn't win 50 games until they already had lost 28, a far cry from the previous season when they started 50-7. Nagging injuries and decreased production

The Lakers also got superb play from 6-foot-9 guard Earvin "Magic" Johnson, who challenged Kevin Porter's record average of 13.4 assists per game. In every game until Feb. 29, Johnson had at least 10 assists.

Elsewhere, Ralph Sampson was the most heralded rookie in the league since Bill Walton and he justified most of the plaudits, averaging more than 20 points and 11 rebounds per game. Of brother's death Pearson lives with nightmare

DALLAS (AP) - The two defensive backs nailed Drew and mental makeup. Pearson in an unprotected moment just as he jumped high for a pass. The collision was so fierce both defenders were knocked momentarily senseless to the Texas Stadium artificial surface. Pearson leaped to his feet, flipped the ball to the referee, then wobbled back to the huddle without so much as a look back.

"I didn't want to let them know they got me," Pearson said later, after the bells quit ringing. This play from the 1983 season illustrates what a rough cookie Pearson, the leading receiver in the history of the Dallas Cowboys, has always been; never the guy you could intimidate on those over-themiddle suicide missions.

He's Dallas' Capt. Courage. "Drew has been the toughest guy on the team mentally," said backfield Coach Al Lavan. "He can take unbelievable hits and bounce back. He won't let himself give in.".

Now, Pearson must handle the impact of a different kind of collision that puts the utmost stress on his physical

How does he overcome the nightmare of driving a car into the rear of a tractor-trailer rig March 22, killing his brother, Carey? Doctors say Drew's lacerated liver will heal in two to three months. The other injuries Pearson described as cuts and bruises he wouldn't even report to the trainer during the season.

But can a 33-year-old body take such punishment without a loss of athletic ability and still handle the rigors of more pounding in a long NFL season?

Pearson can handle the physical end. He is wiretough and a fighter.

What about the mental? Can the same concentration that allowed Pearson to make some of the most celebrated catches in NFL history still be there?

Pearson himself said "I think I can start working out in two or three months, but there is no time limit on overcoming my mental anguish."

Pearson is starting over just as surely as he did in 1973 when he came to the Cowboys as a free agent nobody out of Tulsa. Lavan, for one, thinks Pearson can make it to the top, one more time.

"If you had to pick anybody to come back for a situation like this it would be Drew," Lavan said. "Just look at his background. He's always been an underdog and a "Few people gave him a chance when he came into the NFL. Look what happened. He'll work and work and work until he comes back from this."

Pearson is determined to dedicate the 1984 season to his brother.

"I'm hurting quite a bit," he said recently. "But I feel an obligation to play. If I have to retire it would leave a void in my life.

Pearson, who described himself as now having a "birdcage chest to go with my bird legs" because of a 20-pound weight loss, has drawn considerable strength from his teammates.

"I really never knew before how much they loved me, Pearson said. "One day I woke up at the hospital and there were a bunch of them standing around the bed playing a joke with their arms folded.

"I thought it was Judgment Day. I just didn't know how much they felt about me, how much they cared."

Pearson has also drawn consolation from books, letters, and Bibles mailed by fans

Cotton easily cleaned; follow instructions

COLLEGE STATION -Easy-care cotton can be exactly that if consumers will follow care label instructions, says consumer information specialist Beverly Rhoades.

Some consumers got used to caring for cottons years ago by washing them in hot water and drying at high heat, says Rhoades, a Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension home economist. This is still possible for some untreated 100 percent cotton fabrics, but will reduce the appearance and wearing life of other cotton fabrics. Cotton fabics are now usually treated with chemical finishes that control shrinkage and help them resist wrinkling. Even 100 percent cotton is likely to have some kind of finish, she out with hot enough

Cotton is also now found more often in fabric blends with other natural and synthetic fibers. It's an excellent addition to blends because as a natural fiber coton breathes and lets off heat and moisture to keep the wearer comfortable in any kind of weather, explains the specialist.

Cotton treated with permanent press finishes and most cotton-blends need a permanent press washing and drying cycle, she notes. A permanent press cycle uses warm

Program guarantees loans for buying land

AUSTIN (AP) - It's neither a free ride for speculators nor welfare for would-be farmers, but a new state program could help some Texans who dream of buying and working their own land.

Under the program, the Texas Department of Agriculture will guarantee loans to qualified people who want to buy a farm or ranch. Created by the Legislature in 1979 but only now starting to operate, the Texas Farm and Ranch Security Program is designed to: - Help beginning farmers and ranchers obtain the land they need to get started. - Help Texans who have plenty of experience in agriculture but have never been able to buy land for themselves. - Provide security for both sellers and lenders.

Program administrator Larry Strange stresses that the rules require a participant to have a sound business plan before any money changes hands. "This is not an agriculture welfare program. This is a business deal. Just because somebody has a dream to be involved in agriculture doesn't mean he'll qualify. I have no problems with dreams, but it has to be coupl-

Block helped plant a tree Wednesday to commemorate Smokey Bear's 40th anniversary as an official Forest Service symbol, and said festivities are planned throughout the year. A special postage stamp honoring Smokey will be issued in August.

President Reagan has proclaimed the week of May 13-19 as National Smokey Bear Week.

"Smokey will make appearances in a barnstorming tour across the country, Block said. "I kind of wonder if he's been involved with some of the primary campaigning, I don't really know." The Smokey character began in 1944 as a poster symbol of the Forest Service to help reduce wildfires in national forests. Those fires destroyed more than 10 million acres in 1942. By 1981, damage was down to 3 million

"We will work with people, try to help them before they get in so deep they can't get out. We're hoping for a spirit of cooperation that includes the lenders, too," he said.

"But once you sign on the bottom line, it's a business deal. If you fall down, we will liquidate your property and retire your loan. That's not a maybe. We will do that."

Strange said 22 states currently operate programs offering some form of assistance to beginning farmers. He hopes the Texas program will be a success, but says that won't be up to him or the agriculture

Report raises critical questions among firms can be price many not actually

WASHINGTON (AP) - A new report by the Agriculture Department raises some critical questions about the growing practice of meat packers buying hogs from farmers on a "grade and yield" basis.

Under grade-and-yield, a producer is paid a premium if the slaughtered carcasses are judged to be higher in quality than a base grade. Conversely, a discount is charged against the sale if the carcass is below the base grade. The new report, issued Thursday department's Packers and Stockyards Administration, was based on surveys among 20 hog slaughtering plants in the major pork states. About 14 percent of the hogs slaughtered in the United States are sold on a gradeand-yield basis.

"Packers generally promote grade-and-yield programs as an opportunity for the producer to receive monetary rewards for selling quality hogs," the report said. "A long-term advantage promoted is the fact that sellers marketing hogs on a grade-and-yield basis normally receive an accounting of carcass data, which may be used to improve quality of the herd." But the report said that producers should keep mind that they are selling carcasses and not live hogs. Most gradeand-yield programs currently quote prices on a liveweight basis rather than on a car-

"The packer establishes grade standards for carcasses in each carcass weight range," the report said. These grades are designated by names, letters or numbers assigned by the packer. All hogs sold on a grade-and-yield basis are graded after slaughter by an employee of the packer. Typically, a packer has one grade for which there is no grade price adjustment premium or discount. This is the base grade or base quality carcass. The base carcass for each weight range "is usually of relatively low quality," the report said. For example, during the survey of the plants, 82 percent of the hogs sold on grade-and-yield graded higher than the base

"If a seller does not have knowledge of all the variables that make up the final price, comparing the base live price

Department adopts regulation plan

WASHINGTON (AP) -The Agriculture Department has adopted a plan to regulate the amount of water in hain and other cured pork products by requiring a minimum percentage of protein. It will go into effect a year from now. Current regulations limit water that can be added to ham during the curing process to no more than 10 percent of the product's original weight. The proportion of protein decreases in cured pork as water is increased.

L.I. Gast, deputy administrator of the department's Food Safety and Inspection Service, said Thursday the agency "has found that measuring protein in the finished product instead of estimating the amount of curing solution used in processing the cured pork products will provide a more accurate basis for determining compliance" with federal regula-

County Extension Agent In the past two weeks two agriculture sub-committees of the Deaf Smith County Program Building Committee have met to review prgrams conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service and to begin plans for a comprehensive study of Deaf Smith County agriculture.

Committee, headed by David Brumley, discussed the problems in the cattle and swine industry. The committee also made tentative plans for a beef cattle conference to be held this fall. Recent rains filled stock ponds and improved ranges and pastures. Livestock are continuing to improve in condition as more grazing becomes available.

On April 12, the Crops Committee, headed by Raymond Schlabs, discussed the crop situation and reviewed the plans for crops demonstrations for 1984. The committee also planned an area wide hay show in an attempt to promote the production of good hay. The show is tentatively set in early September, but the actual time and location are to be determined. Both committees have begun an indepth study into the problems and concerns in agriculture in Deaf Smith County. When this study is completed a 5-year long range plan will be developed to better handle the needs of farmers and ranchers. Fund allocation has been increased

Texas' allocation of funds for direct loans in the economic emergency farm loan program has been increased from $5,890,140 to $18,415,000, State Director J. Lynn Futch of the Farmers Home Administration

(FmHA) announced today. The increase will be distributed through State Office of the FmHA, the U.S. Department of Agriculture's farm credit agency. Nationally, the direct loan portion of the $600 million economic emergency program was raised to a $310 million share. Interest rates for direct loans obtained from FmHA county offices are 10.25 percent on loans made for operating purposes and 10.75 percent on loans made for real estate purposes. Economic emergency loans are authorized for bona fide farmers and ranchers who are directly and primarily engaged in, and expect to continue in, agricultural production, are unable to get sufficient credit from their regular lenders, and need credit to maintain viable farming operations. FmHA can loan up to $400,000 to any one borrower under the economic emergency program.

Permitted use of loan funds include financing of 1984 crop production, purchasing essential livestock, feed and equipment, and paying delinquent installments on farm and real estate debts if a lender is demanding payment.

This season the couple made their Carnegie Hall recital debut. They have entertained audiences in cities all over the United States as well as in Mexico and Europe with their unique team presentation.

The Gordons, both native Californians, met at a competition when they were 16 years old and married a few years later. Today they live in both New York City and Los Angeles, dividing their time between the two coasts.

In New York City's Alice Tully Hall, Lincoln Center, in 1980 the Gordons attracted great attention and excellent reviews by performing the complete two-piano works of Ravel for the first time in public.

Both were students of the great pedagogue, Sergei Tarnowsky. Gordon made his debut at the Hollywood Bowl at age 9 after winning the Hollywood Bowl Award. A four-time gold medal winner of the International Piano Recording Competition, he has toured the U.S., Canada, Mexico, Holland, Spain, Switzerland and the U.S.S.A.

Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution and their guests at the Deaf Smith County Library Heritage Room Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Argen Draper was the program coordinator and introduced a panel of guests who each commented on quilts which were family heirlooms. The speakers and their topics were Kathryn Musser, Gladys Flood, the Quilt Lady; Gracie Jones, types of Quilts; Raymond Schroeder, quilts for history and geography; Jo

Rudd Burney, quilts for family history; Argen Draper, Quilts for names and dates; Nancy Nixon, quilts for community history; Elaine Pinnell, photos on quilts to preserve history; Jane Packard, machine stitch it for history. Each participant displayed one or more unusual quilt to illustrate the topic. Mrs. Draper also gave information about quilting in general, stressing that each quilt should be documented with a label, giving names and the date the quilt was completed. Other quilts, pictures, and quilting books were displayed in the meeting room.

In celebration of Los Ciboleros Chapter's 14th birthday, a cake decorated in the patriotic theme was lighted with candles and served to the members and guests by the hostesses; Mmes. Corene Smith, Monk Johnson, and Stan Knox. Punch and coffee accompanied the cake. The report on civilian defense was read by Mrs. Joe Reinauer, Sr., who spoke on dent, using Abraham Lincoln to illustrate traits of a man who should be chosen President of the United States.

Mrs. Knox, chapter regent, reviewed plans for the tea to be held at the Hereford Community Center on Sunday, April 29, to honor the DAR Good Citizens from Hereford and Dimmitt as well as winners of the American History Essay Contest from a number of area schools. Los Ciboleros members are urged to attend this important function.

Mrs. E.S. Brainard, chairman of the chapter's standing rules committee, read and commented on the revised rules which will determine Los Ciboleros policies. The chapter voted to accept the standing rules as revised. They will be incorporated into the 1984-1985 yearbook.

Mrs. Knox, who served as a delegate to the recent state conference of DAR held in San Antonio, stated that she had invited Roy Benevidez, a recipient of the Congressional Medal of Honor for heroism in Vietnam and a featured speaker at the conference, to come to Hereford to present his patriotic address to the DAR chpter as well as to the students in local schools.

She also announced that the Los Ciboleros Chapter had been given ceritificates of excellence in the areas of Constitution Week, the DAR Magazine, the printed press, radio and television coverage, and transportation and safety. A special award was given for creativity for the American history essay written by Christie Sims of Dimmitt.

Another recognition given by Mrs. Knox was for the effective resolutions presented at the conference by the Texas daughters of the society, with special mention given to a resolution concerned with nuclear waste disposal which had been writ-

Society members express thanks

Members of the Deaf Smith County Genealogical Society met in regular session Thursday evening in the Heritage Room of Deaf Smith County Library.

During the business meeting, expression of thanks was extended to the community for donations and memorials for the Alabama books. It was announced that along with the $100 county funds, the Society was able to purchase an additional 45 books for the Genealogy section of the library. There are now 156 books in a set of 245 at $5 per book. The Amarillo Library is requesting a grant from the Moody Foundtion to expand its U.S. Census Record collection to include the 1900 and 1910 U.S. Census records and the Soundex for those census years. These are valuable tools for genealogists.

Letters to the Amarillo Library stating one's desire for such records and the use of the genealogy material in that library would be greatly appreciated. The address is Amarillo Public Library, 413 E. Fourth St., Amarillo, Tx.

The local Society is gathering church directories, both current and old, to place in the library. All donations of such would be appreciated.

They can be turned in at the county library, or contact June Rudd, Rt. 5, Box 109B, Hereford, and she will make arrangements for the directories to be picked up.

Violet Reinauer presented a program on historical markers in Deaf Smith County. Almost every marker created a discussion by a member with a personal contact and story associated with the marker.

Ms. Reinauer said that these markers are "paths of the past" and she made the trip most enjoyable.

Mrs. Argen Draper was the program coordinator and introduced a panel of guests who each commented on quilts which were family heirlooms.

The speakers and their topics were Kathryn Musser, Gladys Flood, the Quilt Lady; Gracie Jones, types of Quilts; Raymond Schroeder, quilts for history and geography; Jo Rudd Burney, quilts for family history; Argen Draper, Quilts for names and dates; Nancy Nixon, quilts for community history; Elaine Pinnell, photos on quilts to preserve history; Jane Packard, machine stitch it for history.

Each participant displayed one or more unusual quilt to illustrate the topic. Mrs. Draper also gave information about quilting in general, stressing that each quilt should be documented with a label, giving names and the date the quilt was completed. Other quilts, pictures, and quilting books were displayed in the meeting room.

In celebration of Los Ciboleros Chapter's 14th birthday, a cake decorated in the patriotic theme was lighted with candles and served to the members and guests by the hostesses; Mmes. Corene Smith, Monk Johnson, and Stan Knox. Punch and coffee accompanied the cake. The report on civilian defense was read by Mrs. Joe Reinauer, Sr., who spoke on Los Ciboleros members are urged to attend this important function.

Mrs. E.S. Brainard, chairman of the chapter's standing rules committee, read and commented on the revised rules which will determine Los Ciboleros policies. The chapter voted to accept the standing rules as revised. They will be incorporated into the 1984-1985 yearbook.

Mrs. Knox, who served as a delegate to the recent state conference of DAR held in San Antonio, stated that she had invited Roy Benevidez, a recipient of the Congressional Medal of Honor for heroism in Vietnam and a featured speaker at the conference, to come to Hereford to present his patriotic address to the DAR chpter as well as to the students in local schools.

She also announced that the Los Ciboleros Chapter had been given ceritificates of excellence in the areas of Constitution Week, the DAR Magazine, the printed press, radio and television coverage, and transportation and safety. A special award was given for creativity for the American history essay written by Christie Sims of Dimmitt.

Readers disagree with doctor

DEAR READERS: Recent- heart transplants, Professor ly I printed a letter from the mother of an intern of a large prestigious hospital. She complained about the 40-hour shifts, constant stress and pressures taking their toll not only on interns but residents.

Her son, she said, is exhausted to the point of being unsure about his ability to make a decision. She asked, What is the purpose of such training?" How can a doctor be alert when he is fatigued? I would hate to have my life depend on a person who had gone without sleep for two days and a night."

I asked Dr. Norman Shumway, the distinguished chairman of the department of cardiovascular surgery at Stanford University School of Medicine, to respond. He defended the system vigorously, stating: "Rarely is a life-and-death decision made by an intern or a resident who has been without sleep for many hours. Most young doctors want as much clinical experience as possible and would rather take care of patients than either eat or sleep. While there is much to be said for balance in life, the real shakers and movers are individuals with total commitment."

I was hit with a blizzard of letters from readers who disagreed with Dr. Shumway. Here's what my week has been like:

From Carola Eisenberg. M.D., dean for student af-Harvard Medical "When it comes to Shumway is a mover and shaker. When it comes to describing the workload of interns and residents, he should stick to his surgery. There is no evidence that learning is efficient under conditions of exhaustion and anger. It's time hospital staffs recognized that house officers are humans." From a medical student, Duke University: "I resent all the Dr. Shumways who have made internships and residencies a punishing experience. We are paying a terrible price to serve humanity. From Allan T. Luskin, M.D., Rush Medical Center, Chicago: "Dr. Shumway's view is producing burned-out physicians. While training in medicine has been traditionally in apprenticeships, the field is moving, somewhat unfortunately, away from the art and toward the science." Johns Hopkins, Baltimore, Md.: "Our medical schools produce too many impaired physicians who started their descent into the hell of drug and alcohol addiction because of the exhausting grind. I wish enough young doctors would rebel and say, 'ENOUGH!"

Mother of a Meharry medical student, Nashville, Tenn.: "I'm proud my daughter wants to be a physician, but I wonder if the brutal training is worth it."

R.N., Cedars-Sinai, Los Angeles: "In my 15 years of nursing, I have seen many life-and-death decisions made by interns and residents who were too tired think straight. My intervention has saved more than one life, and I was thanked for it." Before I put together this column, I asked Dr. Shumway's permission. He replied, "Go ahead and print the replies. I remain disinclined to make any retraction. Hard work is not only fun, but it .ever hurt anyone. The pride of accomplishment is one of

While the readers have convinced me that Dr. Shumway's position may be wrong, one must admire his sincerity demonstrated by his willingness to face such harsh public criticism.

McKinster speaks to women's organization

St. Anthony's Women's Organization met Thursday evening in the Antonian Room of St. Anthony's Catholic Church, where they were given a program by Irene McKinster, director of marketing at Hereford State

Ms. McKinster told the group about Special Organizational Services (S.O.S.) which Hereford State offers to the public as a free service. The program helps widows or disabled people readjust their lives and financial problems.

She suggested that interested persons inquire at the bank now, before the need for this service arises.

Unit reports were given and the Rev. Mark Traenkle discussed baptism of babies with the group. The next meeting will be in May. All members are urged to attend, as new officers will be elected.

Valeria Artho won the door prize and refreshments were served to those in attendance.

NEW YORK (AP) - Richmond Lattimore was recently named the 46th recipient of a $10,000 fellowship for "distinguished poetic achievement" by teh Academy of American Poets.

Lattimore, currently Professor Emeritus of Greek at Bryn Mawr College, has published a number of volumes of poetry and is also well known as a translator of the Greek classics.

If you're planning a traditional roasted turkey dinner for Easter, or just an everyday meal, a recent poultry research study can help you achieve the perfectly cooked bird.

Findings of this study indicated that temperatures recorded in a turkey's thigh during cooking ranged from 10 to 15 degrees higher than in the thickest portion of the breast, says Dr. James Denton, an Extension Poultry specialist. This shows the importance of placing the meat thermometer in the deep

Ramie fabrics similar to linen

COLLEGE STATION -Don't be surprised if your new spring dress looks like linen, but lists ramie on the fabric content label.

Since ramie resembles linen, but is less expensive, it's being used in many spring and summer fashions, says Becky Saunders, a Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service clothing and textiles specialist.

Consumers have questions about ramie, says the specialist, often because they think it's a new fiber requir-

Shoppers shouldn't depend on RDA

COLLEGE STATION -Nutrition-conscious grocery shoppers often read product labels to determine the RDA's--or Recommended Dietary Allowances - of various nutrients contained in the food they buy.

But shoppers should understand that RDA's don't tell the entire nutrition story, says Marilyn Haggard, a Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service foods and nutrition specialist.

RDA's represent averages that do not necessarily reflect a person's individual nutrient needs, she says.

Nutrition requirements differ with age, sex, body size and physiological state, explains the specialist. So the National Academy of Sciences National Research Council established RDA's which are adequate to meet the nutritional needs of practically all healthy persons according to their age and sex.

To figure out the precise amount of nutrients each family member needs using RDA's requires juggling a lot of numbers.

What consumers see on a food product label is actually the USRDA, which is set at the highest RDA for all the different sex and age groups, Haggard says. The amount of a nutrient in a food is stated as a percentage of the USRDA on the label.

The Food and Drug Administration adopted the USRDA as a means of providing a single standard for food labeling, she adds. By using the highest RDA for all groups, the USRDA system tries to insure adequate nutrient intake for the entire population.

Selecting food products with the highest percentage of USRDA nutrients is not always the best criteria for buying foods, says the nutritionist. During the day, most people eat several foods which contain a particular nutrient. So it may not be necessary to get most or all of that nutrient from one product - especially if it costs significantly more than similar products containing a smaller percentage of the nutrient.

Some people also incorrectly assume they are well fed just because they are consuming 100 percent of the USDA as listed on food product labels, says Haggard. But there are other nutrients essential for health in addition to those required by the nutrition labeling regula-

RDA labeling is required for products which have nutrients added or about which nutrition claims are made. The information must include listings for protein, carbohydrates, fat, vitamin

A, vitamin C, thiamin, riboflavin, niacin, calcium and iron. The manufacturer may, but is not required to list other nutrients. The RDA's listed on food products can be a useful guideline for shoppers, says the specialist.

LUBBOCK - A collection of tific contributions by Peirce and his father, renowned American mathematician Benjamin Peirce.

Ketner said the Tuttle collection includes numerous Peirce family photographs and some of Peirce's caricature sketches, showing his lighter side. Some drawings are sketched on Peirce's scientific papers. Ketner said unique pieces in the collection include two videotapes Tuttle made of stories related by surviving friends and acquaintances of Peirce and Juliette, and a copy of a pamphlet, "Co-Operative Housekeeping," written in 1907 by Peirce's liberationist. Born in 1839, Peirce is regarded as one of th emost original and versatile of thinkers. American Philosophers honor him as founder of pragmatism, logicians for his role in developing symbolic logic, mathematicians for his work in algebra, psychologists for his advances in perception theory, and linguists for his part in founding semiotics

(the theory of signs). (When pragmatism was taken over by William James, Peirce disassociated himself with that version of philosophical thought and version named his pragmaticism.)

Peirce died in 1914 and most of his recognition and publication has been posthumous. His widow Juliette died in 1934.

Ketner said the Arisbe first wife Melusina Fay homestead is in the Delaware Peirce, and early women's Watergap National Recreational Area in Southeastern Pennsylvania near Milford. The National Park Service has done some restoration of Arisbe and maintains it. A ANSWERline: Passive smoking is the breathing of smoke from someone else's cigarette. There is a difference between mainstream smoke, which is inhaled directly by the smoker, and sidestream noke, which is released into the air by the smoldering cigarette.

Mainstream smoke mainly affects the smoker, but sidestream smoke contains higher percentages of tar, nicotine and noxious gases when it leaves the cigarette. Even when diluted, sidestream smoke may some people. A few preliminary reports have indicated that it may create a risk of lung cancer among persons who do not smoke. While definite answers to questions about passive smoking are not yet available, this is a problem of growing concern.

THROUGH THE EYES OF BABES

QUESTION: I watched my little girl pick up a flower the other day and hold it right up to her eyes. If I did that all I'd see would be a blur. How come?

ANSWER: The answer is probably in the strength of your eyes' near-focusing muscles. As you grow older the point at which you can focus on an object gets farther and farther away. Sometimes it reaches the point where you can only read "at arm's length." It has nothing to do with structural errors of the eye. But it has a lot to do with your near-focusing muscles. These are the muscles that bend the lens of the eye to form a clear image when an object is close to you. They lose their strength with age. This problem can be corrected with properly prescribed glasses.

If you've been in the stores lately, you'll notice a tremendous number of sundress for summer. They seem to be taking over for everything jacketed for the office, bare for evening and simply delightful for fun in the sun.

Putting emphasis on sundresses that can go to the office, the new Ellis, Inc. covers shoulders with mesh, linen, poplin or bright chintz. Striped and plaid patterns figure most prominently in the Ellis collections, while solids are done in both bright

Ellis has included two dark cotton sundrases for late summer in the collection.

Each year Lanz does an incredible number of sun-dresses and 1984 is no exception. With its Austrian flavor, Lanz has an individual look that many women love. Tiny floral prints, tucking and lace add charm to the Lanz line.

The firm also offers a group of separate jackets which coordinate with the sundresses, for the woman who wants a coverup.

Moving from Austria to Hawaii, Malia does a different kind of print that's equally distinctive. Bold, island patterns in vivid colors are done on lustrous, pure

A favorite feature of the Malia collection is the built-in bra, which allows for support, even in the barest of styles. Malia, too, offers coverups. but in this case, it's sweaters--a great group of cotton knits that complement the dress.

Bright colors and back interest are the two main points for Applause II's group of sundresses. Using crinkled gauze, the firm has created bright-colored garments.

LUBBOCK - Stars from a pair of daytime soap operas and from two primetime series have signed on for the April 27-29 Texas Tech University Celebrity Tennis Tournament, benefitting the Texas Tech University Foun-

Joseph Mascolo of "Days of Our Lives," Eric Braeden of "The Young And The Restless," Markie Post of "The Fall Guy," and Marcia Rodd of "The Four Seasons" have been added to a growing list of celebrities.

Other stars who have officially announced they will participate include former Texas Tech students G.W.

Bailey and Barry Corbin, "Matt Houston" TV star Lee Horsley, "That's Incredible" star Cathy Lee Crosby, Lloyd Bridges, Barbara McNair, Cornel Wilde, Dallas native Trini Lopez, Lyle Waggoner, Richard Dean Anderson of Emerald Point, N.A.S.," Cindy Gibb of "Fame," Connie Stevens, Jo Ann Pflug, Richard Roundtree, Jerry Van Dyke, Judy Norton, Martha Smith and Martin Kove.

The foundation's goal of $250,000 will support general scholarships, endowments and other academic areas at Texas Tech.

Weekend activities are be-

Productions Inc. of Los Angeles. Producer Charles Bucks is a longstanding member of the Texas Tech President's Council and a Texas Tech Distinguished Alumnus.

The tournament will be at Texas Tech's Recreation Center tennis courts.

Earlier this year, Mascolo rejoined the cast of the dytime drama, "Days Of Our Lives," to continue his original role of Stefano Di Mera, also known as "Phoenix," the sinister mastermind of murder and intrigue in the town of Salem. He was in the cast from January 1982 until March
