Election sparks talk of new farm bill on Capitol Hill

WASHINGTON (AP) — It has been less than a year since Congress, with a leap of faith and a sigh of relief, produced a new law to guide the nation's farm policy through 1990.

That policy would be expensive, the lawmakers warned, and would not produce results overnight. But it would, they said, return America's farmers to prosperity by the end of its five-year run by re-establishing their competitive edge among the world's commodity producers.

So why is Congress abuzz already with talk of a new farm bill?

"There is an election coming up," said Agriculture Secretary Richard Lyng, in response to a similar question last week.

In particular, there is an election coming up that will determine whether Republicans retain their slim control of the Senate, an election that hinges in large measure on the outcome of cliffhanger votes in several farm states.

The situation has produced a stampede to see who can do the most, or at least talk about doing the most, for farmers.

Senate Majority Leader Bob Dole, R-Kan., is one of those most concerned. Dole has been searching for ways to help some of his most endangered troops — including Sens. James Abdnor of South Dakota, Mark Andrews of North Dakota, Mack Mattingly of Georgia and Bob Kasten of Wisconsin — win farmers' favor.

Nine months into the new farm law there has been little sign of an immediate turnaround in the agricultural economy, and Republicans are worried that in some close races that issue could determine the outcome. Any dissatisfaction among farm voters would tend to penalize incumbents.

Dole, together with other GOP lawmakers, has been putting together a farm package with an expanded export subsidy for wheat, soybeans and corn as its centerpiece.

The subsidy, similar to one already in effect for cotton and rice, would permit farmers to sell their grains at whatever the market would bring while guaranteeing them a higher price, with the difference made up from the Treasury. The new subsidy, if it follows the pattern of cotton and rice, would be exempt from the $50,000-per-farmer payment limit.

Dole hasn't formally introduced his package yet, in part because of a snag: It would cost $5.5 billion. "I'm not going to just toss it out here without some way to pay for it," Dole said.

Money is not a problem, however, with a package to be introduced by a group of farm-state Democrats next week.

That bill, to be unveiled Tuesday by Sen. Tom Harkin, D-Iowa, and Rep. Richard Gephardt, D-Mo., is a classic supply management approach, diametrically opposed to administration philosophy.

The bill would call for a referendum among farmers of the major crops on whether to cut their output enough to do away with surpluses and drive prices up. If approved, the referendum would require all farmers to cut their acreage by about 35 percent. Backers say that would produce commodity prices at

Agreements met on cuts, details unsettled

AUSTIN (AP) — In efforts to solve the state's budget crisis, the House originally passed a bill that made $739 million in spending cuts for 1987. The Senate bill called for only $413 million.

After meeting Thursday with Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, Speaker Gib Lewis said agreement had been reached on overall spending cuts, but details remained to be worked out.

The 10-member conference committee that has been arguing over House and Senate differences for about seven weeks of the two special sessions was to meet again today.

Leaders said an agreement, which would clear the way for debate of a tax bill, may be reached.

"I really do think we are only several hours away from an agreement," Rep. James Rudd, D-Brownfield, chief House negotiator, said late Thursday.

"We have some variations in figures we want to reconcile," said Sen. Grant Jones, D-Temple, chief Senate negotiator.

"There is a possibility they (the conference committee) can complete work tomorrow," Lewis said Thursday.

"As long as we're talking, we'll work it out," Rudd told reporters. "We've always been talking."

Rudd said he believed the negotiations had reached the point "where each side can live with it (an agreement), although neither side likes it and I think that's what it's all about."

Lewis has said there would be no tax bill voted out of a House committee until an agreement is reaching on the budget cuts.

At a Wednesday meeting of the committee, the Senate negotiators produced figures they said showed the Senate was offering $515.4 million in 1987 spending cuts while the House had offered a total of $537.4 million.

Sen. Grant Jones, D-Temple, chief Senate negotiator, said $505 million actually was the "middleground" of their differences and the Senate felt it had done its part.

Some of the House negotiators disputed those figures.

The final negotiations between the two houses may hinge on 1987 spending cuts for state colleges and universities.

The House on Tuesday proposed to make 9 percent cuts in higher education budgets, instead of the original 13 percent cut. On Wednesday, the Senate offered to make 4.5 percent cuts in higher education, instead of the 2.5 percent originally proposed.

Daniloff top on talks agenda

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State George P. Shultz is opening the highest-level U.S.-Soviet talks in 10 months with a demand for the freedom of an American reporter charged in Moscow with espionage.

The case of Nicholas Daniloff is "agenda item No. 1," a senior U.S. official said Thursday on the eve of Shultz's two-day meeting with visiting Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard A. Shevardnadze.

On the other hand, Shevardnadze intended to press Shultz on the U.S.-ordered expulsion of 25 Soviet United Nations diplomats, a move Moscow has labeled illegal.

Before Daniloff was arrested on Aug. 30, the purpose of the Shultz-Shevardnadze meeting had been to prepare an agenda for the summit President Reagan and Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev agreed last November to hold here this year. But the official, speaking only on condition of anonymity, said Thursday: "I honestly do not expect dates to come out of these sessions."

Calling the liberation of the 51-year-old journalist "essential," the official said: "They have to find a way to let Nick Daniloff come home."

In Moscow, meanwhile, Gorbachev commented publicly on Daniloff for the first time, branding the U.S. News & World Report correspondent a spy and suggesting the United States had exploited the case to try to spoil superpower relations.

As tensions rose, the Soviets exchanged barbs with the Reagan administration over a U.S. order that 25 Soviet diplomats assigned to the U.N. leave the country by Oct. 1.

Shevardnadze, on his arrival Thursday at Andrews Air Force Base outside Washington, called the expulsion illegal and also "a bad decision."

In New York, the chief Soviet U.N. delegate, Alexander Belonogov, said the Soviets already had cut their mission to 208, which is 10 below the demanded level. He claimed the U.S. order was aimed at torpedoing a U.S.-Soviet summit.

That feller on Tierra Blanca Creek says he hates to take advice from some people because they need it so bad themselves.

Hereford will be losing one of its fine young businessmen and a strong community worker when Chris White of White Implement Co. moves to Amarillo soon. White is joining several other men in purchasing the John Deere firm in Amarillo and he will be the manager.

Several citizens have expressed concern about the speed limits on North 25 Mile Avenue. The 55 mph-limit sign for northbound traffic is situated just past Sugarland Mall and the beginning of the Save-N-Gain parking area. For southbound traffic, the 55 mph-limit drops to 40 at the same point.

With the Smith Food & Drug center located just off 15th Street, citizens fear traffic is moving too fast at that intersection and there could be some bad accidents. Several citizens have said something to city commissioners, but the state sets the limits on US-385.

Did you hear about the fellow who remembered he had an important business appointment? He jumped in his car and was really moving along when he spotted a state trooper in his rearview mirror. The man was doing almost 70 and he decided to outrun the black-and-white.

He pushed the gas pedal and got up to 85, but the trooper was still there with his flashing lights and siren. Finally, the speeder decided to pull over.

"All right, what's your excuse?" the trooper asked sternly. "I've heard almost all of them today!"

"Well, it's like this officer. A month ago my wife jilted me and ran off with a state trooper."

The officer looked him in the eye and asked, "What does that have to do with your speeding?"

"I thought you were the one and that maybe you were trying to bring her back!"

Incomes increase, spending up more

WASHINGTON (AP) — Americans' personal incomes climbed 0.4 percent in August, the best gain since April, while their spending shot up an even faster 1.1 percent, the strongest performance since December, the government reported today.

The Commerce Department figures were certain to be cited by the Reagan administration and others as evidence that the long-awaited economic rebound may have finally begun.

The department said that the 1.1 percent rise in personal consumption spending followed a July increase of 0.4 percent and was the biggest upturn since a 1.9 percent increase in December 1985.

The spending surge came primarily in purchases of new cars as consumers responded enthusiastically to the return of cut-rate financing incentives offered by automakers. Analysts said the September increase in spending is expected to be even greater since early reports show a larger surge in car-buying this month.

The 0.4 percent rise in income followed a 0.3 percent advance in July and no change at all in June. However, analysts said the changes in the past three months have been buffeted by a host of special factors including retroactive Social Security benefit payments, changes in farm subsidy payments and a strike in the communications industry in June.

Excluding these factors, the August gain in incomes would have been an even stronger 0.5 percent, the department said.

The all-important wage and salary component of incomes climbed at an

Drug tests would include all

BEAUMONT, Texas (AP) — All students, teachers and administrators in the Beaumont school district would face mandatory drug testing under a proposal submitted to the Beaumont Independent School District board.

"I just believe the time has come to stop paying lip service to this problem," Superintendent Mike Taylor said as he submitted the plan to the board Thursday night.

"This is the only option we have left to fight this problem," Taylor told trustees. "We can do this quietly and discreetly. We have considerable expertise among our counselors."

Spokesmen for the Drug Enforcement Administration, Department of Education and the National Clearinghouse for Drug Abuse say Taylor's proposed districtwide mandatory drug testing program, if adopted, would be the first in the country.

The board did not vote on the proposal.

BISD attorney Tanner Hunt told trustees legal questions surround such a drug abuse program, but he promised to have a full report for the school board when it meets next month.

Retirement payments to be deferred

AUSTIN (AP) — Senators have approved a bill to postpone until February the first payment this fiscal year of $960.5 million to the state employee and teacher retirement systems.

The vote Thursday was 21-5, just enough to put the measure into immediate effect if it also clears the House by a two-thirds margin.

"Without 21 votes, this bill is worthless," said bill sponsor John Traeger, D-Seguin.

The measure would become effective only if the current special legislative session enacts a tax bill. "That is one of the most important facets of the bill," Traeger said.

Sen. Chet Brooks, D-Pasadena, said, "Not that I think it's the best solution ... but I think it may be the only one of the major solutions we have at hand that will work and get out of this rather serious trap we're in."

State payments from February through August 1987 would be prorated for a 12-month period. At the end of that period, the state also would pay a minimum of 8 percent interest on what the payments would have earned in interest had they not been deferred.

Delaying retirement payments is one of several measures designed to avoid state checks bouncing later this year as lawmakers try to cope with a projected budget deficit of $2.8 billion.

Traeger said earlier the bill would not have any effect on current retirement benefits or benefits for employees thinking about retiring.

Falwell quitting politics

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Rev. Jerry Falwell, conceding his aggressive political campaigning has polarized people, says it is time to leave the campaign trail and return to the pulpit.

"I will not be stumping for candidates as I have in the past," Falwell said in a telephone interview Thursday from his headquarters in Lynchburg, Va.

He quickly added that "I will be still speaking on the moral and social issues."

The evangelist, who founded the Moral Majority, rose to prominence in 1980 as a supporter of Ronald Reagan and was credited with helping to bring millions of fundamentalist Christians into politics.

"When I work as aggressively as I have in the past seven years for certain candidates whom I love and respect very much, it does polarize the general public and makes it difficult for me to deliver the gospel," he said.

Falwell said, "I'm 53 years old now and I want to make the next 20 years count in the spiritual and not the political arena."

UFO capture recalled

THORNTON, N.H. (AP) — Betty Hill shows no fear as she walks from a back road onto a wide path that leads into the woods, but the first time she remembers being here was different.

"They dragged me, kicking and screaming," she said of kidnapers who she contends blocked the road, took her and her husband, Barney, out of their car and yanked them into the woods to be examined — in a flying saucer.

The Hills arrived home in Portsmouth 25 years ago today after a drive through the White Mountains, puzzled by stains and tears on Betty's dress, scuffs on Barney's shoes, shiny spots on their car, watches that had stopped and no memory of two hours of the trip.

After the void was filled for them through hypnosis, their account of being kidnaped by beings from another solar system made the Hills immediate celebrities. The book "The Interrupted Journey" tells their story.

"Right here is where they were standing," Hill, 67, said on a recent return to the spot where she says she was captured. "And this is where they took us," she said, heading into the woods.

French leader vows to nab terrorists

PARIS (AP) — Premier Jacques Chirac told the nation that his government will seek out and "punish without pity" the terrorists behind a deadly bombing campaign that has sown fear throughout the French capital.

"France has passed through many trials in its history," Chirac declared Thursday night in a televised address. "It overcame them every time it displayed unity and strength of will."

Since the beginning of last week, five bombs in Paris have killed eight people and injured 164. The shadowy groups claiming responsibility have threatened to escalate their attacks unless Georges Ibrahim Abdallah and other reputed Middle Eastern terrorists are freed from French jails.

Chirac did not announce specific new anti-terrorism measures, but said "all and every available means" would be taken to protect French citizens, "even if to achieve this it becomes necessary to impose certain restraints or disciplines."

Once the terrorists are caught, Chirac assured the French, "We will do everything, and I mean everything, to punish without pity the assassins and those who manipulate them."

President Francois Mitterrand, on an Asian tour, left Singapore today for home. He was scheduled to arrive in Paris later in the day, and meet with Chirac at the airport.

In Jakarta, Indonesia on Wednesday, Mitterrand said that terrorism "must be fought mercilessly. France will not be paralyzed by terrorists."

Police carrying rifles or submachine guns patrolled Paris streets in large numbers and guards searched bags at the entrances to nearly all public places.

"These are frightening times we're living in," said Michele Vole, a saleswoman in a store near the elegant Avenue des Champs-Elysees.

Terrorists also struck this week at French interests in Lebanon, where French military attache Col. Christian Goutierre was assassinated Thursday near his country's Beirut embassy.

In San Antonio

'Pushbroom' inspired cleanliness

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — A penny for O.P. Schnabel's thoughts would get a person a speech on how one can live to be 90 by literally living a clean life.

But "Old Pushbroom," as he affectionately is called by friends, would be more likely to give out the pennies along with his encouragement to keep San Antonio litter free. During the past 60 years, he has given away more than $70,000 worth of the coins bearing Abraham Lincoln's face.

As the founder of the Beautify San Antonio Association begins his ninth decade in life, he still is distributing calling cards with good luck pennies, stopping along the way to pick up trash and toss it in cans he helped obtain for downtown streets.

"I'm working on giving away my 8 millionth penny," Schnabel said Tuesday. "I told Mayor (Henry) Cisneros if he keeps doing a good job, I'll give him my 8 millionth. I gave H.B. Zachry my 7 millionth."

San Antonio's "Mr. Clean" will be remembered today when he and fellow members of the Beautify San Antonio Association celebrate his 90th birthday during a party at the San Antonio Garden Center. Proceeds from the event will fund the maintenance of O.P. Schnabel Park near the King William Historical District.

Schnabel's birthday actually was Sept. 5, but he could not celebrate then. He had just been released from a 6-week hospital stay, recovering from a heart attack. Then, he had to go to New Orleans to attend a national convention for anti-litter bugs.

"They thought I wouldn't pull through after the heart attack. But, I proved them wrong," Schnabel said.

"I don't fight old age, but if I ever have a problem I just roll with the punches. As long as it's not terminal cancer, I think I can overcome it."

Of his favorite hobby, he says: "I usually get $200 worth of shiny, new pennies from the Federal Reserve Bank. Mrs. O.P. glues them all on the cards. She gets on me when I give out too many."

Schnabel said he used to pay someone 50 cents to glue 100 pennies on his cards, but it was easier to get his wife, Lillian, to do the job. Her only payment is sticky fingers and watching her husband find pleasure in giving away the coins. He has been known to give special people a card with a nickel. And as an insurance agent, he still is underwriting policies.

annual rate of $12.2 billion in August, double the July gain. Manufacturing, which has been in a slump for almost two years because of foreign competition, enjoyed a $3.2 billion rise in August payrolls compared to a drop of $400 million in July.

Farm income rose $2.7 billion in August following a drop of $6.7 billion in July. The reason for the change was a $2.8 billion rise in subsidy payments in August following a $4.9 billion July decline.

Personal consumption spending, which includes virtually all outlays made by consumers except interest payments on debt, rose at an annual rate of $32.1 billion in August, almost three times faster than the July ad-vanage. Purchases of durable goods were up $26.9 billion, compared to an increase of $1.7 billion the month before, with the surge in car sales accounting for most of this increase. Purchases of non-durable goods, items expected to last less than three years, rose a more modest $2 billion while purchases of services, a category which includes housing expenses, rose $2.4 billion.

Disposable, or after-tax incomes, rose 0.3 percent in August, up slightly from the July increase of 0.2 percent.

The personal savings rate, savings as a percentage of disposable income, slipped to 3.1 percent in August, down from 4 percent in July.

Aquino's address stirs support from U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Philippine President Corazon Aquino's rousing appeal to Congress won House approval for an additional $200 million for her debt-ridden nation, but Sen. Richard Lugar says she faces tougher going in the deficit-conscious Senate.

The House, by a 203-197 margin, voted the new money Thursday shortly after Mrs. Aquino went before a joint meeting of Congress to deliver a speech that sparked accolades, cries of "Cory, Cory, Cory," and a rare salute from House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill, D-Mass. He declared: "That's the finest speech I've heard in 34 years in Congress."

No vote on the aid package was scheduled in the Senate, however, and Lugar, chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, said passage might be difficult because of the continuing ardor for budget cutting.

The Philippines have received more than $500 million in U.S. aid this fiscal year.

Mrs. Aquino, continuing her nine-day trip to the United States, was flying to New York today for a speech at New York University and meetings with Gov. Mario Cuomo, Catholic Archbishop John J. O'Connor and a City Hall welcome from Mayor Ed Koch.

In her speech to Congress, Mrs. Aquino said her country deserved U.S. help because it had become — through a predominantly peaceful revolution — a bastion of democracy and peace in Asia after 20 years of authoritarian rule by former President Ferdinand E. Marcos.

"You have spent many lives and much treasure to bring freedom to many lands that were reluctant to receive it," she said. "And here you have a people who won it by themselves and need only the help to preserve it."

She said a communist insurgency was trying to destroy her country's freedom, but that she also was concerned about "that other slavery: our $26 billion foreign debt."

In dealing with the communists, she said, her government through negotiations is trying to emulate Abraham Lincoln, who pleaded for reconciliation between the American North and South, but was willing to use "the sword of war" to save the country.

Her address was interrupted several times by enthusiastic applause from House and Senate members, the diplomatic corps and cabinet officers. Many of the legislators sported yellow roses in their lapels, some wore yellow ties and Sen. Claiborne Pell, D-R.I., wore a yellow shirt.

Mrs. Aquino also wore yellow, the color that has become the symbol of her political party and, since her campaign for the presidency in February, the Philippine equivalent of the red, white and blue.

Rep. Dante Fascell, D-Fla., chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, called her speech "sensational, emotional and statesmanlike. I've never seen a more supportive and enthusiastic reception."

Rep. Stephen Solarz, D-N.Y., who sponsored the $200 million aid bill, said her speech was so dramatic it was worth 50 House votes for the proposal.

As it turned out, he needed most of them.

Artist carving Venus de Milo from soap

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — An artist who turned a block of cheese into a likeness of Nancy Reagan is carving Venus de Milo out of a 12,000-pound cake of soap.

"It's going to be an absolute masterpiece," said Art Grant as he hacked away at the giant slab of Ivory soap Thursday.

Grant, 59, of Mill Valley, has several serious paintings and sculptures to his credit, but he's best known for his tongue-in-cheek creations.

Ten years ago he carved a 16-foot American flag in ice. In addition to turning the 80-pound block of cheese into the first lady, Grant created a likeness of the president out of 10,000 jellybeans.

"Both were delicious," he said.

"Yes, Cory Aquino gave us an excellent speech today," said Rep. Toby Roth, R-Wis. "But that isn't worth a $200 million honorarium."

The bill was brought to a vote spontaneously after the speech. The 53-year-old Mrs. Aquino, speaking only slightly-accented English she perfected in years of life in America, began her speech with a tribute to her late husband Benigno Aquino, a Marcos foe forced into exile in the United States.

Aquino was slain upon his return to Manila in 1983. Charges that the government was involved in the assassination mushroomed into the clamor for the downfall that Marcos suffered in February. He is now in exile in Hawaii.

Her husband's death "was my country's resurrection in the courage and faith by which alone they could be free again," she said.

Planned Parenthood wants TV accuracy

ST. LOUIS (AP) — TV programs that include sexual situations should accurately portray the use of contraceptives to help educate teenagers about preventing pregnancy, a Planned Parenthood executive says.

"We want Joan Collins on 'Dynasty' to excuse herself to insert her diaphragm," Douglas Gould, vice president for communications of the New York-based Planned Parenthood Federation of America, said Thursday in a speech to supporters of Planned Parenthood.

"We want J.R. to occasionally ask his partner if she is using something, if she is protected, if she is worried about getting pregnant," Gould said. "We have universal sex education in the United States, and it comes from television."

"While the three major television networks pump out a steady diet of titillation, much of which is targeted to teens, they stand firm to a ban on contraceptive advertising."

Planned Parenthood also wants the three major television networks to lift a ban on contraceptive advertising.

FARM

70 percent of parity, an index that compares farm buying power to a period earlier this century when the farm economy was healthy.

The plan essentially would shift the costs of supporting farmers from the government to food consumers, who would see an increase of 3 percent to 5 percent in their grocery bills. A nearly identical measure was rejected by Congress last year as it debated the farm bill, amid criticism that it would wreck any chance of recovery for export sales.

The Harkin-Gephardt bill also would provide money for a series of farm credit moves, including the restructuring of problem debt and interest rate reductions.

No one thinks either approach will happen this year, but it will give those running for office in farm states something to talk about in the six weeks left before the Nov. 4 elections.

Ann Landers

Chemically sensitive people

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am writing to you as a member of the Feingold Association of the Washington, D.C., area (FAWA). Recently it was brought to my attention that a column written by you in the Washington Post had special significance to my family. The letter was from "Sympathetic in Florida" in response to "Bummed Out in West Palm Beach." The following paragraph was especially moving:

"My son graduated from reform school. Then he graduated from prisons in five states. We have had him in and out of therapy since he was 9 years old. He has had problems with drugs and alcohol starting at age 11 and has been threatening suicide since he was 15. He is accident-prone and has wrecked every car he has driven. His uncontrollable temper has made it impossible for him to sustain a relationship with a woman."

Your answer was very good as far as it went. You said, "Your son sounds as if he has been emotionally disturbed from early childhood. It also is apparent that he has a criminal mentality, which many experts now believe is caused by a chemical problem in the brain."

I want to point out another part of the equation. It's possible that this chemical problem is caused by certain additives in food. This work was pioneered by Dr. Benjamin Feingold beginning in 1951. He developed a program for eliminating synthetic colors, synthetic flavors and preservatives from the diet which has normalized the behavior of many "hyperactive" or "minimally brain-damaged" children. My family has been helped enormously by this program.

Parent groups have been formed to identify and develop "Safe Food Lists." We write to manufacturers for information on ingredients and publicize those that meet our needs. A phone call from someone who has dealt with this kind of problem can answer many questions. We are all volunteers. Membership costs for the group are kept as low as possible.

Please Ann, let people know about us. Writing to the address below will bring membership information for the nearest association: Feingold Association of the United States (FAUS), P.O. Box 6550, Alexandria, VA 22306. A long, self-addressed stamped envelope will be greatly appreciated.

There are new "chemically sensitive" individuals being born every day. Help us to reach them and their families before more people like "Bummed" and "Sympathetic" live lives of such desperation. P.R.M. FROM ALEXANDRIA, VA.

DEAR P.R.M.: I have received hundreds of letters from grateful parents who swear by Dr. Feingold's work. The field he pioneered is gaining more and more respectability among the early doubters as time goes on.

The more we learn about nutrition the more obvious it becomes that we are what we eat. It has been proven that certain foods create hyperactivity and even anti-social behavior in some children.

I strongly recommend that parents who are having a difficult time controlling rambunctious, hyperactive children write for literature from the Feingold Association. Can't hurt. Might help. A lot.

Ann Landers' booklet, "Sex and the Teenager," explains every aspect of sexual behavior—where to draw the line, how to say no, the various methods of contraception, the dangers of VD, the symptoms and where to get help. For a copy, send $2 and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope (39 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Ill. 60611.

Christmas gifts topic of recent Bippus Club program

Beverly Harder, county extension agent, presented a program on Christmas gifts when members of Bippus Extension Homemakers Club met recently for their first meeting of the new club year.

The group met in the home of Becky Mayers who was assisted with hostess duties by her daughter La Fonda.

Roll call was answered with "What class I'd take if I went back to school."

During the brief business meeting with President Kate Bradley presiding, members discussed their annual money making project, selling pecans.

The next meeting was planned Oct. 8 in the home of Mrs. G.V. Hall.

Those in attendance included Bradley, Mariellen Homfeld, Flora Homfeld, Lou Hall, Cindy Freeman, Juanita Perrin and a guest, Alta Mae Higgins of Hereford.

Plans finalized for style show

The "Fall Fashion Fun" style show was discussed when members of Xi Epsilon Alpha Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority met Tuesday evening in Kinsey Parlor of First Baptist Church.

The chapter is sponsoring the benefit which is scheduled at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Sept. 30, at the Hereford Community Center. Tickets are priced at $2 per person and may be purchased at the door or from any chapter member. Proceeds will be donated to the Hereford Satellite Work Training Center and the Lifeline program.

Amy Lee, former Miss Hereford, will emcee the show and Linda Gilbert will be providing musical entertainment. Fashions will be furnished by Helen's, Louise's, Pants Cage and Etcetera. At the conclusion of the show, door prizes will be awarded.

For the meeting's program, chapter member, Susan Shaw, sang with members of the First Baptist Sextet who presented musical selections.

Rose Marie Robinson announced that a combination casserole and bake sale will be held at Sugarland Mall in early October. Also, members voted to have Connie Matthews serve as their chapter sweetheart.

It was also decided during the meeting to place the chapter's yearbook in competition at the area convention scheduled Oct. 18-19 in Wichita Falls.

Amy Lee was recognized as a guest at the salad supper meeting by those present. They included Shaw, Robinson, Matthews, Jody Blackwell, Mary Brinkman, Charla Edwards, Debe Graves, Peggy Hyer, Jimmy Middleton, Janis White, Melinda White and Kay Williams.

The next meeting was planned at 7:30 p.m. Oct. 7.

Conference discusses strategies for market

ODESSA, Texas (AP) — A "super conference" that drew participants from two dozen counties to Odessa addressed an issue close to the heart of its host city — how to put people to work.

The conference's subject was matching the workforce to the workplace.

But for Odessa and other cities battered by the depressed oil industry, there is a more pressing issue.

The problem becomes "training people for jobs when there aren't any jobs to train for," said Dave Cox, chairman of the State Association of Private Industry Councils.

"We're not going to change anything but ourselves," said businessman Clayton Williams of Midland. "I'm going to try to do my job faster, do it cheaper."

Business, civic and education leaders attended the conference Wednesday at the University of Texas-Permian Basin.

Sponsored by the Permian Basin Private Industry Council, the meeting attracted 327 people representing 27 counties, organizers said.

Cox, who chairs the Permian Basin PIC as well as the state organization, said it was clear the participants will have to get into the job creation business. "We all suffer the same problems, the same pain, here in the Basin" and solutions will have to be regional, he said.

After the conference Cox said local task forces will be formed in many of the communities represented to study the problem of putting West Texas back to work.

Williams, who was luncheon speaker, said staying in business is the first priority for area businessmen. He said it may be too late to transform Texas into a high-tech haven like Massachusetts or California because high-tech industry already has begun to mature.

The Permian Basin will continue to produce 75 percent of the state's oil, he said, and the traditional industries eventually will get better.

"We've got to keep our best people, keep our spirit."

He said he cut his oil and gas operations from their boomtime peak of 900 employees to 112, and has taken other cost-saving measures.

"I'm drilling wells for in some cases 20 cents on the dollar," Williams said. Cutting back created rumors that he was going broke, but the cuts kept him afloat, he said.

He said his own involvement in teaching a class at Texas A&M is part of the reason he entered the high-tech field of communications with a company called ClayDesta Communications. The firm grew at 20 percent a month for its first year, and is now growing at a more moderate, but still dynamic, 10 percent a month, Williams said.

Joe Rutledge, vice principal of Permian High School, said such rapid changes in the economy require changes in the way students are trained.

He said workers will need skills to adapt to a variety of jobs, because vocational targets may disappear or jobs may change drastically.

"They've got to learn how to learn," Rutledge said.

Troy York, director of the UTPB-affiliated Center for Energy and Economic Diversification, said job creation means getting technology into the marketplace more quickly. Getting government jobs will help, he said, because the U.S. government buys about a fifth of the nation's products.

UTPB President Duane Leach warned that transforming the economy and giving workers adaptable skills will not be easy.

"There are no easy victories and there is no transformation without pain," Leach said.

Democrats rip lack of plan

AUSTIN (AP) — Three Democratic lawmakers are criticizing GOP gubernatorial candidate Bill Clements' "secret plan" to balance the state budget, but a spokesman for the Republican called it "political theater."

State Sens. Ted Lyon, D-Mesquite, and Chet Edwards, D-Duncanville, and Rep. Paul Colbert, D-Houston, issued a statement Thursday saying they had analyzed Clements' public statements on the budget crisis.

"Frankly, after looking at its impact upon Texans, and especially upon our children and elderly, we can see why Mr. Clements has kept it hidden," the three said.

"It could literally threaten the public health and rob senior citizens, children and the handicapped of needed services. It is not a responsible solution to our state's budget problems," they said.

Clements' press secretary, Reggie Bashur, described the Democrats' criticism as "just another in what appears to be a never-ending political theater."

"The bottom line is, the people of Texas know Bill Clements' record and what he will do as governor," Bashur said.

The three legislators noted that Clements has opposed a tax increase and said he wouldn't cut spending on education, mental health, prisons or the Department of Public Safety.

Those programs account for 69.4 percent of the state's general revenue appropriations for 1987, they said.

Therefore, to make up the $2.2 billion general fund deficit projected for the 1987 fiscal year, remaining state agencies would have to endure 56.7 percent spending cuts, the three said.

Such reductions would force 2,300 elderly out of nursing homes, halve the child protective services program that cares for thousands of abandoned and abused children, take state support from 50,629 elderly in need of medical care, and eliminate $2.5 million in funds to family violence centers.

Bashur said Clements sent two letters to Gov. Mark White outlining numerous budgetary measures that he thought should be taken to deal with the fiscal crisis. White didn't respond, Bashur said.

"Bill Clements believes that with budgetary reforms that have been outlined and with steps to revive the economy in Texas, all government services needed will be met and the fiscal house of Texas will be put back in order," Bashur said.

Groundhog Day is celebrated on Feb. 2. According to tradition, the groundhog comes out of hibernation on this date. If it is sunny and he sees his shadow, he supposedly returns to his hole for six more weeks of winter.

THE KEY TO FITNESS

NEW YORK (AP) — You may have heard about it, but do you really know what a target heart rate zone is?

It's the exercise-induced pulse rate need to improve your heart's fitness. Your target zone is 60 percent to 75 percent of your maximum heart rate in beats per second, says Better Homes and Gardens.

The maximum heart rate varies by individual. The surest way to find out is to take an exercise stress test, which often costs about $150. A less accurate but less expensive and more convenient way is to subtract your age from 220, a number based on studies of large populations. Multiply your result by 0.6 and 0.75 to get the minimum and maximum heart rates you should aim for.

DR. GOTT Management of incontinence

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT — My husband had a prostate operation a year ago and he has had no control of his water since then. The doctor gave him an incontinence clamp to use to go to work, but he is starting to get infections. We are both getting frustrated and are wondering what to do next.

DEAR READER — Incontinence is a recognized, but rare, complication of some forms of prostate surgery. I believe that there is little chance of curing your husband's condition. However, you can obtain support and useful advice from H.I.P.: Help for Incontinent People, P.O. Box 544, Union, SC 29379.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I am 80, and when I lie down to sleep, my nose stops up and my throat gets very dry after about two hours. If I sit up, it clears right up. I was told to get rid of my dog, feather pillows and wool rug, which I did, but I still have no relief. Is there any help for me?

DEAR READER — I suggest that you see an allergist. Once the allergic factor in your environment is identified, you may be helped by specific therapy, such as desensitization injections.

DEAR DR. GOTT — After a recent blood test, I was told that I had slight anisocytosis. What does this mean? Is it a condition that needs treatment?

DEAR READER — Anisocytosis is present when the red blood cells vary in size. This can represent inefficient blood production. Therefore, I urge you to ask your doctor to investigate the cause of your blood abnormality. You may be deficient in certain vitamins and minerals.

DEAR DR. GOTT — My friend is a healthy 87, but in the winter she sleeps in the basement near the gas furnace with her four cats, who never go out, and her dog, who sheds a lot. I think the animals are taking oxygen from her. Is it healthy to live like that?

DEAR READER — Far be it from me to criticize a healthy 87-year-old's lifestyle. The cats, the furnace and the dog may be competing with her for the oxygen supply, but she seems to have developed an arrangement that works for her. However, she should be sure that her gas furnace is vented properly so that carbon monoxide does not harm your friend or her menagerie.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I am climbing the walls because of the itch I have in my eyebrows, corners of my eyes and behind my ears. I had a rash on my back, which went away, but then this itching started. Could it be caused by diet? I take hydrochlorothiazide, potassium and aspirin.

DEAR READER — The hydrochlorothiazide could be causing your itching, or you might have a skin disease, such as scabies. Check with a dermatologist for further advice.

DEAR DR. GOTT — If one has unwittingly, or of necessity, received large or excessive doses of X-rays, is

Documentaries to be distributed

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (AP) — "At first, I hardly had anything to do," former FBI agent Bill Kelly says when he initially was assigned to obscenity cases in 1962, because "there just wasn't much hard-core material out there."

But pornographic magazines began to proliferate in the late 60s, he adds, and "the floodgates broke in January of 1972 when the motion picture 'Deep Throat' hit the streets."

Kelly's comments are part of half-hour radio and television documentaries produced for free distribution on public affairs programs by the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints (Mormon).

Among various authorities, educators and religious leaders taking part, Kelly says that following the "Deep Throat" film, produced and distributed by organized crime, the tide of pornography had swelled into a plague.

COUPON DECLINE

PARAMUS, N.J. (AP) — The once growing coupon craze is starting to wilt, meaning consumers are likely to see fewer of the cents-off vouchers, in the future, says a marketing expert. "Coupons gradually are falling from favor among consumers, who seem more attracted to promotions that offer a free gift or a chance at sweepstakes prizes," says Jeffrey K. McEnea, president of Elson Freeman Inc., a sales promotion agency.

"While coupons will never disappear, consumers will see more promotions that provide a positive incentive rather than a price cut."

He says one of the most popular new promotions offers a free gift worth more than the required purchase itself.

there a way to reduce the future impact?

DEAR READER — No, there isn't. However, such a person should be checked periodically to make sure that the excessive radiation hasn't caused damage to reproductive tissue, bone marrow or other organs. In addition, I would suggest that future X-ray doses be minimized because, in some respects, X-ray dosage appears to be cumulative.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I've been bothered by boils in my pubic area for three years. They develop in the same place every two weeks, then drain and go away, but the spot feels hard under the skin. I'm a very clean person and have tried different soaps. My gynecologist prescribed an antibiotic, which didn't work. Do you know of anything that could help?

DEAR READER — You could have chronic folliculitis — recurring infections within the same group of hair follicles. Surgery may be necessary to remove the inflamed portions so that they won't continue to break out.

DEAR DR. GOTT — My face and right leg are numb, and my hands get numb and tingly. What could be wrong? The neurologist says he doesn't know.

DEAR READER — Numbness usually indicates malfunction of the nerves of sensation. Although neurological diseases can cause this symptom, so can circulatory difficulties. I recommend that you make an appointment with an internist (a doctor who specializes in diagnosing medical illnesses). You may need blood tests and other laboratory investigation.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I'm a 63-year-old male. Several years ago, my doctor prescribed Tagamet for an over-acid stomach condition. After about two months I noticed breast enlargement, so I quit taking it. My medical book lists that as one of the side effects. Can this condition be reversed?

DEAR READER — The gynecomastia (breast enlargement) in people who take Tagamet is rare. The condition usually will disappear within a few weeks after stopping the medicine. If your breasts remain full or tender after a couple of months, see a general doctor for further evaluation.

If you're having an operation, you should know all you can about it. Dr. Gott's new Health Report, AN INFORMED APPROACH TO SURGERY, covers everything from second opinions to outpatient surgery. For your copy, send $1 and your name and address to P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to mention the title.

North Texas weaver practices timeless art

SHERMAN, Texas (AP) — The first thing one notices is the feeling of timelessness.

The unhurried, rhythmic clack of the loom ... the whispery voice of the spinning wheel ... the low rumble of the hand-turned drum.

The weaver's trade is not for the impatient. The product grows by the row — slowly — explains Florence Mays of Sherman, who has been practicing her craft eight years.

"I do it all. I card my wool, spin the thread, then weave the fabric. It's challenging. It's wonderful."

She lifts a wad of dirty, tangled, raw wool from a gaping sack.

"When you start with raw wool, it's a long way to a finished piece," she explains. "First you hand-card it, then you put in on the carding machine and card it again, then you wash it."

The hand carder, two wooden blocks covered with metal tines, get out the "big" dirt and tangles as she rubs the raw wool between them. Then comes the machine carding — feeding the mass onto the metal-tined drum, turning it by hand as it creates a soft sheet of wool. After a gentle washing, it is ready to be spun into thread.

The Sherman weaver kicks off her shoes as she settles beside her spinning wheel. She plucks a thread from the fluff of wool, pulls it taut and starts the wheel.

"I like to be barefooted when I spin," she grins. The feathery thread stretches, winding onto the bobbin.

"It's not hard once you learn to keep the tension steady and twist as you go. It's relaxing; you can let your mind run free, even watch television. It's the weaving that is lots of work. But it grows on you."

On the loom is an 18-inch-wide strip of soft brown fabric, pricked with nubby dots of red, green, yellow and blue.

"I'm weaving fabric to make tote bags. The wool is its natural color and it's mixed with dog hair from 'So-So,' my poodle terrier. The color comes from the carpet thread I'm using for the warp."

Haddles, back beam, breast beam, reed, shuttle, treadles ... the loom has a language of its own.

And operating it seems as intricate as playing the pipe organ. The six treadles are operated by the feet, with each pair of treadles lifting different threads on the fabric.

Press the treadle, throw the thread-filled shuttle ... shift feet, treadle, throw the shuttle. Back and forth across the width of the fabric. The rhythmic clack-thump is hypnotic as is the slowly lengthening strip of wool.

"You don't dare think about how LONG it's going to take to weave a piece of wool. You just do it," she says.

Leaders express outrage

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. Christian leaders joined with Jewish officials in expressing outrage and sorrow at the terrorist slaughter of 21 Jewish worshippers at a synagogue in Istanbul, Turkey.

Interfaith services of mourning were held in many American cities. Bishop James Malone, president of the National Conference of Catholic Bishops, called the slaying of "innocent people at prayer" a "callous assault on all that is sacred to humanity."

In New York, the Rev. Arie R. Brouwer, general secretary of the National Council of Churches, embracing Protestant and Orthodox denominations, called the "abominable and inhuman massacre" an act of "mindless anti-Jewish terrorism."

"Barbarous," said conservative political activist the Rev. Jerry Falwell.

In 1962, the foreign ministers of the Organization of American States voted to cut off Cuba from the 21-country body.

Stanton and Levelland battled to a 12-12 tie in a seventh grade football contest played Thursday at the La Plata football field.

Both Stanton touchdowns were scored by Leo Brown on kickoff returns.

Levelland led 6-0 after one quarter of play, and also led 12-6 at halftime. Stanton then tied up the game 12-12 in the third quarter.

Brown scored with a 71-yard kickoff return in the second quarter. In the third quarter, Brown ran 78 yards in a kickoff return to score for Stanton.

Stanton Coach Henry Perez Jr. said, "The special teams did a great job in blocking for Leo."

"The defense played great, holding their offense in critical situations. Being out first game, it was a great experience I think for both the kids and myself."

On Tuesday, Sept. 23, Stanton plays La Plata in "A" and "B" team scrimmages, at La Plata field at 4:30 p.m. and 5:30 p.m.

Merger-mania may leave just a few giants remaining

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal approval for Texas Air to buy Eastern Airlines is the latest in a wave of mergers that is likely to result in a half-dozen companies soon controlling nearly 80 percent of domestic air travel.

The Transportation Department on Thursday approved the $767 million acquisition of Eastern, the country's fourth largest airline, by Texas Air Corp., which already owns Continental Airlines and New York Air.

The action came only days after Houston-based Texas Air announced plans to buy financially troubled People Express. If that deal also is approved, Texas Air would become by far the largest airline company with about 19 percent of the domestic market share, according to figures provided by the Air Transport Association.

Meanwhile, Delta Air Lines formally requested government approval as quickly as possible Thursday for its planned acquisition of Western Airlines, a $860 million deal announced last week.

The country's major airlines have been so busy gobbling each other up during the past year that industry analysts and consumer advocates have begun to voice concern that the emergence of a small group of "mega-carriers" will lead to higher air fares and declining service.

Even Alfred Kahn, who was the architect of airline deregulation as Civil Aeronautics Board chairman during the Carter administration and who continues to be one of its strongest advocates, has raised questions about the fallout as a result of all the mergers.

Kahn has suggested the federal government has been too quick to dismiss potential competitive problems some mergers pose.

"This administration has never seen a merger it didn't like," Kahn has been fond of telling people in recent weeks.

The merger trend began nearly a year ago with government approval of United Airlines' acquisition of Pan American World Airways' Pacific division. Since then the Transportation Department has approved the merger of Northwest Airlines and Republic Airlines and Trans World Airlines' purchase of Ozark Air Lines, even though the Justice Department has voiced complaints.

To resolve government concerns about competition, Texas Air agreed to sell Pan American World Airways enough landing and takeoff rights — previously held by New York Air — at New York's LaGuardia Airport and Washington's National Airport so that Pan Am can begin its own shuttle service to fill any competitive void.

The Eastern shuttle has 15 flights a day between Washington, New York and Boston. Pan Am plans to begin its own shuttle service between the three cities next month, also with 15 flights a day.

"The (new) agreement meets our requirements that Pan Am be able to operate hourly service throughout the day, especially at peak periods," the government said.

Molten lava gives up its heat so slowly that the bottom layer of a lava pond 300 feet deep may take 300 years to cool completely.

On April 9, 1865, Confederate General Robert E. Lee surrendered to Union General Ulysses S. Grant at the Appomattox courthouse in Virginia, ending the Civil War.

I TALKED WITH AN ANGEL!

The next day Peter went with the three men, accompanied by some other believers from Joppa. They arrived in Caesarea the following day, and Cornelius was waiting for him, and had called together his relatives and close friends to meet Peter. As Peter entered his home, Cornelius fell to the floor before him in worship. But Peter said, "Stand up! I'm not a god." So he got up and they talked together for a while and then went in where the others were assembled.

Peter told them, "You know it is against the Jewish laws for me to come into a Gentile home like this. But God has shown me in a vision that I should never think of anyone as inferior. So I came as soon as I was sent for. Now tell me what you want."

Cornelius replied, "Four days ago I was praying as usual at this time of the afternoon, when suddenly a man was standing before me clothed in a radiant robe! He told me, 'Cornelius, your prayers are heard and your charities have been noticed by God! Now send some men to Joppa and summon Simon Peter, who is staying in the home of Simon, a tanner, down by the shore.' So I sent for you at once, and you have done well to come so soon. Now here we are, waiting before the Lord, anxious to hear what He has told you to tell us!"

Then Peter replied, "I see very clearly that the Jews are not God's only favorites! In every nation He has those who worship Him and do good deeds and are acceptable to Him."

Creative cops in class fighting drug abuse

NEW YORK (AP) — Police are using creative energy to help keep schoolchildren off drugs — from a ventriloquist-policeman's lesson with a dummy to a rock video with music and lyrics by another of New York's finest.

One officer even came up with a coloring book with an anti-drug theme for younger students.

Under the School Program to Educate and Control Drug Abuse, or SPECDA, started in two school districts in February 1985, the police department and the Board of Education hope to reach 250,000 students in 15 of the 32 metropolitan districts this fall.

The New York City program is called one of the nation's most effective by the U.S. Education Department. Operating on a budget of about $3.5 million, the program is divided into law enforcement and instruction.

The instruction effort focuses on fifth and sixth graders. For eight weeks each year, a uniformed police officer and a board of education drug counselor teach the children assertiveness, how to resist peer pressure and about the harmful effects of drugs, from alcohol and nicotine to cocaine and PCP.

Fifth and sixth graders were picked because they are "on the doorstep of drug abuse," said Lt. James J. Davis, who runs the police program.

Drug use generally begins in junior high school. There, conservative estimates say, 16 percent of city students were using cocaine before the advent of crack — a powerful, highly addictive cocaine derivative, another 11 percent are alcoholics and even greater numbers regularly smoke marijuana.

"Clearly we've got a major problem," said Levander Lilly, assistant to Schools Chancellor Nathan Quinones and an expert on narcotics.
