Reagan back from trip, pleased with Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, back from a "full and challenging" trip to Europe, says he will not hesitate to ask for more money for the Pentagon if the spending restraints he agreed to endanger national security.

In a statement on the White House lawn at the end of a 10-day, four-nation European trip, Reagan exclaimed "how sweet it is" to come back from an economic summit to a Senate vote "for spending restraint and no tax increase."

Reagan returned about 12 hours after the Senate voted 50-49, with Vice President George Bush breaking a tie, for a spending package that freezes Social Security increases and allows military spending to rise only with inflation, which is less than Reagan wanted.

"Our commitment to America's security is determined by the threat posed by our adversaries," Reagan said. "If we conclude that our national security is jeopardized, I will not hesitate to request, and the Senate leaders have assured me they will consider, supplemental funding."

Regarding his trip, which took him to France, Spain, Portugal and a summit meeting of seven major industrialized nations in Bonn, West Germany, Reagan said, "We've had a fine trip, a full and challenging trip and ... we think we're returning home mission accomplished."

At a news conference in Lisbon, Portugal, before boarding Air Force One for the trip home, Reagan said his meetings with European leaders had strengthened U.S.-German relations, brought a new round of trade talks closer and reaffirmed U.S. desire for reduction in nuclear arms.

Questioned about the prospect of further restraints on military spending in the Democrat-led House, he said, "Not one penny more should be taken out of that budget than has been given now."

"And there's no questioning the importance of sending a signal to not only the world but to our own business and financial communities that we are determined to deal with the deficit problem that has been a Democratic heritage for the last 50 years, of deficit spending, continued deficit spending," he said.

As for his compromise with the Republican-controlled Senate, he said, "I've always kind of believed in leaving a cushion ... for dealing."

"This was a deal," he said, then added, "I don't like the word deal. This was a working out of a budget that was acceptable to the Senate as well as to ourselves."

But Reagan said that despite his willingness to compromise on budget issues, the members of Congress "all know that I absolutely will not accept a tax increase."

Murder suspects jailed under $100,000 bond

Two Hereford men arrested for the Thursday shooting death of 33-year-old Henry A. Garcia were jailed Friday evening under $100,000 bond.

Ben Garcia, 21, and his brother Anthony Garcia, 19, were arrested Friday morning outside a lawyer's office in Amarillo. They were picked up by two Hereford police officers who had set up a surveillance after the sheriff's department received a tip the pair would be seeking legal counsel.

The brothers were arrested as they left the attorney's office, then arraigned by a Potter County Justice of the Peace.

The suspects were brought back to Hereford around noon Friday, and then re-arraigned by the Deaf Smith County Justice of the Peace office. Bond was set at $100,000 for each man.

A sheriff's department spokesperson said Friday evening that no attempts had been made to bail the men out of jail.

Based on the eyewitness account of Mrs. Garcia, who was in the pickup with her husband when he was fatally shot, Ben is believed to be the one who fired the gun. Anthony is thought to be the driver of the car from which the shots were fired.

Deaf Smith County Criminal District Attorney Roland Saul said Anthony was charged with murder because of his alleged role in "aiding and abetting" his brother.

The shooting followed an early morning skirmish during which the victim's brother, Domingo Garcia, was severely beaten.

Houston scanned for radioactive sites

HOUSTON (AP) — A residents in South Houston may be alarmed by a low-flying helicopter over their homes this weekend when the Texas Department of Health begins an aerial scan searching for radioactive sites.

A recent sighting in a five-acre site south of Friendswood, 25 miles south of Houston, spurred a joint effort by state health officials and representatives of the U.S. Department of Energy to try to locate any other radioactive sites, said David K.

Lacker, chief of the Texas Bureau of Radiation Control.

"This is not considered a crisis or emergency situation," Lacker said Friday. "However, we need to know if there is any more contaminated material in the area."

The 150-square mile aerial search, expected to take up to 30 days, will scan the South Houston area traveling at a constant 150-foot altitude, Lacker said. The helicopter is equipped with radiation detection devices, he said.

Officials were tipped on the latest radioactive site by a trucker who said he had hauled used building materials from what used to be the Hastings Radiochemical Works, located south of Pearland in Brazoria County, to the newly found location more than 15 years ago.

The company, which manufactured radiochemicals used in medicine and oil field work, went out of business in 1971, and a gas station is now located there.

Station owner Bruce Watson said the health department has not given him sufficient warning about his business's radioactive state.

"I've been in that building for a year-and-a-half," Watson said during a news conference Friday.

Watson said the department should not have let him open for business knowing the site was contaminated. He said he now risks losing his business.

Lacker said his department does not have legal recourse and therefore could not prohibit the owner of the land, who Watson leases the building from, from allowing him to operate there.

"The best we could do was to get a court order for any remodeling at the site," Lacker said. He said his department offered to install monitoring devices but that Watson had refused them.

Lacker said the station also has warning signs posted. He said Watson was told not to disrupt the soil or do any remodeling without notifying his department. But Watson raised the roof and put up a fence without any notification to the department, Lacker said.

Jim Mullins, with the Environmental Protection Agency, said the cost of removing the radioactive materials from the old Hastings location exceeds $1 million and has not been approved.

Until the recent discovery, officials believed they had detected all

With many cuts

Committee starts writing budget

AUSTIN (AP) — A House-Senate conference committee has begun work on what lawmakers expect will be a final version of the state government budget for the next two years.

The House has approved a $36.4 billion spending plan for the 1986 and 1987 fiscal years, while the Senate approved a $36.8 billion version.

The conference committee, with five members from each body, will write the final version as lawmakers struggle to avoid raising taxes.

Among the major differences between the bills is a $260 million pay raise for state employees. The House wanted to try to provide a wage hike for state workers; the Senate didn't.

Both houses also have approved separate bills to increase fees to generate additional monies for the spending plans. A conference committee to work out those differences is scheduled to begin meeting Sunday evening.

As the budget conference committee began work Friday, senators quickly questioned the approach House members took to assembling their budget.

Although several large state agencies got budget increases from House members — including prisons and mental health which are under court ordered reforms — many others received 3 percent across-the-board cuts.

"The Senate is awfully concerned about your blanket policy," said Sen. Grant Jones, D-Abilene, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee.

"We really got in and used the paring knives," responded Rep. Bill Hollowell, D-Grand Saline. "And that's the way we were able to finance the state employees' pay raise."

"So 3 percent is the 'fat' in each agency?" asked Sen. Ed Howard, D-Texarkana.

"Some agencies got more than 3 percent," replied Rep. Jim Rudd, D-Brownfield, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee.

"The House felt like we had to get

Cattle Feeding Capital

Deaf Smith County proclaims itself as the "Cattle Feeding Capital of the World," and this Southwestern Public Service survey map shows why. The survey indicated 5.2 million cattle were fed in commercial feedyards in the SPS area in 1984, and more than 5 million was in Texas counties. The map shows Deaf Smith fed 256,000 more head than runner-up Parmer County. The four adjoining counties of Deaf Smith, Randall, Parmer and Castro accounted almost 2 million of the 5 million total. The map omits part of the SPS service area.

Segregated schools have done better job

AUSTIN (AP) — Segregated schools have educated Texas' minority students better than desegregated schools have, a State Board of Education members said.

"When black schools are in charge of black pupils we have very good students coming out of those schools," board member Volly Bastine of Houston said Friday. He said the board has recognized shortcomings in educating minorities, but members "still have not taken any kind of concerted effort to deal with the problems of educating the minorities of this state."

The board gathered Friday to hear a presentation on a bilingual education program in place for eight years in Michigan, an industrial state that attracts many immigrants and has a large Hispanic population.

"Basically the same problems that plague Texas are the same ones that plagued Michigan," said Laurencio Pena, an administrator in the bilingual education office of the Michigan Department of Education.

Pena said Michigan in 1976 approved a bilingual education program in which 14,000 students in 25 language groups are taught English as a second language and other subjects are offered in native languages. High dropout rates and low standardized test scores among minorities, especially Hispanic students, have prompted state board members to devote attention to education of minority students.

The board charged Education Commissioner W.N. Kirby with the responsibility of making minority education a top priority when he was appointed to the position.

"One of the things that schools are telling us is that the dropout problem is not a racial problem, it is an income problem," Kirby said. "The children we have done least well with in educating will be the most children we have."

Several board members said they were concerned because the minority student population was greatly increasing but few of those children were graduating from high school or continuing to college.

"We have a crisis before us in Texas with the burgeoning minority population," Elena Flood told the board. "In 1985 our national leaders are always spending money on military preparedness. That is important, but we also need to talk of educational preparedness."

contaminated areas.

Much of the area to be surveyed is rapidly developing with homes and businesses and Lacker said he is concerned the contamination might end up in someone's yard or under a home.

The new discovery brings the total number of radioactive sites known in the state to four. All locations are in the South Houston area including the old Hastings site, the site Hastings moved to, the old Manvel-Pearland landfill and the newest Friendswood location, Lacker said.

He would not say where the new site is "because we want people to stay away."

The new site is within 1,000 feet of two residences but he said the homes are not in risk because the waste is underground.

Perot gives $8 million for tree planting

DALLAS (AP) — Dallas businessman H. Ross Perot has contributed $8 million for the development of a $50 million arboretum land botanical garden in Dallas.

His sister, Bette Perot, said the gift on behalf of the family, and "We feel this will be wonderful for the city."

In donating the gift, Perot stipulated his family be given the right to name the arboretum and garden.

Plans call for thousands of different trees to be planted along the shores of White Rock Lake, with one-third of them blossoming in the spring, one-third blossoming in the summer and the remainder displaying beautiful autumn foliage like the hardwoods of New England.

Ralph B. Rogers, Dallas Arboretum and Botanical Society chairman, said the project should be completed in 10 years.

He said Perot's contribution puts the society only $4 million away from its goal of raising $20 million in private funds.

BUDGET

under the certification (level) and the 3 percent figure got us there."

State Comptroller Bob Bullock, who must certify that the final budget approved will fall within anticipated state revenues, on Thursday notified lawmakers he expects the state to take in $36.5 billion from all sources during 1986-87.

During Friday's opening session, Hollowell criticized Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower, saying he wasn't sure lawmakers could trust the Texas Department of Agriculture with some $1.9 million the Senate provided for spending as the commissioner sees fit.

"This is the same agency that last time we told not to buy an airplane and they went ahead and bought one anyway," Hollowell said.

"I don't trust this department with that kind of discretion and that's mild understatement," he said.

The committee took no action on the agriculture department's budget Friday.

After the session, Rudd said he couldn't predict how long the negotiations would take.

"It's just like always," he said of the negotiations. "We just split 'em (differences) down the middle, pretty much."

Parents, teachers to meet

Board hears about bilingual education

AUSTIN (AP) — Minority schoolchildren will become the majority in the future and will be seriously undereducated, a State Board of Education member said Friday.

"We have a crisis before us in Texas with the burgeoning minority population," Elena Flood told the board. "In 1985 our national leaders are always spending money on military preparedness. That is important, but we also need to talk of educational preparedness."

High dropout rates and low standardized test scores among minorities, especially Hispanic students, have prompted state board members to devote attention to education of minority students.

The board listened to a presentation on a bilingual education program in place for eight years in Michigan, an industrial state that attracts many immigrants and has a large Hispanic population.

"Basically the same problems that plague Texas are the same ones that plagued Michigan," said Laurencio Pena, an administrator in the bilingual education office of the Michigan Department of Education.

Pena said Michigan in 1976 approved a bilingual education program in which 14,000 students in 25 language groups are taught English as a second language and other subjects are offered in native languages.

"Our process is pretty well institutionalized," he said.

Upon appointing new Education Commissioner W.N. Kirby, the board asked Kirby to make minority student education a top priority, a Texas Education Agency staff member said.

"One of the things that schools are telling us is that the dropout problem is not a racial problem, it is an income problem," Kirby said.

OPI Merit Awards

Jimenez, Guerro receive merit awards

Two Hereford women—Elvera Jimenez and Patricia Guerro, were presented $500 merit awards this week by Opportunity Plan, Inc.

Both are graduates of Amarillo College's Licensed Vocational Nursing School, and both are working at Deaf Smith General Hospital. Buff Morris of Canyon, president of OPI, presented the awards in the office of John Aiken, local attorney and OPI board member.

Merit awards are given to observing students to help them reduce the amount of payment on OPI loans. OPI was set up a number of years ago to provide college loans for deserving students who needed financial help.

Each student is required to keep a record book of all income and expenses and report them to the OPI office. There are no grade-point requirements or other qualifications to be met to secure a loan.

"The main thing is that a student be hard-working, studious, serious about obtaining an education, and deserving of assistance in paying for tuition and books," said Morris.

Also present at the ceremony here this week was Allyson Thomas, who is waiting to receive an OPI loan to help her attend medical school at the University of Texas. She is a

Aiken said the merit awards are used "and appreciated by students who are working hard to make ends meet." He added that the Opportunity Plan gives these students an opportunity not offered through some scholarships.

"Cooking and Eating Lightly" is the subject of a program I have been giving to Extension Homemakers Club programs this month. I'd like to share with you some ways you can cut calories but never miss them.

-Use herbs, spices or lemon juice instead of butter to season vegetables.

-Make white sauce using half the usual amount of fat. You'll save 100 calories for each tablespoon of fat omitted. Melt butter or margarine, stir in flour. Gradually add milk. Cook, stirring constantly over low heat until smooth and thickened. Season as desired.

-Use plain yogurt instead of sour cream in dips, dressings and other recipes.

-Snack on popcorn-it's filling and low in calories, especially if you season with chili powder instead of butter and salt.

-Remove the skin from chicken and trim the fat from meat.

-Satisfy your sweet tooth with nature's dessert-fruit.

-Use canned Lite Fruits packed in real fruit juice with no sugar added. You'll save 30-60 calories per half cup compared to heavy syrup fruits.

-Use non-fat milk powder to lighten your coffee. A rounded teaspoon is only 10 calories, as opposed to 32 for the same amount of light cream; 22 for a non-dairy creamer.

-Choose 2 percent low-fat milk for both drinking and cooking.

-Take the edge off your appetite with some crisp raw vegetables, clear soup or a glass of tomato juice before dinner.

-Try making refrigerator or custard pies minus the crust. Baking pie filling in custard cups instead of a pastry shell will slash up to 100 calories per serving.

-When eating out, ask for lemon wedges and "dress" your salad with

Salute to elderly

In conjunction with the observance of Older Texans' Month as proclaimed by the governor, a special section in today's Brand salutes the Hereford Senior Citizens Association and all citizens who helped build the fine new center.

The recent opening of the HSC Center marks a real step forward for this community. Hereford has been a generous community through the years but many of the civic projects have been aimed at providing things for the youth.

The new center, proclaimed by outsiders as one of the finest in the state—or nation for that matter, is a major step forward in doing something for the older people of the community.

There was nothing wrong in concentrating upon our youth, but those folks in their golden years need worthwhile programs to occupy their time and their energies. Above all, they need the association with their peers just as much as young people do. The Senior Citizen Center will provide a place for the older Deaf Smith County citizens to gather with their peers.

The amazing thing about the building of the Senior Citizen Center was that it happened about the same time we were also building a new YMCA facility. The success of the community in soliciting the necessary funds attracted attention all over the country.

That's why they call us "Hustlin' Hereford"!

Once I lay in labor clutching friendly hands and breathing and yearning for the end; when the fog lifted a small form lay in my arms and it was mother's day.

A hundred nights I asked myself in panic "Is he breathing?" and ran to a cradle and touched your warm body.

On sunny afternoons you stood in your crib and reached for a sunbeam; and you have grasped for tangible things, baubles I cherished that broke at your touch, and I have wept a mother's tears.

I have heard your screams and have run to stop your flowing blood, and sat in emergency rooms stroking your head and holding your hand and praying..on mother's day.

I have looked at school pictures of dishevelled children and seen only one face - yours; I have sat in auditoriums where among a hundred performing children only you stood out.

I have watched you at play with strange children when you stood aside shy and frightened; and again I have watched you lead a charge on the haymow with all the neighborhood kids in pursuit. I have gone at the tug of your hand to inspect tree houses, tent houses, caves, leaf piles, forts and snow men. Always it was mother's day.

I have scolded and chastised and paddled; I have cajoled, laughed, applauded, advised. I have untangled fish lines, tied tails for kites, sewed bags for marbles, laced ice skates; I have made milk shakes, baked cookies, packed picnics, performed the many small joys for you that complicate and enrich a mother's day.

I have screamed at you in my impatience over unimportant things, and gone to you in your hurt and apologized. I have recoiled at words or deeds "good" children do not inflict on their mothers, and been overwhelmed with forgiveness when you said, "I'm sorry." Then it was mother's day.

Your father and I have shared you and delighted in the sharing. There were times of arbitration when I explained you to each other and times you drew apart from me for father's days I could not share. Best of all were days of unity and harmony we enjoyed together—family days.

You have come clattering into the house with the small of school rooms heavy upon you and shouted, "Mama! Guess what?" And I have guessed a thousand times, and know the only truth was that you wanted me there.

From the window I have watched you at play and at work, developing strength and independence, and I have felt the tug of the "silver cord."

I have given you over to other mentors—to teachers, ministers, 4-H leaders, coaches — and been grateful to them for what they gave you of themselves and proud to share my mother's days. Sometimes I have been jealous that always you show them your best face while at home you bare your other faces (realizing, of course, that this is as it should be).

The world claims you more and more, and I go to bed not always knowing where you are, but loving you and trying to trust you always.

You bring me a plant for Mother's Day, or a handmade card, a handkerchief, or a bottle of cologne; or you bring me nothing more than you have already given, and certainly you need not. I gave you life, and every fulfilling day since you have given me back something wonderful of yourself on a succession of endless mother's days.

Letters to the Editor

Dear editor:

Several years ago, four young people decided to make it impossible for anyone ever again to say, "We didn't know radiation was dangerous." They researched the subject and wrote "Killing Our Own." This book documents the pathology of radiation, beginning with 15th century Czech uranium miners' stories. It includes the radium watch-dial painters, the 1938 explosion of the nuclear waste disposal site in the Ural Mountains of Russia (a great example of U.S. and U.S.S.R. cooperation in concealing this from citizens of both nations), the Pacific island test areas, Utah-Neveda test sites, Navajo miners in New Mexico, etc.

Encouraging is the quiet but steady growth of renewable energy. This is occurring in spite of greatly reduced research and development funds from our government.

It is either high irony or low deceit for an administration that talks "free market" to continue to subsidize the use of nuclear power. We also need to know nuclear power is increasing rapidly in countries where it is established and paid for by the governments and not through free enterprise.

Two possible ways to slow the nuclear proliferation in our own country are:

-Work for legislation to declare a moratorium on new licensing until the West Valley, N.Y., reprocessing plant is totally cleared up. Getty Oil abandoned this hot potato, and the estimates for clean-up vary from $6 million to half a billion dollars. Until it is done, not one living soul really knows how much it will cost.

-Write letters to the Energy Department (Washington, D.C. 20585) and tell them they cannot threaten the Ogallala Aquifer by using a site in Deaf Smith County, Texas, for nuclear waste storage.

In the last 10 years, many new books have been written revealing unpublished data about nuclear power and radiation. Some of the earlier claims - such as radiation will cure everything and remove poverty - are truly wondrous. Our own doubts about the hype began with a subscription to the Bulletin of Atomic Scientists in 1954.

The energy of enlightened people can be an antidote to the myopic big-money power that alternately serves and threatens us. Help get the genie back in the bottle.

A MOTHER'S DAY TRIBUTE

This is a tribute
To mothers all around
Especially to the one
That I alone have found

I know you get angry
For reasons all your own
Lord knows you've the right
To an occasional groan

It's hard for you and I
At times to get along
For neither wants to admit
That she could be wrong

We've lived through it all
Times of toil and tears
To always keeps hoping
For a happiness so dear

Despite all our fights
There's never been a day
I didn't need your love
To keep the world at bay

So here's to you, Mom
And as I go to fly like a dove
I hope you'll remember
It is you that I love

Happy Mother's Day

up for rural electricity—for running water, electric irons, refrigerators and a pump for the well and lights you could turn on and radios and plumbing indoors.

There was a testimonial meeting in a rural church in Tennessee in 1940. Some words that were spoken then and there have long survived the farmer who spoke them:

"Brothers and sisters, I want to tell you that the greatest thing on earth is to have the love of God in your heart, and the next greatest thing is to have electricity in your house."

Generations since have tended to take both for granted. But on this half-century anniversary of the next greatest thing I thought it right that we should remember together how it was, and that it was the women of rural America who emancipated themselves—at $5 a head — and for their children and all since — turned off the dark.

The Penultimate Word

WASHINGTON REFLECTIONS

At the risk of sounding like a certain friend of mine, who will remain nameless, I am writing this from Washington, D.C.. If Los Angeles is the city of the angels then D.C. must be the zoo where the monkeys live. This is some kind of town.

After a day of running around in the city I think I have some impressions of the place that might be worth sharing.

My first impression is that if they build one more statue here the pigeons will have to take laxatives in order to keep up. Everyone who ever did anything is honored here with a statue. Some people have more than one. There are very few statues of women here. I don't know whether this is the way it has always been or if this is the policy of the present administration. Maybe Jerry Falwell got them to hide the women's statues until he can be sure no one lusts after one of them.

My second impression is that I would like to have the name-tag concession in this place. Every hotel lobby, every restaurant, every government building, and every tourist attraction is full of people with name tags. This must be the most popular place in the world to hold a convention. Someday I would love to attend a convention that did not issue name tags. I really don't need to know the name of every person from Nebraska who has gathered for the annual convention of Chicken Ranchers.

And my deepest impression is probably the most significant. The plane that dropped me here was crammed full. I sat around the airport for a little while and watched plane after plane dump huge loads of people into the city. It suddenly hit me that every day tons of folks pour into this city and every one of them wants something.

It is no wonder the bureaucracy moves so slowly. I always thought it was red tape. It isn't red tape—it's that the whole town is busy listening to all of the requests from all of the folks who arrive here every day wanting something.

Will Rogers used to say that congressmen were local bandits people hired and sent to rob headquarters. After a few days here I think we ought to shut down the airport for six months, close all trains and all roads, blockade the city so our congressmen can stop being pestered by every Tom, Dick, and Harry who can afford a plane ticket up here to ask for something. Then our congressman would have time to rob headquarters like he is supposed to.

Warm Fuzzies,

Women emancipated rural America

In any backward country poor people have poor ways. Hand-milking cows is tedious, hand-watering them is exhausting—hauling endless buckets from a well.

Hay, pitched by hand into the loft a fork at a time has to be stomped by foot until it's soft enough for the cows to eat.

And corn kernels for the mules are fed, a cob at a time, into the hand-cranked sheller.

It helps some if the family has sons—for there are trees to cut and wood to split to fit the fireplace—and split again to fit the wood stove.

And then the hated wood stove firebox, at worst, gets no draft, at best, its ashes escape through the grate and wood smoke overlays everything in the house with greasy soot.

But food has to be cooked or smoked or else—because there is no refrigeration in the backward country.

It's the women who have it hard—washing, ironing, cooking, canning, shearing—helping with plowing and picking and sowing—And carrying wood and carrying water and carrying babies until the last hour.

In wintertime there's no place to get warm, in summer no place to get cool.

So they're too-young old and too-soon dead—in backward countries.

And this is as it was in the back country of our own country just one short lifetime ago.

but 50 years ago—May 11, 1935—President Franklin Roosevelt signed an Executive Order number 7037.

No war, no treaty, no crisis theretofore or since — did more to heal our nation's hurts and keep our people younger longer.

For that Executive Order created the REA—the Rural Electrification Administration. And it promised to bring the farm families of America into the 20th century.

But would you believe that many, perhaps most, farmers were reluctant. For these were depression days. The sign-up fee was $5. Suspicious, they hemmed and hawed and hung back.

But it was bone-weary farm women...who emptied the egg money of the $5 that had been saved for emergencies and with that $5 signed

Bootleg Philosopher

Farmer would welcome corporate take-over

Editor's note: The Bootleg Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Tierra Blanca Creek is wondering if some corporation take-over raider has his eye on his farm.

Dear editor:

I've been reading about those big corporation take-overs that've been making the headlines lately.

As I understand it, some guy with a large amount of money and a larger amount of credit starts buying up stock in a company and acquires so much of it he can tell the company he's going to take it over unless it buys back his stock at an enormous price.

One such raider picked up $28 million on such a scheme.

What he does when he starts out on such a plan is pick out a company he figures isn't being managed to its full potential.

I got to thinking about this. Great Scott!! My farm would qualify under those terms. It's not being managed to its full potential.

Like some big corporations, I've got labor trouble out here. I can't make myself do half the things around this farm that ought to be done. Take one of my fences. In places the posts are holding up the wire and in other places the wire is holding up the posts. I ought to take hold of myself and put up a new fence, but I just can't find the inclination to do it, what with worrying about Nicaragua.

However that situation may ease since President Reagan has put an embargo on trade with that country. It'll stop Nicaragua from selling us bananas and us from selling it grain. That'll teach their farmers not to grow so many bananas and us farmers not to grow so much grain.

If that solves the need to worry about Nicaragua, my fence still's not likely to get built. The world is full of countries that need worrying about.

Back to those corporation raiders. One of them who's after CBS plans, if he succeeds, to sell off some of the network's assets to pay back the money he borrowed to take it over in the first place.

I've been looking over the disposable assets of this farm, in case some raider has his eye on it. How much do you think he could get for a 39-year-old tractor that runs fine if you use it infrequently. Also, there's a stack of used, entangled barbed wire I've grown fond of because it's been there so long. I don't carry any book value on my fences.

Yours faithfully,
J.A.

Ann Landers — Military wives write in

DEAR ANN LANDERS: May I respond to "Killing Time in Abilene, Texas," the military wife who felt trapped, underappreciated and depressed because she had to give up so much for her husband's career?

I know where she is coming from. I gave up a college scholarship to marry "Jack." Now I can't get even a third-rate job because we never know when we'll be leaving. I told my husband last week if he reenlists, our marriage is over. This life isn't fit for a dog. — D.C. Corporal's Wife

DEAR C.W.: I was swamped with letters from military wives. Some loved it, others loathed it. The variety of opinions made fascinating reading. Here's another point of view:

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband spent 30 years in the military. I wouldn't trade those years for a million dollars. Traveling all over the world was the best education I could possibly have had. I learned so much from people whose backgrounds were different from my own. I knew when I married my high-school sweetheart that it was going to be challenging at times but I was going to love it because I loved him.—BETTY IN NAPLES, FLA.

DEAR BETTY: I suspect you would have been happy anywhere. How do you like the next letter?

DEAR ANN LANDERS: The life of a military wife stinks. My husband is an officer in the Air Force. Our entire existence revolves around HIM. If I had wanted to be so deeply involved in the military I would have joined the service myself. As "Abilene" said in her letter, Old Uncle Sam is getting two people for the price of one. Every military wife I know feels as if she is an appendage to her husband—a nonperson. How sad that I was too young and too dumb to know what was in store for me. Sign me—A TON OF REGRETS IN RAPID CITY, S.D.

DEAR TON: Sorry you are so miserable. Here's another letter from another military wife, in Fargo, N.D.

DEAR WIFE: Beautiful! My

thanks to you and to the thousands of military wives whose very good letters never made it into print. I enjoyed them all.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Next year my husband will retire after 25 years in the U.S. Army. I am filled with pride and respect for his career of service to his country. It has been a life of adventure that spanned three continents. Ours was a real partnership, rewarding and exciting. I wouldn't change a single day of it.—TAMPA WIFE

Today's highlight in history: On May 12, 1949, the Berlin Blockade ended as the Soviet Union announced the reopening of East-German land routes that had been closed almost a year earlier in an attempt to isolate West Berlin.

Members of group leave town

WICHITA FALLS, Texas (AP) — Authorities say most residents loosely linked to a neo-Nazi group in Arkansas have scattered, taking with them a reported threat of a race war, after a woman's murder was traced to one of the organizations.

"We just had a small splinter group here of a dozen people. Since all this (news) has been breaking, they've left town," Police Maj. Charles Trainham said Friday.

Police Chief Curtis Harrelson said the body of Sandra Jean Carrigan was found March 19 near Oklahoma City, and attention was focused on the right-wing group in the North Central Texas city.

Officers said the Wichita Falls resident had been loosely associated with the neo-Nazi group. A police intelligence memo had said the organization may be part of the Posse Comitatis.

A police intelligence memo about the right-wing group in Wichita Falls was written when police began investigating Mrs. Carrigan's disappearance, said Harrelson.

He said police found a reference by the Posse Comitatis to a nationwide race "war" against Jews and blacks

When a Roman Catholic cardinal reaches the age of 80, he must retire from curial departments and offices, and from voting in papal elections.

Adm. Robert E. Peary reached the North Pole on April 6, 1909, on his sixth attempt.

on June 6.

But police never obtained any evidence of plans for such a war and added that June 6 is the founding date of the organization, Trainham said.

He said the memo mentioned the Wichita Falls group had "gathered numerous firearms," including weapons to be used in sniper activity. But Trainham said the weapons apparently left town with group members and no cache was ever found.

Reports of the weapons were never confirmed and were only second-hand, said Harrelson.

Posse Comitatis is described as a survivalist, neo-Nazi organization dedicated to the overthrow of the federal government.

Some members of the Posse Comitatis have traveled at times to Arkansas to visit the camp of the Covenant, the Sword and the Arm of the Lord (CSA), said Trainham.

He said Mrs. Carrigan's two daughters were found at the CSA camp after she was murdered, and the organization has come under heavy scrutiny as a result, Trainham said.

He said the two girls are now with their father in Texas.

Police arrested a 23-year-old Wichita Falls man in a raid on the CSA camp. Authorities said he was held for several days in Oklahoma as a material witness in the death of Mrs. Carrigan and was released after testifying before a grand jury.

Celtics pound Pistons 123-113, win series

By HARRY ATKINS AP Sports Writer

DETROIT (AP) — Great teams always find a way to win, and every disappointed Detroit Piston had to admit that the Boston Celtics are a great team.

Despite an off night by star forward Larry Bird and the screaming of a hostile sellout crowd of 21,193, the Celtics handed the Pistons a 123-113 pounding Friday night to wrap up a National Basketball Association semifinal series in six tough games.

The Celtics now advance to a best-of-seven-game series with the Philadelphia 76ers in the Eastern Conference finals.

"I'm very happy to be there because Detroit pushed us to the brink," Boston Coach K.C. Jones said.

Bird had missed practice and didn't feel well at gametime. He had scored only eight points by halftime, so Jones sat him down and sent in Scott Wedman.

Wedman responded by scoring 17 points, 13 in the second half.

"Sitting on the bench, I realized that we needed a lift," Wedman said. "I just try to stay ready when I'm called to play."

Bird, who finished with 17 points, said he was happy that Wedman could cover for him.

"I didn't feel very good," Bird said. "My shot was off, my game was off. You just have to chalk it up and go on."

Robert Parish, who scored 14 points in the second half, was high for Boston with 24 points.

Guard Dennis Johnson, who added 22 points, hit the game's first basket and the Celtics never trailed, although the Pistons tried twice to make a run at the lead.

With 6:04 remaining in the first quarter, a basket by Johnson put Boston up by 11 points but Isiah Thomas hit four of the Pistons' next five baskets as the Pistons closed the gap.

"Tonight they were a better team," Thomas said. "They played well and we have nothing to be embarrassed about."

Thomas scored 22 of his 37 points in the second half for the Pistons, Bill Laimbeer added 21 and Kelly Tripucka 20.

Boys' basketball camp scheduled at WTSU

A boys' basketball fundamentals camp had been set in June by West Texas State University head basketball coach Gary Moss.

There will be three sessions in this year's camp—June 3-7, June 10-14, and June 17-21. Boys entering grades three to 12 are eligible to participate, but high school boys who have competed on varsity teams are not eligible.

WTSU assistant coaches Ken Smith and Dan McGovern will teach at the camp, plus several high school coaches, in addition to Moss.

The tuition for the camp is $175 for an overnight camper and $150 for a day camper. A deposit of $75 will reserve a place in the camp.

"Basketball is an experience in working together," said Coach Moss.

"At camp, not only do we learn the game, but we learn some of the important aspects of life—living together, working together and being considerate of others, and maintaining lifelong good physical condition," Moss adds.

For an application form and a daily schedule of the basketball camp, as well as instruction on what each camper should take to the camp, write to: Gary Moss Basketball Camp, W.T. Box 206, Canyon, TX, 79016.

Niekro fails to set Houston club record

Parker's single boosts Reds over Astros 5-2

By JOE KAY AP Sports Writer
Dave Parker ended a night of frustration by frustrating the Houston Astros.

Parker, held in check by Astros starter Joe Niekro in his first three at-bats, took out his unhappiness on reliever Frank DiPino Friday night, drilling a bases-loaded single that started the Cincinnati Reds on their way to a 5-2 come-from-behind victory.

Niekro, a knuckleball artist trying for a team-record 137th victory as an Astro, had Parker throwing his helmet in disgust after three empty trips to the plate.

"Niekro just frustrated me."

Parker said. "He was around the strike zone a lot and the ball was taking off. He had good control with that thing."

Niekro sailed through the first seven innings, allowing just three hits, walking five and fanning five for his 1,500th career strikeout. He also drove in a run with a sacrifice fly in the fifth inning. A solo homer by Kevin Bass, his third of the season and all against the Reds, accounted for the other Houston run.

Niekro, 40, started the game tied with Larry Dierker at 137 career wins for the Astros, the club record. He was in command until he got into striking distance of his 196th overall career victory.

He got the first out in the eighth, then walked pinch-hitter Wayne Krenchicki and gave up a single to Eddie Milner.

On came left-hander Frank DiPino, 1-4, who walked Pete Rose to load the bases for Parker to the delight of 22,097 fans.

"I've been the type of guy you look for to do things when we need it," Parker said. "I don't mind being the hero every now and then."

He assumed the hero's role again, lashing a two-run single that tied the game and seemed to unnerve the Astros.

"He's an extremely tough left-hander," Parker said of DiPino. "Surprisingly, he came inside with a fastball, and I managed to foul it off."

"I knew he had to come back with his bread-and-butter pitch — a slider. He threw me a slider from the middle of the plate out, and I tried to go with it."

Cesar Cedeno followed with an RBI single, and Nick Esasky belted a grounder that went through the legs of third baseman Phil Garner and then eluded left fielder Jose Cruz for a pair of errors letting in two more runs.

"Niekro was going along smoothly, and then we couldn't get anybody out," Astros Manager Bob Lillis said. "You just can't give them too many opportunities, that's all. They had them all in one inning. The game was closer than the score indicated."

Reds starter Tom Browning, a left-hander, left the game in the bottom of the eighth down 2-0, but got the victory as the Reds sent 10 batters to the plate for the winning rally. Browning, 3-1, allowed eight hits, walked two and struck out five while his earned run average rose slightly to 1.50. Ted Power retired the last three batters for his fifth save.

Mets 5, Phillies 0

Someday, somewhere, Dwight Gooden would like to pitch a no-hitter.

The 46,143 fans at Shea Stadium were hoping the time was right Friday night. It almost was.

Gooden held Philadelphia hitless for 6 2-3 innings, and finished with a three-hitter and 13 strikeouts as the New York Mets beat the Phillies 5-0.

"Doc (Gooden) is the type of guy as the game wears on, he gets stronger and stronger," said his catcher, Gary Carter. "But today, he was popping it from the beginning. This may be the first time he has had it from the get-go."

Gooden, 5-1, did not realize from the start that he had not allowed a hit.

"It wasn't until the sixth inning, when I looked up at the scoreboard, that I knew I had a no-hitter," he said.

Tim Corcoran ended Gooden's bid to make history — no Mets pitcher has ever thrown a no-hitter — with a clean single to right on a low fastball with two outs in the seventh.

Expos 5, Braves 0

Bryn Smith raised his record to 5-0 as Montreal pinned the loss on Atlanta's Rick Mahler, who fell to 7-1 but remained the winningest pitcher in the major leagues.

Smith gave up six hits in pitching his first complete game of the season. Mahler allowed all five Expos runs in 4 1-3 innings.

Dodgers 1, Pirates 0

Jerry Reuss allowed four hits over 8 2-3 innings to get the victory and Greg Brock atoned for two errors the day before to help host Los Angeles.

Reuss, 2-3, bested Rick Rhoden, 2-4. Reuss was traded by Pittsburgh to Los Angeles in exchange for Rhoden in April 1979.

The loss marked the first time since Sept. 12, 1969 — when they dropped a double-header to New York — that the Pirates have lost consecutive 1-0 games. Pittsburgh fell 1-0 to San Diego on Thursday.

Cubs 6, Padres 2

Rne Sandberg homered to lead off Chicago's seventh inning. The home run ended a 26-inning scoreless streak for the Cubs and also sparked them to victory.

Sanberg's home run, his fifth of the season, was just the second hit of the game off LaMarr Hoyt, 2-3. Two outs later, Keith Moreland and Ron Cey singled and Jody Davis followed with an RBI double that made it 3-2.

Richie Hebner smacked a three-run homer in the ninth for insurance.

Steve Trout, 5-1, went 7 1-3 innings for the victory. Lee Smith finished up for his eighth save.

Cardinals 9, Giants 3

Tom Herr, leading the NL with a .368 average went 2-for-5 — and both hits were key blows against San Francisco.

Herr snapped a 3-3 tie in the seventh inning with a two-run single as St. Louis rallied for three runs. Then, in the ninth, he belted a two-run double and later scored on a single by Jack Clark.

Joaquin Andujar, taken out for a pinch hitter in the seventh, raised his record to 5-1. Dave LaPoint, knocked out in the seventh, fell to 1-5.

Rader has to play 'Captain Hook' with Hough

By DAVE GOLDBERG
AP Sports Writer

It was a tough decision, but when victories are as hard to come by as they have this season for the Texas Rangers, manager Doug Rader had to play "Captain Hook."

And the decision paid off Friday night with a 5-2 victory for the Rangers over the Cleveland Indians. Starting pitcher Charlie Hough had pitched 8 and 1-3 innings and had allowed six hits while retiring 12 consecutive batters before he ran into trouble in the ninth inning. He gave up a walk and a single before Rader yanked the knuckleball pitcher in favor of Dave Rozema.

Rozema pitched the final two outs and picked up his second save. Hough is 3-0.

Indian starter Don Schulze, 3-2, suffered the loss.

"It was a tough decision to take Charlie out of the game," said Rader. "I just didn't want to take the chance of him throwing a fastball in that situation or throwing a knuckleball for a ball. But he pitched super tonight and that's what he needed."

Hough's pitching, which included six hits, three walks and five strikeouts, may not be the cure-all for the ailing Rangers but combined with new the offensive life seen Friday, it may be a start.

Toby Harrah improved his league-leading on-base percentage to .495 on two hits and a walk. Don Slaught and Cliff Johnson chipped in with a homer each and Gary Ward went 2-for-4 with a game-winning two RBI double.

"It was encouraging what we saw offensively tonight," said Rader. "It would be nice if they could put it together for a length of time."

Cleveland got its only two runs in the first. Otis Nixon led off with a single and Brett Butler followed with a triple to right-center to score Nixon. Butler scored on Julio Franco's sacrifice fly.

The Rangers cut it to 2-1 in the fourth when Ward singled and scored on Johnson's two-out double to right-center.

Don Slaught led off the fifth with his third home run of the season to leftfield to tie it at 2-2.

George Wright then singled and Harrah was walked, giving Harrah at least one walk a game for 15 consecutive games. Both Wright and Harrah scored when Ward doubled to right-center.

Cliff Johnson's fifth homer off Jamie Easterley in the eighth inning gave the Rangers their final run.

Once in the World Series a player was ejected from a game by the baseball commissioner for the player's own safety. In 1934, in the seventh game of the series, Joe Medwick of St. Louis was running out a triple in the seventh inning and collided with Detroit third baseman Marv Owen. Both players started fighting and both benches emptied. Later, Detroit fans threw fruits, vegetables and other objects at Medwick when he took his spot in the outfield. Baseball commissioner Kenesaw Mountain Landis ordered Medwick out of the game for his own safety.

Blue Jays 8, Mariners 3
Damaso Garcia says that when he's in a slump, "it goes from the bat to the head to the stomach."

Garcia's bat, head and stomach all felt fine Friday night. Especially his bat.

The Toronto Blue Jays second baseman, who entered the game with a .216 average and five RBI, went 4-for-5 with six RBI to lead the Jays to an 8-3 win over the Mariners.

He began it with a three-run triple in the second inning. He doubled in a run in the sixth and doubled home two more in the seventh. But he was never quite confident of anything.

"The way I've been going I thought the ball was going to be caught," Garcia, a .289 lifetime hitter, said of his triple. "It's been like that the whole season. I've been hitting line drives right at people and hitting to the wrong part of the field all the time."

In other American League games Friday night, it was Boston 5, Oakland 4, in 10 innings; Baltimore 6, Minnesota 5; Detroit 3, Chicago 1; California 5, Milwaukee 4; New York 6, Kansas City 4.

Red Sox 5, A's 4 (10 inn.)
Jim Rice had a three-run homer for the Red Sox and Dwight Evans tied the game with a ninth-inning shot. But it was Reid Nichols, one of the least-known of the Sox who knocked in the game-winner in the bottom of the 10th with a single that scored Bill Buckner, who had doubled.

Normally an outfielder, Nichols entered the game in the ninth at second base because utilityman Dave Stapleton was bothered by a sore knee.

Orioles 6, Twins 5
Fred Lynn won a guessing game from Ron Davis by belting a one-out homer in the bottom of the ninth to give Baltimore its 11th win in the last 14 starts.

"I was trying to hit a homer on the first pitch but he threw a fastball right by me," Lynn said. "He came back with breaking stuff and fortunately, I was able to wait on it."

Don Aase, 4-0, was the winner, allowing just one hit in two innings.

Yankees 6, Royals 4
Butch Wynegar hit a two-run homer in the top of the eighth after the Royals had rallied from a 3-1 deficit to take a 4-3 lead.

Wynegar was just trying for an opposite-field single, but with some help from the wind, he pulled a pitch by Charlie Liebrandt into the left field seats and help Ron Guidry even his record at 3-3.

Tigers 3, White Sox 1
Kirk Gibson hit a tape-measure third-inning home run over the 75-foot roof in right field at Comiskey Park to give Walt Terrell a win over Tom Seaver.

"Who cares how far it went," said Gibson, who entered the game with a .223 average. "It was a home run that put us ahead, that's all that counts."

"I pushed up there," Seaver said of the pitch. "I've had some balls hit hard off me. (Willie) McCovey and (Willie) Stargell but you can't hit the ball much harder than that."

Angels 5, Brewers 4
Reggie Jackson cracked a three-run homer in the third inning to give the Angels a 4-0 lead. Ron Romanick, with help from three relievers, improved to 4-1 as the third of those relievers and Donnie Moore, notched his seventh save.

The homer was the sixth for Jackson, who will be 39 a week from today. He is hitting .233 with 17 RBI.

World-ranked disc-throwing team to be at Funfest

A Frisbee team, ranked third in the world in freestyle competition, will perform at the Funfest celebration in Amarillo May 25-27.

Chip Bell and John Brooks will showcase their disc-throwing skills at Thompson Park during the Funfest event.

Funfest activities begin at noon each day. Games and other activities are planned, along with live entertainment.

Bell has three world championship titles, two in 1982 and one in 1983—the Texas National Freestyle Championship, the California State Championship, and the Hawaiian National Freestyle Championship.

Bell's teammate, Brooks, unlike most professional disc throwers, competes in all seven disc categories. Those categories are distance, accuracy, self-caught flight, double-disc court, disc golf, freestyle, and discathlon.

Sandy Koufax of the Los Angeles Dodgers struck out 15 batters in a World Series game against the New York Yankees on Oct. 2, 1963, setting a World Series record. Five years later, on Oct. 2, 1968, Bob Gibson of the St. Louis Cardinals struck out 17 Detroit Tiger batters to break Koufax's record.

Irrigation demonstration to be Wednesday

An "Irrigation Demonstration Day" highlighting the latest in irrigation water management techniques and equipment has been scheduled for Wednesday from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Bill Walden farm located four miles east of Hereford on Highway 60, then eight miles north on the county paved road.

Featured attractions during this hands-on demonstration day will include individual discussions and demonstrations of soil moisture monitoring equipment and techniques, pump plant energy efficiency testing, surge irrigation, and irrigation application efficiency testing on a LEPA center pivot sprinkler system. Additionally, personnel will be available to discuss crop quality as it relates to irrigation water management and the timing of irrigation applications. There will also be a display of drip irrigation equipment on site.

Ken Carver, assistant manager for the High Plains Underground

Water Conservation District No. 1 in Lubbock, will demonstrate soil moisture monitoring tools including tensiometers, gypsum blocks used with resistance meters and the neutron soil moisture probe, as well as discuss the benefits of monitoring the moisture content within your crop root zone area.

Leon New, irrigation specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service from Amarillo, will have equipment set up and will explain the benefits of having an irrigation pumping plant energy efficiency test performed on your well. Additionally, New and Soil Conservation Service field office personnel will evaluate the application efficiency of a LEPA (Low Energy Precision Application) center pivot sprinkler system.

Jerry Funck, HPWD Agricultural Engineer, will demonstrate the use of a surge irrigation system.

David Webster, Soil Conservation Service district conservationist, and his staff will also have on hand drip irrigation equipment and can explain the effects of irrigation water management. Timing of irrigation applications as it affects the crop quality of harvestable corn and grain sorghum will also be discussed.

Webster invites area producers to "come as you are and at your convenience anytime during the field day for a one-on-one discussion of any of the new techniques available to help producers manage their irrigation water to its greatest advantage."

Local FFA places well at Area I

Members of the Hereford High School FFA chapter attended the Area I FFA Convention in Amarillo last weekend, during which Kenneth Schlabs was named Star American Farmer of Area I.

The American Farmer Degree is the highest degree of membership in the FFA and can only be attained after the member has been out of high school at least one year.

Schlabs will compete in June at the State Degree Check with the Stars from the other nine areas of the state for Star American Farmer of Texas.

Robbie Phillips, vice president of the local chapter, was chosen as the Star Lone Star Farmer of the area. Phillips will interview for the Star Lone Star Farmer of the State of Texas in June at the State Degree Check in Dallas.

Shaun Rickman, chapter reporter, was selected as the Star Lone Star Agribusinessman of the Area. Based on his records of achievement in agribusiness training and employment, Shaun will also be competing in Dallas in June at the State Degree Check for the Star Lone Star Agribusinessman of the State.

Chapter members did well in several other areas that will be represented in state competition. Robbie Phillips received the first place award in Swine Proficiency, while Shaun Rickman captured first in Agricultural Mechanics Co-op and Dan Meiwes won the Crops Farm Employee Co-op award.

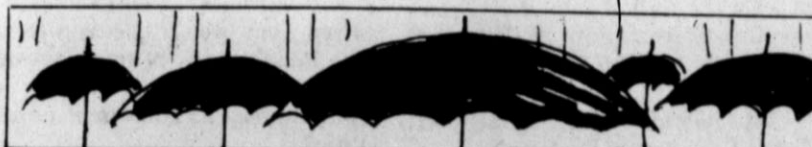

Dale West won third in the prepared public speaking contest, and Jeff Hicks placed third in the Star Greenhand competition.

Chapter Advisor Marcus Phillips said "this was the best area convention our members have had in quite some time and we are very proud of all these students."

Conservation Week

Judge Glen Nelson has signed a proclamation declaring May 12-19 as Soil Stewardship Week in Deaf Smith County as part of a national observance among nearly 3,000 water conservation districts. Attending the proclamation are, from left, Carl Straffuss, Carl Kleuskens, and Nick Yosten. This year's theme is "Tomorrow Together," which focuses on how conservation of soil and water is imperative to human survival.

It rains in Belgium about 300 days per year.

Two sprays stop diseased tick

WASHINGTON (AP) — An Agriculture Department researcher has found that two types of commercial sprays can help protect against a tiny tick that transmits Lyme disease, which is "by far the most prevalent tick-borne disease afflicting humans in this country."

Schreck found that a spray containing 0.5 percent permethrin fully protected against the tick. A second repellent containing deet, a chemical widely available as a mosquito repellent, was 92 percent effective against ticks.

MANY COTTON PRODUCERS MAY HAVE THOUGHT ABOUT or even started planting their own cotton seed. According to industry economists, this practice may be a false economy. Experts say that turning from certified seed may seem like a sensible economic move. However, when you begin figuring your production costs, the added costs of planting certified seed is extremely economical insurance. It costs about $8 an acre, on average, more to plant certified seed than to plant caught seed, said one expert, but that increase only required about 16 more pounds of cotton seed per acre to recoup. Cotton experts list some other benefits: Certified seed is closer to the breeders seed, not several generations removed. And, the seed is produced and ginned under strict monitoring, treated with fungicide and labeled in accordance with federal and state seed laws.

REC workers honored for safe driving

Twenty-one employees of Deaf Smith Electric Cooperative were honored at a breakfast recently for their combined total of 201 years of driving cooperative vehicles without an accident.

The breakfast was sponsored by the Frank B. Hall insurance company, represented by Leonard Herring. Total mileage of all vehicles for the past year was 483,606. Total man-hours worked for the same period of time was 100,956.

Awards were given to Boyd Collins, 24 years; Tommie Weemes, 23; Lee Jones, 17; James Hull, 16; Harold Finch, 14; Sam Garrison, 14; Dick Montgomery, 13; Don Rieves, 11; Jimmy Holmes, 10; Loran Nixon, 10; Steve Louder, 9; Jerry Deckard, 7; Dan Higgins, 7; Mike Bridges, 6; Mike Veazey 5; Carleta Watts, 4; Justin McNeely, 3; George Bullard, 3; Sammy Davison, 2; Dean Reinart, 2; and Robert Scott, 1.

Prune market competitive

WASHINGTON (AP) — Look for plenty of competition for U.S. dried prunes in the world market, if new production estimates in Southern Hemisphere countries are any indication.

The Agriculture Department said Wednesday that the dried prune crop south of the equator is estimated at 16,400 metric tons. That's up 7 percent from last season.

"Supplies from Chile and Australia are expected to be plentiful," the department's Foreign Agricultural Service said in a trade report.

Tillage Program

Jaime Neeper of the Soil Conservation Service examines how conservation tillage can cut soil erosion by up to 80 percent by leaving residue on the field. The SCS deadline for signing up for cost shared practice of conservation tillage is this week. Farmers must agree to carry out the practice although he may not receive cost share benefits in the second year.

Stewardship week noted

COLLEGE STATION -- Soil Stewardship Week is May 12-19, and its purpose is to call greater attention to soil and water conservation.

Theme of this year's nationwide observance is "Tomorrow Together."

This year's theme focuses on human survival, which is dependent on other living things, such as grasses and grain, fishes and birds, and wild and domestic animals, as well as on soil and water.

"Together, we must think about ways to preserve and renew the topsoil from which all our food comes," emphasizes Dr. B.L. Harris, soils specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System. "Together, we must work to purify and protect our waters."

The Extension Service is joining the Association of Texas Soil and Water Conservation Districts and the State Board plus the Soil Conservation Service and others in this weeklong observance, which was begun in 1955.

1985 is the 50th anniversary of the state and federal agencies established during the "Dirty '30s" to combat erosion, notes Harris. During that Dust Bowl era, local soil and water conservation districts, the State Soil and Water Conservation Board, the Soil Conservation Service, the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service and other units of government were founded to improve the delivery of soil conservation information and techniques to farmers and ranchers.

Now that job has expanded to include work with urban and suburban citizens in protecting construction sites, school yards, shorelines and parks from erosion. Efforts are also made to clean up the nation's waters, Harris says.

"We must all make a commitment to protect our natural resources, for it is from them that we reap the food and fiber that enable our very existence," emphasizes Harris.

"We must accept primary responsibility as caretakers of God's earth," adds the specialist. "We are prepared to eat the fruit, but often we leave the task of caring for the land to a handful of people who sincerely care about perpetuating our forests, preserving our rivers and renewing the topsoil."

Harris emphasizes that there is no time like the present to join the common commitment to soil and water conservation. "Our long-range food supply may depend on it. Our farmland is under a lot of pressure—from erosion, urbanization and pollution. Everyone can help conserve our natural resources," he says.

EC growing self-sufficient

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 10-nation European Community, traditionally a major market for American farmers, "will become a net agricultural exporter by the year 2000 if current trends in production and consumption continue," says the Agriculture Department.

A report issued Tuesday by the department's Economic Research Service said the EC is becoming increasingly self-sufficient in practically all agricultural products grown in temperate regions of the world.

"Only major changes in policy will enable the EC to balance production with internal and export demand," the report said. "A continuation of current EC agricultural policies will result in heightened EC competition in world markets and reduced EC import requirements."

U.S. agricultural exports to Western Europe declined in 1984 for the third straight year to $8.8 billion, the lowest since 1977.

Meanwhile, the report noted that agricultural production in Western Europe will likely decline this year from 1984's record level, including a significant drop in crop output. Even so, grain production may still be the second largest on record.

"Trade conflicts persist between the EC and other exporters," the report said. "The EC is almost certain to exceed its self-imposed limit of 14 percent of world wheat exports, raising further questions regarding the use of export subsidies to undercut world prices and gain and inequitable market share."

Houston television station KPRC reported this week that McMaster may have violated the state requirement that a judge live in the county of his court's jurisdiction. According to the television report, the judge has lived in Galveston County since late 1982. McMaster, who was re-elected in November 1982, has listed his address as a Seabrook marina in Harris County.

District attorney files lawsuit to oust district judge

HOUSTON (AP) — State District Judge I.D. McMaster should be removed from office because he does not live in the district of his court, according to a suit filed by Harris County District Attorney John B. Holmes.

McMaster allegedly is violating a state law by living in Galveston County while presiding in adjacent Harris County.

Holmes, who filed the suit on Friday, said his office has been investigating the accusations all week.

"It is never pleasant to engage in this kind of thing," the prosecutor said. "Judge McMaster has been a good jurist."

Holmes, who is a personal friend of McMaster, said he did not tell the judge he was filing the suit, but did contact McMaster's attorney.

Texas food drive for Africa passes $100,000 mark

By MICHAEL L. GRACZYK
Associated Press Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — Texas donations to an African food drive are topping $100,000 so far and the program is so successful it will be extended through the month of June, Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower says.

Project Tejas originally was to expire at the end of May and officials had hoped to raise about $30,000, Hightower said at a news conference Friday.

"In a generous outpouring of friendship, the people of Texas have raised over $100,000 ... to send surplus Texas grain and powdered milk to famine victims in Africa," he said. "We figured any we raised would be significant. It looks like we're going to be on the order of $200,000 to $250,000."

The project was announced March 1 in Austin and now is bringing in about $2,000 a day in donations, he said.

Hightower said his department would purchase the surplus items from the U.S. Department of Agriculture, then have it shipped from Texas ports for delivery to African villages by the end of the summer.

"Yesterday 40,000 children under the age of 5 died because of malnutrition and associated causes. Today another 40,000, tomorrow another 40,000," he said. "The answer to that is grain and powdered milk that we have stored in elevators all over the state of Texas, that is in surplus that is depressing the price on our own farmers because of their productivity."

REMEMBER THESE SAFETY TIPS

- Watch for power lines when climbing in trees.
- Do not climb electrical poles, towers or structures.
- Do not trim trees near power lines.
- Do not set ladders or scaffolds near power lines.
- Do not shoot at insulators on poles, towers or structures.
- Never climb on or go inside a substation fence. Call SPS to help you retrieve anything thrown into the substation or caught in its fence.
- Avoid using electrical tools like lawn mowers or hedge clippers when grass and leaves are wet.
- Be careful when digging. Call SPS to find out if there are any buried electrical lines in the area.
- Electrical cords should not be spliced or taped. Repair by shortening them or replace them entirely.
- Beware of exposed wires.
- Don't touch portable appliances (coffee makers, radios, hair dryers, etc.) with wet hands or while standing or sitting in water.
- Don't post signs on utility poles. A lineman hitting a nail with his cleat could slip and fall. Also, nails can snag protective gloves and destroy their insulation value.

Lisa Huffaker explains to her two-year-old daughter Kristen that stockings will hang from this refurbished mantle next December. The double celebration of Christmas and Kristen's birthday on the 25th is extra special to Lisa and her husband Terry — chances were slim for Kristen and her twin sister Malisa who were born two months early and weighed less than three pounds each. Patience, prayer, and loving care blessed their home with the survival of Kristen and gave them two weeks of precious memories of Malisa.

Motherhood:

*By fate or plan, there's someone who Took you naked, weak and cold,
And swore she'd do what she could do
To care and love, and guide and hold*

*It's not the act of giving birth,
Or just conceiving to make new life.
But motherhood, for all it's worth,
Is made of toil, some joy, some strife.*

*It's hard and easy, tough and funny,
'Cause mom is laundress, cook, and nurse,
Santa Claus and Easter Bunny.
(And keeps a "bank " inside her purse.)*

*This day is hers, grant her wishes,
Somebody, at least, do the dishes!*

Mother's Day is heartwarming for Charla (Mrs. Ray) Schlabs, center, for two reasons. Charla lost her mother when she was six years old, but learned of the surrogate love of her grandmother, Nina Edwards, who raised her. Charla has another love that she may not have known. A second medical opinion on the affects of hepatitis during her pregnancy allowed here to give birth to her fourth child, Timothy.

Kimberly Wieck, who was a year old last month, might not have been born had her mother followed the advice to have an abortion since she had been exposed to x-rays early in her pregnancy. Arnie and Kathy Wieck were determined to go full term despite the risks that might have been and now enjoys a playful toddler who is normal in every way.

Women who may not want to be mothers but find themselves so, often seek counseling. Giving a baby for adoption makes Mother's Day a reality for women who cannot give birth but want to give love.

Rick and Claudia Fangman have their first Mother's Day this spring, since Ryan came to their house in January. The Fangmans feel very fortunate to have found a private adoption agency last fall and thus become the parents of a baby boy only two days after he was born.

Mother Of The Year

Jane Landers was selected by members of Young Mothers Study Club as their "Mother of the Year." Landers was presented an engraved brass tray and

Landers selected as Mother of the Year

Jane Landers was presented an engraved brass tray and stand for being selected as Young Mothers Study Club's "Mother of the Year" during their regular meeting held Monday evening at K-Bob's.

The presentation was made by Jeanne Lomas, last year's recipient. She read a poem to club members and Landers entitled "How God Made Mothers."

During the business meeting, installation of new officers was conducted by Lomas. As she inducted each officer, she presented them with a brass bell. Serving as 1985-86 president will be Lomas; Pam Wagner and Carla Hollinger, vice-presidents; Kathleen Brockman, secretary; and Landers, treasurer.

This concluded the meetings until the fall with the exception of a club family swimming party scheduled in July.

Those in attendance included Lomas, Landers, Wagner, Vicki Kreigshauser, Tracy Coker, Brockman, Kelly Wagner, Lisa Blakley and Hollinger.

DEAR POLLY — My kids love oatmeal bread. Do you have a recipe? — SANDY

DEAR SANDY — I'm going to let you be creative and invent your own recipe. It's easy: Simply substitute rolled oats for about one-third the flour called for in your favorite whole-wheat or white bread recipe. Then you might try changing the sweetener from white sugar to brown sugar, honey or molasses. Adding eggs will create a richer loaf as will adding a little extra butter or margarine.

My favorite combination is about two cups oats to approximately four cups whole-wheat, with a tablespoon of molasses as the sweetener, an egg, two tablespoons butter or margarine, one and one-half to two cups warm water and two packages active dry yeast. Oops — I guess that is actually a recipe. But my main purpose is to show you how flexible standard bread recipes are and how you can substitute different grains, sweeteners and other ingredients to make a wide variety of delicious breads.

I'm sending you a copy of my newsletter "Nutrition Boosters," which has ideas for including more whole grains in your diet as well as ways to increase the nutritional content of many main dishes, how to get the kids to eat vegetables when they insist they won't and desserts that pack in more nutrition than empty calories. Others who would like this issue should send $1 for each copy to POLLY'S POINTERS, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1216, Cincinnati, OH 45201. Be sure to include the title. — POLLY

Blevins, Adams wed during candlelight ceremony here

Wedding vows were exchanged during a candlelight ceremony by Sheri Dianne Blevins and Kenneth Wayne Adams Saturday afternoon in First Christian Church with the Rev. Mack McCarter, pastor, officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy W. Blevins of 225 Elm and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Adams of Route 2.

The church altar, flanked by large vases, of fern, was decorated with candelabra using votive tapers. They were covered with greenery and accented by royal blue bows.

Shannon Evers served as maid of honor and Joe Andrews was best man.

Carol Blevins served her sister as bridesmaid and Mike Lamb of Friona was groomsmen. Escorting guests were the bride's brothers, Gary and Darcel Blevins, and Jason Andrews, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Andrews.

Mandi Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Jones, and Autumn Parks, daughter of Jay Parks and Brenda Parks, were in charge of distributing rice bags to the guests.

Flower girl was Heather Hodges, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Steve Hodges, and ring bearer was Michael Minton, son of Ray Minton of Moore, Okla., the bride's cousin.

Karen Jones sang "Bridal Vow" and Ray Owens vocalized "The Wedding Song" and "Wedding Prayer." They were accompanied by Mrs. Sonny Evers.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal floor-length gown of sheer organza and re-embroidered chantilly lace over bridal taffeta designed with a high neckline, natural waist, long tapered sleeves and full skirt. Inserts of the lace, along with inserts of Venise lace, complimented the neckline, bodice, sleeves and skirt. Rows of lace ruffles enhanced the skirt and the full back of the gown ended in a semi-cathedral train.

She wore a halo of white flowers and baby's breath in her hair and carried a bouquet of white silk roses with a cascade of small white flowers. A candlelight rose in her bouquet matched the two roses on the front of her gown. All wedding flowers were arranged by Johnie Burkhalter.

Bridal attendants wore floor-length dresses of royal blue polyester. The dresses were fashioned with gored skirts, fitted bodices and sweetheart necklines. They wore pale blue lace jackets with Queen Anne necklines, long sleeves and long sashes.

Each carried nosegays of blue and white long stemmed silk roses and wore halos of blue and white flowers in their hair.

Valerie Andrews, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Andrews, invited guests to register at the reception held in the church parlor.

Karen Jones served cake and Diana Adams of Chicago, Ill., the groom's sister, poured punch and coffee. Others assisting included Mmes. John Hunter, Tom Jackson, Bobby Jones, Lynn Jones and Charles Minchew.

The tiered cake, decorated with blue roses and hearts, was placed on the refreshment table which was centered with the bride's bouquet.

Abundant Life

OUR ADAPTABILITY

Bob Wear

WE MUST develop our skills in making justified adaptations to the changing conditions in our environment. This does not mean that we will be in a state of constant change, because there will be times and situations; when we will be justified in taking a stand and holding it fast. Obviously, there is a balance we must seek in being able to manage our lives with the greatest degree of efficiency.

IT IS IMPORTANT that we learn how to make indicated 'modifications' to meet new conditions. This may require us to yield to the wishes of another person, or to the demands of a situation. This is called accommodation. Oftentimes, the action will be more a matter of 'adjusting' or perhaps 'reconciliation'. Of course, none of this is to be the giving up of what we know to be 'true'. It will never involve 'dishonesty' or 'hypocrisy', or be a violation of our 'integrity'. As an over-all cover for the justified action in our adaptations, there must be the most wholesome disposition of mind. We must preserve the elements of 'kindness', 'good cheer', and 'a sense of humor'; with everything under the full control of wisdom.

IT IS NEVER wise to be stubborn just for the purpose of being stubborn, of being able to have our own way about things. Insisting upon having our way just for the sake of having our way is childish, and very destructive of happy and rewarding human relationships. There are many things that are neither 'right' now 'wrong'; neither 'good' nor 'evil'. In all of these matters, we must be prepared to be 'adaptable', and graciously so. ABILITY TO BE adaptable must be used freely, when it is justified; but never used to violate our integrity.

Bridesmaids included the bride's cousin, Lisa Didion of Houston; the bridegroom's sister, Sarah Fish of Hereford; and Erin Hall of Houston.

Groomsmen were the bridegroom's brothers, Jim Fish of Hereford and Robbie Fish of Abilene, and Mike Stockard of Houston.

Escorting guests were the bride's brothers, Peter and Andrew Pomeroy, both of Houston; Jay Wheeler of College Station, and Randy Lieb of Houston.

Christina Pomeroy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Pomeroy, was flower girl and David Didion Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. David Didion, was ring bearer.

An organist at the church played the processional and recessional.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an off-the-shoulder candlelight tulle gown with bridal taffeta which fell to floor-length. It was trimmed with applique blossoms and the full skirt formed a flowing train.

She also wore a tulle and lace veil and carried a bouquet of fresh peach and white colored roses.

Attendants were attired in off-the-shoulder gowns of apricot tulle over taffeta which fell to floor-length.

Mrs. Peter Pomeroy invited guests to register in the Glass Room of the church. The registry table was centered with peach and white fresh cut flowers.

Refreshments of hot and cold hors d'oeuvres were served by caterers from tables covered white and peach lace cloths.

At the bride's table, champagne was served as well as the three-tiered raspberry filled peach colored cake. Black Forest cake was served from the groom's table.

Leaving for a Caribbean cruise, the bride wore a navy colored tailored suit with white accessories.

The couple are making their home in Clear Lake, Tx.

The bride graduated from Houston

Memorial High School and received her BS degree in food science and technology from Texas A&M in 1982.

She is a member of Alpha Phi Omega Fraternity and Phi Tau Sigma. He is employed with Texas Department of Corrections and is assistant Superintendent of Cannery at Sugarland and Rosharon, Tx.

A bridesmaids luncheon, hosted by the bride's aunts, was held recently at the Brownstone in Houston and the rehearsal dinner, hosted by the groom's parents, was held at the Houstonian Hotel and Club. Also, a bridal dinner, given by the bride's parents, was held at the Houston Club.

By DIANNE PIERSON, Library Director

Two novels of love and war are featured this week at the Deaf Smith County Library. "The Spoils of War" by Thomas Fleming and "A Winter's Child" by Brenda Jagger are featured this week. The Spoils of War is the story that no American novelist has yet told—the impact of the Civil War on the minds and hearts of men and women of the North. In a rare fusion of fiction and history, Thomas Fleming has given us nothing less than a new view of America's past.

His characters are struggling to cope with the passions and grief of a postwar era remarkably like our own. His main characters are Jonathan, the Union general turned New York powerbroker, determined to reunite the nation he helped to sunder; Cynthia, the beautiful, disillusioned daughter of a bankrupt Louisiana grandee, who married Jonathan; Rawdon, Jonathan's son, who is wilderness personified; Genevieve, the brilliant, driven feminist; and Clay, the South-Carolina-born reporter.

From the Fifth Avenue mansions of the Astors and the Vanderbilts to savage quarrels in a divided White House to the oath-filled chaos of a big-city newsroom, "The Spoils of War" takes the reader inside one of the most bizarre, least understood eras in American history. It is a novel of extraordinary scope and power from a writer of rare talent and undeniable importance.

"A Winter's Child" by Brenda Jagger is a novel of men and women changed by war and searching for peace. It is set in Yorkshire at the end of the great War. Focusing on Claire, a young war widow, it is a story of conflict between the girl she was brought up to be and the woman war has made her. It is also a story of contrasts: between Claire, who went to war and stitched wounds, and her sister-in-law, Polly, four years younger, who stayed home and stitched evening dresses; between Euan Ash who went to war a gilded aristocratic youth and is now bleakly cynical and on the way to nowhere, and the valorous Major Kit Hardie, onetime bootboy who thrives in the new, postwar classless society.

"A Winter's Child" is a story of love between Claire and Benedict, the emotionally scarred master of High Meadows, the country home of the Swanfields. This is a romance completely contemporary in thought and feeling that unfolds before us a heartrending vision of pre-and postwar England. "A Winter's Child" is a novel about survival—a soldier, a woman's, and a nation's. "Days of Grace" was Brenda Jagger's most recent novel.

Homecoming to feature artists

Do you remember the art work of Emilio Caballero in the sixties? Or, before that, Viktor Lowenfeld of Vienna? How about Isabel Robinson, organizer of the summer art colony in Palo Duro Canyon in the thirties?

Each of these people, and so many others, made significant contributions to the art program of West Texas State. The art program, in turn, made an impact on the community as a whole. So in this 75th anniversary year, the university would like to give special recognition to all its art faculty and art students over the years.

The 1985 homecoming weekend, Oct. 11 and 12, will feature an art show and reception for all those who have been associated with the West Texas State art program, whether in the years when Isabel Robinson was the lone art teacher or since the program has moved into beautiful Mary Moody Northern Hall and added a master's degree.

Participating artists are asked to return the form below by June 15. The form is a show of interest only, not a commitment. Additional information will be mailed to all who respond, but artists should prepare to bring one or two pieces of their work and six slides of their work. The art will be displayed in the atrium of Northern Hall.

Ronnie Birdsong and David Rindisbacher, both of the WT faculty, are chairing the steering committee for this event. The committee includes alumni (Jeryl Vance, Kirk Richards, Jimmy Redfern, Lynn Brown, Russell Brown, Jon Birdsong, and Paula Kenney), members of the community (Paul Cizon, Wayne Tartar, Katherine Winsett, Merrill Winsett, Ann Pinkerton, and Janet Blasdel), faculty (Mary Ann Petry and Martha Louder), and alumni faculty (Margaret Campbell and Jerri Warren).

The goal is the widest possible participation by WTSU's former artists. Those who know the whereabouts of artists who might not receive this information are urged to submit their names and addresses, using the address shown below, or call (806)656-2827 or (806)655-9327.

Requests for entry forms pouring in

Texas artists are keeping Southwestern Bell Telephone's mail room busier than usual these days. Requests for entry forms in the company's Sesquicentennial directory cover art contest are pouring in from all over the state. "It started as a trickle, but we're now averaging over one hundred requests a day," said Gayle Hatchel, contest coordinator. "As word of the contest spreads, I'm sure we'll see that number increase rapidly." The contest is to select artwork for a special Sesquicentennial cover to be used on 1986 Texas phone books. The winning artist will receive $5,000 and have his or her work featured on some 158 Southwestern Bell directories with distribution of almost nine million copies in Texas. Deadline for entries is July 1, 1985. "I think it's a positive sign that almost 2,000 people have asked for entry forms," said Hatchel. "We want to involve as many people as possible in an exciting Sesquicentennial activity—we're just proud to be a part of the excitement." Requests for contest entry forms have come from all sections of the state. "They're coming from professional artists, weekend painters and from teachers using the contest as a class project," said Hatchel. "We've also had one request from a prison inmate—if he wins, it should be quite a story." No actual paintings are to be submitted, since initial judging will be done from color slides of the artwork. An entry form and contest rules may be obtained by writing to Art Contest, One Bell Plaza, P.O. Box 225521, Dallas, Texas 75265. According to Hatchel, the artwork should be appropriate to the Sesquicentennial, and there is only one restriction on subject matter. "The painting must have a Texas theme," she said. "A montage depicting 150 years of proud Texas history would be particularly appropriate—or it could be a single subject that's especially identified with Texas." Any complaints from the mail room? "None at all," said Hatchel. "Everyone's happy to be involved in such a positive project."

He was later defeated by Andrew Jackson. In 1831, Adams entered Congress and served 17 years with distinction.

Retinopathy a cause of blindness

Treatment is usually effective in controlling retinopathy. Although the disorder tends to recur, repeated treatments can maintain existing vision.

As many as half of the 7 million diagnosed diabetic Americans are at risk of forming these abnormal blood vessels, the academy says. But a recent study shows that only about a third of all diabetics have had their eyes examined by an ophthalmologist.

To help prevent blindness and minimize vision loss due to diabetic retinopathy, the academy says:

-All diabetics, including children, should have regular eye exams.
 -Diabetic women should have eye exams particularly during pregnancy.

The leading cause of blindness in people ages 20 to 64 is a disorder that strikes diabetics.

Diabetic retinopathy robs the sight of about 5,000 Americans a year.

Public invited to recital

Piano students of Susan Shaw Studio will be presented in recital at 2:30 p.m. today in Kinsey Parlor of First Baptist Church. Family and friends are invited to attend.

Students will be playing solos and duets prepared for the recent Hereford Music Festival and additional repertoire learned throughout the year.

Those participating in the recital are Robin Sublett, Jill Walser, Lori Poarch, Heidi Roland, Tracie Gilbert, Chari Suttle, Eric Suttle, Regina Lewis, Misty Dudley, Stephanie Walls, Jodie Wallace and Sherry Fuston.

SHARING THE WEALTH

Imagine a tax shelter that allows a corporation to make large tax deductible contributions to a special fund that will provide security for your retirement. Assume that, no matter how much interest these funds earn, not one penny will be taxed until benefits begin to be received. If the fund sells an asset and realizes a big gain, there is still no current tax paid. The money can be paid at retirement under special tax rules. These rules allow favorable ten-year income averaging if a lump sum is taken. Special annuity reporting is also allowed that enables the tax to be spread over the entire retirement lifetime. If you are an employee of a corporation, you are eligible for all of these tax benefits through a "qualified" pension or profit-sharing plan.

When it comes to planning for your future you want to talk to the financial planners that will be able to help you attain your goal. The firm of RICK ROBERTS, CERTIFIED PUBLIC ACCOUNTANTS are the professionals for you. We can advise you on how to increase your assets for your future. We are conveniently located at 138 Third, Suite A (364-7525), Monday thru Friday 8:30-12 and 1-5. Have a nice day!

 The loss of sight results from the disorder or leakage of small blood vessels of the retina, the inner lining for the back of the eye where visual images are formed. The leaking blood reduces vision and can produce scar tissue on the retina, leading to
 But if the disorder is diagnosed early, laser treatment can reduce the risk of severe visual loss, says the American Academy of Ophthalmology, whose members are medical doctors specializing in eye care.

County Museum chapel idea originated from candelabra

The dream began with a candelabra.

A candelabra which came all the way from a Lutheran church in Hamburg, Minn. A candelabra which so touched a woman when she first saw it that she was baptized, confirmed and married under it. A candelabra which today sparked the idea of a chapel in the Deaf Smith County Museum.

The chapel was added as a tribute to the early settlers here who constructed a house for the Lord as soon as they had built their own shelter. Frequently, the pioneers offered their own home as a place for worship while the Lord's house was being built in order that the people could remain faithful in their worship.

To fill the chapel, the churches which were organized in the early days were invited to bring in anything they could offer.

Since the items were desired only from the old churches, newer churches are not represented in the chapel. Items have not been added since the dedication in November 1974 when the chapel was completed by a donation from Rotary International.

"We received all of the items and then built the chapel," Lois Gilliland said. "All of the items are of historical significance to the county. They each have sentimental value." Of the many individuals who visit the chapel, very few come solely to see the chapel. Most stop and view it as simply another aspect of the museum.

"Two women, though, have stopped to pray in the chapel," Mrs. Gilliland said. "One woman was a traveller who stopped to give thanks for the safety of her trip.

"Many people say that it has a sacred feeling," she continued. "I've always thought it would be nice for a couple to be married in the chapel. It would be more meaningful than the JP office.

The churches that have helped to make this area so meaningful include the Episcopalian, Presbyterian, First Christian, Immanuel Lutheran, La Mision de San Jose, Methodist, St. Anthony's and First Baptist Churches. Only two items were acquired elsewhere because they did not survive in Hereford's original churches: an organ and a pew.

Those two items were located by Ruth McBride who planned the entire concept of the chapel. Mrs. McBride designed the inside walls to resemble the interior of the old frame churches. She then strategically positioned each piece to fully capture the atmosphere of the old churches.

As one enters the chapel, he is captured by the beauty of the stained-glass windows. On loan from Harland H. Frye, the four windows are from the First Christian Church built in 1908. After being removed from the church, the windows were taken to a wrecking yard where Mr. Frye purchased them before loaning them to the museum, Mrs. Gilliland said.

The other stained glass pieces once hung in the Methodist, St. Anthony's and La Mision de San Jose Churches.

The most sacred symbols of the church are at the heart of this collection: the Bible, the crosses, the candelabra and the Communion Table.

The Bible, published in 1853, came to Hereford with the Little Brown Church the Episcopalians moved from Spur to become their first church building. The cross was given by the Presbyterian Church. First Christian Church donated the Communion Table, altar and matching chairs.

From the Methodist Church came the half-moon and the two panels which hang in the rear of the chapel. The Episcopal Church also gave the Gothic redos and baptismal font.

The two matching black chairs were a gift from the Presbyterian Church, and the prayer bench and gold band candles were given by St. Anthony's Catholic Church.

The First Baptist Church donated the communion plates and the ceiling light. The light was brought in by the late Mrs. A.O. Thompson who had taken the light when it was removed from the church during its renovation.

The railing used in the chapel came from the district courtroom, while the ceiling came from the fourth floor of the courthouse.

The last item completing the chapel is a last-rites set, given by the Leo Witkowski home. The set was used when a family member died at home.

State obtains settlement against company

DALLAS (AP) — Officials of a California-based company say they have already gone a long way toward fulfilling terms of an agreed judgment with the Texas attorney general's office which ordered them to pay about $44 million in property taxes.

Texas Attorney General Jim Mattox said the judgment and $18,600 in penalties was obtained Friday against Tigor Realty Tax Services Inc. He said the company allegedly failed to pay the property taxes for about 166 Texas lenders.

Ninety-eight percent of this has been done already," said Tigor spokesman Rick Sevin at the company's Los Angeles headquarters. "We are just doing the final cleanup of bills at this point."

The judgment also calls for Tigor to pay all penalties and interest resulting from the late payment of taxes for more than 110,000 Texas homeowners, Mattox said.

The attorney general's office alleged in a suit that Tigor failed to pay 1984 mortgage taxes for the lenders who used the company, thereby threatening foreclosure on the homes. In Bexar County, about 1,000 accounts remained unpaid, a tax office spokesman said.

Papers filed in the suit claimed Tigor failed to pay the taxes for the borrowers for 1984, totalling approximately $44 million in unpaid taxes. Officials said another $5 million or more has been assessed by seven counties in penalties and interest because of the delinquent taxes.

The Texas Attorney General alleged that Tigor Realty Tax Services violated Texas laws concerning deceptive trade practices," Richard White, company president and chief executive officer, said in a prepared statement.

"Tigor Realty Tax Services vehemently denies those allegations and the attorney general's jurisdiction. In order to avoid lengthy and costly litigation, Texas Realty Tax Services agreed to settle the matter without any admission or finding of liability."

State District Judge Sid Fitzwater of Dallas signed the agreed judgment at about 1:30 p.m. Friday, ordering the defendant to pay all the delinquent taxes by July 1.

"The judgment orders them to use their best efforts to do that (pay the taxes) by July 1, if they are able to get the funds from the lenders," said John Henderson of Dallas, a Tigor attorney.

"It is the lenders who actually collect the impounded funds; to the extent they forward the funds to Tigor, then Tigor can pay," said Henderson. "It does require Tigor to be responsible for all penalties and interest."

White said Tigor, which has been performing property tax processing services for lenders and loan officers since 1928, has become the largest company in its industry.

"... In 1984, for the first time, Tigor Realty Tax Services experienced difficulty in processing property taxes serviced by the company in Texas in a timely manner, primarily because of an unprecedented increase in the volume of business and complications involved in implementing a new data processing system," White said in the statement.

Non-drug treatment preferred

Non-drug treatment of mild hypertension has a double benefit; it lowers the blood pressure and it helps to control other risk factors for coronary heart disease such as high blood cholesterol levels, adult-onset diabetes and obesity. It could also save the person with slightly elevated blood pressure from a lifetime reliance on antihypertensive drugs, which often have troublesome side effects.

"I believe a non-drug approach should be the first treatment of mild hypertension, where the diastolic blood pressure is between 90 and 100 mm Hg," says Dr. Norman Kaplan, professor of Internal Medicine and chief of the hypertension unit at The University of Texas Health Science Center at Dallas.

Kaplan bases his belief on the results of research done at UTHSCD and on a review of more than 160 published studies of the effects of weight loss, diet, mineral metabolism, exercise and relaxation techniques. Kaplan's conclusions were published in the March issue of The Annals of Internal Medicine.

"The steadily growing tendency to treat even mildly hypertensive patients with drugs is bringing millions of asymptomatic people into lifetime drug therapy. For some, the risks of the drugs, as we have used them, may outweigh the benefits that can be gained from lowering the blood pressure," Kaplan warns. "It is true that anti-hypertensive drugs will control the blood pressure and that they have been shown to lower the death rate from stroke and heart failure that sometimes result from high blood pressure. But antihypertensive drugs have only spotty effects against what is by far the most serious and common complication of hypertension—coronary artery disease. I think we should consider all risk factors, along with the level of the blood pressure, before making the decision to use drugs."

Here is Kaplan's practical non-drug prescription for treating mild hypertension, based upon currently available evidence:

Weight loss: For the overweight, weight reduction should be the primary goal. The frequency of hypertension is about twice as high in the obese as in the non-obese; furthermore, even a small weight loss will often lower the blood pressure. The dual benefits of lowering blood pressure and losing weight should provide incentive to stay on a weight-loss program.

Sodium restriction: For all hypertensive persons, salt in the diet should be restricted to two grams of sodium a day. This can be accomplished simply by leaving out salt in cooking and avoiding heavily salted foods such as smoked meats, pickles, and most canned and processed foods. After a few months on a lower sodium diet, the taste preference for salty foods will decrease. However, in order to maintain calcium intake, the consumption of low-fat, low-sodium milk and cheese products should not be reduced.

Fiber/Fat in Diet: More high-fiber foods and less saturated fat in the diet are recommended for anti-cancer and cholesterol-lowering diets. They may also help lower the blood pressure.

Alcohol: In moderate amounts (less than two ounces a day) alcohol appears to protect against coronary heart disease. In larger amounts, it may raise the blood pressure enough to make it the most prevalent cause of reversible hypertension.

Studies suggest that alcohol is responsible for at least 10 percent of hypertension in men and one percent of hypertension in women. A reasonable position would be to allow up to, but no more than, two ounces a day.

Exercise: After isotonic exercise such as walking, jogging, bicycling or swimming, blood pressure falls as much as 25 percent and remains lower for at least 30 minutes. However, blood pressure may rise alarmingly during isometric exercise such as weight lifting. Regular active exercise of the isotonic type should be encouraged.

Potassium: For mild hypertension, potassium supplements are usually unnecessary. Potassium intake tends to increase when sodium is reduced, particularly by the substitution of natural foods for canned or processed foods.

Other minerals: Magnesium and calcium supplements should only be given to those who are deficient in the minerals until there is more evidence that they produce desired results.

Relaxation therapy: Unfortunately, only a few hypertensives will choose to try relaxation therapy, and even fewer will stick with it. Most of those who do will achieve some lowering of blood pressure, and a few will show a considerable decrease. In addition, they may be less anxious and feel better.

DR. GOTT

Peter Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT I am a 29-year-old female, married one-and-a-half years, and am now considering motherhood. I have never been pregnant before, due to careful use of contraceptives, but I am wondering now if I will have any difficulty becoming pregnant. I am in good overall health, but would you recommend a gynecological examination to set my mind at ease?

DEAR READER The only really reliable way to discover if you can get pregnant is to get pregnant. This method is cheaper and much more enjoyable than going through a series of tests.

Although you do not necessarily require a gynecological exam to establish your fertility, you would be well advised to have regular exams and Pap tests by a gynecologist or other doctor trained in these techniques. The exams are simple, safe and can be performed by most private doctors as well as at any free-standing clinics, such as those run by Planned Parenthood.

SHADY DEALS

There is hardly a window of any size or shape that cannot be beautifully covered with window shades today. Improved installation methods can solve specific problems. For example, apart from the usual roller shade that pulls down, there is also the type that pulls up from the bottom of the window. Originally conceived to block out an unattractive view without sacrificing light and air, this type of shade can be used for special decorative effects. It looks handsome alone or in combination with the usual pull-down shade. Maintenance is highly improved today. The vinyl coatings on many shades make them washable, colorfast and easy to clean.

Used alone or in conjunction with various window treatments, shades can provide an enormous amount of flexibility and versatility in the creation of a unique atmosphere. FINISHING TOUCHES specializes in all aspects of window treatments, draperies and shades. Give us a call at 364-8870 or drop by anytime during the week at 501 E. Park Ave. between the hours of 9 to 5.

Use shades in conjunction with virtually any other kind of window treatment.

EDITOR'S NOTE: John Doe likes to talk about the new Senior Citizens Center. Once you get him started, he goes on and on and on....

"It's one heck of a place. Kinda like a luxury motel with all your buddies around.

"Yeah, that center has just about everything any of us older folks could want or need. It beats the heck out of stayin' home all day and twiddlin' your thumbs.

"Shoot, ya'll oughta see what we do in that exercise class every mornin'. My ol' friend Henry's gotten a little paunchy around the middle and I'll be dangid if he hadn't shaped up to look like a youngun again. 'course

Henrietta, you know she's gotten a little down from her arthritis, but she gets dem bones a movin' and that blood circulating.

"That chow they serve is mighty tasty. Kinda reminds me of how my mama used to cook. Best fried chicken and gravy you ever ate. Cherry cobbler is pretty good, too. Don't go much for the Waldorf salad, never had it before the other day, but some folks like that stuff. Guess they serve food for everyone's taste. Best part of it is that when you're my age, you can eat all that good stuff for almost nothin'. Where else you gonna find a better price for a meal?

"Had the surprise of my life the other day. Walked into that place and ol' Margie Daniels, the little gal that helped get this new building built, took me aside and said she thought I had some musical talent. Well, by George if she didn't give me this piece of wood and told me to blow on it. Said it was a bozo or kazoo or somethin' like that. Well, come to find out, I had no talent at all but the rest of them folks sure made a good soundin' 'kazoo' band.

"I was somewhat down in the dumps after that band experience so decided to try my hand in the craft class. I whiddled me out a pipe and it looked mighty good if I do say so.

"Who said we ol' geezers can't have a good time? I'm not one for sittin' around in a rocker feelin' sorry for myself. I may be old, but I'm still young at heart.

"I reckon I oughta get back in, someone said you could learn to play bells in a choir. Now don't that beat all!"

Senior citizens brag on center

The new Senior Citizens Center is a place that the entire community can take pride in. In describing the establishment, Bob Bobbit of Austin, State Director on Aging, said, "The design of this building in Hereford should be a model for the state and even the nation."

It is the focal point for resources for senior citizens. It is the result of hard work and dedication of many residents.

So, in conjunction with observance of May as Older Texans Month, as declared by Gov. Mark White, the Hereford Brand staff would like to salute the new center and senior citizens and to congratulate all of the people who have worked so diligently in their efforts.

Various senior citizens were asked to comment on the center and what it means to them. Here are just a few of the remarks.

A.G. SCHLABS

"Good place to get out of work! I feel very welcomed and at home here. I used to be afraid of big, roomy places but this center isn't big, it's filled with my friends."

HATTIE GALLAGHER

"I love to be busy and the center keeps me going. I help out with home delivered meals every day except Saturday and Sunday and I love it. I love the center, I think it's wonderful!"

EDITH SHEPPARD

It's the most enjoyable place for people my age. I love the Senior Citizens Center. I have benefitted tremendously from being a part of it."

ZACK BAILEY

"I came to Hereford in 1980 and was introduced to the Senior Citizens Center by Marjorie Daniels and I've been here since. The people go a long way to make me feel very welcome. I will regret very much having to leave. My son-in-law is being transferred."

WILMA CARMICHAEL

"It's a great place to socialize. I like to play dominoes and bridge and I especially enjoy the meals. My meals are brought to my table by volunteers because I have arthritis. I appreciate these volunteers. The center has been wonderful to me!"

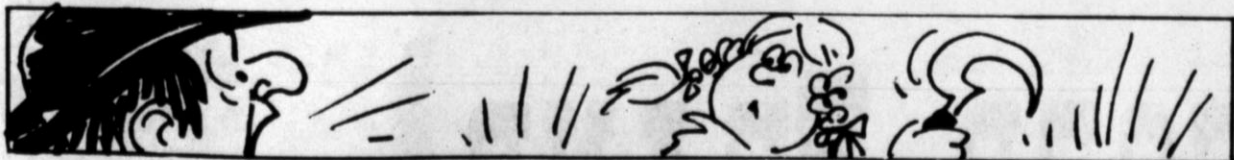

MRS. CECIL BOYER

"It's the most enjoyable place I've ever been a part of...meeting such wonderful people. Not only is it wonderful to my husband and I, but also to all the people who would have stayed at home and just felt sorry for themselves.

LOLA MUNSON

"I started coming over here three years ago. I had just lost my husband and was in somewhat in a state of depression. I just didn't know what to do with myself, so when I came to senior citizens I found it. Everybody is so nice to me."

"Thank You, Deaf Smith County"

The Hereford Senior Citizens Association wants to take this opportunity to thank all of our community for making April 21st "Open House" day for our new facility a great success. The tremendous impact our Senior Citizen Association has made on the state of Texas has been accomplished only by the involvement of our whole community. Thank you again for making it possible for us to build a new center that would be a great asset to Hereford and all of Deaf Smith County.

'Living Center' focuses on needs of people

By CINDY SMITH
Staff Writer

"Regardless of their age, people love to be acknowledged, to be communicated with, to be noticed. Everyone who comes in this building is an individual and we as an organization try to meet those needs," explained Homer Garrison, president of the Hereford Senior Citizens organization.

The dream of the new center became a reality recently as the doors were opened to the public.

"The senior citizens in this area need a place to be useful instead of being entertained," he added. "So many times, the person's mind is intact, the desire is still present, but their body does not function as it once did."

"This center is equipped to meet both emotional and physical needs."

People need people, Garrison believes. "Invigorating conversation and interaction between opposite sexes can do wonders for the self-image."

"It's like dressing up—if there is no one to dress up for, why dress up? The Hereford Senior Citizens Center can give you a reason to dress up. It can give you a reason to live, if you let it."

Garrison said many people will hide and not get out and face the world. "We at the Senior Citizens Center want these people to know that there is a beautiful world out there waiting to be enjoyed."

A positive approach to living is the theme of the center, Garrison claims. Emphasized is not only what the center can do for the senior citizens, but also what they can give back to the center.

Garrison lists the ladies who quilt each day as an example. The money they are paid for quilting goes back to the center. "The women feel like they are doing their share in giving back what the center has given them," he said.

"Our new center offers many opportunities including bridge and dominoes. Programs are also offered in physical fitness and nutrition. The devotional group and Golden K Kiwanis are others to consider joining."

"Along with all this, the center will be scheduling dances and entertainment to break in the new sound system. You name it, we've got it."

"When a person becomes a part of the Senior Citizens, we want them to know we care," Garrison claimed. "When they walk in our door, every person is spoken to, and shared with. We try never to let a person finish a meal alone."

Physical Needs

The senior citizen's physical needs are accommodated through special equipment designed for the handicapped. Electric doors, lower water fountains, heavy gauge carpet for the wheelchairs and studded rubber tiles to prevent slipping are a few of the facilities special features.

The center has a great busing system, Garrison pointed out. A van makes pick-ups daily from 8:30 a.m. on. Anyone unable to drive may call upon the van to take a trip to the grocery store, for lunch at the center, to refill a prescription, whatever their needs. The center also schedules trips to Amarillo for doctor's appointments.

JUAN GARCIA
Senior Citizen

Lunch Program

A person who can eat just one nutritionally balanced meal a day can live three to five years longer before needing a nursing care facility, Garrison claims. "Here at the center, we can provide that one important meal through our lunch program."

Through the Older Americans Act, any person 60 or older can eat at any nutrition center operated by senior citizens. "It is through this law that we are able to feed nearly 500 persons per day. If a person is unable to contribute for a meal the Older American act allows that person to eat free."

"The $50,000 Dollar Challenge" 80 percent of the funds that went into this center were given of our own townspeople, individuals all over Deaf Smith County who care and want to see that their senior citizens are well taken care of in the best possible way. The Jim Hill Estate, one of many individuals, pledged $50,000 to help make the first $200,000 needed to establish this Center. This started off the gifts which inspired people from all over to start giving. "All over the state of Texas people are amazed that Deaf Smith has donated so much to its Senior Citizens," Garrison commented.

"The Jim Hill Estate has challenged our Center," declared Mr. Garrison, "to a grant of $25,000 if we can raise an additional $50,000."

As of date, the S.C.A. has raised

$18,000 of the $50,000 dollar challenge. "The deadline is June 15th" Garrison noted, "and we must come up the additional amount in order to receive the $25,000 grant."

Living Again

Some people have so much pride they won't come to the center and these people usually die a lot sooner from loneliness (literally).

"We like to think of our center as the 'Living Center'" conceded Garrison and Juan Garcia agrees.

Garrison recalled a conversation between two men. Abe Hernandez, a visitor to the center from Panhandle Regional Planning Committee, asked Juan Garcia how they were treating him at the center. In Spanish, Juan replied, "Abe, I just started living again!"

Greeting Visitor

Homer Garrison, president of the Hereford Senior Citizens Organization, enjoys greeting visitors as they walk into the center and guests seem to appreciate that added personal touch. R.A. Daniels (at right) is looking forward to the hot lunch which is served each week-day.

Two class reunions set for May 25

Hereford High School graduating classes of '35 and '40 will hold their class reunions during the Mid-Plains Pioneer Day Celebration set for 11 a.m. May 25 at the Bull Barn.

Registration is $3 and will begin at 9:30 a.m. the day of the event.

During the celebration, the Pioneer of the Year will be named by KPAN Radio Station and will receive a framed certificate from the Deaf Smith County Historical Society. Also, the oldest man, oldest woman, and the one who travels the farthest will be recognized.

The Pioneer Association will furnish the meat, bread and drinks. Members are asked to bring vegetables, salads and desserts.

The next meeting of the executive committee will be held at 7 p.m. Monday at K-Bob's Steak House.

Center couldn't make it without volunteers

Chief Table Polisher

Joe Huckert is a familiar sight in the spacious dining area of the Hereford Senior Citizens Center. Huckert is a part-time custodian who also volunteers at the center each day. His hobby is woodworking and he says he enjoys good health.

By KIM THOGMARTIN
Staff Writer

Joe Huckert claims it's his wife's fault that he continues to do volunteer work at the Hereford Senior Citizens Center.

"She won't retire, so I can't either."

Huckert reminds one of George Burns, minus the cigar. Like a lot of other folks at the HSC, he's not so bad at one-liners either.

"I took this job as a janitor after I retired from t.v. repair. I had this drinking problem, you see, and couldn't make it on social security," he joked.

Huckert started volunteering five years ago, and three years later accepted a three-hour-a-day custodial position at the center. That is in addition to the two hours or more he continues to spend there on a volunteer basis.

His wife Ida Mae works in the kitchen and his sister, Marie Sears, fills in for the receptionist while she goes to lunch.

Marie is possessed of the same good humor and wit her brother displays. Make a remark she doesn't like and she's liable to stick her tongue out at you.

But when it comes to helping out her friends at the center, Marie is all business. She underwent surgery for a hip replacement last year and is unable to stay on her feet long enough to help with meals like she once did.

So, she finds jobs her health will allow, plays bridge and dominoes and just helps keep the place cheery.

"These people need help," she said. "I hate to see them all over-worked. I missed it when I was gone."

A former supervisor for Southwestern Bell, Marie started helping at the center when it opened 10 years ago.

Anna Wilson began her career as a volunteer while still living in her native Minnesota. When she moved to Hereford 4½ years ago she just naturally fell in with the senior citizens.

Part of Wilson's day at the center is spent as a Green Thumb worker. Green Thumb is a program that provides parttime employment for those 55 and older; HSC has two such employees.

As an employee, Wilson is in charge of the domino room and keeping the players refreshed. She also helps at mealtime and cares for the plants in the dining and sitting rooms.

As a volunteer, she offers her services in the quilting room. Quilts commissioned to the center are hand stitched in about a week, with fees going to the center. The ladies who gather around the quilting frames each day say hand-stitched is the only way.

Pauline House is the "captain" of the quilting team. She's hospitalized right now and the other volunteers miss her company. But that doesn't slow them down. It's not unusual for one lady to spend six hours a day, several days a week working on a quilt.

Juanita Hershey does the hemming and binding, often working weekends to get that done. Her husband Horace, after helping with the home delivered meals, might play dominoes or just watch the ladies sew.

Horace and Juanita have been married nearly 56 years. Juanita said her uncle, who raised her, let her go rather hesitantly.

"My uncle told Horace, that girl has never wanted for anything. But I didn't want so many things after I got Horace."

Verdie Harris learned how to quilt when she moved to the Frio community and the ladies held quilting parties at each other's homes.

Marie Harris was born on a homestead in Nebraska and the women taught each other there as well. A beauty shop owner and real estate broker in California for 50 years, it's only been in recent years that she's had time to put the skill to use.

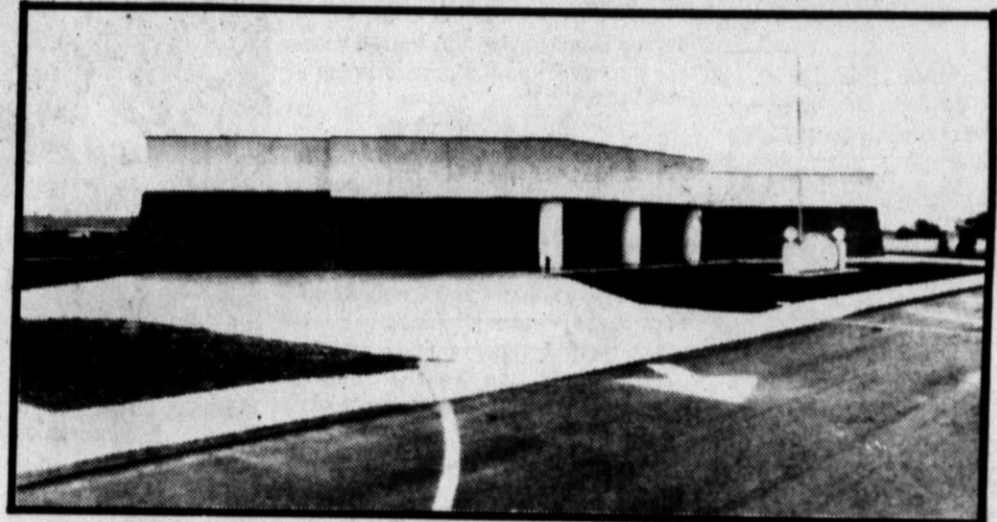

The Hereford Senior Citizens Center simply could not provide the services it does without the volunteers, Director Margie Daniels says matter-of-factly. For example, 60 of Hereford's residents, most of them senior citizens themselves, were listed as volunteers during March and April.

Even with the volunteer roster and fifteen full and part-time employees, more help is needed. There is an especially great need for home meal delivery assistance, and people who will visit the homebound and do shopping for them.

The move from the old to the new center was accomplished in a weekend, a feat Daniels attributes primarily to the volunteers. She said the Hereford Key Club boys and other members of the community helped with heavy lifting, and staffers worked all weekend without pay.

Daniels believes volunteers are helping themselves as well as those they serve. "We all have a desire in our lives to see that we're doing something for someone else. Volunteer work here helps people fulfill that desire."

We extend our congratulations to the citizens of Hereford on your new and unique Senior Citizen's Center. We enjoyed the opportunity to work with you on your grand achievement. There is no doubt that your fine facility will serve the residents of your community and area very well in the present as well as the distant future!

Some used to say that carrying elder tree twigs in the pocket would make horseback riding more comfortable.

Ladies' bicycles were originally designed to be ridden sidesaddle. The big problem was they were so hard to balance no one wanted to ride them.

People who think that life no longer offers a challenge have never tried to untangle a necktie stuck in a jacket zipper.
