Congress cool to 'irresponsible' claim

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Reagan says proposed cuts in his defense budget would be backsliding of the most irresponsible kind," but some of his strongest supporters in Congress predict he faces a stiff fight against his military

The president, speaking from his desk as snow fell outside an Oval Office window, said in a televised speech Wednesday night that because of his policies, "American strength is once again a sheltering arm for freedom in a dangerous world."

"Just as we are sitting down at the bargaining table with the Soviet Union, let's not throw America's trump card away," he said, noting congressional proposals to cut as much as $50 billion from his $320 billion military spending request.

wrong," he said. "It's backsliding of the most irresponsible kind."

Wright of Texas, in his party's response to the president's address, said defense cuts are needed to reduce budget deficits that

"themselves pose a danger to our national security."

Wright's Republican counterpart, Rep. Robert Michel of Illinois, said,

"I'm going to do my best to support the president's request, but I recognize full well he is not going to get everything he is asking for." Sen. John Warner, R-Va., an administration supporter on the Senate

Armed Services Committee, said, "I am for a strong defense, but I won't commit to an exact figure at this time. I think the element of fairness has to be shown throughout our analysis of the budget, both on the defense and the non-defense side."

Even Sen. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina, a Reagan booster who is the second-ranking Republican on the Armed Services panel, conceded, "We may not be able to get as much as the president wants.'

Reagan's 24-minute speech was illustrated with graphics twice. As he spoke of Soviet military actions around the world, the screen showed a map with lines shooting out from a hammer-and-sickle symbol at Moscow to such trouble spots as Nicaragua and South Yemen. A bar graph was shown to make his point that his administration has controlled the spiraling cost of defense programs.

The president conceded that a "horror story" about wasteful Pentagon spending "will sometimes turn up despite our best efforts," but said

Project "Birthday Shoot" is to begin at 12:01 a.m. Sunday.

The resulting pictures, representing each of the state's 254 counties, will be included in a photo book to be completed by the end of 1986 or early 1987, said Joe Abell, assistant photo editor at the San Angelo Standard-Times and also regional clip chairman of the National Press Photographers Association Region 8, the sponsoring

Included will be photographers from the state's major newspapers, magazine photographers, free-lancers, photojournalism professors and several outstanding journalism students,

The concept is a variation on the "Day in the Life" theme of a series of books produced from similar projects in other countries, Abell said. In those projects, about 100 internationally known photographers spent a 24-hour period in the country, documenting daily activities.

"I'd always thought Texas was a prime subject for such a project, but no one ever tried to organize it as far as I knew," said Abell.

"We had started out to do a 'Day in the Life of West Texas' with just four or five West Texas newspapers' photo staffs, but I guess I got a little more ambitious when I realized what a great day March 2 - Texas' 150th Independence Day - would be to shoot all over the state," Abell said.

Former principal acquitted

LIVINGSTON, Texas (AP) - The killer of football coach Billy Mac Fleming may never be found, said the lawyer for a principal who was accused of murdering the coach because of an alleged love

"The trail is so cold now I don't think we'll ever know who killed Billy Fleming," said Dick DeGuerin, the attorney for Hurley

Jurors acquitted the former junior high school principal of murder charges he killed Fleming over the affections of a school secretary, but some jurors still had their doubts.

Larry Renfro, the foreman of the 10-woman, two-man jury that found Fontenot innocent Wednesday said that although Fontenot was cleared of the charges, "that doesn't mean some of us still don't think he did it, it was just not proven beyond a reasonable doubt."

Fontenot, 48, former principal of Hull-Daisetta Woodson Junior High School, had been charged with murder in the April 12 shooting death of Fleming, 36, who also taught math and science at the school. "It was a very tough decision to make but we had to go with the law. We can't speculate," Renfro said. "We could only base our decision on the evidence that was presented to us."

Prosecutors claimed during the six-week trial that Fontenot shot Fleming because both men were rivals for the love of 36-year-old school secretary Laura Nugent. Mrs. Nugent dated Fontenot until late 1984 before she started seeing Fleming. She and Fleming planned to marry last summer. Defense attorneys claimed Liberty County investigators were trying to frame Fontenot for a murder he did not commit, and contendnored evidence that pointed to other su

Senator in good humor after defeat

AUSTIN (AP) - Although he lost his Texas Supreme Court bid to be allowed to run for attorney general, Sen. J.E. "Buster" Brown didn't lose his sense of humor.

At a news conference where he announced his intention to abandon the race, Brown was asked about the reaction of other GOP candidates.

Brown said it had been tough for them to keep straight faces.

"It's sort of like a funeral director trying to look sad at a $50,000 funeral," he said.

The Supreme Court earlier Wednesday ruled 6-3 that Brown's name shouldn't be placed on the May 3 Republican primary ballot.

The majority opinion, written by Justice James Wallace, said the Texas Constitution clearly states that members of the Legislature aren't eligible to seek another office in mid-term if lawmakers increased the salary for that office.

The justices said that because the 1985 Legislature - of which Brown was a part - raised the salary for the attorney general's office, Brown isn't eligible to seek the job.

Brown said the ruling, while "obviously political," appeared fatal

"My campaign for attorney general for 1986, in my estimation, ends today," Brown said.

Although he technically could ask the court to reconsider, Brown said, "My guess is we will not utilize that motion."

Parents urged to lock up weapons

HOUSTON (AP) - A rash of accidental shootings involving Houston youths has prompted city officials to urge parents to "lock up their weapons" to curtail such incidents.

A dozen children and teen-agers have been shot during the past three months, five of them fatally.

"What we are asking for is everyone - every citizen, everyone who owns weapon on the city, in the state — to take some immediate action," Police Chief Lee Brown said. "That is to lock up weapons to ensure that they are not accessible to young people.

She bought the gun a week earlier as protection for her home. While cleaning it, she said she left it in her son's room. Another son picked it up and it discharged, striking Chris, who recovered but not ling 17 days in a hospital.

Ms. Jackson moved her family to another apartment complex. "We go to the old complex but we don't have to go to the apartment," she said. "It would be too tragic."

But families who have lost members due to the gunplay are being forced to live with the unhappy memories.

"My heart bleeds every time I see a new shooting on the news," Virginia Carson says. "I think my wound has closed and then it just opens again. My heart goes out to each mother."

Presidential commission critical of NASA

WASHINGTON (AP) - A presidential commission, increasingly irritated with NASA officials, is moving beyond possible equipment failures to lay bare a "breakdown of sorts" in the chain of command that decided to launch the ill-fated shuttle Challenger.

Over and over on Wednesday, commission members peppered midlevel space agency officials with questions to find out why they did not tell their bosses about the industry engineers' concerns that cold weather might cause critical booster-rocket safety seals to fail.

The presidential commission also heard testimony from members of a special ice team that reported finding low temperatures in the hours before launch on the right-side rocket booster, which is a suspected culprit in the explosion that destroyed the shuttle and killed its seven-member crew.

The panel arranged a third straight day today of public hearings, which are expected to focus on concerns caused by the ice. Investigative sources, who asked not to be identified by name, said Rockwell International, the maker of the spaceplane, told high-level NASA officials before the launch they were concerned that ice would damage the tiles that protect the shuttle from burning up in the heat of re-entry.

Rockwell's objections, coming on top of concerns expressed by Morton Thiokol engineers who work on the booster rockets, are likely to reinforce doubts openly growing among

TEXAS III

People who have moved to Texas are separted in three categories by Mattingly - career seekers, corporate transferees and the displaced

Historically, the career seeker has dominated in-migration to the larger Texas cities. The corporate migrants and the career seekers are the important newcomers to Texas and will continue to be a key source of population growth, Mattingly said.

The displaced workers - typically those who lost their jobs elsewhere for economic reasons and moved to Texas to find better opportunities have become less of an influence, commission members about NASA's decision to press ahead with the

Those concerns dominated Wednesday's testimony, as commissioners asked repeatedly why the space agency went ahead with liftoff despite warnings expressed by Morton Thiokol engineers.

One witness, NASA's booster rocket manager Lawrence Mulloy, said he did not notify anyone else because he thought the issue had been resolved satisfactorily at his level at the National Aeronautics and Space Administration when a Thiokol vice president sent a memo approving the launch on the evening

Judson Lovingood, a NASA engineering expert, said he advised his superior, Stanley Reinartz, to relay word of the evening-long talks with Thiokol to one of the officials with final launch authority. But Lovingood noted that was before Thiokol reversed its initial opposition.

Reinartz, NASA's shuttle manager at the Marshall Space Flight Center in Huntsville, Ala., said he was the official who decided the information did not need to go to the final launch decision-makers. He said he felt there was no reason to relay it because he, like the others, was not aware of any remaining dissent. He did say he told his boss, William Lucas. But commissioners pointed out that Lucas was not one of those involved in the decision to go ahead.

"All of us feel there's been a breakdown of sorts in the process, said William Rogers, the former secretary of state who heads the Commission member Joseph Sutter added there was a "serious communication and management problem," within the space agency.

NASA witnesses who testified on Wednesday stoutly denied allegations - made the previous day by Thiokol engineers - that they applied pressure to force a reversal in the company's initial objections.

"I can assure you there was no reversal of NASA tradition to say Prove to me why you can't fly rather than prove to me why you can," Mulloy said.

Wednesday's 321-86 House vote was a move to assure that money will be available for making advance income subsidy payments when farmers begin signing up for commodity programs next Monday, and to carry out other provisions of the farm law passed in December.

The corporation's coffers are running dry. Congress earlier this month approved $1.5 billion in new money for the corporation, which finances farm price-support and subsidy programs, but that amount was only for the short run.

The House action, if ratified by the Senate, would last the corporation into late summer, said Rep. Jamie Whitten, D-Miss., chairman of the House Appropriations Committee. It will take $7.3 billion to fill needs for the current year.

Letters to the Editor

Dear editor:

Lately I have been hearing local, State and National news reports that are very distressful. Texas is going under. With the state of the agricultural economy and the falling price of oil, our two largest industries are destined to go bell-up, leaving us with a huge deficit.

Eastern Yankee liberals, along with the far left-wing national news media, say there is no way Texas can survive this one; that all of our fighting spirit as Texans won't help us this time. They seem to be jumping with joy as they buy gas for less than one dollar a gallon!

I am afraid some of this negativism is beginning to creep into our own town and State. 1986 is the Texas Sesquicentennial. I've heard that the celebration won't be as big as planned. That lack of funding and general disinterest will throw a wet blanket over the whole celebration. I have only one thing to say about that - but I can't use that language in print.

Now, I know all of the cheerleading and pep rallies we could throw together won't get us out of the slump we are currently facing. But being the resourceful people of Texas that we are, I know we will come out on top as usual. We always have and we always will.

What we, as Texans, need to do is send a message to everyone that "we ain't licked yet". By throwing the biggest Sesquicentennial celebration we possibly can, we will accomplish this. Being a Texan is a state of mind, it is a birthright, and above all, it is a privilege. Friends, please get behind our Sesquicantennial celebra-tion by supporting the activities planned in this town and all over the

You can start by attending the Texas Size Chili Supper at the Bull Barn on Saturday, March 1st, to celebrate Texas Independence Day and kick off the Sesquicentennial year. Then in May, the Wagon Train will come through town with more celebrations planned.

Let's show everybody that Texas in general and Hereford in particular is not ready to give up. Support these celebrations, and brag about your State and town. We have a lot to be proud of.

I hope to see you at the chili supper on Saturday.

Thank you, Scott Turner

The school system now has a total of twenty sets, including the six sets purchased last summer by The Chemical People.

It is our fervert hope that these materials will be used by librarians, counselors, and teachers in an effort to educate our young citizens of Hereford in the areas of crime prevention, child safety, and the prevention of drug and alcohol

We greatly appreciate the interest and initiative shown by the Noon Lions in making such a significant contribution to this project.

Consider surgery

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I must comment on that heartbreaking letter from the over-endowed woman who signed herself, "Too Much of a Good Thing." Your answer was not only sympathetic but sensible.

All those woman who complain about being flat-chested or having too little should think their lucky stars they don't have too much. I speak from experiene.

I was a 44DD until an anonymous friend sent me a magazine article about surgical breast reduction. I wrote to you and your advice was to find a plastic surgeon who specializes in that type of surgery and "go for it." I did just that and it changed my life.

Before I had the operation I was so big-busted I was unable to stand up straight. I had migraines all the time. I was unable to sleep on my stomach. Bassiere straps dug ridges into my shoulders and caused constant pain. The excess weight on my ribcage created problems breathing. Buying clothes was impossible. Nothing fit. I had to have everything made. I could never wear a bathing suit or a sweater. Vivid colors and prints were out. It was black, brown, gray, or white.

A friend who had a similar problem (not as bad as mine) had breast reduction surgery and told me I was crazy to go on suffering. I decided she was right and made an appointment to see a surgeon. He said I was "a prime candidate."

After the operation, my first conscious thought in the recovery room was, "I can't believe I'm so light! I feel like a feather." The doctor told me he had removed almost eight pounds.

My insurance company paid most of the medical expenses. My family was extremely supportive. They knew how I felt. I'm so pleased with myself, I'm like a different person. I don't have headaches. I an walk straight with my head up and my shoulders back.

Thanks again for your help, Ann. It was the best move I ever made.-FREE AT LAST IN D.C.

DEAR D.C.: Thanks for your letter. And now I hope every woman whose D cup runneth over will consider this surgery. It's senseless to go through life with a problem that can be eliminated. If you want the name of a surgeon who specializes in this field, contact the American Society for Plastic and Reconstructive Surgery. The address is 233 North Michigan Ave. Suite 1900, Chicago, Il. 60601.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: The letter about paper boys from "Mom in Phoenix" brought back fond memories of my youth in Atlanta.

I encountered virtually every situation imaginable, including the difficulty of collecting, complaints due to wet papers, late papers, and the mysterious disappearance of papers for which my customer did not want to pay.

I never became discouraged. I found 100 opportunities to make new friends. I enjoyed delivering satisfactory service, making a profit and, more, learned how to establish relationships with all kinds of people. I am positive that my experiences as a paper boy helped me succeed in college and taught me a lot I could use in my 35-year career as a banker.--C.E.O. IN ORLANDO, FLA.

DEAR C.E.O.: What a great testimonial! Thanks for writing.

Can drugs be a friend in time of stress? If you keepyour head together can they be of help? Ann Landers' all-new booklet, "The Lowdown on Dope," separates the fact from the fiction. Get it today. Prior to the general session, THEA members will join in observing Home Economics Awareness Week on the Texas Tech campus, which will end with a 2 p.m. presentation March 6 by Glenn Collins, family editor of the New York Times. Collins, whose speech is open to the public, will speak in the University Center Allen Theater.

U.S. Rep. Charles W. Stenholm, D-Stamford, will give the keynote address for the THEA meeting at 9:30 a.m. March 7. All meeting sessions are scheduled at the Holida Inn-Civic Center, and tours and special activities are planned at Texas Tech.

Stenholm will speak on political involvement, in accordance with the meeting's theme this year of "Taking Charge of Change.'

Now in his fourth term, Stenholm has gained national prominence for his knowledge of agriculture and his endeavors to encourage fiscal responsibility. He is a member of the House Agriculture Committee and the Small Business Committee.

A business meeting and research presentations by THEA members will follow Stenholm's speech. Research areas include a view of the Chinese family, older adults in a model retirement program, work and family life, customers' perceptions of corporation complaint handling and accountability in vocational home economics education.

An awards reception, at which a THEA member will be announced as Home Economist of the Year, is scheduled for 7 p.m. March 7 in the College of Home Economics.

On March 8, featured speakers will discuss topics including weight control for children, certification of the home economist, positioning for power, changes in Texas demographics, financial planning and enhancing self esteem.

Council members meet after annual luncheon

Johnnie Messer presided over the Extension Homemakers Council meeting Monday which followed the annual Appreciation Luncheon at the Bull Barn.

The opening exercise was given by Brenda Campbell of North Hereford E.H. Club entitled, "Every Day U.S.A."

Messer announced that all vicepresidents of the clubs were to be visitors of the March council meeting. Also, Lottie Wertenberger reported that the Camp Fire Girls Council Dinner had been well attended and many had expressed appreciation for the meal.

The group was reminded that those making cobblers for the Sesquincentennial Chuck Wagon Chili Supper should bring them to the Bull Barn by 4 p.m. March 1.

All of the clubs had accepted the recommendations presented at the January meeting. These recommendations will serve as the guidelines for this year's activities.

Mary Carter, TEHA chairman, reminded the group of the district meeting scheduled April 3 in Amarillo. She asked the clubs to get a list of their members planning to attend. Registrations should then be made with Corda Glover at the county extension office by March 10. The $10 fee covers insurance, registration and luncheon charge. Carter encouraged everyone to go to help bring home the traveling trophy again this year.

Sue Farris, district agent, presented each person with a picture to illustrate the picture versions one could see. She said this was to emphasize that everyone is different, but by working together, anything could be accomplished.

Farris complemented Deaf Smith County homemakers for their selection of Club Woman of the Year and mentioned that this county had more clubs than any in the district.

She also explained the process by which an extension agent would be selected to fill the vacancy of county extension agent. She stressed that this would take time.

She further noted that there was a suggestion made for a 50 percent reduction in the amount of money the government will provide for this type of work. There may be a further delay now that Gov. Mark White has put a freeze on spending any more money for hiring.

From babies with clubbed feet to young men that fall out of cranes, orthopedist Dr. James Herbertson and his wife Sandy have moved to Hereford to care for bone, ligament, and joint problems.

"An orthopedist is concerned with bones, ligaments, muscles, and joints in the body," said Dr. Herbertson. "We treat patients from children up to adults that are suffering from bursitus, arthritis, and injuries, anything to do with muscles and joints," explained Dr. Herbert-

He and his wife are the first in the orthopedic field to open an office in Hereford, making treatment more convenient to area residents.

The doctor did his undergraduate work at the University of Colorado, went to medical school at the University of Michigan and served his residency in Michigan.

In Ann Arbor, Michigan, where the couple lived the 15 years prior to moving to Oklahoma, Herbertson had a three-man office with two nurses -one being his wife.

"Before working in the office, I worked in a hospital that did open heart, neuro, orthopedics, ENT, and plastics (cosmetic and injury)," said Mrs. Herbertson She always assists her husband in the operating room during surgery.

While in Ann Arbor, the Herbertsons were the medical contacts for athletic teams of the University of Michigan and the local high schools.

They are used to working sportsrelated cases and seem to enjoy most working with young people.

One of Dr. Herbertson's goals for Hereford is a community service project for athletes.

"Hopefully, in the coming fall, we plan to start a sports evaluation program for people with sport injuries on the junior and senior high school levels," said he explained.

The project will include an open class in which the doctor will make a free evaluation then make a referral to the family physician.

Medical advice and how to care for the body while participating in sports will be offered at the sports evaluation seminars.

Herbertson said. "You not only see the patients before, but you see them afterward and you see the progress they have made. It's nice to see the end result."

Benjamin Franklin is credited with saying "In this world nothing is certain but death and taxes."

While we all must pay some taxes, now there's a way to pay less. It's with an Individual Retirement Account. Many preferred the six-day work week and say they are sorry today that their competitors force them to open for seven.

Whether the law's repeal is ringing up more profits for retailers or more sales tax revenues for state and city coffers is too early to say, according to most store operators and the state comptroller's office.

"At best, we're breaking even," said Alan Schwartz, an executive officer with La Feria, a San Antoniobased junior department store chain that caters mostly to moderateincome families.

"Sunday is a decent day, but it is taking a little away from Saturday (sales) and a little away from Monday," he said. "If we had our druthers, we wouldn't be open on Sunday,'

Some bigger retailers said the same thing.

"...As far as we can tell, almost all the (Sunday) sales are being transferred from other days in the week, particularly Saturday and Monday," said Lasker Meyer, chairman of Houston-based Foley's, which has a chain of 17 stores.

"The responses I get fall exactly along the lines of what people said last year. The ones for repeal say it's been good for business. Those who were against repeal tell you it's not made any difference," said Moore, adding that his group is not planning to push for reinstating the blue law.

"I'm not going to say it's a lost cause. But our association has no plans to get involved in it again," he

While some members of Moore's group favored blue law repeal, the retailers association represents many small businesses, who were especially concerned about competition forcing them to open on Sunday.

25 out for girls' track

By GARY CHRISTENSEN Sports Editor

Twenty-five girls are out for track and field at Hereford, including nine with varsity experience and 14 sophomores.

Coach Martha Emerson reports that three juniors and eight seniors are practicing with the track team, which opens its season Saturday at the XIT Relays in Dalhart.

Two of the HHS tracksters with varsity experience qualified for regionals last year-Selma Moreno and Stephanie Thomas, both seniors.

Moreno qualified for regionals in the 3,200-meter run last year. As a sophomore, she placed fifth in the Knicks 19-10.

Thomas, who qualified for regionals last year in the shot put, also competes in the discus event.

The other athletes with varsity experience, their year in school and their events, are: Donann Cummings, senior, hurdler; Francis Flores, senior, 1,600 and 3,200-meter runs; Eva Medrano, senior, 400 and 800-meter runs; Delia Rodriguez, senior, 400-meter run; Judy Sanders, senior, sprints; Terry Valdez, senior, 800-meter run; and Michelle Mason, junior, relays and sprints.

Other girls out for track include these, as Coach Emerson notes: Katie Ramey, junior, shot put and discus; Jeanette Mumau, seophomore, shot put and discus; Nancy Garza, sophomore, 1,600 and 3,200-meter runs; Crystal Ball. sophomore, sprints, long jump and triple jump; Lisa Garza, sophomore, relays and sprints; Lynn Hanyen, sophomore, sprints; Kamille Martin, sophomore, sprints;

About the 1986 girls' track team, Coach Emerson said, "We've got three girls (Nancy Garza, Selma Moreno and Francis Flores) that can get some points in the mile and twomile, and two or three others who can back up these three.

"Our spring relay team should be pretty good.

"We don't have quite as much speed as we had last year. We're about the same in distance running. "We will probably do well with Stephanie Thomas and Jeanette Mumau in the shot put and discus."

Coach Emerson will direct a team this year that has no high jumper, and just one competing in the long jump and triple jump, although there are two or three other possiblilities for entrants in the long jump and triple jump.

On the second weekend of the season, the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce Invitational is scheduled.

The rest of the season schedule is: West Texas Relays, Odessa, March 14-15; Canyon Reef Relays, Snyder, March 22; Lubbock Invitational, Lubbock, April 5; Panhandle Invitational, Panhandle, April 12; and District 3-5A meet, Lubbock, April

A regional qualifiers meet will be held on April 26 at a site to be announced. Regional qualifiers will go to the Region I meet on May 2-3 in Lubbock, and the state meet is set for May 9-10 in Austin.

AUSTIN (AP) - Class A semifinalists Snook and Godley open the girls' state basketball tournament Thursday. The tournament also includes two teams with perfect records - Corpus Christi Calallen and Houston Yates.

Calallen, 35-0, plays a first-round 4A game against Levelland Thursday night. Yates, 24-0, opens Friday night in 5A against Victoria.

Teams with only one loss include College Station A&M Consolidated, 31-1, and its semifinal opponent in 4A, McKinney 32-1, and Tyler Lee, 29-1, which plays Irving MacArthur in the first round.

The Detroit Pistons know they are playing well when they can have an off-game and still win.

"Tonight, we were a little flat and we didn't play our best basketball," said Pistons forward Kelly Tripucka, who scored 30 points in Detroit's 111-104 NBA victory over the Los Angeles Clippers Wednesday night. "The bottom line is winning and playing well."

Winning is what the Pistons have done a lot of lately. The latest victory was their ninth straight, tying a franchise record set in 1970, and extended their home winning streak to a record 13.

But despite injuries to Los Angeles veterans Marques Johnson, Junior Bridgeman and Cedric Maxwell, the Pistons didn't clinch the victory until Isiah Thomas and Tripucka made tonio.

Elderly couple live in hospital lobby

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) - An elderly wheelchair-bound woman whose life savings was taken by a mugger says she has been through worse situations and she will survive her current tragedy.

Maria Diaz, 74, has lived with her aging husband for the past two years in the lobby and cafeteria of a local

Monday, she accepted a ride to a bank with a man she met in a cab. She told police he took her to a baseball field in the southeast part of town and took her life savings of $250.

An unidentified man found her crying in her wheelchair at the baseball field.

"I cried for myself and my husband," she told The San Antonio Express-News, speaking Spanish through an interpreter.

"A professional rat," she said, took her belongings.

"If I was younger, I would have punched him," Mrs. Diaz said.

But she added, "Worse things than this have happened to me and wonderful things, too. Now I just have to start over.'

Mrs. Diaz and her husband have an apartment at a public housing project. But Ross McLerran, director of community relations at the countyowned Medical Center Hospital, said their apartment had been vandalized several times.

They have parked at the hospital, he said, apparently because they fear further break-ins.

"They just feel it's their sanctuary," McLerran said Wednesday. McLerran said the couple used to spend the day at a downtown outpatient clinic, then ride a bus to the hospital to spend the night.

Now, he said, they stay at the hospital full-time.

McLerran said Mrs. Diaz and her husband "have refused all help. They're just an independent couple. They just want to be left alone.

"As long as they don't create a public nuisance, we have allowed them to stay here. It's a humanitarian thing," he said.

Government publication details the details of American life eight 6.5-ounce cans. While overall

WASHINGTON (AP) - The typical American consumes eight cans of tuna annually. The average household spends $1,317 on fuel for the car. And today's males seem to be having more luck than females in holding down their weight.

Those are among the myriad statistics, essential and esoteric, compiled in the government's colossal compendium of information, The Statistical Abstract of the United States.

The 985-page 1986 edition was published Wednesday, the 106th annual feeding for those who work with or just enjoy the numerical details of life in America.

The volume includes nearly 1,600 tables, including 102 new ones this year, and charts on dozens of social, political and economic subjects.

Compiled by the Census Bureau from a variety of sources, the Government Printing Office sells about 36,000 of the books annually at $27 for the hardbound, $22 for the more popular paperback.

While magazines, stores and selfhelp groups offer continual aid in the battle of the bulge fought by many Americans, one table indicates that on average little has changed in recent years.

Men aged 18 to 24 weighed an average 165 pounds in the early 1970s, and dropped to 163 in this decade, the volume reports, while females in the same age group edged up from 132 pounds to 134.

In the 25 to 34 group men dropped from 176 to 173 while women went from 140 to 142 on average. For those aged 35 to 44 men held steady at 178,

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) - An elementary school student was honored Wednesday for a letter about the explosion of the space shuttle Challenger that the executive director of the Texas Aeronautics Commission said speaks for schoolchildren all over the world.

Suzel Galan, a fourth-grader at Stafford Elementary School, received a color photograph of the seven astronauts who died in a Jan. 28 explosion, along with a replica of their official shoulder patch.

Suzel wrote to John Eslinger of the commission staff that she felt sorry for teacher Christa McAuliffe, her family and the other astronauts but added, "I still want to be an astronaut because that can't ruin my dreams. They're all very special people to us. Because they had

BURGANDIES

The great Burgandies of France, which are among the rarest of wines, come from a single slope called the Cote d' Or (Golden Slope). It is some thirty miles in length. Reds come from the northern strip of a dozen miles called the Cote de Nuits. Both reds and whites come from the southern stretch called the Cote de Begune: A tiny section north of the Golden Slope produces Chablis. However, half of the Burgandies we drink come from southern-Burgandy. mostly Bequiolais and Macon, Barely a third of all Burgandies come from the Golden Slope. Many of these wines bear the names of towns whose lines cut across the Slope. Vineyards officially rated Great Growths (Grand Crus) and First Growths (Premiers Crus) are rare.

Trips to the grocery store for those cans may help contribute to the reported annual spending for motor fuel, which was highest in the South at $1,385 per person, and lowest in the Northeast at $1.254.

Other facts of American life in the new abstract included:

-Flower gardening tops the list of favorite leisure time activities, named by 47 percent of people aged 18 and over. It was followed by swimming, 41 percent, and vegetable gardening, 40 percent.

-Some 15 percent of Americans lack health insurance. Eighty-six percent of women and 84 percent of men have some sort of health insurance, most obtaining coverage through their employers.

-Seat belts are always used by 17.3 percent of women, compared with 17.1 percent of males.

-Life expectancy for newborns is 74.7 years. But people who have already made it to 75 can look forward to another 11 years of life.

-There are 1,027,700 Americans in hospitals on a typical day, down from 1,401,900 in 1960.

Then those who had seen it happen told how the demon-possessed man had been healed. And everyone begged Jesus to go away and leave them alone (for a deep wave of fear had swept over them). So He returned to the boat and left, crossing back to the other side of the lake. The man who had been demon-possessed begged to go too, but lesus said no.

'Go back to your family." He told him, "and tell them what a wonderful thing God has done for you." So he went all through the city telling everyone about Jesus' mightly miracle. On the other side of the lake the crowds received

Retired teacher builds palace

ODESSA, Texas (AP) -Retired teacher Doug McLemore recently applied his geometry knowledge and carpentry skill to build the Taj Mahal - for the birds.

McLemore, 59, who retired last year after 33 years as a teacher at Odessa High School, began making birdhouses for the pleasure of

"He's certainly enjoying his retirement," said his wife, Virginia. "He worked 14 hours a day for two weeks making the Taj Mahal. He was so wrapped up in it, he didn't want to do anything

"A lady bought one for her husband's Father's Day present and an Englishman bought one for a couple's wedding present," he said. They sold for $100 each.

McLemore learned woodworking by trial and error, he said. He never took a course.

"My finger slipped on the sander once and I sanded off the ends of two fingers. It hurt. All the tools scare me, so I treat them with great respect," he said.

"I want to get into carving wood carving and whittling. Those are the things I'm going to learn to do," he said. "I used to whittle a lot when I was young. Back in the war, I made airplanes using white

Q. Are there any recent changes to itemized medical expense deductions?

A. Yes. Lodging expenses such as hotel bills are deductible as medical expenses when incurred while traveling away from home to seek specialized medical treatment or treatment unavailable in the home area. This provision includes not only lodging expenses of the individual seeking medical care but also those of someone (such as a parent) accompanying a child. The maximum deductible amount for lodging expenses is $50 per day for each eligible in-

Q. How do I deduct costs for drugs and medical in-

A. The only drugs you can deduct are prescription drugs and insulin. Do not include drugs as a separate item. Simply total all of your medical expenses including drugs, medical insurance, doctor, dentist and hospit bills, etc. Then reduce the total by five percent of your adjusted gross income and deduct the remaining 95 percent. For example, if your adjusted gross income is $30,000, you would be able to deduct the amount that your medical expenses exceeds

Crop production value dropped five percent

WASHINGTON (AP) - The value of U.S. crop production dropped 5 percent last year to an estimated $75.5 billion from $79.4 billion in 1984, according to an annual report by the Agriculture Department.

Farmers harvested bumper crops in 1985, but market prices were down for some key commodities. The record year was 1982, when total crop production was worth $82 billion.

The record 1985 corn harvest, the traditional crop leader, was worth $21.3 billion, up from about $20.1 billion in 1984. Last year's average price at the farm was projected at $2.41 per bushel, compared with $2.62

Officials cautioned that the estimates were based on production multiplied by estimated prices for the various commodities so far this season. The dollar amounts are not the same as "farm marketings" of crops, which reflect the value of commodities actually sold by

An advocacy group, the National Organization for the Reform of Marijuana Laws, recently said marijuana production in 1985 was worth $18.6 billion and was worth more to growers than corn. If NORML's estimate of mari-

According to USDA estimates, the next most valuable crop in 1985 was soybeans, worth $10.8 billion, up from $10.7 billion in 1984 because of larger production. The farm price per bushel, compared with $5.78 in 1984.

Baled hay, always a big-money item, was worth $9.7 billion last year, compared with $10.2 billion in 1984, although prices dropped to an average of $69.10 per ton from $72.70.

Other top-valued crops in 1985 and how they stacked up with 1984 includ-

-Wheat, $7.65 billion and $3.16 per bushel, compared with $8.76 billion

-Cotton, $3.6 billion and 55.5 cents per pound, unchanged from the 1984 value, although prices were down from 57.8 cents in 1984.

-Tobacco, $2.56 billion and $1.651 per pound, compared with $3.12 billion and $1.807 per pound.

-Sorghum, $2.41 billion and $2.19 per bushel, compared with $2.05 billion and $2.39.

The report showed California continued as the leader in crop value with $7.48 billion in 1985, down from $8.22 billion in 1984. Illinois was next at $6.3 billion, up from $5.59 billion in 1984. Iowa, at $5.95 billion, was up from $5.67 billion in 1984.

Tongue in cheek memo circulated about budget cuts

WASHINGTON (AP) - A tonguein-cheek memo being circulated inside the Agriculture Department offers joking instructions on how government employees are to cope with Gramm-Rudman spending cutbacks while traveling.

The Gramm-Rudman balancedbudget law takes effect March 1 and will require the department to reduce spending by nearly $1.3 billion in the fiscal year that ends Sept. 30. Most agencies will have their budgets reduced 4.3 percent.

According to the fake instructions in the memo, all federal employees will have to use low-cost facilities while traveling on "detail orders" where government accommodations are not available.

Detail orders is bureaucratese for when federal employees are assigned temporarily to other agencies, often outside their home bases.

"Arrangements have been made to house government personnel in YM-CAs, halfway houses, mental institutions, resident drug treatment centers, public shelters and various correctional institutions available in most larger cities throughout the United States," the memo said.

The memo was dated Jan. 21, 1986, and printed on stationery used by the Agricultural Marketing Service. A copy was passed on anonymously to The Associated Press.

A spokesman for the agency, Jim Zaimes, said Monday when asked about the memo that he couldn't

when boarding the return flight." U.S. farm policy may hurt Canada

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Food Security Act of 1985, a massive piece of legislation that revises U.S. farm programs along more marketoriented lines, "will cause Canadian income to suffer more than U.S. farm income," according to an analysis by a private think-tank,

Under the new law, government price supports will be lower, an adjustment authorized by Congress in hopes that lower prices will make U.S. grain and other commodities more competitive in the world

The Chase analysis says "U.S. farm income is protected by target prices, which are frozen for wheat and corn at last year's level" of $4.38 and $3.03 per bushel, respectively. When market prices fall below the targets, "deficiency payments" are made to farmers to make up the dif-

"In addition," the report said, "higher participation in U.S. commodity programs will cause a large increase in total government payments, which will contribute to higher U.S. farm income."

The Agriculture Department, however, has projected U.S. farm income to be lower this year than in 1985, despite the rise in government

In their report, Chase economists said that large U.S. stocks of wheat and feed grains - along with the lower price support loan rates - will cause American farmers to market their 1986 crops instead of forfeiting grain to the government. Farmers have the option to do that instead of repaying price support loans, which is done usually only when market prices are above the loan rate.

"That will cause market prices and, therefore, export prices to fall with the loan rates," the report said.

Chase Econometrics. Improved varieties

LUBBOCK - Improved use of new forage varieties can help livestock producers counteract gaps that occur between winter and summer feeds.

can help feed gaps

Texas Tech University Thornton Professor Arthur G. Matches of plant and soil science said, "The major problem facing livestock producers in the High Plains, as well as in other areas of Texas and the U.S., is the lack of a dependable supply of pasture through the growing season and over the entire year."

Dr. Matches, who was recently named a Fellow of the Crop Science Society of America, said native forages such as buffalograss, sideoats grama and other warm season species produce from late spring to fall, leaving a gap in high quality pasture till cool season wheat is ready for grazing in the fall.

"The amount of wheat grazing depends on rainfall," Matches said. "But, even with adequate rain, there is generally a gap between when the native pasture runs out and the wheat is ready for grazing. Another gap occurs when the animals must be removed from the wheat in the spring and the time the native pasture begins to grow."

Matches said there are more than 1,500 grass species in the U.S. and more than 4,000 different legumes in North America, but only a few are utilized in commercial agriculture.

"Giant steps in forage improvement have resulted from the introduction of forages not previously grown or found in specific areas, Matches said. "Therefore, we are directing particular emphasis at evaluating different grasses and legumes to identify those which may provide opportunities to even out the feed flow under the semi-arid conditions of the Southern High Plains."

Matchers said legumes are being given special consideration because their inclusion in pasture mixtures results in higher animal gains. Also, soil fertility is improved by fixation of atmospheric nitrogen by bacteria in nodules on the legume's roots. More than 2,000 laboratory analyses are conducted per year to determine the feed quality of different forages to determine which forages might give superior animal performance.

"Knowing the animal response per animal and per acre from grazing trials is the ultimate test of a worth of the forage or management practice to the producer," Matches said.

Future research will place increased emphasis on determining the potential animal production of the best forages found in preliminary and secondary tests.

"Farmers are beginning to look to grazing livestock as a supplement to their crops," Matches said.
