British Searching For Nazi Ships, To Avenge Hood Loss

LONDON, May 26 (AP)—British Swordfish planes and speedy destroyers were reported searching the fogbanks of the north Atlantic today in a vengeance-driven effort to put a British fighting squadron back in battle contact with Germany's big new Bismarck and her supporting ships.

Conscription Blasted By De Valera

DUBLIN, May 26 (AP)—Prime Minister Eamon De Valera of Eire denounced today the British proposal to apply conscription to neighboring northern Ireland as a "grievous attack" on a "fundamental human right."

Boys Drown In Plainview Lake

PLAINVIEW, May 26 (AP)—Bodies of Vernon Wayne Landers, 15, and Herbert Sweet, 17, were recovered from a lake 17 miles southwest of here last night, several hours after the youths entered the water on horseback and drowned in 12 feet of water.

Guy Landers, on whose farm the 33-acre lake is located, said the horse struggling in the water. He said he believed the boys were clinging to the animal. The horse swam to shore.

American Goods Seized By Japs

HANOI, French-Indo-China, May 26 (AP)—Ten million dollars worth of United States goods consigned originally to the central Chinese government was in Japanese hands today after Japanese soldiers battered down the doors of two Hai Phong warehouses yesterday and seized the contents.

The Japanese contended that the two American companies holding the goods—the Far Eastern Trading Company and the North American Syndicate—merely were blinds to cover the real Chinese owners. The Japanese had blocked shipment of the goods, which included trucks and tires, since September, when they gained army and air bases here.

Pecos River Flood Moves Southward

The flood-swollen Pecos river was rising steadily at Pecos Monday and water was expected to flow over the Bankhead highway between there and Barstow by Tuesday.

Oil well operators in the river bottoms of Ward and Pecos counties were warned to build levees for protection as flood water from New Mexico continued to pile into Red Bluff lake and surge southward.

Scattered heavy rains fell in parts of West Texas. Heaviest reported was at Midland, with 3.61 inches. Part of the town was under water.

Flow at the highway bridge east of Pecos Monday morning was 4,000 second feet and this was expected to triple when the crest hits Tuesday. Observers said this would mean a considerable inundation near there.

Some river valley farm lands were already under water and heavier damage to crops was expected Tuesday.

Rainfall in Big Spring Sunday afternoon and evening amounted to .56 inch.

O'Daniel Tells Legislature He Wants New Budgeting System

AUSTIN, May 26 (AP)—Governor W. Lee O'Daniel told the legislature today that unless it passed by tomorrow a bill providing a new system for preparing the state budget he would veto another bill it recently approved revamping the auditing setup.

In a special message, he described the present plan of auditing and budgeting the "poorest" possible, "slipshod," "ridiculous" and "unbusinesslike."

The governor had advocated making the auditor appointive by and responsible to the legislature. The auditor now is appointed by the governor.

He also had urged creating a budget preparation department under a budget director appointed by the governor. At present the budget is prepared by the three member board of control, who are appointed by the executive for six-year overlapping terms.

The legislature passed legislation to effectuate the former, but not the latter recommendation.

The governor set the deadlines for action because tomorrow would be the last day for decision by him on the auditing bill. If he did not veto it, it would become law, either with or without his signature.

World Attention Turns To Speech Roosevelt To Make Tuesday Night

New Crop Loan Bill Signed By President

FD Says Prices Not To Go Above Their 'Parity' Level

WASHINGTON, May 27 (AP)—President Roosevelt signed today legislation providing for loans on major farm crops of 85 per cent of parity but declared that he had done so with the understanding that farm prices should not be permitted to go above the so-called parity level.

The legislation provides for mandatory loans on cotton, corn, wheat, rice and tobacco.

Mr. Roosevelt said in a statement that the legislation reflected the government's objective for eight years and the fact that farmers "did not have and have not a great share of the national income as other groups."

But he noted that when the bill becomes law farmers cooperating with the government farm program will be able to receive 85 per cent parity loans, plus cash parity payments, plus soil conservation payments in cash.

"Under no circumstances," the chief executive declared, "should the sum of these three exceed parity. I am approving this joint resolution on the distinct understanding that parity payments will be limited to the amount to bring the basic commodities to parity but not beyond parity."

(Parity prices are designed to give farmers the same purchasing power in terms of non-farm products as they had during the period from 1909 to 1914.)

The legislation requires price-pegging loans on cotton, wheat, corn, rice and tobacco, and imposes heavy penalties for marketing "abnormal production."

When it was under discussion in congress the legislation's supporters estimated that the program would assure farmers cooperating with this year's crop control measures a return of $1.5 a bushel for wheat, 87 cents a bushel for corn and 16 cents a pound for cotton. The foregoing figures are averages and include government benefit payments.

The proposed loan rates would be: cotton, 15.49 cents; corn, 69.87 cents; wheat, 94.52 cents; flue-cured tobacco, 19 cents; fire and dark cured tobacco, 3.41 cents and burley, 18.83 cents.

CC Directors Review Work

Activities of the past two weeks were reviewed and plans sketched for a July 4 celebration and for naming rodeo sponsors by the chamber of commerce directors Monday noon at the Settles.

Jake Douglas told how details of a bigger and better fireworks display were being worked out together with other entertainments to make Big Spring a center for Independence Day celebrations in this area.

A committee was empowered to select different sponsors for several rodeos in this territory, among them the Post affair on June 8, the Lamesa show on June 9 and the Spur rodeo on June 26.

E. V. Spence, city manager, declared he anticipated no further hitches in the airport program and that the city was pushing to give "full compliance" with WPA and CAA to the end that the four-runway system may be speedily installed in order to give the city a class four (maximum rating) port. It would, he said, be about a half-million dollar project.

Reporting on the Rotary club's horse show, R. R. McEwen saw reason for encouragement due to quality of the performance. It is new, he said, and some mistakes may have been made, but "I hope to live to see the 25th annual horse show here."

J. H. Greene, chamber manager, reported briefly on the WTCC convention. Dr. F. W. Malone reviewed the tourist school and Greene saw possibility of bringing it back here. Joe Pickle recounted the banquet honoring Reuben Williams, West Texas representative on the state highway commission. Cotton week observance also was mentioned by Greene. Guests for the day included members of the Howard county commissioners court, Judge W. S. Morrison, Ed Brown, H. T. Hale, Franko Nall and Alvin Simpson.

Germans Penetrate Allied Crete Line, Drive Away Warships

By The Associated Press Adolf Hitler's aerial invaders of Crete, reinforced by air-borne tanks and sea-transported troops, penetrated British defense lines today in an attack west of Canes, the Crete capital, and axis reports asserted that the British fleet had been driven off after suffering enormous losses.

British middle east headquarters, acknowledging Nazi inroads under cover of a violent assault by the German Luftwaffe, said that New Zealand troops were counter-attacking and that "severe fighting is continuing" in the Canes sector. The German high command declared that Nazi warplanes and Italian naval and air forces sank a total of eleven cruisers, eight destroyers, a submarine and five other ships in the Mediterranean since the conflict began last Tuesday.

Despite these reported setbacks, Maj. Gen. T. B. Heywood, chief of the British military mission to the Greeks, predicted calmly: "I think it will be possible to hold Crete."

In London, a British spokesman said fighting on the island Sunday was "quieter," but he cautioned Britons against thinking that "the German bolt was shot."

Dispatches from Rome said German troops had been landed on the island from ships protected by the Italian navy, conveyed through waters the British fleet had guarded.

The British acknowledged that a few sea-borne reinforcements might have landed, but said they were insignificant. It was recalled that last week a squadron of British cruisers and destroyers was reported to have intercepted an Italian-guarded convoy north of Crete, drowning 5,000 Germans and sinking at least 40 troop-laden boats.

The British, reporting the arrival of air-borne German tanks, said that Nazi aerial invaders were still holding the important Malemi airport, 10 miles from Canes, the Crete capital, and that heavy fighting raged in the British-held sectors of Redimo and Candia, in central Crete.

Authoritative British quarters disputed German claims of a solid hold on the western end of the island.

Long-range RAF warplanes, flying from North African desert airbases, were reported to have entered the fight against Nazi aerial troop-carriers after RAF fighter planes had been withdrawn last week when Crete's new airfields were declared untenable against Nazi dive-bomb assaults.

The board has no statutory power to force the opposing sides to accept these, but John L. Lewis, UMW president, agreed there would be no work stoppage until they were completed.

Northern operators have agreed to accept a $1 a day wage raise to $7 a day. The union demanded that southern operators raise the wage rate to $7 also, but this would be a $1.40 increase over the present southern rate of $5.60 and the operators balked. They insisted that the differential of 40 cents a day in their favor be maintained.

Morgenthau On Atlantic Patrol

WASHINGTON, May 26 (AP)—Secretary Morgenthau is on the high seas today inspecting the navy's Atlantic patrol.

Officials said that the treasury head, a member of President Roosevelt's four-man cabinet defense committee, was the guest of Admiral E. J. King, commander of the Atlantic fleet.

The effectiveness of the patrol in helping get goods to England has been under discussion in the capital in connection with the congressional debate over possible use of convoys.

Aides said it was unusual for Morgenthau to leave the capital when President Roosevelt was in town.

Pigs At The Castle—Royal Family Encourages Pork Club

By EDDY GILMORE LONDON, May 26 (AP)—"The king and the queen," said the announcement, "have encouraged the formation of a pig club for the benefit of the royal household at Windsor."

Pigs at the palace sounded like a war story near the magnitude of the landing of Rudolf Hess—our supreme war effort. The mental picture was staggering.

The princesses and others encouraged by their majesties to form a pig club? What was a pig club? A pig club, said the ministry of food supply, is a club devoted to raising and feeding pigs with the view to furnishing some to the government and eating the others.

The palace was as close as the telephone. "Buckingham Palace," said the answering voice. "I would like to inquire about the royal family keeping pigs." The operator was asked.

Nazi Admiral Says Convoys Open War Act

Raeder Warns U. S. That German Guns Will Meet Warships

BERLIN, May 26 (AP)—Grand Admiral Erich Raeder's warning that American convoys for contraband to England would be an "open war act" which would be met by the guns of the German navy if necessary removed "all possibility of misunderstanding over the significance of convoys and what Germany holds to be an act of war," authoritative sources declared today.

The statement of the commander in chief of the German navy, made in an interview with Domei, Japanese news agency, and published here yesterday by DNB, official German news agency, "puts in precise technical language what has been generally known for some time, especially through the fisherman's words," in the opinion of the Wilhelmstrasse.

Raeder described the American patrol system as "aggressive" and said German warships would be justified in engaging any American naval units trying to protect cargoes of contraband for England.

His utterance has been released for verbatim reproduction in the entire German press.

"We have laid our cards open on the table," authorized sources further commented.

Admiral Raeder told the Berlin representative of Domei that institution of an American convoy system would not scare off the German navy—which just reported sinking Britain's 42,000-ton battle cruiser Hood and damaging a new 25,000-ton King George class battleship—from "fulfilling its duty" in the Atlantic.

"Since the nature of cargoes of convoys ships, according to American admissions, would be established from the very beginning as contraband," Admiral Raeder asserted, "resort to this type of convoy system would not be neutral in the sense of international or American treaties, but an open war act and a bare, unprovoked attack."

Students Told To Trust God

The Rev. Dr. Homer W. Haislip, pastor of the First Christian church, Sunday evening admonished 149 candidates for graduation from the Big Spring high school to look toward their God for guidance through the troubled times to come.

Speaking before a near capacity crowd at the municipal auditorium, Dr. Haislip in his talk, "The God Behind the Stars," pointed out that back of all endeavors of mankind there is a spirit of power and right.

He said that it was necessary that the students should recognize in the beginning the fact of their God's presence in everyday living. Dr. Haislip said the dark days ahead could only be brightened by a steadfast belief in the power of the Creator.

Superintendent W. C. Blankenship presided over a program that included the processional by Ruth Ann Dempsey, invocation by Father C. J. Duffy of St. Thomas Catholic church, scripture by the Rev. W. Eugene Davis of the Fundamental Baptist church, benediction by the Rev. R. E. Bowden of the Church of God, and recessional by Mary Alice Cain. Carry-over the plan of last year, high school students gave the processional.

O'Daniel Gets Bid To Debate

AUSTIN, May 26 (AP)—Senator Joe Hill of Henderson said in a personal privilege speech today he would give $1,000 to the British Red Cross if Governor W. Lee O'Daniel would meet him in a public debate.

"I want to ask him a few questions," Hill said. "I want to ask him why he is not in favor of aid to Great Britain. I want to ask him why he has nominated so many republicans to office in Texas."

Hill quoted a resolution passed by the house and endorsing O'Daniel's candidacy for the United States senate as saying the governor was a great debater. "When you asked him a question he used to just say, 'Sing, Leon,'" Hill declared.

Queen Mother Mary Has 74th Birthday

LONDON, May 26 (AP)—Queen Mother Mary observed her 74th birthday anniversary today in the west country where she has been residing since the war started. The widow of King George V maintains a steady schedule of visits to badly bombed cities, rest centers and army units.

Officials here for the conclave included Tom Carter, Lubbock, department commander, R. L. Hooten, Lubbock, district commander and whom Dr. Deats succeeds, Briggs Robertson, Lubbock, post commander, and Mrs. Moody, state auxiliary president.

Representatives were present at the annual conclave from Lubbock and Big Spring. Sweetwater and Abilene posts participated in a service at the latter city. Date and place of the next district meeting will be selected by Dr. Deats later.

Early Asserts Germans Are Smearing Talk

President's Secretary Says Berlin Trying To Becloud Speech

WASHINGTON, May 26 (AP)—Stephen Early, presidential secretary, said today he had an idea that Berlin "is trying to do anything it can to becloud" President Roosevelt's fireside chat tomorrow night.

He made that statement when reporters informed him that the German foreign office was commenting on an interview in which Grand Admiral Erich Raeder, commander of the German navy, warned the United States against convoys and patrolling.

Early told reporters: "I've got an idea Berlin today is trying to do anything it can to becloud the president's speech and precipitate something for you gentlemen between now and Tuesday night."

He added that he would not be surprised if reporters were querying him about other dispatches from Berlin before the presidential address.

The speech had begun to take on new significance from world developments, such as the Raeder declaration and Japan's seizure in French Indo-China of $10,000,000 worth of American products belonging to American firms.

The address replaces one Mr. Roosevelt was to have made two weeks ago and Early had told reporters.

Dr. Deats New VFW District Commander

Dr. Charles W. Deats, Big Spring, past surgeon of the department of Texas and past commander of the local Ray Fuller Post, was elected Sunday as commander of district No. 7, Veterans of Foreign Wars.

His term of office will be for two years. He was the only district official named at the conclave, which featured a joint meeting with auxiliaries.

Veterans adopted resolutions calling upon the "president of the United States of America and legislative bodies to take immediate action to compel capital and labor to adjust their differences without further strikes or work stoppage," and to make the act of the 1938 legislature giving free fees, tuition, etc. in state institutions of collegiate rank to veterans apply to children of veterans.

The latter resolution was passed since veterans were too old or involved with responsibilities to accept the state's offer, it was explained.

22nd Child Is Born To Couple

UNIONTOWN, Pa., May 26 (AP)—Roy Hostetter, 46-year-old miner, and his wife, 42, today announced birth of their 22nd child, Dolores Marlene, Friday night.

Hostetter said their children were so numerous that his wife, in making a list of them at the hospital, "got some wrong."

O'Daniel Vetoes College Bond Bill

AUSTIN, May 26 (AP)—Tearing it "dangerous," Governor W. Lee O'Daniel today vetoed a bill authorizing state colleges to issue bonds secured by student fees to construct buildings.

The bill was by Rep. Joe Ballou of Denton.

"In my opinion this bill would have too broad an opportunity for creating debt," Governor O'Daniel said.

Buffs Continue Sweep Through Texas League

By The Associated Press
To call the Houston Buffaloes "The Thundering Herd" may sound terribly trite—but it fits the picture.

Never unaccountable about losing their first-place position since the Texas league season opened, the Buffs went on a super-winning spree during the last seven days, losing one game and then taking the next nine straight.

Clarence Gann won his seventh game of the season as the Beaumont Exporters took their opener with San Antonio, 11 to 6. The Mustangs capped the nightcap, 8 to 3.

Old Ed Greer, Fort Worth workhorse, pitched his 17th inning of the season when he went the route for the Cats in trimming the Tulsa Oilers, 5 to 2. Tulsa won the finale 3 to 1.

The Oklahoma City Indians whipped the Dallas Rebels twice, 3 to 1.

Pete Layden Wins Top Laurels As Athlete

AUSTIN, May 26 (AP)—Burt L. Layden who beat A. and M. with Standish would have named him Frank Merrill had he come along as the turn of the century.

But to the University of Texas he is just Pete Layden, a quiet, unassuming youngster who has earned honors seldom accorded a college athlete.

Down here they call him a "money player"—the fellow who comes through in the clutch, much as did mythical Frank Merrill in Standish's immortal saga of sports.

When mighty Texas A. and M. looked toward its second undefeated season and the Rose Bowl, it was Layden who broke the Cadets' heart with a touchdown that brought one of the greatest upsets in Southwest conference history.

When Texas tottered on the brink of oblivion this year in the conference baseball race, it was Layden who beat A. and M. with a homer in the tenth—a victory that eventually meant the championship. Because A. and M. lost to Baylor Saturday in a makeup game that would not have been necessary had the Aggies won from Texas.

Thus the title went to the Longhorns.

He is considered the most popular athlete Texas ever had.

Layden was voted the most valuable player award in football, received the outstanding athlete trophy this spring, captained the baseball team and next fall is co-captain of the football squad.

Layden, 5 feet 11 inches tall and weighing 180 pounds, is 21 years old and eligible for the next draft.

Down here they freely predict he will be all-American next fall unless the army gets him.

The modest youngster is embarrassed by such talk. Asked what he thought about it his one-word interview was "shucks!"

Conn Slated To Turn On Heat Tonight

PITTSBURGH, May 26 (AP)—Threatened with the "sudden death" of his heavyweight title dreams unless he wins decisively, Bill Conn may turn slugger tonight to smash down Buddy Knox, unsmiling Dayton, O. boxer in a final 15-round pre-Louis "test" before a hometown crowd.

This transition from master boxer to flat dynamite became necessary for Conn, through an ultimatum by Mike Jacobs which virtually ordered Billy to win by a knockout or sacrifice his rights to a title crack at champion Joe Louis next month in New York.

Jacobs, promoter of the Conn-Louis fight scheduled for June 18, issued his ultimatum in the midst of the noisy aftermath which followed Louis' controversial victory over Buddy Baer at Washington Friday.

Baer's surprising showing touched off loud demands to replace Conn with Baer in the June slug at Louis. Jacobs indicated he would give serious consideration to this clamoring if Billy the Kid fails to commit mayhem on Knox, who originally was scheduled as sort of a dress rehearsal stage.

Lookin' 'em Over

With Jack Douglas

Of such timber as Lowell "Fudge" Matlock are future golf champions made. Fudge, along with James Walker, is making some of the old heads take notice during the City golf championship affray now in progress over the Munny course.

Yesterday, despite intermittent showers that threw more experienced hands off their game, Fudge came through to down Shirley Robbins 2 and 1, in the championship round. Of course, he did get some breaks down the line—but these items also play a large part in a divotter's campaign.

Fudge is 17 years old, a caddy at the Munny plant, and possessor of an up-and-coming brand of golf as one would want to see in a youngster.

He has learned the greatest part of his golf by watching the performance of those for whom he has caddied. As a general rule he packs the sack for Obie Bristol.

Naturally, the coming years might result in a complete reversal of his playing form—and again they might not. But, for the time being, he appears to be a lad who, if he gets the right kind of breaks, might mix and mingle in the big time—as a bona fide contestant.

In regard to the current Munny tussles, a natural has a fair chance of being on the books if Bristol and Fudge get together—a sort of a master and pupil show.

Jake Morgan was not particularly hampered by yesterday's rains during the Munny course—he sacked up a ducen on one of the meanest holes in the setup—the four-par eighteenth. Playing in a bevy that included Poe Woodard, M. K. Howe, Theron Hicks and Herman Stewart, Morgan dropped his drive about fifty feet shy of the green, then sagged it. Woodard did his part by grabbing himself a birdsie on the hole.

The Country Club front nine is now ready for bent grass planting. Water lines have been placed in position and the layout is due for seeding as soon as Jimmy Gamewell, the new pro, returns from his bout in the National Open qualifying rounds at Dallas.

Provided the slough now in evidence around the City Park batting box is dried out sufficiently for players to get up to the plate without too much mud-crawling, Minor league softballers will show their wares tonight.

Scheduled for the 7:30 opening is a clash between the Lions and the Herald. Dated up for nightcap are the ABCubbers and NYA "B's."

Early Monday morning, there had been no indication that the games would be postponed because of weather conditions.

Cards Clash With Cubs Minus Crespi

Nat'l Pace-Setters' Ace Second Baseman Sustains Finger Hurt

By Associated Press

The St. Louis Cards, setting a breathless pace in the National league, open a new series against the Chicago Cubs today with a patched-up infield, the result of an injury to their sensational rookie second baseman, Frank Crespi.

Crespi suffered a fractured finger yesterday as the flying leaders were sweeping a doubleheader with the Pittsburgh Pirates by scores of 6 to 4 and 4 to 3, and probably will be out for a fortnight.

This will supply the test of whether the Cards are sufficiently strong in replacements to shake off an occasional casualty and go right on blowing down the opposition.

If Crespi's absence fails to slow Billy Southworth's boys, then Brooklyn might as well begin pointing for 42.

The Cleveland Indians, threatening to make a runaway of the American league race, went bowling merrily along to their fifth straight victory as 30,000 Sunday fans watched Bob Feller shut out the St. Louis Browns 6 to 0.

Old Lefty Grove, Boston, inched nearer his lifetime goal of 500 victories as he notched No. 296 at the expense of the New York Yankees, 10 to 5.

The Chicago White Sox burst loose with a seven-run rally in the seventh frame at Detroit to win 7 to 3.

The Athletics swept their three-game series with Washington by jumping on the eminent knuckleballer, Dutch Leonard, for five runs in the eighth. The score was 7 to 2.

With Joe Medwick dropped down to seventh place in the batting order, the Brooklynms made the most of five hits to beat the Phillies, 8 to 4.

Charley Root batted Paul Derrieger in a tense duel as the Chicago Cubs nosed out Cincinnati, 3 to 2, in the ninth.

Open Trials Go Into Action On 27 Fronts

NEW YORK, May 26 (AP)—The energetic youngsters who still claim golf as an old man's game and golfing oldsters who maintain that tournament play is only for the young fellows, can find plenty of fuel for their arguments today.

For the entry list for the 1941 National open golf championship is loaded with colorful veterans and sharpshooting newcomers who have to win their places in the main tournament through today's sectional qualifying rounds.

Approximately 1,000 players have to fire 36 holes apiece in 27 different locations. Of these 138 will win the right to join 43 exempted stars in the open at Fort Worth, Texas, June 5, 6 and 7. The field is the smallest in nearly a decade, due mainly to the fact that Fort Worth is so far from big eastern and midwestern golfing centers, but its still strong enough to keep all but the best from qualifying.

Betty Jameson Opens Defense Of Golf Title

Bettors Par By One In First Practice Round At San Antonio

HOUSTON, May 26 (AP)

Betty Jameson, who can bring more clouds than a thunderstorm, opened defense today of her Trans-Mississippi golf title, one of her "big three" championships.

The San Antonio miss furrowed many brows among the biggest field of the tournament's history by tying the River Oaks course record in her first practice round over the scene of the tourney.

She drove here from San Antonio, went straight to the course and fired a 36-39-75, bettering par by a stroke going out and playing the second nine in even par.

Miss Jameson, who holds the National and Western championships as well as the Trans, indicated she would be hard to stop.

As the field teed off in the qualifying round today, her closest competition appeared to rest among half-dozens of the finest women players in the country.

Marion Milley, two-time winner from Lexington, Ky.; Mrs. Louella Mann of Omaha, Neb.; Mrs. Frank Goldthwaite of Fort Worth, former Curtis cup player; Miss Kay Pearson, Texas champion playing over her own course; Miss Elinore Williams, Chicago model, and Phyllis Otto, youngster from Atlantic, Ia., appeared worthy of ousting the champ.

Match play starts tomorrow and will continue through the 36-hole finals Saturday.

Miss Laneous Notes

By MARY WHALEY
Motorists are a funny set. Take them away from their automobiles and they act half-way human. Some of the male gender have even been known to get up when a woman appears in a room. A few have been caught tipping their hats to a lady.

When they meet up with their other men friends, they are usually polite.

But put in an automobile and they behave like a mess between Puck's Bad Boy and a demon on wheels.

They have perfected the game of "He who sees the green light first gets to honk at all the others," and have made a science of hurrying up the gear shifting when it comes to stopping for traffic signals.

Another game they are very adept at is harrying the driver who kills his engine on the road. That's a signal for everybody within honking distance to sit on the horn and blast away until the poor soul gets the motor running.

Another note in how to keep up with the Joneses once you own an automobile, is to outbluff the other guy on turns, cross sections and passing. The loser bears the scars of bent-up fenders and the winner wears a broad smile. He made it again!

Maybe such tactics go on in other places, but it has become the great American custom. Nothing but the car going back to the finance company will keep him from such driving.

Homemaking Summer Course To Be Offered For Fourth Year Here

The homemaking department of Big Spring high school is, for the fourth consecutive year, offering summer work to students who wish to earn one-half credit during the summer. The work will be done under the direction of Lillian Jordan and Fern Smith, homemaking teachers.

Any student who has earned one or two more credits in homemaking is eligible for the summer course. No charge is connected with the work.

The work may be done in any of the following phases of homemaking, depending upon the class ranking of the student:

Developing satisfactory group membership, making homes more livable, providing food for health and hospitality, child development through play and clothing, grooming and personal appearance, wardrobe planning and clothing construction, improving the home kitchen, feeding the family, providing safety in the home, better buying, home improvement and home management.

Work is to begin today with a group meeting held at 2 o'clock in the homemaking department and plans will be made for carrying on the work through the summer months. Most of the work will be directed through individual conferences and home visits with each student. Four group meetings will be held. The first one, Monday, for instruction and plans; the second one an outing, the third for the purpose of working on some group projects. The last group meeting will be held the last of August in the form of Achievement Day at which time the girls will exhibit and explain work accomplished during the summer.

Each student is required to put in 100 hours of work on some worthwhile experiences. All girls who are interested are urged to see Miss Jordan or Miss Smith immediately.

Iraq Government Cracking Up?

ANKARA, Turkey, May 26 (AP) — Reports suggesting that the two-month-old Iraq government of Premier Rashid Ali Al Gailani might be breaking up under the stress of three weeks of fighting against the British circulated today in Ankara.

Simultaneously a telegram to the Turkish agricultural bank said 10,000 Arabs had rioted and looted in Basra Saturday, endangering $2,000,000 worth of American farm machinery purchased for Turkish cooperatives and awaiting delivery on Basra docks.

(There was no immediate indication as to whether the riots were against the Iraq government or against the British, who claim to have taken the city early in the unscathed war. London said it had no word of the rioting, that the situation was confused.)

Federation Meeting For 1942 At Austin Hinges On Weather

ATLANTIC CITY, May 26 (AP) — The national Federation of Women's clubs will meet at Austin, Tex., in 1942, but exactly when hinges on Texas' uncertain weather.

Action of the federation's board of directors in choosing the Texas city evoked an immediate demand for advice on Lone Star state weather. The board wanted the opinions of at least one Texan on whether the state's April or May weather would be more inviting in 1942, but a search of this resort city by police failed to produce a single representative from the nation's largest state.

New Jersey state police then were requested to locate the two bus loads of homeward-bound Texans who departed Saturday from the golden jubilee celebration and to communicate with other Lone Star states in New York.

Time of the convention would be decided after the board—or the police—located a Texan, Mrs. Whitehurst said.

Several other ships were believed damaged, the air ministry said. It acknowledged the loss of four planes during the attacks and scouting operations.

President Due To Tell Big Decision Tuesday

By ALSOFF AND KINTNER
WASHINGTON, May 26.—For the first time in the course of the war, the president is under really strong pressure from virtually all of his most important advisers. Hitherto, one department or another has fought, sporadically for this or that line of policy. Measures have been taken almost in haphazard. But now, according to well informed officials, there is virtual unanimity.

The potent on which this unanimity exists is a deeply significant one. For the fact is that all of the chief men of the War and Navy Departments and most of the influential advisers at the State Department are now agreed that active aid to Britain, first in the battle of the Atlantic and later elsewhere can not be much longer delayed if the British are to win the war.

The report brought back from London by Major General H. H. Arnold, chief of the air corps and deputy chief of staff, crystallized this conclusion. And the conclusion is understood to have been forcefully confirmed by the equally important report on the British situation made a few days later by Under Secretary of Navy James Forrestal, on his return from England.

Forrestal's opportunities to review the balance of the war were the best possible, for during his entire stay in London he was in closest contact with Prime Minister Winston Churchill and other important personages. Moreover, as one of the shrewdest of the new members of the administration and a very careful observer, his opinions carry great weight, both at the White House and the Navy Department.

It is conceded in all informed circles that the time factor is the most serious of all the numerous elements in the national situation which the president must consider before reaching a decision. It is, of course, impossible to estimate precisely in terms of days, weeks or perhaps months. No one can tell exactly how long it will be safe for this country to maintain its present attitude.

But it is known that the ablest strategists at both the War and Navy Departments believe that the curve of the war will descend very rapidly in the next few weeks. And no one disagrees that once progressive degeneration of the strategic situation has set in, it will be extremely difficult to arrest.

The reasons for these conclusions are obvious to anyone who reads the headlines. Because this country has so far failed to make the effort necessary to cover the margin between success and failure, the three great battles now being fought—the Battle of the Atlantic, the Battle of the Mediterranean and the Battle of the Air—appear to be going against the British.

The office of the president is to move both promptly and decisively believe that active American aid will be sufficient to turn the tide, or at least stabilize the balance until a British offensive striking power can be built up. The difficulty appears to be not doubt on America's naval and military power; but doubt as to the country's readiness to permit the president to use the power.

There is great interest, therefore, in an analysis of the president's problem as presented by one of the men who is advising him. This official points out that when the president embarked on the policy of aiding the democracies against the dictatorships, he risked his entire achievement, his reputation with the people and his future place in history. If the policy fails, his administration will be worse than a failure, for it will end in national disunion.

Therefore, still according to this official, the president finds himself in the position of a man who has put his entire fortune on one bet, sees the bet going sour, but still has the chance to bet double or quits. Yet if he doubles up, there is additional risk in the sense that he may not be followed by the people. But his immediate danger is easier to face than the ultimate result of losing the bet.

There are several signs recently to minimize the possibility of bad consequences if the president makes a prompt decision. In the first place, the Gallup poll now shows a narrow majority for convicts, instead of a rather small minority previously in favor of it. Although convicts may not be the solution in the Battle of the Atlantic, this same group would presumably be for any type of shipping protection the president chooses to order. The president advisers have been arguing that the country will follow him if the facts are made clear.

This coupled with the reports of the military strategists gives every reason to believe that the president will announce important decisions in his address on Tuesday. Copyright, 1941, Herald Tribune, Inc.

Someday I'll Find You

Chapter 18
Martin Agala
Ris answered eagerly, as if he took hope from what she said.

"But now you know that things are different, you will think? And I will make it straight with Molly." "No," Eileen said. "I can't." She stopped short.

"Ris, don't you see what you're doing to me? I'll have to stop working here. And I haven't any other job, or even money to get back to my home state. Please don't think of it. I don't love you—honestly, I don't. And you can't break with Molly, as far as I'm concerned. Oh, why did you have to feel like this?"

"Is it the man you did not send the telegram to?" he demanded eagerly. "Do you love him still?" She answered straightforwardly, "I never did love him. I was just sorry; but about what to do and where to turn. He'd said he'd always wait for me. But he got over it." She tried to laugh. "You're all like that. Why, Ris, in a month you'll have forgotten all about this. Please don't say anything to Molly."

Ris only said, with the terrible persistence of the gentle, "I will not do anything you do not want. It was sudden, you have not seen him without having hold of him? Unless you let me. And you will please go on working here. That would be the worst; that I had stopped you earning money." She was about to say proudly that she would go, anyway. But she checked herself. You cannot be proud when you have no money at all, except fifty dollars in a savings bank; saved to be a frail bridge between you and ill luck next time. She had to go on.

"It is no use your staying now," he said gently. "Nobody will come in, such a wet night. I will not trouble you, I will only try to show you—"

He kissed her hand, with the dangling gold charms clicking on its bracelet. Then he went, practically enough, and got her coat and hat and helped her equip herself for the street and the wet walk home.

Molly, home before her, did not lift her head from the pillow to greet her, as she used to, gaily. She made ready for bed—her nightgown, her slippers, she noticed, as she got into it—feeling like a criminal to Molly. Of course, Molly had seen.

And sooner or later, something would precipitate an open break with Molly, with her hot Irish temper. And Eileen would have to leave the shabby room and the little job that had carried her through in her last fifty dollars, hunting work, till it was gone; and then—relief.

Aristides said nothing more when she came in next morning. He only smiled at her, a wide, adoring smile. Nick, glimpsed through the next shop, did not. He glowered unmistakably. Nick knew, one way or another.

and pushed each other. He was in topper and tails, his tall hat pushed a little back on thick fair hair. She was mink-cloaked and tall and white. . . . He turned his head toward Eileen.

It was Martin. Martin, laughing. Martin, an arm half round another girl. Martin, who did not remember her at all.

They brought in a gust of winter air and cigarette smoke and night gale. The tiny shop and its occupants might have been a back drop, for all they knew or cared. They glanced at them carelessly, and went on with their crazy argument.

"You don't mean it," the girl said. "You were just brought up to hear it round the house when your mamma was practicing a suffrage speech. Don't be silly, nothing in trousers ever meant it."

Eileen, small, shabby, desperate, stared helplessly. The girl's face came back to her. She was one of those girls who had come downstairs with Martin, an arm thrust through his. Eileen started to laugh hysterically, and checked herself. Was the girl never anywhere near him without having hold of him?

He was saying, "Nonsense, Caroline, I mean it." The girl shrieked. "Dangerous to say it in leap year." She swayed and shrieked with laughter again, swinging on his arm.

"I mean it word of honor!" he insisted, laughing too. "Any year. All years. Word of honor. Girl has a right to do anything a man can. Girl has a right to ask anything a man can. Gosh, she darn well does, and he takes it. Take him on a party—propose to him—what's the odds? Why not? Other things? Silly. Not fair."

They continued to laugh. "You go!" Caroline stammered. "You get me orchids when I tell you—that Victorian stuff, getting a girl orchids when she asks. Rest's eyewash. You wouldn't stick to that. If a girl asked you—marry her—you'd be sick. That's how much equality we poor females got to creep up on you by wiles. You demand wiles—Wiles, Martin!" She shook back her blond crop of hair and whooped.

Martin detached himself from her, guided her hand to a support against the counter, and came over himself and bought a spray of orchids from Ris. "Is said over his shoulder. 'You ought to know by now that when I say word of honor I'm not kidding. Happens to be my pet little virtue—only one, probably. You know perfectly well.'"

"How your mamma raised you? Prominent feminist. Never missed a parade—white horse. Votes for women now spreading through

Man About Manhattan— Found: Person Who Really Doesn't Want Money

NEW YORK—The odd thing about Sally Benson is that she knows how odd she is. So do I, now.

This Sally Benson is the girl who does the "Junior Miss" pieces in the New Yorker. She also reviews the mystery stories for the same magazine, which she thinks is fun, though I wouldn't. And now a collection of her short stories is being distributed to the 400,000-odd members of the Book-of-the-Month club, and she's in the big money. Plenty, for Hollywood is just around her corner, coming fast.

But the odd thing is that Benson just doesn't care. "I can't realize anything above ten dollars," she says. "I don't want all that money." I think she really means it.

She'll tell you her age—41 next month. She has a daughter old enough to share an apartment with another girl, and makes no pretense that she was a child-wife. She dresses nicely, but unglamorously. She never has more than three pairs of stockings, she insists, because "you can match the odd ones better when you don't have too many."

She's from St. Louis originally, and talks with a combination of Missouri drawl and Vermont twang that is a little disconcerting at first experience. Next month she's going to start a St. Louis series in the New Yorker, by the way. It's based on her sisters' diaries, circa World's Fair, which was in 1904.

In New York she lives in the East 40's and has a garden which raises quite a lot, including radishes. She may put in a few cabbages, too, but no Brussels sprouts. "I don't like miniature cabbage," she says.

Not long ago, says Benson, she went to a tea at Columbia University, where her husband is graduate director of athletics. The tea was in honor of a professor who had sold a mystery novel, no less. This gentleman walked around on a cane, she declares, explaining that he really could have sold the book serially if he'd got round to it.

But Benson and a friend sat on a sofa, and nobody much noticed them. "So my friend would say, pretty loud, everything someone passed, 'Why Sally Benson, I'm so glad . . . and so on.'"

"Still nobody noticed. Then one of the Book-of-the-Month men came by, and I grabbed him. 'Now I can talk on my own level,' I said, and we did."

Along with all these Hollywood offers for "Junior Miss" have come offers of "fabulous salaries" to the author for helping on the adaptation.

WTCC Should Push Tourist Development

Many Big Spring business men missed a good bet recently in not hearing the tourist development and trade lectures of Lloyd P. Bloodworth, executive secretary of the El Paso chamber of commerce; and the West Texas Chamber of Commerce is overlooking a good bet in not including some service of this sort in its program of work.

Bloodworth proved himself to be an authority in this field, and his suggestions here were entirely constructive and practical. If applied, his ideas can be made the basis of a progressive program to increase tourist business here and to make people in this area want to come to Big Spring to shop.

But getting on to the idea of the regional chamber offering this type of service, we know of no closer contact it could make with its affiliated towns. While we would not detract from the accomplishments of the WTCC, it must be said in all candor that its activities have been strictly on an area basis. Such benefits as have come to the communities have followed as a course of natural distribution rather than by local application.

Obviously, few communities can afford to finance experts on specific subjects which might develop those communities. The WTCC, being a regional organization, could, and in so doing bring about a genuine appreciation of its efforts in behalf of its constituents.

The point is simply this: We are interested in West Texas, but we are interested first of all in building our own community. Lloyd Bloodworth's tourist and trade talks are fine cases in point. They furnish the basis for suggestion—a suggestion which we hope WTCC will study seriously.

Pepper Says US Must Take Side In War

DALLAS, May 26. (AP)—Senator Claude Pepper (D-Fla.) says it is time for Americans to decide whom they are for in the world conflict and "the way we respond will determine not only whether democracy shall live but also whether it deserves to live."

And "public opinion, not congress or Roosevelt, will determine America's course," Senator Pepper said yesterday in a radio address opening a two weeks' swing through the middle west.

The senator was to address an Oklahoma City chamber of commerce luncheon today, fly to Austin to address the Texas legislature Tuesday and appear at an American Legion meeting at Waco Tuesday afternoon. He will speak here again Tuesday night after President Roosevelt's nation-wide address. He planned to be at Wichita Falls and Amarillo Wednesday.

Hollywood Sights and Sounds— London During Air Raid Setting For Light Movie

HOLLYWOOD—"One Night in Lisbon." Screenplay by Virginia Van Upp from play by John Van Druten. Directed by Edward H. Griffith. Principals: Fred MacMurray, Madeline Carroll, Patricia Morison, Billie Burke, John Ilder, Dama May Whitely, Edmund Gwenn, Reginald Denny, Billy Gilbert.

The current war isn't very funny; this picture, with the current war as a background, is exceedingly so. The setting is London today, London under the Nazi bombs. Boy meets girl in a bomb shelter during a raid; another raid breaks up a safe party at which boy is trying to win girl away from her stolid British escort; when the scene shifts to London, boy and girl are surrounded by Nazi intrigue. And yet, the result is comedy, light and amusing, often risqué, seldom strained.

MacMurray plays a brash, forthputting Texan flying bombers to Britain; Miss Carroll (and never was a more luscious blonde) is the staid British girl who's afraid of being "upset" by contact with life as she typifies it; Loder is the slightly stuffy, fine Brytisher ("stout" falls—chin—up—sin—never—sets) in the hero's tag for girl who plays watchdog for him.

There's some resemblance, not too much, to the play, "There's Always Juliet" from which the film is taken. The modern touches, bringing in the war and Lisbon (instead of Paris), accents comedy and shun war horror. Even the mad scenes, operating in Lisbon, convey no menace in the usual style. Edmund Gwenn, as the British minister for whom the heroine is chauffeur, typifies in quiet humor the British attitude toward the war, making the slight propaganda motif most acceptable and demonstrating that Hollywood has become more clever in this respect lately.

"Affectionately Yours." Screenplay by Edward Kaufman from story by Fanya Foss and Aileen Leslie. Directed by Lloyd Bacon. Principals: Merle Oberon, Dennis Morgan, Rita Hayworth, Ralph Bellamy, George Tobias, James Gleason, Eddie McDaniel, Jerome Cowan, Butterfly McQueen. Morgan plays a freely romantic foreign correspondent who gets hot and bothered when he hears his wife (Oberon) has divorced him. He ducks his latest girl friend (Hayworth) and flies back to New York to stop his wife's marriage to that bewildered bumptin Ralph Bellamy has been playing in so many pictures since "The Awful Truth." In the domestic background loom McDaniel and McQueen—the latter playing again her hysterical giggling Prissy from "Gone With the Wind," the former doing a Mammy with modern overtones.

With a script apparently devised on a what'll-we-do-next-to-keep-it-going basis, Morgan proceeds to play any number of cute tricks to get his wife back—any one of which would be grounds for divorce if she hadn't already shaken him. Miss Oberon, faced with such silly goings-on, seems peculiarly misfit though game in surrendering so readily. In the general absurdity, Miss Oberon, as the helpful girl reported and Gleason as the managing editor appear to advantage as believable human beings.

The program notes aver that Director Bacon considers this funnier than his "Slight Case of Murder" and that Miss Oberon "loves" this her second modern comedy. I would not for a minute alienate their affection for the piece, but insist they must have been thinking of a couple of other movies.

O'Daniel Opens Radio Campaign

AUSTIN, May 26 (AP)—Governor W. Lee O'Daniel was to start a series of "pre-campaign" daily radio programs at 1 p. m. today in the interest of his candidacy for the U. S. senate.

O'Daniel's headquarters, in announcing the broadcasts yesterday, said the programs, the length of which was not mentioned, would continue "until his campaign opens."

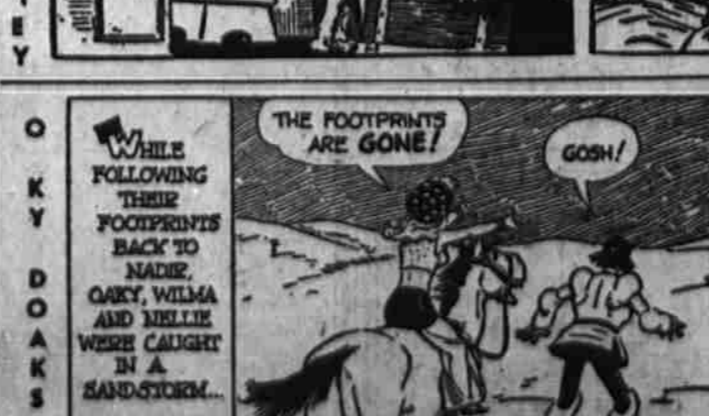

Civil War Monument Early BANGOR, Maine.—The first monument ever erected to man who died in the Civil War was dedicated here in Mount Hope Cemetery on June 17, 1864—a year before the war ended.

The door tinkled. It was flung wide. There was a rush of crisp air and loud, laughing young voices. A man and girl came in, arm in arm, their heads thronged back as they laughed and wrangled

He looked a little downcast—he was such a boy, after all, Eileen remembered, only twenty-two—but he said, "Of course. But perhaps tomorrow we go to the movies and you wear them."

Her hands shook as she bent over to pull her shabby sandals on; they were the kind you buy at the ten-cent store and snap across your feet. They did not keep deep snow out.

As Eileen straightened up a wave of hatred for Martin—for the man who had made her go stark crazy enough to throw over everything and end as she was ending here, after beginning as she had begun—flowed over her, so hot that she was afraid of herself. She could have strangled him. She knew now how girls felt who went and shot men, or mailed them poison in candy. It wasn't ridiculous or unbalanced. Things like this had happened, and what else could she do?

porters not to build it up as of extreme importance. But when asked today whether he thought a similar warning was warranted, he said:

"Up to yesterday I would have repeated the warning. Today I can tell you the president will be engaged through the day, into the night and most of tomorrow in revising his speech in the light of rapidly changing conditions abroad.

"Don't ask me to go into details because I can't. You'll get them when you get the speech." Even before these week-end developments, members of congress were looking to Mr. Roosevelt for an up-to-the-minute statement of United States foreign policy. There has been uncertainty as to the administration's future plans, particularly since the recent pronouncements of cabinet members, urging repeal of the neutrality act and "guaranteed" delivery of lease-lend shipments.

There was considerable speculation as to whether the chief executive would back up the demands by members of his official family for "affirmative steps" to aid Great Britain's fight against the axis. Mr. Roosevelt will address the nation by radio tomorrow night at 8:30 p. m. CST.

Even the best-informed administration followers in congress made it clear that they had no inkling of what the president would say, but all agreed that the address should help to clear the air regarding this country's position in fast-moving world affairs.

Secretary of State Hull accused Germany today of seeking by threats to induce the United States to refrain from any real efforts at self defense.

Hull made this comment on the statement yesterday of Grand Admiral Erich Raeder, commander of the German navy, that the American patrol system was "aggressive" and that American naval convoys for British ships would "mean shooting."

Hull told his press conference that Raeder's statement appeared to be some sort of threat to induce this country and possibly other American nations to refrain from real efforts at self defense until Adolf Hitler gets control of the high seas of the world and other continents.

It is a favorite system which Hitler had used in the case of many countries—in Europe, Hull said, either by threats or persuasion to induce other countries to refrain from any real defense until Hitler was ready to seize them.
