HOW MUCH were your personal deductions on your annual income tax return? Were they below or above the average? Are your contributions to charity running larger than those of most people in the same income bracket?

Only you and your CPA know for sure, but we can give you some averages released by the Internal Revenue Service. It shows that among families in the U.S. with incomes close to the average prevailing in Deaf Smith County, the deductions come to approximately $4,210--which is about 23 percent of adjusted gross income.

The percentages vary considerably with earnings. In general, the percentage of deductible income is larger among people in the lower brackets and smaller among those with big incomes.

Families in the local area in the $10,000 to $15,000 class, for example, will have deductions of about $3,320 if they conform to the norm. Those in the $15,000 to $20,000 group will average

Deaf Smith County juvenile probation officer Phil Sciumbato has resigned, effective May 1, to become a Potter-Randall County Metro Intelligence

Sciumbato will remain and work in Deaf Smith County Sheriff's Office.

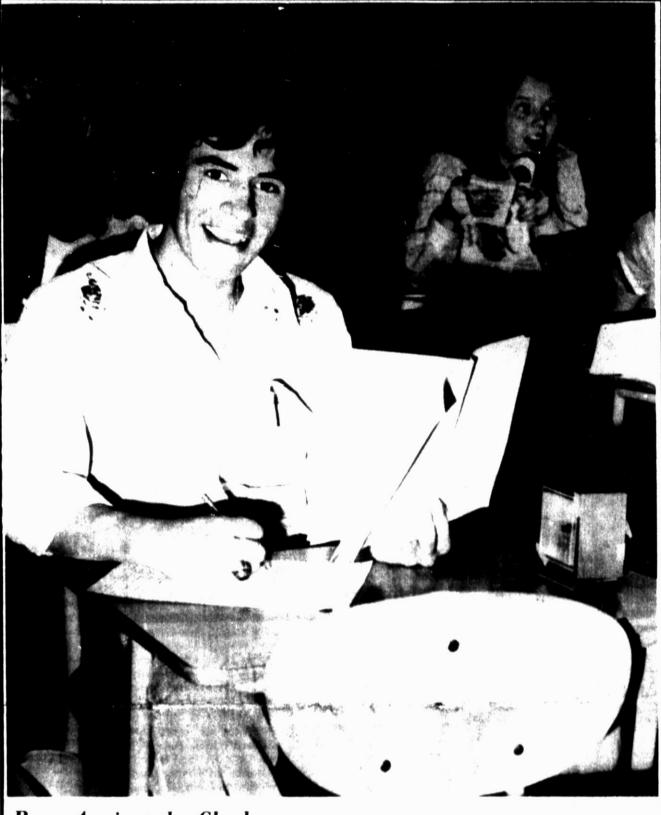

'The biggest reason I resigned.' Sciumbato said, "is I find it hard working with kids from behind the desk. I feel that by being out on the streets I can be more effective. I think I'll be more in touch with the kids."

Sciumbato primarily will work on slowing the drugs flow into Deaf Smith County. He also will investigate prostitution, liquor violations and other felony violations.

Sciumbato, 31, was appointed juvenile probation officer in August. 1976. after working three years, two as a detective, in the Hereford Police Department.

His wife, Lynn, is a biology teacher at Hereford High School.

"I appreciated everyone I've worked with in the schools; it's been a real pleasure because they were a good bunch of people to work with," Sciumbato said.

Hereford High School's newest district champion scored 116 points, 30 better than the next closest competitor. and he wasn't even favored to win the 10-minute race.

Don't get the wrong idea--HHS senior David Granadoz wasn't entered in the two-mile run in a district track meet. He won his contest because he was better at utilizing shortcuts to solve mathematical problems.

Granadoz Saturday captured the District 4-AAAA number sense championship in competition at Lubbock. Two Lubbock Monterey entrants were supposed to win but finished second and third, both easily outclassed by the Hereford whiz.

Number sense competition is a race against a 10-minute clock. Entrants are not permitted to use scratch paper to figure the answers to difficult math problems. Each correct answer is worth five points, and four points are deducted from each mistake Granadoz, in 10 minutes, attempted 25 problems. He was correct on 24 for a score of 116. Monterey's entrants graded 85 and 84 as Granadoz ended a lengthy victory skein of victories for the Lubbock school.

Other school entered in the contest were Lubbock High, Lubbock Coronado and Plainview

The secret in number sense is the application of shortcuts.

"How many shortcuts do I know? Too many to count," said Granadoz, who will compete in the regional contest April 22, also at Lubbock. Should he finish in the top three there, he will advance to state competition May 6 at

Twenty-five minutes prior to the start of the district contest, Granadoz had to leave the room because "there was too much noise in the room--I couldn't concentrate."

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A gathering of farmers estimated to number "in the thousands" was reportedly "on pins and needles" in Washington early today, awaiting a scheduled House vote on the emergency farm bill already approved by the Senate.

A spokesman for the Hereford American Agriculture office reported that the vote was scheduled to occur at 3 p.m. today, and farmers are anxious to see if the emergency measure for grain and cotton farniers will be killed on the floor of the House or sent on to a certain veto at the hands of the President.

Among Hereford residents in Washington lobbying on behalf of the emergency measure are Gerald McCathern, Frank Brorman, Gene Fangman, Dwayne Cassels, Arliss Edwards and Bonnie Owens.

The farmers are backing a "flexible parity" proposal contained within the legislation, which would allow wheat, feed grain and cotton producers to gain substantially higher federal price guarantees if they idle one acre for every two they plant.

The measure would take an estimated 59 million acres out of production, but the Carter administration contends that acreage is nearly three times the amount necessary to boost prices to what it terms an "adequate" level this year. The administration also contends that the legislation would leave the country and foreign customers vulnerable to shortages if yields are below normal.

In addition, the administration says the measure could add 58 cents to $2.14 to the projected weekly $53-$54 grocery bill of a three-person urban family. The administration also says the bill would increase the federal budget for farm income programs by $3 billion to $5 billion, with the budget for those programs for 1978-79 already near $7.9

In the House, the first opportunity for the legislation's opponents to kill the farm measure will come today when the House votes on a procedural point-whether to permit the bill to violate normal budget making rules. If that waiver meets approval, the House will then vote on the legislation

A local American Agriculture movement spokesman contacted yesterday was uncertain of just what farmers will do if the emergency measure is defeated in the

"We've been taking this thing one day at a time," he said. "We kinda expected it to pass the Senate, and we feel like we have about a 60-40 chance of getting it through the House. Right now, we're unsure just what will be done if the measure fails in the House," the spokesman added.

Even if the emergency farm measure makes it out of the House, the threat of a Presidential veto hangs heavily over its future. President Carter reiterated Tuesday at a news conference that he will veto the bill if it reaches his desk.

The slim 49-41 margin by which the farm measure was passed in the Senate and growing opposition by urban representatives and consumer advocates indicate that chances for an override of the veto would be slim.

Speaker Thomsa P. O'Neill Jr., D-Mass., was rebuffed on a close vote Tuesday by the House Rules Committee. He wanted to have a Democratic alternative ready for a vote if the Republican-engineered bill is defeated.

The committee instead followed more regular procedures, recommending that the House ignore the measure's violations of normal budget-making rules and then vote on the package drafted last (See FARMERS, Page 2)

Board Decision On Land Due

By PAUL SIMS

Managing Editor The Hereford Independent School District board of trustees Tuesday saved the squabble--a dicussion on what to do with a small piece of land located north of the old Central School building--for last, saving their decision for the next board meeting. Discussion of the property, a one-half-block long vacant lot owned by the school district, consumed the final 30 minutes of what had been a rather uneventful regular session in the administration building board room.

Board president James Gentry asked trustees to consider selling the property, used primarily by youngsters as a motorcycle course. Board member David Hutchins told Gentry the land should be used to benefit young people.

"I think it could be used in a community program," Hutchins said. "Why not plant grass and put playground equipment on it for kids in that part of town? Or stick a slab out there with a basketball goal."

Gentry called the lot a health hazard "and a nuisance to the people around it." Board member Mack Tubb jokingly called it "the Hereford Independent School District Motocross Racetrack."

"The question I have in my mind," Gentry said, "is whether we have the right to give any of our property away, to forego the revenue that could be gained through the sale of that property."

Jim Arney and Clark Andrews agreed that Hutchins' suggestion should be Gentry appointed Hutchins and board members Paul Rameriz and Sallie Strain to report on the possibilities and public opinion concerning the property at the next board meeting.

The board, in other business, agreed to change the school district policy dealing with mandatory retirement at age 65. A new law will raise the retirement age from 65 to 70 on Jan. 1, and the board approved a recommendation by Superintendent Harrell Holder to change the policy immediately.

The action permits four teachers who would have retired at the end of the current school year to remain in the school system if they so desire.

"Does this open any doors for people who have retired in the last two or three years?" Mrs. Strain asked Holder.

"I'd say they have the privilege to come back and apply for jobs," the WASHINGTON (AP) - An imprisoned former congressional aide says he delivered $12,000 in payoff money to ex-Rep. Otto E. Passman, D-La. on behalf of a foundation official.

The odyssey of Phillip Estes Reed, 37. San Antonio, Texas, apparently began Thursday with the theft of a car in Pecos. Texas, and ended 2,000 miles later when he allegedly tried to pull the stolen car to Washington with a tow truck despite the presence of 30 police cars.

Along the way, he allegedly told a hitchhiker he picked up in Flagstaff, Ariz., that he wanted to kill Carter.

Reed was charged Tuesday in Greene County Circuit Court with the Monday kidnapping of the tow truck driver and in U.S. District Court with making an oral threat on the life of the president. He faces a possible 15 years in prison and a $1,000 fine if convicted.

Police started following the tow truck after the hijacker asked the driver. Bruce Fetters of Springfield, to try to contact an FBI agent on the CB radio.

An FBI agent was given as a substitute hostage after Fetters persuaded the kidnapper that he would use his freedon to speak out against the treaties on a 6 p.m. news program. The FBI agent overpowered the hijacker.

vandalism at the museum in recent years. "I think the museums in America have better security." he said. "The problem really is that the security seems to be less stringent there in Europe."

Frizzelle said there had been no increase in protection in recent years, adding that the museum had always been security-conscious. He said, for example, that if there is a shortage of guards because of illness or other reason, the museum will close individual galleries rather than spread protection too thin.

Like Frizzelle, Richard Brown, director of the Kimbell Art Museum in Fort Worth, Texas, said he believed that security was not stressed enough in Europe. "Happily, in the United States, it's recognized as necessary," he said.

Gerard Shirar, director of security at the Boston Museum of Fine Arts, said: "We will take precautions, but we can't change our business. We can't put enormous restraints on the public because of the acts of a few. We are a teaching institution. Allowing people to get up close to the works of art is an important part of that.'

The Denver Art Museum uses electronic alarms and plexiglass for special displays. A spokesman said officials were "very aware of the problems many museums have had with paintings! being slashed. Disaster Committee Reviews Projects

The results of several ongoing projects were reported Monday night during a meeting of the Red Cross disaster committee during their monthly session at the Red Cross office.

Craig Bainum, chairman of the local task force, called the group to order and requested reports from various chairman. Included on the business agenda was a review of first aid disaster kits to be kept at the Red Cross office, a discussion of communications during times of emergency and making of plans for a cardio-pulmonary resuscitation (CPR) class to be held later this month.

In other items, committee members examined identification kits and received their identification cards. Those Red Cross workers who had attended a recent first aid class delivered a report. Also, Bill Bradly, civil defense coordinator, outlined evacuation plans which would be initiated in certain emer-

'Vicious' Mets Trying To Reverse Last Season

By WILL GRIMSLEY AP Special Correspondent NEW YORK (AP) - Pinch em. Maybe the New York Mets are for real.

"Vicious - that's the word for us," says an exhuberant Lenny Randle. "No superstars. No paranoia. Just a young, hungry spirit trying to reverse what happened last year."

"The key lies in the definition of the word 'team.'" adds Bobby Valentine. "Individualy maybe we don't have the talent to go man-to-man with clubs like the Phillies. Together I think you will find we can be highly competitive."

"A lot like the team in '69." says veteran Ed Kranepool, the lone remaining original Met. "Young and unproven but high on desire."

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) - The Milwaukee Bucks, after trailing throughout the game, eclipsed the Phoenix Suns with a 32-point fourth quarter Tuesday night to take a 1-0 lead in their best-of-three National Basketball Association first-round playoff series.

Marques Johnson, with 10 points, and Brian Winters, with 8 points, sparked Milwaukee's closing-quarter drive for a 111-103 victory. The Bucks caught Phoenix at 85 with 10:04 to go and racked up a 22-8 edge in the first nine minutes of the last quarter.

The series resumes Friday in Milwaukee and the third game, if necessary, will be Sunday in Phoenix.

The other three first-round series get underway tonight.

Brewers 'Know They Can Win'

series from Baltimore by scores of 11-3, 16-3 and 13-5, the Brewers used a pair of two-run homers by Gorman Thomas and a solo homer and two-run double to hand the Yankees their third loss in four games.

Elsewhere in the American League, the Chicago White Sox beat the Toronto Blue Jays 9-5, the Detroit Tigers defeated the Texas Rangers 6-2, the Oakland A's blanked the Seattle Mariners 2-0 and the Minnesota Twins whipped the California Angels 8-1.

Cooper homered in the first inning to start Milwaukee's on-slaught. Thomas' two-run homer in the third off Catfish Hunter gave the Brewers a 3-1 lead and Cooper's two-run double in the fourth knocked out the Yankee starter.

Sixto Lezcano added an RBI double off Rawly Eastwick in the fourth and Thomas belted his second two-run homer in the sports Editor The Hereford Whitefaces split a District 4-4A baseball twinbill with the Coronado Mustangs at Whiteface Field Tuesday afternoon, winning the opener 6-5 and then seeing the Ponies explode for a 29-4 victory in the nightcap as the HHS pitching well ran dry.

Junior left-hander Kevin Bunch, now 3-3 on the season, held the Mustangs at bay in the first game, collecting 11 strikeouts along the way, but the Herd rotation fell drastically short in the second.

Red Raider Golf Set Here May 2

The annual "Red Raider Golf' and dinner party has been scheduled in Hereford for Tuesday, May 2, it was announced today by Dave Hopper, one of the local coordinators for the event.

Rex Dockery, new head football coach, will be among the Texas Tech coaches and officials who will attend the Hereford function. Red Raider Club officials in Lubbock and members of the Tech athletic department have made a summer "tour" for many years. Hereford has hosted the event for a number of years under the sponsorship of local Red Raider Club members.

The steering committee for this year's event in Hereford includes Dave Hooper, Mack

and Speedy Nieman. The day will start with a golf tournament at 1 p.m. A social hour is scheduled at 6 p.m. in Hereford Country Club, followed by dinner at 7 p.m. Tech exes and supporters in Hereford and the area are invited to participate in the day's events. or in the social hour and dinner

Entry fee for golfers is $25, which includes green fee, cart, and evening meeting and dinner. Cost for the social hour and dinner alone will be $10 per person. Those who plan to enter the golf tourney should sign up with Mike Horton at Pittman Municipal Golf Course.

FCA Golf May 5

The Hereford High School Fellowship of Christian Athletes (FCA) chapter will sponsor its annual Florida Scramble Golf Tournament at the Pitman course here Friday, May 5 according to FCA sponsor Rick Stewart.

The event is open to both men and women players. "We've never had any women play, but we certainly urge them to participate," Stewart said. Proceeds from the event will go to help send HHS FCA representatives to National conventions. The boys' conventions will be held at Estes Park. Colorado, and Fayetville, Arkansas, while the girls' convention is set for Waco.

Entry fee is $15 per player. Teams will be threesomes, with FCA members assigned as caddies for the round. Two tee times have been set, the first for Shirley

"The FCA exists to confront athletes and coaches, and through them the youth of the nation, with the challenge and adventure of accepting Jesus Christ as Savior and Lord. participating in his church and serving him through our vocations." Stewart said.

President of the HHS FCA chapter is Greg Brockman, while Jim Fish serves as vice-president and Daniel Olson as secretary.

FCA is a not-for-profit organization whose policies are established by a National Board of Trustees and implemented by a national staff," Stewart added. "It welcomes all coaches-professional, college, high school, junior high, and elementary as well as coaches of amateur teams and clubs at all

The loss of senior Chris Hill in the pitching rotation hurt the 'Faces, who now stand 1-5 in loop play. "Chris has a sore shoulder and could not pitch." an almost shell-shocked HHS coach David Ashby said after the two-game set. Hill, while playing third base and short stop in the two contests, has been slowed with the overworked arm, and was held out of any mound action.

'Hopefully he'll be ready next Tuesday." Ashby said. Doc (Walls, HHS trainer) is working on him every day, and we have an open date Saturday, which will help."

Sophomore Ernie Suarez, who had not given up an earned run in 15 innings of action this season, drew the starting nod in the nightcap. The young right-hander was driven from the mound early, however, as the Mustangs tallied once in the first and then exploded for 11 in the second.

Coronado collected eight hits in the frame, and four HHS miscues afield fueled the rally.

The Whitefaces had taken a 2-1 lead in the first on a double by Larry McNutt, a single by Hill, and a picture-perfect suicide squeeze bunt by John Wagner. Wagner, the fleet HHS centerfielder, was called out at first, but McNutt scored on the

"I still don't think he (Wagner) was out," Ashby said. 'But, it (the squeeze play) worked perfectly. . . I don't think they saw it coming."

The squeeze was the second attempted by the Herd this season. The first went awry on a foul ball against Borger. "John is one of our best bunters, and has good bat control, so we went with it," Ashby said.

After the successful squeeze the roof virtually fell in on the Faces. Suarez left in the second to be replaced by McNutt, who had never pitched in a high school game.

"Larry was put in there mainly out of necessity because we didn't have anyone else." the coach said. "He threw strikes, but they just hit the ball."

McNutt traded places with HHS catcher Donald Weemes in the fourth when the Ponies built up a 29-3 lead. Weemes was also greeted with a barrage from the CHS bats, and Bunch finally came in to slow the onslaught

"Kevin came up to me and said he could throw if I wanted him to," Ashby said. Bunch faced but six batters the rest of the game, but it was a monumental effort after having thrown over 150 pitches the first contest.

Coronado finished the game with 24 base hits, and 11 Whiteface errors didn't help much. Hereford had six hits in the game with McNutt collecting a pair of doubles.

McNutt also got two hits in the opener in a four-for-five performance for the day. Kent Ellis finished with a pair of singles in five trips, while Suarez and Hill went two-forfour, and Bunch and Ricky Matchett got a single apiece.

The Whitefaces will be open Saturday and will continue loop action next Tuesday in Lubbock against Lubbock High.

Giveaway a Bitter Pill

The American public, under a tremendous propaganda barrage, has tried to swallow the giveaway of the Panama Canal and it just won't digest.

Those in the Carter administration and Congress who support the Treaty have tried to convince us that only the lazy, the uneducated, the uninformed, the extreme-right radicals would oppose the Treaty.

Too many Americans-including some of us in Hereford-have not been vocal enough about the Canal issue. But, despite the propaganda blitz paid for by our tax dollars, public opinion polls show that most Americans still are not convinced that the treaty is a good thing for the country.

Even with an ample supply of Georgia peanuts, it's difficult for many Americans to swallow the fact we are trying to give away the most costly territorial acquisition ever known to man-and proposing to give Panama additional money to take it.

They cannot feature the U.S. making an agreement with a left-wing dictator who has threatened bloodshed and violence if we don't approve a new treaty yielding our sovereignty and control. They cannot understand why our State Department, in the name of human rights, is scorning the friendship of anti-Communist countries and, at the same time, making overtures : to Castro and trying to turn over the Canal to the Torrijos regime.

It's difficult for us to worry about the violence threatened by extremist groups in Panama, and not worry about another "Vietnam" right here in our own hemisphere if Communists should get control of the Canal at a later date.

Time is running out on the Canal issue...the vote on the second treaty is scheduled April 18. There is still time for you to contact your Senator and let him know how you feel.

Theodore Roosevelt, the man who made the Canal a reality, said:

"...far better it is to dare mighty things, to win glorious triumphs, even those checkered with failure, than to take rank with those poor spirits who neither enjoy much nor suffer much, because they live in the gray twilight that knows not victory or defeat...."

The charge, filed by the Greene County prosecutor's office at Springfield, Mo., identified the man as Phillip Estes Reed, 37, of San Antonio.

Reed was overpowered by an FBI agent Monday at Lebanon, ending a 2,000-mile journey that authorities said began Thursday in Pecos, Texas, and led through Arizona, New Mexico and Oklahoma into Missouri.

The Secret Service had said earlier that the alleged hijacker was suspected of threatening President Carter's life over the

The Missouri Highway Patrol and FBI learned of the hostage situation after a motorist heard the gunman trying to raise an FBI agent on the truck driver's CB radio and notified the patrol.

Up to 30 cars followed the tow truck before Fetters, who said he faked sympathy for the man's anti-treaty stand, was traded for an FBI agent by persuading the abductor that if released he would get on the 6 o'clock news and denounce the Panama Canal treaties.

Moments after the switch, FBI agent Paul Van Someren overpowered the suspect. No one was injured in the incident.

The highway patrol said the car driven by the suspect had been stolen Thursday in Pecos, Texas. One hitchhiker was picked up in Flagstaff, Ariz., and the other two were given rides from Albuquerque, N.M. They were dropped off at Henryetta, Okla.

The journey from Pecos northwest into Flagstaff and northeast to Lebanon, Mo., took the stolen vehicle more than 2,000 miles.

Houses Average $57,000

WASHINGTON (AP) - The average cost of a new house rose to $57,500 in the last quarter of 1977, the Commerce Department reports.

The figure represents a 6.5 percent increase over the third quarter. For all of 1977, housing costs were up 12.5 percent for an average price of $54,000, the department said.

The department's preliminary figures show the average sales price for new homes was $58,500 in January and $59,600 in February.

By region, the department said the average price in 1977 for the Far West was $60,000, up 17 percent from 1976; in the South. $47,900, up 9.4 percent; the Northeast, $54,600, up 9.2 percent; and the Midwest, $55,000, up 13.2 percent.

Ex-Wife Says Mutscher Innocent During Scandal

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Donna Axum says the anger is gone, but she remains convinced her former husband Gus Mutscher was innocent of charges that toppled him from power as Texas House Speaker in the Sharpstown scandal.

"I don't think he did anything legally wrong," the blue-eyed Miss America of 1964 said. "I think he used poor judgment, and that certainly is a human

In the six years since his conviction, she went through divorce and a difficult child custody decision and resumed life as a single, working woman.

Until now, she has said little about those years. In a book published recently, "The Outer You, The Inner You," she explains her side of Sharpstown. Miss Axum, who has taken her maiden name, discussed Sharpstown, the disintegration of her marriage to Mutscher and her new book in an interview at KTBC-TV, where she hosts a noon television show. Although she divorced Mutscher two years after his conviction on charges of conspiring to accept a bribe, she said the marriage would have crumbled even without the strain of Sharpstown. "The basic problem within our marriage was communication. Lack of communication before this marriage as to what was expected of the other individual." she said. "Gus was a 37-year-old bachelor when we met in September of 1968," she wrote. "Our dates that followed always took place in large social and political gatherings - seldom on a personal, one-to-one basis. We really never got to know one another as individuals."

Only six pages of the book deal with her life with Mutscher and later divorce. Personal grooming and personality development, subjects Miss Axum became familiar with during beauty

The point of the book was not a vehicle from which to talk about Sharpstown," she said. "But without including Sharpstown I could not tell the whole story, or use it as a point of reference in making a point."

"I could not have written this book, the part about Sharpstown just after I experienced it," she said. "one, because it was too painful. And secondly, because I could not be as objective about it at that point. You're not beaten, kicked and spit on, you know, for a year-and-a-half without feeling some anger. Time does a lot. It heals wounds."

She learned of her husband's involvement when the Securities and Exchange Commission announced an investigation of the Sharpstown State Bank, owned by Houston financier Frank Sharp.

"I learned that, without discussing it with me, he had borrowed these large sums of money from Sharpstown State Bank to buy the stock - a community liability," she wrote of a January 1971, conversation with Mutscher.

"I felt very frustrated because I found myself as an innocent party in all of this," she said of the discovery.

Mutscher later was indicted on charges of selling political influence in 1969 to assure passage of two controversial banking bills.

Miss Axum writes of being "harassed from all sides on a daily basis." During Mutscher's trial, one reporter said she struck him with her purse, which she

"They're reporters expected to get the story or else they won't be at their job too long. I can appreciate that," she said. "However, I felt that both sides of the story, as it was coming out of the trial were not being told. Most of the stories were from a prosecution stand-point Mutscher received a five-year probated sentence. The family, including Donna's 6-year-old daughter Lisa, from a previous marriage, and 3-year-old Gus Hurley, moved to Mutscher's hometown of Brenham.

Gus ran for his old House seat, against his wife's advice, and lost in a runoff.

The year after that defeat, it became clear, she said, that basic differences between them began unraveling their

She moved back to Austin and in 1974 would take custody of their son. The decision was the hardest Miss Axum said she had to go through.

"Gus had gone through a great deal. The speakership, he was forced to resign from that, obviously, the humiliation of a trial. All of those things can terribly undermine the self-confidence of any individual. For both Gus' sake and for Gus Hurley's sake, I thought this was the best arrangement for us as a family because Gus was not working at an 8 to 5 job and he could be with Gus more than I could, working an 8 to 5 job." "And the grandparents were there, and I thought he would have a lot of family around them and that was important. And most of all I felt that Gus needed Gus Hurley a great deal," she said. "I could not take the last thing from him that meant so much to him. And it's worked." She sees Mutscher, now a Washington County judge, "every week or two," and her son visits on weekends.

"I think the people who are closest to me have understood it was the only workable way," she reflected.

Hicks Gets Probation

AMARILLO (AP) - Former Potter County Commissioner Bob Hicks was sentenced Tuesday to two four-year probated terms following his conviction on charges of theft and official misconduct.

State District Judge Bryan Poff also fined Hicks $5,000 to be paid back over the probated period. The sentence and fine were recommended by the trial jury following the May 17

Poff also denied a motion for a new trial, and Hicks' attorney said an appeal will be filed. Although Hicks was removed from office by the felony conviction, he is still on the primary ballot, and could be re-elected. Testimony continues in the trial of Potter County Sheriff T.L. Baker, who was indicted with Hicks on similar charges. Baker is being defended by Richard "Racehorse" Haynes of Houston.

The judge in that trial, George Miller of Floydada, hopes to conclude the trial by the end of this week.

"I really never have thought about what it would be like not having American citizenship. I wouldn't have as much freedom as I do now. When I get older, I will probably appreciate my citizenship more, since right now I don't use many of my rights as an American. I'm sure it would make me very proud if I wasn't an American and earned my citizenship. Comprehensive Urban Policy?

WASHINGTON - The President's long-awaited national urban strategy, announced last week in Washington, is a product of old minds and old times.

It would commit the Federal government-and American taxpayer dollars—to a vast program of urban revitalization benefitting in reality only one area of the country -the northeast.

As a blueprint to cure the nation's urban ills, it falls far short of its billing, and directs the Federal bureaucracy to retrace the footsteps of the discredited "Great Society" goals never fulfilled in the late sixties. Though never realized, such grand strategies to end urban blight and social indignity cost the treasury billions. They did succeed in cementing public cynicism and raising questions about the extent of government effectiveness with checkbook reme-

In large measure, it is the result of an effective lobbying campaign waged by mayors and governors of the northeast, who for months now, have claimed discrimination in the distribution of Federal tax dollars. Based on the thrust of the President's urban strategy, they were successful. Their victory is at the expense of the rest of the country, however.

Industrial and population migrations to the so-called "Sunbelt" regions of the country are documented. But ironically the Federal government already has stepped-up assistance to those municipalities and regions most severely impacted by lost tax bases and sources of revenue.

In fact, this year, Federal assistance to ten hard-pressed big cities will amount to 54% of the revenue they raise themselves. The percentage was 31% in 1976 and 6% in

Throwing more money into the urban problems, as the Administration would, ignores a big part of the current problem: the existing mismanagement of Federal dollars

Instead of proposing a policy of compensation from the Federal government, the Administration would have been better advised to endorse a policy of self-help, one forcing a closer examination of and action to correct the conditions responsible for the flight of both business and populations to the Sunbelt regions of the country.

Overly liberal social programs eroding tax revenues, in addition to injudicious and costly municipal labor settlements over the past years have contributed to the twin dilemma of lost tax bases and diminishing populations in the populous metropolitan northeast.

Moreover, business confidence in the ability of local governments to grapple with fiscal problems has been shaken noticeably by the experiences of New York City and its inability to manage its finances. Under such conditions, it is hard to question the decisions of many businessmen to pick up and move elsewhere to more stable economic climes.

It is the responsibility of state and local governments across the country to ensure that taxpayer dollars are spent wisely. When they are, more often than not, local economies have the chance to flourish.

It is not the responsibility of the American taxpaying public. Nor is it the responsibility of the Federal government to reward inept fiscal policies and mismanagement with the resources of the U.S. Treasury.

An urban policy which endorses such an arrangement is not a "partnership" in any sense of the word.

Steel Town Hurting catalyst, a laboratory, a model.

NEW YORK (AP) -"Youngstown. It's our town and it's great. We'll be here...the professional steelmakers...making quality steels to meet customer needs."

That message, from Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co., still adorns the inside cover of the Chamber of Commerce promotional brochure. But things have changed in the Ohio city in recent months.

Most importantly, the steel bompany isn't present to the degree it was; last fall it closed etts Campbell Works, at a cost of 5,000 jobs. That might be only the beginning, some fear.
Mayor J. Phillip Richley estimates that various steel cut-backs, mainly of outmoded facitlities, could endanger 22,000 jobs in the area, or nearly one in five, over the next 12 to 18 months.

As steel goes, so goes Youngstown, and steal is spoing, abandoning its techno-logically inefficient plants and investing elsewhere, where water transportation, for example, is better.

But as it leaves, three generations of steelmakers are staying behind in Youngstown, called in its heyday the capital city of America's industrial Ruhr, the Mahoning River Valley.

"These are stable people," said Richley. "Seventy-two percent own their own hos compared to about 67 percent nationally. They have deep roots. They are hard workers.

They have a commitment."

And so the city leaders have their work cut out. No goal is more important than bringing jobs to Youngstown, and area officials intend to do it. They want diversity in jobs, but they also want steel jobs.

As Richley and chamber officials see it, Youngstown's past as the site of the nation's first blast furnace, and its present position as a center of steel expertise, could make it a

HEALTH

DEAR DR. LAMB - I am

56, my husband 62. He has told me he feels our love life is over because we are get-ting too old and it is just too hard to get "cranked up." He has a problem with high

Law's Anniversary Still Sees Discrimination

By LEE MITGANG AP Urban Affairs Writer

Ten years ago today, as the nation mourned the assassination of Martin Luther King. President Lyndon Johnson signed a landmark civil rights bill that he hoped would end racial Officially called the Civil Rights Act of 1966 but better known as the Fair Housing Law, it meant that never again could a real estate broker legally slam the door in a black person's face.

Or as NAACP official Nathaniel Jones explains it: "For the first time, it placed the majesty of the law on the side of those who wish to do the right thing. And it placed the brand of illegality on those who want to discriminate."

But merely passing a law making discrimination illegal did not make the evils magically disappear. Slow progress has been made, but those who still discriminate have found ways of doing so that are more subtle than door-slamming but just as effective.

President Carter, declaring April "Fair Housing Month" to mark the act's 10th anniversary, said a week ago, "Ten years after passage of the national fair housing law, many Americans still experience discrimination when they attempt to purchase or rent or finance a home or an apartment for themselves or their

So, the fair housing struggle launched a decade ago continues

An effect was made to move minorities from decaying cities into suburbs, but some wonder whether this was really what the urban poor wanted or needed.

Suits were filed and won, but often the housing in question was rented or sold before the court decided. Today legislation is being considered to change this.

-Civil rights lawyers cite New Jersey, Massachusetts and Cleveland as places where minorities, business and real estate interests, and the government have joined to fight housing discrimination. In other areas, especially some northern cities, real estate brokers still steer blacks away from white areas and

The key provisions of the Fair Housing Law banned discrimination in housing transactions, except single-family housing not sold through a broker and rental space in dwellings with four or fewer units. The Department of Housing and Urban Development was given responsibility for overseeing the law's

From initial funding of $2 million and 100 staffers in 1969. HUD's Office of Fair Housing and Equal Opportunity has grown to 457 staffers and a $15 million budget to handle some 3,500 discrimination complaints yearly, says Thomas Jenkins of the Civil rights activists like Tom Gale, the National Urban League's housing specialist, criticize HUD's "lack of aggressiveness" in shaping a concerted open housing policy.

But HUD has gotten agreements from housing industry groups like the National Association of Realtors and the National Association of Home Builders forbidding discrimination among its members.

And, says Jenkins, "we have an agreement that the federal government won't build facilities in communities that won't provide fair housing opportunities. That causes localities to be a bit more forward-looking."

Another weapon against discrimination resulted from a 1974 lawsuit that claimed HUD was undermining its own guidelines by placing almost all public-assisted housing in cities and hardly

HUD was ordered to set up criteria that now make it harder to put public housing in cities and easier in suburbs. But this turned out to be less of a victory for minorities than it first

"In fact, the units that were built in suburbs were not in great demand by central city families because they lacked the supporting services to make families comfortable. And meanwhile, the central cities were losing needed new federal housing," says Gale.

Nonetheless, Gale and others feel that the biggest gains in open housing have been in the suburban placement of public housing. They say the private housing industry has made much slower progress in combating discrimination than have public

A spokesman for the National Association of Realtors says: "We are doing our part by spreading the word that housing discrimination is illegal. . . . And the public now accepts that fair housing is the law of the land."

The spokesman noted that his group is a "self policing organization" and that HUD should work for "voluntary compliance within our industry.

As it now stands, HUD's work is based largely on persuasion and mediation. It can investigate discrimination complaints and take them to court - a process than can take a year or more, by which time the house or apartment is usually long since off the market. There is little HUD or anyone can do to stop a broker in the meantime from denying a home to a black, and quickly selling to a white.

But a drastic change in the 1968 act is being studied in Congress that would give HUD power to block a sale or rental if discrimination is suspected. The change would also extend the statute of limitation on a discrimination violation from six months to three years. HUD and civil rights groups back the change, but the real estate industry is likely to object because it would virtually end self-policing.

"It would bring HUD forcefully into the picture. As it now stands, it's a Pyrrhic victory to win a legal battle and lose the

Coastal States Negotiator Says Problems Overlooked

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - The chief negotiator for Coastal States Gas Corp. testified Tuesday that negotiators of a proposed settlement did not have time to consider all the problems that might result from the proposal.

The question was posed by Robert King of Big Three Industries, Inc., which gets its gas from Amoco Gas Co., a customer of Lo-Vaca.

"It would have been an impossible task for 35-40 lawyers to solve the second and third-tier problems you have referred to," said Schrader.

He said this might have prolonged the negotiations by six months to a year, and such considerations were dropped because negotiators did not have enough time.

What the settlement does in take care of the big customers of Lo-Vaca and let the other customers handle their problems in the courts or before the railroad commission. Is that a fair statement?" asked King. "It's not fair, no sir," said result, but it's not a fair statement.

Beverly Hills Being Dealt to Arab Buyers

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) · Long ago, when silent-movie stars founded this golden suburb, Rudolph Valentino was the only shelk in town and Arabia was a fabled land of mystery. Now, a half century later,

Beverly Hills is being sold in huge chunks to real Arabs whose wealth makes movie stars look like paupers.

"We can't find properties fast enough for them," says real estate agent Marty Trugman.

"We have buyers waiting with $1 million cost."

in recent months, Arabs and others from the Middle East -mostly iranians - have purchas-ed rambling estates, apartment houses, shopping centers and some of the most expensive commercial property on exclusive Rodeo Drive.

"One young man who is 31 paid $2 million for two parking lots on Rodeo Drive," says John Glick, vice president of the chamber of commerce. "He plans to develop them with fine

One businessman, Bijan Pakzad, spent more than $1 million to create a fabulously expensive men's clothing store, Bijan's, where he sells $10,000 topcoats, $250 silk shirts and $750 suits.

Observers cite skyrocketing inflation in Iran and the devaluation of the American dollar for the influx.

'They can sell their houses there for very, very expensive prices," says Farid Ghomshei, rugman's Iranian real estate salesman. "Then they come over here and $500,000 or $1 million is nothing."

"It's safe here." says Ghomeshei. "They can go to sleep and wake up knowing they own what they owned the night before."

Trugman's most spectacular real estate sale - to a 22-year-old Saudi Arabian sheik - made few friends for Trugman or the

The property was one of Beverly Hills' most elegant old mansions - a 58-room white stucco home built in 1917 on 31/4 acres of prime land on prestigious Sunset Boulevard.

No sooner was the house sold for $2.4 million than the young sheik stunned his neighbors by painting black pubic hair and red genitalia on the Romanesque statues out front.

A large percentage of the U.S. tonnage of chemicals and allied products move on Texas rails, and Richards said the state ranks in the top five percent nationally in every rail accident category.

"The same things that are being done to highways are happening to tracks," said Richards. "They are being subjected to heavier wheel loads, more and longer trains, and the lines would like to run the trains faster, too."

Richards said he hopes the Carter administration will formulate a national transportation policy, perhaps one that would allow the integration of the private railroad system with the public highways and waterways to form a public transportation "If the public wants a failsafe

Flynt Seen As Helpless

But it was worse than I had imagined," said Chicago Tri-bune columnist Bob Greene of his hospital visit with Hustler magazine owner Larry Flynt.

Greene wrote this week that Flynt is a helpless cripple, a physical and emotional wreck as a result of wounds suffered in a shooting outside a Lawrenceville, Ga., courthouse March 6.

Flynt and his attorney.Gene Reeves Jr., were shot from ambush during a lunch break in Flynt's trial on obscenity charges. A mistrial was declared after the shooting.

Greene conducted the inter-view in the intensive care unit of Emory Hospital in Atlanta.

"He was strapped into a sitting position. Tubes ran in and out of his body, feeding him medicines and removing was-tes. Morphine and barbiturates had turned his eyes into cue balls. I thought he could not see
