Congress finishing spending legislation

WASHINGTON (AP) - The government is operating through Monday under a temporary money bill while Congress finishes work on long-term spending legislation — and President Reagan tries to reverse his defeat on tax revision.

A government shutdown today was avoided Thursday night, when Congress extended the government's spending authority until 6 p.m. Monday. The House and Senate also extended the 16-cent-a-pack cigarette tax, the dairy price support program and current Medicaid reimbursement levels, all due to expire this week, in anticipation of permanent bills early next week.

Without action, the cigarette tax would have dropped to 8 cents and dairy price support levels would have soared.

Congress is eager, to break for the holidays and was shooting for adjournment this week. But the spending bill must be finished first. The legislation is needed because many the regular appropriations bills have not been passed and signed by the president.

House and Senate negotiators abandoned efforts to meet the midnight deadline with a long-term bill after they were unable to resolve differences over spending by the Defense and Interior departments. The four-day extension was then quickly approved and sent to President Reagan, who said he would sign

The administration, handed a stinging defeat Wednesday when only 14 House Republicans voted for the tax overhaul bill, lobbied hard Thursday to gain enough votes before Congress departs.

However, the president and his top aides appeared to gain only a few pledges of support. Some of those were on the condition that Democratic leaders reverse themselves and agree to open the bill to amendment on the floor.

Deaf Smith receipts soar to $335 million

County No. 1 in ag sales

With a big boost from the cattle Swisher, Parmer, Castro and Moore feeding industry, Deaf Smith County soared to the top again as the No. 1 county in the state in crop and livestock receipts last year.

Deaf Smith had a total of $335.4 million in receipts, while Hidalgo County was second at $305.4 million. Castro and Parmer counties ranked third and fourth with $181.6 and $175 million, respectively.

The statistics, prepared by the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service, showed that Deaf Smith soared from $243 million in 1983 to $335.4 million in 1984. The livestock total jumped about $84 million and crops were up by $8 million.

Livestock receipts in Deaf Smith jumped from $192.7 million in 1983 to $277 million, while crop receipts went from $50.3 to $58.5 million: Deaf Smith repeated as No. 1 in livestock receipts in the state by a large margin--$108 million ahead of second-place Gonzales County.

Hansford, in the Panhandle, was fifth in livestock receipts, while total crop and livestock receipts with $9.5 billion. California was first with ranked 7th through 10th, respective-

Castro County ranked fourth in the crop receipts, behind Hidalgo, Hale, and Fort Bend counties. Hidalgo led in the crops value with $284.9 million. Castro totalled $96.7 million in crop receipts. Lamb and Parmer counties ranked 7th and 8th in crops, while Floyd was 10th and Deaf Smith 11th.

The state of Texas was second in more than $13 billion. Texas was No. 1 in livestock receipts, however, with $5.9 billion and fourth in crop receipts with $3.6 billion.

While Deaf Smith's big jump in total receipts was largely attributed to the cattle feeding industry, the crop marketing total was also up by $8 million. The vegetable industry helps in this county, with some area counties having just three cropswheat, corn and grain.

A preface to the report notes that 'since cattle and calves move from county to county ... a value is assigned for a calf raised to weaning, a value for raising to feedlot placement, and a value for feedlot gain."

Since this is a farm marketing repor, the figures do not reflect the value added by meat processing. The report reflects the prices paid to farmers and livestock producers, not

Arctic air threatens to freeze as far south as Rio Grande Valley

By The Associated Press

Arctic air roared into Texas today on the heels of a winter storm, sending the mercury plunging and threatening to spread sub-freezing weather as far south as the semitropical Lower Rio Grande Valley.

The National Weather Service issued a freeze warning for tonight for the Winter Garden, coastal bend and Lower Rio Grande Valley area. Temperatures are expected to dip to near freezing in the Valley.

Temperatures at the freezing mark would not seriously harm the valley's citrus crop, still trying to come back after a disastrous freeze in 1983, but could harm some of the area's vegetables.

Citrus industry officials say temperature must dip to at least 27 degrees and remain there for several hours to cause damage to citrus fruit and trees.

The leading edge of the frigid air pushed across the Panhandle, South Plains and western portions of North Texas early today. Temperatures plunged into the teens and lower 20s in the area covered by the frigid air.

Lows tonight will range from near 10 in northwest sections of of North Texas to near 20 in southeast portions of North Texas. Lows tonight in West Texas will range from near 10 in the Panhandle to the mid 20s in Southwest Texas. In South Texas, lows tonight will range from the upper teens in the Hill Country to near freezing in the Valley.

The Arctic air moved into the state after a winter storm moved across much of West Texas and veered northeastward out of the state after reaching western portions of North

Some snowfall was reported in western sections of North Texas, but the storm veered away from the Dallas-Fort Worth area late Thursday. Only some freezing drizzle, sleet and snow flurries were reported in the heavily populated area.

Forecasters had expected several inches of snow to fall after a bout with freezing rain and sleet, but the fierce storm never materialized.

A travelers advisory was in effect early today for northwest sections of North Texas, including the cities of Wichita Falls, Abilene and Gainesville. The travelers advisory for other portions of North Texas was canceled early today.

The area covered by the travelers advisory was north of a line from Sherman to Eastland to Ballinger.

There was enough freezing rain, sleet and scattered snow to snarl traffic and close some schools, mainly in the Fort Worth area, early Thursday.

At about 9 p.m. Thursday, the National Weather Service downgraded a winter storm warning for the area to a travelers advisory for nothern and western North Texas.

"It couldn't be worse," said meteorologist Bill Alexander with the weather service in Fort Worth after the early morning weather caused problems.

The first weak wave of the front hit much of Texas about 6 a.m. or right on cue for rush hour. By 7 a.m., Fort Worth police had responded to 80 accidents and stopped answering calls without serious injuries. In Dallas, police had worked 83 accidents by 9:30 a.m., most between 7 and 9 a.m., officials said.

But Thursday evening, rush hour didn't quite turn into the chaotic maze officials expected. In Fort Worth, police dispatcher G. Johnson said there were some problems in the city's south, but she said no major accidents had occured and only patches of ice were being reported.

Medical bills burden couple

Mr. and Mrs. G are a young couple working hard to make ends meet. Their youngest child has a heart condition and has already had one major surgery. The medical bills are staggering and more medical treatment required.

The Gs are just thankful this Christmas that their child is with them, but it is difficult to explain to the other children that there will be no Christmas for them. Clothing is what is needed most.

It is families such as this that the Christmas Stocking Fund of Hereford is attempting to help at Christmastime. Thanks to the generous and sharing citizens of Hereford, a number of needy families will have a brighter Christmas.

Contributions to the CSF can be made at the Hereford Brand office, 313 N. Lee, or mailed to CSF, Box 673, Hereford, 79045. CSF is a nonprofit organization, formed by an anonymous group of men, and all donations are used to help families. There is no administrative expense.

A screening committee will determine how the funds are used, with special attention given to the most needy families.

Hereford's claim of being the "Cattle feeding capital of the World" is no idle boast. Figures released by the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service reveals Deaf Smith County is way ahead of second-place Gonzales County in livestock receipts.

The Deaf Smith total on livestock sales is a whopping $277 millionputting the county $108 million ahead of the runner-up county.

With the big increase in stock receipts in 1984, Deaf Smith went to the top again on total ag sales of crops and livestock. With Castro County in third place and Parmer in fourth, we have a real "Golden Triangle" in the Panhandle of Texas.

One-pound baby home from hospital

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — A 1-pound, 1-ounce premature baby born with only six tablespoons of blood has survived and gone home with her mother, officials at Medical Center Hospital say.

The infant was delivered Aug. 13 and is the smallest ever to be born and survive at the hospital, records show.

The baby, Christina Miracle Girela, left the hospital Wednesday with her mother. The infant weighed 4.5 pounds.

The mother, Patricia Girela, 21, said the baby's name means Christ in a miracle.

$1 million safecracking rink broken

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston police have discovered a safecracking ring believed responsible for the theft of more than $1 million in cash and other items in Texas and Louisiana.

The ring, believed to involve as many as 20 people, may be the largest in Houston history, police said. A special Harris County grand jury has issued sealed indictments against the ring members, but their names have not been released. Members of the ring would break into a business after dismantling alarm systems, then go through a roof or an adjoining building, said Houston police Sgt. T.G. Turner. Once inside, they would pry safes open or take smaller safes with them. Turner said the burglars monitored police radios to keep track of law enforcement officers and used their own two-way radios to communicate with lookouts posted outside the buildings being burglariz-

Three found slain in apartment

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) - A brother, sister and another man were found bound and shot to death in the woman's northside apartment and detectives had no trace of a motive, police said.

The victims, identified as Eva Dominguez, 31, her brother, Robert Ornelas, 32, and Jesse Sada Riveria, 49, all suffered single bullet wounds from a large caliber gun in the side of the head, the medical examiner's office said. Medical Examiner Roy Aguilar said the three had been dead at least eight hours when discovered by Ruben Ornelas, another brother, about 7:15 p.m. Thursday in the northside apartment.

Homicide detective Bob Urban called it "the most grisly multiple murder" he'd ever seen.

President lights Christmas tree

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Reagan, officially launching the holiday season with the lighting of the national Christmas tree, used the occasion to urge Americans to unite as a family and reach out to the persecuted.

The president, standing with his wife Nancy at the White House south entrance, pushed the button on a switchbox that lit is 30-foot Colorado spruce several hundred yards down a slope on the grassy Ellipse. A crowd estimated at 12,500 cheered Thursday as the tree's ornaments twinkled red and gold for the conclusion of the evening's "1985 Christmas Pageant of Peace."

Before lighting the tree, Reagan delivered a short speech about the gift-giving spirit of the holiday, inspired by the "pure, perfect and sure" generosity of God.

"If each of us could give but a fraction to one another of what He gave to the whole human family, how many hearts could heal, how much sorrow and pain could be driven away," the president said as his wife Nancy stood at his side with her new dog, Rex, clutched to

Mechanic saw problems with jet

SAN DIEGO (AP) - A mechanic who says he worked on the jet that crashed in Newfoundland, killing all 258 people aboard, says he wouldn't sign a maintenance log last summer because he thought the plane was unsafe.

"The particular aircraft was in pretty poor shape at the time," said Randy Stirm, who said he was working for ServAir, a maintenance subcontractor, when he worked on the four-engine Arrow Air DC-8 at McChord Air Force Base in Tacoma, Wash.

Stirm, now employed by Pacific Southwest Airlines, said the plane was experiencing compression stalls in its No. 3 engine, caused by malfunctioning bleeding valves. The condition can cause a buildup of fuel and result in an engine explosion in flight, Stirm said.

Africa radio accuses U.S. of hypocrisy

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) - Government radio today accused President Reagan of "sheer hypocrisy" for singling out South Africa's system of white privilege for condemnation in a speech on human rights. Meanwhile, a parents' support group reported that youths who are among the nearly 9,000 people detained by police this year in an effort to control anti-apartheid protests have suffered beatings and

"incalculable" psychological harm while in jail. The South African Broadcasting Corp. said in an editorial that the United States conducts trade with the Soviet Union, which South Africa says has a far worse human rights record. "While punitive measures have been instituted against South Africa, and this country is condemned at every turn, the United States associates and trades freely with countries curtailing democratic freedoms and even with those actively working for America's downfall. To many South Africans, this is nothing short of sheer hypocrisy," the radio said.

It was responding to a speech Reagan made at the White House Tuesday to commemorate Human Rights Day.

Spy questioning begins in Israel

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) - American investigators began questioning Israeli officials Thursday about the case of Jonathan J. Pollard, a civilian U.S. Navy intelligence analyst accused of spying for Israel, a U.S. official said.

In a related development, a senior Defense Department official in Washington was quoted as saying the United States had cut back on intelligence sharing with Israel until the Pollard investigation is

The New York Times in its Friday edition quoted Richard L. Armitage, assistant secretary of defense for international security affairs, as saying, "In some areas there has been a slowdown in intelligence cooperation - not in vital areas. And we're waiting the results of the Pollard fact-finding investigation."

The newspaper said Armitage stopped short of linking renewed U.S. intelligence sharing with Israeli cooperation in the investiga-

Lawmakers also were working to find agreement on the farm bill and on a separate budget package designed to save $80 billion in the next three years.

The farm bill negotiations moved forward Thursday in a hard-fought area when Senate negotiators voted 6-2 to accept a House-offered package dealing with subsidies and price support levels for wheat and corn through the end of the decade.

Under the proposal, the per-bushel income subsidy levels for those two crops would be frozen at current levels for the next two years, then be reduced in small increments in each of the following three years. Income guarantee levels in 1990 would be about 90 percent of current targets.

A separate House-Senate conference committee has labored all week on disputed portions of a bill designed to reduce deficits by about $80 billion in the next three years. The bill would commit Congress to making the spending cuts and tax changes envisioned in the budget passed last summer.

President Reagan on Thursday signed a balanced-budget bill that would force even further cuts, including up to $11.7 billion this fiscal year. The so-called Gramm-Rudman amendment calls for budget deficits to be reduced in stages to zero by fiscal 1991.

Soon after Reagan made the bill law, Rep. Mike Synar, D-Okla., filed suit in federal court to block the measure's key provision - that the spending cuts take place automatically if Congress and the president fail to perform the task.

The suit contends the automatic cuts would violate the Constitution's separation of powers, because congressionally appointed officials would be dictating executive-branch actions.

Search begins for cause of jet crash

GANDER, Newfoundland (AP) -Searchers recovered flight recorders and the bodies of half the 258 victims from the sparsely wooded hills where a DC-8 packed with U.S. soldiers crashed and exploded, but said determining the cause of the tragedy still may be "time-consuming."

The four-engine jet crashed early Thursday seconds after takeoff from this airport on Canada's Atlantic coast. Aboard were troops of the 101st Airborne Division, returning home for Christmas after a six-, from a helicopter tour over the site, month tour of duty with the multinational peacekeeping force in Egypt's Sinai Peninsula.

Horrified airport employees watched the pre-dawn sky light up with the explosion minutes after they had chatted with the U.S. soldiers, heard them singing Christmas carols in the terminal and directed them onto the Arrow Air charter.

"There was a flash, just like a sunburst," said Judy Parsons, a car rental agent who witnessed the crash from the Gander parking lot. "It lasted for just two seconds and then I heard an explosion."

Canadian Transport Minister Don Mazankowski said the plane climbed no higher than 1,000 feet before crashing. Transport Canada spokesman Bruce Reid, returning said there was no suggestion that the jet exploded in flight.

"Where it came down, it obviously exploded on impact. Everything in the area is charred," he said. "It's not nice to look at."

The crash littered the sparse, hilly landscape 1,200 feet from the runway's end with Christmas gifts, weapons and smouldering debris.

A makeshift morgue was erected next to a body of water known as Deadman's Pond.

Officials said there was no indication what might have caused the Abilene, Amarillo, Kerrville, Lubbock, Midland, Ozona, Tyler and Brownwood were among the cities reporting ice on roads and bridges Thursday morning.

FIRST UNITED METHODIST CHURCH

Choirs and congregation, who will all join in the Christmas music, are expected to fill First United Methodist sanctuary Sunday evening for the annual Service of Carols and Candles, beginning at 7 p.m. The public is invited to take part in the worship hour.

It will be followed by an informal social period in the church fellowship hall, where a Christmas tree will be trimmed. Each family is invited to bring ornaments which they may hang on the tree. Each family is also to bring cookies which will be served with the drinks provided by the church.

The Jubilate Ringers, a ladies' bell choir, will play Christmas Bell Fanfare at 7 p.m. as a prelude to the invocation by Helen Langley, the narrator who will read Bible passages between the musical selections. Children's, youth and adult choirs will enter to a processional hymn, O Come All Ye Faithful.

Each choir will be heard in a song, directed by John Avery, minister of music who will lead the congregation in familiar carols. A Litany of Love, written by Jeanine Avery, will be read. Youth of the church will enact the Nativity in a tableau.

Closing the service as it does each year, will be the lighting of candles held by all members of the congregation, starting with lights taken by the acolytes from altar candles and spreading over the darkened sanctuary. Dr. J. Weldon Butler, pastor, will give the evening prayer and the benediction.

Accompanists are Elaine Calkins, organist; Tina Langehennig, Frances Parker and Donna Ruland, pianists for the children's choirs.

DR. GOTT

DEAR DR. GOTT - What tests do they do on a CBC, and what can they tell from a Liver Panel A test?

DEAR READER — CBC means
Complete Blood Count. It includes counting the number of red corpuscles in a small quantity of blood. The white corpuscles are also counted and divided into groups by category. Also recorded are the size of the red cells and whether all the blood cells appear normal under a microscope

The Liver Panel A is not known by that name in every hospital. It may be called a liver screen, liver profile, liver battery or liver chemistries. Regardless of name, the purpose of the test is to evaluate liver function by measuring several compounds in the blood. These usually include the transaminase, alkaline phosphatase and bilirubin; other components (such as CPK and gamma-GT) may be added to the liver screen. Other variations may exist from laboratory to laboratory

Liver panels can indicate various types of liver disease; however, more extensive tests - like scans and liver biopsies - may be necessary to establish the exact causes of malfunction.

DEAR DR. GOTT Several months ago the doctor put me in the hospital. He said my blood sugar was way out of line, and that my cholesterol and tryglycerides were very high. My right side, under my breast and back up to my shoulder blade, is excruciatingly painful and itchy. One doctor said it was from the high cholesterol and triglycerides. Another doctor says it's arthritis. They've given me pain pills, Flexirol and a salve, but no go. Is there a doctor who specializes in this type of problem?

DEAR READER — I think you have diabetes. The pain you describe could be due to a host of causes. There are doctors who specialize in diabetes. and I believe you could be helped by seeing one. Ask your doctor for a referral

Meet Your Neighbor

By CINDY SMITH Staff Writer

Patrick Noel Walsh, pastoral counselor of St. Anthony's Church, is an old-newcomer and an Irishman by all rites. He's back in Herefordo some because he pastored at St. Joseph's about 20 years ago. To all he's an Irishman - he was even born

'Queen Elizabeth, many centuries ago, said these blarney men have a gift of using words to deflect a decision that would be harmful to them. Blarney men are men of flattery and good will," he chuckled, beaming at the thought of it.

Father Pat, or "the Kennedy" as many of his former parishoners know him, was an assistant to Father Raymond Gillis of St. Josephs's Catholic Church.

"There we built a hospital, a clinic, and a school out at the labor camp. We brought a convent and also housed 30 young women, college students, who would volunteer their time to help minister to farm worker families throughout all of the Panhandle," explained Father Pat.

Hereford at this time was three times the size it is now. "We swelled between 35 to 40,000 people because of the farm workers coming in," he

He also reminded that the crops back then were also picked by hand. "So you can imagine how many people there were, and there was a need for our kind of work."

That kind of ministry seems fitting to his priesthood order.

'We're Franciscans," commented Father Pat, "Franciscan meaning close to the earth, natural."

He's a very peaceful person and explained that being a Franciscan is a natural and peaceful way of life.

"It's a way of life, a way of appreciating all the things God provides. It's the love of creation itself and having the ability to recreate," says Father Pat, "the ability to appreciate the little things in life and not take anything for granted.

"Being a Franciscan means having a love for those the world considers to be helpless, the losers, the abandoned, and especially the men and women who are most out-casted--they are our friends.'

We always think of gift-giving, but let's give gifts in a different way this year," said the father.

"The gifts I mean are life-giving gifts. These gifts are forgiveness to your enemy, tolerance to your opponent, give your heart to a friend, give good service to a customer or client, be charitable to all men and women, be a good example to every child in Hereford, and please-give the gift of respect to yourself!" urged Father Pat. "These are fine gifts indeed, for Christmas."

After leaving Hereford two decades ago, Father Pat went to Canada and worked toward his counseling skills.

"Primum no nocerey," says Father Pat in Latin, then tranlating it. "You never hurt anybody, and you never harm anybody. This is the first rule of pastoral counseling in the Catholic Church."

Revealing how dedicated to his people Father Patrick is, he explained that his training taught him to refer cases to other professionals if he is not able to help them.

"That's humility is what it is," he commented, "seeing yourself as you really are and that allows you to help people better than if you don't see yourself like you really are."

Father Patrick said the first step to helping ourselves is to first love

"God expects us to do this. If I cannot love myself, I can't love my neighbor, and I cannot love my God," he explained.

"We take so many things for granted, the husband takes the wife for granted, and they take the children for granted, without regar-

"Christmas breaks this up," he said, "a little child comes before us and allows us again to experience joy, happiness, and gives that special up-lift you get when someone that loves you gives you a gift."

He stressed that Christmas brings a new life into the family. "Into the mother and father, into their relationships, and allows us again to have the experience of newness and growth and also allows us to have a new respect for one another," he

"It is Christmas that allows us to be brothers and sisters of God in the way we lead our lives," explains Father Pat.

"Especially for me, Christmas is the candle that is lit in the window to welcome the Christ child and Mary into our homes.

"Remember the light of the way... it's a custom in the Irish-American culture to have these candles in our windows, symbolizing Mary on her journey looking for a stable, looking for a home to have the Christ child in," illustrated Father Pat. "These lights used to signify that the inn had a vacant room.'

What does the father do with himself when it's not Christmas? He practices what he's learned through years spent counseling. He's really a father who's practiced what he's

He rids himself of stress by physical exercise. He's a fish when in the water and admitted that swimming was the best way to relieve tension and stress for him. "I usually swim to take out stress... right now, I take out my stress in physical things such as washing cars--just anything physical," he said. He explains that some people have to use a physical release for their emotions and cautions that one cannot perform well on the job if he doesn't release that tension. The father said it was part of taking care of the body which God dwells in.

"I mainly just do the ordinary pastoral job of taking care of the people in the church," said Father Pat of his daily routine.

Father Pat is a marriage counselor and generally focuses on everybody taking care of mental, spiritual, and physical needs.

As a hobby, the father especially enjoys names and finding out the meaning of them.

"Identifying names is what the name means," says Father Pat, "it helps me get to know people when I find the meaning of their names."

Residnets might not recognize Tobacco Road

Lester, a poor sharecropper, and his family - wife Ada, daughters Pearl and Ellie May and son Dude are the bleak characters in Erskine Caldwell's "Tobacco Road," which painted a scathing picture of ignorant and amoral sharecroppers during the Depression.

The novel, set in east Georgia, shocked and embarrassed residents of the Augusta area when it was published 53 years ago.

Although there is a Tobacco Road in Richmond County, some Augusta residents insist that Caldwell wrote the novel based on his memories of Wrens in Jefferson County, a farming community southwest of Augusta, where Caldwell lived as a Others believe Caldwell was writing about farmers in Burke County, located on Richmond County's southeast border.

"He located that book on Tobacco Road, but it could have been about people anywhere," said Augusta attorney Glenn Nixon, whose family has owned property along Tobacco Road since the 1920s. "Some of the things Caldwell refers to in the book were owned by my family."

Tobacco Road, now anchored in southwest Richmond County by Bush Jeeter Lester made futile attempts to grow cotton on his small farm. The only reminders of the area's agricultural past, a John Deere tractor dealership and a "Sher-cropper" Restaurant, are being squeezed out by several middle-income housing developments, 11 churches and machinist was hospitalized after he was attacked by a Doberman pinscher guard dog chained to a house near a salvage yard, authorities said.

Henry Miller, 88, of New Caney, was listed in satisfactory condition Thursday at the Veterans' Administration Medical Center.

He suffered puncture wounds to his nkles, feet, legs and arms after the Tuesday afternoon incident.

The dog that attacked Miller was chained to a house in front of an auto salvage yard.

The dog's owner, Ed Vanden, said the animal "was just doing his job. He was chained in my private yard and the man must have taken a shortcut through my yard to get to the salvage yard. He was talking to me about getting a gas tank and the next thing I know, my wife was beating the dog off of him."

The animal was being held for rabies examination until Dec. 20.

Although Vanden has not asked that the animal be destroyed, Vanden's wife, Marlene, said she did not want the dog returned.

A PROTEIN

BARTLESVILLE, Okla. (AP) —
Nearly everyone has heard of rubber trees and sunflowers, but what is a protein plant?

For Provesta Corp., it's a factory where high-quality protein is produced. The protein plant produces a single-cell protein that is used as an animal feed ingredient and, eventually, may be suitable for the human food market.

Most school children can tell you two negatives make a positive, but few can name the man who first said so. It's said to have been John Lowth who first laid down that rule of grammar in 1762.

'Chevy man' collects rust in big way

GREENVILLE, Texas (AP) -Keith Pope is a farmer, a regular job holder and something more unusual - a collector of antique farm equip-

The long road down to the Pope place, east of here just off Interstate 30, is covered in white rock. Dust spews up in angry resistance to passing tires. Thoughts of the movie "Giant" creep into the mind. Holstein cows with wide eyes line the south fence, expressing unsophisticated curiosity.

Pope's wife, Karallu, greats the visitor, curbing an old blue heeler hound that is defending "his" place. "Keith and Levi are down in the field," she says.

"I'm supposed to go down and br-Why don't we get in the '30 Chevy truck and go down and get them?"

The truck is a beauty with a natural wood top - the original still intact. Inside is room for two and there are a lot of strange knobs and buttons. It takes a few minutes for the farmer's wife to find the choke, but then the problem of how to crank the truck is solved and the '30 Chevy starts right up.

About a half-mile away in the field, Pope is plowing and 5-year-old Levi is forging through the big plowed chunks with another dog.

Bumping along on the trip back to the house, Mrs. Pope relates the story of the 1930s truck: "We were married in January of 1977 and took our honeymoon at our relatives in Missouri. We saw this old truck which a farmer there had bought new and used on his farm. We couldn't afford it then. "Later, in 1983, I called the man, bought the truck, and presented the title to my husband for his birthday. This is our favorite piece. It only goes 35 mph, but that's great for us we use it to haul grain in from the fields where we use our antique combine. We also haul hay we bail with out late '30s Ann Arbor bailer."

One of the odder antiques in the Pope collection is the "Go-devil" which is implanted in the flower bed at the front door of the house. Levi the funniest minutes I ever lived jumps on the instrument - a through," Pope said with a grin.

'Poor' woman's will stirs up trouble

DALLAS (AP) - When Gary Joe Lewis visited Elizabeth Tietze, he only hoped to buy property owned by the aging woman.

Instead, Lewis found a friend in the sweet, slightly eccentric lady who kept her dearest belongings in a paper bag and never let it out of her

Lewis may also end up with more than $100,000 for his friendship.

The seemingly impoverished Dallas woman left behind a handwritten will and addenda bequeathing $5 million - one that includes Lewis.

Whether anyone will get to keep any of the fortune is currently being debated in a Dallas probate court after several cousins of the woman contested the will.

Shirley Smith, a friend who was put on the witness stand to answer questions from the crowd of lawyers, suddenly burst into tears.

"I'm sorry," she said, "but I feel like nobody's shed a tear for Mrs. Tietze."

The woman lived in an aging house in East Dallas, a house she apparently let no one enter. She was usually seen in one of two dresses and tennis shoes and went about in public dirty from her frequent yardwork, acquaintances said. It's even possible the 73-year-old woman took a meal or two from charities. But she made friends in recent years, largely through business. Someone would get interested in buying one of her properites and come to talk to her about it. The elderly widow with no children was usually glad for the company. She warmed to people who took an interest in her, even if it started out strictly business. In return, they warmed to her.

"When I'd call, she'd ask that I bring her a pimiento cheese sandwich, a Dr Pepper in a bottle. Sometimes, she'd ask for a Twinkie," said Lewis, who first dropped by in 1984 to inquire about some warehouse property he was interested in and that was listed on the tax rolls as owned by Mrs. Tietze.

They first met on the front porch of her home, he told the Dallas Morning

Later, she'd send flowers from her home garden to Lewis' wife. She visited his home once. Soon he found himself taking her on errands, helping her with some remodeling work and bringing her lunch.

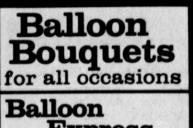

One day over a cheese sandwich, she told him that she wanted him and his family to have something, Lewis said. She handed him a handwritten codicil to her will. She gave him and his family $150,000. He tried to give it back, he said, but she insisted.

Meanwhile, some of Mrs. Tietze's residential properties were redtagged by the city as candidates for demolition due to disrepair.

Mrs. Tietze, whose wealth stemmed from inheritance and investments, died of a heart attack in June. She was living in a rooming house nearby, rent-free.

Her friends didn't know she was rich - 11 pieces of property, some residential, some warehouse buildings - valued on tax rolls at $1.5 million, plus another $3.5 million tucked away in various bank accounts around town.

Retirement!

RETIREMENT noun the act or condition of retiring; withdraw or remove.

George Washington once said, "Retirement is as necesary to me as it will be welcome."

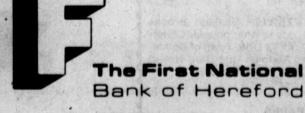

When you think of retirement; images of sleeping late, going fishing, or unlimited travel probably come to mind.

At First National Bank, we want you to be able to enjoy your retirement. That's why we suggest an I.R.A., or Individual Retirement Account. With an I.R.A., the money you deposit is free of federal income taxes, along with the interest, until you retire. It's an excellent way to supplement your social security.

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) Gov. George Nigh says money is being pumped into the state's coffers all the time, he isn't kidding. Oklahoma's Capitol sits directly over an oil field, and at one point had two dozen producing wells on its grounds.

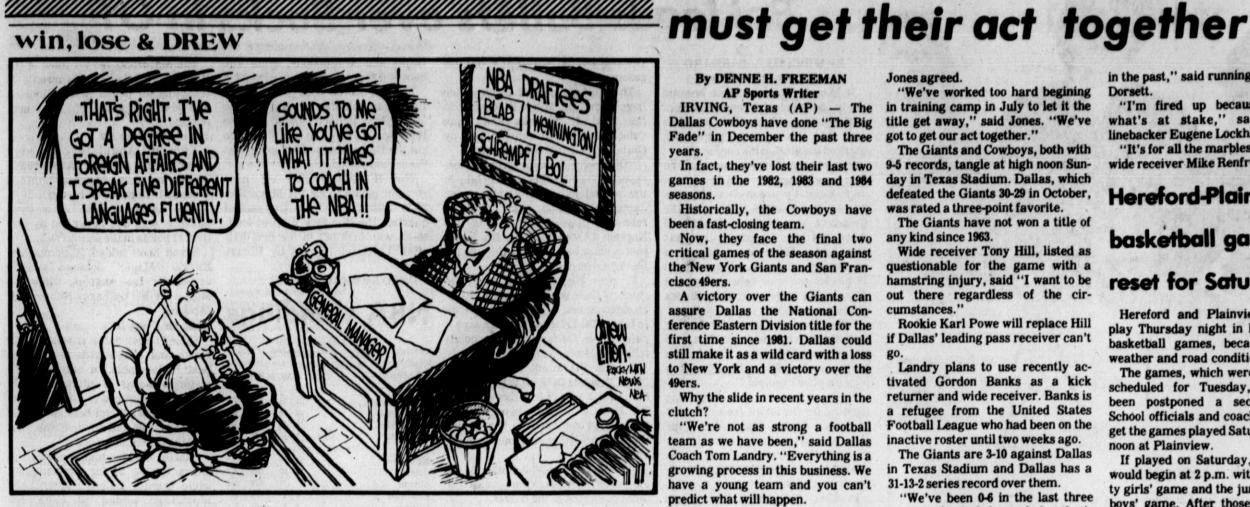

Millions of barrels of crude have been produced since drilling began Nov. 10, 1941. But much of the oil has been depleted and currently Capitol Site No.

Yankees, White Sox play 'Let's Make a Deal'

Baseball meetings conclude

By BEN WALKER

AP Baseball Writer SAN DIEGO (AP) - The New York Yankees and Chicago White Sox, locked in a game of "Let's Make A Deal" for several weeks, finally landed lesser prizes on the final day of baseball's winter meetings.

But the Thursday swap that sent pitcher Britt Burns and two minorleaguers to the Yankees for pitcher Joe Cowley and catcher Ron Hassey was not the big deal both teams hoped to make.

"There's a possibility this could lead to another trade," White Sox General Manager Ken Harrelson

That other deal would send Chicago catcher Carlton Fisk to New York for designated hitter Don Baylor. But Chicago is still trying to sign free agent Fisk, who wants a three-year contract, and the Yankees are still trying to get Baylor to drop his no-trade clause, which he might do for enough money. Baylor reportedly also wants a $1 million a Fisk and Baylor are both represented by Jerry Kapstein, and Harrelson said the agent effectively has the trade on hold.

"You have to follow his lead, and that's what we're doing," Harrelson

The Yankees-White Sox deal, along with a transaction that sent Mike Stenhouse from Boston to Minnesota for a minor-league pitcher, brought the trade number to 12 and the players moved to 26 during the winter meetings.

There had been speculation that, because of changes in trading deadlines, that action would be slow here. But there were two more deals and one more player traded than last

The official business of the meetings ended Thursday. And the final day also produced a few more trade rumors.

Kansas City had been working on a trade that would have brought outfielder Chili Davis from San Francisco for pitcher Mark Gubicza, outfielder Pat Sheridan and a top minorleague pitcher. But snags developed and it was called off.

Cincinnati, having acquired John Denny on Wednesday, tried to pry Mike Krukow from San Francisco and Montreal's Bill Gullickson.

Baltimore was talking about sending reliever Sammy Stewart to Boston for shortstop Jackie Gutierrez. That deal may still be possible.

In the past, the end of the meetings was the deadline for interleague trades. But, that rule has been changed and teams are now free to trade without waivers through July

'We've been working on this thing for over two months," Harrelson said after the Yankees-White Sox trade. "We finally got it done."

Along with Burns, the Yankees acquired minor-league shortstop Mike Soper and outfielder Glen Braxton.

By trading Cowley and Hassey, the Yankees were temporarily left thin in the catching department. Butch Wynegar is a free agent and two others, Scott Bradley and Juan Espino, have only brief major-league

But New York Manager Lou Piniella said that situation would be solved soon, although he did not mention Fisk by name. The Twins sent Mike Stenhouse, a power hitter in the minors who has not done well in the majors, to Boston for pitcher Charlie Mitchell. Last month, the Red Sox also traded away Mitchell's brother, John, also a pitcher, to the New York Mets.

Hereford-Plainview basketball games reset for Saturday

Hereford and Plainview did not play Thursday night in high school basketball games, because of the weather and road conditions.

The games, which were originally scheduled for Tuesday, have not been postponed a second time. School officials and coaches hope to get the games played Saturday afternoon at Plainview.

If played on Saturday, the action would begin at 2 p.m. with the varsity girls' game and the junior varsity boys' game. After those games, at the respective courts, the varsity boys' contest and junior varsity girls' game would be played, at about 4 p.m.

At the Hereford Brand's press time, there was no word on whether tonight's HHS basketball games against Caprock would be postponed.

The schedule for the games is 6 p.m. for the varsity girls' and junior varsity boys' games, and 7:45 p.m. for the varsity boys' and junior varsity girls' games.

MISSION, Kan. (AP) — The sidewinder or soccer style of place-kicking in major college football has really taken over.

According to the NCAA, of the 117 kickers in major schools in 1985, only nine were old-fashioned straight-ahead booters. The remaining 108 were soccer-style kickers.

That was a dramatic jump in one decade. As recently as 1975 slightly more than one-third of the major school kickers were soccer style, the rest were straight ahead.

Bol leads Bullets over Bucks in OT

By WILLIAM R. BARNARD AP Basketball Writer

If Manute Bol goes on to become one of the greatest defensive players in the history of basketball, it will be said that this was the game that marked the start of his career.

Put into the starting lineup for the first time Thursday night because of Jeff Ruland's injured ankle, the 7-foot-7 Bol blocked 11 shots in the first half of a National Basketball Association game against Milwaukee. He went on to post a season-high 18 points, a team-record 12 blocks and nine rebounds as the Washington Bullets edged the Bucks 110-108 in overtime.

"That was the most dominating performance by one player I've seen this year." Milwaukee Coach Don Nelson said of Bol, whose previous high for points was six.

Even without Bol, the game was exciting for the small crowd of 4,643 at Capital Centre. The Bullets' Cliff Robinson hit two baseline jumpers in the final 10 seconds of overtime, the second breaking a 108 tie with one second remaining.

In other NBA games, it was New Jersey 108, New York 85; Chicago 106, Philadelphia 102; Houston 123, Dallas 120: and Los Angeles Lakers 127, Phoenix 102.

Rockets 123, Mavericks 120

HOUSTON (AP) - Houston is the only team in the National Basketball Association that is unbeaten on its home court and all-star center Akeem Olajuwon says the win streak gives the Rockets added incentive.

'We play harder because we have something to protect. We're the only team in the NBA that is undefeated at home, and we feel that we have to protect that," Olajuwon said Thursday after scoring 27 points and grabbing 15 rebounds to lead the Rockets to a 123-120 win over the Dallas Mavericks.

The Rockets needed three clutch free throws by Mitchell Wiggins in the final 41 seconds and some outstanding fourth quarter play by Olajuwon to defeat the Mavericks.

"Olajuwon played a great game, especially down the stretch late in the second half," Maverick center James Donaldson said. "He's a relentless type player. He is like Kareem (Abdul-Jabbar). His teammates know he will come through for them, and he does."

It was Wiggins who gave the Rockets their winning margin. After Houston scored eight straight points to take a 120-118 lead. Wiggins sank a pair of free throws with 41 seconds left to put Houston ahead by four.

Rolando Blackman, who scored 16 of his 21 points in the fourth quarter, then sank a pair of free throws to cut the Houston lead to two. Wiggins then added another free throw with four seconds left to put Houston up by

The Mavericks had a chance to tie the game, but Blackman missed a three-point shot at the buzzer.

Dallas, 11-11, lost for the fourth time in its last five games and played without its leading scorer, Mark Aguirre, who was ill.

But the loss of Aguirre didn't hurt the Mavericks, according to Donaldson.

"It didn't bother us, we just came through with a greater effort. Jay Vincent, Sam Perkins and Blackman all came through and played great," Donaldson said.

Some legislators have suggested recruiting problems might be solved by making it a violation of state law for such practices as alumni paying recruits. But White says that's going overboard.

"I would like to think that in the area of sports, that the state wouldn't have to involve itself in this matter. I don't want to be diverting our attention from the more serious criminal activities we have in the state." White said Thursday.

"I would hope the NCAA could police itself and set tough enough rules to see that there would be no violations. To me, that makes more sense," he said. "I think they're the appropriate forum, and I think we ought to give them time to take such

In three-way tie for AFC East lead

Game against Bears crucial for Jets

By BARRY WILNER AP Sports Writer

Dan Hampton not only is preparing to play the New York Jets this Saturday, he's expecting to see them in the Super Bowl.

Mike Ditka, who coaches the Chicago Bears for which Hampton is an All-Pro defensive lineman, also wouldn't mind if his team and the Jets meet in the National Football League championship contest.

First, though, the 13-1 Bears journey to Giants Stadium for a nationally televised game with the 10-4 Jets. Chicago already has clinched the home field advantage throughout the playoffs. The Jets could take a gigantic step toward qualifying for the postseason parade, as well as the AFC East crown, with a victory over the Rears

"I'm convinced they are the finest team in the AFC East and that's a tough division," said Hampton. "I think these are the people we'll probably see in the Super Bowl."

Ditka, a protege of Jets Coach Joe Walton when Ditka was a tight end at the University of Pittsburgh, admits he's sort of rooting for the Jets to prosper in the AFC.

"I hope it would be us against the Jets in the Super Bowl," said Ditka, whose team built a 12-0 record before losing to Miami, then edging Indianapolis last week. "I'd love to just get there. I sure wouldn't mind if Joe got there too." Walton isn't even thinking about the playoffs or the Super Bowl just yet. The Jets almost certainly must win one of their last two games they finish at home with Cleveland to get into the playoffs, and they figure to need a pair of wins to capture the division crown.

Walton knows just how tough the Bears will be, even though Chicago has nothing to gain in Saturday's matchup, which will be aired on NBC at 12:30 p.m. EST.

"Remember, they are coming to New York and they want to impress all you guys," Walton said to a full house of reporters at a midweek news conference. "We have to concentrate on Walter (Payton, who has rushed for at least 100 yards in nine consecutive games) and stop his running. But they have a great balance, they have guys who can get deep. McMahon is a good quarterback with scrambling ability.

"They're as good as anybody we

Also on Saturday, the Denver Broncos will try to keep their playoff hopes intact when they host the Kansas City Chiefs.

On Sunday, it's the New York Giants at Dallas; Seattle at the Los Angeles Raiders; Buffalo at Pittsburgh; Cincinnati at Washington; Green Bay at Detroit; Houston at Cleveland; Indianapolis at Tampa Bay; Minnesota at Atlanta; San Francisco at New Orleans: Philadelphia at San Diego, and St. Louis at the Los Angeles Rams.

On Monday night, New England is

In baseball and softball, it is illegal to run the bases in reverse order. If a player has already reached second base safely, and then overruns second base backwards to avoid being thrown out, it is against the rules for the runner to go back to first base. In other words, there is no stealing of first base within the rules of the at Miami in a key AFC East contest.

The Broncos, 9-5 after a 17-14 overtime loss to the Raiders last week, must win their final two games to have a chance at the playoffs. Even doing that doesn't ensure a playoff berth.

Denver can win the AFC West title with two victories, coupled with a pair of losses by the 10-4 Raiders. Denver can also be a wild-card by winning twice and having the Jets, Dolphins or Patriots (all 10-4) lose

If Dallas beats the Giants, it clinches the NFC East title. If the Giants win and the Redskins lose, then New York has the division flag.

Seattle must beat the Raiders to remain in contention for the playoffs, while the Raiders will win the AFC West with a victory over the Seahawke

Cincinnati is tied with Cleveland atop the AFC Central and no wild card team will come from that divi-

In the NFC West, the Rams will be champions with a win or a 49ers' loss on Sunday. The Rams already have clinched a postseason berth as a wildcard.

The winner of Monday night's game will take a giant step toward the AFC East crown. New England hasn't won in Miami in 17 years.

White says principals should support rule

By MICHAEL HOLMES Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN (AP) — The first worry of high school principals should be education, not politics, Gov. Mark White says of reports the principals may organize their first political action committee.

"I would hope they wouldn't because I think they would hurt themselves," said White, who pushed the controversial no-pass, no-play rule and other school reforms through the Legislature in 1984.

He said principals should support no pass, no play, the rule that prohibits students from participating in any extracurricular activity for six weeks if failing any course.

"They should be working towards providing the educational leadership in the classrooms for your young students - to let them know that work must be done before play begins, that reading is more impor-

"I would hope that would be the common goal we share together," White told his weekly news conference Thursday.

Harold Massey, executive director of the 3,500-member Texas Association of Secondary School Principals, this week said principals are considering forming their first political action committee to back candidates who support their views.

Principals are considering the move because of frustration over their inability to win what they see as improvements in school reform laws, including an easing of the nopass, no-play rule and changes in disciplinary provisions, Massey said.

"School administrators are seriously concerned over the refusal of the state's top political leaders to consider any improvements to the reform law," Massey told The Dallas Morning News.

The principals join coaches in pondering political action. The Texas High School Coaches Association is scheduled to discuss making political endorsements next year at a meeting

White, who has steadfastly refused to consider any changes in no pass, no play, said school officials ought to be more concerned with educational achievement.

"The principle is work before you play, and I guess they're going to have to be in that position," he said.

Noting that 85 percent of varsity athletes passed all their classes during the first six weeks of the fall semester, White said he isn't convinced coaches oppose the no-pass, no-play rule.

"I would like to think the coaches were providing the leadership that made possible the 85 percent success rate ... I would like for the rest of the school system to copy what the varsity coaches did around the state," he

U.S. firing Russian embassy employees

WASHINGTON (AP) - In a security move, the Reagan administration is replacing about half the Russian drivers, guards, mechanics and other workers at the U.S. Embassy in Moscow with Americans.

Similar changes will be made at the U.S. embassies in Eastern Europe, also to counter a "hostile intelligence threat," the State Department said Thursday.

Officials said privately, however, that the Russian workers do not have access to U.S. secrets and already are "hermetically sealed" in the embassy's ground floor.

The cutback was demanded by some members of Congress and initially resisted by the department as unnecessary and expensive. The Russian employees are useful for their language fluency and access to Soviet travel and other services, officials said.

"Some of the congressmen don't seem to realize that," said one official, who spoke only on condition of anonymity.

"They all have to be considered as potential Soviet agents, but they have no access to secret information or to the places where it's stored," another U.S. official said.

About 100 Soviet workers at the Moscow embassy will be replaced, the officials said.

The security move was announced by department spokesman Charles Redman in response to questions prompted by a Los Angeles Times report that President Reagan had ordered the elimination of all Soviet nationals at the embassy, the U.S. consulate in Leningrad and at U.S. embassies in the Eastern bloc.

Redman said Secretary of State George P. Shultz had authorized the gradual replacement of a "substantial" number of the Soviets at the Moscow embassy and fewer in Leningrad and elsewhere.

"The Department of State has long been active in efforts to take strong and practical steps to counter the hostile intelligence threat against our embassies abroad," he said.

About 200 Soviet nationals work at the U.S. Embassy in Moscow and 29 in Leningrad. A second U.S. consulate may be opened soon in Kiev.

On a related subject, the spokesman refused to say whether Shultz would submit to the liedetector tests ordered by Reagan for thousands of U.S. government employes with access to top secret

Transvestite babysitter gets life sentence

DALLAS (AP) - Giving a life sentence to a man who posed as a woman babysitter and plunged a 4-month-old into scalding water shows "an expression of community outrage," a prosecutor said.

Richard Arthur Gilbert, a 29-year-old transvestite who said he accidentally spilled hot water for pasta noodles on the child, was sentenced Thursday to a maximum life in prison and fined $10,000 after the jury deliberated less than an hour.

He was convicted of injury to a child on Wednesday. The infant later died of his injuries.

"I think it was an expression of the community outrage - that a person like this could prey on the community," said prosecutor Rider Scott.

Jurors wept with the parents of the child in the Dallas courtroom as the punishment was announced. A finding by jurors and State District Judge Jack Hampton that a deadly weapon — the scalding water — was used in the crime mandates that Gilbert serve at least 20 years of the sentence, Scott said.

The baby later died of his injuries.

Gilbert's attorney, Russ Henrichs, said the verdict would be ap-

The seven-man, five-woman jury deliberated slighly more than an hour before finding Gilbert guilty of holding the infant the hot water at the home of Vera and Andrew Baker, where he was babysitting. The Bakers have declined to comment on the trial's outcome.

Defense attorney Henrichs argued that Gilbert, whom one defense witness described as a "clumsy klutz," accidentally spilled the water on the baby Sept. 26.

Gilbert testified Wednesday that the scalding was not intentional, and said, sobbing, that he was "hysterical" after the child was hurt.

But prosecutors relied on the testimony of three doctors with experience in treating burn victims who said forced-immersion burns, such as those on the Baker baby, look different from those of accidental splash burns.

Scott suggested in his final argument to the jury that the scalding may have been prompted by Gilbert's desire to cover another injury to the child. He has been indicted in a separate case on charges he sexually assaulted a 2-year-old boy while babysitting in East Dallas.

Investigators and the Bakers said Gilbert identified himself as

"Jean Gilbert" and posed as a woman throughout the three months he worked in the Bakers' home.

EDINBURG, Texas (AP) - A former school teacher accused of participating in an international drug-smuggling ring probably was lured to the drug trade because of easy money, a government agent said Thursday. Juan Frank Garcia, 35, was one of 44 people named this week in a 109-page indictment alleging that the drug ring brought into the United States more than a quarter-million pounds of marijuana in the past five years:

members, including a 79-year-old uncle, also are among those indicted.

Garcia is a former migrant school teacher and high school football booster who arranged to have topless dancers at a party for coaches. But he's also a convicted drug felon and an alleged abductor who is on the run.

"I don't know why John Frank Garcia got into this title to Ignacia Payan, the business, but probably for the mother of Juan Jose profit ... and the excitement," said Ken Miley, a Drug Enforcement Administration agent in McAllen.

The indictment against Garcia and others grew out of a large-scale investigation called "Cash Crop."

The probe was instigated two years ago by the Organized Crime Drug Enforcement Task Force Program created by President Reagan to break up major narcotics rings.

The alleged drug ring was Several of his family said to have started in 1980 and involved the importation of narcotics from Mexico into the Rio Grande Valley and other parts of the United States.

> Garcia "was certainly in the upper echelon of the organization here in the Valley," Miley claimed.

In 1983, Garcia had purchased a residence in Humble, Texas, for $383,000 in cash and had transferred the Quintero-Payan, 37, and Emilio Quintero-Payan, 32.

The Payan brothers are uncles of Rafael "Caro" Quintero, the reputed Mexican drug kingpin who has been jailed in connection with the kidnapping and slaying of DEA agent Enrique Camarena.

The Payan brothers are accused of making large cash deposits in American banks and providing marijuana for Garcia.

Garcia and two others, Jose F. Muniz, 35, of McAllen, and James Fox, the former president of Metropolitan National Bank in McAllen, are accused of participating in the transactions Garcia and Muniz also are charged with conducting a continuing criminal enterprise and that they supervised aspects of the alleged drug trafficking operation.

Miley said the DEA knows Garcia's whereabouts.

"He is in Mexico. That's what our intelligence sources tell us," Miley said.

The charges against Garcia are not the first alleging wrongdoing. Garcia, up until 11 years ago, was a teacher at the Donna Migrant Junior High School. He began teaching there in 1972. A year later, he earned a bachelor of science degree from Pan American University. By December 1974, he told Donna school officials he wanted to quit his job to continue his education.

"He was a very nice gentlemen. He was always a real clean-cut, neat person," said a secretary at the Donna Indpendent School District who did not want to give her full name.

Three years later, Garcia would be serving time for conspiring to possess with intent to distribute marijuana. He was sentenced to five years in prison and served about two years.

According to authorities, Garcia later got involved with the Payans and they provided narcotics and he .ade transactions in the United States for them.

In April 1984, $500,000 worth of gold coins Garcia claimed were his were stolen from an Edinburg residence.

Garcia, soon after the burglary, began running ads offering $20,000 and later $50,000 for the return of the coins.

A month later, Garcia Thursday.

allegedly kidnapped Hector Alaniz and Angelita Garcia and forced the pair to fly him to Fort Worth. The two, who had been arrested in connection with the burglary, escaped and returned to the Valley and filed charges against Garcia. In the summer of 1984, authorities seized $6.8 million Garcia had in two Houston bank accounts. Federal officials subsequently have seized other assets, stock in Garcia's investments, a city block in Edinburg, two nightclubs in Edinburg, property in Montgomery County and gold coins. In December 1984, Garcia arranged for topless dancers to be present at a party for Edinburg High School coaches.

School officials and businessmen attended the party and when it was reported a month later. school officials said those present, including a university president, were victims of circumstances.

In late January, Garcia was given an award by the Edinburg High School boosters for donating $500 to the organization.

By February, he was coming up for trial on the aggravated kidnapping charges. He had been released on a personal recognizance bond.

Robert Yzaquirre, Garcia's attorney, did not return calls to The Associated Press on $11 million is currently society, it was exclusively the Texans who fall victim to crime, according to state officials.

The money comes through the Crime Victims Compensation Act, a law that took effect in 1980 to help ease the financial stress imposed on crime victims.

The funds help make up for lost earnings, pay medical bills, provide for counseling and other services. The Industrial Accident Board, which administers the law. can award up to $150 per week, with a maximum award of $25,000 per claim.

The funds are collected in the courts by assessing additional court costs on convicted criminals.

Gov. Mark White said Thursday that the board paid more than $7 million in benefits to 1,257 victims and their families during the 1985 fiscal year.

AUSTIN (AP) - A total of "For too many years in our our attention. All too often, the victim of crime was neglected or forgotten,' White said.

"Today in Texas, we are doing something about crime. We are doing something about criminals, and we are doing something for crime victims." Two victims of crime join-at the University of Texas. was shot in the back in 1982 and spent 11 months in the hospital. He received more than $20,000 from the fund and said it eased the financial strain on him and his family.

"I spent about a year in the hospital, so you can imagine the financial burden on my parents. It was a big help. he said.

The Newspaper BIBLE

LIFE BEGINS AT 80!

One day as Moses was nearing his 40th birthday it came into his mind to visit his brothers, the people of Israel. During this visit he saw an Egyptian mistreating a man of Israel. So Moses killed the Egyptian. Moses supposed his brothers would realize that God had sent him to help them. but they didn't.

The next day he visited them again and saw two men of Israel fighting. He tried to be a peacemaker, "Gentlemen," he said, "you are brothers and shouldn't be fighting like this! It is wrong!"

But the man in the wrong told Moses to mind his own business. "Who made you a ruler and judge over us?" he asked. "Are you going to kill me as you killed that Egyptian yesterday?"

At this, Moses fled the country, and lived in the land of Midian, where his two sons were born. Forty years later, in the desert near Mount Sinai. an Angel appeared to him in a flame of fire in a bush. Moses saw it and wondered what it was, and as he ran to see, the voice of the Lord called out to him, "I am the God of your ancestors--of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob." Moses shook with terror and dared not look.

And the Lord said to him, "Take off your shoes, for you are standing on holy ground. I have seen the anguish of My people in Egypt and have heard their cries. I have come down to deliver them. Come, I will send you to Egypt."

And so God sent back the same man His people had previously rejected by demanding, "Who made you a ruler and judge over us?" Acts 7:23-35a
