County's reserve funds to climb by end of year

By GEORGIA TYLER Staff Writer

Reserve funds of Deaf Smith County are expected to climb an estimated $23,000 by the end of the current fiscal year.

The good news from County Auditor Alex Schroeter came Monday morning when Commissioners' Court began work on a budget for the next fiscal year, beginning Oct. 1.

Schroeter told commissioners that total of all reserve funds should be approximately $1.133 million. The county began the current year with total reserves of $1.110 million. He based his revenue projections on prior experience and income so far this year.

In other business, commissioners approved advertising for bids to replace maintainers in Precincts 2 and 4 and voted to restore polling places in three areas where they were eliminated in the recent special election.

Preliminary figures for the fiscal 94 budget project expenditures of $814,584 for all precincts' road and bridge requirements, matched by revenue from taxes, auto licenses and other sources of $814,584.

is projected at $3.250 million while expenses are estimated at slightly more, $3.320 million.

In reviewing the figures with commissioners, Schroeter observed that elected officials and department heads submitted their budget needs. He took into account those requirements but included no pay increases, as were requested in most instances. Increases of about $40,000 in jail operation and $28,320 for the sheriff's department are included in the budget. The tax collector estimates a slight increase of about $2,500 and the district attorney's office, about $18,000.

An increase of $2,500 is requested by the justice of the peace. Cost of operating the county library may rise by less than $5,000.

Holding the line in expenditures are the county clerk, county treasurer, county judge and county social service, adult probation, county museum and district judge.

Requesting $1,000 less than in the current budget is the district clerk and the county auditor's budget was increased by $350. A $900 increase request was turned in by the county extension service.

Expense incurred for road and bridge requirements in all four precincts was not raised from the amount budgeted this year.

Commissioners took under advisement the projections submitted by Schroeter.

County Judge Tom Simons said he would like for commissioners to consider salary increases for county employees.

Precinct 2 Commissioner Lupe Chavez noted that he is in favor of employee pay raises but "opposed to commissioners getting a raise."

During a brief discussion of voting boxes, County Clerk David Ruland said the polling places at Wildorado, Simms and Ford were eliminated for the May 1 special election because voter turnout had been light in the Dast

Simons and other commissioners said they had received complaints from voters living in those areas where no boxes were provided for the election.

After a motion, commissioners voted unanimously to place voting boxes in the areas for the special election runoff in June

Bill would restrict some information

information group is warning lawmakers that a pending bill would seriously restrict public access to much-needed government information

The House on Monday passed the bill to make confidential home addresses, home telephone numbers and Social Security numbers under the Open Records Act.

The House gave final approval to the bill by Rep. Allen Hightower, D-Huntsville, on a voice vote with no debate and sent it to the Senate.

But some decried the legislation as seriously eroding the state's open records law.

The bill "basically guts the Open Records Act," said Tony Pederson. chairman of the First Amendment and freedom of information coalition Texas Media.

Pederson said that even informa-tax rolls would be kept secret under the measure.

"The thought of having secret voter registration lists is monstrous. If the government has the right to withhold all of that information, we can have no confidence in elections," he said. "It invites abuse."

Although the Open Records Act requires that information held by governmental bodies be available to the general public, exceptions exist.

Those listed in Hightower's bill address, phone number and Social Security number.

Hightower, in urging preliminary approval of his bill on Saturday, had said, "There's no right to privacy, as long as that information can be gathered through the Open Records Act, for anybody."

The measure would also keep

Texas Media said the bill could curb public access to voter registration records, make it impossible to learn the true residency of political candidates, restrict a property would include a person's home owner's access to tax appraisal district information about the valuation placed on his property and that of his neighbors, and end charity groups' ability to compile mailing lists from government records.

Pederson, who also is managing editor of the Houston Chronicle, said the bill flies in the face of openness in government. "The whole purpose ate," he said.

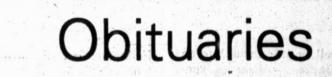

The bill would "create a huge administrative nightmare for any governmental body that's asked for voter registration records" if they have to delete the addresses and is six months in jail and a $1,000 fine. telephone numbers, Austin lawyer David Donaldson said.

"It impacts the public's ability to gather political support or to get their views known," he said.

The bill's supporters have cited danger from stalkers getting information about victims.

It doesn't make sense to change the way government works because of a "few instances" of such conduct, Donaldson said.

Well-rested Bulls take on Cavaliers

CHICAGO (AP) - The Chicago Bulls hope the extra time off that allowed them to get over their aches and pains didn't cost them their competitive edge.

The two-time defending champions will find out tonight when they open the best-of-7 second-round series against the Cleveland Cavaliers.

The Bulls completed their three-game romp over Atlanta on May 4, then have had to wait a week while the Cavaliers outlasted New Jersey in a five-game series that ended Sunday.

Chicago remembers last year.

That was when the Bulls needed only three games to eliminate Miami, then rested while New York played a tough five-game series against Detroit. The Knicks came to Chicago and upset the Bulls in the opener of a rough seven-game series.

The Cavaliers hope to do the same thing, but they won't catch the Bulls napping. Coach Phil Jackson reminded the Bulls at practice Monday of what happened last year.

"There's a difference," Jackson said. "We had beaten the Knicks something like 14 straight when they came in, but Cleveland has beaten us this year."

Never in the playoffs, though. The Bulls have eliminated the Cavaliers three times in the last five years. Still, Cleveland holds a 3-2 edge over the Bulls this season.

Will the week-long layoff hurt?

"We'll have to wait and see," Jackson said. "Any comment I make on that won't hold water until we see how the team comes out for the first game."

What Does A Typical Brand Reader Look Like?

The Hereford Brand "We Reach Thousands Every Day!" 364-2030

That's difficult to say because you are as different as your substantial number would imply! You are one of the 4,100 households we're invited to every evening. That's quite a few. According to the most recent census, our township has slightly less than 5000 households.

Your vocation is part of a broad spectrum as well -- white collar, blue collar, owners, managers, cowboys, teachers, housewives, students and professional.

Yet, with all your individual complexities, your interest in local issues and news gives you and other readers a common bond which is separated only by your level of curiosity.

You are an informed, intelligent and often vocal audience, and we're happy to be a part of your household every evening!

having a grand time slamming the opposition in their best start ever.

Darren Daulton hit a grand slam in the seventh inning Monday night, leading the Phillies to a 5-1 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates. On Sunday, Mariano Duncan's grand slam beat St. Louis 6-5.

"It's nice to have somebody do it every game," Daulton said, smiling broadly at the thought. "It's amazing."

Daulton, who now has four career grand slams, has the formula for the Phillies' 23-7 start, the best after 30 games in club history.

"The pitching staff keeps us in it until something miraculous happens," he said.

Philadelphia's Danny Jackson (3-1) gave up a second-inning run and blanked the Pirates the rest of the way. He allowed four hits, struck out six and walked two in eight innings.

Mets 1, Marlins 0

Bret Saberhagen pitched a three-hitter to snap a personal three-game losing streak as New. York won for just the third time in 14 start. games.

The Philadelphia Phillies are moved the last-place Mets within two games of sixth-place Florida in the East.

Saberhagen (3-3), whose other two victories have been against the expansion Colorado Rockies, struck out eight and walked one in pitching his first shutout since beating Houston 1-0 on April 29, 1992.

Reds 6, Padres 5

Tom Browning got his third straight victory, and Barry Larkin and Kevin Mitchell drove in two runs apiece for Cincinnati.

Browning (3-2) gave up 10 hits and two walks over six innings, but allowed just three runs. The visiting Padres stranded eight runners - six in scoring position - and hit into a pair of inning-ending double plays against Browning.

Reliever Jeff Reardon got the last two outs to remain perfect in five save opportunities.

Cincinnati scored five runs off Kerry Taylor (0-2), who remained winless after his third major-league fly in the first inning. The victory three runs for Chicago at Wrigley Field.

Eric Karros broke up the no-hit bid with a double in the sixth. He also had an eighth-inning single and ended Hibbard's (3-2) shutout bid when he scored on Cory Snyder's pinch RBI double.

Smith's leadoff double, the first, hit off Pedro Astacio (2-3), triggered a four-run fourth. Smith added a two-run homer in the fifth.

Astros 5, Braves 2

Ken Caminiti's two-run double keyed a four-run eighth inning as Houston ended Atlanta's 14-game winning streak in the Astrodome.

Greg Maddux held the Astros to two hits over seventh innings, but gave up a double to Eddie Taubensee to start the eighth inning and was replaced by Jay Howell (1-2).

Rockies 7, Giants 4

Dante Bichette hit a three-run homer, and Armando Reynoso pitched well and homered as Colorado ended a five-game losing streak.

Tigers win 1st place battle

By The Associated Press

Yankees have already seen plenty of each other this season.

The Tigers won their first-place battle with the Yankees when Gary Thurman singled with the bases loaded in the bottom of the 10th inning to give Detroit a 2-1 victory over visiting New York Monday night.

The surprising Tigers, whose lead had slipped to one-half game in the AL East, have been in first place since April 23. The teams split the four-game series, with three going into extra innings.

The last time the Tigers had three extra-inning games in a series was in August 1972 at Minnesota.

'You get a team four times, you get a pretty good feel for their skills," Yankees manager Buck Showalter said. "They probably got a feel for us, too. But the next time we meet (in June), somebody else may be hot."

Bob MacDonald (3-0) pitched the final two innings for the Tigers, allowing one hit.

Orioles 2, Red Sox 1

Rookie Mark Leonard's eighth-inning sacrifice fly broke a tie

The Detroit Tigers and New York Boston at Camden Yards. Leo Gomez West-leading Chicago by eight homered for the Orioles, who have won three straight games and eight of 12 after starting the season 5-13. Todd Frohwirth (2-2) entered in the eighth and got one out in the ninth before Brad Pennington finished for his first career save.

White Sox 13, Mariners 2

Chicago scored six runs in the first two innings against 20-year-old rookie Mike Hampton (1-2) and went on to rout Seattle at the Kingdome for its fifth straight victory.

Robin Ventura, Frank Thomas and Dan Pasqua each hit two-run homers for the White Sox. In the ninth inning, Michael Huff, Bo Jackson and Pasqua homered off reliever Dennis Powell. Alex Fernandez improved his record to 4-2 and lowered his ERA to 1.88 with eight strong innings to help the White Sox win for the 11th time in 13 games.

Rangers 7, Athletics 4

Juan Gonzalez homered in his third straight game as visiting Texas beat Oakland, sending the Athletics to their third straight loss. The A's dropped a season-high eight games and lifted surging Baltimore over under .500 (10-18) and trail AL

Gonzalez hit his 10th home run of the season to give the Rangers a 5-0 lead in the third, one inning after Dean Palmer hit his ninth. Both were two-run shots off loser Ron Darling (0-2).

Winner Charlie Leibrandt (4-1) breezed through every inning but the fourth, when the A's scored three runs on home runs by Mark McGwire and Dave Henderson.

Twins 13, Angels 3

Dave Winfield broke out of a slump with four singles to lead Minnesota's 22-hit attack as the Twins crushed California at Anaheim. Shane Mack also had four hits, including a two-run home run in the seventh inning, and Mike Pagliarulo added a three-run homer in the eighth as the Twins roughed up starter John Farrell (2-4) and three other pitchers.

The 41-year-old Winfield had just five hits in his previous 42 at-bats and was batting .204 entering the game. One of his hits was a bunt single.

Willie Banks (3-2) went 5 2-3 innings, allowing two runs on six hits and three walks for the victory.

Cowboys cancel charity game

Cowboys walked away from a charity basketball game after promoters of the event could not reach an agreement with the athletes.

Running back Emmitt Smith and wide receiver Michael Irvin, two of the best-known players on the world championship team, were among those returning to Dallas on Monday, shortly after their arrival at Baylor University's Ferrell Center.

They had been scheduled for an autograph session and a basketball game against Waco police.

"We're dealing with a bunch of very disappointed kids here," Jim Doak, Baylor chief of public safety, told the Waco Tribune-Herald. "The promoters really dropped the ball."

Both the members of the Super Bowl champion team and the police group said the game's Waco promoters, a non-profit group called WACO, Texas (AP) - Some Dallas Citizens for Higher Education, failed leave," he said. to deliver on the team's upfront payment.

The group's members said they had organized the game to raise funds to help resurrect the old Paul Quinn College campus in East Waćo.

The group's vice president for marketing, James Douglas, said managers for the Cowboy Hoopsters - players not officially representing the professional franchise - had kept them guessing about what it would take to get the players on the basketball court.

"On April 28, we received a copy of the contract and worked out an agreement for them to accept $5,000 for the appearance," Douglas said Monday

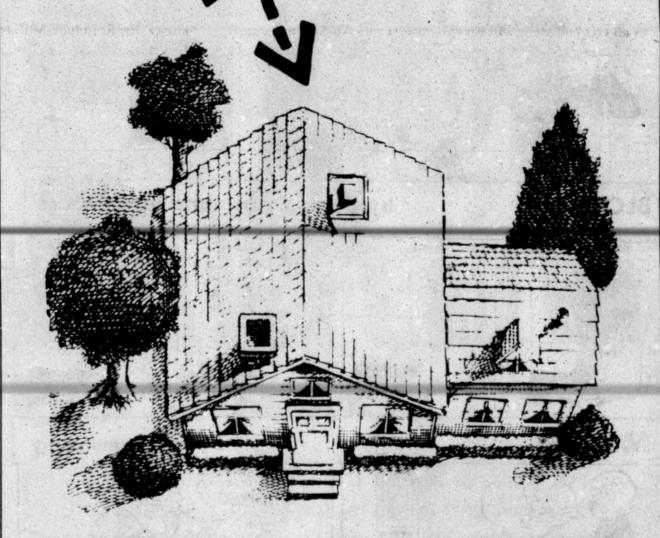

"This afternoon, a man from Dallas called and said that if they didn't have $20,000 waiting - in cash, at the interstate - they were going to

Michael and Melissa Darr, expectant parents who had registered at Hillcrest Baptist Medical Center in anticipation of a Monday due date, came to the 5 p.m. autograph session with a tiny Cowboys jersey for players to sign.

"We were upset," said Mrs. Darr. 'We don't really know what happened. All we know is that it was something about some contract."

Other children who came to see football heroes left the Ferrell Center in tears when they learned there would be no game.

Douglas said the players had fulfilled part of the agreement, making appearances at the Paul Ouinn campus and at the Waco Veteran's Administration Medical Center before pulling out less than two hours before the game.

Financing, Down Payments, Price negotiations. Inspections. All obstacles that could block you from buying a home.

But one move could get you right through that red tape. A call to an experienced real estate agent.

An expert agent can coach you smoothly through the entire home buying process. From using the sophisticated multiple listing service to find the home that fits your needs and your budget. To tackling financing options. Setting up and monitoring inspections. Negotiating price. And even maneuvering you through closing.

So when you need a skilled teammate, get someone who really knows the housing field--a real estate agent.

Read The Hereford Brand for more information about qualified agents. Every day, the real estate classifieds list many properties and agents. And on Sundays the housing section examines the latest market trends and home buying opportunities.

Getting the right coaching now could mean the difference between confusion and closing.

HE'S WEARING IT ...

Cattle Barons Ball scheduled June 19

Superstar Lee Greenwood has been finest collections of songs he has ever signed to headline the 1993 Cattle Barons Ball, co-chairmen Diane and Bill Lowell have announced. The event, which benefits the American Cancer Society, is scheduled from 7 p.m. until 1 a.m. June 19 at the V-8 Ranch southeast of Lubbock, the Lowells said.

The theme for this year's bash is "Starry Skies, Dazzling Dancers, Southwestern Magic."

Baron's tickets, which include a private reception and bus service, a special gift, preferred seating in the Baron's circle, dinner, dancing and entertainment, are $250 each or $2,000 for a table of eight.

Wrangler tickets are $125 per person or $1,000 for a table of eight. These tickets include bus service, dinner, dancing and entertainment.

Persons were throughout West Texas and Eastern New Mexico are urged to support the major fundraiser became a signature song for him and for the American Cancer Society, the Lowells said in announcing Greenwood.

Chartered buses will be departing from Plains National Bank at 6:30 p.m. and will continue at intervals. There will be no private parking at the ranch.

In addition to the appearance by Greenwood, dance music will be provided by the Lubbock band, "Phoenix." Hosts are Sam Arnett and Jack and Arlette Flygare. Jeanne and Dave Knapp are assistant co-chairmen for the ball.

Greenwood is one of the most popular entertainers in America today. "Love's On The Way," his latest resides in Nashville. Liberty album, contains one of the recorded, says producer Jerry Crutchfield.

The album contains a breadth and depth of subject matter and his featured vocals have never been better. The album kicks in with "Before I'm Over You" and follows with "In Other Words" and "Final TOuches" to name a few. He also has included the pop classic, "Linda Lu."

The versatile star, who plays 10 instruments (woodwinds, piano, guitar, saxophone and keyboards), has recorded many instantly recognizable vocals since he made his recording debut in 1981 with "It Turns Me Inside Out." He quickly followed that hit with a string of charter-toppers: "Ring on Her Fingers, Time On Her Hands," "She's Lying" and "Ain't No Trick (It Takes Magic)."

In 1983, Greenwood's I.O.U." in 1984 he recorded "God Bless The U.S.A.," which has become one of the most played songs of all time. He was a smashing success with the song at George Bush's inauguration, as it was followed by a gigantic fireworks demonstration.

His awards have run the gamut, including Best New Artist and Male Vocalist of the Year, among others. In 1984, Greenwood took home a Grammy for Best Male Performance and in 1991, he was a Grammy nominee for his hit duet single, "Hopelessly Yours," with labelmate Suzy Boggess. Pioneer Day planned

The public is invited to attend the Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum's Pioneer Day from 1-5 p.m. Saturday at the Canyon museum. The event will focus on early Panhandle settlement and a variety of pioneer demonstrations are planned.

Wear your learning, like your watch, in a private pocket: and do not pull it out and strike it, merely to show that you have one.

About one-third of the ice cream sold in the United States is vanilla.

The Hereford Brand--Tuesday, May 11, 1993--Page 7 Enjoy the outdoors and relaxation in the shade. It's synonymous with outdoor entertainment, sporting events, exciting travel fun and getting outdoors with friends plans and family outings. It's hard to resist the lure of the beach, the pool, the boat and the tennis court. And it's a time for rejuvenation and selfimprovement as well.

As long as you can beat the heat, yet bask in all the fun-filled activities that summer has to offer, an enjoyable season of leisure awaits you and your entire family.

While many may recite an almost endless list of the season's most undesirable attributes - heat exhaustion, automobiles overheating, creepy insects devouring picture-perfect gardens, the blazing sun - this shortlived season almost always brings out a positive note in everyone.

For one, it tends to make people pay attention to their bodies. After all, of course you're going to get a bit more figure-conscious with all the skimpy, lightweight clothing that's abundant in summer. Maybe it's time to get that new polka dot bikini you've always wanted. So freshen up your look! Concentrate on eating healthy, exercising, getting tanned and toned, and immersing yourself in an agenda full of the best summer has to offer.

Summertime also is the perfect time to be a good sport! It's the perfect time of year for learning a new water sport skiing, scuba diving, canoeing. What better ways are there to enjoy the great outdoors while also staying cool and refreshed?

But if you aren't prone to sports, but perhaps sports cars, this is the season for tooling around in a convertible with the wind in your hair and the sun on your face. Or perhaps it's time to accept that invitation you've been declining to go out on your friend's sailboat. There's something about gentle breezes

Summertime means fun in the sun rippling across the water that's refreshing for both the body and soul.

Another great idea for summertime is throwing a backyard barbecue - truly an all-American tradition. So break out that grill you've hardly used!

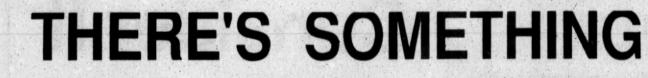

Traveling great distances by car on family vacations can be draining on both adults and children. Plan entertainment (reading materials, coloring books), games and music ahead of time to make the trip a smooth one. A compact cooler full of bottled water, juices and fresh fruit serves as a perfect picker-upper.

Don't let the heat get the best of you. It's important to drink plenty of replenishing liquids. How about mixing up a cool, frozen concoction during gardening breaks? Put that kitchen blender to good use! Try a new recipe for a fresh fruit smoothie or a nonalcoholic daiquiri.

Finally, don't go anywhere without shades to protect eyes and face from harmful ultraviolet rays. And sunscreen is a must for sensitive skin that's spending extra-long hours in the sun. And, anytime you head outdoors, whether poolside or golfing, take along a water spritzer to mist your face and a bottle of cold water for a quick, refreshing drink.

So, now that you've got the cool angle on summer, take time to enjoy these hot tips!

Pine trees cover more of the Earth's surface than any other tree group, according to Georgia Pacific Corp., a forest products company. Almost all pine trees grow naturally only in North America. There are nearly 100 species of pines, which are evergreen trees with cones and needles-leaves.

Chapel comes to life

This renovated Prisoner of War camp chapel, built by a group of Italian POWs held at a camp just south of Hereford during World War II, has received designation as a Recorded Texas Historic Landmark. The grounds of the chapel came to life on Saturday, as two dozen former POWs, accompanied by family members, joined area residents to dedicate the monument. The chapel is one of few physical reminders left of the prison. It is located about three miles south of town.

Voters don't believe shuffling funds will solve school problem

BY JOHN SMITHEE State Representative The predominate topic of conversation around Austin since May 1 revolves around trying to figure out exactly what the voters were trying to tell the Governor and the Legislature by slam-dunking all three ballot propositions with a resounding "no" vote.

Clearly, the voters were saying that there is a problem with Texas public schools and that the mere shuffling of money or raising of taxes is not the answer.

The sooner the Governor and the Legislature get the message, the better for all Texans. All this talk of massive district consolidations and tax increases misses the point. The point is: Texans want public schools that work.

Probably one of the best analyses of the present school crisis was written by Texas Supreme Court Justice John Cornyn in his concurring and dissenting opinion in the 1992 Carrollton-Farmers vs. Edgewood case(the case striking down CEDs).

Justice Cornyn pointed out that despite all the arguments over funding, "our system of public education languishes in mediocrity with no improvement in sight." He adds: "Surely, no one can contend best interest of our school children. $5,085 per pupil, while 100 percent Nor does it solve the fundamental defects in our schools."

Justice Cornyn points out that Texas can learn from the mistakes of other states. Connecticut, after years of "legally successful" school finance litigation, increased the state support to public schools by 35 percent, but failed to significantly improve its education product. New Jersey, after 17 years of litigation, finally resolved the litigation by spending more per student than any other state in the continental states, but noted little or no improvement in student achievement. Nationwide, real school expenditures(adjusted for inflation)doubled between 1966 and 1989; yet, SAT scores plummeted.

Another good example used by Cornyn is comparing the public schools and the Catholic schools in New York City. The public schools spent twice as much as Catholic schools, but cannot come close to competing in achievement. Cornyn points out that while the public system supports more than 7,000 bureaucrats in its headquarters, the Catholic system employs fewer than 35 people in its central office.

We can also look at examples here in Texas of how money does not guarantee quality education. In the that interminable litigation serves the 1988-89 school year. Petersburg spent of its ninth graders passed all the TEAMS tests. Meanwhile, Fruitvale in Van Zandt County spent $8,686 per student while only 26 percent of its ninth graders passed the TEAMS tests.

> One commentator who reviewed 187 educational studies performed between 1967-1988, concluded in the Harvard Journal on Legislation, "There is no systematic relationship between school expenditures and student performance.'

> So, why are the Governor, the Legislature and the courts preoccupied with this concept of pouring money into school districts for no specific purpose other than to equalize spending? By their votes on the three propositions, are not Texans telling us to concentrate first on the quality of education before we ask for more money?

> The salient point is that effective education is not only possible, but affordable. There are hundreds of examples of schools, both in Texas and the nation, with poor and minority enrollments which have taught these students basic skills within existing budgets. A Texas Law Review article recently concluded that, with all these success stories, "the purported justifications for failure are no longer defensible."

> The solution is so obvious that it's hard to miss. Let's identify successful schools and see what makes them work. (This has already been done.) If a school is working, don't strangle it with needless regulations. If a school is not working, identify the problem and fix it. Reduce bureaucracy and wasteful spending. Provide enough state equalization funding so that even poor districts can attain a level of quality education with no waste of inefficiency.

Texas is now under the intimidating court deadline to equalize funding or else face the temporary cutoff of state monies to schools. But, are we really willing to perpetuate a system of public education that doesn't work just to avoid a temporary suspension of funds? Come to think of it, isn't that the question that the voters answered with a loud and resounding "no" vote in the May 1 election?

(John Smithee is this district's state representative from Amarillo.)

Unaumorized use of vehicle was reported at Park and Ranger. The vehicle was located in the 200 block of Ranger later in the day.

Class C assault (domestic violence) and attempted suicide were reported in the 200 block of Avenue D. A man allegedly assaulted his wife by kicking her in the side. He then grabbed a samurai sword and stabbed himself in the abdomen. He was taken to Deaf Smith General Hospital where he was admitted for observation.

-- Domestic disturbance was reported in the 100 block of Alamo Street.

-- Theft was reported in the 600 block of Avenue K.

-- Theft was reported in the 200 block of Western, where an item valued at $255 was taken.

-- Theft of a license plate was reported in the 500 block of Avenue

-- Attempted murder was reported in the 800 block of Knight Street.

-- Two citations were issued. Two minor accidents were reported.

-- The fire department was dispatched at 2:30 p.m. to a major accident in the county west on 15th Street.

Here are excerpts from Sunday's Hereford Police Department daily activity summary: -- A 22-year-old male was arrested in the 200 block of West Third for public intoxication.

-- A 17-year-old male was arrested in the 200 block of West Third for public intoxication.

-- An incident was reported in the 600 block of Irving where it was reported that a child was stuck in a gas meter. Police, fire and ambulance responded and found the child had been removed, but he was transported to Deaf Smith General Hospital.

-- Domestic disturbance was reported in the 400 block of Avenue B, where the husband and wife were arguing, but no assault had occurred. -- Minor in possession of alcohol charges were filed in the 300 block of Western.

-- Harassment by phone was reported in the 400 block of Avenue

-- Public intoxication was reported in the 400 block of North 25 Mile Avenue.

-- Disorderly conduct by using abusive language charges were filed at U.S. 385 and Vogel. -- Class C assault (domestic violence) was reported in the 300 block of Avenue D. No charges were filed.

-- Criminal mischief was reported at the city landfill, where a window valued at $50 was broken.

-- Fourteen citations were issued. There were no accidents or fire calls.

burned. You may think fires are the only source of burns, but they also can be caused by heat, chemicals, electricity or radiation.

heat burns commonly are caused by hot liquids, steam, and direct contact with fire. Acids and organic solvents can cause chemical burns. Contact with low- or high voltage electricity may result in electrical burns. Finally, exposure to radiation or, most commonly, the sun, can cause radiation burns.

Texas Medical Association urges you to take safety precautions to prevent burns. Fire and flames took the live sof 248 Texans in 1991. Nearly another 2,000 people were injured. Cooking accidents and arson are the leading causes of fires in Texas. Other sources of fires and burns include heating equipment, careless smoking, and playing with matches.

The young and elderly are most at risk of death in fires. Children under five years of age are more than twice as likely to die in fires as the population as a whole. For people over age 75, the death rate jumps to more than five times that of the general population.

"In general, elderly people have decreased mobility and physical reserve. Children are at increased risk because they don't know what to do in case of fire and their fascination with fire," explains Dr. Donald J. Gordon, a San Antonio emergency physician.

Dr. Gordon is a member of TMA's Committee on Emergency Medical Services and Trauma. The committee is working in cooperation with the Harris County Medical Society to distribute a resource kit for elementary school students, which includes burn prevention material.

-Follow these safety precautions to help protect you and your family from burns:

-Install a smoke detector in your home. This is the most important way o to protect your family and home. Check batteries monthly and change them once a year.

-Keep flammable liquids like gasoline away from flames and electric heat -Don't use heating equipment, such as space heaters, without supervision. This includes leaving equipment on overnight. Bed coverings can fall off beds easily and catch fire in portable space heaters.

There's more than one way to get every area of the home and have periodic "drills."

> -Make sure bath water is not too hot for children. Dr. Gordon recommends you set your water heater at the lowest setting.

> Be prepared if you or someone in your family is burned. If your clothing is on fire, drop to the group and roll to smother the flames. Do not run. If there is smoke in a building, crawl out beneath the smoke. For a chemical burn, flood the area with water. To treat small, superficial burns, apply a bland ointment and a gauze bandage. Never apply butter or grease. Watch for signs of swelling, redness, pain or heat. If you're worried about the severity of a burn, play it safe. Call your physician immediately.

Texas Medical Association is a professional organization of more than 31,000 physician and medical student members. It is located in Austin and has 118 component county medical societies around the state. The Association represents 82 percent of the doctors of medicine licensed and residing in Texas and 96 percent of the state's allopathic medical students. TMA's key objective is to improve the health of all Texans.

Update family routines

With each new season of the school year, I become more lax about the goals and expectations I had for family life last fall, especially when it comes to keeping up with routines.

If you also feel your family needs to get back in the groove before the lazy days of summer are upon us, here are a few ways.

1. If this time of year has put anextra spring in your kids' steps, they are no doubt dashing out the door for school leaving half of their belongings behind them. Try this last-minute check, from heat to toe. Name the necessary item and your child may respond "check." For example: > is a closet smoker. I've tried to tell her for years how I feel, but I could never bring myself to do it. Please help me out by printing this letter.

DEAR SWEETHEART: I hate what smoking is doing to your health. I'm afraid you won't be around to grow old with me. Your cough has become part of your personality. You have frequent colds and other respiratory problems and often complain of being tired. Can't you see what you are doing to yourself?

You pretend to be a non-smoker. I'm embarrassed by this. I suspect our family and friends know because of the smell, the cough and all the other signs. Your duplicity is making you look foolish. If you have enough willpower to keep from smoking publicly, why can't you stop smoking He can take care of his sleeping altogether?

I worry that one day you may set the house on fire. I see the watersoaked butts in various places, including-not true. My niece was as bad as my wastebaskets. What if you are in a hurry and don't put enough water on those butts? Do you ever wonder how much more you might get done if you weren't spending time thinking of when and where to sneak your next cigarette and how to hide the evidence?

Whenever we meet after being apart and I smell the smoke on your breath, in your clothes and in your hair, I feel a stab of disappointment. I wonder then if perhaps you are doing other things behind my back.

Thanks, Ann, for giving me an opportunity to get this off my chest. I feel better now. Please sign this--Love You Anyway in Wisconsin

2. Spending more time outside is wonderful this time of year, but it can cut into valuable reading time. Perk up your kids' interest in leisure reading by making a point to clip specific articles and stories suited to the interests of your child. For example, set aside a magazine story about a baseball player your child admires, a review in the newspaper about a film or play your child is anxious to see, and don't forget a cartoon on the comic pages to tickle the funny bone. Set the clippings at each child's place at the table at supper from time to time and encourage your kids to read them before bedtime. Your kids will look forward to adding to this junior "reader's digest" tailored just for blood of other birds. them.
