EDSC okays NDC contract

By JOHN BROOKS
Managing Editor

The National Development Council will prepare a study of local development efforts over the next few months after approval of a $21,000 contract with the Economic Development Strategy Council at a noon meeting Tuesday.

"Our main, primary purpose is to implement a plan and make things happen," said NDC's Sally Loveland, who said the group will also work on financing and designing an incentives package to help build the local business and industry base.

"We work hands on to make loan programs work, to make things happen," Loveland said. "Our purpose in doing these projects is to create jobs and enhance the tax base. We can go a long way to create jobs."

The contract is broken into two phases. EDSC has only the authority to approve only the first phase, through July 31. During the next six weeks, NDC will:

- Design a package of business financing incentives;
- Participate in the completion of a local incentive package, which could include tax abatement, utility offsets, and financing;

- Evaluate pending prospect proposals for their feasibility, financial structuring, and mechanisms for getting a deal done;

- Recommend screening criteria and a recruitment process for a director for the Economic Development Council.

- Help secure funding for loan programs from local, state and federal sources;

- Work with local lenders and investors;

- Implement the business financing and tax incentives package.

"My main job is to fill in financing gaps... to skin a cat another way, and to create jobs, to do something for the public's benefit. I want to find new sources, new ways to do projects," Loveland said.

Loveland explained that economic development "is no longer smokestack chasing." She said that economic development now focuses on small- to medium-sized businesses. "But we don't work alone. We work with cities, counties, banks, government sources. Our role is to work with governments and focus on viable, small business projects."

"Our mission is to help cities create jobs."
-Sally Loveland, NDC

NDC will also help with economic development program implementation, training, and transition from EDSC to the EDC. Loveland said NDC will also assist with a grant proposal that could cover additional NDC costs for a consulting relationship after July 31.

If the contract is approved for the second phase, NDC would -Continue training;

The EDSC also agreed to a $12,500 target industry study by Southwestern Public Service Company.

The utility has already completed a study for its service region, but will focus its efforts on Hereford and Deaf Smith County.

The group also reviewed suggested changes in the Strategic Plan for Economic Development.

HLC board meets with TSTI staff

By SPEEDY NIEMAN
Editor-Publisher

Directors of the Hereford Educational Learning Center met here Tuesday morning with Texas State Technical Institute officials to discuss programs and courses which could be offered when the local center opens for classes in September.

Charles Greenawalt, chairman of the HELC board, also announced that Amarillo College has submitted a list of night classes which will be available to the Learning Center this fall. Brochures will be printed for the classes offered.

Dr. Ernie Johnson, TSTI dean of instruction, presented a proposed contract to the HELC board, with the plan primarily calling for TSTI to provide instruction for technical/vocational education programs to be delivered in Hereford, and for HELC to provide facilities and some specialized equipment.

The Learning Center has evolved from a concept by Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce to establish a job-training center in Hereford. The HELC board has expanded the idea into a full learning center which includes continuing adult education and courses "limited only by the imagination."

Greenawalt, who is also superintendent of Hereford schools, said the Learning Center board would meet again next Wednesday with HISD staff members to pinpoint the school facilities which could be made available for the program and courses.

Accompanying Dr. Johnson from TSTI were Bob Wallace, coordinator of cooperative education, and Joe Latham, director of continuing education. The officials listed seven program offerings for the fall. These included construction technology, professional truck driving, welding and fabrication, auto body repair, automotive technology, computer electronics technology, and related subjects.

Courses for credit on degrees include drafting and design, feed mill operations, mechanical and electrical technology, and industrial instrumentation. Other courses which could be offered if enough interest is indicated include boot and shoe repair, commercial art, interior design, machining and gunsmithing, meat processing and marketing, saddle and tack making, and technical office training. TSTI also provides contract training for industries.

The contract proposal presented by Dr. Johnson also listed several "non-course support" offerings. These include services of a training representative to provide prospective students with information about courses and to provide assistance with enrollment procedures for a minimum of one day a week; services of a career counselor to work with Hereford-area residents (one day a week), and to provide a financial aid officer to assist students in applying for and administering financial aid programs as needed.

TSTI would also provide placement services for students as they complete courses, and provide registration and admission services to students who desire to enroll in courses for credit or non-credit.

After the chamber of commerce initiated the job-training concept, it was turned over to the Hereford Industrial Foundation, which appointed a board of directors to develop the learning center. Members of the board at the Tuesday meeting were Greenawalt, Helen Langley, Doug Manning, Hilda Garza, Bobby Owen and Mike Carr. Other directors are Mike Bowles, Judge Tom Simons and Larry Malamen.

Diel not 'just walking away'

By SPEEDY NIEMAN
Editor-Publisher

Jake Diel Construction Machinery Co. of Hereford is making plans to move to Amarillo. Diel made the announcement last Friday at a conference in the Amarillo City Commission chambers, with city and chamber of commerce officials present.

Diel, who started his business here about 20 years ago, told The Brand this morning that he had been considering a move and expansion of his business for several years. Due to the nature of his business, Diel said the primary motivation in moving was to be close to a major airport.

"The support of the Hereford area has been very positive and we've had excellent business relations in this area," Diel said. "The expansion of our business makes it very vital that we be close to an international airport."

Diel considered sites in Phoenix, Ariz., Lubbock, Ponca City, Okla., and even bought some land in Oklahoma City. One of the reasons he chose Amarillo, said Diel, "is that it's still in this area, which has been great for us."

The move to Amarillo is contingent on the city commission approving some incentives and arrangements which Diel and the Economic Development Council of the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce have agreed upon, added Diel.

Diel's firm, which designs and manufactures construction refuse process plants, currently employs about 35 people and will sell more than $10 million in equipment this year, with 95 percent of that being outside of Texas.

If the arrangements with Amarillo are finalized, the firm could start construction there within 120 days.

Since that time and, about two years ago, sold his stock in Appian Corp.

Diel explained that his new company was set up as an employee-owned corporation, and he has managers and supervisors as stockholders. Appian was also set up in this manner, added Diel.

Additionally, either Texas State Technical Institute or Amarillo College will provide customized training for new employees, and seven of Diel's current executives will receive discounted home loans provided by participating financial institutions to ease the moving burden.

Also, funds from various on-the-job training programs will be made available to Diel to offset start-up costs.

In return for the incentives, Diel said his company will make its "best effort" to create 25 jobs by the end of 12 months of operation and at least 75 at the end of five years.

Diel is the designer and manufacturer of horizontal impact crushers that, with the help of conveyor belts, magnets and water tubs, disintegrate and separate rubble down to powder, small rocks and wood which can be reused in various forms.

In larger cities where dumping areas are limited, Diel said dumping fees can be as high as $1,000 per load. But once his machines do their work, the different materials can perhaps be sold or reused.

Aside from needing to be located in a metropolitan area, Diel told the Amarillo group last Friday that another reason for choosing Amarillo was that "people like Glen Parkey (mayor of Amarillo) not telling you that you can't do it—they're telling you how they can get it done."

"The support of the Hereford area has been very positive... It is very vital that we be close to an international airport."

Jake Diel

"We do not plan to close the doors here and just walk away," said Diel. "We're not certain about the scope of our expansion as yet," he added.

After starting his business in Hereford about 20 years ago, Diel expanded into construction manufacturing, heavy machinery and paving contracting. He spun off the paving contractor business about five years ago with that firm being named Appian Corporation. Diel has not taken an active leadership role in that cor-

Diel owns 20 acres of land about two miles from Amarillo International Airport. He says he's willing to build a new manufacturing complex there if the city of Amarillo will create a re-investment zone that will include his property. As an incentive, the city will abate taxes on all property improvements made over the next 10 years, and the Amarillo Industrial Foundation will commit up to $10,000 toward construction of a water well and septic field system.

WT regents defend Roach

CANYON, Texas (AP) — T Boone Pickens Jr. came to the rescue of West Texas State University's embattled president, pledging support for Ed Roach and blasting faculty critics of the president.

Pickens, chairman of the school's board of regents, defended Roach at an emergency meeting of the regents Tuesday.

Faculty members have accused Roach of retaliating against some of their ranks who speak out against his policies and say his management style is dictatorial.

"We have heard the grievances of the faculty and while individually some were substantive, most were petty," Pickens said.

Acknowledging that many faculty have called for Roach's resignation, Pickens said WTSU's president "serves not at the pleasure of the faculty, but at the pleasure of the board of regents."

"We will not bow to pressure tactics nor will we be intimidated by those who spread dissension through rumors, innuendoes and false reports," he said.

About 50 faculty members present then shouted for the board's resignation.

After cries for Roach's ouster escalated during the spring semester, the regents brought in an external review panel of academics to examine faculty charges that academic freedom was being violated under Roach.

But the board on Tuesday rejected the panel's finding that academic freedom is "virtually non-existent" at the school.

"The plan fact of the matter is that almost all of the charges that have been made, including those contained in the panel's report, which can be in any way substantiated, are trivial in nature," said regent Dee Osborne of Houston, reading a regents' committee analysis of the panel's report.

"There simply are no fundamental issues of academic freedom at stake in this situation. No faculty member is being punished for what he is teaching or researching. Tenure has not been denied to anyone for having controversial views."

Faculty senate president Gary Byrd, who has helped publish an underground newsletter lambasting Roach and whom Pickens charged had lied in presentations to the board, declined to comment after the meeting.

The board voted 8-1 to implement a plan under which Roach would allocate more time to planning the restructuring of the university and fund-raising. Daily administrative duties would fall under the purview of the school's vice president for academic affairs and the Deans Council.

The board's analysis of the panel's report found "a number of factual errors in the allegations cited by the

Baptists elect fundamentalist as head

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Fundamentalists tightened their grip on the Southern Baptist Convention by electing another conservative president, who said he hopes to mend the division in the nation's largest Protestant denomination.

The Rev. Jerry Vines, who narrowly defeated a moderate Tuesday, said the denomination has turned rightward because of "strong grassroots feelings on the part of our people."

Vines also told a news conference he hoped "we can move in the direction of healing" the bitter conflict between conservative and moderate Southern Baptists.

Meanwhile, a moderate group, the Southern Baptist Alliance, said Vines' election left them "disenfranchised."

"Diversity is rejected and dishonored," said a statement from the group, headed by the Rev. John Thompson of Jackson, Miss. "Fundamentalist, authoritarian, hierarchical and right-wing political ideology" now prevailed, it said.

Vines defeated the Rev. Richard Jackson by 15,804 to 15,112. But similarly close votes in the past have not deterred extension of the fundamentalist platform.

Vines, 50, is co-pastor of the First Baptist Church of Jacksonville, Fla., while Jackson, 49, is pastor of the North Phoenix Baptist Church in Phoenix, Ariz. Each church has about 18,000 members.

Vines' victory represents the 10th straight year fundamentalists have gained the powerful presidency, completing a timetable set by their strategist in 1979 for solidifying their control over the denomination. The president serves a one-year term, but it is traditionally renewed a second year.

The outcome also signaled indefinite continuation of a right-wing theological and political agenda that has accompanied the fundamentalist dominance.

Because of the size and nationwide influence of the 14.7-million-member denomination, the direction set here was seen as having an impact in broader evangelical circles.

Asked why Southern Baptist positions on social and political issues have come to match those of the religious right, Vines cited "grassroots feelings" and said members "reflect the general mood, the conservative directions of this time."

Jackson wryly discounted that explanation, saying the "grass roots are often quoted, but you don't hear them talking much."

"I feel there is manipulation," he said. "It would have been unthinkable 20 years ago that a small group could get together and work out plans" for taking control of the denomination.

The key architects of that plan, Judge Paul Pressler of Houston and the Rev. Paige Patterson of Dallas, determined that by successively winning the presidency, conservatives could gradually pack ruling boards of denominational agencies and seminaries through the appointive power of the office.

The fundamentalist victories have been achieved under the banner of biblical "inerrancy"—that the Bible is without error, scientifically, historically and religiously.

But they have been accompanied by conservative positions on political and social issues, such as unsuccessfully supporting Judge Robert Bork for the U.S. Supreme Court, and favoring capital punishment, prayer in public schools and aid to private schools.

Vines said he hoped the denomination would not lose members over the conflict. "I want to include, not exclude," he said.

Asked if he would seek only like-minded people as trustees of church institutions and agencies, he said they must be within approved "parameters," that is, biblical "inerrantists."

Several seminary and other church staff members have been pressured from their jobs by new screening processes instituted by the fundamentalists. Among the questions asked church employees is whether they believe Adam and Eve were real people and that biblical miracles actually occurred.

Vines said the political ramifications of the fundamentalist upsurge were "spinoffs" from the theological concerns.

Jackson said the split "obviously isn't over theology," but over different styles of leadership, since he accepts the Bible's infallibility, but he respects those holding other views.

"I believe we'll stay together, may God deliver us," he said. "I don't want anybody to panic."

Bentsen installs phone banks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican leaders say a decision by Sen. Lloyd Bentsen's re-election campaign to activate phone banks seven months before voters go to the polls indicates he considers himself vulnerable to Rep. Beau Boulter's challenge.

"If he were in fact invulnerable, why would he waste his money doing that? If he is so strong and so invulnerable, all he would have to do is shore up his base and he'd have it. This race is closing down in Texas," says Tom Mason, spokesman for the Republican National Senatorial Committee.

George Strake, chairman of the GOP in Texas, says opening phone banks in April is the earliest he's heard of for a campaign in the Lone Star State.

"It's early for someone like Bentsen, who claims not to have a race. It's another indication he clearly realizes he's a vulnerable senator. If he's invulnerable, he wouldn't need to do it," Mason said.

Bentsen campaign manager Jack Martin acknowledged an April start-up for the phone banks was indeed early, but said: "We want to make sure we identify our supporters early before any effect might occur as a result of the presidential race. We want to separate ourselves from the presidential race."

Republican observers believe Bentsen is worried about the coattails effect that Vice President George Bush's campaign for president may have on Boulter's Republican race.

Bentsen, a Democrat seeking his fourth term in the Senate, is also taking into account the changing face of Texas politics — an increase in the number of Republicans, many who have come into the state from the north since the last election and who don't know the incumbent, GOP

Letter to the Editor

Dear editor:

After two years as the coordinator for the Western half of Texas for Athletes in Action, Campus Crusade for Christ, I risk not being well enough informed on the background of this issue, but it seems to me that the monies which our county, school and city representatives have voted for increasing the capital investment and payroll in our county can best be accomplished by providing an incentive to new or existing companies in Deaf Smith County based on increased payroll and increased capital spending by new or existing industries.

For the past 10 years, this county has been divided (roughly 50-50 ac-ording to polls by both political parties) on the issues of the Mobile M-X Missile (which is now obsolete and which President Reagan may barter away in any event) and then the nuclear waste issue. In both cases real estate interests and retail merchants basically held one view while farming and manufacturing (including feedlot) interests held another view. We don't need any more division. Now is the time to work together as we did in the Sixties to build our community.

Rather than a new bureaucracy, which is already creating real divisions here, let's use our excellent Chamber of Commerce staff and volunteers, working to represent all of us, to create a formula of incentives based on capital investment and payroll for new jobs and investment, whether from new or existing businesses. The monies already voted could then be used where the rubber meets the road instead of being soaked up by a new office-sitting entity which is already a problem in our unity, and would undoubtedly become morose in rapid fashion.

A direct payment for advertising support to any new or existing business that brings new jobs and construction to Deaf Smith County can help put our county back on the winning track where we all want to be.

Wright earned $55K from bulk book buys

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Washington lobbyist, a Boston insurance company, a third-grade teacher and a member of Congress were among bulk buyers of a book that netted House Speaker Jim Wright nearly $55,000 in royalties.

Wright, D-Texas, mentioned the purchasers Tuesday when reporters asked him who had bought multiple copies of his 1984 book, "Reflections of a Public Man."

Critics of the speaker have alleged that the book, which was sold primarily in bulk and at political rallies, was a thinly disguised way for lobbyists and others seeking favors to give money to Wright, who was House majority leader at the time. The book deal is among the items being examined by the House ethics committee in its investigation of Wright.

Wright has defended his receipt of royalties from the slim, 117-page volume as proper and contends the attacks on him are an election-year gambit by Republicans. Wright is to be chairman of the Democratic National Convention in Atlanta next month.

The New England life insurance company in Boston was among bulk buyers of the book. Senior vice president Gordon MacKay said the company had invited Wright to speak to a management group about three years ago, and bought $2,000 worth of Wright's books instead of giving him an honorarium.

There is a limit on the amount of honoraria a member of Congress can receive each year, but there is no limit on income from book royalties.

MacKay said he found the book "enjoyable. It gave insights into the man." The company sent its 336 copies to be distributed to local high school civics classes, he said.

The book was published for Wright by a Fort Worth friend of the speaker, William Carlos Moore, who also has done some $600,000 worth of campaign work for Wright over the years. Wright received a 55 percent royalty, or $3.25 for each $5.95 volume sold, totaling $55,000. Nearly all 20,000 copies printed have been sold.

The ethics panel, formally known as the Committee on Standards of Official Conduct, also is looking into the propriety of Wright's use of a congressional staff member to compile and edit the book and Wright's use of tax money to pay the aide's expenses for a three-week final editing trip to Fort Worth in late 1984.

Craig Raupe, a former Wright aide who now lobbies Congress for a long list of private businesses, also bought numerous copies, the speaker said. Raupe said he bought only 10 and gave them away to family members.

But Raupe also said he arranged for the copies to be purchased by The New England life insurance company. "I'm not saying he's a great author or anything, but I'd do this for him whether I was on staff or not," Raupe said.

Lobbying records show Raupe represents The New England life insurance company, along with a number of energy and transportation companies.

Another bulk purchaser was a Wright constituent, Clarence Swor, who owns a sand and gravel company near Fort Worth. Dorothy Harkness, an longtime employee of Swor, said he was hard of hearing and could not come to the telephone. But she acknowledged her boss had bought 200 copies and sent them to relatives.

She said Swor had known Wright since the speaker was mayor of Weatherford, Texas, in the 1960s and felt gratitude since Wright once stopped and gave him a ride when his cattle truck was broken down. "They have been friends ever since," she said.

Charlene Bice, a third-grade teacher in Fort Worth who is on the board of directors of the National Education Association, sold about 250 copies to other teachers for placement in school libraries around the state, she said. Bice is a longtime campaign worker for Wright.

Wright also said Rep. Bart Gordon, D-Tenn., bought 150 copies of the book. An aide to Gordon, Harrison Wadsworth, said the books were bought with Gordon's campaign funds and given to contributors at an Aug. 3, 1985 fundraiser in Tennessee where Wright spoke.

The speaker also mentioned several purchasers whose names had been previously reported, including S. Gene Payte, a Fort Worth developer who bought 1,000 copies of the book to funnel money to Wright.

"I was just trying to make a contribution to Jim's income," Payte told The New York Times. "And I couldn't give him any money. There are rules against that. So I bought his book."

Others who bought 1,000 copies each included the Teamsters union; former Democratic National Committee chairman John C. White; Bernard Rapoport, chairman of the American Income Life insurance company in Waco, Texas; and Leslie A. Berkhowitz, who was a lobbyist for a Texas gas pipeline company.

Meanwhile, it appeared that Wright's next publishing venture may be a casualty of the current controversy. Wright has indicated that he no longer has time to devote to collaborating with aide George Mair on a book about speakers of the House through its first 200 years.

Texas still SSC prospect

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas remains a contender for the $4.4 billion superconducting super collider project and the thousands of jobs it would create, state and federal officials say.

The Nashville Tennessean reported Tuesday that the U.S. Department of Energy, in an unpublished list, had reduced to three the number of states under consideration for the project. But DOE officials denied that any of seven prospective sites — including Texas — had been removed from consideration.

"Our dog is still in the hunt, and I think we're out in front of the pack," U.S. Sen. Phil Gramm said Tuesday.

"The DOE is working from the well-known list of seven, which includes Texas ... We do not believe the report," said Reggie Bashur, press secretary to Gov. Bill Clements.

Bashur said Henry Gandy, head of the state's Washington liaison office, had checked the report Tuesday with federal energy officials and been assured that Texas remains under consideration.

The Tennessean, citing unnamed sources whom it did not characterize, said the states on the department's list were Tennessee, North Carolina and Illinois. The four other states on the department's published list are Arizona, Colorado, Michigan and Texas.

Energy Department spokesman Jeff Sherwood said, "The intent is not to go to any kind of a short short-list ... The intent is to go from the seven best qualified sites ... right down to one site in late November."

One of the states on the reported shorter list, North Carolina, has not yet had a site visit, Sherwood said.

Gramm, R-Texas, said the story surfaced during the Energy Department's inspection of the Tennessee site and that the site team "has spent the whole day trying to straighten out this statement by a Tennessee congressman."

AT&T ANNOUNCES UPCOMING PRICE CHANGES FOR SOME TEXAS INTRASTATE SERVICES

AT&T announces the following price changes for some of its Texas intrastate services. These changes, which more closely reflect the actual costs incurred by AT&T in providing these services, will become effective on August 1, 1988.

- SDN (Software Defined Network) Schedule A prices will be reduced 1.5% during the initial 30-second period. Schedule B prices will be reduced 16.4% overall. Schedule C prices will be reduced 4.2% overall.
- WATS 80 service prices for both the initial 80-hour usage period and the additional usage period will increase 5%.
- The monthly prices for some of AT&T's Analog Channel Services will increase between $7.05 and $25 per channel termination for Analog services.
- The monthly prices for some Dataphone Digital Service (DDS) will decrease up to $9.65. Other DDS monthly prices will increase up to $18.35. Overall, AT&T's DDS monthly prices will increase less than 1%.

The combined effect of these price changes is expected to produce approximately $3.4 million in annual revenue, which is approximately 0.3% of AT&T's annual revenue for all Texas intrastate services.

If you have questions regarding these price changes, please call your AT&T Account Executive, or our business consultants toll-free at 1-800-222-0400. AT&T's tariffs reflecting these changes will be filed with the Public Utility Commission of Texas on July 1, 1988, with an effective date of August 1, 1988.

Persons who have questions regarding this tariff filing may also contact the Public Utility Commission of Texas in writing, at 7800 Shoal Creek Blvd., Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78757, or by calling the Public Information Office at (512) 458-0223 or (512) 458-0227 or (512) 458-0221 for teletypewriter for the deaf.

Including seven from Hereford

Feedlot cowboys qualify for world finals

Seven individuals from Hereford and one each from Dimmitt and Hart have qualified for the world championship finals of the International Feedlot Cowboy Association.

The world championships are scheduled July 24-28 in Winnemucca, Nev., with an added purse of $24,000. The IFCA Region 11 champions from Hereford are Roy Tarango, Melvin Cordray, Jennifer Smith, Bob Sims, Jackie Winters, Greg Carlile, and David Lerner. The other champions are Kim Lindsey of Dimmitt and Marty Lerner of Hart.

The regional rodeo was held June 5 at the Circle A Arena at Westway. Tarango, an employee of Keeling Cattle Feeders, won the open roping division title. The Larners won the team title in that division. David Lerner is an employee of Riata Corp. and Marty Lerner is employed by LS Feedyard.

In the century roping division, Cordray won the championship. The high point team was Sims, an employee of Tri-State Cattle Feeders, and Winters, an employee of Bar G Feedyard.

Lindsay won the championship of the mixed roping division. Lindsay, employed by Bud Hill Feedlot, and Carlile, an employee of 3-K Cattle Feeders, won the team championship.

Smith won the barrel racing competition to qualify for the world championships.

Tarango, Cordray and Lindsay each won trophy saddles along with their championships. Smith won a buckle with her title.

Companies donating saddles were Hereford Bi-Products, open roping division; West Texas Equipment of Amarillo, century roping division; and B.J.M. Sales & Service and Hereford State Bank, mixed roping division.

Champion of century roping division

Open roping champion

Roy Tarango of Hereford, left, won the open roping championship this month for Region 11 of the International Feedlot Cowboy Association. Tarango is an employee of Keeling Cattle Feeders. Pictured with him is Garth Merrick, president of Hereford Bi-Products. The trophy saddle was donated by Hereford Bi-Products.

Won mixed roping championship

Kim Lindsey of Dimmitt, left, won the mixed roping championship at the recent International Feedlot Cowboy Association Region 11 rodeo. She is an employee of Bud Hill Feedlot. Pictured with her are representatives of the companies that sponsored the trophy saddle—Chris Cabbiness of B.J.M. Sales & Service, and Craig Smith, president of Hereford State Bank.

Girls' softball tournament set Saturday, Sunday

The Deaf Smith County Kids Inc. organization has scheduled a girls' softball tournament this weekend.

Hereford, off Fifteenth Street. Admission will be $6.50 for children and $9.75 for adults.

Teams from Amarillo, Lubbock, Clovis and Hereford will participate, including fifteen in the 15-and-under division, and eight teams in the 12-and-under division.

The tournament will start at 9 a.m. Saturday. Games on Saturday will be played until about 9 p.m. On Sunday, beginning at 1 p.m., championship games and other games to decide trophy winners will be played.

Girls' major league champions

The Cardinals, with a 7-2 record, won the Deaf Smith County Kids Inc. girls' major league title this year. They defeated the Angels 16-15 last Friday night in a league championship tiebreaker game, after the two teams tied with 6-2 records in regularly scheduled games. Team members are: front row from left, Prisca Cantu, Gloria Perez, Veronica Casarez, and Jeanette

Series becomes more physical

Pistons, Lakers even at 2-2

By HOWARD ULMAN
AP Sports Writer

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — The Detroit Pistons' drive toward the NBA title stalled until they started driving to the basket. Now it's in high gear.

The championship series became more aggressive and physical Tuesday night when the Pistons evened it at two games each with a 111-86 rout of the Los Angeles Lakers.

In the first quarter, the Pistons charged down the lane and got seven of their first eight baskets on layups. In the fourth quarter, Detroit's Isiah Thomas, playing despite a back injury, charged down the lane and got hammered by his longtime friend, Magic Johnson.

"We're playing for the world championship," Johnson said. "Both of us understand what it's all about. If I go in for a layup, I know he's coming after me. If he goes in for a layup, he knows I'm coming after him."

The Pistons went right into the teeth of the Los Angeles defense, a tactic that often resulted in easy baskets or foul shots. They had 46 free throws Tuesday night compared to only 12 in a 99-86 third game loss Sunday.

They outscored the Lakers 36-28 from the free throw line. The disparity was 28-13 through three quarters. Detroit's Adrian Dantley, who led all scorers with 27 points, made 13 of 15 free throws. On Sunday, he had only 14 points and only two foul shots.

The intensity the teams displayed Tuesday night, when Silverdome temperatures exceeded 90 degrees, is expected to continue in the fifth game there Thursday night.

"Nobody wants to be playing Game 6 being down 3-2," Los Angeles forward Kurt Rambis said. "So it's going to be the toughest and the roughest and the most physical game of the series."

"It's important for us to win our next home game," Detroit center Bill Laimbeer said. "We don't want to have to go to L.A. having to win two games."

At least they'll be going to L.A. Had the Pistons lost, the defending champion Lakers could have won the title Thursday night. Now, there will be a sixth game Sunday and, possibly, a seventh Tuesday night, both in Inglewood, Calif.

Detroit's decision to return to an inside offensive game caused foul problems for the Lakers.

"We were penetrating, Adrian was going in there and we were dishing the ball off for easy baskets and we got easy fouls," Laimbeer said.

Johnson, who led Los Angeles with 23 points, picked up his fourth foul with Detroit ahead 68-61 with 7:03 left in the third quarter. He didn't return until the start of the fourth quarter and by that time Detroit had an 83-65 advantage.

Leaving Johnson in "wasn't going to make any difference in the game," Los Angeles Coach Pat Riley said. "He had four (fouls) and to put him back in a situation where we have to play pressure defense and give him his fifth" wouldn't have been wise.

"When he's out of the game they're obviously not as dangerous because he may be the greatest player in the world," Detroit Coach Chuck Daly said.

Johnson got his fifth foul with 7:03 left in the fourth period. Thomas was his victim. Pistons' forward Dennis Rodman grabbed Thomas in case Thomas wanted to go after Johnson and Laimbeer advanced toward the Laker guard.

Johnson said he didn't commit the foul out of frustration because of Detroit's 89-72 lead at the time.

"My elbow's supposed to be here and he ran into it," Johnson said. "This is business. This isn't anything personal," Thomas said.

By that time, however, the outcome was clear. The Lakers' last lead was 28-23 with 2:14 left in the first quarter. They trailed 58-51 at halftime and Detroit closed the third quarter with a 17-5 run to take an 18-point lead into the final period.

Pro baseball tryout camps are scheduled

A professional baseball organization, the Cincinnati Reds, have scheduled three open tryout camps in Texas on June 23-24.

The camps, which begin at 9 a.m. each day, are at Huskins Field in Wichita Falls on June 22, at Abilene Cooper High School in Abilene on June 23, and at Texas Tech University in Lubbock on June 24.

Those attending a camp must be between the ages of 15 and 23, and must supply their own glove, shoes and uniform. Chuck LaMar, Reds scouting supervisor for Texas and Oklahoma, will direct the camps.

No players selected in the June major-league draft may attend the camp, LaMar said. LaMar added that the Reds will pay no expenses unless a player is signed to a professional contract. Such a player will be reimbursed for his expenses.

"When you're my age, you usually have had to make funeral arrangements for someone who is near and dear to you. And I can tell you it's never an easy thing to do.

"You have so many decisions to make... the funeral services are involved in some of them. And most of the time you really aren't prepared to make those decisions, especially if it's an unexpected loss. In fact it's best to have a pre-need plan before you require these services."

The personnel at Rix can arrange the kind of service that you feel you can afford either at time of need or by having a Pre-need Plan before the inevitable happens.

Give Rix your ideas in this instance, ask for a price list and an explanation of services, then stay within the budget you set by selecting the services you want.

Pre-planning takes much of the pressure off you at the time when death does come to a member of your family. Let our professional counselors give you the experience that comes with years of service.

Ballesteros one of favorites in U.S. Open this week

By JOHN NELSON
AP Sports Writer

BROOKLINE, Mass. (AP) — Seve Ballesteros describes 1987 as "the year nothing went right for me." He may yet be able to call 1988 the year he went right back to the top.

The winner of last week's Westchester Classic in a four-way playoff, Ballesteros is one of the favorites in the U.S. Open beginning Thursday.

"This puts my confidence at a high point, and confidence is very important to me," Ballesteros said after a birdie on the first playoff hole beat Greg Norman, David Frost and Ken Green at Westchester. "When I came here (to Westchester) my confidence was not very good. I had not been playing very good. Nothing was going right for me."

Ballesteros will head a strong contingent of foreign players who may well dominate the Open on this tight, tree-lined course with small greens. Besides the Spaniard Ballesteros, the foreign favorites include Norman, of Australia, Sandy Lyle of Scotland, Nick Faldo of Britain, Bernhard Langer of West Germany and South African David Frost.

Lyle, the Masters champion, leads the PGA Tour in money winnings with $600,479 and is this season's only three-time winner.

"It just all came together this year," Lyle said, adding that he can't consider himself the favorite.

"In the end, it all comes down to putting and the breaks, doesn't it?" Lyle asked. "There are so many players who hit the ball so well, certainly well enough to win. It all comes down to what happens from 100 yards in."

Norman came from six strokes back with a final-round 64, the best of the tournament, to make the Westchester playoff. In the Open, he probably is best remembered for his 18-hole playoff loss to Fuzzy Zoeller in 1984.

"I've been close," he said. "The closer you get, the more you want to go out and win as many as you can. That all happened in the past. I can't think about that now. It's gone. There's nothing I can do about it."

Perhaps the top threat among the Americans is Curtis Strange, who set money-winning records two of the past three seasons and has won twice in 1988. His peers call him perhaps the best player in golf today.

"He's certainly among the top three, up there with Norman and Lyle," former Open champion Ray Floyd said of Strange.

And Jack Nicklaus, a four-time Open winner, thinks Strange could be one of the greats, if he fulfills a certain prerequisite.

"Curtis' recent record is very, very good," Nicklaus said. "But he hasn't yet won a major. He needs to do that to confirm his record. And I think he will."

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — Slumping California starter Mike Witt realizes that not only is home where the heart is, but also where the heartening pitching is.

Witt logged a four-hit, 3-0 shutout over Texas Tuesday night showing signs that even during a trying season, which finds him 4-7 after consecutive wins, his excellence at Anaheim Stadium remains a pleasantly surprising constant.

In six home starts, Witt now has an

The San Diego Padres were in 24 shutout games in 1987, winning 10 and losing 14.

ERA of 1.97. In eight road starts, his ERA is 7.40.

"It might be the park, or the home crowd," said California Manager Cookie Rojas. "Actually, if he throws the way he has three of his last four starts, it won't matter where he's pitching."

"Our big man is starting to get back on track."

Witt's decline has led the way for a dismal season for California, buried in the American League West basement with a 24-39 record.

Even with three wins in his last four starts, Witt has only five victories to show for his last 23 starts.

"It's good to be consistent again," Witt said after posting consecutive wins for the first time since last Aug. 13-17.

"I was getting ahead of the hitters and that was the key, though I think there have been games earlier this season when I had better stuff."

"The sixth inning was probably the toughest for me."

James Steels led off that inning with a single and Scott Fletcher followed by drawing a walk. But Ruben Sierra popped out and Pete Incaviglia hit into a double play.

"Sierra just missed on a change-up. And Inky's ball was a shot, but right at shortstop," said Texas Manager Bobby Valentine. "We had two men on twice but couldn't cash them in."

The Rangers mounted another threat in the seventh on singles by Pete O'Brien and Oddibe McDowell. But Witt struck out both Geno Petralli and Steve Buechele, got an inning-ending grounder from Curtis Wilkerson and sailed the rest of the way to his second shutout.

Tony Armas' broke up a scoreless duel with his third homer in the fifth inning off Ray Hayward, 4-4. Jack Howell walked with two out and scored on a double by Chico Walker.

The Angels scored an insurance run in the eighth when Howell doubled and took third on Hayward's wild pickoff attempt, then scored when lefthanded reliever Mitch Williams' pitch eluded Petralli for a passed ball.

"Hayward had a super fastball and a real good curve," said Valentine, applauding the lefthander's effort after he'd allowed 20 runs in 17 2-3 innings in his previous four starts. "Too bad we couldn't get him any runs."

Shower held for couple

A wedding shower was held Friday evening at the Cowgirl Hall of Fame and Western Heritage Center for Susan Tyler and David Bell who plan to exchange nuptials Saturday, June 25. The couple greeted guests along with the prospective bridegroom's parents, Charlie and Margaret Bell of Hereford.

and Morgan Cain, Elmo and Kay Hall, Fred and Ruby Mulkey, Buddy and Alva Lee Peeler, Philip and RoseMary Shook, Della Hutchins, Rex and Shirley Easterwood, Violet Reinauer, Charles and Wanda Hoover, Margaret Ann Durham, Helen Parsons and Ray and Yvonne Simpson.

Tyler, Bell honored with shower

A couple's wedding shower honored Susan Tyler and David Bell Friday evening at the Cowgirl Hall of Fame and Western Heritage Center. The honorees plan to exchange marriage vows Saturday, June 25.

Guests were welcomed by the couple; the prospective bridegroom's parents, Charlie and Margaret Bell; and his sisters, Becky Williams, Sara Belknap and Kathi Lee.

Homemade ice cream and a variety of home-baked cookies were served by Tenna Simpson, Brenda Meives and Lori Hall from the refreshment table covered with a pink and white sheer cloth. It was appointed by garden roses and hurricane globes holding pink tapers.

The hostesses gift was a comforter and linen set. Hosting the event were Fred and Peggy Fox, Bob and Nancy Jossierand, Paul and Lois Scott, B.F.

Among the special guests were the prospective groom's brothers-in-law, Kenneth Williams and Don Lee.

Employees appreciated

"We Have Golden Hearts at Golden Plains" was the theme of the employee appreciation party held at Golden Plains Care Center Monday afternoon. Several door prizes and special announcements were given during the party designed to improve employee morale. The facility maintains a staff of 44 fulltime employees; among the door prize winners were, standing from left, Nita Bryan, Martha Morena, Frances Sanchez, Eladia Acosta, Ernestina Soto, Janie Griego, and Joe Kearns; seated is Evangelina Losolla. Acosta was recognized as Employee of the Month with the resident of the Month to be announced at a later date.

Acosta named Employee of Month at party

Eladia Acosta was recognized as Employee of the Month during an employee appreciation party held Monday afternoon at Golden Plains Care Center.

Acosta has been employed at the center since the facility opened in 1985. She works in the laundry, doing the residents' laundry and linen, then distributing it.

According to Mary Jane Anvik, nursing director of the center, Acosta is deserving of the Employee of the Month designation. "She is a very loyal and dependable employee, has a good attitude toward the staff and residents, and she is always smiling," she said.

Refreshments of heart-shaped cookies, mints, and punch were served during the party and door prizes were awarded.

Special announcements were made by Anvik, including an upcoming employee party, change in the dress code, auxiliary plans and a race. An employee picnic is set for Aug. 6 from 8-10 p.m. at Green Acres, Anvik noted. A change in the center's dress code will allow aides to wear pastel-colored tops instead of white and plans are underway to promote the Golden Girls, the center's auxiliary group. Plans for the Golden Heart Run, set for 7:30 p.m. July 9 at the center, were announced.

High blood pressure treatable

Proper diet is often recommended to prevent and treat high blood pressure, which afflicts more than 60 million Americans. Many doctors suggest that their patients watch fat, cholesterol and sodium intake and eat a variety of foods. Scientists also say that increasing intake of some key nutrients can positively affect high blood pressure and prevent resulting problems:

Magnesium, for example, strengthens blood vessels. Many mineral researchers suggest we should consume as much as 450 milligrams of magnesium daily. Kidney beans, almonds, peanuts and milk are excellent sources of magnesium. Other sources include whole grains, fruits, seafoods, dark green vegetables such as spinach and hard water.

Calcium, in addition to its key role in strengthening skeletal tissue (teeth and bones), also helps reduce blood clotting, one of the leading conditions of high blood pressure and atherosclerosis. Low-fat dairy products are excellent sources of calcium, as are canned fish such as sardines and salmon, dark leafy greens and nuts. A four-ounce portion of pink salmon provides 216 mg. of calcium of 22 percent of the US RDA.

Potassium helps counteract the effects of sodium to raise some people's blood pressure. Studies of groups where relatively high amounts of potassium was consumed found blood pressures to be low. Some doctors suggest that the intake of potassium in a diet should be three times that of sodium, a ratio that sometimes is not met with today's diets. Decreasing daily sodium intake and eating more potassium-rich foods will allow most people to achieve proper sodium-potassium balance. Potassium is abundant in potatoes, sweet potatoes, avocados, raisins, sardines, nuts and bananas.

Because obesity often contributes to high blood pressure, many doctors recommend patients lose weight. This is best achieved under physician's supervision with a diet and exercise program.

Replacing some saturated fats with unsaturated fats and omega 3 fatty acids in the diet also is recommended for a healthy heart. Polyunsaturated fats found in safflower and sunflower seed oils are high in linoleic acid, which helps produce the prostaglandins that regulate blood pressure. Olive and peanut oils are rich in monounsaturated fats. Omega-3 fatty acids, found in fish such as salmon, mackerel and tuna, have been shown to reduce cholesterol and fatty acids in the blood.

A change in diet and habits is made easier today because many of the food components just described are available in convenience products. Mineral-rich vegetables, fruits, nuts and fish, as well as many other foods, are packed in cans for easy use and storage. Food scientists confirm that minerals remain intact in canned foods through their heat processing, especially if liquid is consumed as well as food.

Anniversary reception scheduled

All interested persons are invited to Cultural Extension Homemakers Club's 40th anniversary reception set from 3-5 p.m. Saturday in the ballroom of the Hereford Community Center.

During the reception, the club's history will be presented and special guests will be recognized.

For further information call 364-3824 or 364-2348.

A Packard car reached New York Aug. 31, 1903, after a 52-day trip from San Francisco and became the first auto to cross the continent under its own power.

June 28 golf clinic set

An outdoor golf clinic is set for Tuesday, June 28, at 6 p.m. at Hereford Golf Course for local golfers who wish to improve their games.

Linda Craft, 1987 LPGA Teacher of the Year, will teach the session, which costs $20 per person. Pre-registration forms are available at the Hereford Golf Course; proceeds will benefit the American Cancer Society.

Participants should bring a small lawn chair and pad and pencil for the hour and a-half session. Sponsoring the event is the Deaf Smith County unit of ACS; for more information, call unit president Kee Ruland at 364-0857.

Yesterday's Answer

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Enclosed is an article that was given to me when I was in graduate school many years ago. I am now teaching and decided to make copies for the other instructors. The reply was written by a counselor at this high school. I hope you will run both. I think they are worth the space.—A.M. Manley, Conway, Ark.

DEAR A.M. MANLEY: So do I. Here they are. Thanks for sending them on.

RECIPE FOR MAKING A DROPOUT

Take one small child, give him as little love as possible, kick him around at home, put him in a schoolroom with a teacher who has no imagination and sees no hope for him. Fail him once or twice. Never praise him, treat him as a number rather than as a person, and don't let him feel that he belongs in school. Keep him out of all activities because of his poor grades and transfer him to another school if possible.

Stir these difficulties vigorously, make him angry enough to play truant a few times, add generous doses of embarrassment, burn to a crisp with sarcasm, and bake for two or three years.

If you want to make sure he will be a juvenile delinquent, deny him references for a job so that he is turned down by the first 30 people he approaches. Rejection at an early age can destroy hope and ambition.

If this recipe produces a good American youth, try again.

REPLY

Take one overworked, underpaid teacher in a classroom of 25 to 30 students. Stir in several unconcerned, disinterested, too busy parents who never both to check on their child's progress or respond to deficiency/failure notices or poor report cards.

Add concerned counselors and administrators who push the limits trying to work out a schedule that will enable them to help the struggling student who, by this time, has given up and couldn't care less.

Mix in excessive absences and tardies because school is dull and boring. The result will be inferior products for which there is no market.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My brother "Sam" was divorced a year ago. He has two children by his former wife. His girlfriend knows about one child but he refuses to tell her about the second child, nor will he tell his ex-wife that he and his girlfriend have a new baby.

My family has given Sam two weeks to straighten this mess out.

(That was six months ago.) I am fond of my ex-sister-in-law. She is still included in all family get-togethers. My brother never shows up. I can hardly look her in the eye.

Who should be told first and by whom? Sam will not do it. Many lives are being affected here. Our whole family is living a lie. I, for one, cannot carry on this charade. Please advise soonest.—Shame-Faced Sister in New Hampshire

DEAR SHAME-FACED: I see no reason why Sam's duplicity should become a family project. Why do you feel it is important for his ex-wife to know that Sam has a new baby? What do you care if his girlfriend knows about the second child? Obviously Sam is a heel, but I fail to see why you should play the role of informer. The "facts" could not enhance the lives of either of these women.

Feeling pressured to go "all the way" because everyone else is doing it? You're not alone. For answers to your questions about sex, and to learn how your peers really feel about it, write for Ann Landers' newly revised booklet, "Sex and the Teenager." Send $3 plus a self-addressed, stamped No. 10 envelope (45 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562.

Hints from Heloise

REMOVE TICKS

Dear Heloise: After a camping trip I discovered my child had a tick on his arm. I had never seen one before and had no idea how to remove it.

I called my neighbor and she removed it by covering the tick with petroleum jelly. She left it on for about 30 minutes. The tick backed out and she picked it off with a tweezer and flushed it down the commode.

She told me that sometimes they don't back out so you have to grasp with the tweezer and pull, making sure the head is intact.

I washed the bite area with soap and water and sprayed some anti-bacterial spray on it. Thank goodness it didn't get infected. — Rose Taylor, Lansing, Mich.

SEW PATCHWORK QUILT

Dear Heloise: My little girl is just learning to sew. It keeps her busy for hours.

I started teaching her by cutting up scraps of material I had left and let her make a patchwork quilt for her doll's bed. She is now ready to make her second one and she's already learning what colors and pieces go together.

She's so proud of what she's done and shows the quilts off to everyone who comes to our home. — Mrs. B. Bartlett, Huntington, N. Y.

I bet they look beautiful. Isn't it great when a child loves to do projects like that?

With a little more practice I'm sure she's going to make one for her bed. What a wonderful keepsake for her to show her children one day. — Heloise

THE HEREFORD BRAND
 WANT ADS DO IT ALL!
 YOU WANT IT YOU GOT IT
 CLASSIFIED
 ADDRESS: 313 N. LEE

CLASSIFIED ADS
 Classified advertising rates are based on 14 cents a word for first insertion ($2.80 minimum), and 10 cents for second publication and thereafter. Rates below are based on consecutive issues, no copy change, straight word ads.

TIMES	RATE	MIN.
1 day per word	.14	2.80
2 days per word	.24	4.80
3 days per word	.34	6.80
4 days per word	.44	8.80
5th day FREE

Ten days (2 free) is $16.80 minimum; 15 days (3 free) is $24.80 minimum; one month is $32.80 minimum.

CLASSIFIED DISPLAY
 Classified display rates apply to all other ads not set in solid-word lines—those with captions, bold or larger type, special paragraphing, all capital letters. Rates are $3.95 per column inch; $3.25 an inch for additional insertions.

LEGALS
 Ad rates for legal notices are 14 cents per word first insertion, 10 cents per word for additional insertions.

ERRORS
 Every effort is made to avoid errors in word ads and legal notices. Advertisers should call attention to any errors immediately after the first insertion. We will not be responsible for more than one incorrect insertion. In case of errors by the publishers, an additional insertion will be published.

ASK DR. LAMB

DEAR DR. LAMB: I am a 35-year-old female, 5 feet 5 inches tall. I have an 8-month-old baby. My normal weight has always been 120 to 125 pounds. I was treated for infertility for six months and during that time my weight went up to 147. During my pregnancy, my weight went up to 180. Two weeks after my delivery, I was down to 160 pounds. I dieted and exercised for months. Rather than losing weight, my weight went up to 163 pounds. My doctor admitted it was hormonal but ruled out thyroid. Her advice was to restrict calories to 800 a day and exercise daily. After two months, I lost only four pounds.
Over this two-month period, I changed my diet to a whole grain cereal, fresh fruit and vegetables, low-fat, high-complex carbohydrate diet, combined with aerobic exercise.
In desperation I have begun a professional weight-loss diet under medical supervision. This ketogenic (no carbohydrates) diet guarantees a minimum weight loss of three pounds a week. It is supposed to take 12 weeks to get me down to 125 pounds again. I am paying a good deal of money for this and am a little concerned. The calorie intake starts at 500 calories a day and gradually increases to 700. How much of the initial loss can be expected to be fluid? When I begin to eat normally again, how much can I expect to put back on immediately?
DEAR READER: What a lot of aspects of body fat control your letter involves! May I point out that something was wrong when you weighed only 120 to 125 pounds and you didn't get pregnant until your weight was up to 147. That should tell you something about your normal healthy weight. Don't be surprised if your body tries to keep you at that level. And don't be surprised if, after you starve yourself to your original weight, you have a fertility problem again. While I am not at all enthusiastic about restricting your calories to 800 a day, I am pleased with your earlier slow weight loss of only a half pound a week. That is safer than a "guaranteed three pounds a week." Don't be so impatient. I cannot recommend the "ketogenic diet" or any diet that provides only 500 calories a day. I am not impressed that these diets provide enough complete protein for your body's needs. The protein in these diets is used for energy, not protein requirements.

STRYON CITED
PETERBOROUGH, N.H. (AP) — William Stryon recently was named the recipient of the 1988 Edward MacDowell Medal for his lifetime achievements as a writer.
He will be honored at a ceremony Aug. 21 at the MacDowell Colony, a 450-acre retreat for artists here.
The medal, named in honor of the American composer, is awarded annually to a writer, composer or visual artist who has made an outstanding contribution to the nation's culture. Stryon was cited for his excellence in writing novels, articles and essays.

Abundant Life

WE ARE BECOMING
By Bob Wear

"We are too easily satisfied with ourselves" is a charge often made, and it may be partially justified. It is generally agreed that we are more easily satisfied with 'what we are' than 'with what we have.' Of course, we must have certain things to satisfy our physical, mental and spiritual needs; and we must not minimize the importance of these things; however, when speaking of what we have; it seems that we refer to our physical and material possessions over and above the supply of our needs. 'What we have' is a relevant consideration; but 'what we are' is of greater importance.

The richness and fullness of life depend much more upon 'what we are' and 'what we are becoming' than upon what we have; the abundance of the things we may possess. Therefore, we restrict ourselves unnecessarily; when we refuse or neglect to improve ourselves. The worthwhile living, of which we are capable, can increase and enhance 'what we are'. This should and can be a continuing process of increase; because, in a very real sense, "we are becoming."

"A man who thinks that he is all he ought to be is obviously not what he ought to be. Anyone who has reached his ideals has not an ideal, and a man without an idea is not a man; for the world of moral action is as inexhaustible as the world of knowledge."—Burns.

Personal potentials are limited, in some ways, but they are great, and were given to us with the responsibility to develop them; and it is a continuing process, because we are always 'becoming.' We may reach plateaus of personal development, in some areas, but this does not mean that there is not more progress to be made.

We must "keep on living", while we are alive; we must not let life stagnate. Neither must we permit ourselves just to 'drift along', because this would be a drab, dreary, unhappy existence.

'We are becoming', and what we are becoming depends upon us and our choice of standards and principles by which live.

NEW YORK (AP) — Two violinists, a pianist and a guitarist have received Avery Fisher Career Grants of $10,000 each.

The grants recognize — and help — instrumentalists believed to be on the threshold of major careers.

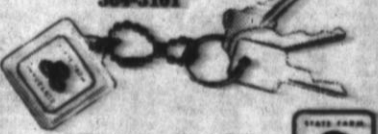

This year's recipients are violinists Pamela Frank and Ida Kavafian, pianist Andrew Rangell, and guitarist David Starobin.
