Nuclear 'balance of terror' in West Germany

FULDA, West Germany (AP) — If the nuclear "balance of terror" has a fulcrum, it lies here in the gentle green valleys of Hesse.

Outside this old cathedral town, the U.S. Army's 11th Armored Cavalry is ready to take the first blows of World War III. Across the border 10 miles away, Soviet soldiers drill against that same dreaded day. Farther back, on both sides, atomic weapons sit in wait.

President Reagan and other Western leaders have a more immediate political battle on their hands in Fulda, as in hundreds of European towns and cities — a fight over deployment of new U.S. missiles in Europe. The outcome may help shape the Western alliance.

The people of Fulda and the rest of West Germany are taking sides.

"We cannot stop the Russians without American help," Hans Rill, a retired school principal, told a visiting reporter outside Fulda's twin-spired cathedral. "Russians do not make peace unless they are faced up to forcefully... The missiles should be set up."

But Gertrud Schilling, a state legislator and local leader of the anti-missiles Greens party, said more and more West Germans were fretting over their American connection.

"Our so-called friends want to make Europe a battlefield," said the 34-year-old peace activist. "People have been told over the years, 'The Russians are coming! The Russians are coming!' But what we see every day is an American invasion, tanks in our gardens, maneuvers, preparation for war."

Many fear that the greatest threat to Europe is not Soviet aggression, but a U.S.-Soviet rivalry that may burst in their midst.

Opinion polls show Germans' mixed feelings: overwhelming majorities still support the NATO alliance, but some 60 percent oppose deployment of the new U.S. missiles.

The United States withdrew its last European-based medium-range missiles, capable of striking the U.S.S.R., in the 1960s, saying U.S.-based ICBMs would be a "nuclear umbrella" to deter attack.

The Soviets kept their medium-range force, aimed at Western Europe, and in the late 1970s began replacing single-warhead SS-4s and SS-5s with advanced, mobile SS-20s, topped by three warheads each. Western leaders saw a heightened Soviet threat and decided to act.

In December 1979, the NATO allies agreed to station 572 U.S. intermediate-range missiles in Western Europe, but at the same time to negotiate to limit the number of such weapons on both sides.

Deployment of the American missiles, a five-year process, is scheduled to begin late this year.

Five countries — West Germany, Britain, Italy, Belgium and the Netherlands — will receive 464 cruise missiles, low-flying, relatively slow jet drones with a 1,500-mile range. West Germany will also receive 108 Pershing 2s, a highly accurate ballistic missile that would take just 12 minutes to strike a target 1,000 miles away.

These weapons may have more political than military importance.

A Soviet middle-range force unmatched by U.S. weapons suggested to some Europeans that a nuclear war could be fought on the continent without U.S. involvement. They ask: Would the United States drag its own people into a nuclear holocaust to defend Western Europe?

The cruise and Pershing 2s would tighten the trans-Atlantic knot.

A West German military leader, who spoke with a reporter on condition he not be identified, elaborated:

"NATO's capability to reach the Soviet Union with our aircraft is fading. Putting these new missiles in Europe means the Soviet Union couldn't count on a conflict being limited to Europe, with their own country as a sanctuary... So, the probability of a limited European war is lessened, and so is the probability of a world war."

The Greens and other anti-missile activists disagree.

To them, any addition of weapons is destabilizing, and these new missile bases would make West Germany a high-priority Soviet target in a superpower showdown. Some accuse Washington of wanting to station the missiles here as a way of keeping the U.S. homeland out of a war — to defeat the Soviets on a "Battleground Europe."

Hundreds of thousands of protesters streamed through Western Europe's streets in late 1981, and the demonstrators have surged back this spring, particularly in Britain and West Germany.

The anti-missile fever will rise. In West Germany, activists promise to physically block attempts to install the missiles. The powerful Dutch peace movement is planning a big protest for October.

The pressure has already had some effect in the "Euromissile" negotiations, which began in Geneva, Switzerland, in November 1981.

The Reagan administration's opening proposal went nowhere. It called for the Soviets to dismantle all 600 of their medium-range missiles in exchange for cancellation of the U.S. deployment.

Soviet chief Yuri V. Andropov countered this "zero option" with an offer to cut to 162 the SS-20s targeted on

Crucial vote upcoming

Reagan pledge calms MX critics

WASHINGTON (AP) — A pledge by President Reagan to make a "comprehensive" review of U.S. nuclear arms control proposals has satisfied some congressional critics of the MX missile as Congress nears crucial votes on the giant new nuclear-tipped weapon.

After Reagan's promise was announced in the House Appropriations defense subcommittee Wednesday, the panel voted 9-3 to permit the Pentagon to spend money appropriated six months ago.

A similar result was expected today in the Senate Appropriations Committee, which scheduled a vote this afternoon on whether to free the $560 million for research, development and flight testing of the new missile.

Reagan was "very pleased" by the House panel's vote, deputy White House press secretary Larry Speakes said.

Speakes predicted the Senate vote would be "much more difficult." But that forecast was disputed by committee sources who declined to be identified.

Sen. Mark Hatfield, R-Ore., chairman of the appropriations panel, planned to try to halt freeing the money "but he doesn't have the votes. They just aren't there," said one source.

Reagan outlined his promise in a letter to Rep. Norman Dicks, D-Wash., an MX critic.

Dicks termed the letter "a good faith initial effort toward a comprehensive and stable arms control policy" and then voted for freeing the MX money in the House subcommittee.

Another critic, Rep. Albert Gore Jr., D-Tenn., said the letter "made it crystal clear to us" that the U.S. proposal at the Strategic Arms Reduction Talks (START) will be changed.

Shultz confident of withdrawal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State George P. Shultz says he's confident Syria and the PLO will pull their forces out of Lebanon as support builds in the Arab world for the Israeli-Lebanese troop withdrawal agreement.

Shultz reported to President Reagan on Wednesday about the two weeks of shuttle diplomacy that produced the accord calling for the withdrawal of Israeli troops from Lebanon.

Reagan, obviously jubilant, told the secretary, "I know we've got some hurdles to go, but it wouldn't be the Middle East if we didn't."

Sitting next to Reagan in the Oval Office, Shultz replied, "You can't get over the second hurdle until you get over the first one."

Shultz came straight to the White House to brief Reagan after arriving in the United States from 17 days on the road.

Reagan told Shultz, "Every night that I got to bed at a reasonable hour I felt guilty, knowing what you were going through and the length of those meetings, but it was just, just great."

Later, in a briefing for reporters, Shultz seemed undeterred by Syria's sharp criticism of the Israeli-Lebanese agreement.

"It is clear that there is a weight of opinion building up in the Arab world that this is the opportunity to bring about Israeli withdrawal from Lebanon, along with all foreign forces, and support for that," said Shultz.

"So, I feel confident that, in the end, that will happen."

Shultz said Syria, though critical of the agreement, had not refused to pull out its troops. And, he noted that Syria has said repeatedly it will withdraw from Lebanon's request.

"I have no doubt that the Lebanese will call, formally, for that," said Shultz.

The first step, he said, is formal approval of the Israeli-Lebanese agreement by the respective governments. "I think just about all the 's' have been dotted now and the 't's' crossed," said Shultz.

"And we expect to see that take final shape and be ratified."

Reagan making progress on Central American aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two weeks after appealing to Congress for a bipartisan policy to shore up Central America, President Reagan is making uncertain progress in his battle for increased U.S. military aid.

On Wednesday, the House Foreign Affairs Committee voted 36-1 to approve $65 million to equip and train the Salvadoran Army in the fiscal year beginning Oct. 1. This is $15 million per year more than the panel's Western Hemisphere subcommittee had recommended.

It is $20 million less than the administration requested, however.

And the committee hedged its recommendation by providing that funds would be cut off 90 days after congressional approval if Salvadoran officials balked at unconditional peace talks with leftist guerrillas.

In El Salvador, Francisco Jose Guerrero, a spokesman for interim President Alvaro Magana, criticized the committee's conditions and said there could be no negotiations with leftist guerrillas.

Guerrero said that if the rebels want to share power they could run candidates in presidential elections next December.

The committee conditionally approved an additional $65 million for the fiscal year beginning Oct. 1, 1984, subject to Congress' approval of a report by the president that El Salvador is making satisfactory social reforms.

For both years, $10 million of the aid is earmarked for military training outside of El Salvador and $5 million for medical supplies.

The panel also approved an additional $8.7 million in military aid in the current fiscal year, reversing a previous decision to deny any such assistance.

The lone dissenter was Rep. George W. Crockett Jr., D-Mich., who said he opposed military assistance in Central America or elsewhere.

It was the second vote in two days in which Reagan got less than he asked for, but more than he might have received, on Salvadoran aid.

On Tuesday, the Senate Foreign Relations Committee approved $76 million in aid per year for the fiscal year ending Sept. 30 and the one beginning Oct. 1. Although this was $60 million short of administration requests for the two years, administration spokesmen called it a substantial improvement over earlier plans the committee had discussed.

Sponsor says horse racing bill 'dead'

AUSTIN (AP) — Legalized horse-race betting is "dead" according to one of the bill's sponsors in the House. "It's dead. I'm declaring it dead," said Rep. Hugo Berlanga, D-Corpus Christi, on Wednesday.

The bill has been stalled for weeks in the House Urban Affairs Committee where the vote has remained locked at 7-8 against reporting the measure to the House floor.

Rep. George Pierce, R-San Antonio, a co-sponsor of the bill and chairman of the committee, said he planned no further attempts to get the bill to the full House.

"There's not (going to be) another committee vote) as far as I'm concerned," he said, adding "unless some member of the committee changes his vote."

Rep. Al Edwards, D-Houston, has hinted that he would change his "no" vote if a survey of his district indicated support for horse-race betting. Last week, the Pierce and Berlanga tried to get the bill out of committee, but Edwards voted against it.

"I'm going to wrap up all of my findings and make a decision this week," Edwards said. "We won't go home without that committee voting."

Speaker Gib Lewis told reporters Wednesday, "I told Al (Edwards) I think he needs to make a decision. The people are tired of messing with it. I'm in that category."

The Senate has passed a legalized pari-mutuel wagering bill which would put the issue before voters in a statewide referendum.

House backers of the measure said they have enough votes to pass the bill — if they could get it to the full House.

Knabe, Reyna DE honorees

Raymond Knabe and Oscar Reyna, Hereford High School seniors, received scholarships during the Distributive Education Banquet held Monday evening at K-Bob's Steak House.

Knabe, son of Beatrice Knabe of Star Route, was recognized as Outstanding DE Student and also received the $500 businessmen's scholarship.

Knabe, who was reared in Hereford, has been a member of the DE program for two years and has held membership in the National Honor Society for three years.

He plans to attend West Texas State University this fall and enter the field of criminal justice specializing in forensics.

He is a member of the local Law Enforcement Explorer Post and will be attending the National Law Enforcement Explorer conference this summer at Fort Collins.

Reyna, son of Thomas and Mary Reyna of 202 Bennett, was awarded the $300 KPAN DE Radio Scholarship. He also plans to attend WTSU majoring in business and finance. He hopes to manage and operate a small business after receiving his degree.

G.C. Graves, DE coordinator in Hereford for 15 years, will retire this spring after teaching for 42 years.

He extended a special thanks to Hereford merchants for contributing to the scholarships.

Counselor, three campers missing

DRIPPING SPRINGS, Texas (AP) — Searchers combing the debris-littered banks of the Pedernales River discovered the body of one of three boys caught in a midnight flash flood as they camped with their counselor from a home for troubled youths, authorities say.

The counselor and a Houston man camping on the opposite side of the river also were reported missing after the flood Wednesday morning.

The winding Hill Country river crested at 20 feet above normal early Wednesday morning, authorities said. Camping equipment was found stuck in trees high above the river's banks.

The youths and counselor were part of a 16-member group from the Hope Center for Youth of Apple Springs, near Lufkin in East Texas. The home is a private, nonprofit home for troubled youngsters, said director Lyndon Langford, who was summoned from Houston. Blanco County Sheriff Sherman Brodbeck identified the four missing youth group members as Jamie Hendrick, 12, and Jeremy Williams, 11, both of Houston; John Clowers, 12 of Lufkin; and counselor Harold Harvey, age unknown, of Nacogdoches.

The body was found about 8:30 p.m. three miles downstream from where the youths had camped, said Blanco County sheriff's dispatcher Jenny Gandie.

Identification was being withheld pending notification of relatives.

"When we camped out there was heavy to light drizzle. We didn't think much about any flooding," Langford said. "They were having to drag their canoes yesterday because of low water in the river."

In searching for the youths and counselor, authorities discovered three more (See MISSING, Page 2)

Gasohol labeling bill wins House okay

AUSTIN (AP) — Texans have a right to know what they're pumping into their cars, says a lawmaker who has won tentative House approval of a bill requiring labeling of pumps dispensing gasohol.

"The consumer has a right to know if they're buying a product that could void the warranty on his automobile," said Lewsville Rep. Jim Horn, adding that several automakers won't honor the warranty on a car that's burned some forms of gasohol.

House members voted 88-44 tentative approval of the Horn bill on Wednesday. It faces another vote before moving to the Senate.

Horn said some service stations have sold alcohol-gasoline mixtures to customers who thought they were buying "super unleaded."

There's a larger profit in gasohol than gasoline because of a 1981 law giving distributors a tax break on gasohol. In March, distributors claimed the tax credit on 40.5 million gallons of gasohol, up from the 14 million sold in December.

Toy mice trapped by Customs

By LARRY ELKIN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A few years ago, to the alarm of practically nobody, American industry stopped making the little cloth mouse that your cat probably uses to entertain himself.

American cats had no problem getting their claws into the cloth mice because companies were perfectly willing to make the toys overseas and then send them here. But the toy-mice import business is complicated by U.S. Customs Service regulations.

Customs has about 25 different sets of duties for cloth mice and similar items, a New York City pet-toy seller complains. Each time a load arrives in the country, customs inspectors have to decide what it is made of, how it was made and whether it is "ornamented" to decide what duty to charge.

"Each of these distinctions is minute and such distinctions were never intended for the classification of pet toys," Jeffrey Meeks, a lawyer for VO Toys Inc., told a House Ways and Means subcommittee this week.

Ornamentation, he said, is a test "normally applied to wearing apparel and clearly inappropriate for a pet toy."

To show how "ludicrous" the current situation is, Meeks quoted a recent Customs appeal decision on whether a shipment of pet toys should be considered "ornamented."

"With reference to the duck-like animal and the mouse, the eyes, cap, bill, nostrils, neck, feet, ears and tail create those articles ... accordingly, those features do not constitute ornamentation," Customs determined.

Meeks added, "Whether nostrils are necessary to create a duck or merely to ornament it can hardly be seen as crucial to the domestic textile industry."

Meeks is backing a bill by Rep. Robert Garcia, a Democrat who represents the district where VO is located, to set up a separate — and generally lower — tariff on imported cloth pet toys.

VO says it employs about 50 full-time workers to package the imported cloth toys together with domestically produced toys of other materials. Meeks said domestic makers of cloth toys all moved their operations overseas years ago to take advantage of lower labor costs. VO's mice are made in Taiwan and South Korea.

Meeks estimated the current duties average 20 percent, in contrast to the 8.5 percent Garcia's bill would charge. He said he could not estimate how much is now collected, or how many toys enter the country, because the figures are lumped with other items in the 25 customs categories.

Lee Seligman, a customs law specialist for the Customs Service, guessed that the duty on pet toys is "very insignificant." The subcommittee has not acted on Garcia's bill.

The $12 million version of Operetta flops on television

The Gilbert and Sullivan operetta will return only about $1.5 million in rentals to Universal Pictures out of a projected U.S.-Canadian box office of $3 million, said Gordon Armstrong, a Universal vice president. Because of advertising and marketing costs, it needed to take in about $20 million to break even.

"I bit a hole in my tent and ripped it and I'm the only one alive," said an 11-year-old whose two tentmates were missing.

Hays and Blanco County deputies, aided by a Department of Public Safety helicopter, searched late Wednesday by foot a two-mile area downstream from the youth campsite, northwest of Dripping Springs. The search was to be resumed Thursday morning.

All the searchers found were scattered sleeping bags and camping utensils.

"There's really no telling how far down they could be. They could be in the lake," Hohman said. Lake Travis lies about 25 miles downstream from the campsite.

Langford said the group, consisting of 12 youngsters and four counselors, had camped out on the river about five miles downstream from Pedernales Falls State Park Tuesday night after going canoeing Monday.

Three counselors managed to pull nine boys from the water and lead them to safety at the top of a hill, said counselor Nathan Josenberger. They walked to a house, he said, and called the sheriff's department about 3:30 a.m.

Some commentators, such as former U.S. diplomat George F. Kennan and British scholar Lawrence Freedman, suggest the ultimate solution lies in reducing or abandoning NATO's reliance on nuclear weapons for Europe's defense, and instead strengthening its conventional forces.

The Geneva talks, which resume May 17, appear at a standstill.

The Soviets may take the calculat scuttle theating for popular resistance in Western Europe to scuttle the deployment plans. But the key governments, those receiving the missiles first, stand firm.

Missing

The river was still running so fast Wednesday evening that searchers said they could not use boats in the search.

"The river just rose unbelievably high in an extremely short period of time sometime after midnight," Langford said he was told. "They were awakened by the water. It was pitch dark. In a matter of a few minutes" the water washed all the gear, tents and all, downstream.

Europe. That is the number of mid-range missiles fielded by NATO allies Britain and France.

But the West said British and French forces should not be counted.

Under pressure from European leaders, President Reagan in March suggested an "interim solution" — a cap, unspecified, on U.S. and Soviet medium-range warheads in Europe. The Soviets, who want no new American weapons in Europe, called this "unacceptable."

Andropov made a new offer: an equal ceiling on NATO and Soviet medium-range warheads, not missiles, but counting British and French.

Anonymous caller says abducted baby safe

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — A woman phoned John Peter Smith Hospital twice to say that a 7-week-old baby abducted from the hospital was safe, police said.

The anonymous caller, who telephoned the hospital Tuesday night after the child was kidnapped, made no ransom demands, police said Wednesday.

"A woman called someone on the hospital staff and told that person that the baby was fine and not to worry about her," said Capt. B.L. Dumas. "We can only presume it was the woman who took the baby, but we don't really know."

Jean Walker, the baby's grandmother, said police told the family about the calls.

"It makes us feel better," Mrs. Walker said. "It gives us a little hope. We're hopeful that if it's the woman who took the baby, she will return her to us."

Cherie Ann Kennedy was abducted Tuesday after her parents, Andrew and Penny Kennedy, took her to the county hospital for a routine examination.

As the couple waited in an outpatient clinic, a woman dressed as a nurse admired the child and told Mrs. Kennedy she wanted to show the baby to friends, police said.

Instead, the woman disappeared with the infant, investigators said.

Four-year-old dies after dental medication

BEAVER, Pa. (AP) — A 4-year-old girl went into convulsions and died shortly after receiving anesthetic from a dentist, police said.

Christina Pounds of Aliquippa apparently suffered a heart attack, Beaver Police Chief Anthony Hovanec said Wednesday.

Results of toxicology tests were expected in a week from the Allegheny County Morgue, which is making the tests for the Beaver County coroner's office.

The youngster died Monday after receiving an anesthetic for minor dental work at the office of Dr. Laurence Dietz. The dentist who treated Christina was Neema Chiniwalla of Glenshaw, authorities said.

Paramedics were called to the office when the girl began to have convulsions and suffered what appeared to be a heart attack. She was pronounced dead at the Medical Center of Beaver County.

Hovanec said Christina was given a common anesthetic to have fillings put in her teeth. The police chief declined to name the drug.

Respectfully, I asked a churchman of my acquaintance why he was taking a public position "in opposition to nuclear war."

I asked, "Why are you not opposed to all war?"

It has always seemed to me that to oppose "nuclear war" and not "all war" suggests fear more than morality.

It suggests that we are willing to tolerate war which can be kept at a distance.

That we are willing to continue to send our sons to die on distant shores — but that is as involved as we are willing to be.

We tolerate distant wars

Respectfully, I asked a churchman of my acquaintance why he was taking a public position "in opposition to nuclear war."

I asked, "Why are you not opposed to all war?"

It has always seemed to me that to oppose "nuclear war" and not "all war" suggests fear more than morality.

It suggests that we are willing to tolerate war which can be kept at a distance.

That we are willing to continue to send our sons to die on distant shores — but that is as involved as we are willing to be.

You've also heard the protestation that, "nuclear weapons kill and maim civilians — women and children —"

Ghastly as that prospect may be, some of us are just as concerned for the young men whom each generation has allowed to be sacrificed.

Indeed, it is not possible that these hideous weapons of mass destruction which would spare no plea, spare nobody, might not be the best possible deterrent to future war?

True enough, such awesome weapons might fall into the hands of irresponsible revolutionaries in the Middle East or Africa or Latin America — who could hold the world hostage.

But this danger exists regardless of any agreement the superpowers choose to sign.

So though I do not know a quick and easy way to legislate or negotiate a safe future — surely the last safe course is for us to phase out nuclear weapons — whether the Soviets do or not.

If the Soviets retain nuclear weapons we are at the mercy of tyrants.

If both they and we eliminate our nuclear weapons stockpiles — then future wars would be fought with marching men again.

An our six percent fraction of the planet's population could not possibly win.

So — as Prince Philip has acknowledged — "it is nuclear weapons which so far have enforced peace."

So I confronted the churchman with this Hobson's choice and he said: "Paul, I have been hounded by the anti-nuclear people everywhere I go. I had to say something..."

Spring means insect danger

COLLEGE STATION — Spring weather can mean danger for Texans who get bitten or stung by insects.

Insects cause a number of injuries to people each year when outdoor activities increase. The worst offenders are bees, wasps and yellow-jackets. The greatest peril from insect-people encounters is allergic reactions, points out Dr. Phil Hamman, entomologist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System. He notes that insect bites kill at least nine times more Americans than do snake bites.

He cites at least three levels of reactions insect bites and stings can cause: —Slight reactions, including itching, inflammation of the skin or anxiety.

—Moderate reactions, including swelling, abdominal pain or nausea.

—Severe reactions, including difficulty in breathing or swelling, hoarseness or confusion.

Most severe would probably be a shock reaction that causes a drop in blood pressure, collapse or unconsciousness, says Hamman. Moderate and severe reactions form an insect bite or sting are enough cause to see a doctor. Capture the offending insect if possible to help the doctor in providing treatment.

To reduce contacts with venomous insects, Hamman advises people not to walk around in the yard barefooted; to avoid wearing sweet smelling colognes or perfumes; to keep ripened fruits, watermelons, soft drink cans or other sweet smelling materials covered when outdoors; and to avoid mowing lawns or working in flower beds when bees or wasps are active. Insects are less active in the early morning hours.

Remain still if a stinging insect is near, says the entomologist. Brush it off if it attacks but don't slap it to prevent a sting. If attacked by a swarm of wasps, yellow-jackets, hornets or bees, leave the area immediately while protecting the face with hands and arms.

Among the variety of venoms produced by insects are these:

—Those producing blisters, caused by certain stinging caterpillars, centipedes and blister beetles.

—Those attacking the central nervous system, produced by scorpions, black widow spiders, bees, wasps, yellow-jackets and hornets.

—Those destroying skin tissue, produced by fire ants, wheel bugs, brown recluse spiders, mites, scorpions, chiggers, bees, wasps, yellow-jackets and hornets.

—Those preventing blood from clotting, caused by fleas, lice, mites, ticks, biting flies and true bugs.

Braniff still fights after tough year

DALLAS (AP) — One year ago today, Braniff International gave up the struggle to continue flying with the burden of a $1 billion debt and called its colorful jet fleet home to Dallas-Fort Worth Regional Airport.

The next day, the airline filed for protection from its creditors in U.S. bankruptcy court in Fort Worth, triggering a year-long struggle to reorganize the company.

Today, Braniff may decide if it has a chance of ever flying again.

Braniff's board of directors scheduled a 3 p.m. meeting to determine whether an offer by the Hyatt Corp., a Chicago-based hotel chain, has the financial strength to put the carrier back in the skies.

The meeting comes one day after a venture proposed by the Marriott Corp. to rescue Braniff fell through after representatives of the two companies met in Washington, officials said.

The board will consider a $70 million proposal by Hyatt to put Braniff back in the sky, the Dallas Times Herald reported today.

Braniff has until Monday to amend its reorganization plan. If the plan is not changed, the company will reorganize as a small ground maintenance operation.

One of the airline's major secured creditors, who declined to be identified, said Wednesday that the Hyatt offer was not enough and secured creditors had turned down Hyatt Chairman Jay Pritzker, the Times Herald reported.

But Jack Morton, one of two Braniff pilots who originally got Pritzker interested in the airline, said he thought Hyatt and Braniff were about to come to an agreement.

"I think (Pritzker) has made an awful good proposal to them," Morton said. "We'll just have to see what the board of directors thinks."

Braniff's discussions with Marriott ended quickly, officials said.

"We did meet in person with Marriott yesterday at their request. Today, they have advised us of no further interest," Braniff officials said in a statement released Wednesday.

R.A. Rankin Jr., Marriott's vice president for corporate relations in Washington, said the talks were called off and that the motel chain "has no interest in pursuing any arrangement with Braniff."

"new direction" in arms control efforts aimed at limiting nuclear warheads rather than missiles.

Votes on the commission proposals will come as the House and Senate decide the fiscal 1984 budget, which includes money to pay for the proposals.

Reagan has publicly endorsed the Scowcroft panel's findings, but MX critics in Congress had sought a stronger commitment from the White House.

They received it Wednesday, when Reagan said in his letter that "I agree wholeheartedly with the essential theme of the Scowcroft Commission's approach to arms control."

Reagan promised to review

two previous Reagan administration attempts to build and base the missile the Pentagon says is needed to replace America's aging land-based missile force. The 1,000 Minuteman weapons are the heart of that arsenal, and the Pentagon says they are vulnerable to a first strike by increasingly accurate Soviet weapons.

Reagan, meantime, met for a second day with a group of congressmen to try to win their support for the MX.

The president said he supports the concept of a nuclear "build-down" which calls for destroying two warheads for each new one that is built.

But, he cautioned, "It isn't as simple as it sounds, in order to achieve equality."

Now You're Cookin'

By LINDA CAUDLE
Family News Editor

Like many moms who go back to school when their kids leave home, Sue Andrews started taking classes at Lippert's Court Reporting College in Plainview to prepare for work in that field.

It was not something that she'd been planning to do, but after hearing about someone else entering the college, she became interested in court reporting.

She drives 60 miles to Plainview early each morning for class, and spends time practicing on her stenograph machine in the afternoon at evenings at home in addition to keeping up with her regular housework and extra chores that go along with being a farmer's wife.

Her husband, Clark, who has lived in Hereford all of his life, farms south of Hereford, where the family resides. Sue was born in Wellington and lived in Spade for three years when she was small, but has lived in Hereford most of her life, graduating from Hereford High School.

She hopes to graduate from court reporting school later this year and would like to do free-lance work, taking depositions for lawyers in the Hereford, Dimmitt, and Friona area.

"I'm really enjoying it," she comments. "I have always loved working with office machines." Sue worked in offices at Tide for a year and Arrowhead Mills for two years before starting the school.

She is optimistic about finding free-lance work after graduating. "There is a big demand for court reporters all over the United States, because court reporting is not taught in very many colleges," she explains.

Sue is not the only one in her family who has been going to school. Her daughter, Lynette who is married to Mike Butler and resides in Amarillo, will graduate from West Texas State University with a degree in art education on Saturday.

Her foster daughter, Linda Thornton, who has lived with the family for eight years, will graduate with a degree in pharmacy from Southwestern Oklahoma State University in Weatherford on Friday.

The Andrews also have two sons, Rocky, who resides in Carthage, Mo., with his wife and two children, and Kirk, who lives here with his wife and baby daughter.

Sue has been a member of Frio Homemakers Club for a number of years, actively involved except while she was working outside of her home.

She is currently pianist at Frio Baptist Church, where her family attends. She serves as associational WMU (Women's Missionary Union) director in the Amarillo Baptist Association and has been active in associational work for about eight years. She also enjoys working with children at the church, helping with summer camps.

She and Clark are both interested in genealogy and are working on tracing their family histories.

"The most exciting thing we have is a diary my great-grandfather kept during the Civil War - from 1861 to 1865," says Sue. "We also have a lot of old pictures. Right now we are working on a pictorial family tree that we plan to hang on the wall."

Clark has been involved in Toastmasters Club for about a year. Sue's hobbies include reading, crocheting, sewing, and her favorite household duty - cooking.

"I love to cook," smiles Sue. "And I really enjoy baking breads, sweets, and all kinds of casseroles."

She also collects cookbooks. "I like to buy cookbooks as souvenirs from different parts of the country that we visit," notes Sue. "The most unique is a five-volume set that I purchased in an antique store. The copyright is 1907 and there are tips for cooking on a wood stove, or if you were fortunate enough to have one, a kerosene stove."

Sue shares three of her favorite recipes, including Swiss Steak, a cool seven layer salad featuring a variety of fresh vegetables, and a rich butterscotch dessert.

SWISS STEAK

Cut round steak into serving pieces and sprinkle with powdered mustard, salt and pepper. Beat the spices into the meat. Dredge in flour and brown in small amount of hot oil.

Place browned meat in an ovenproof baking dish and cover with sliced onion rings.

Make a sauce of:
1 can tomato soup plus enough water to make 2 cups
2 Tbsp. brown sugar
2 Tbsp. Worcestershire sauce

Pour over steak and bake at 300 degrees for at least 2 hours.

SEVEN LAYER SALAD
In 9x13-inch dish place vegetables in order listed:

1 head lettuce
1 c. chopped bell pepper
1 c. chopped onion
1 c. chopped celery
1 pkg. frozen green peas (cooked, cooled, drained)
1 c. salad dressing (Miracle Whip)
6 slices of crips bacon, crumbled grated cheese
Let set at least 8 hours.

BUTTERSCOTCH DELIGHT

Crust:
Mix and press into a 9x13-inch pyrex dish:
1 c. flour
½ c. melted margarine
½ c. chopped pecans
Bake 15 minutes at 375 degrees. Cool.

First Layer:
1 c. powdered sugar
1 (8 oz.) pkg. cream cheese
1 c. Cool Whip
Mix powdered sugar and cream cheese well. Fold in Cool Whip and spread over crust.

Second Layer:
2 pkg. butterscotch instant pudding
3 c. sweet milk
Spread over first layer.

Third Layer:
Spread remainder of large carton of Cool Whip over second layer. Top with chopped nuts. Refrigerate at least one hour.

Lone Star Study Club has annual guest day

Members of Lone Star Study Club met Tuesday afternoon in the Heritage Room of the library for their annual guest day. Wilma Goettsch served as hostess and Emma Suit, Winnie Wiseman, Bibby Morgan, and Lucille Naylor assisted as co-hostesses.

Ruby Stevenson, president, presided over a short business meeting. Each member introduced her guest and Onelta Davidson distributed the new yearbooks. A get well card was signed for Florence Fluitt, who is in the hospital.

Margaret Ann Durham introduced the program, which was presented by Ms. Mary Parker's students from the high school, members of the O.R.A.T.O.R.S. Club. Those taking part were Clay Stribling, with "Love is a Challenge;" Brenda Barnes, "The Grass is Greener;" Kim Mills, "Drug Law," and Michelle Geiger, "Hitler's Diary."

Refreshments were served by the hostesses to members, Carmen Angel, Opal Bookout, Evadna Cox, Ms. Davidson, Bertha Dettmann, Jessie Mae Dodson, Margaret Ann Durham, Hilda Haven, Nadine Hill, Ursalee Jacobsen, Verna Sowell, Grace Tinnin, Ms. Stevenson, Zoe Williams, Ruth Womble, Mildred Elliott.

And guests, Mary Jones, Roberta Wilson, Carrie Mae Doak, Eleanor Hudspeth, Camellia Jones, Jean Butler, Fay Brownlow, Mona Gee, Etoile Manning, Mildred Powers, Leona Kunnivan, and Betty Powers.

Free presentation on alcoholism scheduled

Barbara Karins, alcoholism counselor at the Hereford Family Services Center, will present a program entitled "Alcoholism: A Family Illness;" at 7 p.m. Monday, May 16, in the Heritage Room of the Deaf Smith County Library. Highlighting the program will be a showing of the film, "Soft as the Heart of a Child."

"With alcoholism and other types of chemical dependency, we often overlook what is happening to other family members, that is, spouses and children," noted Ms. Karins. "They too experience many problems and confusion."

There is no charge for the program and the public is invited. Child care services will not be provided.

Defense the key

76ers edge Bucks, 87-81

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Defense was the name of the game as the Philadelphia 76ers took a 2-0 lead over the Milwaukee Bucks in their National Basketball Association Eastern Conference final.

The 76ers won the second in the best-of-seven series 87-81 in what coaches and players said was a clinic in defensive basketball.

The series now heads for games three and four in Milwaukee, where the 76ers won two of three during the regular season. They'll play Saturday and Sunday.

A fifth game, if necessary, is scheduled here Wednesday night.

The winner advances to the NBA championships against the survivor of the Western Conference series between the Los Angeles Lakers and San Antonio Spurs. That series is tied 1-1.

While defense prevailed Wednesday night, Moses Malone and Andrew Toney gave the 76ers the offense needed to win. Malone scored 26 and Toney 20.

Malone, who was disappointed after scoring only 14 points and grabbing 12 rebounds in Sunday's first game, wasn't excited about his return to form.

"I just did the same things tonight that I did in the other game," he said. "Only the results were better. I got a little more aggressive going to the hoop. And when they weren't pressuring me at the top of the key I made my moves to the hoop."

"Neither team can run on each other in this series, but it probably will be different in Milwaukee. They know now their back is to the wall."

Sixers coach Billy Cunningham noted that his team is 6-0 in the playoffs (including a four game sweep of the New York Knicks), "but we haven't had an easy one yet."

Philadelphia led by 11 with 9:08 to play at 77-66. The Bucks then went on a 14-3 surge to tie at 80 on a hook by Bob Lanier over Malone with with 3:08 left.

But Maurice Cheeks, who scored 15, hit an 18 foot jumper to send Philadelphia ahead.

Then came what many felt was the big play.

The Bucks came down and Brian Winters lofted a shot. Bobby Jones, who stole an in-bound pass Sunday to trigger a 111-109 victory in overtime, blocked the shot.

The ball went to Cheeks who passed to Julius Erving under the basket. Erving, who had just six points, slam dunked for a four-point lead that seemed to take the starch out of the Bucks.

Milwaukee got just one point in the final three minutes.

Milwaukee Coach Don Nelson said he thought Jones got more than the ball on the block at the end, "but he made a good play, I'll give him that."

"We have to play one game at a time and try to win and get back into contention," Nelson said.

Marques Johnson, who scored 30 Sunday, led his team with 25. Sidney Moncrief, held to one field goal Sunday, came back to hit eight and total 21 points.

Lanier, who scored 10 points and was out rebounded 17-10 by Malone in the battle of giant centers, was upset.

"I thought we made so many mental errors. It is unbelievable. It's crazy, crazy, forgetting things, forgetting plays, forgetting simple instructions coming out of the huddle," he said.

The Sixers led 20-18 after a period, 43-39 at halftime and 71-61 starting the final period.

Are the Sixers thinking of a second straight playoff sweep?

"Yes," said Erving. "You don't want to concede anything to anyone . . . The big thing is not to let Marques (Johnson), Sidney (Moncrief) and Bob (Lanier) all play well."

Most Inspirational
David Schumacher, left, a Tarleton State University senior from Hereford, receives congratulations and a plaque from head basketball coach Sherman Perry as he was named Most Inspirational Player recently. Schumacher played varsity basketball at Tarleton four years, and enjoyed his finest season during 1982-83, averaging eight points per game. He was named player of the week in the Texas Intercollegiate Athletic Association during January, and at the end of the season was named to the all-conference second team at post. Schumacher started every game and helped Tarleton post a 12-15 record. The Most Inspirational Player Award is given to the player who shows the most hustle, dedication, spirit, sportsmanship and teamwork.

Nicklaus defends; Kite, Crenshaw top challengers at Colonial

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Jack Nicklaus is defending his Colonial National Invitation golf title with Texans Tom Kite and Ben Crenshaw lurking in the shadows like a couple of gunslingers.

Crenshaw broke out of a long slump two weeks ago to win the Byron Nelson in nearby Dallas and says he is more relaxed and confident than ever.

"I think I can win here because I'm playing well," he said on the eve of this prestigious $400,000 shootout which began today along the banks of the Trinity River.

Kite, a winner at the Crosby Pro-Am in February, said he likes his chances here despite his erratic performance the last few weeks.

"Don't put me in the obituaries yet," he quipped after both he and Crenshaw fired 2-under-par 68s in Wednesday's pro-am over the rain-softened, 7,190-yard Colonial course.

"This year has been like a yo-yo . . . I've played tremendously well at times but I've also missed the cut three times. I can't figure it out."

"But you never know when things are going to turn around. You keep working and sometimes they turn around quickly. Especially when you get to a place you really like."

Kite likes the small, fast

Colonial greens and the variety of shots the course demands, ranking it among his favorite American courses. The others are Pebble Beach and Riviera in California and Harbour Town in South Carolina.

"Other than the four majors (Masters, PGA, U.S. and British Opens), I'd rather win here than anywhere. It has a very special meaning for anybody from Texas. You really like to win at home."

With something approaching awe, he recalled the rousing ovation Crenshaw received as he strode up the 18th fairway en route to the Nelson championship, a scene some compared to a British Open reception during the champagne days of Arnold Palmer.

"If I could pick the one to win, I'd pick this one, the one at home," said Kite, who ranks fourth behind Crenshaw on the current money winning list.

President Chester Arthur, Grover Cleveland and Woodrow Wilson were sons of ministers.

Hereford to host Red Raider Club golf tourney Tuesday

Texas Tech coaches and officials will be on hand Tuesday, as well as other members of the Red Raider Club, for the annual Red Raider Day golf tourney at the John Pitman Course.

The Florida scrambles golf event will get under way at 1:30 p.m. The format calls for one Texas Tech or Lubbock guest included in each foursome. Entry fee is $30, which includes green and cart fees and a social hour and dinner, which will begin at 6 p.m. at the Hereford Country Club.

Dave Hopper, local RR Club representative, urges golfers who plan to play sign up at the course by Saturday.

Persons wishing to attend only the evening function will be charged $12.50. Women are welcome to attend.

Hopper emphasized the event is open to all interested persons...not only Tech exes.

TT Athletic Director John Conley, head football coach Jerry Moore and head basketball coach Gerald Myers are expected to attend, and each will speak about their program at the evening events.

The event originally had been planned for May 24, but was moved up a week so as not to conflict with Hereford High's spring football game.

SG 932 HYBRIDS SG 922

SG 932 is a new release of full season hybrid grain sorghum, besides its very high yield potential, this hybrid also features resistance to Anthracnose, downy mildew and smut. The strong stalk and extensive root system will help prevent lodging in stressful times. The moderately open heads will be a desirable feature, for quicker drydown.

SG 922 is a full-season, high yielding hybrid. The extensive root system helps this thrifty hybrid in dry years and wet years to produce those high yields that growers need. The root system plus the large stiff stalk should make this an excellent standing hybrid. High yields and disease resistance will make 922 a most prized hybrid by sorghum farmers.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP)—While everyone buzzes about the matchup between Los Angeles center Kareem Abdul-Jabbar and San Antonio's Artis Gilmore, the Spurs' Mike Mitchell just keeps scoring points.

The forward goes about his job efficiently, with little fanfare, hitting 22 of 38 from the field in two games of the National Basketball Association Western Conference finals. Mitchell scored 26 points in his team's losing effort in Game 1 of the Lakers-Spurs series and racked up 27 points in Tuesday's Game 2, which San Antonio won 122-113.

Games 3 and 4 will be played here Friday night and Sunday afternoon, with the best-of-seven series deadlocked at 1-1. The first two games were played in Los Angeles.

Mitchell said he has managed to hit on one device that frustrates the defending NBA champion Lakers. "Against Los Angeles, you can't let them determine the tempo of the game," he said.

"You can't let them do anything. It was up to us to set the tempo. We wanted to play our game whether it was running or slow-down. It had to be our way."

Scrambles winners fire 5-under par 30

A team comprised of Craig Nieman, Duane Albracht, Ken Edwards and Cindy Burnam combined to shoot a five-under-par 30 and grab top honors Wednesday in a mixed Florida scrambles event at the John Pitman Course.

Three teams tied for second, shooting 31. They included Tiffi Dirks, Darwin Manning, Pete Jacks and Jack Weaver. Another team was comprised of Bobby Weaver, Jesse Hernandez and Juan Fernandez, while the third team to shoot 31 included Mike Fields, Troy Waddell, Gary Kriegshauser and Sandy Anderson.

A total of 51 players competed in this event, which will be held each Wednesday beginning at 6 p.m. Persons wishing to play are reminded to sign up by 2 p.m. each Wednesday. The winning team yesterday collected $38.25 each in merchandise.

McEnroe ready for French Open

By BOB GREENE AP Sports Writer

With his first major clay court title in his pocket, John McEnroe is now ready for the No. 1 clay court tournament, the French Open.

This time, the New York left-hander should be ready mentally and physically to be a legitimate contender later this month in probably the most grueling tennis tournament in the world. And the simple fact that he wants to win at Paris is a big step in his doing so.

"He is more patient, he has more experience, he's definitely playing better," said Vitas Gerulaitis after falling to McEnroe in the final of the $500,000 Mercedes Tournament of Champions last Sunday on the clay courts of Forest Hills. "McEnroe is a threat anywhere. Anybody that's that talented can win everywhere."

Actually, McEnroe's first Grand Slam title came at the French Open when he teamed with Mary Carillo to win the mixed doubles in 1977. But, although he has had the shot-making talent to win the singles on the slow, red clay court at Roland Garros Stadium, he hasn't had the mental makeup to last the two weeks of best-of-five sets against the world's most patient players.

With one Wimbledon title and three U.S. Open championships under his belt, the fiesty 24-year-old is an all-court player who takes the net and the first chance, hoping to close out each point quickly. By contrast, a clay court specialist is willing to hit 30, 40 or 50 strokes on each point, trying to gain an edge against his opponent.

Henri Leconte of France called last year's French Open champion, Mats Wilander of Sweden, "a metronome" who is ready and willing to stand behind the baseline and just keep returning the ball across the net until his opponent makes an error. Wilander is a classic clay courtier.

The Newspaper BIBLE

COULD I TRUST YOU WITH MY MONEY?

"If you are untrustworthy about worldly wealth, who will trust you with the true riches of heaven? And if you are not faithful with other people's money, why should you be entrusted with money of your own?"

"For neither you nor anyone else can serve two masters. You will hate one and show loyalty to the other, or else the other way around—you will be enthusiastic about one and despise the other. You cannot serve both God and money."

The Pharisees, who dearly loved their money, naturally scoffed at all this.

Then Jesus said to them, "You wear a noble, pious expression in public, but God knows your evil hearts. Your pretense brings you honor from the people, but it is an abomination in the sight of God."

"Until John the Baptist began to preach, the laws of Moses and the messages of the prophets were your guides. But John introduced the Good News that the Kingdom of God would come soon. And now eager multitudes are pressing in."

"But that doesn't mean that the Law has lost its force in even the smallest part. It is as strong and unshakable as heaven and earth."

"So anyone who divorces his wife and marries someone else commits adultery, and anyone who marries a divorced woman commits adultery."

— Luke 16:11-18

Soap Beat

Survey finds soaps are popular campus habit

By Connie Pasalacqua

College fads, like goldfish swallowing in the 1930s and streaking in the 1970s, may be somewhat silly or, like Vietnam War protest rallies in the 1960s, may be overly serious.

But profitable is the right word to describe the college fad of the '80s — soap opera watching. No network knows this better or exploits it more than ABC, which sponsored a study last spring of student soap opera watching habits at 11 major universities around the country.

More than 1,000 students responded to a special questionnaire made up by the ABC Research Unit. A staggering 70 percent of the respondents claimed to watch ABC's "General Hospital" at least once a week. ABC's "All My Children" and "One Life to Live" followed "GH" in college popularity.

ABC found that the reasons the students prefer their brand of soaps over the other networks are because they are "the most interesting and involving" and "the most likely to try new things."

More than three years ago ABC started an increased focus on storylines featuring young people. College students can, for example, better relate the problems of "AMC's" college student sweethearts Jenny and Greg (Kim Delaney and Laurence Lau), or "OLTL's" teen heartthrobs Cassie and Gary (Cusi Cram and Jeff Fahey) than the middle-aged love teams such as Bob and Miranda (Don Hastings and Elaine Princi) on CBS's "As the World Turns" or Rachel and Mac (Victoria Wyndham and Doug Watson) on NBC's "Another World."

Ann Landers

Reader shares thoughts

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I read you in the Orilla (Ont.) newspaper and am a devoted fan. Occasionally you print an inspiring poem or an essay by another author. Will you consider this contribution from the Canadian Hemophilia Society? It was written by E.T. Gurney, the executive director.—Your Friend Up North

DEAR FRIEND: I like it. Thanks to you and E.T. (I'll bet he's having a ball with that pair of initials!) THOUGHTS TO PONDER People are unreasonable, illogical, self-centered. Love them anyway. If you do good, people will accuse you of selfish motives. Do good anyway. If you are successful, you will win false friends and real enemies. Try to be successful anyway. The good you do will be forgotten tomorrow. Do it anyway. Honesty and frankness will make you vulnerable. Be honest and frank anyway. People favor the underdog, but they chum up to the top dog. Fight for the underdog anyway. What you spend years building can be destroyed overnight. Build anyway. Give the world the best you have and chances are you will get kicked in the teeth.

DEAR ODD BALL: I asked Jerome Wiesner, chancellor of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, to help me with my response. After all, why not go to the top? "The Top" said a problem of such extraordinary dimensions should be handled by an expert, so he turned me over to John W. Deutch, dean of science. Deutch said, "Neither statement is true. Cold water will not come to a boil more quickly than hot water and hot water will not freeze more quickly than cold water." He then added, "The important thing to illustrate for your readers is that chemists can still teach something to physicists, even distinguished ones like Jerry Wiesner. More importantly, it shows why it is essential to have a background in science, we hope at MIT."

DEAR ANN LANDERS: If a woman sleeps on her back, will she develop a broad behind-like secretaries or phone operators who sit all the time?—Arty In D.C.

DEAR ARTY: I don't need to check with MIT for this one. The answer is no—unless she eats hot-fudge sundaes in her sleep.

Rev. and Mrs. Loyd Bakewell

New pastor welcomed at Faith Assembly of God

Members of Faith Assembly of God, 401 Country Club Dr., invite local residents to meet their new pastor and family. The Rev. Loyd Bakewell arrived in Hereford just over a week ago and his family will be joining him from Waynoka, Okla., on May 22. Bakewell and his wife, Valerie, are the parents of three children, Jonathan, age 12; Caroline Joy, age 10; and Daniel, age 4. The Bakewells have previously pastored in Colorado, Missouri, and Oklahoma. He writes a weekly newspaper column and has been involved in interdenominational ministries. Mrs. Bakewell is an artist. The congregation plans to honor the family at a reception in the near future. "We are looking forward to meeting the people here and serving the community in any way that we can," states Bakewell.

Manipulating a Rubik's Cube correctly is child's play in comparison with the puzzle of how to correctly refold a road map.

The most long-lived animal is the giant tortoise of the Galapagos Islands. Specimens have been estimated to be as old as 190 years.

Host families needed for exchange program

Families all over the United States may enrich their lives with the memorable experience of hosting an international teenage exchange student from Europe, the orient, Central and South America, or Mexico. Applications are being accepted at this time from families who wish to share their homes with one of these students due to arrive in August-September 1983 for the start of the high school year.

The students ages 15-18 have excellent medical insurance and bring their own spending money. Host families give room and board, love and understanding, and may receive a $50 monthly tax deduction for each month they host the student. For detailed information on opportunities to host a teenage exchange student, please write to youth exchange service (YES), P.O. Box 4020, San Clemente, Calif., or phone (714) 492-7907.

Free blood pressure, diabetic screening set

Recognizing that May is Hypertension Month, the Texas Department of Health will conduct a free blood pressure and diabetic screening at the Hereford Community Center Monday, May 16, from 12:30 to 3:30 p.m. Approximately 60 million Americans, over one quarter of the U.S. population, have high blood pressure. Of these, about 35 million persons have definite high blood pressure (as measured by blood pressures greater than 160-95) and the remaining 25 million persons have borderline hypertension with pressures between 140-90 and 160-95. By properly treating their high blood pressure and thereby reducing it to recommended level, hypertensives can reduce their risk of stroke, heart disease and kidney failure.

Seals sometimes swim 6,000 miles over a period of eight months without once touching land.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Polly Fisher

Why no clipper?

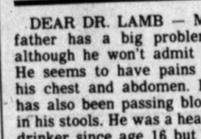

DEAR POLLY — I sent in a list of helpful Pointers and you used one awhile back. I thought if a hint was used, you sent a newspaper coupon clipper as a thank you. I did not get one. I did get a thank you letter with a dollar in it, but I'd rather have a newspaper clipper. — JEAN

DEAR JEAN — Well, I'm afraid another Polly dollar is on its way to you, but again, no newspaper coupon clipper. Several of you have written and asked specifically for clippers, but they are no longer available. For you coupon and news item clippers out there, I've found that using a single-edge razor blade works even better than the clipper. Just slip an old magazine under the page before cutting if you don't want to cut other pages of the paper — or your table or lap! There's also a new product on the market called a Widget, which consists of a single-edge razor blade in a special holder, making it easier and safer to use. It's available in most variety stores.

For clipping on the go, a small straight-bladed manicure scissors or a small thread clipper (used by needleworkers) can be stashed in an envelope or small plastic change purse for protection, then carried in your handbag. And many readers have recommended using an ordinary seam ripper as a clipper. It's designed very similarly to the clipper, is inexpensive and easy to use. So keep clipping! — POLLY

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D. Father needs help

DEAR DR. LAMB — My father has a big problem. He seems to have pains in his chest and abdomen. He has also been passing blood in his stools. He was a heavy drinker since age 16 but he only drinks beer now. He is 42, but he looks like he is 60. He is also a chain smoker. He smokes two or three packs a day and he coughs all the time. He has gained a lot of weight.

I'm only 16 and not a doctor but I know something is wrong. He won't listen to my mother or me and I'm really worried about him. He reads your column so please lay it on the line. It may be his only chance.

DEAR READER — Your father should be impressed that you are sufficiently concerned to write for help. And if your description is accurate, he certainly needs plenty of it.

He may be having chest pains caused by heart disease. His heavy smoking and being overweight suggests a significant increase in the risk of either a heart attack or a stroke. Of course, cigarette smoking also causes lung disease, including chronic bronchitis, and that is the most likely cause of his cough. In time he may well develop cancer of the lungs.

The blood in the stools could be hemorrhoids, which are more likely in a person with liver disease that comes from too much alcohol. Anyone with blood in the stools needs an evaluation to check for possible cancer of the bowels.

A person such as your father can do a great deal to improve his health. By diet and exercise and not smoking, the risk factors related to both heart disease and cancer are greatly improved.

Ask your father to read The Health Letter 13-2. How to Measure Your Risk of Heart Disease, which I am sending you. It only covers part of his problems though. Others can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Your father probably has high cholesterol and high blood pressure if he is significantly overweight and indulgent. It is important that he find out and do something about his status as soon as possible.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am a 55-year-old female and have hemochromatosis (too much iron in the blood). My doctor says the only treatment is drawing blood. I have given 17 pints of blood in 17 weeks and my blood builds back fast. I think this is too much too soon. Is there any other treatment?

DEAR READER — There are a few rare individuals who inherit the tendency to have increased absorption and storage of iron. In other instances, an excess intake, often with alcohol, can cause it. So can multiple blood transfusions. The iron will store in the liver, heart and muscles. The increased pigment in the skin and the diabetes that is often seen with it leads to the term "bronze diabetes."

The usual treatment is to remove about a pint of blood a week. That eliminates about 250 mg of iron per week. At this rate it still takes one or two years to eliminate the excess iron in most patients. From then on, giving blood less frequently is used to control the iron stores. There is no better treatment and without treatment the disease is usually progressive. With treatment your outlook is quite good.

Today In History

Today is Thursday, May 12, the 132nd day of 1983. There are 233 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On May 12, 1975, the U.S. government announced that a Cambodian naval ship had seized the U.S. merchant ship Mayaguez in international waters off the Cambodian coast.

On this date: In 1932, the body of the kidnapped son of aviator Charles Lindbergh was found in a wooded area in Hopewell, N.J.

In 1949, the Soviet Union ended its 328-day blockade of West Berlin, which had been thwarted by the Western Allies using the Berlin Airlift.

In 1961, the United States of the Congo was founded, with Leopoldville as the capital.

In 1965, West Germany established diplomatic relations with Israel.

Ten years ago: U.S. Secretary of State William Rogers arrived in Mexico, his first stop in an eight-nation tour of Latin America.

Five years ago: Israel renewed its pledge to the United States not to use American-made cluster bombs except under special wartime circumstances.

One year ago: Security guards overpowered a man armed with a knife before he could reach Pope John Paul II, who was touring the shrine at Fatima, Portugal.

Today's birthdays: Baseball Hall of Famer Yogi Berra is 58 years old, songwriter Bert Bacharach is 54 and comedian George Carlin is 45.

Thought for today: "Goodness is the only investment that never fails." — Henry David Thoreau, U.S. writer (1817-1862).

Round Up Club to hold luncheon

Singles Round Up Club will hold a covered dish luncheon at 12:30 p.m. Sunday in the Banquet Room of the Community Center. Everyone is invited.

Election of officers will be held at this time. The planning committee has nominated the present steering committee for another term and nominations will be accepted from the floor. The planning committee has requested one amendment change to the by-laws.

Mineral riches

Ninety-five percent of the world's gem emeralds are produced by Colombia. The Muzo emerald mines, 75 miles from the capital of Bogota, have been in operation for four centuries. The mineral-rich South American nation also produces such precious metals as gold, silver, copper and platinum as well as lead, mercury, manganese, iron, nickel and coal.

Westerners have highest per capita income

WASHINGTON (AP) — Westerners have the highest per capita income in the country, says the Census Bureau, but the regional money gap between rich and poor is less than it was 10 years ago.

On a national basis, per capita income was $9,521 in 1980. Residents of the Western states had a per capita income of $10,265.

The Northeast was the second-richest region in the latest Census; per capita income was $10,121. Residents of the North Central region had per capita income of $9,650 and those in the South had an income of $8,604 each.

A decade earlier, the national per capita income was only $3,945 and the Northeast topped the nation at $4,423. The West was second with per capita income of $4,207, the North Central states were third with $3,964 and the South was last with $3,391.

The spread between the richest and poorest regions was 26.2 percentage points in 1970; the per capita income in the Northeast was 112.1 percent of the national average, while that in the South was only 85.9 percent of the national average.

By 1980, however, the spread was only 17.4 percentage points; the "rich" Westerners had a per capita income that was 107.8 percent of the national average and the "poor" Southerners stood at 90.4 percent of the national average.

Daniel H. Garnick of the Bureau of Economic Analysis said there are several reasons that the gap has narrowed. Over the years, he said, "the industrial composition of the various regions has become more nearly alike," the distribution of federal and state aid has become more even and regional differences in wage rates have lessened.

The West's income growth during the decade came with expansion of the job opportunities there, particularly in technologies such as aerospace and computers, said Edward Welniak of the Census Bureau.

Larry H. Long, also of the bureau, said that income in many rural areas has been boosted by a rapid increase in the labor force, including a rise in the number of women and young people working in those places.

Alaskans, facing some of the nation's highest costs, had the highest per capita income in 1980 at $12,790, up from $4,726 in 1970 when that state ranked third.
