Duarte takes Salvadoran office

First elected president in 33 years

By ARTHUR ALLEN
Associated Press Writer
SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — Jose Napoleon Duarte, once jailed by the army and then sent into exile, takes the oath of office today as El Salvador's first popularly elected civilian president in 33 years.

Duarte will be sworn in at a ceremony attended by U.S. Secretary of State George Shultz and a delegation of U.S. legislators and officials. The two-stage election which he won was conducted with extensive support from the United States.

Duarte will travel in a motorcade down San Salvador's main boulevard today to the Sports Palace, where he is to be draped in the nation's blue and white presidential sash by outgoing President Alvaro Magana.

Shultz heads an 11-member U.S. delegation that includes ultraconservative Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., and liberal Sen. Paul Tsongas, D-Mass. Guatemalan Chief of State Gen. Oscar Humberto Mejia Victores will be the only head of state to attend the inauguration, although several Cabinet-level figures from Europe and Latin America will be there. Representatives from 42 countries will be present.

The Republican Nationalist Alliance, defeated by Duarte in a May 6 presidential election, has threatened to boycott the ceremony.

According to the official tally, Duarte won 53.6 percent of the vote to 46.4 percent for Roberto d'Aubuisson of the Republican Nationalist Alliance. D'Aubuisson claimed the election was fraudulent.

Duarte is the first popularly elected civilian president since Arturo Araujo, who was elected in early 1931 and overthrown less than a year later in a military coup. A series of coups and military regimes followed.

Duarte lost a 1972 presidential election widely said to be fraudulent. After the election, he was badly beaten up by the military and exiled to Venezuela where he spent the next seven years.

Since a 1979 coup by reform-minded military officers, the government has

Only one of two jail bids okay

By REED PARSELL
Managing Editor

Of the two bids for jail work submitted by the Thursday afternoon deadline, only one met all requirements. Deaf Smith County Commissioners board.

Complying was Southern Steel company, San Antonio, which said it could complete the detention equipment aspect of proposed county jail renovations for $487,000. Total time for the work was projected to be 430 days.

Commissioners find Thursday

Below that given by Wilco, though, the latter company said it would complete the project in 200 days.

Commissioners recognized but did not act on the bids. Section of detention equipment and general construction for the project is not to be made until either the June 26 or July 9 regularly scheduled meetings of the county court.

Bids for general construction are to be received by no later than 2 p.m. Thursday, June 14. Information compiled from the sole acceptable detention equipment bid is to be sent to all those contemplating making a general construction offer.

Thursday, Smith was representing Gondek-Poace Partnership Architects, the San Antonio firm which drew up plans for the $1.55 million jail project and is in charge of the construction process.

Southern Steel sent its vice president, Jim Gaudill, to the specially-called commission meeting.

According to David Ruland, county clerk, Gondek-Poace has said only six contractors exist in the United States, which are capable of providing detention equipment for jails.

General construction work also requires expertise, he claimed, though perhaps not to the extent which does detention equipment.

Renovation of the county jail, as outlined by Gondek-Poace, is to involve two phases. The first is adding a 30-by-30-foot recreation facility to one side and an expanded holding area to the other.

Remodeling of the current building, represents the bulk of the second phase.

After a decision is made concerning the primary construction contractors, a pre-construction conference is to be held. This will allow Gondek-Poace to set up

Carter-Mondale era was 'inept'

By JUDY GIANNETTINO
Associated Press Writer

MIDLAND, Texas (AP) — President Reagan plans to focus his reelection bid on the theme that he made America strong after the Carter-Mondale administration gave the country inept leadership that lost Americans respect from abroad, Vice President George Bush says.

Vice president Bush charges

At a Reagan-Bush rally Thursday, the vice president said the United States before Reagan was deemed "impotent" in world affairs — a perception that has changed because of Reagan's "character, courage and leadership."

I've seen the respect with which this country is held. I've seen how the president's firmness and decisiveness have made even our adversaries come to understand whether they like him or not that our president is a president they can and must respect," Bush said.

The president and I have been talking about something new for America — about the good news of a new national beginning, about a strong, low inflation economy, about a strong foreign policy, about a new commitment to values like family and faith and neighborhood and a work ethic. That's what we've been crusading for in the past four years," Bush said.

Speaking to about 1,300 supporters in this oil-rich city, the home of his oldest son, Bush said a vote for a Democratic administrator would be a vote to return to the "inept" days of Carter-Mondale.

The Carter administration gave America "inept national leadership (and put the country) on the skids like it never had been before," Bush declared, adding that the Reagan-Bush re-election campaign would be focused on the current administration's successes.

"America's back and Ronald Reagan's leadership has brought it back," Bush said.

During the $4-a-plate barbecue luncheon rally that was reminiscent of a high school pep rally, Bush also sought support for the election of Rep. Phil Gramm, R-College Station, to fill retiring Republican John Tower's U.S. Senate seat.

Gramm, who won the May 5 Republican primary, joined Bush at the rally, where the Midland Lee High School band and an eight-member junior high school cheerleading squad entertained the standing room-only crowd before the vice president appeared.

Bush said inflation, unemployment and interest rates were down because of the current administration.

That feller on Tierra Blanca Creek says nothing is more distressing than to feel bad in the morning, without having had any fun the night before.

Politics has got so expensive that it takes lots of money to even get beat with — Will Rogers

Saturday is "D" day for many political candidates on the local and state levels. In Deaf Smith County, the winner of the sheriff's race and one commissioner's race will be decided in the Democratic primary. They will have no Republican foes in the general election in November. However, the winner of the Precinct 3 County Commissioner race will face Republican Bill Allen in the general election.

It's been a long month for the candidates who made the runoff elections on May 5. The candidates, along with many citizens, will probably be glad it's over until November. However, we'll still have the Presidential races in the news.

While on the subject of politics, we'd like to urge voters to go to the polls Saturday and cast votes for the candidates of their choice. We would urge a vote for Kent Hance, again, for the U.S. Senate nomination on the Democratic ticket.

This area has a good chance to elect a "favorite son" candidate, and one that will be good for the area, Texas and the nation. Hance not only has to win the Demo runoff Ruland also issued a reminder people who voted in the May 5 primary had their cards stamped to indicate for which political party they voted. They must strike their ballots on the same ticket Saturday.

He added voting last month was not a prerequisite. Those who did not vote may choose either the Democratic or Republican ticket Saturday.

Doggett still attacking Hance

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — State Sen. Lloyd Doggett, after receiving an endorsement from San Antonio Mayor Henry Cisneros, says Kent Hance, his opponent for the Democratic nomination for the U.S. Senate, has turned his back on ordinary Texans.

"I never complained about Kent Hance lacking backbone, but I think he's turned his back on ordinary Texans," Doggett said at a news conference outside the Bexar County Courthouse.

In continuing his attack before Saturday's runoff for the Democratic nomination for U.S. Senate, Doggett tried to minimize the effect of prominent endorsements of Hance.

In the past two days, former U.S. Rep. Bob Krueger, who finished third in the May 5 primary, and Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby have endorsed Hance.

Teengers die from gas fumes

LONGVIEW, Texas (AP) — Autopsies were ordered in the deaths of three Longview residents discovered in a car rigged with a hose running from a natural gas meter, a sheriff's investigator said.

The victims — two women and a man — were found about 1:30 p.m. Thursday inside a four-wheel-drive vehicle on an oil lease northwest of this East Texas city, said Gregg County Sheriff's Capt. Larry Smith.

Smith said authorities believe the deaths were accidental and may have stemmed from an attempt to get "high" from the gas fumes.

The victims were identified as Lee Anna Maples, Kimberly Kay Reynolds and Andrew Chionsini, all 18.

White says reform, then taxes

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Mark White says it doesn't trouble him in the least that many legislators are demanding the House and Senate pass an education reform plan before they will consider raising taxes during the upcoming special session.

"We won't have a tax bill unless there's a strong reform package," White said Thursday.

"I think that's something everyone involved in this effort has said time and time again. If we get that strong reform package, I think the people will be delighted to put up the money to finance it," White said.

The governor has proposed a sweeping overhaul of public schools in Texas, including higher teacher salaries, a form of competency for teachers and students and other changes. To pay for it, he wants a tax increase that will raise $4.8 billion over three years.

Employment rate highest ever

WASHINGTON (AP) — America's civilian jobless rate fell to 7.5 percent in May, the lowest since August 1981, as new hiring by business created 890,000 jobs, the government reported today. Total employment reached 105.3 million, the highest on record.

Last month's rate also matched the 7.5 percent level of January 1981, when President Reagan took office.

The 0.3 percentage point dip from April's seasonally adjusted 7.8 percent civilian jobless rate broke a string of two months of standstill unemployment. The good news notwithstanding, an estimated 8.5 million Americans were still without jobs, the Labor Department said.

But today's report was studied with good news for the labor market as hundreds of thousands of young people prepare to enter the labor force in search of summertime jobs.

Death Row inmates escape

BOYDTON, Va. (AP) — Six Death Row inmates escaped from the Mecklenburg County Maximum Correctional Facility on Thursday night by commandeering a prison van, then drove to North Carolina and tried unsuccessfully to abduct a motorist, authorities said.

The inmates drove out of the prison at about 10:30 p.m., said a Virginia State Police dispatcher who asked not to be identified.

The dispatcher said the inmates "are thought to be armed, but we're really not sure about that."

"We're not really sure how they got out," the dispatcher said. "We're still waiting for some more details. Nobody has been hurt as of yet."

In North Carolina, Warren County Sheriff's Deputy Bobby Bolton said the van was abandoned in Warrenton, where five or six men confronted an unidentified motorist and tried to steal his car and abduct him. The men were unsuccessful and fled on foot, Bolton said.

House approves defense bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House early today approved a $284 billion defense bill which trims $21 billion from President Reagan's original budget and curbs the MX nuclear missile and other weapons in a bid to rekindle arms control talks with the Soviet Union.

Final passage of the spending package — a record despite the cuts — came at 12:30 a.m. on a 290-98 vote. That tally capped three weeks of often bitter, partisan fighting in which the bulk of the huge Pentagon budget survived intact except for restrictions on atomic and space weapons, rejection for a third year of new nerve gas weapons, and a virtual ban on using U.S. troops to fight in Central America. The bill also ordered changes in the way spare parts are purchased.

The Republican-controlled Senate is expected to begin floor debate next week on a version of the bill which proposes permitting the Pentagon to spend $299 billion in fiscal 1985. Differences between the two measures will be worked out later in a House-Senate conference committee.

Iraqi planes attack refinery

Iran today confirmed that Iraqi warplanes had attacked an oil refinery 100 miles inside Iranian territory but said its defense forces downed one plane, killing the pilot, and forced the other planes to flee.

The Iranian report was carried by Tehran radio, which also broadcast a threat that Iran would destroy ports and oil pipelines throughout the Persian Gulf region if the United States intervenes in the Iran-Iraq war.

Iraq, in announcing the air raid Thursday, said its warplanes hit both an oil refinery and a pumping station near Takhir, about 300 miles northwest of Tehran. An Iraqi spokesman, speaking on state television, said one Iraqi jetfighter was downed.

In addition, Iraq said Thursday it would destroy installations at Iran's main oil terminal, Kharg Island, if Iran decides to proceed with an anticipated major offensive.

Following rebel bombing

Pastora vows to return within month

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica (AP) — Wounded rebel leader Eden Pastora vowed to return within a month to resume his fight against Nicaragua's leftist government, which his supporters blame for the bombing that injured him and killed four others.

Nicaragua's Sandinista government, however, said the explosion was the result of rivalry among the rebels and may have been instigated by the CIA.

Pastora, in a statement released from a San Jose hospital where he is recovering from burns and shrapnel wounds, said: "Within a month at the latest, when we recover from the light wounds caused by the terrorist bombs, we will be fighting again."

Monge has been cracking down on fighting elements of Pastora's group on grounds that its actions were compromising Costa Rica's neutral status.

In Venezuela, Gonzalo Barrios, president of Venezuela's ruling Democratic Action Party, said Pastora was free to enter Venezuela if he wanted, either as a refugee or to recuperate.

The explosion occurred Wednesday evening shortly after Pastora, military leader of the Costa Rican-based Revolutionary Democratic Alliance, began talking to reporters at a house in La Penca, a town in a rebel-held part of Nicaragua about a mile from the border with Costa Rica.

Costa Rica's president, Luis Alberto Monge, who was in Spain on a state visit, ordered Pastora's arrest after he crossed the border from Nicaragua, according to Information Minister Armando Vargas.

Vargas said Pastora was under strict police watch at the hospital and will be expelled to a country other than Nicaragua. He said the rebel leader had not asked for political asylum.

Earlier reports had said five people were killed.

Among those killed in the bombing were Linda Frazier, reporter for the English language Tico Times in San Jose and wife of AP Central American correspondent Joseph B. Frazier; Jorge Quiroz, a television cameraman from San Jose; a guerrilla identified by Pastora's group as Rosa Alvarez Zambrana; and a guerrilla who had not been identified.

The blast wounded 28 people, including AP correspondent Reid G. Miller, who was hospitalized in Quesada with arm and leg wounds.

Pastora held both hands in a V sign for victory as he was removed on a mattress from the scene of the explosion.

Tony Avirgan, a freelancer for ABC television network, treated for wounds and released from the Quesada hospital, said Pastora was "whisked out of the room within a minute (of the explosion)..." while "there was no attempt to see what the extent of injuries to others was."

Survivors of the bombing described it Thursday as bedlam in darkness. The blast knocked out the lights, they said.

Jose Antonio Venegas, a photographer from La Nacion who was slightly wounded, recalled that Mrs. Frazier cried out, "I cannot move," after the bomb went off. He tried to help her but also was unable to move, he said in an interview in his paper.

Inside the building, the floor was ripped by the blast and television cameras and other equipment were strewn about. Many of the victims were bloody and had their clothes ripped.

Because a number of victims suffered leg wounds — including blown off legs — there was speculation that the blast was close to the floor, perhaps under the floor.

Economist wants expenses cut

AUSTIN (AP) — An economist who would thin out the ranks of state employees says in all the talk about raising state taxes there is not enough said about keeping a tight rein on expenses.

Speaking Thursday to a group of Texas House members, Dr. Bernard Weinstein discussed the public debate over raising taxes to fund state government.

"There's not enough discussion, to my mind, of controlling expenditures," he said. "The good" days of Texas state finances are over."

Weinstein, assistant director of the John Gray Institute at Lamar University, recalled past years when "expenditures rose to match the revenues available," and said, "It was a wonderful world to live in, but that world no longer exists."

Weinstein joined former House speakers Bill Clayton and Waggoner Carr and others at a session arranged by the Texas Foundation for Conservative Studies.

The speakers addressed a panel that included foundation president Richard Collins, Dallas, and state Reps. Stan Schlueter, D-Killeen; Bill Messer, D-Belton; and Lee Jackson, R-Dallas.

Weinstein said Texas had a "robust economy" until 1982, when it was hit with a "quadruple whammy" — a national recession, decline in oil and gas prices, peso devaluation and a drop in the rate of inflation.

He said Texas state government could use "much tighter cost accounting" and a "dose of better management."

He also suggested that the state should consider turning over some governmental functions to the private sector and should look at reducing the "bureaucratic overburden."

He said in 1983 total tax collections dropped from the previous year "for the first time in memory."

Weinstein said as of 1981 Texas had 115 full-time state government employees per 10,000 population, and could save $375 million by September 1985 by reducing the number of state employees to 100 per 10,000 population.

He said the reduction could be accomplished through attrition without firing anyone.

Over the years, he said, savings "would be in the billions."

Carr, speaker from 1957-61, said state spending "began to skyrocket" in 1973 and grew by 170 percent over the next decade. He said in the 1970s Texas' population grew by 26 percent and inflation rose by 77 percent, yet the budget for state government increased 158 percent.

Carr recommended that Texas businessmen, with legislative approval, do a complete study of government to "search out every instance of waste, inefficiency and duplication."

Collins asked Carr how he would cut expenses, and Carr replied, "I suggest, No. 1, that we take a real good look at the growth in the number of state employees."

Smuggling trial to be moved

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP) — An attorney says international law will be a key point in the defense of a refugee halfway house director charged with transporting illegal aliens.

The trial of Jack Elder, director of the Catholic-sponsored Casa Oscar Romero halfway house, was postponed Thursday until Aug. 6 by U.S. District Judge Filemon Vela.

Elder's attorneys said they would file a motion for a change of venue by July 16 to transfer the trial away from the Texas-Mexico border.

In addition to granting the motion for continuance, Vela approved a change of legal counsel for Elder.

The defense team now includes Rio Grande Valley immigration attorney Lisa Brodyaga; criminal attorney Steve Cooper of St. Paul, Minn.; and lawyers from the New York-based Center for Constitutional Rights, the Washington-based Christic and the United States, "was drafted in response to what was happening in Germany during World War II."

Violent conditions in El Salvador have triggered the convention which "gives protection to civilians fleeing a country and also protects those people, like Jack, who help refugees, especially in situations where a government fails to provide protection to refugees," she said.

Elder's trial is the second involving a worker in the nation's so-called underground railroad.

Stacey Lynn Merkt, convicted last month of transporting and conspiring to transport Salvadoran illegal aliens, will be sentenced June 27.

The question is how many total votes he racks up in West Texas and if it offsets some of the big-city votes his opponent will receive in other areas of the state. Our vote here and in other area counties could make a difference.

Hance has proven himself while serving as our U.S. Representative from the 19th Congressional District. He deserves our strong support in the senate race.

Victimless crime

Prostitution, we are told, is a "victimless crime." Atlanta City Councilman Archie Byron says we should legalize it.

He says since efforts to wipe it out are useless, cities should legalize it, control it, regulate it, "establish health standards — thus to curb sexually transmitted diseases."

He chides Atlanta police for their undercover entrapment of prostitutes and their customers.

Chicago Alderman Bernie Hansen, on the other hand, does not think his city's police are doing enough.

Alderman Hansen says his 44th Ward is so overrun with prostitutes that, competing for passing motorists, they create mid-block traffic jams.

So, says Hansen, it is not a "victimless" crime; the victim is the "neighborhood."

Alderman Hansen is up every morning before dawn, cruising in his unmarked car the Broadway area north of Belmont.

Very shortly he — a man alone in a slow-moving car — will be waved to the curb by a strutting girl in stiletto heels, tight skirt and cheap blond wig.

Does he want a date? She asks.

The genial-appearing white-haired man at the wheel asks, "How much?"

She tells him how much and details what that date might include.

Then he picks up his car phone, radios for 23rd District police backup to close in, and she is under arrest.

Thus Hansen has helped arrest more than 50, last count.

"They duck into gangways when they see a marked police car so we had to do something different to clean up the street."

He says people living in this ward cannot shop or walk the sidewalk without being hassled by these girls so with shopping traffic down merchants go out of business except for the sleazy leftovers.

The girls know that the police tactical unit gets off at 2:30 a.m. so, after that, at the times he drives by, they figure they're safe.

When word got around so they recognized his car, he borrowed his wife's car.

And he follows each case to court to testify.

And thus most of the prostitutes get ten days of the usual two — and gradually the 44th Ward is getting a reputation for "unwelcome."

"A 'victimless crime'?" We used to consider cigarette smoking nobody's business but the smoker. Now we're discovering its victims can include the most innocent bystanders.

ABILENE, Tex. — Eighteen United Methodist ministers from the Northwest Texas Annual Conference were ordained deacons, elders or diagonal ministers during ceremonies Thursday night.

The ordination ceremony, a major step in the United Methodist Church's ordained ministry, was performed as part of the annual meeting of the Conference, taking place this week at Abilene's St. Paul United Methodist Church.

Among those ordained as elders were Jesse Lynn Hodge Sr., former pastor of Hereford Wesley United Methodist Church in the Northwest Texas Conference. Hodge is the new pastor at Raton-Des Moines United Methodist Church in the New Mexico Conference.

He is a native of Morton and graduated from West Texas State University in 1979. He has also held pastorates in Adrian-Wildorado and Colorado City. Hodge is married and has four children.

Also ordained as elder was John Jacob Abendschan, associate pastor at St. Paul United Methodist Church in Abilene. Following the conference he will become pastor at Wesley United Methodist Church in Hereford.

Abendschan, a native of Denver, Colo., holds degrees from Colorado School of Mines, San Francisco

Presbyterian Theological Seminary and the University of Northern Colorado. He has served various churches in New Mexico, Colorado and Texas.

Bishop Louis W. Schowengerdt of the Northwest Texas and New Mexico Conferences led the ceremonies on Thursday, assisted by other United Methodist pastors.

The annual meeting of ministers and lay leaders from United Methodist churches throughout Northwest Texas concludes Saturday at noon.

Summer vacation safety learned

Local fifth and sixth graders learned about summer vacation safety during a Tuesday field trip to Veterans Park.

Kurt Claussen, district executive for the Llano Estacado Council of Boy Scouts of America, spoke to the intermediate school students about home safety, indoors and out; first aid, nutrition and the proper equipment needed for outdoor recreational activities.

The home safety workshop covered the hazards of poisons, medicine, toys and such things as loose carpet and stair railings.

Teaching about first aid, Claussen told the students what to do about heat exhaustion, sun stroke and sun burns.

Cooking without utensils was discussed during the session on nutrition, designed primarily for potential campers. Claussen's demonstration included how to cook an egg in a wax cup.

The young people learned about assembling a backpack during the equipment discussion.

Claussen's program was based on safety habits practiced by local members of the Boy Scouts of America.

The ivory-billed woodpecker, usually seen in south-central and southeastern United States, is classified as an endangered species.

Tie series at 1-1

Celts down Los Angeles, 124-121

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Celtics were struggling feverishly to climb out of a deep hole they had dug for themselves. The Lakers reached in and gave them a hand.

"We let them out of the grave twice," said Los Angeles Coach Pat Riley. "We had a three-point lead in overtime, and also the situation at the end of the game when we wanted to get the last shot."

The Celtics, who squandered a 13-point first-half lead, clawed back to edge the Lakers, 124-121 in overtime Thursday night, and even their National Basketball Association championship series at 1-1.

"You go out there 0-2 and it's going to be tough," said Boston's Scott Wedman, referring to Games 3 and 4 in Los Angeles Sunday and Wednesday.

Thanks to Gerald Henderson's steal and layup that forced overtime and Wedman's game-winning jump shot with 14 seconds remaining, the Celtics head for the West Coast with the series tied.

Boston forward Cedric Maxwell said he thought the Celtics had lost the up-and-down game "two or three times and I thought we won it two or three times."

But, with Los Angeles holding the ball and the lead, 113-111, with 18 seconds to play in regulation time, Laker Earvin "Magic" Johnson was confident his team would become the first in a NBA championship series to win the opening two games on the road.

"I thought we had it and I figured they would foul and we'd make it and win the game," said Johnson, who had 27 points, 10 rebounds and nine assists. "I never thought we'd turn it over. We let it slip out of our hands."

Henderson stole a pass from James Worthy, who made 11 of 12 shots and led all scorers with 29 points, and went in for a game-tying layup with 13 seconds remaining.

Johnson kept the ball for most of those 13 seconds, then gave it to Bob McAdoo who couldn't get a shot off before the fourth quarter ended.

"Anytime you're in that situation you have to go for the steal. Worthy just lofted the ball to Byron Scott. There was room for me to step in and I did," Henderson said. "We had to have that steal.

We had to have something at that point."

They needed something else in the waning seconds of overtime. McAdoo's 12-foot baseline jumper put the Lakers in front 121-120 with 1:26 to go. Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, who had 20 points, missed a hook shot with 25 seconds left, and Worthy committed a foul fighting for the rebound, giving the ball to Boston.

The Celtics called timeout to set up their last chance.

"The play was really a screen on each side of the lane for Larry (Bird) to come off one side and me to come off the other," Wedman said. "I knew when the ball was coming to me, the shot was going up. I knew my man was off me. I knew I had time."

Wedman, who had averaged just 4.1 points and 11.8 minutes per playoff game this year, buried a 15-footer from the left baseline with 14 seconds to go.

"You have to make a choice within yourself. Do you want the responsibility?" said Wedman, who had 10 points in 18 minutes. "When the opportunity comes, you have to take it."

But the Lakers weren't dead yet. They had the ball,

Boston center Robert Parish slapped it away from Abdul-Jabbar, but it went out of bounds off Bird with eight seconds to play. Then the ball went to McAdoo, and Parish slapped it away from him with 5 seconds remaining.

This time, Bird held on to it, was fouled, and made both shots to cap the scoring with two seconds left and finish with 27 points. Parish added 18 and Henderson and Maxwell 16 each.

More nations threaten boycott

By The Associated Press

With hopes dead that the Soviet Union will reconsider its boycott of the Los Angeles Olympics, the International Olympic Committee may have to contend with another troublesome issue — the reaction of African nations to Britain's inclusion of Zola Budd on its Olympic team.

Juan Antonio Samaranch, president of the IOC, met for two hours in Moscow Thursday with Marat Gramov, head of the Soviet Olympic Committee, and Nikolai Talyzin, one of 11 Soviet deputy premiers.

Afterwards, Samaranch told Western reporters there the Soviets emphatically maintained their position that sending a team to Los Angeles was impossible because of fears for their athletes' safety. Eleven Soviet allies have joined the boycott.

"The hopes were very, very little and today there is no hope at all," said Samaranch, who had hoped to meet while in Moscow with Soviet premier Konstantin Chernenko. "We requested that the Soviet Union take part in the Los Angeles Olymppics and their answer was 'no.'"

Meanwhile, the British Olympic Association announced it had declared the South African-born Budd eligible for its Olympic team. She could officially qualify for the team when she competes in the 3,000 meters at London's Crystal Palace grounds June 6 in the first of two official British Olympic trials.

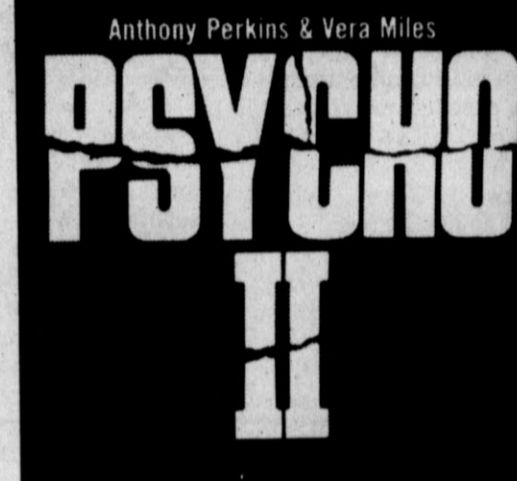

The 18-year-old distance runner, whose grandfather was British, was granted a British passport within 10 days of arriving in the country from South Africa last March. Her native land has been banned from most international meets, including the Olympics, because of its racial policy of apartheid.

The inclusion on the British team of Budd, who holds an official world best in the women's 5,000 meters, could bring a strong reaction from black African nations, many of whom boycotted the 1976 games in Montreal because a rugby team from New Zealand had played a South African team the previous year. The executive committee of the Supreme Council for Sport in Africa will meet in Upper Volta June 16-17. Amadou Lamine Ba, secretary general of the Council, said two weeks ago that barring unforeseen developments, he believed that most African nations would participate.

However, last Monday, the official Congolese news agency ACI said that Budd's inclusion on the British team could jeopardize the participation of African teams.

It's 22 years later, and Norman Bates is coming home.

Boom says he has matured

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Ray "Boom Boom" Mancini, who feels he has matured on the job, will try to remain a champion tonight when he fights Livingston Bramble, a free-spirit from the Virgin Islands.

The scheduled 15-round bout will be the 23-year-old Mancini's fifth defense of the World Boxing Association lightweight champion.

"I'm more of a thinking fighter now," said Mancini. "Before it was more reflexes. I'm a more disciplined fighter now."

But Lou Duva, Bramble's manager, feels Mancini might become undisciplined if Bramble shows patience and hangs tough.

However, Duva admits that Bramble, also 23, could become uncontrolled, too, and play Mancini's game because "he knows no fear."

Bramble, who now lives at Passaic, N.J., seems to march to his own drummer. He has brought in a voodoo doctor at his father's request — he says he doesn't believe in voodoo.

He also owns five bull terriers and two snakes — a python and a boa. One of his dogs is named "Snake," and one of his snakes is named "Dog."

Bramble also is the top-ranked WBA lightweight contender, with a 20-1-1 record, with 13 knockouts, and a 13-fight winning streak.

He fights both from left-handed and right-handed stances and has a reputation for ruggedness, but not a real big punch.

Mancini has only one loss compared to 29 wins, 23 by knockout.

For his fifth defense, Mancini is getting $1 million, by far the biggest purse on the championship doubleheader at the War Memorial Auditorium.

In the other fight, Johnny Bumphus will defend the WBA junior welterweight championship against Gene Hatcher.

Pd. Pol. Adv. by Bill Bradley

Dear Voters:

Through the past 14 years, I have worked with many of you on cases when you needed me, I have helped many of you with your personal and professional problems as they fell under my jurisdiction and it has been my privilege to do so as a servant of the county. Now, I am asking you to help me take the next step in my law-enforcement career by electing me Sheriff of Deaf Smith County on June 2.

During the past 14 years, Deaf Smith County has seen many changes—most being good. We have seen the YMCA come into fruition—many said it couldn't be done; we have seen the Senior Citizen Center become a reality—many didn't think Deaf Smith County could financially support two projects of this magnitude at the same time; we have seen frivolous and serious law suits filed against our county at a tremendous expense to taxpayers; we stand to experience a nuclear waste repository in the future; we will build a million and a half dollar jail addition; we ended 83 years of being a dry county; and we face the dwindling resources of our agricultural economy.

These examples of change in Deaf Smith County simply illustrate that the complexities of our community are paralleled in the law-enforcement community today. All of these changes will require steady and competent leadership at every level of government in Deaf Smith County—including the Sheriff's Department.

I have spent 22 years in law enforcement—14 of those years with the Deaf Smith County Sheriff's Department. I offer these years of service and the experience I have gained from them to the citizens of this county so that I can lead our county in exhibiting the strong, responsible, respected law-enforcement the citizens expect and deserve.

I respectfully ask for your vote tomorrow, Saturday, June 2.

Rookies lead Twins to victory

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Minnesota rookies Ed Hodge and Mike Hart have played in only 15 major league games combined, so they realized poor showings might mean a one-way ticket to Toledo.

"I figure what they're looking for is somebody who can be a consistent fifth starter and that's the role I'll fill for them," said Hodge, 2-1, after scattering seven hits to lead the Twins past Kansas City 7-2 Thursday night in the only American League game scheduled.

Hart went 2-for-2 and knocked in the game-winning run in his fourth big-league start. He was penciled in the lineup at the last minute, when Kent Hrbek came up with a migraine headache.

"I didn't know I was playing until 15 minutes before the game," Hart said. "I realize my role on the team is to pinch-hit, fill in and start now and again and I'm just glad to contribute to a win."

Twins Manager Billy Gardner, who used five rookies, wasn't surprised by the freshmen showing.

"If they couldn't play, they wouldn't be here," Gardner said.

Hodge came up from Toledo of the International League May 1 to bail out an injury-riddled rotation which had Ken Schrom, Bobby Castillo and Al Williams nursing ailing arms. Schrom has returned and Hodge knew he had to be impressive to stay with the Twins.

"I think he realized with the other guys starting to come back, he's going to have to press people," Gardner said. "His last two outings have been shaky."

After yielding four hits, but only one run, in the second inning, Hodge said, "I was nipping too much and shuck myself to just let the ball go."

He let the ball go and in the process may have stopped the Twins from letting him go.

Hodge held the Royals scoreless from the second inning until George Brett's RBI single with two outs in the eighth. Ron Davis came on to pick up his ninth save.

Minnesota scored three runs in the second, two more in the third and a pair of insurance runs in the eighth. All but one of the Twins' dozen hits were singles and seven different players knocked in runs.

Hodge and Hart weren't the only productive rookies for Minnesota, who dropped Royals' rookie starter Mike Gubicza to 2-4.

Kirby Puckett had two hits, and an RBI and has now hit safely in 15 of 16 major league games, including eight straight.

Second baseman Tim Teufel had an RBI single, and has now started all 49 games this season.

And Dave Meier replaced

Hart in left field in the sixth and made a diving catch to rob Onix Concepcion in the eighth.

Jimmie Foxx, a member of the Baseball Hall of Fame, hit 30 or more home runs 12 straight years, from 1929 through 1940. It was a major league record.

At French Open tourney

McEnroe, Connors shoot for first win

PARIS (AP) — It's been 29 years since an American has won the men's singles title at the French Open tennis championships — and that's long enough for John McEnroe and Jimmy Connors.

The top seeds in the $1.8 million tournament strode methodically into the third round on the slow red clay courts at Roland Garros Stadium. All but one, Jimmy Connors won, too, and his advance was a gem as he overcame difficult terrain and a determined opponent in one of the best matches of the day. Both he and McEnroe took to the court again today, Connors against Martin Jaite of Argentina and McEnroe against fellow American Mel Purcell.

Martina Navratilova, seeded No. 1 in the women's singles, also was scheduled to play a third-round match today in her attempt to capture her fourth consecutive major tournament title and complete a Grand Slam title which would mean a $1 million bonus.

"We played some good tennis," Connors smiled after downing Britain's John Lloyd 6-4, 6-1, 6-4 on Thursday. "But I want to add that I think I can do better."

Lloyd played well, but Connors was overwhelming and the record crowd of 29,297 — the largest ever for a single day at Roland Garros — was ecstatic.

Chris Evert Lloyd, who married John Lloyd after an on-again, off-again romance with Connors, watched the Connors-Lloyd match after she dispatched her second-round foe, Masako Yanagi of Japan, 6-0, 6-0. The second-seeded Lloyd, who recently separated from her husband, is the defending women's champion and one of the few players considered likely to untrack Navratilova's drive for the title.

Navratilova also advanced Thursday with a crushing 6-1, 6-1 victory over Holland's Marcella Mesker.

McEnroe, who is seeded No. 1 here, was an easy second-round winner over fellow American Ben Testerman 6-4, 6-1, 6-4.

Ivan Lendl of Czechoslovakia, the No. 3 seed, battered Mario Martinez of Bolivia 6-1, 6-0, 6-1; No. 5 Jimmy Arias of Buffalo, N.Y., stopped Italy's Gianni Occeppo 7-5, 6-2, 6-2; No. 6

Yannick Noah of France, the defending champion, defeated Belgium's Bernard Boileau 6-4, 6-4, 6-4; No. 7 Andres Gomez of Ecuador toppled Marcel Freeman of Port Washington, N.Y., 7-5, 6-2, 6-3, and No. 9 Henrik Sundstrom of Sweden downed countryman Joakim Nystrom 6-2, 6-2, 7-6.

Czechoslovakian teen-ager Karel Novacek upset No. 8 Jose Luis Clerc of Argentina 2-6, 6-2, 6-3, 3-6, 8-6, and Spain's Emilio Sanchez ousted No. 14 Tomas Smid of Czechoslovakia 7-6, 6-4, 6-4.

Besides Navratilova and Lloyd, other seeds in the women's singles to advance to the third round included No. 3 Hana Mandlikova of Czechoslovakia; No. 6 Zina Garrison of Houston; No. 8 Kathy Horvath of Largo, Fla.; and No. 10 Manuela Maleeva of Bulgaria.

No. 5 Kathy Jordan of King of Prussia, Pa., who barely survived the first round, winning 13-11 in the final set, fell to Romania's Virginia Ruzici 6-3, 6-2; Laura Arraya of Peru upset No. 7 Jo Durie of Britain 6-2, 5-7, 6-4, and Yugoslavia's Sabrina Goleos ousted No. 12 Andrea Temesvari of Hungary.

John Frawley of Australia outlasted West Germany's Hans-Jorgen Schwaier 6-1, 4-6, 6-3; 6-7, 8-6 in five hours, 15 minutes — the longest match ever at Roland Garros.

He said today's discussions were a formal effort to put the IOC on record as having requested that the Soviet Union reconsider its boycott, and an opportunity to debate "the future of the Olympic movement as a whole."

Qualified-Experienced-Professional

Don't be misled by rumors. All gossip should be forgotten and we all need to look at proven Experience, Qualifications, and Professionalism. The Chamber of Commerce Forum left no doubt in many peoples mind as to which Candidate should be our next Sheriff. Twelve years of City Law Enforcement VS fourteen years in the Deaf Smith Co. Sheriffs office, five of those years as Chief Deputy, a total of twenty-two years in Law Enforcement. Dean worked his way up to Chief Deputy by proving his honesty, loyalty, capabilities, and hard work. In our opinion it is very bad taste, and possibly against County Policy, that any elected official would take a public stand against either candidate. Have you noticed Dean Butcher has not ask for any public support from Elected Officials, City Employee, Police Officer, or Sheriff Department Employees. This is not because he doesn't want their vote. Mr. Coleman stated in his recent AD that poor taste is very inappropriate in a Sheriff. Does the same rule not apply to everyone, especially County Commissioners? I believe Mr. Butcher has compiled the numbers for the Sheriff's Department Budget for several years, and finished the fiscal year under the Approved Budget. I wonder if Mr. Coleman can say the same? The distance a County Employee drives a County vehicle to and from work seems to be a big issue. I wonder Mr. Taxpayer, has Commissioner Coleman told you that he has a County pickup that travels to Bootleg, approximately 25 miles there and 25 miles back. Think and compare the cost per mile of a Sheriffs car against a 3/4 ton four wheel drive pickup. Please Vote For The Most Qualified Man-Dean Butcher

Speaking of Sports

By STAN GODEK
Sports Editor

It was an interesting past weekend, a time for firsts in a couple of sports for a visitor from France. It all started when a co-worker asked if I'd join him as he played host to his sister and her newlywed French husband, both visiting the states from France.

The Frenchman, Etienne, had never visited the U.S. and made it clear he would like to participate in three popular sports, bull riding, sky diving, and drag racing.

Well, since those sports were somewhat expensive and possibly dangerous for a first timer, it was decided we'd go bowling Saturday and shoot a round of golf Sunday.

Shortly after they arrived Friday evening, we decided to treat them to dinner at the Bull Barn. The Hereford Rotary Club sponsored a steak-finger dinner, went to a local ice cream establishment for desert, and introduced the Frenchman to a popular American Sport.

That sport, of course, involved exercising the fingers and thumb with the aid of a remote-controlled television viewing selector.

After watching the number of channels on cable TV, which wore everyone out, it was time to rest.

Saturday started with a journey to Palo Duro Canyon and a little mountain(?) climbing. Then it was on to Amarillo and some amusement park. There was a pitching radar game and for $1 you got to see how fast you can throw. The first two pitches give a reading and the player then guesses the speed of the third pitch.

Why not? I stepped up, gave the girl a buck, and let fly. My first pitch read 71 mph, my second 68. I told the girl my last pitch would be 65 mph. I threw it and thought I won, but the worker said the radar did not register my throw. "What a ripoff!!!" I yelled but the girl working the game thought it was pretty amusing. "That's why they call it an amusement park," I told Etienne.

Back in Hereford, everyone got their aggression out on the pins in the bowling alley. Etienne tried, but the more everyone told him how to bowl, the worse he got.

Sunday was highlighted by a grueling walk through nine holes at the Hereford Municipal Golf Course with rented clubs. At the end of nine holes we took our high scores and sunburned-dehydrated bodies home to watch some more TV.

Sampson is optimistic

HOUSTON (AP) — The chance to draft 7-footer Akeem Abdul Olajuwon gives the Houston Rockets the core of an excellent basketball team, starting center Ralph Sampson says.

Sampson, the National Basketball Association's rookie of the year, said the chance is very important to the franchise. The Rockets won the right to first pick in the league's draft by winning a coin flip with the Portland Trail Blazers.

Team officials have said the Rockets will choose Olajuwon, an outstanding rebounder and shot-blocker during his career at the University of Houston.

"I feel like we've already made a lot of progress by ... having the opportunity to draft Akeem," Sampson said. "It sets up a strong, young nucleus when you figure in Rodney (McCray). If we can continue to put the pieces together, it's going to be a very interesting season."

He agrees with NBA executives who think the Sampson-Olajuwon combination will make the Rockets a force to be reckoned with.

Olajuwon is strongest in defense and rebounds. Sampson excels in scoring, passing and filling the running lanes.

"With Akeem out there, it's going to open up my game a lot," said Sampson, the No. 1 draft pick in 1983. "I like to see the basket and use my quickness to create scoring opportunities."

Mark 'Bird' Fidrych still having fun

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Last weekend, St. Louis was in Atlanta to play the Braves and reliever Dave Rucker, who has pitched well out of the bullpen for the Cards this season, was on the mound when the fan began getting on him.

"Hey Rucker, you hear me?" he shouted.

Now the fan stood up and began waving his arms at the Cardinal pitcher, almost like a Bird, baiting him, riding him.

Ball players as a rule have tough hides and aren't vulnerable that kind of razzing from the paying customers. Rucker, however, was very vulnerable. He looked up at the heckler ... and burst out laughing.

In the stands, the fan began laughing, too. "Hey, I was having fun," said ex-pitcher Mark "The Bird" Fidrych. "That's what you're supposed to do at a baseball game. Have fun."

Fidrych, who pitched in the minors with Rucker, remains easily identifiable. He still has the gangly walk that earned him his nickname, a headful of tightly curled hair, and that smile, that mischievous smile.

For one magical season, at age 21, nobody had more fun than Fidrych. He talked to baseballs, telling his pitches where he wanted them to go. He massaged mounds on his hands and knees, as if he were playing on some sandlot field instead of a big league ballpark. He won 19 games for the Detroit Tigers, led the American League with a 2.34 earned run average, was the starting pitcher in the All Star Game and was named the Rookie of the Year.

This Tiger had the world by the tail. It was Camelot and then, all at once, it came crumbling down around him. The gift was gone. The Bird was victimized by a $1 million arm that went dead after that single mercurial season.

And when that happened, Fidrych could not laugh about it.

"I sat down and cried," he said. "I lost something I'd always had."

Fidrych remembers hurting his arm in Baltimore early in the 1977 season and trying to pitch through the injury. Instead of getting better, though, it got worse.

Finally, one night in Tiger Stadium, he bounced a few pitches and second baseman Steve Dillard trotted in to talk to the pitcher.

"He said, 'The way you're throwing, you're killing me,'" Fidrych recalled. "I said, 'You're right, and I left.'"

All kinds of treatments were prescribed, but nothing worked. There were several aborted comeback attempts with the Tigers and Boston Red Sox and then, last June, the Bird walked away. "I just said, 'That's it. Next.'"

Now he spends most of his time chopping wood in Northboro, Mass., for $6 per hour. To their credit, the Tigers have not forgotten him and he also works on the team's cable telecasts. "I even have box seats at Tiger Stadium," he said. "If they get into the World Series, I'm set."

He is not bitter at the curveball life dealt him, but rather philosophical about it. "Hey, if I could only have one year, I picked the right year, didn't I?" he said. "You know, the bicentennial and all."

Fidrych was in Atlanta filming "The Slugger's Wife," a Neil Simon movie being produced by Columbia Pictures. In it, he plays a pitcher for the Houston Astros who faces the film's hero, Darryl Palmer, played by Michael O'Keefe.

"I give up a homer," the Bird said, laughing. "That was easy. I gave up plenty of them. I know how to do that."

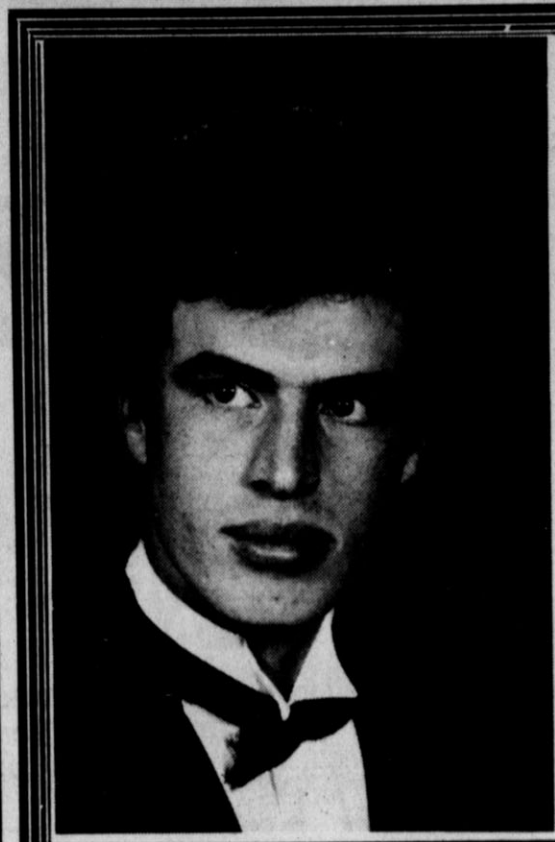

He's still having fun.

Mondale, Hart join unity meeting; Jackson hits rivals on issue

By WILLIAM M. WELCH
Associated Press Writer

Walter F. Mondale and Gary Hart were putting aside differences long enough for a Democratic unity dinner to help bail out George McGovern's campaign debt, but the Rev. Jesse Jackson wouldn't join the party and attacked his rivals' Central America policies.

With all eyes on California and its giant delegate prize, Sen. Gary Hart's campaign manager acknowledged that Hart must win there and in New Jersey — or at least win one and run close in the other — to have any chance of winning the Democratic presidential nomination.

In Los Angeles, Mondale and Hart attended a party unity dinner held to help pay off the debt McGovern ran up before dropping out of the presidential race. Performers Warren Beatty, Ed Asner, Margot Kidder, Playboy publisher Hugh Hefner and football star O.J. Simpson were among 300 guests at the affair, which raised $160,000.

Hart and Mondale, who have been battling across America since the political primary season began, listened politely to each other's speeches criticizing President Reagan, shook hands and were photographed together.

Jackson stayed away, voicing objections to McGovern's recent suggestion there should be a Mondale-Hart ticket. McGovern said he'd been misunderstood — that a ticket with Jackson on it would be fine, too. "I hoped Jesse Jackson would not disavow something he believes in, and that's the old scriptural doctrine of reconciliation," McGovern said.

Jackson was in Northern California, saying unity talk was premature with the nomination undecided, and he criticized both Mondale and Hart on Central America.

Both Democrats, he said, would continue to send military advisers to El Salvador.

Floods in Northeast; tornadoes in Plains

By RON SIRAK Associated Press Writer

Floodwaters that have left more than 6,000 people homeless inched higher in the Northeast today as saturated ground fed brimming rivers, while driving rain triggered new flooding in Utah and a half-dozen tornadoes tore through Nebraska and Kansas.

The Connecticut River was expected to crest today at 15 feet above flood stage south of the state capital of Hartford, and the National Weather Service warned of more flooding today in parts of Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Maine.

A storm poured up to 9 inches of rain on the Northeast for four days before skies finally began to clear as the system crept out to sea.

But a new storm whipped along by 63-mph winds dumped more than an inch of rain Thursday on parts of Utah, pushing streams swollen with snowmelt over their banks and sending residents back to the streets in sandbag brigades.

The same weather system blasted parts of Kansas and Nebraska with violent thunderstorms, unleashing six tornadoes and hurling hail the size of pingpong balls, the weather service said. No injuries or damage were reported.

"Rain is still falling today over much of Maine and southern New England," said Bill Sammler of the National Severe Storms Forecast Center in Kansas City, Mo. "This system is still moving ever so slowly out to sea, but people still have to worry about the cumulative effect of runoff in downstream areas."

At least 3,500 people were displaced from their homes Wednesday and Thursday in Massachusetts; 1,000 in New Jersey; 650 in New York; 600 in Connecticut; and 400 in New Hampshire, officials said.

The death toll from the week's flooding rose to 18 with the report of a woman who drowned in Port Jervis, N.Y., on Wednesday. Thirteen of the deaths occurred when floodwaters inundated Oklahoma earlier in the week.

In New Milford, Conn., where the Housatonic River was 8 to 10 feet above flood stage, all that could be seen of cars in a downtown parking lot were the tops of antennas poking out of the water.

Massachusetts Gov. Michael S. Dukakis declared a state of emergency in four counties in the rich bottomlands of the Connecticut Valley where losses to corn and potato fields were estimated at $30 million. Some of the farms were under as much as 17 feet of water.

National Guard troops and volunteers built sandbag dikes to protect government buildings in Franklin, N.H., a city of 8,000 where the downtown area and about 35 households were evacuated.

Professionalism Defined!

There are 81 Law Enforcement personnel in Deaf Smith County including City, County and State Officers. Only 31 percent publicly endorsed petitions circulated on taxpayer's time in support of Joe Brown, Jr.

Do you want a Sheriff who would ask for support and only get a 31 percent endorsement or do you want Dean Butcher, whose professionalism forbids him asking men and women to violate city and county policy for his personal gain.

We maintain, as we have throughout this campaign, that people who use their taxpaid positions for personal gain ought to be publicly censured instead of being allowed to use their offices in such a manner.

Former residents involved in Lubbock telethon

Two Hereford natives, Becky Veazey and Deborah Severe, are among other Lubbock General Hospital employees involved in preparations for the Children's Miracle Network Telethon, scheduled to begin at 8 p.m. Saturday on KCBD-TV, Channel 11, in Lubbock.

Originating in the renowned Osmond family studios in Utah, the telethon will be shown live in approximately 90 cities across the United States. In each of these cities, a hospital such as Lubbock General will receive the funds raised within that community.

The Osmond Foundation, whose purpose is to raise funds to improve the health of children through research, medical service and education, is working in association with the National Association for Children's Hospitals and Related Institutions, Inc. in producing the telethon.

For 21 hours, continuing through Sunday, 160 major movie, television and recording artists such as Bob Hope, Rick Springfield, Tammy Wynett, the cast of Fame and the Dallas Cowboy Cheerleaders, will appear on the screen.

National co-hosts Marilyn McCoo, "Solid Gold," and Merlin Olsen, sportscaster, will introduce the stars while co-chairman and co-host John Schneider, "Dukes of Hazzard," will assist with the introductions. Co-chairperson Marie Osmond will also make several appearances.

"The purpose of the telethon is not just to entertain, of course, but to also raise money for hospitals for children and to introduce people to the many specialties hospitals for children provide," said W.B. "Dub" Rushing, chairman of the Lubbock General Hospital Foundation.

This foundation and the Texas Tech Medical School Foundation are co-sponsoring the telethon locally, providing hourly, 40 minutes of national entertainment and 20 minutes of local coverage featuring pediatric facilities available at Lubbock General.

"Tech Medical School and Lubbock General care for so many children, not only from the Lubbock area, but also from the surrounding areas. This telethon will help us tell the children's stories on a far-reaching basis," stated Texas Tech Medical Foundation President Max B. Caraway.

The ideology behind the telethon is that hospitals for children treat the whole child, regardless of affliction. The telethon contributions will help children with all types of diseases such as cancer, muscular diseases, cardiovascular diseases, birth defects and children victimized by accidents.

The Children's Miracle Network Telethon is an exception in that, unlike most national telethons, 100 percent of the proceeds raised locally will remain in the donor's community. In the Channel 11 viewing area, proceeds will benefit Lubbock General's pediatric and neonatal patients through the purchase of costly life-saving equipment.

Lubbock General Hospital has the only level three neonatal and pediatric intensive care units in the immediate area. Last year, Lubbock General admitted over 2,000 children, over 2,200 babies were born at Lubbock General and more than 12,000 children were treated at the Pediatric Ambulatory Clinic Health Sciences Center.

Assisting With Effort

Becky Veazey (at left) and Deborah Severe, natives of Hereford, have been assisting with fund raising activities for the Children's Miracle Network Telethon, to be televised on Lubbock Channel 11 this weekend. Ms. Veazey is employed in the pharmacy department at Lubbock General Hospital and Ms. Severe is an operating room nurse at the facility.

New Arrivals

oz. Grandparents are Jesse and Vel Cantu and Mr. and Mrs. Antonio Gonzales, all of Hereford.

Youth, parents invited to view film

A family film, "Greater Than Gold," will be presented by the Youth Fellowship of First United Methodist Church at 6 p.m. Sunday, with youth and their parents from other churches invited. It will be screened in the church fellowship hall.

The film is the story of a family torn by the pressures of a busy father, the crisis of a teenage daughter's pregnancy and a lack of communication that threatens the stability of the family.

It offers a solution to these problems which are common in families today, with a reminder that proof of the Christian faith is "greater than gold." A production of Evangelical Films, it speaks out boldly about standing firm for faith, about the consequences of premarital sex and the sanctity of life.

Mark Landrum, youth coordinator of the church, invites all girls and boys of high school and junior high age, and their parents, to the showing.

Attention Farmers!

Don Richards is the man we need to replace Kent Hance.
Don Richards is the conservative Democrat in the mold of Kent Hance.

Don is the Richards who has been endorsed by 26 agricultural leaders of farm groups in the 19th District.

Don is the Richards who trained under Congressman Kent Hance, serving as his administrative aide.

Don is the Richards who gained experience in Washington, working with governmental farm programs and learned how to draft and route legislation, how to deal with the federal bureaucracy, and how to cut red tape.

Don is the Richards who has been endorsed by 16 conservative rural newspapers who know and are concerned about farm problems.

☆☆☆☆☆☆☆☆☆☆

Don is the Richards who knows farmers must have higher support prices and adequate refinancing programs, and who knows how to protect farmers in the 1985 Farm Bill.

☆☆☆☆☆☆☆☆☆☆

Don is the Richards who is depending on hard work and experience rather than massive spending to earn your vote.

Don't be deceived by the WRONG Richards!

Don's opponent is the Richards who stated in campaign material that "Farmers want to be left alone and not rely on charity."

Don's opponent is the one setting himself up for a political backfire by trying to paint Don as a liberal and by trying to connect himself with Kent Hance.

Don's opponent does not explain that the labor endorsement received by Don is the same as Hance received when he ran for Congress... that he got the endorsement as the best qualified... despite being a conservative.

Don's opponent is the one trying to buy the office with massive advertising spending.

Send a PROVEN team to Washington!
Vote Saturday for Hance and Don Richards

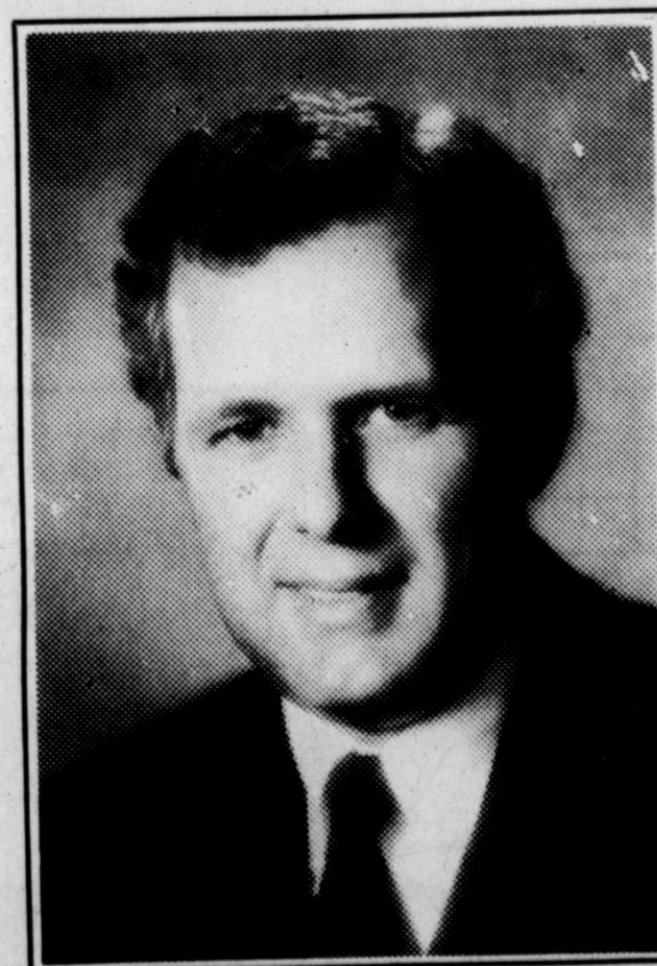

Here's what a few farm leaders have to say about Don:

"I had the opportunity of working with Don in the Washington congressional office through the last Farm Bill and I know he's a man that has the knowledge to do this job. We need him badly to represent agriculture in Washington."
Bill Cleavinger, Hereford

"Don's a very dedicated young man. We know he's not the richest man in the race, but his expertise and knowledge of what's going on up there in Washington is of vital importance to this area. He knows we are in a real depression in agriculture. I know that Don's going to have a tough battle... but he must use his power of persuasion in Washington with other congressmen and I know he is capable of doing that."
Carl King, Dimmitt

We as agricultural leaders sometimes disagree among ourselves. But there is one thing we do all agree on, and that is that agriculture and the 19th District need Don Richards. Experience is key to us at this time. It's essential that we have someone on the agriculture Committee to guide this farm bill so that the 19th District does not get left out."
Jerry Harriss, Lamesa

Don Richards for U.S. Congress

If you liked Kent Hance as our Congressman, you'll love Don Richards!

Runaway signals

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Nearly a million and a half children run away from home every year. Some of them never return. If parents knew the warning signals they might be able to prevent a large number of children from running away.

Please print the "warning signals" provided by the National Network of Runaway and Youth Services.

Warning Signals
Growing Isolation: The child avoid family gatherings, even meals, and spends more and more time in his or her room alone.

Excessive Blowups: Tantrums are common to the turbulent teens, but what out when the smallest thing triggers explosions of temper.

Abrupt Mood Swings: Take note if a normally sunny teen turns sullen, withdrawn, angry, even manic, without warning.

Increased Violations: Rules are boundaries which growing youths must step outside of the process of maturing. But take heed when "border incidents" turn into serious rebellion.

Increased Sleeping: It is normal for adolescents to sleep more than parents think is healthy. But beware when inordinate periods of time are spent in bed. It could mean the child is in a depression or facing problems he cannot manage.

Diminished Communication: There may be a perfectly good reason why your child clams up. But if you can't think of one, and it persists, pay attention.

School Troubles: Plunging

grades, truancy, class-cutting, disciplinary problems and fallouts with close friends can be cries for help.

Parental Stack-Blowing: Are you, not the child, getting unreasonably upset over small issues? Your feelings may be trying to tell you something.

Family Crisis: Death, divorce, the loss of a job, a major move — any of these can disrupt the family and send your child spinning out of orbit.

Unexplained Money or Possessions: Even if not stolen, they may be stashed for an impending getaway.

Thanks for considering these warning signals for your column, Ann. I believe they could be very helpful.—Caring In D.C.

DEAR CARING: So do I. Almost always the runaway is running FROM something, not TO something. If parents can figure out what the child might be running FROM, a great deal of misery might be spared.

Hance, Krueger deny endorsement

DALLAS (AP) — Bob Krueger has denied that his endorsement of Kent Hance in the Democratic runoff for the U.S. Senate is part of a political deal — a story that Hance blames on Lloyd Doggett, his opponent in Saturday's election.

Krueger, a former congressman and ambassador, announced his endorsement of Hance Wednesday and began campaigning with Hance Thursday in the Rio Grande Valley before bringing the campaign to Dallas.

Thursday night, Krueger disputed a Dallas Times Herald story that said Krueger agreed to support Hance in return for help in retirement of Krueger's estimated $900,000 campaign debt.

The newspaper quoted Krueger campaign sources Thursday as saying Krueger and his chief financier, Jess Hay, talked about Krueger supporting Hance during a weekend trip to Acapulco, Mexico.

Krueger denied that he and Hay discussed political endorsements.

"That is absolutely untrue and was never discussed," Krueger said. "My endorsement has absolutely no connection with any political deal."

Krueger said he and his wife and Hay and his wife and another couple were the only people on the airplane.

Hance said his runoff opponent, Lloyd Doggett, is behind the stories of Krueger's endorsement.

"Lloyd realized this endorsement really helps me in the final days. I think it shows once again he's willing to show or say or do anything," Hance said. "These accusations are a pattern of mudslinging and gutter politics that this state hasn't seen in a long time."

Krueger accompanied Hance in stops in the Rio Grande Valley Thursday before the two brought the campaign to Dallas Thursday night.

During the last stop of the day, in Port Arthur, Hance noted that the source for the Times Herald story was anonymous.

Krueger and Hance blame Doggett and supporter Sen. Oscar Mauzy of Dallas for spreading the story about Krueger's endorsement.

Mauzy issued a letter Thursday at a Hance news conference in Houston, which said that the meeting in Acapulco raises "grave doubts about the real reason for Bob's endorsement of Hance."

Krueger and Hance tried to reach Mauzy by phone, but Mauzy's secretary told them Mauzy was on another line and could not speak to either of them.

Krueger repeated that he was backing Hance because Hance had demonstrated more character than Dog-from Doggett before the May 5 primary, said Hance has been addressing the issues instead of making personal attacks.

"If you wait for the perfect candidate, you don't cast a lot of votes," Krueger said. "The essence of morality is making choices."

Krueger said Hance sought his endorsement but said he never heard from Doggett after finishing third in the primary. At one point before that election, Doggett brashed a plastic spine and accused Krueger, a former congressman, of lacking the backbone to serve in the U.S. Senate.

Krueger did mention the backbone incident while rapping a Doggett television commercial that portrays Hance as a butler serving utility interests.

Hance, a conservative, won the May 5 primary, besting the liberal Doggett by 273 votes. Krueger, who stuck to a moderate position, finished less than 1,300 votes behind Doggett.

Doggett issued two statements in connection with Krueger's announcement. One was a list of 87 former Krueger supporters who now back Doggett. The second was a three-paragraph comment in which Doggett said, "It will be the voters of Texas who decide this nomination, not who has the longest list of endorsements."

Hance said Krueger's endorsement will bring him votes among Hispanics, even though some Hispanic groups have criticized his stand against granting amnesty to illegal aliens.

Ann Landers

Runaway signals

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Nearly a million and a half children run away from home every year. Some of them never return. If parents knew the warning signals they might be able to prevent a large number of children from running away.

Please print the "warning signals" provided by the National Network of Runaway and Youth Services.

Warning Signals
Growing Isolation: The child avoid family gatherings, even meals, and spends more and more time in his or her room alone.

Excessive Blowups: Tantrums are common to the turbulent teens, but what out when the smallest thing triggers explosions of temper.

Abrupt Mood Swings: Take note if a normally sunny teen turns sullen, withdrawn, angry, even manic, without warning.

Increased Violations: Rules are boundaries which growing youths must step outside of the process of maturing. But take heed when "border incidents" turn into serious rebellion.

Increased Sleeping: It is normal for adolescents to sleep more than parents think is healthy. But beware when inordinate periods of time are spent in bed. It could mean the child is in a depression or facing problems he cannot manage.

Diminished Communication: There may be a perfectly good reason why your child clams up. But if you can't think of one, and it persists, pay attention.

School Troubles: Plunging

grades, truancy, class-cutting, disciplinary problems and fallouts with close friends can be cries for help.

Parental Stack-Blowing: Are you, not the child, getting unreasonably upset over small issues? Your feelings may be trying to tell you something.

Family Crisis: Death, divorce, the loss of a job, a major move — any of these can disrupt the family and send your child spinning out of orbit.

Unexplained Money or Possessions: Even if not stolen, they may be stashed for an impending getaway.

Thanks for considering these warning signals for your column, Ann. I believe they could be very helpful.—Caring In D.C.

DEAR CARING: So do I. Almost always the runaway is running FROM something, not TO something. If parents can figure out what the child might be running FROM, a great deal of misery might be spared.

Hance, Krueger deny endorsement

DALLAS (AP) — Bob Krueger has denied that his endorsement of Kent Hance in the Democratic runoff for the U.S. Senate is part of a political deal — a story that Hance blames on Lloyd Doggett, his opponent in Saturday's election.

Krueger, a former congressman and ambassador, announced his endorsement of Hance Wednesday and began campaigning with Hance Thursday in the Rio Grande Valley before bringing the campaign to Dallas.

Thursday night, Krueger disputed a Dallas Times Herald story that said Krueger agreed to support Hance in return for help in retirement of Krueger's estimated $900,000 campaign debt.

The newspaper quoted Krueger campaign sources Thursday as saying Krueger and his chief financier, Jess Hay, talked about Krueger supporting Hance during a weekend trip to Acapulco, Mexico.

Krueger denied that he and Hay discussed political endorsements.

"That is absolutely untrue and was never discussed," Krueger said. "My endorsement has absolutely no connection with any political deal."

Krueger said he and his wife and Hay and his wife and another couple were the only people on the airplane.

Hance said his runoff opponent, Lloyd Doggett, is behind the stories of Krueger's endorsement.

"Lloyd realized this endorsement really helps me in the final days. I think it shows once again he's willing to show or say or do anything," Hance said. "These accusations are a pattern of mudslinging and gutter politics that this state hasn't seen in a long time."

Krueger accompanied Hance in stops in the Rio Grande Valley Thursday before the two brought the campaign to Dallas Thursday night.

During the last stop of the day, in Port Arthur, Hance noted that the source for the Times Herald story was anonymous.

Krueger and Hance blame Doggett and supporter Sen. Oscar Mauzy of Dallas for spreading the story about Krueger's endorsement.

Mauzy issued a letter Thursday at a Hance news conference in Houston, which said that the meeting in Acapulco raises "grave doubts about the real reason for Bob's endorsement of Hance."

Krueger and Hance tried to reach Mauzy by phone, but Mauzy's secretary told them Mauzy was on another line and could not speak to either of them.

Krueger repeated that he was backing Hance because Hance had demonstrated more character than Doggett.

Krueger, who was the subject of several bitter attacks from Doggett before the May 5 primary, said Hance has been addressing the issues instead of making personal attacks.

"If you wait for the perfect candidate, you don't cast a lot of votes," Krueger said. "The essence of morality is making choices."

Krueger said Hance sought his endorsement but said he never heard from Doggett after finishing third in the primary. At one point before that election, Doggett brandished a plastic spine and accused Krueger, a former congressman, of lacking the backbone to serve in the U.S. Senate.

Krueger did mention the backbone incident while rapping a Doggett television commercial that portrays Hance as a butler serving utility interests.

Hance, a conservative, won the May 5 primary, besting the liberal Doggett by 273 votes. Krueger, who stuck to a moderate position, finished less than 1,300 votes behind Doggett.

Doggett issued two statements in connection with Krueger's announcement. One was a list of 87 former Krueger supporters who now back Doggett. The second was a three-paragraph comment in which Doggett said, "It will be the voters of Texas who decide this nomination, not who has the longest list of endorsements."

Hance said Krueger's endorsement will bring him votes among Hispanics, even though some Hispanic groups have criticized his stand against granting amnesty to illegal aliens.

During World War I, Allied forces broke through the Hindenburg Line in Germany on Sept. 29, 1918.

Today in History
Today is Friday, June 1, the 153rd day of 1984. There are 213 days left in the year.
Today's highlight in history:
On June 1, 1958, Charles de Gaulle became premier of France, leading to constitutional reform and what would become the Fifth French Republic.
On this date:
In 1533, Anne Boleyn was crowned queen of England.
In 1792, Kentucky became the 15th state of the union.
In 1796, Tennessee became the 16th state.
In 1801, Mormon leader Brigham Young was born.
In 1868, the 15th president of the United States, James Buchanan, died.
In 1926, actress Marilyn Monroe was born.
In 1943, actor Leslie Howard was killed when his civilian flight from Lisbon to London was shot down by the Germans during World War II.
Ten years ago: About 110,000 workers represented by the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America went on strike.
Five years ago: The country of Zimbabwe Rhodesia came into existence.
One year ago: Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin assured Syria that his country had no plans to launch an attack on Syrian forces.
Today's birthdays: Orchestra leader Nelson Riddle is 63. Actor Andy Griffith is 58. Singer Pat Boone is 50.
Thought for today: "Nothing great will ever be achieved without great men, and men are great only if they are determined to be so." — Charles de Gaulle (1890-1970).
What this country needs is a craft knife that will automatically bandage a finger whenever you attempt to use the gadget.

Our blessings that have come to pass,
We tend to disregard;
Because we see the greenest grass
In someone else's yard.
The magic thing we call success
Eludes us, come what may,
And thus it seems that happiness
Will never come our way.
However, through the Church we find
That there's no need to roam,
For happiness and peace of mind
Are always close to home.
So, don't go searching all around,
And some day you'll agree:
The greenest grass of all is found
Wherever you may be!

A man travels the world in search of what he needs and returns home to find it.
— George Moore
