Mourning Iranians: 'Death to America'

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — At least 50,000 Iranians mourning an assassinated religious leader marched on the occupied U.S. Embassy today, placed the coffin in front of the mission's iron gates and alternated chanting "Death to America!" with wailing verses from the Koran, the holy book of Islam.

But they made no move to breach the gates and enter the embassy compound, where Moslem militants have been holding 50 Americans hostage for 46 days demanding the U.S. government get Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi to return to Iran.

The funeral cortege of Hojatoleslam Mohammad Mofateh and his two bodyguards began at Tehran University, then wound a mile to the bolted embassy gates, surrounded by a sea of chanting and wailing people. Four mullahs, or priests, waving pistols were drawn on an open carriage behind the cortege.

The heady mixture of religious fervor and militancy climaxed when the priests were passed over the heads of the crowd and mounted the speakers' platform on the embassy wall. Massive portraits of Mofateh were carried by mourners along with Islamic flags in black.

Mofateh's 22-year-old son Sadegh declared: "The CIA kills people who are against the imperialism of America. They killed my father because they want to change the course of the revolution." Many of the women in the crowd, all tightly wrapped in black chadors, wept as Sadegh spoke.

Khomeini's ruling Revolutionary Council blamed the CIA and SAVAK, the ousted shah's secret police, for the assassination. An anonymous caller told Iran's news agency a group called FM Militant was responsible, but the group had not been heard of before and most observers thought the call was a hoax.

Khomeini made a new demand Tuesday for the United States to hand over the shah, calling Panama an American puppet, and

Housing Construction Plummets in November

WASHINGTON (AP) — The construction of new homes plummeted 14 percent last month to an annual rate of 1.5 million units, further evidence that the Federal Reserve's tight-money policy has begun to slow the nation's economy, the Commerce Department reported Tuesday.

At the same time, the number of building permits issued — an indicator of future housing activity — fell to 1,267,000, the lowest level in more than three years.

Statistics on the slowdown in housing, a key sector in the overall economy, came as Commerce reported that the income of Americans rose a strong 1.1 percent in November.

The income report showed that: —The increase in total personal income to nearly $2 trillion, on an annual basis, followed a 0.9 percent rise in October and was the largest since July, when the annual cost-of-living boost went into effect for Social Security recipients.

—Spending by Americans rose 1.7 percent from October to November to an annual rate of $1.6 trillion, despite signs that the economy is slowing.

—But savings fell 16 percent to an annual $52.2 billion.

An annual figure is the total for one year if the change in a single month occurred for 12 consecutive months.

A decline in housing starts had been anticipated in the wake of Federal Reserve action Oct. 6 to tighten credit and get better control of the nation's money supply. Since then, interest rates have hit record high levels around the nation, discouraging both corporate borrowing and home purchasing.

Many analysts are predicting that housing construction will fall to 1.7 million units or lower this year from last year's 2 million level. Estimates for next year range from 1.1 million units to about 1.4 million.

Housing construction had dropped 8.2 percent in October to 1.76 million units. The new November figure is 28 percent below the 2.1 million-unit construction rate of November 1978.

Permits for future construction were down 29 percent from the 1.8 million-unit rate of November 1978 and were the lowest since 1.245,000 million in July 1976, Commerce Department data showed.

"It means we are in a recession," said Michael Sumichrast, chief economist for the National Association of Home Builders. "It's going to spread out into every activity of the economy."

He added: "I don't think we are going to see much improvement until a year from now or the first half of 1981."

Meanwhile, the National Association of Realtors reported that the sales of existing single-family homes fell 12 percent in November to an annual rate of 3.55 million units.

"This is the sharpest month-to-month drop in home sales in the 12 years we have monitored such activity," the Realtors' group said in a statement.

The statement said housing was "bearing a disproportionate share of the burden caused by stringent monetary policy."

Expectations of decline in the housing sector were among the reasons economists had been predicting that the economy would fall into recession before the end of the year.

In the past, American consumers often have retrenched — that is, cut down on spending and increased saving — so they would be better prepared for a downturn.

"Many had expected retrenching in the fourth quarter, but it doesn't appear

Oil Cartel Disagrees On Prices

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — The members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries failed to agree on a unified price scale after two days of argument, and it appeared that their winter meeting would end today where it started — with each member charging as much as it can get or thinks prudent.

It was not the first time the 13-nation oil cartel had failed to reach agreement.

"We've had these differences for 19 years," said one source. "One time it was Iran which was the biggest producer, and Iran wanted a price different from the others. The price issue, while it seems important now, in a few years will not be so important as the supply issue."

Humberto Calderon Berti, Venezuela's oil minister, admitted that price negotiations had been "very difficult" since the 13 delegations began meeting Monday.

He said OPEC's economic commission had proposed the conference set a base price of $24 to $25 a barrel and that "it would be good for OPEC to reach an agreement."

But the issue of how high members could go over the benchmark price — that for light crude oil from Saudi Arabia — concerned many ministers. Sheik Ahmed Zaki Yamani of Saudi Arabia called the issue "a very serious matter."

Traditionally, the quality of oil and its distance from markets have determined how much of a premium over the benchmark can be charged. But some OPEC members have tacked on surcharges that have left the old system of price differentials in disarray. Iran, for instance, used to charge 11 cents more than Saudi Arabia for a like grade of oil. At $28.50 a barrel, Iranian oil now carries a $4.50 premium.

How much higher the price goes depends on the financial health of the Western importers, and "we're worried about the effects of higher prices on the international economy," said a source close to the delegation from Saudi Arabia, OPEC's largest producer and leader of the price moderates.

Reps Pass Chrysler Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal loan guarantees for Chrysler Corp., which says it will go bankrupt without them, are a step closer with House passage of a bailout package that calls on United Auto Workers to double their wage concessions to $400 million.

The ailing automaker's UAW members would have to approve that figure, which union president Douglas Fraser says he would agree to as the price of the $1.5 billion in loan guarantees.

In the Senate, meanwhile, votes were on tap today on several amendments to a bill that also demands $400 million in lost hourly wages but provides only $1.25 billion in loan guarantees.

Chrysler, its workers and the Carter administration are pushing to have a final bill approved in both houses by Friday, when Congress is scheduled to start a month's vacation.

Clouding the outlook for the Senate bill, however, was the fact that several senators have said workers of the nation's 10th largest corporation should make greater sacrifices.

Sen. Richard Lugar, R-Ind., was ready to submit an amendment calling for $800 million from the hourly workers.

Sen. Paul Tsongas, D-Mass., prepared an amendment for $550 million in concessions. Tsongas said he was aiming at a compromise of $475 million once the issue reaches a House-Senate conference committee. Whatever package Congress finally approves will require UAW ratification because the union recently approved a three-year Chrysler contract providing for only $200 million in wage concessions.

Oil-Profits Tax Bugged Down with Complexities

WASHINGTON (AP) — The "windfall profits" tax working its way through Congress is a good example of how a simple idea can be turned into a mind-boggling law.

The idea: tax away a portion of each new increase in domestic crude oil prices so the oil industry will not profit unduly from President Carter's decision to phase out price controls.

The result: legislation that imposed a half-dozen different taxes by separating U.S. crude oil into a dozen categories depending on when it was discovered and where and by whom it is produced.

Not all the complexities can be blamed on Congress or bureaucrats; it seems that tax simplification and oil just don't mix.

A conference committee of 15 House members and 11 senators were to begin tackling some of those complexities this afternoon. That panel must find a compromise between the Senate's $178 billion bill and the $277 billion version passed by the House. There are growing doubts the committee can complete action on the bill this year.

Congressional experts concede their estimates of what the bill will bring in from 1980 through 1990 could be off by as much as $100 billion, mainly because the figures are so dependent on outside forces.

They assume the average price of U.S. crude oil freed from controls will be about $30 a barrel, and that the figure will increase every year by the amount of inflation plus 2 percent. If inflation in 1980 is 10 percent, that $30 will become $33.60 a year from now.

The tax, incidentally, would not end in 1990. The 1980-1990 figures are generally cited only because Carter's original energy program covered that term. The Senate tax probably would run through the late 1990s and most of the House version would end in 1990. Again, it depends on how quickly oil prices rise.

The average price of uncontrolled U.S. oil grows each time the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries raises the world price. The average OPEC price has jumped 60 percent in 1979. A repetition of that in 1980 could perhaps double the size of the windfall tax.

"This situation is actually quite comparable to housing, where it is virtually impossible to invest in a single-family residence and expect to make loan payments from the rent received on the house in the early years," he said.

But adequate operating loan money seems to be available for the farm economy, which historically pays lower interest rates on debt than other businesses anyway. Hjort told the Senate Agriculture Committee's credit subcommittee.

And, he said, despite the prospect of a 20 percent decline in net farm income next year, the farm economy's health is "generally strong."

The stiff interest charges probably will have little effect on farmers' production decisions, because they are a small portion of operating costs and producers a always buy planting supplies with borrowed money, Hjort said.

But the combination of high rates and normal cash-flow problems could make them postpone new machinery purchases and encourage them to market crops and animals earlier than usual, he said.

Total farm debt and interest costs have recently risen to record annual levels but the debt has stayed at 16 percent to 17 percent of total assets, Hjort noted.

The large commercial farms that receive 80 percent of the cash receipts have debts averaging 20 percent of assets, compared to about 5 percent for small farms.

That makes them more sensitive to interest-rate changes, along with those who have recently expanded, he said. But the most vulnerable are "new farms without substantial build-up of equity."

"As a result of that vulnerability and of a reduced amount of land available for sale — in part attributable to higher interest rates — there may be a decline in numbers of beginning farmers next year, even from presently low levels of entry," Hjort said.

Hjort said the tightening of the money supply in October by the Federal Reserve Board, which sent

'80 Expected To Be Costly Year for Farmer

WASHINGTON (AP) — High interest rates and other expenses are among the gloomier prospects facing farmers in 1980, says the Agriculture Department's chief economist.

At current high levels, interest rates could mean fewer people will attempt to become farmers next year and could add to the problems of farmers who have recently expanded their operations, Howard W. Hjort told Congress on Tuesday.

Generally, only those rich enough to carry a land investment from other income until it starts to pay off will be buying cropland, Hjort said. He is director of agricultural economics, policy and budget in USDA.

Q-1 was under the impression that Texas Rural Legal Aid was funded by a private corporation headquartered in Denver, Colo., and did not receive tax monies for its operation. Is that true?

A-No. TRLA is funded with a grant which comes from a public entity known as Legal Services Corp., based in Washington D.C. TRLA operates under the Denver regional office. Congressional appropriations fund Legal Services Corp. (much like the Public Broadcasting System) and, in turn, the corporation funds its various divisions, such as TRLA. TRLA is comprised of a general program, which serves low-income people regardless of occupation in South Texas, and the farmworkers division, which receives funding to deliver services to seasonal farmworkers across the state.

Anti-SALT Report Stalls Panel Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — A minority on the Senate Armed Services Committee has successfully stalled for at least one day a majority effort to force approval of a report concerning the SALT II treaty.

The panel put off action until today after a private, two-hour squabble Tuesday.

One member, Sen. James Exon, D-Neb., complained that he believes the report may have been written before committee hearings on military aspects of the pact began. He is suggesting the panel compromise by approving the bulk of the report but dropping its conclusions.

Another deadlocked issue is jurisdiction. The minority contends the Senate Foreign Relations Committee has sole jurisdiction over treaties and that no other committee plays a role.

Exon said although he is leaning against SALT II, he is fearful of precedents being set or of "invading the prerogatives of the Foreign Relations Committee," which has voted 9-6 to recommend the Senate approve the treaty.

While a 9-8 majority of the Armed Services committee is acknowledged to be against the treaty, a formal vote by the panel against the pact would enable treaty opponents to claim military experts cannot support SALT II.

Federal Agencies Order Lable Changes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three federal agencies announced plans today to require that food labels be simplified while divulging more information about the ingredients, additives and nutritional value of what's inside.

The proposed changes were announced by the Agriculture Department, the Food and Drug Administration and the Federal Trade Commission, which also want to broaden the list of foods falling under labeling regulations.

Several of the changes would require congressional approval, however. Some foods, for instance, are specifically exempt from labeling requirements.

In announcing the plan, FDA Commissioner Gere Goyan told a news conference, "The goal of this program is to make sure that food labels provide consumers with information they want, in language they can understand and use."

"We want complete ingredient labeling for all foods; we want colors and spices to be listed by specific names; we want open dating on appropriate foods; we want nutrition labeling on more foods; and we want the label to provide more information about sugars, salt and cholesterol," he said in a prepared statement.

Stafford Hearing Nears Close Today

PURCELL, Okla. (AP) — Roger Dale Stafford's preliminary hearing on charges of murdering three members of a Texas family was winding to a close today with cross-examination of his wife, who testified Tuesday she saw Stafford gun down the family.

Verna Stafford, 26, testified that her 28-year-old husband killed Melvin Lorenz, 38, his wife Linda, 31, and son Richard, 13, of San Antonio, Texas when Lorenz refused to turn over money during a robbery alongside Interstate 35 near this central Oklahoma town on June 22, 1978.

Stafford defense attorney J. Malone Brewer and McClain County District Attorney Kay Huff both said they expected the preliminary hearing would end today with an order by Special Judge Sam Goodwin for Stafford to stand trial on charges of murdering the Lorenz family. Mrs. Huff said she will seek three new death sentences against Stafford in the Lorenz case, on top of the six he received for his October conviction for the murders of six Oklahoma City steakhouse workers in the worst robbery-murder in Oklahoma history. Stafford is appealing the conviction.

House Committee Studies Defense Hike

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration is vowing to do all it can in 1980 to win approval for increasing defense spending by 5 percent, after inflation.

Defense Secretary Harold Brown argued the administration's case Tuesday before the House Armed Services Committee.

He said President Carter "will do everything he can" next year to gain congressional approval for his defense spending proposal which was announced last week. The plan calls for a five-year increase in defense spending of 25 percent over and above inflation.

Carter said his fiscal 1981 budget would commit the government to spending $157.5 billion on the military. Fiscal 1981 begins Oct. 1, 1980.

The defense budget was released a month earlier than usual at the insistence of pro-military senators who want increases in defense spending in return for their support of the SALT II treaty with the Soviet Union.

Despite Brown's assertions, several committee members suggested the proposed rise in military spending was a ploy to win Senate ratification of the strategic Arms limitation treaty.

Vatican Dumps Prof

VATICAN CITY (AP) — In the stiffest punishment of Pope John Paul II's papacy, the Vatican on Tuesday ordered Professor Hans Kung stripped of his teaching post for continued "contempt" of church doctrine. But the liberal priest said he would fight to keep his job.

The declaration by the Congregation for the Doctrine of the Faith, once the office of the Inquisition, said the Swiss-born Kung can no longer be considered a Roman Catholic theologian. A spokesman said Kung could remain a priest.

Europe's most liberal theologians, said he would seek to keep his posts as professor of dogmatic and ecumenical theology and Director of the Institute for Ecumenical Research at the prestigious University of Tuebingen, West Germany, which he has held since 1963.

"As a Catholic theologian, I will continue to stand up for Catholics and fight so that this step will be revoked," Kung told reporters at the university. He said he could count on support from many Catholic laymen, priests and theologians as well as non-Catholics.

"I am ashamed of my church," Kung said, adding that it was a scandal that "inquisitorial trials were still conducted in the 20th century" in a church which is based on the teachings of Jesus Christ and supports the human rights movement.

In such books as "Infallible? An Inquiry," the reform-minded Kung has questioned papal infallibility, the authority of bishops, mandatory priestly celibacy and church opposition to birth control.

The order against Kung, coming on the heels of the interrogation here last week of liberal theologian Edward Schillebeeckx of Belgium, raised an alarm in liberal quarters over the conservative direction of church.

Schillebeeckx was questioned for two days by a congregation commission for his views, which some conservative clergymen said verge on heresy. In April the church condemned the teachings of the French Dominican scholar Jacques Pohier. A Vatican announcement said the three cases are independent.

Earlier this month, the Vatican radio had described Kung, Schillebeeckx and Dutch-born theologian Edward Schoonenberg as almost heretical.

Investigation of the theologians has aroused concern among church liberals that the Polish-born pope, who took office in October 1978, is backing conservatives in the Vatican Curia, the central administration of the church.

In 1975, Kung was reprimanded by the Vatican's powerful congregation, the watchdog of church doctrine, for questioning the infallibility of church teaching. But the new Vatican declaration said that "up to the present time he has in no way changed his opinion on the matters called to his attention."

On theological issues, he has written that Christ never expressed the conviction he was the son of God, has questioned the virgin birth by Mary of Jesus, and said that he could not find in the teachings of Jesus basis to found a new religion and liturgy.

McCathern To Meet With Carter

Gerald McCathern, candidate for State Senate from District 31, has accepted an invitation from President Carter to attend the announcement of the Small Community and Rural Development Policy at the White House on Dec. 20.

McCathern was informed that the announcement would be the first comprehensive Small Community and Rural Development statement ever made. It will deal with all of the Federal programs which are available to help rural America develop a sound economy.

The White House informed McCathern that the President would make the announcement on Dec. 20; ask for comment and input from those attending, and would join with them in a reception to be held immediately following the announcement.

Money Can Be Made In Real-Estate Buying

NEW YORK (AP) — Albert J. Lowry moved to the Oakland, Calif. area from Canada in the early 1960s. Raised in an orphanage, poorly educated, he sought a better life for his children.

A butcher by trade, Lowry saw his future in buying low-priced houses, fixing them, renting them and finally selling them. He borrowed inexpensively, kept expenses low and paid his bills.

"I attained complete financial independence about 1970," he says. He went on to pile one million atop another during the decade by ingenuity, hard work and an understanding of financial leverage.

His book, "How You Can Become Financially Independent by Investing in Real Estate" is a bestseller.

Mark O. Haroldsen is known to millions, at least through his full-page newspaper and magazine advertisements. Typically, he is leaning against his Mercedes Benz, conveying the message that you too can succeed.

He too succeeded by investing in income housing, usually with little or even no money down, fixing up, renting out, sometimes selling. He now publishes a magazine and books. His Financial Freedom Institute offers hundreds of seminars each year.

Haroldsen's first book, "How To Wake Up The Financial Genius Inside You," has become a real estate classic, selling by his estimates 600,000 copies, almost all by mail-order. It followed his discovery that real estate leverage and inflation could make him a millionaire.

What makes them noteworthy is not just their millions but their sense of the times; their discovery of the affect of easy money, hard work, leverage and inflation; their translation of it into formulas; their realization that millions of others shared their dreams.

The formula involves using OPM, or other people's money. Why not, when inflation means you repay in cheaper dollars? Why not, when Uncle Sam is your partner, allowing tax deductions on interest paid?

You don't need much OPM either, because housing is a great leverager; use $10,000 wisely and you can control property worth $100,000. You can even put nothing down — Haroldsen has.

You have $100,000 of property producing $15,000 of rents from five apartments. The place looks awful, but that's the reason you got it so inexpensively. The landlord was discouraged, a "motivated seller."

You clean, paint and upgrade it, using your own sweat and maybe that of neighborhood kids. Tenants appreciate it. You raise the rents over time to $18,000. You maintain the place. You sell it for $150,000.

Before that, however, you have paid your bills — mortgage, insurance, heat, taxes, maintenance — from rents. You've gained in four ways: rental income, price appreciation, equity buildup (or loan reduction), and income taxes, the latter mainly through depreciating the building.

Americans Honor Embassy Captives

By DAVID L. LANGFORD
Associated Press Writer
Christmas cards by the thousands were addressed to 260 Takhte Jamshid Avenue, flags reserved for special holidays were run up their poles and one city came to a dead halt for 50 seconds.

Frustrated Americans on Tuesday heeded the president's call for a national Unity Day in support of the hostages spending their 45th day of captivity at the U.S. Embassy in Iran.

"America is as unified today as it has been at any time since World War II," said Vice President Walter Mondale as he arrived at the airport in Mount Vernon, Ill., to talk with Illinois officials about energy problems.

At stores in at least 100 towns and cities across the nation, thousands lined up for a half-million Christmas cards provided free by merchants to send to the hostages at 260 Takhte Jamshid Avenue, Tehran, Iran. The senders had to pay for the postage, which came to 31 cents. Pens, writing tables, stamp machines and mail bags were provided in many stores, and the cards were mailed on the spot.

"The thing that has surprised me so much is the time people spend writing something in the cards," said Pat Stephenson, marketing director for a merchant's association in Lincoln, Neb., which was giving away cards at a shopping center.

While a number of communities held vigils and prayer services, the city of Huntington, W. Va., shut down for 50 seconds at noon as it will each day this week.

At the stroke of noon, church bells rang and factory whistles blew. Assembly lines stopped and traffic lights turned red. For 50 seconds, motorists waited beside their cars. City employees, shoppers and school children stepped outside and stood quietly.

"Fifty seconds for 50 hostages," said City Manager Dick Barton. "People are more concerned about this situation in Iran than anything in a long time."

Jim Warner, one Huntington resident said, "Everything stopped. There wasn't a sound. I don't think I saw two people move."

In Leesburg, Va., the Loudoun County Board of supervisors urged all 62,000 residents of the county to take part in a similar 50-second shutdown on Friday.

Travis McPherson, sheriff Deaf Smith County

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor and Citizens of Deaf Smith County:

Last week a civil suit was filed in the Federal District Court, Northern District of Texas, Amarillo. The suit was filed by the Rural Legal Aid attorneys here in Hereford, whose salary is paid by the federal government through our tax money.

As I understand the newspaper article in the Hereford paper it was done for the sole purpose of preventing my department, the Department of Public Safety and other officers in law enforcement from picking up illegal aliens, and also housing these aliens in the Deaf Smith County jail.

This suit named the United States Immigration and Naturalization Service as one of the defendants.

The United States Immigration and Naturalization Service does not have a facility to detain aliens so they contract with people who do have jails and I happened to be one of them. For several years I have housed illegal aliens and federal prisoners for the United States government. I make no apologies for that I make no apologies for being a "red-neck, flag-waving American." I do not now want illegal aliens in our country and I don't think anything will ever change my mind.

Many of the illegal aliens that are reported to my office, the Immigration and Naturalization Service and the Border Patrol are reported by the Mexican-American People, who are upset because these illegal aliens are taking their jobs away from them. People do not want illegal aliens. The way I see it is that my people, the people of Deaf Smith County, dictate to me that my policy should be to detain illegal aliens.

I have always been proud to say that I live in Hereford because of the caliber of people we have in our community, and that means all races. It has always upset me when someone says, "You have more illegal aliens than anybody else in the country." We as American citizens are going to "good ol' boy" ourselves out of a country if we keep putting up with this kind of business.

The only thing I am sorry to say is that I am asked to selectively enforce the laws of this country. I feel it is my sworn duty to enforce all laws that the people of this country choose to pass and choose to live by.

Iran

one of his close associates said he has ordered his gunmen to murder the former ruler and his wife.

"We want the deposed shah from the United States, even though he is no longer in that country, because he has been sent to an American puppet country," Khomeini told a group who called on him Tuesday at his home in Qom.

It was the first time Khomeini made the demand since the shah and Empress-Faran flew from Texas to Panama last Saturday.

Khomeini's former chief prosecutor, Ayatollah Sadegh Khalkhali, ordered members of a guerrilla organization he heads to Latin America to execute the shah and his wife, the official Pars news agency reported from Qom. Khalkhali put a price of $130,000 on the shah's head after Khomeini's revolution in February and claimed that his men were responsible for the assassination two weeks ago in Paris of the shah's nephew, Shahriar Moustapha Chafik.

The 50 Americans held hostage in the U.S. Embassy in Tehran began their 46th day in captivity, but there was no change in their situation. The students occupying the embassy continued to talk about their being tried as spies if the United States did not return the shah, while government officials talked about the investigation by an international "grand jury" which Foreign Minister Sadegh Ghotbzadeh is planning.

Hassan Habibi, spokesman for Khomeini's ruling Revolutionary Council, said there probably would be 24 persons on the panel. Ghotbzadeh said earlier the hearing would begin Jan. 1 or 2 and would last about two weeks.

In support of the revolutionary regime's contention that the U.S. Embassy was a "spy nest," a former officer of the shah's secret police, SAVAK, told a Tehran news conference that the CIA and SAVAK jointly spied on foreign missions during the shah's reign.

The Revolutionary Council also blamed the CIA and SAVAK for the assassination Tuesday of one of Khomeini's close associates, Hojatoleslam Mohammad Mofateh. An anonymous caller told the Iranian news agency an organization called FM Militant was responsible, but the group had not been heard of before and most observers believed the call was a hoax.

The funeral procession for Mofateh was expected to become the occasion for a mass protest in front of the U.S. Embassy today.

Meanwhile, Panamanian troops used tear gas to disperse about 300 leftists who attacked the U.S. Embassy in Panama City to demonstrate their disapproval of the shah being given refuge in Panama. The mob broke an embassy window, hauled down the U.S. flag and shredded it in the street.

The demonstrators also stoned Panamanian government cars, set one afire, broke windows at the state lottery office and painted anti-shah slogans on walls.

Chrysler

Tuesday followed a debate in which Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., D-Mass., said a Chrysler collapse might bring on a depression.

"We can't afford what would happen to this country if Chrysler went down the drain," he said. The company has 113,000 employees, but backers of the aid say more than three times that number would ultimately be jobless if Chrysler goes under.

The House bill drew the support of 209 Democrats and 62 Republicans and the opposition of 88 Republicans and 48

The measure proposes a total of $3.43 billion from public and private sources to bolster Chrysler, which anticipates losing $1 billion this year.

In addition to the loan guarantees and hourly wage concessions, the House bill provides for the federal assistance to be matched by $100 million in missed pay raises by white collar workers, $650 million in bank loans not insured by the federal government, $300 million from the sale of Chrysler assets, $250 million in tax concessions and other benefits from state and local governments, $180 million from Chrysler suppliers and dealers and $50 million from the sale of new stock.

A five-member board made up of the secretaries of treasury, transportation and labor; the chairman of the Federal Reserve Board; and the comptroller general would have to approve a Chrysler operating plan before the federal loan guarantees could be made.

Chrysler would be required to give its employees $150 million worth of stock over the four years of the loan guarantee program.

Farmers

interest rates skyrocketing for two months, will continue to increase farmers' production costs but not that significantly.

"We should remember that the Federal Reserve System took the steps it did to cool inflation, a more serious threat to farmers," he said.

After reviewing the principal supply, demand and price trends for farmers and ranchers, Hjort said, "The 1980s could be a very good decade for U.S.

farmers."

However, "a dark cloud on the horizon is the persistent inflation in farm expenses, which threatens to erode gains farmers may make in the marketplace," he said.

"This threat re-emphasizes the importance to the long-run health of American agriculture of supporting policies designed to eventually bring inflation under control," he said.

Housing

to be in evidence through November," Commerce Department economist William Cox said of the personal income and spending figures.

The reasons, he suggested, could be consumer response to "vigorous retail sales promotions" or the so-called "inflation psychology" that it is better to buy now before inflation pushes prices higher.

Cox added that the continued consumer spending could keep the nation's output from declining in the fourth quarter, but cautioned: "It may be close."

The report on personal income showed that after taxes, the money available for Americans to spend was up $16.9 billion, on an annual basis, from October to November. But spending increased at an annual $27.3 billion. Therefore, Americans pulled the difference — $10.4 billion — from savings.

The report also showed that prices in October rose 0.9 percent, or at an annual rate of about 11.4 percent.

This inflation figure — known as the personal consumption expenditures price deflator — is used to help economists determine how much a person's ability to purchase goods and services was affected by rising prices.

The deflator figure is different from the Consumer Price Index, which reports on changes in the price of a set market-basket of goods selected in 1967. The deflator is considered a more accurate measure of inflation because it takes into account changes in buying habits and puts less emphasis on housing costs. The Consumer Price Index went up 1 percent in October. The November figure is scheduled for release later this week.

Other statistics from the personal income report: —Farm income rose 1.3 percent — the first increase in eight months — to an annual $46.9 billion.

—Non-farm income was an annual $1.95 billion in November, up 1.1 percent from October. But manufacturing payrolls rose only $1.6 billion in November, compared with $2.3 billion in the previous month, in good part because of layoffs in the automotive industry.

—Per capita income was an annual $7,583 last month, up from $7,513 in October.

Other WTSU singers were Alex Leal, bass baritone, Cindy Cole, lyric soprano, and Karen Koetting, soprano. Accompanists were Jenny Shu Hara and Cindy Cole. ## Ann Landers

Printable Language

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am infuriated. Not with you, but with that oaf from Santa Rosa who had the gall to say all that is required of a female is that she "be there" to have sex. Doesn't the ignoramus know if she isn't there in mind as well as body, he may as well be somewhere else, unless, of course, all he wants is a physical release? (This is love?)

Wise up, buddy: A woman who accommodates a man who wakes her up at four o'clock in the morning may be considered "a good sport," but my guess is that she is making time and putting up with his selfishness until someone more sensitive to her needs comes along.--The Horse's Mouth.

DEAR H.M.: I received a staggering number of letters from women who were outraged by the "oaf from Santa Rosa."

but most of them would have required a lot of cleaning up before they could be printed. Thanks for expressing yourself in language I can use.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I read about the woman who tried vomiting after every meal in order to lose weight. Now she has serious internal problems.

When I was in high school, I did the same thing--although I was only a few pounds overweight. I had several fat cousins and was scared to death that one day I would look like them. So I tried that awful method.

I'm 25 years old and have been married for two years. I am suffering with an ulcer and chronic "indigestion" that probably will be with me for the rest of my life.

Before I started vomiting to stay slim, I was in perfect health. I never took any medication--not even aspirin. Now I take pills constantly. I need painkillers and tranquilizers because my stomach is torn up all the time. My sex life has been seriously affected. When a woman is feeling lousy (which I am most of the time), she's not likely to be in the mood to make love. If my husband did a little cheating I wouldn't blame him.

Please keep telling readers not to be so stupid as to try this crazy stunt.

How I wish I could turn the clock back a few years. I'd be happy to weigh 20 pounds more if I could have my good health back.--Kicking Myself In Newport

DEAR NEWPORT: We know a great deal more about self-starvation than we used to. People who gorge themselves

Anyone who wants to know more about this severe psychological problem can write to Vivian Meehan, President, Anorexia Nervosa and Associated Disorders, Suite 2020, 550 Frontage Rd., Northfield, Ill. 60693.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Please take it back. You said the wife of a man who throws his clothes all over, doesn't know what a drawer is for and leaves wet towels on the bathroom floor can blame his mother. NOT TRUE!

My sons have been taught, shown, told, threatened, begged, pleaded with, punished--nothing worked. They are as bad as their father, if not worse.

I used to blame my mother-in-law for my husband's sloppy habits, but now I know better. I also know women whose mothers were slob, yet they turned out to be excellent housekeepers. What do you say to this?--Calcutta, Ohio

DEAR CAL: I say there are plenty of exceptions to every rule, and it is foolish to generalize. I deserve 10 lashes with a wet bath towel.

Of walls and freedom

Where there's a will there's a way, as they say — and if they doesn't include the Chinese, it ought to.

Weeks of debate over the fate of Democracy Wall in Peking have ended in compromise. The wall, which served as a national bulletin board during the People's Republic's headlong rush to rejoin the modern world but lately has come into increasing official disfavor, is not being abolished in practice, merely shifted in location.

Posters will no longer be permitted on the 200-foot-long structure along Changan Avenue in the heart of Peking. Instead, citizens may exercise the Chinese version of free expression on another wall in a park removed from the city's main thoroughfares.

Ground rules have also been changed. No longer may just anyone slap up just any declaration. Poster posters must first register, giving authorities a record of who is speaking out about what.

The Changan wall has not been the only such outlet for comment on public affairs and personal grievances. Poster walls exist in other major cities and did, until recently dismantled, elsewhere in Peking itself. But it has been the most famous, the focus of attention for both Chinese and a world fascinated by China's remarkable political and cultural transformation of the past several years.

But the means for letting off public steam that was initially useful to the post-Mao leadership eventually became a nuisance. A faction whose enthusiasm for experiments in democracy is under firm control would abolish the wall. Rather than doing so, which might have been read at home and abroad as regression to the bad old oppressive days, the leadership may have found in the new arrangements a way of allowing an acceptable degree of public expression while curbing excessively outspoken critics.

May have. Habits of expressing opinions openly are unpredictable behavior traits. Once acquired, they are not so easily shed. And where there is a will to speak out, there are usually various ways of continuing to do so.

The wall builders

A two-year dispute over freedom of expression on a world scale has ended in a draw.

A 16-nation commission of the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization has adopted a compromise report on the rights and requirements of global newsgathering.

It is the product of an increasingly bitter confrontation between Western representatives and those of much of the Third World and the Soviet bloc. The latter coalition has been seeking to write an international code which they claim is necessary to prevent "cultural imperialism" by Western news organizations. But the West sees many of the proposed guidelines and restrictions as reflecting the standards of authoritarian regimes and designed to extend these to the free world in order to control information.

The full report is not scheduled to be published until after the first of the year, but details that have become known unofficially suggest that the West has won most of the crucial rounds — this time.

Censorship is condemned. The right of journalists to travel freely in all nations with access to all news sources is acknowledged. Proposed international licensing of journalists has not been approved.

But several points have been left open for further consideration. These include a proposed international code of ethics which the West fears could be manipulated to restrict access to information. Also a proposed international group to monitor and oversee development of global communications, opposed for largely the same reasons.

More will be heard on these sensitive points, possibly explosively with the presentation of the report at UNESCO's general conference next fall in Belgrade, Yugoslavia.

What is involved here is an attempt to construct a wall. Not one of bricks but one of rules and regulations, one that would not publicize opinions in the Chinese fashion but would contain and, if some interested parties have their way, isolate completely views that might not have official sanction.

It will take continuing vigilance in the West to see that it is not completed.

Texas Briefs

DALLAS (AP) — State Rep. Clay Smothers, stopping just short of announcing a candidate for Congress, Monday became the third Dallas County Democratic officeholder since September to switch to the Republican Party.

Smothers said he would challenge Democratic U.S. Rep. Martin Frost next year in the 24th Congressional District if he could be assured of raising enough money.

The outspoken black conservative, who ran for the Legislature and lost as a Republican in 1970, said the Democratic leadership is out of step with Texans and the mood of the country.

DALLAS (AP) — A 59-year-old Dallas woman became the city's first victim of cold weather Monday when she died of exposure to sub-freezing temperatures before dawn.

The woman was found lying on a sidewalk several streets away from her house. Her identity was withheld pending notification of next of kin.

She was found by a neighbor, who said he had noticed her sitting on the steps of a house earlier that night.

DALLAS (AP) — A Dallas man who was mistakenly released from city jail after his arrest on charges he killed a newspaper photographer was indicted Monday in a second slaying.

Frederick Terry Baker, 23, remains at large after computer and clerical errors led to his inadvertent release. He has been indicted in the fatal shooting of Dallas Morning News photographer Larry Provart and the armed robbery and shooting of a 20-year-old woman.

The Monday indictment charges Baker with murder in the shooting death of 70-year-old woman described by police as a "South Dallas drug dealer."

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Nine Carswell Air Force Base airmen accused of using marijuana have been offered administrative discharges, but at least one of them intends to fight the charges.

The Dallas Morning News reported Tuesday that of 23 airmen accused of smoking pot off base, three were cleared, four volunteered to attend a drug rehabilitation program and nine were offered the discharges.

Maj. James Odom, Carswell's public information officer, said actions against seven others was not complete. He declined further comment on the investigation, which apparently was triggered by an airman's arrest for possessing marijuana.

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The Railroad Commission reported Tuesday major buyers of Texas crude oil want to buy 2.671,478 barrels a day in January, a decrease of 1,495 barrels a day from this month.

A commission statement Monday incorrectly reported January purchaser nominations at 2,557,178 barrels daily, which represented a decrease of 115,795 barrels.

The commission meets Thursday to set the statewide oil production factor for January.

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — Jailer Lorenzo Aguirre plans to return to work Thursday with two bullets lodged in his head.

Aguirre, 24, was shot early Saturday morning in an El Paso bar.

One bullet from a small-caliber pistol hit him in the forehead. Another bullet struck behind his ear.

Sheriff Ray Montes says, "Neither of the bullets penetrated his skull. He's doing fine."

Police have made no arrests in the shooting.

"The guy was just lucky," says Police Lt. John Lanahan.

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — Four El Paso notaries public have agreed to stop calling themselves "notario publicos" without adding a disclaimer saying they are not attorneys.

The agreements were made in compliance with a new state law passed because in Mexico a notario publico has many of the same powers of an attorney.

There was a possibility, according to Assistant State Attorney General David Ferrell, that some persons would believe the "notario publico" signs were advertisements for individuals with attorney powers.

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — Federal Judge William S. Sessions Tuesday granted a formal motion of default in the forfeiture of drug-smuggling fugitive Jimmy Chagra's $400,000 bond.

According to court records, the bond was forfeited in October and Tuesday's action was a formality. Sessions said he would officially sign the default papers Friday.

Chagra was convicted in August of continuing criminal enterprise in the smuggling of marijuana and cocaine. He disappeared before sentencing last September while free on the $400,000 bond.

Chagra could have been sentenced to life in prison.

JUAREZ, Mexico (AP) — Mexican immigration officials here say Iranians must adhere to special rules when visiting Mexico.

Juan Jose Gutierrez Valenzuela, assistant immigration chief, says Iranians must present documents showing their entry into the United States, their residence and a special re-entry clause on visas.

He said the clause states Iranians must agree not to remain in Mexico more than 30 days.

He said Iranians who do not want to return to the United States must post $1,000 bond to assure Mexicans they will leave for their homeland.

So far, the Mexican official says, no Iranians in this area have applied for admission to Mexico.

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Chief Justice Joe Greenhill of the Texas Supreme named Max Sherman, president of West Texas State University, to be a member of the Texas Adult Probation Commission.

Sherman, a former state senator, will succeed Abner McCall, president of Baylor University.

Greenhill said Tuesday McCall asked not to be reappointed because of the press of his other duties.

The commission has nine members and is responsible for setting minimum standards for caseloads, program, facilities and other aspects of the adult probation system. It also approves payment of state funds to county probation officers.

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Application has been made for a new state bank in an unincorporated area of northwest Harris County, the State Department of Banking said Tuesday.

The bank, to be known as the Chasewood State Bank, would have capital of $600,000, surplus of $600,000 and reserves of $300,000.

Proposed directors include Don E. Hand, Houghton H. West Jr. and W.C. Braden Jr., all of Houston; Dr. Ray R. Durrett, Spring, and Robert L. Mosby, Cypress.

March 3 was set for a hearing before the State Banking Board.

BASTROP, Texas (AP) — District Attorney Neal Pfeiffer says the Bastrop County grand jury will investigate the paddling of a 14-year-old boy by his high school principal.

Bertha Morgan said her son, Mike, complained of so much pain after he had been paddled Dec. 10 that his family had him examined at Brackenridge Hospital in Austin.

Judy Cardenas of the Travis County child welfare department said she was called to the hospital to photograph the injuries, which were serious enough "to warrant our investigation."

Superintendent Charles Evans and Elizabeth Gonzales, the family's lawyer, said the youth was paddled after principal Nolan Raney received reports of misconduct on the school bus.

Evans said he believes the punishment was "justifiable considering the circumstances."

"I'm not going to let them get away with beating my child," said Mrs. Morgan.

Mike is the youngest of the Morgans' 11 children.

HOUSTON (AP) — An annual Christmas display of 19th and 20th century toys has opened at the San Jacinto Museum of History.

Included are dolls, handmade doll furniture, trains, games and paper soldiers.

The San Jacinto Battleground State Park museum is open from 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday and from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Sunday.

The display will continue through Jan. 31.

HOUSTON (AP) — Harris County has paid Nueces County $22,816 for the second trial of Elmer Wayne Henley, who received six concurrent life sentences in the 1973 homosexual murder cases in which the bodies of 26 youths were recovered.

Henley was tried in June in Corpus Christi after an appellate court overturned similar convictions during a 1974 change of venue trial in San Antonio.

Marcia Wallis of the district attorney's office said Harris County spent about $22,000 on travel expenses and salaries, bringing the Corpus Christi trial's overall cost to about $44,000. The San Antonio trial was said to have cost about $60,000.

HOUSTON (AP) — Investigators said a fire that destroyed or damaged 16 apartment units under construction west of the city limits was of suspicious origin.

There were no injuries in the three-alarm Monday fire.

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The State Commission for the Blind Tuesday announced a $500,000 federal grant has been awarded to the Dallas County Association for the Blind. The money will be used for an expansion project.

Evans Wentz, executive director of the commission, said the Dallas association will add a two-story structure to its existing facilities. The new area will house living quarters and work areas.

DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas County district attorney's office has filed a petition in state court asking that a 16-year-old Dallas youth be certified to stand trial as an adult in the deaths of his 15-year-old friend and two police officers.

Ronald Dixon, meanwhile, remains hospitalized with broken bones and internal injuries from a head-on collision with a Duncannon patrol car.

Two weeks ago, Dixon and Eric Hill, driving a stolen car, led Dallas officers on a nighttime chase at speeds exceeding 100 mph. The fiery crash at the top of a hill killed all occupants of the vehicles except Dixon.

DALLAS (AP) — An American Airlines spokesman says the Civil Aeronautics board had no right to criticize the airline for refusing to sell space on all-cargo flights to air freight forwarders.

The CAB's Bureau of Consumer Protection has asked the board to impose a $125,000 fine on American for discriminating on the flights between New York and San Juan, Puerto Rico.

But American spokesman Al Becker said the space was restricted to make room for "a very good customer of American." He said the practice had been followed since 1970.

DALLAS (AP) — The City of Dallas wants to double its deposit requirements for residential customers who begin water service.

The city, which has been forced to write off more than $713,000 in uncollected water bills, will ask the City Council Wednesday to increase the minimum residential deposit from $10 to $20.

DALLAS (AP) — About 300 Dallas County employees attended the Commissioners Court meeting Monday to leave no doubt as to their feelings about a 10 percent pay raise they may or may not receive.

But they left the courtroom with no assurance they will receive any raise from the commissioners in February.

At one point, when the employees loudly applauded one of the leaders designated to speak for them, County Judge Garry Weber threatened to clear the courtroom.

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — State and federal officials will meet Thursday with representatives of industry to clarify requirements for shipping and storing radioactive materials and nuclear wastes.

The State Health Department, host of the meeting, said its staff had found many people are not conversant with regulations for handling and shipping the materials.

About 1,500 businesses, institutions and individuals hold nuclear licenses in Texas. Taking part in the meeting will be about 180 representatives of industry, the department, U.S. Department of Transportation, U.S. Nuclear Regulatory Commission and the Texas Department of Public Safety.

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Richard W. Buerger has been named acting director of the administrative services division of the Texas Railroad Commission, Chairman John Poerner said Tuesday.

Buerger takes the place of Larry C. Willimack, who recently became director of special projects in the oil and gas division.

Walter H. Washington Jr. was promoted to assistant director of the administrative services division. Roger Dillon was named chief budget officer of the commission.

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Lynn N. Hughes, Houston attorney, was named Tuesday to be judge of the 165th Judicial District in Houston.

He replaces the late Judge Presley E. Werlein Jr.

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Attorney General Mark White said Tuesday his four El Paso notaries public have agreed in court that their future advertising will spell out they are not lawyers.

State District Court Judge Edward Marquez of El Paso entered the assurances of voluntary compliance by Socorro Elguera, Herlinda James, Ralph Garcia and Ricardo Romero, White said.

White had filed a suit alleging notaries were misleading Spanish-speaking customers by advertising themselves as "notarios publicos."

In Mexico, all "notarios publicos" are lawyers, but a notary public in the United States does not have to be a lawyer.

White contended the advertising led some customers to believe they were dealing with a lawyer when, in fact, none of the four notaries was a lawyer.

The notaries agreed in court to stop using the term "notario publico" unless the advertisement also includes a conspicuous notice that the notary is not a lawyer.

The Lighter Side

Forgotten At Christmas

LAWTON, Okla. (AP) — Police and the news media were flooded with phone calls asking about a mysterious death.

The alleged incident involved a man whose body was supposedly found under the package wrapping counter in a large department store here.

The man had reportedly been shoved aside in the hustle and bustle of Christmas shoppers and had died, possibly of feglect.

An investigation determined that all the callers had first heard about the mystery death in a Sunday sermon by the Rev. Forrest Siler, pastor of the First Baptist Church.

Many who heard the sermon apparently took little notice of an odd thing about the dead man: He had strange scars on his palm.

"It was just a parable of Christ being crowded out of Christmas by commercialism," Siler said. "I evidently oversold it a little bit."

Mf. Rogers, Your Car Has Been Found

ROCKY HILL, Conn. (AP) — Nine years ago, police could not find the car Dwight Rogers swore he lost in the Connecticut River.

But this week, divers recovered the old blue 1966 Chevrolet from the river, full of mud, eels and fish. At first, police were at a loss to explain the car, but dispatcher Winnie Zimzewicz remembered Rogers.

Zimzewicz said Rogers told police he had fallen asleep in his car and awoke to find it slipping into the river. The dispatcher said Rogers told them he managed to swim to safety.

At the time, police could not find the car, leading them to discount Rogers' claim. Now they say they have another mystery to solve.

They can't find Rogers.

78 And Still Cheering

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich. (AP) — Enthusiasm for sports was meant to be shared, says Felix "Butsy" Tavern, who for 66 of his 78 years has been leading cheers for almost any crowd he can find.

Tavern doesn't limit his cheering to athletic events. During a lecture appearance in 1978 at Lake Superior State College, Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., was startled when Tavern jumped onto the speaker's platform and called for the crowd to give him 15 "rahs."

Tavern has become a fixture at basketball and football games in the Sault Ste. Marie area of Michigan's Upper Peninsula, where he roams the sidelines, urging the crowds on for the home teams.

"The louder you holler, the better the teams play," Tavern explains. "I get them all going real good."

His cheerleading talents have attracted so much attention in Sault Ste. Marie that last spring the city commission designated him the "official and professional cheerleader of the ancient and honorable city of Sault Ste. Marie."

Modern-Day, One-Room School-house
STODDARD, N.H. (AP) — When the town's one-room schoolhouse burned down last year, the residents of this southwestern New Hampshire community stayed with the basics and rebuilt the school.

With the permission of the state Board of Education, the town built a white, wood-frame building on five acres of donated land at the base of Pitcher Mountain.

"It's not fancy but it's exactly what we needed," said Barbara Cutting, the school's only teacher. "The town had the choice of sending the children to schools in other towns or rebuilding this school and now we're back in one room."

All six grades share the room, and at times the 34 pupils participate in the same discussions, view the same films and take the same field trips.

"There are definite advantages in having them all together for several years," Mrs. Cutting said. "You learn people's weaknesses and strong points. It's a joy to watch them grow."

"It's the only place I know where you can watch six grades play one game of kickball."

Americans Worried About Heating Bills

NEW YORK (AP) — Nearly two out of five Americans are worried they won't be able to pay their home heating bills this winter, an Associated Press-NBC News poll says.

Almost half of those who use fuel oil for heating are afraid they can't afford to keep warm, while slightly more than one-third of those who heat with natural gas or electricity are similarly concerned.

Americans are still concerned that not enough heating oil and other fuels will be available this winter, but that fear has apparently been overshadowed by worries about being able to pay for the fuel.

Thirty-eight percent of those questioned Dec. 11 and 12 said they are worried about being able to pay for the fuel to heat their homes this winter. Sixty-two percent were not worried.

That 38 percent broke down into 17 percent who were very worried about being able to meet their heating bills and 20 percent who were only somewhat worried. One percent of the 1.595 adults interviewed nationwide by telephone were not sure.

Those most worried about paying their bills use heating oil. Forty-eight percent of those polled who use heating oil are worried about paying their bills, versus 52 percent who aren't worried. Twenty-three percent are very worried and 24 percent somewhat worried about the bills. One percent was not sure.

Thirty-six percent of those who heat with natural gas and 34 percent of those who use electricity were worried about the bills. For each group, roughly half were very worried about paying their bills with the other half somewhat worried.

Fewer Americans now are worried about being able to get enough fuel for heating this winter. Earlier in the year, there were concerns of heating oil shortages this winter. But, under prodding from the government, oil companies stockpiled large quantities of the fuel and consumers are apparently making a major effort to conserve.

The Hereford Whiteface varsity girls' team scored a 65-38 victory over Borger Tuesday night to up their record to 8-6 on the season. The girls play at Canyon Friday night. Team members, left to right: Amy Schumacher, Lori Albracht, Rhonda Foard, Darlene Sanders, Cathy Lane, Deborah Rogers, Louise Mays, Beverly Nixon, Terri Harkins, and Coach Larry Sowers. The girls still have a number of non-conference games before starting district action Jan. 15.

Lady Whitefaces Trounce Visiting Borger 65-38

By PAUL SIMS
Hereford High girls' basketball coach Larry Sowers knew all along that if guard Amy Schumacher would put the ball up, his team would stand a better chance of winning.

"But, I couldn't get her to shoot," Sowers said. His problem was remedied Tuesday night as Schumacher poured in 17 points, 12 in the second half, to lead Hereford to a 65-38 trouncing of visiting Borger.

Schumacher, whom Sowers called "my star of the day," scored six points in each of the two final periods to lead Hereford's comeback.

"They were in a 2-3 zone and giving her that shot at the top of the key, and she was hitting it. She's the one we've got to have putting the ball up when she's open. When she doesn't shoot, it allows the defense to sit back on the inside, and that makes it tough on us," Sowers said.

Deborah Rogers added 10 points for Hereford, now 8-6, while Louise Mays and Terri Harkins each scored eight.

Sowers said that Borger's overall height advantage hurt the Whitefaces throughout the contest.

also played in two varsity tournaments. "Our JV isn't playing as well as they're capable of playing. We're just having trouble getting it going. But, I think the girls are going to be all right," Sowers said.

Hereford's sophomore team led Canyon's sophs 8-6 at the close of the first quarter, 14-10 at halftime and 20-15 at the end of the third quarter.

Washington's Jack Pardee Named NFL's 'Coach of the Year' by AP

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Jack Pardee, who guided the aging, draft-poor Washington Redskins to within a whisker of a division championship, was named today the National Football League Coach of the Year by The Associated Press.

Pardee received 30 of the 84 votes cast by a nationwide panel of sports writers and sports broadcasters, three in each league city. Dick Vermeil of the Philadelphia Eagles was a close second with 23 votes.

Other coaches receiving more than one vote were Don Coryell of the San Diego Chargers, 10; John McKay of the Tampa Bay Buccaneers, 7; Sam Rutigliano of the Cleveland Browns, 6; and Bum Phillips of the Houston Oilers, 4.

The Redskins, 8-8 last year and picked by many to fall below .500 this season, rose instead to 10-6 and came within 40 seconds of beating Dallas for the National Conference East title before losing to the Cowboys 35-34.

"It's a great honor to have been selected," Pardee said. "Certainly I would have rather had a couple of more points last Sunday. I'd trade the individual honor for team honors anytime. But considering the other coaches I was up against it really is an honor to be chosen and I accept the award on behalf of the entire team."

In 1978, after one year as head coach of the World Football League's Florida Blazers and three seasons as head coach of the NFL's Chicago Bears, Pardee took over the Redskins' reins. He inherited a veteran-packed team whose future had been mortgaged by George Allen's "the future is now" philosophy. Allen, seeking instant success (he achieved it to a moderate degree in the early and mid-1970s), dealt away most of Washington's draft choices for older players.

"What we want to be is more aggressive, more physical and have more speed," he said before this season began. "We want a swarming defense. We want to be able to run the ball better. We expect better spirit."

He also wanted youth — so Pardee cleaned house, cutting a number of veterans, most notably quarterback Billy Kilmer, linebackers Chris Hamburger and Harold McInton, safety Jake Scott and defensive end Ron McDole.

Then with a lineup including rookies like linebackers Neil Oskewicz and Rich Milot and tight end Don Warren, Pardee implemented "situation" football — a different unit for almost every play, depending on the situation.

Martin Swears Off Steinbrenner Slams

ONEIDA, N.Y. (AP) — Volatile ex-Yankee manager-turned-haberdasher Billy Martin spoke with the conviction of a man making a New Year's resolution Tuesday night and said he's through talking about his former boss, owner George Steinbrenner.

"I always try to get my players not to make any comments about anything because I don't like to see people hanging their wash out," Martin told guests at a dinner sponsored by the Central New York Police Athletic Association.

"That's why I'm not making any more comments about George Steinbrenner," Martin said. "I don't think it's right for me to talk about him or for him to talk about me."

Martin was in this central New York city to promote a proposed sports complex.

Martin said he was warned by American League President Lee MacPhail to refrain from talking too much about Steinbrenner following remarks last week at a University of Rhode Island lecture that his old boss is "sick" and that he never work for the man again.

"I'm allowed to say anything I want," Martin told a news conference before the dinner. "But I'm not going to say anything more about it. That's history now. It's over."

"I'm not in the baseball business any more," Martin reminded. "I'm in the western wear business. If you want to buy a pair of cowboy boots, come down to the store."

Martin said he has not been talking to anyone about a new baseball job and added that he doesn't know if he wants to "go back into the same problems" he had before.

Tech Tickets Available

Texas Tech ticket manager Carol Baker has announced a large amount of basketball tickets are on sale to the general public for the Red Raiders Southwest Conference home opener against the University of Houston.

"Because the students will be on break, we are anticipating a large number of them will not be at the game Jan. 5 so we want to give the general public a chance to come," Baker said.

Tickets for the 12:10 p.m. Saturday game are $4.50 for reserved seats. The tickets can be purchased at the Texas Tech Ticket Office at the north end of Jones Stadium through 5 p.m. Friday, and then again starting at 8 a.m. Jan. 2. The game will be televised regionally by NBC.

Houston scored one of the highest point totals ever on a Gerald Myers-coached team last year, soundly defeating the Raiders 103-89 in Houston.

Last year's Texas game in Lubbock was opened up to the general public during the holidays, and a crowd of 7,781 helped spur the Raiders on to a lopsided 92-74 victory over the Longhorns.

The Raiders open their Southwest Conference slate Jan. 3 in Austin against Texas before coming back to the Lubbock Municipal Coliseum to host Houston. Tech's next home game after that is not until Jan. 15 against Rice.

Brooks' Resignation Offer is Rejected

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) — University of Oregon President William Boyd rejected football Coach Rich Brooks offer to resign Tuesday.

Brooks offered his resignation after the Eugene Register-Guard reported that freshman football player Paul Perez had received 10 hours of academic credit for courses at Los Angeles Valley College in which Perez was enrolled but did no work.

The newspaper story said assistant Coach John Becker, former football coach at the college in Van Nuys, Calif., had arranged for Perez to get the credits.

Oregon athletic department representatives issued conflicting reports as to whether Becker had decided to resign, and Becker was not available for comment.

Brooks issued a prepared statement that said, "My letter of resignation was prompted by my total support of John Becker and my feelings for him, plus my overall responsibility for the football program." Brooks withdrew his letter of resignation after Boyd rejected it.

Boyd said of Becker, "He could simply tell what happened, and if the facts indicate something less than dismissal was called for, I would have been prepared to act appropriately."

Boyd said he had not heard from Becker on the matter. Boyd said Oregon apparently would forfeit no victories because illness and injury kept Perez from playing football.

The Ducks, with a 6-5 record, recently finished their first winning season in nine years.

Earlier, Perez admitted receiving three hours of credit without doing any work in a summer extension course taken at Los Angeles Valley College through Ottawa University of Kansas.

Perez submitted a transcript listing the 13 credit hours because he needed 12 credit hours to be admitted to Oregon, since his high school grade point average was below the university's admittance standards.

Meanwhile, the FBI announced in Portland that it was investigating allegations of mail fraud and bribery involving student athletes at Oregon State University as well as the University of Oregon.

The FBI would not specify what its investigation involved. University of Oregon sports information director George Beres said university officials were not ready to comment on the investigation. Oregon State University athletic director Dee G. Andros said he had not been contacted by the FBI.

An FBI wiretap earlier revealed that five University of New Mexico basketball players and a New Mexico football player received credit for the Ottawa University course without doing any work. The course was called "Current Problems and Principles of Coaching Athletics."

Indiana, BYU Both Hungry for Bowl Win

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The outcome of Friday night's Holiday Bowl matchup between the Indiana Hoosiers and the Brigham Young Cougars may depend on which team is hungrier for a postseason victory.

The 7-4 Hoosiers have not seen postseason action since former Coach John Pont led them to a Rose Bowl berth in 1968. In that contest, the Hoosiers lost 14-3 to the University of Southern California led by a running back named O.J. Simpson.

The Holiday Bowl marks only the second time in 95 years that the Hoosiers have been invited to a postseason classic.

Brigham Young is also anxious to snare a bowl victory, having gone 0-3 in postseason play, including last year's 23-16 setback to Navy in the inaugural version of the Holiday Bowl.

Some critics have labeled the contest a mismatch and contend that the Hoosiers, who are eight-point underdogs, have no business playing on the same field as powerful and 11-0 Brigham Young.

"You won't hear me complaining because we're matched with Indiana," Edwards said. "I have great respect for Lee Corso, the Indiana coach, and I like the idea of playing a team from the Big Ten Conference. I consider the Hoosiers one of the emerging powers of football."

But Indiana Coach Lee Corso insists the Hoosiers are an interesting team and worthy of a bowl invitation. Their four regular-season defeats came at the hands of Big Ten powers Ohio State, Purdue and Michigan as well as a one-point loss to Colorado of the Big 8.

Ninth-ranked Brigham Young, which has never faced a Big Ten team, leads the nation in scoring and offense and has a lethal weapon in the person of Marc Wilson, the greatest single-season passer in college history.

But Brigham Young Coach LaVell Edwards is not expecting Friday night's contest at San Diego Stadium to be a walkover.

Sports Briefs

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Coach Earle Bruce of Ohio State, the top-ranked college football team in The Associated Press poll, will be hospitalized a few days as a precautionary measure, it was announced.

Bruce was admitted to Riverside Methodist Hospital after complaining of chest pains. Doctors, however, found no evidence of heart disease.

Bruce's Ohio State team will play third-ranked Southern California in the Rose Bowl in New Year's Day.

TOKYO (AP) — East Germany's Ronald Bruckner won the floor exercise in an international gymnastics competition with a total of 9.75 points.

In other action, Arthur Akopyan of the Soviet Union won the men's vaulting horse competition with 9.625 points and the horizontal bar event with 9.80. East Germany's Silvia Hindorf and the Soviet Union's Natalia Iliencko tied for first place in the women's floor exercises with 9.65 points.

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Paul Kronk of Australia upset countryman John Alexander 7-6, 6-1 in the first round of the New South Wales Open Tennis Tournament.

In other matches, Phil Dent ousted Ken Rosewall 6-1, 6-2 in an all-Australian match; Guillermo Vilas of Argentina eliminated David Schneider of South Africa 7-6, 6-4; Victor Amaya beat Chris Kachel of Australia 6-4, 6-2; Australian Geoff Masters defeated Ray Moore of South Africa 6-1, 7-6; John Sadri-downed Mark Edmondson 6-4, 6-4; and Ross Case of Australia turned back countryman Phillip Davies 4-6, 6-4, 6-2.

Also, Australian Tony Roche beat Gene Malin 7-6, 6-4; Chris Delaney overcame Colin Dibley 1-6, 6-1, 6-3; and Kim Warwick whipped Wayne Pascoe 7-6, 6-4 in an all-Australian match.

Landry Understands Reluctance to Use 'Spread'

DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys have lived and died from the spread or shotgun formation two-minute offense this year but Coach Tom Landry said he can understand why other National Football League teams don't use the Shotgun.

"The advantage of the spread the way we run it is that your quarterback doesn't have to run back 10 yards," said Landry. "This gives you a little more time."

"The big disadvantage is that the quarterback has to fake his eye off the secondary just a split second to take the snap. Of course, Roger (Staubach) has got it down where he can just about do both."

Landry explained that in the last two minutes other teams run basically a spread formation with the quarterback under the center.

"You see triple wings and things that we do out of the Shotgun," said Landry. "Our spread takes a lot of work because you are always under fire from blitzes. But we've been doing it for years now."

Landry said the Cowboys worked extra hard in training camp because he felt they were below par in the two-minute area in 1978.

"Actually, our performance was very poor last year," said Landry.

The Cowboys have come from behind four times in the last two minutes this year to defeat St.

Louis, Chicago, Philadelphia and Washington.

The Cowboys were notified by the National Football League that the kickoff for their first round National Conference playoff game will be 3 p.m. Sunday Dec. 30th in Texas Stadium.

"I like the Sunday kickoff," said Landry. "That way we can prepare like a normal week and still give the players Christmas Day off."

As far as the opponent, Landry said "I have no preference. We're breaking down the game films today. We'll scout both Chicago and Los Angeles. We'll work out all week but they won't be long ones."

Landry said the Cowboys' progress in the playoffs depended on how fast injured defensive tackle Randy White, strong safety Randy Hughes, running back Tony Dorsett heal, and wide receiver Drew Pearson heal.

"White hurt his other foot and now has both feet injured," said Landry. "I think he will be OK. Tony still has a sore shoulder but should be ready. It will be close on Hughes with his dislocated shoulder."

Landry said he feared Pearson had cartilage damage the knee he twisted throwing a ball in the stands three weeks ago.

"We hope the soreness will come out in two weeks," said Landry. "We don't know yet if he will need an operation in the off-season."

Campbell Garner's 'Most Valuable Player' Honors

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ
AP Sports Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Oilers running back Earl Campbell has not only proved he can perform feats on the football field to compare with O.J. Simpson and Jim Brown—he's also all-pro at dishing out praise to his offensive lineman.

Campbell was named the National Football League's most valuable player by The Associated Press Tuesday after becoming only the third player in NFL history to win the rushing title his first two years in the league.

Campbell set NFL records for most rushes in a season at 368 and most consecutive 100 yard games in a season with seven. He also tied NFL single season records with 11 100 yard games and 19 touchdowns.

Following his rookie season in 1978 Campbell received 29 post season awards. He's off on another award-winning binee this year but his acceptance speech never has changed. It's always a pat on the back for his offensive line.

"It's kind of like it is with a movie star," Campbell explained. "It takes a lot of people working to make him look good. That's what the offensive line does for me. I wouldn't be anything without them. They're the ones that make it possible for me to get those yards."

Campbell, behind the blocking of his offensive line, won the NFL rushing title with 1,697 yards on 368 carries to give him a two-year total of 3,147 yards. Campbell beat out Chicago's Walter Payton with 1,610 and St. Louis rookie Ottis Anderson with 1,605 for the title.

Campbell, like Simpson and Brown before him, has done more than pay lip service to the Oilers offensive line. He's taken them out to dinner twice this season.

Although he's tried, Campbell has yet to pay for a meal he's hosted. Both times, an Oiler backer picked up the tab.

When a jeweler presented Campbell with a watch after he won the NFL rushing title Sunday, the former Heisman Trophy winner suggested his offensive line should also receive watches.

The jeweler compiled and also gave watches to Mike Barber, Conway Hayman, Ed Fisher, Morris Towns, Carl Mauck and David Carter. Starting tackle Leon Gray had received a watch earlier.

Oiler offensive backfield Coach Andy Bourgeois quickly points out that Campbell has done more this season than run through holes provided by the offensive line.

"He's still one of the hardest workers on the team," Bourgeois said. "He came to training camp this year like he thought he wasn't going to make the team. And for him to accomplish what he has this year is greater than last year in my opinion."

"It's easy to psyche yourself up to stop the 1978 most valuable player in the league."

Dillard Dispels Olympic Legends

By HAL BOCK
AP Sports Writer

Harrison Dillard hates to spoil the legend but the truth of the matter is that he never really ran in a pair of Jesse Owens' hand-me-down track shoes.

"Jesse gave me Owens and Dillard both went to East Tech High School in Cleveland, but not at the same time. I was a freshman in 1938," Dillard said. "He had come back from the 1936 Olympics where he won four gold medals. Our coach invited him to talk to the track team. That was the first time I met him."

But, like the legend of Jesse Owens' shoes, that's also just a story.

"Actually, I qualified for the 100 the day before the hurdles qualifying race," Dillard said. "I was already on the team."

Dillard had planned to enter both races at London and that's why he ran in the 100 qualifying. "I knew I could run with them," he said. "I knew I had that kind of speed."

He finished third in that qualification race behind Barney Ewell and Mel Patton. "Everytime a sprinter loses a race, he will tell you: 'I had a lousy start,'" Dillard said. "But I truly did have one in that race."

Nevertheless, he was on his way to London, despite the hurdles disaster. And when he ran in the Olympic 100, he won it in 10.3, beating Ewell to the tape. With that victory came the prestige that hurdling champions never seem to enjoy.

"It's ironic, really," he said. "My specialty was the hurdles. But the guy who wins the 100 is known as the fastest man in the world and when I won it, everybody knew who I was."

Games in Helsinki, Dillard returned, this time in his specialty — the hurdles. He won it and added another relay victory, giving him four Olympic gold medals — the same record number Owens had won.

Dillard, 56, now is director of purchasing for the Cleveland Board of Education. On Saturday, Jan. 19, he'll be at Madison Square Garden for the U.S. Olympic Invitational and the official presentation of the Vitalis Cup, awarded annually to an Olympic champion who also excelled in indoor track. The meet will be televised by NBC.

Kansas City Kings Regain Share Of NBA Midwest Division Lead

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer

The Kansas City Kings got their first taste of champagne last season, when they won their division title. So when they posted their seventh consecutive victory Tuesday night to regain a share of the lead, there was no whooping or hollering.

"I don't think that way and they don't think that way," said Coach Cotton Fitzsimmons, whose Kings beat the San Diego Clippers 110-96 to move into a tie with Milwaukee atop the National Basketball Association's Midwest Division at 20-14. The Bucks were idle Tuesday.

"I think if this was our first time," added Fitzsimmons, "if we hadn't already pulled it off last year, we'd be all excited and jumping around. Now we aren't even thinking about it."

The only important thing is how we finish."

Scott Wedman scored 26 points for Kansas City, which got off to a 5-11 start but has since won 15 of 18 games. Wedman got eight of his points in a 27-6 spurt that gave the Kings a comfortable 88-63 lead over San Diego late in the third period.

Wedman was even more blase than his coach about regaining first place.

"I didn't even know if Milwaukee was playing tonight or not," he said. "I didn't even think about it."

In other NBA games Tuesday night, the Los Angeles Lakers beat the Chicago Bulls 129-118, the New York Knicks edged the Atlanta Hawks 101-99, the Philadelphia 76ers defeated the Detroit Pistons 114-102 and the Utah Jazz trimmed the Cleveland Cavaliers 105-103.

San Diego, which got 25 points from Lloyd Free, came no closer than 14 points in the final period.

Otis Birdsong added 18 for Kansas City. Phil Ford 14, Reggie King 12 and Len Elmore 10.

As for the division race, Ford said, "You never want to get too far out of striking range. But I wasn't too concerned when we were losing, and I'm not too concerned now."

Lakers 129, Bulls 118

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar scored 18 of his season-high 39 points as the Lakers pulled away from Chicago for their seventh victory in the last eight starts and moved within one-half game of first-place Seattle in the Pacific Division. Chicago's home record dropped to 6-9, the worst in the league.

Knicks 101, Hawks 99

Joe C. Meriweather scored 21 points, grabbed 11 rebounds and blocked five shots as New York built a 14-point lead and then held on to beat Atlanta, snapping the Hawks' four-game winning streak and their own five-game losing streak.

76ers 114, Pistons 102

Julius Erving scored 37 points for Philadelphia, which built a 25-point lead in the third quarter but saw Detroit pull to within six in the final period before going down to its fourth straight defeat.

Jazz 105, Cavs 103

Adrian Dantley capped a 45-point game with five free throws in the final two minutes as the Jazz beat the Cavaliers. Cleveland wiped out an early 13-point deficit, but Dantley, Terry Furlow and Tom Boswell helped Utah pull it out in the fourth quarter.

Big Tournament Week Costs Georgetown, BYU

It was a big weekend for both the Georgetown and Brigham Young basketball teams, but a pretty bad hangover afterwards.

After working hard to win weekend tournaments, the 17th-ranked Hoyas and 18th-ranked Cougars showed the after-effects Tuesday night when Georgetown struggled to beat an inferior Providence team 55-50 at home and BYU lost to Long Beach State 78-76 on the road.

"We lacked mental concentration," said Georgetown Coach John Thompson. "The weekend tournament, the travel and exams all contributed to our losing our concentration."

Craig Shelton scored 18 points for the Hoyas, who were fresh off a victory in the Nike Cage Classic in New Mexico. Thompson attributed Tuesday night's close score to "mental fatigue."

The same might have been said of Brigham Young, which won its Cougar Classic with a frenetic, triple-overtime victory over LaSalle Saturday night. The Cougars, who scored 108 points against LaSalle, were nowhere near the high-powered club of the weekend.

Chicago Touched by 'Financial Fever'

CHICAGO (AP) — If New York City was on the financial critical list in the mid-1970s, then what ails Chicago now is a touch of fever.

The nation's "Second City," which appeared so healthy when ruled by the late Mayor Richard Daley, seems to have caught that common bug, the "metropolitan virus."

City transit workers, already the highest paid in the nation, went on strike Monday over salary demands. On Sunday firefighters authorized their union to call a strike. Other city employees with informal contracts are pressing for firm union pacts.

In September, Standard & Poor's Corp. lowered Chicago's general obligation bond rating. Last month, Moody's Investors Service Inc. dropped the school district's bond rating, leaving the district unable to borrow from banks and dependent on the state for cash advances to pay teachers.

On top of its financial needs, the system has been threatened with a federal lawsuit over its plans for racial desegregation.

A local Teamsters strike has cut gasoline deliveries to many service stations, adding to the traffic headaches created by the transit workers' walkout.

Indeed, about the only bright spot for Chicagoans these days is that their usually hapless Bears have made it to the National Football League playoffs.

Although business and political sources say Chicago has nowhere near the money problems New York had in 1975, they admit concern.

And the slogan Daley so often used — "The City That Works" — is being challenged. Many say that the smooth-working city machinery is headed for a breakdown unless it gets a major overhaul.

Mayor Jane Byrne has been quick to separate the problems of the deeply troubled school system from that of her city government, at least where it comes to laying blame.

"I'm very angry that that happened, but I in no way am responsible," she said of the escalating school crisis.

Alderman Vito Marzullo, who at 82 has served under four mayors, said Tuesday that people are expecting too much too soon from Mrs. Byrne, whom he called "this young lady."

DEAR POLLY — Please help me. I put masking tape on my window panes while painting the outside frames but the weather did not cooperate. The tape was left on for a week and when I tried removing it the glue stayed on the glass. What can I use to remove it? — MRS. D.K.
DEAR MRS. D.K. — You might try warm white vinegar or some household ammonia, rub with a brush and then wipe off with a soapy cloth. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — Quite by accident I found a great way to remove that sticky residue left on my windows after masking tape was removed. I mixed one-half cup vinegar and one-half cup water, put in a squirt bottle and then squirted it on the glass. I rubbed with a nylon net where it was very bad. Other areas just wiped away with paper towels. — GINNY

DEAR POLLY — I have some Pointers to remember. Think of a parked vehicle. You usually back it out and do not go straight through and the same goes for spots and stains. I have had good luck with the following. For water rings, tea and coffee stains, chocolate and blood stains sponge with cold water from the wrong side. Rub gently and blot. Dry clean (preferable) or wash as usual. For underarm perspiration stains sponge with cold water before dry cleaning. Hold fruit juice stains over boiling water or sponge with boiling water. Ballpoint ink usually can be released by spraying and blotting hair spray. Spray from the back side, blot on the right with a white paper towel and then dry clean.

To remove mildew from washable items only soak in one-half cup white vinegar, one-half cup bleach and a gallon of water. — ALICE

DEAR POLLY — I enjoy and use many of the Pointers. On a recent trip I used the one that suggested colored wool pompons on each piece of luggage for easy identification. At Prestwick Airport in Scotland when a porter asked which luggage was mine I just replied that they were the bags with pompons on them. It was very easy for him to identify mine. Another favorite is that great Pointer about using a cloth soaked in white vinegar to press out hemlines that are being lowered.

My Pointer today is one I have used dozens of times, but this time my married daughter was watching as I painted the outside of my house. I had just washed and cleaned my paint brushes for the day when I noticed a big blob of green paint on the white trim (I am quite messy) so unconsciously I took a facial tissue out of my apron pocket, dipped it lightly in the white paint and dabbed it on the green blob. My daughter laughed and said, "That is a good idea that you should send to Polly." So here it is.

House Ag Committee Claims Diesel Manipulation Could Cause Texas Farmers to Lose Their Crops

AUSTIN — Oil industry manipulation of diesel fuel in Texas will cause many farmers to lose their crops and drive them out of business, members of a House Agriculture and Livestock subcommittee report. "The manipulation is entirely legal, following the removal of price controls in July, but cost of diesel today is more than the farmers can bear," said Rep. Dan Kubiak of Rockdale, chairman of the Energy Subcommittee.

The U.S. Department of Energy lifted all diesel allocation priorities for agriculture in July, allowing oil companies to sell diesel for whatever price the market will bear.

Testimony by oil company representatives at a Nov. 28 subcommittee hearing revealed that although the firms are voluntarily continuing some allocations to long-time customers, they are not adding any new customers to the self-imposed allocation program.

As a result, the companies are selling more diesel on the spot market. The price of allocated diesel is from 60 to 70 cents per gallon, while the spot market price is from 90 cents to $1.14 a gallon.

Kubiak said information the panel has received during the past four months indicates the oil companies are acting to eliminate all allocations as fast as possible.

Manipulations also include putting economic pressure on fuel distributors, called jobbers, forcing some to sell diesel at higher prices than their retail competitors. The jobbers usually are the sellers who still allocate diesel to long-time customers at wholesale prices. When a jobber goes out of business, those customers have no alternative but to buy diesel on the spot market.

"Unfortunately, many farmers cannot afford to pay the higher prices on the spot market," said Rep. Forrest Green, of Corsicana, chairman of the Agriculture and Livestock Committee.

"If city residents can imagine what it would be like to buy several thousand gallons a month at their filling station, they will get a good picture of what many farmers are having to go through."

"The subcommittee is convinced that many farmers are going to lose their crops because they cannot obtain enough fuel for normal farming operations," Green said.

He pointed out the federally required 4 percent state set-aside is not enough to supply agriculture energy needs. The Office of Fuel Allocation is swamped monthly with applications for emergency allocation of fuel, and there are special problems getting fuel to new farmers and for farmland which has changed management.

"Their applications have increased from 185 in January, 1979 to 8,500 in November," Green said.

He stressed that under federal guidelines, agriculture gasoline allocations are tied to farmland, so a farmer or rancher acquiring new land can retain its gasoline allocation.

"However, that is not the situation with diesel. When land changes hands, the previously allocated diesel could be channeled by oil companies into the higher spot market," Green said.

Green, an avid pilot, also pointed out that 100 Octane Aviation Fuel is in critically short supply in some areas, despite lifting of price and allocation controls in February, 1979.

Representative Patterson said farmers paid 14 cents a gallon for diesel in 1975, and while diesel prices have jumped over 500 percent, farm commodity prices have stayed about the same.

"Inflation has raised the price of other products which farmers use in their operations. Fertilizers and other products made from petroleum have been raised by 300 to 400 percent over the past four years."

Although Texas farmers are troubled, many farmers in other states have an abundance of diesel, the subcommittee has learned. In Iowa, for example, jobbers are phoning their customers to inquire if their tanks can hold an 8,000-gallon transport load of diesel at 65 to 72 cents a gallon. This fuel reaches Iowa via pipeline originating in Houston, Texas.

"The oil companies could ease the hardship to farmers by adding more farmers to their allocations," Kubiak said. "I don't think this would be a financial burden to the oil companies which are reporting huge windfall profits."

Kubiak pointed out the current fuel shortage could lead to a shortage on supermarket shelves and, ultimately, higher grocery prices.

TSCRA Presents Recommendations On Ag Structure at USDA Hearing

FORT WORTH — Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association gave 20 recommendations on the structure of modern agriculture to Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland during a public meeting on that subject in Wichita Falls Dec. 6. More than 600 people representing a broad spectrum of Southwestern agriculture attended the sixth of 10 meetings held by USDA throughout the nation. The purpose of the meeting, according to USDA, was to "collect and evaluate information about the current structure of agriculture and the forces that affect it. The ultimate goal is to establish national policies and programs that will best promote the kind of agriculture and rural life Americans want for the future."

TSCRA attorney David Witts, representing 14,000 Association members throughout the Southwest, told the Secretary that if the goal of the meetings was indeed the promotion of agricultural productivity and not a political courtship of American agriculture, there were immediate steps that could be taken.

Witts gave the following list of recommendations:

- 1) Research funds. The budget for agriculture research is only one percent and misdirected. This needs to be corrected.
- 2) Reduce regulatory plague, which increases farm costs and consumer prices, but decreases productivity.
- 3) Current export policy, if any, is feeble and contradictory. Agriculture needs a positive program for exports.
- 4) Water. TSCRA encourages USDA to invest in permanent and vital assets such as reservoirs and water conservation and discourages the meat-axe approach to water projects used by USDA in the name of economy this year.
- 5) Farm profits. Rural America is going in the red. The farmers, forced to take off-farm jobs and borrow more money, are paid less today than 25 years ago. Yet the smallest increase in farm product prices causes political, consumer and media outrage.
- 6) Finance. Farm financing is in a vertical vacuum and emergency credit should be provided to prevent foreclosures; capital should be available for young farmers. Credit should be made available to qualified people in agriculture with proven credit management capability who have suffered financial reverses from natural disasters, market fluctuations or other uncontrollable circumstances.
- 7) Energy. Rural energy needs are unique. Natural gas is required for fertilizer and irrigation.
- 8) Environmental overburden. Regulators are not responsive to profit and loss. Don't make the same mistake we did with the energy shortage.
- 9) Farm storage space is inadequate.
- 10) Farm transportation system, both water and rail, is inadequate.

11) Repeal of the carryover tax basis is absolutely essential to the preservation of the family farm.

12) Predator control policies reward the predator and punish the producer.

13) Politicians like Smith of Iowa and Rosenthal of New York would penalize the efficient meat producers to reward labor unions.

14) Restricting hide exports repeats the folly of oil controls.

15) Senator Bentsen's counter-cyclical meat import bill will strengthen industry.

16) Payola for public witnesses is an unnecessary expense to build a stacked deck.

17) Range improvement and predator control funds axed in present USDA budget should be restored.

18) Rising interest rates force premature sale of products; they forestall new cultivation and herd buildups.

19) Dietary goals should at least be balanced with free choice of free people.

20) Packers and Stockyards Administration. TSCRA supports P&SA despite its being plunged under the Agriculture Marketing Service, a political rather than professional agency. TSCRA asks the Agriculture Secretary to restore P&SA as an independent agency.

Witts concluded TSCRA testimony by reminding USDA that "agriculture is local, land is local and people are local. To ignore this in a burst of energetic bureaucracy will subject America to a calamitous miscalculation."

Also representing TSCRA at the public hearing were John S. Cargile, first vice president from San Angelo, Texas; Don C. King, secretary-general manager, and Charles Rollins, administrative assistant, both of Fort Worth.

Land Price Rise Alarming Farmers

COLLEGE STATION — Increasing rural land prices which appear to be unrelated to farm productivity continue to alarm farmers, notes Dr. Richard Floyd. In many cases, they have outpaced general price rises experienced throughout the economy.

"The main reason for this is that non-farmer land buyers have discovered many advantages to rural land investments," says the real estate economist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

"The phenomena can be easily explained by understanding the motives of a typical real estate investor," says the economist. "Real estate is an attractive investment medium because it offers the investor an overall high return. This return includes the advantages of using borrowed funds to obtain leverage, a tax shelter, an inflation hedge, and perhaps the benefits of forced saving."

Through borrowed funds, a real estate investor can capture the entire benefits of any return which exceeds that repaid in interest.

At the same time, he can benefit from depreciation of improvements on his property which shelters income from other sources, the economist explains.

The investor also obtains the advantage of real estate appreciation while sales proceeds are subject to capital gains tax rates which are lower than ordinary income tax rates.

Small investors unsuccessful with attempts to build savings through a savings account may find some benefit in obtaining a real estate loan which allows part-of-each monthly payment to go toward the principal (a self-amortizing loan). This reduces the total amount of the mortgage and is in effect, a forced savings, says Floyd.

"Taken as a whole, these advantages may provide sufficient reason for the real estate investor to outbid the farmer for a given parcel of rural land," points out Floyd. "Thus, the higher values which real estate investors are willing to pay for farmland merely reflect a different set of motives from the farmer whose bid is based only upon farm productivity."

GRANT AWARDED PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Wharton Entrepreneurial Center at the University of Pennsylvania has received a $150,000 grant.

Center Director Edward B. Shils says the grant was "from the federal Small Business Administration for one year. All the centers will supply management and technical assistance such as individual counseling, training workshops, and marketing techniques to small business in their areas."
