OPEC Talks May End Without Agreement

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — After three days of deadlock, the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries began its fourth and probably final session today without an agreement on new prices for crude oil.

A. K. Hart, chairman of the Nigerian National Petroleum Co., said the session this morning might set loose limits within which each of the 13 countries could fix its own prices. But any upper limit would not be observed for long if a hard winter in Europe and the United States or a cut in production by a major producer resulted in as big increase in the demand for oil.

Saudi Arabia's Sheik Ahmed Zaki Yamani, who called the oil ministers into more than 12 hours of secret talks Wednesday, said he did not expect any unified price structure to emerge from today's meeting.

Libyans urged a minimum base price of $34 for a 42-gallon barrel. But any ceiling will be junked, just as the $23.50 top set in June was, if the demand for oil exceeds the supply or buyers begin anticipating shortages.

The meeting's host, Energy Minister Humberto Calderon of Venezuela, said OPEC would probably meet in March for another try at a price agreement.

"We have to wait two or three months and see how the market develops," he said late Wednesday night after more than 12 hours of wrangling.

Saudi Arabia and the other price moderates — Venezuela, the United Arab Emirates and Qatar — were hoping a combination of ample supplies of oil and conservation by the industrial nations would force the hawks to lower their prices.

Some observers thought it more likely if limits were set, the bottom basic

Some Oil, Gas Plants May Switch to Coal

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration, finishing work on its program to halve electric utilities' use of oil, plans to order 20 to 25 power plants to switch to coal, a government document suggests.

The orders are expected within the next nine months, but there is no indication how long actual fuel changeovers would take.

Subsequent phases of the plan eventually could force nearly 175 power plants around the country to switch from oil and natural gas to coal.

The program is expected to offer utilities financial incentives to make the switch.

Congressmen from coal-producing states were to get the first look at the president's proposal at a late afternoon meeting today at the White House. Administration officials said, however, that the bill itself would not be ready to send to Congress until mid-January at the earliest. A Department of Energy background document circulated on Capitol Hill lists 117 plants said to be capable of conversion to coal.

Of these, 42 are listed as the most likely candidates for an order to switch to coal.

"The Department of Energy considers converting all 42 stations worthwhile from the point of view of oil savings potential but has identified 20 of these as the best candidates for early action," the paper says.

"Twelve of these are being considered for proposed (oil-burning) prohibition orders in the very near future" under existing law, the document stated.

Although details of the president's planned coal-conversion legislation were still unclear, the Energy Department document said the bill would "implement" the president's program to reduce utility oil consumption by 50 percent.

Fighting Rages in Troubled Iran

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Fighting between rival groups in eastern Iran's troubled Baluchistan region left two persons dead and 36 others wounded, Tehran Radio reported today.

It was the latest outbreak of violence in areas of Iran where ethnic minorities have been agitating for greater autonomy from the central government of Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini.

The 50 American Embassy hostages, meanwhile, were spending their 47th day in captivity. Iran's interior minister raised the possibility of Christmas visits by the American hostages' families but the militants holding the embassy said they have not yet decided on such a move.

The Tehran Radio broadcast gave few details of the fighting in Zahedan, capital of Baluchistan-Sistan province. It said it broke out as "Dr. Yazdi" — presumably top Khomeini lieutenant Ibrahim Yazdi, a former foreign minister — was delivering a speech. The report did not identify the "groups" that fought each other.

It said the Sunni Moslem religious leader of the region, Mowlavi Abdolaziz, issued a message to Zahedan citizens saying the disturbances were engineered by "enemies of Islam."

Senate, House Move Speedily To Reach Chrysler Compromise

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate and House are racing to find compromise terms for giving Chrysler Corp. $1.5 billion in loan guarantees so the automaker can escape imminent bankruptcy and Congress can start its holiday recess

Friday. The Senate approved an aid bill Wednesday that requires $125 million more in wage concessions from Chrysler's 113,000 employees than does a House bill passed the day before. But Senate leaders said the prospects of quick compromise on the wage issue and congressional passage today were "excellent."

It remains uncertain, however, whether members of the United Auto Workers will accept more stringent concessions and whether Chrysler can raise $1.43 billion from private lenders — the two main strings attached to the loan guarantees.

It also is uncertain whether the nation's 10th largest corporation can secure the $500 million in temporary, private financing company officials say is essential to tide the firm over until it can meet all the terms of the federal loan guarantees.

The Senate rejected an attempt Wednesday to provide Chrysler with a $500 million short-term loan after Treasury Secretary G. William Miller told several senators the administration would help the company stay in business by obtaining temporary credit from private lenders.

Chrysler, which expects to lose more than $1 billion this year, said it would have to file for bankruptcy in mid-January if Congress failed to pass an aid bill before beginning a month-long recess (See CHRYSLER, Page 2)

Q — Why are there not any fresh cranberries in the grocery stores this Christmas season? There seems to be plenty of canned cranberry sauce.

A — The Brand contacted Hereford's five major grocery stores and found that only one, Furr's, had a supply of fresh cranberries. Two grocers were able to offer an explanation—a bad cranberry crop this year. Furr's, however, has had its supply of cranberries since before Thanksgiving, and the supermarket manager said a new order probably could not be filled if the present supply runs out.

City Receives $66,000 Rebate for Sales Tax

The City of Hereford has received a check for $66,264.85 as its share of the local-option, one-percent sales tax, according to a report from State Comptroller Bob Bullock's office.

Bullock announced that his office has mailed more than $467 million in rebates to Texas cities in 1979.

The December city sales tax allocation totaled $76.6 million, boosting tax payments for the year by $42.2 million more than in 1978.

"From that standpoint, there was reasonable, but not recession-proof growth in city sales tax rebates," Bullock said in a statement accompanying the report.

"In a blizzard of bad economic news, these totals show municipal treasuries fared moderately well. While overall inflation, which is now close to about 13 percent annually, has softened some of the cities' economic gains, adjustments for inflation paint a better picture," he added.

Bullock said that inflation for items on which sales taxes are collected is estimated to be from six to seven percent a year.

The December city allocations of the local option sales tax do not reflect purchases by Christmas shoppers since returns covering the holiday season are not due until after the first of the year.

The city sales tax is collected by merchants and others charging sales tax along with the four-percent state sales tax and is rebated monthly to cities in which it is collected by the comptroller.

Hereford's yearly rebates now total $404,842.62—a three percent increase over 1978. The city received a $68,606 check in December last year.

Other area cities and their December rebates include Amarillo, $1,067 million; Borger, $115,096; Canyon, $28,081; Dimmitt, $17,399; Dumas, $50,340; Friona, $11,569; Lubbock, $1,25 million; Pampa, $161,340; Perryton, $68,623; and Plainview, $140,468.

Texas Natural Gas Decline Might Be Over

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Railroad Commissioner Jim Nugent said today a late summer spurt in natural gas production may lead to the snapping of a six-year slump in Texas natural gas output.

Nugent told the statewide oil allowable hearing, however, Texas already has experienced the season's first natural gas curtailment. He said Lo-Vaca Gathering Co. curtailed service to six categories of customers in the wake of two days of cold weather this week, and commission personnel are investigating the problem.

"Significantly higher natural gas production in July, August and September gives us the happy prospect that our state will equal or exceed last year's production levels," said Nugent.

Nugent spoke after the commission routinely set the statewide oil allowable for January at 100 percent — the production factor that has been maintained for nearly eight years.

As usual the commission restricted production in the East Texas Field to 86 percent.

Nugent said if the "production surge continues through the end of the year — as I predict it will — it will mark the end of six consecutive years of production decline."

He noted that Texas' natural gas production peaked at 9.6 trillion cubic feet in 1972 and declined to 7 trillion cubic feet last year.

Nugent attributed the increase in gas production to higher prices for interstate gas and "mechanisms to facilitate the movement of gas" into the interstate market.

Nugent also noted that more Texas gas is going out of state, and "we do not have real control over the amount of gas exported and the conditions of export."

"I — for one — do not want to see Texans in the middle of a producing gas field, out of gas, and cold because our resources have been auctioned off to the interstate market," he said.

Prior to the meeting, Commissioner Mack Wallace eulogized former Commissioner Jim Langdon, who died Monday night.

The commissioners and oil and gas executives at the meeting stood in silent prayer in memory of Langdon, who was on the commission from 1963 to 1977. Many in the audience went across town after the meeting for Langdon's funeral.

Major purchasers of Texas crude oil asked the commission for 2,671,478 barrels of oil a day in January, a decrease of 3,039 barrels daily from this month.

Here are the January nominations by major purchasers of Texas crude oil, in barrels per day, with any changes from December in parenthesis:

- Amoco 265,000 (down 2,500)
- Arco 145,000 (down 3,500)
- Chevron 59,354
- Cities Service 90,000
- Conoco 56,000
- Diamond Shamrock 11,612 (up 65)
- Exxon 371,000 (down 4,000)
- Gulf 127,000

Working People

Won't Get Assistance

WASHINGTON (AP) - Congressional delay in writing a "windfall-profits" tax has wiped out any chance millions of American working people will get quick federal help in paying soaring fuel bills. Congress already has enacted legislation providing energy assistance this winter for an estimated 18 million households that qualify for welfare. But nothing in that bill would help working families.

Their incomes, though squeezed by rising fuel prices, exceed welfare levels. The Senate, in passing its version of the windfall tax, allowed an income-tax credit of $20 to $200 a year for families with incomes under $22,000. The size of the credit-which would be subtracted directly from taxes owed-would be based on a family's outlays for home heating. Senate and House conferees seeking a compromise between the two tax bills agreed Wednesday that even if the heating credit is kept in the final version, taxpayers will not be allowed to claim the credit when they file their 1979 tax returns starting next month.

Flight Crew Not

Blamed for Crash

WASHINGTON (AP) - The National Transportation Safety Board was told today that although the flight crew might have saved the aircraft, it was not to blame for the crash of a DC-10 jetliner that killed 273 persons in Chicago last spring.

"It was not a doomed aircraft and could have been flown around if all the warnings had been available to the crew," Chairman James B. King said as the board began deliberating the cause of the worst aviation disaster in U.S. history.

The conclusion was made by the board's staff of investigators in their report of the accident. The finding, if formally adopted by the panel, would end the corporate and bureaucratic wrangling over who or what caused the crash.

The accident occurred last May 25 when an engine dropped off American Airlines Flight 191 on takeoff, causing the big plane to roll sharply to the left, shudder to a stall and plunge into an abandoned airfield less than a mile from the runway.

Stafford Informants

Share Reward Fund

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) - Six persons who provided information that led to the conviction of Roger Dale Stafford for the murders of six steakhouse workers were named Wednesday, as claimants of a $60,000 reward fund.

Attorneys for a committee formed to distribute the reward money filed the names of the six in Oklahoma County District Court. The committee asked for a judgment declaring who will receive the reward and what share will be disbursed to each claimant.

The committee also set a Jan. 30 deadline for any other persons claiming a share of the fund.

Stafford was sentenced to death in October after being convicted of the July 16, 1978 killings of six Sirloin Steakade steakhouse workers here. The bloodbath was the worst robbery-murder in Oklahoma history.

Stafford, a 28-year-old Alabama drifter, was ordered Wednesday to stand trial on three first-degree murder charges in another case-the June 22, 1978 murders of the Melvin Lorenz family of San Antonio, Texas.

Travis Commissioners

Receive Subpoenas

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - All five members of the Travis County commissioners court and three men involved in the $5 million purchase of the Stokes Building by the county have been subpoenaed to appear before a federal grand jury Jan. 15.

The subpoenas say the grand jury is "conducting an investigation of possible violations of federal criminal laws involving mail fraud, use of interstate facilities in aid of bribery and illegal use of an enterprise affecting interstate commerce."

All members of the commissioners court denied any misconduct involving the building purchase. All five voted in October in favor of buying the building.

Travis County District Attorney Ronald Earle said his office was cooperating with the FBI in the investigation.

The Austin American-Statesman said today the investigation centers around two tape recordings. Two of the persons subpoenaed, Commissioner David Samuelson and Wayne Searcy, a broker involved in the sale of the building, met in Searcy's office Monday afternoon said. "presumably without each other knowing about it, tape recorded each other's conversation," the Statesman said.

Girlstown Drive Underway by Lions

The Lions Clubs of District 2T-1 are conducting their 11th annual Girlstown Coat and Shoe Fund Drive.

This annual project was started by the Lions Clubs in order to purchase a new coat and a new pair of shoes for each girl at Girlstown.

There are 113 girls on the four campuses, Whiteface, Berger, Austin and Lubbock. The girls range in age from 2 to 18 years.

"The goal this year is $12,000," said Lions District Governor Charlie Cooley of Berger. Cooley said money to purchase the new coats and shoes comes through donations from the good people in the Panhandle area.

"This will be the first time for many of these girls to pick out something new in a store," Cooley said. "But more important it lets these girls know we do care about them."

Cooley said if anyone wishes to sponsor one girl, they may send $100 to the Girlstown Christmas Fund. The donor will receive a personal letter from the girl being sponsored.

Anyone wishing to help may send a donation to Girlstown Christmas Fund, Box 414, Hereford, 79045.

Wichita Falls Pair Seeks Better Luck

WICHITA FALLS, Texas (AP) - Peace on earth, good will toward men and a little change of luck if you please.

Eugene and Martha Whatley are a little tired of the trials and tribulations of the past year and eagerly await the advent of the new.

After enduring two upheavals in 1979, hope and friends are all the Whatleys have left.

The massive tornado that devastated the Wichita Falls area April 10, heavily damaged the couple's home in the nearby community of Dean and destroyed their two cars.

"All that time we though we had insurance, but we turned around and found out we had nothing," said Whatley.

A computer error had left the family without insurance for either their home or cars.

A lawyer advised Whatley it would cost about $2,000 to go to court and he decided he didn't have "money to gamble."

With the help of a Small Business Administration loan the Whatleys made a down payment on a new car, began repairing their home, which sustained $7,500 damage in the tornado, and bought a large metal building.

Stong winds later hurled the metal building against the new car.

"We had an old blue pickup and a little Pinto next to the other car. It's strange it had to land on that car," Whatley said.

The year's final blow came

Dec. 10 when fire gutted the remodeled home and destroyed their son's car parked next to the house.

"I walked past the kitchen window and saw the cables burning," said Mrs. Whatley. She said she telephoned the Wichita Falls Fire Department but was told they could not help because she lived outside the city's jurisdiction.

"The lady did offer to call the Henrietta Fire Department, though," Mrs. Whatley said.

Whatley, his wife and two sons are now living with another son and daughter in two mobile homes, which sit next to each other down the road from their parents' burned house. Mrs. Whatley said they alternate between the two "so the children can have some privacy."

Insurance will cover damage to the house, but not the cost of lost furnishings.

Friends are helping the family meet those expenses, and a fund was started at a Wichita Falls bank "because somebody has to help them," a friend said.

"There are no words to express our thanks. People could not be nicer. It's hard to sit down and write thank-you notes because I just can't write down what I'm feeling," said Mrs. Whatley. "What else could better demonstrate the spirit behind Christmas and the hopes for a happier New Year."

Debt Attitudes Reported Changing

NEW YORK (AP) - America's attitude toward debt changed in the 1970s. Middle-class families became financial sophisticates. Taking their cues from government and big business, they learned to leverage.

Not just with credit cards either. With sometimes enthusiastic support from lenders, Americans increased the total mortgage debt on single-family homes to $750 billion in 1979, more than triple the 1970 total. Lenders broke the 25 percent standard, a decades-old rule of thumb that theoretically measured the limit of a family's income that could be spent on housing. The new standard was closer to 35 percent.

Inflation and high interest costs forced the break, but they had less to do with other banking changes, such as the inclusion of a wife's income in determining credit-worthiness, and mortgages to unmarried couples. Maturities tended to grow longer. The 30-year mortgage became common for keeping installments within a family's range. Mortgage insurance permitted families to borrow more than they otherwise could. With market values increasing at 17.2 percent from July 1978 to July 1979, many families built up enormous equities in their homes. At that rate, it takes only 4 1/2 years for a home to double in value.

The temptation to use that equity was great, especially since wages were higher than when the mortgage was originated, and thus the ability to repay was stronger. Banks accommodated. Why not, when they could trade an old 8 percent mortgage for a new one at 12?

Lenders too were pressed by inflation and high interest. Savings and loan associations, which hold 55 percent of private home mortgages, found it difficult to compete for funds, or to make profitable loans.

States began in 1979 to lift usury ceilings, some of which forbade mortgages higher than 10 percent, though mortgage rates generally were 11.5. Lifting the ceilings made mortgage

Carter AWOL In Hike Fight, Says Kennedy

DOVER, N.H. (AP) - Sen. Edward M. Kennedy accused President Carter today of being "absent without leave" in the fight against steadily increasing OPEC oil prices.

In a sharply worded attack on the president, Kennedy also said a $5-per-barrel oil import fee, a proposal reportedly under consideration by administration officials, would cost the average American family $413 a year by 1982. He did not say how he arrived at the figure.

In a speech that coincided with a meeting in Venezuela of the oil ministers of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, Kennedy said the oil cartel has raised prices seven times since Carter took office.

"In the face of this threat, the president has been silent," the Massachusetts Democrat said in remarks prepared for delivery before the Rochester, N.H., Chamber of Commerce.

"The commander-in-chief of the moral equivalent of war has been absent without leave. Incredibly, his secretary of the Treasury has been busy asking OPEC to raise prices rather than warning to restrain them."

Chamber Officials Meet in Workshop

Officers and directors of Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce were involved in a workshop today at the Hi Plains Baptist Encampment near Canyon.

President Ken Rogers called the workshop session at the First Baptist Church Lodge for 9 a.m. today. The group will return after lunch.

Purpose of the meeting, according to Rogers, was to outline plans and goals for 1980. Directors will discuss the program of work for the chamber next year, review the policy manual, discuss committee structure and prospective chairmen, and familiarize new directors with the organization of the chamber.

Rogers was re-elected as president of the chamber of 1980. New officers and directors will be formally installed in January. Tom Burdett will be the vice president, and Joan Coupe is the new treasurer.

New directors include Burdett, Bill Johnson, Bob Gentry and Bill Reinauer. Holdover directors are Jerry Payne, Dave Hopper, Butch White, Earl Brookhart, James Hull, Milton Adams, Coupe and Rogers.

Savings Bonds Blasted

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) - The U.S. Savings Bond, a time-honored way of showing patriotism while saving money, is under fire by a San Francisco lawyer who calls bonds a ripoff of the poor.

"To call them a ripoff would be modest," Robert L. Gnaizda, of Public Advocates, a consumer advocate group, said Wednesday.

On Monday, Gnaizda filed an amendment to a class action complaint with the Federal Trade Commission, claiming the U.S. Treasury uses unfair, deceptive practices to peddle the new Energy Bonds, scheduled to replace Series E bonds in 1980.

The original action, filed in September, asks that all bond advertising be halted until every ad contains a clear statement advising consumers of the interest paid on savings bonds.

Treasury's ads use slogans like, "They'll put your financial worries to rest," and "U.S. Savings Bonds are one sure way to make your dreams come true."

Energy Bonds pay 6.5 percent interest, 7 percent if held 11 years, and Series E bonds pay 6 percent. The figures are well below current money market rates and far behind the rate of inflation. Money market certificates currently pay up to nearly 12 percent on an minimum investment of $10,000 for six months. Inflation is running about 13 percent.

"Because of the difference in interest rates between the money market and what the government pays, small savers will lose $2.4 billion this year," said Gnaizda.

Carolyn Johnston, director of public affairs for the Treasury's Savings Bond division, said attacks such as Gnaizda's are unfounded, because the object of the bonds is to promote savings, not investment. "We're talking about deductions of $10 or $20 a month, and where are you going to get a better interest rate on that than with bonds?" she said.

Some 16.2 million Americans bought bonds last year, including 55 percent of federal civilian employees and almost 50 percent of the military. Some $85 billion in bonds are outstanding, officials said.

The Jefferson memorial in Washington, D.C., was dedicated April 13, 1943, the 200th anniversary of Thomas Jefferson's birth.

OPEC

price was expected to be $24 a barrel, $6 above OPEC's previous minimum set last June and the price Saudi Arabia said it would charge for the first quarter of 1980.

The upper limit was expected to be well above $30, the present maximum base price, which Libya is charging. The that the hard-liners would reduce production, as Libya has said it would. But Saudi Arabia, the cartel's biggest producer, said it would continue to produce 9.5 million barrels a day, a million more than it was producing a year ago, and this would tend to offset cuts by some of the other countries.

The ministers met for more than six hours Wednesday in the hotel suite of the Saudi oil minister, Sheik Ahmed Zaki Yamani, seeking agreement.

Some sources said the ministers came close to agreeing on a base price of $26. Others said Yamani refused to go above $24 unless the hawks reduced the differentials or surcharges they collect because of the better quality of their oils or their closer proximity to their markets. But with buyers fighting for oil at higher and higher prices, the hard-liners were not willing to reduce their demands for the sake of unity and to restore a semblance of order to the international oil market.

On the other hand, Yamani and others whose governments have huge investments in the West were not willing to jeopardize them by a wholesale price rise which would increase inflation in the industrialized countries still more.

Iran

Shiite Moslem religion. The nomadic Baluchis have chafed under Tehran's control since first coming under Persian rule in the mid-19th century.

Several other ethnic groups in Iran - some of them Sunni - have sought greater self-rule under the revolutionary government. Most recently, the Turkish-speaking Azaris of Azerbaijan rebelled earlier this month. The violence has generally abated in Azerbaijan in recent days and the Khomeini regime is trying to restore good relations with the Azaris.

On the subject of Christmas visits to the hostages, Interior Minister Hojatoleslam Hashemi Rafsanjani told the newspaper, Bamdad: "There is a possibility their families will be allowed to visit them and we would like such a thing to take place."

But a spokesman for the students who have been holding 50 Americans hostage in the embassy since Nov. 4 said Wednesday there has been "no decision. And such decisions are up to us."

The students again torpedoed another conciliatory expression by Foreign Minister Sadeq Ghotbzadeh, who told The Washington Post that the hostages could be freed if the U.S. government held an official investigation of Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi's alleged crimes.

"The only thing that could free the hostages would be the return of the deposed shah," said a student spokesman.

The students have contradicted every intimation by Ghotbzadeh that the release of the hostages might be arranged even if the shah were not returned, and Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, the leader of the revolutionary regime, has repeatedly given them his full backing. However, he has never voiced any support for any of his foreign minister's suggestions for a compromise.

In addition to the embassy hostages, Khomeini's men are holding U.S. Charges d'Affaires L. Bruce Laingen and two aides at the Foreign Ministry. All the captives are threatened with spy trials.

On the basis of Laingen's correspondence, Khomeini's regime said it recalled its ambassador to the Scandinavian countries from Stockholm last week and arrested him on charges of establishing ties with the CIA.

The embassy captors produced five documents they said Laingen wrote praising the envoy, Abbas Amir-Entezam, a former deputy prime minister and government spokesman.

"Amir-Entezam is indeed interested in and tries to establish good mutual relations between Iran and the United States," one document said, adding that Laingen was trying to cultivate the relationship with Amir-Entezam.

Another excerpt said Amir-Entezam told Laingen it would be easier to have contacts with American officials in Stockholm. The students said Iran's envoys to West Germany and France also were recalled but didn't say why.

Meanwhile, U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim got President Carter to delay a request for a Security Council meeting on sanctions against Iran so Waldheim can pursue "intensive discussions" with Iran's representatives.

Deputy Secretary of State Warren Christopher said among the sanctions Carter was considering proposing to the Council were suspending military shipments, telecommunications, air and rail links and export credits.

this weekend. The company says the aid would help it get back on its feet and become profitable by 1981.

The Senate, on a vote of 53-44, approved the loan guarantees after supporters were forced to accept higher employee concessions to avoid a filibuster.

The bill provides an aid package totaling $3.6 billion in public and private aid. This includes $650 million in wage concessions from employees - $525 million from management and non-union employees.

The House version passed Tuesday provides $1.5 billion in loan guarantees and $1.43 billion in private aid, as does the Senate bill, but employee wage concessions are held to $500 million - $400 million from the UAW.

In return for their contribution, the Senate bill would give Chrysler employees $175 million in newly issued company stock, rather than $150 million in the House bill.

UAW President Douglas Fraser, who reluctantly said he could accept up to $400 million in concessions, rejected the Senate requirements as "too high; we couldn't handle it."

House-Senate conferees meeting today were expected to compromise at about $462.5 million - the mid-point between the two wage concession requirements. But Howard Young, a top aide to Fraser, said meeting that figure was "nearly impossible."

MARMADUKE

IM WASHINGTON

Robert Walters

Unethical involvement?

WASHINGTON (NEA) - Among aficionados of politics, the "revolving door" isn't a department store entrance. It's a technique for abusing public service while advancing the private interests of its practitioners and their clients.

For many years, the beneficiaries of the ethically questionable practice generally were limited to traditional special interest groups such as corporations, unions and trade associations.

But its corrosive influence now reaches to the highest level of politics - campaigns for the presidency - and threatens the integrity of the Federal Election Commission, the government agency responsible for enforcing campaign finance laws.

The most recent case of an FEC official offering a political campaign the specialized skills and knowledge he acquired while on the government payroll involves the commission's former general counsel, William C. Oldaker.

The senior officer in charge of the FEC's powerful legal staff since early 1977, Oldaker began negotiating for a new job in mid-October with representatives of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's presidential campaign organization.

At the time, Oldaker's office was investigating a formal complaint filed by President Carter's reelection committee, alleging that the supposedly independent "Draft Kennedy" committees then operating in various states were, in fact, part of a coordinated effort orchestrated in Washington.

Oldaker says that after his first contact with the Kennedy campaign, he voluntarily withdrew from any involvement in that case. There is no evidence to refute that claim, but FEC employees under Oldaker's direct supervision continued to work on the Kennedy investigation while he was actively considering employment with the Kennedy campaign committee.

Oldaker resigned from the FEC at the end of October to seek "a new challenge." He now is deputy legal officer for the Kennedy campaign, responsible for dealing with the same federal laws and regulations he once enforced.

In his letter of resignation, Oldaker noted that he is technically in compliance with the provisions of the new ethics-in-government law specifically drafted to discourage such "revolving door" activities.

But Oldaker's interpretations of the law haven't always been flawless. While serving as an attorney in the Denver regional office of the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission in 1973, he was demoted and suspended for nine weeks after his superiors discovered that he had falsified records submitted to the agency officials in Washington.

Senior officials in the Carter campaign have privately complained about the propriety of Oldaker's job change, but the president's supporters haven't been especially scrupulous in avoiding potential "revolving door" conflicts of interest in their relations with the FEC.

An example: In 1977, attorney Kenneth A. Gross left the Atlanta law firm of Lipschutz, Susmann, Sikes, Pritchard & Cohen to join the FEC's legal staff in Washington. The senior partner in that firm was Robert J. Lipschutz.

At the time, however, Lipschutz was serving as counsel to the president, the senior legal post in the White House. He earlier had been treasurer of Carter's 1976 campaign committee and thus was legally responsible for the financial reports submitted to the FEC.

Last year, while the commission staff was auditing the Carter campaign reports, Gross was promoted to a new job at the FEC - in charge of audits of all presidential campaigns. Like Oldaker, he says he excused himself from any involvement with the Carter audit.

But also like Oldaker, Gross maintained direct supervision of those working on the Carter case. The ethical problems posed by such situations are quite obvious, yet the FEC's "revolving door" continues to spin at a dizzying pace.

What people are saying...

Michael Douglas

"I think Dad finally feels purged of his guilts and, like any Jewish father, he had many."

— Michael Douglas, actor-producer and son of Kirk Douglas, referring to his father's former difficulties in coping with his son's success. (L.S.)

Steelworkers Pay for Inefficiency

Recently the head of the Auto Workers Union said he would rather see Chrysler go out of business entirely than agree to a three-year wage freeze.

That's what he-Douglas Graser-is willing to see happen. In other words, he demands higher wages for Chrysler workers even if it costs them their jobs.

Really, Mr. Fraser? It was sobering for dues-paying Americans this Christmas season to see so many gifts "imported."

Increasingly Americans have been shopping overseas for everything from cars to shoes, from TVs to toothbrushes.

Much ado is made of our country's dependence on foreign oil-yet there are almost no expressions of concern for our equally critical dependence on foreign steel.

And this dependence will increase as Brazil and South Korea and Taiwan-especially Taiwan-improve their steelmaking major innovations: basic oxygen furnaces, continuous casting, computerization.

In the United States most steelmaking facilities are up to date and competitive by world standards-but the 25 percent that are out of date and inefficient are a drag on the entire stateside industry.

Competition will not tolerate inefficiency.

Some Americans agitate for closing our doors to foreign cars and TVs and toothbrushes and steel.

However, that shortsighted solution would most certainly result in less competition and higher prices in the domestic marketplace.

No, American-made products will cost less only when our factories are more efficient-technologically and otherwise.

The way to bring prices down is for American workers to produce more before they charge more.

In my mailbox, a Mr. Jim Leneaway of Kane, Pa., offers to "work without pay one extra hour each week."

He wonders if anybody will join him.

Garwood Hearing To Determine Loyalty

By MONTE PLOTT
Associated Press Writer

CAMP LEJEUNE, N.C. (AP) — Marine Pfc. Robert Garwood wore a Ho Chi Minh pin, claimed to be a North Vietnamese officer and once said he had fought against Americans, a former prisoner of war has testified.

The allegations were made Wednesday at a hearing to determine whether Garwood should be court-martialed on charges of desertion and collaboration with the enemy. If convicted of either charge, the Adams, Ind., native could be sentenced to death.

Dallas PD Ruled Discriminatory

DALLAS (AP) — The city of Dallas may have to pay as much as $5.7 million in back salaries because a federal judge ruled that the Dallas police department discriminated against hiring blacks.

Attorney Kenneth Molberg estimated it would take at least a year to prepare arguments on the damage phase of the class action suit ruled on Tuesday by U.S. District Judge Patrick Higginbotham.

Judge Higginbotham's decision on the class action suit affects between 1,500 and 2,000 black applicants rejected by the department from August of 1973 to December of 1978, the attorney said.

The suit was filed on behalf of Brenda Davis, a black, and Jayne Durbin, a white, claiming the department discriminated against blacks and women in its hiring practices.

Of the 2,023 officers currently on the force, 130 are women and 106 are black, according to police department spokesman Bob Shaw.

"Our numbers and percentages indicate we've not been standing still since 1972 (in hiring blacks and women)," Shaw said. He said both categories had increased more than 100 percent over the past seven years.

Higginbotham said in his decision the department offered no explanations for the disparity in hiring blacks "except generalized statements about blacks' reluctance to engage in police work because of their attitude 'toward the man.'"

"Apart from its typecasting bias," he said, "that argument blinks at the reality of the numbers of blacks that did apply. The question of why blacks have disparately failed has not been answered."

But the judge said he found no evidence of bias toward hiring women by the department during the period mentioned in the suit.

The judge set no date for arguments on the damage phase of the lawsuit.

"At this point, each member of the class (represented by the suit) is entitled to back pay and reinstatement," Molberg said, adding the number of applicants affected probably will decrease before arguments are brought to court.

The lawyer said rejected applicants who have taken another job would only be entitled to the difference in current pay and money they would have received from the police department. Applicants making more money than they would have as officers would not be entitled to back pay.

"A rough estimate of the amount involved would be between $2.7 and $5.7 million, but it might very well be more," Molberg said.

The attorney said he offered to limit the city's liability to $1 million during pre-trial negotiations, but that figure became moot when no settlement was reached.

The method of figuring back pay also must be decided, he said, and could include promotional raises during the five-year period.

The U.S. Justice Department last year threatened to cut off $15 million in revenue sharing funds to the city unless immediate action was taken to halt discrimination in police hiring and promotional practices.

Testimony in the lawsuit showed 22 percent of the applicants were black and 15 to 18 percent were women. No black or woman has ever been promoted above the rank of lieutenant, according to testimony

Florida Man Acquitted

KERRVILLE, Texas (AP) — A Florida man acquitted of capital murder in the slayings of two Brady women says he has learned his lesson after coming "within a whisker" of facing the death penalty.

"I've been doing nothing but getting in trouble," said Donald Edward Smith Jr., 19, of Tampa, Fla. "Since I was 18 I've been in jail for stupid little things. Sitting through this proved it ain't worth it."

Jurors, who got the case

Tuesday night, acquitted Smith Wednesday morning of murder charges stemming from the Aug. 2 slaying of Molly Farr, 55, and her daughter, Tandy Bennett, 25.

The two women were shot as they slept in Mrs. Farr's mobile home north of Brady. The body of Robert Gandy, 40, also was found in the trailer. Smith was charged with the deaths of the women. No one has been charged with Gandy's death.

Smith said he was nervous about the deliberations and only slept about an hour and a half Tuesday night.

"My heart was jumping," said Smith. "A lot of things go through your mind. I wondered if I was going to make it to 20."

Smith recoiled back and smiled broadly when the verdict was read, but he was not released from custody. He still faces charges in Florida of auto theft and dealing in stolen property.

"I'd rather go to jail for something I did do than for something I didn't do," Smith said after his trial.

One juror, who asked not to be identified, said it took only two votes to reach a unanimous decision in the case.

Smith testified he had made up stories about being involved in the crime to try to impress a man he thought was an underworld crime figure. But that man turned out to be a Florida undercover policeman, Al Luis, who secretly recorded the conversations.

The prosecution built its case around tapes of three of those conversations.

"I almost passed out," Smith said after the verdict. He said he wanted to convince Luis he was a "hit man" in hopes Luis would give him $15,000 to commit a murder in Florida.

Testimony in the case began Dec. 3. Smith's mother, stepfather and father were in court when the verdict was read.

"Thank God!" said Arlene Bergeron of North Providence, R.I., the defendant's mother. "I started to lose faith in truth and justice, but this verdict restored it."

District Attorney Ron Sutton of Junction said. "The jury has spoken. If we were starting the case over tomorrow, we'd do it the same way."

Assistant District Attorney Stephen Ables said. "There are still some unanswered questions. We presented everything we had."

Smith, a ninth grade dropout, said he plans to write a book about his courtroom experience.

"No one," said Smith, "can say I don't have the imagination to be a writer."

Man Escapes from Jail— Hundreds of Miles Away

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — It wasn't your run-of-the-mill escape. No chisel, no tunnel, no guns, no laundry truck through the prison walls for James Hubert Taylor.

The 25-year-old Taylor, serving 11 years in an Alabama prison for larceny and theft escaped last week — but he did it in Brownsville, Texas. He'd been flown there, a Texas prosecutor says, by four law enforcement officers seeking a mysterious tape recording.

The state of Alabama footed the bill.

Joe K. Hendley, chief prosecuting attorney for Cameron County, Texas, said that Taylor flew to Brownsville last Wednesday from Draper prison near Montgomery in an Alabama state plane with the officers. According to Hendley, Taylor had convinced them he could provide a tape recording implicating high-ranking Alabama officials.

Pete Taylor and Herman Pitts of the Alabama Bureau of Investigation, James Stallings of the Covington County district attorney's Office, and Ed Wright of the Board of Corrections.

Hendley said Taylor, who had previously escaped from jail twice, "carried those agents all over this county. He must have made 20 phone calls without them even snapping at his taking them down the primrose path."

Here is Hendley's account of what happened:

After all the running around, Taylor took the officers to the Continental Restaurant, which Hendley described as "the plushiest place in town." Taylor took Stallings to an upstairs bar and said that to get the tape, he had to talk to the bartender alone.

When Stallings tried later to go back to the bar, the bartender wouldn't let him. So he went outside, and later tried with the others to re-enter the restaurant. But the bartender had locked the door and Taylor had gone out the back toward the Mexican border, two miles away.

When the agents notified

Brownsville police, they apparently didn't believe the story and hauled them to headquarters for questioning.

None of the officers involved would discuss the incident. "I don't know the prosecutor and I don't know where he gets his information," R.C. Taylor said.

Lt. Roy Smith of the Alabama Department of Public Safety, said the department "is looking into certain allegations that have been made with the intent to either prove or disprove."

American painter James A. McNeill Whistler flunked out of West Point. He would have graduated in the class of 1855 had he not failed chemistry.

Staubach Cops Title

NEW YORK (AP) — A whirlwind finish by the Dallas Cowboys Sunday not only clinched their National Football Conference East title, but it gave Roger Staubach his second straight league passing championship.

Staubach, who led the Cowboys to two late touchdowns and a 35-34 victory over Washington Sunday that eliminated the Redskins from the NFL playoffs, hit 24 of 42 passes for 336 yards and three touchdowns in that game. That gave the veteran quarterback 267 completions in 461 passes for 3,586 yards and 27 touchdowns. His passing rating was 92.4.

Thanks in large part to Staubach, the Cowboys had the top offense in the NFC with 373 yards per game, second only to AFC leader Pittsburgh's 391.1-yard average. The Steelers had 6,258 yards, the second highest total in NFL history, and paced league scoring with 416 points.

The top passing club was San Diego, thanks to Dan Fouts, the AFC passing leader, who threw for an all-time NFL one-season mark of 4,082 yards.

Other individual offensive leaders were Houston's Earl Campbell, who won the rushing title for the second straight year; Baltimore's Joe Washington, who was the leading receiver with 82 catches; Seattle's Steve Largent, the yardage leader among receivers with 1,237; and New England placekicker John Smith, who was the scoring leader with 115 points on 23 field goals and 46 extra points.

Campbell joined Jim Brown and Bill Paschal as the only players to lead the NFL in rushing in their first two seasons. The Oilers' star and The Associated Press' Most Valuable Player this season ran for 1,697 yards after going for 1,450 in his rookie season. He is the first player to total more than 3,000 rushing yards in his first two years.

Walter Payton of the Chicago Bears, who finished second to Campbell with 1,620 yards, led the NFC in rushing for the fourth straight year. St. Louis rookie Otis Anderson set a rookie rushing mark with 1,605 yards.

NFC Central titlist Tampa Bay had the league's top defense, allowing only 246.8 yards a game and 237 points. San Diego was tops in the AFC with 246 points-allowed; Pittsburgh gave up the least yardage, 266.9 per game.

Houston's Mike Reinfeldt led the NFL in interceptions with 12; Bob Grupp of Kansas City was the top punter with a 43.6 average; Oakland's Larry Brunson was first in kickoff returns with a 25.9 average and John Scarra of Philadelphia was the punt return leader with an 11.4-yard per attempt.

Low Burdette of the Milwaukee Braves beat the New York Yankees three times in the 1957 World Series and had a string of 24 scoreless innings.

Kush Agrees To Drop Suit Against ASU

TEMPE, Ariz. (AP) — Arizona State's ex-football Coach Frank Kush has agreed to drop a $40 million suit in exchange for a reported $200,000 settlement from the university.

"All relationships between Kush and Arizona State University will be terminated," Joe Spring, school spokesman, said Wednesday night, reading from a prepared statement announcing the settlement.

Kush, 51, was removed as coach Oct. 13 by athletic director Fred Miller, who accused him of plotting former punter Kevin Rutledge, and then pressuring assistant coaches to commit perjury if necessary when Rutledge sued Kush and the school for $1.1 million.

Denying that he threw a punch or attempted to cover it up, Kush sued Miller, Arizona State and others, charging that his rights were violated by the dismissal.

The settlement is subject to approval of the State Board of Regents. It was recommended by Arizona Attorney General Bob Corbin, who indicated that legal costs were mounting.

Corbin also had recommended that Kush be given a hearing on the assault and coverup charges, and the university had scheduled one to begin today but it was cancelled as the settlement was announced.

Campbell Named Top Offensive Player Again

NEW YORK (AP) — Running back Earl Campbell of the Houston Oilers was named The National Football League's Offensive Player of the Year today by The Associated Press for the second straight season.

It was his second postseason honor — on Tuesday he was named the NFL's Most Valuable Player by The AP — and also gave Campbell consecutive seasons with double honors. Last year he was also chosen Offensive Rookie of the Year.

In balloting by a nationwide panel of 84 sports writers and sports broadcasters, three from each NFL city, Campbell edged San Diego Chargers quarterback Dan Fouts 39 votes to 34.

Brian Sipe, quarterback of the Cleveland Browns, received three votes, quarterbacks Roger Staubach and Jim Zorn and rookie running back Otis Anderson of St. Louis received two apiece and wide receiver Steve Largent of Seattle and guard John Hannah of New England each received one vote.

"Every time I hear that he's won another award, I'm proud and pleased for the kid — but I'm damn sure not surprised," Coach Bum Phillips said of Campbell. "He has done for us everything you could ask him to do, whether it's carry the ball 35 times or be the decoy and carry it 10."

"He's as good an addition to this ball club as we've made since I've been here and I'd love to think we could get another like him. But I don't believe there are too many more in his class."

The figures bear out Phillips' lavish praise. Campbell erupted for 134 yards last Sunday to finish the season with 1,697 yards (he had 1,450 as a rookie) and became only the third player in NFL history to win the rushing title in each of his first two seasons, matching a feat by Jim Brown in 1957-58 and Bill Paschal in 1943-44.

Campbell finished 87 yards ahead of Chicago's Walter Payton for the 1979 rushing title. A year ago he beat out the Bears' star runner by 55 yards. And this year, Campbell carried the ball a record 368 times, 29 times more than Payton did two years ago when he was the NFL rushing champ with 1,852 yards.

Campbell gained 100 or more yards in seven successive games this year, breaking the record of six shared by Brown (1958) and Franco Harris (1972). Eleven times he rushed for at least 100 yards, matching Simpson's 1973 mark. And 19 times he scored a rushing touchdown, tying Jim Taylor's 1962 record.

Deaf Smith Co. Results

Again this year Pioneer brand seeds are delivering outstanding yields in field after field. But we know it takes more than one year's performance to tell the whole story. Look at these results, then ask your Pioneer dealer to show you records from several years. You'll see for yourself why Pioneer brand seeds have become famous for their consistency.

Rocky Kay of Hereford reported a yield of 11,637 lbs./A. with this corn hybrid as it out-yielded five other hybrids in his hybrid evaluation test. This kind of outstanding performance was seen in 48 tests throughout the Central High Plains with 3311 showing a yield advantage of 495 lbs./A. over competitive hybrids. 3311 has shown excellent drought tolerance and will adjust kernel depth to match growing conditions. It's one you should count on for dependable performance in 1980.

In 38 tests on the Central High Plains, including several in Deaf Smith County, this excellent corn hybrid showed a yield advantage of 269 lbs./A. over competitive hybrids. A very popular hybrid, 3195 has earned its reputation by delivering top performance under a wide range of conditions. High seedling vigor adds extra appeal to make 3195 a top choice for silage or grain in Deaf Smith County.

A tall, semi-upright leaved hybrid, 3360 showed a yield advantage of 268 lbs./A. over competitive hybrids in 45 tests on the central High Plains in 1979. 3360 is one of the most consistent performers you can plant in the Deaf Smith area and has outstanding tolerance to head smut and MDMV. Standability is better than most of the upright leaved hybrids, too.

Outstanding drought tolerance contributes to the consistency this hybrid has shown over the years. In 47 tests on the Central High Plains, 3184 averaged 10,390 lbs./A. in 1979. Over the past four years 3184 has averaged 387 lbs./A. more than competitive hybrids in 148 on-farm comparisons. 3184 has strong cobs that helped speed harvest and it holds ears of medium-textured grain well to minimize field losses.

Oregon Says Someone Posed As Grid Recruit

By The Associated Press

University of Oregon President William Boyd said Wednesday someone may have posed as one of the university's freshman football recruits in three summer classes at Los Angeles Valley College.

Boyd also said at a news conference in Eugene that he had accepted the resignation of assistant football coach John Becker, who arranged for the player's enrollment in the courses.

The Oregon player, Paul Perez, received academic credit for the three courses without doing any work. Becker, who was not available for comment, once was the football coach at the college in Van Nuys, Calif.

Oregon State University reported, meanwhile, that a former assistant coach at the Corvallis school had enrolled a player in an extension course offered at Los Angeles Valley College by Ottawa University of Kansas.

OSU representative William Johnson said OSU officials discovered that former linebacker Coach John Fontes enrolled sophomore Leroy Edwards in the course without Edwards' knowledge.

Johnson said Fontes left the university last month to go into business and that Edwards received no credit for the course.

Boyd said he suspected a stand-in because records from the college showed Perez had taken two of the summer courses and had dropped the third. The University of Oregon had records, indicating Perez received credit for all three courses. Perez was working at a summer job in Illinois at the time.

Nets Whip SuperSonics; Celtics, Spurs Triumph in Pro Action

By TOM CANAVAN
Associated Press Writer

New Jersey Coach Kevin Loughery may like to think that defense has turned Winford Boynes' game around in the National Basketball Association but Wednesday night it was something else — offense; and plenty of it.

Boynes, playing in his second season, scored a career-high 32 points as the Nets whipped the Seattle SuperSonics 122-114 for their first victory over the defending NBA champions in over two seasons.

"Boynes played a fantastic games," said Loughery after watching his team snap the Sonics four-game winning streak. "He has been playing well for us the past month. And what has turned his game around is defense."

In other NBA action Wednesday night, Kansas City defeated Washington 107-97; Boston crushed Philadelphia 112-89; Atlanta held off Los Angeles 119-112; Chicago edged Houston 108-102; San Antonio nipped Indiana 127-123; Phoenix blasted Utah 117-99; Cleveland got by Golden State 128-125 in overtime and Denver downed Portland 114-106.

Boynes, a 6-foot-guard from San Francisco, hit on 12-of-18 shots from the field and eight of nine from the free throw line.

But Boynes scoring was only half the story in the Nets win. The other half was roughly 14-foot tall or the size of two seven-foot centers — George Johnson and Rich Kelley. They combined for 34 points and 22 rebounds as Loughery paired them in the front court after starting forward Jan van Bredda Kolf got into foul trouble.

Kings 107, Bulls 97

Otis Birdsong scored 29 points as Kansas City rolled to its eighth straight victory and moved into first place in the Midwest Division. The Kings have won 16 of their last 19 games.

Elvin Hayes paced the Bulls with 22 points, including 16 in the second half, as Washington lost for the sixth time in its last eight home games.

Celtics 112, 76ers 89

Larry Bird scored 24 points in pacing Boston to its sixth straight win and 15th in 16 games at home. Julius Erving and Steve Mix shared scoring honors for Philadelphia with 20 points each.

Lakers 119, Lakers 112

Eddie Johnson pumped in a career-high 31 points and John Drew added 23 more as Atlanta held off a late Los Angeles surge in winning for the fifth time in its last six games.

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar led the Lakers with 29 points while Norm Nixon added 26 and Earvin "Magic" Johnson had 27.

Women Coaches Going Fast

Tech Fires Fem Cage Coach

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — The fourth women's coach in 2 1/2 years has been fired or resigned under fire at Texas Tech.

The latest is Gay Benson, the women's basketball coach, who has been informed by women's athletic director Jeannine McHaney that her contract will not be renewed.

Miss McHaney declined to comment on the reasons, but the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal quoted Mrs. Benson as saying McHaney disagreed with her coaching techniques.

Benson came to Texas Tech three years ago after compiling a 15-year record of 379 victories and 133 defeats with the high school girls' team at nearby Slaton. The team won the Class

2-A state championship in 1974.

Her first Texas Tech team had a 34-11 record, but last year's team fell to 8-25 last year after forfeiting six games because of an ineligible player. This year's team, made up primarily of freshmen and sophomores, is 8-5.

The newspaper said several members of the team said if Benson goes, so will they.

McHaney was intramural director and a physical education instructor at Texas Tech before being named women's athletic director when the university began a women's intercollegiate program four years ago.

Beta Little, women's track coach, quit last August. Emily

Foster quit in July of 1977 as women's tennis coach. And Foster's successor, Donna Stockton Roup, younger sister of professional tennis player Dick Stockton, quit earlier this year.

"To date, I have not seen any improvement in your coaching techniques at practice, and there is great internal turmoil on the team," McHaney said in an Oct. 17 memo that the coach passed along to the newspaper.

Benson said she wrote a letter defending her position and coaching techniques.

From then until the Nov. 6 opener, Benson said, McHaney or an assistant monitored every practice, she told the newspaper.

Benson told the newspaper that McHaney told her Nov. 30 that if she didn't resign by Dec. 10, she would be fired.

She did not resign, and last Friday, Benson told the newspaper, McHaney told her that her contract would not be renewed. Benson said she asked women's sports information director Craig Pletenik to notify the Lubbock media about the firing.

He refused, she said, saying McHaney had instructed him not to.

McHaney declined to discuss the reasons for the firing.

However, Benson said the athletic director met with her last July and laid down four areas in which immediate improvement were needed:

—An improvement in last season's 8-25 record and hopefully a finish of fourth place or better among Texas women's basketball teams.

—More consistency on part of Benson's part in building the women's basketball program and less player attrition.

—A more positive approach in her dealings with players during games and practices. McHaney complained that Benson humiliated her players in front of their peers and the public on more than one occasion.

—And improvement in Benson's "physical and emotional problems." (Benson suffered a miscarriage last February, in the middle of the season.)

Huskies, Longhorns Drill For Sun Bowl

By BILL GREER
Associated Press Writer

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — The University of Washington Huskies and the Texas Longhorns were scheduled to work out today in final practice sessions before Saturday's Sun Bowl.

Huskies coach Don James planned another heavy workout the fourth since the team arrived Monday.

James says both teams are close statistically on offense, but, "Defense is where Texas really stands out."

"Texas completely shut down Baylor and they also stopped Oklahoma's running game," he said.

Knee injuries will cause both teams to play without the top rusher on each squad. Leading Huskies rusher Joe Steele and Texas running back A.J. "Jam" Jones will sit out the nationally televised (CBS) game.

Texas coach Fred Akers Wednesday confirmed that quarterback Donnie Little, who sat out the last two games with an injured arch, would start Saturday.

Akers said he is planning on playing without leading receiver Johnny "Lam" Jones, who has a kneecap infection and is on medication. Speaking of Jones' replacement, Akers first said, "We'll draw straws, take volunteers." He finally named Herkie Walls as the possible replacement.

Akers planned short workouts today and Friday, "about an hour to loosen up a little bit, break the tension and meet some of our fans."

James said his team "needs some good workouts" this week.

Akers said, "They (Washington) throw the ball more than anyone we've faced that has a running attack, which they do. They run more man-to-man defense than any team we've played."

The game is scheduled to start at 11:30 a.m. (MST). The stadium's 33,122 seats are sold out, and afternoon temperatures are expected to reach the mid-60s under sunny skies.

Washington quarterback Tom Flick, who passed for 245 yards against the University of Southern California, will start against Texas.

Both teams ended the 1979 season with 9-2 records. Texas was 6-2 in the Southwest Conference; Washington was 6-1 in the Pac 10.

Texas defeated Washington the last two outings, in 1974 and 1975.

The Longhorns shut out Maryland, 42-0, in last year's Sun Bowl game.

When Don Buse, a skillful guard joined the Phoenix Suns, it was the first time in his basketball career that he had played for any kind of team outside the state of Indiana.

Louisville Upsets Buckeyes, 76-65

By BARRY WILNER
Ap Sports Writer

Louisville found a way to impress and depress Ohio State...the Cardinals pressed the pants right off the Buckeyes.

Denny Crum's 11th-ranked Cardinals used a full-court press to spur streaks of 13 and 12 points to overcome the second-ranked Buckeyes 75-65 Wednesday. They also got nine assists and 19 points — eight in the final three minutes — from Darrell Griffith in boosting their record to 6-0. Ohio State is 5-1.

"We started shooting too quickly against the press," OSU Coach Eldon Miller said. "We got out of our set pattern and we also got a little careless with our passes."

Crum, who played and coached under the master of the press, John Wooden of UCLA, added, "I think that's a characteristic of the press."

Miller benched three of his starters, including freshman star Clark Kellogg and 6-foot-8 forward Jim Smith in the first half because they couldn't take the pace. Louisville took command with the Buckeye subs on the floor.

"I knew it was going to be a tough game and when you run up and down the court that hard, you have to rest some players," Crum said.

Needing little R&R for Louisville were Derek Smith, who scored 18 points, Jerry Eaves, who had 11, and Rodney McCray, 10 points. Kelvin Ransey, scoring in double figures for his 69th consecutive game, paced Ohio State with 21 points while Herb Williams added 20.

The only other Top 20 team in action was No. 6 DePaul, which squeaked past Eastern Michigan 57-55. Mark Aguirre put in 19 points for the 5-0 Blue Demons, who held a 15-point lead with 13 minutes to play and decided to play slowdown. Eastern Michigan scored the final seven points of the game and had a shot at extending DePaul into overtime. But Anthony White's 28-footer missed at the buzzer.

Elsewhere, it was Tennessee 79, Alabama 78 in triple overtime; Southern California 82, New Mexico 79; Maryland 70, Georgia Tech 60; Cincinnati 61, Pittsburgh 60; Temple 74, Penn State 48; Jacksonville 62, Catholic 45; Mississippi 68, Southern Mississippi 65; North Carolina State 100, Campbell 71; Wake Forest 92, Richmond 75; Texas Christian 99, Georgia State 82; Colorado 98, Central State, Oklahoma 69; Pepperdine 87, Oklahoma 71; San Francisco 65, Cal-Santa Barbara 58; Utah State 96, Utah 88.

Tennessee, 6-1, got 33 points from Howard Wood and game-winning basket from Reggie Johnson with four seconds left in the third extra period to beat Alabama, which was led by Eddie Phillips with 24.

"When it was all said and done," said Tennessee Coach Don DeVoe, "I guess we did enough good things to win."

"We played just as hard as you could ask," said Alabama Coach C.M. Newton. "I've been coaching 25 years and I don't know when I've been prouder of a team. I told our kids there wasn't a loser in this game."

Outmanned New Mexico, which has lost seven players due to academic problems, managed to stay close to the Trojans, who got 28 points from Purvis Miller. The game was tied 11 times and the lead changed hands 10 times in the second half.

Mustang Mania Is Moving to Gym

By GARY GARRISON
Associated Press Writer

The famous San Diego chicken was on hand for laughs and Southern Methodist and Texas Wesleyan were there for a basketball game.

The basketball game was a laugher, too. The unbeaten Mustangs rolled to an easy 112-85 victory over Texas Wesleyan Wednesday night.

In the other game involving an SWC game, Texas Christian slipped past winless Georgia State, 99-82.

The Mustangs are off to their best start ever with seven straight victories, giving Mustang Mania, basketball style, some momentum going into the Kentucky Invitational Tournament starting Friday night.

Dave Piehler had 20 points and five other Mustangs were in double figures. Billy Allen had 14 points and 17 assists, Ollie Hoops had 12, Mark Holiman had 11 and Phil Hale wound up with 10.

Texas Wesleyan's Tom Roe was leading scorer for the night with 27. Texas Wesleyan is 6-13.

Dockery Johnson had 20 points to lead Texas Christian to the victory over Georgia State. Jon Mansbury, who didn't start the game, had 19 points and 19 rebounds for the Horned Frogs.

TCU is now 3-2 while Georgia State is 0-6.

The Arkansas Razorbacks go to Little Rock for a game against Louisiana State University and Texas Tech is at Vanderbilt for the only games involving SWC teams.

Six SWC teams begin tournament competition Friday night. Baylor is in the Bayou Classic at Lafayette, La. SMU is at the Kentucky Invitational. Houston and Rice are in the Bluebonnet Classic at Houston, Texas A&M is in the Nevada-Las Vegas tournament and TCU is at Fresno, Calif. for the Fresno State Tournament. In the only non-tournament game Friday night, the Texas Longhorns host Hardin Simmons.

Decorating Not Fun

RIDGEFIELD, Conn. (AP) — A card in the mail this morning invites me to a neighbor's house for a Christmas tree decorating party.

I regret sending my regrets. As a keen observer of humankind, I would be truly interested in seeing how people can have a good time, laugh and drink and be civil to one another, while decorating a Christmas tree.

At our house in my youth, trimming the tree was necessarily a very private affair, the closest the family ever came to civil war. Because of the thinness of the walls, the neighbors may have shared in the event and even taken sides in the various skirmishes over tinsel vs. snow, colored bulbs over all-of-a-kind, blinking or regular lights, etc., but they never were invited in to join the hostilities.

These always took place on Christmas Eve. The tradition was more economic than sentimental. My father always waited until the last minute of closing time, certain that the merchants would drop their prices drastically rather than be stuck with a surplus of unsellable trees on the day after Christmas. We three boys — I was the middle one with a year's difference on each side — sweated out the Christmas countdown in fear that the best trees or perhaps even all of them would be gone by the time Father made his move.

Should we start at the top or the bottom? Do the lights go on first or the ornaments? Perhaps this year we should start with the tinsel "rain" or first hang those striped candy canes we got at school on the outer branches?

Such decisions were never taken quietly or unanimously in our family. Mother often turned on carols on the radio to drown out father's oaths.

Then came the sublime moment of truth. Father got down on all fours, crept beneath the lower branches, sorted out the ganglia of extension cords and triple sockets, and inserted the prongs into the outlets.

Let there be light. And there was, in some areas.

But at least four of the nine sets of lights were not on. In those days, one dead bulb knocked out a whole set, and so began the irritating, exacting, at times jolting job of jesting each light without blowing a fuse or falling off the ladder into the tree from a sudden shock.

But at last the job was done. Every light sparkled. Even the bulbs with chipped paint had been discarded and we had all played the game of making sure that two reds or two greens were not next to each other.

One Christmas morning, among the earliest in my memory, we arose with a clatter to the tumble of church bells and stamped into the front room.

And what to our wondering eyes should appear?

Marcus Tullius Cicero, our cat, asleep in the branches halfway up in the tree amid a chaos of broken ornaments.

That was some party, let me tell you.

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today is Thursday, Dec. 20, the 354th day of 1979. There are eleven days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: In 1813, the United States established its first internal revenue system, to raise money for the government.

On this date: In 1803, a flag-raising ceremony in New Orleans marked the consummation of the Louisiana Purchase, as the territory was transferred from France to the United States.

In 1869, South Carolina became the first state to secede from the Union.

In 1922, 14 republics of Russia formed the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics.

In 1972, Northern Ireland experienced one of its bloodiest days: gunmen killed eight men and wounded five others.

In 1976, Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin resigned after losing his government's slim margin of parliamentary seats.

Ten years ago, Americans B-52's hammered Vietnam's A Shau Valley, where communist activity had recently stepped up.

Five years ago, the 93rd Congress rewrote the nation's basic trade law — for the first time in a dozen years — and then adjourned.

One year ago, Israeli planes struck three Palestinian camps in Lebanon in retaliation for Palestinian terror attacks, and dozens were reported killed or wounded.

Today's birthdays: Actress Irene Dunne is 75. Director George Roy Hill is 57. Senator Harry Byrd is 65.

NEW YORK (AP) — First place in the A.C. Nielsen Co.'s weekly prime-time ratings changed hands for the fourth week in a row, with ABC winning the networks' competition and CBS' "60 Minutes" the most-watched program.

CBS listed six of the 10 highest-rated shows in the week ending Dec. 16. But ABC did well from there on, and managed, with one exception, to avoid the bottom five in the week's rankings.

ABC's rating for the week was 19.9, to 19 for CBS and 16.6 for NBC. The networks say that means in an average prime-time minute during the week, 19.9 percent of the country's TV-equipped homes were tuned to ABC.

ABC and CBS have swapped first place each of the last four weeks, and ABC leads the ratings race for the season so far.

For NBC, it was the eighth last-place finish in nine weeks, after a quick start that led to speculation that last year's No. 3 network was about to turn it around.

The first-place finish for "60 Minutes" was the news-magazine's third in six weeks. CBS has built its challenge to ABC's predominance in the ratings on regular series, like "60 Minutes" and "One Day at a Time." No. 2 in the most recent ratings.

CBS did get a boost from a special, "The 4th Annual Circus of the Stars," which tied for third with ABC's "Three's Company." ABC scored, meanwhile, with "NFL Monday Night Football," the key game between Pittsburgh and Houston.

The rating for "60 Minutes" was 31.5. Nielsen says that means of all the homes in the country with television, 31.5 percent saw at least part of the program.

NBC and CBS each had two of the week's five lowest-rated shows, behind ABC's "Out of the Blue," ranked 67th.

"Paris," on CBS, was 68th, followed by "Prime Time Live" and "Shirley," both from NBC, and "California Fever," from CBS.

The 10 highest-rated shows: "60 Minutes," with a rating of 31.5 representing 24 million homes, and "One Day at a Time," 28.2 or 21.5 million, both CBS; "The 4th Annual Circus of the Stars," CBS, and "Three's Company," ABC, both 27.2 or 20.8 million; "Archie Bunker's Place," 26.5 or 20.2 million, CBS; "Angie," 26 or 19.8 million, ABC; "Dallas," 25.7 or 19.6 million, and "M-A-S-H," 25.5 or 19.5 million, both CBS, and "NFL Monday Night Football," Pittsburgh vs. Houston, 25.1 or 19.2 million, and "Happy Days," 25 or 19.1 million, both ABC.

The next 10 shows: "Dukes of Hazzard," CBS, and "Eight is Enough," ABC.

tie: "Taxi," ABC; "WKRP in Cincinnati," CBS; "Love Boat," ABC; "Little House on the Prairie," and "Bob Hope Christmas Special," both NBC; "Mork and Mindy," ABC; "A Charlie Brown Christmas," CBS, and "CHiPs," NBC.

Amtrak Train Crash Injures at Least 44

ORANGEFIELD, Texas (AP) — An Amtrak passenger train en route from New Orleans to Los Angeles rammed into the rear of a Southern Pacific freight train Wednesday night near this southeast Texas community, injuring at least 44 persons, authorities said.

Most of the injured were taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital in Beaumont by 12 ambulances. One person was treated and released at Orange Memorial Hospital in Orange.

Pat Stocker, nurses' supervisor at the hospital, said early Thursday morning that 19 of the injured already had arrived at the hospital and 24 others were en route.

"They have all been very minor, of the patients we have seen so far. There have been no fractures or anything of that sort. They have been shaken up and a few have bruises. We have not admitted anybody yet," she said.

Orange County Sheriff Chief Deputy Jim Adams said the injured included about 13 children.

He said most of the injured were "jailed and thrown forward by the impact." He said none of the passenger cars sustained damage.

Amtrak officials in Houston said the passenger train was full but they were unable late Wednesday night to determine how many passengers were aboard. The train, Amtrak's Sunset Limited, was scheduled to have arrived in Houston from New Orleans at 9:45 p.m.

Brian Duff, an Amtrak spokesman in Houston, said late Wednesday that the engine of the Amtrak train collided with the caboose of the freight train.

He said the caboose, one car of the freight train and the baggage car of the Amtrak train derailed following the impact.

Both trains were west bound when the collision occurred, said sheriff's spokesman Debbi Rowland.

Long Distance — Big at Christmas

While Santa Claus makes his rounds in a sleigh pulled by a team of reindeer, many Texans will make their Christmas journeys by long distance.

To avoid possible delays during the busiest long distance day of the year, Southwestern Bell suggests calls be made during the non-peak hours between 1 p.m. and 5 p.m.

"To save money as well as time, telephone customers can dial their calls direct, using One-Plus," said David Ortiz, manager for Southwestern Bell in Hereford.

"Holiday long distance rates will be in effect from 8 a.m. until 11 p.m. Christmas Day, providing an especially merry Christmas for customers who are expected to make a record 1.9 million long distance calls in Texas and 36 million nationwide," Ortiz said.

Americans Cut Christmas Buying

NEW YORK (AP) — Inflation-battered Americans say they are cutting back on holiday gift-giving and entertainment because prices have continued to climb steadily throughout the past year, an Associated Press-NBC News poll says.

And the public sees no relief from inflation coming in 1980, the poll also found.

The AP-NBC News poll was conducted Dec. 11-12 — the middle of the gift-buying season — and is based on telephone interviews with 1,595 adults across the country.

Sixty-one percent of those questioned said they are cutting back on holiday gifts and entertainment because such traditional activities are more expensive this year. Thirty-seven percent said they are not cutting back and two percent were not sure.

This cutting back comes as Americans foresee prices continuing to rise through the next 12 months.

Sixty percent of the public think inflation will worsen next year, a dire prophecy, indeed, since inflation in the past year has been the worst in nearly 30 years in this country. Twenty-eight percent said inflation will continue along at its current rate for the coming months. Nine percent said inflation will slow down and 3 percent were not sure.

This view of the future course of prices has remained relatively stable for the past three months and is almost identical to the public's view of inflation in November 1978.

The forecast of continued inflation is mirrored in part in the public expectation of a generally worsening economy in 1980.

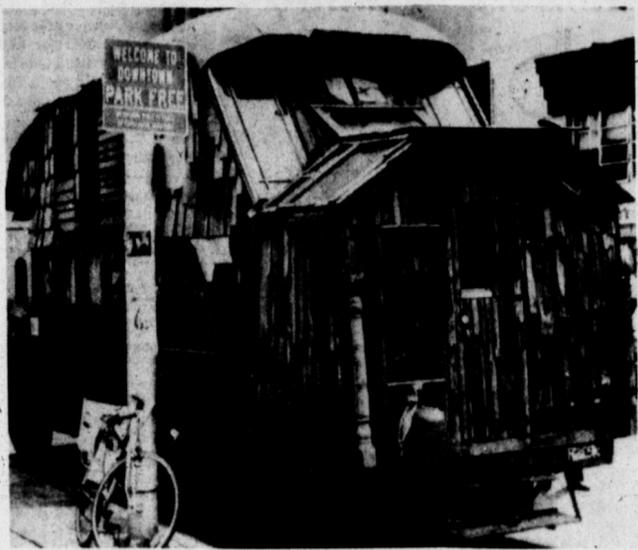

Fifty-five percent now say that the economy will get worse in the next 12 months, while only 14 percent expect improvement. Thirty-six percent see no change in the economic picture and 5 percent were not sure.

Although this is not an optimistic view, it is the brightest forecast of the economy by Americans generally since October 1978. The main change in the public perception has been a shift from pessimism about the economy to a greater sentiment that there will be little change in the nation's economic health.

For example, in the November AP-NBC News poll, 50 percent said they expect the economy to worsen, and 18 percent expected improvement. Twenty-nine percent said they expect no change and 3 percent were not sure.

As with every sample survey, the results of the AP-NBC News poll can vary from the opinions of all those with telephones across the country because of chance variations in the sample.

For polls with about 1,600 interviews, the results should vary no more than 3 percentage points either way simply because of sample error. That is, if one could talk to all adults in the country, there is only one chance out of 20 that the results would vary from the findings of this poll by more than 3 percentage points.

AUSTIN—The United States has at least one last resort in providing oil for the nation in event of a national emergency.

Oil stored in underground caverns in Texas and Louisiana can now be taken out of the ground if needed.

The oil was stored for the Strategic Petroleum Reserve authorized by Congress in 1975, following the Arab oil embargo. At that time a goal of storing 500 million barrels in underground salt domes was announced. President Carter raised that goal to one billion barrels by 1985.

The amount now in storage is not even close to the goal. There is only about 91.7 million barrels of crude oil—the amount America imports every 11 days—now in storage.

The multibillion dollar withdrawal system can pump out a million barrels per day from Bryan Mound in Texas and from two Louisiana sites. That's not much oil for a country with an appetite for 100 billion gallons of gasoline per year.

Purchases for the program have been stopped at this time. It appears that this seven billion dollar program may have been placed on the back burner as prices have risen and supplies have tightened.

South Korean Sentenced To Die

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — President Park Chung-hee's assassin today received the death sentence he asked for, but the military court rejected his plea for clemency for the "innocent sheep" who joined him in the slaying and sentenced six of them to share his fate.

"I am happy to have found good cause for death, and I do not want to beg for my life," the former chief of the Korean Central Intelligence Agency, Kim Jae-kyu, told the five officers of the court martial in his final statement.

The court found Kim, five of his KCIA men and Park's secretary Kim Kae-won guilty of the Oct. 26 assassination of South Korea's authoritarian president and five of his bodyguards. The court immediately sentenced the seven men to die.

An eighth KCIA man was convicted of destroying evidence by burying the guns used in the assassination. He was sentenced to three years in prison.

The seven men sentenced to death were convicted on two charges: murder with intent for sedition and attempted sedition. They exhibited no emotion as the verdicts and sentences were read.

Kim Jae-kyu shot and killed Park and the president's chief bodyguard during a dinner attended also by Kim Kae-won while the KCIA agents gunned down the president's other bodyguards in an adjoining room.

The former KCIA chief testified that it was "heart-breaking" for him to kill the president but he did it to restore democracy to South Korea. Kim said he had been planning the slaying since 1972 and had brought a gun to meetings with Park on four occasions but each time lost his nerve.

The court said Kim's action posed "a great threat or challenge to free democracy." The prosecution contended he killed Park so he could become president, a claim Kim denied in his testimony.

Park seized power in a military coup 18 years ago and rewrote the constitution in 1972 to insure his continued one-man rule. A clique of army officers has pushed its candidates into key Cabinet posts in an apparent bid to continue Park's hard-line policies.

Six of those sentenced to die are civilians, and their sentences are automatically referred to the army Court of Appeals for review and confirmation or reduction. The appellate court's ruling can be appealed to the Supreme Court, and it would have to uphold the death sentences before President Choi Kyu-hah, Park's successor, could sign the death warrants. Civilians are executed hanging.

Donations Recognized

Tuesday afternoon during the Hereford CowBelles Appreciation Tea held in the E.B. Black House, Marn Tyler, CowBelle representative presented left Mike Bradford, Bradford Trucking and Charles Hoover, Southwestern Feedyards, with certificates of appreciation recognizing their donations and service to the CowBelles. Also recognized but not present was Carl Kleuskens, Dawn Cattle; Ted McWhorter, local farmer and rancher; Ray Polan, Polan Land and Cattle company; and Speedy Nieman, Hereford Brand. Rebekahs Honor Special Guests

Family members of Sister Earline Manning were special guests of Hereford Rebekah Lodge #228 Tuesday evening when the charter was draped in her memory. Mrs. Manning was a member of the Hereford Lodge over 48 years and served in many offices. She was a Past Noble Grand and Past District Deputy President of District #5. The impressive ceremony was performed by Sisters Martha Bridges, Lydia Hopson, Faye Brownlow, Helen Sowell and Ursalee Jacobsen. Noble Grand Helen Sowell presided at the business session as members voted to forward a cash memorial gift from Hereford State Bank to the IOOF Children's Home at Corsicana, in honor of Sister Earline. Other business included reports of visits to the sick, greeting cards, flowers and dishes of food. Installation of new officers is tentatively planned for January 8, 1980. Lodge meetings will not be held on the next two meeting dates as they both fall on holidays. Nellie Beauford served as hostess to Helen Sowell, Martha Bridges, Lydia Hopson, Ruth Rogers, Susie Curtsinger, Verna Sowell, Bessie Saly, Ursalee Jacobsen, Ada Hollabaugh, Oia Hacker, Edna Mathes, Mary Flowers, Sadie Shaw, Peggy Lemons and Faye Brownlow.

Check Presentation

Tuesday afternoon during the Hereford CowBelles Appreciation Tea, CowBelle president Kathy Polan recognized and presented Nolan Grady, Girlstown USA committee chairman for the Non's Lions Club with a check for $332. The money was raised through the CowBelles recent bake sale held in Sugarland Mall. The check will go to buy beef for Girlstown. [Brand photo by Denise Smith]

Project Xmas Card Welcomes Donations

Local residents are reminded that they can still make contributions to Project Christmas Card at either local bank for the remainder of this week. Individuals who make their PCC donation after Dec. 17th will have their names signed to a belated holiday greeting page in The Brand's New Year's Day issue. Project Christmas Card, sponsored by Hereford Medical Auxiliary for 23 years, gives its proceeds for the purchase of medical care equipment, selected by the community's physicians and dentists. In lieu of sending Christmas cards locally, residents are asked to donate to Project Christmas Card and extend their holiday greetings through a joint message in The Brand's Dec. 25th issue. Project Christmas Card has provided more than $72,000 for improvements in the city's health care facilities and a health careers scholarship fund since it was begun in 1956. Co-chairman of the current PCC campaign are Carolyn Canon and Claudia McBrayer.

Silent Auction on Art Planned During Dance

Western paintings by Dr. Clarence Kincaid of Lubbock, Kenneth Wyatt and Keith Avery of Springer, N.M. will be sold in a silent auction during the first Hall of Fame "Hall-day Benefit Ball" on Dec. 28. Tickets for the event are on sale now at $15 each from Patsy Patrick, 364-6893, Cissy Wagner, 364-6475 or at the Hall of Fame office, 364-5252. The price of the tickets is considered as a donation to the National Cowgirl Hall of Fame and Western Heritage, therefore it is tax-deductible. "Susie and Group" featuring vocalist Susie McGee will provide live dance music during the Hall-day Ball, slated from 8 p.m.-12 midnight on the 28th in the Knights of Columbus Hall. The ball will begin with the Western tradition—the Grand March—and will be highlighted by several special dances, such as Ladies' Choice, Virginia Reel, Tag and others. Guests are asked to attend in Western chic costume to depict the theme of "Rhinstone Roundup." Cash prizes of $25 each will be awarded to the best-dressed "Rhinstone Cowgirl" and "Rhinstone Cowboy." Although it is hoped that all will participate in the costume event, guests wearing formal attire will be admitted. The Hall-day Benefit Ball is being planned by a steering committee composed of Jeanette Case, Roberta Caviness, Ruth Newsom, Sunny Lemons, Patsy McGinty, Betty Rudder, Thelma Marsh, Angel Stubblefield, Pat Hill and Margaret Formby.

Ann Landers

A Long Way To Go

Dear Ann Landers: I never thought I would have any reason to write to you. Well, I was wrong. I am a black male, 38 years old, 6-4 and I weigh 290 pounds. I credit myself with being a fairly intelligent person.

Dear Ashamed: In the future, by all means, stop and offer help to anyone who needs it. I assure you, your kindness would be deeply appreciated.

It is a sad commentary on our times that a gentleman who is so well-intentioned would stop and think of the "consequences" of being misunderstood because of the color of his skin. We have made a great deal of progress in this area, but it is obvious that we still have a long way to go.

Dear Ann Landers: This morning I bought a newspaper from a coin-operated vending stand, and while the door of the device was still open a young couple came by and each of them helped themselves to a paper. When I saw them nonchalantly walk away without depositing any money, I asked if they were going to pay for the papers. They said no.

I thought their behavior was tacky and dishonest. What do you think of couple of well-dressed commuters who would stoop to stealing in order to save a few cents? --G.P.

Dear G.P.: I think the same as you. They are tacky and dishonest.

Dear Ann Landers: A few weeks ago a reader asked, "If a woman has had an abortion can she bear a child without experiencing any complications?" You quoted an eminent gynecologist who said, "Yes."

It is my understanding that if there was an Rh incompatibility in a pregnancy—whether the pregnancy was terminated by abortion or not -- and if the Rhogam vaccine was not given at the time of abortion, future pregnancies need to be carefully monitored and possibly special treatment given to prevent a brain-damaged child.

Will you please recheck your source? --J.B., Chicago

Dear J.B.: I did, and he said, "J.B. is correct. If a woman is Rh-negative and not given Rhogam, she may indeed have problems with child-bearing. Illinois state law provides that any woman undergoing abortion shall have an Rh factor test, and if that person is Rh-negative and has no Rh antibodies, she is given Rh sensitization prophylaxis."

Thank you for writing. The original response may have been misleading.

Going to a wedding? Giving one? Or standing up in one? Even if you're already married Ann Landers' completely new "The Bride's Guide" will answer questions about today's weddings. Inheritance Problems Spark Family Conflict COLLEGE STATION — If Aunt Sarah dies "without a word" about her will, she risks sparking a family conflict.

Even death can't free us from misunderstandings, unless we take early steps to avoid them, research says.

Do two things: keep an updated will and explain it to your family, says Dr. Betty Jo Smith, a family life education specialist.

Dr. Smith is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service,

The Texas A&M University System.

"Of course, the two steps don't guarantee total success, but they'll help, the specialist insists.

"We all know that a 'no will situation can almost assure conflict, but research reports that one of ever seven cases with a will produces it, too, Dr. Smith says.

Here's a brief look at the "whys," based on what surveyed families said were the key factors:

Most conflict arises through different views among family members on what is equal and what is fair.

Also, remember that some of the very principles used to decide inheritance are the ones that comes under the fire of differing views.

These principles include the idea that some right to inherit stems from long residence in a house—and the idea that "last-name identity" gives a person some rights to the deceased's property.

Other principles include the idea that blood relationship and frequent contact with the deceased give a person some right to inherit.

Still other principles are the idea that material support of the deceased — and co-residence with the deceased — carries some rights and that kinship closeness and congenial relationships increase rights, while hostile relationships decrease rights.

Stanton Dogie Roundup

Our basketball players have certainly been busy with practice and games plus staying up with their school work. (At least, if they haven't been staying up with schoolwork, they'll be spending game time in the classroom). We do have a fine bunch of athletes and their season record indicates this. The record, so far:

- Girls—7th, 1-4 total, 1-2 in District.
- Girls—8th, 6-5 total, 1-0 in District.
- Girls—9th, 9-2 total, 3-0 in District.
- Boys—7th, 3-4 total, 1-2 in District.
- Boys—8th, 6-3 total, 2-1 in District.
- Boys—9th, 8-1 total, 3-0 in District.

Our Freshman girls came home last weekend with the Championship trophy from the Clovis Tournament. In their first game, they defeated Portales 26-25. Portales had been undefeated until they met the speedy Dogies. In their next game, they defeated yet another previously undefeated team, Clovis Yucca. The score in that game was 57-50.

The Championship game was played against La Plata, Hereford, and the Mavericks were downed with a 48-41 score. In the Portales game, Angela White had 11 points and Barbara Brown had 8. The Yucca game scoresheet had Angela and Barbara again as high point players with 17 and 16 points. Tiffi Dirks followed with 7. In the La Plata game Jennifer Eggen and Barbara Brown shared the scoring with 10 points each, followed by Angela with 9, Tiffi with 7 and Barbara Weaver with 6.

Our next games will have our boys teams at Boys Ranch on January 3, and our girls will meet Pampa January 7. Most of the teams will be practicing during the holidays. Team members will receive a practice schedule before the Christmas holidays begin.

The December issue of the Dogie Newspaper was sold yesterday. This issue was one of the larger ones that is published. Part of the six pages included Santa's list with the students wishes, or with the wishes of another student for them!

Low-Tar Cigarettes Overtake Other Brands

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cigarettes with low tar and nicotine contents have risen to more than half the brands on the market for the first time, the Federal Trade Commission says.

An FTC report of tests on 176 brands, released Sunday, showed 103 having less than 15 milligrams of tar and 101 having less than one milligram of nicotine. These are the two elements scientists say can cause lung cancer and heart attacks.

The number of low-tar brands, which according to industry standards have no more than 15 milligrams of tar, now stands at 59 percent. This is up from the 40 percent reported by the FTC last year and 31 percent in 1977.

The FTC measurements, required in cigarette advertisements, often are put in fine print and given inconspicuous placement. But manufacturers of low-tar brands often make the findings the headlines of their ads, using the results as selling members who tried out for All-Region band last Saturday. Those who are in the All-Region Band from Stanton are: Melissa Brewer, Oscar Gavina, John Stotts, Victor Soliz, Bennie Rodriguez, Chris Crowley, Raymond Gamboa, Kelly Priest and Becky Ruland. This accomplishment takes a lot of time and dedication and these students have shown their ability to schedule their time and accomplish many things.

These students will have a story or poem published in the December issue of The Hereford Brand: Julie Culp, Angela Roddy, David Morrison, JoAnn Corando, Martin Dunn, Melanie Ivey, Donny Anderson, Robert Gamboa, Angie Rodriguez, Alan Morris, Shawn Patrick, Charles White and Chris Crowley.

Many of the Stanton students are avid football fans and much conversation, and an occasional argument, is heard during the school day. Don Riley, one of the Dogie Staffers, has written and update on the two Texas Pro teams. The following is his report on the Cowboys. Next week we will give his Houston Oilers report.

The 1977 World Champions, the Dallas Cowboys, have only been playing since 1960, but in 18 years they have put together a record of 149 wins, 95 losses, and 6 ties. Tom Landry has been the team's only head coach. His collection of offensive and defensive formation has made the Cowboys one of the NFL's most feared opponents. Dallas has been a Conference or Division Champs ten times. In Superbowl VI, quarterback Roger Stauback led the club to a 24-3 victory over the Miami Dolphins. In the 27-10 victory over the Denver Broncos in Super Bowl XII, Stauback again directed the Cowboys offense, while the Defensive linemen Harvey Martin and Randy White were honored as co-players of the game. Dallas is now 11-5 and winners of the NFC East.

Don Riley is a first-year Staffer and a Freshman. He has a Hereford Brand paper route, plays football and is involved in track.

Missy Merritt and Jay Hodge are Stanton's Student-of-the-Six-Weeks for the second Six Weeks period.

Names in the News

LOS ANGELES (AP) — David Begelman, toppled from power at Columbia Pictures in a 1978 forgery scandal, has bounced back to the movie industry's top echelon with the announcement that he will become president of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's motion picture division.

Frank E. Rosenfelt, president and chief executive officer of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Inc., said Tuesday he believes Begelman was "a sick man" when he forged checks on a Columbia account.

Now, he said, the 59-year-old Begelman has recovered and is ready to resume his former role as a gifted hit-maker in the movie industry.

"I am persuaded that period is behind him. He has paid a very severe price," Rosenfelt said.

Begelman, whose Columbia projects included "Shampoo" and "Close Encounters of the Third Kind," spent a year on probation after pleading no contest to grand theft charges for forging $40,000 worth of checks. He was not available for comment and his office said he would be out of town all week.

Begelman has been working as an independent producer at Columbia since his resignation as studio president.

Women in Poll Say Children More Important than Sex

NEW YORK (AP) — Among 20,000 women sending in answers to a questionnaire, more than half said "feeling close to someone" and "my children" were most important to them, according to McCall's magazine. Good sex was fifth among the choices given.

McCall's said its questions were addressed to women who were married or living with a man. With the women permitted to give more than one answer, the question "What is most important to you now?" was answered "feeling close to someone" by 61 percent, and "my children" by 54 percent.

Other answers checked were: "my home," by 43 percent; "financial security," by 33 percent; "satisfying sex" by 23 percent, and "job or primary activity" by 17 percent.

The magazine said only 31 percent called themselves "very satisfied" with their sex lives and that the foremost dissatisfaction was not having enough sex.

More than half the women answering were between 21 and 34 years old, the magazine said.

Eighty-two percent were married, 8 percent single, 5 percent living with a man, 4 percent separated or divorced and 1 percent widowed. Seven out of 10 were mothers.

Sexual infidelity to their mates was admitted by 32 percent of those answering, the magazine said.

Tenant's Rights Enforced by Law

COLLEGE STATION — A new law spells out tenants' rights — and landlords' duties — on repairs for rented apartments or houses.

Effective Sept. 1, 1979, the law gives tenants the right to force a landlord to repair damages or defects — after four steps have occurred:

- *Tenant paid landlord written notice of defect.
- *Tenant paid all rent due in full.

- *Defect or damage materially affects the tenant's physical health or safety, and
- *After a reasonable period of time, the landlord has failed to attempt repairs.

When all of these conditions are met, the law allows a tenant to either terminate the rental agreement — or file a law suit against the landlord, Claudia Kerbel explains. But, first, the tenant must give an additional seven days notice, she says.

Ms. Kerbel is a consumer information specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. The Texas A&M University System.

'TENANT BEWARE' POINTS
Tenants should realize, however, that this new law does not allow a tenant to withhold rent when a landlord fails to make repairs, Ms. Kerbel notes.

As long as the tenant lives on the premises, he must pay the full rental rate.

Also, if the damage or defect is insured, the landlord has no duty to start repairs until the insurance money arrives.

In addition, if damage or defect is the tenant's fault, his family's or guest's fault, the landlord has no duty to repair.

Landlords only have a duty to repair a condition caused by normal wear and tear — and which materially affects the tenants' physical health or safety.

FILING A LAWSUIT
Tenants must file a lawsuit in a county or district court — not a justice of the peace court.

Real Estate Tips by Tommy Bowling

In the house we just bought all the major appliances are old and "energy hogs" which we will replace as time goes by. Which appliances use the most energy and should be replaced first?

According to figures released by the U.S. Department of Energy, a home hot water heater is responsible for a large portion of a family's energy requirements with an electric water heater estimated to consume some 4,811 kilowatt hours annually. Installing an energy-efficient rated water heater and lowering its setting from the usual 140 degrees to 130 degrees will save about 6% in water heating costs. Lowering the setting to 120 degrees gives an 18% savings! Wrapping the heater with an insulating jacket reaps further savings.

Former Representative Loses Theft Appeal

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Former state Rep. Oscar Carrillo Sr. of Benavides lost his felony theft appeal Wednesday in the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals.

In a 35-page opinion, the court affirmed Carrillo's seven-year probation sentence. Carrillo's brother, former Duval County District Judge O.P. Carrillo, was sentenced to four years in prison in 1976 on charges of stealing taxpayers' money...

Prosecutors contended Oscar Carrillo, then a candidate for the state Senate, arranged to have campaign materials mailed at the expense of the Benavides Independent School District in 1972.

The state alleged Carrillo had envelopes run through the school district's postage meter. An estimated 5,000 to 10,000 envelopes were processed through the district's tax office at a cost of $400 to $800...

Carrillo testified he never instructed Couling or anyone else to use the postage meter to mail his campaign material, and that he never took or sent campaign material to the tax office. In fact, he testified, he did not learn that tax office employees had worked for his campaign until four years later...

Carrillo contended on appeal that "agents of the state" stole from his office in early 1976 evidence that would have helped his case. He said his personal campaign records - including receipts, cancelled checks and records of his itinerary - had been stolen...

The appeals court said it "cannot be denied" that the circumstances surrounding the discovery of some 300 campaign envelopes in a ditch outside San Diego by Texas Rangers, acting on an anonymous tip, "are suspicious."

It said, however, "we will not reverse a judgment of conviction on the basis of an unsubstantiated claim by the appellant (Carrillo) that evidence of benefit to his defense was stolen by state agents."

The appeals court rejected Carrillo's plea that the trial court erred in permitting Texas Ranger Ramiro Martinez to testify at the punishment stage.

that Carrillo's reputation was bad. It also overruled Carrillo's argument that jury commissioners intentionally and systematically excluded persons from the grand jury who shared Carrillo's political affiliation...

An identical ground of error was overruled in the O.P. Carrillo case, the appeals court said.
