

Winter storm sweeps across Panhandle

Roads hazardous

By The Associated Press
Bone chilling cold temperatures swept across the Texas Panhandle today as a winter storm swirled into the state from New Mexico, prompting the National Weather Service to issue warnings and watches for winter weather across much of the northern portion of the state.

Snow was falling in Amarillo where the temperature dropped to 17 and the wind chill index was at 18 below zero. Amarillo recorded 3 inches of snow between midnight and 5 a.m.

And thunderstorms were reported over middle and upper sections of the Texas coast because of a low pressure system in the Gulf of Mexico and there was light rain and drizzle reported between the two weather systems.

A winter storm warning was in effect for the Panhandle, a travelers advisory was in effect for the South Plains, Permian Basin, Concho Valley and southwest mountains, a winter storms was in effect for the South Plains and a winter storm watch was in effect for tonight and Saturday in northwestern portions of North Texas.

Other wind chill index readings around West Texas early today included 3 at Lubbock, 10 at Wichita Falls, 17 at Midland and 21 at Abilene.

The colder temperatures, freezing rain and possibly snow are expected to move south later today, prompting the National Weather Service to issue winter storm watches for the northwest part of North Texas and the South Plains for tonight.

Forecasts called for snow in the Panhandle and South Plains today. There was a chance of freezing rain or drizzle over northwest sections of North Texas, the Permian Basin, Concho Valley and southwest mountains. Rain or drizzle was forecast for the rest of the state.

Lows tonight will be near 10 in the Panhandle to the 20s and 30s over the rest of West Texas, the 20s and 30s over North Texas and in the 30s and 40s over most of South Texas, ranging upward to the lower 50s in extreme South Texas.

Highs Saturday will be in the mid teens in the Panhandle and the 20s and 30s over the rest of West Texas, the 30s and 40s over most of North Texas and the 40s and 50s over all of South Texas except in the Hill Country where readings will be in the 30s.

Early morning temperatures were in the teens in the Panhandle and mountains of Southwest Texas, in the 20s over the South Plains, the 30s and 40s over North Texas and in the 50s in South Texas. Extremes ranged from 17 at Amarillo to 60 at Brownsville.

Other early morning temperatures around the state included 34 at Wichita Falls, 42 at Fort Worth, 46 at Waco, 48 at Austin, 49 at San Antonio, 59 at Corpus Christi, 55 at Houston, 37 at San Angelo, 28 at Lubbock, 32 at Midland and 33 at El Paso.

Safe From Snow

Windbreak trees protect an already weathered shed from being overloaded with snow which fell last night in the county. KPAN Radio in Hereford reported 2 inches of snow which held .16 of an inch of moisture.

Girlstown merges with Boys Ranch

Cal Farley's Boys Ranch will assume control and operation of all Girlstown campuses as soon as all licensing matters are tended, according to a joint announcement today by Boys Ranch president Roy Turner and Charles King, president of Girlstown.

The Girlstown board had asked the Boys Ranch board to consider the assumption of facilities for girls due to sagging finances.

Both agencies will continue as separate operations.

"We feel that this is a wonderful opportunity to apply Cal Farley's philosophy of raising children to girls as well as boys," Turner said.

Marshall Cooper, executive of Girlstown for 23 years, said his agency has followed many of the same ideas and concepts of Boys Ranch since 1949. "I see this as a means of providing the best for our girls and they can have the same opportunities as the boys at the ranch," he said.

Hereford has youth at each facility and three local men serve on the boards. Robert Veigel is on the Boys Ranch board and Nolan Grady and Dr. Milton Adams serves on the Girlstown board.

All campuses of Girlstown - Whiteface, Borger, Austin and Lubbock - will remain the housing centers for the girls. Currently, 65 girls are on the campuses. Full capacity is 150. Boys Ranch is near capacity at 400.

No figures are available on what it would cost to keep Girlstown open until an audit is completed, Boys Ranch spokesman Carl McMillan told The Brand. Each girl, however, costs about $23,000 per year to be cared for.

Chamber installs new officers

By O.G. NIEMAN
Editor-Publisher

Telling directors he would do his best "to help you make this a successful year", Mike Bowles was formally installed as the 1987 president of Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce Thursday night.

Bowles, past president of the Texas Cattle Feeders Association, accepted the president's gavel from Bill Harris, outgoing president, at the C of C installation dinner held at Hereford Country Club. Other new officers are B.J. Gilliland, vice president, and Fred Rivera, treasurer.

Carol Sue LeGate and Larry Mallamen were installed as new directors for three-year terms. New directors Ike Stevens and David Emerick were unable to attend. Mike Carr, executive vice president, installed the new officers.

County Judge Tom Simons was keynote speaker for the dinner and called on the directors to use teamwork and enthusiasm in helping make Hereford a better place to live. He compared the board's goals to that of the 1986 Whiteface football team.

"They overcame some problems by concentrating on getting the job done, without regard to who got the credit or to those who said it couldn't be done, and they accomplished their goals," Simons explained. "I have no doubt those on the chamber board can adopt the same attitude and have a great year."

Simons pointed out that Hereford has some problems, like every other town. "It's no time to throw up our hands and head for the hills. It's a time to set some goals and work together for a better community tomorrow," he concluded.

Bowles, on accepting the president's gavel, told directors, "I am very honored to be your president, and I will do my best to aid the board as we move forward with the work of the chamber in 1987."

Harris expressed his appreciation to directors for the past year's efforts. He said the chamber committees were an important part of the program, and he cited the Sesquicentennial committee, the membership and retail business committees for great jobs during the past year.

The 1987 board is composed of Bowles, Gilliland, Rivera, Harris, Terry Bromlow, Doug Manning, Lajean Henry, Allen Parson, LeGate, Malamen, Emerick, Stevens, and Women's Division president Betty Taylor. Outgoing directors were Rex Easterwood, James Arney, John Hays and Joe Reinauer Jr.

Passing Of The Gavel

Bill Harris, left, presented the president's gavel to Mike Bowles Thursday night at the installation dinner for officers and directors of Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce. Other officers installed were B.J. Gilliland, vice president, and Fred Rivera, treasurer.

Lewis says new taxes likely

AUSTIN (AP) — House Speaker Gib Lewis says Texans probably will be paying new taxes when the Legislature winds up its session this year.

Asked directly if he expects that this session, which faces a near $6 billion budget deficit, would be forced to raise taxes, Lewis on Thursday replied with what he called "a qualified yes."

"It's going to be very difficult to get out of this session without some type of revenue formula," Lewis said. In Texas, all tax bills must originate in the House of Representatives. However, the speaker said he doesn't yet know what type of tax increase might be approved.

Last summer, the Legislature met in special session and approved temporary sales and gasoline tax hikes that pushed the state sales tax rate to 5 1/2 percent and the motor fuel tax to 15 cents a gallon.

Those temporary levies were set to expire Aug. 31, but Lewis said they might be extended. Or some other type of tax overhaul may be enacted to raise money for essential state services, he said.

"No one likes taxes, and certainly I don't," the Fort Worth Democrat insisted.

But Lewis said lawmakers would have to have additional revenues in order to maintain current state services and improve the state prison system, which is under a federal court mandate for reform.

"I don't see any way we can get out of this session without some type of taxes. Be it extension of the tax bill that was passed in the special session or some newer, broader tax or whatever it might be," he said.

Lewis said he remains strongly opposed to either a personal or corporate income tax and doubts that the Legislature would approve either.

Lewis' comments came during a news conference at which he unveiled the results of a task force study of ways to revitalize and diversify the ailing Texas economy.

One key recommendation of the panel was to form a new commission to study the state's basic tax structure, which many officials believe leans too heavily on oil and gas while new, prospering service industries escape taxation.

The panel also is recommending creation of a state department of commerce and an omnibus economic development agency to help lure new, non-petroleum industries to Texas.

Voters to consider gambling proposal

GALVESTON, Texas (AP) — Voters will go to the polls Saturday to decide whether casino gambling should be legalized in this Gulf Coast resort city where illegal betting clubs once ran wide open.

A Galveston Daily News poll published this week showed the measure being favored slightly.

"All this is just chit-chat till election day and then we'll see," said Harris L. "Shrub" Kempner, an investment adviser who is vice chairman of the Galvestonians Against Casino Gambling. "But I really can't predict the future."

The newspaper, in an editorial published on Sunday, came out against the proposal.

"We would love to have the jobs and economic benefits gambling might bring," Managing Editor Richard Fogaley wrote. "But we don't feel we can afford to sell the city to the gambling forces. The price is too high. If gambling becomes a part of Galveston life, all other aspects will be forgotten."

Both backers and opponents say the campaign is going well and both are predicting victory when the ballots are counted in the non-binding referendum Saturday night. Both sides say they'll be helped by a large turnout from Galveston's 30,000 registered voters.

Senator Gramm addresses legislature

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas' junior U.S. senator says he will use his political clout to bring the nation's first defense research laboratory to the University of Texas at Austin, which already holds a major federal grant to work on "Star Wars."

Sen. Phil Gramm also predicted that an energy study by the Reagan administration would conclude that it's in the nation's best interest to encourage production of Texas oil.

In a speech to the Legislature on Thursday, the Republican senator said:

"While we have been leaders in virtually every other area of national defense, while Texans have defended the flag around the world, while we have been blessed with military facilities that have brought jobs and given us a leadership role in keeping Ivan back from the gate and keeping the world free, we have not played the leadership role in doing defense research, in developing modern technology that we had a right to claim.

"And I want to assure you that I'm going to work to see that changed."

"As ranking member of the new Defense Industry and Research and Development Subcommittee of the Armed Services Committee, I intend to bring the first defense research laboratory to Texas here at the University of Texas at Austin," Gramm said.

Commerce Dept. lifts Soviet ban

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration will lift the ban on sales of oil and gas drilling equipment to the Soviet Union, Commerce Secretary Malcolm Baldrige said.

A lift on the unilateral 9-year-old ban had been urged for years by Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, and more recently by Sen. Phil Gramm, R-Texas. Both argued that it was ineffective because the banned equipment can be purchased by the Soviets from dozens of other sources.

On Thursday, Baldrige said he agreed.

Gramm said an informal decision to lift the controls took place at an inter-agency conference Thursday morning attended by representatives from Commerce, State, Defense and Energy departments.

The administration must decide by next Tuesday — when the controls would lapse — whether to renew the ban on petroleum technology exports to the Soviets.

The USSR is the largest petroleum equipment market outside the U.S.

American firms had controlled about 35 percent of the market prior to the ban, Bentsen said. Since its imposition in 1978, the U.S. share shrunk to .04 percent, with the difference going to Italian and Japanese firms.

"We cannot hope to be a major trading nation if we unilaterally restrict trade and leave our allies free to take advantage of a major market without U.S. competition," Bentsen wrote in a letter to Baldrige last month.

Contra aid issue in selection

WASHINGTON (AP) — Reps. Les Aspin and Marvin Leath, two of the four Democrats competing to become chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, say they may change their previous positions and vote against further U.S. military aid to the Nicaraguan Contras.

All four candidates said Thursday they are unsure who will win the Jan. 23 vote. Aspin, D-Wis., is trying to win back the position he lost last week when he was voted out as chairman by House Democrats.

Leath, D-Texas, is considered Aspin's chief challenger, although two other Democrats on the Armed Services panel are also candidates. They are Reps. Nicholas Mavroules of Massachusetts and Charles Bennett of Florida.

All four said they are trying hard to line up support for the vote, which will be by secret ballot during a closed-door meeting of the 258 House Democrats. The party picks the chairman because it controls a majority in the 435-member chamber. Republicans will not vote in the election.

After last week's vote, Democrats said Aspin was rejected chiefly because party liberals had thought he would support them in opposing aid to the Contras along with more money for the MX nuclear missile, two controversial programs strongly supported by the Reagan administration. Aspin voted for both programs.

Hu resigns as party leader

PEKING (AP) — Communist Party chief Hu Yaobang resigned today after acknowledging he made mistakes on major issues of party principle, and the party leadership elected Premier Zhao Ziyang to replace him, the official news media reported.

An enlarged session of the party Politburo, China's top decision-making body, accepted Hu's resignation and unanimously selected Zhao as the new party secretary-general, the official Xinhua News Agency said.

It said the decisions on Hu and Zhao would be submitted to the next plenary session of the Central Committee for confirmation.

Politburo members "gave Comrade Hu Yaobang a serious and comradely criticism and at the same time acknowledged his achievements," Xinhua said.

The announcement of the leadership change in the 44-million-member party also was carried by China's national television.

Xinhua said Hu, 71, will remain a member of the Politburo and the Politburo Standing Committee.

Rumors had been circulating in Peking for days that Hu was about to be ousted. Sources said Hu was criticized by top leader Deng Xiaoping for his handling of recent student protests and pro-Western intellectuals now being assailed by the party.

Of Diamond Shamrock

Mesa confident of buyout

DALLAS (AP) — The president of Mesa Petroleum Co. says he is confident Diamond Shamrock shareholders will sell their common stock to a partnership headed by corporate takeover tycoon T. Boone Pickens Jr.

If David Batchelder's prediction comes true, it will happen despite the wishes of the Diamond Shamrock board of directors. The board Thursday unanimously rejected the partnership's $15 per share partial tender offer.

It was the second time the Dallas-based petroleum company has turned down a Pickens takeover bid.

Diamond Shamrock said in a statement that the latest offer was "even more inadequate" than Pickens' $2 billion stock trade offer that was rejected last month.

But Batchelder, president of Pickens' Mesa Petroleum Co., predicted that Diamond Shamrock shareholders will ignore the board of directors and sell their stock.

The partnership headed by Pickens, a Texas oilman who also heads Mesa Limited, and Birmingham, Ala., construction magnate John M. Harbert, offered to buy 20 million shares.

"It's just a continuation of their standard operating procedure," said Batchelder. "We believe absent a superior offer, many more shares will be tendered than than the 20 million we're offering to purchase. They'll offer because they haven't had the ability to realize $15."

Mesa owns 5 million shares of Diamond Shamrock, or about 4.5 percent of the common stock.

Last month, Pickens' Mesa Limited Partnership offered to swap one Mesa unit for one Diamond Shamrock share. The Mesa units were then trading at about $17 a share.

"Now, in the face of rising oil prices, Mesa is offering only $15 per share for only 18 percent of the common shares," the Diamond Shamrock statement said. The state-

Texas prisons full doors may close

HOUSTON (AP) — Sheriffs around Texas today nervously waited to learn if state prisons would refuse to accept new inmates to avoid exceeding a population limit set by a federal judge.

One sheriff already has threatened to continue sending inmates even if the prisons close.

"I'll handcuff them to the inside of the fence," Bexar County Sheriff Harlon Copeland of San Antonio said.

Texas has the nation's second-largest prison system. As of Thursday, there were 38,469 inmates throughout 25 prison units, said Carl Jeffries, assistant director for treatment and classification in the Texas Department of Corrections.

That number, if calculations were accurate, would mean the TDC surpassed the limit imposed by U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice to settle an inmate lawsuit against overcrowding and other prison conditions.

A 1983 state law passed to meet the judge's standards set 95 percent of capacity as the population limit. The irony of the TDC having beds available even if the agency exceeds the 95 percent ceiling was not lost on Harris County Sheriff Johnny Klevenhagen, one of several officials who also face violating their own court-ordered population limits.

"How can they have the luxury of having 2,000 open beds, but then have them sleeping on the floor in the county jail?" Klevenhagen asked Thursday night.

"We certainly appreciate their problem," said Jeffries.

Jeffries said TDC officials would closely monitor the numbers today.

However, all of Friday's new prisoners should be accepted by late today and the closing would affect those scheduled to arrive Monday, he said.

County jails "will just have to maintain the prisoners awhile longer," Jeffries said.

He said prisons would be reopened when the population count dips below the cap. No incoming convicts are sent during the weekend, he said.

Klevenhagen complained the TDC's refusal to accept his prisoners would grossly overcrowd his jail and force him to violate a 1974 consent judgment by U.S. District Carl O. Bue not to exceed the capacity of 4,322.

Dallas County Sheriff James Bowles said a TDC shutdown would force him to close his jail down until alternatives could be found. He said his population runs between 3,000 and 3,100 and the jail has 2,900 beds.

"We just manage to skirt the edge of a crisis," he said.

In 1982, the TDC closed its doors for a week because of overcrowding.

Angry Harris County judges tried to force TDC's hand by sending nearly 70 prisoners to Huntsville for incarceration but they were turned back.

Then-Gov. Bill Clements, who returned to office to succeed Gov. Mark White on Tuesday, ordered the TDC to resume accepting prisoners.

The prison system had an increase of 157 prisoners after 249 inmates arrived on Thursday and 92 were released, Jeffries said. If all the TDC calculations are accurate, the prison population exceeded the limit by 93 inmates. TDC officials would continue to study the numbers today, he said.

Before the statistics were calculated, the prison system was just 64 inmates shy of reaching a court-ordered ceiling of 95 percent capacity, or 38,376 inmates, TDC spokesman Charles Brown said.

Justice already has issued a contempt order against the TDC, saying the agency has failed to live up to agreements made in 1980 to improve inmates' living conditions and staffing in the prisons.

The judge gave the prison system until March 31 to meet the standards or risk fines of up to $800,500 a day.

TDC Board members voted Monday to appeal Justice's contempt order to the U.S. 5th Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans.

Battle of ages

NEW YORK (AP) — Will the young in years to come battle their elders for a greater share of the economy's benefits?

The possibility has become one of the more intriguing research subjects of insurers, economists, politicians and others whose destiny is involved with the answer.

So far, and despite data shoveled into their electronic computers, the answer has eluded them. Nobody is certain even that the hypotheses is valid. Some scholars call it a joke.

In its barest form, it presumes that younger generations will rebel against paying for what might be considered the financial sins of their parents, and somehow seek to renounce their legacy.

The concern has arisen again and again in discussions of Social Security's future, and you may be certain it will continue to be involved in future discussions, simply because the best minds can't seem to agree.

Soil conservation topic of program

Pat Reiley from the Soil Conservation Office gave an informative program to members of Pioneer Study Club when they met recently at Something Special for their regular luncheon. Hostesses were Willie Wimberly and Bessie Hill.

Reiley, who was introduced by Leatrus Clark, gave a slide presentation on soil. The pictures touched on different kinds of soil, plant life, wildlife and the conservation of each. He then discussed the relatively new conservation reserve program being sponsored by the United States Government whereby the farmer is paid to set aside a certain number of acres of his land to plant grass in an effort to restore the top soil lost through erosion and wind.

Reiley stated that the overall purpose of soil conservation was to help farmers protect their soil.

The speaker recently moved to Hereford from Eden where he had worked for seven years with the Soil Conservation Office in that county.

The Pledge of Allegiance to the United States Flag was led by Gladys Miller, and Hazel Ford led the salute to the Texas flag.

President Mary Panciera presided over a brief business session when federation reports were collected from the members for 1986.

Wimberly gave a federation report.

Etoile Manning told of her trip to Taiwan taken several years ago to see her two sons who were stationed there. Another highlight of her trip was the visit to the Buddha and the religious shrine.

It was announced that Bea Hutson and Lucy Fay Coconaugh will serve as hostesses for the next meeting Feb. 10 when Eunice Petersen will give a program on "Art Glazing With Opaque and Transparent Color."

The meeting was adjourned with members repeating the club motto.

Those present included Wimberly, Hill, Miller, Ford, Clark, Panciera, Manning, Coconaugh, Fern Sigle, Helen Bishop and Fern Ford.

Public invited to hear Houston speaker

The public is invited to hear Art Nersasian speak at the Hereford Full Gospel Business Men's Fellowship dinner-meeting Saturday evening in the Hereford Community Center.

A dinner, catered by the Caisson House Restaurant, will begin at 7 p.m. with the meeting to start at 7:45 p.m. Tickets, which are priced at $4.50 per person for the meal, may be purchased at the door.

Nersasian spent over 20 years in the trucking business plus several years in a franchise business. During this time, he was active in the FGBMFI meetings, serving many years as the master of ceremonies both in Los Angeles and then in Orange County.

He was an international director of FGBMFI for 12 years, following a successful business career, joined the international office as administrator and later as the personal assistant to the president, Demos Shakarian. In this position, Nersasian traveled extensively in the United States, Canada and Europe.

He now resides in the Houston area where he is heading up the ministry and outreach in South Texas, South and Central America and Caribbean Islands.

HHS sophomores blast Dumas, 78-38

Six Hereford High School sophomore basketball players scored at least seven points each to lead their team to a 78-38 victory over the Dumas Demon sophomores Thursday night in Hereford.

The win evened the HHS sophomore boys' season record at 6-6. The team's next game will be on Thursday, Jan. 22, at home against Plainview at 6 p.m.

Hereford nearly outscored Dumas' entire game total in the first quarter. The HHS sophomores poured in 30 first quarter points compared to seven by Dumas.

Hereford held a 42-14 halftime lead enroute to the 78-38 victory.

Todd Schroeder led Hereford with 13 points. Keith Brown and Roger McCracken were also in double figures, each totaling 10 points.

Other Hereford scorers included Jason Scott with eight points, and Kyle Andrews and Darren Nikkel each with seven points.

Rockets get past Bulls, 107-96

CHICAGO (AP) — Houston Rockets Coach Bill Fitch says he feels like a man "stretched out on a limb, a very thin limb."

Faced with the loss of key players Lewis Lloyd and Mitchell Wiggins for the next two years because of drug problems, the Rockets responded Thursday night with a 107-96 triumph over the Chicago Bulls.

"It was just seven games ago that we had everybody healthy for the first time since training camp, and whammo, we get hit with a double dose by the NBA commissioner (David Stern)," Fitch said.

"Now that we've won seven of our last eight and four in a row, the players feel they can rise to the occasion, just like we did last season in reaching the finals of the NBA playoffs," Fitch said.

Fitch said two baseline shots made by Robert Reid late in the game were the key to Houston's victory in the first road game of a five-city swing.

Reid led the Rockets with 26 points. Akeem Olajuwon had eight clutch points and five rebounds in the last 4:31 of the final quarter.

Reid said the loss of Lloyd and Wiggins has put him on the spot.

"I feel I'm under constant scrutiny, and that I have to score those missing points, but, hey, all I can do is play my game," he said.

The Bulls' Michael Jordan, who hit a game-high 43 points, said Olajuwon "broke our backs" in the fourth quarter.

The Bulls trailed 57-48 at the half. Jordan scored 13 third-quarter points and 11 in the final quarter to help close the deficit to 94-88 with 4:46 left.

Olajuwon scored after grabbing a key offensive rebound, then hit a seemingly impossible over-the-shoulder hook that finally rolled in.

He added two free throws against the Bulls' one, then hit two free throws with 1:42 remaining to give Houston an insurmountable 103-94 edge.

In other NBA action Thursday, it was the Los Angeles Lakers 129, Golden State 109; Atlanta 130, Milwaukee 91; Indiana 113, Washington 105; Phoenix 123, Utah 107; and Sacramento 120, Portland 118.

Lakers 129, Warriors 109

James Worthy and Earvin "Magic" Johnson scored 31 points apiece, but Los Angeles Coach Pat Riley talked about the Lakers' defense.

The Lakers took a 106-95 lead in the fourth quarter after Byron Scott, who finished with 26 points, scored the Lakers' first seven points in a 9-2 run. And although the Warriors scored the next six points to cut the margin to 106-101 with 8:03 left in the game, Golden State could get no closer.

The Lakers' defense blocked 13 shots, forced 19 turnovers and pulled down 36 of a possible 49 defensive rebounds.

Kings 120, Trail Blazers 118

Forward Eddie Johnson hit a three-point jumper from the right corner with three seconds left to boost Sacramento over visiting Portland.

The victory snapped a four-game Sacramento losing streak. The Kings have lost 18 of their last 23 games.

Hawks 130, Bucks 91

Glenn Rivers sank a 76-foot shot at the halftime buzzer as everything worked for Atlanta in its victory over Milwaukee.

Dominique Wilkins scored 32 points to lead the Hawks as Milwaukee never threatened after a 9-1 Atlanta run snapped a 4-4 tie.

The Hawks ran off streaks of six and seven points in the third quarter, building a 94-69 lead late in the period.

Kevin Willis finished with 28 points and Mike McGee added 23.

Pacers 113, Bulls 105

Rookie Chuck Person scored 29 points, reaching double figures for the 14th consecutive game, as Indiana stopped Washington in Indianapolis.

The victory snapped the Pacers' three-game losing streak and a four-game winning streak by the Bulls.

Suns 123, Jazz 107

Shifted to forward to replace the injured Larry Nance, Walter Davis scored a career-high 45 points as the Suns snapped a four-game losing streak by defeating visiting Utah.

Utah lost its third straight.

Denver Broncos have light workout indoors Thursday

By JOHN MOSSMAN
AP Sports Writer
DENVER (AP) — While a blizzard raged outside, the Denver Broncos prepared for the Super Bowl in their climate-controlled, bubble-topped indoor practice field.

Following their 23-20 AFC championship victory over Cleveland, the Broncos had Tuesday and Wednesday day off. When they returned on Thursday, they were greeted by 10 inches of fresh snow, forcing the team under cover.

Coach Dan Reeves called the light but spirited workout "a good practice."

Three players who nursed minor injuries were held out of Thursday's one-hour practice in pads.

Two starters — linebacker Karl Mecklenburg and offensive guard Mark Cooper — and backup offensive lineman Daniel Remsburg did not participate. Mecklenburg has a slightly hyperextended knee, Cooper aggravated a foot injury, and Remsburg has a twisted ankle.

"I just felt like they needed more rest," Reeves said in explaining his decision to excuse the trio from the workout. "I feel sure they'll be ready to go by Tuesday" when the Broncos begin full-scale workouts in California for their game with the New York Giants.

The Broncos were scheduled to hold additional light workouts today and Saturday. They'll have Sunday off, and will fly to California on Monday.

While the Giants' primary image is one of a marauding defense, the Broncos aren't taking the New York offense lightly either.

Reminded that Giants' running back Joe Morris is supposed to be a more effective runner on artificial turf than on grass (the Super Bowl surface), Reeves demurred.

"I read some statistic that Morris averages 90-some yards on artificial turf and 70 yards on grass," he said. "That's not much of a difference. He's a great runner on anything. He has great vision and the ability to make people miss him."

He added: "All I know is, in the big games, the ones that mean a lot, he has run awful well."

Winningest pitcher of 1900s found no takers

Times change in baseball

By HAL BOCK
AP Sports Writer

Times change. Last month, free agent Jack Morris the winningest pitcher of this decade, went out looking for a job in baseball and found no takers.

Sorry, said the Minnesota Twins, but there's no room on our staff with its nifty 4.77 earned run average, last in the American League. No thanks, said the New York Yankees, we don't have roster room what with Pete Filson, Charles Hudson, Pat Clements and Ron Romanick all added to the pitching staff in the off-season.

And so, Morris agreed to return reluctantly to Detroit, which, cynics and proponents of the collusion theory will tell you, was baseball's idea all along.

A dozen years ago, when Catfish Hunter became the first player to tentatively test the free agent waters, he found a much warmer welcome than Morris. And he didn't even have to leave the comfort of his North Carolina home to get it. Oh no, the accommodating owners told Catfish, don't bother coming here. We'll come down to see you.

And so baseball's most powerful front office people tramped off to the dusty farming community of Ahsokie, N.C., a mapdot without many of the amenities to which these captains of their sport were accustomed. There they lined up to visit Hunter and his attorney, an old-fashioned country counsel named J. Carlton Cherry. It was a picture worthy of a Norman Rockwell painting.

Hunter, elected to the Hall of Fame along with Billy Williams, reflected on those landmark negotiations Thursday. "The first team I talked to was Cleveland," he said. "They had a reputation for being the cheapest team in baseball. They offered a million dollars. I said to myself, 'I don't believe this.' And it just kept going up from there."

The bidding reached a climax just before New Year's Eve, 1974, when Hunter agreed to a then-outrageous $3.75 million, 5-year deal with the New York Yankees. Team owner George Steinbrenner was suspended from baseball at that time so, of course, he had nothing to do with assembling the lavish package.

Steinbrenner apparently considers the money well spent, though. Although Hunter had just one 20-win season and a mediocre 63-53 record in his five years in New York, the Yankee owner sent him a warm note on his election to Cooperstown. "You were the cornerstone of the Yankees' success over the past 10 years, a period when the club compiled the best record in Major League Baseball," he wrote. "You started that success ... you were the first to teach us how to win."

The lesson Steinbrenner — and other owners — seem to have learned, however, is how to keep the vaults locked. Certainly Morris, with a 144-94 record for nine seasons, has statistics comparable to the 161-113 Hunter had compiled in 10 years before his free agency. Factoring in 12 years worth of inflation, if Catfish was worth what he got, Morris' demands in the neighborhood of $1.8 million do not seem outrageous.

Teams came chasing after Hunter, wallets and checkbooks at the ready. Not only did the owners not come looking for Morris, but they all but slammed the door in his face. The same is true for other productive free agents like Tim Lincecum, Lance Parrish, Andre Dawson and Bob Horner.

All of this seems rather fishy to those suspicious fellows who run the players association, who are convinced that management is up to no good. Even Hunter, happily riding tractors and occasionally pitching to Ahsokie's American Legion team, has noticed the reticence of those once-generous owners.

"I don't know," he drawled softly. "It seems like now they've gotten together and they don't want to spend the money they did before."

Perceptive fellow, this gentleman farmer.

Navratilova is named AP female athlete of year

By BOB GREENE
AP Tennis Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Martina Navratilova, continuing her assault on the record book every time she steps onto the court, was named today as The Associated Press Female Athlete of 1986.

It is the second time in four years the world's No. 1-ranked tennis player has won the award. She also won in 1983.

This year, she polled 377 points to easily outdistance golfer Pat Bradley, who finished second in the nationwide balloting of sports writers and broadcasters with 240 points.

Finishing third was track star Jackie Joyner with 126 points, followed by distance runner Grete Waitz of Norway with 99; world figure skating champion Debi Thomas, 97; basketball star Cheryl Miller, 87; and distance runner Ingrid Kristiansen of Norway, 38.

Twenty athletes were named in the annual poll, with Navratilova collecting 57 first-place ballots, 33 for second and 23 for third. Bradley received 31 votes for first place, Joyner 15, Thomas 7, Waitz and Miller six each, and Kristiansen 3.

Five points were awarded for a first-place vote, three for second and one for third.

Basketball star Larry Bird of the Boston Celtics was named The Associated Press Male Athlete of the Year.

Navratilova had a typical Navratilova year in 1986.

She finished as the world champion — determined by the Virginia Slims World Championship Series point standings — for the fourth straight year. She reached the final of the championships at Madison Square Garden for the ninth consecutive time and posted her seventh victory, including the last four.

That extended her match winning streak to 53 — fourth-best behind her own record of 74, a 56-match string by Chris Evert Lloyd and 54 by Navratilova.

She had a match record of 89-3 in 1986, winning 14 of 17 tournaments and missing only one final, when she lost to Kathy Jordan in the semifinals of the Virginia Slims of California in February.

Teaming with Pam Shriver, she won the Virginia Slims Championships doubles title as they increased their doubles victory streak to 32 and improved their 1986 record to 40-1. Navratilova and Shriver hold the doubles record of 109 consecutive match victories.

"It is always special to be picked for an award like this," Navratilova said in Melbourne, Australia, where she is competing in the Australian Open, when she learned of her selection. "Women's tennis has tended to be overshadowed by other sports only in Olympic years, and it's nice to keep it at the forefront, to keep the torch burning."

And that she has done, becoming the fourth tennis player to win the award in the 1980s and the 10th tennis player to be honored since 1973.

sports writers and sportscasters.

Clemens, who had a 24-4 record in pitching the Red Sox to the American League pennant, was named on 63 ballots, but Bird had 30 first-place votes and 214 points based on five points for first, three for second and one for third. Clemens had 19 first-place votes and 189 points, while Mike Tyson, 20, who became the youngest heavyweight boxing champion in history, had 22 firsts and 186 points.

Tour de France cyclist race winner Gred LeMond, had nine first place votes; pro golfer Greg Norman had eight; and National League MVP Mike Schmidt seven. Norman had 72 points, LeMond 64 and Schmidt 39.

Other top finishers were tennis star Ivan Lendl (35 points); Argentine soccer player Diego Maradona (32); Don Mattingly of the New York Yankees (29); Heisman Trophy winner Vinny Testaverde (28); and NHL scoring leader Wayne Gretzky (28).

Bird, who turned 30 last month, said he's still having fun as an NBA super star and he's very happy with his $2 million-a-year contract which has three years remaining plus an option year.

"I'm very happy with what the Celtics give me," he said. "I'll never go in and ask for more money. The only thing I concentrate on is winning a championship."

Then, in apparent reference to reports that slugger Jim Rice of the Red Sox was the highest paid Boston athlete, also with a reported $2 million last year, Bird said:

"Why I'm not even the highest paid athlete in Boston. But I don't worry about that."

Bird, who won the NBA's most valuable player award for the third consecutive year in 1986, edged the American League MVP Roger Clemens of the Boston Red Sox for the AP Athlete of the Year honor.

Bird was named on 60 of the 96 ballots cast by a nationwide group of

Huff welcomed as member at Lone Star Club meeting

Burdine Huff was welcomed as a new member of the Lone Star Study Club when the group met Tuesday in the home of Naoma Spann with Hilda Havens serving as co-hostess.

Also, given special recognition was a guest, Mildred Fuhrmann.

Spann reviewed the novel "The Wind" by Dorothy Scarborough. The book concerns the experiences of a beautiful, cultured young woman having to leave her sheltered home in Virginia in 1890 to settle on a ranch 20 miles from the small town of Sweetwater, Texas. The wind finally destroyed her.

Verna Sowell, president, presided over a brief business session.

Refreshments of punch, cake, nuts and coffee were served to Spann, Havens, Huff, Fuhrmann, Sowell, Jessie Mae Dodson, Oneita Davidson, Bertha Dettmann, Margaret Ann Durham, Wilma Goettsch, Ursalee Jacobsen, Lucile Naylor, Ruby Stevenson, Zoe Williams, Ruth Womble, Ella Higgins and Winnie Wiseman.

Ann Landers Let 'em sleep over

DEAR ANN LANDERS: This is for the woman who wants her friends to take their "well-oiled" husbands home with them.

Just who is supplying the oil? And how many times has she (or her co-host) urged "just one more" on somebody who said, "No thanks."

Often when my alcoholic father was doing his best to stay sober his friends insisted that "just one won't hurt" or "a little nightcap will round out the evening." Too many times I saw his good intentions go down the drain as he fell off the wagon.

"Just one drink" can carry some folks across the line from "feeling good" to getting shellacked. For some, that line may be four drinks. For me it is two. For a couple of close friends, the line is between zero and one, because they are unable to stop once they start.

Anybody's driving is impaired somewhat before he is officially drunk, but people who get cockeyed at parties usually insist that they drive better after a few drinks. (They're the same characters who proclaim loudly that they drive better than their wives - drunk or sober).

Many recovered alcoholics refuse to go to parties. (My mother was one). Others, like the woman with duplicate keys, probably keeps hoping that next time it will be different.

Anyone who continues to serve alcohol to a guest who is drunk is lucky if damaged rugs are the worst he has to put up with. In some states the hosts are held responsible for whatever happens to guests who leave their home intoxicated. I think this is a nifty idea.

If a guest slips into another room and gets suddenly drunk when you aren't looking, I say it is better to have him/her or your sofa all night than driving smashed on the highway. I would never forgive myself if a friend of mine became loaded in my home and then got into his car and killed himself.-L.K. IN RICHMOND, VA.

DEAR VA.: I'm with you. Better the sofa than the morgue.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Would you believe that last month we were unable to buy a postage stamp to mail the insurance policies we had purchased to cover our trip? Not one stamp was available anywhere in the airport! I am talking about Shreveport.

Even the people in the airport cafe and bookstore were aware of the situation, but there were no stamps anywhere. I couldn't believe it. Finally, as we boarded the plane for Germany (and I continued to fume) the ticket agent took my letter. When we returned home I found he had stamped the envelope and mailed it for me. What a considerate man!

Since you reach so many people I hope you will print my letter and warn others to carry stamps in case they want to buy flight insurance.

We read you every day. Keep up the good work. - E.V.O., ATLANTA

DEAR E.V.O.: Thanks for the bulletin. I hope every airport manager in the world sees your letter. The plight you describe is inexcusable. Are you listening, Shreveport?

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our 3-year-old sucks her thumb constantly, and also drags a piece of her baby blanket everywhere she goes. My mother-in-law says we must make her stop or she will have crooked teeth. True or false?-JACKSON, MISS.

DEAR MISS.: False. Thumb suckers need the comfort. They will stop when they are ready. No harm is done to the teeth.

How young is too young for a child to learn about sex? That's just one thing you'll find in Ann Landers' new booklet, "How, What, and when to Tell Your Child About Sex." For your copy send 50 cents along with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

The French writer Anatole France was born in 1844.

Names in the News

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Michael Jackson is making two new Pepsi commercials in an estimated $10 million, multi-year deal.

The new spots will be Jackson's first solo appearance for Pepsi, and the first since he and his brothers appeared for the soft-drink company in 1984.

One of the new commercials will appear on the Feb. 24 Grammy telecast. Jackson also will do a Spanish version, Pepsi-Cola Co. spokesman Ken Ross said Thursday.

The singer has signed a three-year contract with Pepsi that will pay him more than the $5 million he received three years ago and less than a reported $15 million. "It's about in the middle," Ross said.

Jackson suffered burns during the filming of the 1984 ads when some rigged explosions went awry.

HONOLULU (AP) — Los Angeles Lakers superstar Kareem Abdul-Jabbar has formed his own record company and says he wants to be a full-time promoter of jazz when he leaves basketball.

Cranberry Records' first signed artist is pianist Kenny Kirkland, who has played with Wynton Marsalis and Sting.

Abdul-Jabbar said in a recent interview he planned to showcase his recording artists in Hawaii, where he lives part time. He was named to the Hawaii Jazz Preservation Society's board of directors this week.

"I've always loved the music," said Abdul-Jabbar, whose father, Ferdinand Alcindor, played jazz trombone. "It's been a passion."

NEW YORK (AP) — Singer Tony Bennett has filed a $100 million countersuit against a woman who alleged in a lawsuit that he gave her herpes.

Bennett said in his lawsuit filed Thursday that Linda Feldman disgraced and discredited him in a $90 million lawsuit she filed in state court shortly before Thanksgiving charging that he gave her herpes during a seven-month affair in 1985.

In his lawsuit, the singer demanded that Ms. Feldman submit to a physical examination.

Bennett, whose hit songs include "I Left My Heart in San Francisco," said that her charges had caused damage to his career and extreme emotional distress, embarrassment and humiliation.

Elliot Hoffman, Bennett's lawyer, said the singer is touring in Japan, where he has been hounded by reporters because of the lawsuit.

FOX CHAPEL, Pa. (AP) — Chris Frantz, drummer and founding member of the Talking Heads rock group, returned to his alma mater to tell high school students they must take risks to succeed.

Frantz, who graduated from the private Shady Side Academy in 1970, spoke to about 300 students, parents and faculty members Wednesday.

"Take a chance. Fall flat on your face," Frantz said.

"Art of today is different than Renaissance stuff. ... It's not just a matter of what's good and what's junk. It's 'Can you excite me? Can you turn me on? What can you offer me that will last, make an impression on me?'"

NEW YORK (AP) — Sophia Loren, who recently starred in a television movie as a mother who went undercover to bust a cocaine ring, says she worries about her two sons becoming involved with drugs.

"It's a problem that every mother should be concerned about," Miss Loren said in an interview to be published in Sunday's Parade magazine.

"Because it's not an exception nowadays to have a son who is a drug addict. And it does not only apply to children who have a famous mother or father. It's all over the world, in every kind of society."

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Former talk show host David Frost has been hired as a special correspondent for the syndicated television program "Entertainment Tonight."

Frost has interviewed some of the world's most sought-after personalities, including Richard Nixon, Ronald Reagan and the Beatles.

Frost's experience reporting on entertainment, royalty and world affairs and his invaluable international contacts were appealing to the show, executive producer David Nuell said in a statement Thursday.

The author of 13 books and producer of seven films, Frost was appeared on the television programs "That Was the Week That Was" and "The David Frost Show." He has won two Emmy Awards.

Panel to spend $3.5 million

McALLEN, Texas (AP) — Impoverished communities along the border will be eligible for aid to develop sewage and drainage systems under a $3.5 million appropriation approved Thursday by the Texas Water Development Board.

The funds represent just a fraction of would cost to bring water and sewage systems to the state's colonies, isolated communities without basic utilities, said Herbert W. Grubb, director of planning for the water board.

Thousands of people live in colonies along the Rio Grande from Brownsville to El Paso, Grubb said.

The cost of supplying sewage systems to the Rio Grande Valley's colonies is estimated at $93 million, Grubb said, with better systems costing up to $150 million.

He said the $3.5 million could be used in individual projects to bring sewage and drainage to a colony, to help a community pay the interest on a loan from the board for such a project, or to leverage a loan.

The Valley alone has 435 colonies, Grubb said, while El Paso County also has a high concentration of the settlements.

"Ninety percent of the colonies have a water line right to it or right by it, but not every house on every street has a connection. The pipelines to get the water to the colonies are in place, but that's not to say they're big enough. They're not. And that's not to say there's enough water in their pipelines to meet the ultimate need," he said.

"The network to supply the water is minimally there," Grubb said. "Drainage systems are very poor, inadequate in almost any case."

In 1975, a London subway train crashed into the wall at the end of a tunnel, killing 37 people.
