

Meek: 'Gasohol Now Being Forgotten'

By GARTH JONES
Associated Press Writer
AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Gasohol supporters fear they are being forgotten in the hot legislative controversy over congressional redistricting.

"This bill has been used as a political tool throughout the regular session and thus far in the special session and has received consideration only after other so-called priority issues were disposed," Marvin Meeks of the Texas American Agriculture Movement told a news conference Wednesday.

Meeks appeared with several other backers of a proposal to exempt gasohol — 10 percent alcohol and 90 percent gasoline — from the five percent state motor fuels tax to encourage the manufacture of agriculture alcohol.

Meeks said even the most avid former supporters of the bill "have become entrenched in a political battle with the governor on the totally unrelated issue of congressional redistricting."

Gov. Bill Clements, along with Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby and Speaker Bill Clayton, has said he favors a bill to exempt gasohol from the state motor fuels tax. However, he has not put it on the agenda for the special session.

"All the governor has to do is put the bill in the session call and both houses are ready to pass it," said Mike Moeller, president of the Texas Farmers Union, at the news conference. "We're got to have it now or we can forget about the gasohol industry."

Guy Austin, of the Texas Grain Products Cooperative, said the inaction of the Legislature on the gasohol bill, both in the regular session and this special session, threatened a multi-million dollar industry in Texas.

Austin said there are 1,600 farm families who have put up $2 million in cash and pledged more than 40 million bushels of grain each year to three ethanol plants in Texas — at Hutto, Farwell and Dumas.

"Now, it looks like these plants may go to adjoining states who have all already given tax exemptions," Austin said. "Farwell is only 12 miles from the New Mexico line and Oklahoma interests have been talking to the people in Dumas."

Moeller said that Diamond-Shamrock Corp. had announced it was abandoning plans for a gasohol plant in Texas and was phasing out its retail sale of gasohol — 10 percent alcohol and 90 percent unleaded gasoline.

Moeller said that gasohol now sells two and three cents more than other unleaded gasoline.

Aguilar Serious After Accident

Adolpho Aguilar, 36, of 925 S. Ave. K, is listed in serious condition in the intensive care ward at Deaf Smith General Hospital today following injuries suffered in an accident at his home late Wednesday afternoon.

Aguilar was working underneath an automobile around 4:30 p.m. Wednesday when the support for the vehicle apparently slipped, pinning him under the car. Quick action by the Hereford Volunteer Fire Department and DSGH ambulance personnel revived Aguilar, who reportedly "was not breathing and had no pulse" when he was pulled from underneath the car.

VFD personnel used the "Jaws of Life" to lift the car and pull Aguilar out, and Fire Chief Bill Bankston and Assistant Chief Mike Watts immediately began CPR.

"We had him out from under the car within 30 seconds after getting here," Fire Marshall Jay Spain said.

Hospital personnel took over treatment of Aguilar when they arrived on the scene, and got him stabilized before he was transported to DSGH around 5 p.m. The ambulance personnel used the

Lone Star Strikers Remain Adamant

DALLAS (AP) — Striking air traffic controllers in Texas fired on orders by President Reagan say they're ready for a long seige, despite reports that airlines are having fewer delays than expected in available flights.

"It (the disruption caused by the strike) is calming down, 90 percent of Braniff's flights are departing on time," Braniff spokesman Ray Chanaud said Wednesday as the strike passed its third day.

American Airlines spokesman Al Becker said passenger loads Wednesday were only slightly less than normal at 70 percent after dropping off Monday and Tuesday.

"Our numbers show that the public is gaining confidence in our ability to operate on time," he said.

But George Brandon, a vice president in the Dallas Professional Air Traffic Controllers Organization, said despite the apparent increase in flights over the past three days, the controllers would remain on strike.

"We will maintain a strike posture for about a week, then start helping people find part-time work," Brandon said, adding he was not surprised at the administration's order to fire all controllers who did not report for work by 2 p.m. CDT Wednesday.

"The government is out to bust the union," he said. "They are trying to make an example of us because we have long been one of the most militant federal unions."

He said a rally was planned for 10 a.m. today in Euless. "We're just getting together," he said, "just hanging in there."

FAA public affairs officer George Burlage said in addition to firing the striking controllers, air traffic personnel who have retired in the past year are being asked to come back to work if they can be recertified, a process that can take up to two weeks.

"Everyone is being check-ed out and recertified before they are placed in critical situations," he said, adding at least six recently retired controllers have indicated they will return to work at the FAA regional control center in Fort Worth.

Burlage also said of the six major airports and two FAA control centers in the Dallas-Fort Worth-Houston area, only Houston Intercontinental showed an increase in the number of controllers reporting for work Wednesday afternoon.

Burlage said 285 controllers were scheduled to work the evening shift Wednesday in the state's two largest metropolitan areas and 101 reported for work.

He said although air traffic had been reduced, supervisory personnel and non-striking controllers were handling the air traffic "without difficulty."

Earlier Wednesday, Corpus Christi city council members

Administration Wants To 'Rebuild' Controller System

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration, its purge of illegally striking air traffic controllers under way, says it now wants to begin "rebuilding the air traffic system." But the controllers say time is on their side and few appear to be giving in.

By late Wednesday, the Federal Aviation Administration had sent just over 900 letters of dismissals to controllers who had not returned to work on the afternoon and night shifts, agency spokesman Charles Murchison said today.

The deadline for dismissing the last of the 13,000 strikers was 11 a.m. EDT today as controllers report to their day shifts across the country.

First reports from eastern airports this morning indicated few controllers on the job who had been among Wednesday's strikers.

Only six of 214 controllers due to work this morning reported at five facilities in and around New York City, three more than Wednesday. At Philadelphia International Airport, just five of 26 controllers due to work were on the job, only one more than Wednesday morning.

Boston's Logan International Airport reported four of 20 scheduled controllers on duty, an increase of three; while seven of 19 controllers were on the job at Baltimore-Washington International Airport in Maryland, a drop of one.

At both National Airport in Washington and the Miami air traffic control center, officials said no strikers had returned to their posts this morning.

Transportation Secretary Drew Lewis said he expected to have a clearer indication later today of how many controllers remained on strike. He said at least 471 strikers returned to work Wednesday. While providing no actual figures he said 38 percent to 40 percent of the work force was on the job, including both union and non-union controllers.

Robert E. Poll, president of the Professional Air Traffic Controllers Organization, said the controllers remained united in their determination to continue the strike and said only about 3 percent of those who struck Monday had crossed picket lines.

The nation's air traffic, meanwhile, continued to operate smoothly, although on a reduced scale, J. Lynn Helms, administrator of the Federal Aviation Administration, told reporters. He said about three-fourths of the regularly scheduled flights were operating, but with some delays.

"The emphasis right now... is to figure out how we man this system and how we rebuild the system in the next six, eight, nine, 10 months," Lewis told reporters.

Although he hoped additional controllers would return to work, he said he considered the strike at an end, with anyone who not working by today's 11 a.m. EDT deadline to be fired with no opportunity for amnesty.

As the government began firing controllers Wednesday, federal judges in Kansas and

Sadat Sees Separate Palestinian Nation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Egyptian President Anwar Sadat, urging President Reagan to open a dialogue with the Palestine Liberation Organization, says a separate Palestinian nation should be created as part of the Middle East peace process.

Reagan was reported to have listened to Sadat's ideas for bringing about an Arab-

Israeli peace without agreeing with them.

Sadat said he told Reagan on Wednesday that he thinks the United States should reverse past policies and include the PLO in discussions aimed at a comprehensive Middle East peace.

The Egyptian leader is understood to have also told Reagan that there should be a separate Palestinian nation, something the Israelis have adamantly opposed. The Israelis also are against including the PLO in peace talks.

A senior administration official said Reagan didn't respond to Sadat, but indicated he probably would have a response at a meeting today.

The main purpose of the Reagan-Sadat meetings, the first between the two leaders, is to explore ways of resuming stalled negotiations on autonomy for Palestinians in the Israeli-occupied West Bank and the Gaza Strip.

Reagan assured Sadat in a welcoming ceremony that despite the change in administration, "We have not altered our commitment to peace or our desire to continue building" upon the 1978 Camp David accords that have served as the basis for peace negotiations.

In a toast to Reagan at a White House dinner, Sadat said, "the willingness of the Palestinians to accept a cease-fire in Lebanon and uphold it... is a turning point that should not escape our notice. In fact, it means for the first time the Palestinians have come close to endorsing a peaceful solution."

The Palestinian action, he said, "is added ammunition for our call for mutual and simultaneous recognition between the Israelis and the Palestinians."

In his toast, which was

Texas Space Entrepreneurs See Initial Rocket Prototype Explode

MATAGORDA ISLAND, Texas (AP) — A roaring ball of flame and smoke from an exploding rocket hurled 200 feet in the air signaled at least a months-long setback for a group of Texas entrepreneurs trying to launch a private enterprise age in space.

No one was injured when the 53-foot Percheron rocket exploded on the launch pad shortly before 5 p.m. Wednesday as engineers attempted a five-second test burn of the missile.

"The instant the engine started, I knew we had lost it," chief engineer Gary C. Hudson, chief engineer said Wednesday.

"We saw flame from the ignition, (and) it was considerably too orange," Hudson said. "It's supposed to be nearly white-orange."

Ironically, Hudson predicted earlier Wednesday the often-delayed test of the million-dollar rocket would fail.

"We knew they (preparations) were going to go like this. The odds are easily nine in 10 that it won't work... that it will blow up," he said.

Scientists, company officials and reporters watched the blast from a sandbag bunker about 100 yards from the launch site.

Wednesday's engine firing was the first test of the rocket Space Services Inc. hoped one day to use to launch satellites into orbit at prices below rates charged by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

Hudson said officials weren't sure what caused the rocket to explode, but Space Services Inc. vice president Charles Chafer said engineers speculated a jammed propellant valve may have triggered the blast.

Chafer said the valve, designed to allow liquid oxygen and kerosene fuel to mix in the chamber, apparently jammed preventing the mixture.

He said the ignition command caused the kerosene to explode, blowing the engine to one side of the orange launch pad and parts of the rocket 200 feet into the air.

Chafer said the engine appeared to be relatively undamaged and that the company planned to proceed with its testing program.

"We've got to build another one," he said, "we're in a testing program and it's time to do more of that."

Space Services spokesman Walt Pennino said the explosion would cost the company

Enola Gay Pilot Recalls Bombing

CINCINNATI (AP) — The pilot of the B-29 that dropped the first atomic bomb on Hiroshima 36 years ago today says he has never had second thoughts about the mission.

"Some people think I should have nightmares and tremendous guilt, but the answer is no, I don't. To me, it was completely impersonal," said Paul Tibbets, who has served as president of a profitable air taxi service in Columbus since 1975. He retired as a brigadier general in the U.S. Air Force.

Tibbets, 66, said in an interview with The Cincinnati Enquirer that he was depicted in movies, books and articles over the years as having tremendous guilt, mental problems and nightmares since the Aug. 6, 1945, bombing.

But Tibbets believes he is the victim of stereotyping, just like the soldiers who were called "baby burners" after returning from Vietnam.

"The soldiers in Vietnam were just following orders. So was I. It was the government that was either right or wrong," said Tibbets, who

FDA Says Doctor Erred In Using Plastic Heart

HOUSTON (AP) - The U.S. Food and Drug Administration says Dr. Denton A. Cooley should have sought approval before implanting an experimental plastic heart in a critically ill patient, but stopped short of reprimanding the noted heart surgeon.

A surgical team headed by Cooley placed the artificial heart in Willebrordus A. Meuffels, of the Netherlands, on July 23. Meuffels lived for 54 hours until a human heart was found to replace the twin-chambered pump.

The 36-year-old retired tour bus driver died of a massive infection Sunday, just one week after receiving the donor heart from a 27-year-old Tennessee laborer.

In a letter to Cooley, Victor Zafra, acting director of the FDA's Bureau of Medical Devices, said he understood the circumstances surrounding the controversial procedure but insisted government regulations should have been followed.

Peace Corps Closing In The Ivory Coast

ABIDJAN, Ivory Coast (AP) - The U.S. Peace Corps is closing down in the Ivory Coast after 18 years of service. The reasons: Reagan administration budget cuts, and the former French West African colony doesn't need it as much as other countries do.

With an annual per-capita income estimated by the World Bank at $1,060 - the second highest in Africa below the Sahara - the Ivory Coast is now considered a middle-income developing country. It is thought there are enough trained people to take over many of the jobs foreign volunteers have been doing.

"Cost was the consideration in cutting back the program," said a local Peace Corps official who asked not to be identified. "There was a question whether to cut back a little on all programs or phase some out altogether. Then there was also the problem of middle-income countries and the needs of the really underdeveloped."

Emmy Nominations Announced Today

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Nominations for the 33rd annual Emmy awards were being announced today, with a large share expected to go to "Playing For Time," "Masada" and "East of Eden."

Acting nominations seem certain to go to Peter Strauss for his roles in ABC's "Masada" and "A Whale for the Killing," Peter O'Toole for "Masada," Vanesa Redgrave for CBS's "Playing For Time" and Jane Seymour for ABC's "East of Eden."

The nominations were to be announced at a news conference at the Pasadena Civic Auditorium, where CBS will telecast the awards presentation on Sunday, Sept. 13. Six stars representing the three major networks were to make the announcements.

Up to five nominees and ties in each category will be selected. The winners will be judged by blue ribbon panels of peers on the weekend of Aug. 22-23. The winners will be announced at the telecast or at the creative crafts awards banquet the Saturday evening preceding the ceremonies. The Sunday telecast will be followed by the Governors Ball at the Century Plaza Hotel.

Dramatization Of Shooting To Be Aired

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Austin investigators, running out of leads in the shooting of Rep. Mike Martin, are going to film a dramatization of the incident and air it on local television. Austin Police Sgt. George Vanderhule said the shooting would be acted out next week at the trailer park where Martin, R-Longview, was shot last Friday at 2:40 a.m. near his camper.

The re-creation will be aired during the week of Aug. 17 as part of the "Crime Stoppers" series shown on a television newscast here.

Martin was hit in the left arm by shotgun blasts from an unknown assailant. He was hospitalized overnight, went home Saturday, but returned to vote on the House floor on Monday.

He was back in Longview Tuesday and Wednesday.

Vanderhule said an actor would be used to portray Martin. The idea of the program is to try to spur the memory of someone who might have seen a car speed from the scene or anything else that might be related to the shooting.

Assistant Travis County District Attorney Allen Hill said Wednesday that investigators have uncovered little to implicate a suspect or to determine a motive.

Vanderhule said it's a typical Crime Stoppers case.

"That's generally the situation in almost every crime we feature. One of the reasons we get involved is that they are running out of leads," he said.

"Somebody might have seen it. They might have seen somebody in the area. We just try to generate some information," he said.

The program has had a better than 50 percent success rate, according to Vanderhule.

Who's Daring To Censor TV?

Who are these people presuming to dictate to TV networks and advertisers? What right have they to impose their particular moral code on the rest of us? The so-called Coalition for Better Television claims to include some 400 organizations, including Jerry Falwell's Moral Majority. The Coalition has been watching and rating TV programs—scorekeeping on the quantity of sex and profanity and violence—and intimidating sponsors with threats to boycott their products. Enough sponsors have acquiesced so that a Coalition spokesman, the Rev. Donald Wildmon, says any boycott has been deferred for now. Two networks—ABC and NBC—say that they have conducted separate studies showing that the Coalition's support is limited and that it's own members watch the programs which they identify as objectionable.

Are they hypocrites who are pious in the pew and sin in the dark? There is some of that in most of us. Socrates said, "Every man is a chariot driver, riding behind two horses—a white one and a black one; the trick is to keep both horses pulling in the same direction." Journalist Daniel Henninger of the "now generation" explains the new morality contradiction like this:

"It was one thing to have some fun smoking dope in college. It's something else when you are a father or mother having to decide whether you are for or against the idea of some kid selling the stuff to your children in the toilets of the local grade school." He remembers the counter-culture of fifteen years ago doing its own thing independent of social and moral strictures....

Now that same generation is anxious about its own children and the rising incidence of teen pregnancies. So whatever the personal experience of today's parents, they are building a new religion-related school every seven hours....

And they are monitoring television programs for the same reason....

However far you and I are from sinless perfection, that must be our direction.

Our country cannot dismantle a 200-year history of Judeo-Christian morality and endure.

History is uncompromising in its verdict. Any make-it-up-as-you-go morality based on nothing more than feelings and attitudes is doomed.

And a lot of us parents who are not yet ready to join hands with Falwell—are not comfortable with what we see on TV, either.

Mr. Henninger believes democracy is "regaining its equilibrium."

"This country is now bursting with reasonable, well-educated and very upset young parents who are quite willing to sit quietly while the un-dainty folks from the Moral Majority go out there and clean up the mess."

Immigration Demonstration Planned

EL PASO, Texas (AP) - Immigration and Naturalization Service employees say they'll demonstrate nationwide later this month to protest a lack of leadership and proper policy in the Reagan administration's approach to immigration.

Mike Harpol, president of the INS Council, said INS workers are planning a national day of protest Aug. 21 to complain about President Reagan's failure to appoint a director of the agency, funding shortages and policy problems they say will lead to inadequate application of immigration laws.

"These are important people functions that, if done wrong, would be a real black mark on the United States," said Harpol, who traveled from San Francisco to El Paso to help plan the demonstration Wednesday.

"...If things go further, the country runs a real risk of having mistreatment, abuse of rights and internal corruption. That is why we are acting now," he said.

Reagan's proposed plan for changing immigration policies, especially toward Mexico, is a matter for extreme concern, said Harpol.

"The president is touting (his proposal) as a commitment to enforcing the border," said Harpol. "But there has been a failure to go forward with any real immigration policy."

"Some of the programs will create problems in the areas where they are supposed to be solving them."

more than $1.2 million and set the firm's plans back at least six months.

The one hour, 33-minute countdown for the test had gone smoothly earlier in the day, unlike several attempts during the past two weeks to test-fire the engine.

If the engine tests had been successful, company officials said they hoped to launch a sub-orbital flight Aug. 12.

The flight plan for the sub-orbital mission called for the rocket to climb to an altitude of 14,500 feet and then drop into the Gulf of Mexico about three miles from the launch site.

"For all those young men they're now finding out what NASA went through," he said. "It's more than a baptism—it's a confirmation."

NASA officials had scoffed last June when Space Services president David Hannah announced plans to put commercial satellites in orbit for as low as $2 million.

Hannah said the first flight was intended to establish the company's credibility in the eyes of investors.

The rocket was being tested on a cattle ranch owned by Toddie Wynne, a Dallas investor in Space Services.

A small grass fire that started after the fuel exploded was extinguished in about 30 minutes.

In other court action, U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice ordered striking East Texas air traffic controllers back to work Wednesday after a 20-minute hearing with attorneys representing the U.S. Justice Department and the PATCO.

San Antonio striking controllers, who handle air traffic at Randolph Air Force Base and Kelly Air Force Base as well as at San Antonio International and smaller airports, also stayed off their jobs Wednesday.

In Austin, half of the controllers scheduled showed up to work with none of the strikers returning, officials said.

Two control towers in Harlingen and McAllen are closed, with air traffic being steered in and out by Houston-based controllers. At Brownsville, four striking controllers remained off their jobs.

Veto

measure passed by the Senate.

The Senate's plan boosts the probable number of Republican congressmen from Texas from five to seven. Democrats would have 20 seats.

Clayton said he probably would have a plan of his own for the House to consider. It probably would be similar to the Senate's, since the speaker says he wants to avoid an impasse that would require a conference committee to attempt to draft a final bill.

Members of the House Democratic Caucus, led by its chairman, Rep. Bob Bush, D-Sherman, worked to get a Senate majority to sign onto the Ragsdale bill.

Bush said guaranteed Senate acceptance would improve the chances of passing the hardcore Democrats' bill through the House.

Clayton said that was all very well, but a veto would await the Ragsdale bill.

He and Rep. Tim Von Dohlen, D-Goliad, chairman of the redistricting committee, fed the notion that Clements might not call another special session if he vetoed a remap proposal. That probably would give the redistricting task to a federal court. But Clements has made no public statement that he would be willing to let courts draw new districts.

The Ragsdale plan would take two counties, Ellis and Navarro, from Congressman Phil Gramm of College Station—who achieved national attention for helping President Reagan pass his budget cut bills. Ellis and Navarro, along with Henderson County and part of Kaufman County would go into the district represented by Congressman Martin Frost of Dallas.

Clayton said his only real objection to the Ragsdale plan "is what it does to Phil Gramm." But he "acknowledged Gramm could win in his proposed district."

The 1980 census boosted Texas' congressional delegation from 24 to 27. The Ragsdale plan would cut two of the new districts in predominantly Democratic South Texas and East Harris County. The third would go to an area between Dallas and Fort Worth, which probably would go Republican. But that Republican gain would be offset by the loss of Ron Paul.

Virginia ordered the first arrests on charges of disobeying court orders against the strike. Steven L. Wallaert of Norfolk, Va., was sentenced to 60 days in jail, and four union officials in Kansas were jailed until they promise to stop picketing or are fired by the government.

Poli, accused the administration of "the most blatant form of union busting I have ever seen" and told reporters the government tactic would not work. "It will not end the strike."

Some union members agreed. "If anything this has strengthened our resolve," declared Bob Cameron, a member of the Local 291 in Norfolk.

But the government also showed no sign of pulling back.

"I am sorry and I am sorry for them," President Reagan said as the first letters of dismissal were sent to some controllers by supervisors in centers on the West Coast. "I certainly take no joy out of this....I was hoping more of them would recognize the obligation they have. Our position has to be irreversible."

Lewis reiterated that he would not resume negotiations unless the union ended its strike. He said his attention now would be spent increasingly on implementing a plan to replace the dismissed workers.

Lewis acknowledged that rebuilding the controller corps would not be "a cakewalk" but said it could be done within a year or two. Helms said about 6,500 new controllers would have to be found, but added that they could be trained within 21 months.

In the meantime, he said, internal shifting of personnel, a speedup in training apprentice controllers and the use of some supervisors as permanent controllers would allow continued operation of most air traffic.

The controllers went on strike Monday morning after the union rejected a contract that would have provided a $105 million package over three years and roughly 6.6 percent increases in wages and benefits, according to the government. That's on top of an automatic 4.8 percent wage increase to be given to all government employees.

PATCO demanded a $10,000 pay hike for all controllers, a reduction of the work week from 40 hours to 32 hours and increases in retirement benefits. The union said the package was worth $575 million a year. The government put the figure at $681 million.

Controllers now earn an average of $33,000 a year with a low of $20,300 and a high of $49,200, depending on length of service and traffic density where they work.

made prior to Sadat's. Reagan did not mention the Egyptian president's proposals.

But it was learned that a change in the existing U.S. policy against talking to the PLO is highly unlikely until the PLO recognizes Israel's right to exist and ceases its terrorist activities.

"We'll see what might develop, but at this point there's no change in our policy," said Edwin Moses III, counselor to the president.

Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr. said there was no change in U.S. policy. "The Palestinians know our requirements very clearly," he added. "All they have to do is meet them."

Reagan has said he considers the PLO to be a terrorist organization.

Sadat is understood to have told Reagan that there is a tacit recognition of Israel by the PLO—and the PLO by Israel—in the July 24 ceasefire that halted the fighting between Israel and the PLO in Lebanon.

Ladies Auxiliary Initiates New Member

The Ladies Auxiliary of the VFW Post No. 4818 met in regular session Monday evening and initiated one new member, Maisie Heath. President Helen Sowell presided over the meeting which was preceded by a covered dish supper for members and their guests. Essie Martin was present for the supper but had to leave for various reasons. The next meeting will be Aug. 17 at 8 p.m. at which time special guest, Mrs. Billie Rhoades of Amarillo, will speak to the auxiliary. Every member is urged to be present for this meeting.

Additional members present Monday evening were Doris Coffin, Rose Goheen, Ruth Stethem, Betty Boggs, Edith Richardson, Bessie Saulcy, Doris Wilson, Erma Murphey and Marie Goheen.

At Wits End

BY ERMA BOMBECK

A group of women were discussing the draft the other night and we decided if we were invited to a war, we could jolly well have the imagination to think of some way to terminate it.

I suggested the best way to stop a war was to ask the men directions on how to get there. We'd never find it. As the suggestions flowed in, we decided to make a list.

1. Let Tim Conway make a series out of it and it would run only 13 weeks.
 2. Put the war in the hands of the post office. It might not stop it, but it would certainly slow it down.
 3. Assign children to war zones and tell them they have to clean their rooms before they can go.
 4. Tell your husband it's something he has to dress up for.
 5. Transplant troops via Amtrak.
 6. Have one-size fits-all uniforms that are issued in little eggs.
 7. Schedule it on the same night Alan Alda is speaking to your child study group.
 8. Spread the rumor hair bleach will be in short supply until the war is over.

- Probably the best suggestion came from Barb, whose son graduated from high school and left home for the first time to join the Marine Corps. When he came home on leave he wasn't in the house five minutes before he engaged in a knock-down-drag-out fight with his 15-year-old brother. Barb grabbed a large wooden spoon, jumped between them, and gave them a look that would get her 30 years. They separated and backed off. Barb figures the only way to end a war is to draft experienced mothers, arm them with wooden spoons and "the look" and send them into battle. You haven't seen desertion until you've seen children running from their mothers' tongues. You think they can stand hearing, "What do you think you're doing? Don't you have anything more constructive to do? I'll give you something to do. Now, put that gun down before someone gets hurt!" Ridiculous, you say? Not half as ridiculous as wars.

Now You're Cookin'

By DEBE GRAVES Staff Writer

"My hobby is cooking, I cook all the time and I just love doing it," said Mrs. N.W. Livesay of 209 E. Fifth. Due to knee problems and subsequent surgery Mrs. Livesay is confined to the use of a walker. "I haven't taken a step without it in two years," she said. The physical disadvantage doesn't stop Mrs. Livesay from participating in her favorite pastime of cooking though she does much of her work sitting at the kitchen table.

Mrs. Livesay, known by her friends as Daisy Mae, met Norman Livesay at a party at a neighbor's house in Lockney and, according to him the romance was helped along because they attended the same, "little old country church."

Married 61 years now the couple moved from Tullia to a farm near Hereford in 1926.

"We used to know everybody in the county, from Floyd to Tucumcari, before the country settled up so much," said Livesay, who farmed for 51 years and is now a retired plumber.

"I really thought Hereford was the grandest place I had ever seen," reminisces Mrs. Livesay, who was a charter member of the Ford Club, for which she wrote the Ford news for the Brand.

"Everybody came to town on Saturdays just to see who else had come," recalls Livesay, "There were buggys, wagons, and model T's. They even raffled off an old Essex car in about 1924 or 25." He explained that the car had belonged to tourists who couldn't pay their bills, so merchants auctioned off the car.

The couple have three children. Their daughter resides in Amarillo, where her husband teaches at Amarillo College. Her name is Mrs. Milton Horst. One of their sons, Harold, lives in Las Lunas, N.M. He is a World War II veteran and is also a retired plumber. Their other son, L.J., lives in Hereford and is a sales representative for Summerfield Fertilizer. The Livesays also have six grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

About Hereford Mrs. Livesay said, "I like it all, myself, but I got particular enjoyment from the Home Demonstration Club." She was a member of that organization from 1947 until 1974. The couple are members of the Central Church of Christ, but they do not get to attend often due to Mrs. Livesay's inability to walk unaided.

"I enjoy doing a lot of things and I really don't let it get in my way much. I have to sit here, but I still just have to keep busy," commented Mrs. Livesay who has been busy recently canning peaches from the two trees in their backyard, which yielded six or seven bushels of fruit this year.

The gardener of the family is Livesay who commented on the abundance of peaches. "We are just trying to beat the birds to them. We've been cooking them, canning them, and freezing them."

To spread some good old peach preserves on here is Mrs. Livesay's recipe for Sure Fire Bran Rolls.

QUOTE/UNQUOTE

What people are saying...

"It's great to be alive and it's grand to be Irish."
— Timothy McCarthy, a U.S. Secret Service agent credited with saving President Reagan's life. McCarthy is recovering from a gunshot wound.

"To hold any animosity is to say that our country is not big enough to turn the other cheek. We are big enough."
— William Belk, 45, former hostage, saying Americans should not hate Iranians because of the seizure of the U.S. embassy in Tehran. He is making a speaking tour to thank Americans for their support of the hostages.

"Allergy to school could easily be classified as an occupational hazard."
— Dr. Leonard Caputo, a Mobile, Ala., expert, reporting to the American College of Allergists that schoolchildren are exposed to a wide variety of medical hazards.

Tai Babilonia

"A lot of people can't really figure out what I am, so I have to explain that my mother is black and my father is Filipino and Chinese. I think it's unique. It's different and I like being different."

— Tai Babilonia, ice skating star. (Jet magazine)

"You will remember your own experiences."
— Leonid Brezhnev, Soviet communist chief, recalling before 3,000 Czech leaders in Prague why Russian troops were sent into their country in 1968. He denounced similar turmoil currently taking place in Poland.

"I fear prison because I am a writer."
— Abbie Hoffman, 44, a 1960s anti-war activist, after being sentenced in New York to up to three years in prison for selling cocaine.

Leaders Claim Attack Imminent

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP) — Rebel leaders in southeast Bolivia defied the military junta controlling La Paz and said they were preparing for an attack by ground and air forces. But no bloodshed had been reported yet in the three-day-old attempt to change the leadership of the Andean country's year-old military regime.

"We understand troops and aircraft are being sent against us either tonight or at dawn tomorrow," said Gen. Lucio Anez Rivero, a former army chief of staff, in a telephone interview with The Associated Press late Wednesday.

Anez Rivero was at the rebel headquarters in Santa Cruz, Bolivia's second largest city and the center of its oil industry 325 miles southeast of the capital, where he and Gen. Alberto Natusch Busch on Monday launched the fifth attempt since May to oust President Luis Garcia Meza, the former army commander who had headed the military government for a year.

Garcia Meza resigned Tuesday, handing over the government to the junta made up of the three armed forces commanders he appointed earlier this year. But he remained in La Paz, and there were indications he was still calling giving the orders via the military chiefs.

The junta broadcast a communique Wednesday night terming the rebellion an "irresponsible adventure" and expressing regret at Garcia Meza's resignation. It expressed gratitude to him for resisting "the interference of foreign powers" in Bolivia's internal affairs and for his "loyalty and work well done."

Garcia Meza met Wednesday morning with the junta, but no one would say what was discussed or decided. Meanwhile, the rebels in a broadcast said the president's resignation was a hoax and called on the junta to come to Santa Cruz and confer with Anez Rivero and Natusch.

Natusch, who led a coup in 1979 but held the presidency for only 15 days, said Gen. Waldo Bernal, commander of the air force and the senior member of the junta, agreed to meet with him and Anez Rivero. But Vice Adm. Oscar Pammo, the navy member of the junta, said they had not decided whether a negotiating mission would take place.

Pioneer Achieves Record Earnings

AMARILLO, Texas - Pioneer Corporation (NYSE) achieved in 1981 record second quarter earnings and revenues, the diversified energy resources corporation announced today.

For the three months ended June 30, Pioneer earned 76 cents per share, an increase of 26.7 percent from the comparable figure a year ago. Net income for the quarter was $28.4 million, up 26.8 percent, and consolidated revenues amounted to $308 million, a 31.2 percent increase.

The revenues and net income were the highest Pioneer has ever attained for any second quarter.

Pioneer's profitability in the second quarter rested principally on the performance of its operations in oil and gas exploration and production, natural gas special contract sales, natural gas liquids extraction, and contract drilling for the petroleum industry, K.B. Watson, president and chief executive officer, said.

"Those operations have led the corporation to 2 1/2 years - 10 consecutive quarters - of consistent earnings growth each quarter over the comparable period a year earlier," he said. "They are also the segments of Pioneer's business that are receiving the most emphasis for expansion this year."

Watson said revenues from oil and gas production increased 64 percent in the second quarter over the same period a year ago. During the quarter, the corporation's petroleum exploration and production subsidiary, Pioneer Production Corporation, participated in 28 wells, including 13 completed as gas wells and six as oil wells. At the end of the quarter, Pioneer had interests in 50 onshore and five offshore wells being drilled or completed.

Pioneer Production is a member of a group that was the high bidder on seven blocks offered at the federal offshore lease sale in July. Pioneer's interests in those blocks range from 15 to 20 percent.

Watson also announced that construction proceeded on schedule during the quarter on a new Pioneer Gas Products Company gas processing plant near Sweetwater, Texas. That plant is expected to begin operating in October. In addition, the company has begun a modernization project for another plant, with completion planned for the spring of 1982.

Pioneer's contract drilling subsidiary, Sharp Drilling Co., Inc., completed construction in the second quarter of a new rig, owned by a limited partnership with Sharp as the general partner. When the quarter ended, Sharp was constructing two other partnership rigs for use by the company's new Rocky Mountain division. Two more rigs will be added to the fleet during the last half of this year.

Watson reported that Pioneer's board of directors declared a regular quarterly dividend of 22 cents per share, payable September 2 to stockholders of record August 20, 1981.

After 13 Outs and No Walks

Gold Sox Pitcher Dravecky Didn't Get Much for Effort

By The Associated Press
Amarillo Gold Sox pitcher Dave Dravecky struck out 13 and didn't walk a single batter in 10 innings Wednesday night, but all he got for his effort was an improvement in his earned run average.

Dravecky wasn't around when the Gold Sox used two singles, two sacrifice flies, two walks and a wild pitch to score two runs and take a 3-2 Texas League baseball victory over the El Paso Diablos.

Other Texas League scores were Midland 16, San Antonio 13, Jackson 8, Tulsa 7 in 12 innings and Arkansas 6, Shreveport 2.

John Hanson gave El Paso a 1-0 lead with a solo homer early in the game and Frank Castro's solo homer for Amarillo tied the game at 1-1 and the score held up until the top of the 11th when El Paso grabbed a 2-1 lead.

El Paso took the lead when Ed Irvine reached on a fielder's choice, went to third on a wild throw and scored on Willie Lozado's single.

Amarillo's Jeff Pyburn singled to open the bottom of the 11th and moved to second on a sacrifice fly just before Jerry DeSimone walked. Pyburn then moved to third on a wild pitch. Pyburn scored on a sacrifice fly to again tie the game at 2-2.

After James Steele and Ron Tingley walked, Aaron Cain ended the game with a run scoring single.

Mike Babra, 4-3, who pitched only the 11th inning, was the winning pitcher. Tagged for the loss was Rene Quinones, 1-4.

The Midland Cubs used two big innings in a 16-13 come-from-behind see-saw battle with the San Antonio Dodgers. The Cubs scored eight runs in the fifth inning and four more in the eighth inning of a game in which they trailed 8-0 in the first inning.

Mike Diaz had a two-run homer for Midland and Myron White had a two-run homer in the sixth for San Antonio.

The winning pitcher was Phil Natsu, 4-2. Jim Nobles, 4-4, was the loser.

Ed Cuervo had an inside-the-park home run in the 12th inning to give the Jackson Mets an 8-7 victory over the Tulsa Drillers.

The Drillers trailed 7-0 before Phil Klimas' two-run single tied the score at 7-7 in the bottom of the ninth to send the game into extra innings.

Cuervo hit a sinking line drive to left center where centerfielder George Wright dived for it and made contact, but the ball bounced off his glove and rolled into the left field corner. The left fielder was backing up Wright and couldn't get to the ball before Cuervo circled the bases.

Doug Sisk, 1-0, was the winning pitcher. The loser was Dennis Long, 2-3.

Tom Nieto had a three-run homer and Fred Tisdale had a two-run homer as the Arkansas Travelers beat the Shreveport Captains, 6-2.

Jim Rothford had a solo homer for Shreveport.

The winning pitcher was Kevin Hagen, 5-9. Mark Dempsey, 13-5, was the loser.

Sensation Herschel Walker Possibly Best Ball-Carrier Since Jim Brown

By WILL GRIMSLEY AP
It's $10 million worth of prime beef on the hoof, but there's a good chance it will never gain its full market value.

In stockyard terms, you can safely say that the University of Georgia's line-splintering juggernaut, Herschel Walker, would go today at $45,454 a pound in an open field with a football tucked under his arm — granted he was personally so inclined and some maverick such as Oakland's Al Davis dared challenge the National Football League's "no tampering rule."

As it is, the sensational, 19-year-old sophomore, hailed as perhaps the best ball-carrier to come along since Jim Brown, is left to play Russian roulette with his multiple, highly marketable talents.

"I'm still not a man," says the millworker's son from little Wrightsville, Ga., "I've got a lot of learning to do and a long way to go. I like college. I like to play college football."

"So I will take everything a step at a time. Right now I am thinking more 1984 Olympics than a professional football career."

Comes an echo from his coach, Vince Dooley: "He's still just a puppy."

Herschel stands 6-foot-1 and, in top trim, carries 220 well-distributed pounds. He has a neck like a tree trunk (19½ inches), a wasp waist (30 inches), wagon tongues for arms and churning legs that can cover 100 yards in 10.2 seconds and 200 yards in 21.1.

These are speeds good enough to give the crackling Cracker ideas about running for Uncle Sam in the 1984 Olympics in Los Angeles.

Meanwhile, he is sure to have professional scouts in the United States and Canada drooling with anticipatory slobber.

As a freshman with Georgia's unbeaten national championship team last year, Walker ran for 1,616 yards — most in history for a freshman — finished in third place in the Heisman Trophy balloting won by South Carolina's George Rogers and then led the Bulldogs to a 17-10 victory over Notre Dame in the Sugar Bowl.

"Walker is the only player I've ever seen besides Earl Campbell who I think could step in and play with the pros after his freshman year," said Gil Brandt, the Dallas Cowboys' vice president in charge of personnel.

Brandt is not the only pro so impressed. The Montreal Alouettes, not bound by American restrictions, offered the Walker $1 million, $500,000 a year for two years, to play in the Canadian League.

Walker turned it down without even blinking. "There are things that mean more to me than money," said Herschel, displaying maturity — and perhaps naivety — not commensurate with his years.

Walker's football future monopolized conversations around lunch tables in New York Wednesday when the touted back was presented the Tanqueray Achievement Award for his contributions to amateur sports.

NBC Negotiating With CFA

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — NBC-TV and the College Football Association are negotiating this week on a television package to rival — possibly even nullify — a four-year, $263 million deal that ABC and CBS made with the NCAA.

The Associated Press also has learned that NBC has offered to help bankroll the CFA if it attempts to split away from the NCAA over the issue of television rights.

However, a pullout by the 62-member CFA, which includes all major football conferences and independents except the Pac-10 and Big Ten, appeared unlikely in the immediate future. Such a break would require an immediate, enormous financial investment and put the school's other programs, such as basketball and track, at a big disadvantage.

Charles M. Neinas, who resigned in April 1980 as Big Eight commissioner to become the CFA's first executive director, has maintained consistently that the 5-year-old organization's goal is to work within the NCAA structure. All CFA members also are NCAA members.

Nevertheless, Neinas told the CFA board of directors in a report last month that NBC executives offered to help financially if a "divorce" from the NCAA was attempted. In return, NBC would get exclusive rights for five years to all CFA athletic events.

That almost certainly would result in a staggering increase in television riches for a select few, with millions of dollars flowing to the major powers. NCAA officials say that would critically damage attendance at other games and doom the smaller schools to perpetual "second class citizenship."

Seattle Seahawks Lose to San Francisco 49ers at Kingdome

SEATTLE (AP) — The Seattle Seahawks had a chance to halt their enigmatic Kingdome jinx Wednesday night.

But Coach Jack Patera went for a touchdown — instead of a field goal — and the Seahawks wound up losing to the San Francisco 49ers 27-24 in the clubs' National Football League exhibition openers.

It was the ninth straight loss at home for the Seahawks, who were 0-8 during the regular season last year in the Kingdome.

"Yes, we have something to prove this year," said Jim Zorn, the Seahawks' No. 1 quarterback. "That we can win in the Dome. We're 0 for 9 here now."

Before 56,958 disappointed fans, the Seahawks blew their chances of victory with two minutes left in regulation play.

The 49ers wound up winning in overtime on Ray Wersching's 39-yard field goal with 5:29 elapsed in the 15-minute extra session.

With the score 24-24, the

Richard Said 'Not Ready'

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Astros pitcher J.R. Richard, who was expected to test his fiery fastball Friday against the Texas Rangers, is "not quite ready" to return to the mound, the National League team says.

General Manager Al Rosen had said Richard, who has not pitched competitively in more than a year because of a massive stroke, might pitch one or two innings in Friday night's exhibition game in the Astrodome.

But Manager Bill Virdon said Wednesday the 6-foot-8 Richard wasn't ready.

Richard suffered a stroke July 30, 1980, while working out in the Astrodome. He underwent surgery for a blood clot in his neck and had further surgery for a shoulder clot two months later.

YACHTING

COWES, England (AP) — Almagore, skippered by Gilberto Borromeo and steered by Californian Dick Deaver, won the fourth race in the Admiral's Cup yachting series and helped Italy climb to second place in the overall team placings.

Britain led the standings with 526 points. Italy stood second overall with 472.

Australia had 448 points, Ireland 441, and the United States and Canada were tied for fifth with 392 points each.

Seahawks had the ball on the 49ers' 1-yard line on a fourth down.

Patera called a running play — instead of the short field goal — but rookie Eric Lane tripped and fell.

"Sometime in the regular season, we're going to be on the six-inch line," Patera explained. "I wanted to see if we could do it now."

Zorn wasn't in the game in the fourth quarter but refused to second-guess his coach.

"You've got to have confidence you can put the ball in the end zone," he said. "You can miss a field goal, too. Then people will say you should have gone for the touchdown."

San Francisco Coach Bill Walsh was distressed because 49er tight end Eason Ramson limped off the field in the overtime session with what was diagnosed as a knee sprain.

"This win is really clouded by that injury," Walsh said. "If we lose Eason, it could be disastrous."

Both the 49ers and the Seahawks both have something to prove this season. San Francisco was 6-10 last season while Seattle was 4-10. They will meet Aug. 22 in another preseason contest in San Francisco's Candlestick Park.

The first full week of NFL exhibitions continues tonight with the National Conference champion Philadelphia Eagles at Houston. On Friday Kansas City is at Washington and the New York Jets visit Denver.

On Saturday, it's Detroit at Buffalo; Cincinnati at Tampa Bay; the New York Giants at Chicago; Pittsburgh at Cleveland; Baltimore at New Orleans; St. Louis at San Diego; Green Bay at Dallas; Miami at Minnesota and Atlanta at Oakland.

New England winds up the extended slate of preseason contests at Los Angeles next Monday night.

Golf Tournament Set Sept. 29-Oct. 2

The Hereford Women's Golf Association will host the prestigious Senior Women's West Texas Golf Tournament at the John Pitman Municipal Golf Course here, Sept. 29-Oct. 2.

The four-day event will include women 50 years of age and over who belong to area golf clubs which have paid dues to the Senior Women's West Texas Golf Association according to SWWTGA secretary-treasurer Thelma Marsh of Hereford.

The SWWTGA includes a broad expanse of West Texas, and the current president of the organization is Helen Ann McWhorter, also of Hereford.

The tournament will begin Tuesday, Sept. 29 with qualifying rounds for the Championship Flight. The tourney will include eight flights for 64 golfers, who will compete in match play the last three days of the event.

"Golf is a sport for all ages," Mrs. Marsh said. "Players don't have to be matched in age or strength, but by their ability...it's based on the individual."

Oil Bowl Game To Be Held

WICHITA FALLS, Texas (AP) - Highland Park's Rob Moerschell will start at quarterback for Texas and Sallisaw's Craig Benson will open at quarterback for Oklahoma here Friday night in the 44th annual Oil Bowl schoolboy all-star football game.

Moerschell is bound for the University of Texas while Benson will attend Oklahoma State.

Three Southern Methodist signees will be in the starting offensive line for Texas, Ray Dunn, Odessa Permian, and Andrew Campbell, Highland Park, both guards, and tackle Blake Foster of North Mesquite.

Other offensive starters for Texas include center Jack Holmes, Wichita Falls, tackle Brian Camp, Lewisville-Baylor, fullback Greg Bird-sall, Plano-North Texas, backs Robert Lewis, Greenville-Texas Tech, and Glenn Watson, Highland Park-Vanderbilt, split end James Tatom, Richardson-Texas Tech, and flanker Dirk Davis, Dallas White-Oklahoma State.

Texas' defensive starters are end Jim Cooke, Abilene Cooper-TCU, and Tatom; tackles Sid Chambers, Burkburnett-Texas Tech and Bill Heathcock, North Garland-Texas; safeties Allen Smith, Wichita Falls

Hirschi-Panhandle State, and Davis; cornerbacks Lonnie Stokes, Weatherford-S.F. Austin, and Brent Parker, Breckenridge-Mississippi State, linebackers Kevin Murphy, Richardson Berkner-Oklahoma, and Dan Wallace, Paris-Tulsa, and noseguard Ken Shead, Plano-Nebraska.

Other Oklahoma offensive starters will be halfbacks Eddie Goodlow, Altus-Oklahoma State and G. Tyner, Fox-Southeastern Oklahoma State, flanker Davis Carter, Altus-OU; split end Paul Clewis, Oklahoma City Millwood-OU; tight end Darin Berryhill, Jenks-OU; tackles Scott Leggett, Muskogee-OU, and David Storey, Altus-OU; guards Jim Sachs, Ada-Wichita State; and Paul Ferrer, Midwest City-OU, and center Ric Uhles, Norman-OU.

Defensively for Oklahoma it will be ends Kelly Sharp, Clinton-Brown, and Doug Maritan, Tulsa Memorial-OSU; tackles Clay Miller, Norman-Michigan, and Scott Lilly, Tulsa Memorial-Tulsa; linebackers Phil Wilson, Putnam City West-OSU, and Jeff Lee, Muskogee-OSU, cornerbacks Charles Crawford, Hominy-Kansas State, and Joe Don Litsch, Thomas-Southwestern Oklahoma State; safeties Ronnie Krushe, Hominy, OSU; and Carter; and noseguard Gary Bolden, Clinton-Southwestern Oklahoma State.

Texas owns a 27-7-1 series edge and won last year's game 7-3.

Coaches for the Texas All-Stars are Frank Beavers, Highland Park; Bill Hicks, Paris, and Dub Largin, Wichita Falls Hirschi.

Oklahoma coaches are Dave Meadows, Clinton, Willie Hurte, Fox and Gib Dolzeal, Stroud.

Cowboys' Safeties Making Progress In Training Camp

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) - Veteran Dallas Cowboys' safeties Charlie Waters and Randy Hughes, both attempting comebacks following offseason surgery, are making excellent progress in training camp, head coach Tom Landry says.

"They're both so much better than they were last year," Landry said Wednesday.

"There's no comparison with Hughes. He's hitting, coming up, tackling the dummy. He's doing everything. The shoulder doesn't seem to be bothering him at all."

Landry said Waters, who had surgery on his right knee for the second time in February, "worked all the two-a-days, which I didn't think he could do."

And he's not getting much fluid in his knee and he's not getting a great deal of soreness. Those are all encouraging factors."

Waters, who played the entire 1980 season with a knee brace and led the Cowboys with five interceptions, said "the knee feels much tighter than it did last year. It's not giving me as much trouble and I'm moving better, much faster than I did last year."

Hughes, had surgery on his right shoulder a year ago after dislocating it during the preseason. He missed most of the season, then dislocated the shoulder again during playoffs.

The Cowboys leave for Dallas Friday morning to get ready for their exhibition season opener against Green Bay in Texas Stadium Saturday night.

The America's Cup, originally called the Hundred Guinea Cup, was offered by the Royal Yacht Squadron of Great Britain for a race around the Isle of Wight. The cup was won by the "America," a 100-foot schooner from New York, but was donated in 1857 for a perpetual international challenge competition.

Oilers Open 1981 Campaign; Entertain Philadelphia Tonight

The Houston Oilers begin their twenty-second year of competition tonight when they entertain the Philadelphia Eagles in their preseason opener. Kickoff is slated for 7 p.m. CDT in the Astrodome.

New Head Coach Ed Biles will be at the helm of an NFL team for the first time in his coaching career, which began in 1953 when he accepted a head coaching job in Ohio at the high school level. Biles has been a member of the Oilers coaching staff since 1974, and from 1975-80 served as the defensive coordinator.

This is not the only major change that the Oilers will show when they take the field on Thursday evening. Biles has put together one of the top coaching staffs in the NFL since being elevated to his current post, and they have made some changes in the Oilers attack from recent years. Biles has said that the offense will open up, be more aggressive than in past years. Throwing on first down from any point on the field and throwing on third and short yardage situations rather than relying on the great talents of running back Earl Campbell is very much a possibility with this year's club.

The passing game will not be changed drastically to reflect the talents of the Oilers new number one quarterback, Gifford Nielsen who replaces the retired Ken Stabler. Gifford throws the same type ball as Stabler, and according to Biles "we have not altered our passing game a great deal to tailor Gifford because both he and Kenny are intermediate range passers. Giff can throw deep when the situation arises but most of our patterns will be middle range in distance, probably twenty yards or less."

The defense will be basically the same as in past years under Biles' leadership but there will be several key questions to be answered.

Third year lineman Mike Stensrud and Jesse Baker are pushing veterans Elvin Bethea and Andy Dorris for starting positions in the Oilers three man line. The linebackers are solid from last season but the returning veterans are being pushed by 1981 draft picks Delbert Fowler and Avon Riley. In the secondary, the Oilers will return both cornerbacks from last year along with strong safety Vernon Perry. However, third year pro Carter Hartwig will be making his debut as weak safety because last year's starter, Mike Reinfeldt is involved in negotiating a new contract and is not in camp.

Strike Ended and Contracts Ratified

By BARRY WILNER AP Sports Writer

Major leaguers were scheduled to "Play Ball!" for the first time in 56 days today, one day after they voted overwhelmingly to ratify the contract that ended their seven-week strike.

At the same time, team owners were expected to ratify the contract at a meeting in Chicago today, when they also would take up the format for the rest of the season.

There seemed to be heavy support for a split season, with division winners from the first portion - prior to the June 12 strike - qualifying for the playoffs and everyone starting the second portion of the season from scratch.

With 20 of the 26 teams reporting their votes, 10 had approved the contract unanimously. They were Detroit, Milwaukee, Kansas City, Baltimore, Toronto, Montreal, Houston, St. Louis, Atlanta and the Chicago Cubs.

Overall, the players had supported the settlement by a 48-25 margin. A simple majority of the 650 players on active major league rosters, plus those on injured reserve, was needed for ratification.

Ironically, that majority was achieved on the day that the owners' $50 million strike insurance expired.

Other team votes were: New York Mets, 24-1; Texas Rangers, 24-1; Oakland A's, 26-1; California Angels, 21-4; Chicago White Sox, 23-4; Seattle Mariners 23-3; San Francisco Giants 23-2; San Diego Padres, 22-3, and Minnesota Twins, 21-6.

The Astros' J.R. Richard, recovering from a stroke and major surgery, had been expected to go a couple of innings in the game, but he was scratched Wednesday. Astros Manager Bill Virdon said Richard, who had thrown 15 minutes of batting practice Monday, was "not quite ready" to pitch competitively.

The rest of the schedule had the Albuquerque Dukes of the Pacific Coast League at the Los Angeles Dodgers, their parent club; Baltimore at Philadelphia; Oakland at San Diego; Pittsburgh at Cleveland, and Atlanta at Milwaukee.

The regular season is scheduled to resume Monday, one day after the All-Star Game in Cleveland.

A full slate of 13 games is on tap Monday, beginning with the Mets at the Cubs in the afternoon.

Owners Have Decisions To Make Now That Strike is Over

CHICAGO (AP) - Money and fan interest were among the factors major league baseball owners were expected to consider in deciding whether to ignore the 50-day strike and finish the 1981 season as scheduled or to adopt a split-season plan.

Also on the agenda at today's owners' meeting was expected approval of the settlement that ended the strike. By Wednesday, an overwhelming majority of players had voted to ratify the contract.

At the meeting, National League owners also were expected to approve the sale of the Chicago Cubs by William Wrigley Jr. for $20.5 million to the Tribune Co. The sale was announced in June.

At the top of the owners' agenda, however, was a decision on the remainder of the season, which appeared to be governed by a number of factors - including where the most money was, whether there was a need to rekindle fan interest in cities with second-division teams and what was fairest for the clubs themselves.

There appeared to be considerable support for a split season, under which the New York Yankees, Oakland A's, Los Angeles Dodgers and Philadelphia Phillies - the division leaders when the strike hit - would be declared winners of the first half.

This would assure them berths to determine divisional championships in miniplayoff series with second-half winners after the regular season ends Oct. 3. If a team wins both halves, it could receive a bye before entering the pennant playoffs or have to play a first round miniseries with a second-place team.

Under the alternative plan, teams presumably would take up next Monday where they left off when the strike began June 12.

There was the possibility that one league would decide to travel the split-season route, while the other would go for resuming the original 1981 season. Commissioner Bowie Kuhn then would have to choose a common way to complete the campaign.

"The public's not in a mood for gimmicks, so if we don't handle this carefully it could backfire on us," George Steinbrenner, owner of the New York Yankees, said Wednesday.

One of the owners favoring the split season was Raymond Sullivan of the Boston Red Sox. Sullivan indicated the split season may be the way to go permanently if fans develop a markedly renewed interest in second-division teams.

Homespun Newspaper : Thrives On Democracy

By KATY BUCHANAN
Associated Press Writer

PITTSBURGH (AP) — One recent summer night, a group of 20 laborers, housewives and retirees clustered in a tiny North Side house, the staff of that month's edition of a homespun city paper bearing the unlikely name of the Mill Hunk Herald.

Their task was to review each of 85 articles, stories and letters. Every person in the group had written at least one of the items under scrutiny. On the back of each piece, they scrawled comments and a numerical rating between 1 and 5, with 1 indicating top-quality stuff.

Top-rated pieces got the nod for publication.

Founder Larry Evans, his wife, Leslie, and what they affectionately call a "strong core" of friends and supporters, boast that the Herald is the only democratically run newspaper in the country.

Democracy is dear to the young couple — the Herald even sponsors a women's softball team whose players vote on their starting lineup — and it was Evans' fervor for majority rule that helped get the Mill Hunk started.

"We think it's an example of how the future is going to roll. There's got to be a more democratic way of expressing how things go into the magazines," said the tan, blond steelworker who regularly punches a clock at U.S. Steel's mill in the city's Homestead section.

The tiny paper (circulation 5,000) is a freestyle collection of blue-collar commentary — mostly pro-little guy and anti-big companies and government.

An example:

"...Whatever happened...? Our unions, just like politics, have become corrupt with hand-picked men that are only personal friends of our top union officials. Now who do we have to represent us? No one."

There is also poetry:
"aint shor bout tamaro —
but shor bout today
"gonna meet my gal in phille — goin back ta pittsberg p-a
"...i wuz born in dat distric
— da one calld da hill
"wen yore born in dat
distric — da nex stops da mill"

"We won't go and revise somebody's work," Evans said. "If somebody has something to say, we want them to say it in the language they know best. We try to keep the free spirit of the writer."

That goes for humor, too.
"One of the things that characterizes the Herald is that it has a sense of humor.
Satire goes over real well,"
said Mrs. Evans.

The seed for the Herald
sprouted first with The Union
Coupler, a mimeographed news sheet started in 1977 by Evans and several others at the McConway Torley mill here.

Evans said they were unhappy with the mill's union paper, which he described as "full of obituaries and bowling scores."

"We'd sit in the bar sometimes before the midnight shift, and I'd write as they talked. I'd read it back to them and say 'Is that OK?'
and that'd be their article,"
Evans recalled.

The Coupler was not popular with management, and Evans claims that's the reason he and his 13 fellow contributors were fired.
Evans moved on to the Homestead mill.

The first Mill Hunk Herald appeared in 1979, the name coming from a once-derogatory term for Hungarian immigrants who toiled in the mills. Laid out in helter-skelter fashion, it carried every item submitted.

Things have changed.

The paper now looks like a magazine on the outside. Inside pages remain a carefree combination of copy and cartoons.

Articles aren't solicited quite as actively as in the Herald's first days, when Evans wrote to people who had sent letters to editors of Pittsburgh's two daily newspapers, asking them if they wanted a broader forum for their opinions.

"There's a trade-off that's been made (since the first issue)," said Mrs. Evans, a slim, curly-haired woman who teaches high school English and journalism in the Steel Valley School District.

The giant cactus of Arizona — the sahuaro — is a tree without leaves, without a single branch. It has pleats on its sides that expand or contract as much as a foot when there is rain.

It's not news that the American population is aging. The advancing median age and increasing numbers of elderly have been apparent from demographic reports for some years. But a study of voting patterns in the 1980 presidential election sheds new light on the political implications of the trend. Significantly larger percentages of older age groups went to the polls than did their younger fellow citizens. The turnout of 55-64 year olds was proportionately twice that of the youngest voting age group.

Financing For State College Construction Will Have To Wait

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Sen. Pete Snelson says a debate on financing state college construction with a three cents state property tax will have to wait until, and if, Gov. Bill Clements gives it a priority rating in the special session.

The bill, already cleared for debate by a Senate committee, was informally discussed Wednesday without any votes.

"The problem is not going to go away," said the Midland Democrat. "If we don't wrestle with it now, we will have it in a future session."

The Snelson measure was ready for debate but he said he feared it would be knocked off because Speaker Bill Clayton had banned a similar measure in the House because it was not in Clements' official call for the special session.

"I will not ask you to take it up now," Snelson told fellow senators, "but will wait to see if the call is broadened."

Clements said later he did not intend to give the special session any more priorities "until such time as these five issues (which include congressional redistricting) have indicated significant progress."

Clements said Snelson apparently did not have the votes needed for the three-cent tax and said he thought continuation of the state property tax at the three-cent level would be a "gross misrepresentation" to Texans.

For about 20 years Texas had a 10 cents state property tax that was used for construction and capital improvements by state colleges and universities not in the University of Texas and Texas A&M systems. The 10 cents level is written into the state constitution.

In 1979, the Legislature tried to do away with state ad valorem tax by assessing it on 0.0001 percent of the market value of property. That left the colleges dependent on general state revenue and direct legislative appropriation.

The 1979 state law was challenged by Midwestern University regents, who said it was unconstitutional and asked state courts to rule that the 10-cent tax was still in effect.

The case is scheduled to come to trial on Aug. 24 in Austin.

"All our lawyers, including the attorney general, think it is a winnable suit and we may be back paying 10 cents again," Snelson said. "I believe that now is the time to settle this."

Sen. Bill Meier, R-Eules, questioned the effect of the three cents tax.

Town, Country Jubilee Fair Finalized by Board Committee

The Hereford Town and Country Jubilee Fair board committee recently convened at the Community Center for discussion of plans for the fair to be held Aug. 20-21.

Members of the committee are Sue Powell, chairman; Louise Packard, extension homemakers; Penny Cribbs, county extension agent, Dixie Porter, Garden clubs; Cindy Norvell, campfire; Carol Odom, Sweet & Fancy Club; and Mrs. J.B. Odom, committee.

Jubilee fair entries will be received at the Hereford Community Center, Thursday, Aug. 20 between the hours of 2-6 p.m. Entries after that time will be for display only.

Judging will begin at 8 a.m. Friday morning, Aug. 21. The Fair will be open to the public from 10 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. Friday.

There is no entry fee and exhibits will be removed between 6:30-7:30 p.m. Friday.

All entries must be the property of the exhibitor in whose name the entry is made, and must have been completed within the past year.

There will be three divisions in the county fair. They are: Junior division, for entrants under 13 years of age; Teenage division, entrants 13-19 years of age; and the Adult division, entrants over 19.

Blue, red and white ribbons will be presented to those entrants. Purple ribbons will denote class champion. Grand and Reserve Champions of each department will be selected from purple ribbon entries. Grand and Reserve Champions of the show will be selected from Grand and Reserve Champions of each department.

Entries will be accepted in all departments (except Dept. VI-Decorated Cake) from any amateur. An amateur is defined as someone who does his talent for pleasure and does not derive any significant portion of his income from his talent.

The public will not be allowed in the exhibition area during judging. Only required personnel may be present, and the decisions of the judges shall be final.

A maximum of one entry per category can be made. Departments to be provided during the County Fair are textile, arts, crafts, photography, and woodworking; horticulture; culinary, canned products and decorated cakes.

The textile department, coordinated by Louise Packard and the Extension Homemakers, includes all machine and handwork items.

The Hereford Campfire Lodge, with Cindy Norvell representative, is coordinating the arts, crafts, photography, and woodworking department. Mrs. Norvell states, "originality will be a priority in judging in this department."

Dixie Porter and the Hereford Garden Clubs will coordinate the horticulture department. This division includes annuals; perennials; bulbs, corns, rhizomes and tubers; roses; pot plants; hanging baskets; fruits and vegetables.

All entries in the horticulture division must be grown by the exhibitor. Only one entry per class or category per exhibitor will be permitted. All entries must also be correctly named.

Containers will be furnished by the exhibitor; soft drink bottles or fruit jars for larger specimen. Plants should be insect-free, no spray residue or polish may be used. Potted plants, terrariums and hanging baskets must have been in the possession of the exhibitor at least 60 days previous to the Fair.

Roses should be one-third to one-half open and the center should not be visible, and Dahlias must have foliage.

4-H and Penny Cribbs will be in charge of the culinary department. This division covers yeast breads, quick breads, cakes, cookies and pastry.

The Canned products department, also coordinated by 4-H and Penny Cribbs, will include fruits, vegetables, pickles and relishes, jelly, preserves, fruit butter, and marmalades.

The Decorated cakes department will have three divisions. They are teenager, 13 thru 19; amateur; and professional (professional is defined as anyone who receives pay for teaching or decorating cakes). This department is coordinated by Carol Odom and Sweet & Fancy Club.

Classes in this department include novelty, birthday, holiday, wedding or anniversary.

"Anyone in Hereford and the surrounding areas is invited and encouraged to make entries in the Town & Country Jubilee Fair," said Sue Powell, chairman.

TSTI-Amarillo Offers Classes

This fall, TSTI-Amarillo will offer two new technical-vocational programs: Transport Refrigeration Mechanics and Computer Science Technology.

TSTI-Amarillo's Transport Refrigeration Mechanics Program will train students in all phases of refrigeration repair, including inspection, evacuation, charging, troubleshooting, engine service, welding, soldering, refrigeration theory, electrical controls, schematic reading and metering.

The program is the only Transport Refrigeration Mechanics program approved by the Texas Education Agency in the State of Texas. Both a six month (two quarter) program leading to a Transport Refrigeration Mechanic's Helper certificate and a ninth month (three quarter) program granting a Transport Refrigeration Mechanic Certificate will be available.

The new Computer Science Technology Program's course offerings for the fall will include introduction to computer technology, introduction to computers and programming, data and entry and computer operations and introduction to computer math.

Students can earn an Associate degree after six quarters (18 months); however, students not electing to receive an Associate degree can obtain a Junior Programmer certificate after four quarters (12 months) or a Programmer certificate after five quarters (15 months).

For additional TSTI-Amarillo program information, call (806) 335-2316 or write to Admissions Office, TSTI-Amarillo, P.O. Box 11197, Amarillo, Texas, 79111.

Selling Store-Front Decorations

The Hereford Key Club, in conjunction with the Town & Country Jubilee will be selling store-front decorations for all local businesses. Key Clubbers have been busy this week visiting local merchants with samples of the decorations. For those who buy the store-front decorations, they will be installed the weekend of Aug. 18-19 by a professional decorating firm, who will also be responsible for removing the decorations. If a firm is not contacted, they may contact a key clubber, or Gene Brock, faculty advisor at 364-6591. One may also call the Chamber of Commerce office.

Forest workers call the quaking aspen the "disaster tree." It is the first tree to grow again in areas where forest fires, strip mining or other circumstances have stripped the land of vegetation.

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D. Delighted with diet

DEAR DR. LAMB - I ordered your Health Letter, Weight Losing Diet, six months ago. I weighed 265 pounds. I followed your diet except I substituted a poached egg and a strip of bacon for breakfast. Although you recommended 1,300 calories a day, I dropped to 700 calories. In six months I was down to 168 pounds. I lost 97 pounds and went from a waist size of 44 to 32.

I did feel weak sometimes, particularly when it was hot. I am a brick mason and was busy in the heat. I'm 40 years old and 6 feet tall. Before my diet my blood pressure was 155 over 110. Now it is 117 over 70. My hair has gotten thinner and I remember you saying that dieting could cause this. Now that I have my weight down, what do you recommend for a diet? I don't want to go back to my previous diet and gain all that weight back again.

Thank you for the wonderful diet. I have had at least 10,000 compliments and some people don't even know me. Also thanks for introducing me to a daily walk of one-and-a-half to two miles. Nothing in my life has been more relaxing and enjoyable.

DEAR READER - I am delighted with your success. Had I known what you were doing I would have insisted that you stick to the diet and not decrease your calories so much. A 1,200 to 1,300 calorie diet would have done the same thing, more slowly, but with less danger to your health. And you might have lost your hair. It is the deficiency in calories and in protein in severe diets that commonly cause hair loss.

In a diet-weight control program a daily exercise program is important. At your initial weight, walking a mile a day used more than 100 calories a day. And walking does help a person feel better while dieting.

DEAR DR. LAMB - I have been having some mild discomfort in the lower part of my chest, near the end of the breastbone. It comes and goes. It isn't severe but I wonder if I am having heart trouble. You hear so much these days about people having heart attacks that it has me worried. How can I tell if it is caused by my heart or whether it is important or not?

DEAR READER - Don't try to guess about it yourself. Go see your doctor and let him take a careful complete history and decide then what to do. There are many variations of heart pain. Actually about a third of all heart attacks occur with no pain warning at all. We call these silent heart attacks.

The pain from a heart attack may be a mild, dull, aching pain or pressure sensation, as opposed to a sharp pain. Sharp pains are seldom an indication of heart trouble.

If the discomfort is of short duration, less than 10 minutes, it is usually angina pectoris. This usually means insufficient blood supply to the heart muscle but not heart muscle damage. Heart attacks that cause heart muscle damage are usually associated with pain that lasts 30 minutes or more.

The discomfort can be in the center of the chest, at the lower end of your breastbone, in the pit of the stomach, right or left shoulder; it may radiate into the arms, the back or even into the jaw. The pain of a heart attack may occur at rest but is more likely to result in loss of sexual capacity after surgery. However, this procedure cannot be used in every case. Even if the gland must be operated on through an incision the surgery may not interfere with sexual functions. But if a man has to have a radical gland removal the interruption of nerves to that area that influence function can result in permanent impotence.

The small muscles that function as a valve at the outlet of the bladder are usually damaged with prostate surgery. It is impossible to prevent it. As a result when a man has an orgasm the fluid squirts backward into the bladder rather than out through the urethra. This greatly confuses men who are unaware of this complication to this common operation. It is nothing to be alarmed about.

DEAR DR. LAMB - I am a man age 80. I have an indirect inguinal reducible hernia on the right side. For a year I have worn a soft foam rubber truss, no gouging. The hernia doesn't bother me and I don't need the truss at night. I am normal and healthy in other ways.

I have read that wearing a truss only delays matters, causing weakening and scarring of muscles, making hernia surgery more difficult. What is your opinion? I am trying to avoid surgery and run my time out with a truss.

DEAR READER - I don't think anyone should wear a truss for a hernia without an examination and approval by their doctor. Many small hernias do not require immediate treatment. But no one wants a truss that might make matters worse.

If your hernia is mild as you describe and indirect, it is unlikely that it would ever strangulate so it is unlikely that you would need surgery. The intestinal loop tends to slide back into the abdomen when you are lying down so you wouldn't have a hernia at night. If you are in good health you would probably tolerate the surgery very well if you should need it at some future date.

DEAR DR. LAMB - I am under the impression that when the prostate gland is removed your sex life is completely stopped. Is this correct? A friend told me he has an erection but has no desire for sex. Could this be possible? I am 77 and married, but am having trouble emptying my bladder. My doctor said it is necessary that I have my gland removed. But I don't like the idea of not having anything to do with sex anymore.

DEAR READER - Many men who have a prostate gland operation do return to a regular normal sex life. It depends a lot on what kind of operation you require and what your general state of health is. Many older men have a lot of medical problems. When you are sick your sex drive may diminish or even disappear. Studies do show that sex drive does diminish in most men as they get older, with or without a prostate gland operation.

The transurethral resection (TUR) operation that is done with an instrument through the urethra without making an incision is least likely to result in loss of sexual capacity after surgery.

DEAR POLLY - My husband's shirts have yellow stains under the arms that don't wash out. Can you recommend some method of removing these stains? - KAREN

DEAR POLLY - I have trouble getting the odor out of the underarms of my husband's shirts. The rest of my laundry comes out great. Could you please suggest something to get rid of this problem? - MRS. K.T.

DEAR KAREN AND MRS. K.T. - These are some of the most-asked questions I receive. Unfortunately, the new anti-perspirants and deodorants seem to chemically set perspiration stains, making them difficult to wash out.

Vinegar seems to be a fairly effective remedy for these stains. If the stains aren't too severe, add a cup of vinegar to your final rinse water when doing your regular load of laundry.

For more severe stains, soak the garment in water (either warm or cool, depending on the fabric) mixed about half-and-half with vinegar. Then rub a little liquid detergent on the area and launder as usual, again adding vinegar to the final rinse water. This should also eliminate most of the odor; however, if some odor remains, rub the area with a little colorless mouthwash, then launder as usual. A baking soda paste rubbed into the fabric can also help remove odors. - POLLY

DEAR POLLY - I hope this Pointer will help the reader with an iced tea stain on her blouse. I had an identical problem and I tried several ways to remove it, including pre-soaks and scrubbing with a brush. Finally I saturated the stain with lemon juice, rinsed it out and the stain was gone. I hope other readers benefit from this Pointer, too. - DIANE

Jubilee Display

Emmet Duke of Hereford, in conjunction with the Aug. 22 Town and Country Jubilee, will have on display at the County Library New Mexico, Colorado and Kansas brand books. The oldest brand book Duke has on display is 1934. According to him, the first book printed was in 1895. Also on display is an XIT running iron that was found under an old barn north of Glenrio, N.M. "This is the last of the collections," said Duke. Duke was a New Mexico cattle inspector for 15 years before moving to Hereford. He has resided in Hereford for 15 years and is still in the cattle business. The display will be open throughout the month of August.

Title Of Democrats Will Have To Be Taken Away

By JACK KEEVER
Associated Press Writer
AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A Democratic Party official says opposition to initiative and referendum could allow Republicans to take away the title of "party of the people" from Democrats.

Ann Wheeler of Houston, a member of the State Democratic Executive Committee, said if Democratic legislators do not support proposals that would allow Texans to initiate laws, the GOP also could become known as the "party that's not afraid to trust their own people."

"People would have more trust in government if they were able to participate in a more direct way," she said.

Despite bi-partisan support for the initiative and referendum proposal by Sens. Walter Mengden, R-Houston, and Lloyd Doggett, D-Austin, the measure was left as pending business Wednesday in the Senate Jurisprudence Committee.

"The best case for initiative and referendum is the Texas Legislature," said Doggett. "Too many times it is difficult to get a proposal approved despite widespread public support."

The Mengden-Doggett proposal would allow Texans to submit issues to a popular vote if enough signatures were collected on petitions. If the Legislature approved a proposed change in the law, it would become law.

If the Legislature approved a proposed constitutional change, it would be submitted to the people at a statewide election. The Legislature also could place on the ballot an alternative proposal, and the one getting the most votes would prevail.

"It's a crying shame Texas is not the first to provide initiative and referendum, rather than among the last," said Judith Jones, a Houston homemaker.

H.G. Tate of Austin, legislative director of the Texas AFL-CIO, joined Houston lobbyist James Nance and Charles Mathews of the Texas Association of School Administrators in opposing the proposal.

Nance also distributed a paper identifying opponents of I&R as the Houston, Dallas and South Texas chambers of commerce; Texas Association of Taxpayers; Texas Association of Business; Texas Chemical Council; Texas Association of School Boards and Texas State Teachers Association — in addition to school administrators and organized labor.
