Mattox vows to remain in office even if convicted of bribery

AUSTIN (AP) — Attorney General Jim Mattox says charges of commercial bribery against him show a "difficult twist of logic," and vows to remain in office even if he is convicted.

He said prosecutors "looked for 2 1/2 months and couldn't find anything and they dreamed up the most trumped-up thing they could find to put out there."

Mattox was indicted on a charge of commercial bribery in an indictment that alleged he threatened to block the public bond business of a Houston law firm that was trying at the time to interrogate his sister.

"I think the ones of you who have read the indictment realize how profoundly twisted the whole matter had to be for them to put that forth. You can't have a bribe that comes out of a threat," Mattox said Thursday at a news conference.

He said the commercial bribery law was intended to be used "in a kickback situation."

"I noticed that you all had a very difficult time in trying to write and address the fact that somewhere another a threat became a bribe. It's a difficult twist of logic," he said.

At one point, the tough-talking attorney general suggested the matter could have been disposed with more directly in the old days.

"I can remember back in Texas history when a fellow used to be able to either whip the socks off another fellow that insulted or offended his family or his wife, and as a matter of fact even go to the point of killing him at times," Mattox said.

"I don't know what Texas has come to — now we got a district attorney over here who gets mad at me because he said I threatened somebody," he said.

Asked if he would resign in the event he is convicted, Mattox's one-word reply was "no."

Mattox repeated his accusation that Mobil Oil Corp. "conceived" and "orchestrated" the indictment, handed down Tuesday by a Travis County grand jury. Mobil has denied it had anything to do with any criminal action against Mattox.

The lawsuit between Mobil and the state involves mineral rights on Clinton Manges' South Texas ranch. Manges, a $50,000 contributor to Mattox's 1982 campaign, filed the $1.67 billion suit last year over disputed oil leases, and the state joined on Manges' side because Texas owns some of the mineral rights.

Mattox said he did not intend to use state resources of his agency as he prepares his defense, but he said he would be entitled to do so if he wanted to.

"I consider it an attack on my office — there's no doubt about that," he said. "It obviously arose out of a piece of litigation that the attorney general's office is trying to win."

He said he planned to spend four to five hours a day working on his defense, but he said since he usually works 18 hours a day, that would still leave 12 hours of work a day on usual state business.

Mattox said Austin lawyer Roy Minton would be one of his attorneys. Minton has represented several indicted public officials, including former Speaker Billy Clayton, who was cleared of federal bribery and conspiracy charges in 1980.

"I regard myself simply as a soldier in a war," Mattox said. "It's a war that takes some casualties at times. It's a war where I got into a fight with the big boys, and the big boys play plenty rough."

Mattox was accused of threatening to withhold approval of bond packages prepared by the Houston law firm of Fulbright & Jaworski,

Whiteface Victory Squad

Hereford High School's student fan organization has made two big changes this year: it's now coed and has been retitled the Whiteface Victory Squad, no longer called the Pep Club. Ninety-eight people belong in the group, co-sponsor Dianne Rowten said, whose purpose is to support the Herd teams and, long with the HHS cheerleaders, help promote spirit. Vanessa LaFuente is president, Gloria Zuniga vice president and Pauline Porter the other co-sponsor.

Demos push for War Powers Act

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democrats, in their "final position" on the future of the U.S. Marine contingent in Lebanon, are pushing to legally bind President Reagan the 60 to 90-day time limit spelled out in the War Powers Act.

Under legislation introduced with a 29-0 endorsement by the Democratic caucus Thursday, the president would have to withdraw the troops within that time frame unless Congress declared war or otherwise authorized them to remain longer.

The legislation declares that the clock started to run on Aug. 29, when the first two of four Marines to die in shelling attacks in Beirut were killed.

"This is my final position and the final position of the Democrats in caucus," Senate Minority Leader Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., said. He added, however, that negotiations had not broken down.

Majority Leader Howard H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn., expressed "the hope that we can still exercise a degree of cooperation in bringing this problem to a bipartisan solution."

Earlier in the day, Baker offered a compromise under which Reagan would ask Congress to act on the matter "within the scope of the War Powers Act" but would not invoke its time-limit provisions.

Congress would then pass legislation authorizing the Marines to stay, which Baker said would "almost certainly" not be an open ended, or blank check, authorization.

This was not enough for the Democrats, who had voted unanimously on Wednesday to demand that Reagan invoke on his own the part of the act that limits his authority to keep troops in a hostile zone.

Since Reagan has refused to do this, maintaining it would infringe on his powers as commander-in-chief, the Democrats decided to introduce a bill that would declare the time limits in effect.

An aide to the GOP leadership, who spoke on condition he not be identified, said Baker believes the issue is still open to negotiation despite Byrd's "final position" statement.

But Sen. Claiborne Pell, D-R.I., senior Democrat on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and one of the principals in the negotiations, said, "I think the two sides are pretty far apart."

Rep. Clement Zablocki,

D-Wis., chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, also presented a bleak picture of the prospects for negotiations on the House side of the Capitol.

"We have given as much as we can," said Zablocki, who started with a six-month extension for the U.S. troops and lengthened it to 18 months in response to White House objections.

He said the White House objected to any limit because "that would be recognizing that Congress has the authority to do this."

Workhorse of the Year

Truman Hazelrigg, left, was the recipient of the "Workhorse of the Year" award at the annual installation banquet of the Hereford Kiwanis Club Thursday night. Steve Nieman, outgoing president, presented the award to Hazelrigg on behalf of the club. By secret ballot, members select the person who has accomplished the most during a club year.

Hazelrigg Kiwanis 'Workhorse of year'

New officers were installed and Truman Hazelrigg was honored with the "Workhorse of the Year" award when the Hereford Kiwanis Club held its annual installation banquet Thursday night at Hereford Country Club.

The banquet also featured a special presentation by Jack Frost, governor of the Texas-Oklahoma District, and musical entertainment by Kiwanian Johnny Ray Watson. Approximately 135 Kiwanians, wives and guests attended the banquet.

Steve Nieman, 1982-83 club president, cited Hazelrigg for his chairmanship of the Mop & Broom Sale and other activities before presenting the coveted club award. Members select the recipient by secret ballot.

John Stagner was installed as the new president for 1983-84. Other officers installed by Bud Eades, Lt. Gov. of Division 33, included: Truman Hazelrigg, president-elect; Bill Bankston and Gene Brock, vice-presidents; Danny Boyer, secretary; Bartley Dowell, treasurer.

New directors installed were Tony Edwards, Terry Langehennig, Leroy McDonald, Bub Sparks and Roger Williams. Jan Harwell is the club's sweetheart for the new year. Holdover directors are Tom Burdett, Dean Herring, Mal Manchee, Gerald Nunley and Robert Rhoton. Retiring directors are Waldo Baxter, Gene Brock, Ed Coplen, Gerry Hollinger and Larry Pagetti.

Boyer introduced special guests and the dinner and also handed out perfect attendance pins to members. Bartley Dowell received a 33-year pin for perfect attendance to highlight the awards, and Wayne Phillips was cited for 29 years. A total of 30 pins were presented for varying years of attendance.

The special appearance of the district governor was to honor the club for attaining its goal of more than 100 members this year. The club signed up 46 new members and now has 104 members on the roster. Frost, Oklahoma City, praised the club for its work in the district.

Prison warden Estelle resigns

HOUSTON (AP) — The resignation of state prison director W.J. Estelle signifies that "the rules of the game have changed" and marks a "new day" of increased state and federal government influence in the prison system, state officials say.

Estelle, citing the Legislature's rejection of more than half of the Texas Department of Correction's proposed $1.5 billion prison budget, publicly announced Thursday he will resign within the next three to six months.

Harry Whittington of Austin, state prison board member, said "a lot of changes" will be made in the prison system, which is under a wide-ranging federal court order.

"The Legislature is beginning to ask a lot more questions and require a lot more things. We're in a changing time," Whittington said.

State Rep. Ray Keller, R-Duncanville and chairman of the House Law Enforcement Committee, said Estelle's resignation is "a loss to the state."

"But at the same time," Keller said, "I think it's part of what's more and more being realized as a new day in the corrections system."

Steve Dial, an administrative aide to Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, worked with Estelle and prison officials during the 1983 Legislature, when TDC officials got less than half the $1.5 billion budget they sought.

"I was down at the Board of Corrections meeting on Monday and one of the assistant directors said it appeared 'the rules of the game have changed.' Perhaps that's as good a way as any to sum up the situation," Dial said. "The rules of the game have changed."

"It's my impression that in past years the Legislature had a tendency to pretty much stay out of the operations of the system down there," he added.

When Estelle leaves the agency 12 years, the administration will be restructured, officials said.

"We plan to make a total management study of TDC and restructure it," said Board of Corrections Director Bob Gunn of Wichita Falls. "Then we'll know the type of person we want to look for" to replace Estelle, he said.

"I'm of the opinion there's got to be a lot of change in there, and human nature being what it is, it may be difficult to make those changes with the existing people," Whittington said.

"I think we need to clean house," Keller said. "There are obviously some internal problems within the day-to-day management of the prison system."

New Kiwanis Club Officers

president; Bill Bankston and Gene Brock, vice presidents; Bartley Dowell, treasurer, and Bud Eades, division lieutenant governor and installing officer.

Analysis yields new transmission from airliner

TOKYO (AP) — A new analysis shows the pilot of the South Korean airliner shot down by a Soviet jet fighter reported rapid decompression in the plane after it was hit by a missile, an official said today.

Matsumi Suzuki, director of the Japan Sound Research Center, said in a television interview that the pilot radioed "rapid decompression" 50 seconds after the fighter reported to its ground control that "the target is destroyed."

He said continued analysis of radio communication between the pilot of the Korean Air Lines jumbo jet and Tokyo's Narita Airport had deciphered several garbled phrases.

Suzuki later told The Associated Press that his center had been able to delineate from the tapes several phrases previously unintelligible because of static. They included:

- "All engine."
- "Rapid decompression."
- "One-zero-one."
- "Two-delta."

The meaning of the phrases was not immediately known.

Previously the last distinguishable words from the pilot were "KE 007 to Tokyo Radio" 48 seconds after the Soviets said the aircraft had been hit. KE 007 was the aircraft's call number.

A Soviet interceptor fired two missiles at the Boeing 747 on Sept. 1 as it flew off-course over the Soviet island of Sakhalin. All 269 people aboard are presumed dead.

Honda Civic CR-X named fuel efficient car

DETROIT (AP) — The 1984-model Honda Civic CR-X is the nation's most fuel efficient car, replacing the Volkswagen Rabbit Diesel in ratings by the Environmental Protection Agency, The Detroit Free Press reported today.

The CR-X, a two-passenger hatchback with a 1.3 liter four-cylinder gasoline engine, received the top rating of 51 miles per gallon in an EPA report to be released this weekend, the Free Press said.

The rating was the highest ever reached by a gasoline-powered engine in EPA tests, the newspaper said.

The Datsun Nissan Sentra was second at 50 miles per gallon, the Rabbit and the Toyota Corolla at 47 were third, and the Ford Escort was next with a rating of 46 mpg, unidentified auto industry sources told the Free Press. All of the cars are 1984 diesel models.

VW's Rabbit had been the EPA's top-rated car since the 1978 model year.

Ford's two-liter, four cylinder diesel engine is built by its Japanese affiliate, Toyo Kogyo, which builds Mazda autos. The engine will be offered in Ford Tempo and Mercury Lynx and Topaz models, the newspaper said. Escort is the automaker's first U.S. diesel.

The Corolla also is the Japanese carmaker's first U.S. diesel, while Nissan introduced its Sentra diesel during the 1983 model year, the Free Press said.

10 bitten after Black

Widow spider's eggs hatch

DANBURY, Texas (AP) — The next time students in Jack Cameron's science classes want to learn about spiders, Cameron will point them to the nearest natural science textbook, not to the real thing.

A potentially interesting learning experience turned out to be a painful lesson earlier this week when six students in the Danbury Middle School were hospitalized overnight and four others were treated and released after being bitten by newly hatched black widow spiders.

A student had brought a black widow spider he had found to school. Cameron put the insect in a glass jar with a tin lid on his desk. The lid contained several small punctures so the spider could breathe.

Hidden in the spider's web was an egg case. On Monday a student noticed spiders so small they could barely be seen were crawling over the science teacher's desk.

About 400 spiders had hatched over the weekend and crawled through the air holes of the jar.

A hospital spokesman said none of the students required antivenin.

Black widow bites can result in respiratory paralysis if not treated. But in most cases victims experience pain where they are bitten and muscle cramps, said Ron Tisdell, poison information consultant at the Southeast Poison Center in Galveston.

School officials said the students are back in school, although the six students hospitalized have complained of headaches and stomach cramps. Two of the students were absent Thursday.

Child care facilities 'real problem'

AUSTIN (AP) — Many of the complaints received about day care facilities for children can be blamed on a reduced work force, the Texas Department of Human Resources board was told Thursday.

It is obviously a real problem," said J. Livingston Kosberg, Houston, board chairman.

"How much of it is related to the Department of Human Resources we can't tell at this point," he said.

Kosberg said he talked with Gov. Mark White on Thursday about published reports of abuse and neglect. "He expressed his concern over the situation," Kosberg said.

He said part of the problem is the reduction of personnel in the child care licensing division from 600 in 1977 to 240 at the present time. Cliff Martin, director of licensing, said the staff of 600 employees regulated 12,000 children in day care facilities. Now, the much smaller staff regulates 21,000 children.

The Legislature has authorized 265 employees for 1984-85.

"However, I am confident that if we had 200 more inspectors, complaints of abuse and neglect would not go away," Kosberg said.

DHR Commissioner Marlin Johnston said his department was concentrating on "the very serious and complex situation."

"It needs to be handled delicately so it is done right," Johnston said. "We are asking that all the cases named in recent published reports be reviewed. It will take a few weeks to do a definitive job."

He also told the board he would give them an outline in about a week of department plans for child care regulation, with a full report later.

The preliminary report on licensing of child care facilities was presented at a briefing for the three members, all appointed by White within the last year.

Martin said Texas has 7,057 licensed day care facilities, which are inspected at least once a year, plus 14,073 registered family day care homes, which are not inspected regularly by the state.

A registered home may not contain more than six children.

Martin said there are 475,000 children authorized for the licensed facilities and about 70,000 in registered homes.

Licensed facilities formerly were inspected as many as three times a year.

David Beard, head of day care licensing, said the department abandoned random inspection of registered family homes several years ago because most of the violations uncovered had to do with record keeping and paperwork.

"We have been looking into reviving that process," Martin said.

Beard said the "basic concept" in setting up a separate category for small day care homes was "we would inspect and regulate the day care facilities where they have as many as 300 children but parents would take the responsibility for checking on the registered family homes."

Actually only about 125 employees are engaged in inspecting day care homes and investigating complaints.

There have been 342 complaints of child abuse in day care facilities this year, compared with 79 in 1979.

"This is only about 1 or 1½ percent of the complaints filed," said board member Thomas M. Dunning, Dallas. "This seems to be a pretty good average."

A total of 146 licenses and registrations have been revoked or denied this year.

"We could have an inspector an hour a day at every day care facility and not catch all of these complaints," said Kosberg. "You can have a complaint five minutes after an inspector leaves."

Lebanese warplane crashes after divebombing Druse

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — One of the Lebanese air force's six warplanes crashed in the Mediterranean today as the jets staged their first combat sortie of the 13-day civil war, divebombing Druse and PLO soldiers in the hills above Beirut, officials said.

U.S. Marine spokesman Warrant Officer Charles Rowe reported the crash of the British-made Hunter Hawker jet but said it could not be immediately determined if the jet was shot down or crashed because of mechanical problems. A Lebanese army spokesman, Capt. Yousek Atriasi, said the jet was not shot down and would not elaborate further.

The pilot bailed out and was picked up by a U.S. Navy ship stationed off the Beirut coast and was being treated aboard the helicopter carrier Iwo Jima, Rowe said.

Shortly after the daybreak bombing sortie, the Marine base at Beirut's airport was hit by mortar fire, and shells later slammed near the U.S. and British embassies. No injuries were reported in those attacks, and the Marines did not retaliate.

The air raid by the Lebanese air force marked the first time in 10 years that its warplanes staged bombing sorties. The target, reportedly beaten back by the raid, was a Druse force attacking the mountaintop town of Souk el-Gharb with active support from the Palestine Liberation Organization, Lebanese command communiques said.

It was the first air force intervention in the civil war between leftist Druse Moslems, rightist Christian militias and the army in central Lebanon's Aley and Chouf mountains. The fighting started after Israeli troops evacuated the area.

Four mortar rounds hit the Marine zone about 8:35 a.m. (2:35 a.m. EDT), sending the 1,200 American peacekeepers ducking into bunkers and foxholes, Associated Press photographer Don Mell said by telephone.

No Marine injuries were reported in the salvo that struck as a heavy battle appeared to be raging between the Lebanese army and Druse fighters near the neighboring Druse-held town of Shweifat, about 300 yards from the Marines' eastern-most lines, Mell said.

Four Marines have been killed and 31 wounded by artillery shells fired from the mountains landing in the Marine compound since last month.

The air force sorties set ablaze artillery and armor of insurgent forces trying to encircle the town, located nine miles east of Beirut, the communiques said. The bombings followed five days of repeated attacks by the Druse against the army's U.S.-trained 8th Brigade.

The communiques said the brigade staged an air-supported counterattack at midmorning to mop up surrounding hills from attacking Palestinians.

State and privately owned radio stations said Druse gunners unleashed a massive barrage of artillery and rocket fire on residential neighborhoods in Christian east Beirut in an apparent retaliation for the air action.

There was no immediate report on the number of people killed and wounded in the bombing runs. Police said Thursday the Lebanese casualty toll stood at 653 dead and 1,484 wounded in the renewed civil war.

The Druse strongholds in and around the neighboring central mountain towns of Aley, Aitaf and Keifoun also were blasted by the six British-made Hawker Hunter jets that comprise Lebanon's air force, the communiques said.

The Marines' zone is within artillery range of Souk el-Gharb, eight miles southeast of Beirut and four miles southeast of the Marine base.

The communiques said the attackers included units from the dissident guerrillas of PLO Col. Saeed Mousa who rebelled against PLO chairman Yasser Arafat's leadership with Syria's support in May.

Druse leaders have denied that anyone but their fighters have been involved in their war against the army and militiamen of the rightist Christian Phalange Party, which is headed by President Amin Gemayel's father, Pierre.

"The dissident Palestinians made repeated attempts at dawn to encircle the army garrison in Souk el-Gharb. The army staged a defensive military operation in which all weapons, including the air force, were used," the communiques said.

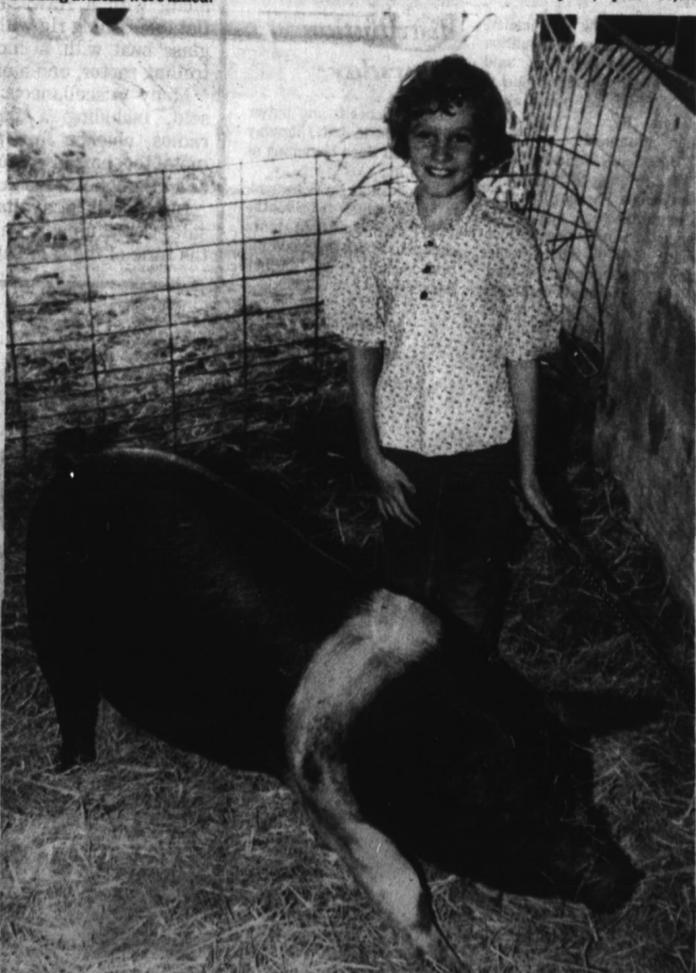

The town also overlooks the Gemayel's suburban presidential palace and U.S. Ambassador Robert S. Dillon's residence in the pine forests of Baabda, five miles east of the capital.

The Lebanese government believes President Reagan's recent decision to let the Marines call in air strikes from the U.S. fleet off the Beirut coast was partly designed to prevent the fall of Souk el-Gharb to the rebels, officials here said.

Reagan's decision authorizes the Marine commander in Beirut to request air support in case Lebanese army positions vital to the Marines' security are threatened, according to the officials, who requested anonymity.

In Washington, Senate Democrats introduced legislation Thursday that would legally bind President Reagan to withdraw the Marines within the 60- to 90-day time limit spelled out in the War Powers Act, unless Congress declared war or authorized them to remain longer. The legislation declares that the clock started to run Aug. 29, when the first two Marines to die in shelling attacks were killed.

which represents Mobil, unless a lawyer for the firm stopped trying to subpoena Mattox's sister for a deposition.

Mobil's lawyers wanted to talk to Janice Mattox in hopes of getting a Laredo judge taken off the case by showing alleged political ties between him and the Mattox family.

Mattox said voters started a "revolution" when they elected him their lawyer, and he said the enemies were businesses trying to control state government.

"If they're going to get me because I try to make a big corporate law firm in this state deal with honesty and integrity with the attorney general's office, they'd better just move up there with me, because I'm going to stay after Mobil Oil, and Exxon and all the other big corporations that have been controlling the power structure of this state for so long," Mattox said.

He said he was not in a "big rush" to go to trial, but hoped it would be completed "by Christmas."

Mattox opened the news conference by reading from "If," an inspirational poem by Rudyard Kipling. The poem included a passage about keeping one's confidence when your words "are twisted by knaves to make a trap for fools."

Dr. A.T. Mims, the Rev. C.W. Allen, Mrs. Norma Coffee and Mrs. Irene McKinster from the Deaf Smith County American Cancer Board attended the American Cancer Society District 15 annual meeting at the Don and Sybil Harrington Cancer Center in Amarillo Tuesday.

Deaf Smith County received the P.A.C.E. (Public American Cancer Education) award due to Kee Ruland's outstanding work in public education. Hereford was the only chapter of the 25 counties in the district to receive this award. Representatives from 23 of the counties were in attendance.

It was announced that through the efforts of volunteer workers in service and rehabilitation, over 1400 patients were treated in District 15. Total expenditures were over $86,000.

Dr. Brian Pruitt of Amarillo was elected District 15 medical director and Jo Love of Pampa was elected district lay director. Diane Ash, R.N. from Amarillo, was elected district delegate.

Ann Landers

Prayers for parents

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our lovely daughter has been away from home and on her own for quite a while. She is now happily married and expecting a baby in November.

While cleaning the room she occupied, I came across the enclosed column, taped to the back of her closet door. Funny I never noticed it before.

If you reprint it, I will give her a fresh copy after her baby is born. The clipping I am sending is in pretty bad shape, but every word is legible.

Thanks for writing a wonderful column.--Mrs. Joseph C., Berwick, Pa.

DEAR MRS. C.: Here it is, along with my hearty congratulations on the upcoming event:

God in heaven, I am young and don't understand what it is like to be a parent, but it must be very hard because so many people are failing at it these days.

I pray for Mom and Dad, God, that you will help them to be good parents--strong in ways you want them to be, so I can look up to them with admiration and feel confident that their instruction is right.

Help me, dear Lord, to understand my parents. Remind me that when I don't get my way it is because they love me and not because they want to be mean or deprive me of a good time.

Help me, God, when I become stubborn and refuse to listen, to accept the fact that they have wisdom and experience because they were once teenagers, but I have never been a parent.

Put in my heart the respect and consideration they deserve for their years of hard work and sacrifice. They raised me as best they could. Let me not repay them with grief or shame. Rather help me to give them obedience, respect, forgiveness and love. Most of all, God, while I still have my parents here on earth, help me to appreciate them and let them know I do.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You have been terrific about going to bat for various segments of society who have gripes. Will you please speak up for those of us who love the soaps? We number in the millions--even though a lot of us are in the closet and afraid to come out for fear of being ridiculed.

We are nurses, cleaning ladies, entertainers who sleep until mid-noon, invalids, shut-ins, retirees, college students with crazy hours and young mothers who are stuck at home with little kids.

Most middle-class Americans don't have a Caribbean cruise to look forward to, or a skiing vacation in Aspen or Sun Valley, or a weekend in Las Vegas or a summer in the South of France. We can never hope to winter in Palm Springs or Palm Beach or go salmon fishing in Vancouver. But we can have the vicarious pleasures of a glamorous life by just turning on the TV.

Our biggest gripe is when we are all set to enjoy our favorite half-hour of the day and discover the network has decided to run the president's news conference or some other event that will be shown later on the regular news. What a bore! Please tell the programmers to give the people what they want! If they took a poll they'd know it's the soaps and the serials.--Mrs. Jane Q. Public.

DEAR MRS. Q.: I'm sure you speak for millions. Are you listenin', programmers?

Discussion programs scheduled in Amarillo

The Amarillo Public Library is beginning its 30th year of discussion programs at Central Library, 4th and Buchanan. Persons interested in participating in open, unstructured discussion activity are welcome to participate in the program, which is part of the library's informal continuing education for adults and young people.

According to Anite Pitts, group services director, group discussions offered this year include "The Nature of Man," "First Year Great Books," "The American Dream," "Modern Thought - Contemporary Communications," "Fantastical Allegories," "The Texas Panhandle: History and Culture," and a psychology discussion group.

Most groups meet bi-weekly, some meet monthly or quarterly. Although "Great Books" remains the public's favorite and the core of the discussion program, many groups also meet to discuss material which is much less demanding, according to Mrs. Pitts. One such group is a monthly group consisting of members from all the groups.

There will also be a monthly group that will view on video and discuss "Civilization," the former public television series. One afternoon "Plays and Short Stories" group is planned. One difference this year is the slate of Saturday morning groups, "The American Dream," "Modern Thought - Contemporary Communications," and the quarterly discussion days.

"Our most distinguished group in the 30th Year Group," said Mrs. Pitts. "The group formed in 1953 to discuss the 'Declaration of Independence,' the first selection of 'First Year Great Books,' as this year's first year group will do."

"The 30th Year Group remains an important part of Amarillo's cultural life," says Mrs. Pitts, "since they originated the oldest ongoing public library discussion program in the state of Texas."

The original moderators, Dr. Capres Hatchett and Mrs. Joe Harlan, will again moderate.

Other moderators will be Mrs. C.B. Clegg, Patricia Doyle, Dr. Samuel Fine, Ruth Thurman Hogge, Helen Lowe, Mary Louise Loyd, Mrs. Lowell Munday, Anite Pitts, Fred Short, Mrs. Dennis Stubbs, Mrs. O.D. Witten, and Clark Wooldridge.

Moderators of the "Texas Panhandle History" group will be Byron Price and Bobby Weaver of Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum.

Although the library recognizes the value of many types of discussion, most groups meeting at the Amarillo Public Library have adopted the open discussion method. The only exception in 1983 is the "Texas Panhandle History" group, which will be a lecture format with audience discussion if time allows.

"There are a few rules to our unstructured discussion which are easy to remember," said Mrs. Pitts.

Among them are the requirement of having read or viewed the material to be discussed and the rule against quoting outside sources.

"The temptation is great for a new group member to rely on the opinions of 'authorities,' a technique he may remember from his school days," she continued. "He begins to experience great satisfaction, though, as he learns to read for meaning and to speak for himself."

All library programs are free except for required reading materials. Groups are purposely kept small, between 12 and 25 persons. This year's exception is the "Texas Panhandle History" course, which will require a 25 minimum registration.

Other programs for adults will include a short series of genealogy lessons taught by Beth Netherton beginning Oct. 29 from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. at Central Library.

Pre-registration is required for courses and discussion groups, but not for programs.

Hereford out to prove self today

(LUBBOCK) -- The Hereford Whitefaces will be out to prove they're for real to District 3-5A foes at Lowery Field here tonight as they visit the Lubbock High Westerners in the Herd's loop opener for 1983.

Meanwhile, the Westerners will be trying to prove they're more than just the district whipping boy as the two teams collide at 7:30 p.m.

Hereford, supposedly in the midst of a rebuilding year, has forged a 2-0 record this year against two Class 4A foes, while Lubbock High is 0-2 after losing to Lubbock Dunbar in their opener and being blitzed by Coronado 38-0 in their loop opener last week.

Still, while LHS looks to be the bottom of the district barrel, the Westerners have the reputation of fighting Hereford well, with the exception of the past two seasons.

Hereford took the measure of the Lubbockites by a 28-0 count in 1981 enroute to a state semifinalist season, and won handily 42-8 in Hereford last year.

But, the Westerners fell only 15-14 in 1980, and beat the Herd 7-6 in 1979 after a 0-0 tie in 1978.

Hereford coach Jerry Taylor isn't taking LHS lightly, especially since Westerner quarterback Tom-

Good game anticipated

Hereford fans have come to expect a good battle from the Westerners, and even though the Harris Rating System has made the Herd a 24-point favorite tonight, the game shouldn't disappoint fans for either side.

Both teams face the same team in their next outings in the form of preseason favorite Monterey. Hereford hosts the Plainsmen next Friday evening, while the Westerners get a week of before playing their crosstown rivals on Thursday, Sept. 29.

my Gonzales is virtually recovered from a hip pointer which has hampered him in the first two games. And, Gonzales will be aiming serials at the district's top receiver of a year ago in split end Frank Campos.

LHS coach Army Salinas reported that Gonzales has worked out with the team this week after taking the week off before Lubbock took on the Mustangs.

Salinas touted his defense last week despite the 38-0 loss to Coronado, a game which was reported as "closer than the score indicated." Still, Lubbock must face the district's top offensive team in the Whitefaces, who are averaging 332.5 yards per game.

Ironically, Lubbock's defenders are averaging giving up 332 yards per outing.

Meanwhile, LHS is averaging only 75.5 yards offensive per game, while the HHS defense is ranked third in the loop, allowing 177.5 yards per game.

Most of that yardage has come on the ground, however, with a solid Herd secondary having allowed just eight net yards in two contests.

Hereford's Ronnie Terry leads the district in rushing with 244 yards, including 162 against the Canyon Eagles a week ago.

While concentrating on stopping Terry, the Westerners must also be aware of the strong arm of HHS quarterback Mike Scott, who is third among loop passers, connecting on 14 of 27 attempts good for 173 yards.

Split end Mickey Stengel adds yet another dimension to the Herd attack with his talented toe. Stengel is two for two on field goal tries this year, hitting a 31-yarder and a 28-yarder against Canyon last week.

"Hereford has been the surprise team of the district," Salinas said earlier this week.

Taylor hopes the surprises will be pleasant ones; for one more week at least.

Bond's boat down 0-2

Australian's luck lacking so far

By WILL GRIMSLEY AP Special Correspondent NEWPORT, R. I. (AP) — For almost all of Alan Bond's life everything he has touched has turned to gold, but his $16 million quest for a lumpy piece of silver originally worth $500 is turning sour.

"I don't know whether it's Lady Luck or not, but it surely hasn't gone our way," the stubby Perth, Australia, industrialist said after seeing his 12-meter challenger, Australia II, lose its second consecutive race under protest in the America's Cup series.

"We should have won both of the first two races, but here we are 0-2 unless our protest of the second race is upheld.

"I am confident of winning it. But if we don't, we just have to beat some pretty strong odds."

Against the crimson-hulled U.S. defender Liberty, the Australian boat lost its steering apparatus on the last of six legs of the opening race

Wednesday and suffered a break in the headboard of its mainsail at the start of the second race Thursday.

Bond said precious time was lost when a crewman was sent aloft to repair it.

Moreover, he charged that Liberty tacked into his boat's water on the second leg, almost causing a collision. He filed a protest, to be considered by an international jury today.

Those familiar with America's Cup rulings in the past insist he is barking up an eucalyptus tree.

Despite these recurring mishaps, Liberty has eked out two decisions in excellent races, winning the first by 70 seconds and the second by 1 minute, 33 seconds.

"We have had only three minor breakdowns in 56 races," the Australian syndicate boss said, "and now here we have two consecutive major ones."

Bond is disappointed but not entirely crushed by this adversity, and, having predicted his wing-tipped mystery boat would beat the Americans 4-2, rationalizes: "Maybe our bad luck is all behind us now and we can go out and do what we came here to do."

The America's Cup, the prestigious racing trophy that the schooner America won in a race against 17 English ships in 1851 and never has been dislodged from its present mooring at the New York Yacht Club, became Bond's obsession.

At a very dear price, he financed and personally directed challenges in 1974 with Southern Cross and in 1977 and 1980 with Australia, only to win one of the 13 races against American defenders.

Undaunted, he determined to make one more attempt with a new wonder boat with revolutionary fins designed by Ben Lexcen and tank tested in the Netherlands.

He assembled a powerful crew which he drilled like a band of commandos, forcing them to rise at daybreak for callisthenics and road work. He imposed a strict dietary program.

They say he is Simon Legree in his fierce discipline.

"We've got the boat, the men and the skills," he said. "Given a fair break in luck, we can win."

Weekend features crucial games

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON AP Sports Writer

It's only September, but one of the most important weekends of the college football season is coming up.

Rarely have there been this many big games this early — Ohio State at Oklahoma, Texas at Auburn, Michigan at Washington, West Virginia at Maryland, all members of the Associated Press Top Twenty. And that doesn't include Georgia at Clemson and Iowa at defending national champion, but 0-2, Penn State.

Now that second-ranked Oklahoma has managed to overcome pass-happy Stanford, the Sooners have to face No. 6 Ohio State and the Buckeyes merely have the nation's No. 1-ranked passer in Mike Tomczak.

Woody Hayes never would believe it, but there stands Tomczak at the top of the NCAA's complex passing chart with 228.5 points. In the Buckeyes' opening 31-6 victory over Oregon, Tomczak completed 21 of 25 passes for 273 yards and four touchdowns. If you know how that figures out to 228.5 points, go to the head of the class.

At any rate, the Sooners, playing at home, are a 6½-point favorite. The pick is Oklahoma 24-14.

Last week's record was 37 right, 17 wrong and one tie for a .685 percentage. For the young season, the count is 57-30-1—655. Against the spread, last week was only 9-13—409; for the year, 11-17—393.

No. 3 Texas at Auburn (favored by 2): Texas hasn't played a game yet, but last weekend was a bad one nevertheless. Quarterback Todd Dodge suffered a separated shoulder (not his throwing one) and star linebacker Jeff Leiding wound up in the hospital with a 16-stitch cut on his leg from a boating mishap. Auburn 14-10.

No. 8 Michigan at No. 16 Washington (4): Washington 21-14.

No. 20 West Virginia at No. 17 Maryland (3): Jeff Hostetler and Boomer Esiason, two of the better quarterbacks around, square off. West Virginia 24-21.

No. 1 Nebraska (28) at Minnesota: Nebraska 49-7.

Michigan State at No. 4 Notre Dame (17): Notre Dame 38-14.

No. 7 Arizona (7) at Washington State: Upset Special of the Week, Washington State 28-27.

No. 9 Florida State (10) at Tulane: Florida State 35-21.

Miami of Ohio at No. 10 North Carolina (no line): North Carolina 28-7.

No. 11 Georgia (1-2) at Clemson: Clemson 20-17.

Mississippi at No. 12 Alabama (19): Alabama 31-14.

No. 13 Iowa (3) at Penn State: Penn State 20-14.

No. 14 Southern California

(22) at Oregon State: Southern Cal 42-7.

Indiana State at No. 15 Florida (no line): Florida 49-7.

Two clubs prevail

Two of the three Hereford junior high schools which participated in football games Thursday gained victories.

Stanton's eighth graders downed Pampa 28-20 as Marcus Brown scored three touchdowns, one on an 80-yard run and another on a 90-yard punt return. Mark Streun added the fourth Dogle TD by running the ball in from 20 yards out.

Ninth graders from Stanton, meanwhile, fell 20-8 to Canyon. Vincent Brown scored the lone Stanton touchdown on a 20-yard pass. The ninth grade gridders from La Plata, meanwhile, squeaked by Bowie of Amarillo 18-14. The victory was made possible when, with less than three minutes remaining in the fourth quarter, Bobby Medina block a punt which was recovered by Bobby Baker in the end-zone for the winning TD.

Mark Artho recorded the Mavericks' other two touchdowns on runs of 5 and 76 yards.

The school's eighth graders scrimmaged against Pampa.

Oriole boss not bothered by 7-1 loss to Bosox

By WILLIAM R. BARNARD
AP Sports Writer

When a team has won 19 of 23 games and has a five-game lead with 18 to play, one loss doesn't put much fear in a manager's heart.

"We won six out eight games on this (road) trip, and you've got to be happy about that," Manager Joe Altobelli said after Baltimore's 7-1 loss at Boston Thursday night. The Orioles return home tonight for the start of a four-game series with Milwaukee.

Bruce Hurst, 12-10, allowed seven hits, including Cal Ripken Jr.'s 24th homer, in seven innings before getting relief help from Bob Stanley for the Red Sox.

Meanwhile, Boston bombed Baltimore pitching for 15 hits, including three by Wade Boggs, who leads the majors in hitting with a .361 average. Storm Davis, 12-6, gave up five runs in only 4 1-3 innings for the Orioles.

In other American League action, Chicago bombed Seattle 12-0 in a game that was shortened to 6½ innings by rain. Texas beat Oakland 6-5 and Minnesota tripped Toronto 6-2.

The loss trimmed Baltimore's American League East lead over idle Detroit to five games, but the Orioles still have a six-game advantage in the loss column. White Sox 12, Mariners 0

Chicago, which is two games from clinching the West Division pennant, needed only 6½ innings to rout Seattle as rain finally stopped play after the start of the game was delayed nearly two hours.

Harold Baines hit his third career grand slam as the White Sox scored 11 runs in the sixth, the worst beating ever handed the Mariners in one inning. LaMarr Hoyt, who has won 10 straight decisions, pushed his major-league leading total to 21 wins with six innings of two-hit pitching.

Any combination of Chicago victories and Kansas City losses totaling two will give the White Sox the division title. They have 16 games left.

Rangers 6, A's 5
At Oakland, Texas defeated the A's as George Wright clubbed his 18th homer and capped a four-run seventh inning with a two-run double.

Bucky Dent also homered for the Rangers, his first of the season.

The A's took a 4-2 lead on Dave Lopes' two-run single in the fifth before Texas rallied in the seventh to help Dave Schmidt, 3-3, win in relief.

Twins 6, Blue Jays 2
At Minneapolis, Ken Schrom pitched a six-hitter to win his 13th game in 20 decisions with home run help from Dave Engle and Mickey Hatcher.

Schrom, who was released by the Blue Jays last year, pitched his third complete game to beat Dave Stieb, 15-12, for the third consecutive time.

With the score tied 2-2, Engle drove in what proved to be the winning run with a two-out solo homer in the fourth, his eighth of the year.

Parker, Hebner boost Bucs into first place

By BARRY WILNER AP Sports Writer

In the heat of a pennant race, Pirates Manager Chuck Tanner likes having experience on his side.

Two of Tanner's veterans, Dave Parker and Richie Hebner, helped boost the Pirates back into a tie for first place in the National League East Thursday night. Parker, a star of the 1979 World Champions, had three hits, scored twice and drove in a ru, while Hebner — a starter with the '71 champs — belted a grand slam to back Larry McWilliams, 14-6, in an 8-4 victory over the Chicago Cubs.

Combined with Montreal's 4-1 triumph in Philadelphia, Pittsburgh's fourth straight win elevated it into a deadlock with the Phillies for the top spot in the East. The Expos are a half-game back and St. Louis, which lost to the New York Mets 6-4, trails by 2½ games.

Beginning tonight, Pittsburgh hosts Montreal and St. Louis is at Philadelphia in the East battle.

In the only other NL game, the Los Angeles Dodgers blanked Houston 6-0. Expos 4, Phillies 1

Terry Francona had three hits — including a home run — and knocked in two runs to back the pitching of Bill Gullickson and Bob James. Gullickson pitched into the eighth inning and earned his eighth victory in nine decisions since the All-Star break and fourth straight win. James relieved with the bases loaded and two outs in the eighth and struck out three of the four batters he faced, giving him 21 strikeouts in his last 12 innings.

Mets 6, Cardinals 4
St. Louis, the defending world champions, failed to gain ground in the East when George Foster's two-run homer vaulted the Mets to victory.

Foster, coming off the worst season of his career, when he hit only 13 homers and drove in 70 runs, slugged his 25th homer of the year and drove in runs No. 79 and 80. Dodgers 6, Astros 0

Alejandro Pena threw a five-hitter and struck out six to lower his league-leading ERA to 2.18. The Dodgers took advantage of wildness by Astros starter Nolan Ryan, who walked six and hit two batters, including Pedro Guerrero in the batting helmet.

"It hit me on the back of the head and broke my helmet," said Guerrero. "After it hit me, I thought I was... dead."

Guerrero said he would send the helmet, which was shattered, to Ryan for the pitcher's autograph.

After the Dodgers upped their West lead to 4½ games over idle Atlanta, Manager Tom Lasorda praised Pena.

NEW YORK (AP) — This was supposed to be a tuneup fight for Ray Mancini, a bit of busy work for "Boom Boom" against undefeated and unknown Orlando Romero of Peru.

The only problem was that Romero had other ideas.

Mancini, of Youngstown, Ohio, defended his World Boxing Association lightweight championship at Madison Square Garden Thursday night, knocking out Romero at 1:56 of the ninth round, in a close fight that ended with the suddenness of a devastating left hook.

That was the punch that Mancini used to drop Romero on his back and win the fight that preserved upcoming big money bouts against better known opponents like Bobby Chacon.

The Mancini-Chacon bout will be announced officially Monday but Romero, who weight 134½ to 135 for Boom Boom, seemed intent on spoiling the party by refusing to fold up against the champ.

"Where do they get these guys?" Mancini wondered, after Romero had tagged him with some solid shots and inflicted a superficial cut under his right eye in the seventh round and a deep cut over his right eye in the eighth.

The second cut was serious enough that Referee Tony Perez was studying it carefully when Mancini went to his corner.

"I didn't even know I was cut," said Mancini. "When I sat down, I saw some blood but my corner said, 'Don't worry about it.'"

You can bet, though, that

Chacon, the former World Boxing Council featherweight champion and Bob Andreoli, who will promote his fight against Mancini in either November or December, were worrying.

Boom Boom put their cares to rest in the ninth, exploding out his corner and tearing after Romero. The challenger from Peru, who was 30-0-1 coming in, fought back gamely. But Mancini, 27-1, tagged him with two crushing lefts and, after missing with a wild right, sent him to the deck with an explosive left hook. The time was 1:56.

Romero did not go quietly and Mancini knew it. He had only to look in a mirror for proof.

"I'm not a pretty sight," said the 22-year-old champion, who was defending his title for the first time since he fatally injured Duk Koo Kim last Nov. 13 at Las Vegas.

"But I'm proud of it. It's my badge of honor. I'll do anything to hold my title. I just hope they don't find more foreign guys who are southpaws."

Romero's left-handed stance caused Boom Boom plenty of trouble.

Mancini had a slender lead on the cards of two of the three judges after eight rounds with the third judge calling the fight even at that point.

Timely rules for canning

DEAR POLLY — When canning tomatoes or pickles with a boiling water bath canner, should the processing time start as soon as you put the jars in or must you wait for the water to come to a boil before starting the timing? — P.J.

DEAR P.J. — According to the recommendations of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, the processing time for tomatoes and fruits should be started only after the water has returned to a full rolling boil. This is very important to ensure that the temperature inside the jar reaches the required temperature for safety by the end of the processing period.

However, fermented cucumbers and fresh-pack dill pickles can become soft if over-processed. Therefore, for those only, the USDA recommends starting counting processing time as soon as the jars are put into the boiling water bath. These are the only foods for which you can safely start timing before the water returns to a boil.

So play it safe and follow these guidelines every time. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — If your butcher-block type cutting board needs a new surface, try this. Wash the board with warm sudsy water and a stiff brush. Next, rub it with table salt and a dry cloth. This will bleach it somewhat, making it lighter and brighter. After the salt treatment, rub the board lightly with a cloth dipped in mineral oil. Let it stand overnight, then wipe off the excess oil the next morning. Follow this procedure periodically and your cutting board not only will have a new surface, but will last for years and years! — OLGA

DEAR OLGA AND READERS: This is an excellent procedure for caring for a wooden board. When washing the board with warm sudsy water, add a little chlorine bleach to the water to help kill germs. — POLLY

Visitors are encouraged to spend the day looking at all the antique vehicles, gasoline engines, and museum. The official parade of activities begins at 1:30 each day. Horse or mule drawn equipment such as header and barge, reaper, two-bottom plow, and feed grinder will be demonstrated during the parade.

Also antique steam engines, tractors, cars and trucks will be driven by the grandstands as an announcer tells about each vehicle. Slow and fast races for steam engines and tractors are planned. The parade is concluded with an old time wheat thrashing which is open for participation by spectators.

A working cow dog demonstration is an added crowd pleaser during the parade time.

YOU KILLED HIM; BUT NOW HE'S ALIVE!

Peter stepped forward with the eleven apostles, and shouted to the crowd, "Listen, all of you, visitors and residents of Jerusalem alike! Some of you are saying these men are drunk! It isn't true! It's much too early for that! People don't get drunk by 9 a.m.!"

"No! What you see this morning was predicted centuries ago by the prophet Joel—"In the last days," God said, "I will pour out My Holy Spirit upon all mankind, and your sons and daughters shall prophesy, and your young men shall see visions, and your old men dream dreams. Yes, the Holy Spirit shall come upon all My servants, men and women alike, and they shall prophesy. And I will cause strange demonstrations in the heavens and on the earth—blood and fire and clouds of smoke; the sun shall turn black and the moon blood-red before that awesome Day of the Lord arrives. But anyone who asks for mercy from the Lord shall have it and shall be saved."

"O men of Israel, listen! God publicly endorsed Jesus of Nazareth by doing tremendous miracles through Him, as you well know. But God, following His prearranged plan, let you use the Roman government to nail Him to the cross and murder Him. Then God released Him from the horrors of death and brought Him back to life again, for death could not keep this man within its grip." Acts 2:14-24

NBC's 'First Camera' debuts Sunday night

NEW YORK (AP) — It's the smallest of small consolations, but Lloyd Dobyns says NBC News announced its intention to enter the newsmagazine business first. That was in 1968, and it turned out to be the last time NBC's magazine was first in the minds of anybody.

Subsequently, it has become television's longest-running miss. While CBS' "60 Minutes" has risen to pre-eminence, NBC has had eight different entries, including "First Tuesday," "Weekend" and "NBC Magazine," with and without David Brinkley.

This Sunday night, NBC trots out No. 9, "First Camera," replacing "Monitor," a ratings disaster last season against ABC's "Fantasy Island." "We found out that Saturday night at 10 is not the best time for a reality program," says Dobyns, who has anchored three magazines: "Weekend," "Monitor" and, now, "First Camera."

Sunday at 7 p.m., Eastern time, seems a perfect time for reality. Real-life pro football hands off a captive, heavily male audience, and "60 Minutes" has run to glory with it. The thinking is that NBC's football telecasts could work miracles for "First Camera," but, oddly enough, the show's premiere telecast comes when CBS, not NBC, has the late-afternoon national game, setting up this season's first new "60 Minutes" broadcast.

"More than anything else in the world, I wanted to go against '60 Minutes,'" says Dobyns. "In this business, if you want to play with the big boys you should go against the big boys."

But NBC's big boys don't have the recognition of CBS' four horsemen: Mike Wallace, Harry Reasoner, Ed Bradley and Morley Safer.

Besides Dobyns, "First Camera" has Rebecca Sobel and Steve Delaney as correspondents, and Mark Nykanen as investigative reporter. Marvin Kalb, Ken Bode and Jack Reynolds will also contribute when they find time away from their "Nightly News" commitments.

These additions are the only substantial changes that will distinguish "First Camera" from "Monitor." On the cosmetic side, the old set, which Dobyns likened to a men's room, will get a facelift, as will the program's theme music and, of course, its name.

Dobyns says "First Camera," the moniker picked by NBC News President Reuven Frank, has no underlying meaning. "Reuven offered a prize to anybody who could explain it," says Dobyns. "It does have the benefit of sounding like it means something."

although people outside the business already refer to it as "Camera One."

It certainly is a better tag than "Ninth Try," "Fifth of Scotch" and "Seventh Son," suggestions that came from NBC's rank and file. "Our blackboard was just covered with names," says Dobyns.

"Zero Affiliates" cut the deepest because it parodied the no-confidence vote from some stations. About 30 of the network's 200-plus stations

Although it is the largest state in area, Alaska is the least populous state in the U.S.

defected, including Boston and Detroit, and that will further damage NBC's ratings chances against "60 Minutes."

Some of the rebellious stations are offering, instead, original episodes of "Fame," which will be carried on a 100-station syndicated network this fall. "Fame," which was on NBC since early 1982, was the last show cut from last season's schedule.

Missionaries back anti-government protests against Chilean military

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — Roman Catholic missionary priests are providing strong moral support for the exploding anti-government unrest among Chile's poor.

While Chile's Catholic hierarchy takes a conciliatory role to promote talks between the government and the political opposition, priests who live and work in Santiago's slums defend demonstrations against President Augusto Pinochet's military regime.

Scores of Chilean and foreign missionaries have been caught up in the confrontations between demonstrators and armed riot police during the monthly opposition-led "Days of National Protest" that began in May.

Some have played heroic roles defusing confrontations and called for peaceful protests. Others preach the legitimacy of violence to counter repression that has left 50 people dead in five months of unrest.

Their involvement is a continuation of the role priests and other members of the clergy have played in recent political drives to end poverty and illiteracy and promote human rights throughout South and Central America. In Nicaragua, for example, some priests are leading members of the Sandinista movement.

"It is very difficult to condemn violence," said the Rev. Ronaldo Munoz, a theologian who lives in the Santiago slum neighborhood of La Granja. "I have the obligation to tell people to think about their actions. But I don't have the right to tell a father to watch his wife or children killed before defending himself."

The Rev. David Murphy, an English priest in the Maip section of Santiago, says, "The church always accompanies each side in a battle between armies. If my people go out to risk their lives at barricades, I must go with them. The church must be present."

Bishops in this largely Catholic country have long irritated Pinochet by criticizing the disappearance and torture of hundreds of political prisoners. They have also spoken against the government's tolerance of high unemployment, which is 30 percent nationwide and double that in many slums.

The government often accuses the church of being infiltrated by Marxists. Three foreign missionaries were expelled in March for what the government called politically suspect activity.

Since the monthly protests started, the bishops have been more restrained.

But many priests have become involved in the protest movement. Last Saturday some of them organized a funeral Mass and march for an unarmed worker shot to death by policemen in Santiago's La Victoria neighborhood.

Eleven people were killed in four cities during four nights of protests that ended Sunday on the 10th anniversary of the coup that deposed elected Marxist President Salvador Allende and put Pinochet in power.

More than 6,000 mourners marched in the nine mile funeral procession while another 30,000 lined the route, chanting anti-Pinochet slogans. Police greeted the marchers with tear gas as they arrived at the cemetery.

A battle was halted single-handedly by the Rev. Pierre DuBois, the French parish priest of La Victoria, who rushed between police and mourners shouting, "The people can be calmed, but not if you assault them." The police withdrew.

Two of DuBois' parishioners have died in the monthly protests. The windows of his home have been shattered with rocks and bullets, and his chapel has been the object of an arson attempt.

In an interview, DuBois said his role in the demonstrations is to act as a witness "denouncing what we have seen." Government agents, he said, "have come after the church with new fury because they know the church is going to blame them for the violence."

Chilean slum dwellers have a high political consciousness. For many years before Pinochet took power, they were accustomed to working and taking part in a democracy with the encouragement of priests who organized "Christian communities" in the slums starting in the 1960s.

"The Chilean people are being oppressed by a system that takes their work away from them," said DuBois, who has lived in Chile since 1973. "Their voices have been stifled, their feelings choked inside them and they have lost their identity."

DuBois says Chileans are "going through a process of returning to what they were. It is going to be very difficult to control their violence because their popular organizations have been destroyed by the dictatorship and their natural leaders jailed or exiled."

America's female soldiers may now wear earrings

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — First, it was the umbrella. Then came camouflage fatigues. And now, the earring has become the well-dressed female GI's latest fashion rave.

After considerable soul-searching, the Army's Clothing and Equipment Board has promulgated a policy that for the first time permits women soldiers to wear simple earrings.

Like all such advances in the quality of Army life, the new uniform rule emerged after much grumbling from all sides of the military. Women in uniform didn't see how a simple stud earring could interfere with their performance of military duties.

Some male GIs, however, argued earrings were unprofessional — and that nose studs would no doubt be next.

Still other GIs argued that if women could wear earrings on duty, why not men?

Here at Fort Sam Houston, home for 10,000 soldiers, the new policy was greeted with varying degrees of elation, bemusement and chagrin.

"It makes me feel a little more like I'm not just a soldier, like I'm still a person," said Spec. 4 April Beach, 23, who works in the post personnel office.

"A lot of women in the Army have wanted this for awhile," said Spec. 4 Ann Gardner, a chapel activities specialist. She was wearing a pair of pearl earrings, a present from her mother for her 18th birthday.

"Even though you're in uniform, you don't have to give up your femininity," she said. "Wearing earrings doesn't mean you can't perform your mission."

In a letter to the Army Times, Lt. Col. John M. Kamenar of Fort Sam Houston compared the piercing of ears for earrings to "... facial and body scarification, as practiced by primitive people."

"If you don't like the customs and traditions of the Army, join the Navy or Air Force or become a civilian; we don't need you," Kamenar wrote.

Fort Sam Houston's post commander, Col. Clancy Woliver, thinks that position is a bit extreme.

"I think it was a common sense decision because it's part of the culture we experience," he said. "The Army has to grow and mature with the culture. But, of course, it can't be everybody's champion of every new idea that comes along. We're basically a conservative group, and I think that's the way you'd want us to be."

In outlining the policy, the Army sought a balance between fashion and practicality. Only women wearing dress or "Class A" uniforms for office work can wear them. Women in camouflage fatigues cannot.

And no loop or dangling earrings are permitted — only spherical gold, silver or pearl earrings no larger than 1/4-inch in diameter.

"You have to have it controlled or people would go overboard," Ms. Gardner said. "If they didn't make it so specific, people would come in with all kinds of styles."

Spec. 4 Ray Bruss was disappointed with the new policy. And it wasn't because he disapproved of women wearing earrings.

"I think I should be able to wear it," said Bruss, a husky 23-year-old Indiana native who pierced his left ear two months ago.

"I've always wanted an earring, and I finally got the guts to do it," he said.

Bruss, who looks more like an all-state tailback than a gypsy, goes earringless to work as a clerk in the Fort Sam Houston personnel records office each morning.

But the moment he arrives back home, he slips on a gold-cross earring — symbol of his Roman Catholic faith.

At first, he took a lot of ribbing from bemused fellow soldiers. Now, he says, they don't say much.

"I know how I want to live my life, and I have my own beliefs," he said. "I'm strong enough not to let (teasing) get to me."

"With an earring, I feel more free. It's not that I'm a hippie or anything. It just gives me a greater sense of freedom."

Post commander Woliver, who adorns his wrist with a gold ID bracelet engraved with his last name, draws his tolerance line before men with earrings.

"You wouldn't want the wild ones to have their finger on the trigger of our nation's defense," he said. "Conservatism is fairly basic to our profession. We're still going to wear plain black shoes, not wingtips or tassels."

Louisiana swapping its ducks for turkeys

MARSH ISLAND, La. (AP) — State biologists are swapping some of Louisiana's abundant duck population for a rarer bird, turkeys from Arkansas and South Carolina.

The barter system works to the advantage of all three states, according to Chuck Smith, a biologist with the state Wildlife and Fisheries Department.

He said Louisiana is provided with a low-cost supply of turkeys, while South Carolina and Arkansas get a breeding stock of non-migratory waterfowl that isn't native to their areas.

The bird of trade is the mottled duck, a popular species among hunters that is common to Louisiana's coastal bayous, particularly this island south of Vermilion Bay.

And while catching turkeys is a difficult art that can require several days per bird, Smith and another game officer need just two nights to capture 100 ducks, worth 15 turkeys on the interstate market. The chase is conducted on airboats skimming across the marshlands at night, with dip nets to scoop up the sleeping ducks.

One of Smith's partners in the operation is biologist Robert Helm, who said the hunters must wear foul weather suits to ward off the clouds of swamp mosquitoes that won't be discouraged by insect repellants.

"The mosquitoes look like rain when you shine your lights," Helm said.

The turkey hunting is not without its trials, either. Capturing a wary gobbler might take a month of daily baiting and then several hours of watching at the baited site. A gas-propelled net is then shot over the bird to ensnare it safely.

This is the second year Arkansas has traded turkeys for ducks, and the fifth year South Carolina has participated.

Smith said the ideal duck for trading is between six and eight weeks old, old enough to adapt to a new environment and young enough not to miss his old habitat.

"If we would send an adult bird, that rascal would head back down south," he said.

Marsh Island, about 20 miles long, is a haven for ducks of all breeds, and a major destination for snow geese.

"I've seen 30,000 to 40,000 geese in Marsh Island on one day," Smith said.

Ironically, Marsh Island is also one of the state's prime producers of oil and gas revenues. But the industry is able to coexist with the waterfowl because large areas have been set aside as wildlife preserves.

And a lot of that oil money goes to support the waterfowl. According to state records, about 90,000 acres of wildlife preserves in southeast Louisiana have been purchased in large part with oil and gas revenues from Marsh Island.

Dr Pepper not for sale

DALLAS (AP) — Officials of Dr Pepper Co. officials say that the soft-drink maker isn't up for sale, even though they have hired an investment banking firm to explore investment alternatives and merger possibilities.

Chairman W.W. # Plant near extinction on Mount Washington

MOUNT WASHINGTON, N.H. (AP) — The world's last remaining patch of Robbins cinquefoil holds its own against the brutal climate on the Northeast's highest mountain, but the rare alpine plant is poorly equipped to survive the attention of people who might unwittingly love it to death.

Now the federal government is spending thousands of dollars a year to keep the cinquefoil's admirers away.

In June, when the tiny plant blossomed on an acre of rocky alpine barrens below the mountain's summit, a U.S. Forest Service guard patrolled the area, telling hikers to stay out. Year-round, signs threatening $500 fines warn trespassers away from the walled-in acre. Pressure plates hidden under a nearby trail keep track of the annual procession of more than 7,000 hikers.

Robbins cinquefoil, added in 1980 to the federal government's endangered species list, is one of the world's rarest plants. Only 4,000 individual plants are known to exist, and they all grow here, on a mountain with some of the worst weather in the world.

Temperatures on Mount Washington's 6,288-foot summit can dip below minus 40, and 100-mph winds regularly scour the exposed rocks above treeline. The cinquefoil, growing within an inch of the ground, escapes killing winds by hiding under small pockets of insulating snow and ice.

In spring and fall, repeated freezing and thawing shatters the rocks and heaves plants by their roots out of the scant soil. But the cinquefoil survives where little else can, a long taproot anchoring it in crevices.

Robbins cinquefoil — scientific name: Potentilla robbinsiana — can grow for 30 or more years, each summer sprouting its five-petaled white blossoms and a few more tiny evergreen leaves.

For all its hardness in a punishing environment, the plant is vulnerable to the heavy hand — and foot — of man. The cinquefoil is so small (usually about an inch in diameter) that even a trained botanist may not see it before stepping on it. Just walking near the plant can harm it. A footstep can dislodge soil particles, which then are blown away by the wind, leaving no soil for germinating cinquefoil seeds.

"That plant has adapted to this environment," said Roger Collins, the Forest Service worker in charge of protecting the plant. "But ... we don't need people tramping on it needlessly."

Martha McClellan of Newton, Mass., has hiked in the White Mountains since 1939. Every June she walks up the mountain to see her favorite alpine flowers.

Now she's disappointed the cinquefoil is off-limits.

"I guess you have to do something. So many people come here now," she said. "It used to be we would just walk anywhere we wanted, pointing out the flowers. Now you have to be more careful."

Collins said some people resent being told they cannot walk on what is supposed to be public land.

"There are 752,000 acres of White Mountain National Forest, and that's the only acre closed to entry," he said. "We're not trying to close the forest to people, but that's the only known area it grows, and we're bound to take some pains to protect it."

Forest Service researcher Raymond Graber said he understands why people want to see the rare plant, but added, "Anyone who walks out there, even the researcher, is causing some damage to the plant colony."

"The flower-lovers are at least half the problem," he said. "They appreciate the plant, want to photograph it, and they end up disturbing the area."

At one time, at least three other patches of cinquefoil blossomed in the White Mountains, Forest Service officials say.

This year, the service spent $7,000 to enclose the remaining cinquefoil colony with a low rock wall and relocate a trail that went through the colony. A recovery plan mapping strategy for protecting and researching the plant until the end of the century would cost about $12,000 a year, although Forest Service officials say there is no assurance the money will be budgeted.

There's also no assurance the plant will survive.

"It's a thing of beauty, and this world isn't overly endowed with things of beauty. We have a plant that's been struggling for tens of thousands of years," said Graber. "Are we going to destroy it in a few years? I don't think there's any need for that."

Psychic provides police with clues in two slayings

WEBSTER, Texas (AP) — The police chief in this Southeast Texas city is hopeful a psychic will be able to solve a murder that left law officers stymied and says he will pay the woman out of his own pocket in future cases if her assistance leads to a killer.

Police Chief Reyes Sonora said his department's investigation of the murder ran into dead ends through more conventional methods.

Since contacting Noreen Renier, a psychic from West Virginia, officers investigating the June 3 death of a computer specialist have gained a detailed composite drawing of a suspect, eight people to interview and additional information to research, Sonora said Wednesday.

"Based on conventional methods of investigation, we got nowhere" in the murder case of 53-year-old Donald Charles Neal, Sonora said. "As long as you don't contaminate evidence or confuse witnesses, sometimes you have to use unproven techniques. We really had nothing to lose."

Sonora said he would pay the woman out of his own pocket in the future if her information helps police find Neal's killer.

THE RIGHTS OF FREE PEOPLE INCLUDE THE CHOICE OF FAITH

The citizens of a free country never take their freedoms for granted, but have wisely provided a specific list of them in the set of rules by which they are governed. These freedoms include among other things the right of peaceable assembly; to speak and write whatever they see fit; and one of the most basic rights of all: to worship God in any manner they choose; a privilege consistent with the theory that freedom itself is man's God-given birthright. Be ever prepared to defend your freedom against anyone who would take it away from you, and avail yourself of one of its principal blessings by attending the Church of your choice every week on the Sabbath. And thank God for your right to do so, wherever you are.

"Whoso looketh into the perfect law of liberty, and continueth therein...this man shall be blessed in his deed."
—James 1:25

We owe it to our ancestors to preserve entire those rights, which they have delivered to our care: we owe it to posterity, not to suffer their dearest inheritance to be destroyed.
