

Lawyer applied pressure to help Brown

BY KIM THOMAS
Staff Writer

Alleged events surrounding the appointment last August of Joe Brown as Deaf Smith County Sheriff were confirmed Monday night by Deaf Smith County Commissioner James Voyles, who said he felt "a wrong had been done and the people needed to know the truth."

Mary Parker, campaign manager for sheriff's candidate Dean Butcher, read a prepared statement during a barbecue held for Butcher supporters at the Deaf Smith County Bull Barn. Voyles, who was reportedly seated at the head table, listened to Parker's remarks and then spoke briefly, saying the report was accurate and that he wanted the facts to become public knowledge.

Parker related the story, which she said was told to her by two commissioners, as to why Butcher was not named.

"On the day of the appointment," Parker read, "a certain attorney in this city approached the commissioners court with certain accusations of all the candidates who had worked for the sheriff's department in the past."

"The attorney stated that sheriff's department in the past, they would be very red-faced and embarrassed in about three weeks."

"When asked to lay her pro on the table," Parker continued, "the attorney responded that she could not, but that she did have it."

Parker pointed out to the gathering that the three weeks have long since passed, and that when the special grand jury (investigating the district attorney's office) finished its work, not one of the four men in question was found to be guilty of anything. "Fortunately," Parker told the crowd, "there was one commissioner, James Voyles, who realized what had happened - and who has tried to make his position clear, in righting a wrong which was done."

"We feel very strongly about the ethics involved in elected officials or county employees stating their positions publicly as a form of influence, but we asked James to speak to you not as an advocate this evening, but to confirm that this is fact."

Voyles, contacted at his home late Monday night, said

JOE BROWN

"I voted for Joe Brown after it became apparent there wasn't enough support for Butcher. In the interest of harmony I supported Joe."

Voyles said he felt Butcher had three strong votes from the court before the attorney's visit.

Schalan Atkinson, who has been identified as that attorney, decided to withhold comment when contacted early this morning. Atkinson has been the object of attention for her alleged involvement in the grand jury and State Bar investigations of Deaf Smith County Criminal District Attorney Roland Saul and Jerry Smith, his former assistant.

"I have nothing against Joe Brown," Voyles declared. "I told him when he was appointed that he was my second choice but that I would support him. If he's elected, I'll continue to support him."

"What I object to is the way the court was influenced in appointing Joe. What I said tonight was the truth."

Other applicants for the job (besides Butcher, former chief deputy,) who had worked in the sheriff's office included Adult Probation Officer Harold Wheeler, Hereford Police Officer Randy Williams and Sheriff's Deputy Loy Smith.

Senior citizens receive more funds

"Coffee-break" time at Hereford Senior Citizens center Monday morning turned into a $20,000 "event".

It was at that time that Paul Moore, president of Hi-Plains Savings & Loan, announced the financial institution was making a contribution of $20,000 to the HSC building fund.

Only one week ago, HSC had received word that the Mabee Foundation of Tulsa, Ok., had approved a $50,000 challenge grant for the center. To receive that grant, the local senior citizens' association had to raise another $50,000 by Aug. 31.

From Savings & Loan

"This generous gift puts us well on the way toward our goal of $500,000," said Homer Carrison, HSC president. He had reported last week that cast and pledges totalled about $400,000.

Several HSC board members accompanied Moore to the Senior Citizen center Monday morning, and Garrison asked those present to assemble in the dining room. Bernard Roberson introduced Moore and J.O. Robinson, building committee chairman, accepted the check.

Before making the presentation, Moore said he was there to "thank senior citizens for their business" and to "show that Hi-Plains is involved in the community." He added that the institution "recognizes the importance of senior citizens in the community."

Moore told the small group that he'd heard some talk in town about Hi-Plains making loans in Austin and Dallas. "This is true, but the fact is that we're still making substantial loans here. The demand for money is higher in some areas," explained Moore, "and the higher return helps our profitability here and we are able to offer top interest rates on savings."

Doug Manning, chairman of the fund-raising committee, said the check should "give real impetus" to the center's campaign. "With the grant, any contribution we get now is like guaranteeing a check of the same amount later."

He is not only optimistic about reaching the campaign goal, but thinks it will be surpassed. The new center is to be constructed at Ranger Drive and Sycamore.

DOE criticized at hearing

By REED PARSELL
Managing Editor

Often described as sloppy and inaccurate, the U.S. Department of Energy was extensively criticized Monday night in Tulia for its nuclear waste repository site selection process.

Prominent Swisher County residents, representatives of state officials and several others testified at the hearing. It was staged by the Texas Nuclear Waste Programs Office, a group initiated by Gov. Mark White to examine the DOE's mission to establish the nation's first high-level nuclear waste dump.

Both Swisher and Deaf Smith counties contain locations among the nine in the country being considered for the underground storage facility. In order to make them similar in size to the other candidates, DOE last month recommended the Texas sites each be reduced to nine square miles.

The state, under the guidance of TNWPO, has been given a 45-day period during which it may gather comments to send to the DOE. Monday's hearing was the first of two to be conducted, with Hereford High School's auditorium to host the second at 7 p.m. Thursday.

Factors used by the DOE to select the proposed nine-square-mile areas are detailed in two large technical report volumes. They were prepared by the Office of Nuclear Waste Isolation of the Battelle Memorial Institute, a Columbus, Ohio firm hired by DOE.

"This kind of document is totally useless," proclaimed Don Hancock Monday evening, "should be categorized as such and DOE should be told to go back to the drawing board and start over."

An employee of the

Regarding nuclear dump

Southwest Research and Information Center in Albuquerque, N.M., Hancock is a consultant for the Tulia-based group STAND (Serious Texans Against Nuclear Dumping).

Though Hancock's remarks were clearly appreciated by the 550 to 400 people gathered in the Tulia High School auditorium, comments by Wiley Byrd sparked heavier applause. After asking whether those "north of the Mason-Dixie line" would get rid of nuclear waste were it valuable, he declared, "We don't want Texas to be guinea pigs for those Yankees."

Byrd, who has been very vocal throughout the site selection process, founded and owns Roll-A-Cone. The corn-related industry employs 35 Tulia residents and has an annual payroll of at least $700,000. It is located within the nine-square-mile area recommended by the DOE for nuclear waste dump consideration.

Energy Department officials used a dishonest approach to initiate their examination of Swisher County as a dump site possibility, Byrd charged. He said holes originally bored in the area were to detect salt, not oil as had been previously claimed by the DOE.

Furthermore, Byrd expressed strong doubt the DOE could carry through with its claim the waste storage facility would stay intact for "10,000 years." Architects have been unable to have anything built here which can withstand more than half a century, he said. Even bridges in Amarillo, he claimed, have been known to "crumble down" after 25 years.

Delbert Devin, president of STAND, also had some strong words for the governor's body to relate. He said DOE has shown it has "a blatant disregard of the law of the land." The Nuclear Regulatory Commission, he said, has been much more receptive to public comments during its evaluation of the DOE project guidelines than the Energy Department has otherwise been.

Body holds lengthy meeting

Deaf Smith County Commissioners met most of the day Monday, conducting lengthy discussions regarding radio equipment, litigation and county road policies.

Renovation or replacement of the sheriff department cars' radio equipment was considered, with action tabled. The commission, however, did approve that a county antenna be redone by Tower Services of Amarillo.

For more than an hour, the governing body met behind closed doors with A.W. "Bill" SoRelle, an Amarillo attorney representing Deaf Smith county in a suit filed three years ago by Abel Villarreal. The case has been certified as a class action concerning the county's hiring and salary practices.

In addition to the road policy talk with Kenny Hagar, commissioners took a brief look at the proposed budget and agreed to apply for a Panhandle Regional Crime Unit Grant.

Blood drive scheduled

The Women's Division of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring its monthly blood drive, slated for Wednesday afternoon.

According to Bettye Owen and Mildred Fuhrmann, co-chairmen, the drive will be staged from 4 to 6:30 p.m. in Hereford Community Center. All area residents are urged to participate.

Bingo tax payments shown

Deaf Smith County pulled in $2,367.39 of county bingo tax reimbursements for the period running from Sept. 1, 1983 through April 6, the state comptroller's office reported.

According to the press release, a total of $1.4 million was sent to the 55 counties and 72 cities in Texas who have legalized charitable bingo and levied the two-percent local gross receipts tax on the game.

"This makes more than $3 million we've collected and returned to local governments since we began making these allocations in August 1982," reportedly said Bob Bullock, state comptroller. "That means well over $150 million has changed hands in the course of legalized charitable bingo since the legislature authorized local option legalization in our state in 1981."

Nine arrested over weekend

Nine people were arrested here over the weekend for driving while intoxicated, Hereford police reported.

Three others were booked for public intoxication while two people were charged with disorderly conduct, possession of drug paraphernalia and no driver's license.

Among the incidents handled since Friday by police were five assaults and two burglaries. There were five non-injury motor vehicle accidents, three of them involving more than $250 total damage.

Tip Top Oil Company, 1507 E. First, reported that sometime after 2:30 a.m. Sunday four of its windows were broken. The vandalism was valued at more than $200.

Candidate forum set tonight

Hereford Community Center is to host a forum tonight at 7:00 for state representative, sheriff and constable candidates.

Everyone is invited to attend.

MONDAY'S HIGH: 75 (normal high this date: 74 record: 91 (1951))

OVERNIGHT LOW: 44 (normal: 45 record: 32 (1958))

Prosecution witnesses testify in trial

EDINBURG, Texas (AP) — Attorneys prosecuting former inmate Eroy Brown have promised "new scientific evidence" will be presented today by either a ballistics expert or pathologist to prove Brown is guilty of murder.

Brown, 33, has admitted killing Texas Department of Corrections farm manager Billy Max Moore and Ellis Unit Warden Wallace Pack in April 1981. But he has said he thought the men planned to torture him and he killed them in self-defense.

Brown was tried twice on capital murder charges in the Pack slaying. The first trial ended in a hung jury and a second jury in Galveston acquitted Brown.

Charges in the Moore case were reduced from capital murder to murder by Walker County District Attorney Frank Blazek. The case is being tried in Edinburg on a change of venue.

At-large elections okay

PECOS, Texas (AP) — The city of Pecos and a Reeves County school district do not have to alter their election process from an at-large system to single-member districts, a federal judge has ruled in a lawsuit that contended the current elections discriminate against Mexican-Americans.

In a 15-page decision, U.S. District Judge Lucius Bunton said, "Since the Mexican-American residents of both electoral systems are clearly the majority in actual numbers of populous and in registered voters, and will continue to be an increasing majority in both, if established trends continue, the impact of polarized voting (whether it exists or not) has no detrimental impact upon the election of Mexican-American candidates to either of the elected bodies in issue in this cause."

Bunton added that "in the near future, the Anglos of Reeves County could very well be in this court, bringing the claims for relief that plaintiffs now present."

Judge denies Showery's request

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — An El Paso doctor convicted last year of drowning a fetus during an abortion has been turned down in his request for county aid in paying the costs of his appeal.

Raymond Showery also has lost a bid to receive county financial assistance in his appeal of a ruling last week that revoked his $200,000 appeal bond in light of a recent involuntary manslaughter charge filed against him.

In denying the doctor's requests Monday, State District Judge John McKellips said Showery failed to present sufficient evidence that he was indigent.

McKellips said he would reconsider the request that the county pay Showery's appeals cost if the doctor could provide tax records, bank statements and other information to the court to support the indigency claim.

The only evidence submitted during Monday's hearing was testimony from Showery.

Soviets open spring offensive

WASHINGTON (AP) — Soviet forces have opened a spring offensive against Afghan guerrillas but may run into supply problems because the rebels have blown up a key bridge, U.S. government sources say.

Soviet bombers have pounded the rebel stronghold in the Panjshir Valley, north of the Afghan capital of Kabul, for several days, the sources said Monday, speaking on the condition they would remain anonymous.

Soviet troops, up to 20,000 by one estimate, as well as hundreds of tanks, armored vehicles and helicopters, are positioned north of Kabul, the sources said. They said 60 to 80 helicopter gunships have been readied for what shapes up as the biggest campaign of the four-year war.

"The offensive is on," one official said. But specialists said the rebels struck a major blow to Soviet supply lines by demolishing the Mattock Bridge across the Ghorband River north of the capital. The bridge is on the main road from Kabul to the Soviet Union.

Law may be headed to court

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — An ordinance that would make distributors of violent pornography subject to sex discrimination lawsuits handily won approval from the city council, but even supporters say they doubt it will survive court challenges.

The council voted 24-5 in favor of the ordinance Monday night, and Mayor William H. Hudnut III, who has expressed his support, was expected to sign the legislation quickly.

More than 300 people attended the meeting, most of them supporters of the ordinance from the Indianapolis Baptist Temple, which is led by the Rev. Greg Dixon, a former national officer of the conservative Moral Majority.

Four dead, 100 injured in riots

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — Police opened fire with bullets and tear gas bombs on protesters angry over government-ordered price increases. At least four people were killed and 100 injured.

Police reported about 300 arrests as riots broke out in at least five cities during the protests Monday, which coincided with a call by businessmen for a 24-hour general strike.

Rioters set fire to three supermarkets and three furniture stores in the capital's old district and smashed windows in scores of other stores in looting sprees.

Police armed with automatic weapons and tear gas grenades patrolled the streets today to try to prevent any new outbreak of violence in this Caribbean nation's capital.

Mexico cites 'good results'

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The state oil monopoly PEMEX said Monday it is making progress in cleaning up the swamps and waterways contaminated by its refineries in and around Coahuila.

Coahuila is the PEMEX oil complex in Veracruz state of the Gulf of Mexico. Residents and environmentalists have long complained about pollution caused by the refineries there.

But PEMEX says it has achieved "very positive results" in its cleanup efforts.

"Since last year," PEMEX said, "the main cause of contamination in the area has been eliminated — the drainage waters of the Gen. Lazaro Cardenas del Rio refinery in Minatitlan."

Fun, briefing combined

By R. GREGORY NOKES
AP Diplomatic Writer

HONOLULU (AP) — President Reagan combined fun in the sun with a high-level briefing on Soviet military activity in the Pacific as he made final preparations for his visit to China on Thursday.

Accompanied by his wife, Nancy, Reagan sunned at poolside and went for a stroll on Waikiki beach Monday as part of a leisurely schedule designed to ease the effects of jet lag on the 73-year-old president.

Reagan was to leave here at 11 a.m. Tuesday Hawaiian time (4 p.m. EST) on a seven-hour, 40-minute flight to Guam for an overnight visit, the last stop before Peking. The flight to Peking Thursday will take another six hours and five minutes, with the president's arrival scheduled for 2:05 p.m. Peking time (1:05 a.m. EST).

Peking is 13 hours ahead of Washington, and Reagan's aides plotted a slow journey, with frequent rest stops en route.

The president will cross the International Dateline on his flight to Guam arriving on what will be Wednesday there, though still Tuesday on the U.S. mainland.

Although Monday was devoted largely to rest, aides said Reagan wasn't completely idle. He took some briefing papers to the swimming pool to read.

Speakes said Reagan will have a final pre-China briefing Wednesday in Guam, focusing on Reagan's first day of meetings in Peking on Thursday.

Speakes said the briefing would be a round-table discussion led by Secretary of State George P. Shultz and National Security Adviser Robert C. McFarlane.

Reagan will be greeted on his arrival at Peking's airport by Chinese Foreign Minister Wu Xueqian. He is expected to meet with Deng Xiaoping and other top government and Communist party leaders during his three days in Peking.

Senior officials traveling with Reagan predicted privately that an agreement with the Chinese on a nuclear cooperation accord would be ready for Reagan to sign in Peking. They were unsure whether it would be complete, or whether it would leave some issues to be resolved in future negotiations.

"It is possible that we can conclude that agreement and have an announcement during the trip, but that is about all I can say now," Speakes said in response to a question at a news briefing.

Speakes also said a proposal to include a Chinese astronaut on a future U.S. space flight could be decided during the Reagan visit.

The deputy press secretary said Reagan received a briefing here Monday on the Soviet military threat in the Pacific from Admiral William J. Crowe Jr., the commander of U.S. forces in the Pacific.

The briefing, Speakes said, focused on the "overall threat that the (U.S.) military is prepared to defend against in the theater, in the region and the role that our regional allies play in meeting these challenges to our national security interests."

Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger also has expressed concern over what he called "the growing Soviet military presence in Southeast Asia" including joint amphibious exercises with Vietnam this month.

Concerning locations

Hearings, meetings set

By REED PARSELL
Managing Editor

An onslaught of hearings and other meetings concerning location of the nation's first high-level nuclear waste repository has been scheduled for the next nine days.

One of two hearings by the Texas Nuclear Waste Programs Office (TNWPO) was conducted last night in Tulla (see story, page 1). The next is slated for 7 p.m. Thursday in Hereford High School's auditorium.

Meanwhile, another state government group has set a hearing for 6 p.m. Friday in Canyon. The Texas House-Senate Joint Study Committee on Hazardous Waste Disposal plans to conduct its session in the activities center ballroom on the West Texas State University campus.

Finally, the U.S. Department of Energy (DOE) intends to hold "public information exchanges" on May 1 and 3 in Vega and Tulla, respectively. Oldham County Barn, 4th and Coke, is the Vega site. In Tulla, the gathering is to be at Highland Grade School, 702

N.W. 8th. Both DOE exchanges are scheduled to run from 6:30 to 10 p.m.

The TNWPO hearings and DOE exchanges have been called specifically to address the DOE's recent recommendation the two Panhandle sites being considered for the dump be reduced to nine square miles apiece. One is located approximately four miles north of Tulla in Swisher County, while the other is in northeast Deaf Smith County.

There are seven other sites in the United States which are candidates for the repository. Seven of them - including the two in Texas - are termed "salt" locations. The state of Washington hosts a "basalt" site while a "tuff" location is in Nevada.

Mississippi and Utah each contain two of the other salt sites, of which Louisiana boasts the other. Under the current timetable, the field is to be narrowed to three possibilities early next year. Detailed site characterization studies are then to be performed before a final selection is recommended to the president by the end of 1990.

The proposed reduction of the two Panhandle sites, the DOE explained in March, was made to make them similar in size to the other seven candidates. A 45-day comment period was established, with input during the two TNWPO hearings to represent part of what state officials plan to send the DOE.

Lieutenant Gov. Bill Hobby and Gib Lewis, speaker of the house, established the joint study committee. It hopes to solicit testimony from area citizens about the two Texas locations and the site selection process being used.

A report of that and possibly another hearing - which may occur during a special legislative session anticipated for May or June - are to be given to the 69th state legislature when it convenes next January.

The DOE exchanges are designed to make concerned citizens more aware of how the site-narrowing recommendations were reached.

SAM T. WARDEN

DALHART — Services for Sam T. Warden, 78, will be at 3 p.m. Wednesday in Lincoln Street Baptist Church with the Rev. Johnny Lee Jr., pastor, officiating. Burial will be in Memorial Park Cemetery under the direction of Schooler-Gordon Funeral Directors.

Mr. Warden died Sunday afternoon. He was the father of Thomas G. Warden and Windred K. Warden, both of Hereford, and the brother of Alice Lee Hanegan, also of Hereford.

He also did contract work for the Texas Highway Department in the Spearman and Gruver areas and was a mechanic for Mac Corbett. He was a member of Lincoln Street Baptist Church.

His wife, Theresia "Bobbie" Warden, died in 1980.

Other survivors include two daughters, Wilma Lee Doak of Bloomington, Minn., and Marilyn T. Ridenour of Dalhart; a sister, Tommie Patterson of Floresville; 15 grandchildren; and 12 great-grandchildren.

also testified at the hearing. She said she would like to see "a star role" for landowners in the selection process, something which she maintained has not yet occurred. Also, Mrs. Devin wondered how excavated salt could be maintained in a pile with heavy winds and storms common to the Panhandle area.

At least three Swisher County groups have passed resolutions opposing the placement of a nuclear waste dump in their area or Deaf Smith County, it was announced Monday night. The Swisher County Commission, along with the boards of directors from Tullia Chamber of Commerce and Tullia Industries, went on record against the repository.

Larry Letscher, at the hearing on behalf of Gary Mauro, said the Texas land commissioner is "absolutely opposed" to the dump being placed in the Panhandle. Mauro vowed "to do everything in my power to prevent its construction in Texas."

A representative from the state agriculture office, Bob Gibson, said Commission Jim Hightower believes "federal bureaucrats" should not be alone in making the site selection decision. The "people of Texas" should have a strong say, he maintained.

Having "closed its eyes" to the agricultural aspect of the situation, Hightower claimed, the DOE has not learned Deaf Smith and Swisher counties "are the epitome of farm country."

Jim Reed, from the Texas

Advisory Commission on Intergovernmental Affairs, said "defective logic" was evident upon examination of the two hefty technical reports. Insufficient data had too often been used, he said. Also, he claimed, possible socio-economic repercussions of placing the dump in Texas were not adequately covered.

"The report represents a lack of depth and substantive analysis," Reed said. "We know that we don't want DOE to go ahead with its mad rush to bury the power companies' hot waste under the prime agriculture land of Swisher or Deaf Smith counties," offered State Sen. Lloyd Doggett in a written statement. "By acting now, we can tell DOE that the current plan won't work, and must be changed before it is too late."

As now planned, three of the nine sites are to be recommended to the president next spring for further consideration. Extensive site characterization studies would then be performed at each of the three candidates, with a final selection to be made in the early 1990s. The proposed Swisher County site rests approximately five miles northeast of Tullia. About 19 miles separates Hereford from the other Texas location in northeast Deaf Smith County.

A court reporter was present Monday to record the hearing, for which a transcript is to be prepared. Among those on a four-member panel listening to the testimony were Steve Frishman, director of TNWPO, and Assistant Director Dan Smith.

Hart renews attack

By WILLIAM M. WELCH
Associated Press Writer

Gary Hart is beginning the next round of the Democratic presidential race by vigorously renewing his attack on Walter F. Mondale as beholden to special interests, while the former vice president keeps his aim on the incumbent.

The third-place candidate, the Rev. Jesse Jackson, put some minds at ease among Democratic Party leaders Monday when he said he planned no walkout at the national convention this summer - even though he says the party's delegate rules are skewed against him.

Hart and Mondale are both back campaigning after an Easter break and were converging today in Cleveland, where 154 delegates are at stake in Ohio's May 8 primary. Neither bothered to campaign in Vermont, where caucuses today will determine 13 delegates and where Hart overwhelmingly won a non-binding primary in March.

Hart's fresh verbal assault on Mondale followed a weekend strategy session with his advisers on how to reverse his campaign's slump and cut into Mondale's nearly two-to-one lead in delegates.

"The incumbent Republican president and the present Democratic front-runner are both beholden to interest groups trying to buy themselves an exemption from the common burden," Hart told an audience of about 900 people at the University of Texas at Austin.

"We cannot defeat an incumbent president in thrall to the privileged and the powerful by nominating a Democratic candidate in debt to interest group politics," he said. "We cannot be content with a choice between a president so reckless that he seems ready to take any risk - and a candidate so cautious that he offers no real hope of change."

Texas' May 5 caucuses are crucial for Hart, who has said he is looking to the West to reverse Mondale's pattern of victories set in the industrial Northeast.

Four local underwriters named by Zinsmeyer

Four life insurance underwriters in Hereford have been named to membership in the Texas Leaders Round Table, it was announced this week in Austin by William E. Zinsmeyer, president of TLRT.

TLRT is an elite organization composed of the life insurance industry's most successful underwriters in Texas. Its members represent the top 10 percent of Texas' successful life insurance producers.

Regular qualifying members in Hereford were B.J. Gilliland, Steve Nieman and John Faulkner. Meeting life member qualifications was Charles Bell.

Faulkner, Gilliland and Nieman were among about half the members who achieved the coveted Lone Star Leader designation. To receive this honor, a member must have produced $35,000 in first-year business, almost double the requirement for TLRT membership.

Membership in TLRT is a career milestone for life insurance underwriters who maintain impressive production records and provide important financial services to families and businesses, as well as outstanding contributions to their community. TLRT sponsors activities throughout the year to promote improvement of its members and their service to the insurance-buying public.

Meet Your Neighbor

BY LINDA CAUDLE

Coming to Hereford was a surprise (and that's something of an understatement) for new residents Lenn and Linda Stearns.

On the afternoon the movers arrived at their home in Carrollton, a north Dallas suburb, they received word that their destination would be here rather than Plainview, as originally planned.

Recovering from their surprise, the young couple took it all in stride, and both are happy about the sudden turn of events.

Lenn had worked 13 weeks at the Friona plant of EXCEL Corporation when he first started with the company in January of 1983, before being transferred to Dallas, so he already had several friends in this area.

"We really like it in Hereford and are glad things worked out the way they did. People have been so friendly and open," said Linda. The couple has begun getting involved in the community and making new acquaintances.

The Stearns arrived in town two months ago, after staying in the Holiday Inn at Clovis, N.M., for a month.

Linda didn't have much time to get bored there, for their cat gave birth to three kittens shortly after they reached the motel. "Perfect timing," she smiled.

Both Lenn and Linda grew up in small towns in Kansas. He is from Clearwater, near Wichita, and she was raised in Hugoton, in the southwest part of the state. They met while attending Kansas State University in Manhattan and were married almost 11 months ago.

"I graduated from college, got married and moved to Dallas all in two weeks time. It was really a sudden change," she smiled.

Linda attended Fort Hays Kansas State University in Hays on nursing scholarships following graduation from high school. She had been a candy stripper for two years while in high school and worked as a nurse's aide during the summer.

"I liked it, but decided it was just not something I wanted to do all the time," she said.

So after a year at Fort Hays she moved to Kan., where she was employed at a finance company and took several night classes at Seward County Community College.

"In Liberal I had a steady job, knew a lot of people, and had become involved in the community, especially sports. It was near Hugoton and really felt like home," she recalled. "I grew up so much in those two and a half years out on my own."

"It was kind of hard to leave, but I'm glad I went on to finish school. I still think it's the best thing I've ever done."

She had always been interested in physical education, as had her husband, who went two years to Hutchinson Community College in Hutchinson, Kan., on a football scholarship before transferring to KSU.

Linda received her coaching certificate at KSU, studying such things as first aid and athletic injuries.

"I'd like to gear more toward sports medicine when going back for a master's, and spend more time with athletic injuries," she stated. "That was one of my favorite classes. It's really detailed, and there is more involved than most people realize. I think it is fascinating."

Linda began attending an exercise class soon after moving into town. "I had always been involved in that sort of thing, and after living in a motel for a month, I was really ready to get started," she commented. "Eventually I'd like to teach a class."

While doing her student teaching at Warnego, a small town near Manhattan, Linda was in charge of the drill team. "The girls wanted to exercise every day and I really enjoyed it too," she noted.

She was also involved in coaching at the small school, and really became a part of the community during the short time she was there.

"I got involved in so many things, it hardly seemed as if I was a student teacher, until the paychecks came and I didn't get one!" she grinned.

Linda was employed at a theater near the campus while in Manhattan, and after her marriage, she worked during the summer for Frito Lay in downtown Dallas.

Since coming to Hereford, she has been substitute teaching, mostly at Stanton Junior High School, and is hoping to find full-time employment. She has visited Hereford Newcomers Club, and she and her husband have been attending St. Anthony's Catholic Church.

They both enjoy all types of sports, and like riding bikes, jogging and playing racquetball together.

"We have coached softball teams together, and are hoping to get on teams this summer. It's hard to imagine a summer without softball," she remarked.

Lenn has joined a trap shooting club. "He has always loved to hunt and fish," said Linda. "He is also into weight lifting."

"We like to go camping and boating. Lenn loves to water ski and I am learning," she continued. "We're hoping to go snow skiing sometime. I've never been."

Art from Diamond Museum to be exhibited

The 63rd annual meeting of the Panhandle-Plains Historical Society will begin at the museum in Canyon on May 5 with a special exhibit of paintings, drawings, lithographs, and sculpture from the Diamond M Museum in Snyder, according to society executive vice-president Byron Price.

"The exhibit includes paintings by Texas and New Mexico artists, such as Joseph Imhof and Joseph Fleck, as well as works by noted western artists W.H.D.

Koerner, W.R. Leigh, Harold Von Schmidt, N.C. Wyeth, and Joseph Henry Sharp," said Carol Cline, the museum's curator of exhibits.

It also features several Currier and Ives lithographs and several sculptures by Frank Hoffman, George Phippen, Pierre Mene, Rosa Bonheur, and other noted artists, she added.

The Diamond M. Museum was founded by C.T. McLaughlin in 1964 in Snyder, Texas. McLaughlin was born in 1897 in an area of Pennsylvania which produced the world's first commercial oil well, and the production of oil played a large part in his life from boyhood onward.

After serving in the 503rd Aero Squadron during World War One, McLaughlin moved to Wichita Falls, where he founded a drilling company.

Art of the American West, from the late 19th century to the present, is the largest category. McLaughlin was particularly interested in Texas artists whose careers were developing. There is a small group of English and European paintings and sculpture in the show. "Art from the Diamond M" will be on exhibit in the north art gallery of the Panhandle-

Plains Historical Museum May 5 through June 30. Admission is free.

Reggie charges racism

NEW YORK (AP) — Charges of racism and anti-Semitism on the New York Yankees are contained in a new book co-authored by former Yankee Reggie Jackson, a published report said.

The New York Daily News reported in Tuesday's editions that Jackson writes that he quickly noticed when he joined the Yankees in 1977 that "the blacks all locked in one section of the room" and that Roy White and other "old fashioned Yankee black guys were taught to be seen and not heard."

Jackson also tells of players making fun of outfielder Mickey Rivers, and passing on Rivers stories to the press, which he called a subtle form of racism.

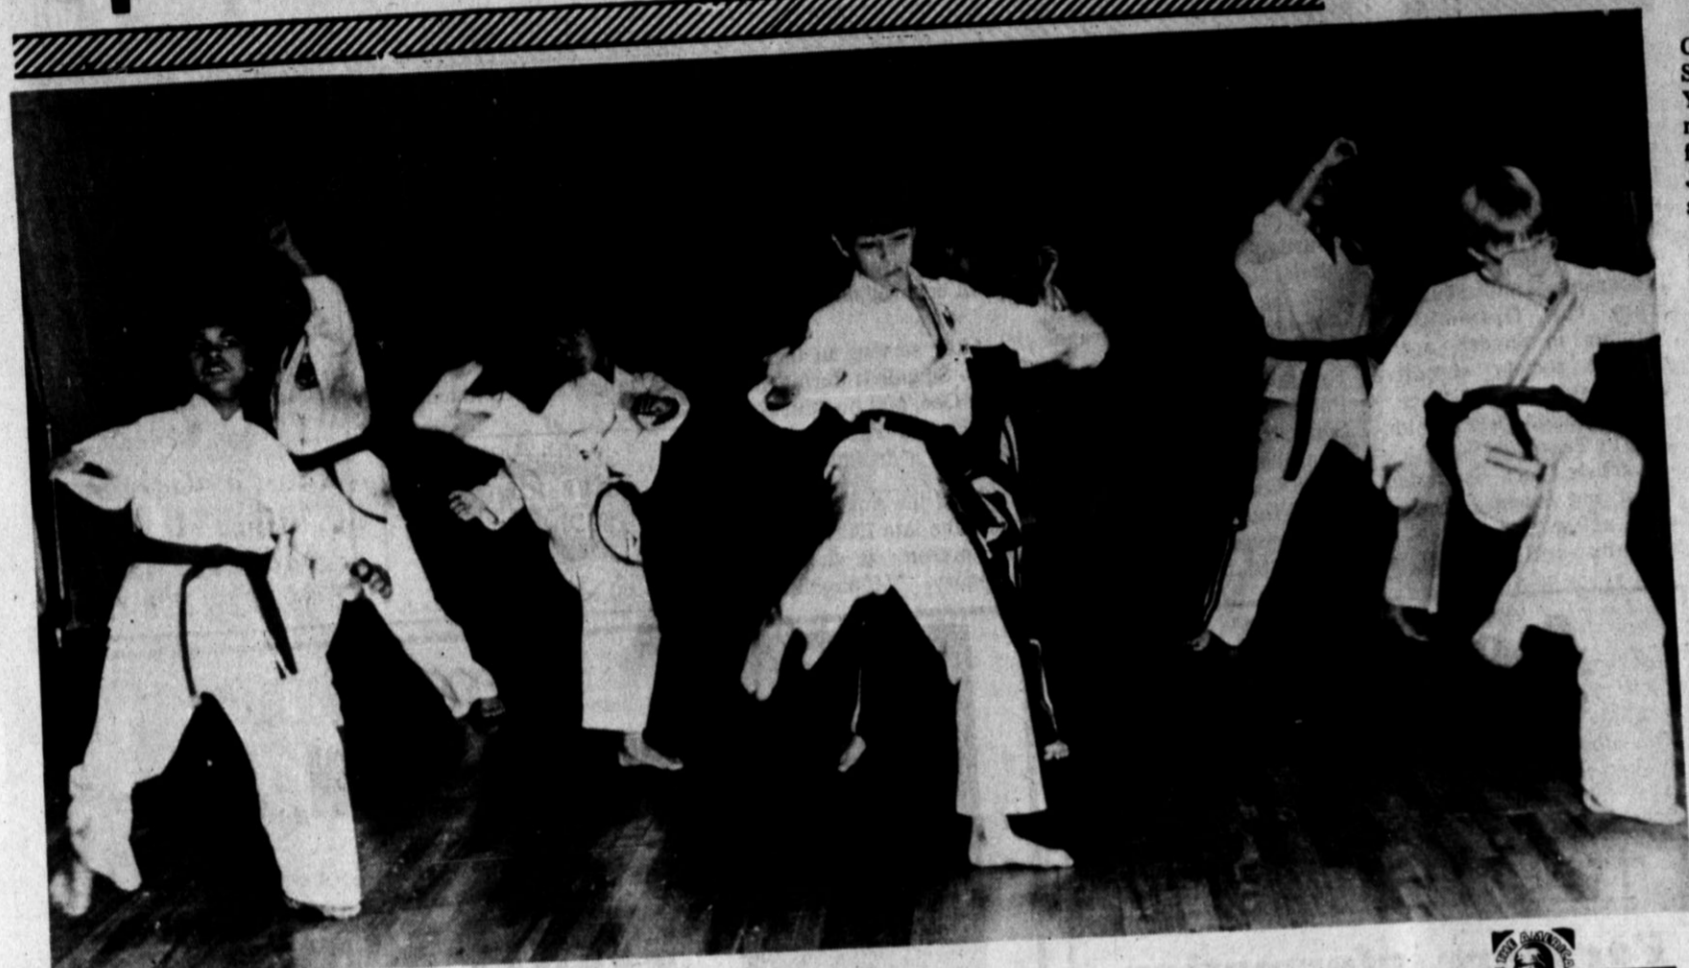

Jackson, now with the California Angels, writes that some players enjoyed "making Jewish jokes" about pitcher Ken Holtzman, humor Jackson described as "crude juvenile stuff."

The book, co-authored by News columnist Mike Lupica, is to be published June 4th, and will be the latest in a series of books authored or co-authored by former Yankees. Jackson also alleges in the book that his teammates "hated the fact that I had a good rapport with the press ... Behind my back, they made snide comments about how I was always seeking out attention."

Sonics can eliminate Mavericks

SEATTLE (AP) — The Seattle SuperSonics, up two games to one, can close out the Dallas Mavericks' first National Basketball Association playoff appearance tonight.

A Seattle victory in the Kingdome would advance the Sonics into the Western Conference semifinals against the high-powered Los Angeles Lakers — and eliminate the fourth-year Mavericks.

If the Sonics beat Dallas in game No. 4 of the clubs' first-round, best-of-five series, a Seattle-Los Angeles series would open in Los Angeles either Saturday or Sunday.

In the Lakers' opening round series, they made short work of Kansas City, taking three straight games, including the series clincher

Sunday.

After a 104-94 victory here Saturday, the Sonics' players made it clear that they don't want to return to Dallas. A fifth game, if necessary, would be held in Texas Thursday night.

"They will be out to finish us off," Mark Aguirre of Dallas acknowledged.

"We've got to go out there like it's a one-game series," remarked the Sonics' Gus Williams. "No one on our team wants to go back to Dallas."

"We can't let those guys explode," said the Mavericks' Rolando Blackman. "But that's easier said than done."

"I've learned through all my years of watching and playing the pro game that you can't say it's over," cautioned 13-year Seattle veteran Fred Brown.

"It is now down to the bread's on the table — who wants to go get it the most," added Dallas Coach Dick Motta.

"We're doing things instinctively on defense," remarked Seattle's Jack Sikma. "It's really important at this time of the season for each of us to understand exactly why and how we do things."

The Sonics' defense has played a key role in their success against Dallas, a fourth-year franchise.

Seattle was a horrendous road team during the regular season but the Sonics have been tough to beat at home. The Sonics, with their playoff victory Saturday, now are 33-9 at home this season.

Kids, Inc. Update

BY 'LEFTY' SKINNER

It costs about $50 a player to provide 7-8 weeks of baseball and softball for Deaf Smith County youngsters. Kids, Inc. Treasurer Gayle Cotten calculated that last year's program ran just shy of $50 for each individual that participated.

The primary forms of income are player fees (each participant pays $15); sponsorships (businesses, most of whom are longtime supporters of our program, kick in $175 each); one or more Fund-Raisers (door-to-door sales campaign, that normally makes up close to one-third of our budget); the concession stand at the Kids Inc. Complex; still more help from the business community (those who sponsor signs on the outfield fences); and this year, a much-appreciated $2,000 donation from the City of Hereford.

Most of those who are acquainted with the program know it's a "no-frills" situation ... even so, we expect to spend about $30,000 this season by the time the playoff tournaments are history.

In a future installment, we'll tell you where this money goes.

Speaking of Sports

By STAN GODEK
Sports Editor

Things have lightened up quite dramatically with regard to this spring's District 3-5A heavy sports schedule. Usually on Mondays the sports desk is swarmed with track, golf, tennis, and baseball results.

But this week things were different. Aside from two games this week from the varsity Herd baseball team and an appearance May 5 by Selma Moreno in the Girls State Track Meet - Things are coming to an end as far as local Hereford Independent School District teams and participants are concerned.

The boys golf team finished ninth in the district behind first place Amarillo High. The girl golfers are in a rebuilding stage and finished down in the standings.

The tennis team failed to advance anyone from district as did the boys varsity track squad.

The girl tracksters advanced three into the state regionals but only Moreno will compete in the State Meet scheduled early May in Austin. Lisa Redmon could not place higher than third in the regional 100 and 200-meter dashes and Bernice Thomas had a shot at making it to State in the discus but could not capture first or second place.

A first or second place finish is what is required for a participant to advance from district to regionals and from regionals to state. Miss Moreno, a sophomore, goes to state by finishing second in the 3,200-meter run. She also competed in the 1,600-meter run at the recent regional meet but did not qualify for state in that event.

The HHS baseball unit has fallen on hard times recently, losing 21-17 Friday to Lubbock Coronado and then Saturday Caprock pounded the Herd 17-9. The two losses give the Whitefaces a 7-7 district record and puts them in fourth place in the race.

Monterey High has the district wrapped up with a 13-0 record. The Plainsmen have to be one of the favorites to win state as they have demolished all their district opponents recently.

One of Hereford's problems on the diamond has been errors. Friday, against Coronado, HHS committed at least seven errors and the Herd reportedly made eight miscues in its losing effort against Caprock Saturday.

I'm sure all the local teams are looking for bigger brighter things next season.

Lendl out of tournament

DALLAS (AP) — Thigh bruises and possible kidney problems are blamed for Ivan Lendl's withdrawal from the $500,000 Buick World Championship of Tennis, tournament officials said Monday.

Dr. Irving Glick of New York recommended that the No. 2 seed Lendl, the 1982 WCT finals champion, not play for seven to 10 days because his injuries were not responding to treatment.

Lendl was replaced by Tim Mayotte of Springfield, Mass., and the rest of the players were reseeded.

The tournament begins tonight, but No. 1 seed John McEnroe won't see action until Friday in the talented

Warriors plan weekend car wash

The Hereford Warriors, a local semi-pro football team forming this year, is having a car wash Saturday from 1-5 p.m. to raise money to help purchase team uniforms, according to club spokesman Matt Morgan.

Morgan said a final team roster of about 25 players is in the process of being completed. The Warriors will have a full-contact practice 1 p.m. Sunday at the La Plata practice field.

Hereford will be opposing teams from Amarillo, Wellington and Amarillo when the semi-pro season begins this fall according to Morgan.

Olympic cage team cut to 20

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) — U.S. Coach Bobby Knight said he didn't want to talk about the 20 players selected to the U.S. Olympic basketball team.

Then he did at Monday's news conference to announce the players — eight more will be cut before the Olympics — selected from 72 athletes after the grueling weeklong trials at Indiana University.

His comments weren't all positive. In fact, he said, "The only question mark is the outside shooting of the team. This is not a team of outside shooters."

But of the choices decided by the selection committee and his staff, Knight said, "The 20 players were far and away beyond everyone (else) involved in the trials. There was no one else remotely close."

The team is overloaded with 10 guards, including North Carolina's Michael Jordan, who can play forward.

Some of Knight's comments on individuals: Steve Alford, Indiana, guard: "He's probably the best shooter we had here. He's not a guy that can manufacture shots for himself. If he can get open by way of screens and get away from people and set up cuts, that becomes a very positive thing for him because of his great shooting ability."

Johnny Dawkins, Duke, guard: "I think Dawkins played much more under control than I've seen him play. I thought his judgment was better than in the past."

Charles Barkley, Auburn, forward: "He will have different demands than have been placed on him to date.

He's got to work at becoming a better defensive player and sharpening those things he does well."

Sam Perkins, North Carolina, forward: "I think Perkins had excellent effort."

He gets things done easily."

Wayman Tisdale, Oklahoma, forward: "He does one or two things acceptable by my standards."

Jeff Turner, Vanderbilt forward: "He plays with a good conservative approach. He takes very good shots and is crisp with his passes."

Chuck Person, Auburn, forward: "Outstanding athlete. He got a jolt to the thigh (in a scrimmage last week). It took a real tough kid to come back the two nights (for the weekend games)."

Chris Mullin, St. John's, forward: "In my mind, Mullin is a forward. That's where Mullin has to play to make the squad. Good shooter from the perimeter."

Leon Wood, Fullerton State, guard: "He knows the first four letters in defense. Hopefully, he'll learn the rest of them. That'll be very important to him."

Michael Jordan, North Carolina, guard-forward: "As flexible as a player can be... affords opportunities in a variety of ways." John Stockton, Gonzaga, guard: "Smart player."

Alvin Robertson, Arkansas, guard: "The greatest player is one who plays one on nobody with any consistency (a reference to his ability to steal and take the ball)..."

Has ability to apply excellent defense pressure. As a defensive player he's real. Needs to be more careful with the basketball."

Lancaster Gordon, Louisiana, guard: "Excellent judgment, awfully good. Almost everything he did was what he should have done."

Knight said the centers' post play couldn't be truly evaluated because there were no set patterns used at the trials' games.

Patrick Ewing of Georgetown heads the centers, which also include Jon Koncak of Southern Methodist, Joe Kleine of Arkansas and Tim McCormick of Michigan.

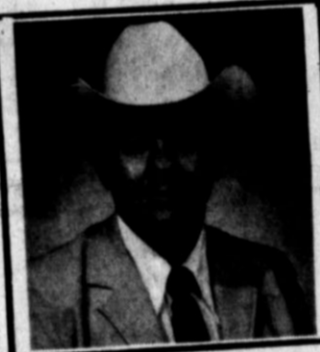

The players will return to Indiana University for a five-day mini-camp May 10 and again for formal practices June 15. Then they start an exhibition schedule against National Basketball Association all-star teams.

TAX EXEMPTIONS — AVAILABLE THROUGH DEAF SMITH CO. APPRAISAL DIST.

Exemptions can reduce the tax bill to qualified persons

Property owners in Texas are not required to pay property taxes on their household goods, personal effects and family supplies for home or farm use. Taxpayers also enjoy several kinds of exemptions and other forms of tax relief. The first of these is the residence homestead exemption. A "residence homestead" is defined as a structure, together with the land "residence homestead" is defined as a structure, together with the land and improvements, used for residential purposes. In other words, a residence homestead is basically a home and a yard. A mobile home—even residence homestead is located on leased land—can qualify as a residence homestead. The amount of land used for residential purposes may not exceed 20 acres. The chief appraiser will determine how much land actually qualifies.

If you owned your home and used it as your principal residence on January 1 of the appropriate tax year, you may claim it as your residence homestead and receive a tax exemption on it for purposes of school taxes. You may also be entitled to certain optional exemptions if offered by the jurisdictions which tax your property.

You will still qualify for the homestead exemption even if a portion of your residence is used for other purposes—for example, if it is used in your business.

Moreover, you will not lose your exemption if you temporarily move away, provided you intend to return and do not claim a residence homestead elsewhere. For instance, if you enter a nursing home and rent to return and if you do not claim a homestead in another jurisdiction.

Applications must be filed on official forms available from the appraisal district, and property owners should note that it is a criminal offense to file a false application.

General homestead exemption

School homestead exemption: If you qualify for a residence homestead, you will be entitled to a $5,000 exemption off the market value of the homestead for school tax purposes. In other words, if your homestead has a market value of $60,000, the exemption will reduce the taxable value to $55,000. This taxable, or assessed, value is the figure to which the tax rate is applied to determine the amount of your tax liability.

If the market value of your home is $4,000, the $5,000 school exemption will reduce the market value to $0. In this situation, your exemption will be $4,000. The amount of an exemption which you receive cannot exceed the market value of your homestead.

The school homestead exemption is available to the general public as long as valid applications are filed with the appraisal district office before the end of the rendition period (see Tax Calendar).

County homestead exemption: If you qualify for a residence homestead, you may also be entitled to a $3,000 exemption from the assessed value of your home from county taxes. However, this exemption can be granted only from the portion of the county tax rate levied for farm-to-market roads or flood control. Therefore, if your county does not tax for this purpose, you will not be entitled to this exemption. Applications should be filed with your appraisal district office.

Are you 65 or older?

If you are 65 years of age or older on January 1 of the tax year, you are entitled to an additional $10,000 exemption off the market value of your residence homestead. This exemption applies to school taxes only and you should apply for the exemption before the end of the rendition period.

You may not receive both a $10,000 over-65 exemption off the market value of your homestead and a $10,000 disability exemption (discussed later). If you are qualified for both, you must choose one or the other.

Tax ceiling imposed: If you have applied and qualified for the over-65 homestead exemption, your school district tax bill cannot increase as long as the property qualifies for the exemption. While your property may increase in value through the years, the taxes which you owe in any year cannot be greater than the amount you owed in 1979 or in the first year you qualified for this exemption, whichever is later. (NOTE: Should you make an addition to your property after qualifying for a school tax ceiling, the chief appraiser must calculate a new higher ceiling based on the value added by the improvements, other than normal maintenance.)

If you would have qualified for the over-65 homestead exemption in 1979, but failed to apply, you have the opportunity to have your tax ceiling adjusted to the amount it would have been if you had applied for the exemption in 1979. You must make application with the appraisal district office before April 1, 1982, in order to receive this adjustment. The chief appraiser will publish a notice of the provisions of the exemption in a newspaper once a week for three weeks prior to the deadline.

Are you disabled?

If you are disabled and qualify for the residence homestead exemption, you are entitled to receive an additional exemption of $10,000 off the market value of your residence homestead. This exemption applies to school taxes only.

"Disabled" for purposes of this exemption means either that, because of physical or mental disability, you are unable to engage in any substantial physical or mental work; or that you are 55 years of age or older and blind and by gainful work; or that you are unable to engage in your previous work, reason of the blindness or disability benefits under the Federal Old Age, Survivors, and Disability Insurance Program administered by the Social Security Administration, you will qualify as long as you apply on time.

If you are receiving disability benefits under any other program, you will not automatically qualify. You must still meet the definition of disability stated above and apply before the end of the rendition period.

Again, you may not receive both a $10,000 over-65 exemption off the market value of your homestead for school tax purposes and a $10,000 disability exemption. You must choose one or the other.

Are you a disabled veteran or qualifying survivor?

Texas law also provides for a disabled veterans' or survivors' exemption. Certain disabled veterans or their survivors may be entitled to a partial exemption from property taxes. This exemption can be applied to any property—not just a homestead—that is owned on January 1.

Depending on the percentage of your disability, you may be entitled to an exemption ranging from $1,500 to $3,000 off the property's assessed value. In order to qualify, you must be a Texas resident and file an application annually at the appraisal district office.

You must designate only one property to receive this exemption, regardless of the number of jurisdictions in which you apply. In other words, if you own more than one taxable property in a particular jurisdiction, you must select the one property to which the exemption will apply.

You are required to present documents stating the percentage of a service-connected disability from either the Veterans' Administration or a branch of the armed services. Proof of marriage, death or age may also be required.

Who qualifies as a farmer or rancher?

In addition to the exemptions described above, qualified farmers and ranchers or timber producers may enjoy another form of tax relief.

Two amendments to the Texas Constitution permit agricultural and open-space land to be taxed generally at its productivity value instead of market value. These provisions are effective only if applications are filed with the appraisal district office in a timely manner.

Rural acreage in many areas of Texas is increasingly in demand for housing subdivisions, shopping centers, country homesites and industrial development. For example, some ranch lands and wooded pastures in desirable locations increasingly are becoming worth far more in market value than their value for producing crops or cattle.

Therefore, recognizing that higher property taxes might exceed income from the land, Texas voters approved two changes to the State Constitution permitting agricultural valuation and open-space land valuation under certain conditions.

Article 8, Section 1-d

This provision in the Texas Constitution permits agricultural-use valuation of land provided certain qualifications are met. These include:

- The land must be owned by a natural person—partnerships, corporations or organizations may not qualify;
- The land must have been in agricultural use for three years prior to claiming this kind of valuation;
- The owner must apply for this designation each year and file a sworn statement about use of the land; and
- The agricultural business must be the land owner's primary occupation and source of income.

Applications for appraisal under this provision must be filed annually with the chief appraiser during the rendition period. For good cause, the chief appraiser may extend the deadline for not more than 60 days.

If you miss the application deadline, as noted earlier, you may file a late application anytime before the appraisal review board approves the appraisal records. In such a case, because of the late filing, you are liable for a penalty of 10 percent of the taxes saved that year by receiving the productivity valuation.

Article 8, Section 1-d-1

This provision in the Texas Constitution allows open-space valuation of land. "Open-space land" includes agricultural land and timber land. Qualifications for designation under this law are made less strict. Most farmers or ranchers who are unable to qualify for agricultural-use valuation will qualify for open-space land valuation.

Under this provision, the following qualifications must be met:

- For agricultural land, the land must be currently devoted principally to agricultural use to the degree of intensity generally accepted in the area.
- For timber land, that land must be used with the intent to produce income and be currently and actively devoted principally to the production of timber or forest products to the degree of intensity generally accepted in the area.
- For both, the land must have been in agricultural or timber use for at least five of the last seven years.

Special exemptions for farmers

Farm products, including livestock and poultry, still in the hands of the producer are exempt from property taxation and no application for exemption is required.

Implements of farming or ranching are exempt from taxation if owned by an individual who uses them in the production of farm or ranch products. The property must be individually owned; corporate or partnership ownership will not qualify. This exemption must be applied for annually.

Deadline announced for pageants

EL PASO - The 1984 Miss Texas Teen-USA Pageant has been finalized for staging on Saturday, June 9, in El Paso, as announced today by state pageant director, Richard Guy.

Contestants will begin arriving on Wednesday morning, June 6, with formal judging to begin on Thursday morning, June 7. "There are three categories of competition," according to Guy, "to include swimsuit, evening gown and the judges interviews."

Winner of the state pageant will automatically advance to the Miss Teen-USA Pageant to be staged next spring and nationally televised via the live CBS Network. Current titleholder is Cherise Haugen of Illinois. The reigning Miss Texas Teen-USA is Charlene Molinar of El Paso who placed fourth runner-up in the national event earlier this month.

"The Miss Texas Teen-USA Pageant is directly franchised with the Miss USA and Miss Universe organizations so the format of the competition and show will be like that of these two 30-year established and televised pageants," commented Guy.

To qualify, a young lady must be between the ages of 14 and 17 on May 1, must be a

U.S. citizen and resident of Texas for at least six months before the beginning of the state pageant, must be in good health and of good moral character and must certify that she is not now and never has been married, has never had a marriage annul-ed and has never given birth to a child.

Final deadline for entries is May 5. Applications and additional information is available by contacting the state office at 1301 Texas Avenue, El Paso, Texas 79901 or by calling (915)533-6279.

There are 62 U.S. cities that have two or more separately owned daily newspapers. Twenty-two are operated through joint operating agreements.

Ann Landers

No iron in the house

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My wife was 81 on Jan. 20. Her daughter (by another marriage) came up to help celebrate. A 24-year-old granddaughter also came from 65 miles away.

The granddaughter, who graduated from college (with honors, brought six of her husband's shirts for her mother to wash and iron.

I asked her why she couldn't do the shirts herself. She replied, "I have never tried and I don't want to—in fact I don't own an iron."

Is this what the colleges are turning out today? I am — Flabbergasted In Vallejo the facts from Ann Landers' booklet, "Booze and You—For Teen-Agers Only." Send 50 cents and a self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: When I read letters in your column from parents who feel abandoned because their married children don't call or come to visit, I wish I could trade places with them.

Our four take turns piling in on us with their kids every holiday, most weekends and all summer long. Just because my husband and I are retired they think we enjoy running a motel, restaurant, day nursery, laundry, and baby-sitting service.

How do we put an end to it without alienating them?—M&D

DEAR M&D: Be as frank

DEAR FLAB: Don't lay that one on the colleges. They aren't supposed to teach women to wash and iron shirts. That teaching job belongs to Mom. And now I am going to get a ton of mail from liberated females informing me that that Mom had better teach her sons to wash and iron shirts too because times are a-changing'!

DEAR ANN: I must comment on the man who was physically battered by his wife. She was characterized as a "Dr. Jekyll and Mrs. Hyde--a paranoid schizophrenic."

Please inform your readers that paranoid schizophrenia is not a split personality; in fact, it is not a personality disorder at all. It is a disease caused by a chemical imbalance in the brain. Schizophrenics cannot perceive the difference between fantasy and reality. Counseling therapy is of no value for these victims.

STRAIGHT TALK

TODAY'S ISSUE - GETTING THE JOB DONE.

I've had several people ask me, "Ron do you think you will have time to take care of the commissioner's job?" My answer to this question is, one of the first lessons I learned in business years ago, was that if there was a job to be done, find a busy person and he will get the job done. You don't go to the city park bench and find a loafer to do it. Yes, my roots are deep in Deaf Smith County, and I'm concerned about the future of Hereford. I will take care of the county's business.

The Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce also asked the question: "Is the salary a factor in seeking the commissioner's job? And would you be willing to run for commissioner if the salary was $25.00 per month as is the city commissioners? Most, have indicated that they would."

Answer: Well, considering the time the job takes, I for one would not. I've probably got less to gain financially than any other person running for the commissioner's job, in that currently I have a contract to furnish the entire county - all four precincts including the sheriff's department with fuel. I would have to give up this contract because of conflict of interest if I were voted commissioner. So surely, salary hasn't got much to do with any decisions.

Thank You, Ron Crist

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.
Blood pressure aids

DEAR DR. LAMB - I'm a 63-year-old woman and haven't had any serious health problems until my blood pressure began to rise. I'm 5 feet 3 inches tall and weigh 135 pounds. My doctor doesn't seem to think I'm overweight, although I think I could lose 10 pounds and feel better.
My blood pressure got up to about 160 over 100, so my doctor gave me some Tenormin. They make me very tired so he said to take one-half pill.
What is Tenormin? Will it be harmful to my health if I continue to take it? I've read blood pressure medicine can damage vital organs.

After taking the pill for three weeks my reading was 120 over 72. I quit taking it and it went back up.

DEAR READER - Tenormin is one of the beta blockers that neutralizes the effects of adrenaline. It's a useful medicine similar to Inderal. Tenormin is a long-acting medicine, which is why patients take it only once a day.
Since adrenaline affects the body like stepping on the gas pedal in a car, neutralizing its effects can slow a person down. If the effect is too great, the dosage is usually decreased.

But as you've seen, when you quit taking it your blood pressure went back up. That reaction is why some doctors believe patients who take high blood pressure medicine must take it for life.
There's an alternative that may help you: To use an old phrase, "Listen to your body." You're right about being overweight. Anyone who is overweight and has high blood pressure should eliminate every ounce of body fat possible. If you eliminate the fat, you may have normal blood pressure and do without the medication. But lose the weight before you stop your medicine.

The proper range of blood pressure and its meaning is discussed in the Health Letter 15-8, Your Vital Blood Pressure, which I'm sending you. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB - I'm a 72-year-old woman. I have angina. My doctor told me my triglycerides were a little high and to cut down on sugar. I've been using the new sugar substitute, Equal. But someone told me it may cause a brain disorder.

DEAR READER - I certainly wouldn't worry about it. The question of brain damage applies to children with phenylketonuria or unborn babies with that genetic problem.
You don't have phenylketonuria and won't have it, so you can use Equal to your heart's content.

Equal, the trade name for aspartame, has been one of the most carefully researched sugar substitutes ever. With the few exceptions noted, there's no medical reason why it can't be used. After all, it's made up of two common amino acids found in a variety of your usual foods.
During World War II, the Soviet army invaded Yugoslavia in 1944.

Local agency plans to hold art soiree May 6

Big Brothers-Big Sisters of Hereford has scheduled its sixth annual art soiree at the Hereford Country Club Sunday, May 6.

Works have been donated by a number of area artists, including this year's local feature artist Andrew Wilks. A free art show and sale, open to the public, is planned from 1 to 3 p.m. May 6 in the Halbert Room of the Country Club.

The soiree and cocktail buffet are to begin at 7 p.m. that evening. Tickets for the evening activities are available at the BB-BS office, 108 East 3rd St.

For further information concerning the annual fundraiser, contact Deane Jones, executive director of the local agency, at 364-6171.

4-H Around the County

By BRAD MORRISON
County Extension Agent

Installing one or more smoke detectors in your home can greatly improve your chances of escaping safely in case of fire.

That's what youth in the 4-H safety program have learned and are practicing.

Most fires can be prevented. But should fire strike, 4-H'ers have found that lives can be saved by early warning devices that are properly installed, tested and maintained.

The National Safety Council reports that in a recent year about one-fifth of all home accident deaths—5,100 out of a total of 25,500—resulted from fires, burns, asphyxiation and related causes.

These statistics point to the need for continuing fire safety education for 4-H'ers, their families and their communities.

Boys and girls enrolled in 4-H safety projects and activities learn-by-doing about fire control methods. They inspect and rid their homes of trash, papers and other combustibles.

4-H members check to see that flammable liquids are stored in sturdy metal containers, and that electrical wiring and equipment are kept in top condition. And they educate their families to the vital importance of installing smoke and fire alarms.

Fire safety is only one emphasis in the 4-H safety program. The program encourages young people to develop and practice safety skills in all areas of their daily lives: at home and on the farm, on the highway and during recreation, and as an integral part of all 4-H projects.

For more details on the 4-H safety program, contact the county extension office.

Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socio-economic levels, race, color, sex, religion or national origin.

Polly's Pointers

Polly Fisher

'Bag' those losses

DEAR POLLY - This Pointer will be especially helpful to families with several children. When you attend a movie, basketball game or other event, take along a large plastic bag. Before you sit down, fold everyone's sweaters, coats, scarves, gloves, etc., and put them all in the bag under your seat. No more dirty sweaters or other items lost and left behind on the floor. - ANN MAY

DEAR ANN MAY - Sure would save a lot of tears over lost mittens and scarves! I think your Pointer is going to help lots of families keep those possessions in hand during family outings - and I hope you enjoy your Pointer of the Week award, an autographed copy of "Polly's Pointers: 1081 Helpful Household Hints for Making Everything Last Longer." - POLLY

DEAR POLLY - If you have a basement, you can save energy and add precious moisture to your home all at once. Hang a few clotheslines in the basement. Hang your first load of clothes to dry (or more if there's room). This will save a little energy from using the dryer and the moisture from the drying clothes will help humidify the air. - SAVING ENERGY IN OHIO

DEAR POLLY - If you must prewash fabric for making quilts or sewing, try this trick to prevent the fabric from raveling while it's being washed. Snip off each corner at a diagonal about four to six threads in. This not only helps prevent raveling, but if you must put the fabric away after prewashing, you'll be able to tell at a glance which pieces have been prewashed and which still need it. Don't know why it works, but it sure does help. - HELEN Get rid of roaches, moths and mice the safe, easy way with "Homemade Remedies for Household Pests." Send $1 for each copy to POLLY'S POINTERS, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1216, Cincinnati, OH 45201. Be sure to include the title.

The Newspaper BIBLE

WHY WORRY WHEN YOU CAN TRUST GOD?

Turning to His disciples Jesus said, "Don't worry about whether you have enough food to eat or clothes to wear. For life consists of far more than food and clothes."

"Look at the ravens-- they don't plant or harvest or have barns to store away their food, and yet they get along all right--for God feeds them. And you are far more valuable to Him than any birds!"

"And besides, what's the use of worrying? What good does it do? Will it add a single day to your life? Of course not! And if worry can't even do such little things as that, what's the use of worrying over bigger things?"

"Look at the lilies! They don't toil and spin, and yet Solomon in all his glory was not robed as well as they are. And if God provides clothing for the flowers that are here today and gone tomorrow, don't you suppose that He will provide clothing for you, you doubters?"

"And don't worry about food--what to eat and drink; don't worry at all that God will provide it for you. All mankind scratches for its daily bread, but your heavenly Father knows your needs. He will always give you all you need from day to day if you will make the Kingdom of God your primary concern."

"So don't be afraid, little flock. For it gives your Father great happiness to give you the Kingdom. "Sell what you have and give to those in need. This will fatten your purses in heaven! And the purses of heaven have no rips or holes in them. Your treasures there will never disappear; no thief can steal them; no moth can destroy them."

"Wherever your treasure is, there your heart and thoughts will be."

PRESENTING

Solid, Substantial, Comfortable Living

HOUSE DESIGN by Larry Farnsworth

TRI-LEVEL LIVEABILITY FORMAL DINING AND FRIENDLY KITCHEN MASTER BEDROOM DESIGNED FOR PRIVACY BIG LOWER LEVEL FAMILY ROOM

The pleasant exterior of AC1542 a tri-level charmer says welcome right away to all who see its attractive exterior lines with their pleasing combination of brick and clapboard, attractive rooflines and sheltered entryway.

Inside, the separate entry directs traffic efficiently to the living room on your left or the well designed kitchen down the hallway at the back of the house, beyond the stairs leading to the bedrooms on the upper most level.

The living room is spacious and attractive with its raised hearth fireplace, and the formal dining room beyond is perfect for gracious dining with family and friends.

And just look at that marvelous kitchen, with its commodious L-shaped work area augmented by an additional wall of counters, cupboards and refrigerator space. There is room, too, for an informal dining area in front of the sliding glass doors which lead to the garden area at the rear of the house.

Downstairs of the lower level is a large, well planned family room, a handy powder room and a laundry-utility room, all also conveniently accessible from the big double garage. And note that outside storage area, too, so practical for the family gardener.

On the uppermost floor, above the garage and family room level, are three roomy bedrooms and two baths, with the master bedroom and its private bath most sensibly located at the back of the house for maximum privacy and serenity. Note too, the size of those bedroom closets, especially the huge walk-in closet provided for the owners' bedroom.

Model AC1542 is a home you will enjoy year after year. The hundreds of happy homeowners who have built from this plan will testify to its durable charm and practicality.
