USDA Ups Support For Milk

WASHINGTON (AP) - As expected, the Agriculture Department has raised the federal price support of milk to $9.43 per 100 pounds from the $9 rate which has been in effect the past year.

The boost, to go into effect Saturday, may raise the price of milk paid by consumers nearly two cents a half-gallon; butter six cents a pound; and cheese five cents a pound within a few months.

A reason for this will be the higher prices USDA will have to pay to buy a surplus butter, cheese and nonfat dry milk so that dealers can afford to pay farmers at least the minimum support price for milk used to make those products.

The higher supports also are translated gradually into minimums paid dairy farmers for fluid milk sold in retail stores by the carton and gallon jug.

"These price increases are likely to be reflected at the wholesale and retail levels," analysts said in an economic impact statement submitted to USDA's Commodity Credit Corp. Board, which approved the increase.

"The increase in the support price is equal to about 3.7 cents per gallon of fluid milk," the statement said.

Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland told Congress March 1 that the milk support would be increased to $9.43 per 100 pounds. The CCC board was scheduled to make it official on March 16 but adjourned before doing so because protesting farmers invaded the department's administration building.

Thus, the board met again Monday to put its official stamp on the milk support increase.

Under law, the department must support milk prices at no less than 80 percent of parity - the economic formula used to compare farmers' spending power with a 1910-14 base.

A year ago the support was raised to $9 (See MILK, Page 2)

Absentee Balloting Ends Today

Absentee voting, which ends at 5 p.m. today, has been normal for the Hereford Independent School District, below normal for the City of Hereford and above normal for the Deaf Smith County Hospital District.

Ron Welty, Deaf Smith General Hospital administrator and absentee voting judge for the Saturday election, said this morning that 10 people had voted.

"There weren't any last year. Since absentee voting was held this year at the hospital business office instead of the county clerk's office, we've had a few more people vote."

Running for places on the hospital district board are Kathryn Acton, Deward Roberson and incumbents Frank Zinser Jr. and Lawrence J. Straffus.

Balloting for the city commission has been almost non-existent, with only two votes cast by 10 a.m. today.

"Last year, we have more people running and it was a mayor's race, so we had more people voting," said Bonna (See VOTING, Page 2)

Commissioners Hear Project Plans

Art Organization Plans Center

By PAUL SIMS
Managing Editor

Deaf Smith County commissioners Monday agreed to allow an art organization pursue, with possible assistance from the government, a plan to renovate the small house on the E.B. Black property, 508 W. 3rd, as an art center.

Peggy Furr, spokesperson for the organization comprised of Hereford women interested in conducting art workshops, classes and meetings, told commissioners that state funds may be available for renovating the house.

The commission has tried since last year to dispose of the house located adjacent to the Black house, a restoration project of the Deaf Smith County Historical Society.

Marie Sears told the commission Monday that the historical society is not participating in the art center project but "we think it is a highly worthwhile function."

County Judge Sam Morgan agreed: "I think it would be wonderful to have an art center in town."

Mrs. Furr said that if state money becomes available, the art committee which she said plans to become "an organized group later" hopes to extend the parking area from the Black house to the art center, use one room in the center for an art gallery, and utilize remaining rooms for classes, workshops and meetings.

She said that she and Mary Hazlewood of Amarillo were to meet Monday afternoon with West Texas State University President Max Sherman concerning the possibility of using the center for night classes and extension courses.

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter's urban policy: what's in it for you?

Potentially, city parks, neighborhood health clinics, outdoor art fairs and job programs.

Those are some of the goals of President Carter's urban policy revealed Monday - an $8.3 billion strategy relying heavily on financial incentives for business investment in distressed cities.

But before the Carter policy has an effect, the spending programs must pass Congress. Most will be debated as part of the fiscal 1979 budget, which will be considered this spring to take effect Oct. 1.

Much of the new spending can be expected to draw criticism on Capitol Hill. Of the $8.3 billion, $4.4 billion is in new spending requiring congressional approval.

Key members of both the House and Senate have previously indicated they will study carefully a proposal to create a national development bank to provide subsidies for business building or expanding in distressed areas. There also is concern on the Senate Banking Committee over a $150 million housing rehabilitation loan program.

The urban policy's various job programs, some of which would require congressional appropriations, are aimed at the hard-core unemployed and at youths aged 18 to 24.

Carter would also make $150 million available for parks, community basketball courts and swimming pools.

"There are too few parks and recreation areas in the cities," says White House domestic adviser Stuart Eizenstat. "And those that exist are in an advanced state of decay."

Eizenstat, a former high school basketball star, says new facilities such as basketball courts "will break up the tedium and give kids a useful outlet" for their energy.

Under Carter's $20 million Liveable Cities proposal, grants from the National Endowment for the Arts could finance neighborhood arts groups and underwrite projects such as outdoor art fairs.

In Atlanta, Liveable Cities money already is paying for a program to paint murals on city buildings.

Such efforts are relatively inexpensive - compared with the billion-dollar public works program or $1.5 billion in business-stimulating tax credits Carter proposed Monday - but they are integral parts of his effort to make cities "a more attractive place to live and work."

Carter also expressed hope that the federal government can help "marshal the thousands of Americans who want to contribute their time and energy" to neighborhood improvements.

ACTION, the federal volunteer agency, wants $40 million to match the needs of neighborhood groups and volunteers with special skills, an attorney or a carpenter, for example. The agency also would provide grants averaging about $5,000 to neighborhood groups for "dress up" projects. The money would pay for equipment such as paint and brushes, or trees and sidewalk flower beds.

A $15 million HUD program would directly aid neighborhood rehabilitation groups in addition to the proposed $150 million for housing rehabilitation loans.

A $50 million Community Health Center proposal would finance clinics in poor urban neighborhoods lacking adequate medical care.

A $150 million proposal would provide the first spending increase since 1974 for social service programs - such as day care for working mothers and Meals on Wheels for the elderly.

Some $200 million of new mass transit money would be earmarked for providing bus connections "from the point where current mass transit routes end to where the jobs are," Eizenstat said.

Food Costs Climb Last Month

WASHINGTON (AP) - Food prices increased 1.2 percent in February for the second consecutive month, pushing overall consumer prices up 0.6 percent during the month, the government reported today.

Beef prices led the upward march in food costs, rising 4.1 percent during the month, while higher prices also were reported for pork, poultry and cereal and bakery products. Prices of foods sold in grocery stores increased 1.3 percent.

The steep rise in food prices, which started late last year, has caught the Carter administration by surprise. It is the major factor in what appears to be a worsening inflation rate in the economy, even though the overall 0.6 percent increase in consumer prices in February was down slightly from the 0.8 percent gain in January.

If continued for 12 months, the February increase in consumer prices would result in price inflation of slightly more than 7.2 percent, compared with the administration's inflation target for the year of 6.1 percent.

Administration officials say food prices may rise as much as 8 percent this year, up from the 6 percent increase projected just a few months ago.

In addition to food consumers also faced sharply higher prices in February for fuel and utilities, up 0.8 percent; medical care, up 1.3 percent, and new and used cars, ahead 0.7 percent and 2.1 percent, respectively.

The only significant decline in prices during the month was for clothing, down 1 percent following a small gain in January. However, apparel services such as laundry and dry cleaning services increased 1 percent.

Transportation costs increased 0.6 percent and entertainment prices advanced 0.7 percent. Costs of housing were up 0.6 percent, down slightly from

Interest Referendum Gets Go-Ahead

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) - Texas Democrats cleared up one point Monday but have one more hurdle to clear Thursday before they can start printing the May 6 primary ballots.

District Judge Herman Jones refused Monday to issue a court order stopping the State Democratic Executive Committee from printing a non-binding referendum question on the primary ballot that would ask voters if they approve increasing the interest rates on loans under $5,000.

Whether the Democrats will be able to take a straw poll on horse race betting comes before another district court judge on Thursday.

"The court should approach any action of a political party with utmost caution," Jones said after a two-hour hearing. "It seems to me that the State Democratic Executive Committee has determined it wants to submit this matter to the voters and I do not find any basis for the court to inject itself."

Both referendum questions were placed on the May 6 Democratic primary ballot at a meeting of the SDEC in Waco (See LEGAL, Page 2)

It's Election Time, and This Farmer's Involved

Elections excite Robert Strain but also provide the Democratic party chairman for Deaf Smith County some disappointments.

"I get excited about elections because I believe in the system of this country and the way we elect our public officials," said Strain, party coordinator in Deaf Smith County for the last two years.

"I get excited about state and national races but it is the local election that's special. Anything that happens in Deaf Smith County is special to me."

Light turnouts and haphazard voting are Strain's pet-peeves probably because those things dull the system he appreciates so much.

"I'd like to see greater participation by the electorate. At times, the people in this county are pretty apathetic at election time, although at times we have good turnouts. I think with the local races we have this year, though, you can look for a good turnout. We've got a potential of between 7,000 and 8,000 voters, and I think 5,000 would be a good election.

"People sometimes make up their minds too quickly and when they do, they tend to not listen to all the candidates. Study the issues, read the newspaper. It's important to vote on qualifications rather than friendship.

"Amendments are really my pet-peeve because people don't usually take the time to cast an intelligent vote. But they're important—they're a part of the Constitution."

Also important, Strain said, is the local office.

"Take the county commission, for example. The four county commissioners have more authority over our lives than the governor of Texas. They can levy taxes by a majority vote, and the governor can't even do that."

Strain, as Democratic chairman, is chief executive officer of the party in Deaf Smith County. As county chairman, he also serves on the 31st Senatorial District Committee.

He is in charge of handling local candidates' filing fees for the primary and runoff and arranges for the ballots to be printed and distributed to the 11 election judges.

Airport Opening Postponed in Tokyo

TOKYO (AP) - Violence has again forced postponement of the opening of Tokyo's new international airport, throwing airlines and government officials into confusion.

The billion-dollar airport at Narita, 41 miles northeast of Tokyo, was scheduled to open Thursday after six years of delays, with flights in and out beginning Monday. But Prime Minister Takeo Fukuda decided at a special cabinet meeting that the destruction of the control tower Sunday by militant foes and threats of more violence necessitated another postponement.

Transport Minister Kenji Fukunaga said it would take until mid-April to repair the damage to the control tower's radar, communications and weather equipment.

Promising to take "forcefully drastic measures" to protect the airport against future violence, Fukuda said the cabinet would meet again on Friday to set a new opening date. The Kyodo news service said it was told the date would be sometime in May.

President Embarks On Latin Trip

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter, embarking on the first of at least three overseas trips planned this year, today began a week-long trip to Latin America and Africa by flying to Venezuela.

Vice President Walter F. Mondale minding the store in Carter's absence, headed a delegation of presidential advisers who said farewell at an early-morning White House departure ceremony that was televised nationally.

Carter said his journey "reflects our own nation's ability to deal in a constructive way" with a changing and diverse world.

He said South America and Africa share a common heritage with the United States in overcoming colonialism and he noted that many Americans trace their roots to the two continents.

He said he hopes to work for economic justice, human rights and international peace during his trip.

Carter said that by the end of the century, 80 percent of the world's population will live in Africa, Asia and Latin America.

"In this world of change we will maintain our greatness only if we are able to change" while maintaining our principles, he declared.

Elections Delayed In Port Arthur

PORT ARTHUR, Texas (AP) - The U.S. Justice Department has postponed indefinitely Saturday's city council elections here because it said the consolidation with two neighboring communities diluted black voting strength.

Federal officials said, however, that the objection to consolidation with the bedroom communities of Pear Ridge and Lakewood will be reconsidered if this Southeast Texas city implements "fairly-drawn single member districts."

Port Arthur consolidated with the two communities late last year.

City Manager George Dibrell said the city is considering filing a suit in federal court asking for a declaratory judgment on Monday's ruling.

Mayor Bernis Sadler said he had "absolutely no comment" on the ruling.

Resolution of the election issue could take up to a year since Port Arthur cannot go to single member districts without a charter election, said Robert Keith, special counsel to the city.

Dibrell said state law will prohibit Port Arthur from conducting a charter election before July.

Hill in Capital To Fight California

WASHINGTON (AP) - Texas Attorney General John Hill is in town wearing the hats of lawyer, lobbyist and politician.

He dons his lawyer's cap this afternoon to argue Texas' case before the Supreme Court in California vs. Texas. California is asking the high court to enjoin the "original jurisdiction" provision granted by the Constitution to settle certain disputes between states.

At stake are millions of dollars in inheritance taxes from the vast fortune Howard Hughes left behind when he died in 1976.

"We feel California has a very weak claim as far as being the domicile state of Mr. Hughes is concerned," said Hill during a Monday press conference at the National Press Club. "We're hoping they'll (Supreme Court justices) simply refuse to grant the motion....and we feel to do otherwise would be unfair to Texas because basically California is asking this court to try and relitigate the same issue we have already litigated in a Texas court."

Hill added that if the court decides to hear the case, it would be "very expensive to Texas...it will cost time and money to present the same case to a master appointed by the court."

Police Report

Sixteen persons, including three juveniles, were arrested at approximately 1 a.m. today on charges of public intoxication at the Washing Well dance hall on Main Street.

Several of the persons also were charged with fighting and disorderly conduct.

Two 15-year-old males were arrested Monday night at Bowling's Bowl for misdemeanor possession of marijuana. The two youths were turned over to juvenile probation authorities.

Arrowhead Mills, 110 S. Lawton, reported today that someone broke out security lights Monday night or early this morning.

Cliff Jones, 114 Cherokee, reported Monday that someone stole a roto-tiller valued at $200 from his house.

Fiery Crash Site

John Douglas Walter, 56, a pilot for Benger Aero Spraying Service in Friona, died late Sunday afternoon when his cropduster struck a high-voltage power line and crashed in a wheatfield south of Friona. The plane apparently exploded or caught fire after it struck the line, according to authorities at the scene. Power to Bovina and Friona was knocked out for almost an hour after the crash.

Noon Lions Will Elect New Officers Thursday

Members of the Hereford Noon Lions Club, their wives, and guests will be in for the usual crackpot nominating speeches, skits, and frivolity at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at the Community Center when the club elects officers for the upcoming year.

Club members will choose between Gayle Cotten and Charlie Bell for club president to replace outgoing "Boss Lion" Buddie Evans. Campaign managers, Cleo Coris and Neil Cooper respectively are almost certain to spring some surprises in touting the "qualifications" of their candidate.

Cotten is currently serving as 1st vice president on the club after a stint as secretary last year. Bell, the "Caruso of Hereford" serves as song leader for the club.

Other officers to be elected by the club include secretary, treasurer, 1st, 2nd, and 3rd vice president, lion tamers, tail twisters, and directors.

Nick Fariss and Dewitt Seago are the candidates for secretary, while Calvin Jones and Al Sauter are running for treasurer. Victor Cantu and Dickie Gerles will contend for 1st vice president, while John David Bryant and Bill Lamm are in the running for 2nd VP, and Lester Nixon and Sid Shaw are contending for 3rd vice president.

Club members will elect two each lion tamers, tail twisters, and directors from a field of four candidates. Speedy Nieman, Mark Andrews, Pat Hughes, and Tom Carter are in the race for lion tamer, while Bob Nigh, Temple Abney, Glen Nelson, and Bob Hillerby are running for tail twisters.

Director candidates include Tom Robinson, Servio Gamez, Don Hicks, and Elmer Combs. In addition, Chuck Boyd and Ben Harris are carry over directors.

Club members need to be reminded that the regular Wednesday Noon meeting will not be held this week due to the meeting Thursday night.

Montana CofC Says 'Go Away'

HELENA, Mont. (AP) - The Montana Chamber of Commerce has been asked to do a very un-chamber-of-commerce-like thing: urge some would-be Montanans to stay away.

A letter from a mother in Detroit said she feared her 17-year-old and his 18-year-old girl friend have fallen hard for the idea that paradise is to be found in the mountains.

"My son is dating this young girl who is older than he is and who is mountain crazy," wrote Mrs. L. Winget. "She has been to Colorado, Montana, Wyoming and all over out West with her parents on vacation but my son hasn't seen a mountain. Now all I hear is: as soon as he graduates from high school, if he does, they're going to take off to the mountains and buy a farm and pitch a tent and live out there."

"This young girl is writing a letter to you anyway now asking for information about Montana and job opportunities and farms."

"When you get her letter, please don't encourage them to come there."

Obituaries

JOHN D. WALTER Services are pending with Parsons-Ellis Funeral Home in Friona for John D. Walter, a former resident of Hereford.

Walter, 56, of Friona was killed Sunday afternoon when the crop dusting plane he was piloting crashed and exploded after apparently hitting power lines in the area.

Mr. Walter was the only occupant of the small plane, which witnesses said hit the power lines twice before crashing into the field and exploding.

He was dusting a wheat field about one mile south of Friona when the 5:20 p.m. crash occurred. Witnesses said the wheels of the plane hit the lines and then hit them again.

Friona police, Pärmer County sheriff's deputies, Amarillo Department of Public Safety troopers and Friona fire department officials were called to the scene of the fiery crash which left both Friona and Bovina without power for about an hour, due to damaged power lines.

He was an employee of Benger Air Park at Friona.

Survivors include his wife, Mozelle; a son, Kenneth Walter of Friona; three daughters, Mrs. Jacquelyn Monk, Mrs. Jerrie Landrum and Johnnie Walter, all of Friona; two sisters, Shirley Walter of Edinburg and Jerrie Walter of Tulsa, Okla.; a brother, Donald of Clayton, Okla.; and four grandchildren.

ALBERT MANIK The funeral Mass for Albert Manik, 73, of Harwood Heights, Ill. will be conducted at 9:30 a.m. Thursday in Rosalie Catholic Church in Chicago.

Interment will be in St. Joseph's Cemetery at Riner Grove, Ill. under the direction of Lawrence Funeral Home.

Mr. Manik, who died Easter Sunday, was the father of a local resident, Mrs. Ken Klechak.

In addition to Mrs. Klechak, survivors included the widow, Theresa; another daughter, Elaine Murtough; four granddaughters, including Sue Urbanczyk and Debbie Klechak, both of Hereford; and three great-grandchildren.

Loan Interest on March 13.

The horse race betting question also will appear on the Republican primary ballot. There have been no legal questions raised on the GOP ballot.

Carrin Patman, wife of Sen. Bill Patman, D-Ganado, an opponent of higher interest rates, said she proposed the referendum in the SCD's legal affairs subcommittee on March 13. It was adopted later by the full committee without dissent.

Mrs. Patman contends that interest rate increases are sought mostly by out-of-state small loan companies who do not want Texas voters to have a say in the decision.

Robert Mansker, SDEC member from Greenville, said he opposed the referendum in the subcommittee because it was "lopsided" and "unfairly presented."

Lloyd Hawkins, Austin, registered lobbyist for Beneficial Finance Co., said it would be "a waste of time" to ask the 1979 Legislature for an interest rate increase if voters approved the referendum.

"It will hurt us immediately if it is even put on the ballot," he said.

Lawyers for Hawkins and others argued that it was unconstitutional for the SDEC, whose primaries are financed partially by state appropriations, to "use public money to influence the legislature for private purposes." He said small loan lenders are affected most because it is the only industry where the legislature directly sets interest rates.

Lawyers for Patman and the SDEC claimed the small loan industry wanted to muzzle voters to keep them from expressing their views.

from 38.26 per 100 pounds. At that time the 99 rate was 82.3 percent of parity. Last Oct. 1, when the price was reviewed, the support was still 82.3 percent of parity and was left unchanged.

But under 1977 farm law, the milk support must be reviewed semiannually and raised accordingly if the parity index goes up. Officials estimated that by April 1 the index would be up 4.8 percent from last fall so the support was increased accordingly.

Included in its action the board approved an increase of 10 cents per 100 pounds of milk in the so-called manufacturing margins used to compute USDA's purchase prices for butter, cheese and nonfat dry milk it buys to carry out the support program.

Officials said this was the first increase since Oct. 1, 1976, and "will provide greater assurance that the U.S. average price received by farmers will be at least equal to the announced support price" for milk.

As announced, the basic USDA purchase price of butter will be slightly less than $1.09 a pound on April 1 against less than $1.03 now; nonfat dry milk 71 cents a pound, compared with 68 cents, and cheese slightly more than $1.03 a pound, compared with 98 cents.

Another review of the milk price support program will be made in the fall for the beginning of the next milk marketing year on Oct. 1.

Voting

Duke, city secretary and absentee voting judge.

Seeking the Place 4 position on the board are Emory Brownlow and John Arvola, while Debbie Gerles is running unopposed for the Place 3 seat on the commission.

Current commissioners in those positions are not seeking re-election. Stan Fry, of Place 3, is running for the Deaf Smith County commission.

There have been 16 votes cast in the HISD election, and tax assessor-collector Fred Fox said he expects as many as 30 by today's 5 p.m. deadline.

"This is about what we expected," Fox said.

All three elections are scheduled for 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. Saturday at the Hereford Community Center.

School board candidates are incumbent James Gentry, Place 1; incumbent Jim Arney, Place 2; Rumaldo Garcia and incumbent Clark Andrews, Place 3; and Paul Ramerix, Place 7.

Ramerix was appointed to the board earlier this month to fill the unexpired term of David Pruitt, who resigned in January because he had accepted a job in Wellington.

All three elections are scheduled for 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. Saturday at the Hereford Community Center.

Prices

the January rise of 0.8 percent.

The Labor Department said its consumer price index for all urban consumers in February stood at 188.4 percent of the 1967 average of 100, meaning that goods costing $100 for 11 years ago had risen in price to $188.40 last month.

The department also said the buying power of workers' paychecks declined in February for the third consecutive month, although the drop of 0.2 percent was not nearly so bad as the record monthly 3.1 percent fall in purchasing power in January.

It said real spendable earnings of workers in February were 1 percent higher than in February 1977, despite the recent monthly declines. But just five months earlier, in October, earnings were 4.7 percent above their level of a year earlier, showing the steady erosion of workers' earnings by inflation and higher taxes in recent months.

Food prices increased 1.2 percent in January, and economists expected another large increase in the government's consumer price report for February, scheduled for release by the Labor Department today.

MIAMI (AP) - A new map of Dade County sells for 50 cents, but using it to get from here to there may prove to be an adventure. In some cases, there is no here. In other cases, there is no there.

The map produced by the county is victim of numerous errors, including misplaced or misnamed cities, schools, parks and tourist attractions. For example, the area where former President Richard Nixon used to live is referred to as Biscayne Key instead of Key Biscayne. The map shows the site of New World Community College; there is no New World Community College. Dade County's Citizen Service Office paid $1,475 for 5,000 copies of the map.

CAAN TO MAKE DIRECTORIAL DEBUT NEW YORK (AP) - Screen star James Caan will direct his first motion picture, "Hide in Plain Sight," this spring, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer has announced. Caan, who made his debut as a screen actor in 1964 in "Lady in a Cage," will also star in the new film release.

Ann Landers Oldie but Goodie

DEAR ANN LANDERS: These days when so many young people are "doing their own thing," I was touched by a poem that appeared in our bulletin. Please print it and tell me where it came from. -- N.Y. Reader

YOUR NAME

It came from your father. It was all he had to give. So it's yours to use and cherish

As long as you may live. If you lose the watch he gave you

It can always be replaced. But a black mark on your name, son.

Can never be erased. It was clean the day you took it

And a worthy name to bear. When I got it from my father There was no dishonor there. So make sure you guard it wisely --

After all is said and done, You'll be glad the name is spotless

When you give it to your son. DEAR N.Y.: That poem appeared in my column in 1959. Some readers have long memories or good scrapbooks. Thanks for sending it. It was worth running again.

DEAR ANN: I'm 47, married my college sweetheart, had three kids and a successful career. During our 17-year marriage my wife complained that I was "non-communicative," disinterested in our sex life, our friends, the children and her. We started counseling but I dropped out. She filed for divorce.

I "batched" for four lonely, depressing years and met mainly other divorced people. I discovered that the women I liked were the ones who'd gotten out of their marriages because their spouses couldn't "communicate." (That word again.) I also realized the "communicators" weren't attracted to me, so I would have to change. I worked at it -- reading, group therapy, etc.

Eventually I met a wonderful lady. She was wary about my non-communication, so I worked harder at it and LET HER help me.

After three years of marriage we are still part of a marriage/family discussion group. We've worked out a good life, sexually and socially, and verbally share our feelings, problems, etc.

So why am I writing? Because I'm sure I was pretty typical of seeing my family role as simply the breadwinner. I'm helping to raise stepchildren now and realize how much my own first family needed me and how much I cheated myself. I hope this letter will rise up other "deadheads." You ain't gonna make it without changing your act, buddy, so wake up and save yourself and everybody around you a lot of heartache. -- Just Me

DEAR YOU: What a testimonial! I'm sure thousands of non-communicators will recognize themselves today. Let's hope they do something about it.

At Wits End

BY ERMA BOMBECK

For a country that is facing a crisis in energy, we've certainly become small appliance junkies.

I ran across a couple last summer who had an electric coffee maker, blankets that plugged in, can openers, ice makers, mixers, hair dryers, doughnut maker, hamburger fryer, crepe maker, food slicer, knife sharpener, slow cooker, electric toothbrush, electric broom, hot curlers, and an electric Wok.

And they were camping. A friend of mine bought one of those machines that dices, slices, purees, chops, slivers, mixes, and matches and does everything but open mail. She's worried. Her husband is beginning to have feelings for it.

To attend a party given by a small appliance junkie is almost more than the human body can stand. The other night, a hostess mesmerized us with her electric ice machine while her small oven toasted hot hors d'oeuvres, and her rotisserie whirled around little hot dogs. To further astound and amaze us, she threw all the ingredients for our drinks into her magic electric blender. Then she panicked.

"Fred, the electric stirrer that plays, 'How Dry I Am' ... where did you put it?"

"I think it's on the top shelf behind the popcorn popper and the electric ice cream maker."

"You buried our electric stirrer!" she gasped. When he got it down, she thrust it into our drinks. Mine immediately frothed over into my hand causing every handshake thereafter to become permanent.

At this point it boggles the mind to predict what is in the future to satisfy the needs of appliance junkies. It's my guess you should look for ELECTRIC DENTAL FLOSS for people who can be putting on their socks and saving time.

AUTOMATIC PAGE TURNER for people who read in bed and their arms get cold when they're outside the covers.

ELECTRIC CAR JACK with an extension cord you won't believe.

AUTOMATIC DEFROSTER FOR GLASSES when you're cooking and steam escapes when you take the lid off the pan.

AN ELECTRIC COOLER TO BLOW ON YOUR SOUP while you engage in conversation with your dinner partner.

And don't laugh... I'll bet it's only a matter of time before someone has a digital sign over their stove that lights up and tells you how many kilowatts you're using a second.

Kitchens Named To Super Cage Squad

HHS senior Kelly Kitchens, currently the hottest player on the Whiteface golf team, and a three-year letterman at quarterback for the Herd, gained yet another laurel in basketball Sunday when he was named to the Amarillo Globe News Penhandle Plains Super Team.

Kitchens, a 5-10 whiz for the Whitefaces, landed a second-team berth on the super team released by the Amarillo newspaper. He was the only player in the top 10 that didn't come off a team which made it into the state playoffs.

Kelly Kitchens

Pampa star Ricky Denton, a 6-5 package of power, headed up the first team as Player of the Year. Joining Denton on the first five were Rocky Rawls of Dimmitt, Nelson Frasse of Clovis, Victor Mitchell of Amarillo High, and Tom Perry of Borger.

Dimmitt's Kenneth Cleveland was named Coach of the Year by the paper, while Clovis sharpshooter Brooks Jennings collected Sophomore of the Year honors, and the Amarillo High Sanders (23-7) were named the

Surprise Team

All the first team selections with the exception of Frasse, who is a junior, were seniors.

Kitchens was joined by two other seniors, a junior and a sophomore on the second unit. Upperclassmen Kevin Parker of Amarillo High and Jackie Vaughn of Silverton made the second team as did junior David Reynolds of Perryton, and sophomore Tim Price of Channing.

The HHS senior averaged 21.7 points per game for the 18-13 Herd this past season under coach Bobby Decker, and hauled in almost four rebounds per contest. He was the Soph of the Year on the Super Team two seasons ago, and was a first-team all-district selection two years running.

Denton averaged 19.2 points and 12.8 rebounds per game for the Harvesters, who finished at 19-8. He was a 55.5 percent shooter from the field in being named District 3-4A's MVP.

Cleveland, who completed his 17th year at the Bobcat helm this season, guided his team to the runner-up spot in Class AA. The Bobcats, who finished at 32-5, came within one point of state champion Whitehouse in a 60-59 loss in the finals.

Cleveland has a 446-124 record during his 17 seasons (.782) at Dimmitt, and his teams have averaged over 26 wins per season in that span.

Culp Leads Batters; Herd Averaging .271

By BOB NIGH
Sports Editor

The Hereford Whitefaces, fresh off a short break for the Easter holiday, go under the guns again this Thursday at Borger and again Saturday at Dumas as they aim at the beginning of District 4-4A play April 4 in Plainview.

The Whitefaces, 5-4 on the year, have a respectable .271 batting average as a team through the first nine games of the season with senior catcher Mike Culp leading the team with a .400 standard.

Culp has collected eight hits in 20 trips to the plate this year, all of them singles, and has knocked in four runs. Three other Whitefaces are batting above the .300 mark also.

Second sacker Kent Ellis has a .355 average, while shortstop Greg Hennington is hitting at a .344 clip, and Chris Hill sports a .333 mark.

Ellis and Hennington have the most hits on the team with 11 apiece, while Hill is just one safety behind with 10. Ellis and Hill top the squad in RBIs with 10 each, and Ellis has rapped the teams' solo homerun.

The extra base lead goes to Hennington, who has rapped four doubles and one three-bagger this season. Hill has three extra base hits with a pair of doubles and a triple to his credit.

As a team the Herd has 72 hits in 258 trips for the .271 average. Hereford has scored 68 runs in their nine games with a total of 54 RBIs, eight doubles, five triples, and the single homerun.

The Whitefaces have struck out 64 times as a team, while earning just 37 bases on balls. Ellis and Donald Johnson have drawn six free passes each to lead the squad, while Hennington and Kevin Bunch have logged the most strikeouts on the team with nine each.

In the pitching department Ernie Suarez is the only undefeated Herd hurler with a 1-0 record. Bunch stands at 2-1, while Hill owns a 2-2 mark. Joe Walker is at the bottom of the heap with an 0-1 record.

Hill has logged 26 1/3 innings on the mound thus far, and has struck out 40 enemy batsmen while walking just eight. Bunch has 22 1/3 innings under his belt, and has whiffed 27 batters while issuing 20 free passes.

Suarez has not allowed an earned run this season in 10 innings, while Walker allowed three in 4 1/3 frames. Bunch has allowed 12 earned runs, while Hill has 10 to his credit.

Sanders Wins 220 At Big Spring

Odessa Ector had to settle for second place in the 440 Relay at the Big Spring Relays (Girls) Saturday, but they swept the 880 and Mile Relays as well as winning the shot put, triple jump, and discus enroute to 134 team points to win the team title in a runaway over second place Big Spring, which claimed 99 points.

The Hereford Whiteface girls came off a disappointing showing at the Hereford Invitational last week to crown one champion and take a second and third place in a couple of other running events to finish with 32 points at the meet.

Darlene Sanders, a HHS sophomore, blazed to a 26.65 in the 220 to claim the gold medal in that event for the best Herd effort of the day. In addition, Velma Arroyos finished second in the 880 in a time of 2:31.2 behind Brownfield's Anabel Morin, who copped the win in a 2:27.49 clocking, and Sanders got a second medal with a third in the 100 in a time of 11.96.

NEW YORK (AP) - The New York Apples of World Team Tennis have signed veteran Fred Stolle and youngster Mary Carillo for the 1978 season which opens in four weeks.
Stolle, 39, signed a two-year contract as player-coach.

I knew that Spring had finally arrived Easter Sunday. A couple of fat, fluffy sparrows joyously bathed themselves in the puddles formed on my sidewalk as the sprinkler tried to revive the "grass" in my front yard.

The tennis courts across the street were filled throughout the day as weekend athletes converged on them (along with their hordes of children, who took turns crossing the baselines on their skateboards during the lulls when the netters failed to return a volley).

Down the street a neighbor ritually washed his new car while attired in his cutoffs and cowboy boots, his shirtless back absorbing the warming rays of the sun.

And the crowd of sparrows on my sidewalk grew.

Around the corner the park was filled with a group of youths passing a frisbee between themselves, drawing the eye of passersby who enjoyed a Sunday drive around town.

Little children excitedly rode to the heights on a swing, thrilled to a turn on the merry-go-round, or laughed as they romped with the family dog through the virgin grass.

Later, a hot-air balloon caused quite a stir when it floated over the north edge of town, apparently headed toward Amarillo, its bright yellow color a cheerful symbol of springtime just arrived.

The two men riding in the balloon's gondola were unaware of the excitement they caused. Clouds of dust formed as spectators followed the path of the floating wonder in their earth-bound vehicles.

Pairs of binoculars which had been gathering dust in dark, silent closets since last football season, were used by envious viewers on the ground as they searched to read the writing on the balloon's side.

But, the writing wasn't what was important. The free-floating balloonists were. They represented the very essence of what springtime means. The freedom of expression in the wake of the harshness of winter.

Freedom to play a game of tennis no matter how many times you hit the ball with the wood on the racket and not the strings.

Freedom to wash your car and enjoy the fresh air and warmth of the sun on your back.

Freedom to enjoy a simple game of frisbee without a care to the world's troubles.

Freedom to watch a child unabashedly have a good time outdoors with God's handiwork surrounding him.

Freedom to chase an air-borne wonder as it majestically floats through the tranquil heaven.

And, Freedom to take a bath on a Sunday afternoon. Even if you are "just" a sparrow.

PATERNO'S PETS

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (AP) - The Penn State football team finished the 1977 season with an 11-1 record, including the 43-30 decision over Arizona State in the Fiesta Bowl. Coach Joe Paterno counted 1977 as one of his most enjoyable seasons.

"The 1977 team made me feel ten years younger," Paterno observed. "I can't remember a team that had as few bad practices as that group. They worked very hard and developed much quicker than I had anticipated earlier in the season."

Five State Raceway Season Opens Sunday

Hereford's Manuel Pacheco will be on hand when the Five State Raceway of Liberal, Kansas opens the 1978 season April 2 with $2,800 in prize money up for grabs.

Pacheco finished in the top 10 point winners in the Modified Bracket in racing action last year, and participated in the money at the NHRA Green Valley Bracket Nationals in Fort Worth last October.

An estimated 200 entries are expected to show up for the initial racing date next weekend. Four categories will be held, including Pro Comp, Modified, Super Stock, and Stock. Elapsed time in seconds for the mentioned categories are 0-10.99, 11:00-12.49, 12:50-13.99, and 14:00-21:00 respectively.

A variety of vehicles are raced at the raceway, including dragsters, funny cars, pro-stockers, modifieds, and super stockers. The 1977 season also had 4-wheel-drive pickups, dune buggies, Volkswagens, assorted family cars, street rods, and a Mazda participate at one time or another.

The 78 season at Five State Raceway will also include races scheduled for April 16 and 30, May 14, June 4 and 18, July 2 and 16, and August 6. The highlight of the season will be the Mid-America Bracket National.

Cow Punchers, Star Top Volleyballers

The Cow Punchers took first place in the mens' bracket and the Friona Star took top womens' honors in the Annual Simms Lions Club Volleyball Tournament held last Thursday, Friday, and Saturday.

Proceeds from the tournament will go toward a general fund, which in turn donates to various causes, including Girls Town, crippled children, and the Amarillo Hi Plains Eye Bank.

The Cow Punchers defeated Chuck's Garage for the top mens' spot, while the Left Overs finished third and the Bs and Ps claimed fourth. In womens' play the Adrian Women placed second, while Dale's Garage of Adrian was third and Caprock Flying Service was fourth.

ionals scheduled for September 2-3. This event which was previously called the Sunflower Bracker National will offer a purse of $8,000.

Drag racers will also be competing for points and a chance to participate in the NHRA Division Five finals to be held at Bandimere Dragway in Denver, Colorado on September 15. The top 10 points leaders in each bracket will represent Five State Raceway.

For the April 2 race, the gates will open at 7 a.m., with time trials to begin shortly afterwards. Eliminations will begin at 1 p.m.

Entry fee for car, pit pass and driver is $25. Pit passes are $3 per person and general admission is $5.

A's Move Dead

NEW YORK (AP) - The A's are still in Oakland, the Giants are still in San Francisco and that means both teams are still in trouble.

After months of wheeling and dealing in an attempt to sell his A's to Denver oilman Marvin Davis, Oakland owner Charles O. Finley is stuck with his team for at least one more season and the Bay Area is stuck with two clubs where apparently only one can survive.

"We are terminating our efforts to work out a solution to move to Oakland to Denver," Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn announced Monday, citing Finley's refusal to accept certain non-financial terms for selling the club.

Although Finley had balked at paying more than $1 million of the $3.25 million required to settle the A's lease with the Oakland Coliseum, which has 10 years to run, Kuhn said money was no longer the issue.

Instead, the main problem is that Finley was asked to waive any future litigation rights against baseball.

"He (Kuhn) is asking me to waive all my rights and I'm not willing to do that," said the A's controversial owner. "This is a provision they are trying to slip in on me and it should not be part of the deal whatsoever."

Said Kuhn: "We've told him that if the other matters could be worked out, the money would not be a problem."

He said those matters include a formal sales agreement transferring ownership of the club from Finley to Davis. In addition, Finley was asked to pay the legal costs involved in the transaction and to indemnify baseball for any future claims arising from the deal.

Finley said Kuhn wants him to place a large sum of money in escrow to protect against possible lawsuits.

"They want me to carry the whole legal burden," he said. "They want to tie up my money until 1985."

Finley, of course, is suing Kuhn for vetoing the sale of pitcher Vida Blue to the Cincinnati Reds earlier this year for $1.75 million.

Pirates Choice For NL East Supremacy

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

Since the major leagues went to division play in 1969, only the Pittsburgh Pirates have won a half-pennant in the National League three straight times. The Philadelphia Phillies, NL East winners and playoff losers the last two years, are going for three in a row this season.

While the Pirates used to be known as the Pittsburgh Lumber Co., no one has yet coined an appropriate nickname for Philadelphia third baseman Mike Schmidt and left fielder Greg Luzinski, who just happen to form the top 1-2 home run punch in the majors.

In the last four years, Schmidt and Luzinski have combined for 251 home runs - 150 by Schmidt - and that includes just seven by Luzinski in 1974 when he suffered a June knee injury. Schmidt is 28 years old and Luzinski 27, so they will be around to terrorize rival pitchers for some time to come.

Last season, Luzinski slammed 39 homers, drove in 130 runs and finished second to Cincinnati's George Foster in the MVP race, while Schmidt's numbers were 38 and 101.

If the Phillies have a weakness in the bullpen, it's depth in the starting rotation behind Cy Young Award winner Steve Carlton, a 23-game winner, and Larry Christenson. Veterans Jim Lonborg and Jim Kaat are long of tooth and second-year man Randy Lerch is short on experience.

Towering Jim Wright, the American Association's top pitcher, could be the answer, but he had a touch of arm trouble.

While the Phillies' off-season losses were minimal, the runnerup Pirates, who won 96 games in finishing five games off the pace, lost bullpen ace Rich Gossage and Terry Forster to the free-agent market and traded consistent-hitting Al Oliver to the Texas Rangers for pitcher Bert Blyleven.

The right-handed Blyleven will team up with left John Candelaria, giving the Bucs a strong 1-2 pitching punch to send against the Phillies' power. If Jerry Reuss, Jim Rooker, Bruce Kison and free agent Jim Bibby come through and Kent Tekulve, Grant Jackson and Elias Sosa can bring back memories of Gossage and Forster in the bullpen, the mound corps will be a match for anyone.

The top base-stealer in baseball history, Lou Brock, plays left field for the St. Louis Cardinals. But Brock will turn 39 in June and only 35 of his 900 career steals came last summer. The superstars of this team are catcher Ted Simmons and shortstop Garry Templeton, who batted .322 in his first full season.

But, according to Manager Vern Rapp, "We'll go as far as the pitching takes us."

The pitching starts with 20-game winner Bob Forsch. It might end there, too, unless John Denny, Eric Rasmussen, Larry Dierker and Pete Falcone rebound from disappointing years. Al Hrabosky, the Mad Hungarian, is gone from the bullpen, but the Redbirds have added hard-throwing right-handers Mark Littell and Pete Vuckovich and lefty Dave Hamilton.

The Chicago Cubs, those perennial also-rans, actually held first place for more than two months last summer before relief ace Bruce Sutter - 62 games, 1.35 ERA - was injured. Without him, the Cubs, who once led by 8½ games, faded badly and finished fourth.

Sutter is back and healthy but the Cubs traded, among others, pitcher Bill Bonhan and outfielders Jerry Morales and Jose Cardenal. The newcomers include pitcher Woodie Fryman, who'll be 38 next month, catcher Dave Rader and outfielders Dave Kingman and Helty Cruz.

Kingman, the feast-or-famine slugger, crashed 26 homers last season while playing with the New York Mets, San Diego Padres, California Angels and New York Yankees, but also struck out 143 times in 439 atbats. The Cubs signed him as a free agent, and a happy Kingman could go wild in Wrigley Field's friendly confines where he has unloaded some of his more memorable long-balls.

Bobby Murcer is the right fielder with Cruz or Greg Gross in center. Third baseman Steve Ontiveros, shortstop Ivan DeJesus and second baseman Manny Trillo will have to prove their surprisingly good seasons were the real thing. Reliable first baseman Bill Buckner is healthy again and Rader gives the Cubs the everyday catcher they needed.

"If we need anything more, it's probably another starting pitcher," says General Manager Bob Kennedy. Barring a trade, it's 20-game winner Rick Reuschel, Ray Burris and a lot of unproven arms.

The Montreal Expos are on the rise. They have much stronger pitching to go with the brilliant young run-producing outfielder of Ellis Valentine, Andre Dawson and Warren Cromartie.

To join reliable Steve Rogers, the Expos added Rudy May and Ross Grimsley. Fireballing Wayne Twitchell is the fourth starter. Darold Knowles, acquired from Texas, is still a first-rate reliever but a return to form by Will McEnaney is virtually a must.

In Gary Carter, Montreal has one of baseball's best young catchers, and the infield includes veterans Tony Perez at first, Dave Cash at second and Chris Speier at short. Larry Parrish and Wayne Garrett will fight it out at third.

Bringing up the rear are the New York Mets, who have gone from clowns in 1962 to world champs in 1969 to last place in 1977. Tom Seaver and Jon Matlack were traded and the "big-name" pitching staff consists of Jerry Koosman, Pat Zachry and Nino Espinosa, with Skip Lockwood in the bullpen.

The Mets have forsaken pitching for punch, but cleanup hitter Steve Henderson, the left fielder, has less than a year in the majors, first baseman Willie Montanez hit only 20 homers in Atlanta's hitter's paradise, catcher John Stearns had a horrible second-half slump, third baseman Lenny Randle is unhappy with his contract and right fielder Elliott Maddox missed most of the last two years with a bum knee.

Prediction: 1, Pittsburgh. 2, Philadelphia. 3, Montreal. 4, St. Louis. 5, Chicago. 6, New York.

HOUSTON (AP) - Houston Wheatley high school baseball coach LuGene Jones smiled the first time Linda Williams asked if she could come out for the all-male Wheatley baseball team.

"I wasn't sure if she was serious or not," Jones said. But her seriousness became crystal clear Monday and it was the 18-year-old senior who was smiling.

U.S. Dist. Judge Woodrow Seals issued a preliminary injunction which prevents the University Interscholastic League (UIL) and the Houston Independent School District (HISD) from forbidding her to play on the boys' baseball team.

"The court is of the opinion that at this time the league (UIL) is in violation of her constitutional rights under the 14th Amendment - what we call equal rights," Seals said. "There is no real reason why she should not play baseball with the team."

Jones allowed Williams to work out with the Wheatley team until March 1 when the UIL ruled she could not participate on the boys' team. She filed suit to seek reinstatement to the team.

Seals stressed his ruling involved only one girl at one school and was in no way to be considered a class action for all high school girls to try out for boy's teams.

But the ruling could have a far-reaching impact on future efforts by female athletes who want to try out for a male team.

"We hope this is a signal to the league that if they don't examine their policies, this could be the basis for future cases," said Matthew Horowitz, Williams' attorney. "In terms of other cases, what we hope this does, if others come to us, we can work things out more informally."

Robert Gauss, who represented the UIL at the hearing, said he doubts Seals' ruling will be appealed since Wheatley's baseball season would be over before an appeal could be heard.

No date has been set to hear the suit.

The UIL remains very concerned, however, Gauss said. "They are concerned that the blade will cut both ways," he said. "It could lead to the boys' dominating all sports."

The UIL, which governs high school athletics in Texas, now sanctions separate programs for girls and boys.

As for Williams, she's just happy to have the matter settled.

"I'm just happy that I've got a chance to play baseball," she said. "I guess I'll be at practice tomorrow."

And, based on Jones' observations of her performance in pre-season drills, she has an excellent chance of getting to play.

"When she had to quit practicing because of the UIL ruling, we had seven outfielders on the team and she was about my fourth outfielder," Jones said.

Williams first worked out by catching for the pitchers and then came out for the team in February, Jones said.

"I just wish some of the people that say she can't play will take some time off and come

Hogs Consoled By Last Shot

ST. LOUIS (AP) - It was only a consolation game. Neither coach particularly wanted to play it. But for Ron Brewer, the feeling wasn't mutual.

"Notre Dame," he said, "was a big game for us."

The Arkansas star, and the rest of the Razorback players, played the NCAA's third-place consolation game Monday night with championship intensity.

And that emotional ingredient helped the Southwest Conference power pull out a dramatic 71-69 victory at the Checker-dome.

"It was a great thrill to beat Notre Dame," said Brewer, who accounted for the Arkansas victory personally with a 20-foot shot at the buzzer.

"A lot of people think that shot by Ron Brewer was a lucky one," said Arkansas Coach Eddie Sutton. "But he's done that about eight or nine times, hitting a last shot to win ball games. He's the one we always want to have the ball when the clock is running out."

"This year he hit a couple just like that for us. He's a clutch player. He's one of the very best players to ever play at Arkansas."

Along with the glittering Notre Dame image, the Razorbacks were shooting for something else Monday night. More inspiration was provided them by an abdominal injury to forward Jim Counce, who was hurt driving to the basket late in the first half. Counce was taken to a local hospital for overnight observation, although the injury was not believed serious.

"When Jim Counce went out," said Brewer, "we dedicated the game to him."

Brewer finished with 20 points, second to Marvin Delph's 21 as the Razorbacks ended with a fancy 32-4 record. The Fighting Irish, led by Dave Baton's 15 points, concluded the season with a 23-8 mark.

Sutton, dead set against consolation games at a press conference on Sunday, softened his position somewhat Monday night, although he still wasn't thrilled with the proceedings. Notre Dame's Digger Phelps, however, was still adamant in his feelings.

"Win or lose, I just don't like consolation games," he said. "It isn't fair to the kids or the teams. If you're Notre Dame, you never play a consolation game. Just like he Sutton said, one of their big wins was over Notre Dame. It's that way for us every game."

Hall Relieved As 'Cats Cop Crown

By DOUG TUCKER
AP Sports Writer

ST. LOUIS (AP) - The injustice of winning 29 games and hearing only cries of "More! More!" from demanding Kentucky fans evaporated into the biggest smile Joe Hall had smiled all week... maybe all year.

"This is what it's all about," the visibly relieved and very happy Kentucky coach told a couple of hundred sports writers squeezed into a makeshift interview room.

With Jack Givens putting on an awesome display of offensive prowess, firing in 41 points, including his team's last 16 in the first half, the Wildcats subdued a youthful Duke squad Monday night 94-88 in the NCAA championship game in St. Louis' Checker-dome.

"I'm more proud of them as people than as basketball players," Hall said.

For Kentucky, ranked No. 1 virtually the entire season, victory was a must. It had to happen, Hall indicated in a Sunday news conference, or in the minds of Kentucky followers the entire season would be a failure.

So, too, presumably, would have been the careers of four seniors who made up the heart of this Wildcat squad... Givens, forward Rick Robey, center Mike Phillips and super-sub James Lee.

Those four were freshmen when Hall's team lost to UCLA in the 1975 NCAA finals. The next year they won the National Invitation Tournament, and last season bowed to North Carolina in the East Regional finals.

In between they had won three Southeastern Conference championships and averaged more than 22 victories per year.

"This is what we've been aiming for," Hall said in the flush of victory. "This is what our fans have been wanting."

After venting his frustrations the day before the game, Hall was asked if he might retire to his beloved farm with the title in hand.

"I can't answer that right now," he said of the possibility that the pressures of Kentucky basketball might drive him out of Lexington.

But it all seemed academic as the packed house of 18,721 magic. The final score was actually deceptive: Duke, who started two freshmen, two sophomores and a junior, led only once, when Mike Gminski scored the game's first basket.

Givens, an articulate 6-foot-4 forward, tossed in shots from all over the court. He was unstoppable.

His 16-point salvo in the final 3:52 of the first half sent the Wildcats into intermission with a 45-38 lead.

With 28 seconds left in the game, riding the crest of an eight-point lead, Hall poured his little-used reserves onto the court and let the starters retire to the bench in glory.

But Duke kept coming, and 14 seconds later baskets by Gminski and Ken Dennard sliced the margin to four. Back onto the court came Kentucky's starters. Eight seconds later Lee soared in for a stuff that destroyed whatever slim hopes Duke still had.

For Givens, the No. 2 scorer in Kentucky's storied basketball history, it was the highest point total in an illustrious career.

Givens was not the entire Kentucky attack, only about 50 percent of it. Robey battled Gminski almost to a dead heat under the boards and totaled 20 points. Kyle Macy had nine and Truman Claytor and Lee eight apiece.

Gene Banks, a diamond of a freshman, led Duke with 22 points while playing under a death threat. NCAA officials confirmed during the game that extra police protection was summoned after two telephone threats on Banks' life were received at the Checker-dome.

Gminski, the 18-year-old sophomore center who poured in 29 points in Duke's semifinal victory over Notre Dame, wound up with 20 against the Wildcats and Jim Spanarkel, a junior guard, had 21.

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) - Rex Norris, defensive line coach for Oklahoma, has been promoted to defensive coordinator, replacing Larry Laceywell, head Coach Barry Switzer said.

Warren Harper, the line-backer coach, will become Switzer's administrative assistant, handling organizational and administrative duties of Oklahoma's football program, Switzer said Monday.

Harper has been in charge of the Sooners off-season program, which includes conditioning and weight lifting.

Gary Gibbs will take over as defensive end coach after spending the last two seasons assisting with the offensive line. The defensive ends were Laceywell's priority.

Pipeline Costs Called Cheaper

HOUSTON (AP) - Morgan A. Greenwood says energy transportation costs by pipeline are lower than any other mode.

Greenwood, president of The Resource Sciences Corp., a Tulsa, Okla., design and engineering firm, says the absence of packaging, circuitous routing, and empty runs, coupled with continuous high volume movement, minimize wasted energy and keep costs low.

"We can still ship oil for about a penny a gallon from Houston to the East Coast," Greenwood said.

"But the letter sent through the U.S. Postal Service which used to cost a penny to go the same distance now requires a 13-cent stamp, and there is every indication that prices will go to 16 cents very shortly."

Greenwood said that, on the average, $1 will move one ton 5.5 miles by scheduled airway, 19 miles by intercity truck, 45 miles by railroad, 200 miles by barge, and 238 miles by oil pipeline.

"And a pipeline operates 24 hours a day, 12 months a year, in any climate, over any route," he said.

Most expert projections, he added, indicate U.S. energy consumption will increase by 40 to 60 percent by 1990.

"Even with increased emphasis on conservation, energy use will grow about 3 percent each year," he said.

"It's almost a foregone conclusion that at least for the next 10 to 15 years as much as half the total domestic demand for petroleum will have to be imported."

This, Greenwood said, will have important implications for pipelines.

"On the one hand, pipelines will continue playing a major role in distributing energy producing commodities to the country's users," he said.

"On the other hand, shortages of domestic supplies and increasing reliance on imports may cause a delay in growth rates of existing U.S. pipelines with the industry's future growth dependent on new and expanded systems to move foreign oil and to move more domestic oil from more hostile environments such as Alaska, the Arctic, and the outer continental shelf."

Greenwood said pipelines are the only efficient means of moving Arctic oil and gas, the best means of bringing to shore production on the outer continental shelf, the only way to bring Algerian gas to the sea, and the only means to move Soviet oil across Russia.

"Only in the Middle East, the largest producing area of the world, does there exist an alternative to pipelines," he said. "You can either float it out or you can pump it out."

Greenwood said a joint venture study by Resource Sciences and Queen Mary

College of the University of London indicates that even though there is a very low tanker freight rate in existence right now there is still a growing need for additional pipeline capacity in the Middle East.

"This need will build up very rapidly after 1980," he said.

Greenwood said there are basically only two pipeline routes directed at moving Middle East oil to the large consuming areas in Europe and North America. One from Iraq to Turkey will move 700,000 barrels a day when fully operational. The other, in Saudi Arabia, is designed to move, at capacity, 2.3 million barrels a day after completion in 1981.

He said the joint study indicates a need for an additional 6.2 million barrels a day in pipeline capacity in the Middle East.

"The world is absorbing the new North Sea and Alaskan oil, but the demand will quickly outstrip these new supplies and this energy vacuum can only be filled by oil from the Middle East," he said.

"As this demand builds up, more and more tankers will be called into action and the tanker freight rate will rise."

Building additional pipelines, he said, keeps the demand for tankers down and thus keeps the freight rates down.

"But, even with low freight rates, pipelines can be economically justified," Greenwood said.

"Whether or not to build depends on the ingenuity of the people who promote these pipelines."

Hill Says Some Bills Illegal

AUSTIN (AP) - Doctors who show only the percentage of a patient's bill that went for lab tests are breaking a new state law, the attorney general held Monday.

Attorney General John Hill's legal opinion also said a doctor does not meet the newly imposed requirement by posting lab charges in his office or telling patients they are available on request.

The new law requires that all doctors' bills break out separately the amount paid for laboratory services.

Hill cited a bill analysis prepared while the measure was under consideration by the 1977 Legislature - "there is some concern that the amount billed to the patient or insurance company may not actually reflect the cost of the laboratory test."

"We believe, therefore, that the new law requires disclosure of a net dollar amount rather than a percentage of the total amount paid for laboratory services," Hill said.

Development in this section is reflected in the building program now being carried on in Hereford, and indications are that the 1927 program will probably surpass the 1926 figures, regardless of the fact that Hereford and Deaf Smith County saw more development in 1926 than in any one-year period previously. There is no boom here and local folk do not want one. There are two oil tests going down in Deaf Smith county, and one more being drilled in each of the adjoining counties, but has been brought about because of the agricultural growth of this section. One remarkable feature of the building program is the fact that no shacks are being erected. All the homes and business buildings are good ones.

Gulf of Mexico Was Once Shallow

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) - The Gulf of Mexico looks like any other sea at a glance, but scientists say its oil-rich bottom started sinking 220 million years ago and has not stopped.

In probing the gulf's gradual lowering, University of Texas scientists have discovered an extensive formation of salt domes-clues to possible oil in the middle of the Gulf.

"At one time, 220 million years ago, what's now deep water was very shallow land," said Dr. Creighton Burk, director of the University of Texas Marine Science Institute.

Discovery of oil is not the goal of Burk's 2½-year research project, which is sponsored by seven private companies and the U.S. Geological Survey.

But Burk, former chief geologist for Mobile Oil Corp., says data recovered from the project will be available to the big oil companies, and already the results are promising.

"It's usually on top or above salt domes, that much of the oil production occurs," Burk said in an interview in his Austin office.

Burk has directed crews from the institute's Galveston Geophysics Laboratory in trips across the Gulf aboard a 135-foot research vessel, the Ida Green.

By bouncing energy waves from an air gun off the ocean floor, scientists record thicknesses of sediment layers, up to six miles below the ocean floor.

The recording equipment can be trailed behind the ship on the surface or attached to the ocean floor for up to six months. The latter method uses small, spherical recording devices known as ocean bottom seismographs.

Burk's crews have mapped an extensive salt layer, which at times rolls and puckers into salt domes. The porous domes, such as those found along the Texas and Louisiana coasts, are natural collection points for oil and natural gas.

Salt domes and oil occur together for two reasons, Burk says.

Both require a restrictive environment, with little circulation, extensive evaporation and high levels of salt in the water.

Organic material that sinks to the ocean floor in such situations is preserved, instead of broken down, and over millions of years accumulates as petroleum.

In addition, salt's plasticity causes it to erupt into big plugs, or domes, which trap oozing oil.

Salt domes are confined to only a few areas, such as the North Sea, Persian Gulf and waters off Morocco and West Africa. The Gulf salt domes end suddenly along a line extending from the Yucatan Peninsula to Florida, which shows the Gulf was at one time cut off from the Caribbean by barrier reef, Burk said.

Research into why the Gulf continues to sink will be important in understanding not only how oceans develop. It might also provide clues to why and where earthquakes occur.

TPUC Hearing May 22

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - The Texas Public Utility Commission Monday set May 22 as the date it will begin its hearing on Southwestern Bell Telephone's request for rates that would increase its annual revenue by $214.3 million.

The commission also gave its staff until May 15 to submit independent findings on Bell's revenue requirements.

The staff typically recommends rates that are considerably below those requested by utility companies.

A long list of parties including the attorney general and the Texas Municipal League was given permission to participate in the case in opposition to Bell's proposed increase.

Board Chairman George Cowden instructed Bell to provide whatever information is sought by the opposing parties and not to quibble over lack of clarity in some requests.

Paul Gray, Communications Workers of America spokesman asked the commission if Bell could be ordered to bring to the hearing a standard telephone, cord and jack. Cowden said if Bell objected the matter would be subject to a hearing before the commission.

Gray later explained the unusual request, saying it would enable the CWA to show "how simple it is for a customer to go to Sears or Radio Shack and buy a phone made in Japan and plug it in to the jack provided by the company."

Gray said the demonstration would address Bell's proposal to double installation charges, while giving customers a .65-cent monthly rebate if they owned their own telephones.

"The higher they go on that charge, the more incentive it gives the customer to buy a phone from some competitor... the fewer premise visitors they make, the fewer installers they need," said Gray.

Aggie Train Expires

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) - The train that used to carry thousands of Aggies to and from Texas A&M doesn't stop any more at this town that literally took its name from its railroad station.

Engineers no longer use their train's whistle to toot the "Aggie War Hymn."

In fact, the train has worn out its welcome because its tracks now pass directly through Texas A&M's rapidly-growing campus. University officials want those tracks relocated out of town.

The train no longer carries passengers, as it did for decades when it was virtually the only transportation for Aggie students, but it does carry cargo - some of it potentially dangerous.

University officials cited the possibility of derailments and other accidents, as well as traffic and noise problems, in asking the Southern Pacific and Missouri Pacific railroads to study the feasibility of moving the shared tracks to a "less hazardous location."

City officials also want the tracks moved. Ironically, one of the city's reasons for wanting the change is to be assured that a train will not be blocking the road to the airport in the event an emergency call is received there.

When the old Houston and Texas Central Railroad started stopping south of neighboring Bryan in 1876 to board or let off cadets at newly-established Texas A&M, the closest building to the tracks was more than a quarter-mile away.

But Texas A&M's student body has become one of the fastest-growing in the nation and the campus, which now includes more than 100 buildings, has moved west, past the railroad tracks.

Two multi-million dollar buildings and the school's new $2 million, 5,000-seat baseball stadium, have been opened within the past year on the "West Campus," which is west of the tracks.

In addition, several other major construction projects are scheduled for the area.

MONTPELIER, Vt. (AP) - With bare toes protruding from a pair of tattered tennis shoes, Doug Brigham, 17, of Montpelier young people who strode across the stage at the city's recreation center Tuesday, sporting the most threadbare sneakers their closets had to offer.

The judges said the competition was especially close this year. "The scores are all coming up ties," one contest official said. "They're all horrible."

Brigham walked away with the first prize - a brand new pair of sneakers.

Family Losing Battle To Get Boy's Body

WALLIS, Tex. (AP) - When James Skidmore left here March 28, 1977, with his wife Carol and stepson Lynn, he told Carol's parents - John and Clara Ward - they were flying to Tennessee for a week "to put their marriage back together."

The last the Wards heard from Carol was an April 8 telephone call when she told them she "just didn't know" when they would be coming home.

"I had a feeling something was wrong then," Mrs. Ward said in a telephone interview.

"Carol had this big German shepherd dog where they lived in Sealy, and she just wouldn't go away and leave it like that."

On May 5 Polk County, Tenn., authorities pulled the body of a young boy from Parkville Lake in the southeastern part of the state. But the Wards knew nothing about it until they talked with Skidmore's parents in Rossville, Ga. on May 8.

"That night we put out two APB's through the police here, but the Tennessee authorities said our grandson's identification didn't match the body they found at all," Mrs. Ward said.

"So we were relieved and relaxed. The body was buried there on March 22."

The Wards are now trying to have that body returned to Texas for burial, but they feel they are fighting a losing battle.

"On June 1, our son-in-law took his life in Harrison, Arkansas, and the Boone County sheriff called and asked for our grandson's birth certificate," Mrs. Ward said.

"He said they needed it to clear up some kind of mystery, but I said 'don't worry, the body they found was not our grandson."

On June 13 Sheriff Buck Green called Mrs. Ward back, and told her the FBI had confirmed the body did belong to her grandson. Mrs. Ward said neither she nor her husband ever identified the body in any way other than the description they provided in the missing persons bulletin.

Five-year-old Lynn Dale Mahaffey was Carol Skidmore's son by a previous marriage. Carol, 27, married Skidmore, a Sealy, Texas, carpenter in the summer of 1976. Skidmore had also been married before and had four children.

Mrs. Ward said she talked to Tennessee Bureau of Investigation agent Wayne Atkins the day after Green told her Lynn was dead.

"They didn't give us any explanation, but I asked him to please send us the death certificate so we could have the little body shipped back here," Mrs. Ward said. She and her husband are still waiting for the certificate.

The Wards are accepting the FBI's word that the body pulled from the lake was Lynn's and they say now they have given up hope of ever seeing Carol alive again.

"We're just wondering if anyone is looking for Carol," Mrs. Ward said. "We know she has to be dead. She was so close to Lynn, she did love him so, that anyone who wanted to get to him would have had to get her first."

Mrs. Ward said she has had a call into District Attorney Richard Fisher in Cleveland, Tenn. for three weeks. He has not returned the call.

Mrs. Ward said there are many unanswered questions but she and her husband have only gotten "second and third-hand information."

At one time it was reported police had found a set of false teeth in the bushes near the lake where they found the boy's body. Mrs. Ward said she understood her son-in-law worse false teeth but has no idea whether anyone ever tried to trace the teeth to Skidmore.

"I wouldn't say we're unhappy with the Tennessee police," Mrs. Ward said. "We just can't get any answers. We can't get the death certificate. If they ever do find Carol's body - and she has to be somewhere, she just didn't vanish - we would want for her and Lynn to be buried together. Now it looks like we won't even be able to bring his little body back here."

Briscoe Seeks Telephones For Deaf

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Gov. Dolph Briscoe asked the Texas Public Utility Commission Monday to develop a model program to bring special telephone equipment into the homes and offices of deaf persons.

"It is my understanding that the means of providing this service is at hand and that action and coordination is what is now needed," Briscoe said in a statement.

He said that while the Federal Communications Commission has begun an inquiry into the availability of telecommunication devices for the deaf, "action at the federal level is, in most cases, painfully slow."

"That is why I expect the commission to act quickly," Briscoe said.

Paul Harvey News Comback for Stock Market?

The day's financial news report of the Dow Jones Average as up or down does not reflect the stock market as a whole.

Many amateur investors have been frightened out of the market by a "depressed Dow" while the "pros" have continued to make money.

As an example of the inadequacy of the Dow as a barometer, this indicator is based on an average of only 30 selected stocks.

One of those stocks, AT&T - more a utility than an industrial stock - was inserted in 1939 in place of IBM.

Had that switch not been made, the Dow average right now - instead of being below 800 would be above 1,000!

Investment analyst Ann Brown, who has a way with words, says the stock market has been depressed by: "A populist President with more promises than programs, a Treasury secretary deliberately devaluing the dollar, an election-conscious Congress and a fractious Fed, institutional money managers scrambling out of stocks and into bonds, Japanese dumpers, stubborn Deutschemen and oily shieks."

She says, "The only people who are not discomfited by all this are the consumers who are supposed to (and then some) and the corporations that generally have improved their liquidity, increased their earnings and dividends, kept their inventories under control and created millions of new jobs."

I do not pretend to be an expert in the stock market. What little such investing I have done has been in the network for which I and the advertisers who sponsor my programs, and betting on them I have done much better than has the Dow.

But if there is one fellow who can claim to know where the market is "going to go" it's Richard Ney.

Ney used to be an actor. In the wartime movie, "Mrs. Miniver," he played her son.

In the years since he has played the market. And his success has been such that he has now authored three best-selling books on the subject.

His philosophy is similar to the late Berny Baruch's: "Buy when everybody else is selling; sell when everybody else is buying."

That, of course, takes a kind of courage uncommon to the timid investor.

Wall Street does not like uncertainty.

Stock market investors will respond affirmatively even to bad news, usually to good news, but never to uncertainty.

So far the Carter Administration has not encouraged investors confidence.

But Mr. Ney believes the market is so oversold that not even White House uncertainties can continue to contain it.

Anyway, Mr. Ney, who has been right about most major advances and declines, includ-

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Gov. Dolph Briscoe suggested Monday that the political wing of the Texas State Teachers Association take "a compromise position" and make public only his tapes of interviews with himself and Attorney General John Hill.

He responded to the refusal of the Texas Educators Political Action Committee TEPAC to release tapes of its interviews on the ground that candidates understood them to be private.

Both Briscoe and Hill have said they had no objection to their remarks being made public. Briscoe has contended Hill won the teachers' endorsement by promising big pay raises. Hill denies this.

The governor told TEPAC in his letter "that a compromise position would be to release the interviews only of the attorney general and myself."

"Frankly, it is incredible that the tapes should be held in secrecy under these circumstances. TEPAC has put itself in a position of stonewalling..." Briscoe said.

Court To Study Striker Benefits

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Supreme Court agreed Monday to decide whether states are free to pay unemployment benefits to striking workers.

The justices said they will hear an appeal from the New York Telephone Co. aimed at overturning a New York state law allowing payment of such benefits in strikes lasting longer than eight weeks.

Their eventual decision could have a major national impact on labor-management relations. Many states have similar laws.

New York Telephone sued the state in 1973, contending that the law allowing strikers to collect unemployment benefits was in conflict with federal laws ordering governmental neutrality in labor disputes.

Because New York's unemployment compensation payments came exclusively from employers, the phone company's suit said, the law was forcing employers to finance their own strikers.

Some $49 million in unemployment benefits were paid to some 33,000 striking members of the Communications Workers of America during a seven-month strike against New York Telephone in 1971-72.

A federal trial judge struck down the state law's provision allowing benefits for strikers. He ruled that the supremacy clause giving preference to federal laws rendered the state law unconstitutional.

The 2nd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals overturned that ruling last November, deciding that Congress had given states the freedom to pass their own laws on such matters.

In seeking Supreme Court review, lawyers for the telephone company said the New York law represents state intervention on behalf of striking workers and "tips the economic scales in their favor."

Under the law, strikers after eight weeks off the job may collect up to $115 a week in benefits. Next September, that weekly maximum is to be increased to $125.

In 1973, the Supreme Court refused to review the legal issue when it turned down an appeal by the Grinnell Corp., a subsidiary of International Telephone and Telegraph, aimed at overturning a similar Rhode Island law.

A trial on Grinnell's lawsuit against the state is pending.

The Hawaiian Telephone Co. has mounted a legal challenge to a strikers' benefits law in Hawaii, on identical grounds, stated in the New York appeal. The Hawaii case is pending in the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

Filing Supreme Court briefs supporting New York Telephone arguments were Hawaiian Telephone, Dow Chemical, Shell Oil, General Electric, Otis Elevator, ABC and the U.S. Chamber of Commerce.

NEW MINERAL DISCOVERED

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) - A new mineral discovered five years ago in Argentina has been formally accepted by the International Mineralogical Association and named "surita."

Described as soft, white and greasy to the touch, surita has a layered structure consisting of a clay-like substance and lead carbonate. A group of researchers from the University of La Plata discovered the mineral in central Argentina.
