Latest TDA survey shows urban folk against dump, too

(DIMMIT)—At least 80 percent of the residents surveyed in Amarillo and nearby Panhandle counties remain strongly opposed to a high-level nuclear waste dump in Deaf Smith County, according to the latest Texas Department of Agriculture survey, Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower said Monday at the Texas Corn Growers Association meeting.

"TDA's most recent scientific survey shows that residents still don't want the dump in the Panhandle. This is true not only in Deaf Smith County, but also in Amarillo and in surrounding rural counties," Hightower said. "In the Deaf Smith-Oldham area, 80 percent said that they oppose construction of a high-level nuclear waste repository in Deaf Smith County. In Amarillo, public opinion against the dump is just as strong—81 percent opposed the dump. And in other rural counties—Swisher, Crosby, and Moore—84 percent oppose it. Thus in all areas of the Panhandle, at least four-out-of-five people surveyed don't want DOE's radioactive time bomb ticking in their backyard.

"Why do Panhandle residents—both those in the farming communities and those in the city—oppose the dump? The answer that we have gleaned from the survey results can be boiled down to three words: the environment, economics, and health," Hightower said.

"Panhandle residents aren't dumb: They don't want the Ogallala Aquifer contaminated; they don't want their economic base weakened or destroyed; and they don't want their health ruined. And they fear that all three would happen if DOE gets its way."

TDA's report, Effects of a High-Level Nuclear Waste Repository on Local Communities is part of the official state review of DOE's examination of Deaf Smith County as a potential repository site. The survey was jointly sponsored by the Texas Department of Agriculture and the Governor's Nuclear Waste Programs Office.

Funds for the project came from the DOE Nuclear Waste Fund. DOE is obligated by federal law to help states review the site-selection process.

DOE, in May 1986 named the Deaf Smith site along with sites in Nevada and Washington as the three "finalists" to be studied for several years in a "Site Characterization" process to determine which is the most appropriate site for the nuclear waste dump. Another proposed site in nearby Swisher County could still be considered by DOE at a later date.

Results of the survey are based on telephone interviews with 1388 residents of Amarillo and Deaf Smith, Oldham, Swisher, Crosby, and Moore counties. Respondents included those who were interviewed in the first random sample survey conducted two years ago, plus new respondents who were also selected randomly.

In the Deaf Smith-Oldham area, 64 percent of those who had heard of 'site characterization' oppose it; in Amarillo, 59 percent oppose it; and in the other rural counties, 68 percent oppose it, the report said.

"There are good reasons for their suspicions," Hightower said. "Site characterization could result in lower farmland values, as people are scared off from land purchases; the two twelve-foot-wide shafts and the hundreds of boreholes that would be drilled could pollute the soil and water; the 30-foot high pile of salt would pollute the soil and water; restrictions could be placed on land use; business development in the area is already being depressed and this depression would continue; the communities of the Panhandle would be divided, between local residents and the DOE people and their contractors; and finally, site characterization would increase the chances that Deaf Smith would actually be selected as the repository site.

The report said 77 percent of Deaf Smith-Oldham residents, 75 percent of the Amarillo residents, and 80 percent of the residents in other rural counties also believe that the nuclear waste dump would lead to contamination of the Panhandle's valuable water supply.

Seventy-four percent of those surveyed agreed that the dump

Talking Shop

comments. The two were guest speakers at the Texas Corn Growers Association meeting in Dimmitt on Monday.

Toughest year ahead for grower, but former deputy says farmers can win

(DIMMIT) - Former USDA Agriculture Secretary John Ford told producers at the Texas Corn Growers Association on Monday that they "have got the hardest year you've ever had ahead of you - and, we're going to win."

One of the very things that seems to be against the farmer is going to be a weapon in the battle, Ford told the approximately 300-350 who met in the Castro County Expo Center for the annual meeting.

The tight budget on Capitol Hill may finally convince some legislators and administrators that paying farmers through the Commodity Credit Corporation is going to cost more than developing a program that would give farmers fair market prices, Ford said.

He said that the government is working against itself and farmers in some ways, also. He said while the U.S. encourages third world countries to produce agricultural products and pay debts to the U.S., it works against the base U.S. farm economy. He said the U.S. should think in terms of a stable world farm economy, but noted that "nothing short of peace will help that."

"Everyone else is taking better care of their farmer," Ford claimed. He said the U.S. is below average on domestic prices compared to imported prices.

Another real threat is that third world production is increasing to the point that the U.S. may not be the "breadbasket of the world" much longer. China, for example, has become a cotton exporter, increased soybean production by 84 percent and has doubled wheat production by allowing farmers to practice a form of capitalism.

On the world market, Ford said the U.S. is a "trade patsie" which has become a food importer instead of exporter. Ford also complained that trade violations are not being enforced, and causing other problems for farmers.

Keeping land out of production may not help either, Ford said. During the 1983 PIK program, the U.S. idled more cropland than the European Common Market even planted - but there still was a surplus here because farmers make up with high yields.

The cure may be in the Washington political circles with passage of the Harkin-Gephardt bill called the "Save the Family Farm Act" which orders mandatory supply management.

It could win, Ford thinks, with turnovers in Congress and having Texans in influential spots.

But it will take bipartisan unity, a coalition of all agri-producers and unity with others affected by the agri-system of economics.

Beirut radio reports secret talks underway

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) - Local radio stations said today that secret talks are under way for the release of three kidnapped Americans, an Indian and a captured Israeli airman in exchange for 400 Arab prisoners held by Israel and an allied militia.

The Christian-run Voice of Lebanon and the Moslem Voice of the Nation cited unspecified "reports from Washington and other capitals" as saying negotiations were being held. They said the International Committee of the Red Cross might be involved.

Israel did not immediately comment. Kidnappers calling themselves Islamic Jihad for the Liberation of Palestine had threatened to kill the Americans and Indian at midnight Monday if Israel did not release the Arab prisoners, but at the last minute announced they were postponing the killings indefinitely.

Israel has refused to release the prisoners for the four hostages, but Israeli Foreign Minister Shimon Peres said Sunday he was willing to discuss trading Arab prisoners for the Israeli airman.

The airman was captured Oct. 16 when his Phantom fighter-bomber was shot down by Shiite Moslem militiamen in south Lebanon.

Shiite Amal militia leader Nabih Berri, whose men hold the captured airman, on Friday proposed an exchange of the Israel and four hostages for the prisoners. It was not clear whether Berri was involved in the reported negotiations.

In its statement late Monday, Islamic Jihad for the Liberation of Palestine said it wanted the "fastest clarification" of "certain positive points" made by Peres, apparently referring to his comment on a possible trade for the airman.

Peres also said Sunday that any proposals should be made "in an orderly fashion."

Israel's Foreign Ministry spokesman, Ehud Gol, refused today to comment on the kidnappers demands for clarification. Gol said Israel "does not react to every word from kidnappers. Every five minutes they come up with something new."

The Voice of Lebanon said senior officers of the Israeli-backed South Lebanon Army, which holds 200 to 400 Shiite Moslem prisoners, have shown willingness to consider freeing them.

The mainly Christian militia holds the prisoners near the village of Khiam in an Israeli-occupied buffer zone inside Lebanon's southern border with Israel.

The Islamic Jihad for the Liberation of Palestine communique said its decision to extend the deadline for killing the hostages was made in response to pleas from the captives, their families, Lebanese factions and the Indian government.

The statement was delivered to a Western news agency office in Moslem west Beirut with a photograph of American hostage Robert Polhill. The frail, bearded New Yorker, wearing a T-shirt and

County awards bids, dance waiver denied

County Commissioners accepted bids from two local businesses yesterday during their regular session. Receiving the bid for county insurance was Lone Star Agency at $51,678. First National Bank won the bid for county depository.

The Chemical People Task Force was denied a request of waiver of the $1,500 security deposit required to lease the Bull Barn for a dance. Judge Tom Simons did state that he will be willing to aid the Chemical People in raising funds to make the deposit.

Commissioner's Johnnie Latham and Troy Don Moore expressed desire to set up county wide road maintenance programs to decrease expenditures on resurfacing roads. The county will use an asphalt distributor to surface along road edges to prevent erosion and breakdown. It was decided that Precinct 3 will advertise for bids to replace a 1981 pickup which has over 100,000 miles. The pickup will be used as a trade-in.

Colleen Duffy received routine approval of a Criminal Justice grant for $15,000 through the Panhandle Regional Planning Commission. Funds will be used for housing and expenditures incurred in the care of juveniles.

In other business the commissioners:

-Made a formal order to combine county voting Precinct 11 into precinct 3. Voters of precinct 11 voted at Northwest Elementary but will now vote at La Plata Junior High. All elections will be held on Tuesdays.

-Proposals will be drawn up for patch work and extensive repairs of the parking lots at the County Courthouse and at the Bull Barn.

-A name was drawn for the Salary Grievance Committee to replace a nominee who declined.

Teachers demand raises in pay

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas teachers have told legislators they want pay raises ranging from $2,900 to $4,400 in the next two years.

"We are certainly aware of the state financial condition," said a joint statement issued Monday by the four major statewide teachers associations. "There comes a time when priorities must be established and we feel it would be an error of considerable magnitude to not address teacher compensation in this session."

"We'll look at it," said Reggie Bashur, press secretary to Gov. Bill Clements, who did not recommend a teacher's salary increase to legislators last week.

"I would think chances are very slim," said Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby. "There is an all-around shortage of money."

"It would be very difficult for them to get it with the financial burden we have," said Speaker Gib Lewis.

The joint demand was issued Monday by the Texas State Teachers Association, Association of Texas Professional Educators, Texas Classroom Teachers Association and Texas Federation of Teachers.

The associations, which have separate legislative programs, said they were making the joint demand "to keep the Legislature from making the claim that the different teacher organizations do not present a clear message on salaries."

Texas teachers will abandon classroom jobs to seek other occupations if they don't get the raises, the associations said.

The proposal would increase starting salaries from the current minimum of $15,200 to $17,080 for the first year and then to $18,100 for the 1988-89 school year.

The current $26,600 maximum for experienced teachers would increase to $29,380 the first year and to $31,000 the second year.

The appropriation bills being considered by the respective House and Senate committees do not presently contain any teacher pay raise, lawmakers said.

State PUC seeks more money

AUSTIN (AP) — Any major utility company probably spends more money on a single rate case than the state agency representing consumers has in its entire two-year budget, says the man in charge of the agency.

Acting Public Utility Counsel Geoffrey Gay told the Senate Finance Committee on Monday his office needs $1.5 million a year to be an "aggressive" advocate for utility customers.

The Office of Public Utility Counsel has requested just over $3 million for 1988-89, which would be $1.78 million more than proposed in the original Senate spending bill.

Gay noted at the opening of his testimony that his position is a "tenuous" one in that Gov. Bill Clements "could replace me at any moment."

Clements said during his 1986 campaign he did not see any need for the office but has not made a specific recommendation since his election to abolish the agency.

Sen. Kent Caperton, D-Bryan, said the office was approved as a compromise in 1983, and added, "I, for one, considered that deal to still be a deal."

Coroner says Liberace died from AIDS

INDIO, Calif. (AP) — Liberace's doctors deliberately tried to cover up the entertainer's death from AIDS by reporting that he died from heart failure, the Riverside County coroner said.

"It is my firm belief somebody along the line wanted to pull a fast one on us," Coroner Raymond Carrillo told a news conference Monday. "The original cause of death did not make sense."

Asked if he believed Liberace's doctors knew all along that the showman suffered from AIDS, Carrillo replied: "Yes, sir, I firmly believe that."

Asked if that meant doctors covered up the cause of death, he responded: "That's a moot point. But yes, I believe that."

Dr. Ronald Daniels, a Whittier physician who signed Liberace's death certificate, had reported that the entertainer died of cardiac arrest due to heart failure brought on by subacute encephalopathy, a brain inflammation.

"Encephalopathy does not cause heart disease," Carrillo said.

Daniels' failure to report the correct cause of death will be reported for possible disciplinary action to California's Board of Medical Quality Assurance, he said.

Daniels' receptionist said the doctor is declining comment.

Diet pill imports to be stopped

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. Customs officials have been ordered to seize Mexican diet pills that have been linked to four deaths in Texas, officials say.

U.S. officials have said ingredients in the banned pills are prescribed in the United States, but not in the same combinations as the Mexican drugs and not for the type of diet regimen prescribed by Mexican doctors.

The Food and Drug Administration issued the "import alert" to Customs officials Friday, but a Customs spokesman in Houston said Monday the paperwork had not been received.

The drugs apparently are being prescribed primarily at a dozen weight-loss clinics in Nuevo Laredo, just over the border from Laredo.

U.S. residents returning from Mexico have been allowed to bring the drugs with them in amounts consistent with personal use if they show the drugs were prescribed by a doctor and the prescription was filled by a registered pharmacy in Mexico.

Under the new policy, the drugs will be seized.

The major one is Redotex, which the FDA said appears to contain a hormone used to speed metabolism, two stimulants, a laxative and the tranquilizer diazepam.

Also now banned are Ponderex, an amphetamine used as an appetite suppressant, and Moduretic.

Surrogate mother insists on custody

HACKENSACK, N.J. (AP) — A woman fighting for custody of the child she bore for a couple under a $10,000 surrogate contract says the arrangement was a mistake and that the baby should grow up knowing her biological mother.

Mary Beth Whitehead testified Monday in the unprecedented custody dispute that her family problems should not prevent her from winning custody of her 10-month-old daughter, whom she bore after being artificially inseminated with William Stern's sperm.

She also said whoever loses should get visitation rights.

Mrs. Whitehead testified before Superior Court Judge Harvey R. Sorkow, who must decide whether the contract between Mrs. Whitehead and Stern and his wife, Elizabeth, is valid and who should be granted custody.

Dabbling her eyes with a tissue, Mrs. Whitehead said of the Sterns: "I love them both. I could put my arms around both of them and tell them we made a mistake. Let's make the best of it."

Mrs. Whitehead changed her mind about the deal after giving birth, and fled with her daughter to Florida. Authorities in July found them there and returned the infant — called Baby M in court papers, Sara by Mrs. Whitehead and Melissa by the Sterns — to the Sterns' temporary custody.

Soviet grain imports low

WASHINGTON (AP) — Although the Soviet Union is importing more grain than previously expected, total purchases still are at an eight-year low, according to an Agriculture Department analysis.

The monthly report said Monday that Soviet grain imports from all sources are expected to total 23 million metric tons in the marketing year that will end on June 30, an increase of 2 million tons from the January estimate.

If imports hold at that level, it would be the smallest amount of foreign grain bought by the Soviet Union since 1978-79 when imports were 15.6 million tons. In the following years, annual imports rose to record levels, peaking at 55.5 million tons in 1984-85. They dropped to 29.9 million tons last year after improved harvests.

A metric ton is about 2,205 pounds and is equal, for example, to 36.7 bushels of wheat or 39.4 bushels of corn.

The report said Soviet grain production last year was officially reported in Moscow at 210.1 million tons, up from 191.7 million tons in 1985 and the largest grain output since the record crop of 237.4 million tons in 1978.

Although the Soviet Union has a long-term grain agreement with the United States to buy at least a minimum amount of wheat and corn annually, purchases of wheat have fallen short the past two years. No U.S. wheat or corn has been bought for delivery this year.

The report said the coldest January weather in 36 years occurred in some of the Soviet Union's major winter grain areas. However, there was ample precipitation over large areas, providing additional moisture for spring growth.

"Cattle, hog and poultry inventories reached all-time highs, and record production of meat and eggs was achieved" last year, the report said. "Most of the increase was due to increased output per head. Despite record cattle numbers, the number of cows continued to decline."

Even so, the report added, further improvement in milk yield — up 6 percent on state and collective farms — pushed milk production to a record level in 1986.

"The Soviets continued in their efforts to expand the production, quality and use of inputs (production materials) in line with their intensiveness program," the report said. "In 1986, output of mineral fertilizers rose 5 percent, and although that of pesticides fell by 4 percent — in line with plans — quality of plant protectants likely rose somewhat."

Production of tractors and combines was basically unchanged, as called for in the annual plan, with an effort made instead to reconition the existing fleet of machines, the report said.

Chiefs checking effects of Iran arms sale

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Joint Chiefs of Staff, kept in the dark about President Reagan's decision to sell arms to Iran, is now trying to determine if U.S. weapons are playing a significant role in the Iran-Iraq war.

In another development, a key player in the arms sale, former National Security Adviser Robert McFarlane, was recovering today in a Navy hospital from what police were investigating as an apparent suicide attempt from an overdose of Valium.

McFarlane's lawyer called a broadcast report that there was a suicide attempt "irresponsible and obscene."

McFarlane, who accompanied one of the arms shipments to Iran, was to have appeared Monday before the Tower Commission, the presidentially appointed commission investigating the role of the National Security Council in the Iran arms affair. The Washington Post reported today.

Adm. William J. Crowe Jr., chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, told reporters in a rare session at his Pentagon office Monday the joint chiefs have begun a study of the military impact of U.S. weapons now being used by Iran.

Crowe said it is too early to tell how much Iran benefited from U.S. arms, and the full military impact of the sale will be difficult to assess.

He said the joint chiefs had yet to see any indication that U.S.-made TOW anti-tank missiles and spare parts for Hawk anti-aircraft missiles were playing a significant role in the ongoing fighting between Iran and Iraq.

"You sort of have to look at it over a period of time," he said.

The admiral, as he has testified before Congress, repeated assertions that neither he nor any other member of the joint chiefs was consulted by the White House in advance of the arms sales.

Had such consultation occurred, the admiral indicated, the sale of arms would have been evaluated "from a military-requirements standpoint" before the shipments.

Crowe said the controversy over the arms shipments has had one beneficial effect: a significant increase in the level of consultation between the White House and joint chiefs.

"I'm being consulted quite a bit now about a lot of things," Crowe said.

The four-star admiral also said U.S. naval movements in the Mediterranean Sea and Persian Gulf amount to nothing more than prudent precautions, while acknowledging the recent wave of hostage-taking in Lebanon had produced a "frustrating" situation for the American military.

Polhill was one of four teachers, including two other Americans and an Indian, kidnapped Jan. 24 from Beirut University College.

The statement also vowed to retaliate for comments made by U.S. Secretary of State George P. Shultz, which the group said were an "insult."

Shultz said Sunday in New York, "I do think that the people of Beirut have to recognize that what they're doing is ruining themselves. They, in effect, have a plague there and they're isolating themselves from the world and the world should isolate them."

The kidnappers' statement said the retaliation would "deter everybody from daring to attribute his own cancerous diseases to the others."

A Beirut University College spokesman, Professor Mohammed Yakan, said the hostages' wives were "very happy" that the death threat was deferred.

In a letter released by the kidnappers Monday, American captive Alann Steen said all four hostages would be killed at midnight (5 p.m. Monday EST) unless the captors' demand was met.

The letter was addressed to Steen's wife and delivered along with notes from the other kidnapped American teachers to their wives.

would affect consumer's purchases of Deaf Smith farm products. Fifty-seven percent of Swisher residents and 48 percent of Moore and Crosby residents said a repository would mean a decrease in agricultural production in their county, even though they are farther away from the proposed site.

"Finally, the repository would harm human health across the Panhandle, according to 67 percent of the residents of the Deaf Smith-Oldham area, 59 percent of Amarillo residents, and 66 percent of the residents of other rural counties," Hightower said.

Ann Landers Gambling an addiction

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I need some kind of help desperately. Please come to my rescue. I can't sign my name so I am praying that you will print this letter and your advice.

I am a 35-year-old married man with three kids. I gamble every day and am in great financial trouble. My family doesn't know I gamble the way I do.

I lie to everyone to cover up the losses. The bill collectors keep calling and all we do is fight. The bookies are demanding their money, too.

After every loss I promise myself I will never gamble again but in a few days I am back placing bets, shooting craps and playing poker. Please help me before I kill myself.—Hurting In Chicago

Nobody touches anyone or exposes anything more than a bare bottom. I've done the act in some of the finest restaurants and offices in town and have yet to be asked to leave for indecent behavior. DEAR PITTS: I have nothing against singing telegrams but I fail to see the dignity in a bare bottom or a G-string type performance. For parents to put on such a party is incredibly tasteless and dumb beyond belief.

Paula Hamby and Jane White are working on a yearly fund-raising project.

An announcement was made of an exhibit in Dallas March 7 to April 5 entitled "Dallas Blooms", when 200,000 plants will be in bloom. This will be on the DeGolyer and Camp Estates and is advertised in the National Gardener.

Naoma Spann, president, displayed the cover design submitted by Kathleen Brockman to the National Council of State Garden Clubs, Inc. for the program cover to be used at National Convention May 2-4, 1988, in Houston.

Members present were Wilma Bryan, Naomi Hare, Addie Cunningham, Phyllis Brown, Paula Hamby, Kathleen Brockman, Naoma Spann, Mildred Fuhrmann, and hostess, Jane White.

The next meeting will be held at 9:30 a.m. Feb. 19 in the Hereford Senior Citizens Center with Wilma Bryan giving a program entitled "Designing With Silk Flowers."

Iceland topic of program during study club meeting

Mrs. Able Rugan presented a program on Iceland, a country she has visited, when members of Bay View Study Club met Thursday in the home of Mrs. Earnest Langley.

President Mrs. Jack Wilcox presided over the business meeting. Mrs. Langley and Mrs. Dudley Bayne served refreshments to Mmes. J.A. Burran, Jr., R.W. Eades, Ralph Futrell, John Gilliland, W.K. golden, Kenneth Halbert, N.C. Hays, Robert Josseland, Justin McBride, A.D. Morrow, Austin Rose, Jack Wilcox, W.S. Fisher, M.C. Rudder, H.L. Benefield, Howard Gault and W.J. Gilliland.

DEAR HURTING: Gambling, like alcoholism and drug addiction, is an illness. In the case of all three, the best approach is a self-help group. Nothing is as effective as the emotional support of people who share the problem.

I strongly recommend Gamblers Anonymous. Write to P.O. Box 17173, Los Angeles, CA 90017. Or phone (213)386-8789 or 386-8743 and ask for information. This splendid group has saved many a life.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have two daughters who fight constantly. They are 6 and 3 years old.

The other night my girls were running through the house screaming. The 3-year-old was being chased by the 6-year-old. I ran after them knowing one was going to get hurt. As they went through the bathroom the younger girl slid and hit her mouth on the sink. She now has three front teeth out and a swollen lip.

Was I a bad mother to let this happen? Will my daughter recover from this injury completely? We have gone to two doctors and they won't say. Please respond.—Worried in North Carolina

DEAR N.C.: If the doctors won't say, you will simply have to wait and see. I can't help you there.

Please get off the guilt trip. The accident wasn't your fault. Almost every child hurts him or herself as a result of running, jumping, falling or crashing into something. You can't raise kids under a glass bell.

DR. GOTT Be cautious about medication

DEAR DR. GOTT — Are over-the-counter medications for asthma harmful in any way?

DEAR READER — Any medicine can be harmful if it is taken in excessive amounts or used by a person who is allergic to it.

Over-the-counter asthma medicine comes in two forms: pills and spray.

The pills contain low doses of bronchial-relaxing drugs, such as ephedrine and theophylline. Some have small amounts of phenobarbital, which can be habit-forming.

The spray contain epinephrine (adrenalin). This compound can cause irritability, nervousness and a rise in blood pressure.

Therefore, the answer to your question is "yes" — these medications can be harmful in some cases. However, there is little chance of trouble if the patient reads the manufacturer's recommendations and warnings and uses the medicine only as directed by the manufacturer.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I'll be 91 soon and am so tired all the time. Is this from poor circulation?

DEAR READER — Some fatigue among the elderly is due simply to old age. However, older people do tend to develop a variety of ailments and diseases. You should see a doctor for a full checkup. You might have anemia, diabetes, high blood pressure, thyroid deficiency or heart disease — all common causes of fatigue in patients over 80. If there is no physical cause for your tiredness, the doctor may be able to suggest activities or special physical exercises to help perk you up.

Most people over age 60 have some degree of poor circulation. However, this by itself is unlikely to cause your loss of energy.

DEAR DR. GOTT — Six years ago I had cancer of the prostate and my testicles were removed. I've been taking diethylstilbestrol (2 milligrams) daily since then. My doctor is very evasive when I question him about possible harmful side effects. Do I have anything to worry about?

DEAR READER — Diethylstilbestrol (DES) is a synthetic female hormone that is often given to men with prostatic cancer to retard growth of the tumor or prevent recurrences. It is an effective medicine, but it does have side effects. These include breast swelling, nausea, vomiting, fluid retention and ankle swelling, an increased tendency to develop blood clots in veins, diabetes, skin rashes, depression, impotence and loss of sexual desire.

Although this list of side effects seems to indicate that DES is dangerous, the hazards of not taking it may outweigh this danger.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Recently I read the letter from "Puzzled" in New Jersey. She told about the parents who had a female stripper for their son's bachelor party. I am a stripper who works for a singing telegram company in Pittsburgh.

I've been in this job for over five years and have delivered over 2,000 telegrams. I want "Puzzled" to know it is done in good taste and is lots of fun. I've performed for mixed groups at birthdays, for women only at bachelorette parties, for women under 20 and over 70. I've had only 10 complaints.

There is nothing dirty or disgusting about this occupation. My kids and parents all know what I do for a living.

If the woman they hired was anything like the telegrams we do in Pittsburgh, she was at the party

DEAR N.C.: If the doctors won't say, you will simply have to wait and see. I can't help you there.

Please get off the guilt trip. The accident wasn't your fault. Almost every child hurts him or herself as a result of running, jumping, falling or crashing into something. You can't raise kids under a glass bell.

Are your parents too strict? Hard to reach? Ann Landers' booklet, "Bugged By Parents? How to Get More Freedom," could help you bridge the generation gap. Send 50 cents with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

Dickinson Washington VIP

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Angie Dickinson, who plays a U.S. senator with a past in the CBS mystery movie "Stillwatch," says with some understatement that the plot is "involved."

In the movie, airing tonight, Sen. Abigail Winslow's chances of replacing the ailing vice president are jeopardized when a reporter (Lynda Carter) sets out to do a story on her life and career.

"It has to do with an old house and the murder of Lynda's parents there 20 years ago," said Dickinson. "I knew her parents. I was her father's lover. But I can't say much more. It does get involved."

"Stillwatch," based on the best-selling suspense novel by Mary Higgins Clark, also stars Don Murray, Barry Primus, Louise Latham, Stuart Whitman, Walter Olkewicz and Bibi Osterwald. Portions of the movie were filmed on location in Washington.

"A friend of mine told me about the book 'Stillwatch' two years ago and said it had a great role for me," said Dickinson. "Then Lynda Carter bought the book. ... She said she thought of me immediately for the role."

"Abigail's a woman who is not really tough, but she is assertive. She also knows she's glamorous. I have to be careful about playing nonglamorous roles. On the other hand, if I do only glamour roles maybe people won't want to see me at all."

"I had a nonglamorous role in the last thing I did for CBS, 'A Touch of Scandal.' She was a councilwoman trying to get elected to district attorney. She constantly — as I call it — lowered the hemline. You wouldn't buy it if she was Dolly Parton. Another was 'The Suicide's Wife' about eight years ago. I wish I hadn't done that one."

Dickinson, who starred four seasons in NBC's "Police Woman," is back on the force in a new movie now in production called "Police Story II." It brings back many of the actors who had recurring roles on the series "Police Story."

Dickinson plays a policewoman named Anne Cavanaugh in "Police Story II," which is centered on the pursuit of a serial killer and the efforts of Robert Devers (Richard Crenna) to become police chief.

Don Meredith and Tony Lo Bianco, who made several appearances as partners in the "Police Story" series, are back, but playing different characters.

Dickinson's own "Police Woman" series was a spinoff from "Police Story," an anthology series created by policeman-author Joseph Wambaugh that ran on NBC from 1973 to 1977.

Dickinson had starred in an episode as policewoman Lisa Beaumont. Then, in "Police Woman" she became Sgt. Pepper Anderson.

Is there any chance of doing a "Police Woman" movie?

"I think I'm too old for that," said Dickinson. "I don't think it would work. Pepper could come back, but 'Police Woman' couldn't. Unless it was an odd situation in which they kept saying, 'We shouldn't be doing this kind of thing.' But I can't run around in those tight pants any more."

POLLY'S POINTERS

DEAR POLLY — Do you have a recipe for making Christmas candy canes? I'd like to surprise my children with them for the holidays. — MRS. G.W.

DEAR MRS. G.W. — I found this recipe for old-fashioned candy canes in "Victorian Christmas Crafts" by Barbara Bruno (Prentice Hall Press; 1986). These candy canes are made of taffy rather than hard candy.

In a large, heavy-bottomed saucepan, mix two cups sugar, ½ cup light corn syrup, ½ cup water and ¼ teaspoon cream of tartar. Stir until sugar dissolves. Place a candy thermometer in the mixture and cook without stirring until it reaches 265 degrees. Turn off heat and add ¼ teaspoon peppermint extract. Divide the mixture in half by pouring part of it into another pan. Add one teaspoon red food coloring to one of the pans of candy.

While waiting for the candy to cool enough to allow handling, grease a cookie sheet to provide a non-stick working space. Butter your hands and use a buttered spatula to cut out a portion of the white taffy from the pan. Using your hands, pull and fold the taffy to a glossy sheen, then roll it into an eight-inch-long coil. Do the same with the red taffy. Then twist the two coils together, rolling them gently to flatten the colors together. Give the head of the cane a twist before setting it aside to cool and harden on a greased surface. Repeat with the rest of the candy.

This process is more fun and goes faster if you have more than one person working at it. One person can work with the white and one person with the red simultaneously. It's a great family project. Hope your family enjoys their treat! — POLLY

Make your own gifts, including almond cream liqueur, a fruit-filled rumpot, jigsaw puzzles and sweet-scented potpourri with the directions in Polly's newsletter "Gift Ideas." Send $1 for each copy to POLLY'S POINTERS, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to include the title.

DEAR POLLY — Don't throw away old toothbrushes. They have many uses, such as:

Clean dirty corners in dish drawers.

Clean lime away from faucets in the bathroom.

Clean jewelry in sudsy water.

Smooth out make-up around your hair line and jaw line.

Wash off plant leaves. — MAXINE

DEAR POLLY — After cleaning my refrigerator and freezer, I dust the rubber gasket on the door with a light coating of talcum powder. It keeps mildew from forming for a long time. — MRS. G.O.

Heat good treatment for styes

A sty is a red, painful swelling like a boil that develops on the eyelid margin, around the base of the eyelash. The Texas Medical Association says applying heat to the sty can hasten the relief of pain by making the sty burst early.

A sty is caused by an infection of one of the tiny oil-producing glands located at the base of each eyelash. Styes are quite common and may occur on either the upper or lower eyelid.

Often a sty begins with a sensitivity to light, excessive tears in the eye, and the sensation of a foreign object in the eye. The affected lid swells and becomes red, and a white head of pus appears on the swelling.

Styes can be very painful, particularly when touched. Within a few days of a sty's formation, it bursts, which relieves the pain and causes the loss of the eyelash. The sty subsides about seven days after it first appears, and the eyelid returns to normal.

You can hasten the relief of pain by applying hot compresses to the sty frequently.

Woman's Health

HIGH-RISK PREGNANCY

By Harry S. Jonas, M.D.,
President, The American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists

It's not uncommon today to hear or read about women who have "high-risk" pregnancies. This is a medical shorthand to refer to women who either because of chronic health problems, physical characteristics such as age or weight, or problems that develop during pregnancy, need extra attention and care during pregnancy and childbirth.

Generally, a doctor will consider a patient high-risk if she has one or more conditions such as: very overweight or underweight, has a history of miscarriage or premature births, has chronic hypertension, heart or kidney disease; diabetes, carrying more than one baby, or is over 35 or under 15. Some doctors do not consider older mothers at risk for age alone. Certain conditions develop during pregnancy that make a woman high-risk. These include bleeding during pregnancy, severe anemia, developing hypertension or diabetes during pregnancy, baby in breech position (buttocks first), previous cesarean (for certain reasons), or going more than two weeks past due date.

If your doctor feels that you are a high-risk patient, you can expect several things: You will probably have more frequent appointments, you and your baby's health will be closely monitored with tests such as ultrasound (sonograms), "stress" testing which measures how the baby is doing, and fetal monitors during labor and delivery. Many medical problems can cause problems for the fetus, so your labor may be induced or started instead of waiting for nature to take its course. Some high-risk conditions also mean that you may be more likely to have a cesarean delivery.

Some doctors will refer their high-risk patients to specialists in the field—obstetricians with special training. These physicians who are known as perinatologists or maternal/fetal medicine specialists limit their practice to patients with medical problems.

While many causes of high-risk pregnancies cannot be avoided, there are some that can. Smoking, drinking alcohol, using drugs not prescribed by your doctor, and poor nutrition all can make a pregnancy high-risk and put your baby in jeopardy.

If you are considered a high-risk mother-to-be, take heart. Many medical problems which in the past ruled out having children or were fatal to mother and baby can be successfully treated with few problems for the two of you.

Single, free copies of "High Risk Pregnancy" (p-067) are available by sending a stamped, self-addressed, business size envelope along with the name of the booklet to: The American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists, Resource Center, 600 Maryland Ave., SW, Washington, DC 20024.
