County to apply for block grant money

By BOB NIGH
MANAGING EDITOR

Deaf Smith County commissioners have scheduled the first of two public hearings to gather input concerning some $200,000 in federal block grant money the county is eligible for after a representative of the Panhandle Regional Planning Commission (PRPC) informed the court of that possibility Monday.

That meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the County Courtroom on the second floor of the county courthouse.

Gary Pitner, Assistant to the Executive Director of the PRPC, told the court that Deaf Smith County is eligible for the funds by being the only county in the Panhandle which saw its first-quarter unemployment rate in 1983 exceed that rate during the same period in 1980.

Pitner said that some $60 million has been targeted for the state of Texas annually under the Reagan Administration's "New Federalism" program.

The state's 24 regions will share the Community Development Block Grant monies, with a 12-member regional review panel to set figures for each region next month.

"There will be approximately $1 million for the Panhandle region," Pitner said. Of that, $200,000 has been set aside for those counties which have had unemployment problems to be used for "public facility improvements."

According to Texas Employment Commission (TEC) Manager Lester Rape, the county's unemployment rate during the first quarter of this year was almost double of that for the same period in 1980.

For the first three months of 1980 Rape reported the following figures: 6.8 percent unemployment in January, 5.4 percent in February, and 5.5 percent in March. This year's figures were markedly higher, with 10.6 percent unemployment in January, 12.3 in February, and 11.3 in March.

Rape said, however, that the jobless figure is showing a consistent decline, and he expects the June figure to be somewhere between 8-9 percent after 10.1 percent in April and 9.1 in May.

According to Pitner the $200,000 for "public facility improvements" is targeted for projects such as water systems, paving, and sewage systems.

The county must apply for the funds by Sept. 1, must hold two public hearings to get citizen input on how it should be spent, and the money "must be spent to the benefit of low-moderate income families."

Pitner encouraged the court to make application for the funds, especially since "red tape" will not be as much of a problem since the funds are handled by the state as opposed to the federal government.

Pct. 2 Commissioner Austin Rose agreed. "I think we'd be doing the people of the county an injustice if we didn't at least apply for it," he said.

Pitner said that the county could apply for as much as $500,000 since $1 million has been targeted for the Panhandle area. He cautioned the county fathers, however, that the additional money over the $200,000 targeted for "public facility improvements" will be hotly fought-over by the remaining counties in the area.

The county jail and sheriff's office were another major item of discussion by the court Monday, which approved $254.85 additional expense of the fire alarm system in the jail, and approved the hiring of two additional jailers as mandated by the state Jail Standards Commission.

The court also tabled action on salary adjustments for the sheriff's office as requested by chief Deputy Dean Butcher until more information concerning job classification and salary recommendations are received from George Louder of Talentmax, Inc., of Amarillo.

Louder still has not completed his survey of county operations authorized by the court at a cost of $22,000 over a year ago.

In other matters Monday the court:

-Declined to participate in the reorganization of the Association of County Welfare Directors on the recommendation of County Social Services Director Earlene Cook, who also reported that as of yet no other agency has come forth to assume distribution of surplus butter and cheese available from the federal government. The county has backed off from that service due to increased regulations.

-Authorized County Treasurer Vesta Mae Nunley to pay for seal coating on county roads out of Revenue Sharing Funds, with any excess to be paid for out of precinct funds as necessary.

-Appointed Hope Herrera as Election Judge for Voting Precinct 5, and named Margaret Perez as Alternate Election Judge for Absentee Voting. Ms. Herrera replaces B.E. Roberson in Pct. 5.

-Agreed to pay over $7,000 in attorney's fees for service provided.

-Rejected an offer of Supplemental Death Benefits for county employees as available through the Texas County and District Retirement Systems. The plan offered a year's salary to a county employee's beneficiary, and included benefits for county retirees as well. Ms. Nunley estimated the county's cost for the program at nearly $14,000 per year, and urged the court to reject the plan "since the budget has already been approved" for next year.

All four commissioners as well as County Judge Glen Nelson were present Monday.

Blood donors needed

The Coffee Memorial Bloodmobile from Amarillo will be at the Hereford Community Center from 4 to 6:30 p.m. Wednesday to give local residents an opportunity to donate blood. Approximately 1200 pints of blood are needed to replace the blood used by area residents through July 1.

The monthly blood drive is sponsored by the Women's Division of the Chamber of Commerce.

Shultz being undercut?

WASHINGTON (AP) — The influence of Secretary of State George P. Shultz over the nation's foreign policy will be sharply diminished because of the presidential appointments of Henry A. Kissinger and Robert D. McFarlane to roles in Central America and the Middle East.

It's a big change from a year ago, when Shultz was picked by Reagan to repair his tattered foreign policy in the wake of the resignation of Alexander M. Haig Jr.

The latest appointments follow the apparent failure of Shultz' approach to the problems in both world trouble spots — or at least White House impatience with his approach.

For Central America, Shultz now must share influence with Kissinger, the former secretary of state who, ironically, has had widespread experience in just about every key region of the world except Central America. Kissinger was picked by Reagan as chairman of his bipartisan commission on Central America.

For the Middle East, Reagan reached into his own

'83 wheat crop about same

By REED PARSELL
Staff Writer

Despite cutting back production acreage by nearly 50 percent, Deaf Smith County farmers harvested practically the same amount of wheat this year as they did last summer.

According to John Fuston, manager of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation office for Deaf Smith County, this year's area wheat harvest produced approximately six million bushels. An average year is five to seven million, he said, with the record being 10.2 million in 1975.

The cutback in production acreage was due to the federal government's payment-in-kind (PIK) program, which gives farmers either grain or money for reducing their cultivated land. PIK's primary objective was to decrease the amount of grains wasted in storage with an increase in wheat prices being the desired result.

High-density harvest yields throughout the wheat belt, though, have not reduced wheat placed in storage. This week's TIME magazine claimed storage may actually exceed 1982 levels.

In Deaf Smith County, Fuston figured an average of 30-35 bushels were harvested for every dry land acre while irrigated land averaged 75-80 bushels, with some acres yielding as many as 100 bushels. He said normal figures were 15-20 for dry and 55-60 for irrigated land.

"Our snow last year helped the wheat tremendously," Fuston said, "and also the cool spring we had."

Price of wheat has not gone up appreciably since last year, Fuston said. Deaf Smith County's current rate of $3.30 per bushel is about average for the wheat belt, he claimed.

"It's costing in the area of $5 to produce a bushel of wheat," Fuston said. "We need a better market."

Improving prices with corn and milo, which will be harvested by the end of October, could boost the wheat charges. "Most all our grains follow a pattern," according to Fuston.

The outlook for corn and milo is good, according to Fuston. He did say, however, "We desperately need rain."

PIK grain and money deliveries for corn and milo will begin October 1. Wheat deliveries, which began July 1, are about one-half completed, Fuston contended. He said PIK monetary payments — being handled through his ASCS office — will begin soon.

Of the grain so far dispersed in Deaf Smith County by the federal government, about half has come from outside the area. Groover, Perryton, Stratford and Texana have been the principal

Ground exercises to be expanded

WASHINGTON (AP) — As President Reagan moves warships into position off both coasts of Central America, administration officials are planning stepped-up ground exercises in the volatile region.

In a nationally televised news conference tonight at 8 p.m. EDT, Reagan is expected to focus on the military activity that presidential communications director David R. Gergen says has been treated with "an awful lot of hype."

The session with reporters will give the president "an opportunity to put things in perspective," said Gergen.

The latest U.S. military maneuvers in the region include sending the battleship New Jersey to join the growing U.S. fleet off Nicaragua, a decision Pentagon sources revealed Monday.

The ship movements are tied to the administration's opposition to Nicaragua's Sandinista government and its support for the Salvadoran government under attack by leftist insurgents.

The administration says the insurgents in El Salvador are being supplied through Nicaragua.

The battleship, which cut short a Far Eastern cruise, was said to be heading across the Pacific to join the aircraft carrier Ranger and seven other vessels, which took positions Monday off Central America's western coast.

Meanwhile, the aircraft carrier Coral Sea was reported ready to depart for the Caribbean Sea from Naples, Italy, to operate along Central America's eastern coast.

The Pentagon announced that the first Marine amphibious landing in Honduras will be part of joint exercises by U.S. military forces.

As reports circulated that the Pentagon was considering doubling the number of U.S. military advisers in El Salvador, White House officials took pains to stress that no such plan had reached the president. Reagan has allowed no more than 55 advisers to work in El Salvador at any one time.

While Reagan and his aides are focusing on current developments in Central America, Henry A. Kissinger, as chairman of the president's bipartisan commission on the region, was consulting today with House and Senate leaders of both parties. He met with the

We received our issue of "Texas Football" magazine the other day, so the grid season can't be too far away. The Herd's new mentor, Jerry Taylor, has gone to coaching school this week.

Monterey is picked to win District 3-5A, but Plainview will challenge, according to "Texas Football." Coronado and Palo Duro are also rated strong by the magazine.

The book does not predict an order of finish in the district races, but it may be no accident that Hereford is listed last.

"After making it to the state semifinals in 1981 and fashioning a creditable 3-2 record in 1982, Hereford and new coach Jerry Taylor start from ground zero this fall as nary a regular returns for the new season," cites the article.

The book picks San Angelo as the No. 6 team to start the rankings—the only school represented from North or West Texas. Houston Memorial is rated as the top 5A team in the state.

Another football book, Sam Mayo's "Top 10 Texas Football," also lists Monterey and Plainview as 1-2 in the league race. However, Mayo thinks Coronado could win it all and that Palo Duro could beat any of the three on a given night.

This article ranks Hereford as sixth in the district chase. With 34 seniors lost off the squad of 48 last season, it's not difficult to see why Hereford is being rated low.

The Herd has a winning tradition—29 wins and 5 losses the past three years—but the Whitefaces lost some big-play gridgers. Alfred Ball was the league's only 1,000-yard rusher last season, and Charles McDowell was the district's total offense leader.

Other all-district players lost to graduation included wide receiver Brian Taylor, tackle Erasmo Gonzales, center Tim Martin, and defensive end James Payne. McDowell also made it as a defensive back.

Four of the departing players also made the second team: Lineman Robbie Christie, end Kerry Beard, guard Mark Collier and kicker Raymond Martinez.

Attacking The Fire

Firemen hack away Monday afternoon at a fire in 214 Harrah, located in southwest Hereford. The blaze, which encompassed the structure's ceiling and roof in three places, was reported at 3:12 p.m. By 6 p.m., the Hereford Fire Department was finished, having used six units and 19 men to subdue the burning building. Frank Garcia reportedly owns the residence.

Japan mudslide death toll rises to 94

TOKYO (AP) — Rescue workers found four more bodies under mud and collapsed buildings today, bringing the death toll from floods and landslides triggered by last week's torrential rains in southern Japan to 94.

Throughout the day, more than 3,000 policemen, firemen and soldiers continued search operations in Shimane prefecture, where 18 people are still missing, police said.

Shimane, 380 miles southwest of Tokyo, was drenched by heavy rains last Friday night and Saturday. The rains caused rivers to overflow and set off more than 724 landslides.

Shimane authorities said damage to property, roads and crops totaled $157 million.

Water was still cut off to about 15,000 homes and 7,000 homes were without electricity, officials said.

Five-day eruption halts without damage

VOLCANO, Hawaii (AP) — Kilauea Volcano has ended a spectacular five-day eruption, halting a four-mile march of molten rock before any property was damaged.

Lava had been spewing 30 to 60 feet out of the volcano's east rift when the activity stopped abruptly at 4:30 p.m. Monday, said Wil Tanigawa, a spokesman for the U.S. Geological Survey's Hawaiian Volcano Observatory.

The volcano bubbled to life on Thursday in a cinder cone 12 miles from the summit, the sixth major eruption since Jan. 3. On Saturday, a fountain of lava shot 500 feet into the air, creating a roar that could be heard 10 miles away.

During Kilauea's five previous eruptions this year, glowing rock has pushed five miles into the sparsely populated Royal Gardens subdivision, destroying 16 structures. But the latest flow moved away from the homes, creeping four miles northeast into a remote state forest before the source calmed and movement ceased.

110-year-old man dies, or was it 121?

MELVIN, Texas (AP) — Nicolas Ramirez' family and the Social Security Administration don't agree on the man's age — but he was a member of a select group of centenarians, both sides say.

Ramirez, whose age was listed as 110 in federal records, died Sunday in a San Angelo hospital following a year-long battle with pneumonia, family members said.

The retired West Texas farmer was less two months shy of his 121st birthday, family members contend. He was born at Guanguato, Mexico on Sept. 10, 1862, according to his family.

But a public affairs spokesman at the regional Social Security office in Dallas said records show Ramirez to be 110 years old, having been born on Sept. 10, 1872.

The official, who declined to be identified, said the records do not necessarily mean Ramirez wasn't born in 1862. However, when Ramirez applied for benefits, he apparently supplied a document showing he was born in 1872, the official said.

Whatever his exact age, Ramirez was a member of a select group, according to spokesman Greg Spencer of the Census Bureau.

"In general, the maximum anyone has been able to document well has been around 115 to 120 years old," Spencer said Monday.

In 1979, the latest year for which total death certificates are available, only three listing ages 120 or older were filed, Spencer said.

Selective Service program

Registration deemed a success

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three years after men resumed signing up with Selective Service, the threatened Vietnam-style protests have failed to materialize, and government officials say the registration program is a success.

Although there are still dedicated opponents of registration struggling to bring it to an end, the courtroom has been their forum more often than the street.

"I think this is just not an era for big protests about any subject. It's very difficult to get people to come out, be it for peace through strength rallies or anti-MX or anti-draft rallies," said Barry Lynn, former head of the anti-registration group Draft Action.

Lynn and others led protest demonstrations in July 1980 when registration was resumed. But since then the opposition has mainly been court suits, with the government — for its part — only occasionally prosecuting a draft resister.

Meanwhile, about 5,000 men are registered each day, with more than 10 million now on the rolls.

Registration has climbed to more than 98 percent of youths born between 1960 and 1983, Selective Service Director Thomas K. Turnage said, and while it is less for some later years, overall registration is more than 95 percent.

"We're ready," Turnage said in an interview. "Tomorrow we could have a random lottery and before the day would end we would be sending telegrams to the individuals that would be first selected. And within the first 30 days we would have the first 100,000 people in the training base."

There could not be a draft lottery "tomorrow," of course, because Congress would have to act before any actual drafting of young men could occur.

Readiness was the intent when registration was proposed by President Carter and approved by Congress after the Soviet intervention in Afghanistan.

In the 1980 presidential campaign, Republican candidate Ronald Reagan opposed peacetime registration. But in the tense days after martial law was imposed in Poland, President Reagan decided to continue it.

So the program remains in place, and disagreement continues over whether it works or should continue.

"One of my biggest regrets is that the public has been deceived into thinking that this ineptly run bureaucracy called Selective Service will somehow aid the national security of our country, when it in fact will not," Lynn said in an interview. Although Lynn left his unpaid post as head of Draft Action at the end of June because of other responsibilities, he is still involved in draft issues. He directed the organization for two years.

Even with more than 95 percent of eligible men signed up, some 400,000 have not done so, addresses of those who did register are outdated and, in general, registration is unenforceable, he said.

"Registration has never been a symbol of national resolve," Lynn said. "On the contrary, I'd say that the prosecution of moral objectors is a mark of infamy of which our government should be ashamed."

Only about 15 registration opponents have been prosecuted, fewer than even Lynn anticipated.

"I have always said it would be unenforceable," he said, "but I never quite thought that three years after the fact there would be these few active cases."

Among those who are being prosecuted is David Alan Wayne, a 22-year-old former Yale University philosophy student whose indictment was reinstated last week after a federal appeals court in San Francisco rejected his contention that he was selected for prosecution only because of his vocal opposition.

Wheat

sources, Fuston said.

"Most of the farmers have been in favor of PIK," the ASCS manager stated. "They seem to feel like it's a good program." One of PIK's best features, he said, is that it allows better conservation of soil, which has suffered notable erosion since about 1974.

The biggest problem with PIK, Fuston thought, "is that it's gotten so complicated." Originally, the federal government hinted it would be a simple and profitable solution to the overabundance of grain stored in the United States.

Though it may not be continued for corn and thilo, PIK will likely be offered for wheat again next year, Fuston said. Area farmers are already planning acreage for September plantings despite no official word from Agriculture Secretary John Block that PIK will be around in 1984.

Meanwhile, harvesting of potatoes, onions and cabbages is now underway. Wes Fisher, Hereford mayor and owner of Barrett-Fisher packing and shipping, said the potato harvest began July 6 and should conclude around August 20.

Production for potatoes has been "average" so far, Fisher said, with 100-200 hundredweights being yielded per acre. The average price is about $13 per hun-dredweight, which allows an acceptable profit for the industry, he said.

Onions started off selling for $3-$4 per 50-pound bag, which are now going for $6-$8, according to Fisher. He said it is too early to determine the success of the current cabbage crop.

Carrots are expected to be harvested starting in August, Fisher said, in addition to a few peppers and cantaloupes.

Ground

pressident Monday.

Kissinger said at a State Department news conference that the administration had to head off "the bitter debates that characterized the Vietnam period" and avoid any uncertainty about U.S. goals. His 12-member commission is to draw up long-term policy ideas for Reagan and help build national support for that policy.

Meanwhile, the Nicaraguan government on Monday told the Organization of American States that it is ready to negotiate "an absolute end to the arms supply by any country to the forces in conflict in El Salvador." It also said it was willing to sign a nonaggression treaty with neighboring Honduras.

In the Senate, Jeff Bingaman, D-N.M., and Daniel K. Inouye, D-Hawaii, introduced a bill to end U.S. aid to anti-Sandinista rebels in Nicaragua. The measure also would call upon the administration to "indicate its willingness to cease the flow of arms into Central America if other arms-supplying nations agree to do likewise."

At his news conference, Kissinger said he thought the commission would visit the region, including Nicaragua "if we are welcome," and that he might make a preliminary trip to consult with the leaders of the countries there about the commission's work.

"But under no circumstances will the commission engage in any negotiations or in any of the immediate efforts at direct conciliation," which he said was the role of Richard Stone, Reagan's special envoy to the region.

Kissinger, the former secretary of state, denied that he was usurping policy planning from Secretary of State George P. Shultz. He said the commission would hold its first meeting during the week of Aug. 9.

He said that he had several times rejected requests that he chair the commission. But, he said, "the president called me and said he had no second choice."

Shultz

White House staff to pick McFarlane as his chief Mideast envoy, replacing Philip C. Habib, a retired career diplomat and State Department official.

While both Kissinger and McFarlane insist they will work closely with Shultz, there is every reason to believe their loyalties are to the White House, not the State Department.

McFarlane is deputy national security adviser in the White House, a position he will retain, which leads logically to speculation he will report first to the national security adviser, William P. Clark.

McFarlane has only brief experience at the State Department — as counselor during Haig's tenure as secretary of state. But he served as a key assistant to Kissinger at the White House during the Nixon administration.

Several State Department officials who insisted on anonymity concede that a structure now exists that could bypass Shultz in devising policy for the two key regions, although they don't all agree that will happen.

A senior aide to Shultz said the secretary endorsed the McFarlane appointment even though he knew it would be widely interpreted as disapproval of him. "He thinks McFarlane is the best man, and that is good enough for him," said the aide, who insisted on anonymity.

Shultz, of course, rightly has insisted all along that the president is the chief architect of the nation's foreign policy. But most presidents, and Reagan is no exception, rely heavily on their advisers' recommendations.

Thus, the influence lies with those to whom Reagan is listening.

Mrs. Carmichael died from massive head injuries she received in a one-car rollover at 2 p.m. Friday 16 miles east of Tulia on Texas 86.

Her two daughters, Laura, 16, and Priscilla, 11, granddaughters of Mr. and Mrs. Pete Carmichael of Hereford, were injured in the accident. Priscilla has reportedly been released after treatment at Northwest Texas Hospital in Amarillo and Laura has been transferred to a Dallas hospital for surgery.

Other survivors include her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Petty of San Antonio; two brothers, Neal and J.C. Petty, both of San Antonio; and her grandmother, Ruby Phillips of San Antonio.

Police probe vandalism here

Hereford police reported a windshield, valued at $300, was broken on a 1976 Ford truck sometime Thursday night or Friday morning.

Victim of the vandalism is Riverside Chemical of Dairy Road. Police believed a rock was used to cause the damage.

A car stolen two days earlier in Whiteface was recovered Friday at about 10 p.m. in the rear of the Bull Barn. The 1978 Chevrolet belongs to Randy Price of Whiteface.

Also on Friday, an outdoor grill worth an estimated $200 was taken from Jim Warren's residence on Veteran Park Road. Police said the theft occurred between 5-9 a.m.

A $200 roto tiller was stolen from Bertha Sears garage at 311 Irving sometime Monday between 6:30 a.m. and 3 p.m. Manuel Vargas, 720 Stanton, had the windshield, wipers and antenna of his 1980 Chevrolet damaged Monday evening while it was parked at Third and Main.

Damage was valued at $200, police said.

Murillo Verlin, 13 of 1010 Thirteenth, was struck by a 1974 Mercury Sunday at 12:01 a.m. near the Bull Barn. Driving the vehicle was Marin Elizondo Gavina Jr. of 424 Barrett. Verlin, taken to the local hospital, suffered scrapes and bruises on her right leg and hip.

Police also reported four arrests for public intoxication, one for DWI and another for a juvenile caught trespassing. Among incidents which happened over the weekend were seven criminal mischiefs, four assaults and three minor thefts.

Shelley Simmons is honored at shower

Shelley Simmons, bride-elect of Bobby Crozier, was honored at a bridal shower Saturday afternoon in the home of Mysedia Smith. Guests were registered by Sue Crozier of Dimitt, sister of the prospective bridegroom.

Greeting guests with the honoree were Ms. Smith; Carrell Ann Simmons, mother of the bride-elect; and Jackie Crozier of Dimitt, mother of the prospective groom.

The honoree was presented with a spring flower corsage and the mothers and grandmothers wore daisy corsages.

Other out of town guests were grandmothers, Mrs. Florence Sawyer and Mrs. Juanita Simmons, and the bride's aunts, Mrs. Judy Kay Weatherford and Mrs. Pat Brown, all of Plainview. Shavon Lloyd and Sharon Hodges served the guests ham-filled cream puffs, individual fruit topped cheesecakes, fresh fruit kabobs, and banana punch. The serving table was covered with a Venetian cut-work tablecloth and held a crystal vase filled with mixed fresh flowers in the bride's chosen colors. Silver appointments and a crystal punchbowl and candlesticks were used.

Hostesses included Lucy Rogers, Beth Gearn, Frances Berry, Beverly Bryant, Betty Taylor, Ms. Hodges, Joan McPherson, Betty Martin, Sandra Saul, Ms. Smith, Millie Barrett, Francie Farr, Jane Coplen, Judy Williams, Sherry Hoover, and Debbie Gonzalez.

Miss Simmons and Crozier plan to be married Aug. 20.

Ann Landers

Rattled the wrong cage

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our daughter was married in January. We sent an announcement to her husband's grandmother in another state 1,200 miles from here. Yesterday an envelope addressed to my daughter and her husband arrived. I phoned my daughter and asked if I should open it. I could see from the return address that it was from her husband's grandmother. The message stopped me cold. She wrote: Dear Newlyweds: Did you receive the check I sent for a wedding gift? Please put an X next to the correct statement. So far it has not been cashed.

(a) We did receive the check. (b) We did not receive the check. Enclosed for your convenience is a self-addressed stamped envelope. Grandmother Jones How do you like that for nerve? Our son-in-law was loaded and could have sent a lot more and would never have missed it. They haven't gotten around to acknowledging all their gifts as yet because they both work. They would like to send a snappy reply to that smart-aleck note. How about a clever comeback?—Mad In Arkansas

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Sorry, you rattled the wrong cage, Dearie. I'm working the other side of the street. If your daughter or her husband couldn't find the time to acknowledge a gift received in January yet, they deserved the terse note.

The fact that they haven't gotten around to cashing the check is evidence that they are stupid as well as graceless. They've already lost six months in interest. (Who raised those vegetables?)

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Regarding the person who wanted to know if cold water boils faster than hot water and if hot water freezes faster than cold, you said you believe in going to the top and contacted Dr. Jerome Weisner, chancellor of Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Dr. Weisner said a problem of such extraordinary dimensions should be handled by an expert, so he turned the letter over to the dean of science, John W. Deutch. (Deutch said neither statement was true.) Even though Dr. Deutch gave the correct answer, that procedure is called argument by authority and has absolutely no place in science. I was able to come to the same conclusion by using a pan of hot water, a thermometer, a stove, a refrigerator and a watch with a second hand.

You, Ann Landers, exemplify what is wrong with our society. Too many bozos are too lazy to find the answers for themselves. It is easier to call on an "authority." How much more satisfying to rely on one's intelligence.—Self-Reliant In Riverside

DEAR SELF-RELIANT: When a reader asks such a question, I am not about to tell him to do a home experiment, nor would I do one myself. I assure you that Dr. Deutch didn't boil any water, either. He KNEW the answer—which is the beauty of having a battery of top consultants.

Club plans ice cream concession

Members of Toujours Amis Study Club met recently in the home of Sharon Hodges to discuss upcoming club projects and activities.

Plans were finalized for the group's annual ice cream crepe sale and concession booth to be open in the Community Center during the Town and Country Jubilee.

During the informal business meeting on the patio, the group was served homemade ice cream, cookies and lemonade. Sharon's twin sons, Cody and Slade, kept the group entertained.

Those attending were Cindy Black, Marcia Boyer, Shannon Hagar, Lori Hall, Karen Keeling, Beverley Lambert, Marylin Leasure, Rhonda Long, Teri Morgan, Rhonda Nieman, Leisa Lewis, Pam Perrin, Katy Timmons, Charlotte Tyler, Nena Veazey, Diana White, Marsha Winget and the hostess, Ms. Hodges.

4-H'ers learn animal care

By BRAD MORRISON
 County Extension Agent
 Owing an animal brings with it an obligation to learn to keep it healthy. In the national 4-H veterinary science and dog care and training programs, young people are learning a broad range of skills.

With help from local veterinarians who often serve as project leaders, 4-H'ers in the veterinary science program, supported by the Upjohn Company, learn to identify potential health problems and how to prevent and control diseases.

The program covers all animals—from tiny mice and gerbils to the more common dog and cat pets to horses, livestock and zoo animals. 4-H members conduct animal care workshops, volunteer for work at zoos and assist veterinarians with simple procedures.

4-H'ers in the dog care and training program, supported by the Purina Dog Foods Group, Ralston Purina Company, learn about the more than 100 breeds of dogs in America and how to choose a dog most appropriate for their special pet. They learn proper care and training techniques to increase their understanding of what's involved in making their pet healthy and a well-adjusted family member.

Most importantly, 4-H'ers in both programs learn that, just as in humans, regular checkups and prompt action in case of illness are vital to the health and vitality of their animals.

Awards and incentives, provided by Upjohn and Ralston Purina, and arranged by the National 4-H Council, are available to members who excel in these programs.

In both programs, medals of honor are awarded to four members in each county. State winners in dog care receive a transistor radio, while veterinary science state winners each receive a $75 U.S. Savings Bond.

All state winners then are eligible to compete for sectional awards, expense-paid trips to the National 4-H Congress in Chicago. During Congress, six national winners in each program receive $1,000 scholarships.

You can learn more about these and other 4-H programs by contacting the county Extension office.

Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socio-economic levels, race, color, sex, religion or national origin.

Even affected clubs support Rozelle's decision

By WILLIAM R. BARNARD
AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Commissioner Pete Rozelle of the National Football League is getting tough with players who use drugs, and he's got support even from teams affected by four suspensions.

Pete Johnson and Ross Browner of the Cincinnati Bengals, E.J. Junior of the St. Louis Cardinals and Greg Stenrick of the New Orleans Saints were suspended without pay by Rozelle on Monday. The suspensions carry through the fourth game of the 1983 season, at which time the players can petition for reinstatement.

"None of the four is permitted to attend training camp, practice sessions, meetings or otherwise use club facilities," Rozelle said. He said he had thoroughly reviewed the cases of the four with the players and their representatives before reaching his decision.

Only one of the four players — Junior — was available for comment.

"The commissioner made a decision in the best interest of the fans and the NFL," said Junior, en route from Charleston, Ill., to St. Louis. "I accept the decision and look forward to returning to the football Cardinals."

Junior, a third-year linebacker from the University of Alabama, was arrested on April 6, 1982, at his apartment in Tuscaloosa, Ala., and charged with possession of cocaine and marijuana. He entered a plea of guilty to the cocaine charge and was placed on probation.

"We still continue to be supportive of E.J. Junior in his (rehabilitation) program and look forward to his return to fulltime duty," Cardinals owner Bill Bidwell said.

Stenrick also was arrested on cocaine felony charges, pleaded no contest, and was placed on probation.

The Saints cornerback played at Colorado State before moving into the NFL with Houston in 1975. He was released by the Oilers following his drug problems and claimed on waivers by the Saints.

Coach Bum Phillips said team rules would have dealt harshly with Stenrick if he had been caught with cocaine while with the Saints.

Phillips said it was time that Rozelle cracked down on drug abusers.

"Sooner or later, we have to put a stop to it," he said.

Browner and Johnson acknowledged in federal criminal court testimony that they purchased cocaine from a Cincinnati plumber.

The players were given immunity in return for their testimony, and the plumber was convicted of drug dealing.

NFL spokesman Joe Browne said the NFL will conduct a separate review of the cases of all players who become involved in drug prosecutions, including Washington Redskins running back Clarence Harmon, who is facing cocaine possession charges in Texarkana, Texas.

Bengals Assistant General Manager Mike Brown said that although two of his own players were involved, he welcomed the suspensions.

"There's no question the National Football League has had problems with players and drugs," Brown said. "More needs to be done to address the situation."

Brown added, "It seems to me the purpose of the commissioner's actions is to deter others."

Rozelle has now suspended five NFL players this year.

On May 20, Rozelle suspended Baltimore Colts quarterback Art Schlichter indefinitely for betting on NFL games. Schlichter was told that his case would be reviewed prior to the 1984 season.

In 1973, wide receiver Lance Rentzel was suspended for one year following arrests for indecent exposure and possession of marijuana.

Ten years earlier, Rozelle suspended Alex Karras and Paul Hornung for gambling. They applied for reinstatement and it was granted after one year on the sidelines.

Browner, a defensive end, was Cincinnati's No. 1 draft choice in 1978 after starring at Notre Dame.

Johnson is the Bengals' all-time rushing leader with 4,656 yards in six seasons since being drafted out of Ohio State in 1977.

"NFL players occupy a unique position in the eyes of the public," Rozelle said in explaining his decision. "They are objects of admiration and emulation by countless fans, particularly young people. Involvement with illegal drugs poses numerous risks to the integrity of professional football and the public's confidence in it. Thus, every player must adhere to certain standards of personal conduct both on and off the field."

Everson crawls back to camp

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) — Everson Walls is gambling on being a bigger star in two years than he is now.

In a stunning reversal, the holdout Dallas Cowboys' All-Pro cornerback reported to training camp Monday night only three days after he had announced his retirement.

Walls, his contract renegotiations bogging down with team Vice President Gil Brandt, decided to play out the final two years of his contract. He makes only $60,000 this year versus the $175,000 the Cowboys offered in a five-year pact.

He took out a $1 million policy against a career-ending injury with Lloyds of London and announced he was willing to pay a $5,000 fine for being late.

"I have returned, no big deal," Walls said.

"Everybody knows what I want, either a three year contract (for $920,000) or a five-year for $1.6 million."

The Cowboys have offered a five-year contract for $1.25 million.

Walls said, "I know they want to lock me up for five years but I want my freedom to make as much as I can. I'm banking on the United States Football League making it. I hope there will be a bidding war going on (in two years)."

Walls, the leading interceptor the past two seasons in the National Football League, said "the Cowboys may come up with the contract I want tomorrow. But I'm not going to accept it until they do."

Walls' return was such a shocker that not even Brandt, who was on a trip to Oregon, knew about it.

Coach Tom Landry said he would decide later whether Walls' $1,000 a day fine sticks.

Club President Tex Schramm said, "I've always felt it would be wise for him (Walls) to come to camp and prepare for the season with his teammates. Staying away was not a productive alternative."

Walls said he was not mad at the Cowboys.

"I'm sure they are trying to save as much money as they can," he said. "It's a business. I'd rather just play out my two years and leave."

"I don't think the Cowboys and myself will agree, ever." Walls said he will begin practice the moment his insurance is valid. He had to pay $5,000 as a downpayment on the policy.

"I want to get out there (on the field) and win," he said. "I'm ready to play football. I'll have football on my mind tomorrow."

Walls received a barrage of calls from his teammates.

"Most of them felt I should be in camp," Walls said. "I really didn't feel secure about that injury thing until we worked it out with an insurance company."

Asked why he didn't take out the policy last week, Walls laughed "That idea wasn't with me then. I guess it will cost me $5,000 (the fine) out of my pocket."

Reaction from Walls' teammates was joyous.

Asked if he was bitter, Walls said "No. I don't hold grudges."

Houston wants festival

HOUSTON (AP) — The city of Houston has joined at least 17 other cities seeking to host the 1986 National Sports Festival. City leaders hope to use the experience to enhance the chances for holding the Summer Olympics in the year 2000.

"Don't get too excited too early, but we're on our way," said Alvin Busse, a public relations executive heading a volunteer group known as the Greater Houston Committee for the Olympics. "2000 can look a long time away. We only have 10 years to make a presentation. We have to pre-convince the U.S. Olympic Committee."

The idea for the bids originated last year and a task force was assembled to see if the city had the facilities and motivation to host the two events, Busse said.

"We would be extremely pleased to secure the National Sports Festival during the year 1986, when it could serve as the major sporting event for Texas during the state's sesquicentennial celebration," Mayor Kathy Whitmire said at a news conference Monday.

The formal bid must be presented by September. A site will be selected in December or January.

The sports festival, hosted this year in Colorado Springs, Colo., and held in non-Olympic years, attracts about 3,000 of the nation's top amateur athletes.

'Cobra' Dave Parker

Pirate star unwinding

By DAVE GOLDBERG AP Sports Writer

Dave Parker, cobra turned garter snake, is poison again for National League pitchers. It's no coincidence that the Pittsburgh Pirates have surged into first place in the National League East.

"It looks like Dave's found the coil in the cobra," Steve Garvey of the San Diego Padres said Monday night after Parker had three hits, including a two-run homer, and two RBI as the Pirates downed the Padres 6-3.

The win was Pittsburgh's 13th win in its last 16 games and extended the Bucs' lead to one game in the NL East as second-place Montreal split a doubleheader with Cincinnati. The Expos won the second game 8-1 after the Reds won the first, 4-2, as Mario Soto took over the major league lead in strikeouts and complete games.

The Atlanta Braves, meanwhile, lost a chance to extend their lead in the West.

With second-place Los Angeles having lost to the Chicago Cubs 9-3 in the afternoon, the Braves took a 4-1 lead into the bottom of the ninth in New York and appeared about to go 5½ games up. But the Mets rallied for four runs, the last two on George Foster's two-out, two-run double.

The St. Louis Cardinals downed the San Francisco Giants 9-4 as George Hendrick homered and Ozzie Smith drove in three runs.

Parker, a former National League batting champion, was hitting just .241 on July 11 and Pirate manager Chuck Tanner was talking about benching him.

Since then, he's gone 28 for 68, a .412 pace, to raise his average to .281.

Parker had help from Cecilio Guante, who entered the game in the sixth inning with Pittsburgh leading by a run, the bases loaded, and none out. He promptly struck out Ruppert Jones, Juan Bonilla and pinch-hitter Tony Gwynn.

Mets 5, Braves 4
"You never have it in the bag," said Braves Manager Joe Torre.

Mike Jorgensen broke a 1-1 tie with a seventh-inning pinch-hit home run and two more runs in the eighth seemed to have put the game away for Atlanta.

But singles by Junior Ortiz, Dave Kingman, Hubie Brooks and Keith Hernandez brought up George Foster with two outs, two on and the score 4-3. He ripped Steve Bedrosian's 2-2 pitch off the left-field wall and the tying and winning runs scampered home.

Expos 2-8, Reds 4-1
Andre Dawson had homers in each game, his 20th and 21st of the season to go with 75 RBIs.

But the Expos had real trouble in the first game with Mario Soto, who pitched his 11th complete game and struck out 10, running his strikeout total to 156, two ahead of Philadelphia's Steve Carlton.

"It was a very tough first ballgame for us," Dawson said. "Mario is probably one of the better pitchers in the game." Cubs 9, Dodgers 3

Mei Hall almost didn't play for the Cubs after injuring his ankle crashing into a wall Sunday.

But the Chicago center fielder taped and iced it and ended up with "my biggest hit of the year" — a bases loaded triple that was the key hit in the Cubs' seven-run fifth inning that cancelled a 2-0 Dodger lead.

Hall was happy to get the hit off former Cub Burt Hooton, who was quoted in a newspaper article tacked on a bulletin board in the Chicago locker room as saying "the only way the Cubs can make the World Series is if they cancel August and September."

Cards 9, Giants 4
St. Louis got five runs in the first, stormed out to a 9-0 lead and was never in trouble as George Hendrick broke a one-for-27 slump with three hits, including a two-run homer.

For Cards Manager Whitey Herzog, whose world champions had lost four of five, it was a case of his team being due to explode.

"We've had some guys who haven't been hitting," said Herzog. "We also made some good defensive plays that kept them from coming back."

On Brett blast

AL president to rule

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — American League President Lee MacPhail will decide now whether or not Kansas City's George Brett hit a potential game-winning home run in Yankee Stadium on Sunday.

The Kansas City Royals have asked MacPhail to overrule the umpires' decision and let stand a two-out, two-run home run Brett smacked off New York Yankee relief ace Rich Gossage.

Brett, in the meantime, has come to the defense of embattled umpire Joe Brinkman as Royals fans continue to voice their outrage in calls to newspapers, broadcast stations and to the AL office in New York.

"It is our position that there are rules and regulations that exist in baseball, and precedents that support our position," Kansas City General Manager John Schuerholz said in a news conference Monday at Royals Stadium. "We believe the home run should be reinstated and the game should be played to its conclusion."

The Yankees led 4-3 when Brett homered for a 5-4 Royals lead.

But Yankee Manager Billy Martin protested and plate umpire Tim McClelland, after conferring with Brinkman, the crew chief, called Brett out for having pine tar more than 18 inches up his bat handle.

Brett sprinted out of the dugout and had to be forcibly restrained. Royals Manager Dick Howser and many Royals fans said immediately that they might not have been given a fair shake by Brinkman, who was involved in a controversy with the Royals two weeks earlier, when the umpire and Willie Wilson exchanged angry words.

But Brett said of Brinkman: "I don't think he would do anything intentional to me to get at Willie Wilson."

In 1975, Kansas City's John Mayberry slammed a pair of home runs against California and the Angels protested that his bat was heavily tarred. But MacPhail turned down the protest, saying he was following the spirit of the rule rather than the letter.

Joe Burke, the Royals president, said the Mayberry case would be cited by the Royals in the protest, but not as the primary evidence.

"We're basing our protest on the fact that it is not a doctored bat," Burke said. "Pine tar does not make a bat a doctored bat."

Many players and managers came to Brett's defense, saying they thought Brett should have been warned first by the umpires.

"It's got to make you feel sick," said Pittsburgh Pirates Manager Chuck Tanner. "What if Brett loses the Triple Crown because of that bat? You've got to go by the rules, but you've got to go by common sense."

Brett, whose .353 average entering the night was third highest in the League, said he has carefully checked how far pine tar extends on all his bats, "to make sure this never happens again."

"Our phones have not stopped ringing all day long," said David Glazier of the AL office. "We were just talking about it among ourselves and not one of us has gotten one call in support of the umpires' decision. A lot of people have said things like, 'I'm a Yankee fan, but I'd rather lose a game than win one when they take a home run away from the other team.'"

"It's been kind of surprising that not one New York fan has called to say he thinks the right thing was done."

Rangers fall again

Winfield triple keys victory

By KEN RAPPOPORT AP Sports Writer

Dave Winfield saved his best shot for last.

Picking the most dramatic of moments — two out in the ninth inning — the New York outfielder smashed an Odell Jones fastball for a two-run triple, carrying the hot Yankees to a 6-5 victory over the Texas Rangers Monday night.

"We're playing good, just like we did in spring training," said New York Manager Billy Martin after Winfield's clout at Arlington Stadium gave the Yankees their 10th victory in 11 games. "We played good in spring training and then we started the season and we didn't get the pitching or the hitting."

The pitching Monday night came from Dave Righetti, who allowed only two hits and two unearned runs through seven innings, and reliever Goose Gossage, 8-3.

In other American League action, it was Chicago 7, Toronto 4; California 5, Baltimore 2; Minnesota 17, Milwaukee 3; Kansas City 6, Cleveland 1 and Boston 3, Oakland 0.

Trailing 5-4 in the ninth, New York's Rick Cerone and Don Mattingly singled, chasing reliever John Butcher, 2-3. Jones struck out Graig Nettles for the second out before Winfield lined his triple up the right-center field gap.

The Rangers had just gone ahead of the Yankees with three runs in the eighth inning in a rally capped by Buddy Bell's two-run single.

The Rangers, 5-14 since the All-Star break, have now lost 18 games this season by one run.

White Sox 7, Blue Jays 4
In Toronto, Chicago beat the Blue Jays as Harold Baines drove in four runs and Rich Dotson allowed just three hits in 6 2/3 innings.

Richard Dotson, 10-6, allowed but three hits, struck out two and walked three in 6 2/3 innings. Salome Barojas, Kevin Hickey and Dennis Lamp finished up, with the latter gaining his fourth save.

"I'm just trying to do my part, that's all," said Baines. Angels 5, Orioles 2

In Anaheim, Reggie Jackson, Mike Brown and Bob Boone socked home runs to power California over Baltimore. Tommy John, 8-7, who had lost five of six decisions, gave up seven hits in 7 2/3 innings before being relieved by Andy Hassler, who picked up his third save.

"It got a load off me and the fact that it happened in a game we won felt even better," said Jackson, who hit his first homer since June 18 and his 13th this season. Twins 17, Brewers 3
In Minneapolis, Tom Brunansky keyed a 15-hit attack with two home runs as Minnesota doubled the Brewers with their biggest run total of the season. Frank Viola, 5-7, gained the victory while Mike Caldwell, 7-8, never got out of the third inning.

The victory was the fourth straight for the Twins, following an eight-game losing season.

Royals 6, Indians 1
In Kansas City, Amos Otis greeted reliever Bud Anderson with a two-run single, highlighting a three-run seventh inning that carried Kansas City over Cleveland.

Paul Splitteroff, 9-3, gave up four hits through six innings. Dan Quisenberry pitched the final three for his 24th save, tops in the majors.

Gorman Thomas' homer leading off the fifth inning, his 14th, accounted for the Indians' only run. Red Sox 3, A's 0

In Oakland, Boston left-hander Bruce Hurst pitched a five-hitter and Dwight Evans hit his 19th homer of the season to lead the Red Sox over Oakland.

Hurst, 7-8, didn't walk a batter while striking out two for his fourth complete game and second shutout this season. He retired 13 batters in a row between the third and eighth innings.

Tennis winners named

Winners in the Hereford Country Club Junior Tennis Tournament, held Thursday and Friday, have been announced.

Brad Barrett won the boys singles (13-15 years old), with Brad Allred and Nathan Flood finishing second and third.

Shannon Burdett and T.J. Head captured the boys doubles (10-12). David McCarter and Brad Smith were runners-up while Tricia Snyder and Matt Copien took third place.

Stacy White and Lori Rineauer won the girls doubles in the 10-15 age division. Shea McGinty and Alisa Hoelscher finished second while Christi Mullins and Leslie Conkwright were third.

In the boys nine and under division, Matthew Snyder took first place while Jake Head and Sean Smith finished second and third, respectively.

Higher river increases peril for illegal aliens

SOUTH EL PASO, Texas (AP)—The Rio Grande is running deeper with the record snowmelt from the Colorado and New Mexico mountains and creating a new peril for illegal aliens crossing the border river usually waist-deep in summer.

Illegal aliens in the summer normally can just wade across the river where it flows between El Paso and Juarez, the most populous U.S.-Mexico border sector.

But this year the snowmelt has made the Rio Grande, the fifth longest river in North America, deeper and more dangerous. And the combination of higher numbers of undocumented workers trying to swim across higher water has some Border Patrol officials worried.

Rio Grande runoff into Elephant Butte Reservoir—130 miles north of El Paso, and its main reservoir—peaked July 20 at its highest level since 1945. Reservoir outflow peaked July 22, David Overvoid of the federal Bureau of Reclamation's Rio Grande Project said.

The day after the peak reservoir outflow, an unidentified Mexican man with a tattoo saying Ramon was pulled from the Rio Grande after being spotted floating face down near the Cordova Island bridge.

Police call the drowning victims floaters, and the man was the seventh floater found in El Paso this year and the fifth in July. Authorities said the bodies of at least three others were spotted but never recovered or counted in the total.

An average of 10 to 15 people a year drown in the river here, including illegal aliens and picnickers who take a dip in the water to escape the heat. This year, police said they believe six of the seven known victims were illegal aliens.

"Because the river is higher than usual, we're worried," Sgt. Al Martinez said. "And this year, nearly all have been Mexican nationals."

No one knows how many Mexicans die during the crossing—El Paso and Juarez officials don't keep such statistics and authorities would not speculate on how many perish down river, away from the two border cities.

But with illegal alien apprehensions along the 1,760-mile U.S.-Mexico border up 46 percent in the first half of 1983, it's easy to see why drownings are occurring more often.

Economically pressed, record numbers of Mexicans are coming to the U.S. in search of farm work and higher wages. Many come from the interior of Mexico, and cannot swim, agents say. Others are Juarez residents who daily cross the river to work in El Paso.

July 14, a Mexican man in his 30s drowned while trying to cross from Juarez. He was the second floater found that week, police said.

Last week, border patrol agents helped pull a dead man from the river canal near the Santa Fe bridge. The man, in his 20s, also carried no identification.

With the recovery of two other bodies this month, authorities became concerned about the possibility of a worse river-crossing situation.

"Every year we find a lot of bodies," deputy El Paso border patrol sector chief Dale Cozart said Monday. "In past instances, our officers at risk to their own lives jump in the canals or river to try to save (river crossers)."

He said some of the bodies of drowning victims are never recovered.

Most drownings occur in the summer, when alien crossings are highest. But even in winter, when an occasional snow hits El Paso, floaters have been found.

"It's something that happens all the time," El Paso Sheriff's Lt. Ed Proencio said.

"But every year there's a greater number," Cozart said. "We wish it wasn't (that way), but it seems as if it is."

The Consumer Alert

by Jim Mattox
Attorney General

AUSTIN—Every year thousands of businesses close their doors, often leaving customers stranded. Consumers who paid deposits of the complete price for items that were not delivered, who left items for repair or who are trying to get a business to repair or replace a defective item often encounter locked doors and a disconnected telephone.

Unfortunately, there often is no recourse for these consumers. Small businesses, especially in large cities, often disappear without a trace. When owners of such companies can be located, they may have no personal liability because the business is a corporation. All too often the corporation has no remaining assets.

If you find yourself in this situation, you may not be completely out of luck. If there are any assets, the business may have filed a bankruptcy petition. If the store owes you money, you should be listed in the bankruptcy papers as a creditor and receive notice of the proceeding and instructions on how to file a proof of claim.

Under a new bankruptcy law, a consumer owed money by a debtor has a limited priority over the other unsecured creditors. If the merchandise the bankrupt company is holding is clearly your property, you can reclaim it because it is not considered part of the assets of the estate. Bankruptcy petitions are filed in bankruptcy court, a division of federal district court. The court clerk can advise you whether the store you dealt with has filed a petition.

Consumers who purchase cars or contract for home improvements often sign retail installment obligations that are assigned by the business to a finance company or a bank. If, before you finish your payments, the car dealer closes, or the home improver disappears, and you have a claim against the business, you can assert your claim against the finance company or the bank that holds the obligation you signed. However, they are only liable for amounts up to the amount you still owe. It's important, therefore, to assert your claim as soon as it arises.

Perhaps you have made a credit card purchase. You have ordered a product but it never arrived and the business has folded. With certain exceptions, a credit card company is liable for claims arising out of transactions in which credit cards are used. The conditions are:

- the consumer has made a good faith attempt to obtain satisfaction from the dealer;
- the amount of the initial transaction is more than $50 and
- the place of the initial transaction is within the same state as the cardholder's address or within 100 miles from the consumer's address.

If the business you dealt with was a franchise, you may have a chance to recover from the parent company. You would have to show, probably in court, either that you were led to believe that the franchise was the agent of the franchisor.

Even if your situation isn't similar to those outlined above, you should gather information about those involved in the business. Check with the landlord of the premises, the postoffice and neighbors.

Even if your situation isn't similar to those outlined above, you should gather information about those involved in the business. Check with the landlord of the premises, the postoffice and neighbors.

Senator Bill Sarpalius Reports

SAFETY LEGISLATION

AUSTIN—Texas children under the age of five are dying in motor vehicle crashes at the rate of 90 a year.

The National Transportation Safety Board identifies Texas as leading the nation between 1978 and 1981 in the number of traffic deaths involving children four years old and younger.

Studies have proven that the use of child safety restraints or car seats can significantly reduce, if not eliminate, the risk of death for children in automobile accidents.

Nevertheless, many parents don't place their children in safety seats because many consider them an inconvenience. It is estimated that only 7 out of every 100 children are properly restrained while riding in an automobile.

Legislators have heard many horror stories at the State Capitol about the staggering number of children killed and maimed in automobile accidents.

Texas may be on the verge of enacting significant child safety laws during an anticipated second special session of the Legislature.

The Texas Senate approved legislation earlier this year which would have required Texas residents to secure children younger than four in a safety seat while riding in a car or light truck in Texas. The legislation did not pass during the regular session because the bill was never presented to the full House of Representatives for a vote. The Governor, however, has indicated he is considering placing a child safety bill on a second special session agenda.

The proposed child safety seat legislation would penalize Texas residents for transporting young children without the use of safety restraints. Proposed fines would be dropped if the

Legal Notices

PUBLIC NOTICE
NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING
The County of Deaf Smith, Texas will hold a public hearing at 7:30 p.m., July 27, 1983, in the County Courtroom, Courthouse, Hereford, Texas in regard to the possible submission of an application to the Texas Department of Community Affairs (TDCA) for a Texas Community Development Program (TCDP) grant to finance improvements to the community.
The purpose of this meeting is to provide citizens with adequate information concerning eligible community development projects such as housing rehabilitation, land acquisition, public facility improvements, citizen's center improvements, code enforcement activities, demolition and clearance, and others. The total amount of funds for a TCDP grant is $300,000.
This meeting will also provide citizens an opportunity to participate in the development of the application. A second public hearing will be conducted prior to the submission of a final application. The final application will be submitted to the Texas Department of Community Affairs by September 1, 1983. Additional information may be obtained from Panhandle Regional Planning Commission, Amarillo, Texas.

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

A salt deficiency

DEAR DR. LAMB - My husband perspires heavily, particularly on hot humid days. He takes in enough liquids to replace those going out but he finds he still suffers from fatigue on those days. He is 24 and in very good health.
Since I am pregnant I do not add salt when cooking and we do not buy heavily salted products.
Is it possible that my husband might need extra salt at times when he sweats heavily? How would we determine when? I have heard that athletes are given salt tablets.
DEAR READER - With all the TV commercials and some news stories, you would think salt is a poison. Quite the contrary. It is essential to life and if your body did not have enough sodium salt in it you would die. All living creatures tend to have about the same concentration of sodium salt in body fluids as is found in sea water.
You can consume too much salt but you can also have a salt deficiency. The most common cause of salt deficiency is loss of salt through heavy sweating. That means it is most likely to occur in people physically able to do lots of physical labor in hot weather. So you see it in athletes - during football practice, for example - and in men who do heavy labor.
Sweat is salty and heavy sweating increases the body's need for salt. Muscle cramps may be caused by a salt deficiency in these circumstances. Weakness and fatigue can be symptoms of salt deficiency. Headache and nausea may occur.
Ward Hudgens et al to Randall A. Arnold et al, all that certain tract consisting of the S. 90 acres of the N. 160 acres of W. 1/2 of Section 37, Blk. K-14.
Wayne Schrandt et ux to Gregory Dean Black et ux, S. 5 ft. of lot 66 and N. 64 ft. of lot 67, Blk. 7, Westhaven Add.
William Tarbet Carrothers et ux to Wayne Schrandt et ux, all of lot 47 of Allison Sub. of Blk. 2, the W. 1/2 of Blk. 3 of E. part of Blk. 16 in Welsh Add.
Charles M. Brown et al to Bradley and Sons Inc. N. 1/2 of Section 35, Township 3 N., Range 2 E., of the Capital Syndicate Sub., Deaf Smith County.
James D. Dickson et ux to Johnny Perez et ux, S. 40 ft. of lot 4 and N. 20 ft. of lot 5, Turrentine's Sub. of E. 1/2 of Blk. 10, Evants Add.
Jerry Kendrick et ux to Larry B. McNutt et ux, E. 11 ft. of lot 10 and W. 52 ft. of lot 11, Blk. 2, North Heights Add.
Edwin Axe Farm Inc. to J.C. Nelson et ux, 17.97 acres out of a part of Capital No. 426-1/2, particularly described as being out of N. part of a tract of land conveyed by the Capital Freehold Land and Investment Co.

DEAR DR. LAMB - Would you please explain to me about Lanoxin? Can everyone benefit from it?
DEAR READER - Lanoxin is not for everyone. Lanoxin is a digitalis preparation. It is used to be marketed as Digoxin, which is its chemical name. It is one of a group of purified products that came from knowledge of the effects of digitalis leaf or foxglove.
Its principal action is to strengthen the contractile power of the heart muscle fibers. It is also used to control the heart rate in some medical conditions. By improving the strength of the heart's contractions it helps circulation. A person who is short of breath may benefit because the improved heart function may clear the lungs.
A stronger heart may pick up fluid from the legs and elsewhere. So Lanoxin increases a heart patient's ability to do many things if it corrects heart failure.
But it doesn't do anything good for a person who does not have a heart problem. So it is only used in specific heart conditions, not for everyone. By the way, too much can be harmful. It is important to follow the doctor's recommendations when taking Lanoxin.

Removing rust stains

DEAR POLLY - I have a blouse with iron rust stains on the collar. How can I remove this stain? - ANNE
DEAR ANNE - The following methods work well on white washable fabrics. If your blouse is colored, be sure to test any method in an inconspicuous place to determine the fastness of the dye. When selecting a method, I usually try the mildest method first and move on to stronger ones if necessary.
1. Soak the stain with lemon juice, sprinkle it with salt. Place the garment in the sun for several hours to dry. The combination of lemon juice, salt and sun should bleach out the stain.
2. Boil the stained garment in a solution of water and cream of tartar (two tablespoons cream of tartar to each quart of water).
3. Sponge the stain with a dilute solution of hydrogen peroxide (one part peroxide to one part water). If this lessens the stain but does not completely remove it, try the hydrogen peroxide full-strength.
4. Some manufacturers of home dyes also make a rust-remover especially for fabric. Check supermarkets and variety stores that carry home dyes. - Polly

DEAR POLLY - When you need a hard-cooked egg for potato salad or some other use, break a fresh egg into your egg poacher. Boil and you'll soon have a hard-cooked egg you won't have to peel.
If a vegetable salad has to stand for a while, keep it from becoming soggy by putting a saucer upside down in the bottom of the bowl (under the salad). The moisture will run under the saucer, leaving the salad fresh and crisp.
Remove the odor from microwave ovens by boiling one cup of water mixed with several tablespoons of lemon juice in the oven for a few minutes.
Put a layer of marshmallows in the bottom of a pumpkin pie crust, then add the filling. You will have a nice topping when the marshmallows rise to the top. - MRS. A.J.C.
DEAR MRS. A.J.C. - What a splendid batch of "wish-I'd-thought-of-that" Pointers! Your contribution certainly deserves the Pointer of the Week title, earning you an autographed copy of Polly's Pointers: 1001 Helpful Household Hints for Making Everything Last Longer. - POLLY Get on-the-spot first aid for stains from "Polly's Guide to Spots and Stains." Send $1 for each copy to POLLY'S POINTERS, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y., 10101. Be sure to include the title.

Lawsons honored at wedding shower

A wedding shower was given for Mr. and Mrs. Don Lynn Lawson on Saturday afternoon in the fellowship hall of Temple Baptist Church. Mrs. Lawson is the former Debbie Hamilton.

Special guests included Marilyn Erlandson, sister of the bride; Sarah Lawson, mother of the groom; Bess Oertli of Austin and Grace Lawson of Hereford, grandmothers of the groom; and Lucille Hogge of Amarillo, great-aunt of the groom.

Other out of town guests were Carol Keys and Cheryl Evans, both of Amarillo. Ms. Erlandson registered guests at a circle table appointed with a lace tablecloth over blue. A white basket holding blue silk roses adorned the table.

Refreshments of cookies, blue rose mints, nuts, and punch were served by Paula Eubanks and Deanna Edwards from a table covered in blue with white lace overlay. The centerpiece was an arrangement of pastel blue and white silk roses.

Hostesses included Frankie O'Rand, Ms. Eubanks, Beth Gearn, Murlene Streun, Glenice Thompson, Carolyn Waters and Billie McDowell.

Los Ciboleros members to attend hearings

Members of Los Ciboleros Chapter, National Society of Daughters of the American Revolution, will be in Amarillo Wednesday and Thursday to speak against a plan to eliminate part of the American History courses in junior high schools in Texas.

Ruth Knox, Hereford regent of Los Ciboleros, said the state DAR has been urging citizens to attend hearings at all local Educational Service Centers. Hearings have already been held in various parts of the state.

The Amarillo hearings are set at the District XVI Educational Service Center from 1:30 to 5 p.m. and from 6:30 to 10 p.m. Wednesday, and from 8:30 to 11:30 a.m. Thursday.

American independence; (2) to carry out the injunction of Washington in his farewell address to the American people, 'to promote, as an object of primary importance, institutions for the general diffusion of knowledge' the developing of an enlightened public opinion, and affording to young and old such advantages as shall develop in them the largest capacity for performing the duties of American citizens;

(3) to cherish, maintain and extend the institutions of American freedom to foster true patriotism and love of country, and to aid in securing for mankind all the blessings and liberty."

The state DAR organization has been urging interested citizens to appear at the hearings and speak against the new curriculum. Each person will be allowed two minutes at the hearing.

Eleanor S. Hutcheson, TSDAR textbook chairman, reports the plan has been approved by most professional educators and Texas and by the state organization of local school boards.

She is urging that citizens attend the hearings and request that two full years of American History be retained in the junior high curriculum. Ms. Hutcheson also asks citizens to contact their local State School Board members.

Woman vows to continue care

DALLAS (AP) — A 62-year-old woman who opened her small westside home to more than 400 mentally handicapped youngsters says she will continue to care for "her" children despite her husband's death.

Bertie Jackson nurtures and teaches eight mentally handicapped children — the maximum number she is licensed to keep in her three-bedroom home by the state Department of Human Resources. She and her husband Charles have been sheltering children for 37 years.

her mind was ruined. She sits in a wheelchair because she cannot move her body. There is also Raymond, who is autistic and probably has no idea where he is.

"All right, now are you ready?" Mrs. Jackson asks the eight expectant children gathered around the dinner table.

There is no straight answer, only a groan, a moan, an attempt to speak.

Mrs. Jackson asks for the one thing that makes her happy before the children begin eating: the semblance of a prayer.

The children finally learned the words, though it took the Jacksons time.

"Jesus wept," say the children in unison.

"It was a just a beautiful environment there," said Anna Ray Griffith, a DHR caseworker. "The retarded children there were thoroughly loved, without any expectation of them to do normal things."

Mrs. Jackson now keeps a picture of her husband on the coffee table and says she spends a lot of time curled up on a sofa.
