Says ruining people 'sport' Suicide note from lawyer disclosed

By CAROLYN SKORNECK
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) -- Deputy White House counsel Vince Foster committed suicide after writing a note in which he said, "I was not meant for the job or the spotlight of public life in Washington," officials said Tuesday.

"Here, ruining people is considered sport," he said in the note found torn to pieces almost a week after his death July 20.

It was not known exactly when he wrote the note, said U.S. Park Police Chief Robert E. Langston. Foster's wife, Lisa, had told Foster 1-1/2 weeks before he died of a single gunshot wound to the head that he should write down his concerns, Langston said, adding that the note could have been written at any time after that.

In a note that previously had been described by a White House official as akin to a draft of a resignation letter, Foster wrote, "The public will never believe the innocence of the Clintons and their loyal staff."

The next line was a direct shot at the Wall Street Journal, which had targeted him for critical editorials: "The WSJ editors lie without consequence."

The note -- written in neat handwriting with no scratch-outs but with only two periods at the end of sentences -- also makes several allegations that are being pursued by the Justice Department.

After saying that no one in the White House did anything wrong in connection with the travel office and that "there was no intent to benefit any individual or specific group,"

Friday may not be a red-letter day on calendars, but most folks consider it as an unlucky Friday the 13th.

We're not too concerned about the 13th. Our bad luck came Monday morning when we got to work. It seems lightning had knocked out our phone system and about half of our computers. Since we have an in-house phone system, it didn't take long to get back into operation--once we found the main control board and the red "reset" button.

The computers were chips of a different color!

Computers are wonderful things, when everything works right. But, if something goes wrong and you don't know anymore about computers than I do, then you've got a major problem.

My first clue came after several of us typed some articles into our terminals and pushed the "print" keys. The laser printer spit out some nice white pages--as in blank, no typewritten words.

One of our ad men, Trini Perez, who at least has read the instruction book...I think, figured out the problem by the process of elimination of a few good things that were still happening. We got on the phone and ordered a new Lasernet spooler, or the Printer Sharing Unit--otherwise known as the thingamajig that recognizes the codes and causes the printer to print the letters that you type.

We should know by tomorrow if that solves that problem.

Meanwhile, the glitch that caused this wipout also messed up the box ("modem" to those in the know) that receives the Associated Press wire news. A technician came out of Lubbock and worked on that all afternoon Monday, but couldn't get us going. Now, they'll have to install a new modem, and that may be today and it may not.

Meanwhile, we're getting out part of the paper the old-fashioned way--we're working twice as hard to produce the written word.

We heard that a few more folks around town encountered similar problems with their computer systems, and some of them were also without their wonderful word processing machines.

Friday the 13th is bound to be a better day than Monday the 9th!

Opponents say new trucking rules will circumvent intent of reforms

AUSTIN (AP)--Proposed new trucking reforms would make it more difficult to enter the business, opponents say.

The implementation rules "appear to be a blatant attempt to circumvent not only the intent of the Legislature, but the intent of the shippers, carriers and legislative leadership who struggled to reach this compromise as well," Sen. Teel Bivins, Amarillo Republican, said.

The Railroad Commission is taking public comment on the rules until Aug. 20.

Brian Schaible, commission spokesman, said one of the reasons the commission is seeking public input "is to let business owners tell us whether we have drawn up rules that do what the bill was meant to do."

The measure was enacted by lawmakers during the regular legislative session.

Supporters of the bill said it was intended to increase the Railroad Commission's enforcement powers for safety violations, to ease entry into the industry, to modify current rate structures and application procedures, and to expand commercial zones.

The targets of the complaints include provisions that would impose more stringent guidelines on women- and minority-owned businesses than for other businesses that want to get into the trucking industry.

The so-called "disadvantaged businesses" must answer questions about their experience and financial stability, while other applicants need only prove that they are "fit, willing and able" to provide that service.

The proposed rules also include a restrictive interpretation of the law's new backhaul provision. The bill was meant to allow specialized motor carriers--those permitted to haul goods requiring special handling--to haul any commodity back on a return trip if it's within 75 miles of the original shipping route.

But the commission's proposed rules would prohibit truckers making interstate deliveries from making an intrastate delivery on the way back.

Super Collider foes call for voice in conference

By MICHELLE MITTELSTADT
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) -- Congressional opponents of the super collider are maneuvering to ensure their voices are heard this fall if the Senate spares the embattled program.

In a letter to House Speaker Tom Foley, 116 House Democrats and Republicans say it would be "an embarrassment" if the House's 280-150 vote to kill the giant atom smasher is ignored in a conference committee of House and Senate negotiators.

"We believe that the clean and overwhelming position of the House must not be ignored by the conference committee," the lawmakers wrote.

"We will make every effort to defeat any conference report, continuing resolution or other measure that includes funding for the super collider."

The House members, led by Kansas Democrat Jim Slattery and New York Republican Sherwood Boehlert, are seeking to avoid a repeat of last year when the conference committee didn't include any collider opponents.

The language of the letter backs down somewhat from Slattery's earlier pledge to round up members willing to vote against the entire energy and water development appropriations package if any collider money is in it.

Cleanup set here on Saturday along U.S. 60

The third citywide cleanup sponsored by Hereford Beautification Alliance has been scheduled for Saturday, beginning at 8 a.m. just west of Barrick Furniture on W. Hwy. 60.

The alliance is calling the location of the cleanup area as the "western gateway to Hereford." Anyone interested in making Hereford a cleaner, more beautiful place to live, is invited to participate. Church groups and clubs are invited to join the effort.

Equipment needed includes hoes, rakes, etc. Participants should wear long sleeves, a hat and work gloves. Please mark any tools with your name.

The alliance is also asking businesses, church and club groups, families or individuals to join an "Adopt-A-Vacant-Lot" program. This would entail keeping the lot free of litter and weeds. The alliance will assign a lot to those desiring to participate. Call Louise Leasure (364-6402) or Jan Furr (364-7109).

Major provisions of new tax plan given

By the Associated Press

The new tax plan to reduce the deficit has a little something for everyone, according to the Clinton administration.

The working poor will fare better, the rich will pay more and the middle class and elderly will just about break even, say Clinton aides.

But, everyone will pay 4.3 cents a gallon more in federal gasoline tax under the plan approved last Friday. And, it's a different story for middle class retired people, who will find themselves paying higher taxes.

For Texans, the gasoline tax means paying an extra $30.22 a year to fuel their cars, boats and motor scooters, according to the White House. But U.S. Rep. Larry Combest says that figure is just on the family car, not on all transportation. He estimates it will cost Texas $2.2 billion over the five-year deficit plan.

The American Association of Retired Persons estimates that 5.7 million Social Security recipients will end up paying more taxes on their benefits.

Major tax provisions in the deficit-reduction bill and how they would affect federal revenues over the next five years:

TAX INCREASES

Individual tax rates

Old law: Three rates of 15 percent, the only one paid by most people; 28 percent, and 31 percent, paid by the highest-earning 1.2 percent of taxpayers.

New: Two new rates at the top. A 36 percent, applying to taxable income - after subtracting deductions and exemptions - over $115,000 for single people and $140,000 for couples. This is equivalent on the average to total income of about $140,000 and $180,000, respectively. A 39.6 percent rate, applying to all taxable income over $250,000, whether single or joint returns. Capital gains would continue to be taxed at rates of 15 percent and 18 percent.

This is just as Clinton asked and the House passed; the Senate had voted to make the higher rates effective July 1 and to raise the top capital-gains rate to 30.8 percent.

Minimum tax

Old: Alternative minimum tax applies to about 250,000 high-income couples and individuals and aims to extract some tax from them even if their regular tax liability is wiped out by deductions. Tax is 24 percent of income to which certain deductions have been added back.

New: 26 percent rate on the first $175,000 of income and 28 percent on the excess. First $45,000 of couples' income and $33,750 for singles would be exempt.

Limitations

Old: Limitations on deductions and exemptions temporarily raise the taxes of higher-income people. Itemized deductions other than those for medical expenses, casualty losses and investment interest are reduced by 3 percent of adjusted gross income over $108,450; value of personal exemptions is reduced and gradually eliminated as income exceeds $162,700 for a couple and $108,450 for singles.

New: Permanent limitations. The rate increases, minimum tax and limitations, all retroactive to Jan. 1, would raise $114.8 billion.

Social Security

Old: The 22 percent of beneficiaries with highest incomes pay tax on up to 50 percent of their Social Security. Applies only when total income including half of Social Security exceeds $25,000 for singles and $32,000 for couples.

New: Starting next Jan. 1, 5.5 million whose incomes including half of Social Security exceed $34,000 (single) and $44,000 (couples) will pay tax on up to 85 percent of their benefits. Singles with incomes between $25,000 and $33,999 and couples between $32,000 and $43,999 will still pay tax on up to half their benefits.

Raise $24.6 billion.

Energy

Old: Gasoline for most uses subject to federal tax of 14.1 cents a gallon; diesel fuel, at 20.1 cents. Of the total, 2.5 cents due to expire Sept. 30, 1995.

New: Starting Oct. 1, raise the tax by 4.3 cents. Commercial aviation fuel exempt for two years. Temporary 2.5 cents extended four years. Raise $32.2 billion. This, the major change in President Clinton's plan, was substituted by the Senate for a broad tax on utility bills and most fuels.

Medicare tax

Old: Wages and self-employment income up to $135,000 subject to 1.45 percent tax to finance Medicare hospital benefits for elderly and disabled. Employers match; self-employed pay 2.9 percent.

New: Starting next Jan. 1, remove $135,000 limit, raising taxes for 1.2 million.

Raise $29.2 billion.

Estate taxes

Old: Tax rates ranging from 18 percent to 50 percent on the value of estates.

New: A 53 percent rate for estates valued at $2.5 to $3 million; 55 percent for those over $3 million, effective Jan. 1, 1993.

Raise $2.8 billion.

Moving expenses

Old: Certain expenses of job-related moves are deductible if new job is at least 35 miles farther from the old home than was the old job.

New: Effective next Jan. 1, the 35-mile test is increased to 50 miles. Such non-transportation costs as meals en route and cost of househunting trips could not be deducted.

Raise $2.3 billion.

Meals and entertainment

Old: Eighty percent of the cost of meals and entertainment are deductible as ordinary and necessary business expenses.

New: Cut to 50 percent, starting Jan. 1, 1994.

Raise $15.3 billion.

Club dues

Old: Club dues primarily for furtherance of a trade or business are deductible.

New: No deduction, effective Jan. 1, 1994.

Raise $1.1 billion.

Executive compensation

Old: Business generally may deduct compensation for services rendered, with reasonableness determined case by case.

New: Effective next Jan. 1, limit the deduction for salary of each of the top five officers of publicly held corporations to $1 million. Exemptions (See PROVISIONS, Page 2)

SUICIDE

Foster wrote: "The FBI lied in their report to the AG," a reference to Attorney General Janet Reno.

In addition, he wrote a comment that could not immediately be explained by either Langston or Robert Bryant, the special agent in charge of the FBI's Washington field office.

"The Ushers Office plotted to have excessive costs incurred, taking advantage of Kaki and HRC," Kaki, said Langston, was thought to be a White House employee, and HRC was a reference to Hillary Rodham Clinton.

Deputy Attorney General Philip Heymann, who was assigned by Reno to coordinate the investigation, had asked that reports by both the FBI and the U.S. Park Police be filed by Friday. Foster's body was found at Fort Darling, a national park in suburban Virginia.

New service being offered in Hereford

A special service that will provide information about deaths of residents or relatives of residents of Hereford and Deaf Smith County has been installed by Gililand-Watson Funeral Home.

John Gililand said a telephone call to the service's number will give the caller a recorded message about deaths.

"We'll have information about any death in Hereford and we'll monitor area reports for deaths related to Hereford and Deaf Smith County," said Gililand.

Purpose of the new community service is to provide residents with a central information center.

The telephone line is separate from the funeral home's regular number, Gililand said, allowing callers 24-hour access to the obituary and funeral service information line, 364-2294.

At present, Gililand said he expects the service to be limited to the announced purpose. In the future, though, he said the service may be expanded to permit announcements of community-wide interest.

PROVISIONS OF TAX BILL

for pay based on performance. Applies only to executives - not employees, including athletes and entertainers, no matter how much they are paid. Raise $335 million.

Pension contributions
Old: Employer may deduct up to $235,000, raised annually for inflation, to an employee's pension.
New: Effective next year, reduce the maximum to $150,000.
Raise $2.5 billion.

Charitable contributions
Old: Donors may use canceled checks to provide contributions.
New: Starting next Jan. 1, charity would have to provide substantiation of a donation of $250 or more. Charity would have to disclose to donors the value of goods given in return for a donation of $75 or more.
Raise $469 million.

Lobbying expenses
Old: Businesses may deduct expenses of attempting to influence legislation or regulations.
New: Starting next year, generally no deduction for lobbying federal or state legislation.
Raise $653 million.

Corporate rates
Old: Taxable income over $75,000 taxed at 34 percent.
New: Effective Jan. 1, 1993, raise top rate to 35 percent for income over $10 million.
Raise $16.4 billion.

Securities dealers
Old: Securities held for sale may be taxed on cost or value of the securities.
New: Retroactive to Jan. 1, 1993, require tax on fair market value of securities held in inventory.
Raise $3.8 billion.

Puerto Rico
Old: U.S. businesses operating in Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands avoid U.S. tax on income from operations there.
New: Reduce the tax benefit; companies could choose between a formula based on wages paid and one linked to capital investment.
Raise $3.8 billion.

Real estate
Old: Non-residential real estate is depreciated for tax purposes over 31 years.
New: Raise to 39 years, effective Feb. 26, 1993.
Raise $3.6 billion.

Intangible assets
Old: Corporations may depreciate tangible assets acquired in a takeover but there are no hard and fast rules for "good will," customer lists and other intangible assets.
New: Effective on enactment, most intangible assets acquired in the future could be written off over 15 years.
Raise $2.5 billion.

TAX CUTS
Earned-income credit
Old: Working families, with children and income up to about $23,000 may qualify for a tax credit or outright check for up to $2,364.
New: Starting next Jan. 1, allow families with income up to $25,300 to qualify for some credit; maximum credit raised to $2,527. Childless workers between 25 and 64 could get up to $306 if incomes are under $9,000.
Cost $20.8 billion.

Health insurance
Old: A 25 percent deduction for costs of health insurance for self-employed expired June 30, 1992.

New: Renew retroactively to July 1, 1992, through Dec. 31, 1992.
Cost $566 million.

Luxury taxes
Old: A 10 percent tax applies to part of the selling price of expensive yachts, planes, cars, furs and jewels.
New: Repeal the tax on yachts, planes furs and jewels effective last Jan. 1. Retain the tax on cars but annually adjust the $30,000 above which it applies to account for inflation.
Cost $1.1 billion.

Capital gains
Old: Present law generally treats capital gains like other income. But the top tax rate on capital gains is 28 percent, compared with 31 percent for other income.
New: The new, higher individual rates on other income would create an incentive for capital investments. In addition, effective when the bill is signed, investors who buy newly issued stock in a small business and hold it five years or longer could avoid tax on half the profit when sold.
Cost $752 million.

Education aid
Old: A tax exclusion for up to $5,250 annually of employer-provided education assistance expired June 30, 1992.
New: Renew retroactively to July 1, 1992, through Dec. 31, 1994.
Cost $913 million.

Charitable contributions
Old: Through June 30, 1992, higher-income individuals who are subject to a special alternative minimum tax could claim the full market value of a charitable donation of artworks and similar appreciated assets.

New: Renew provision retroactively to July 1, 1992, and, starting Jan. 1, 1993, expand such assets to include stock.
Cost $417 million.

Low-income housing
Old: A credit for investing in low-income rental housing expired June 30, 1992.
New: Permanent credit, retroactive to July 1, 1992.
Cost $4.9 billion.

Cost $1 billion.

Business investment
Old: Small businesses annually may depreciate $10,000 worth of equipment in the year purchased.
New: Raise to $17,500, retroactive to Jan. 1, for businesses that invest less than $210,000 in depreciable property each year.
Cost $4.6 billion.

Research
Old: Until July 1, 1992, businesses could take a credit for increased spending for research and experimentation.
New: Renew for three years, retroactive to July 1, 1992.
Cost $4.9 billion.

Corporate minimum tax
Old: Corporations must make separate calculations of depreciation to calculate liability for the minimum tax.
New: Starting next Jan. 1, simplify

Winner of Lotto in July turns up

AUSTIN (AP)--Joan Ginther of Bishop has ended a month-long mystery by claiming her half of a $10.8 million jackpot drawn on July 14.

Ms. Ginther declined interviews Tuesday after collecting the first installment of her $5.4 million winnings. She will receive $270,000 each year for the next 19 years after correctly picking the numbers 1, 4, 7, 10, 47 and 50.

Her ticket had gone unclaimed for 27 days, the longest anyone has waited to collect Lotto Texas winnings.

"I am certainly glad to meet you," Texas Lottery director Nora Linares told Ms. Ginther. "We were afraid the ticket bought in Bishop had been lost."

The other winner of the $10.8 million jackpot, Vada Todd of Marathon, claimed her half of the jackpot a few days after the drawing.

Also Tuesday, Vernon Wernecke, a bird house builder from Brenham, latched onto a real nest egg.

Wernecke, one of two people to correctly pick the six winning numbers in Saturday's $17.6 million Lotto Texas drawing, claimed his half of the prize -- $8.8 million -- on Tuesday.

Wernecke, a 64-year-old retired contractor from Brenham, says his wife, Frances, and two children will share in the prize.

"Playing Lotto Texas is a family event," Wernecke said. "My wife, Frances, and I have an agreement with our son and daughter, if one of us wins the big jackpot, we'll share with the others 00 that's exactly what we plan to do."

The other winning ticket with the numbers -- 4, 15, 31, 33, 40 and 45 -- was purchased in San Antonio but had not yet been claimed, according to lottery officials.

The Werneckes, who are normally $5-a-week Lotto players, had bought eight sets of numbers for Saturday's drawing. The winner was a "Quick Pick" ticket, which allows a machine to randomly select the numbers.

"Both my wife and I thought that one of our choices had five out of six numbers," Wernecke said. "But when we realized -- at the very same moment -- that instead it had all six numbers, my wife and I started whooping and hollering. I started giving each other the 'high five' sign."

Wernecke received a check Tuesday for $448,269.75 and will receive $444,500 each year for the next 19 years.

The Big Diamond convenience store in Brenham sold the ticket to the Werneckes and will receive a bonus equal to 1 percent of the winnings.

The Brenham couple say they will use some of the money to pay off bills, go fishing and possibly expand Wernecke's woodworking shop, where he makes cedar bird houses.

the calculation and provide additional relief for capital-intensive companies. Cost $4.3 billion.

Jobs credit
Old: Employers could take a tax credit for part of the wages of newly hired disadvantaged people; the credit expired June 30, 1992.
New: Renew the credit retroactive to July 1, 1992, through Dec. 31, 1994.
Cost $661 million.

Real estate
Old: In general, losses from an investment in which a taxpayer does not participate actively may not be used to shield wages and other income from taxes.
New: Effective next Jan. 1, a person who works at least half-time in trading real estate and materially participates in the endeavor could use real estate losses to offset other income.
Cost $2.6 billion.

Enterprise zones
Old: No special benefits for businesses in distressed areas.
New: Businesses that locate in any of nine selected poverty-ridden areas could qualify for wage credits, higher first-year writeoff of machinery purchases and other tax incentives. The government would authorize additional spending for social services.
Cost $3.5 billion.

Restaurants
Old: Restaurants must pay Social Security tax on employees' cash tips.
New: Effective Jan. 1, 1994, restaurants could subtract those tax payments from their income taxes.
Cost $1 billion.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: This is in response to the letter from "Feeling Miserable in Jacksonville, Fla." whose 16-year-old daughter, "Marie," wanted to get married. You told the mother she was right to refuse to give her legal consent.

Your answer was OK, but you could have given a better one--right from your own files. In fact, you did, in 1967. It appeared in the Denver Post and was written by a 17-year-old who married young and had many regrets. Her letter was simply heartbreaking.

Why don't you reprint that column so "Feeling Miserable" can give it to Marie? It may cause her to change her mind about getting married--Evelyn in Colorado

DEAR EVELYN: thank you for your sharp eye and terrific memory. Here's the letter which says it all:

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Let me tell you what it is like to be married at 17. It is like living in this dump on the third floor. Your only window looks out on somebody else's third-floor dump.

It is like coming home so tired you feel nearly dead from standing all day at your checker's job in the supermarket. But you don't dare sit down because you might never get up. And there are so many things you have to--cooking and washing and ironing. But you go through the motions, and you hate your job. You ask yourself, "Why don't you quit?" And you know why. Because there are grocery bills and medical bills and the rent to pay. And Jimmy's crummy little check from the lumberyard won't cover them. That's why.

Then you tell the sitter goodbye, and you try to play with the baby until Jimmy comes home. Only sometimes you don't feel like it. But you do it anyway because you feel guilty about being away from her all day. Then you mix the formula and wash diapers, and you hate doing it. You wonder how long it will be before she knows you hate it. And wouldn't it be awful if she knew already?

Then Jimmy doesn't come home, and you know he decided to go out with the boys again and do the things he should have done before he married you.

So finally you eat the lousy meal by yourself and go to bed and cry your eyes out. When he does come home, you can tell he's been drinking, but you don't say a word because he hates to be told anything. So you try to go to sleep and dream about your parents and your brothers and the kids you knew at school. You think about the great meals your mother used to cook and how nice your room was at home. Then you remember how she tried to talk you out of marrying so young, and you got mad at her and called her a dried-up old woman and accused her of having forgotten what it was like to be in love.

You try to push the thoughts of other boys out of your mind, but they keep coming back. Especially that certain boy who gave you your first kiss. He won the state science prize and is going to be a doctor.

You wonder how different your life would have been if you had gone to college. You have the feeling that Jimmy and the baby are all part of a bad dream. But you know it's no dream. It's for real. So you reach over to touch Jimmy, and he pushes you away and says something mean. You cry yourself to sleep and wake up with a splitting headache.

If you meet anyone who thinks she knows what it is like to be married at 17, please tell her about me. Or better yet, give her this letter.--Sorry

DEAR READERS: I could print a letter similar to this one every day of the week. Are you listening out there? I hope so.

Dr. Walker began seeing patients in Hereford August 2. His training and background include extensive experience in family practice (including OB), emergency medicine, sports medicine, and industrial/occupational health.

A native of Idaho where he garnered honors as an "all-state" football player, Dr. Walker began his training in the United States Army where he first trained as a basic medical specialist. He continued taking specialized medical training, including a three-year stint on the European campus of the University of Maryland in Frankfurt, West Germany, where he completed an associates degree in pre-med studies, before going on for his advanced degrees.

As a physician in the Army, Dr. Walker was able to practice sports medicine, industrial medicine, and family practice. He dealt with the types of injuries soldiers in training might receive and healed injuries from accidents on the job, such as might occur in civilian life. His practice also included caring for the soldiers' dependents, so he delivered babies, cared for newborns and young children, and doctored the whole range of illnesses a family might encounter.

He and his wife Janet have eight children, five of whom live with them.

Long ends expensive holdout with Raiders

By FRANK ELTMAN
Associated Press Writer

Howie Long's holdout with the Los Angeles Raiders cost him $100,000 in fines. The Miami Dolphins say running back Bobby Humphrey stands to lose a lot of money, too, if he's not in camp today.

Long ended a 25-day holdout Tuesday and reported to the camp after renegotiating his contract.

"I think I set the NFL record (for fines)," Long said.

Long was due to make $1.5 million this year, $1.6 million in 1994, $1.8 million in 1995, and $1.98 million in 1996. He wanted to renegotiate because of the jump in salaries this offseason with the advent of liberalized free agency. Long said both sides made concessions while reworking the deal.

Raiders coach Art Shell said Long would still have to pay the $4,000 a day fine mandated under the new collective bargaining agreement. "That has to happen, we can't let that go by," Shell said.

Meanwhile, Dolphins general manager Eddie Jones spoke on the telephone with Humphrey for 20 minutes Tuesday and urged him to report. If Humphrey fails to show today, Jones said, the Dolphins' offer of $650,000 for one year will be substantially reduced. Humphrey, who was the team's top receiver and second-leading rusher last season, wants $1.2 million.

"I don't know that I made any progress with Bobby," Jones said. "He didn't say at the end of the conversation what he intends to do. It was my sense we were not on the same page."

Jones said unless Humphrey signs by Monday, Miami's offer will be reduced again. "At some point he's not going to be useful to us."

He added that a season-ending knee injury to running back Aaron Craver won't affect the team's tough stance. "We left it at: 'Bobby, you'd better get in here.'"

In other training camp news:

Oilers
Houston's contract with rookie offensive tackle Brad Hopkins has been approved by the league. A four-year deal was agreed upon two weeks ago, but Hopkins was not allowed to practice until the league approved some incentive clauses in the pact. The 6-foot-3, 300-pound No. 1 pick reported to camp Tuesday morning.

Giants
Defensive end Eric Dorsey has a degenerative hip condition that is further clouding his status, trainer

Ronnie Barnes said. Dorsey, who had been sidelined since the beginning of training camp with an irritated back disc, has had the hip problem for the past two seasons but he has always played through it.

Bengals
Progress was reported in talks with first-round draft choice John Copeland.

"We spoke several times and made some significant progress today," agent Joel Segal said. "I was pessimistic before, but we're close. I'm feeling pretty good."

Coaches expect Copeland, a defensive end from Alabama, to move into the Bengals' starting lineup.

Meanwhile, negotiations with running back Harold Green, a Pro Bowl player last year, and wide receiver Reggie Rempert were reported to have stalled.

Aikman returns to workouts

AUSTIN (AP) - For the first time since his off-season back surgery, Super Bowl MVP quarterback Troy Aikman worked out in pads with the Dallas Cowboys.

"Troy gave our guys a spark," coach Jimmy Johnson said. "He was sharp, just like he's been for the last week or two of throwing without pads."

Aikman, far ahead of his recovery schedule after undergoing surgery for a herniated disc on June 19, took most of the snaps with the first unit in seven-on-seven drills.

He hopes to be ready for the season-opener against the Washington Redskins on Sept. 6 and is anxious, trusting to see action in the remaining preseason games.

Johnson is reluctant to expose his Pro Bowl quarterback to full-speed hits just yet. He hasn't decided when Aikman will appear in his first exhibition game, but it's not likely he will see action Saturday against the Los Angeles Raiders.

Baseball owners tackle Major League problems

KOHLER, WIS. (AP) -- A glance at the key topics and proposals to be discussed at the major-league owners meeting, which begins today and could last through Friday.

Participants: The 28 major-league owners, their representatives and lawyers.

Key Issue: Richard Ravitch, president of management's Player Relations Committee, will put a revenue-sharing plan on the table that will be tied to a salary cap, which the Major League Baseball Players Association is unlikely to agree to without a work stoppage at some point. Owners want the cap on salaries in exchange for designating a percentage of defined gross revenue for players. It would copy the NBA plan, which designates 53 percent of defined gross revenue for the players.

The higher the salary cap, the higher a percentage of local revenue will be needed.

Process: Approval requires 21 of the 28 clubs voting for the proposal, not even that is a simple matter, however. Those believed opposed to revenue sharing are the Yankees, the New York Mets, Los Angeles Dodgers, Toronto Blue Jays, Atlanta Braves and Chicago Cubs. Even if the plan passes, teams voting against it might sue to stop it.

Impact: Unclear. Owners voted last Dec. 9 to reopen provisions of the collective bargaining agreement relating to free agency, salary arbitration and the minimum salary of $109,000. If bargaining reaches an impasse after Jan. 1, they may impose new work rules, which almost certainly would trigger a strike. There haven't been any face-to-face negotiations since Jan. 25.

Problems: Donald Fehr, executive director of the Major League Baseball Players Association, talked last month of a possible walkout by the union in September, two months before owners receive about $250 million of postseason television income from CBS. However, by striking, the players would allow owners to impose new workrules before Dec. 31, jeopardizing free agency this fall.

Who Gets What Now: At the top, the Yankees have a $486 million, 12-year contract with the Madison Square Garden Network. At the bottom, the Minnesota Twins generate about $4 million a year in local broadcast income and the San Diego Padres say they net about $6 million a year.

Owners already committed about $530 million to approximately 200 players for next year, so a salary cap, if agreed to, would have to be phased in gradually.

Proposals: Fehr says a potential September strike could be averted if owners state in writing they will not conduct a lockout of spring training in 1994 and agree not to change the current system of free agency and salary arbitration through March, the 1993-94 signing period.

Speaking: "I don't know what will come out of their meeting. We've got a lot of questions with no answers. They've talked about a partnership with the players for a long time. We've yet to have any. We've asked to be involved and been refused any opportunity to underestimate the players." -- Donald Fehr.

Red Sox pitching shuts down Yankees' hitting

By The Associated Press

Good pitching stops good hitting. It's been a saying in baseball ever since they decided to place the bases 90 feet apart, and it was true again Tuesday night.

The Boston Red Sox, the team with the AL's best ERA, beat the New York Yankees, the team with the league's best batting average. Frank Viola and Joe Hesketh combined on a four-hitter in the 5-0 victory.

Boston lowered its ERA to 3.43, while the Yankees were shut out for the third time this season, dropping their average to .282 from .284.

"I'm sure the concerns I had about (Boston's pitching), they have about us as an offensive club," New York manager Buck Showalter said. "Pitching usually works out in favor in those situations."

It hadn't been that way all season for Viola (8-8), who was 0-6 in May and June. He allowed three hits over six innings as the Red Sox moved into sole possession of second place in the AL East, one game behind Toronto. Not bad for a team which was in fifth place, 13 games out, on June 21.

"You look forward to coming to the ballpark," Viola said. "Everything means something. Last year we were out of it in June. You needed to push yourself. This year, you don't need any pushing."

The Red Sox did some hitting of their own against Scott Kamienicki (7-4).

Boston scored a run in each of the first two innings, and Mo Vaughn made it 3-0 in the sixth with his 19th homer. One out later, Scott Cooper walked and John Valentin followed with his sixth homer.

The win was Boston's 11th straight at Fenway Park.

"This club has a good feeling about this place," manager Butch Hobson said.

New York doesn't seem to like the road. The Yankees are 8-17 in their last 25 road games and Kamienicki dropped to 1-4 away from Yankee Stadium.

Rangers 6, Angels 3
Nolan Ryan struggled in 99-degree heat but still earned the 323rd victory of his career.

Ryan (4-3) allowed three runs on five hits and struck out just three in six innings. He got all the support he needed from Julio Franco's first-inning grand slam off rookie Phil Leftwich (0-3).

Tom Henke got the last five outs for his 25th save.

Tigers 15, Orioles 1

Detroit went to the long ball to end Baltimore's eight-game winning streak. Chad Kreuter, Dan Gladden, Alan Trammell and Rob Deer all homered, and John Doherty (10-7) earned his first victory since July 18, allowing five hits over eight innings. Detroit led 5-0 when Gladden hit his second grand slam of the season in the fourth.

Ben McDonald (9-10) lasted only 3 2-3 innings in dropping to 1-7 on the road this season.

Blue Jays 6, Twins 3

Toronto had one big inning - a five-run fifth - to back Dave Stewart (7-6), who allowed five hits over eight innings.

Joe Carter, mired in a 5-for-46 slump, had a two-run double before John Olerud, Paul Molitor and Ed Sprague each drove in a run. Scott Erickson (6-14) gave up six runs and 11 hits over 4 2-3 innings.

Olerud had three hits to raise his average three points to .395.

White Sox 4, Athletics 0

Tim Belcher threw a two-hitter for his first AL victory and third shutout of the season. The only hits Belcher (1-1) allowed were singles by Brent Gates - one in the fourth, the other in the ninth.

The White Sox got Belcher July 30 in a trade with the Cincinnati Reds and this was his first appearance at Comiskey Park. Ellis Burks drove in three runs for the White Sox, two with a double in the sixth.

Brewers 5, Indians 4, 10 innings

Pinch-hitter Dickie Thon singled over a drawn-in outfield with the bases loaded in the 10th inning as the Brewers rallied for their third straight win.

The Indians, 0-6 in extra-inning games, took the lead in the top of the inning on Albert Belle's second homer of the game and 31st of the season. Milwaukee tied it 4-4 when catcher Sandy Alomar dropped a throw to the plate from first baseman Carl Martinez.

Royals 4, Mariners 1

Tom Gordon won for the sixth time in eight decisions, striking out a season-high eight. Gordon (7-3) allowed five hits over seven innings, and the only run was Ken Griffey Jr.'s 33rd homer of the season, a club record.

Mike Macfarlane homered for the second consecutive game for the Royals, who have won 127 consecutive games when leading after eight innings.

Mark Gubicza worked the last two innings for his second save.

Giants make Swift work of Reds

BY MICHAEL FLAM

Associated Press Writer

Bill Swift and Jose Rijo combined Tuesday afternoon to produce one hour and 59 minutes of the best pitching in the National League.

Looking at the statistics entering the game--Swift was ranked second in the NL in wins and third in ERA; Rijo was fourth in ERA and first in strikeouts--it seemed neither pitcher would allow many runs.

The projection held true as San Francisco eked out a 2-1 victory.

Swift (17-5) held the Reds to two hits and one walk and struck out six to tie teammate John Burkett for the National League lead in victories.

"As far as I'm concerned the best two pitchers in baseball went at it today," Reds manager Dave Johnson said.

Rijo (10-6) struck out five to increase his league-leading total to 163. And while he allowed only six hits and two runs in seven innings, it was his mental mistake that contributed to the loss.

With one out in the sixth inning, Robby Thompson hit a line drive to right field, where Reggie Sanders played it off the wall. Jeff Branson's relay throw to third was wide for an error, and with no one backing up Chris Sabo, Thompson scored easily.

Thompson hit his 10th homer in the fourth inning and Cincinnati's Kevin Mitchell hit his 17th in the seventh.

Padres 7, Astros 2

Andy Ashby (1-6) allowed two runs in eight innings for his first victory in almost 16 months and Phil Plantier hit his eighth home run in 12 games for host San Diego.

Ashby set a career high with nine strikeouts in his third start since being acquired July 27 from the Colorado Rockies.

Astros starter Doug Drabek (7-14) broke a tie with the New York Mets' Anthony Young for the most losses in the National League. He has gone 0-6 in his last seven starts and is still seeking his 100th NL victory.

Rockies 4, Dodgers 2

Darryl Boston hit a two-run homer in the first inning and rookie Roberto Mejia rebounded from a five-strikeout night by going 4-for-4 as visiting Colorado won its third straight.

Kent Bottenfield (4-8) earned his first complete game in 20 major league starts. It was only the seventh complete game all season by the Rockies.

Pedro Astacio (8-7) was charged with four runs on seven hits. He struck out three and walked three. The loss was his third in four decisions and the Dodgers' fourth straight.

Marlins 3, Cubs 2

Bob Natal tripled home Walt Weiss in the 15th inning and five Florida relievers allowed one hit over the last eight innings in Miami.

Weiss walked with two outs in the 15th, his third walk in extra innings. Natal followed with his first triple of the year down the right field line off Shawn Boskie (3-3). Luis Aquino (6-6) pitched two perfect innings.

Cardinals 4, Pirates 2

Brian Jordan and Mark Whiten homered on consecutive pitches off Joel Johnston (0-2) immediately after a 31-minute rain delay in the ninth inning as visiting St. Louis won despite hitting into a triple play.

Pittsburgh lost for the seventh time in its last eight home games.

Phillies 5, Expos 2

Curt Schilling (10-6) pitched a five-hitter in his sixth complete game of the season and Dave Hollins drove in three runs with two doubles for host Philadelphia.

Braves 3, Mets 2

Fred McGriff scored the winning run on Jeff McKnight's two-out error in the eighth inning as visiting Atlanta rallied against Eric Hillman (1-6).

Are you one of the 7 out of 8 who have not prepared a will?

When you die you must leave behind everything for which you have worked and saved. The question is, "TO WHOM?" If you have a will, you have already instructed the State, attorneys and judges to act according to YOUR wishes. But if you don't have a will, the State will simply distribute your estate according to law.

Without a Will you let the State determine the disposition of your assets, the welfare of your spouse and the guardianship of your children. Probate costs, taxes and fees increase. What's worse, you rob yourself of the privilege of continuing stewardship through designated gifts.

DON'T MAKE THE MISTAKE OF THINKING:

- only wealthy people need a will
- that drawing a will is too complicated
- or that it is too expensive.

UNT track coach carries on family tradition

By JOHN McFARLAND
Associated Press Writer
DENTON, Texas (AP) - Family tradition has always been important to University of North Texas track and cross-country coach Ken Garland.

That's why he jumped at the chance to coach at UNT in 1982, exactly 40 years after his uncle, Charles "Choc" Sportsman, left the same post to fight in World War II. Garland recently broke from pre-season preparations to discuss his uncle. He abruptly stopped discussing recruiting papers in his tiny, trophy cluttered office when asked if he thinks he'll eventually catch up with his 90-year-old uncle.

"Next to him," he said with a serious, almost grim expression on his face. "I haven't done anything." Keeping things in the family is nice, but Garland says there are some drawbacks.

The frequent comparisons to his uncle, who won nine conference track titles and six more in cross country during his 13-year stay at what was then North Texas State Teachers College, can be tiring.

And having his record compared to Sportsman's, which includes two straight NCAA college division championships at San Diego State in the '50s, doesn't always seem fair.

There's also that little matter of having an uncle who coached in the 1968 Mexico City Olympics.

"I don't even try to compete with him because there's just no way I could," said Garland, tearing through a pile of track magazines, yellowed newspapers and scouting reports.

Finally he finds a tattered certificate that probably went a few too many years without the protective frame that now surrounds it. It's an award from the 1938 Millrose Relays in New York City, proclaiming the North Texas team the winner of the distance medley relay and holder of a world record.

The record set that day by two sets of twins, Ernest and Delmer Brown and Wayne and Blaine Rideout, was just one of three world marks established by Sportsman-coached teams.

All have since been broken, but they helped put Sportsman in the North Texas Hall of Fame next to the likes of "Mean" Joe Greene and Carl "Spider" Lockhart.

"He really did put us on the map as far as track is concerned," Garland says, pointing out the five first-place plaques Sportsman's teams picked up at the Penn Relays from 1938 to 1941.

After putting the school on the map, Sportsman joined the Navy and later went on to San Diego State, where the track still bears his name.

Sportsman coached there from 1947 to 1966, leading the Aztecs to consecutive NCAA college division championships in 1956 and 1957.

"It used to be USC winning everything down there," said Sportsman, now retired and living on his small outlie ranch near Tyler.

"But we finally got to where we were beating them in a lot of events," Garland heard these and other Sportsman stories hundreds of times from dozens of relatives while growing up in McKinney. But Garland says it wasn't until the summer after he graduated from high school that he was really influenced by his uncle.

That was 1968, when Sportsman was hired to coach the Greek track and field team in Mexico City. When Sportsman went to Europe to train his new squad, Garland went along.

"It's a great experience to train with an Olympic team," Garland said. "But when the team's coached by your uncle who you've heard all these stories about ... it was unbelievable."

When the day's workouts were over, there was little for American athletes to do in Athens, except talk about track and field.

"We could either listen to Middle Eastern music or go to an officers' club, so we stayed up late talking about track," said Garland, then a high school graduate hoping to sprint his way to fame.

But those late-night discussions, which Garland recorded on a worn legal pad, made him realize what he wanted to do with his life, he said.

"Spending that time with Uncle Choc made me realize that I really wanted to coach," he said. "I really matured under Choc."

Any doubts about his career choice were erased during the opening ceremonies of the Mexico City games.

"I'll tell you, when your uncle is one of the first to walk onto the field at the Olympics, it really affects you," Garland said.

Garland, 46, hasn't done too badly. Each year, his men's cross country teams are considered the team to beat in the Southland Conference. They have won five of the last six SLC championships.

His women's teams won one SLC crown during Garland's 11 years as the Eagles coach.

Although Garland's coaching career will always be overshadowed by his uncle's, there are also some benefits.

Like when Choc, who doesn't say much, doles out a compliment.

"Ken's a good coach," Sportsman said proudly. "He's done a real good job up there."

NFL

Buccaneers

Running back Reggie Cobb, sidelined for two weeks with a hamstring pull, could return to practice today and may play against the Atlanta Falcons this weekend. Cobb rushed for 1,171 yard last season.

Steelers

Linebacker Levon Kirkland was cleared to resume practicing after X-rays taken on his left wrist were negative. Kirkland has moved past David Little into a starting spot at inside linebacker. He broke the wrist last year and reinjured it Monday in practice.

Broncos

Coach Wade Phillips hasn't settled on his place-kicking rotation. Brad Daluiso and rookie Jason Elam handled the duties last week, with incumbent David Treadwell sitting out. The Broncos expect to trade at least one of the trio.

"I think it's certainly a possibility," Phillips said. "We've got three guys who can kick in this league. Some teams don't have one."

Cardinals

Phoenix expects rookie offensive linemen Ernest Dye and Ben Coleman to start in the season-opener at Philadelphia.

"We drafted those kids to play. They have to pass the test for that Philadelphia game. The only way they can do it is they have to play every single down," coach Joe Bugel said.

Rams

Starting cornerback Darryl Henley sat out his second straight day of practice with a sprained rotator cuff in his right shoulder, while wide receiver Todd Kinchen showed satisfactory progress from off-season knee surgery, coach Chuck Knox said.

Women first competed in the Summer Olympics in 1900 when 11 females took part.

The Olympics were canceled in 1916 because of World War I and in 1944 because of World War II.

Bride-elect honored

A bridal shower was held for Heather Hunsaker Aug. 7 in the home of Sheri Kerr. The honoree and Toby Hill plan to be united in marriage Aug. 28. Welcoming guests were, from left, Jeanie Hunsaker, the honoree's mother; Miss Hunsaker; JoAnn Hill, the prospective bridegroom's mother; and J.J. Hill, the prospective bridegroom's sister.

Heather Hunsaker feted with shower Saturday

Heather Hunsaker, Aug. 28 bride-elect of Toby Hill, was honored with a bridal shower Saturday morning in the home of Sheri Kerr, 317 Centre.

Greeting guests with the honoree were her mother, Jeanie Hunsaker; the prospective bridegroom's mother, JoAnn Hill; his sister, J.J. Hill; and his grandmothers, Temple Hill and Louise Ferguson.

J.J. Hill and Sam Bryant served refreshments of miniature quiche, miniature muffins, fresh fruit, cream cheese rolls, coffee and punch. The table was covered with an ecru linen cloth accented with hand-appliqued flowers and was centered with a fresh arrangement of deep pink and fuchsia flowers. Crystal and silver appointments were also used.

The honoree was presented with a vacuum cleaner and a piece of luggage from the hostesses: Sheri Kerr, Jean Petty, Oleta Tisdale, Pam Stephens, Judy Nicholson, Joan Bookout, Nancy Hollingsworth, Carolyn Maupin, Sue Malamen, Barbara Hardin, Carol Gage, Deborah Foxhoven, Barbara Manning, LaJean Henry, Sue Smith, Melody Seiver and Jane Coplen.

Hints from Heloise

Dear Heloise: I travel for business, often for weeks at a time. If at all possible, I limit myself to one carry-on bag that I can handle myself.

Instead of using precious weight and space for a travel iron, I bring an empty travel-size pump spray bottle, such as the type used for hair spray. When unpacking at my destination, I fill the bottle with warm water and lightly spritz my clothes as I hang them.

I have used this on all types of fabric, but I suggest testing those that might spot, such as silk or rayon, in an inconspicuous place before spraying the entire garment. — Susan Adamchak, Manhattan, Kan.

Good advice. Also, hanging them in the bathroom while you are taking a hot, steamy shower helps. — Heloise

It takes more than blind luck to pin down the right home.

Sure, you could go on stumbling through the housing market. Running into dead ends and getting cornered with too little information. Or you could nail down that new home the easy way. By consulting an experienced real estate agent. An agent can point out options you may have missed. Get you inside interesting homes that you may never have seen otherwise. Even do a lot of the groundwork, so you don't have to. Like researching financing packages. Checking through the multiple-listing service for homes that fit your needs -- and your pocketbook. Negotiating with the seller. And arranging for inspections. He or she will even be there at closing. So instead of forging ahead without knowing what's out there, get some help from an expert. A real estate agent. Inside The Hereford Brand, you'll find both qualified agents and valuable information about home buying. Everyday, the real estate classifieds list many properties and agents. And The Brand's Sunday housing section examine the latest market trends and housing opportunities. With the right guide, hitting your mark can be child's play.

Find mutual fund for you

Investing in stocks and bonds can be intimidating. Most of us don't have the time or expertise to manage our money effectively. That's why mutual funds have become so popular. Many people let mutual funds do the work for them. But, while mutual funds offer diversification and professional management, not all of them are appropriate for you. You still need to do your homework before you invest.

First, match your objectives with a fund's objectives. Are they conservative, aggressive or somewhere in between?

Next comes performance. Be careful here: past performance shows just that - how a fund performed in the past. There is no guarantee it will repeat that performance.

What seems to be an outstanding track record may be the result of one or two unusually good years that may not happen again. Even the most poorly managed funds occasionally show competitive results. And don't be tempted to just consider yield - the recently generated income of the fund. Consider instead the long-term total returns.

Maintain this long-term view after you've made the investment. Even top-performing funds have bad years. Don't necessarily overreact and redeem your shares if your mutual fund is experiencing an off year. This could result in both a loss in the value of your assets and missed opportunity.

If risk is your prime concern, look for a fund managed to provide a competitive investment return with below average risk.

Whether you pick a low-risk or high-risk investment, begin a systematic evaluation process. Every six months, take a close look at your fund's one and five-year risk-adjusted total return. It is reasonable to expect that your fund's performance be at least average when compared to funds with similar objectives. If your fund turns in a below-average, risk-adjusted performance for a long period of time, it may be a good idea to consider changing funds.

There are many sources available to help you evaluate and choose a fund. Make sure though that you understand how the sources you use rank or evaluate the funds. Do they include the impact of sales charges on the investor's return or adjust the ranking evaluation for risk? For example, if you're a conservative investor, avoiding risk (or fluctuations in the price of a fund's shares) is an important consideration and many fund evaluations are not adjusted for risk.

When, after careful consideration, you have found a fund that meets your investment objectives, level of risk, and has a proven history of performance, you should feel confident that the fund is right for you.

If you are over 50 and would like more information on what to look at when investing in mutual funds, call 1-800-322-2282, ext. 4927, and ask for the free brochure, "Understanding Mutual Funds" from the AARP Investment Program from Scudder, Scudder Investor Services, Inc. Distributor. Underwriter of 7 AARP funds.

Ice cream social set

Members of the Hereford Good Sams Chapter will meet at 6 p.m. Thursday for an ice cream social.

The event will be held at the Clyde Russell farm site located one mile north on Hwy. 385, turn east and go one half mile.

ADOPT A LOT

The Hereford Beautification Alliance seeks businesses, clubs or church groups, families or any group to volunteer for the organization's "Adopt a Vacant Lot" program.

This would entail keeping the lot free of litter and weeds. To volunteer and be assigned a lot, call Louise Leasure (364-6402) or Jan Furr at the HBA office (364-7109) or at home, 364-3514.

NEW YORK (AP) - Rappers who want to remake Beatles songs appealed for some "Help" from Michael Jackson, who owns the rights to the music.

Several little-known rappers recruited for the record held a news conference Thursday.

"Come together without to make this happen. Give peace a chance," said producer Jay Bildstein, who has filed a lawsuit to get access to the music.

Bildstein claims Jackson approved a plan to have rap stars Run-DMC and Public Enemy do versions of "Help" and "Lady Madonna."

Jackson changed his mind after checking with Paul McCartney and John Lennon's widow, Yoko Ono, his spokeswoman said last month.

Bildstein is still pushing for the project with lesser-known artists.

Jackson's attorneys did not return a call Thursday.

The project is aimed at raising money to create housing for the needy.

Stepping into fall

Hereford merchants are ready for the fall season with all the latest fashions. The 1993 styles will be showcased during the Women's Division's style show, "Fall in Hereford Means Business," set from noon until 1 p.m. Thursday at the Hereford Country Club. Tickets are priced at $8 per person and may be purchased from participating merchants and from the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce office. Reservations are not necessary. Modeling hot, new fashions from Little's are, from left, DeDe Washington who is wearing a classic tapestry print vest and street shorts with a gold ruffle front shirt designed by Hill Country and Linda Arellano who is modeling a hardknit novelty red cardigan sweater with block corduroy walking shorts by Northern Isles.

GRANTS PASS, Ore. (AP) - The filming of Meryl Streep's new movie "The River Wild" on a protected stretch of river violates Oregon regulations, environmentalists say.

The Oregon Natural Resources Council and the Pacific Rivers Council said Thursday they plan to contest the film permits granted by the state.

Jim Middaugh, spokesman for the Oregon Natural Resources Council, said Universal Pictures plans to bring in 120 workers, build sets and use boats and low-flying helicopters, which could disturb the environment.

Eye care encouraged for weekend athletes

Imagine a racquetball or handball coming at your eye at 60 to 125 mph. A tennis ball traveling in your direction at 50 to 85 mph. There is no question that physical protection is especially important in games which involve fast moving objects and a high level of contact. Baseball, basketball, squash, racquetball, paddleball, football, tennis, soccer, hockey, boxing and volleyball are among the riskiest of all sports when it comes to the eye.

The National Society to Prevent Blindness estimates that 100,000 sports-related eye injuries occur each year. Surprisingly, it is estimated that 90 percent of these injuries could be prevented simply by using protective eyewear.

According to Dr. Kenneth Marton, sports vision specialist, "Protecting the eyes is as important to athletic success as maintaining optimum visual acuity. Proper eye safety includes physical protection of the eye, as well as protection from adverse environmental elements such as glare and ultraviolet rays."

"We know that 50 percent of the American population require vision correction," noted Marton. "Many wear their glasses on the court, which may actually lead to unnecessary injury. Basic physical protection is best provided by a shatter-resistant sports goggle or sports spectacle frame held firmly on the head with a strap. Everyday eyeglasses are not designed to sustain the rough handling of an athlete in action and do not provide the necessary protection. In fact, they place the athlete at serious risk for frame-related eye injuries," Morton added.

Contact lenses are the vision correction option of choice for athletes. They not only enhance certain visual skills that can improve sports performance such as peripheral vision and depth perception, but they serve as protection. Contacts can act as a shield to potential abrasions or lacerations. Because they are directly on the eye, contacts lessen the chance of trauma to the cornea and act as a protective buffer.

According to Dr. Marton, "Frequent lens replacement maintains the best vision clarity and eye health - all important to maximize performance." Now is a good time for sports minded consumers to try contact lenses.
