AUSTIN, Texas (AP) -Comptroller Bob Bullock's stand-in on the Legislative Redistricting Board has denied reports that Bullock is trying to "gelf" certain senators by eliminating their districts.

But, said Robert Spellings, a senatorial redistricting plan can satisfy legal requirements only if it "pairs" two West Texas senators and two East Texas senators.

Population shifts mean each of those two areas must give up a senator, said Spellings, Bullock's redistricting consultant and former depu-

Lynn Moak, an aide to Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, chairman of the board, said such pairings of senators are unnecessary.

The five-member board has until midnight Oct. 28 to draw new House and Senate districts. Bullock is under treatment for alcoholism in California, but Spellings said he will return Oct. 23.

Spellings denied reports that Bullock instructed him to draw plans that would "pair" Howard, Ed Sen. D-Texarkana, with Sen. Roy Blake, D-Nacogdoches, and Sen. Grant Jones, D-Abilene, with some other senator, such as Ray Farabee, D-Wichita Falls, or Bob Glasgow, D-Stephenville.

Search for Girls

By RON WORD Associated last year. The fair ends Sun-Press Writer

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) -Police searching among glittering rides and midway booths have found little more than dead ends in their search for four teen-age girls who vanished after heading planes and F-15 jet fighter for the State Fair of Oklahoma. Livestock buildings, booths and food stands at the annual celebration of the waning prairie summer bear posters with pictures of two of the girls - and of a 36-year-old man being sought by police as a suspect in their disappearance.

"I hope somebody finds them alive," said a woman operating a carnival booth that had the missing girls' prominently pictures displayed.

Barney Hudson, who directs the police officers assigned to the fair, said officers were urging girls not to attend the fair alone. On Thursday, scores of uniformed and undercover police made their way between the rides and shows.

Attendance at the statewide hoe-down had been running at a pace that would have eclipsed last year's 1.3 million until the disappearances, fair officials said. On Wednesday and Thursday, attendance was down about 9,000 compared with the totals for the same days

Meanwhile, outside the city police fair post, relatives of the missing youngsters waited Thursday night, as they had every night since Saturday.

Charlotte Kinsey and Cinda Pallett, both 13 and from Oklahoma City, were last heard from Saturday when they called their parents from the fair to say they had been given a job unloading stuffed animals.

As a search for them began, police filed kidnapping charges in the case against Donald Michael Corey, 36, whom Lt. Adam Edwards of the police Youth Bureau called a drifter who apparently follows the carnival circuit in the South and Midwest. Police said they were familiar with Corey and that he had been in Oklahoma City on and off for the past six years.

Then on Thursday, police revealed that Sheryl Ann Vaughn, 16, of Newalla and Susan Thomason, 16, of McLoud, hadn't been seen since they left their homes for the fair Tuesday evening. The car they were in was found along Interstate 40 east of Oklahoma City, the keys in the ignition and the car in substance at all.

Doctors Excited Over Growth Drug's Promise

Doctors at the Baylor College of Medicine said the synthetic hormone may be the answer to a shortage of the natural hormone that has severely restricted the number of children who could be treated.

"We're excited about this because in the past there have been serious problems with supply and demand that have limited the number of children who could receive the (natural) hormone," said Dr. Rebecca T. Kirkland, a pediatrician at the Baylor College of Medicine.

She said the only source of the natural hormone has been the pituitary glands of cadavers. She said the hormone cost each patient $5,000 a year and was so scarce it could only be given to children whose pituitary gland did not produce the

Ms. Kirkland said the synthetic hormone could be an abundant and less expensive alternative.

Effects of Cuts Are Already Felt

By The Associated Press

School lunch prices in Oklahoma are going up by a nickel, a dozen lawyers will have to be let go from Vermont's legal aid program and 32-year-old Vietnam veteran in a Florida drug care center is worried about where he will live.

The warnings about the impact of the Reagan budget cuts are beginning to hit home.

"I almost feel like I'm sitting on death row," said Frances Kramer, director of elderly services for Dade County, Fla.

Reductions in some areas have been under way ever since legislation was passed trimming a wide variety of social programs. But the start of the new fiscal year Thursday provided a final deadline for many.

An Associated Press sampling found people being affected in many ways.

The last of 300,000 public service jobs paid for by the federal government under the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act are being phased out, for example, at a savings of $4.6 billion. Four hundred CETA employees in Delaware worked their last day Wednesday.

We had to lay off 150 people at midnight last night," said Ed Stanek, head of the Governor's Office for Planning and Programming in Iowa. Officials kept the CETA workers on the payroll until midnight, trying, unsuccessfully, to find a way to

Mengden Runs Up Highest Office Budget

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Sen. Walter Mengden, R-Houston, who is considering a U.S. Senate race next year, ran up the Legislature's highest total of office expenses in fiscal 1980, according to an audit released Thursday.

State Auditor George McNiel's report for the year that ended Aug. 31, 1980, showed Mengden spent $132,015. Mengden's total included an office payroll of $73,979, the Legislature's largest.

Top spender in the House, which has greater restrictions than the Senate on office expenditures, was Rep. Ron Wilson, D-Houston, who spent $54,391. Wilson had the only five-figure telephone and telegraph bill, $12,622.

Running the least expensive office Rep. Joe Hanna. D-Breckenridge, whose total expenses were $10,190 for the year.

Lowest-spending senator was Sen. Raul Longoria, D-Edinburg, who resigned this year to become a district judge. Longoria's expenditures totaled $15,921.

McNiel reported that it cost $524,664 to keep Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby's office going and $359,079 for Speaker Bill Clayton's office.

The fiscal year covered by McNiel's report was one in which the Legislature did not meet.

Total Senate expenditures were $6.2 million, while the House spent $10.3 million.

McNiel noted that former Sen. Gene Jones, D-Houston, who was convicted of spending state money on personal campaign expenses last year, had complied with a condition of his probation by giving the Senate a $10,000 restitution check on March 30, 1981.

Austinites Fighting Skyscrapers Which Hide Capitol Building

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) -From her third-floor office Lynn Hough has a clear view of the gaudy gold American Bank, the black monolith of the Austin National Bank and other downtown bank towers.

The 290-foot tower of American Bank blocks her view of the state Capitol, a landmark that is fast becoming hidden by new bank

It's a visual onslaught that began with the construction of the 24-story Westgate Building in 1965.

Like many Austinites who have called her at the City Planning Department, Ms. Hough does not like to look at the boxy bank towers. She wants to see the Capitol.

"There's nothing for the eye to linger on. Nothing to excite the imagination," she said, gazing out the window.

As Austin gets bigger, the Capitol seems to get smaller. The 309-foot building used to dominate the skyline. Those days are gone, and some Austinites want to keep it from getting worse.

Virginian Returns Home After Kidnapping Ordeal

INDEPENDENCE, Va. AP) - A 68-year-old Grayson County woman was on her way back home today after she was kidnapped last week and driven to Texas.

When Nannie O. Cox got home from work last Frida, about 3 p.m., she was confronted by two men wearing stocking masks. One had a pistol.

The pair tied her up and remained in the home until that night. Under cover of darkness, they put her in her 1978 Mercury and drove off with her.

Mrs. Cox works at the Gravson Garment Co. and had been paid at the end of the week. The money apparently served as traveling funds for the men.

They made their way across the country to Texas and tried to get into Mexico but had some difficulty at the border and were unable to cross, police said.

They ended up in San Antonio, Texas, where they placed a call to Mrs. Cox's son, Jamie Cox of Roanoke

County, demanding that he wire them $500 in ransom. The callers told Cox they would cross the border into Mexico after they got the money, and then release his Authorities in Grayson County already were working on the assumption that Mrs. Cox had been kidnapped.

She had been reported missing by co-workers when she didn't appear at the garment plant Monday. Deputies found some grocery purchases she apparently had made the previous Friday sitting on a table in the home rather than having been put in a refrigerator.

On this thing, we got started on it terribly late. It was just the waiting. That's the main thing - you can't get anxious," said Sheriff Herbert McKnight.

McKnight worked with an FBI agent once the ransom call was received. The call came to Roanoke Wednesday afternoon, and Mrs. Cox's son wired the money to San Antonio in accordance with the agent in charge of the San Antonio office, identified one of the men taken into custod William Michael Bobbitt, 25. of Sparta, N.C. The other was a 16-year-old boy. Mrs. Cox was unharmed, he said.

Bobbitt and the juvenile were charged with kidnapping and interstate transportation of a stolen motor vehicle. They were arraigned Thursday before U.S. Magistrate Jamie Boyd.

Mrs. Cox's son and daughter, Carolyn, flew from Roanoke to San Antonio Thursday to join Mrs. Cox. They were to drive back to Virginia in Mrs. Cox's vehicle, probably arriving sometime late today.

Ann Landers Love's Enriching Power

DEAR ANN: When I read the letter from the person whose next-door neighbor's son was given no affection, I knew who it was.

The little boy is 5 years old. I'm sure he has never heard the words "I love you" from his parents. The father's idea of attention is constant criticism, barking commands and threats of physical violence.

The reason I'm writing is to praise you for the good advice you gave, and to hope others will take it. My husband and I have done exactly that. We have made this neighbor child feel loved and welcome in our home. We give him as much attention as we can. (We have three of our own.)

Once my husband took him along to the hardware store. When they returned, the little guy said, "Gee that was a wonderful, good time we had-

-thanks." We just melted. We feel that we are making a big difference in the life of neglected child.-Anytown, USA

DEAR ANYTOWN: Your kindness is not only brightening the boy's life, but yours and your husband's as well. You are also setting a fine example for your children. Everybody wins! How beautiful!

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My son is a homosexual. He is a good person, intelligent and has an important job with a bank in Minneapolis. He has many friends and does not flaunt his lifestyle.

I've never seen this question in your column. How should I answer when an insensitive person asks every now and then, "Does John have a girlfriend yet?" (She

Movie Shows Teacher's Hard Lesson

NEW YORK (AP) - Ron Jones was teaching his pupils in a wealthy California suburb about the murder of Jews in Nazi Germany. Suddenly the lesson got out of hand, and the atmosphere that led to mindless slaughter in Germany threatened to take over an American high school.

The story of how that could happen is the subject of a television movie, "The Wave," on Sunday, Oct. 4 from 7-8 p.m. EDT on ABC.

Jones, in an interview, said it started 14 years ago with a question from one of his pupils at Cubberly School, Palo Alto, Calif. How could Germans deny any knowledge or responsibility for the Holocaust?

He decided to devote the next class period to a demonstration of Nazi rule. He darkened the classroom. He played Wagnerian music. "I wrote on the blackboard.

Strength Discipline.' I had them practice cryptic, sharp answers to my questions."

But it became clear the next day that the lesson in Nazism had worked deep changes in his classroom.

next day, I was shocked to see the students were totally silent, sitting at attention. I thought I should continue."

For several days, the experiment grew more elaborate. Jones invented a "Third Wave" salute, a raised cupped hand. He issued membership cards for the group Jones was "Fuehrer"

"My own feelings were beginning to change. I was excited at how learning seemed to increase in this environment. I gave a homework assignment and people seem-

Best Actress in a Drama Series was the toughest choice at on the fifth and last day came the climax. Three hundred students crowded intoan auditorium, where Jones promised he would introduce a leader who would unite the country behind "The Third Wave." This was no game, Jones said. This was real. Jones turned on two television sets and said, "Here is your leader." He walked out of the room. Doors slammed noisily shut. The only sound in the room was the hiss of the empty TV screens.

Recalls one of his students. Steve Coniglio, then 16, and now an actor in New York: "My most vivid image of the Holocaust was imagining people led into cement block rooms, the doors slamming shut and then the gas coming in. Well, we waited two minutes, then five minutes, and no new leader appeared on the screen. Then I got hit with the same feeling and screamed, 'I'm getting out of here."

And with that, the spell was broken, the lesson learned. It can happen here.

In sitcoms, most of the choices were simple enough. For Best Series, with "M A S H" and "Barney Miller" starting to go downhill (not much, but they're definitely past their peak), "Taxi" was an easy choice over "WKRP" and "The Two of Us." Mimi Kennedy ("The Two of Us") was an even easier choice, since her only possible competition was Susan Sullivan ("It's A Living"). For Supporting Actress, it was impossible to pick out one of the supporting cast of "It's A Living," so I went with Loni Anderson ("WKRP") instead. For Supporting Actor, with David Odgen Stiers ("M*A*S*H") and Steve Landesberg ("Barney Miller") losing ground with their shows, and Danny DeVito ("Taxi") and Robert Donner ("Mork and Mindy") given less to do this season, the obvious was Christopher Lloyd ("Taxi"). The only problem was in Best Actor, since, except for "WKRP" (with Howard Hesseman) and "The Two of Us" (with Peter Cook), there are no TV sitcoms that seem good enough for their lead actors. I voted for Tom Hanks and Peter Scolari ("Bosom Buddies") together, ahead of Hesseman or Cook, despite the inferiority of their show. Together they make me laugh more than Hesseman and Cook do separately, so much that I constantly wish they were in a different program.

"Dallas," but the show (with the exception of Linda Gray) has gotten so bad, so quickly that I don't even want to think about it. It isn't even fun to watch Larry Hagman smile evilly anymore. The best drama on TV this year was "Breaking Away" and the cast standouts were Thom Bray, who played the selfdeprecating Cyril, and the actress (I'm embarassed to admit that I can't remember her name) who played the wry college student, Paulina. The reason "Hill Street Blues" isn't anywhere on my list is that I seem to be one of the few supposedly intelligent viewers who doesn't like the show. To me, it's contrived and overwrought, as if the producers went to a group of promising young playwrights every week and told each one, "I want

REVIEW

After the action-filled adventure of "Raiders of the Lost Ark" and the steamy drama of "Body Heat." Kasdan has delivered a light and airy love story, rich with humor, and presented with a disarming ease and style. From adventure to comedy to drama, Blair Brown plays his mountain girl counterpart, and there's no question what shape she's in. She's lithe and lovely, and sharing an isolated cabin with her is worth climbing a mountain of considerable height.

Opposites may attract, but being together can often mean cancelling each other out. This is where an old-fashioned love story slips into the presentation of a very contemporary social situation-two lovers with two careers which take them in two opposite directions. Most relationships are not as extreme as this continental divide, nor does Kasdan propose a solution to so recent a lover's dilemma, but his characters are so likeable that we are happy to

Brand Sports Diversity proved to be the key to victory yesterday afternoon as the Hereford Sophomore football team raised their record to 4-1 with a 28-22 triumph over the junior varsity from Friona.

The Sophs used scoring on the ground and through the air in their four touchdown effort. And the air routes were shared by both Craig Jones and Mickey Stengle.

grade continued to play sterling defense and their eighth. grade stayed on the winning side as they both collected victories yesterday, 13-0 for the freshmen and 28-14 for the eighth grade.

Plainview Blue was the victim for the Dogies as Stanton used strong play on both sides of the ball to garner the wins.

In the eighth grade contest, Alan Dudding donned his track shoes as he scooted for scores of 75 yards and 25 yards and Stepan Hacker limbered up his arm with tosses to Rodney Torres and Pat Rodriquez to provide Stanton all the scoring needed to win the game.

The freshmen division of the Dogies improved their season mark to 2-0-1 as they used the first half to score all of their points and held Plainview without a chance to get into the endzone.

Kevin Redus opened the scoring for Stanton as he hit paydirt from 15 yards out and Kevin Bunch tacked on the extra point to give the hosts all the points needed to win

Houston Wants Cotton Bowl...Moved

AN AP Sports Analysis By DENNE H. FREEMAN AP Sports Writer

DALLAS (AP) - I'm going out on a limb - one that is two feet long and eight feet around - to predict that the Cotton Bowl stays in East Dallas. If nothing else, the Greater

Houston Bowl Association has given the Cotton Bowl a publicity shot with its million bucks a year move offer I make the New Year's Day

The GHBA, which previously sponsored the Bluebonnet Bowl, offered the Southwest Conference $3 million over the next three years to move the Cotton Bowl to either the Astrodome or Rice Stadium.

Without sounding too much like John Scovell, the president of the Cotton Bowl Association who has been given a hearty, knee-slapping laugh by this whole scenario, a million wouldn't cover moving expenses.

"It (the offer) defies my understanding," said Scovell. 'We've been successful for 41 years in Dallas. Why would we want to move to Houston?

League West on Thursday, but Manager Bill Virdon says there's no time to relax.

'We're still in first place, and that's what it's all about," Virdon said, after the Astros whipped the secondplace Cincinnati Reds 8-1, with the help of 11 bases on balls. "It won't be easy the rest of the way.

"I don't think Cincinnati will get beat here (in its final three games with Atlanta). We've got to win two out of three. Our work is cut out for us. We always have a tough time in Los Angeles."

By winning two of three from the first-half champion Dodgers, the Astros would clinch the second-half division title regardless of how the Reds fare.

"I don't think it (the division race) is over. But we're in a position to control our destiny," said Houston second baseman Phil Garner, who drove in two runs. "That's what we've got to

While it didn't kill the Reds' playoff hopes, the loss left them with only a prayer.

"I felt we had to win both games (against Houston) to have a chance," said Reds outfielder Dave Collins. 'Now we have to hope L.A. can knock them off while we take Atlanta three times."

"It's really tough to be so high and then get drained emotionally," said Cincinnati third baseman Ray Knight.

The Reds managed just one run, on a wild pitch in the seventh, off hard-throwing Nolan Ryan, 11-5, who allowed just seven hits.

He had command of his pitches," said Reds Manager John McNamara. "We said if Sports Writer he had command of his pites he'd he tough and he was tough."

That wasn't the case for seven Reds pitchers who walked 11 Astros, three with the bases loaded.

Joe Price, the third Cincinnati pitcher, came on with the bases loaded, none out and Houston nursing a 1-0 lead in the seventh. He struck out Gary Woods, walked Garner to force in a run, struck out Tony Scott and walked Jose Cruz.

Price, who hadn't surrendered an earned run in his previous 12 relief appearances; was then ejected during an argument with home plate umpire Joe West.

Cleaning alabaster

By Polly Fisher

DEAR POLLY - Please tell me how I can clean my white alabaster owls. - IZETTA DEAR IZETTA - For ordinary day-to-day cleaning. alabaster, like marble, needs only to be dusted or occasionally wiped with a soft damp cloth. Don't ever use abrasive cleaners or harsh detergents on alabaster; it can easily be scratched. If the object is very soiled, gently wash it with a soft cloth and a mild detergent or soap solution. Stains can be bleached out with a mild solution of one part hydrogen peroxide to four parts water. Alcohol is also effective. Whatever kind of cleaning product you use, always rinse thoroughly and dry with a soft cloth. Alabaster and marble are really easy to keep clean and beautiful - one of the reasons they have been so prized as decorating materials over the centuries.

DEAR POLLY - I'm never without peroxide in my cleaning cupboard. After I vacuum, I go over any spots on the carpet with a dampened sponge to which I've added a couple of drops of full-strength peroxide. I sponge over the spot with circular motions until the spot is removed. I've never had any trouble with damaging the color of the carpet with this method, either. — MRS. H.M. — DEAR MRS. H.M. AND READERS — Although you may never have had any bad results using peroxide as a spot remover on your carpeting, I do strongly urge all readers to test the peroxide on an inconspicuous spot before trying it out in the middle of the carpet. After all, peroxide is a bleach, and while it's bleaching out the stain, it might bleach out the carpet dyes, too. Test first to avoid tears later!

FAITH Mapped the Continent for our Early Explorers

The bold, intrepid explorers who braved the perils of uncharted seas and set sail to what later became known as America, and then followed its rivers and waterways inland to explore an unknown continent, left us a heritage consisting of far more than just the names by which we still call the places along their routes. Their legacy was their magnificent display of courage, determination and only unity of purpose; as well as their unansweing faith in God, which was their only guidepost in an otherwise hostile wilderness. Their daring exploits pioneered the vast land areas which we inhabit today, so let us honor these brave men by attending the Church of our choice, the best starting point for our own journey through the uncharted course of life.
