Moya's arrest hearing set for today

By KIM THOGMARTIN
Staff Writer

Farm labor leader Jesus Moya and attorneys for Texas Rural Legal Aid were to meet with a federal district judge in Amarillo this morning for a hearing resulting from Moya's arrest last Saturday.

Deaf Smith County Criminal District Attorney Roland Saul said Monday evening TRLA was asking for a restraining order to keep Moya from being jailed again on similar charges. The Saturday arrest came after sheriff's deputy Herman Benavidez was twice called to an onion field southeast of Hereford.

Benavidez said Moya was using a public address system to speak to farm workers harvesting onions and the workers apparently found the noise to be a distraction. Benavidez said they notified their crew leader, who then called the sheriff's office.

Benavidez said he went to the field and asked Moya to put away the public address system, which Moya did. Forty minutes later, the deputy was called again to the field because Moya was allegedly broadcasting once again. Benavidez then arrested the labor leader for disorderly conduct by making excessive noise.

Picked up Saturday

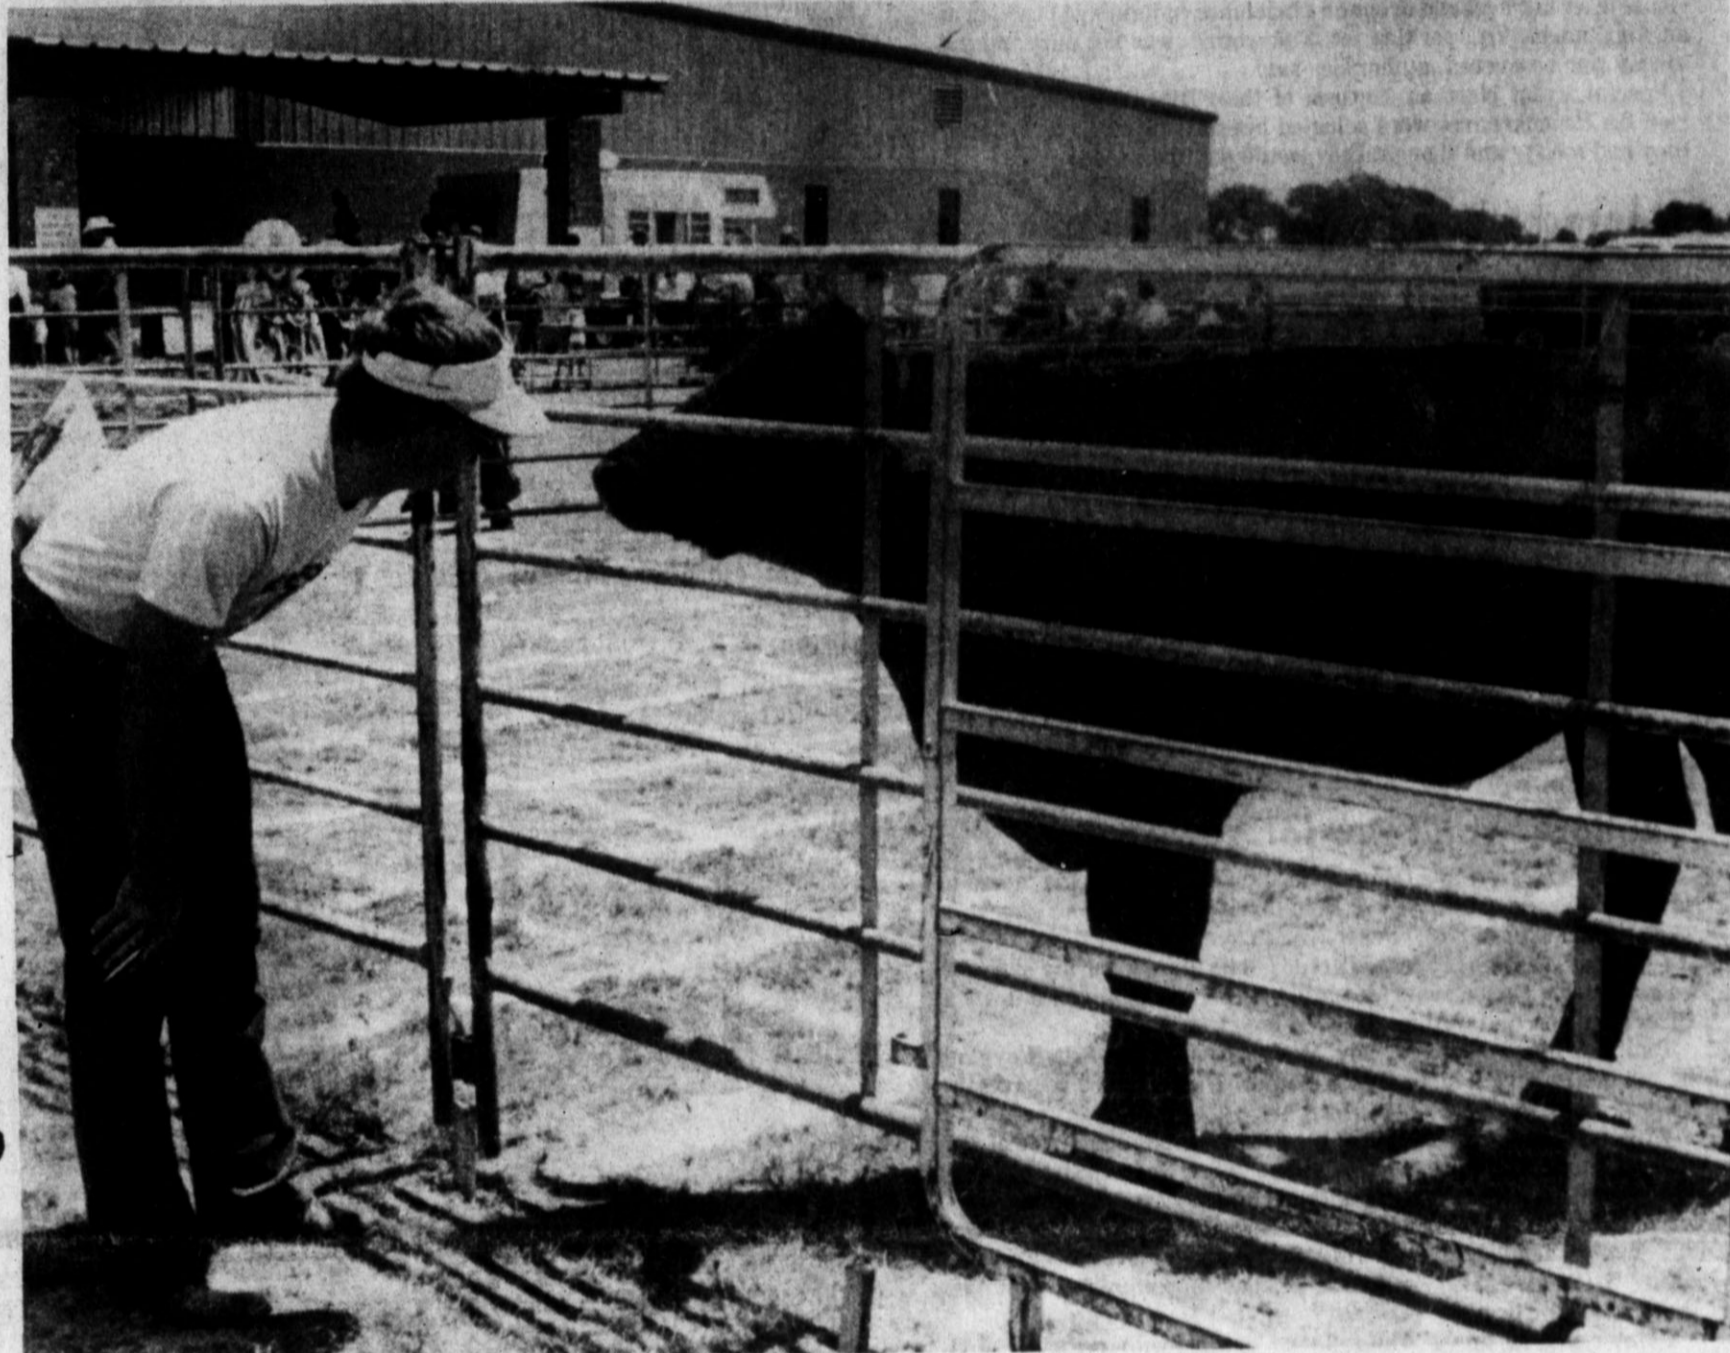

According to Saul, Moya claimed his freedom of speech was violated and he has the constitutional right to continue with his broadcasts. The meeting to consider that plea was to be held today with U.S. District Judge Mary Lou Robinson.

Moya is free after posting $200 bond set by local Justice of the Peace O.K. Neal.

On July 13, Moya was involved in an altercation with Hereford farmer John Seiver. The labor organizer, who represents the International Union of Agricultural and Industrial Workers, claimed Seiver ran him down with a pickup as he was preparing to speak to another group of onion harvesters.

Last week, Moya filed suit in 222nd District Court asking for $5,000 in actual damages and $20,000 in punitive damages for injuries he claims to have suffered.

Saul said Monday he intends to ask for a special prosecutor to handle that suit, because another case involving Moya is referred to in a suit brought against Saul by the State Bar of Texas.

Commission approves Villarreal settlement

By REED PARSELL
Managing Editor

A settlement in the Abel Villarreal vs. Deaf Smith County case was approved by county commissioners Monday morning during their regularly-scheduled meeting.

The court was told by Roland Saul, county criminal district attorney, the matter would be dropped should the plaintiff be paid $1,500. Though he felt the county had a "very defensible" case, Saul suggested the compromise be accepted to avoid further court costs.

Filed in 1981, the suit claimed Deaf Smith County had illegally discriminated against Villarreal in its salary and promotion practices. The case was recently separated from a class-action suit brought against the county for its alleged discriminatory hiring practices.

Voting on the $1,500 "nuisance payment" was unanimous. In a 30-minute closed session conducted Monday afternoon, commissioners consulted with Saul about possible litigation. Glen Nelson, county judge, said there is a chance the issue might become linked with an existing lawsuit against the county.

To give him $1,500

Meanwhile, commissioners accepted an $11,675 bid from Brownlow Brothers Inc. for roof work on the Walker building, located near the courthouse on Third Street. It was stipulated construction on the county-owned structure must be completed by Aug. 15.

Six people were recommended by Alex Schroeter, county auditor, to serve on a grievance committee for the handicapped. Judy Baker, Pete LaFuentes, Sammy Gonzales, Raymond Morrison, Vesta Mae Nunley and Margaret Perez each has the option to decline serving on the body.

At first, Schroeter only suggested Baker, Morrison and Nunley be on the group. Commissioner Bruce Coleman, however, urged an equal number of Hispanic citizens also be nominated since the county's

Local charged with manslaughter

Manslaughter charges were filed Monday in Randall County against a Hereford man involved in a fatal accident Thursday night west of Canyon.

Randall County Assistant District Attorney John Davis said Thomas Ray Deas, 36, is accused of involuntary manslaughter in the traffic death of Elmer Earl Roberts, 51 of Canyon.

Davis said a blood test administered at Northwest Texas Hospital in Amarillo indicated Deas was intoxicated at the time of the two-car crash which killed Roberts and seriously injured his wife Bobbye, also 51 years old.

Deas was expected to surrender to the Randall County Sheriff's department later today, Davis said. Bond is to be set in justice of the peace court.

A Randall County grand jury will probably consider the charges, Davis guessed, when it meets again Aug. 8.

Eleven arrests booze-related

Eleven people were arrested over the weekend on alcohol-related charges, Hereford police reported this morning.

Six were picked up for public intoxication and the other five were nabbed for driving while intoxicated. Also arrested were one individual apiece for driving while license suspended and simple assault.

Among incidents handled were four assaults, three minor thefts and two each of shoplifting and trespassing.

MONDAY'S HIGH: 90 (normal high this date: 92 record: 100 (1983))
OVERNIGHT LOW: 63 (normal: 67 record: 56 (1964))
OUTLOOK: Partly cloudy tonight with a 20 percent chance of showers and a few thunderstorms. The low should be near 60 with southeasterly winds of 5 to 10 miles per hour.
The probability of rain Wednesday has been placed at less than 20 percent. Winds are to again be 5 to 10 miles per hour from the southeast. A high of 85 has been predicted.

Dairy teens here on exchange program

By KIM THOGMARTIN
Staff Writer

What do teenagers from Wisconsin dairy farms like best about the Texas Panhandle?

Believe it or not, these young natives of one of the nation's greenest states like the terrain and being able to see for miles.

Ten young men and women from Shawano County, Wis., applied for a 4-H exchange program and were assigned to Deaf Smith County for a week's visit. They arrived here Friday packed in a van along with sponsors Allen and Jo Ann Fehrman.

Sixteen-year-old Dustin Zernicke, an eight-year member of 4-H, said Texas is just what he expected it to be. He said he was happy about being sent to Texas and his companions agreed.

All but one of the youngsters live on dairy farms, and they all know how to milk cows. Most of them, including the girls, also raise and exhibit dairy cattle as 4-H projects.

While the kids agreed it is nice to have a vacation from milking—they arise between 4:30 and 6 a.m. to help with the morning session—they really don't seem to mind the twice-a-day task that supports their families.

"I'd rather do farming than housework," claimed Kay Rosenow. One of the group's six girls, Rosenow is involved in citizenship and youth leadership projects as well as art and plastercraft design.

Greg Tauchen, 16, said he had hoped to see a rattlesnake in Texas but has not yet. "We don't have poisonous snakes in Wisconsin, he claimed. He almost sounded as if that was a drawback to living in the northern state.

Fifteen-year-old Doug Pahlow said he has enjoyed seeing the variety of crops grown in the county. He claimed soybeans and corn are about all the farmers raise where he lives. Pahlow shows Holstein cattle and also enjoys leathercrafting as a 4-H project.

Kelly Velman, 17, studies photography and said this trip has given her plenty of opportunities to practice her skills. She also received a few lessons in western dancing while attending a couple of dances with her host family. Velman signed up for veterinary science as a 4-H project and is considering becoming a veterinarian's assistant.

Lori Krueger rises at 5:30 a.m. to head for the milk barn while Dawn Dallmann sleeps in until 6:00 every morning. They both say they love the farm and would not want to live in the city.

The girls still find time for extra-curricular activities at their high schools. They prefer athletics and music to baton twirling or cheerleading.

Mrs. Fehrman, who knew only one member of the group before embarking on the trip as a sponsor, has been leader of the Tilleda Timberwolves 4-H Club, but they had plenty of time to get acquainted during the long drive south. She and the youngsters also met the previous weekend while operating a 4-H food stand at a local flea market. Proceeds helped fund the trip.

"People are so friendly here," Fehrman pointed out. "Everywhere we go they shake our hands. And I like the geography, it's so flat."

Mr. Fehrman, who works at a cheese factory, also raises sheep and beef cattle on their small farm. He oversees the beef and sheep raising projects for their 4-H club as well.

The boys diplomatically refused comment when asked if the girls in Texas are prettier than the ones up north. Their Wisconsin counterparts were sitting within earshot.

The girls, giggling, said they kind of like the guys with the cowboy look. "Are you going to write that down?" one gasped.

The visitors are to be in the county until Thursday, with a busy schedule still ahead before they cram themselves in the van and head home to help with the milking.

Dairyland Visitors

Rosenkranz kidnapper caught

HOUSTON (AP) - A Houston man accused of threatening an associate at gunpoint until he wrote checks totaling $20,000 was charged in the kidnapping of a Mexico City millionairess and was being held on $1.5 million bond, authorities said.

U.S. Magistrate Patrick J. Attridge Monday set July 30 a preliminary hearing date for Glenn I. Wright, 42, and his two alleged accomplices, Orland Tolden, 25, of Houston, and Dennis Moss, 26, of Cocoa, Fla.

Attridge ordered set bond for Moss at $1 million and Tolden at $500,000.

The trio is charged in the kidnapping of Edith Rosenkranz, 60, who was abducted Thursday in Washington, D.C. and then driven around the area for two days.

She was released Saturday night three blocks from the White House after her husband dropped a briefcase containing $1 million at an Alexandria, Va., parking lot. The woman was not hurt and the money was recovered, authorities said.

Special Agent Norman Zigrossi of the FBI's Washington office said the Rosenkranzes were selected because the abductors "knew they had money and thought they would pay the ransom."

Sentencing today for drug kingpin

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) - Convicted drug kingpin Jamiel "Jimmy" Chagra, already sentenced to more than four decades behind bars, waited today to find out his sentence for conspiring to gun down a federal prosecutor.

Chagra, who faced a possible life sentence, pleaded guilty in June to conspiracy to murder former assistant U.S. Attorney James Kerr. Kerr escaped serious injury Nov. 21, 1978, when he ducked beneath the dashboard of his car to escape gunfire from the back of a van.

Kerr was handling a drug investigation aimed at Chagra, prosecutors said.

U.S. District Judge John H. Wood Jr., who was presiding over Chagra's case at the time, was killed outside his San Antonio home May 29, 1979. Chagra was convicted of obstructing the investigation into Wood's slaying.

Chagra already is serving a 47-year term on drug and tax evasion convictions and for obstruction of justice.

Charles Harrelson was convicted of killing Wood and is serving two life sentences.

Bullock won't run for governor

AUSTIN (AP) - State Comptroller Bob Bullock says the message is clear: Texans aren't very excited about his running for governor - so he won't run in 1986, or ever.

"Frankly, there has been no great public clamor for my services as governor," Bullock said Monday. "If I were looking for a draft, I think I can now quit waiting."

Bullock's likely opponent, Gov. Mark White, responded, "I'm glad he did not receive a huge public clamor. I would have been disappointed if he had."

White said Bullock told him of his decision while they were at the recent Democratic National Convention in San Francisco, "and was very gracious. I am delighted with his announcement and look forward to continue working with him."

A close associate of the governor, Secretary of State John Fairner, said, "It (the decision) does clear serious opposition (for White in the Democratic primary)."

Fairner said he thinks White "looks forward with a great deal of confidence to being renominated and re-elected."

Genetics may cause cancer

BAR HARBOR, Maine (AP) - The discovery of a genetic defect in children have bone cancer suggests that researchers may have stumbled on a pervasive cause of many types of cancer, damage to or lack of a gene that protects against the disease.

"I don't think all tumors will be caused by these mutations but I think a sizable proportion will be," said Dr. Thaddeus Dryja, an ophthalmologist at the Massachusetts Eye and Ear Infirmary and one of those who discovered the new class of cancer-causing genetic defects.

The defects are of a type that until a year ago had never been seen. Unlike cancer genes, which when altered can trigger cancer, these genes protect against cancer. When the protective genes are missing or damaged, the cancer can then appear.

Webster Cavenee of the University of Cincinnati described the findings at a news conference Monday at Bar Harbor's Jackson Laboratory, where he is taking part in the annual Short Course on Genetics. The privately funded laboratory is a leading center for genetics research.

Charles to uplift pageant image

NEW YORK (AP) - The new Miss America promised to spend her 7-week reign trying to "uplift" the pageant's image after her predecessor, Vanessa Williams, reluctantly surrendered her beauty crown over the publication of sexually explicit photographs of her.

At a news conference Monday, a poised and smiling Miss Williams said she had wanted to complete her year as the 1984 titleholder, but realized that "because of all that has happened during the past week, it would be difficult for me to make an appearance as Miss America."

Miss Williams, 21, of Millwood, N.Y., the first black Miss America, thus became the first in pageant history to be forced to quit.

Suzette Charles, 21, of Mays Landing, N.J., the first runner-up in September's pageant, is also black. She said she was "excited" about becoming the 58th Miss America, but added, "It's unfortunate it had to be under these circumstances."

Soviets say no press release

MOSCOW (AP) - The Soviet Union says it wants the United States to join in declaring a halt to testing and deployment of space weapons, but Washington says any joint work on such a statement should be conducted in private "rather than through press releases."

A Soviet Foreign Ministry spokesman, Vladimir Lomeiko, told a news conference Monday that the Soviets last week proposed such a statement but that the United States had not yet responded.

In Washington, however, White House spokesman Larry Speakes said Monday that the United States "is pleased the Soviets have responded to our suggestion" that a joint statement be drafted by the superpowers as a basis for opening U.S. Soviet talks on space weapons.

Commenting on Soviet mention of a joint statement, Speakes said the United States will respond "through diplomatic channels" and not make a public statement as Lomeiko did.

"Historically, serious interest in reaching agreement has led both sides to deal with such matters in established channels rather than through press releases," Speakes said.

Paul Harvey

The debate over evolution has never shaken my faith in Scripture: "In the beginning, God..."

I grew up taught that creation was created by a Creator.

I have read and listened with fascination to the evolutionists who believe that creation evolved from nothing "with a big bang."

Now I've found a scholar—actually a chemical engineer—who combines those two views in a book called "The Fourth Kingdom."

Succinctly stated, William Sauber figures that, "In the beginning, God, with a big bang, created the heavens and the earth."

I'll buy that.

Sauber's concept of the "fourth kingdom" is predicated on a fascinating presumption that evolution is an orderly progression from minerals by vegetables to animals.

The "animals" include us.

And next to evolve is what he calls "the fourth kingdom."

Here is his scenario: As planet Earth cooled, all was "mineral."

The first crude cells to populate the planet resembled bacteria which evolved into the first plant cells - "vegetable."

Thence, up from the sponges and the protozoa came worms, fish, reptiles, birds and mammals and us.

It required the development of the human brain - plus dexterity - to allow us - men and women - to create the next evolutionary advancement - spaceships.

Mr. Sauber sees us eventually embarking on a space ark to leave this planet in favor of more friendly ones.

"Machines will fulfill our destiny."

His prevue of "The Fourth Kingdom" may fascinate you as it did me. It may merely make you happier that you lived when you lived.

But inevitably you should be reassured by the certainty with which this evolutionist - in the end - is forced to concede that the proof of a Crator "has been uncovered by the scientific process itself."

That Einstein, who perceived reality far more deeply than most of us, left us this legacy: "There is a creative force, a higher intelligence, operating in nature and in the universe."

And that Darwin, were he alive today, sharing what the life sciences are now learning, would have to rewrite his own evolutionary theory to acknowledge: "In the beginning, God..."

Golden arches removed from scene of massacre

SAN YSIDRO, Calif. (AP) - A crew working before dawn today removed the "Golden Arches" and other signs from the McDonald's restaurant where 21 people were killed by a gunman last week.

The crew also dismantled a small playground next to the restaurant. But the workers left undisturbed the flowers and signs left by relatives and friends of the victims.

About 70 people had held a candlelight vigil in front of the restaurant Monday night, asking that a memorial park replace the building.

"It seems like our prayers have been answered," said Dominga Navarro, who lives across the street.

McDonald's spokesman Bob Keyser had said previously that plans to reopen the restaurant had been postponed.

Meanwhile, gun control advocates today began citing the shootings in a new advertising campaign. And advertisements for McDonald's began reappearing on television for the first time since the attack, in which an additional 19 people were wounded and the gunman was killed by a police sharpshooter.

Bush tells Texans Fritz too liberal

WASHINGTON (AP) - Vice President George Bush, in his campaign debut against Walter Mondale and Geraldine Ferraro, is giving Texas the message that the Democratic challengers are too liberal for the traditionally conservative Lone Star State.

Bush planned stops in the Texas cities of Tyler, Wichita Falls, Abilene and Waco today as a warm-up for a appearance Wednesday with President Reagan at a rally in Austin. It is Bush's first outing since Mondale and Ms. Ferraro were formally installed on the Democratic presidential ticket last week.

With 29 electoral votes at stake - more than one-tenth of the total needed to win the White House - Texas is one of the biggest prizes in the presidential sweepstakes. Reagan swamped Jimmy Carter in the state by a margin of 55-41 in 1980. The director of Reagan's campaign this year, Edward Rollins, predicts the president will carry the state again.

Bush, in an interview Monday, said the legacy of the Carter-Mondale administration was high interest rates and inflation.

"Now they're saying we've got a new ball game: 'Please don't call us liberals anymore.' His (Mondale's) record, his running mate's record, are way over on the left spectrum of American politics," Bush said on ABC-TV's "Good Morning America."

In a state with a conservative reputation, Bush is trying "to let Texans know they are more comfortable with our ticket than they are with Mr. Mondale's ticket," said Peter Teeley, the vice president's press secretary.

"The national Democratic party has moved so far to the left that men like Lloyd Bentsen, John Glenn, Fritz Hollings and Reuben Askew can't be considered for the second-highest position in the United States," Teeley said. "A candidate like Mondale can't even consider them without a revolt by the special interests and liberal activists of his party."

Bentsen, a Texas senator and strong vote-getter, was among those considered by Mondale as a possible running mate. Glenn is a senator from Ohio, Hollings a senator from South Carolina, and Askew a former governor from Florida.

Bush also said the Republicans will make Central America a prime campaign issue because Mondale doesn't appreciate the seriousness of the Nicaraguan Marxist threat to the region.

"I don't believe from Mondale's rhetoric that he understands this," Bush said in an interview with the Washington Post. "I don't believe they (the Democrats) understand they (the Sandinistas) are what they say they are - they are Marxists, they have no intention of going the democratic route."

While suggesting Mondale had snubbed the South and conservatives by his vice presidential choice, Teeley said, "We're not going after Mrs. Ferraro, certainly, and it would be unfair to imply that."

Rejecting Mondale's charges that Reagan would be forced to raise taxes in a second term, Bush said he and the president "are not running on raising the people's taxes" but he noted that a study is under way that would "simplify" the tax system and result in new revenue.

Bush said the "Democrats did a good job in the convention" and said he was unsure what to do to counter excitement caused by Ms. Ferraro's selection.

Refinery explosion kills nine workers

ROMEOVILLE, Ill. (AP) - Rescue workers searched today for seven Union Oil Co. workers still missing following a refinery explosion that killed at least nine people, injured 23 others, cracked concrete foundations 15 miles away and cut off power to 10,000 homes.

The blast Monday evening was felt for 35 miles and left the refinery looking like "a giant erector set that had been stepped on," said Romeoville police Lt. Andy Barto.

Rescue workers were hampered for hours from recovering charred bodies at the site by the choking smoke and intense heat.

Officials early today had no information on what might have caused the explosion, which firefighters said occurred inside the refinery's coke plant.

Firefighters from about 30 communities battled five separate fires, which sent smoke swirling thousands of feet into the air. By early today, only one fire was still burning, and that was under control, said Romeoville police Sgt. Richard Nugent.

Nugent said the bodies of nine badly burned victims had been recovered from the explosion site, but none had been identified. There were 48 workers at the plant when the explosion occurred shortly before 6 p.m. Monday, he said.

Twenty-one workers were injured, two of them critically, in the blast and ensuing fires, area hospitals reported. Two Romeoville firefighters also suffered minor injuries fighting the blazes, said Assistant Chief Stephen Clancy.

The refinery straddles Romeoville and Lemont, about 25 miles southwest of Chicago. About 15,000 people live in Romeoville.

The explosion blew out windows and cracked building foundations in Joliet, said Sgt. Paul Dixon of the Will County sheriff's office.

"I was talking on the telephone," said Angela Schmidt of nearby Lockport. "The door blew open like someone threw something at it."

Some witnesses reported a second explosion shortly after the first, and others said there were also a series of smaller explosions.

Selfish attitudes

DEAR ANN: Ten years ago, when I was 60, I married the finest man I've ever known. Since our incomes were about the same, we made a sensible agreement - we shared our living expenses and each paid our own bills.

"Thomas" was a widower with three married daughters. Their husbands are all gainfully employed. They live well thanks to generous financial assistance from their father.

Three years ago Thomas suffered a stroke. Although each of his daughters lives within a day's drive, not one could manage to come help me with the back-breaking chores while their father was desperately ill.

Because of indomitable spirit and excellent medical care, he has made a remarkable recovery. But he requires round-the-clock supervision because he often becomes confused.

During my husband's period of recuperation, I became physically exhausted and emotionally wrung out. I asked each of my step-daughters to take their father for a short visit so I could have a little relief.

One flatly refused. (She also sent me a copy of the marriage ceremony with the words "in sickness and in health" underlined.) The second daughter said she would take her dad to lunch if he was "in her neighborhood." The third took him to her home for a few visits after making it clear she was "greatly inconvenienced."

My husband knows nothing about the attitudes of his daughters and I'm afraid to tell him for fear he might have another stroke.

I am appalled by their selfishness. What should be done?—Way Out West are upset by the possibility that these underserving women may come into a nice inheritance when their father passes away.

Don't touch this subject with a 20-foot pole. Stroke victims who become confused are unpredictable. Inform your husband's attorney about the shabby treatment he received when he was ill and let the matter rest in his or her hands.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My problem is ME. All I think about is food. I have become so lazy and self-indulgent I hate myself.

On my days off work, I stay at home wearing a big comfortable robe and eat all day and into the night. When something comes along that my husband wants to attend I can't go because I am unable to get into decent clothes.

He is disgusted with me and I don't blame him. I worry when he comments on the great figures of other women and says, "I wish you'd do something about yours." Our sex life is practically nil because I am so ashamed of my body I stay up until he is sound asleep and get out of bed in the morning before he awakens.

Diets don't work and neither do drugstore pills. I've tried them all. Please, Ann, help me.—A Mess In Vancouver

DEAR VAN: By now you should know you are a compulsive eater, and self-destructive in the bargain. Compulsions do not respond to reason. You need psychological counseling and the support of fellow sufferers. I recommend a therapist who specializes in eating disorders, as well as Overeaters Anonymous. Look in the phone book. 4-H Around the County

By BRAD MORRISON
County Extension Agent

The growth of the 4-H club program in Texas into an organization for all youth between the ages of 9 and 19 is due largely to strong support from the Texas 4-H Youth Development Foundation.

Through the Foundation, a non-profit organization, funds are provided to enrich and expand the 4-H program and to provide for special activities and achievement awards.

The Texas 4-H Youth Development Foundation is active in garnering private support and interest in 4-H on a statewide basis. The Foundation is administered by a board of trustees that represent a broad cross-section of leadership in Texas business, industry and agriculture.

Among activities which the Foundation has supported for a long time are State 4-H Roundup, International 4-H Youth Exchange Program, adult leadership development training, junior leadership laboratories, scholarships, Texas 4-H Council, Texas 4-H Congress, Texas 4-H Center and various awards programs.

In our rapidly changing economy and society, 4-H is broadening its programs to meet the needs of the youth it serves. Programs now include leadership and citizenship training and such skill-oriented projects as automotive care and safety, electricity, horses, photography, dog care and training, horticulture and clothing.

4-H must continue to change if it is to continue as a viable youth program. Such changes will come with the continued support of the Texas 4-H Youth Development Foundation.

Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socio-economic levels, race, colors, sex, religion or national origin.

TREE-MENDOUS PLANTING

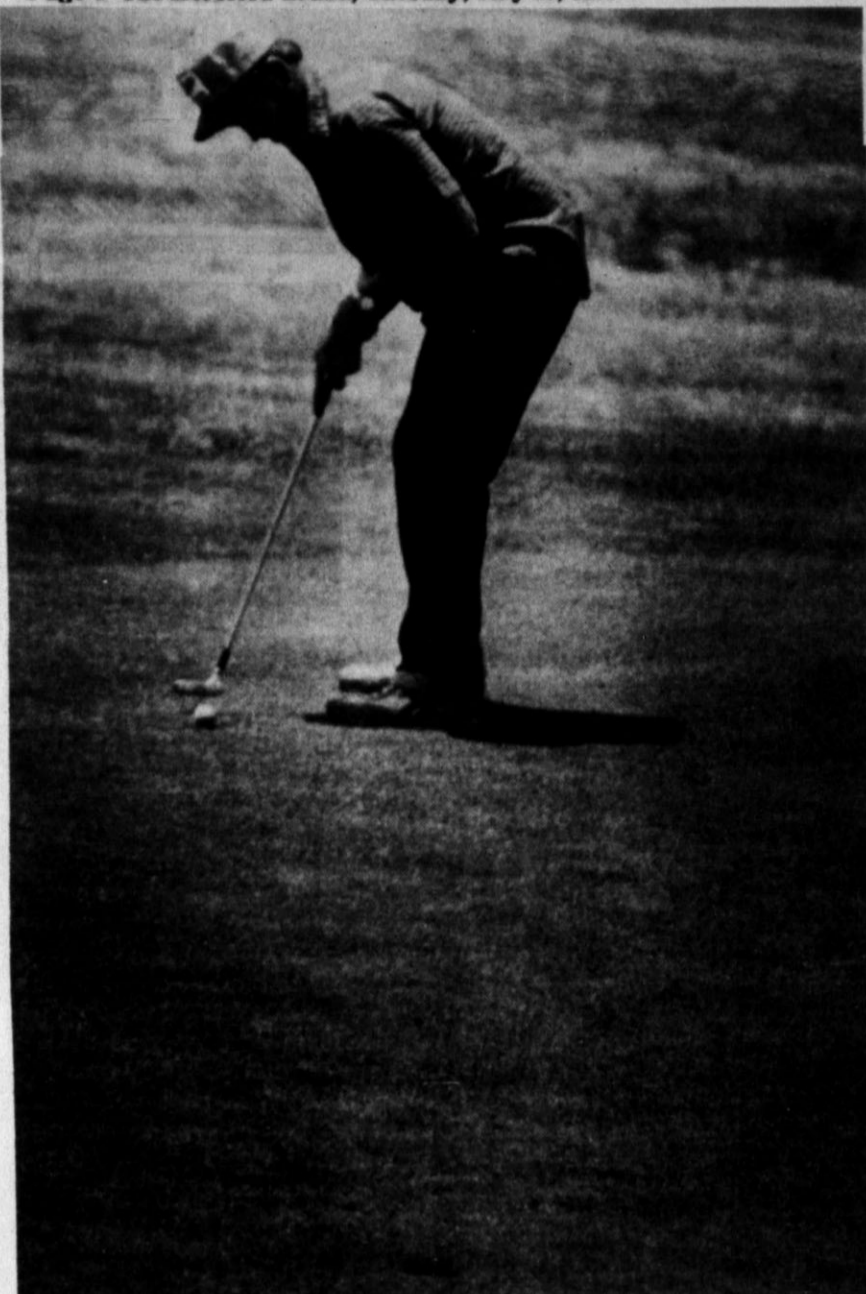

COTTAGE GROVE, Ore. (AP) — Enough trees to cover an area five times the size of New York City were planted on timberlands in Oregon, California, and Washington during the most recent planting season.

Nearly 6 million seedlings of coast redwood, Douglas-fir, Western hemlock, and Western red cedar were hand-planted as part of Georgia Pacific Corp.'s ongoing reforestation program. Nationwide, the firm plants some 30 million such seedlings each year.

Annual Hereford tennis tournament scheduled to begin Wednesday

By DENNIS BALL
Sports Editor

The Hereford Ladies Tournament takes center court Wednesday when the 1984 edition of the annual tennis event gets underway at the Hereford High School courts.

Matches are to begin at 8 a.m. Wednesday with the preliminaries of the fourth, fifth and sixth grades and junior high divisions. The tourney concludes Sunday with the finals of the adult division.

The Tennis Committee of the Ladies Division of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring the event.

Boys and girls singles and doubles matches are scheduled for the combined fourth, fifth and sixth grades division. Participants in this age group also may enter a mixed doubles match.

Format for the junior high division will be the same. Approximately 40 elementary and junior high students are entered. Both divisions play Wednesday and Thursday.

Adults are to play in three divisions, with individuals ranking themselves according to their judgment for their abilities. Only ladies may play in singles and doubles matches and enter a mixed doubles portion of the tournament.

Entrants in the adult division must have been 17 years old as of July 1, 1984. Deadline to enter the adult division is Wednesday. Play is Saturday and Sunday.

"We've always had good support from the public," said Karen Marsh, one of the event's directors. "The tournament is open to the public at no charge."

Participants are allowed to enter three events in only one division. Double eliminations will be in effect for complete brackets and round robin competitions for incomplete brackets. Deuce-add scoring will be used for all matches.

Each event must have four entrants. No event has failed to be held in recent years because of two few participants, according to Mike Carr.

"We had about 150 people compete last year (in all divisions)," the chamber's executive vice president said.

If an event does fail to meet this criterion, though, persons scheduled to compete may do so in a higher division having four players, Marsh said. Prizes will be awarded for first, second and consolation in all divisions. Complete brackets and tourney pairings will be posted at the tournament site.

Too Tall may walk out on Cowboys camp

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) — And now there's the "Ed Jones watch."

In the Dallas Cowboys' silver anniversary training camp, there has been the "quarterback watch" and the "Randy White watch."

With Danny White and Gary Hogeboom competing for the No. 1 quarterback job and All-Pro defensive tackle Randy White holding out, some notice is being paid to the possibility of Jones walking out of camp.

Jones is on the third year of a five-year contract which pays him $305,000 this season. He wants his pact renegotiated.

Randy White is on the option year of a contract which pays him $350,000 this season and he wants it changed.

What started all the more money talk was a contract giving Mark Gastineau of the New York Jets $800,000 this season. Various camp rumors have had Jones either walking out of camp or demanding to be traded to another team, neither of which has come to pass.

Jones said, "I'll do what I have to do" but stopped short of asking for a trade.

"I haven't said anything to anybody about that," said Jones. "Right now I have a positive attitude. Nothing has ever been easy."

Jones said he never considered walking out with White in a dual holdout.

"I have a lot of respect for Randy and what every he gets he deserves twice," said Jones.

"I wish something would happen so Randy could come back," Jones said. "This team needs for him to be here particularly with new people at right end."

Harvey Martin retired, leaving a vacancy next to the White's right tackle position.

Jones, 32, said he would hate to ever have to leave the Cowboys.

"I like it here and it's where I want to end my career," Jones said. "In the past we've been always able to work things out. I hope we can again."

Jones is represented by New York agent Don Cronson.

Gil Brandt, executive vice president of the Cowboys, said he had had no contact with either White or Cronson on Monday.

"We can't get ahold of Howard Slusher," said Brandt of White's agent. "His track record has been for things to drag out."

Brandt added, "I've tried to call Randy but his wife says he is fishing. So, we'll just have to wait until they contact us."

Donohue prepares team

NEW YORK (AP) - Inevitably, Jack Donohue has a label affixed to his name in the United States.

Jack Donohue, who coached Lew Alcindor in high school...

Or Jack Donohue, who coached Kareem Abdul-Jabbar in high school.

Alcindor and Abdul-Jabbar, of course, are one and the same and Donohue has no doubt that the Los Angeles Lakers star would have made it big whoever was his high school coach at Power Memorial Academy here.

Since Donohue left Holy Cross College, where he had coached with limited success for seven years ending with the 1971-72 season, he has been Canada's national basketball coach and is now readying his team for the Olympic Games.

When Donohue first went north of the border, he went on the Canadian lecture circuit in addition to serving as Canada's coach and basketball commissioner.

"People would ask, 'Who's Jack Donohue?'" said the native New Yorker. "I'd refer to myself as the total loss from Holy Cross."

Although hockey will always be king in Canada, Donohue will be remembered as the man who helped put Canada onto the international basketball map. So far, the Canadian team's biggest accomplishment was beating the United States in the World University Games last year.

"It's the same team except for the 12th man," Donohue said recently in New York, where his team participated in the Michelob New York Summer Pro League. Competing against teams with many National Basketball Association players, the Canadians went undefeated in eight games.

Canada qualified for the Olympics in a tournament in Sao Paulo, Brazil, finishing behind Brazil and Uruguay.

Donohue then had planned to take his team to Greece, Bulgaria and Israel last month to prepare for the Olympics, but decided instead to come to New York for "some good, old-fashioned, in-your-face basketball."

Canada's basketball talent has improved considerably, with many players earning scholarships in the United States. The most prominent is Leo Rautins, who starred at Syracuse and became a first-round pick in the 1983 National Basketball Association draft by Philadelphia.

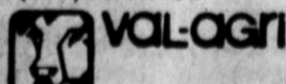

As evidence of the caliber of his players, he points out that Danny Meagher, 6-foot-7, a starter at Duke, and Bill Wennington, St. John's 7-foot starting center, are reserves on his team.

Canada's center is 6-11 Greg Wiltjer, a second-round NBA pick (No. 43 overall) by Chicago, while 6-2 point guard Elario Pasquale, "as quick as anybody," Donohue said, was a fifth-round pick (106th overall) by Seattle.

As for Canada's chances in the Olympics, Donohue said, "The United States is head and shoulders ahead of everybody, but you never can tell. We'll be very competitive along with Italy, Yugoslavia, Spain and Brazil."

With 9-5 victory Monday

Orioles continue dominance over Rangers

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — The Baltimore Orioles are 14 games out of the American League East race, but if there is one team they can consistently dominate, it is the Texas Rangers.

The Orioles extended their streak of superiority over Texas to seven games, with a 9-5 victory over the Rangers Monday night. Although Baltimore had problems at the start of the season, they have rocked Texas, sweeping a three-game set in Baltimore in April and repeating the trick at Texas in May.

The Orioles lead the all-time series with the Rangers 85-54 and have played 700 ball at Arlington Stadium with a 49-21 record there.

Part of the recent success against

Texas has come from the contributions of all-star Oriole shortstop Cal Ripken.

Ripken hit for the cycle against Texas at Arlington Stadium in May and was only a home run away from repeating the feat Monday night.

"I was aware that I had a chance to go for the cycle," said Ripken. "Before my first at-bat Wayne (Gross) said 'this is the place.'"

"I got the triple and had the hard one out of the way, but there's no way you can change your style to try and hit a home run," said Ripken. "We needed a game like this where we scored runs. I know we can finish strong. It was good for us tonight. It helped boost our offense. We haven't scored many runs lately and the pressure has been on the pitchers."

Rick Dempsey and Gary Roenicke helped out Ripken by knocking in three RBIs each. Roenicke picked up all three on a home run.

"It was a ball," said Roenicke of the homer. "It was down. I was fortunate enough to hit it in the air. It looked like the wind was really traveling tonight. It was just nice to score some runs."

Orioles starter Mike Boddicker, 11-8, got the pitching victory. Boddicker went seven and one third innings, giving up 12 hits, 5 runs, one walk and striking out four.

Tippy Martinez picked up his 14th save of the season, while Ranger starter Mike Mason, 6-9, suffered the loss.

The Orioles opened the scoring in the second inning when Benny Ayala scored from second on Dempsey's game-winning RBI single. Ayala had singled and advanced to second on Ranger third baseman Buddy Bell's fielding error.

Roenicke made it 4-0 in the third inning for the Orioles on a home run to left field, which scored Ripken and Eddie Murray. It was Roenicke's fourth homerun of the year.

Rich Dauer walked, advanced on Dempsey's grounder to third and scored on Ripken's third hit of the night to give the Orioles a 5-0 lead in the fourth inning.

John Shelby walked and reached second on Ripken's hit before scoring when Murray's hit dropped into left field for a double.

Texas managed their first two runs in the sixth, but just barely.

George Wright hit an eventual home run ball which scored Buddy Bell, who had singled.

First base umpire Jim McKean failed to call the home run ball as Wright's hit went inside the right field wall and bounced back out.

However, after Ranger manager Doug Rader argued in Wright's defense and McKean consulted with second base umpire Durwood Merrill, Wright got his third homer of the year. As a result, however, the Orioles played the game under protest.

Baltimore made it 9-2 in the seventh when Murray scored on Dave Stewart's wild pitch and Dempsey followed with a two-RBI single to score Mike Young and John Lowenstein.

In the Texas seventh, Tommy Dunbar hit a solo homer to give the Rangers another run and Larry Parrish led off the Ranger eighth with a home run to bring the total to 9-4 Baltimore.

After Parrish's homer in the eighth, George Wright scored the final Texas run from third as Curtis Wilkerson hit into a fielder's choice.

Texas' only real bright spot of the evening came from shortstop Jeff Kunkel. Kunkel, playing in his first major league game, went 3-4 with one stolen base.

Future Olympic boycotts to result in penalties

LOS ANGELES (AP) - The Executive Board of the International Olympic Committee has unanimously decided "in principle" to penalize any country that boycotts future Olympic Games, according to IOC Director Monique Berlioux.

Berlioux told reporters Monday that the nine-member Executive Board recommended the change in Olympic rules to the full session of the 88-member IOC opening here today, but failed to spell out how the new rule should be enforced.

The change was prompted by the boycott by the Soviet Union and 13 of its allies of the Los Angeles Games, which open Saturday. None of the boycotting countries is represented on the Executive Board, although most of them are full members of the IOC.

IOC officials said the new rule could come into effect by the 1988

Summer Games in Seoul, South Korea, which are also threatened by a Soviet-led political boycott. None of the Soviet bloc nations has diplomatic relations with South Korea.

The three-day IOC session, meeting under the chairmanship of IOC President Juan Antonio Samaranch of Spain, was expected to endorse the proposal, but may postpone detailed discussion of how to implement it, according to the IOC officials who requested anonymity. The 10 Soviet-bloc IOC members were likely to express vigorous objections to the idea.

Berlioux said the Executive Board considered several proposals on possible penalties for future boycotts, but reached no conclusion.

"There are not many things we can do," she told reporters.

PUBLIC NOTICE

AT&T Communications has filed with the Public Utility Commission (PUC) of Texas to introduce a new intrastate, optional long distance service to begin August 1, 1984, the same date "Reach Out® America" plan will be available for interstate calls.

A new service designed to give customers the opportunity to reduce the cost of long distance in Texas has been filed with the state PUC by AT&T Communications of the Southwest, Inc.

"Reach Out® Texas" is an optional calling plan which will provide additional discounts on long distance rates for Texas customers who frequently place calls in the evening, weekend, and night time calling periods.

The new "Reach Out® Texas" plan for the first time extends the benefits of competition to many Texas consumers who previously have not had any discounted long distance service available to them.

AT&T Communications customers who choose this new optional service will pay a monthly charge of $14 which entitles them to one hour of intrastate "Direct Dialed" (1+) calling during the weekend and night rate period.

An additional customer savings for those participating in the plan will be that any Direct Dialed calls placed during the weekend and night rate period that exceeds the one hour period will be charged at an hourly rate of $12, or $.20 per minute.

Customers selecting this option also receive an additional 15 percent discount for intrastate Direct Dialed calls during the evening discount rate period for a total savings of approximately 38 percent.

A one-time charge of $6 is billed when a customer orders the "Reach Out® Texas" plan. The $6 is collected by AT&T Communications and paid to the local telephone company to establish the service. This charge will be waived during the first 90 days that the offering is available.

AT&T Communications is proud to offer this optional service for its Texas long distance customers and will in the future continue to introduce cost cutting programs to help Texans reduce their long distance bills.

A complete copy of the "Reach Out® Texas" tariff and rate schedule is on file with the Texas Public Utility Commission at Austin, Texas.

AT&T Communications estimates that the revenue impact of this new service would be significantly less than 2.5 percent of annual gross revenues. Persons who wish to intervene or otherwise participate in these proceedings should notify the Commission as soon as possible. A request to intervene or participate or for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard, Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78757. Further information also may be obtained by calling the Public Utility Commission Consumer Affairs Division at (512) 458-0223 or (512) 458-0227, or (512) 458-0221, teletypewriter for the deaf.

*Customer billing for the optional calling plan will be provided for AT&T Communications through billing contracts with the local telephone companies. Therefore, the introduction of these rate plans into a specific area is contingent upon local company billing capabilities. Southwestern Bell Telephone Company has agreed to handle the billing in its service areas effective August 1, 1984.

Bustamante big spender among Congress candidates

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Bexar County Judge Albert Bustamante is the biggest spender so far among Texas candidates for the U.S. House of Representatives, according to campaign finance reports filed with the Federal Election Commission.

As of June 30, the closing date for the latest reports, Bustamante had spent $460,111. He defeated incumbent Abraham "Chick" Kazen of Laredo in the May 5 Democratic primary. Kazen spent $276,419, according to his report.

Bustamante has no Republican opponent.

Lufkin Democrat Charles Wilson was second, spending $446,534. He fended off several primary opponents.

Wilson had received the most contributions from political action committees — $215,750.

Republican Jack Fields of Houston was second in PAC money among Texas congressional candidates, receiving $138,274.

Third biggest spender was Tom Richards, a Lubbock attorney who lost a June 2 Democratic runoff to Don Richards, even though he had spent more than five times as much as his opponent.

Don Richards is a former aide to Kent Hance, who relinquished the seat to run for the Senate this year. Hance lost in a runoff.

Tom Richards reported he had spent $393,228 as of July 7. Don Richards reported spending only $77,643 as of June 30. Don Richards reported contributions of $59,472 and loans of $22,600. Tom Richards raised $125,260 from contributors and took out $215,000 in loans.

Larry Combest, who won the Republican nomination after a runoff with Doug Fleming, reported spending $20,570 and raising $19,688.

Fields had spent $261,378 and raised $438,315. Don Buford, Fields' Democratic opponent, reported spending $144,877 and raising contributions of $131,193, with $51,750 coming from political action committees.

Bustamante reported contributions totaling $340,430, with $56,200 coming from PACs. Kazen reported PAC contributions of $99,424 out of his total raised of $294,028.

House Government Operations Committee Chairman Jack Brooks of Beaumont had received $118,550 from PACs. His opponent, Republican Jim Mahan, had received $6,000. Mahan had spent $47,313 to Brooks' $63,903.

Brooks reported raising $263,398; Mahan, $39,010.

House Majority Leader Jim Wright of Fort Worth received $73,846 from PACs even though had no primary or general election opponents.

Former state Rep. Dan Kubiak won the Democratic nomination to replace College Station Congressman Phil Gramm, who is running for the U.S. Senate on the Republican ticket. Kubiak reported spending $195,859.

Joe Barton, who won the Republican nomination after a runoff with Max Hoyt, reported spending $112,423 to Hoyt's $177,021.

Kubiak listed contributions of $133,386, with $46,734 coming from PACs. Barton reported $113,087 in contributions, $9,000 from PACs.

Republican Tom DeLay had spent $266,689 toward winning the seat being vacated by Lake Jackson Congressman Ron Paul, who ran for the Senate. Democrat Doug Williams, who won the Democratic nomination in a runoff, reported spending only $27,581.

DeLay, a former state representative, received $88,350 from PACs to Williams' $4,600.

Democrats pressed to spotlight women hopefuls

WASHINGTON (AP) — None of the key Senate races that Democratic political strategists have been promoting include a woman candidate, but the nomination of Rep. Geraldine Ferraro for vice president is forcing a change in tactics.

Early on, Senate Democratic campaign chairman Lloyd Bentsen of Texas had decided to concentrate the party's $4 million in those races where Republicans appeared the most vulnerable.

"I'm not going to finance any land-slides — or any big losers," said Bentsen.

There are five women seeking Senate seats as Democrats out of 33 races, but none is running in any of the seven or so contests shaping up as potential cliff-hangers.

The woman candidates are all running against fairly well entrenched Republican incumbents in Oregon, Maine, Minnesota, Virginia and New Mexico.

Until recently, when Democratic leaders talked about a possible retaking of the Senate, they seldom mentioned any of these female contenders.

But that all changed when Ms. Ferraro was given the party's vice presidential nomination.

Now the party is trying to find ways to swing the spotlight onto at least some of these Democratic women.

For one thing, Bentsen said a special fund has been set up to financially bolster their campaigns and those of any other woman who files as a Democratic Senate candidate — even if these campaigns are longshots.

Two of the candidates — Joan Groves of Minnesota and Libby Mitchell of Maine — were given prominent exposure at last week's Democratic National Convention.

And Bentsen makes it clear that efforts are being made to coordinate campaign visits from Mondale and particularly Ms. Ferraro into states with Democratic women on the ballot.

Republicans now hold a 55-45 majority in the Senate. But Democrats say they are optimistic of picking up seats now held by Republicans in North Carolina, Tennessee, Mississippi, New Hampshire, Texas, Illinois and Iowa.

Figures being thrown off

NEW YORK (AP) — Month after month the boisterous economy is putting on a surprise party, throwing off production and consumption figures that startle economists, perhaps even those in the White House.

It has trampled on the forecasts of seers equipped with computers and piles of statistical confetti. It even has caused the Commerce Department, official keeper of the numbers, to revise the past upward — month after month.

"We fell out of our chairs when we say May's consumer credit data flash across our quote machine," said Prudential-Bache's Edward Yardeni, referring to a $10.23 billion total of installment credit.

That was a record. The previous high-level mark was $6.61 billion in February. Not since the 1950s, when war veterans shook of the Great Depression fears, has consumer debt expanded so rapidly.

Arizona leads the United States in nonfuel production, mining copper, molybdenum, cement, sand and gravel.

The decimal system was invented in ninth century India.

PUT A PULSE IN YOUR POCKET

A Pulse card in your pocket means you have quick, convenient access to your money at over 800 Pulse Automatic Teller Machine locations throughout the Southwest.

All you need is an account with us and we'll issue you a Pulse card and a personal identification code. Then, you can use your card at any of our Pulse locations or at airports, shopping malls, college campuses, hospital complexes, and, of course, at hundreds of other financial institutions.

And a Pulse Automatic Teller is so easy to use. Not all the machines look exactly alike, but your card works in all of them. Each machine basically operates the same way and each will give you instructions to assist you.

Put a Pulse in your pocket today. You'll save time and energy by having access to your money seven days a week, around the clock, around the Southwest.

Woman makes use of opportunity in life

HENDERSON, Texas (AP) — Twenty years ago Linda Bowdoin could have been described as the overweight secretary at a mobile home office who devoted her life to a husband and two children.

The Linda Bowdoin of today is a stranger to that obese secretary. She owns a business and a seven-acre lot where she retreats to her private life. Last month, Ms. Bowdoin celebrated the grand opening of her recreational vehicle sales business, The Longhorn Co. The crowd gathered for the ribbon cutting at the Hwy. 64 location. As the scissors clamped together, the red streamer broke and fell to the ground. It opened the doors to a life she had worked hard for.

In 1966, Ms. Bowdoin fell into a management position at the Sundowner Mobile Home Plant in Longview. When her boss' partner died, someone was needed to run the plant for a week while her boss was at a convention. He returned to the plant and found everything running smoothly. He left Ms. Bowdoin in charge on a trial basis. If things worked out, she could stay.

Things worked out. A year later, Ms. Bowdoin was promoted to purchasing agent. Accounts payable and receivable, payroll, inside sales and services were her official responsibilities with the promotion. It was Ms. Bowdoin's first step up the ladder and it was a giant one. She was the first female purchasing agent in any mobile home plant in the United States.

"At that time I did everything a general plant manager would do. Everyone answered to me when something went wrong."

Finally in 1982, Ms. Bowdoin was promoted to general manager of Craftmade Homes. On her second step up the ladder, she again achieved the title of first. Out of 400 mobile home plants across the United States, she was the only general plant manager.

"I have never been a women's liber. I always believed in equal pay for equal work, but that is all. When I started out, I never thought of coming this far. I just worked hard. I would tell anyone who wants to move up to volunteer to do whatever it takes to get the job done — whether you are paid for it or not."

The men who knew Ms. Bowdoin did not question her authority. They respected her for her past performance and were confident of her ability, she said. However, prejudice was then, as now, a stumbling block.

"Whenever I start working with a man who has not seen my work, I can see the doubt in his face. It's as if they say, 'prove it, show me you can,' before they will believe in me, but I have never had a man not work for me."

Ms. Bowdoin still is the object of wisecracks from many men.

"Right before I opened The Longhorn Co. an electrician came out. He asked me 'Is there a silent partner involved in this? I mean there a man who is going to look after you and make sure you don't shut the doors and go shopping?' I was infuriated!"

"I have played dumb more times than I would like to remember. Women by nature tend to use persuasion and charm instead of intelligence. That is something you must give up if you want respect. I don't want this to sound conceited, but I am going to act as intelligent as I am. If a man feels threatened, that's his problem, not mine."

"I would recommend to any woman who wants to go in to the business world to read 'Dress for Success.' The way you dress really affects the way men will react toward your position. If you dress flirty or charmingly, men won't take you seriously," Ms. Bowdoin said.

"A woman has got to sell herself. Consistent determination will pull you through the rough spots," advised Ms. Bowdoin.

"I had to get my own life together before I was really happy. You have to stop worrying about what other people think and do what is best for you."

"If you feel bored with your work, apply for a higher position. Always be willing to work a little extra to get the job done. You need to find a job where you are constantly challenged in a rewarding way."

"I was so bored with being a homemaker that I was miserable. I ate too much because I was so frustrated," Ms. Bowdoin said. She has lost more than 60 pounds.

"Keep aspiring to get as far as you can," she urged.

Ms. Bowdoin warned that many times men are quite comfortable working with a woman. Her decisions are respected and she is relied upon until it comes time for a raise.

"Then your opinion doesn't count. They say you're being too pushy. It's inbred in women to do the right thing and wait to be rewarded for our deeds. If you want to get anywhere that won't work. Ask! Ask! Ask!" Ms. Bowdoin emphasized, "do not wait."

After a year and a half of working as a general plant manager, Ms. Bowdoin decided to invest in herself. She chose to live in Henderson because of the "friendly people and beautiful land."

"I love the outdoors and Henderson is still small enough that the people are kind and not so rushed. Even Longview is getting to be too big for me. The people here are so accepting. It is easier for me to run a business here because people can still work with me on a one-on-one basis. In the city they can't see me and know that I am capable," Ms.

Bowdoin said.

In addition to selling travel trailers, The Longhorn Co. carries supplies for trailers, such as chemicals, water heaters, and toilets. Also, the company services all the supplies an electrical contractor would need.

A typical day with her new business begins at 7 a.m. Among other obligations, Ms. Bowdoin makes sales presentations to new customers; analyzes what is wrong and does the maintenance on trailers needing service; inspects new deliveries before accepting; and orders new merchandise. Also, she oversees credit arrangements and offers financing advice to her customers.

"I can let my hair down and let my femininity show. But I have different sides of my life that have to be filled," said Ms. Bowdoin.

Musicians opt for femininity

NEW YORK (AP) — They were musicians with a few songs and an image for a new band: heavy-metal music but not the usual heavy-metal look of denim, leather jackets and metal studs.

Instead, the boys in the band decided to go for a little femininity — women's clothes and makeup. But they didn't have a name. A friend had a little bit too much to drink one night and blurted out a name: "Twisted Sister."

"It was brilliant," said Dee Snider, lead singer of the quintet known since that moment as Twisted Sister. "Only a drunk person could have thought of it. He didn't even remember it the next day. Now it's his claim to fame."

In those early days, Snider said the group couldn't afford costumes. "The cheapest thing was to rip up a piece of lingerie and make it work," he said. "We figured wearing grotesque feminine makeup on stage would shock people — guys acting tough and wearing makeup."

"Now the costumes are just crazy and tattered," Snider continued. "We spend $3,000 on costumes and they look like they went through a shredder."

The band's costume and makeup designer is Snider's wife, Suzette, who was 15 when they married. Snider, who is now 29, was 21.

"She wanted to be a costume designer. At 16 she made me a whole set of costumes. The band hired her. She developed the makeup and cultivated my hair," Snider said.

His dark brown hair falls in natural, long ringlets. Mrs. Snider bleaches it, then dyes some ringlets black. It's so distinctive that when they recently took son Jesse, 2, to a pizza parlor-amusement park, Snider was quickly surrounded by autograph seekers.

"Twisted Sister has got to become famous fast," Snider said. "It's going to be very embarrassing for Jesse if I'm not famous and he has to explain why his Dad goes around looking like this."

Their first LP last year, "You Can't Stop Rock 'n' Roll," on Atlantic Records, didn't propel them to fame. But their new second LP, "Stay Hungry," is rocketing up the charts.

On stage, Snider says he's "mad." "My act is very very tuned in to the negative aspects of my personality, anger, frustration, hostility," he said. "That's why I love heavy rock 'n' roll. It's a nonviolent outlet for that. ... By the end, you always see Twisted Sister smile. The audience smiles, too. This is the beauty of heavy metal."

"We have a positive message, as long as you consider rebellion positive, which I do. Personal freedom is the big thing in Twisted Sister songs, not sex, drugs or devil worship."

FRIENDLY AND CONVENIENT

HOME DESIGN
 by Larry Farnsworth

This distinctive design is just about as different on the inside as it obviously is on the outside. Its appeal is different too for it's 1181 square feet outrun many far more conventional plans when it comes to popularity with builders. This is their favorite choice and there are many reasons why it is.

Note the living room for example. It is large, totally separate, located at the back of the house for privacy, and its fireplace forms the focal point of a dramatic conversation pit arrangement. The two arched openings add a special flavor, one handles the entry traffic, the other leads to the dining room making this design great for entertaining, and note the interior traffic pattern insured by the central entry just within the recessed front door. Two closets in its hallway give it a foyer effect entrance.

In the front corner of the house the country type kitchen enjoys its own share of drama with a handy dining counter serving the family room area with a patio and sliding doors providing both viewing of and convenient access to the outside. The U-shaped working area is highly efficient and traffic through the garage door to the laundry alcove in the hall never intrudes upon its activities. The garage also has a side door leading to the yard.

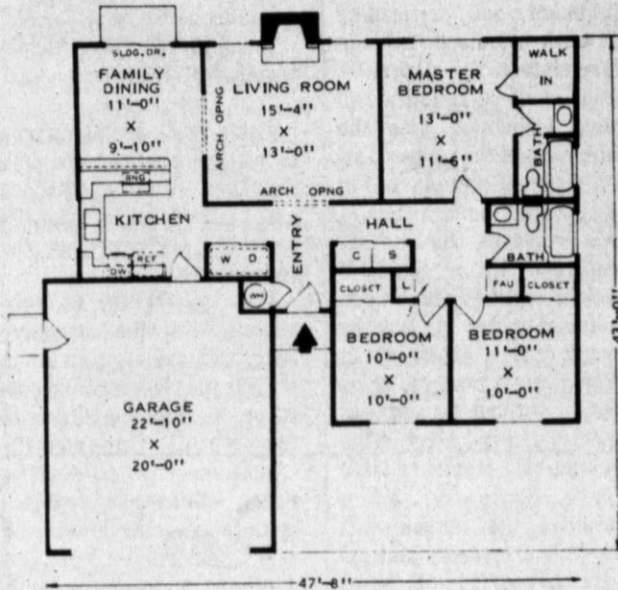

The master bedroom is a big one with a big walk-in wardrobe and a compartmented bath of its own. The main bath backs up to this one for maximum plumbing economy and both have outside windows. A rear location gives this room extra privacy too.

The other two bedrooms are comfortable too, both in size and in closet space. Note also the extra storage closet, and linen closet centrally located, just outside the door of each bedroom and master bath.

Good living is available too when this distinctive plan is chosen. This 1181 square foot home also has an optional basement available.
