Many Hereford pets not immunized

By KIM THOGMARTIN

Against rabies

Animal control officers in a northwest Houston neighborhood have orders to shoot to kill any animal that looks sick.

With less than 20 percent of the animal population in the city immunized against rabies, the Houston Department of Health has said a disaster is just waiting to happen. A 12-year-old girl is apparently dying of rabies, and the three armed officers feel they have at least a chance of finding the animal that infected her. Her family has no idea how she contracted the disease, which is nearly always fatal.

Hereford veterinarian Aaron Hutto claimed, when contacted by telephone Tuesday, "a lot of animals in Hereford are not immunized." He said there are a lot of reasons why people do not take their animals in for rabies shots, but the charge for the shots should not be one of them. The once-a-year vaccine only costs about $8.

The City of Hereford has a leash law, and the state of Texas requires dogs be immunized every year.

"Most states enforce it a lot more than Texas does," Hutto admitted.

The fine for allowing a dog to run loose in Hereford is $31. When the owner goes to claim the animal, he must produce proof that his pet was immunized. Otherwise, the city will have it done at the owner's expense. With pound fee and tag, that adds $12 to the fine.

"A lot of people have their pets vaccinated when they get them, and never have it done again," Butch Trevino, animal control officer, pointed out. "They just don't go to the trouble."

Trevino said the last diagnosed case of rabies in Hereford was found several years ago in a skunk. "I've noticed a lot of skunks closer to town than usual," he added. "I'm afraid a rabid skunk will bite a dog one of these days."

Hutto said there is not an approved rabies vaccination for skunks or most other wild animals. "A lot of people think it is real neat to have a pet skunk," he said. "They don't realize that skunks are among the biggest carriers of rabies."

When a person is bitten by an animal, he should call the city's animal control department. Unless the attack is provoked, the animal should be observed for at least 10 days by a local vet.

Hutto explained that if the animal exhibits symptoms of rabies within that time, it should be put to sleep and the head sent off for rabies testing.

There would still be time to protect the bite victim with rabies vaccinations, Hutto pointed out, especially if the wound was well cleaned and a tetanus shot administered.

The good news about rabies shots is the new diploid virus vaccine. The shots are not administered in the stomach like the traditional vaccine, and fewer doses are required.

The American Veterinary Medical Association said 3,000 cases of rabies among animals are reported every year in this country, with more than 20,000 people undergoing the rabies treatments.

The rabies virus attacks the central nervous system, with symptoms usually appearing two to three weeks after a person is infected. If the wound is slight, however, it can take longer than a year for the disease to surface.

Miss Hereford Pageant has 12 entrants

By LINDA CAUDLE
Lifestyles Editor

Twelve local contestants are scheduled to vie for the Miss Hereford title on Saturday during activities at the F.B. Black House and Hereford High School auditorium.

Interviews with the pageant judges, Mr. and Mrs. Bud Joiner of Levelland and Christie Higgs from Pampa, are set to begin at 10 a.m. at the Black House. Results from this area of competition make up one-third of the judges' total tally sheet, with the remaining two-thirds compiled from the talent and evening gown competition scheduled to start at 7 p.m. in the high school auditorium.

Tickets are now on sale to the public at the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce office, Hereford State Bank and several other local businesses, or from members of the Miss Hereford steering committee. Admission is $3 for adults, and $1 for children 12 and under.

The Women's Division of the chamber of commerce has sponsored the Miss Hereford Pageant each year since 1972 for girls who are sophomores in high school through age 20. This year's pageant theme, "At the Hop," is to be carried out with a musical production featuring singing and dancing by the contestants.

John Dawson for KGNC Radio in Amarillo is to serve as emcee, a position which he has held twice in previous years. This is to be Keith Ann Gear's fourth year to direct the Miss Hereford Pageant.

The winner of this year's pageant is to be crowned by Gina Griffin, who has served as Miss Hereford during the past year. Miss Hereford is to receive a $600 cash scholarship, with the first runner-up being given $300 and the second runner-up $200.

A talent award is to be presented to the contestant earning the highest overall score in the talent competition, with the Miss Congeniality award to be given to a participant based on a vote by fellow contestants. Each entry is to receive a memento of the pageant.

A float sponsored by the Women's Division in the Town and Country Jubilee parade on Aug. 11 is to feature the newly selected Miss Hereford, who is also scheduled to make appearances at community affairs, business openings, open houses, and civic events during the coming year.

Lanette Leasure is serving as chairman of the Miss Hereford steering committee. Other members are Dee Anne Trotter, Patti Brown, Cindy Burnam, Marilyn Culpepper, Arvella Lauderback and Francene Bromlow.

That feller on Tierra Blanca Creek says no person of moderate greatness pretends to be great.

Tomorrow has been defined as today's greatest labor-saving device.

Hereford's annual Town & Country Jubilee gets underway with the Miss Hereford Pageant Saturday night, and The Brand will have a special Jubilee section in Sunday's paper.

The Sunday paper will have an increased circulation with sample copies being mailed in surrounding areas. The section will include articles and photos on all the special events being conducted during the Jubilee, and it will give merchants an opportunity to advertise their goods and services to a wide readership.

Since no article or photo was submitted on the observance, we'd like to extend belated congratulations to Clara and Jimmie Gillentine on the occasion of their 50th wedding anniversary, celebrated Sunday afternoon at Hereford Country Club.

Jimmie came to Hereford in 1937 as editor of The Hereford Brand and became owner and publisher in 1949. He sold the newspaper in December, 1971. Under Gillentine's leadership, The Brand became one of the state's top semi-weekly newspapers.

Gillentine always pushed for progress of the community, operating on the basic philosophy: "A town either grows or declines; it never stands still." The Gillentines always found time to contribute to community development. Jimmie served on numerous boards and committees and was a member of the organizing board of directors of Hereford Country Club.

Clara served as chairman of a task force which worked to establish and finance Hereford's Day Care Center. She was a longtime Sunday School teacher, active with the Campfire girls, and active in the formation of the Women's Division of the chamber of commerce.

The Gillentines have two children, Sarah of Amarillo and Buz of Dallas, and seven grandchildren.

Tax hike prompts busy day for office workers

By KIM THOGMARTIN
Staff Writer

While the last day of the month is always a busy day for the Deaf Smith County tax assessor-collector, Nell Miller, there was an especially big run on Tuesday.

Vehicle registration fees went up today, the first of three jumps planned in the next three years. Tuesday, local residents lined up to save some money. Miller said 200 registrations would be a typical 31st of the month figure, but Tuesday her office processed nearly 275.

Miller said a lot of folks came in for vehicle transfers as well to beat the one percent sales tax increase effective today. "We transferred about 90 vehicles on Monday and Tuesday," Miller said.

The sales tax on gasoline also went up today-five cents a gallon. A local service station employee said a few people filled up their tanks Tuesday in anticipation of the increase, but most forgot about it until today. "They're crying this morning," he joked.

The increases are all part of a tax package dreamed up during the recent special session of the state legislature. The money will go for the state's highways and to fund new public school programs that go into effect as early as this year.

Assessor-collector reports big run

The new motor vehicle registration law bases fees on model years rather than weight, Miller explained. Nineteen eighty-two through 1984 model automobiles, regardless of size, now cost $46.30 to register. On Tuesday, a new compact car could still be licensed for as little as $15.80.

Nineteen seventy-nine through 1981 models now cost $38.30, while people with "clunkers" get the best break—$28.30 if the car is a 1978 or older model. Until today, the fees were $15.80, $25.80 and $33.80, depending on the weight.

"It's a three-year package," Miller pointed out. "The next increase comes in January."

A couple of local car dealers said July was a good month for them, but they could not really say that people were buying to beat the one percent sales tax increase.

Nuclear waste hearings slated

Hearings concerning the possibility of Texas hosting the nation's first high-level nuclear waste repository are to be conducted in Austin Thursday and Friday.

Deaf Smith and nearby Swisher counties each contain one of the nine sites still being considered by the U.S. Department of Energy for the dump. The Deaf Smith location, as specified by the DOE, is a nine-square-mile area approximately 19 miles northwest of Hereford.

Final selection of the repository site is not to be made until the early 1990s. Next spring, however, three locations are to be picked for detailed site characterizations.

The non-Texas candidate sites are located in the Louisiana-Mississippi area, Utah, Nevada and Washington.

This week's hearings are being conducted by the House-Senate Joint Study Committee on Hazardous Waste Disposal. Thursday's proceedings, to start at 3:30 p.m. in the Appropriations Committee room, are to include testimony from state agencies. The DOE is to give a presentation at Friday's session, slated to start at 9:45 a.m.

People Opposed to Wasted Energy Repositories (POWER) and Serious Texas Against Nuclear Dumping (STAND), two area citizen groups, have asked a nuclear transportation specialist to testify at the hearings. According to POWER President Tonya Kleuskens, the expert is Fred Millar, who Saturday is to report on his testimony at a press conference in Amarillo.

Walk-through inspections are to be made of Aikman Primary (starting at 6 p.m.), Shirley Intermediate (6:30 p.m.), Stanton Junior High (7:30 p.m.) and Hereford High (8:30 p.m.) schools.

Two accidents occur Tuesday

Hereford police reported there were two non-injury motor vehicle accidents Tuesday, both involving more than $300 total damage.

Among the incidents investigated were one each of assault, burglary, cruelty to an animal, domestic dispute, intruder and runaway. There were no arrests made.

Airline shows quarterly profit

HOUSTON (AP) — Continental Airlines Corp. posted a net profit of $10.4 million in the second quarter, the airline's first quarterly profit since it filed for protection from its creditors under federal bankruptcy laws last September.

The airline, operating under the protection of Chapter 11 of the federal bankruptcy code, lost $26.5 million in the second quarter of 1983.

The profit in the second quarter of this year came to 40 cents per share of common stock, the airline announced Tuesday. Revenue was $281.2 million, down from $339.3 million in the same quarter of 1983.

Operating income for the quarter was $27 million, compared with an operating loss of $14 million a year earlier, the company said. Operating income constitutes operating revenues minus expenses such as fuel, wages and related costs, but does not include interest expenses.

Army posts stagnant lake

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers has posted warning signs at one Texas lake and is studying another in the wake of two rare brain infection cases that officials say may have been caused by an amoeba.

In one of the cases of amoebic meningoencephalitis, a 4-year-old Dallas boy was in critical condition late Tuesday at Children's Medical Center.

His is the second case of the disease to be diagnosed in Texas in less than four days. The other involves a 12-year-old Uvalde boy, who was in critical condition at Methodist Hospital in San Antonio.

Amoebic meningoencephalitis is a rare disease with only one known survivor in this country, said Dr. Charles Haley, director of communicable disease for Dallas County Health Department.

He said several cases are reported in this country each year, particularly in the South. The only survivor was in California six years ago.

The infection is caused by amoeba known as Naegleria. Its symptoms are severe headache, fever, fatigue, nausea and vomiting, and they can worsen to delirium and coma.

White looking for nominees

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Mark White will get a list of 45 nominees for the revamped State Board of Education by Sept. 1, according to the legislative panel that will pick the candidates.

Speaker Gib Lewis, chairman of the new 10-member Legislative Education Board, said Tuesday that "well over 100" applications for the 15 spots on the new State Board of Education have been submitted.

The new education law scraps the 27-member elected Board of Education and sets up a 15-member panel picked by the governor. The board reverts to an elected one in four years.

White will select from among the three nominees recommended for each of the 15 districts.

"If anyone has a desire to serve (on the new board) they need to get their applications in right away," said Lewis.

Secretary of State John Fainter told the LEB that the U.S. Department of Justice, which must approve all election-related changes, will rule on the new plan within 60 days.

Reagan asks unions for restraint

DETROIT (AP) — President Reagan says auto workers who gave up billions of dollars in wage increases in 1982 gained from the industry's strong comeback, and he warned that excessive demands in contract talks this summer could endanger the recovery.

In an interview with television station WDIV, Reagan called on the United Auto Workers to use "some restraint" in its bargaining with General Motors Corp. and Ford Motor Co.

Otherwise, Reagan said, "the recovery, the expansion that we're having" could be in danger.

Reagan was interviewed Friday, but at his request the remarks were not televised until Tuesday, the station said.

Peter Laarman, a spokesman for the UAW, said union President Owen Bieber was in New York for a meeting and was unavailable for immediate comment on Reagan's remarks.

The contract negotiations, which began last week, cover 350,000 workers at GM and 115,000 at Ford. Contracts at both companies expire Sept. 14.

Mental health centers warned

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government is threatening to cut off money to some institutions for the mentally retarded if "appalling" conditions found during recent inspections are not corrected, says Health and Human Services Secretary Margaret Heckler.

Mrs. Heckler told the Senate subcommittee on mental health Tuesday that the department recently inspected 17 intermediate care facilities for the mentally retarded and found all were substandard, with nine having major health and safety deficiencies.

"I assure you, Mr. Chairman, that I find this situation appalling," Mrs. Heckler told the subcommittee chairman, Sen. Lowell Weicker, R-Conn. "And I find it unacceptable."

She said that where substandard conditions were found, state Medicaid directors were given 30 days "to give us a firm, detailed plan for correcting those deficiencies within 180 days. Failure to deliver an acceptable plan or inadequate implementation of that plan will result in termination of the facilities from the Medicaid program."

Soviets reject weapons offer

MOSCOW (AP) — A high-ranking Soviet official said today that Washington's latest proposal on holding talks to limit weapons in space makes no change in the U.S. position and "does not open up prospects for holding the talks."

Alexander A. Bessmertnykh, head of the Foreign Ministry's United States Department, also accused the Reagan administration of taking steps to militarize space.

Bessmertnykh briefed Soviet and foreign reporters on a U.S. State Department message reportedly delivered Saturday to the Soviet government.

In that message the State Department expressed willingness to engage in talks on weapons in outer space, including the subject of anti-satellite weapons, according to diplomatic sources in Moscow who spoke on condition of anonymity.

However, Bessmertnykh said the United States "proposed talks on the militarization of outer space, rather than the prevention of the militarization of outer space."

"This is nothing but an attempt to substitute the contents of the talks the Soviet Union is proposing and it is designed to legalize the spreading of the arms race to space," he said.

Gasoline tax doubles as bill takes effect

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas motorists, who for many years paid the lowest gasoline tax in the nation, saw a 5-cent increase at the pumps today as state taxes went up to repair roads that officials say have gone to potholes.

The doubling of the gasoline tax is part of a triple-hike that hits the wallets of most Texans. The sales tax on cars went up from 4 percent to 5 percent and the annual motor vehicle registration fee was raised — as much as 200 percent for owners of new, small cars.

Gallon by gallon, car by car and license plate by license plate, Texans are paying to patch the highway system. The Legislature in July approved an overall $4.6 billion tax hike to pay for highway and school improvements.

The higher taxes for education funds — including a one-eighth percent hike in the state sales tax — are effective Oct. 2.

"I think you're going to find some people who will be disgruntled" with the higher tax at the gas pumps, said House Speaker Gib Lewis, who presided over the first tax hike in 13 years.

"I think they are only going to have to sit and think for one second about where the funds are going. They're going to the highways, so they can get to their jobs quicker and they can cut down on repairs to their cars from hitting the chuckholes," said the speaker.

The director of the Texas Service Station Association offers another way to live with higher taxes.

"There's nothing you can do about it. There's no use complaining about it. It's going to be there," Bill Ligon said of the gasoline tax hike.

The nickel-a-gallon gasoline tax rise will bring in $1.34 billion over the next three years — the single largest increase.

For car registration fees, lawmakers changed the whole system, scrapping the weight-based tax for a levy based on age on car.

Owners of new cars under 3,500 pounds paid $15.80 a year under the old system. Today it costs $46.30 a year to register any car — regardless of weight — made since 1981.

"Ecology-minded people who complied with the request from environmental and government leaders to get smaller cars are now going to pay more for license plates," said Bill Aleshire, Travis County tax assessor-collector.

Motorists whose registrations come up in August are the first fac-

Demos make Texas swing

AUSTIN (AP) — With a new poll showing them trailing President Reagan in Texas, the Democratic presidential ticket of Walter Mondale and Geraldine Ferraro today were scheduled to make their first appearance in the state.

Mondale and Rep. Ferraro, chosen as his running mate two weeks ago, were to visit Austin, Houston and San Antonio in the two-day swing as they seek support in a state Democratic leaders consider crucial to the presidential election.

In Austin, the two planned to speak to a late-afternoon rally on the Capitol steps. In Houston, they will answer questions from community college students Thursday morning, then travel to San Antonio for another rally.

The Texas tour is part of a campaign through the South, an area where many Democrats say President Reagan is ahead.

GOP pollster Lance Tarrance of Houston on Tuesday released a new survey which he said showed Reagan with "a substantial lead in Texas."

Tarrance said the poll, commissioned by the Reagan campaign, surveyed 600 registered voters.

It showed that if the election were held now, Reagan would beat Mondale by a 59 percent to 32 percent margin in the state. When the complete ticket of Reagan and Vice President George Bush was pitted against Mondale and Ms. Ferraro, the GOP margin widened slightly to 60 percent to 32 percent, Tarrance's poll said.

"The solid lead that President Reagan holds over Walter Mondale shows that the president continues to enjoy the widespread support he has earned among Texans," said Sen. John Tower, R-Texas, chairman of Reagan's Texas campaign.

"Walter Mondale certainly did not help himself with Texans by naming as his running mate a member of Congress from New York City."

ing the new fees. "Those people know about it. We've heard from them," said Dian Neill, staff officer for the motor vehicle division of the state highway department. "Now we're sending out September notices. Soon we'll hear from them."

Aleshire said the usual end-of-the-month crush for license plates and stickers was about 25 percent worse this week as motorists with July registrations tried to beat the hike.

Many drivers with August registrations tried to beat the hike by paying in July. For many, it was a worthless effort because of a highway department ruling that the new fees would be charged for August registrations once Gov. Mark White signed the bill on July 13.

"We had people showing up for the past two weeks for August plates who were upset that we were charging the new fees," said Aleshire, who has asked for an attorney general's opinion concerning when the new fees should have gone into effect.

Mrs. Neill said all August registrations — no matter when they were purchased — were billed at the new, higher rates because the new law was effective Aug. 1.

The registration fee increase will raise $708 million for the state over the next three years. The fees will increase $6.25 in each of the next two years, topping out at $58.80 for the newest cars in 1986.

Passengers escape harm

Jetliner lands in Tehran

By JOSEPH PANOSSIAN
Associated Press Writer

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — A commandeered Air France jet with 63 people aboard landed today in Tehran after the hijackers reportedly threatened to blow it up if the Iranian government refused to allow an emergency landing.

Five hours after the landing, an anonymous telephone caller claimed responsibility for the hijacking on behalf of group loyal to Iranian leader Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini and demanded the release of five people held in French jails. The call was received by the French news agency Agence France-Presse at its office in Tehran.

State-run Tehran radio said Iranian Foreign Ministry officials and other government representatives went to Mehrabad Airport after the landing, presumably for negotiations. But the radio said neither the hijackers' identities nor the nature of their demands were known.

The Iranian capital was the Boeing 737's fourth stop since hijackers took over the plane Tuesday afternoon during a scheduled flight from Frankfurt, West Germany, to Paris and demanded it be flown to Tehran. Earlier stops were in Geneva, Switzerland; Beirut, Lebanon; and Larnaca, Cyprus.

Hours after the landing in Tehran no negotiations had begun and Iranian security forces surrounded the aircraft, Iran's official Islamic Republic News Agency said. IRNA said the plane's engines were kept running and it cited unconfirmed reports indicating the hijackers planned to leave Tehran for an unknown destination.

One of the plane's stewards escaped from the craft Tuesday evening while it was being refueled at Larnaca, and Air France headquarters in Paris identified him as Daniel Egea, about 30.

In a telephone interview in Cyprus with a French reporter, Egea said he believed there were three hijackers.

Iran's revolutionary Islamic government had said upon word of the hijacking that the plane would not be allowed to land in Tehran. However, Tehran radio said that despite repeated warnings by the Iranian air force and civil aviation authorities, the airliner entered Iranian airspace early today intending to land at the airport in Tabriz, about 330 miles northwest of Tehran.

But the Tabriz airport was closed, forcing the plane to continue to Tehran, the radio said. The pilot then contacted the Tehran air traffic control tower and appealed for emergency landing rights, saying the hijackers had threatened to blow up the aircraft if permission was again denied, the radio said.

"The Iranian authorities, concerned about saving the lives of the passengers, allowed the aircraft to land and the aircraft landed," the radio reported.

It was the second hijacking of an Air France Frankfurt-Paris flight in less than five months.

On March 7, an Algerian student who claimed to carry explosives in a bag commandeered a Boeing 737 with 62 passengers aboard. The plane landed in Geneva, and the hijacker — armed only with a penknife — was overpowered by police who entered the plane disguised as ground crew. All the passengers were freed unharmed.

On Sunday, a Venezuelan Aeropostal DC-9 was hijacked on a flight from Caracas, Venezuela, to the Caribbean island of Curacao. Security officers stormed the hijacked jetliner in Curacao on Tuesday, killing the two hijackers and rescuing the other 79 people aboard.

Reagan wants power for school officials

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration, concerned about a "growing lack of discipline and disorder in the public schools," is asking the Supreme Court to expand the power of school authorities to search students' belongings for drugs and weapons.

The Justice Department urged the court to use a New Jersey case to establish that students do not have the same constitutional protection as adults against warrantless searches and seizures.

"The panopoly of constitutional protections guaranteed to adults cannot and should not be transplanted wholesale to children," the department said. "Both history and common sense compel this conclusion in the context of school searches."

Department lawyers said that evidence seized in a search by a school official should be admissible in a criminal prosecution if the official had reasonable grounds for conducting the search.

The department, in a "friend-of-the-court" brief filed Tuesday, carried out orders issued last Jan. 7 by President Reagan, who called in a national radio address for a crackdown on "rude, unruly behavior and even violence" in the nation's classrooms.

"The sad truth is many classrooms across the country are not temples of learning, teaching the lessons of goodwill, civility and wisdom important to the whole fabric of American life," the president said in his speech.

The Justice Department used those exact words Tuesday in defending warrantless searches conducted by teachers that may produce evidence to be used in criminal prosecutions.

"Having been given responsibilities like those of a parent, leeway must be given to teachers to exercise authority in a manner that might not be permitted of other state officials," the department said.

Instruction vital

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have read and reread your reply to "Upset," the mother whose 6-year-old daughter had been molested by a 61-year-old "pillar of the church." He was charged and convicted, as he well should have been, but your attack on the neighbor who refused to testify against him was off base.

She told the mother, "If you had been doing your job, your daughter would not have been molested and the man would not have gotten into trouble."

I agree, the woman had a big mouth and should not have attacked the child's mother, but basically she was RIGHT!! If the mother had been aware of her child's whereabouts, that awful thing never would have happened.

Mothers should know where their children are, with whom and, as nearly as possible, what they are doing. Unfortunately, too many mothers are busy elsewhere or are too lazy to take care of their youngsters.

In this day and age, it pays to trust no one. We read daily about fathers, stepfathers, brothers, uncles and cousins sexually abusing children. Why then, did that mother believe her little girl was any safer with the old goat across the street?

Let's face it, the mother was stupid and careless — or abysmally naive. Little girls are not safe with males, period. I know. When I was 5, I was molested by one of the most respected men in town. I never told a soul because I didn't think anyone would believe me. I kept that nasty little secret until I was 19. When I finally told my boyfriend, I felt as if the weight of the world had been lifted from my shoulders.

Please, Ann, remind mothers everywhere to educate their children about these dangers. You have printed several letters on this subject and I applaud every one. For too long child molestation has been hushed up because it isn't "nice." Believe me, the nightmares and guilt I suffered all those years weren't nice either.

Of all the crusades you have undertaken, I feel this one is the most important. Thank you.—Been There In Scottsdale

DEAR SCOTTSDALE: The media has done a splendid job of bringing this subject out of the closet. The most important thing parents can do is keep the lines of communication open. Their children (as soon as they learn to talk) should be made to feel comfortable about asking any question about any subject without fear of being hushed up.

Instruction is vital. All children should be told that their bodies are private property and no one should be allowed to touch them in "secret places" — and if anyone tries, they should get away from that person at once and tell Mommy and Daddy all about it.

DEAR ANN: Your reply to "Maw Maw" was probably thought up after a hard day at the office. I had to laugh when you bought that teenager's story that the pliers that fell out of her purse were used to pull up her jeans.

I'm 24. When I was in high school we used pliers as roach clips when we smoked pot. What's "Maw Maw's" address? I have some ocean-front property in Ohio I'd like to sell her.—Mississippi Fan

DEAR FAN: The story sounded reasonable to me. You're the only one who questioned it.

Are you, or is someone you care about messing around with drugs—considering it? Are all drugs bad? What about pot — in moderation? ## Nutrient levels comparable in fresh, frozen, canned foods

COLLEGE STATION — When it comes to nutritional value, fresh and frozen vegetables are good — but not necessarily better — than canned vegetables, says a Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service nutritionist.

A study by the National Food Processors Association and the U.S. Department of Agriculture shows that the levels of nutrients in fresh, frozen or canned vegetables are nearly comparable, reports Mary K. Sweeten.

Researchers compared prepared fresh, frozen and canned lima beans, peas, spinach, sweet potatoes, carrots and squash for levels of 13 minerals, eight vitamins and fiber, she explains.

The study shows very little difference in the vitamin A content of any of the products. In the case of peas and spinach, the canned product was even a little higher in vitamin A than the fresh produce.

Analysis also showed very little difference in minerals and fiber content between fresh, frozen and canned samples, says the nutritionist.

Sweeten attributes the comparable vitamin and mineral levels to the fact that vegetables are preserved in cans within hours of harvest. "Vitamin A is very light sensitive, and can be destroyed by artificial light or sunlight, and vitamin C can be lost by heat and exposure to air," she notes.

Cans also protect against nutrient loss that occurs in shipping and handling produce between field and home. Few nutrients are lost if fruits and vegetables are eaten directly from the garden, says Sweeten, but the nutritional quality of fresh produce in the supermarket depends on the care it receives during harvesting and shipping, as well as shipping time.

Combining two families complicated

COLLEGE STATION — Rearing children is tough, but rearing someone else's children is even tougher.

Today, a parent who divorces or becomes widowed is likely to remarry. And the new spouse may have children by a previous marriage, too, says home economist Dr. Dolores Stegelin.

Combining two families in a new marriage may be extra complicated because old and new relationships, attitudes and beliefs are involved, says Stegelin, a specialist with the Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service.

"Members have not shared past experiences and the new family may have to redefine rights and responsibilities to fit their individual and combined needs," she continues.

In noting that time and understanding are the key allies in making a successful transition to a new family, Stegelin offers some suggestions for the new spouse with a child or step-child.

-Except to deal with confusing feelings, including your own, your spouse's and each child's. Anticipate that loyalties will be questioned.

-Allow the relationship with a step-child to develop gradually. Don't expect too much from the child or yourself.

-Give each child in the new marriage time to mourn and think about the parent who is lost, whether through divorce or death.

-Allow the child time to adjust, accept and belong to the new family. Don't try to replace a lost parent; be an additional one.

-Recognize that you may be compared with the absent parent. Be prepared to be tested, manipulated and challenged in your new role. Decide with your mate what is best for the child and then stand by your decisions.

-Try to help the child understand your love and need for him or her is different—but no less—because you love and need your spouse, too.

Stegelin stresses the importance of keeping lines of communication open between marriage partners and the children in a new family. She says parents should not pretend everything is fine if it is not.

"If problems occur, deal with them openly," she recommends, "and remind yourself that nearly everyone needs help in one way or another."

Professional counseling, step-family organizations, or support groups can be of help to step parents in this situation, says the home economist.

Olympic roundup

U.S. gymnasts attain first gold in 80 years

By BRUCE LOWITT AP Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Mitch Gaylord, Bart Conner, Peter Vidmar, Scott Johnson, Jim Hartung and Tim Daggett — these are the Golden Boys of Summer. They brought the United States its first Olympic team gymnastics victory in 80 years.

The swimmers — Rowdy Gaines, Tiffany Cohen, Theresa Andrews, Rick Carey and the American women's 400-meter freestyle relay team? Well, they were supposed to win. Sometimes that's all they seem to do. That's all they did on Tuesday, sweeping the five gold medals up for grabs.

But U.S. gymnasts hadn't won a team medal of any kind since 1904, and when they won the gold in St. Louis, those Summer Games were nothing more than a disorganized sideshow to a World's Fair.

The American teams back then literally had no opposition, coming to those Olympics from various amateur clubs and dueling only each other. This time they faced China, the defending world champion.

During Sunday's compulsory exercises, Li Ning of China became the first male Olympic gymnast to record a perfect 10, doing it on the rings. Also that day, Gaylord, from Van Nuys, Calif., and Conner, from Norman, Okla., each scored 10, Gaylord on the rings and Conner on the parallel bars.

And on Tuesday night, with the outcome in the balance, Daggett, the last American competitor, was equally perfect on the high bar, giving the United States a final point total of 591.40 to China's 590.80 and bronze-medalist Japan's 586.70. "I just knew I had to do it for the guys," the perfectionist from West Springfield, Mass., said.

Pat Spurgin of Billings, Mont., won the gold in women's air-rifle competition; Detroit boxers Steve McCrory, at 112 pounds, and Frank Tate, at 156, won their first bouts, Tate by default when his opponent failed to make the weight; the U.S. men's basketball team rode Michael Jordan's 20 points to an 89-68 victory over Canada, and Cheryl Miller scored 20 as the American women routed Australia 81-47.

Also, John Marzano of Philadelphia hit a home run and John Hoover of Fresno, Calif., pitched a four-hitter to lead the United States past Taiwan 2-1 in baseball's debut as an Olympic demonstration sport, and the American men's volleyball team pounded Tunisia 15-3, 15-2, 15-3.

But the U.S. men's field hockey team lost 4-0 to West Germany; the soccer team was beaten 1-0 by Italy and the American men's handball team was defeated 21-19 by West Germany.

Of the three other gold medals won Tuesday, two went to China, to Chen Weiqiang in the 132-pound weightlift and Li Yuwei in men's running-game target shooting. The third went to Luciano Giovannetti of Italy, who won a shootout with Dan Carlisle of Fort Benning, Ga., and Francisco Bozain of Peru in the men's trapshoot.

After three days of competition, the United States has 24 medals, 16 of them gold. China is second both in total medals with 11 and in gold with five.

What Olga Korbut and Nadia Comaneci did for the little girls of the world in the 1970s, Vidmar, a Los Angeles native, hopes he and his teammates, including Johnson, of Colorado Springs, Colo., and Hartung, of Omaha, Neb., will do for the future boys of summers.

"I just hope there's a lot of kids out there that saw us do this and want to run out and be gymnasts because we have the ability to be a world power for a long time, and I hope it happens now," Vidmar said. "This is the greatest thing for USA gymnastics ever! We made history today."

Gaylord was the leading performer in the optionals with 59.35 of a possible 60 points on the rings, horizontal bar, vault, parallel bars, pommel horse and floor exercises. Vidmar, with a score of 118.55 points following the compulsories and optionals, leads the all-around competition going into Thursday's individuals. Li is second at 118.45.

When the final team score was flashed on the Pauley Pavilion scoreboard at UCLA, the scene was reminiscent of the one four years ago at Lake Placid, N.Y., when the unheralded U.S. hockey team shocked the powerful Soviet Union and eventually won the gold medal.

Again, the chant "USA! USA! USA!" and the blizzard of American flags bombarded the nation's newest heroes as they received their medals from Yuri Titov of the Soviet Union, the president of the International Gymnastics Federation.

Gaines, from Winter Haven, Fla., figured he was history four years ago, when the United States boycotted the Moscow Olympics. He had achieved every goal, save for Olympic gold. And when dream evaporated along with those Summer Games, he retired from competitive swimming.

But the dream never died, he came out of retirement and, at 25, as the old man of the U.S. swim team, won the 100-meter freestyle in an Olympic-record 49.80 seconds. "My grandmother back in Florida dreamed I would win," he said. "Grandma, from now on I'm sticking with you!"

YMCA Tourney Champs

Baylor boss blasts new education law

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ AP Sports Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — Baylor University head football coach Grant Teaff measures his own academic past against a controversial new law that sets out tougher eligibility requirements for high school athletes — and shudders.

"I probably wouldn't be standing here today if this law was in effect when I was growing up," Teaff said at a session Tuesday at the Texas High School Coaches Association convention.

"I counted up the other day that I've coached about 2,000 youngsters and I don't think I've been a bad influence."

Teaff said he was motivated to study harder in school because he wanted to compete in athletics. The current law, he says, replaces a great motivational tool with bureaucracy.

"The key to education is motivation," Teaff said. "You look at the best teachers you ever had and they were great motivators. I am deeply concerned. They've taken one of our great motivational tools and replaced it with a lot of bureaucracy."

Teaff says many students have weaknesses in some subject and should not be kept out of athletics because of a deficiency in one area.

"The rule says a student must pass pass all subjects that he takes but it doesn't say what courses he has to take," Teaff said. "You could come to the point that a kid could come up to graduation day without the requirements for a diploma."

Teaff fears the new law could hinder students from eventual graduation.

On the Ball

By DENNIS BALL Sports Editor

"We've just about wrapped it up for this year," Buddy Peeler said, referring to the summer baseball and softball leagues.

The president of the board of directors of Kids, Inc. was speaking only from the business standpoint, however. You see, for the kids who participated in summer ball, the season and its memories may never be over.

What about the boy or girl who made the catch that saved the game in the bottom of the last inning? Or what about the batter who had the clutch hit to drive in the winning run? Those memories are ones kids will cherish for a lifetime.

"Every kid is allowed to participate (in the Kids, Inc. program)," Peeler said. "A small fee is required, but we can usually work things out on the payment end."

The people at Kids, Inc. should be applauded. It is largely through their efforts that Hereford's young people have a summer athletic program.

With three girls and four boys leagues, kids of all ages can find a place to play. And about half the kids in Hereford schools take advantage of the opportunity.

"About 600 kids total take part in the program," Peeler said. "We had 45 teams this year: 10 T-Ball, nine Minor League, eight Major League and five Babe Ruth League."

Although Peeler said age requirements weren't strictly enforced, he listed boys T-Ball players as ages seven and eight, Minor League as nine and 10, Major League as 11 and 12 and Babe Ruth League as 13 through 16. Girls age divisions are T-Ball for seven and eight-year olds, Minor League for 9-11 year-olds and Betsy Mitchell, and Carey, of Mount Kisco, N.Y., won the 200 backstroke, in 2:00.23.

Jenna Johnson of Santa Rosa, Calif., Carrie Steinseifer of Saratoga, Calif., Dara Torres of Mission Viejo, Calif., and Nancy Hogshead of Jacksonville, Fla., won their relay in 3:43.43, equalling the American record set in 1978. Steinseifer and Hogshead now have two golds apiece.

Major League for 12 through 15 year-olds.

The girls program does not include a Babe Ruth League, Peeler said.

The Kids, Inc. program not only gives boys and girls something to do in the summer, though. Parents also enjoy youth baseball.

"Usually an inside crowd comes to regular-season games—parents mainly," Peeler said. "The younger the kids, the more involved the parents. I don't put that down, though. It just seems to be the way it is."

"And there's always the typical mix of parents who care and those who don't."

Those parents who go to the ball games do care. Often, we judge how much people care about the kids and the games by how vocal they are at games. Some of the moms and dads can be pretty vocal, too.

Just because a certain parent's decibel level may be louder than another's, the quieter parent should not be judged as less interested. He, too, deserves recognition for being there.

"A lot of times, you hear complaints that the coach is practicing his team too much, that facilities need to be improved, or just about anything that is current," Peeler said. "The complaints come, though, because people aren't informed."

There are ways for parents to become better informed. And parents can understand the game better while getting closer to the action.

Volunteer to umpire. Volunteer to keep score. Volunteer to do what you can to make the season run smoother. Get involved.

Houston hoopsters to have Walker as coach

HOUSTON (AP) — George Walker will replace Terence Kirkpatrick as assistant men's basketball coach for the University of Houston Cougars, beginning today, school officials announced.

Kirkpatrick was fired Tuesday, but a school spokesman refused to give any details.

Walker, 27, was a four-year regular from 1975-79 for the Cougars, starting at forward in 1978 and 1979. He was a part-time assistant for Head Coach Guy V. Lewis for three seasons before going into private business last year.

Walker, who co-captained the 1978-79 squad, had a 57.7 career field goal percentage, the fourth highest in the university's history.

His appointment is subject to Board of Regent approval.

Kirkpatrick, citing jealousy in the school's athletic department, told the Houston Post last week he might not return for a fifth year.

"It was OK when other schools were jealous of our success," Kirkpatrick said. "But now the jealousy is an internal problem, and I don't know if I want to stay around with that type of situation."

According to the Post, Kirkpatrick had not been on the Houston campus for five weeks, but continued to draw his annual salary of $31,013.

"I just don't think I've been treated fairly," he said.

The Post said former athletic director John Kasser, who recently left to take over the athletic department at Long Beach State University, fired Kirkpatrick, but school regent Charles Marino blocked the move.

According to the paper, the dispute may have culminated with the signing of Leonard Taylor of St. Bernard High School in Playa del Rey, Calif. last fall.

Kirkpatrick signed Taylor but a first letter of intent from the high school senior was lost in the mail and a second was signed after the Nov. 15 deadline for early signees.

Taylor later decided he did not want to attend Houston and his coach, unaware that Taylor signed early with Houston, criticized the Cougars' recruiting methods.

THSCA basketball game

Coaches expect teams to run

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ AP Sports Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — South Coach Paul Benton and the North's Tony Mauldin agree there will be plenty of running in tonight's Texas High School Coaches Association All-Star basketball game in Hofheinz Pavilion.

"I don't plan to try and slow it down and I don't think it would make much difference if I tried," Benton said.

Mauldin plans to keep it simple and fast.

"We're trying to keep it simple, but we'll try to press and make it a quick game," Mauldin said. "We run the ball at Morton and most of the kids here are used to running."

The South, trying to rebound from a 91-86 loss last year in Fort Worth, will be led by forwards Tom Grant and Roger Durden and the North will counter with Darrell Mitchell and Coyle Winborn.

The North leads the overall series 20-18, an annual highlight of the annual coaching school, billed as the largest of its kind in the world.

But the games have been tightly contested in recent years with a 5-5 split over the past 10 games. During that span, there have been three one-point victory margins and a two-point decision.

Grant, 6-6, headed for the University of Houston, averaged 28.2 points per game for Aldine Nimitz last season in addition to 11.1 rebounds, four blocked shots and 2.1 steals per game.

Durden, 6-7, guided Flour Bluff to the state tournament his junior and senior years. Durden, who will attend Texas-San Antonio, averaged 15.0 points, 11.1 rebounds and four blocked shots per game last season.

Benton, whose Houston Madison teams have won district titles seven consecutive years beginning in 1977, will try to give the South their first victory since a 92-91 decision in 1982.

The South also will be aided by postmen Glen Puddy, who average 21.6 points for Clear Lake last season and James Guley of Class 3A Newton, who averaged 30 points per game his senior year.

Mauldin of Morton, will count on the skills of Mitchell, a 6-2 forward, who led Bryan to the state championship last season with a 19.4 average, and Winborn, who scored 1,341 points in his four years at Pampa High School.

The North lost one player, Todd Alexander of Waxahachie, a 5-11 guard who will attend Minnesota this fall. Alexander elected to remain at Minnesota and not return to Texas for the All-Star game.

Chris Hall of Cleburne, has been impressive as Alexanders' substitute, however.

"He told me he'd only worked out a couple of times this summer but he's looked good in practice," Mauldin said.

Olympics coverage off to good start

LOS ANGELES (AP) — ABC appeared on its way to a two-week rout in the Nielsen ratings after scoring two huge victories with the kickoff of coverage of the 1984 Summer Olympics.

Sunday's start of competition was first in the prime-time ratings for the week ended July 29 and ABC's coverage of the opening extravaganza Saturday was a close second. The next highest program trailed far behind.

ABC estimated that 80 million people saw the first meeting of the athletes Sunday and that 75 million people saw some or all of the opening, a record audience for an Olympics opening.

ABC handily took the week as it nearly doubled its network average from its third-place finish the previous week. NBC fell from first to second place and CBS was third. Overall, viewership made an enormous leap after a summer low the previous week during the time of the Democratic National Convention.

ABC had a network average of 15.5 in the A.C. Nielsen Co. survey. NBC had 11.3 and CBS had 11.2. The networks say this means that in an average prime time minute 15.5 percent of the nation's TV homes were tuned to ABC.

The network's ratings should climb much higher after it has a full week of Olympics programs on the schedule. ABC averaged a rating of 24.8 in prime time at the Montreal Olympics in 1976, the last Summer Games the U.S. team attended, and a 24.4 rating at Munich in 1972.

The Sunday competition had a rating of 24.3. This represents the percentage of the nation's 83.8 million TV homes tuned in. Its share was 44 percent of the audience tuned in to TV at the time.

The opening day ceremonies, a colorful, musical celebration of America, had a rating of 23.9 and 48 percent of the audience.

Despite its victory, ABC mustered only three shows in the Top 10. Last-place CBS had four programs and NBC had three.

Other shows in the Top 10: CBS' "Simon & Simon," third; the CBS movie "When the Circus Came to Town," fourth; NBC's "The

A-Team," fifth; the NBC movie "Child Bride of Short Creek," sixth; CBS' "Circus of the Stars," seventh; CBS' "Magnum, P.I.," eighth; the ABC movie "Mistress of Paradise," ninth; and NBC's "Riptide," tenth.

The five lowest-rated shows in descending order were: ABC's Monday baseball Pre-Game Show, the CBS movie "The Rose," CBS' "Four Seasons," CBS' "Bugs Bunny" special, and NBC's "Summer Sunday, USA."

"The CBS Evening News" kept its long-time lead with a rating of 10.7. ABC moved into second place with 9.0 and NBC dropped to third with 8.4.

Some nights, the best thing on TV is the "off" switch.

A secret is a confidence that goes in one ear and out the mouth.

City council to make decision

HOUSTON (AP) — City Council members must decide today whether to overturn two ordinances prohibiting discrimination against homosexuals in city jobs or to a citywide vote in January.

City Secretary Anna Russell submitted a report to the council Tuesday, stating that opponents seeking to repeal the two measures had gathered enough signatures to force the council to reconsider its decision.

The ordinances, approved June 19, guarantee homosexuals will not be discriminated against in the city's Affirmative Action program or its pension plan.

Ms. Russell told the council that the Committee for Public Awareness, the main force behind the petition drive, had gathered 61,400 signatures. She said that of 6,512 she checked, 5,387 proved valid.

At that rate, the group has many more names than the 28,127 required to force the council to rescind the ordinances or put them to a vote, she said.

The council voted unanimously to accept Ms. Russell's report, read by Councilman John Goodner, the chairman of the Committee for Public Awareness.

Goodner said outside council chambers he does not expect council members to change their votes on the ordinances.

Nonetheless, he said he does not believe the council's vote reflects the mood of the city.

"With the exception of a few people, most people (in Houston) are against what the council did that day," he said. "The majority of people don't support the council's action."

The state flower of Georgia is the Cherokee Rose.

'Gay' show draws council's criticism

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — A controversial adaptation of "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?" with homosexual characters will go on as scheduled this weekend despite threats and condemnations from city officials, the Theatre Arlington's board decided.

The play — which originally dealt with two heterosexual, married couples — prompted a round of boos from three Arlington City Councilmen after they learned the four main characters in the new version were supposed to be all men.

They charged that the play is "immoral" and "inappropriate," and intimated they might try to cut future public funding for the theater if the show finishes a six-performance run this weekend.

But after an emergency meeting Tuesday night, Tate Kelly, president of Theatre Arlington's board of directors, said the board voted to continue with the updated, all-male production of the play.

"We will not bow to this attempt at censorship," Kelly said. "I very much resent ... the council members foisting personal beliefs on the theater. This show is not obscene, and there is nothing inappropriate about it."

Although the play originally included heterosexual couples, director Dov Fahrer decided to alter it by depicting the lives of two homosexual couples.

The production is being staged by an actors' studio that rents space from the theater, not Theatre Arlington itself, officials said.

Councilman Leo Berman had condemned the play, saying that "as an elected official, I have the responsibility to oppose anything that supports, condones or teaches that homosexuality is an alternative lifestyle such as this play does."

"Homosexuality is abnormal, violates the laws of God and is an abomination," Berman said.

Theater officials countered that the actions of councilmen Jim Norwood, Richard Greene and Berman are "publicity extortion."

"We have had no complaints from the people who have seen it," Kelly said. "Just these three men who have not even seen the show."

The play opened last Friday, and like most of the Studio Theatre Series productions of experimental material, Kelly said, it drew a small audience during the first three performances.

Although some of the other members of the city council said the production is not a show they would see, they don't agree that it should be closed.

"I don't like it and I don't appreciate it," Mayor Harold Patterson said. "But I don't feel like I have the legal right to close it down. If I did, I would."

Arizona great place for ghosts

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN AP Special Correspondent
HARSHAW, Ariz. (AP) — It's an Arizona pastime on pleasant weekends, which can occur most any time of year, to pack the kids into the back of a van or pickup and picnic among ghosts.

Arizona is a great place for ghosts, not all of them in the pleasant graveyard at Harshaw with lovely fake flowers.

Almost every turn off the interstate into the hauntingly beautiful landscape of deserts and mountains is alive with fantastic scenery and dead with ghost towns, abandoned mines, decaying Spanish missions, old cavalry posts, adobe houses with walls two-foot thick literally melting into the ground, crumbling hotels and dance halls, Indian burial grounds and graveyards of vanished settlements where sometimes a brass bedstead serves as a head stone, even an old movie set sacred to the memory of John Wayne or William Holden.

The place names on the map seem to add to the pleasure of picnicking on the site of somebody else's misery: Horse Thief Basin, Contention City, Tombstone, Renegade Pass, Gunsight, Show Low, Vulture Mine, Total Wreck, Fort Misery on Humburg Creek.

A ghost trail in the southernmost part of the state, along the Mexican border follows the route of Francisco Coronado's search for the Seven Cities of Cibola — gold — four centuries ago and along the way offers some pleasant picnic spots in the abandoned mining towns of more recent treasure seekers. Only a century ago places like Harshaw, Duquesne, Washington Camp and Mowry hummed and roared with the lively doings of prospectors and miners and itinerant Jewish peddlers like Sen. Barry Goldwater's grandfather who might have happened this way with a pack on his back filled with the latest in mining tools and household knickknacks.

Mowry was named for a West Point graduate Lt. Sylvester Mowry who reopened the old Patagonia mine first discovered by Mexicans and renamed it for himself. The place once housed 100 miners and their families and shipped more than $1.5 million worth of ore. Now downtown Mowry is a hard to find rubble of decaying adobe houses at the end of a dirt road marked here. What happened to Lt. Mowry? Two years after he spent most of his poke retooling the mine and building up its defenses against Apache raids, the territorial government arrested him as a Confederate sympathizer, put him in the poke at Fort Yuma and confiscated the mine.

Some towns died and gave up to ghosts from Indian raids, flash floods, drought, when the mines gave out or ore prices fell, when the railroad chose a different route from the Butterfield Stage.

My favorite Arizona ghosts dwell in what must have been America's first high-rise apartments, the cliff dwellings at Montezuma Castle, where a dozen Indian families who never heard of Montezuma pursued a peaceful life style 400 years before Columbus set foot on this continent. About 50 tenants lived in the 20-room dwelling occupying floor space that by today's real estate standards would only house six or eight. But people must have liked each other better and themselves less in those halcyon harmonious days. And besides, the transistor radio and tape cassette player known as "the ghetto blaster" hadn't been invented yet.

Why this pueblo-like settlement flourished for 300 years then vanished like Arizona's more recent ghost communities archaeologists and historians cannot say, but noise pollution on Beaver Creek certainly wasn't the problem.
