"Love at First Sight" Says Pioneer Preacher of City He Calls Home

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second of a series of articles about the men and women who have had a large part in the building of Hereford and Deaf Smith County. By RUTH TUCKER

"I fell in love with Hereford on sight," said Rev. M. M. Beavers, Panhandle pioneer—and long-time resident of Deaf Smith county, in a recent interview. "And, now after 25 years in this section of the country, I can say with Laura V. Hamner there is no place on earth like the Panhandle."

Marcus Milton Beavers was born of pioneer parents in 1872 in Arkansas. Of this, Rev. Beavers says in his humorous way, "Yes, I was born in Arkansas, but I moved to Texas as soon as I saw my mistake!" On the paternal side of the family, he traces his ancestors back through Tennessee, Kentucky and the Carolinas to the Atlantic seaboard. The history of his mother's family goes back through Georgia, Alabama and Florida.

Young Milton Beavers moved with his parents to Eastland county, Texas, in 1884. For 20 years he farmed in this Texas frontier-land, often having to fight Indians and other unfavorable conditions to live. It was here in 1896 that he married Miss Alma A. Munn.

Having attended Weatherford and Granbury colleges and Southwestern University, Georgetown, he had the equivalent of approximately one and one-half years of college training.

It was in 1905 that he entered the Methodist ministry. His first charge was in Haskell county—a mission without a parsonage, church or salary. As circuit rider, with his horse and buggy, the young preacher traversed the open range, which was marked only by a few wire fences and trails, organizing churches in community school-houses.

Rev. and Mrs. Beavers remained in Haskell county until 1910, having seen the completion of that county's first Methodist church building. During the next 10 years, Bro. Beavers filed charges in Jones county, Aspermont, Chillicothe and Canadian.

When the Beavers arrived in Hereford in 1920, it was just a small village "out on the prairie almost entirely sur-"

New State Map Presents Texas In Full Color

Another bid for out-of-state tourists is in the making as the Texas Highway department announces limited quantities of its first post-war color travel map are now rolling off the presses.

The new map is a deluxe edition, featuring color photographs of beauty spots throughout the state, from Palo Duro State park in the Panhandle to the Big Bend National park on the Rio Grande, and the fishing fleets in the Gulf of Mexico near Galveston.

It includes, in addition to a large map of Texas, a small-scale map of the United States and large-scale insets of the State's metropolitan areas, with trip maps of the main Texas travel routes and the Pan American highway to Mexico.

Twenty-six color pictures, which will be changed with each subsequent edition, depict typical Texas scenes.

In a brief message from the Governor, official greetings are extended "to motorists everywhere". In his message, Governor Stevenson extends to the people of other states and Nations a cordial invitation to visit and enjoy the hospitality of the Texas people. "The highways of Texas are yours," the message states. "Use them freely for your business and pleasure."

The deluxe map will be available to tourists at the Highway Department's Information Bureau, which have re-opened at strategic points to supply post-war tourists with reliable, up-to-date facts on highways and tourist attractions.

Hail Storms Strike at Wheat Belt Again As Harvest Nears Half Way Mark in Area

'Spudder'—1226 Sacks a Day!

This potato "factory," devised by Robert H. Miller of Gresham, Ore., digs, sacks, and loads 1226 sacks of potatoes a day with a nine-man crew, including truck driver. It's Miller's est-more-potatoes answer to the wheat conservation problem. Miller has a 600-acre farm.

Two Storms in County Speed Harvesting

Two hail storms, localized in area but disastrous in effect, struck Deaf Smith county wheat growers last week.

The first, on Wednesday night, June 26, centered in the Walcott area northwest of Hereford and was accompanied by a rain of near-cloudburst proportions estimated at more than 3 inches.

Center of the storm apparently was the H. D. Culpeppen farm. L. B. Godwin and L. B. Wolfington also reported losses.

Rainfall over the limited area was heavy enough to overflow terraces designed to withstand a three-inch rainfall.

A second hailstorm late last Thursday afternoon formed over the Colby Conkwright farm east of Hereford, and moved in a southeasterly direction to Dawn.

Little moisture accompanied the heavy hail storm, which destroyed a large acreage of still un-cut wheat.

The storm caught farmers in the middle of wheat harvest. Estimates are that approximately half the crop in the haled-out area had been harvested before the storm struck. No estimate could be made regarding the probable loss.

Early-Day Teacher Wouldn't Have Complained About Present-Day Pay

Teachers who think their present-day salaries are too low should give thanks that they weren't born forty years earlier. Among some old county records uncovered the other day by County Judge Fred W. Baird was a voucher for one month's salary submitted by one of Deaf Smith County's early teachers, E. L. Mangum, back in 1902. Professor Mangum's bill for services rendered from November 12 to December 12, 1902, was $22.50. And teachers weren't paid on a 12-month basis in those days, either. For his $22.50 per month, Mangum taught 16 courses, had four pupils enrolled. He taught the old Hord school, which was located somewhere east of the present Hord schoolhouse. Of his four pupils, three were girls. Two were of scholastic age, one was over-age, and one under. His courses of instruction in-"

To the Voters of Deaf Smith County:

The work in the District Court in the seven counties of this district has been extremely heavy this year, and will remain so, and for this reason I may not be able to see each of you individually although I would like to do so. Therefore, I take this means of asking you not only to vote for me as your candidate for District Judge, but also I wish to solicit your help and any good word that you may see proper to say for me.

I will have served the unexpired term at the end of this year, and I would like to continue as your District Judge for the first full term of the office, and based upon my record as your judge and the manner in which I have performed the duties of the office, I trust that you will see proper to give me your support.

I will continue to do my utmost to make you an efficient officer and to administer the affairs of the office of District Judge in a fair and impartial manner.

Due to demands, it is impossible for me to see each of you personally, but if I do not, please understand that it is not because I do not want your vote and influence which I sincerely do.

I have not let anything interfere with the discharge of the duties of this office, and I have never had any plans during the short time which I have filled the present unexpired term, except to ask you to give me the opportunity of serving you for the ensuing term of the office of District Judge of our District.

Respectfully,

John H. Aldridge

wives in touch with someone who can check it. A dealer who sells canners may have a master gage or the public service department of the power company may have one.

If it is necessary to send it to the manufacturer, it should be carefully wrapped and marked "fragile."

Finally, if it does register high or low, Miss Oliver suggests tying a reminder tag on the canner which states just how many pounds of pressure to allow.

Several county Home Demonstration clubs have already made plans to have a check attend club meetings in their communities.

Home Canners Warned To Check Pressure Gages

Home canners who have the dial type gage on their pressure canners should have it checked with a master gage before they begin canning this year, according to Miss Sadie Lee Oliver, Deaf Smith County Home Demonstration agent.

The weighted type gage will need nothing but thorough cleaning. As the gage is the guide to temperatures inside the steam pressure cooker, it is very important that it registers correctly. If jars have been heated too little, they will spoil later, Miss Oliver explains. Or if they have been heated too much the food will lose nutritive value, flavor and desirable texture.

This year when canned garden vegetables will help stretch world food supplies it is particularly important not to take chances on losing a single jar. Chances are that a gage can be checked in the community. The county home demonstration agent may be able to put house-

Disabled Veteran Has Priority On Hospitalization

The veteran disabled in line of duty during his military or naval service has first claim on government medical aid and hospitalization. But ex-servicemen whose illness or injuries are not a result of their service also may receive free hospitalization, if they left the service under conditions other than dishonorable, and are unable to pay for treatment at a private hospital.

However, until the Veterans administration's hospital construction program is completed, veterans with non-service-connected disabilities will experience some difficulty in obtaining hospitalization, since service-disabled vets hold the top priority.

In cases of life and death emergency, any veteran will be admitted immediately to any veterans' hospital. Next in line under the priority system is the vet with a service-connected disability. Third in the lineup is the veteran needing treatment for a non-service-connected disability, but receiving a pension for a disability he did acquire in service. Fourth is the veteran whose only disability is non-service-connected.

In an emergency case, a large part of the necessary paperwork may be deferred until after the veteran arrives at the hospital.

The procedure for a veteran with a non-service-connected disability who wishes to get into a VA hospital is as follows: He goes to the nearest VA regional office or hospital, or to a VA office in a small town, and files an application. He will be examined to determine his need for treatment, and he must certify that he is unable to pay for treatment at a private hospital.

A veteran with a service-connected disability follows a similar procedure, except that it is easier for him to establish eligibility for hospitalization. For example, his ability to pay for treatment is not considered; a veteran with a service-con-

Legion and VFW To Sponsor Show Here Next Week

The Veterans of Foreign Wars and the American Legion will present the Greater United Carnival Shows in Hereford for one week, starting Monday. This is the first appearance of this attraction in Hereford and it comes very highly recommended from cities close by where it has played.

The two organizations have a letter from the American Legion Post at Amarillo, which states that the J. George Loos Shows have just completed their tenth annual engagement with them and that during all this time there has never been a single complaint regarding the show. The Greater United Shows is the oldest organized carnival in the Southwest and Mr. Loos has always maintained that a carnival can furnish plenty of fun and amusement and at the same time have no objectionable features. He especially invites parents to allow their children to attend unaccompanied. He carries the latest rides and some shows that are new to Hereford. There are many toher entertainment features, all of the highest grade.

Both of the Veterans organizations receive a share of all receipts from the carnival and will use their proceeds to add to the building fund for a proposed Veterans Memorial home.

The picture on the one-dollar bill is a copy of Gilbert Stuart's portrait of George Washington.

Small-sized dollar bills have been in circulation as United States currency since July 10, 1929.

County Library Offers Big Variety In Recently Added Book Selection

Flower lovers and garden clubbers will be interested in two new books now on the shelves of the Deaf Smith county library.

The first is "Flowers—Their Arrangement" by J. Gregory Conway. Copiously illustrated, it's a handy manual of floral arrangements for the home.

The second, more specialized, is "Geraniums — for Windows and Gardens," by Helen Van Pelt Wilson. Not as well illustrated as the Conway book, it contains some nice water colors and line drawings by Natalie Harlin Davis, and appears to cover the field as far as varieties of geraniums are concerned.

One for the kiddies to enjoy is Frank Buck's "Jungle Animals," gorgeously illustrated in color by Roger Vernan, with a narrative by Ferrin Fraser. It affords a lively and colorful education on the story-book animals of Darkest Africa.

"This is Photography" by Thomas H. Miller (of the East-man company) and Wyatt Brummitt is a fairly complete one-volume education for amateur photographers and would-be shutter-bugs. It contains a number of pages of the type of photos that most amateurs dream of making... and seldom do... and the text covers all the essentials, except for helpful hints on how to find film.

For the person who is merely curious about any number of things, the library now has on hand George Stimpson's collection of odds and ends, "A Book About A Thousand Things." Offered last month as a book-dividend by the Book-of-the-Month Club, it is described by the author as "the fruits of curiosity." If you're interested in collecting odd facts of no particular value, you'll want to know about what moles eat, if monkeys can swim, what the O in AWOL stands for and if corn grows fastest at night... these being among the "thousand things" that are discussed by Stimpson in his rambling treatise.

Particularly timely on this, the eve of Philippine independence, is Carlos F. Romula's book, "I See the Philippines Rise," now on the library shelves.

Three recent Religious Book Club selections have just been received. They are "A Christian Global Strategy" by Walter W. VanKirk, "Religion in Russia" by Robt. Pierce Case, and "Bringing Our World Together" by Daniel Johnson Fleming.

SERVING YOU THROUGH SCIENCE
You need safety! You want mileage!
You like value! So you ask for

U.S. ROYALS

Since the very first days of the automobile, famous U.S. Royals have set the pace in tire quality—not new standards, year after year, in tire performance.

And now, there's a new U.S. Royal—with rayon cord. It's lighter...it's stronger...it's safer!

It's backed by all the science and engineering skill of the United States Rubber Company. It has all the features you've found in the great U.S. Royals of the past—the famous Royal block tread, Safety Bonded Carcass, buttress shoulder construction—plus all the advantages of the new super-strength U.S. Royal rayon cord.

Thanks to this better cord, the new U.S. Royal DeLuxe is a better tire. It runs cooler on the road—cuts down the destructive inner heat that steals tire mileage. It's a lighter, more flexible tire. Yet it's a far stronger tire—a far safer tire. And it gives you dramatically greater protection against blowouts.

This newest U.S. Royal is making tire history. In the laboratory and on America's highways, it is proving its ability to deliver more safety, more mileage, more performance.

It is available now in many passenger car sizes.* See the new U.S. Royal DeLuxe today at your U.S. Tire Dealer's—find out how soon you can be riding on rayon-built U.S. Royals!

*Present Government regulations restrict all rayon construction to sizes 6:50 and larger.

Eighth Grade Essay Contest Winner Writes on Duties of a Citizen

(Editor's Note: This is the third of a series of three winning essays in the Star-Texas Theater contests sponsored this spring in the Hereford schools. Donna Jean Stagner is the winner of the Eighth Grade division. General theme of the essays was how I can be a better citizen of my community).

MY DUTY AS A CITIZEN
By Donna Jean Stagner

There are many things I can do to help my community. First, I should keep my yard clean and provide for disposal of garbage from my home. I can keep my lawn mowed and my trees trimmed.

I should observe all rules of safety such as crossing streets in lanes provided for crossing, riding my bicycle according to the laws of my city, and I can help younger children to observe the safety laws.

When driving a car, I should know and observe all safety laws. I should do my part to see that public property is kept in good condition. Sometimes equipment in parks is abused and destroyed.

For example: Several years ago the county park was equipped with recreational equipment which was destroyed in a very short time because it was abused. Children and adults as well should guard against the destruction of public property.

I should guard against diseases and uncleanness. If I have a contagious disease, I should abide by the health regulation of my city.

I should learn how to vote correctly so that when I become of age I can vote intelligently.

I should obey and respect my city officers, and realize that they are my friends.

I should attend school regularly and try to obey all the school laws. I should try to help my teacher in every way possible.

By being a good citizen of my community, I will be a better citizen of my country.

Wheat Shortage Hurts Production Of Mill Feeds

The effect of the current wheat shortage and the 80 per cent flour milling extraction order on mill feed supplies is illustrated significantly in the latest Bureau of the Census report on millfeed production, according to Herman Steen of Chicago, vice president and secretary of the Millers' National Federation. Both mill feed and flour production slumped sharply during the month of March, latest month of census record.

The report showed mill feed production in March totaled 311,490 tons as against 516,450 tons in the preceding month. The decline was attributed to the shortage of wheat for domestic milling and the government order requiring that flour mills grind into flour 80 per cent of the cleaned wheat, including in the flour parts of the wheat which normally go into mill feeds for animals and poultry.

"This drop in mill feed production has aggravated the general feed shortage," Steen said. "Supplies for dairymen, hog raisers and poultry men have been far below normal requirements during the past six months. I can foresee even greater difficulties for them in the months ahead. The higher extraction rate for flour milling means a reduction of about one-third in the production of millfeeds."

Flour production, according to the survey, also hit a low point during March. Flour mills averaged only 69.4 per cent of capacity, the poorest average for any month since August, 1944. More mills were idle during the month of March than in any other month of government record.

Hail Storms

The two storms last week were the first to strike this county since the disastrous hail storm which swept through the western section of the county, and through Farmer and Castro counties, on May 19. Damages at that time were estimated at more than a million dollars, as 40 to 50 thousand acres of wheat in a three-county area were wiped out.

Based on present yields, the crop destroyed at that time would have amounted to more than half million bushels of wheat.

Harvest crews are working at top speed now to get all remaining wheat harvested as quickly as possible. No estimate on the total yield for the county is yet available, and it will be difficult to reach any definite figure this year. Many farmers are storing all or a large proportion of their grain on individual farms, instead of bringing it to elevators where, by government order, 50 percent must be sold at current prices.

Trustees of the school were J. P. Connell (who had been county judge from 1885 to 1900), J. C. Womble and T. J. Bassett. W. B. Boyd was county judge.

On a county letterhead with the voucher were names of county officials of that year: F. B. Fuller, county and district clerk; J. T. Inmon, sheriff; Joe Killough (now of Killough-Davies in Amarillo) county treasurer; G. R. Jowell, county surveyor; J. S. Wyche, tax assessor; G. A. Satch, inspector of hides and animals; J. H. Turnbow, justice of the peace, and R. F. Holloway, county attorney. Commissioners were Ira Aten (famous as a Texas Ranger in the old days), R. N. Mounts, A. P. Murchison and R. L. Brady.

rounded by flat plains. There were no roads; Hereford was a court house, a railroad and a main street—the first paved road I had ever seen." There was no natural gas, and, of course, no rural electrification. D. L. McDonald and Dr. G. W. Heard had just dug some of Hereford's first irrigation wells; and Whiteface cattle were everywhere, according to Bro. Beavers. "A few wheezy Fords were the only automobiles here at that time. But the people were the regular, friendly Western kind of folks."

In 1922, Rev. and Mrs. Beavers moved to Canyon. The following 15 years were spent in Colorado City, Plainview district as presiding elder, in Clarendon, Sweetwater and Lamesa. The year 1938 saw Bro. Beavers returning to Hereford on his second assignment as pastor of the Methodist church, the building of which he helped to complete on his first assignment here. He retired from the ministry in 1940 after 34 years in that work.

Politically, Mr. Beavers says he is a "grass-roots democrat." Asked what he means by this, he replied, "I vote the democratic ticket unless there is a skunk on it in which case I scratch him off!"

Active in civic affairs, Rev. Beavers has always been willing to help in any project for the betterment of Hereford and the surrounding territory—whether in paving a new street, building a new addition or defending the town against those who would criticize it.

Rev. and Mrs. Beavers have four children living in Hereford—one daughter, Mrs. J. W. Hendrix and three sons, Hall, Layma and Morris. Another daughter, Mrs. Hubert R. Freeman, lives in Abilene; Miss Zoe Beavers in Dalhart and Miss Lovie Beavers, in Dallas; another son, Milton, resides in La Junta, Colorado.

"This is my country," remarked Bro. Beavers. "People like us made it what it is, and when an outsider comes to town and starts criticizing, I just ask him what he brought to Hereford."
