Challenging directors and committee leaders to a year of dedicated effort, Bill Johnson formally took over the president's gavel of Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce during an installation dinner at Hereford Country Club Thursday night. Johnson, associated with Plains Insurance Agency, succeeds Tom Burdett as the chamber chief. Bob Sims, Tri-State Cattle Feeders, is the new vice president; and Irene McKinster, director of marketing at Hereford State Bank, is the new treasurer.

Four new directors were installed for three-year terms on the board. They are Bobby Owen, Danny Boyer, John Stagner, and Mrs. McKinster. Carolyn Canon, new Women's Division president was also introduced as a new board member.

The Rev. Doug Manning, pastor of First Baptist Church, was guest speaker for the event. Manning, who has served several years as co-emcee of the chamber's Fun Breakfast, titled his message, "Why I Love Hereford." He emphasized that people, with leadership, make a thriving community.

Before passing on the president's gavel, Burdett expressed appreciation for the opportunity to serve as C of C president and reviewed events of the past year. He praised Mike Carr, C of C executive vice president, and the office staff for their efforts and dedication.

Burdett recognized the four directors retiring from the board—Dr. Dennis Canon, Joan Coupe, Dr. Milton Adams and Earl Brookhart, as well as Ken Rogers, past president, and Betty Gilbert, past president of the Women's Division.

Mrs. Coupe served as treasurer the past year. All directors and their spouses were invited to the dinner. The new officers and directors will be introduced at the annual Chamber Banquet Feb. 11.

Slowdown 'Across the Board'

Wholesale Inflation Rise Low

By SALLY JACOBSEN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Inflation at the wholesale level increased 7 percent last year, marking the slowest rise in that measure since 1977, the government reported today. Analysts attributed the slowdown to abundant supplies of food, the worldwide glut of oil and the recession.

The 1981 rate — as measured by the Labor Department's Producer Price Index for finished goods — was well below the 11.8 percent in 1980 and 12.8 percent in 1979. The index rose 6.9 percent in 1977 and 3.7 percent in 1976, department figures show.

In explaining the easing of the wholesale inflation rate last year, the department said the slowdown was across the board.

"Energy prices advanced rapidly early in 1981, but then registered much smaller increases or moderate declines during the rest of the year," the department said. Energy prices soared 14.3 percent last year, under the 27.8 percent surge in 1980.

"Consumer food prices rose only 1.5 percent in 1981, following a 7.5 percent advance during the previous year," the department said.

The index for consumer goods other than food and energy also slowed last year, rising 6.9 percent rather than the 10.4 percent in 1980, the department said.

In December, the wholesale inflation rate went up a seasonally adjusted 0.3 percent, down from 0.5 percent in November and 0.6 percent in October. But it was ahead of the 0.1 percent of September and 0.2 percent of (See INFLATION, Page 2)

No Relief Seen From Blizzards

By ANDY O'CONNELL
Associated Press Writer

The second blast of arctic air in a week charged out of Canada today, promising no relief from severe winter weather that has killed at least 206 people and piled up snow in the South and the Northeast after twin storms.

Winds up to 100 mph in the Rocky Mountain foothills overturned two tractor-trailers Thursday, tore off an apartment building roof and brought unusually warm weather to Colorado, but forecasters said the balmy temperatures would drop sharply with the approach of the frigid air.

"The very strong arctic outbreak means we're going to be in the icebox for a couple of days," said Dean Nesley, a National Weather Service forecaster in Minnesota.

The South was hit with a storm Thursday that followed its twin by only a day. The second storm dumped up to a half-foot of snow on Southern cities that are usually spared the ravages of winter, then lashed highways and lashed Florida with gale-force winds that ripped down trees and damaged mobile homes.

It snarled attempts to restore electrical power to thousands of people and schools and businesses throughout the San Belt simply closed down, some for a third day, as the snow piled up on the roofs.

Like its twin, it then swung up the Atlantic coast and buried the Northeast under up to 4 inches of new snow, bringing the two-day accumulation (See STORMS, Page 2)

CETA Substitute Tentatively OK'd

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration is giving tentative approval to replacing the popular CETA program with a $2.8 billion job training program that would rely heavily on business-labor councils set up by governors with federal funds, labor sources say.

The new program would be accompanied by elimination of tax-free payments of the sort paid to the working poor who took subsidized jobs under provisions of the expiring Comprehensive Employment and Training Act — commonly known as the CETA program.

However, the sources said participants in the replacement program apparently would be permitted to continue drawing unemployment or welfare checks during their training.

What Labor Department officials describe as the "core program" would include $1.8 billion in direct grants to the states for job training, said the sources, who declined to be identified by name.

Several labor representatives were briefed by agency officials Jan. 6 on the broad outlines of the administration's proposal, which will be offered in the fiscal 1983 budget proposal.

The $2.8 billion would represent an increase of $400 million in the amount of money the administration previously was reported as willing to spend in fiscal 1983 for federal employment and training programs.

The nation's unemployment rate soared to 8.9 percent last month, with more than 9.5 million Americans out of work and an additional 1.2 million classified as too discouraged to look for jobs. A record 5.4 million people were accepting part-time work to make ends meet because they "couldn't find anything better."

While declining to comment on the new-jobs proposal, Labor Secretary Raymond Donovan told a group of reporters earlier this week (See CETA, Page 2)

In Case of Nuclear Attack

Hereford Crisis Relocation Site

By JERI CURTIS
Staff Writer

Although most average TV-watching, newspaper-reading Americans are probably sick and tired of hearing pro-nuclear this and anti-nuclear that, somewhere in the back of each mind is a silent "What if...?"

Then as an afterthought, "Nah, not here." Not here?

Although Hereford is not one of Texas' 31 main target areas of possible nuclear attack, it could be affected secondarily.

Look at the map. Prevailing winds into the panhandle come right from Clovis, N.M., the site of Canon Air Force Base. To the north is Amarillo, whose airport is a Category One target due to the nearby Pantex nuclear missile factory.

Not too far away is White Sands Missile Range, Tinker AFB in Midwest City, Okla., bases at Altus and Lawton Okla., and Wichita Falls.

Small towns in between should pray for no missed targets. But, even with major cities as high probability targets, the small towns, like Hereford, will be affected.

Picture it. The world political scene gets sticky and someone gets mad enough to use a nuclear weapon. Say they aim at the Panhandle.

Jack Beck, Radiological Defense Officer for the state health department, said if the global situation were bad enough, there might be a few days warning. If not, the warning might be as short as 10 to 20 minutes.

Beck said a three megaton bomb hitting the Amarillo airport would definitely destroy the airport and part of the town itself. If the bomb flashed in the air, then the only radiation would be from the explosion itself. Fallout — what the shelters are for — is formed only when the bomb hits the ground and explodes, radiating all the dust and debris.

As prevailing winds carry the fallout, townspeople are evacuated.

Deaf Smith County is assigned nearly 23,000 persons from Amarillo in case of a crisis in that city. "Crisis relocation" is a method of housing persons from a disaster spot to a safe area.

Ideally, as published in an inch-thick guide for local civil defense officers, the plan allows Hereford to double in population by housing Amarillians in "congregate care facilities" such as public buildings, businesses and schools.

"What they are basing it on is austerity," according to Don Goforth, civil defense co-ordinator for Randall and Potter Counties.

The feeling received when talking to almost any civil defense director, including Hereford's Jay Spain, is that one has to act like a crisis is going to happen, and with equal conviction feel that it's not going to happen.

"We worry more about our local disasters," says Spain. "We're more worried about blasting, train wrecks with cars carrying all kinds of bad stuff."

Meanwhile each county stays as prepared as possible for a disaster that nobody knows much about. Spain and his assistants have inch-thick booklets telling the ideal plan and chain of command. It has everything from traffic control to actual construction of fallout shelters.

But, as Goforth said "many, many things are not written." "What is a host city going to do with 50,000 more pets?" he asked. "You can't take them into the shelters, and nobody will want to leave them behind." "Very definitely there will be martial law," Goforth said. "Yes, there's going to be panic. The crisis relocation project has tried to reduce panic." "You know, when you get to thinking about all the chain of events it gets down to the law of survival, this is where it will be hard," Spain said. Ron Freeman, district RDO in Canyon, said a training drill earlier last year gave officers "a little insight," but added that he guessed "there's nothing like the real thing." The necessary planning on paper makes an impressive book report. In Hereford's booklet the proposed routes of traffic and assignment of relocated citizens is charted. The city is (See SHELTER, Page 2)

Haitian Invasion Fails; Exile Faces Fed Charges

MIAMI (AP) — A Haitian exile who masterminded a failed attempt to invade his homeland was being brought here today by the Coast Guard to be jailed on charges of violating the federal Neutrality Act, officials said. Bernard Sansaricq, 37, a gas station owner from Fort Lauderdale, and 25 followers were captured Thursday in the Windward Passage between Haiti and Cuba by the U.S. interdiction force — the Coast Guardsmen stationed in the Atlantic by President Reagan to turn back Haitian refugees.

They were put aboard one of the two cutters used by the force, along with their small arsenal of three rifles, a shotgun, two pistols, 15 pipe bombs and supplies for making bombs, the Coast Guard said.

The seizure took place 650 miles southeast of Miami. Sansaricq's disabled 45-foot sailboat boat, which he had chartered for the mission, was put in tow by the other cutter and both U.S. vessels were due here today, although they may be delayed by rough seas, the Coast Guard said.

"We authorized the Coast Guard to place (Sansaricq) under arrest based on information we have received," Brian McDonald, the first assistant U.S. attorney in Miami, said Thursday.

"We got an initial report that two of the people aboard were Americans," Chief Petty Officer Ray Baker said in Miami. "We're not able to confirm it because we want to wait until they get here and we can check their identification."

It is a violation of the Neutrality Act of 1974 to launch an invasion of a foreign country from U.S. soil.

Sansaricq's force of fellow Haitian exiles from Florida began landing last weekend on the island of Tortuga, the 17th century pirate haven off the northern coast of the impoverished nation. Their stated aim was the overthrow of the government of President-for-Life Jean-Claude Duvalier.

A U.S. Embassy official in Port-au-Prince, the capital, who declined to be identified, said he had reports from "Haitian government sources" that some of the early invaders remained on Tortuga and continued to fight. Some wounded were flown to Port-au-Prince on Thursday, he said, but there were no dead.

However, government television reported three captives "died of their wounds," and a State Department of (See HAITIAN, Page 2)

M.L. King Ceremonies Dampened

ATLANTA (AP) — Snowstorms blocked singer Harry Belafonte and former Vice President Walter Mondale from coming to Atlanta for ceremonies marking Martin Luther King Jr.'s birthday, but plans for a march today through the city's snowy streets were unchanged.

Organizers of the ceremonies also planned to hold an ecumenical service at Ebenezer Baptist Church, where the slain civil rights leader once was co-pastor. King would have been 53 today.

Houston Police Issue No-Insurance Tickets

HOUSTON (AP) — Police here have issued about 300 tickets for failure to comply with the state's mandatory insurance law since Jan. 1, authorities say.

About 40 citations a day have been written this week, said Barney Halm, assistant director and assistant chief clerk of the Houston Municipal Court. Almost all of the citations were issued to uninsured motorists involved in traffic accidents, department investigators said.

Although the Texas Department of Public Safety has set a 90-day grace period on enforcing the law which went into effect Jan. 1, the Houston Police Department has left enforcement up to the discretion of officers who deal directly with the public.

Acting Police Chief John Bales recommended officers not issue tickets to insurance law violators during the first 90 days. But Bales emphasized the recommendation was not a direct order.

Police spokesman Larry Trout said city attorneys told Bales he could not prohibit police from writing tickets since the insurance requirement is a state law and officers must enforce all state laws.

Union Official Says Pacts or Strike Near

HOUSTON (AP) — The district director of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers says if no contracts are signed with oil companies in this area soon, the union will have no choice but to strike.

"We can't wait a few more weeks to settle these things," H.J. McClain said Thursday of the local issues being debated at bargaining tables. "It's obvious that if we don't get a settlement within the next few days, we're going to have to either decide to strike or decide to sign a contract."

OCAW workers have been working under a contract extension since midnight Jan. 7. Tentative agreements have been reached between workers and Gulf, Amoco, Marathon and Cities Services since then.

Shell Oil spokesman Bill Gibson said Thursday "there was some movement today, but we still haven't decided when we'll get back to the bargaining table."

About 19,000 workers are represented by OCAW in Houston, with another 6,000 employed in Port Arthur.

Members of OCAW Local 444 are scheduled to vote on a contract proposal Friday at Amoco Oil and Amoco Chemical and Saturday at Marathon Oil in Texas City.

Prime Minister's Son Rescued from Sahara

TAMANRASSET, Algeria (AP) — Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher's son, rescued with his co-driver and mechanic six days after their car broke down in the Sahara, says he wasn't in trouble but "would have liked a couple of ham sandwiches now and again."

Unwashed and unshaven but fit, Mark Thatcher told a news conference at Tamanrasset's Tahat Hotel a search plane passed over them on the second day "but unluckily it was heading into the sun and did not see us."

An Algerian Air Force pilot spotted the trio and their Peugeot 504 Thursday near Algeria's southern border with Mali. Algerian border guards rescued them and they were flown 250 miles north to Tamanrasset, where Thatcher's father, Denis Thatcher, was waiting for him.

"All I need is a beer and a sandwich, a bath and a shave," said the 28-year-old racing driver.

Neither his 25-year-old French co-driver, Anny-Charlotte Verney, nor his mechanic, Claude Garnier, suffered any ill effects from their stay in the desert. But the flight made Ms. Verney airsick, and she was treated at the local hospital.

New C of C Directors

Four new directors were formally installed to the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce board during an installation dinner Thursday night at the country club. The directors, left to

City Police Probe Missing-Girl Case, Nab Shoplifting Suspect

Hereford police are investigating a missing person report of a Hereford High student who has not been home since Wednesday.

Authorities said Anna Gonzales, 406 Avenue I, a 16-year-old while female, went to a friends' house Wednesday and did not come home.

Police have a suspect in custody following a shoplifting incident at Taylor and Sons grocery, 105 Park.

Four juvenile suspects are being investigated in connection with the burglary of Playhouse Skating on Jan. 9.

Marco Romero, 118 Avenue G, reported to police that about $500 in cassettes and stereo speakers were taken from his car at Sugarland Mall. His car window was broken and the items taken while he was in the mall.

Larry Alley, 113 Northwest, told police that about $25 to $30 worth of complementary items from Hereford State Bank were taken from his car while parked at Shirley Elementary School.

Police checked out a possible burglary on Blevins where a resident's door was found open and a prowler call in the 500 block of Avenue K.

Six tickets were issued. Deaf Smith County deputies received a report of a gun stolen from a pickup.

Deputies are still investigating the theft of a bobtail truck from Frito Lay Wednesday night. Hereford police noticed the suspicious vehicle near Mooreman Manufacturing on South Progressive and when they tried to pull it over, two subjects fled across a field.

mapped out into four sections with congregate care facilities, registration centers, and evacuation route marked.

Further, the booklet lists individual congregate care facilities with the capacity, feeding facility and the actual number of persons assigned. Most are churches and schools. For example, Hereford High is assigned 2,183 of a capacity of 2,465. In addition to the public buildings designated, there are 12 pages of city businesses and buildings which could be used as surplus housing.

In another appendix is a list of feeding facilities with computations of total cooking capacity and actual meals required.

Then there is the elaborate list of fallout shelter facilities with numbers of existing spaces, total spaces after upgrading and how many cubic yards of soil would be needed to make the shelter safe from fallout.

For example, with 2,179 cubic yards of soil, Bluebonnet Elementary could safely house 2,771 persons from fallout.

Tab 2 to Appendix 6 shows a list of heavy equipment owned in the county. Tab 6 lists transportation resources. Although the "real thing" will trigger panic and there will be confusion, the tab assumes that cooperation can be attained because of public interest in civil defense during international tension.

It also assumes that the warning time before a crisis will be sufficient for a safe proper evacuation.

It assumes a lot of idealistic notions sorted into all brands of categories. All on paper.

Will it work? Like Goforth said, it's based on austerity. But it's there.

that he considers the CETA program to be a major failure.

He said only about 3 million people were placed in permanent jobs in the last seven years, even though the government has spent $53 billion on the various CETA programs.

Labor Department spokesman refused to discuss job training plans for fiscal 1983.

But union sources said the so-called "core" proposal envisions a program of direct grants to the states, which would likely be tied to job placement performance standards.

Governors apparently would set up business-labor councils focusing on job training for the hard-core unemployed between the ages of 18 and 25, many of whom are on welfare rolls.

Another labor source said the remaining $1 billion would finance, among other things, a program for "displaced workers."

The new program would seek to match people's skills with employers' needs, one source said. He said the retraining and relocation program would involve, for instance, finding a defense industry job for a skilled mechanic who lost his job in the auto industry.

August, the government said. If December's rate held for 12 straight months, the increase would be a seasonally adjusted 3.1 percent, department officials said.

Food prices in December picked up slightly, advancing 0.1 percent after falling in the three previous months, the report said.

Prices for fresh and dried vegetables shot up nearly 22 percent, reversing sharp declines registered in the three previous months, it said. Beef and veal prices were unchanged, but prices declined for pork, eggs, processed poultry and milled rice. Increases were recorded for refined sugar and soft drinks.

Energy prices climbed 0.7 percent last month, a little under the 0.9 percent gain of November, the report said.

Gasoline prices were down but home heating oil prices rose as did natural gas costs.

Prices for all other consumer goods were unchanged in December after an 0.8 percent pickup in the previous month, the department said.

All the increases are adjusted for seasonal variations. In all, the unadjusted producer price index stood at 275.3 in December, meaning that goods costing $10 at wholesale in 1967 would have cost $27.53 last month.

Storms

tion to 10 inches in New York City and dragging some states toward the bottom of their snow-removal budgets.

It forced many Northeastern schools to close Thursday — including 90 percent of the schools in Connecticut — and gave children who were off today because of the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr.'s birthday a four-day weekend to romp in the snow.

Like Wednesday's storm, Thursday's snow arrived in the Northeast in time for rush hour, but caused no repeat of the traffic jams because the snowplows were out in many cities and many cars stayed inside garages.

In the northern Midwest and as far west as Colorado, high winds and snow blowing down out of Canada were expected to cause a "rerun" of last weekend, when wind-chill factors hit 80 below in Minnesota, Nesley said.

The temperature was down to minus 8 in Chicago early today, but high winds made it feel like 31 below.

But on Thursday, after 6 inches fell on Jackson and prompted most businesses to shut down, people carrying cameras strolled through the city taking pictures of snow-covered buildings and lawns.

The snow in Alabama turned to slush but froze again as temperatures dropped into the teens Thursday night, forcing officials to close roads in the northern and central parts of the state.

Snow and violent storms gave Florida a bitter taste of winter Thursday, forcing public schools and state colleges to close and prompting the closure of three ice-covered bridges near Pensacola.

The Manatee County Sheriff's Department said high winds tore roofs from three mobile homes in the Tampa area.

Gusts of 59 mph were clocked at Miami International Airport, and flights were suspended. Gainesville wallowed in 2.79 inches of rain and about 10,000 homes and businesses lost electrical power.

Power outages, still affecting 186,000 homes and businesses in Alabama Thursday, were a severe problem in the unusually cold weather.

Parts of Georgia got up to 3 inches of new snow Thursday.

Deaths due to snow and cold have been reported in 29 states since Saturday.

recognize the contributions of Dr. King," said Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., in a speech Wednesday in Atlanta. "Martin Luther King's day must be a day for all Americans, for Martin Luther King's dream is the American dream."

Opponents say another paid holiday for federal workers would cost too much, and some Southern conservatives have questioned whether such a high honor is merited for King, who would become the first black to be commemorated with a national holiday.

The 10 states that celebrate full holidays for King's birthday are Connecticut, Illinois, Kentucky, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, Missouri, New Jersey, Ohio and Pennsylvania.

official in Washington said it had a report that five invaders had been killed and one captured.

The Haitian government information officer for the northern region said government troops captured three of eight men who landed Saturday, and took about 40 more prisoner Tuesday.

Journalists returning from the coast to Port-au-Prince said the curfew imposed by the government was lifted Wednesday night and all military activity had ceased by Thursday morning.

The government has prohibited journalists from visiting Tortuga itself, and has said little about the exiles' landing.

Thursday night, was reported stranded by snow in New York. The Atlanta Constitution reported that snow forced Mondale to cancel his plans to attend.

Although the ranks of supporters were thinned by storms that left 6 inches of snow in Atlanta, Coretta Scott King, King's widow and president of the Martin Luther King Jr. Center for Social Change, delivered a speech Thursday calling for extension of the Voting Rights Act of 1964.

She said the civil rights movement should resist "attempts to pit poor blacks against poor whites," and asked her audience to join a "coalition of conscience which offers so much hope for the world."

How fortunate we are to have a neighbor from Dimmitt serving as National Commander of the American Legion. It has been my privilege to meet Jack Flynt several times.

He is known throughout the Panhandle of Texas, and nationally, too, as a sagacious leader of the country's largest veteran's association. The nation's leadership develops and appears on the scene at its most needed moment. This does not occur by accident, and today is no exception.

Putt Powell's favorite statement was to the effect that the cream always rises to the top. There are leaders in politics like Kent Hance, in sports like Bill Yung, in religion like Jim Bakker, in business like Lee Iacocca, and in Veterans organizations like Jack Flynt, just to mention a few.

There are men of outstanding potential waiting in the wings like Bill Sarpius. Our state and our country need these people, and we should thank God for their leadership in center stage now, and those who are yet to serve their nation.

Polish Government May Hike Commodity Prices

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — The martial law government says it is sounding out public opinion on its plans to raise commodity prices as much as 400 percent and may reduce the increases if that's what the people want.

Zdzislaw Sadowski, deputy plenipotentiary for economic reform, told a news conference Thursday the government is also ready to revise plans to compensate consumers for the price hikes, Radio Warsaw reported.

Officials said two weeks ago they were considering increases for many basic foods — including quadrupled prices for beef and sugar — with "compensation" to cover at least part of the higher costs. Details of the compensation plan were not announced and no date was set for putting the new prices into effect.

"The decision to be taken in this regard depends on the outcome of sounding out public opinion, and at the moment I cannot foresee this outcome," Sadowski said, ac-ording to the report broadcast by the government radio.

"This applies not only to the size of the price rises, but also to the principles and size of the compensation. Personally, I strongly hold the view that as far as a rise in the price of food is concerned, the compensation ought to be a total one."

Food prices have always been subsidized by the government to keep them down, putting a severe strain on government finances. Attempts to do away with subsidies in the past touched off protests that forced the government to retreat, and meat price increases in 1980 set off a strike wave that turned into a nationwide movement for economic and political reforms and resulted in the formation of the independent trade union Solidarity.

The union's activities were suspended and many of its leaders were arrested when martial law was declared Dec. 13.

Pravda, the Soviet Communist Party newspaper, said price increases in Poland are "unavoidable." It said the national income dropped 15 percent last year.

80 Accidents Logged Here During 1981

In 1981, 80 of the state's 2,481 accidents investigated by the Texas Highway Patrol Troopers were in Deaf Smith County, according to Sergeant Billy Don Scott, county supervisor.

Deaf Smith had three fatal accidents killing four persons last year. Statewide there were 91 fatal accidents with a total of 104 persons killed.

Statewide there were 875 injury accidents with 1,426 persons hurt. In this county there were 29 injury accidents with 44 persons injured.

Property damage accidents for Deaf Smith County totaled 48 of the state's 1,515.

The Kerleys have been traveling, singing, and conducting services since 1965. They have recorded long-play albums, singing some of their own compositions.

They perform at banquets, youth retreats, youth camps, concerts, teach Creative Woman classes, speak and sing at church services, and have appeared many times on television. They have appeared on stage with Dale Evans, the Singing Rambos, and Nicky Criz.

The Kerleys are probably best known as founders and directors of Teen Round-Up, Inc. This is a retreat which they operate on their own 40-acre farm west of Duncan. Once a month bus loads of teenagers come for a time of Christian fellowship in recreation and youth-oriented services at their Big Red Barn.

Crowds of 300 to 2,000 gather there each month. A theme is chosen for each meeting with decorations, costumes, refreshments, and entertainment following the theme. At the conclusion of each program, the young people are given the opportunity to go to the "Prayer Garden" where a 70-foot lighted cross shines down.

There is a 300-foot railroad track with four box-cars and an 85-foot train coach which have been turned into dormitories and a dining car. Young people come from several states for retreats. A Bible Lands Miniature Golf Course is under construction.

The Kerleys also hold family seminars in several states. They were awarded the Liberty Bell Award in 1971 by the County Bar Association for work with young people in their community.

The Rev. Steve Bookout, pastor of the First Assembly of God, invites everyone to come out for the special services.

Ann Landers Provides No Incentive

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am 30 years of age and have one child, age three. Six months ago I left my husband. He was an alcoholic who became physically abusive and wouldn't seek help. Finally, I had enough.

I moved into my parents' home temporarily. After four weeks of looking for employment I finally applied for public assistance. Ann, I nearly died inside. No one can know the feeling without going through it. I was determined to get off the dole as soon as possible.

I hounded the employment agencies, watched the ads and left my name everywhere. Finally, I found a parttime job. Being an honest person, I immediately reported my earnings to the Department of Social Services. Guess what they did? Cut my grant by exactly the amount I earn. I understood that my grant would be reduced, but why should I work at all if I come out exactly the same as if I just sat on my butt?

Isn't there something wrong with a system that provides no incentive to work? No wonder this country is in a financial mess. Comment, please.—There's Got To Be A Better Way

DEAR BETTER WAY: You have just put your finger on one of the most critical problems of our time. And it's more than financial. It involves motivation, integrity and a government that implemented social programs

If anyone in Washington has anything to say, please write to me. I'll print it.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a college freshman who is worried about my roommate. He talks of death as a "welcome friend" because he can't bear all the terrible things that are happening in the world today.

This boy is bright and sensitive and very kind. Too good to be true, almost. Last week he had his third automobile accident within six weeks. This time his car was totaled. I'm afraid he is trying to kill himself. What can I do?—Dartmouth Worry

DEAR DARTMOUTH: Urge your friend to seek counseling at school. If he refuses, inform the counselor of this lad's depression. He must not be allowed to slip further away. Time is of the essence. Hurry.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I just had another exasperating experience on the phone with a motel telephone operator.

My husband is a traveling salesman and stays in motels often. Ninety percent of the time when I call him it takes at least five minutes before anyone answers. Then, when I ask for his room, they let the phone ring and ring and never come back on the line so I can leave a message.

Hanson To Speak For Fellowship

Al Hanson will be the guest speaker for the Saturday night meeting of Full Gospel Business Men's Fellowship International. After building a reputation as a dynamic business man, Hanson was prosecuted for two of his business deals and served a term in prison.

According to Hanson, it was through this prison experience that he became a dynamic born again believer in Christianity. He now aspires to moral Christian goals in his business deals and bases his economic predictions on Holy Scripture.

Active in prison ministries and advising in investments, Hanson claims that there is much more than finances to be gained from his advice. His investment analysis?—"Seek ye first the Kingdom of God, and His righteousness; and all these things shall be added unto you." Matt. 6:33.

The meeting will begin with a buffet supper catered by Caison House, which will be served from 7-7:30 p.m. in the Hereford High School Cafeteria. Cost for the meal is $3.75. The meeting and program will follow at 7:45 p.m.

SMU's Meyer Said Heading To Coach At New England

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

DALLAS (AP) — Ron Meyer, a young and ambitious coach who said he would only leave Southern Methodist University for a chance to direct a National Football League team, was to tell his squad today he is going to the New England Patriots, a source close to the school's athletic department said.

Meyer, 41, scheduled a team meeting at noon to announce he will replace fired Patriots Coach Ron Erhardt, the source said.

"Yes, I have been offered the job with the New England Patriots," Meyer told The Dallas Morning News on Thursday. "The decision is up to me. I'll make a decision within 24 hours."

SMU Athletic Director Bob Hitch, who said he had not spoken with Meyer, said, "any news regarding this situation will be coming from New England."

Meyer met with Patriots officials in New York Thursday, the source said.

"As of now, we do not have a press conference scheduled..." Tom Hoffman, director of media relations for the Patriots. "We can neither confirm or deny anything to do with the coaching situation... until we have the new coach signed and at that time we will make the formal announcement."

"We have said all along that we would like to name a new coach hopefully prior to the Super Bowl."

The Patriots previously were turned down by Southern California Coach John Robinson and Penn State Coach Joe Paterno as replacements for Erhardt, who led the team to the worst record in the NFL, 2-14, in the just concluded season.

Members of the SMU coaching staff told the Orlando (Fla.) Sentinel Star that Meyer met in New York with Patriots President Billy Sullivan, his son Chuck, the Pats' executive vice president, and General Manager Bucko Kilroy. Meyer was supposed to return to Texas immediately after the interview but made such an impression in the session that he was given the job, the newspaper said.

York checked into a New York hotel under an assumed name and met with Kilroy for several hours Thursday, hammering out details of a four-year contract for an estimated $700,000, the Sentinel Star said.

Only two months ago Meyer said, "I would not leave SMU for another college... but there is no secret about my ambition to coach in the National Football League."

In just six years, Meyer brought the Mustangs from a dismal 3-8 record in 1976 to the Southwest Conference championship with a 10-1 mark in 1981 and to their highest ranking in The Associated Press poll in 30 years.

But the 5th-ranked Mustangs could not play in the Cotton Bowl because they were on probation.

Meyer was 62-39-1 in nine seasons as a head coach, first at Nevada-Las Vegas and then at SMU. He coached UNLV into the 1974 Division II playoffs.

Meyer was a scout for the Dallas Cowboys and Gil Brandt, the personnel director who hired him, said, "I've been a Ron Meyer fan since I hired him... He is an extremely bright coach and will do a very good job... he is highly organized."

The source close to the SMU athletic department said Meyer was expected to take a number of his assistants with him to New England.

Speculation for his replacement has already centered around Cowboy's innovative assistant coach John Mackovic, who has spent a year under Tom Landry.

The Sentinel Star also said Nebraska Coach Tom Osborne would be considered for the SMU job.

Meyer began his SMU career with a pass-oriented attack, but switched to a running game out of the 1 formation when he recruited Eric Dickerson and Craig James. The two juniors both rushed for more than 1,000 yards last season.

"It's hard to believe but everybody around here expected it," James told the Dallas Morning News. "It's not the first thing to hurt us, but it's a loss, a big loss."

Fems Open Loop; Boys Test 'Cats

The Hereford Whiteface girls open District 4-5A basketball action against Lubbock High at home tonight in a 7:30 game at the La Plata gym. And, while the Herd fems open loop play, the Whiteface boys will attempt to de-rail the Dimmitt Bobcats in Dimmitt.

Hereford's girls own a 15-2 overall mark this season, with both of the losses at the hands of the undefeated Amarillo High Sandies. Lubbock High, on the other hand, is 2-17 for the year.

The junior varsity game will begin things at 6 p.m. tonight at La Plata.

Hereford's boys will be trying to figure out how to stop the Bobcats, ranked in the top 10 in Class 3A this year.

The Whitefaces will open their district slate on Jan. 26 at Coronado. The Herd will have 11 days off to get ready for the opening of loop action.

Mav, Dogie 9th Grade Fems Win

Darla Alford scored 20 points at the La Plata freshmen girls coasted to a 53-38 win over Canyon Purple at the HHS gym last night. And, while the Mavs were handling the Purple squad from Canyon, the Stanton Dogie girls mastered the Canyon White team by a 45-38 count at the Stanton gym.

La Plata and Canyon Purple fought to a 23-23 standoff in the first half of their game, but the Mavs opened up a large gap in the third period and rolled to the win. The victory moved La Plata to 4-2 in district play.

Connie Zinser backed up Alford's 20 points with 10 of her own, while Sandra Valdez tallied eight, and Troyce Schuder scored seven.

Kristin Walterscheid scored 16 points in leading the Stanton frosh to their win, moving the Dogies to 5-5 in loop action. Stacey High added 12 points to the Stanton total as well.

Bo May Be On His Way to Aggieland

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — Texas A&M officials say a decision is imminent by Michigan football Coach Bo Schembechler on whether he will accept a 10-year, $2.25-million offer to become the new A&M athletic director.

The Bryan-College Station Eagle Thursday quoted A&M Board of Regents Chairman H.R. "Bum" Bright as saying that Schembechler had been offered the job to replace Marvin Tate, who resigned in September.

"That's the job that's offered right now and he is considering it," said Bright. "I can only say that Texas A&M would be pleased and honored to have a man the caliber of Bo Schembechler, come to A&M."

Schembechler could not be reached for comment Thursday night and reportedly was huddled with Michigan Athletic Director Don Canham and university President Harold T. Shapiro.

the Lubbock High Westerners in the initial District 4-5A contest tonight, and HHS coach Larry Sowers can look to a balanced team effort if indications received from non-district play hold true.

The Herd, 15-2 on the year with both losses at the hands of Amarillo High, is averaging 61.5 points per game this season, while allowing opponents an average of 36.8 per outing.

The Whitefaces have tallied 1,046 points in 17 games, while allowing 626.

The starting five girls are complementing each other well this year, with no one sporting a scoring average in double figures.

Topping the squad is Lori Albracht, who has a 9.8 points per game average, slightly better than Joyce High's 9.6 mean. Albracht has scored 167 points this year, while High has 163. Third on the list is Cathy Lane (148 points-8.7) with Amy Schumacher (136-8.0) and Debra Rogers (127-7.5) rounding out the starters.

Sowers has had ample opportunity to give the reserve Whitefaces some valuable playing time as well due to some of the Herd's lop-sided victories.

Stephanie Foster has scored 72 points in 14 games for a 5.1 average, while Sherri Ellis has averaged 4.0 points per outing with 68 points in 17 games.

Rounding out the varsity are Cheryl Walterscheid, 16 games, 61 points, 3.8 avg.; Angela White, 12 games, 49 points, 3.3 avg.; Stacie Rhodes, 15 games, 43 points, 2.8 avg.; and Gail Bartels, 12 games, 25 points, 2.2 avg.

Schumacher, a 5-6 playmaker point who handed out 19 assists in the Herd's win over Tascosa Tuesday, surprisingly is also the team's top rebounder. She has 83 caroms in the Herd's 17 tilts, one ahead of Rogers, who has 82.

Lane has 64 rebounds on the year, while Albracht has 37, and High 28. Rhodes leads the reserves with 35 caroms.

Schumacher also leads the team in both field goal and free throw percentages. She is shooting 44.9 percent from the field (53-118) and 72.7 percent from the charity stripe (32-44).

Albracht is second in field goal percentage with a 44.5 mark (73-164), and also second in free throw percentage with a 67.7 mark (21-31).

As a team the Herd has connected on 47 of 1,041 shots from the field (41.9 percent) and on 170 of 291 free throws (58.4 percent).

Albracht's 59 steals through 17 games is tops on the team, while Schumacher has 48, and High has 43. Schumacher's 108 assists is far ahead of High's runner-up total of 63.

The Whitefaces are expected to dispatch the Westerners with relative ease tonight, and will head to Lubbock next Tuesday for the first loop showdown with Monterey.

Through non-district play Monterey amassed the best record with an 18-2 mark, while Hereford was second at 15-2. Coronado owns an 11-9 non-loop mark, while Lubbock High stands at 2-17, and Plainview is 12-10.

Gophers Change Game Strategy

By BARRY WILNER AP Sports Writer

A change in strategy might lead the way to the change in the rankings that the Minnesota Gophers feel is warranted.

Minnesota, 10-2, and rated 11th, beat No. 5 Iowa 61-56 Thursday night in a battle of Big Ten powers. The Hawkeyes, also 10-2, led by two points at halftime, but Minnesota went to a man-to-man defense rather than a zone and that turned the game around.

Now, Gophers Coach Jim Dutcher wants to see the rankings turned around.

"It was a game we wanted and a game we needed," said Dutcher. "They are ranked fifth and that's where we feel we should be ranked."

"I was really pleased with way we played the man-to-man. I thought we played a great defensive second half. I thought our man-to-man really shut them off."

Randy Breuer, the Gophers' 7-foot-3 center who led the way with 22 points, agreed with his coach after Minnesota's first home victory over Iowa in four years.

"The zone wasn't doing it for us," said Breuer. "We had to go to the man-to-man and it picked up the tempo and they couldn't keep up."

"I felt the momentum shift when we went to the man-to-man," added Minnesota's Trent Tucker. "I said to myself we're going to roll now."

Both teams now stand 2-1 in the Big Ten.

"They played a very strong defense in the second half, especially in the man-to-man," said Hawkeyes Coach Late Olson. "We weren't surprised they came out in it but we couldn't handle it."

"Our shot selection wasn't the greatest and Randy was intimidating inside," added Iowa's Kevin Boyle, who had 10 points, four fewer than teammate Kenny Arnold.

In the decisive second half,

Iowa shot only 37 percent, while Minnesota hit on 58 percent of its shots.

In other contests involving ranked teams, it was No. 3 Virginia over Wagner 99-67, No. 16 Wichita State beating Creighton 69-56, and 18th-ranked Tulsa topping Drake 71-54.

Top Ten
A 21-2 burst in the first half propelled Virginia past outmanned Wagner. Craig Robinson, playing without one of his contact lenses, had a career-high 24 points for the Cavaliers and All-American center Ralph Sampson chipped in with 12.

"Robinson was excellent tonight, especially on his second and third efforts around the basket," said Virginia Coach Terry Holland. "He's had stretches of shooting like that from the outside, but that's not where he is most important to us. He does his work for us inside."

Second Ten
Wichita State, playing its first game since being placed on a three-year NCAA probation, was tied 30-30 with Creighton at the half. But guards Tony Martin and Aubrey Sherrord paced the Shockers in a 16-5 burst in the first six minutes of the second half.

Cliff Levingston led the Shockers with 17 points.

Freshman Steve Harris came off the bench to hit six of eight field goal tries and a pair of free throws, his 14 points keying the Tulsa triumph, its 25th straight at home.

Part IV

Finding Creative Solutions To Education Crisis

EDITOR'S NOTE - Many schools see the current era of cuts and austerity as just a crisis. Others see it as an opportunity - to save money creatively while not eroding educational quality. This last part of a four-part series looks at how California has become a pacesetter in creative solutions to financial cuts.

By BOB EGELKO Associated Press Writer SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) - Three years ago when Proposition 13 passed, California's schools got an early taste of the financial problems that school districts around the country now face.

But the resulting austerity also forced some California schools to become the nation's most enterprising penny pinchers. Laguna Beach parents are being asked to pay their schools the $10.99 it costs in state aid for every unexcused pupil absence.

In San Jose, a student "energy commission" staged an 11 p.m. "raid" on a high school and found lights on in empty classrooms.

In affluent Hillsborough, a sophisticated fund-raising drive collected $330,000 from townspeople to reopen school libraries and save the jobs of six teachers. At Simi Valley High School in Ventura County, there is a one-night-a-week bingo game which school officials hope will provide athletic teams with new equipment.

These and other school districts are managing to scrape by with an assortment of money-raising efforts.

But in dozens of other California districts, and in big cities and less affluent communities especially, the financial troubles run too deep to be offset by even the most creative fund-raising. Many California districts have had to shorten school days, cut programs and lay off teachers, nurses and cafeteria workers.

"There's no way that fund-raisers or foundations are going to substitute for a need for a sound financial base under education," said Don Russell, superintendent of the Mount Diablo Unified School District east of San Francisco, which has had to increase class size this year, impose fees for busing and cut back numerous services.

Financial necessity is spurring invention in other school districts around the country. A New York City community school board is running a weekly flea market to hire music, art and French teachers. A South Carolina school on Sullivan's Island is using a $350,000 federal grant to convert to solar power.

Ravenna, Ohio, school officials are thinking about exploring for oil and gas on about 100 acres of school-owned land.

Players and coaches at Kansas City high schools work at concession stands at Kansas City Chief football games to raise money for school football.

But in California, the need for schools to be innovative was earliest and perhaps deepest. Proposition 13, which slashed property tax revenues by more than half, was passed by voters in 1978 and effectively stopped the state and local governments from raising other taxes to fill the resulting $6 billion revenue gap.

A $6 billion state surplus cushioned the impact for a while, but now that money has been exhausted. Still some educators see the state's money shortage as an opportunity.

"I think there's been a real benefit, the enthusiasm and support for public schools," said Bronte Reynolds, superintendent of the 300-student Montecito Union Elementary School District in Santa Barbara County.

Reynolds' district is one of several affluent areas around the state where private, non-profit foundations have sprung up in the last few years, asking parents and local businesses for tax-deductible contributions for heating and cooling. In San Jose, an official of the 2,000-student East Side Union High School District is enthusiastic about the energy-saving program that the schools started after Proposition 13.

By steps as simple as removing unneeded lights, turning thermostats down and consolidating the times swimming pools were used, the schools saved about $695,000 this year.

Some of the more creative measures have come from student commissions established at each school, who were shown the schools' utility bills and told that any money they could save would go toward their education, said energy coordinator Bill Baker.

He said students conducted energy audits, issued "tickets" with 50-cent fines for teachers who were repeated energy-wasters, and made an unannounced 11 p.m. "raid" on one school, where they found many lights burning. After a letter to the administration, a second raid four weeks later found only a quarter as many lights on.

Other districts are trying to use political clout to cut energy bills. The Los Angeles Unified School District plans to join with other large districts to seek rate reductions from the Public Utilities Commission, on the premise that schools, unlike businesses, can't pass along rate increases to customers, said spokesman William Lucas. He said that strategy has worked for schools in Las Vegas, Nev.

Some districts, such as Santa Clara, have balanced their budgets by selling or leasing unneeded school buildings. Since 85 percent of school budgets go for salaries, many schools are trying to use volunteers for jobs formerly done by paid staff.

Saratoga High School on the San Francisco Peninsula had to fire all its guidance counselors after Proposition 13, but Principal Tod Likins says parent volunteers and a newsletter on colleges and jobs have been an adequate substitute.

FAITH WILL PREPARE YOUR CHILDREN FOR TOMORROW

our children need to learn faith in God, as well as the basic skills of life. As the opening of the school season draws near, remember that it is also time to begin or resume their spiritual education; to fortify them for the time when you may no longer be on hand to guide and protect them. That a large segment of our young people have never learned goodness for its own sake is tragically evident in the almost daily accounts of juvenile wrongdoing. Children are not born with this knowledge; they must be taught it. Enroll your children in Sunday school, and set your own good example for them by the way you conduct your life, and by attending your Church.

"Train up a child in the way he should go: and when he is old, he will not depart from it."
— Proverbs 22:6

"This education forms the common mind: Just as the twig is bent the tree's inclined."
— Alexander Pope
