Starts its own plan

Senate panel rejects Reagan budget

WASHINGTON (AP) — After brushing aside President Reagan's fiscal 1987 budget, Senate budget writers are trying to put together a bipartisan package of tax increases, domestic spending cuts and a modest increase in military spending that will meet a required $144 billion deficit target.

The Republican-led Senate Budget Committee dumped the president's package on a 16-6 vote Thursday, with only six of the panel's 12 GOP members voting in favor of it.

Sen. Lawton Chiles of Florida, the top Democrat on the panel, said the vote would be a "springboard for action" on drafting a spending plan next week.

Sen. John Danforth, R-Mo., one of the six Republicans who voted against the president's budget, said, "Every president's budget, almost, is dead on arrival."

"Why? Because it's the starting point," Danforth said, adding, "I'm going to vote against the president's budget because I think we can improve on it."

But Sen. William Armstrong, R-Colo., who backed Reagan's budget, dismissed the committee action saying, "This is an exercise in president-bashing" that was demeaning to the committee.

Democrats denied there was any bashing going on.

For example, Sen. J. Bennett Johnston, D-La., said he liked Reagan, but, he added with a grin, the president's budget is "unworkable, mean-spirited and wrong-headed."

White House Budget Director James C. Miller III greeted the vote with an upbeat statement, saying Congress always modifies what the president proposes.

"I'm grateful that some senators voted for the president's budget and that others expressed support for many of its features," Miller said.

Sen. Pete V. Domenici, R-N.M., the committee chairman, scheduled the mostly symbolic vote in an apparent effort to avoid prolonged partisan wrangling over the president's spending plan, which has attracted virtually no support on Capitol Hill. He voted for the budget.

While Domenici has disputed Reagan's prohibition on increased taxes to trim deficits, he refused to dismiss Reagan's call for more military spending.

"The reason we need revenues is to make sure we put enough in defense," Domenici said. He added that the $22 billion in domestic spending cuts Reagan included in his budget likely will be needed.

"It ain't so" that the deficit target can be met with tax increases and trimming military spending alone, Domenici said.

Domenici has said that to meet the deficit target there must be $12 billion to $20 billion in new revenues.

Thieves prefer unguarded bicycles

By SHAWN COCKRUM
Staff Writer

During the months of January and February, the city saw an average of one bicycle theft every other day, resulting in $1,830 worth of lost property. Only three have been recovered.

According to police reports, over 90 percent of the bicycles were unlocked when they were stolen — most were left on the side of a house or on a front porch. The remainder was taken from a garage or a back yard, even some when the residents were home.

Hereford Crime Prevention Officer Butch Glenn said that the main reason the bikes were being taken is simply that they are being left unattended in the front yard or near a house. Glenn also said that he has not seen one case where a lock or chain has been used.

"The thieves are getting those that are easiest to get," Glenn said. "Why should a thief take the time to cut a lock when he can go across the street and get a bike that somebody has left unattended?"

Glenn also advises to engrave a driver's license number on the bike in two or three places. Recording the serial number also helps to identify a bike if it is found.

One case filed reported the theft of three bikes from one location for a loss of $360. Another bike, valued at $50, was reported to have been leaning against two other bikes that were locked at the time of the theft.

Lock It Up

A rash of bicycles thefts have caused riders to lock up their bikes when they are not around. City police are urging bike riders to keep the bikes either locked up or put away in a closed garage to prevent theft. Police are hearing reported bike thefts almost every day. (Brand Photo by Shawn Cockrum)

Up With People cast members in Hereford to prepare for show

The international cast of Up With People will bring its "Beat of the Future" show to the Hereford High School auditorium on Sunday, March 23, at 3 p.m.

KPAN Radio and the Deaf Smith County Sesquicentennial Committee are sponsoring the 70-member cast production.

Tickets are $6 for adults and $5 for student and senior citizens. A $1 discount is given for tickets purchased in advance. Tickets are available at KPAN, the Chamber of Commerce and the Hereford State Bank.

Two of the Up With People crew are in Hereford to make preparations for the program and arrange housing. Ken Breuggeman of Wisconsin and Gui Andre De La Porte of The Netherlands will be making several appearances at civic clubs and schools to promote the concert.

An Up With People office has been arranged at the National Cowgirl Hall of Fame. Persons wishing to book the advance team for a program or make other inquiries may call 364-4088.

Beds for 70 persons will be needed for the Saturday night before the performance and on the day of the performance. Host families wishing to provide for the cast may call the above number.

Up With People was organized in 1968 as an independent non-profit organization to promote understanding among the nations through song and dance.

Its energetic contemporary style is known worldwide and has been featured in four Super Bowl halftimes, including the recent Super Bowl XX.

Audience interaction is an important part of the Up With People performance. In this year's presentation, audience members may find themselves singing with a computer or dancing in the aisles with a Japanese lion.

In a medley of songs from ragtime, the big band sound, and rock-and-roll, the cast predicts that the music and dances of the past will be back in style in the year 2000.

An international medley includes a Chinese ribbon dance.

Epilepsy association opens part-time office locally

By CINDY SMITH
Staff Writer

High Plains Epilepsy Association recently opened an office at the Deaf Smith County Courthouse to provide information and services to epileptics. Caseworkers will be in Room 100-A from 9 a.m. until noon on every second and fourth Friday of the month.

In Deaf Smith County there are an estimated 390 people with epilepsy. About two million in the nation have the disorder.

Joe Zepeda Jr. of Hereford described how he has dealt with epilepsy.

"When I was 16, my family and I were on our way to Glyndale, Ariz., and I had a 'grand mal' seizure, the worst seizure you can have," said Zepeda.

His seizure lasted 10 or 15 seconds. "That's long enough," said Zepeda. "You turn all white and you're stiff like you're dead. You have foaming of the mouth and it scares people who aren't used to it."

Shortly after he had his first seizure, he was put on medication. He now farms and raises livestock and has a normal lifestyle.

"When I have problems, anything I need to ask questions on or get help with, I go talk to Tresa at the epilepsy office," added Zepeda.

Tresa Soliz is one of the caseworkers who will be assisting epileptics. The caseworkers will only be in office twice a month, but are available anytime for scheduled presentations.

"For 1985 we served 15 clients and 23 family members here in Hereford," said Soliz. "Overall we saw almost a 1,000 people from the Panhandle last year."

The High Plains Epilepsy Association serves 26 counties in the Panhandle. Their services include counseling, job assistance, medical guidance and arrangements, public education, and transportation for people with epilepsy.

Food stamps, social security, and housing are also included in the association's assistance.

"We have for the past 17 years given presentations to civic clubs, schools, and community groups. But we have not been able to do this on a regular basis," said Betty Brown, executive director of High Plains Epilepsy Association.

"Hopefully, by having an office here we will be able to have more

Opposition rally, petition planned by new task force

An opposition rally and the circulation of a petition are two activities already planned by the Nuclear Waste Task Force formed earlier this week to align citizen groups with agriculture organizations in fighting a waste repository in Deaf Smith County.

Hereford's POWER (People Opposed to Wasted Energy Repositories) and the Amarillo and Tulia chapters of STAND (Serious Texans Against Nuclear Dumping) joined with several agriculture organizations Monday in Tulla. Tanya Kleuskens, named as vice chairman of the group, said Thursday that a petition addressed to Vice President George Bush would be circulated to urge him to oppose the placing of a nuclear waste repository in this county.

The group also has scheduled an opposition rally on March 21 in Vega. All state and national officials have been invited to the rally, however, state attorney general Jim Mattox is the only confirmed guest.

"We feel like this is a real important time for us to be speaking out again," Kleuskens said, noting that the last year has been somewhat quiet on the issue.

The new Miss Hereford will be selected from a field of 15 beautiful and talented young ladies here Saturday night in the Hereford High School Auditorium. The Women's Division of Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce has been sponsoring this program for many years, and another great evening of entertainment is in store for those who attend.

As with most community projects, local merchants and businesses are also an integral part of the program. Through their sponsorships of the contestants and ads in the pageant program book, the scholarships are made available for the winners.

"I am writing to you because no one else has the guts to," begins a letter to the editor we received yesterday. After criticizing the condition of facilities at the YMCA, the writer signed the letter, "Anonymous."

We do not publish anonymous letters. We did, however, check with "Y" officials about the whirlpool and steam room. A spokesman said the "Y" adds a day to the membership for anyone who complains about not being able to use the facility as intended.

Speaking of letters to the editor, we are always happy to publish them if they are signed so we can confirm the authenticity of the writer. They cannot be libelous and must be in good taste and should not be too lengthy. We, of course, reserve the right to edit. We will not debate the letter writer or respond unless invited to do so.

You'd be surprised at some of the letters we get, many of them from out of the area. We received a letter this week from someone in California, and it was about 1,000 words in length. It was of a religious nature and rambled on and on. Glancing through the correspondence, we could describe the message in five words: If you lie, you fry!

With the political season approaching, we should point out that letters for or against individual candidates will not be published. This would not be fair to those who spend advertising dollars to get their messages to the voters.

'Giant among artists' dies at 98

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP) — Georgia O'Keeffe, "a national treasure" who helped shape the course of modern art, was "the most important woman artist" America has ever produced, experts said after the death of the 98-year-old painter.

"Certainly it is a very sad event that Georgia O'Keeffe has died," Jack Cowart, the National Gallery of Art's curator of 20th century art, said in a telephone interview Thursday from Washington.

"She was a modern artist," Cowart said. "She continued to look at things from a different point of view, and to challenge our own kind of vision. But she is, I think, a national treasure."

Miss O'Keeffe, who in 1977 received the Medal of Freedom, the nation's highest civilian honor, died Thursday at St. Vincent Hospital. Hospital spokesman Charles Cullen said he had no other details.

Miss O'Keeffe had lived in Abiquiu, north of Santa Fe, since 1949, but moved to Santa Fe last summer.

TWA flight attendants go on strike

WASHINGTON (AP) — Flight attendants struck Trans World Airlines today over wage cuts and other concessions while the leader of the union representing the 6,000 employees vowed to shut down the financially troubled carrier.

Members of the Independent Federation of Flight Attendants began setting up picket lines at airports in most of the 62 U.S. cities TWA serves shortly after midnight even though union and company officials did not break off the talks until nearly an hour later.

"We're going to shut this place down," union president Victoria Frankovich told reporters shortly before 1 a.m. just after the talks broke off. "We went as far as we could ... far beyond what other groups in this property were required to do."

TWA officials said the airline would schedule flights today to and from all the domestic cities plus 23 overseas airports that it serves, with the exception of Barcelona, Copenhagen, Tel Aviv and Athens.

Reagan to speak on Nicaraguan aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan says he will make a nationally televised speech to try to rally public support and reverse growing congressional opposition to his plan to provide $100 million to the U.S.-backed guerrillas fighting the leftist government of Nicaragua.

Reagan announced the speech Thursday just before meeting with two dozen House Republicans to seek their support.

Two more Democratic-controlled House committees voted against the plan Thursday while one committee voted for it. That brought to three the number of full committees rejecting his plan in two days and only one committee favoring it.

Reagan said no date has yet been set for the speech, quipping, "I'm the last to know."

But it is expected to be delivered within the next two weeks, before the full House vote now tentatively scheduled March 19.

The Republican-run Senate is also expected to vote on the plan before its March 26 recess for Easter. Under special congressional rules, the issue will reach the floor of each chamber despite the committee action.

In Thursday's votes, the House Appropriations Committee rejected the package by a voice vote, minutes before the Armed Services Committee approved it on a voice vote. Later in the day, the Foreign Affairs Committee rejected it, 23-18.

New study released on AIDS

NEW YORK (AP) — The conventional wisdom that the cause of AIDS has been found is being challenged by a new study suggesting a link between the deadly illness and an AIDS-like disease of pigs.

In a study to be published Saturday, researchers report evidence of African swine fever virus in nine of 21 American AIDS patients tested. They say the virus could be an important contributing cause of acquired immune deficiency syndrome.

If this is proven in future experiments, it would mean that doctors now searching for a cure for AIDS are aiming at the wrong target.

The contention that the virus commonly called HTLV-III is not the sole cause of AIDS was dismissed by Flossie Wong-Staal, a molecular biologist at the National Cancer Institute.

She said the correlation between AIDS and HTLV-III was as close to 100 percent as can be expected.

Furthermore, she said, the AIDS virus "does exactly what we would expect in an AIDS patient" — it attacks the white blood cells called T-lymphocytes that control the body's immune system.

Senate passes deficit-reduction bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Texas, which is facing a $1.3 billion deficit, would get an immediate infusion of $424 million if a bill approved by the House becomes law.

The deficit-reduction measure, passed Thursday, 314-86, now goes to the Senate. It contains several "extra" provisions, including a formula for splitting revenues from offshore oil and gas leases that are shared by the federal government and the coastal states.

The revenue formula has been previously approved by the Senate, which differs with the House over other provisions in the deficit-reduction bill.

If the House language on the revenue split becomes law, Texas will get an immediate $424 million from a trust fund that has been accumulating for seven years while the federal government and the states argued over how to split the money. The state would also stand to get an estimated $350 million in royalties during the next 10 years.

Marcos' passport is cancelled

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — The government today cancelled the passports of deposed President Ferdinand E. Marcos, his family and 79 associates who fled with him to the United States, in what appeared to be a move to block their return to the Philippines.

Vice President and Foreign Minister Salvador H. Laurel, announcing the action in a talk with reporters, said the cancellation was made "on instructions" of President Corason Aquino.

A Foreign Ministry spokesman, who spoke on condition he not be identified, said the action means that Marcos, who is in Hawaii, and his entourage will not be able to travel to any other country because they no longer have valid travel documents.

"Their mobility will be restricted," Laurel said.

Besides Marcos, his wife Imelda and their children, those affected by the action included Marcos' former Armed Forces Chief Gen. Fabian C. Ver, Ver's family, and industrialist Eduardo Cojuangco, a once-powerful Marcos ally.

"If the Marcoses or any of the ... others want a passport they can apply for one with the Philippine consulate in the United States, but the issuance of the passports will be handled on a case-to-case basis and on approval of President Aquino," Laurel said.

He did not elaborate.

visibility in the community and can participate more," said Brown.

Brown explained the need for such an office, commenting on how many people in Hereford are affected.

"Epilepsy is a neurological disorder affecting the brain and the nervous system," began Brown. "The seizures are also a part of epilepsy."

"There are several types of seizures from the mildest to the most dramatic and scary," explained Brown. "Petit Mal is a seizure of brief staring. Most people consider this daydreaming but it is not."

"The Simple Partial, either a sensory or jacksonian seizure, causes one part of the person's arm or leg to jump or jerk," said Brown.

"There is the Complex Partial, also known as Psychomotor or Temporal Lobe seizure which only affects a portion of the brain. The part affected in the brain is the portion that makes us able to organize our environment into a meaningful pattern, it's our motor functions," said Brown.

She explained that in a seizure such as Psychomotor, the individual will be aware of their own existence and of an environment — but it does not make sense to them.

"They will not only not know where they are, they will not know why they are there. As a consequence, their behavior is inappropriate," added Brown.

"These are the types of seizures that land people in jail, in mental institutions or facilities for the mentally retarded where they should not and need not be there," stressed Brown.

Brown said onset of the seizures generally occur before age 18 unless a result of an accident as in Zepeda's case. At two-months-old, he had fallen on his head. Doctors think this might be related to his epileptic seizures.

The myth that epileptic victims cannot drive is only partially true. Eighty percent of all epileptic victims are able to drive.

"The Texas state law is that you must be seizure free for 12 consecutive months and you can apply for a license," said Brown.

The physician completes the form for driving and the medical board for the state will examine the application.

Right now, epilepsy associations throughout the state are working together to formulate an insurance plan to help epilepsy patients get insurance coverage.

"We are a member of the Deaf Smith United Way and by being here on a regular basis we can make more efficient use of volunteer dollars," said Brown. Brown recalled a success story of an epileptic patient.

"A six-year-old boy and his mother from Hereford came to me and the child has myoclonic seizures," said Brown.

"This child loses muscle tone and can't control his muscle activities during a seizure. He was having as many as two dozen of these seizures a day," said Brown.

The boy couldn't go to school, couldn't play outside, couldn't play alone and had to wear a helmet at all times to protect his head. One fall could be fatal.

"The United Way made it possible for the Epilepsy Association to provide specialized medical care for this child," said Brown.

This young boy, who is now 10, has not had a seizure in two years and is in school.

"This child is not retarded. He's not demon-possessed. And he is not emotionally disturbed. He's a garden variety kid," said Brown.

Fort Worth Epilepsy Association is now offering a summer camp for epilepsy children, ages seven through 17, and High Plains Epilepsy Association will be arranging a scholarship. Anyone interested can call the office at 364-1584 or the Amarillo office at 373-3891.

"We wanted to express our gratitude to the county judge (Glen Nelson) for our office space here in the courthouse," said Brown.

"He arranged to have the new office and we hope to have an office in every town before long," she smiled.

White says teachers will do well on TECAT test

AUSTIN (AP) — The 210,000 Texas teachers who will take the state competency test on Monday are heading into the test with a positive assessment from Gov. Mark White.

"They're worried about it. But I know they will do well," he said.

White, who taught a history class Thursday at Austin High School as part of a state officials' teach-in program, said the test is obviously something that has raised teachers' concerns.

The reading and writing test, which will be taken by current teachers and school administrators on Monday, was a key element of the school reform law enacted in 1984.

A teachers' organization unsuccessfully challenged the exam in court, saying a one-shot test isn't a fair way to judge people who have been working in a profession for years.

White continued to defend the test, but also said he understands how teachers feel.

"I always fretted before every test I ever took, and I think every teacher probably feels the same concern. I do, for them," he said.

"There's an enormous amount of pressure brought to bear upon them because of the test. But they're going to do well."

Terri Anderson, spokeswoman for the Texas Education Agency, said the test also will be taken by about half the TEA staff, some 400 people including Education Commissioner William Kirby. Those taking the test have teacher certification.

Another 300,000 people who hold teaching certificates but aren't teaching right now will begin taking the competency test April 10, Ms. Anderson said.

White said the test is an essential element in forging a new knowledge-based economy for the state.

Scanner Beat

City police heard reports of one criminal trespass, a case of criminal mischief and a domestic disturbance Thursday. Police also heard a report of a stolen bicycle.

The Hereford Fire Department responded to a gasoline wash down at the Save-a-Dollar station Thursday evening.

Deaf Smith County deputies arrested one individual Thursday for failure to comply with compulsory school attendance.

Alexander Graham Bell was granted the first basic patent for the telephone March 7, 1876. Bell was born in Scotland but went to Canada with his family as a young man. He conceived the idea for the first phone in Canada and the first transmission of speech through his invention took place there in 1876. On March 7, 1926, exactly 50 years after the Bell telephone was patented, the first radio-telephone conversation between New York and London took place.

Commissioners meet Monday

Deaf Smith County Commissioners will consider requesting a grant to remodel the Fullwood Building for use as a juvenile detention center when they meet Monday in regular session at 10 a.m. in the courthouse.

The agenda also includes opening bids on Bull Barn roof repairs, a request for Driskill Halfway House funding, discussion of Max-Volts, a budget amendment, a utility easement, and discussion of capital improvement priorities.

Ann Landers

Wisdom born of experience

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a 43-year-old mother of a teenage daughter. I have been divorced since she was 2. I never meant to be promiscuous, but 15 years of love affairs can make a record look pretty bad. Each new affair was meant to be the "affair to end all affairs." Each new lover was expected to be the key to my happiness and the solution to all my problems. Because of this attitude (which I have since changed) I became involved in sexual relationships too eagerly and too soon. Then I would end up getting hurt or hurting the man.

I realize now that men are always ready and eager to have sex. I don't believe most of them intentionally hurt or exploit women, but if a woman is too willing and too eager to please, a man finds it difficult to understand that she could want more from him than just a good time in bed.

It's taken a long time, but I'm finally willing to admit that our mothers and grandmothers weren't just prudish, they were SMART. In their day, couples went through a courtship or dating period that enabled them to get to know each other before becoming sexually involved. I'm sure this saved a lot of pain and grief and made for stable and lasting relationships. Today, the sexual revolution notwithstanding, it's still up to the woman to have enough self-respect and self-control to set limits and decide for herself if and when she wants to say "yes." My daughter already knows this. Thank goodness her mother does, too.—HAPPIER AND WISER

DEAR H. AND W.: Thank you for a sound and solid letter. It's filled with the kind of wisdom born of experience. I wish I could have said it so well.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You say nurses deal with pain, suffering and death every day. True, but burnout is getting to be a serious problem. We burn out, not because of the sick people who are demanding; it's all the other junky stuff we have to do. Do you realize how frustrating it is to be called on the carpet because you didn't put the date on a jar of applesauce in the refrigerator? Or because you forgot to chart a note one day on the condition of a person who hasn't changed physically or mentally in six years?

I want to take care of patients and give them the time and attention they deserve. I am not interested in looking good on paper and attending unnecessary time-consuming meetings. If we don't get back to the basics of the profession, nobody will care to go into the field and there will be darned few nurses.—FED UP IN N.Y. CITY

DEAR N.Y.C.: Noting the date on hospital food and making chart notations ARE basics of the profession. The care your patients deserve includes keeping track of such details. Stick with it and handle the boring, but essential aspects of the job. This makes for competent nursing.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: A letter from my mother-in-law says, "I am making a list of all the things you've done over the years that haven't set right with me."

I think she's trying to get her son back. In my opinion our marriage is better than most. How should I deal with this?—SAGINAW, MICH.

DEAR SAG: It sounds as if the woman is trying to trap you into a four-door family fight. Don't rise to the bait. Say nothing to either your husband or your mother-in-law about the letter. Be sweet as pie. It will drive her nuts.

Is pot a drug? Can LSD, PCP, cocaine and pills open new worlds for you? Stop guessing. Get the facts in Ann Landers' all-new booklet, "The Lowdown on Dope." For each booklet ordered, send $2.00, plus a long, self-addressed stamped envelope (39 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

Cmdr. William R. Anderson, became the first ship to cross the North Pole beneath the Arctic ice.

President John A. Garfield was ambidextrous and demonstrated his ability by taking a pen in each hand and writing simultaneously in Greek and Latin.

Jupiter is the largest of the planets in the solar system. Its equatorial diameter is 88,000 miles, 11 times greater than the diameter of the earth.

On Feb. 7, 1864, the Hunley, the first military submarine, went into action and sank the Housatonic, a United States warship. The Hunley was a small Confederate States vessel which carried a single torpedo fixed to its bow. It, too, sank while withdrawing. Early submarines of this type were powered by a six- or eight-man crew turning a crank which drove a propeller.

IMPROVING GAME
NEW ORLEANS (AP) — College baseball admittedly is still far behind football in popular appeal and attendance, but it is moving up.

There were 1,500 members at the convention of the American Baseball Coaches Association in New Orleans last fall. Among the guest speakers was Manager Tommy Lasorda of the Los Angeles Dodgers who commented on the large turnout.

“It wasn't too long ago,” Lasorda said, “that the head of a school would hand the music teacher a bat and ball and tell him to coach the baseball team. All that has changed.”

The 1983 National League pennant winners, the Philadelphia Phillies, had the worst record in the league on natural grass, winning 16 games and losing 26. On artificial turf, they had the best mark, 74-46.

College conference tournaments started

By The Associated Press
When Mississippi Coach Lee Hunt read the Kentucky roster, he may have seen names like H2O Walker and CO2 Blackmon.
"They have a certain chemistry about them," Hunt said.
He was speaking in elemental terms of third-ranked Kentucky after the Wildcats defeated Ole Miss 95-69 in the quarterfinals of the Southeastern Conference basketball tournament Thursday night.
Walker scored 28 points, and he and Blackmon led separate runs of 11-0 and 16-0 in the first 12:15 that gave Kentucky a 31-9 lead before Mississippi could get anything going.
"I marvel at the way that they are playing," Hunt said of Kentucky. "I could see them in the Final Four."

With automatic NCAA tournament berths at stake, many of the nation's big conference tournaments got under way Thursday.
In other games involving ranked teams, No. 5 St. John's defeated Seton Hall 87-68, No. 8 Syracuse routed Boston College 102-79 and No. 14 Georgetown edged Pittsburgh 57-56 in the Big East tournament; No. 7 Michigan defeated Ohio State 99-82, and Iowa upset No. 19 Illinois 57-53 in the Big Ten, and No. 13 Nevada-Las Vegas defeated Fresno State 68-49 in the Pacific Coast Athletic Association tournament.

Tonight, tournaments begin in the Atlantic Coast, Big Eight, Southwest and Metro conferences.
Walker said that in the past, a blowout like this may have hurt the Wildcats. "We had a tendency to let up," he said. "But this year we usually come back well."
The victory moved Kentucky into tonight's semifinals against Louisiana State. "I'm not looking forward to playing them this soon," Kentucky Coach Eddie Sutton said of LSU. "I'm not really looking forward to playing them at all."
In the other SEC night game, Mississippi State earned the right to meet Alabama in the semis by upsetting Auburn 65-63 behind the 25 points of Chauncey Robinson and 22 of Raymond Brown.
In the afternoon games, Buck Johnson had 21 points to lead Alabama to a 79-59 rout of Georgia. LSU broke a 10-game postseason losing streak, getting 20 points and 20 rebounds from John Williams to beat Florida 72-66.
In the Big East quarterfinals at Madison Square Garden, Walter Berry had 18 points and 12 rebounds to lead St. John's over Seton Hall.

The Redmen, 28-4, meet Villanova in Friday night's semifinals.
Harold Pressley scored 26 points and had 14 rebounds to lead Villanova, the defending national champion, to a 75-63 victory over Providence.
In the afternoon, Dwayne "Pearl" Washington scored 27 points for the Orangemen, who will meet No. 14 Georgetown in the semifinals. Syracuse, 24-4, led Boston College 46-40 at halftime, then went on a 16-5 run to lead 62-45.
Reggie Williams had 16 points for the 23-6 Hoyas, whose failure at the free-throw line late in the game nearly allowed Pitt to win.
Big Ten
In a regular-season game at Ann Arbor, No. 7 Michigan got 22 points from center Roy Tarpley to beat Ohio State and move into a tie with idle Indiana for the Big Ten Conference lead. The two teams will meet Saturday to decide the conference title. Michigan, 26-4 and 13-4 in the conference, led by as many as 32 points in the second half.
Iowa kept alive its NCAA tournament hopes by beating Illinois. Freshman Roy Marble scored five of his 15 points down the stretch, and Bill Jones hit three clutch free throws. Illinois fell to 20-9.

Pacific Coast
At Inglewood, Calif., Anthony Jones and Armon Gilliam led Nevada-Las Vegas over Fresno State in the PCAA quarterfinals. UNLV, 29-4, led only 29-27 with 17:00 left, but the Rebels went on a 9-2 run, including six points by Jones, to lead 38-29.
Kevin Henderson scored 24 points to lead Cal State Fullerton to a 66-58 upset of UC-Irvine, moving Fullerton into the semis against UNLV.
In afternoon quarterfinal games, Gilbert Wilbur scored two of his game-high 28 points from the free-throw line with three seconds to play as New Mexico State defeated Utah State 74-71. James Gleaves hit a three-point field goal with 15 seconds left to boost Pacific over San Jose State, 55-53.
Western Athletic
In Laramie, Wyo., Johnny Brown scored 31 points and twice led New Mexico on spurts in the second half as the Lobos held on to upset Brigham Young 69-68 in the tournament quarterfinals.
New Mexico will play in the semis against Wyoming, which defeated Air Force 67-65 when Les Bolden hit a 20-footer at the buzzer.
In the afternoon, Juden Smith's 17 points paced Texas-El Paso to a 58-50 victory over Colorado State, earning the Miners a semifinal berth against San Diego State. Freshman Josh Lowery's 20-foot jumper at the buzzer gave San Diego State its 73-71 upset of Utah, which finished 20-8 to the Aztecs' 9-18.

Big Sky
At Reno, Nev., Larry Krystkowiak scored six points in a 9-0 run early in the second half, leading Montana to a 68-60 victory over Idaho in the first round of the Big Sky tournament.
Tony Hampton's 15-foot jumper as time ran out gave Montana State an 81-80 victory over Nevada-Reno. Montana State will play Northern Arizona, and Weber State meets Montana in the semis.
In the earlier game, Alan Campbell hit a three-pointer at the buzzer to lift Weber State to a 79-76 victory over Boise State.
Mid-American
In the opening round of the MAC tourney at Rockford, Ill., Paul Baron hit an 18-footer to break a 62-62 tie with 37 seconds left, and Ohio University beat Central Michigan 66-62.
In the semis, Ohio U. will play Ball State, which beat Western Michigan 87-76 with the help of Chris Shelton's 22 points.
Bob Borchardt scored 25 points and Shon Smith's layup at the buzzer lifted Toledo over Northern Illinois 82-79. In the semis, Toledo will play top-seeded Miami, Ohio, which had a bye in the first round.
ECAC Metro
At Coraopolis, Pa., Damari Riddick scored 22 points and had eight rebounds to lead top-seeded Fairleigh Dickinson over Long Island University, 86-57, in a first-round game. Ron Winbush scored four of his 28 points in overtime to pace Robert Morris to a 75-69 upset of Loyola, Md., in another late game.

In afternoon games, Terrance Bailey scored 25 points to lead Wagner over St. Francis, Pa., 100-83. Miro Pecarski scored 24 points to lead Marist over St. Francis, N.Y., 83-64.
Robert Morris meets Marist, and FDU plays Wagner in the semifinals.
ECAC North Atlantic
At Buffalo, Drexler Irving scored 20 points, and Boston University rallied from a 10-point deficit in the second half to beat Canisius 62-61 in the semifinals. Boston U. will meet Northeastern, which beat Siena 89-75 at Northeastern, in Saturday's final at Boston.
Southwestern Athletic
In quarterfinal games at Jackson, Miss., Mark Coleman's 16 points led Mississippi Valley over Alabama State 77-64. Mississippi Valley will play Alcorn State in the semifinals.
Forward Jeffery Hart scored 27 points to lead Jackson State to a 78-69 victory over Texas Southern. Jackson State will play Prairie View A&M in the other semi.

A FOUR-YARD ROLL
DETROIT (AP) — The Chicago Bears may have William "the Refrigerator" Perry, the 307-pound defensive tackle who occasionally plays on offense, but the Detroit Lions had one even bigger in the mid 1960s.
Former Detroit general manager Nick Kerbawy recalled the player — 350-pound middle guard Les Bingaman.
"Les could generate great momentum for about a yard," Kerbawy said. "One time he intercepted a pass, ran all of six yards, then fell down and rolled the remaining four yards into the end zone."

DR. GOTT — Heart tests are fairly safe

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT — Recently my doctor suggested that I undergo cardiac catheterization. Is there a risk in this procedure? Also, what is the main purpose of a stress test?

DEAR READER — Cardiac catheterization is termed an "invasive" procedure because it involves the introduction of instruments or material into the body; therefore, it carries some risk, depending on the patient's condition. On the other hand, the technique is enormously useful and, when performed by experienced experts, is remarkably safe.

A small-bore plastic tube is inserted into an artery — usually at the front of the elbow. It is guided up into the aorta, through the aortic valve and into the heart. Pressures in two of the cardiac chambers can be measured. At appropriate times, a radio-opaque material — a substance that shows up on X-rays — is injected into the heart or into the blood vessels that supply oxygen to the cardiac muscle. X-ray movies are then obtained. The films show the direction and strength of bloodflow, as well as the patency (openness) of the coronary arteries. Based on these findings, a specialist can discover many cardiac abnormalities and can determine whether surgery is indicated to correct those abnormalities.

A stress test is not an invasive procedure. It is a cardiogram obtained during exercise, while the patient walks or jogs on a treadmill. Sometimes radioisotope material is injected during the test in order to measure certain aspects of cardiac function. When a patient is exercising, the heart requires more oxygen. Therefore, a stress test is a useful method of determining how efficiently the coronary arteries supply blood to heart muscle. Unlike a cardiac catheterization, the stress test does not indicate the location of circulatory abnormalities; it gives information of a more general nature.

Both a catheterization and a stress test are relatively safe methods of evaluating heart disease. Each gives important measurements of heart function.

DEAR DR. GOTT — Is any progress being made in the research on treatment or a cure for emphysema?

DEAR READER — Although I cannot detail specific research advances being made in the study of emphysema, I can assure you that research is being carried out in many medical centers. A great deal is already known about the disease. Fundamentally, it consists of a loss of the tiny, feathery, terminal air sacs in the lungs; this results in difficulty taking up oxygen and exhaling carbon dioxide.

Emphysema can be inherited. It is common in some lung conditions, particularly a pulmonary disorder known as alpha-1 anti-trypsin deficiency. Cigarette smoking causes emphysema, as can certain forms of chronic air pollution and industrial exposure. It can occur with age.

The condition is treatable, but not curable, with medicine, oxygen, high fluid intake and aggressive therapy (such as antibiotics, postural drainage and special breathing exercises) for bronchitis and lung infection. Obviously, the best treatment is avoidance of air pollution, particularly tobacco smoke. Many adults could avoid emphysema if they simply stopped smoking cigarettes.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I have severe pain in my right heel when I stand up. What is a heel spur is and how it is treated?

DEAR READER — A heel spur is a bony projection on the lower surface of the heel bone (calcaneus). It may make walking or running painful. It rarely requires surgery and can be treated with a variety of appliances, including pads and heel cups. Podiatrists are quite successful in managing this problem.

DEAR DR. GOTT — What is tardive dyskinesia? How is it treated?

DEAR READER — Tardive dyskinesia is an ailment characterized by involuntary, repetitive muscular movements involving the face, extremities and trunk. The disease is believed to be due to side effects of some drugs (for example, the phenothiazines) used for mental illness. Although the muscular twitching may cease after the medicines are stopped, many patients continue to have difficulty for months or years. To a great degree, treatment is unsatisfactory, although large doses of choline chloride have helped some people with tardive dyskinesia.

POLLY'S POINTERS Low thermostat eases water bill

By Polly Fisher

DEAR POLLY — How low should one turn one's water heater thermostat for significant savings on the hot water bill? — IDA

DEAR IDA — How low you go is really up to you. However, here are some guidelines:

Lowering your thermostat from 140 degrees (standard) to 110 degrees will save you 20 percent on your annual hot water bill. However, if you have a dishwasher, 110 degrees may not get your dishes as clean as you like. Many newer models of dishwasher have automatic water heaters; they usually recommend that your hot water be set at 120 degrees (the dishwasher then heats the water to 140). Lowering the thermostat further (say, to 110) may lengthen the dishwasher cycle (because the water takes longer to heat to 140) or may result in less clean dishes.

If you feel that you need very hot water to do your laundry, you may not be happy with 110 degree water, either. I would say this would be a problem only if you wash many heavily soiled white cottons or wash diapers or the clothing and linens of someone with a contagious disease. However, there are laundry sanitizers available for these purposes (ordinary hot wash water won't kill all germs, anyway). Chlorine bleach can also be used as a germ-killer. For regular laundry, less-hot water is fine. In fact, I do all my general laundry in cold water and I think the results are quite good.

A lower water temperature is a plus if you have small children in the house; there's much less chance of their being accidentally scalded from the hot tap water. Water at the standard 140 degrees is hot enough to cause burns.

Another money-saver is water-tank insulation. You can buy an insulating jacket to wrap around the hot water tank. You can also wrap your hot water pipes with foam jackets. These are very simple to install. The foam tubes are simply slipped over the pipes.

We may no longer be facing an imminent energy crisis, but saving energy makes good economic sense for everyone. Try some of these simple measures to conserve energy in your home. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — I have a cake recipe that calls for one-half cup whiskey. I do not use alcoholic beverages for any reason. Can I substitute water or what else can I use for a substitute? — V.H.

DEAR V.H. — Yes, you may substitute water. However, if the recipe also includes milk or some other liquid, increase that liquid by the one-half cup specified for the whiskey. Apple juice makes a good substitute for alcoholic beverages in many recipes, too.

However, did you know that all the alcohol in the cake will disappear when the cake is baked? You may still not want to use the whiskey, but if you do, you'll be getting some of the flavor, but no alcohol in the cake. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — Whenever I need to mix cornstarch or flour with water to thicken gravy, I put them in a plastic container which has a seal-tight lid and simply shake to blend. This is very fast and lump-proof. — KAREN

DEAR POLLY — Refrigerator racks come spotlessly clean in an automatic dishwasher. — A HOUSEHUSBAND WITH LOTS OF EXPERIENCE

The Newspaper BIBLE
WHY WORRY WHEN YOU CAN TRUST GOD?
Turning to His disciples Jesus said, "Don't worry about whether you have enough food to eat or clothes to wear. For life consists of far more than food and clothes. 'Look at the ravens-- they don't plant or harvest or have barns to store away their food, and yet they get along all right--for God feeds them. And you are far more valuable to Him than any birds!'"

"And besides, what's the use of worrying? What good does it do? Will it add a single day to your life? Of course not! And if worry can't even do such little things as that, what's the use of worrying over bigger things?"

"Look at the lilies! They don't toil and spin, and yet Solomon in all his glory was not robed as well as they are. And if God provides clothing for the flowers that are here today and gone tomorrow, don't you suppose that He will provide clothing for you, you doubters?"

"And don't worry about food--what to eat and drink; don't worry at all that God will provide it for you. All mankind scratches for its daily bread, but your heavenly Father knows your needs. He will always give you all you need from day to day if you will make the Kingdom of God your primary concern."

"So don't be afraid, little flock. For it gives your Father great happiness to give you the Kingdom. 'Sell what you have and give to those in need. This will fatten your purses in heaven! And the purses of heaven have no rips or holes in them. Your treasures there will never disappear; no thief can steal them; no moth can destroy them. 'Wherever your treasure is, there your heart and thoughts will also be.'" Luke 12:22-34

During March, April

Halley's Comet to be easily viewed

An astronomical chance of a lifetime is near, but fades away in two months. Comet Halley soon achieves maximum brightness and best viewing position. Then it leaves the inner solar system behind and dims from sight--even telescopic view. But first, there are periods of 14 and 12 days in March and April to see Halley without telescopic aid.

Texas and the Sunbelt have a Halley-viewing advantage. The southerly latitude will cause Halley to appear higher above the south horizon, up to 32 degrees in mid-March.

Since early January, Comet Halley has been in hiding. It swung close around the sun and was hidden in the solar glare. Now emerging, the comet is expected to be a naked eye object. Later, a good view becomes increasingly difficult in the north hemisphere, because the comet will gradually recede southward below the horizon.

Halley seekers must improve three elements to obtain a good look at the famous comet. Viewing conditions involve twilight, moonlight and light pollution. These must be minimized for a decent chance to see the comet and its tail. Light pollution brightens the sky in urban areas, and must be avoided by driving to the country. Go 15-20 miles unless you live in a major metropolitan center, which requires extra distance. A site with an unobstructed southern view that does not look back over city lights is needed.

These dates and times avoid twilight and moonlight: March 8-21, 4:15 a.m. until twilight at about 5:10 a.m. for Central Texas; April 7-10, 1 a.m. - 5 a.m.; April 11-15, 10:30 p.m.-5 a.m. The first parts of these times will find the comet nearer the horizon and more difficult to see.

In mid-March, Halley decorates the sky between the constellations Capricornus and Sagittarius. Moonlight interferes March 21-April 6. In April, the comet will again rule a moonless sky, just southwest of the Scorpion's curved tail.

Halley will be farther from the sun but brighter in April. Increasing comet-sun separation will be offset by the comet being closer to earth (47 million miles to 109 million March 8, owing to their combined orbital motions). Halley will be seen against the Milky Way in April, making it all less conspicuous.

Weather and clouds will ultimately decide the best viewing date. Weather considerations make the earliest clear viewing opportunity the optimum choice. Waiting for earlier April hours may run afoul of clouds. If weather cooperates, a March view of Halley has a price attached. The cost involves getting out of bed in early morning to drive to a dark-sky site, away from city light pollution.

A dark-sky view of Comet Halley will be worth the trouble. In the year 2024, Halley will be in the solar system boonies, invisible to us and on the threshold of another plunge along its elliptical orbit past the giant planets, toward the sun. The next view from earth comes in the year 2061. Some of today's youngsters will live to see Comet Halley again.

First on a checklist for finding Comet Halley: Study a summer start chart in advance and learn the constellations of the sea goat Capricornus, the archer Sagittarius, and Scorpio, where Halley will be found.

For a decent view pick an out-of-town site off busy roads and free of security lights. A friend's farm or country home, a country church parking lot or similar spot away from traffic and lights is best. Plan to arrive about 4 a.m. when Halley will rise, but before morning twilight begins. Be prepared with a red-filtered flashlight (to protect dark-adapted vision acquired during the drive). Dress warmly. If you've scouted your dark-sky site in advance, leave all white lights off until all Halley viewing is completed. Tape off your car's dome light.

Darkness preserves the eyes' dark adaptation. Night vision improves and becomes increasingly sensitive to faint detail with time, as long as darkness continues. If you have them, binoculars improve the Halley view. Locate the comet by eyeball first, then use binoculars. Focus one barrel at a time on a bright star, keeping both eyes open and your other hand over the opposite barrel. Most binoculars have a center-focus knob and diopter on the right eyepiece, making it best to focus the left tube first. Set the interocular distance correctly. If two or more persons use one pair of glasses, they must be refocused for each viewer.

Rest your elbows on a car top for steady support of binoculars. Children can lean on an open car door with the window rolled down. Take long looks. Notice that stars shine through the comet's tail.

A comet viewing strip March 6 receives help from the waning moon. Halley will be 11 degrees--about a binocular field and a half--left of the crescent moon. Avoid looking at the moon with binoculars until you've studied Halley. Concentrated moonlight through binoculars will ruin dark adapted eyes as will an unfiltered flashlight or car lights. The moon will be a slim crescent, rising just before sunup march 8, and will not hinder comet viewing again until March 22.

Use the binocular field diameter (7 degrees for 7x50s) to measure the comet's tail length. As much as 20 degrees may be possible during the March moonless "window." Compare it to a similar measurement in April. In early April, the comet will still be an early morning object. Near mid-April, Halley will be due south at midnight, but closer to the horizon than in March.

On April 9-10, Halley passes 39 million miles from earth, four-tenths of the earth-sun distance which is a very comfortable miss. It was closer last September, but the comet was too faint to eyeball.

Skull remains show Mayans decapitated

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP)—The skulls of 30 Mayans found at a site in Belize indicates the Indians living about 1,000 years ago were decapitated, a Texas A&M University researcher said.

The skulls of the Mayans, dating back to about 850 A.D., are the only remains of the group found several years ago by researchers from Texas A&M and the University of Texas-San Antonio. The researchers were excavating the Mayan city of Colha for evidence relating to the use of stone tools when an A&M anthropology team accidentally found the skull pit.

"We've been studying the skulls to see what we could find out about the individuals -- their age, sex, diseases that left traces on the skulls, to what extent they participated in Mayan cultural practices," said Virginia Massey, an A&M anthropology graduate student who examined the skulls.

Ms. Massey said Wednesday the victims included 10 women, eight men and two adults whose sex could not be determined. There were 10 children, ranging in age from 6 months to 7 years.

She said the remains indicated the victims were decapitated. After the flesh was peeled off, the heads were deposited in a pit in a special building in the city, Ms. Massey said. She said the skulls had been fractured.

Some of the children had their heads squeezed between boards in an effort to change the shape.

Seventh in a series of "tax tip" articles provided by the Panhandle Chapter of the Texas Society of Certified Public Accountants. Q. I am a retired person drawing Social Security. I have heard that Social Security benefits are now taxable. Is this correct? A. Yes, but depending on your income, no more than one-half is taxable.

To figure your taxable Social Security, figure your adjusted gross income without regard to any Social Security benefits, the two-earner working couple deduction, the foreign income exclusion or income from U.S. possessions and Puerto Rico. To that amount, add your tax-exempt interest income and one-half of your Social Security benefits.

For married couples filing joint returns, the computation must exceed $32,000 before any Social Security is taxable. If a married couple files a separate return and live together, Social Security becomes immediately taxable. In all other cases, Social Security becomes taxable above $25,000.

If your computation exceeds the allowable amount, the taxable Social Security benefits equals one-half of the excess or one-half of the Social Security benefits, whichever is less.
