Honoring Service

Ruth McBride gives fellow museum volunteer Helen Rose a big hug to thank her for an appreciation plaque and lifetime membership in the Deaf Smith County Historical Society. McBride recently retired from the board of directors. Her artistic talents and time have been freely given to the museum for the past 18 years.

Hance not saying, but just preparing for election

AUSTIN (AP) — While not confirming he will run for the job, former congressman Kent Hance is taking pot shots at Democratic Gov. Mark White and telling a fellow Republican to stay in Congress.

Hance also says he has talked with former Republican Gov. Bill Clements and doesn't believe Clements will take sides in a GOP gubernatorial primary.

"It's his personal feeling that he is not going to get involved in the primary," Hance said Friday. "That is the kind of decision each person has to make on their own, whether they are going to endorse in the primary or not."

Hance, who switched parties earlier this year after losing a bid for the Democratic U.S. Senate nomination, is expected to seek the GOP gubernatorial nomination next year. He already has begun assembling a political staff.

The Lubbock lawyer appeared Friday in a Capitol news conference where state Rep. Gary Thompson of Abilene switched parties, joining the GOP.

U.S. Rep. Tom Loeffler, R-Texas, has said he is seriously considering a race for governor, but Sen. Phil Gramm, R-Texas, last week threw his support to Hance in that race.

Hance said Loeffler has a brighter future in Congress.

"I think he's got a chance of being (House) majority leader, speaker or at least minority leader some day," Hance said.

Hance said he talked with Clements two weeks ago about the 1986 governor's race, adding that Clements was unhappy with Gramm's endorsement of Hance.

But Hance said he doesn't believe a primary pitting him against Loeffler would be divisive to the new-found Republican strength in Texas.

"I think we can all work together. Probably the No. 1 consideration I have to look at and all of us in the Republican Party have to look at is who can replace Mark White, who has the best chance," he said.

Hance had some sharp words for the incumbent White, rapping the governor's suggestion this week that group homes for the mentally retarded could be located in "industrial sections" of cities rather than residential neighborhoods.

"I was somewhat surprised by the governor's answer, to say the least," Hance said. "That is not the industrialization plan that I would get into."

Hance also rapped White for taking credit for Houston Lighting & Power's announcement Thursday that it wants to refund some $147 million in fuel overcharges to residential customers.

The refunds are the result of declining fuel prices, not gubernatorial action, Hance said, criticizing a White campaign pledge to get tough with utility companies.

"That (refund announcement) was not because of anything Mark White did. It was a drop in prices in natural gas. Had Bill Clements been governor, there still would have been a drop," Hance said.

County court to meet

The settlement of a discrimination suit against Deaf Smith County will provide the basis for two agenda items during Monday's regular meeting of the Deaf Smith County Commissioners Court.

As part of the settlement approved by U.S. District Judge Mary Lou Robinson in the Garza versus Deaf Smith County case, the county is required to implement new policies regarding its hiring practices and an appeal process for persons who feel they are discriminated against by the county.

Criminal District Attorney Roland Saul will discuss the court-mandated Employment Grievance Committee, and consultant Keith Bannon from Austin with talk with commissioners about hiring practices.

Also scheduled for Monday, during the 10 a.m. meeting is a public hearing on the planned 1985-86 budget.

Direct federal spending in Deaf Smith County increased by 8.1 percent from $29,540,000 in fiscal 1983 to $31,926,000 during fiscal 1984 according to a report recently issued by the Department of Commerce.

Direct federal spending nationally increased by just 4.2 percent while direct spending in Texas increased by 5.6 percent. The federal government's fiscal 1984 began Oct. 1, 1983 and ended Sept. 30, 1984.

Although Deaf Smith County's increase was more than the state or national rise, the local per capita figures were still below the U.S. or Texas averages. Per capita direct federal spending in Deaf Smith County was $1,579 in 1984, having increased from $1,396 in fiscal 1983, or by 13.1 percent.

Direct per capita federal expenditures in Texas during fiscal 1984 were $2,606, or 1.5 percent less than in 1983. National per capita federal spending in 1984 was $3,108 or 1.9 percent greater than during 1983.

Direct payments to individuals have been the largest single item in the federal budget since 1971. These accounted for 44.6 percent of all direct federal spending during fiscal 1984. Direct payments to individuals were 43.8 percent of federal expenditures in Texas during 1984 and 56 percent of direct federal spending in Deaf Smith County during that period.

There has been and continues to be considerable controversy regarding increases in defense spending by the federal government. Total federal defense expenditures were $209.7 billion in 1984 or 7.2 percent greater than those of fiscal 1983. Defense spending in Texas had increased by 13.8 percent from $12.3 billion in 1983 to $14.3 billion in 1984. Defense spending in Deaf Smith County had increased to $218,000 in 1984 or by 7.9 percent.

Not including grant funds which account for a substantial portion of total federal spending, other departments and agencies of the federal government including the departments of Agriculture, Commerce, Housing and Urban Development, Interior, and Transportation and the Environmental Protection Agency disbursed $10,334,000 in Deaf Smith County during 1984.

While the federal government does not provide a breakdown of these figures in Deaf Smith County, other sources indicate that the Ag Department was one of the largest sources of these funds in 1984.

Other federal spending in Deaf Smith County during fiscal 1984 included $2,125,000 in grant awards. Specific details on all local grants were not provided. However, besides general revenue sharing grants, the largest sources for grant funds in most counties are the Department of Agriculture, Education, Health and Human Services, Housing and Urban Development, Labor and Transportation.

While the total of direct federal spending in Deaf Smith County is substantial, as noted, it does not include another extremely important source of federal money in the county: federal loans and federally-guaranteed loans. These are not included in direct federal spending figures because, as loans, it is presumed that these funds will eventually be repaid to the federal government.

Federal loans and guaranteed loans encompass a variety of programs. These include emergency farm disaster loans, rural electric loans and loan guarantees, Small Business Administration loans, student loans for higher education, community development loans, many of the various housing loan programs, as well as others.

Direct federal loans in Deaf Smith County were $5,014,000 during fiscal 1984 while federally guaranteed loans in the county amounted to $12,094,000. The Ag Department's loan programs include a number of low and moderate income housing loan programs as well as various farm loan programs.

None of the federal spending totals in Deaf Smith County include expenditures made through the United States Postal Service here. The Postal Service's expenditures are no longer considered a part of the federal budget since the Postal Service is considered a separate corporation. Postal Service expenditures in Deaf Smith County for fiscal 1984 are not presently available.

The total of direct and indirect federal spending in Deaf Smith County was slightly more than $49 million during fiscal 1984. It is apparent that federal spending provided one of the largest sources of funds for the economy of the county during that time.

State's budget biggest ever

AUSTIN (AP) — The $37.2 billion state government budget will balance even though it's the biggest the Legislature has ever approved, Comptroller Bob Bullock says.

"This budget fits available revenues like a new pair of shoes — tight and squeaky," Bullock said Friday in certifying the spending plan.

The budget, which takes effect Sept. 1, is 20 percent higher than the $31 billion budget approved by the 1983 Legislature for the 1984-85 fiscal years.

"We're used to setting records in Texas, and we've set another one this morning," Bullock said. "This is the biggest appropriation bill any Texas Legislature has ever passed and any comptroller has ever certified."

Bullock's certifying that the budget will balance clears the way for Gov. Mark White to sign the appropriations measure. Comptroller certification is required under the state Constitution's pay-as-you-go requirements, Bullock noted.

On Thursday, White said he will review the budget legislation and might exercise his power to veto some specific line items in the document.

"I've asked for a copy of the budget. My staff is working on a possible veto of some of those items," he said. "But I have made no decisions on any of those items yet. All areas are going to be subject to review."

Included in the budget Bullock certified is about $260 million to cover most of the 3-percent pay raises state employees will get in each of the next two years, said John Moore, a spokesman for the comptroller. The state agencies are to make up one-third of the second-year raise out of their budgets.

Bullock also said the $37.2 billion spending plan would leave room for the $70 million indigent health care program created by the Legislature

Airline will make Nashville 'big-leaguer'

NEW YORK (AP) — When American Airlines announced it picked Nashville for a new Southeast hub, Nashville Mayor Richard Fulton was understandably ebullient. American, he said, could make Nashville a "big-league city."

American's decision also could lead to a big-league shootout in the Southeast between American and several airlines already established in the region, including Delta, Piedmont and Eastern.

Executives of those airlines and industry trackers agreed it is too early to tell exactly what impact American's Nashville operation will have on its Southeast rivals. The hub is not scheduled to be in full swing until 1987, and much of the effect will depend on what cities American plans to connect service via Nashville, and how often.

But there is no doubt that the expansion in the region by American, one of the nation's largest airlines, will be felt by the other carriers, said Timothy Pettee, an analyst for the investment firm L.F. Rothschild, Unterberg, Towbin.

"While American may not be in direct competition in some of the markets" served by Delta and the others, "the fact that it will have another hub will at least have an indirect competitive effect," Pettee said.

For their part, American's rivals are showing little concern, at least publicly.

HISD school board to meet

Hereford Independent School District board members will meet in regular session Tuesday at 6 p.m. at the school administration building.

Among items listed on the lengthy agenda are the reading of a letter from a Texas Association of School Boards attorney concerning a survey of teachers conducted recently.

Assistant Superintendent Marc Williamson will present a career ladder report, and student test scores will be discussed as well.

Walcott School is expected to appear and request free tuition for its transfer students.

Jubilee Sign-Up

Toni Shakocious, at the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce office, can find a choice spot in the park for Jubilee Junction participants who sign up early. The Jubilee Junction will be set up in Dameron Park on August 17. Already on the program are several musical groups including violin, bluegrass, Mexican-American, and gospel music. For information on setting up a booth or providing entertainment, contact the Chamber.

Doctor tells about adventure in Afghanistan

SAN ANGELO, Texas (AP) — In the middle desk drawer of Dr. J. Preston Darby's office is a worn, crumpled red notebook. It is a reminder of a two-month existence with death, devastation and an unbreakable human will to resist tyranny.

Its pages resemble wet rags that have been hung out to dry. Its creases bear the odor of Afghanistan dust and smoky campfires.

"Sat. May 4. Up and walking by 0400 feeling weak and dirty and miserable. Staggered through irrigated fields in the dark, slipping off the rock fences and generally in a foul mood ... Arrived at base of hill and had gone up very little when I was exhausted. As usual each time I would think I had reached the summit, there was another higher one. Finally on top at 0630 to be greeted by jets, gunships and cannon from Russians. We all hid for a time and then began the vertical down hillgrade, slipping and sliding for a couple of hours ..."

May 4 ended the 54-year-old San Angelo doctor's two-month adventure in Afghanistan, where Moslem rebels are fighting a bitter guerrilla war against occupying Soviet Union troops.

Darby's mission: to set up medical clinics for Afghan refugees. His ultimate purpose: to arouse interest from American sympathizers.

The 80-page notebook is tucked safely away. But Darby reaches for it often, flipping with great care through the dog-eared sheets to relive misery, emotion and danger he never learned about in medical school.

Darby's adventure began with the remote hope that maybe, somehow, someday he would be able to use his talents to help the starving people of Afghanistan. An article in a medical newspaper led him to Robert Simon, a California physician who started a nonprofit organization to sponsor volunteer doctors on three-month missions in Afghanistan.

Because Darby's wife, Pam, was pregnant, he asked to go for only a month. A deal was struck, providing Darby paid the $1,800 plane fare.

Getting a tourist visa to the neighboring country of Pakistan was no problem. Getting into Afghanistan was. The original one-month stay stretched into two.

"All this is highly illegal. There's no legal way to do it," said Darby, 30 pounds lighter than when he set off on his adventure.

Seated behind a polished desk and dressed in a clean, white physician's coat, Darby described his James Bond-like entrance into Afghanistan.

He dyed his hair black, grew a beard, dyed the beard black and wore brown contact lenses to camouflage his pale blue eyes. Then, late in the evening on a cool March night, he slipped into the country, unnoticed among Afghans, a television newsman walking in a camel train.

"I wore a turban and a kameez — it's like a long night shirt — and I looked like an Afghan. I was sitting there in all this costume and one of the Afghans said, 'You look more like an Afghan than me.' So, we fooled them."

The TV newsman was Stan Atkinson from KCRA-TV in Sacramento. His purpose: to tape a documentary on Darby.

Atkinson, also disguised, didn't fool authorities. Officials at a Pakistan checkpoint recognized him as an American, but strong persuasion by the Afghans got him through, Darby said.

During an eight-day stay, Atkinson shot footage of Darby as he established two clinics in villages and treated wounded refugees and sick children. The Union of Afghan Mujahid Doctors, a group of Afghan physicians and others dedicated to helping refugees inside and outside Afghanistan, arranged the mission.

That was the first trip. That was the easy part.

The remainder of Darby's calculated gamble dealt him a hand filled with few aces and more than enough wild cards. He scaled 18,000-foot mountains, plunged through freezing snow, struggled with malnutrition, hid from Soviet helicopter gunships and thought more than once he was going to die.

"Sat. April 20. We departed at 0800 for the climb after canned cheese for breakfast and I felt great ... We climbed and climbed but there seemed to be no end. Each time I would reach a summit, another higher one was ahead. Dyspnea (shortness of breath) and fatigue were overwhelming even with Naim pulling me. I felt as if I couldn't go on and prayed fervently to get me back to Pam and the children ... I finally reached the summit ..."

That was the day, above all others, Darby thought he would not see his family again. Members of the Afghan doctors' group had convinced Darby after the first trip that he could do more good by visiting the key military commander in the Panjsher Valley.

The valley is the hottest war zone in the country. It is in northeastern Afghanistan and is the scene of the most savage fighting between Soviet soldiers and Afghan rebels. The 14-day journey to the valley started out badly and didn't improve.

"Somebody apparently tipped off a Pakistani checkpoint on the second trip, and we got stopped and I got arrested before I ever got out of Pakistan," Darby recalled. "They took me to two or three different courts. They took me to one of the lower courts, and he (an official) kept saying, 'Where are you from?' and I just looked at him kind of dumb-like."

Speaking in his limited Persian vocabulary — quickly enough to hide his Southern accent — Darby answered that he was Nuristani. Nuristan is a village in Afghanistan.

Finally, frustrated and resigned to the fact his identity had been discovered, Darby blurted, "Texas, U.S.A."

After facing a judge at a higher court, Darby talked his way into a release, but the experience didn't faze him. Within minutes he and his Afghan friends were passing another checkpoint on their way to meet legendary commander Massaud in the Panjsher Valley.

"The rest of the trip was terribly strenuous physically. This is high mountain country. I'm talking about Himalayas now. I'd hurt my toes falling down a mountain on the previous trip so I had to tape my toenails back on. We walked. We climbed. I'm talking climbing hand over hand up these mountains," he said.

"The climate changed and the snow got soft so we had to flounder around in it. And the streams that would normally trickle became torrents. I passed out a couple of times. I'm not a Bible thumper, but God got me over the side of that mountain. I never did feel like the Russians were going to kill me, but I thought physically I might die."

Gritty cornbread, grass, mulberries and an occasional boiled chicken or nibble of goat cheese containing bits of hair and bugs kept the climbers alive. Diarrhea was an unpleasant but common ailment for Darby, who was not used to the fatty diet. In addition to malnutrition and weakness, lice infested the group.

The creatures infested their unwashed hair, the clothes they never tumbled in bags that never left their sight.

Mountain tribes do not know the convenience of electricity, sewer systems or wooden homes. They eke out existences in mud huts or caves, use suspension bridges to cross rivers and have little knowledge of the wheel.

"To move a rock they dig and dig around it and then get a long pole and all the men push and roll it to where they want it to go," Darby said.

Entire villages have been destroyed by bombs, crops destroyed by fire and animals killed by Soviet fighters. People have been tortured and there are reports of children's hands being blown off by explosives that resemble toys and detonate when picked up.

"The Russians can't defeat them militarily, so they're trying to starve them out. They're hoping they'll either leave or surrender. But they'll never surrender," Darby said. "The only way the Russians will win is to kill every man, woman and child."

Darby's experience with the Afghans and the 2½-day meeting with Massaud convinced him the Soviets cannot win. Darby said he is the first American doctor ever to go to the Panjsher Valley and talk to Massaud.

"He's a combination of John Kennedy, Robin Hood and Jesse James. He's defeated everything they've thrown at him," Darby said. "I have infinite respect for those people. They're very proud, hearty, fierce people. I'm proud to have Afghans as friends, but I would be very worried to have them as enemies."

The Afghans couldn't say the same of all Americans. But the virgin ground on which Darby successfully tread speaks well of the Afghans' feelings for him.

He brought back their spirit. But he left them his medical knowledge, his clothes, his binoculars and, most of all, his compassion.

The full suitcase he carried when he left the United States was filled only with a worn-out walking stick he carried throughout the trip, a hand-woven carpet he bought for his wife, a jar of honey given to him by a village chieftain, a pistol that looks like a fountain pen and a sleeping bag in which he sneaked home a defused butterfly bomb. Wheat fields and grassy meadows in Afghanistan are littered with the deadly explosives carried by Soviet planes. The bombs detonate when stepped on.

The weapon was almost detected by customs agents as they searched Darby's bag before he returned home. Five words ended the search.

"I said, 'Now, you have lice, too,'" Darby said, illustrating his best Afghan stare.

"The Afghans don't want anybody to do it for them. They say, 'You give us the stuff and we'll take care of it.' Maybe our government will wake up."

Meanwhile, he has promised his snow skis to the next eager taker.

Breaking Camp

Campfire day campers broke camp Friday afternoon following a week of fun at Veterans Park and the Bull Barn. "The Magic of Friendship" was the theme of the camp which included nature studies, a visit from a magician and studies on Indians.

Mexico Bound

Father Joe Bixenman of San Jose Church met Friday with part of a group of parishioners planning to leave Monday for Mexico city. Their five-day stay will include a visit to the Shrine of Our Lady of Guadalupe. The group includes Father Jim O'Conner, Bacilio and Josie Rodriguez, Tachito and Blasa Mancillas, Consuelo Castaneda, Ramona Torres, Jacinta Mendoza, Victoria Casteneda, Gervacia Gaitan, Guadalupe Moreno, Veronica Chavez, Dora De Los Santos, and Esperanza Mendez. Money for the trip was earned through fund-raising projects, including selling "a lot of tamales."

NASHVILLE

"We're scarcely panic-stricken," said Piedmont Airlines spokesman Donald McGuire. Piedmont, based in Winston-Salem, N.C., has successfully turned Charlotte, N.C., into one of its major connecting centers, where it operates 20 percent of its 870 daily flights.

Atlanta serves as the primary hub and headquarters of Delta Air Lines, which "welcomes all competition," said spokesman Jim Ewing. "We don't know where they'll be," he said of American, "but we'll be ready."

At Eastern Airlines, whose main hub is Miami but which also competes heavily with Delta in Atlanta, "we feel extremely confident we'll continue to maintain our strong presence in the Southeast," said spokesman Mark Wegel.

In other developments this past week:

—General Motors Corp. won the right to purchase Hughes Aircraft Co., a leading defense electronics concern. GM's $5 billion offer was chosen by the private Howard Hughes Medical Institute, which has owned Hughes Aircraft since 1953.

—The nation's civilian unemployment rate held at 7.3 percent in May for the fourth straight month, the longest stagnant period in at least 14 years, the Labor Department said.

—The leading U.S. automakers said their late-May sales fell 4.9 percent from a strong year-earlier period. But the companies' sales still edged up 0.5 percent for the full month.

—Major U.S. retailers' May sales were mixed compared with a year earlier, with Sears, Roebuck & Co., the biggest chain, reporting a 1.3 percent decline. Analysts said the results indicated a slowing of consumer spending.

Congress urged to tinker with plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Critics and supporters of President Reagan's tax overhaul plan are urging Congress to tinker with the three individual income tax rates that are a major part of the president's proposal.

The conservative National Taxpayers Union wants the rates to be cut even lower than Reagan proposed, while the liberal Citizens for Tax Justice seeks a new, higher top rate to apply to the wealthiest Americans.

The two public interest groups joined a half-dozen others Friday in testifying before the House Ways and Means Committee on suggested improvements to Reagan's plan.

James D. Davidson, chairman of the National Taxpayers Union, said Reagan's plan is "an important step in the right direction — an improvement on the current tax system." The organization would probably support adoption in its present form, even though it thinks the measure can be improved, Davidson said.

Other organizations found less to like about the bill.

"Some of the provisions ... like the business depreciation system and the capital-gains preference ... are such bonanzas for profitable corporations and rich individuals that they almost defeat the whole principle of tax reform," said Joseph Goffman of Public Citizen, a Ralph Nader group.

Common Cause and Public Citizen said Congress should throw out Reagan's plan and start fresh with its own.

Reagan's proposal would reduce tax rates for individuals and corporations, boost the personal exemption and pay for the changes by restricting or eliminating several deductions. The present maximum tax rate of 50 percent for the wealthiest individuals would be cut to 35 percent; moderate income people would pay 25 percent, and most people would pay a 15 percent rate.

'Y' summer children's activities to start

Summer children's activities will start June 10 at the Hereford and Vicinity YMCA.

Pre-registration will be held June 3-7 for those who plan to regularly participate so the Y may better plan activities. However, drop-ins will be welcomed. The program will run through August 16.

The activities will include supervised games, exercise, field trips and camp-outs. Children will need to bring sack lunches.

On Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays the children will meet from 9 a.m. until noon. On Tuesdays and Thursdays the session will be from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m.

City native to be Scout jamboree band director

Bill Nelson, son of Deaf Smith County Judge Glen Nelson and his wife Helen, will again serve as band director at the National Boy Scout Jamboree.

The annual event is planned for July 18-31 at Fort A.P. Hill in Virginia, which is near Washington, D.C. Nelson will direct a band composed of 150 carefully selected Eagle scouts who will play for flag raising ceremonies and give public performance.

Three other Texas band directors will serve as Nelson's assistants—Darron Ladd of Borger, Jim Little of Perryton and Kirk McKenzie of Kermit.

The Hereford native, himself a longtime Boy Scout and scout leader, was first asked to direct the band in 1977. Directors stay in tents during the jamboree, just as the scouts do.

Nelson attended West Texas State University and the University of Wisconsin, and has served as director of bands at Olton, Ralls, Tulla and Saguach, Colo.

BUDGET

during a three-day special session. The bill died when the regular session adjourned May 27, after the governor told lawmakers at the last minute he would veto a cigarette tax increase which they had planned to use for funding medical care for the poor.

But Bullock said there isn't anything extra in the budget.

"I figure we'll have only enough left over after this to cover the costs of the indigent health care measure," he said.

Partners in the People Business

"Partners in the People Business" is a slogan used by Hereford YMCA. Add the Jim Hill Estate to that partnership.

The Jim Hill Estate is a big supporter of the YMCA building program, helping start the building fund drive in 1983 with a donation of $50,000. The "Y" successfully completed its $925,000 building campaign last August, with the community raising $850,000 and the Mabee Foundation of Tulsa presenting a challenge grant of $75,000 to put the drive over the top.

Now, the Jim Hill Estate has issued another challenge in the form of a $25,000 matching grant to help the "Y" pay for furnishings and equipment for the new facility. If the YMCA raises $50,000 toward its goal of $75,000, the Hill Estate will donate the remaining $25,000.

The response of the community has been great, but the YMCA still needs $13,000 in order to qualify for the matching grant.

The YMCA board is confident in the ability of the community to meet this new challenge. Directors feel that a number of persons who were not contacted during the building campaign will come forth with contributions to help meet the equipment goal. Many $50 and $100 donations have already been received, as can be seen on the donor list which is posted in the YMCA lobby.

Under the leadership of the "Y" board and the assistance of the United Way, the YMCA has strived to provide the people of Hereford and the vicinity with programs and services to enrich their lives.

Citizens can provide the "Y" with a real vote of confidence by becoming involved in this worthwhile and necessary fund drive. Anyone interested in participating can contact the YMCA office or any board member.

Grown men are allowed to cry

The man's friend, Jennifer, wrote me a letter and told me about his problem.

These sort of things make you sick, but they happen and then what is left to do is somehow find a way to cope.

The man had two daughters. They were bright and they were beautiful. One was 16. The other was 18.

Last year the girls were in an auto accident. They were hit by a drunk driver.

The 18-year-old died at the scene, in the arms of a young minister who was driving past the accident and stopped to see if he could help.

The 16-year-old lingered for a week. Then doctors determined she was brain dead and she was disconnected from the life support system.

In a week the man had buried both his daughters.

"All his life," Jennifer wrote, "he had been the pillar of strength for his family, his church and his many friends.

"He had never weakened in his support for them when they needed him. I guess that's why he didn't show us the grief he knew that was inside him.

"I never even saw him cry. I guess he was just trying to hold on so we wouldn't see that big, crumbling heart he was hiding."

You can't hide a heart like that for very long. In the year since his daughter's deaths, the man has had two heart attacks. Jennifer is convinced it is his grief that is causing his health to decline steadily.

In the letter Jennifer also asked me to do something I don't normally like to do, and that is to use this column to give somebody a message.

Some people write and want me to wish their mothers happy birthday in this space. Others want me to write something as a practical joke on some of their friends.

I would have to go out and find a real job if I resorted to things like that.

But I'm going to break my rule just this once. The letter almost pleaded with me.

"He reads your column," Jennifer wrote. "I know you're not Dear Abby, but maybe there is something you can say to our friend.

"It's time for him to realize that grown men do cry; that it's OK to let grief and sorrow flow out like a river among family and friends.

"The doctors don't know what to do about him, but I think there are just some remedies that don't come from a bottle or an operating room."

Jennifer is right. I'm no Dear Abby, nor a counselor, nor a minister, nor a psychiatrist, but if the man is reading this column—and he certainly would know he is the subject of it by this time—maybe I can make a few points.

It is obvious your friends love you, sir, and they care about you. By not sharing your grief with them; by not leaning on them in time of your greatest need, you are hurting them.

It hurts them to see you unwilling to share your burden with them. It hurts them that you are depriving them the ability to help you.

The heart is an amazing mechanism. Give it half a chance and it will mend itself, and the best place to start is to put your arms around somebody who loves you and cry.

Contrary to what a number of us dumb clunks think, tears often are a grown man's best friend.

Bootleg Philosopher

Editor's Note: The Bootleg Philosopher on his Deaf Smith County grass farm says the Ag Department is mixed up on some statistics.

If the Agriculture Department figures are correct, the care and feeding of a child now costs almost as much as the care and feeding of a congressman.

According to its figures, to raise a child from birth to age 18 costs $96,484.

It's enough to make parents with three or four kids file for bankruptcy. But I examined the figures more carefully, like media people examining the President's tax reform plans the next morning after the glow of the TV speech the night before wore off.

I believe the child care-cost figures were developed by a defense contractor accustomed to figuring things on a cost-plus basis. Probably figured dolls at $4,000 apiece and baby food at $95 a can.

I can't see how having a child under foot can add to the cost of the mortgage. Heating a room costs the same whether there's a child or tow in it or not. The electricity to run a TV set costs the same regardless of how many people are staring at it. Of course, kids can add to the maintenance costs of a house and the front and back yard and the surrounding area.

Among some of the other figures the report gives was $15,788 for transportation costs during the child's first 18 years. Even if the kid is to be hauled from daylight to dark to kindergarten, to the babysitter's, ballet classes, band practice, the doctor, the dentist, the psychoanalyst and possibly the probation officer, and later on has to have a car of his own or he'll throw a fit, I doubt if very many parents spend $15,788 for child transportation.

It used to be that a child paid part of his way by milking a cow or feeding the hogs or chopping cotton or plowing after school and on weekends, which cut down on his overhead and made him a fairly good investment. But if it costs $96,484 to get him to age 18, with college still ahead, you can see that financially speaking a child isn't what you'd call a sound investment.

The Ag Department was mixed up. The $96,484 isn't what it cost to raise a kid. What it was trying to say is that it costs $96,484 to raise $86,000 worth of wheat.

Yours faithfully,
J.A.

The Penultimate Word

THE SHELL GAME

They say there is a sucker born every minute. Unfortunately there is a sucker plucker born every half minute. By the time I find my sucker he has already been plucked. I am convinced that Shakespear was wrong. The whole world is not a stage, the whole world is a giant con game and I am left looking for missing peas under empty walnut shells.

I talked with two intelligent enterprising men not long ago. They had decided to run an ad in the newspaper offering an answer to any question for $4.00. The fact that their answer to most questions would be "I don't know" did not seem to phase them at all. We had a long discussion about lies, truth, and technicalities. When I left they were still convinced that they were not lying. They would give an answer to every question. As long as they did not say the answer there was no lie.

I thought I was going to argue these two birds into a pile of contradictions and leave them begging for mercy. They reminded me that their model for this kind of ethics was the government of the good old U.S. of A. I was sunk.

I may be weird, but somehow I think the government has me chasing peas under walnut shells. They must be doing it with mirrors. They tell me inflation has been cured. They quote all kinds of statistics to prove it. I am sure they are right, but stuff still costs more than it did a year ago. I guess that isn't inflation, that's just higher prices. The stuff I sell is worth less. I guess we have a purchaser inflation and a seller depression.

The other night the President smiled so sweetly and, with great logic, explained how everyone in the world was going to pay less tax and we were going to raise more money. Oh, he did mention in passing that some Americans were going to be given the marvelous opportunity of carrying more of the load and thus enjoying more of the experience.

Now, I love my President. I think he is the best hider of the pea we have had up there in a long time. What do you want to bet I will be under the wrong walnut shell when the tax reform starts?

I think I will go help those guys answer questions.

Warm fuzzies,

Hair raising tales

By RICHARD L. LESHER
President

WASHINGTON — Just when you thought it was safe to pay taxes again, here comes the sequel: "Jaws of the IRS II."

It's brought to you by the same folks who recently gave taxpayers the auto log regulations — you remember, the ones that would have business auto users jotting down mileage at every stop sign. That first episode has just concluded with Congress agreeing to soften the bite of the auto rules on the time and resources of entrepreneurs.

This happy ending represents a victory for the U.S. Chamber of Commerce. We were the first to call to the IRS' attention just how onerous these rules were. And our membership, to understate the case, surely brought the same to Congress' attention. But it's also a victory for common sense — because everyone knows lost time means lost income, and that means less revenue, not more.

But as that scary episode ended, and we settled back into our seats, new horrors burst to the surface. A new computer system employed by the IRS, it was reported, slowed the processing of tax returns. Meanwhile, the computer was also reportedly sending "dunning" letters falsely informing taxpayers of additional liability — and warning them to pay up or else. Finally, IRS employees allegedly have been destroying returns and other documents — or example, by squirreling them away in the women's restroom in the Philadelphia Center.

The IRS reacted in typical bureaucratic fashion: deny everything, then investigate. But soon, confirmations flowed like a river.

Yes, the IRS was behind in their processing — so far behind, the Commerce Department estimates, that $6.8 billion in unpaid refunds helped slow first quarter economic growth.

Yes, admitted IRS Commissioner Roscoe Egger, 5,000 to 6,000 letters were destroyed in Texas — but no returns.

But then the smoking gun — the General Accounting Office said internal IRS reports confirmed the restroom story, and added that 150,000 taxpayers received incorrect delinquency notices.

Mistakes and misunderstandings occur in government, as in all institutions. But such failings are greatly magnified at the IRS by two factors.

The first factor is the immense power of the IRS. The agency can attach just about any source of income or seize any piece of property of a delinquent taxpayer under a tax lien; it stands first in line in bankruptcy. And this power is backed by an aggressive force of investigators and collectors. An independent commission organized by the Chamber-affiliated grass roots group Citizen's Choice found that IRS agents abuse their authority by "obtaining information from the taxpayer ostensibly to discuss payment arrangements, then using the information to levy; proceeding first with a seizure without negotiating with the taxpayer first; and even (through) outright harassment of taxpayers and their families."

The second factor is the IRS attitude that it has first crack at the national income — and what's left over belongs to the taxpayer. That helps explain actions like the auto log rules, in which the IRS overreaches to ensure that not one speck of its "share" escapes its grasp. And an agency with that attitude might be expected to be less than concerned about errors that lead to delays in the taxpayers' getting their "share."

This horror double-feature has surely undermined what little confidence still reposes in the taxpayer about the IRS. So, Commissioner Egger, we taxpayers are watching carefully to see how the computer snafu and its attendant abuses are resolved — and we hope Congress is watching, too.

Drug trafficking increasing in Rio Grande Valley

EDITOR'S NOTE — For years, South Texas law enforcement officials have chased drug traffickers along the Rio Grande. They say the problem is getting worse. Outmanned, outgunned and outspent by narcotics smugglers, Texas authorities are now arming themselves with machine guns and preparing for a new wave of smugglers driven away from California and Florida by tough task forces.

— By DAVID SEDENO
Associated Press Writer

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP) — Cameron County Sheriff Alex Perez began pulling the cellophane wrapper from the quarter-pound of marijuana, which was rolled like two giant cigars.

"This is the way they do it now," Perez said. "They wrap it over and over again. That way it's harder to detect. Even some dogs have trouble smelling it when smugglers come to the (international) bridge."

Smoke from burning marijuana rose behind Perez as deputies opened the door of an outdoor incinerator and threw in more boxes of the illegal drug.

Authorities were able to keep this $1 million payoff from making its way to San Antonio, Houston or Dallas. But Perez said more is on the way.

"When I was running for office, I said I would clean up the county if I was elected," Perez said. "I don't think you can control it 100 percent, but we can control it to a minimum if we have more monies funded to the law enforcement system."

Perez is not alone in his request for more funds to combat the narcotics business.

For years drug traffickers from the United States, Mexico, Central and South America have smuggled their narcotics across the Rio Grande, from Brownsville to El Paso and all the way to California.

But authorities say that successful anti-smuggling task forces in California and Florida have forced some kingpins to shift their smuggling efforts to deep South Texas.

"Because of the efforts in the Florida area, we have been given information by our intelligence that Columbians and Cubans have relocated here," said Ken Miley of the McAllen district office of the Drug Enforcement Administration.

And favorable conditions for drug production in Mexico only add to the problem, authorities said. The warm climate in the fertile Mexican state of Tamaulipas, which borders South Texas, improved irrigation systems for illicit crops throughout Mexico and corruption among Mexican officials all make the enforcement job in Texas tougher, they said.

Drug traffickers are becoming more sophisticated, using jets, high-speed boats, gasoline tanker trucks and buses to peddle their wares, authorities said.

Millions of dollars worth of marijuana, heroin, cocaine, barbiturates and methamphetamines are smuggled into the United States through Mexico each year.

About 38 percent of the heroin and 30 percent of cocaine entering the United States comes from Mexico, which now ranks third in the world production of marijuana, authorities said.

Some Mexican authorities have died in recent months in their effort to combat drug trafficking. Five people, including four Tamaulipas Judicial Police officers, were killed when they tried to stop a tanker truck with more than a ton of marijuana outside of San Fernando, located 70 miles south of Brownsville.

Authorities in Reynosa confiscated the marijuana and arrested 11 people believed involved in a drug ring, but the assailants are believed to have fled into the United States.

Last week, Reynosa authorities were involved in a shootout with drug traffickers transporting another ton of marijuana in a stolen tour bus. No one was injured, but the traffickers used machine guns to slow down authorities and escaped.

"Drug trafficking organizations have us outmanned, outgunned and can outspend us," said Miley. "We're riding jackasses in a jet age."

Authorities also are hampered by the South Texas environment — thick brush and water — which they cannot control and not enough officers to patrol remote areas and the coast.

But law enforcement officials are trying to change that imbalance and federal, state and local authorities have met in Brownsville to discuss the possibility of reorganizing an anti-drug smuggling task force like one in Florida.

Also, Cameron County authorities soon will be equipped with Uzi semiautomatic weapons to protect themselves against armed smugglers and are seeking federal grants to fund more undercover operations. For now, they are using AR-15 assault rifles during narcotics surveillance.

Perez said the slaying of DEA agent Enrique Camarena Salazar in Guadalajara not only made Americans more aware of the drug-smuggling problem, but it also may have created more drug trafficking rings.

He said the arrests of two Mexican drug overlords in Camarena's slaying may have splintered off their underlings. Those smugglers have been keeping a low profile and soon will be moving the illicit crops that have been stored.

Even without the new drug traffickers, authorities have been busy.

In the past six months, Cameron County officials have confiscated about $3 million worth of narcotics, including 3,000 pounds of marijuana, arrested 40 people and seized 10 vehicles, $60,000 in cash and property valued at $200,000.

In sparsely populated and policed Starr County, authorities have seized almost $500,000 worth of narcotics in the past six months.

The county was notorious several years ago for having an abundance of narcotics smugglers, but Sheriff

Gene Falcon said that has changed.

"I think anybody that lives in the border counties has problems," he said. "Unfortunately, we made kind of a bad name for ourselves and it kind of stuck to us. I don't see we're worse off than anybody else. We had that reputation there for a while."

Falcon, a former Department of Public Safety trooper who worked on a drug task force in the Rio Grande Valley, said there are more deputies than before, but they have to patrol other cities which do not have their own police force.

"We have more employees than those years. Unfortunately, we can't concentrate in working narcotics only," Falcon said.

In the last six months, the DEA has seized $14 million in drug-related assets in South Texas, including a Lear jet owned by Rafael Caro Quintero, Mexico's reputed drug overlord arrested in Camarena's slaying.

"We're continuing our effort at immobilizing those at the highest levels through arrests and seizures," said Miley, whose office directs operations from Brownsville to Laredo. "We're confiscating a lot of assets — dope derived profits."

"The only way we can hurt them is to take away their liberty and profits," he said. "We're discovering more assets everyday — that we're starting to process and to seize profits at a future date."

Drug smuggling activity in Texas is not limited to the Valley, authorities said. Last week, DEA agents said they cracked a ring allegedly operating from Addison Airport north of Dallas under the guise of an oil company.

DEA agents in border areas have been cautious in the past months after Camarena's slaying and after reported threats to U.S. federal agents. The DEA office no longer has a sign to identify it and some agents refuse to talk to reporters.

After Camarena was kidnapped last February, U.S. and Mexican officials exchanged harsh words.

U.S. officials said Mexico was not doing enough to arrest those suspected in the kidnapping and ordered thorough inspections of every car entering the United States to pressure the Mexican government. Mexican officials countered that the U.S. should do something to curtail the American demand for narcotics.

Cooperation, officials from both countries have said, is the key to controlling the problem and the Mexican general attorney's office has said it would begin enforcing its drug laws more actively.

Last month, U.S. officials, headed by Sen. Phil Gramm, R-Texas, traveled to Mexico to discuss finance, trade and narcotics problems.

At the same time, U.S. Ambassador to Mexico John Gavin used the narcotics problem as his theme during commencement exercises at Pan American University in Edinburg.

"Patently, no amount of money and programs will solve the problem of drug trafficking unless there is a national commitment in Mexico and the United States to fight," Gavin said. "Unless both our nations commit to this campaign, we shall not only not find a solution, we shall continue to be a part of the problem."

The DEA's Miley said law enforcement agencies are hampered by lack of funds, but most of all by a criminal justice system that is not consistent.

"Law enforcement is kind of a trite response to the drug problem, mainly because there are not enough jails to put them in," he said. "Prosecutors plea bargain. It's a revolving-door justice system where nobody goes to jail."

Perez, a justice of the peace for eight years before becoming sheriff last year, also criticized the judicial system. "Plea bargaining is good in some cases, because some of them give us good information that leads to other narcotics arrests," he said. "But I think there does need to be stiffer penalties."

NBA to consider league expansion

NEW YORK (AP) — National Basketball Association owners will consider a plan to expand their league at meetings later this month, Commissioner David Stern said.

Stern told the New York Times that the financially resurgent league will consider adding several teams for the 1987-88 season. Several owners have said that expansion could come a year earlier.

"I have always said that we will discuss expansion when all of our teams are stable and making money," Stern said, adding that the NBA, which currently has 23 teams, has been approaching that goal in recent seasons.

Three years ago, there were 13 NBA teams in financial trouble, and the league was considering consolidation. Only six clubs made money in 1981-82, Stern said. That number rose to eight in 1982-83 and 11 in 1983-84, he added.

"When the final tally is in for this season," he said, "we project a profitability for 15 teams, and hopefully, by the time we are ready to expand, all of our existing teams will have reached that category."

The league's attendance and television ratings have both been on the upswing.

Miami, which is planning to build an 18,000-seat arena, heads the list of possible expansion sites, the Times reported.

Discussions also have been held with groups seeking to put teams in Minneapolis; Charlotte, N.C.; Santa Ana, Calif.; and Toronto.

Also under consideration is a move to return a franchise to Kansas City, Mo., which has lost the Kings to

The 1924 World Series went seven games between Washington and the New York Giants, and game seven was tied 3-3 in the bottom of the 12th inning. The game was decided by a pebble. How? Washington's Muddy Ruel was on second base with a double. Teammate Earl McNeel hit the ball down the third base line. Fred Linstrom of the Giants was set to field the grounder, but just as he reached for it, the ball hit a pebble, bounded over his head, and Ruel scored the winning run.

Soccer signup deadline nears

Just a few days remain for young athletes to sign up for the soccer leagues at the Hereford and Vicinity YMCA.

The registration deadline is Wednesday, June 12. Children in the first through sixth grades may sign up to play in the leagues. Practice will start in the leagues as early as June 20, and league play is scheduled to begin the week of June 29.

Youth will be in leagues according to what grade they will be in during the 1985-86 school year. If there are enough youth registered for the leagues, separate leagues for boys and girls will be formed.

Horseshoe tourney set June 22

A horseshoe tournament that will benefit the National Kidney Foundation of West Texas has been scheduled on June 22 at Sunday Ranch, south of Amarillo.

Registration and pre-tournament warmups start at 9:30 a.m., and no entries will be accepted after 11 a.m., the time for the start of the tournament.

Divisions in the tournament, and the entry fees for the divisions, are: men's singles and women's singles, $7.50; open doubles, $10 per team; and 16-year-old and under, $5. Each participant must bring his own horseshoes.

Trophies or prizes will be awarded to the top three in each division.

The Rho Alpha Sorority of Epsilon Sigma Alpha International is sponsor of the tournament. Sunday Ranch is located just north of FM 1151 (Claude highway), between South Washington Street and South Osage Street.

For more information on the tournament, call Ken Young at 373-3007, or Mike Milligan at 352-2439.

Entry deadline is Tuesday

T.A.C. track meet scheduled June 15

Tuesday is the entry deadline for the Hereford YMCA T.A.C. Invitational Track and Field Meet, which is scheduled for Saturday, June 15.

The meet, to be held at Whiteface Stadium, begins at 9 a.m. with the field events. The meet is sanctioned by the West Texas Association of T.A.C. The runnings event begin at 10 a.m.

Anyone registered with the West Texas Association of the T.A.C. for 1985 is eligible for entry in the meet. Entry fees are $3 for the first event, and $1 for each additional event. Entries should be sent to Weldon Knabe, Hereford and Vicinity YMCA, 500 East 15th Street, Hereford, TX, 79045.

Each athlete's year of birth will determine which he or she competes in. The bantam and midget division entrants will be limited to three events, and entrants in all other divisions are limited to four events.

The years of birth for entrants in the various divisions are: bantam division, 1975 and later; midget division, 1973 to 1974; youth division, 1971 to 1972; intermediate division, 1969 to 1970; young men's and young women's division, 1967 to 1968; and open division, 1964 or before.

All members of a relay team must be members of the same track club. Late entries will be $3 per event, and will be taken only to fill heats.

A scratch meet is set for 7:30 a.m. to 8:30 a.m. on the day of the meet at the east concession stand. Coaches must be present if changes need to be made.

Ribbons will be presented to the first, second, third, fourth, fifth and sixth place finishers in each event.

Teams or clubs must furnish their own equipment for field events. No spikes longer than one-fourth inch will be allowed at the meet.

For more information on the track meet, call the Hereford and Vicinity YMCA at 364-6990.

After the registration deadline, there will be a registration period in which youth may sign up to fill vacancies on teams.

All players must be officially registered and pay registration fees before they will be assigned to a team.

Registration fees are $6 for YMCA members and $12 for non-members of the YMCA. Fees include team shirts, awards, and use of equipment.

In addition to youth signing up for the leagues, the YMCA needs parents of youth in the leagues, friends or others to volunteer to coach the teams.

Anyone interested in coaching a soccer team is asked to call the program director at the YMCA at 364-6990.

Defeat Boston 120-111 in Game 5

Lakers gain upper hand against Celtics, 3-2

By KEN PETERS AP Sports Writer
 INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Although the Los Angeles Lakers have gained the upper hand in their National Basketball Association championship series against Boston, the Celtics have history and the home crowd on their side. The Lakers defeated the Celtics 120-111 in Game 5 Friday night at the Forum to take a 3-2 edge in the best-of-seven championship series, and can capture the crown by winning either Sunday or Tuesday. But, after three consecutive games at the Forum, the series now shifts back to Boston Garden, where the championship will be determined. And Boston, 8-0 against the Lakers in previous NBA title series, has never lost the deciding game of the championships on their home court where 15 title banners hang proudly from the rafters. Los Angeles forward James Worthy, who scored 33 points in Friday night's victory, was asked if the bad experiences of past Laker teams in Boston Garden might be detrimental to this team.

"If anything, it'll give us an edge," he replied. "We're playing for the Laker organization, for the guys who lost it those years as well as ourselves." Worthy, Kareem Abdul-Jabbar and Earvin "Magic" Johnson led the scoring for the Lakers in the fifth game victory, as they built up a 17-point lead in the third quarter, then let Boston to within 99-95 with seven minutes remaining in the game before spurting away again in the final minutes. Abdul-Jabbar had 36 points, seven rebounds and seven assists, and Johnson had 26 points, 17 assists and six rebounds for the Lakers. Robert Parish led Boston with 26 points, while Kevin McHale had 24 — 18 in the first half — and Dennis Johnson 22. Larry Bird scored 20, 18 in the second half. "We are the first team to get the chance to win the title," said Lakers Coach Pat Riley of his club's 3-2 advantage. "We are going to come out tough Sunday." Bird, who helped ignite the Celtics' late rally that fell just short, said, "Everybody made mistakes, so it's a team loss — from the coaches down to the last guy. "Right now, they're in control," Bird said of the Lakers. "I know we'll be ready for Game 6; I just hope we don't have a letdown for Game 7." While the Riley said there won't be much time for either team to prepare for the sixth game since both are going to be flying most of today, he'll at least have an edge on Boston Coach K.C. Jones. Jones didn't even see most of the last half of the fifth game, drawing two technical fouls and an automatic ejection early in the third period. Riley said he figured Jones intended to get kicked out, since his team was far behind at the time and needed some inspiration. But Jones said that he was merely questioning the referee. Bird, however, said, "It was going to be a blowout if he didn't get thrown out, so it was a good move on K.C.'s part. It's probably the best move he's made in a long time."

Club Queen and Runnerup

A queen contest was held recently for members of the Hereford Riders Club. Chasity Rickman, right, was named the club queen for the 1985-86 year, and Lacey Walker, left, was the runnerup. The contest was held along with a club cookout.

Riders club has cookout, queen contest

A cookout and queen contest were held recently for members of the Hereford Riders Club at the arena. A captain and co-captain were also elected for the 1985-86 year. Eight girls entered the queen competition, which had three judges. Girls were judged on poise, friendliness, wearing western clothing, and horsemanship. Chasity Rickman was named club queen for 1985-86, and Lacey Walker was the runnerup. Other girls entered in the queen competition were Jamie Simpson, Carey Smith, Cree Futrell, Cheyenne Futrell, Laura Futrell, and Mica Harland. The junior riders elected Cody Gabel as their captain for 1985-86, and Michelle Meyer was elected as co-captain.

America's first organized sport can be "tracked" back to New Amsterdam in 1664—horse racing.

SMU to appeal NCAA findings

DALLAS (AP) — Southern Methodist has decided not to accept an NCAA committee's findings and charges against its football program and instead will appeal the case this summer, University President L. Donald Shields says.

SMU won't accept the NCAA Committee of Infractions' findings and will appeal to the 44-member NCAA Council when it meets Aug. 14-16 in Boston, Shields said Friday.

He said school officials would have no further comment until the appeals process is complete, and details of the committee's findings would not be released until then.

The NCAA has been investigating the recruiting practices of the Mustangs' football program for 26 months, including allegations of illegal inducements for prospects that included cash, cars and employment for relatives.

Shields was informed of the committee's findings and recommendations in a letter last week.

"... I plan to request that the NCAA Council review certain findings and recommendations of the NCAA Committee on Infractions concerning allegations of NCAA violations involving the SMU intercollegiate football program," according to Friday's statement.

David Berst, the NCAA's director of enforcement, said that more than half of appeals result in "substantial changes" in either the findings or penalties.

"But in the two most recent appeals, involving USC (University of Southern California) and Florida, there wasn't a significant change in either," Berst told The Dallas Morning News Friday.

The Dallas Times Herald earlier this week quoted sources as saying an appeal would be the first step toward a possible lawsuit challenging the NCAA's enforcement procedures.

If SMU is put on probation, it would be the sixth time since 1958. That would place the Mustangs behind only Wichita State, which has been placed on probation an NCAA-record seven times.

SMU's most recent period of probation lasted from June 1981 to June 1983, with one year of bowl and television sanctions.

Athletic Director Bob Hitch and head football Coach Bobby Collins each have clauses in their contracts saying they can be fired if they knowingly commit violations of NCAA rules.

Of the 151 cases that have resulted in public penalties against NCAA institutions since 1973, only 40 have been appealed.

In all five classes

State baseball titles decided

AUSTIN (AP) — Victoria Stroman, DeSoto, Sweeny, Riviera and Colmesneil baseball teams were champions of Texas schoolboy baseball following the conclusion of the state championship tournament.

Victoria Stroman won the 5A title with a 3-0 decision over Pasadena Rayburn. DeSoto beat New Braunfels Canyon, 7-2, in Class 4A. Sweeny defeated Linden Kildare 6-3 in Class 3A and Riviera Kaufer downed Coppell 8-1 in Class 2A. Colmesneil trounced Fayetteville 12-0 in Class 1A.

Edwin Bell had a two-run double in the fourth inning of their 3-0 victory over Pasadena Rayburn in the Class 5A title game.

It was a very productive first trip to the state tournament for Stroman as they came away with the title in a game that saw one good defensive play after another.

Brad Weber and Pat Foster scattered four hits and DeSoto scored four runs in the second inning as the Eagles beat New Braunfels Canyon, 7-2.

DeSoto won its last state title in 1979, but had been runner-up in 1980, 1983 and 1984.

Sweeny executed a perfect squeeze play to ignite a three-run sixth inning and win the Class 3A title.

With one out in the sixth and Sweeny leading 2-1 with the bases loaded, James McReynolds laid down a suicide bunt that scored Marcus Ramirez from third. While McReynolds was being thrown out at first, David Harrison scored from second to give the Bulldogs a 4-1 lead. On the throw to the plate to get Harrison, Stewart Webb moved from first to third. Then Greg Mitchell singled in Webb for a 5-1 lead.

"It was a shot in the dark," said Sweeny coach Melvin Loesch of the squeeze play. "If it works it works and if it doesn't it doesn't."

"We have been playing this type of baseball all year long. It was a big gamble, but I had faith in my kids and it worked out," said Loesch.

Buddy Naranjo knocked in three runs and Shawn Ray scattered three hits for Riviera Kaufer in defeating Coppell 8-1 for in Class 2A.

The Seahawks struck for two in the second when Raymond Arguijo and Todd Hotz led off with walks. Arguijo scored on Billy Catchings single, then Naranjo scored Hotz with a single.

Colmesneil erupted for eight runs in the fourth inning and defeated Fayetteville 12-0 to win the Class A title. The game was shortened to five innings because of the 10-run rule that states if a team is up by 10 or more runs after five full innings, the game will be called.

Rangers' first-round choice signs contract

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Bobby Witt, the Texas Rangers' first-round selection in the summer free-agent draft, is expected to join the Double-A Texas League Tulsa Drillers early next week after reaching a contract agreement with the parent American League club, officials said.

Sandy Johnson, Rangers assistant general manager, would disclose no further terms of the contract with Witt, a 21-year-old righthanded pitcher.

The Rangers chose Witt, who played for the University of Oklahoma the last two years, in the first round of the regular draft phase

Monday. He was the third player selected overall.

Witt was 7-3 with a 3.90 earned run average and 118 strikeouts in 97 innings at Oklahoma in 1985, his sophomore season. In two seasons with the Sooners, he was 17-6 with a 3.62 ERA and 231 strikeouts in 196.2 innings.

4-H'ers take honors at local fashion show

The Deaf Smith County 4-H Fashion Show was held recently in the Heritage Room of the County Library.

Sponsored by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, the theme of the show was "Focus on Fashion". According to 4-H coordinator, Susan Raney, "The event is meant to be a culmination of the spring 4-H clothing projects and also a qualifying event to send representatives to the District 1 4-H Fashion Show, which will be held at WTSU on June 18".

A craft project show was also included in with this year's event. Projects ranging from woodwork to counted cross-stitch were entered.

The following 4-H'ers received blue ribbons, a pair of Gingher scissors, and a trip to the District Fashion Show: juniors- Jennifer Hicks, non-tailored daywear category; Lori Urbanczyk, active sportswear category; Susan Rickman, tailored daywear category; and Shelia Teel, evening and specialty category. Senior Kristi Powell placed in non-tailored daywear.

Other awards included best model, in which junior, Pamela Price and senior, Kristi Powell received.

Best sewing rookie award was given to Susan Rickman.

Two new awards were added this year. They were best cotton and most creative. Winning best cotton were junior, Jennifer Hicks, and senior, Kristi Powell.

The most creative award went to Shelia Teel.

Other participants in the Fashion Show were: Tessa White, Teresa Berryman, Cathy Rincon, Lee Harder and Michelle Berend.

Participating in the 4-H project show were: Teresa Berryman, Shelia Teel, Pamela Price, Johnny Nichols, Bill Bird, Billie Ann Northcutt, and Melissa Berend.

Stinnet kids lobby for park improvements

By JO ANN MITCHELL Borger News-Herald

STINNETT, Texas (AP) — If you don't think the average citizen has any input into city council actions, don't tell that to the fifth grade English classes at Stinnett Elementary School.

But then maybe we're not dealing with average kids.

They turned a lesson on letter writing into a campaign that ended with the Stinnett City Council restoring the city park.

The city installed new playground equipment and renovated the rest rooms. A new paint job went on the old playground equipment. Bushy trees were cut down near the tennis courts, and the fence around the tennis courts was repaired. More dumpsters have also been placed at the park, more of the students' suggestions.

The council plans to install a 24-by-40-foot, open-air building that may be used for picnics, family reunions and concerts. It will be wired with electricity for lights and public-address systems.

It didn't end there.

The kids made posters and also explained to the rest of the elementary school students what the city had done to the park. They asked for their help in keeping the park in good condition.

Out of the 55 students in the two classes, 10 were selected to attend a city council meeting and they read their letters to the council.

"Since we had just elected a president this year, I decided to let the students pick them by secret ballot," said their teacher Betty Blankenship. "I wasn't about the pick them."

The elected students then reported to their other classmates, and Ms. Blankenship said the students asked a lot of questions about the council meeting.

Stinnett Mayor Ronnie Griffin received letters from all the students, and he said they did have a large part in the council's decision to make the changes.

Griffin did an unusual thing for a man busy in government and in his job at Panhandle Eastern. He called every student personally to talk about the letter he had received.

"When the students visited our meeting," Griffin said, "the council told them we would do the repairs, but they would have to do their part. The rest rooms had been damaged by vandalism, and if we fixed them up, they must help us keep them in good shape."

The city now leaves the restrooms open during the day, but locked at night when most of the vandalism occurred, Griffin said.

He thought most of the student's suggestions were good, but several went a little too far out, he said. One student asked for a park ranger. Another wanted a summer recreation program.

"Our budget can't include that expense, even though we would like to have one," he said.

He said they stressed to the children that the park is owned by the city, and it's their tax dollars that are being used to repair it.

"We asked them to report vandalism to the police department. Chief (Utah) Bentley may be swamped all summer, with the kids' enthusiasm," he said.

The students had individual contributions to make:

Brooke Hemley thanked the council for being considerate enough to spend money on them. Vicki Williams said if she saw anybody littering in the park she would report it immediately. Kyla Hertel said she would nick up food and trash thrown down, and she would also like to get the shoe polish off the slide and picnic tables.

Marsha Cullon said she thinks they can all keep the park cleaned up when the city finished. Jennifer Jeffress thanked the city for starting a new building so they wouldn't be so hot this summer. Brian Stone said he hoped the rest rooms could stay clean and nice for at least a couple of years. Brad Jett said he thought it was a good idea that the city was reopening the rest rooms after all the trouble they'd been through with it.

Dena Bremer said now they won't have to drive home just to use the rest room. Andrea Couch said she knew they city could have done something else with the money, but they didn't want to upset the students.

Ms. Blankenship said that at the council meeting some men offered to provide pipe and volunteered to clean the park. She said some churches, such as the First Christian Church, have had fundraisers for park improvements.

The students sent letters to the parents of all the students in Stinnett Elementary and Junior High asking them to help maintain the park. In addition, they made posters to place in local businesses, and they talked to every class about the park project.

Don't try to tell the fifth graders at Stinnett that it doesn't pay to get involved with city government.

Annual Rhinestone Roundup set for Saturday

At Cowgirl Hall of Fame

Got a hankerin' for fun? Then shine up your boots and mosey out to the Rhinestone Roundup Saturday with your best pardner and help all the folks out there celebrate the Tenth Anniversary of the National Cowgirl Hall of Fame and Western Heritage Center.

Everybody's going to be gussied up in their best western or semi-formal wear for eating, dancing, and bidding — all part of the big hoe-down to recognize the six new honorees.

The partying starts at high noon with an induction ceremony and luncheon for the honorees at the Hereford Country Club. Tickets are $12 and are available by reservation at the Hall of Fame.

Miss Texas Rodeo will assist at the induction, then be present for the Hall's open house from 3 until 5 p.m.

At 4 p.m., fancy duds from the glamour world of rodeo fashion will be presented by two past Hall honorees, Rhonda Sedgewick and Fern Sawyer.

The sixth annual Rhinestone Roundup Benefit Ball will kick off at 7:30 p.m. A $25 tax deductible ticket entitles the bearer to a barbeque supper, an open bar, and dance music by the Sundowners until midnight.

The annual Diamond Horseshoe Silent Auction will have two sections, at 8:30 p.m. and 9 p.m., then it will get exciting with a live auction at 10:30 p.m.

Any hoot-owls left at midnight will want to hear who wins the drawing for two round-trip airline tickets to anywhere in the continental states - with a bag of money ($300) thrown in.

Ya'll come now. Ya heah?

Joyce and Lynton Allred are planning a fine time at the party.

Angee and Donnie Lauderbach will be waiting for you at their table.

Darwin and Connie McGill discuss the official Hall vests with Milton and Betty Rudder.

David and Sylvia Emerick are already polishing the saddles for the big event.

MRS. WINSTON PAUL CHANDLER

Couple united in marriage during afternoon ceremony

During a late afternoon ceremony Saturday at St. Anthony's Catholic Church, wedding vows were spoken by Mary Jo Bartels and Winston Paul Chandler, both of Amarillo. Officiating at the marriage was Terry Pevehouse, deacon at St. Thomas Catholic Church in Amarillo.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Bartels of 700 Ave. F and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Winston Chandler of Boys Ranch.

The church altar, decorated by two floral arrangements, was flanked by two seven-tiered candelabra and two lavender bows were used to mark the family pews.

Serving her sister as maid of honor was Jean Ann Bartels of Amarillo and Tate Casey of Plainview was best man.

Bridesmaids included the bride's sister-in-law, Mrs. Mark Bartels of Amarillo, and her sisters, Mrs. Dennis Goheen of Littlefield, Mrs. Kim Widener of Clovis, N.M. and Cathy Bartels.

Groomsmen were the groom's brother, Wes Chandler of Luvvock, Joe Maloy of Amarillo and Ron Horodnyskye and Mike McLwain, both of Dallas.

Escorting guests were Ken Gardner of Amarillo, Kevin Cox of Lubbock, the groom's brother-in-law; Jim Hammon of Dallas and Carlos Saldivar of Littlefield.

Serving as flower girls were the bride's nieces, Monica Bartels, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mark Bartels of Amarillo, and Janessa Goheen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Goheen of Littlefield.

The bride's nephew, Michael Bartels, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mark Bartels, was ring bearer. Lighting candles were the bride's sister, Christie Bartels, and the bride's nephew, Jeremy Goheen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Goheen of Littlefield.

Principal musical selections included "The Lord's Prayer", "I Could Never Promise You", "Only A Shadow", and "The Wedding Song." They were vocalized by Kim Huseman and Don Novak, both of Amarillo, and Jim Hammon of Dallas. Liz Lad of Canyon was pianist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of candlelight satin and chantilly lace made by her mother. It featured a fitted bodice made by her mother. It featured a fitted bodice enhanced by chantilly lace with points at front and back and a sweetheart neckline. The short puff lace sleeves were capped by ruffles and trimmed with satin ribbons.

The full gathered skirt was edged in matching lace and formed a cathedral-length train.

A waist-length veil of bridal illusion was gathered at the back of a hat trimmed with chantilly lace and a wide satin ribbon. She carried a cascading bouquet of roses, lavender, baby's breath, greenery and satin ribbon streamers.

As good luck pieces, the bride carried her maternal grandmother's prayer book and wore a diamond necklace.

Bridal attendants were attired in lavender eyelet embroidery gown's fashioned similar to the bride's gown and made by the brides mother. Each carried a single rose tied with white ribbon streamers.

Dresses worn by the flower girls and candlelighters were made of white eyelet and designed similar to the bridal attendants' gowns only in a shorter version. They also wore lavender hose and lavender ribbons in their hair and carried lavender flowers.

Mrs. Joe Maloy of Amarillo invited guests to sign the registry book at the reception-dance held in the church cafeteria.

The three-tiered wedding cake, trimmed with lavender baby's breath, was served by Jamie Pegrams of Amarillo, and Evelyn Hart and Vivian Stewart, both of Canyon.

Punch and coffee were poured by the groom's sister, Mrs. Kevin Cox of Lubbock, and the groom's sister-in-law, Mrs. Wes Chandler of Lubbock.

Leaving for wedding trip to Corpus Christi, the bride wore a pink, lavender and yellow plaid dress.

The couple will make their home after June 15 in Amarillo.

The bride graduated from West Texas State University in 1981 where she was a member of the WT band. She is a member of Tau Beta Sigma and is employed by Amarillo Independent School District.

Chandler graduated from WTSU in 1984 and is also employed by AISD.

Out-of-town guests represented Odessa, Los Angeles, Calif., Kingsville, Nazareth, Dimmitt, Amarillo and Boys Ranch.

SPACE PER PERSON

As a rule of thumb, a home should provide at least 200 square feet of living space for each occupant. Five hundred square feet offers much more comfortable living. Find the square footage by measuring the interior floor space and adding all levels together. Do not count an unfinished attic, cellar or garage. Divide the total by the number of occupants to calculate the per-person quota. If the amount of space per person is less than 250 square feet, designing for privacy will have to be carefully done. As the number of household members increases, the space required by each diminishes somewhat because they overlap in certain social areas. Households with a spread of ages and interests may need more space than a relatively quiet, homogeneous group.

Large, small or in-between, you'll want to individualize your living spaces. At FINISHING TOUCHES you'll find everything you need to achieve what you have in mind. Draw on our years of experience to help you solve those tricky decorating problems. Our service includes custom draperies, bedspreads, upholstery, wall coverings, window treatments, custom matings and picture framing. Call on us for your residential/commercial needs at 501 E. Park, phone 364-8870

Roberson reunion held here

Descendants of the pioneer families of Jesse P., John B., Buck C., and Dick Roberson gathered recently at the American Legion Hall for a family reunion.

A covered dish luncheon and visiting were enjoyed by those present. New additions and changes were made to family groups for the Roberson history book being compiled by Wilma Clark and others. Family pictures were also made during the afternoon.

Deward and Ruth Roberson came by to greet everyone as they were on their way to Truth or Consequences, N.M.

Others in attendance were Lanna, Rose and Eva Buck from Oklahoma; Lillian Smith and Bill and Mary Roberson of Amarillo; Horace and Zora Roberson, Roger and Donna Roberson and Jerry and Leta Sisler, all of Lubbock; Darla Smith and Glenn Thompson of Canyon; Russell and Imogene Pogue of Valley Mills; Louise Roberson, Marie Rogers with daughters Vikki, Nikki, Mitzi McQueary of Summerfield.

Attending from Hereford were Dock and Madge Roberson, James and Donna Smith, Amy and Christy Schumacher, Weldon and Bobbie Roberson, Bernard and Opal Roberson and L.J. and Wilma Clark.

Rudd, Moynihan exchange nuptials Saturday afternoon

Elizabeth Jae Rudd and Stephen P. Moynihan of Clovis, N.M., exchanged wedding vows Saturday afternoon at the First United Methodist Church with Donald Pinnell, president of Amarillo Stake of Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Rudd of Route 5 and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Moynihan of Houston.

The church was decorated with a white altar bouquet, brass branch candelabra trimmed by ivy, votive candles, and ivy trimming the windows and sides.

The bride's father, Homer W. Rudd, gave his daughter away at the altar, with Rebecca Ann Rudd, sister of the bride, serving as maid of honor. Lt. Edward Czapski of Clovis, N.M. was best man with Sarah Hollywood, of Wolfforth, and Shirley Hutton being the bridesmaids.

Groomsmen were Mark Moynihan, of College Station, brother of the groom, and Jeff Casto of Tyler.

Escorting guests were Wesley Rudd, brother of the bride, Pete Moynihan of Austin, and David Moynihan of Waco, both brothers of the groom.

Cousin of the bride, Kelli Willingham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Steve Willingham of Amarillo, was the flower girl, and nephew of the bride, Aaron Robison, was ring bearer. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jan Robison of Amarillo.

Vaavia Rudd, sister of the bride, and Patricia Quillon of Dalhart, cousin of the bride, were the candlelighters.

Music was presented by Mrs. Gary Funderburk of Amarillo with Rebecca Rudd accompanying on the violin and Stephanie Reavis on the harp. Musical selections for the wedding were "Meditation from THAIS", "Pachelbel's Cannon in D.", "Jesu, Joy of Mans Desiring", and "The Lord's Prayer".

The bride wore a chiffon over bridal taffeta floor-length wedding gown. It was designed with cap sleeves and Victorian neckline and a dropped basque waistline. The bodice of net overlay was trimmed with Venice lace appliques embroidered with seed pearls. The skirt formed a chapel-length train and was trimmed in Venice lace.

Layers of bridal illusion and the blusher veil was attached to a cloche hat accented by matching Venetian lace and seed pearls. She carried a fall of cymbidium orchids and English ivy.

Her only jewelry consisted of a pair of pearl earrings which were given to her by the bridegroom.

Bridal attendants were attired in evening length dresses of teal taffeta, fashioned with tucked bodices and flared skirts, above-the-elbow-length full puffed sleeves and matching dresses of dusty rose taffeta.

The reception was held at the Fellowship Hall of First United Methodist Church, with April Draper, Glenna Thompson, Amy Mason, and Mrs. Sam Sessions serving cake.

Coffee and punch were served by the bride's cousin, Mrs. Joe Ray, Kathy Milton, and Collen Robison, sister of the bride, invited guests to register.

Others assisting were Mrs. Ruben McGilvary, Guy Cornelius, Rosemary Thomas, Amanda Tiemann, Mrs. Keith Culp, and Mrs. Dale Hallows.

The silver service was used to serve punch and coffee with the brides bouquet decorating the table. The three-tiered cake was adorned with flowers of dusty pink and topped with Precious Moments figurines.

The groom's table served chocolate cake which was decorated with a model plane.

The bride, a 1981 graduate of Hereford High, received her bachelor of science degree in nursing recently from West Texas State University. She is a member of Sigma Theta Tau, National Nursing Honorary, and the Amarillo Symphony.

She was previously employed at North West Texas Hospital and will be employed by Clovis High Plains Hospital after her marriage.

The groom is a 1979 graduate of Spring High School of Spring, a 1983 graduate of Texas Tech University, and a distinguished military graduate with bachelor of the arts degree in history.

He also received commission as 2nd Lt. of the United States Air Force and attended undergraduate pilot training at Williams Air Force Base in Clovis.

Out-of-town guests included guests from Anaconda, Mont., Boynton Beach, Fl., Houston, Waco, Pampa, Austin, College Station, Phoenix, Ariz., Clovis, N.M., Mt. Pleasant, Sanger, Amarillo, Lubbock, Tincup, Colo., Dallas, and Enid, Ok.

Accent on Health

As the average lifespan increases, so does the frequency of diseases and conditions associated with old age. Many people now live to age 60 and beyond because of advances in medicine and greater care in their lifestyles to prevent health problems.

But some illnesses, such as osteoporosis, persist in people as they age, mainly because the effects of the illness have always been accepted as part of the aging process—not as symptoms of an illness which could be prevented.

The Texas Department of Health is reminding the public that osteoporosis becomes evident in one out of four women and a smaller percentage of men who reach age 60. The illness is caused by the loss of calcium in the bone structure.

Health Commissioner Dr. Robert Bernstein said, "The tragedy is that osteoporosis can be delayed, if not completely prevented, by adequate calcium in the diet, either through milk products or through drugstore supplements."

Dr. Bernstein explained that research is still being conducted to find the relationships between normal calcium intake in the diet, exercise, estrogen (female hormones), and vitamin D, all of which influence the amount of calcium store in bones.

Calcium, a mineral, is the element most responsible for strength and rigidity in bones. Exercise helps to distribute calcium throughout the body, vitamin D helps the body to assimilate the mineral, and reduced estrogen levels after menopause seem to contribute to calcium depletion.

While research continues, Dr. Bernstein said, it is known that those most susceptible to osteoporosis are white, fair-skinned, and have thin bone structures. The first sign of the disorder is loss of height, as the vertebra, for lack of calcium to maintain their strength, compress from the body's weight.

"Without calcium, bones become almost spongy," Dr. Bernstein explained. "The less calcium in the bones, the more prone the bones are to bending or breaking. In many cases, only a light fall can cause a broken hip or wrist."

To avoid osteoporosis, health and medical professionals recommend consuming calcium equivalent to that in three glasses of milk each day, or 800 milligrams of calcium.

In Dallas ceremony

Parker, Pinnell wedding vows solemnized

The marriage of Penni Jo Parker and Donald Rex Pinnell was solemnized Wednesday in the Dallas Temple of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints.

A ring ceremony and reception was held Friday at the E.B. Black House in Hereford.

The bride is the daughter of Pat and Dollie Parker of Hereford, and the bridegroom's parents are Donald and Elaine Pinnell of Adrian.

The ring ceremony was conducted by John Massey, a member of the presidency of the Amarillo Stake of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints.

Bridal attendants for the reception were Poppi Parker, the bride's sister; and Sandy Hope, both of Hereford.

The groomsmen were Brad Pinnell, the groom's brother, of Adrian, and Gary Girard of Nara Visa, N.M.

Flower girl was Jami Parker, and ring bearers were Brady and Emily Parker, brother and sisters of the bride.

Prelude music for the ring ceremony was provided by Cindy Freeman, flutist.

Lori Parker, sister of the bride, accompanied Kimberly Thogmartin, vocalist, on "You're the Inspiration" and "We've Only Just Begun."

The bride was attired in a white Peau D'or tissue taffetta floor length gown, featuring a chapel train edged in wide Chantilly lace.

The bodice of Chantilly lace was fitted with a low waist and embroidered with seed pearls. The dress also featured a wedding ring collar and lace sleeves tapered to the wrist.

The bride's headgear consisted of a picture hat trimmed with white alstroemeria and seed pearls and a bouffant bow. She carried a white taffeta fan covered with white roses and royal blue alstroemerias.

The bride also wore a cameo brooch that belonged to her great grandmother.

The attendants were attired in royal blue satin gowns with sweetheart necklines and puffed sleeves. The flower girl and ringbearer wore white eyelet dresses trimmed in royal blue.

The bride's cake was served by Amy Mason, while Sherrie Dickson of Friona served the groom's cake. Jennifer Estep served punch and Martha Parson of Amarillo presided at the guest registry.

The heart-shaped, three-tiered bride's cake was adorned with a "Precious Moments" ornament.

The groom's German chocolate cake was served from a table decorated with stuffed bears dressed as the bride and groom.

For traveling on a wedding trip to California, the bride wore a white linen suit with a red summer sweater.

The couple will be at home in Adrian after June 16th.

The bride was a 1985 graduate of Hereford High School, and is employed by Parker and Associates. She plans to attend Brigham Young University in the fall.

Out-of-town guests came from Las Cruces, Farmington, Nara Visa, Tucumcari, Moriarity, Portales, and Naturita, Co.

Polly's Pointers

Polly Fisher
Use potpourri

DEAR POLLY — I read about a mixture of spices to keep moths from eating clothes. Do you or your readers remember what these spices were?

— EVELYN
DEAR EVELYN — You can make your own moth repellent with this mixture:

Combine one-half cup whole cloves, three or four three-inch sticks of cinnamon bark, broken into pieces, and one-half cup whole black peppercorns. Wrap a tablespoon or two of the mixture into a small square of muslin or triple-layer cheesecloth. Tie with a string to form a small bag. Repeat with the rest of the spices. Hang these bags in closets or place them in drawers and boxes to repel moths.

I'm sending you a copy of my newsletter "Homemade Remedies for Household Pests," which has additional suggestions for getting rid of moths, cockroaches, ants, mice and other pests. Others who would like a copy of this issue should send $1 for each copy to POLLY'S POINTERS, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1216, Cincinnati, OH 45201. Be sure to include the title. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — Here's an interesting gift for a college student who is far from home, or for anyone who has to drive or travel in bad winter weather. It's a survival kit:

Fill a colorful decorated tin with non-perishable foods, such as dried fruit, nuts, hard candy, candy bars and containers of canned juices. You can put in anything that won't spoil. If the person has car trouble or gets stranded somewhere, he'll have a tin of food and something to drink if help isn't available right away. The girl who received the one I made was thrilled, because she travels alone. Now she knows that someone cares. — C.W.

DEAR POLLY — Place cotton balls in the cups of a plastic-foam egg carton. Then place your earrings in the cotton nests. Your earrings won't get tangled and will be easy to find. — MRS. E.C.

DEAR POLLY — Can you tell me what I'm doing wrong with my Christmas cactus? It was a full bush and had blooms, but for the past year it hasn't bloomed. Each stem just grows longer. The stems get so long that they break off and fall on the floor. I feed it once a month and take good care of it. How can I make it bloom again? — DAISY

DEAR DAISY — You may be overfeeding the cactus during the blooming season. Reduce feedings in the fall. I don't feed mine all fall and winter. Water the cactus only when the soil is dry on the surface. Overwatering will make the branches weak and could contribute to their breaking and falling off. Underwatering during the summer growing season also can cause new growth to fall off.

Starting in September, keep the cactus somewhat dryer than in summer, but don't let it get withered and shriveled. The plant will flower best if kept in a room where it is dark for at least 12 hours a night. Night temperatures during this period should be between 50 and 60 degrees. Slightly warmer temperatures will speed up flowering; cooler temperatures will slow it.

Try following these tips and see if you can't get that cactus to bloom next Christmas. The Christmas cactus is an easy plant to grow and does not suffer too much from a little benign neglect. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — I grate the rind from oranges we have eaten for breakfast or snacks and store it in a jar in the freezer. I always have grated rind when needed.

To use the rind even more, I cut the rind in small pieces and add it to dried flower petals for potpourri. The rind gives a pungent, fruity smell. — ELBERTA

Making Vests

Carla Gonzales (at left) and Kasey Saul are among several students who are enrolled in the summer homemaking classes at La Plata Junior High School.

These girls are currently constructing "blooming" vests under the direction of Beryl Burelsmith, homemaking teacher.

Summer homemaking classes underway

Twelve students and 10 adults have enrolled in the summer homemaking classes at La Plata Junior High School with Beryl Burelsmith, homemaking teacher, instructing the group.

The class is an extension of homemaking beyond regular school term. It provides for the further development of skills in all areas of homemaking. Eight students are incoming ninth graders and four students have just completed the ninth grade year and will be sophomores at Hereford High School in the fall.

To be eligible to attend classes, students must have been enrolled in a homemaking course during the 1984-85 school year. Eligible students receive a grade and earn one-half credit which counts toward graduation from high school.

The group has been involved in constructing a layered or "blooming" fabric vest. From making the vests, students have gained additional skills in combining colors, fitting patterns, working with 100 percent cotton fabric and the use of the sewing machine.

The week of June 10-14, the group will make a blouse and learn to do fabric stenciling. June 17-21 will be spent learning to do candlewicking and making fabric picture frames.

In addition to class work, students must complete an extended learning experience project in two of the following areas: child development, clothing and textiles, consumer education, family living, food and nutrition, home management, housing, or individual-family health.

Red Cross Update

Water safety classes will begin Monday at the City Pool. Adult classes and advanced lifesaving classes will begin at 6:30 p.m. and no pre-registration is needed.

Cost of the advanced lifesaving book is $5 and the book is needed for the advanced lifesaving class.

A water safety instructor class will be held beginning Monday, July 22. Debbie Black is the instructor trainer. Pre-registration is required.

Special thanks to our new first aid instructors. They are Ronnie Sanders, Kim Sanders, Zack McWethy, Lottie Wertemberger, Audine Dettman, and Laura Carter. First aid classes will be scheduled for all summer. If you are interested in taking first aid, call the office for further information.

DIETING DO'S and DON'TS

When you get up in the morning, drink at least one glass of water. You'll be surprised how good it tastes. Drink more than one glass if possible. Then continue to sip water throughout the day, aiming for a total of eight glasses.

Walk around the house or apartment while your morning coffee is brewing or go outside and walk briskly around the yard.

Do not skip breakfast and be sure to include fresh fruit.

Cut down on or cut out sugar. Cut down on salt. Use a good vegetable salt instead.

Use skim milk in place of whole milk.

Use unsaturated vegetable oils and margarine.

Solid butter and solid margarine contain the same number of calories. When they are whipped, the count is much less. You can make your own whipped margarine by adding water or skim milk to solid margarine and whipping it at high speed in your blender or food processor.

If using canned fruits or seafood, choose varieties that are packed in water than in heavy syrup or oil.

Seafood and chicken have fewer calories than red meats.

Broil, roast or boil meats, fish and chicken, using little or no added fat. Do not overcook anything. Preserve those vitamins.

Do not use condiments such as catsup or chili sauce unless you include their calories in the total for the dish.

Breads and cereals are better for you if made from whole grains. There is no appreciable difference in calorie count, but high fiber is necessary for good health.

Do not drink alcohol. Cut out or limit soft drinks.

If you must have soft drinks, choose varieties that don't contain sodium.

Try these low calorie recipes:

ELEGANT CHICKEN

Use in Microwave

8 ounces fresh mushrooms, sliced
¼ cup green onions, chopped
1 tablespoon margarine
2 tablespoons flour
2 tablespoons dry sherry
¼ cup water
½ cup plain yogurt
½ teaspoon salt, optional
Dash pepper
1 teaspoon instant chicken bouillon
2 whole boneless chicken breasts, halved and skin removed

Combine mushrooms and onions in 1-quart casserole; cover. Cook 3 to 4½ min. until mushrooms are tender. Drain well. Place margarine in 4 cup measure. Cook 30 seconds to melt. Blend in flour. Add sherry, water, yogurt, salt, pepper and bouillon. Stir in mushrooms and onions. Arrange chicken in 8x8-inch baking dish. Pour sauce over chicken. Cover with wax paper. Cook on medium 13 to 15 minutes or until sauce thickens and chicken is tender and no longer pink.

Turn and rearrange chicken and stir sauce once during cooking. Makes 4 servings. Per serving: 249 calories.

DOUBLE FRUITY ICE MILK

2 cans (6 ozs. each) frozen apple juice concentrate
1 can (6 oz.) frozen orange juice concentrate
3 cups skim milk

In a large bowl beat all ingredients until blended and smooth. Pour into 13x9x2 inch metal pan; cover. Freeze until firm. Break into chunks; beat until fluffy but not thawed. Cover; freeze until firm. Makes 8 cups per ½ cup serving; 71 calories.

This information was taken from a publication of Southwestern Public Service.

Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agriculture Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socioeconomic level, race, color, age, religion, sex, handicap or national origin.

Spinach

Spinach is exceptionally high in nutritional value. Starting in the 1920s, spinach received much publicity for its calcium and iron, along with vitamins A and C. But research has found spinach is also rich in oxalic acid, which prevents calcium from being used by the body.

DR. GOTT

Peter
Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I am allergic to penicillin and cannot take it by mouth — only intravenously. What medicines can I take in place of penicillin that will be safe and effective?

DEAR READER — If you were allergic to any drug — including penicillin — you would not be able to take it either orally or intravenously. Many people tend to confuse an allergy with side effects. Penicillin, for example, may produce diarrhea and vaginal infection, but these conditions are non-allergic consequences of taking the drug.

A drug allergy means you cannot tolerate the medicine in any form without risking an untoward reaction that may be life threatening.

For almost all medications, there is an alternative. In the case of penicillin, an antibiotic called erythromycin is a good substitute. Allergists have devised skin tests that, in most cases, can determine if a person is overly sensitive to a drug. You might consider having these tests performed to confirm or reject your assumption of penicillin allergy.

Brorman, Shehan vows exchanged

Nuptials were exchanged by Pam Brorman and Joe Shehan of Canyon, Saturday evening in Immaculate Conception Catholic Church of Vega. The ceremony was officiated by Father Peter DiBenedetto of the church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Brorman of Rt. 1 of Hereford and the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Brorman, also of Hereford.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Pat Shehan of Canyon.

White lillies and pink roses decorated the church and a candelabrum adorned the altar behind the tabernacle which was trimmed in greenery.

Cindy Brorman, of Vega, sister of the bride, served as maid of honor and Bill Kassul of Rochelle, Ill. was best man.

Steve Starnes, and the bride's brothers, Mike Shehan and Greg Shehan, all of Canyon, served as groomsmen.

Escorting guests were Jerry Brorman of Vega, Ronnie Brorman of Dalhart, both brothers of the bride; and Gerald Berry of Panhandle, brother-in-law of the bride.

The bride's niece, Mary Alice Brorman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Brorman of Hereford, was the flower girl.

Organist, Mrs. Jerry Brorman, sister-in-law of the bride, accompanied Kristy and Kathy Nelson as they vocalized "In His Time", "My Only Love", "God, A Woman and A Man", "Wedding Prayer", and "A Blessing".

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride wore a formal gown of white silk taffeta designed with a portrait neckline and fitted bodice with a deep V-shaped waistline. Venice lace applied the bodice and neckline.

Juliet puff sleeves, enhanced by Venice lace, fell to fitted wrist, and seed pearls were scattered over the bodice. The skirt was edged in matching Venice lace and fell into a cathedral-length train.

A wreath of silk flowers, adorned by curling streamers, was attached to the veil of bridal illusion.

She carried a cascading white orchid bouquet sprinkled with baby's breath and greenery.

Borrowed from her mother, the bride wore a simple strand of pearls with matching earrings.

Bridal attendants were attired in matching tea-length pink satin dresses. They were designed with rounded V-shaped necklines, and puffed sleeves accented with bows on the shoulders. They carried cascading bouquets of pink tiger lillies and roses.

The bride's cousin, Mrs. Roger Batenhorst, invited guests to register at the reception held at the church parish hall.

The bride's cake was served by Cheri Bragg and Julie Coley with Kris Reid and Cheryl Spector serving the groom's cake.

A triple-tiered wedding cake was decorated with six round cakes surrounding a fountain at the base which was accented by pink tiger lillies.

The bridesmaids' bouquets and a silver candelabrum also decorated the main refreshment table.

Leaving for a wedding trip to New Orleans, La., the couple will make their home in Lubbock.

The bride, a 1981 graduate of Vega High School, is a recent graduate of West Texas State University where she is a member of Delta Zeta National Social Sorority.

The bridegroom, also a 1981 graduate of Vega High School, will attend Texas Tech University majoring in architecture. He is a member of Alpha Tau Omega Social Fraternity.

Club members discuss jubilee

During a business meeting held Thursday evening, members of Merry Mixers Square Dance Club voted to have a float in the Town 'n' Country Jubilee in August.

It was also decided by the group to sponsor a street square dance. The date will be announced later.

Ed and Angie McCreary, president of the Texas State Federation of Round and Square Dance Assoc., reported a successful state festival held recently in San Antonio. The McCreary's have served as president of state the last year, their term of office expiring June 30.

Joan and Benny Womble also attended the event.

It was announced that square dance lessons will begin Sept. 12.

Recognized as visitors were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kuntz and their children from Wheeler.

Merry Mixers dance the first, third and fifth Thursdays of each month beginning at 8:30 p.m. at the Community Center. Freddie McKee of Amarillo is the caller.

All square dancers and spectators are welcome.

Ann Landers Bathroom etiquette

Dear Readers:

Some people never learn. Put me at the top of the list.

After receiving more than 15,000 letters about toilet tissue (should it come off the top of the roll or hang down along the wall), I decided to keep my readers out of the bathroom. How soon we forget! I ran a letter a few weeks ago from a couple who were at war because of the toilet seat. Should the man be required to put the seat down or is it OK to leave it up?

From Oakland, Calif.: I have the perfect solution for "Up Up Up" in Grand Rapids: Mothers should train their sons to be seated gentlemen. This will eliminate spraying the seat, splattering on the rim, sprinkling the floor and nearby wall.

From Omaha, Neb.: My husband was both stubborn and forgetful about the toilet seat - until our beautiful Persian cat, Jessica, jumped in one day and nearly drowned. From then on, everyone in the family has been very careful about putting not only the seat down, but the lid, also.

From Chillicothe, Ill.: Not everyone can afford an apartment with two bathrooms. A solution that might be appropriate is for both parties to agree to put the LID down. That way, each will have something to lift upon returning.

Amarillo, Tex.: In families where pets are allowed indoors, most animals will go to the freshest source of water. We do not want our dog drinking out of the toilet so the lid is always down.

Mexico City: My pleas to lower the toilet seat went unheeded until my husband dropped his toothbrush, hairbrush and comb in the commode. From then on, down went the seat and the lid as well.

From Toronto: Seat up - seat down... it doesn't make a particle of difference in our family. I always put the cover down as well as the seat. Invariably the cover gets wet because my husband refuses to turn on the bathroom light at night.

Mankato, Minn.: I thought you were supposed to solve problems, not start them. That article about the toilet seat got my wife and me into the biggest fight we've had in years. We fought about that issue on our honeymoon and settled it by deciding I'd try to remember to put the seat down, but if I didn't, she wouldn't nag me about it. Now, because of you, we are back to square one. Why don't you retire?

Boston, Mass.: I discovered a solution to the commode problem while vacationing in London. One of the finest hotels in that most civilized of all cities has attached to the tank a small projection. The seat could not stay up without the help of an outstretched hand.

New cooktops save energy says consumer specialist

An innovation in energy-saving cooking equipment—the induction cooktop—is not the same thing as the smooth top ranges that have been on the market for several years.

"They both have a smooth glass top, but that's about the only similarity," says consumer economics specialist Bonnie L. Piernot.

Induction units, such as the cooktop, heat the cookware itself and the cookware heats the food. A high frequency induction circuit just below the cooktop surface will heat any pan with a magnetic bottom.

"The pan itself gets hot, not the cooktop," explains Piernot, a home economist with the Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service.

Because the unit creates heat in the pan, it uses energy more efficiently than conventional cooktops.

In addition, cleaning is easier because the cooktop is not hot and spatters don't burn, Piernot notes.

The home economist advises using cookware with a ferrous metal, such as cast-iron or steel, on bottom. The cooktop operates on a magnetic attraction between the coils and the pan, so if the bottom of the pan attracts a kitchen magnet, you can use it on the induction top, she says.

Heating and cooling tests have shown that light-weight pans heat and cook quickly. Heavy-weight stainless steel cookware gives the most even cooking results, advises the specialist.

Candlelight ceremony held here Saturday afternoon

In a candlelight wedding ceremony held Saturday afternoon in Temple Baptist Church, Leanna Kaye Hughes became the bride of Russell Lynn Schaub of Wellington. The Rev. H.W. Bartlett, pastor of the church, officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Grady Hughes of Route 4 and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Schaub of Wellington.

A 15-branch candelabrum, holding off-white gladioli and mauve colored roses, decorated the church. The main altar was accented by two brass plant stands trimmed with greenery.

Vila Hughes served her sisters as maid of honor and Lowry Schaub served his brother as best man.

Bridesmaids included Jeanne Brorman of Canyon and Janet Jacobson of Lubbock. Groomsmen were David Hackney of Canyon and Weldon Hayes of Rotan.

Escorting guests were the bride's cousin, Jim Bigham of Duncan, Ok.; the groom's brother-in-law, Clinton Oldham of Samnorwood; and Landon Lowry of Vernon and Rodney Lowry of Abilene, both cousins of the groom.

Flower girl was Jennifer Brorman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Brorman, and ring bearer was the groom's nephew, Paul Schaub, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lowry Schaub.

The groom's sister, Mrs. Clinton Oldham, accompanied by Mrs. Floyd Eubanks, sang "Time of Joy", "Wedding Song", and "Nobody Loves Me Like You Do".

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore her mother's floor-length off-white wedding gown of chantilly lace over taffeta and tulle. The molded bodice, which was designed with a Sabrina neckline with seed pearls nestled in lace scallops, featured an empire line and extended into a deep V-shaped waistline.

Tiny lace covered buttons trimmed the back of the dress and the long fitted lace sleeves tapered to points over her hands. The bouffant skirt of multi-tiered lace and tulle, extended into a chapel-length train.

Her body length veil of off-white bridal illusion was trimmed in matching scalloped lace and gathered to a band which was embroidered in seed pearls.

She carried a cascading bouquet of mauve roses and freesia enhanced with stephanotis, seed pearls, lace and greenery and her grandmother's handkerchief.

Bridal attendants were attired in daphne rose taffeta floor-length gowns trimmed in lace and designed with V-shaped necklines and puffed sleeves also trimmed in lace.

Each carried nosegays of long stemmed mauve silk roses and off-white ribbon streamers.

Cynthia Streun invited guests to sign the registry book, made by the bride's aunt, Kathryn Bigham, during the reception held in the church fellowship hall.

The bride's cousins, LaJuan and Donna Eubanks of Lovington, N.M., served the bride's cake and cutting the groom's cake were the groom's sister-in-law, Mrs. Lowry Schaub of Houston; the groom's cousin, Melanie Lowry of Vernon; and Jannan Thomason of Wellington.

The tiered bride's cake, made by the bride's aunt, Leona Eubanks, was decorated with roses and freesia and was placed on a table covered with machine embroidered wedding cloth made by the bride's mother.

The bride's cousin, Charla Bigham of Duncan, Ok. poured punch and coffee.

Leaving for a wedding trip to the coast, the bride wore a pink linen suit with pink accessories.

The couple will make their home at Mobeetie.

The bride graduated from Adrian High School in 1983 and completed a two-year secretarial study at West Texas State University in May.

The bridegroom, a 1981 graduate of Samnorwood High School, received his bachelor of science degree in physical education this year from WTSU.

Out-of-town guests represented Austin, Wellington, Shamrock, Samnorwood, Abilene, and Vernon. Lovington, N.M., Duncan, Ok.,

Historic teacher testing date set for March

AUSTIN (AP) — The State Board of Education was scheduled to give final approval today to an unprecedented testing of 200,000 Texas teachers to determine if they should be in the schoolhouse.

The historic examination, ordered by the 1984 Legislature in passage of the public school reform bill, will be the week of March 10, 1986.

The board also was scheduled to make important decisions today on social promotions, which were outlawed in the reform act.

Statewide teacher testing on their basic reading and writing was approved Friday by the board's Committee on Personnel.

"No one has ever done anything near like this before," said Rebecca Canning, Waco, vice chairman of the statewide appointed board.

State Education Commissioner W.N. Kirby said it would take at least 250 to 300 people just to give the test, which will be given under a contract with a private firm. None of the test givers can be students or kin to any teacher or school administrator.

"It would take 1,000 people to give it in one day," Kirby said.

The committee approved a plan calling for examinations to be given in three different regions of the state.

The test plan calls for teachers to identify main ideas and details in reading, to distinguish between facts and opinion, to use reference sources, to "draw inference" from reading and to understand job-related words.

Your Money Counts

by Rick Roberts, C.P.A.

NEW RULES ON INCOME AVERAGING
The Tax Reform Act of 1984 has significantly changed the rules for income averaging. This special tax computation method pays off by allowing a taxpayer to treat part of a bulge in one year's income as though it were earned over a number of previous years. Tax savings result because part of the income falls into lower tax brackets. In the past, "averageable income", to which the tax break applied, was basically the amount by which the current year's income exceeded 120 percent of the average taxable income for the previous four years. The new law restricts the benefit to income that exceeds 100 percent of the average over the previous three years.

It's hard to keep up with all the changes that are constantly being made in tax rules, money markets, IRA's and other financial matters that can affect you now and in the future. That's why you need the expertise of RICK ROBERTS, CERTIFIED PUBLIC ACCOUNTANT (364-7325), 128 W. Third, Suite A. It's our job to keep abreast of what is now in the financial world and pass the information on to you. We do. Stop by and talk to us soon how we can help you Monday thru Friday 9:30-12 and 1-5.

St. Anthony's Organization meets

St. Anthony's Women's Organization met Tuesday morning in the Antonian Room following a Mass service. The Rev. Simeon Hiene of Greymore, New York, and the Rev. Mark Traenkle officiated.

The Mass was said for the confraternity of Christian mothers.

The meeting opened with the installation of the new officers for 1985-86. Karla Vasek presented each with a red silk rose.

Martha Paetzold was installed as president; Annie Brown, first vice-president; Pat Simmacher, second vice-president; Linda Briones, secretary; Olga Harris, treasurer; Dianne Clevenger, reporter-historian; and Ann Lueb, parliamentarian.

During the installation ceremony, Vasek stated that the Blessed Mother Mary should be the example which members strive to copy and remember while raising their families.

Following the regular business meeting with the newly elected president presiding, the group gathered for a luncheon hosted by Vasek, Alice Hund, Susan Marnell, Adeline Loerwald and Opal Blakely.

Mischa Keese recently named an Academic All-American

The National Secondary Education Council announced recently that Mischa Keese, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Keese of Hereford, has been named an Academic All-American.

Keese, who attends Stanton Junior High School, was nominated for this national award by Dee Ann Clifton, an algebra I instructor. The honor recipient will appear in the Academic All-American Scholar Directory which is published nationally.

The NSEC has established the Academic All-American Scholar Award Program in order to offer deserved recognition to superior students who excel in the academic disciplines.

The scholars must earn a 3.3 or better grade point average. Only those selected by a secondary school instructor, counselor or other qualified sponsor are accepted. These scholars are also eligible for other awards given by the NSEC.

Grandparents are Mrs. Jimmie Lee and Mona Keese, both of Amarillo.

DR. GOTT

Peter Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT — Is diabetes or the tendency to develop it usually inherited?

DEAR READER — The tendency to develop diabetes seems to be inherited, especially in patients who develop the disease early in life. Some diabetics appear to lack the proper amount of natural insulin; others produce a type of insulin that is less effective than normal. Still others behave as though their insulin is being neutralized by an antibody chemical. Some diabetics require much more insulin than would be the case if their pancreas glands — the factories for insulin — were completely removed. Therefore, experts have concluded that — in these patients, at least — diabetes is not caused by a simple lack of insulin.

Diabetes that develops in middle and old age seems to be due to a wearing-out of the pancreas. Adult-onset diabetes is usually easier to control and produces fewer complications than the more virulent disease that occurs in young people.

Obesity and a diet high in refined sugar may trigger a weak gene in some diabetics so that diabetes may develop, in part, because a person chooses to take poor care of himself. Late-onset diabetes is unquestionably related to diet, and therefore can often be controlled by diet modification alone. Anybody with a strong family history of diabetes should heed this warning: A person can "put off" diabetes by reducing sugar intake, keeping slim, avoiding excessive alcohol consumption and exercising regularly.

DEAR DR. GOTT — If you have a heart murmur, is it necessary to take antibiotics a week before a simple teeth cleaning?

DEAR READER — Some heart murmurs, particularly those that become apparent after age 20, may reflect a disease of the heart valves. Bacteria readily enter the bloodstream during dental manipulations and these germs can stick to heart valves, so people with "abnormal" murmurs are often advised to take antibiotics before, during and after dental work. Although a simple teeth cleaning is not ordinarily a hazard, your doctor is the best judge of whether antibiotics would be appropriate in your case.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I was diagnosed as having a heart murmur. Are rapid heartbeats associated with having a heart murmur?
DEAR READER — Rapid heartbeats, medically called tachycardia, are common in persons who have developed murmurs due to improperly opening (or closing) heart valves.

Bride-elect Honored

Carrie Beth Hanbury, bride-elect of Jerry Kennedy Weldon, was honored with a bridal shower Wednesday afternoon in the Friendship Court of First Christian Church. Receiving guests were (from left) Patricia Weldon, the prospective bridegroom's mother; the honoree; Lorraine Vernon, his grandmother; Dessie Hanbury, the honoree's grandmother; and Nancy Hanbury, her mother.

Hanbury guest of honor

A bridal shower was given for Carrie Beth Hanbury, bride-elect of Jerry Kennedy Weldon, Wednesday afternoon in the First Methodist Church in Dalhart.

The honoree is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Doyle Hanbury of Dalhart and the prospective bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry K. Weldon of Hereford.

A green plant with accents of the bride-elect's chosen colors of lavender and huckleberry centered the main serving table which was covered with a lavender overlay enhanced by lace. Silver and crystal appointments were used to serve fresh fruit, finger sandwiches and cookies.

Hostesses presented the honoree with a lavender daisy corsage.

Serving as hostesses were Ella Marie Viegel, Lucy Rogers, Dolores McCuistian, Virginia Skaggs, Susan Perrin, Janice Conkwright, Kathy Johnson, Diane Rowton, Carlynn DeLozier, Ann Bowling, Margaret Carnahan and Glenda Keenan.

Recognized as a special guest was Barbara Ferguson of Dalhart.

MR. AND MRS. CLINTON JACKSON

...honored at reception

Jacksons honored at anniversary reception

Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Jackson of 208 Centre celebrated their golden wedding anniversary with a reception today in the parlor of the Senior Citizen Center.

The affair was hosted by their children and their spouses. They included Pat and George Snider of Stinnett, Becky and Jim Harris of San Antonio, and Don and Jeanne Jackson and Bob and Karen Jackson, all of Amarillo.

The couple also have 10 grandchildren and two great-granddaughters.

Their granddaughters, Donna Holder of Amarillo and Rhonda Blaine of Las Vegas, Nev., registered guests and presiding at the serving table were Kim Snider of Stinnett and Barbara Jackson of El Paso.

Others assisting in the houseparty included Mr. and Mrs. Otis Lee, J.W. Witherspoon, Edgar Lemons, Cecil Oglesby, Cecil Boyer, J.O. Clark and Donna Jones and Grace Covington.

Clinton Jackson married Margaret G. (Jerry) Parker June 11, 1935 in a home ceremony performed northwest of Hereford. They have resided in this area for 48 years.

The Jacksons lived a year in Chillicothe, Mo. where Jackson graduated from Chillicothe Business School in 1940 and lived in Farwell for a year where he was manager and co-owner of Cashway Grocery.

He has served on the Deaf Smith County ASCS committee, water board and FHA committee. He is a member of the Golden K Kiwanis Club, Masonic Lodge, Senior Citizens Association, Deaf Smith County Historical Society and serves on the board of Rest Lawn Cemetery Association.

He retired from farming in 1965 and was with the National Farmers Union Insurance Company in 1960. He retired in 1981 from the insurance and real estate business.

Mrs. Jackson has served on the board of the Deaf Smith Chapter of the American Red Cross and is a charter member of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce Women's Division serving as secretary. She has served as president of the Hereford Garden Club for four years and is a member of the Senior Citizens.

She also serves as school board election judge. She and her husband are members of First Baptist Church and are active in volunteer work and various community affairs.

The 50-star U.S. flag was first raised officially on July 4, 1960, at Fort McHenry National Park in Baltimore.

Stacie LaKay Rhodes, R.E. Dunlap

Engagement announced

Wedding vows will be spoken by Stacie LaKay Rhodes and R.E. Dunlap of Breckenridge Aug. 3 in Greenlawn Church of Christ in Lubbock.

The bride-elect is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Rhodes of Route 5 and the prospective bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R.E. Dunlap of Breckenridge.

Rhodes, a graduate of Hereford High School, is currently attending Angelo State University where she is a senior speech education major.

Dunlap, a graduate of Breckenridge High School, is also attending Angelo State and is a senior physical education major.

Glena West graduates

Glena Sue West, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill West and granddaughter of Eunie West, all of Hereford, recently graduated, Magna Cum Laude, from Texas A&M University.

West was awarded a bachelor of science degree in agricultural economics.

A 1962 graduate of Hereford High School, West was an active member of Collegiate 4-H and agricultural economic clubs. She also was member of Alpha Lambda Delta, Phi Eta Sigma, Alpha Zeta, Gamma Sigma Delta, and Phi Kappa Phi, all honor societies, while attending college.

She was one of 10 students nominated for a senior merit award in the school of agriculture.

West will begin working at First

GLENA SUE WEST

National Bank of Amarillo as a credit analyst beginning Monday.

Couple wed recently

The bride wore a white off-the-shoulder street-length dress designed with a handkerchief hemline and square neckline.

She carried a bridal bouquet of silk lillies, baby's breath and greenery and wore a gold chain and single strand of pearls.

A reception was held in the Lady

Luck Casino in Las Vegas.

The couple are making their home in Hereford.

The bride graduated from Clovis High School in Clovis, N.M. and attended Amarillo College. She is employed by the Hereford Police Department.

Her husband received his associate business degree from Seminole Oklahoma Junior College in Seminole and is the transportation manager at Bradford Trucking.

State governments step in with farm aid

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP)—From a counseling program in Kansas to interest rate subsidies in Illinois, Iowa and Minnesota, state governments across the Midwest are throwing life preservers to farmers struggling to stay afloat.

Farm aid has always been considered the domain of the federal government, but several states have decided that additional action must be taken to help farmers beset by high interest rates and low crop prices. "We had to go ahead and do the best we could," said Iowa Senate Majority Leader Lowell Junkins. "We at the state level are a cushion for our agricultural community to fall on."

A three-day farm conference last week in Des Moines that drew 300 officials from 22 Farm Belt states resulted in no formal recommendations for changing national farm policy. The participants met in small groups on a variety of topics, including how to counsel displaced farmers.

One of the most extensive farm-state programs was approved by the Iowa Legislature and awaits Gov. Terry Branstad's expected signature into law.

The Iowa plan, which would begin next spring, would reduce interest rates on farm operating loans, allow farmers to stay on their land after foreclosure and give the governor power to declare a moratorium on farm foreclosures.

The Iowa Legislature created an agency to issue an unlimited amount of bonds to fund the program, in which the state would pay to reduce the interest rate on a farm operating loan by 2 percentage points if the bank handling the loan agreed to a further reduction of 3 percentage points.

A similar plan, designed to reduce interest rates 4 percentage points, was implemented in Minnesota this year.

In Illinois, the Legislature implemented one program and state Treasurer James Donnwald began a second program.

Under the Legislature's program, which was signed into law by Gov. James Thompson, the state appropriated $25 million for interest rate deferrals on loans needed by farmers for this spring's planting. Participating farmers pay only half of the interest rate on 1985 operating loans, with the state paying the remainder. Farmers then repay the state over five years.

Under Donnwald's program, $212 million was committed to a loan program for farmers. A smaller version of the program began in mid-

February and expanded as demand for loans increased.

Under the program, the state deposits money, at a lower-than-normal interest rate, in local banks which in turn loan money to farmers at interest rates 2 to 3 percentage points below the going rate.

By late April, the treasurer had deposited $173 million to cover 9,400 loans to farmers.

The Illinois Legislature's program has not drawn such interest. The Illinois Farm Development Authority, charged with administering the program, reported receiving only about 50 applications by mid-May.

Director Ron Bailey, who said he had hoped to help 8,000 to 10,000 farmers, speculated that many farmers may be taking advantage of the good weather to get crops in the ground and will wait until the June 15 deadline to sign up.

The Minnesota program also has had only limited acceptance. Of $25 million appropriated, it is now estimated that only $10 million will be used.

The original Minnesota law permitted bankers to offer the loans only to farmers who did not project a positive cash flow at conventional market rates. That was revised late in the session, but probably after most of the spring planting had been completed.

"It didn't help many, but it helped a few," said Minnesota Republican House Speaker David Jennings. "But the bottom line is the state can't really solve the (farm) problem."

OUTLOOK GOOD FOR GLANDLESS COTTON. Edible glandless cotton seed was first commercially bred in 1966. Since that time, demand for products made from the seed has grown steadily. It's estimated, in fact, that the acreage of glandless cotton may have to double every year into the 1990s in order to meet demand. As an example, an estimated 16,000 acres of glandless cotton was harvested in Texas and Oklahoma alone in 1984. However, experts say that 60,000 to 70,000 acres are expected to be under contract this year. Expectation for 1986 is for acreage to double. Many exciting products are emerging using glandless cottonseed including tortillas and tortilla chips, which have about three times the protein level of average corn chips.

Block takes swat at European policies

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Just a week before meeting with European Community leaders on sensitive trade issues, Agriculture Secretary John R. Block has taken a healthy swat at the 10-nation bloc's policies he says helped trigger a new $2 billion U.S. farm export subsidy program.

"We can point a finger at the overvalued dollar, or at our rigid farm policies that price us out of the market, but a large portion of the blame must be placed at the doorstep of our trade competitors and their systems of unfair subsidies and trade barriers," he said Thursday.

Block is scheduled to visit the Netherlands, Belgium and France on June 6-11, including talks Common Market agricultural leaders. He also will attend a meeting of the World Food Council in Paris.

Unfortunately, Block told a conference in Omaha, Neb., recent battles over trade have obscured mutual interests of the European Community and the United States. One such skirmish was at the recent economic summit in Bonn, West Germany.

"The United States proposed the scheduling of multilateral trade negotiations. France said no. That single act did more than anything to influence my recent decision to institute a new and aggressive plan, the export expansion program," he said.

The program, often called export PIK or payment-in-kind, will provide free bonus commodities from government-owned stockpiles to help make U.S. commodity prices competitive in certain foreign markets.

Although Block cited the unwillingness of France to join in multilateral trade talks as the prime reason he opted for export PIK, other forces also were at work. Some Farm Belt members of Congress for months had been urging some kind of bonus program to help stimulate U.S. farm exports.

The Reagan administration, however, was cool to the idea until the votes of Sen. Edward Zorinsky, D-Neb., and others were needed to approve a recent budget compromise with the White House. At that point, Budget Director David A. Stockman accepted the idea of an export PIK.

Block said the export PIK idea "is not one would freely choose. But we must take a realistic look at where we stand...we are standing with our back to the wall. We have no choice but to begin to fight our way out."

The program, he added, is "a counter to unfair trade practices in the present, and as an encouragement to trade talks in the future. We want to urge other countries to face up to their global responsibilities and sit down and negotiate."

Meanwhile, Block said, "We are prepared to use every last dollar of this $2 billion export enhancement program, if that's what it takes, to bring some fairness back to the rules of governing international trade."

Block has promised that details of how the program will work, including who will receive the government commodities and under what conditions, would be announced by Saturday. Agriculture Department officials said Thursday the regulations were still being written and it was unknown whether they would be ready in time to meet that deadline.

A research coup for the University of Georgia will mean a significant drain of scientific resources from the University of Colorado, says some of the key figures involved.

The Agriculture Department and the University of Georgia announced Thursday a new cooperative research venture intended to move space-age biotechnology more deeply into the production of crops.

Orville G. Bentley, the department's assistant secretary for science and education, said the university will house a plant research staff at USDA's Richard B. Russell Agricultural Research Center in Athens, Ga., until a new biosciences building is completed on campus.

Fred C. Davison, president of the university, and other officials associated with the project joined Bentley at a news conference here.

The new facility, to be called the Complex Carbohydrate Research Center, will be under the direction of Peter Albersheim, for 20 years on the faculty of the University of Colorado, where he was a professor of molecular, cellular and developmental biology, and biochemistry.

University of Georgia officials announced that Albersheim will be joined by a team from Colorado, which will also bring about $1.5 million worth of laboratory equipment and grants to Georgia.

Albersheim, asked to be more specific, said that he and others in his group tried unsuccessfully to set up the center in Colorado and turned to other possibilities "only after we decided that the state of Colorado had not committed itself to supporting biochemistry" research.

"We have a team of roughly 20 scientists moving from the University of Colorado to the University of Georgia," Albersheim said. "I'm happy nly one person of our group decided to remain in Colorado."

Albersheim said the team has research grants from the Department of Energy, National Science Foundation, USDA and National Institutes of Health, all of which will be carried to Georgia, along with much equipment which was paid for with federal funds.

Although most of the research in Georgia will be basic, some of its practical application ultimately could include the introduction of freeze-resistant crops, including fruit, and plants that remain longer in their vegetative stage, without flowering, to allow more flexibility in planting and growing.

Farm land dropped in value last year

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. farm land plummeted 12 percent in value during the past year, a drop that was so precipitous it delayed release of the information while statisticians scrambled to double-check their figures, the Agriculture Department says.

The decline was the largest one-year drop in farm land values since the Depression, and it marked the fourth straight year of falling prices for agricultural acreage, the department said Friday.

Reasons for the decline included farmers' credit problems, low commodity prices, high interest rates and the large number of farms flooding the land market, USDA researcher Bill Heneberry said.

"There's an awful lot of land on the market right now," Heneberry noted. "There are auctions where the land doesn't sell because the seller isn't willing to take such a low price."

The 12 percent drop in the year ending April 1 followed declines of 1 percent in 1984, 6 percent in 1983 and 1 percent in 1982, which was a peak year for agricultural land prices. The steepest one-year drop on record was the 1933 figure of 19 percent.

With the effect of 4 percent inflation taken into account, the real value of land was off by 16 percent, the department said. Hardest hit were the Corn Belt, Great Lake states and the Northern Plains, all of which suffered losses of 20 percent or more.

Six New England states — Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut — fared best, actually gaining 14 percent in value, a reflection of demand for residential or other non-farm land uses.

The annual assessment of farm land values is compiled through surveys of farmers, lenders, real estate agents, appraisers, farm managers and others involved in farm land markets.

Farm land nationally averaged $697 an acre on April 1, the report said, down from $782 last year. The largest percentage decline came in Iowa, a center of the past year's farm financial problems, where values were off 29 percent. Nebraska was close behind at a 28 percent drop. Prices were down 27 percent in Illinois, and South Dakota saw values drop 26 percent.

Falling land values add to the financial squeeze on farmers because much of the money they borrow to operate is backed by their land. The lower the value, the shakier their financial positions and the less they can borrow.

Fun is Michael Jenkins' business

DALLAS (AP) — Fun is Michael Jenkins' business.

He and his staff of architects, designers, researchers, illustrators and planners at Leisure and Recreation Concepts Inc. — LARC for short — design and build amusement parks all over the world.

They may have the only conference room in town where you can get fresh popcorn from a gilt-trimmed popcorn wagon.

"We pop it fresh every morning," Jenkins says, scooping out a boxful.

Jenkins presides over his far-flung projects from a modest office with a Mickey Mouse telephone and a stained-glass rendition of the famous rooster in his classic role as the Sorcerer's Apprentice.

According to his wife, Bee, a vice president of the family-owned firm, Jenkins often answers the phone at home with Mickey's voice. He doesn't do a bad Donald Duck either.

"You'll never see anything better than Walt Disney World," he says.

But he's no slouch himself.

LARC is currently designing China's first amusement park and is a partner with the British firm of Alton Towers Ltd. in the redevelopment of the huge Battersea power station on the River Thames in the heart of London.

At any one time, the firm is involved in more than 30 projects, Jenkins says, in capacities ranging from feasibility studies to design to operational training and consultation.

It keeps Jenkins, 43, on the road much of the time and has made him an expert on everything from the most advantageous place for restroom towel dispensers (away from the sink so people use fewer) to the latest novelty food (pizza on a stick) to how to tickle a Chinese funnybone (gently).

His unique business has presented Jenkins with some offbeat problems.

In Lagos, Nigeria, the opening of the country's first amusement park was beset by an unexpected glitch. During the night, residents of the area had snuck into the park to do their laundry.

"We had to take eight forklift loads of clothing out of the boat ride before we could get it working again," he recalled.

The Lagos project was also the scene of what Jenkins calls his worst miscalculation.

"We missed in Africa on the concept that people would stand in line," he said.

In Shantou, on the southern coast of China, the LARC team had to revamp their ideas of what the public

Youngsters aren't stubborn — it's just that most of them have a lot of "no"-how.

wanted out of rides.

"The rides are not very thrilling," Jenkins says. "They want things where nobody will be embarrassed by showing their fear."

Dragon Lake, part of a mixed-use development that will include a 300-room hotel and a 170,000-foot shopping center, is a milestone for LARC. It is a gateway, Jenkins says, to a vast market ripe for amusement.

Also on the drawing boards, literally, is the $50 million transformation of the Battersea power station into a retail and amusement center.

Jenkins begins unraveling plans and sketches, enthusiastically describing how the old power station, which is the length of two football fields and 15 stories high, will enclose such delights as hot air balloon rides and an ice skating rink, as well as shops, restaurants and theaters.

He pauses, his ever-present smile widening, and considers the audience for his latest palace of delights.

"They love to have fun," he says of the British, "but they don't want anyone to know it."

But it is back home that Jenkins, a veteran of more than 400 projects, including two world's fairs, confronts his toughest audiences.

He and his research staff track demographic data carefully, searching for trends that can affect their industry.

As consumers of fun, he says, people in the U.S. are sophisticated, demanding — and easily bored.

According to Jenkins, the U.S. market approaching the saturation point for large theme parks and scream-producing rides.

"The arms race in the (roller) coaster business is basically over," he says with finality.

The future of the $2 billion a year amusement park industry lies in innovations like interactive video and simulator machines "that put you in the action," Jenkins says.

"In the 1960s and 1970s, everybody wanted to watch a porpoise jump through a hoop," Jenkins says. "Today they want to participate. It's an older audience, but they want to do things."

Jenkins started LARC as a one-man band "with a typewriter and a desk" in 1970 after leaving Six Flags Over Texas, where he was a vice president.

The company has become a bustling concern with a permanent staff of more than 25 and access to a host of experts in various fields.

Saying "no" is a large part of the business. Jenkins says he and his staff spend a lot of time quashing unprofitable or impractical ideas.

"We really believe in telling people what they ought to do, not what they want to hear," he says.

Sometimes this gets expensive. Jenkins says LARC turned down an offer to design a $60 million amusement park in Abu Dhabi in the United Arab Emirates because the population of 114,000 was too small to support the park.

"We told them it was totally unsound," he says.

CHICAGO (AP) — Manufacturers still regard the Sun Belt as America's most attractive region, but some constraints to growth in that area and greater diversification of Frost Belt economies could help close the gap, an annual business survey shows.

And Florida, which had been ranked first among the 48 contiguous states studied for three consecutive years, lost its top ranking and dropped to third place behind South Dakota and North Dakota, according to the survey conducted by Alexander Grant & Co., a Chicago-based public accounting concern.

The six-state Great Lakes region showed the biggest improvement nationally last year in improving its manufacturing climate, but remained in last place among the eight regions studied.

The southeastern and southwestern states that make up the two Sun Belt regions again placed first and second, respectively, although some problems were anticipated.

"Water shortages cast doubt on future growth for some Sun Belt states, especially Florida, California and Texas," said the Naisbitt Group, which prepared an overview and analysis to accompany the Grant survey.

"Additionally, some residents in fast-growing areas are questioning the value of bigness, and pushing for growth management and, in some cases, growth control," said the group, a Washington, D.C.-based concern formed by "Megatrends" author John Naisbitt.

South Dakota Gov. Bill Janklow said good labor-management relations, a productive work force and an unequalled tax climate were behind his state's climb to the No. 1 spot.

"We spent a lot of money and a lot of time trying to make this state attractive and it's paying off for us," he said.

"Our tax climate is the most healthy in the nation. We have no corporate or personal income tax. Nobody can be better than that."

The survey, now in its sixth year, bases its ranking on 22 factors, each weighted in the final rankings according to the priority assigned by the 37 state associations that represent manufacturers and participate in the survey.

Energy costs were the top priority listed by the associations, according to the survey, followed closely by wages paid to workers.

Also among the factors considered were state and local taxes and government fiscal policies; availability and productivity of work force; and other manufacturing-related issues such as population.

Following South Dakota was neighboring North Dakota and then Florida. The other top 10 states in order were Nebraska, Utah, Mississippi, Arkansas, North Carolina, Georgia and Tennessee.

Michigan, ranked last in 1983, remained at the bottom of the 48-state list in 1984, the only one of six states in the improving Great Lakes region that failed to move up at least two places.

Of the Great Lakes region's other five states — Indiana, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Ohio, and Illinois — Wisconsin made the biggest leap, climbing to 31st place from 42nd.

The Grant study said the gap between North and South could be closed further by the kind of business diversification occurring in places like Detroit, where the s.s. experiencing a slump ... another set of industries experiences a growth spurt, bringing the economy back up again," the Naisbitt analysis noted. "While this seesaw of growth and decline may appear to indicate a fundamental instability it is actually a sign of vitality."

The Grant survey also found that manufacturing union membership decreased in each of the eight regions, with declines of more than 10 percent in eight states. Maine was the only state to register an increase of more than 10 percent in union membership in manufacturing companies.

Nationally, union membership slipped from 29 percent of total manufacturing employment of 5.3 million workers in 1983 to 27.2 percent of a total manufacturing employment of 5.2 million in 1984, the survey reported.

Texas second in region rankings for industry

CHICAGO (AP) — Here is a list of how the regions and individual states were ranked by their attractiveness to manufacturers in 1984, according to a business survey conducted by the public-accounting company of Alexander Grant & Co.

The regions are listed in order of rank, with the individual state rankings following in parentheses and the regional averages.

Following each region are excerpts from an overview and analysis prepared by the Naisbitt Group to accompany the Grant survey.

population density per square mile — an indicator of work force and general market availability — is low ... dramatic demographic shifts are turning this area around. Construction activity throughout the Southwest is at a fever pitch. ... a region on the move."

North Central
South Dakota (1); North Dakota (2); Nebraska (4); Kansas (13); Idaho (18); Missouri (20); Iowa (26); Montana (34); Wyoming (43). Regional average — 18.

"A study in contradictions, the North Central region boasts three of the top five states with the best overall climate for manufacturers. ... while taxes are comparatively low, increases have been significant and they could rise even more. ... energy costs for manufacturers are among the lowest in the country and the percentage of high school-educated adults between 25 and 64 years of age was among the highest."

the fastest-growing state in the region, the South Central states have been struggling to keep pace with the national economy."

Mid-Eastern
New Jersey (24); Maryland (30); Delaware (32); New York (38); Pennsylvania (39); West Virginia (45). Regional average — 35.

"Similar to the northern states, Mid-eastern states — with the exception of Delaware, which has maintained steady growth over the years — are attempting to reverse years of decline. They have made respectable, and in some areas phenomenal, progress by keying into high-growth industries and by diversifying existing industries. ... have taken giant steps forward in healing old wounds and guaranteeing future prosperity."

prove their business climate without abandoning quality-of-life considerations ..."

New England
New Hampshire (27); Massachusetts (28); Vermont (33); Connecticut (36); Maine (46); Rhode Island (47). Regional average — 36.

"It is virtually impossible to quantify an indomitable spirit. Yet that is precisely what enabled New England to reverse years of decline to become one of the most prosperous areas of the nation. ... A well educated work force will be the critical competitive edge."

Southeastern
Florida (3); Mississippi (6); North Carolina (8); Georgia (9); Tennessee (10); Virginia (11); South Carolina (14); Alabama (19); Kentucky (21). Regional average — 11.

"A good climate, low unionization, and access to major markets make this area particularly attractive. To date, rural areas, heavily dependent of textile manufacturing — which has been devastated by foreign competition — are being left behind."

South Central
Arkansas (7); Texas (16); Oklahoma (23); Louisiana (20). Regional average — 22.

"The South Central region, once awash in oil, is drying up. ... experiencing unfamiliar (and uncomfortable) economic pressures. ... With the exception of Texas,

Western

Bones may be linked to suicides

WEST POINT, Calif. (AP) — Investigators who pulled the bones of two adults and a child from secret graves are examining the skeletal remains for links to eight missing people and a survivor who committed suicide in police custody.

The bones were found near a house in rural Calaveras County, about 150 miles east of San Francisco. Authorities said Friday the house was used by Leonard Lake, a federal fugitive and self-styled survivalist who swallowed a suicide pill on Thursday, four days after his arrest.

"There are piles of bones everywhere ... sitting with just a little dirt on them," said Calaveras County Deputy Sheriff Robert Mortimer.

It was unclear how many bodies were scattered around the three-acre tract, said Calaveras County Coroner Terry Parker. The cause of death was unknown and investigators would have to use dental charts to identify the dead, he added.

"We have nothing to go on, as they're very small bits of remains, but skeletal remains," Parker said. "There may be eight bodies there, maybe more. We're really just at the beginning of this thing."

Calaveras County Sheriff Claud Ballard said the case seems to be connected to the disappearance last year of a car salesman and a freelance video cameraman, his wife and their child.

Printer and video producer Harvey Dubs, 29, his wife, Deborah, 33, and their 16-month-old son, Sean, vanished on July 25, while auto dealer Paul Cosner, 39, has not been seen since Nov.

2. The missing people lived in San Francisco.

Deputy San Francisco police Chief Joseph Lordan said both Cosner and Dubs placed newspaper ads to sell items before they disappeared.

In addition to the Dubses and Cosner, Calaveras County sheriff's deputies said four other people are missing from a house adjacent to the property where the bones were discovered. Sheriff's Sgt. Ron McCall refused Friday to name the missing family.

San Francisco police Chief Con Murphy said on Friday. "We don't know how far it will go."

Lake, arrested for driving Cosner's stolen car, swallowed poison while writing a statement to police, investigators said. He was declared dead at 1:11 p.m.

Thursday. Contents of the police statement were not disclosed.

Mortimer, who believes the property might belong to Lake's father-in-law, said the skeletons of the two adults were lying in a telephone cable trench, while the other bones had been burned and were scattered nearby.

Militia renews threat to kill Finnish unless others released

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Members of a mostly Christian militia holding 23 Finnish members of a U.N. peacekeeping force renewed their threat today to kill "one every hour" unless Shiite Moslems released 11 of their comrades, a U.N. official said.

A U.N. source said officials were in radio contact with the 23 hostages today, and that they were in good condition.

Members of the South Lebanon Army militia, which is trained and equipped by Israel, abducted 24 Finns soldiers Friday. It released two of them, both officers, "for negotiations to resolve the problem and one returned (to captivity) as it was agreed. Now they are 23," said the U.N. source, who spoke on condition he not be identified.

Timur Goksel, spokesman for the United Nations Interim Force in Lebanon, said, "The threat was renewed this morning. They said they will shoot the U.N. soldiers one every hour."

He said they gave no

deadline for carrying out the threat, and he said he did not know whether the abduction reflected the official stand of the militia command or a decision by individuals.

Goksel said Finnish officers on Friday went to the village of Bedias to visit members of the South Lebanon Army seized by the Shiite Amal militia earlier in the day.

"The 11 men are in good shape and we have received assurances from Amal that they will remain in good shape," said Goksel.

Goksel said the South Lebanon Army accused the Finns of helping Amal militiamen in the Friday attack on a post of the Christian militia in Qantara, in which the 11 were captured.

However, he said the Finns had not taken part in any attack. He said the Finns were kidnapped by the South Lebanon Army from a U.N. post in Qantara, six miles north of the Israeli border, and from a bus outside the post.

Reinforcements from other

U.N. units were moved into the 490-man Finnish battalion's sector on Friday, he said.

Qantara is within the buffer zone established by Israel after the pullout of its troops from southern Lebanon this week. Israel trained and armed the South Lebanon Army to patrol the area, which overlaps with the zone manned by the 5,600-man U.N. Interim Force in Lebanon, known as UNIFIL.

In New York, U.N. Secretary-General Javier Perez de Cuellar appealed for Israeli help in getting the peacekeepers released. In Washington, the State Department said it deplored the kidnappings.

The stand-off was one of the most serious confrontations between U.N. forces and the 1,500-man Christian militia.

Meanwhile, in the besieged Palestinian refugee camps of Beirut, three armed women and a Shiite militia gunman forced U.N. relief officials and the Austrian ambassador into the Bourj el-Barajneh refugee camp to negotiate the release of Shiite Moslems reportedly held by Palestinians.

After nearly three hours, Robert B. Gallagher, Canadian director of the U.N. Relief and Works Agency, Ambassador Georg Znidaric of Austria and two Lebanese U.N. relief officials drove out of the camp unharmed. They would not discuss what had happened.
