Margaret Schroeter has spent most of her adult life in the land title business. As a teenager, she "helped out" in the offices of her father, A.O. Thompson. He and E.S. Ireland had bought the J. Frank Potts Abstract Company in 1925, then Thompson became sole owner in 1929.

The firm's name then became A.O. Thompson Abstract Company which flourishes to this day under the guidance of Margaret Schroeter.

Her husband, A.J. "Major" Schroeter, joined the firm after their marriage and they managed A.O. Thompson for her mother after the death of her father. They assumed ownership in 1962. Schrocter died in 1983 but his widow has continued to operate the business.

NEUILLY-SUR-SEINE, France (AP) - A man armed with dynamite who held six nursery school children and their teacher hostage was killed this morning by police who stole into the classroom as he dozed. His captives were unharmed.

The Interior Ministry said the unidentified man was killed by members of an elite police squad who entered the classroom after he fell asleep. The man had been struggling to stay awake throughout the drama, which began Thursday.

"The nightmare is over, the children are in good health ... the madman is dead, the law has triumphed," Interior Minister Charles Pasqua told reporters today.

Some House lawmakers have been working on a limited school consolidation plan.

But under the new proposal, said Rep. Paul Sadler, school districts could avoid consolidation by deciding to transfer some property from their tax rolls to others' rolls; give money to the state that would go into the entire school system budget; or merge their tax bases with others. The latter two options would require a vote of school district residents.

Kevin O'Hanlon, Texas Education Agency general counsel, said the local-option plan would bring all school districts in the state to a tax base of no more than $280,000 per weighted student. Students with special needs are counted as more garbage to other landfills.

Irvin student kills schoolmate

IRVING, Texas (AP) - A dispute. There's girls involved," Hall 17-year-old student at a high school in suburban Irving is accused of shooting another student in the head at school because of a dispute over a girl, officials say.

Jose Balderas, also 17, was pronounced dead at 10:35 p.m. Friday in the intensive care unit of Parkland Memorial Hospital in Dallas, said Raji Bolton, administrator on call at the hospital.

The shooting occurred. Friday afternoon just minutes before Irving Nimitz High School was to let out for the weekend.

Max Alexander Martinez was taken into custody a few minutes later about one block from the school in a car that was fleeing the school, officials said.

Martinez was jailed in lieu of $50,000 bond, Irving police Capt. Travis Hall said. Charges of attempted murder were filed Friday, but those charges could be upgraded now because of Balderas' death.

Other students said Balderas was shot in the back of the head.

A .38 caliber revolver believed to be used in the shooting was recovered at the home of one of Martinez' friends, a 17-year-old female, police said.

Irving police officers arrested Martinez with two others in a car. Martinez was taken into custody and the other two were released after questioning, police said. Authorities declined to give any information about the two others.

Students and school officials said there had never been trouble with weapons at the school.

"You hear of this at other schools. You think it's going to come to your school, but not this soon," one student said.

"I was standing right next to the guy who got shot," freshman Eric Lentz, 16, said. "This guy just came up to him, took his gun, put it to the mischief were investigated--damage back of his head and shot him."

HJH Roundup

By CAROLYN WATERS

"Discipline is helping children develop self-control, setting limits and correcting misbehavior. Discipline is also encouraging children, guiding them, helping them feel good about themselves and teaching them to think for themselves," states Marion Atkins, associate director of the Council on Child Abuse and Neglect in South Carolina.

This is what discipline "is all about" at Hereford Junior High. At least, we're trying to help our students in this area.

Industrial Arts students were in Waco last week for competition. The awards given were ribbons with blue for a Superior rating, red for Excellent and white for Outstanding. Best in State winners received medallions.

Winners included Fernando Herrera, Blue and Red; Tommy Mathers, Red: Michael Morrison, Red; Jason Messer, Blue and Best In State; Rusty Dutton, Blue and Best In State; George Pacheco, Blue and Best In State; Josh Alvarado, Blue and Best In State; Adam Anglin, Blue and White; Cory Oursbourne, Blue: Noe Perez, White; Anthony Lopez, Blue and Best In State; Zack Wall, Blue and Best In State; Larry Witson, Red; Mark DeLeon, Doyle Ferguson, and Jerry Satterfield, Blue; Albert Pena, Red; Damion Esquivel, Blue and Best In State; Eddie Evans, White; Curtis Cantrell, Red; Kyle Flood, White; Jason Lytal, Red; Andy Brown, Tate Head and Kristi Satterfield, Participation.

Mr. Zimmerman and Mr. Nall wish to thank all students and parents for the extra time and money spent to allow these students to participate in these activities.

Mrs. Buckley's English classes are reading "The Diary of Anne Frank" and are comparing events of that era with events in present-day Bosnia.

If you missed the Awards Assembly, you did miss a good time. Over 240 awards were handed to HJH students. The assembly was followed by an Open House to enable parents to visit classrooms.

A delayed "Thank You" is extended to all those who contributed in any way to the success enjoyed buy the History Fair participants. Included in this list are all those who granted interviews, to Mrs. Ward at T-Shirt Corner for the banner lettering, to Sue Kester at "Mom and Me" for cutting mats and more mats, to the supportive parents who helped with their student's project, to Mike and Janice Carr, Bobby and Sharla Moudy for helping Jana Rudd and me to sponsor the two groups who traveled to Austin.

We don't usually suggest VCR alerts, but this one is worthwhile. The Discovery Channel, starting Sunday, will present "how the West Was Lost," a six-hour documentary that examines how Indian tribes fared at such places as Sand Creek, Medicine Lodge and Wounded Knee. The first episode airs at 9 p.m. on Sunday and the other five episodes will air at 9 p.m. on successive nights through Friday.

To be successful in dealing with life, you have to be successful in dealing with people. This is part of the discipline program we try to stress at HJH.

Rives presented awards this week at a reception ceremony held at the hospital dining room. The essay winners received a $100 savings bond and the second and third-place winners earned $50 savings bonds. The students wrote 250-word essays on a subject relating to health care. Ribbons were presented to poster winners, and the youngsters took a tour of the hospital.

First place essay winners were Bryan Macclasky, West Central 4th grader; Noe Elizondo, Shirley 4th grade; and Deanna Redelsperger, 8th grader.

Second place awards went to Carmen Mendoza, Shirley; Robin Barrick, West Central; Melva Valle, HJH; and third places were awarded Beckki Feller, West Central, and Bryan Blackwell, Shirley.

The poster contest was open to grades 1 through 3 in two categories-most original and most creative. First places were Shawna Muro, Laura

That's the message in a doublepage ad in today's Brand. Some folks may think it's a little harsh, but the message comes from folks who care, and who have seen the tragic consequences of "celebrations" that get out of hand.

We've all read and heard about parties in recent years which have want it to be, because your town is resulted in fatal car accidents, alcohol poisoning, serious vandalism, injuries from fights and, even rape. Most distressing to many law officials is that some of these parties are held with the permission of parents. Often the parents may give permission to have a few friends over, then they go to the movies and a 100 kids show up at the party.

Another distressing fact is that some parents have the attitude that if their kids are "only drinking' and not using drugs, they have nothing to worry about. Editorials from around the state

Here is a sampling of editorial opinion from Texas newspapers:

May 5

The Lufkin Daily News on police report accessibility by public: A bill that would make traffic accident reports from police unavailable to the general public for 180 days needs to be squelched before ever getting out of the House.

Exceptions to the limited access are allowed for people directory involved in the accident or its financial consequences and the news media.

While the media can breathe a sigh of relief that its representatives wouldn't be prohibited from a timely perusal of police accident reports, Joe Citizen should be irate. This is just another squeeze in the stranglehold on the public's right to know, another example of government determining what they think you need to know.

Backers of the bill say its protects victims' rights. Yes, it would, but only for 180 days. Does anybody really think ambulance chasers are going to go away just because they can't get a wreck report? Lawyers and others who prey on accident victims for their livelihoods will still manage to get the information they need, some of it from news reports released the day of the accident. They'll probably do a lot more hanging around at hospitals, too.

May 6

Austin American-Statesman on closed briefings bill:

No one knows better than a member of a public body that it is all too easy for what started out as a private staff briefing to turn into a full-bore private discussion of the public's business. That is one reason why the Senate and House sponsors of a bill to prohibit staff briefings are a former county commissioner and a former city council member.

Their support alone should undercut any argument that a prohibition is not needed because public bodies don't let things get out of hand. They do, and both Sen. Jeff Wentworth, R-San Antonio, and Rep. John Hirschi, D-Wichita Falls, know it.

The measure, Wentworth said, will further open up government and allow the people to witness what government bodies are doing.

.(T)he Senate passed the bill ... but it is believed the measure could run into some difficulty in the House.

The measure deserves the same level of support in the lower chamber as it received in the upper one. It is meritorious, and there simply are no sound arguments that it should not become law.

... The change will help ensure that the law is not subject to abuse, intentional or otherwise, during staff briefings.

May 9

Abilene Reporter-News on drug grants:

Texas could lose millions of dollars in drug treatment and prevention funds if the Legislature does not put some teeth in enforcing a law prohibiting the sale of tobacco products to minors.

The funds at stake are vital in helping people deal with drug and alcohol dependency. Texas currently gets almost $70 million in a block grant. That would be reduced by almost $7 million next year and up to $28 million in four years unless the Legislature acts.

Now what the Legislature is being asked to do is enforce a law already on the books. It is a crime to sell cigarettes or other tobacco products to minors.

The problem is, the law is rarely enforced. But a new federal statute requires states to take measures to see that it is enforced, such as unannounced inspections. ...

It's another example of federal funds coming with strings attached. But in this case, the funds are vital and the strings do not seem unreasonable. We ought to be trying to discourage cigarette use among children.

May 10

El Paso Herald-Post on cracking down on political lobbyists:

Congress appears to be willing, at last, to drag lobbyists out into the light - by making them register and disclose their business. The legislators may even go so far as to require disclosures of gifts to them personally and to their staffs.

Lobbyists, we hasten to concede, are not intrinsically shady. The right to petition the government is fundamental. ...

But it has long been agreed that legitimate lobbying should be above board. The Lobbying Disclosure Act of 1993 - passed 95-2 by the Senate Thursday and now on its way to the House - would consolidate older, weaker laws and close giant loopholes in the definitions of who is a lobbyist and what must be divulged. ...

In a last-minute fit of puritanism, the Senate even passed an amendment requiring disclosure of gifts (read meals and travel) to themselves or their staffs of more than $20 per occasion or $50 per year.

Hallelujah. The House should promptly follow suit. This unaccustomed mood of self-sacrifice can't last.

Girls' golf team, Blea place 3rd in state

BY JAY PEDEN Brand Sports Editor

AUSTIN -- The Hereford girls' golf team and shot-putter Steven Blea earned third-place medals Friday in state Class 4A golf and track competition in Austin, while Greg Coplen lost in the first round of the state tennis tournament.

The mood of Whitefaces at both the golf and the track was disappointment at not winning the gold, but also happiness about at least taking home a medal. Only the top three finishers get medals.

The golf team played its best round ever and still came out behind new champion Bastrop and defending champion Andrews. Hereford carded a 327 Friday at Austin's Jimmy Clay Golf Course. With Thursday,'s 338, that made a two-day total of 665--one stroke better than Andrews' winning total of last year. Bastrop shot 303 Friday for a total of 620, easily beating the 321 and 643 turned in by Andrews.

Austin Westlake, which was tied with Hereford for third after the first round, totaled 331 Friday and missed forcing a playoff by four strokes. The others in the eight-team field were Henderson, 342-690; Wharton 350-695; Athens 338-703; and A&M Consolidated, 375-728.

Jennifer Prater and Kelly Kelso both made big improvements over Thursday's scores. Prater led Hereford Friday with a 76 after shooting 88 on Thursday. Kelso had an 80 Friday after an 86 the first day. Prater's two-day total of 164 matched teammate Dusty Saul, who shot an 84 Friday, and they finished in a fourway tie for 15th place among individuals. Kelso's total of 166 was good for 20th. Cecelia Albracht shot 87 Friday for a total of 171(23rd), and Stephanie Walls' 92 gave her a total of 180(33rd).

Prater, Saul, Albracht and Walls all are seniors. "They highlighted their careers," coach Stacy Bixler said. "To be able to compete at this level and play this caliber of golf under this situation is tremendous."

"Jennifer had one bad hole on the front nine, then came back birdie, birdie," he said "That's how you compete."

The tournament ended with a The tournament ended with a "I feel happy, but kind of highlight: with a gallery of more than disappointed," Blea said. "I didn't 50 people gathered around the 18th throw as well as I wanted to. I got Blea threw the shot 56 feet, 7 1/4 inches, easily taking third place in the shot at Memorial Stadium. Raymond Williams of Belton won with an effort of 59-4 3/4, and Denison's Tyrel Buckner was second at 58-7 1/2. Fourth place went to Russell Peavy of Mesquite Poteet, whose 55-1 was a foot and half less than Blea's best on Friday.

"He finished right where he was when he came down here," coach Ron Young said. "He didn't throw as well as he has all year, but down here, when you get a medal, it's pretty good." Young added that he believed that the last Hereford male to win a medal at the state track meet was James Mays' in the early 1970s. Young also added: "We're real proud of Steven."

Blea's best throws were his last three. He scratched on the second and third attempts. The scratch on the second attempt wiped out a throw that went about 59 feet.

"I was pushing on my heels, and green, Saul had a putt run around the third -- that's third in the state. That's I just got too close to the toe board," Blea said. "I usually jump right when finals on Saturday. Both the tennis I throw, and I came down on the toe board.'

The scratched 59-footer might have been a winner, but then, several of the other competitors had long throws scratched, including one that went 61 feet.

There appeared to be about 30,000 people in Memorial Stadium when Blea threw. However, the vast majority were watching the races being run throughout the shot competition.

Coplen lost 6-0, 6-2 in the first round of the boys' singles competi-tion at Penick-Allison Courts. His opponent, Jonathan Creath of Austin Westlake, went on to win in the semifinals and was set to play in the tournament and the track meet were to conclude Saturday.

Coplen started slowly and had trouble catching up. He didn't score a point as Creath took the first three games. In the sixth game of the first set, Coplen hit two winners -- a hard shot down the line followed by a soft shot that died in front of Creath--but still lost the game and set.

Coplen won quite a few more points in the second set. Creath was up 2-0 when three hitting errors helped Coplen win his first game. He won his second game when he took three straight points to ruin Creath's first match-point(at 5-2 and 40-30).

At 5=2, Creath struggled with his serve and double-faulted twice, including once at match point. Coplen gained the advantage, but Creath won three straight points to win the match.

Coplen appeared frustrated during the match and seemed upset at himself after the match.

"I don't know, I just didn't play well," he said. "I don't think he did anything; it was just me. You've got to come ready to play. I didn't play." Coach Natalie Sims spoke for Coplen:"I think first of all, (Coplen's) not used to someone returning his serve," Sims said. "This guy walloped em over the net, and it threw his whole game off."

No matter who was serving, there were few long rallies.

"(Coplen's) return just isn't strong enough for a guy that serves like that." Sims continued. "He couldn't break just because of (Creath's) serve.

"(Coplen) accomplished his dreams just by getting here," she said. "and we're still very proud of Greg."

Cone earned his first victory with Kansas City when the Royals scored in the 10th inning and beat California 2-1 Friday night. That made him 1-5 despite a neat 3.02 ERA.

"I'm relieved. It's been a long, frustrating run," he said.

Baylor tops Texas; Tech is elminated

A&M stayed alive in the Southwest Conference tournament Friday by edging Texas Tech 10-8.

The Aggies were upset 21-7 Thursday by Texas - the first time this year they had lost by more than two runs. The Red Raiders, who lost 6-4 to Baylor on Thursday, were eliminated.

Texas A&M improved to 48-8. Twelfth-ranked Tech fell to 43-15, but will likely get an NCAA bid next week, as should Baylor and Texas, the other two participants in the post-season tourney.

Aggies starter Trey Moore, who was trying to improve to 12-0, lasted just two innings, giving up a a flyout to left. career-high six earned runs, on two hits and six walks. He struck out five.

Chris Clemons (6-1) relieved Moore in the fourth with the Aggies

Mel Ott of the Giants won the National League home run title three times and tied for it three times.

AUSTIN (AP) - John Curl hit a trailing 6-4. He gave up just two runs, three-run homer and No. 1 Texas one of them earned, on five hits the rest of the way. He walked one and struck out three.

Loser John Macatee (7-4) gave up seven runs on nine hits in four innings.

Curl's seventh homer chased Macatee in the fifth, and put the Aggies up for good, 7-6.

Trailing 10-6, Brody Gregg led off the Raiders' ninth with a single and scored when Trey Forkerway doubled to right, where Chad Alexander's error advanced the runners.

Forkerway scored from third one out later on a groundout, making it 10-8. But Clemons ended the threat by getting pinch hitter Mitch King on

Olajuwon is tops in NBA

HOUSTON (AP) - The key to the Houston Rockets' success this season has been their defense, and the key to their defense has been Hakeem Olajuwon. The NBA recognized that fact Friday by naming Olajuwon Defensive Player of the Year.

Olajuwon received 73 of a possible 98 votes from a nationwide panel comprising three sports writers and broadcasters from each league city and 17 representing the national media.

The Hereford YMCA will begin an AAU Wrestling program for boys ages 6 and older starting June 7th. Rip Evers alias Rip Hawk will be the coach. Practice and workouts will be on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays from 5 p.m. to 7 p.m. at the YMCA. Cost of the program is $10.00 per month for Y members and $15.00 per month for non Y members.

Call the YMCA at 364-6990 for details.

The Rockets led the Western Conference in defense and finished third in the NBA, allowing opponents 99.8 points per game.

"The key to our season has been our defense," Houston coach Rudy Tomjanovich said. "Other players get some of the credit too but he is the anchor to what we try to do."

Olajuwon, named earlier to the NBA All-Defensive first team for the fourth time, averaged 26.1 points and 13.1 rebounds in the regular season. He led the NBA with 342 blocked shots and was first in steals by centers with 150.

"I'm just going to be happy with this," Olajuwon said. "This is a big title and I'm very honored to get it."

Mexican media tours Texas facilities spread throughout the country of Mexican media tour through Texas and how the Mexican and U.S. beef at the end of April and early May.

Seven Mexican reporters, representing the major newspapers in Mexico City, Monterrey and Guadalajara, and one national radio/television reporter visited beef industry experts as well as the beef operations and organizations producers themselves. from Amarillo to Fort Worth.

During their visit their publications ran 20 articles about the U.S. beef industry; the national radio station ran at least one daily live report; and a national cable TV program ran one recorded spot.

The Mexican media tour was sponsored by the U.S. Meat Export Federation in cooperation with the Texas Beef Industry Council.

"The purpose of the project," said

Highly favorable information Phil Seng, president and chief U.S. beef industry to help improve about the U.S. beef industry was executive officer of USMEF, "was to show the Mexican media what the Mexico, thanks to a checkoff-funded U.S. beef industry is, how it works industries complement one another. USMEF and TBIC achieved this by taking the Mexican media to the Texas Panhandle where they observed ranching practices and spoke to Stops on the tour were at the Herring Ranch at Stinnett, Texas Beef Producers Feedlot at Dumas, the LIT Ranch at Tascosa and the IBP processing plant at Amarillo.

The media also visited with representatives of the Texas Cattle Feeders Association in Amarillo and with Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association in Fort Worth.

Without exception, the media reports stressed the willingness of the the Mexican industry through sharing of technology, expertise and financing.

Several of the Mexican reporters said those reports reflected their own changed attitudes about the U.S. beef industry when it comes to trade with Mexico.

"We thought the American cattle industry just wanted to sell its product to Mexico and maybe to take advantage of Mexican cattlemen," said Theres Garcia, a business reporter for El Financiero, the major financial publication in Mexico. "Now we understand that the American cattle industry wants to work together with the Mexico industry to help us become more competitive."

Garcia said as a reporter, it was her responsibility to write about the U.S. cattle industry as it affects the Mexican industry. Yet because she rarely leaves Mexico City, she said she has had to rely on hearsay and other persons' opinions. This trip allowed her to observe different viewpoints.

"Everything we saw was of interest," Garcia said. "For me, it was the most important trip I have ever taken."

Radio/TV commentator Rosaura Ruz Sanchez, who represents the No. national radio station in Mexico, said her reports stressesd the care and quality that U.S. beef producers put into their products. She also said it was important to pass on to her listeners and viewers the fact that U.S. beef is a healthful and nutritious food.

"Because of this trip, I can make positive commentaries about the U.S. beef industry," Ruz said. "I have been here, and I have seen and heard these things myself."

The media completed their trip to Texas at the two-day U.S./Mexico Beef Trade Symposium at Horseshoe Bay in the Texas Hill Country. They joined approximately 100 Mexican meat importers, U.S. beef exporters and speakers from both countries for discussions on how to develop further the beef commerce between the two countries.

1990s, said U.S. meat exporters and Mexican importers who attended the U.S./Mexico Beef Trade Symposium at Horseshoe Bay, near Austin, earlier this month.

By 2000, Mexico is expected to buy 500,000 metric tons of U.S. beef, a quantity that exceeds what the U.S. today sells its major customer, Japan.

These growth predictions are good news for the Texas beef industry. Last year, Texas beef exporting companies as well as national companies with offices in Texas captured 83 percent of the nearly $200 million Mexico market.

Most participants at the symposium expressed hope that continued trade will be spurred by the North American Free Trade Agreement now under consideration by the Clinton administration. NAFTA would put an end to tariffs on beef imports.

Fernando Villarreal, a meat buyer for a major meat importer in Monterrey, said he hopes the trade agreement would be approved in the U.S. He said the average income for its citizens.

The result, he said, would be additional demand for items considered luxuries in Mexico, such as beef. Mexico's domestic cattle industry does not have the resources to fill that growth in demand, he said.

With export tariffs for the U.S. meat industry down to zero because of NAFTA, Mexican meat marketers would look to this country to fill much of their needs.

"NAFTA, or no NAFTA, nothingbeats getting together face to face," said Stan Miller, chairman of the U.S. Meat Export Federation. "Buyers in Mexico and sellers in the U.S. are building personal relationships. We will never go back to the days when U.S. meat could not get into Mexico."

The symposium was sponsored by USMEF, in cooperation with the Texas Beef Industry Council. Attending were 35 Mexican meat importers from Mexico City and Monterrey and 30 U.S. beef exporters.

cow listings

Two individuals and a cattle company have been recognized by the American Angus Association for having cows included in the association's 1993 Pathfinder Report.

Olson Cattle Company received the national recognition by having five registered Angus cows in the report. Additionally, Sy Olson, with one cow listed, and Moriah Olson, with two cows, have earned the AAA honors.

Only 1,280 of the more than 25,000 members of the association are represented in this year's report, according to Richard Spader, executive vice president.

The Pathfinder program identifies superior Angus cows based upon recorded performance traits that are economically important to efficient beef production.

Traits include regular calving and heavy weaning weights, said John

TRAVEL TIP

Dear Heloise: Here's a tip for those who are planning a vacation by car this summer and have a home computer.

I find that typing out my planned trip routes and mileage and printing an enlarged mirror image of the same is very useful.

How do I use it? I place it off to the right of the driver's side on the dashboard and then have a reflected image on the windshield, readily available when I am in tight traffic and looking for road instructions. I still have vision through the reflected image. - Harry Johnson, Terre Haute, Ind.

culture and to meet a need to become better informed. The name originated from a Bay View magazine that published programs for the benefit of study clubs.

Lois Gililland continued the history of Bay View by saying that the early members considered loyalty to the club next to family and church. Bay View was federated in 1917, and in 1950, the club withdrew from federation. She said members were el women: elegant and properlyattired in gloves, hats and handkerchiefs when attending meetings.

Using that theme, Gililland installed new officers. Pat Fisher will serve as president; Lois Scott, vice president; Beth Burran, recording secretary; Margaret Bell, corresponding secretary; and Margie Mims, treasurer.

As each officer was installed, Gililland reminded them of their duties as they were described in the early days. Officers were presented with handkerchiefs as badges of their offices and as symbols of the genteel qualities as exemplified by early

MINDING YOUR OWN BUSINESS Don Taylor

GREAT OPPORTUNITIES

B ack in 1899, Charles H. Duell, Director of the U.S. Patent Office said, "Everything that can be inverted has been invented." Duell recommended closing the office.

Exactly what effect that event might have had on America is unknown. Fortunately, the office stayed open and inventors stayed inspired. Today we enjoy the fruits of their labors. Because someone saw an opportunity, we have airplanes, electricity, transistors, microwave ovens, computers, telephones, lasers and radios. I can't imagine a lifestyle without all of our technology and labor saving devices.

Though we've come a long way since 1899, there are many wonderful opportunities left. The world if full of needs to be met, and wants waiting to be fulfilled. Recently, while driving through West Texas, I thought about some potential opportunities.

Twelve possible gold mines

Opportunity Number One - Someone should create an early warning system for automobiles. Not a radar detector, but a potential hazard detector. This device would scan the road ahead for drunken, sleepy and stupid drivers. It would flash your headlights at intersections to ensure that cross traffic saw you coming. It would alert you to watch out for those idiots who are going to pull our anyway.

Opportunity Number Two - How about a tasty, chocolate candy bar that would neutralize fats and calories when eaten after heavy meals. We could eat whatever we want and still lose weight.

Opportunity Number Three - How about a breath freshener implant that your dentist could renew once each year. It would be odor sensitive and demand activated to counteract onion and garlic breath, morning mouth and tennie runner tongue.

Opportunity Number Four - I wish someone would design a balancing gyro for bicycles for the very young and very old. This device would sense near tip-overs and provide a counterbalancing force.

Opportunity Number Five - Wouldn't it be nice to have an overnight input device to enhance our memories? Scatterbrained folks like me could use it for basic information like "who am I" and "where do I live." Students could use it to prepare for exams. Executives could bone up for meetings and salespersons could prepare for tomorrow's sales calls.

Opportunity Number Six - I'd like to see an electronic truth detector that you could hook up to radios and television. This device would detect false statements during newscasts and commercials. It would include and automatic recording device to provide proof if a politician should tell the whole truth.

Opportunity Number Seven - I could use a spill-guard spray that would protect my shirts, ties and pants from mustard stains and spaghetti sauce spills. Just spray it on, then wipe spills off.

Opportunity Number Eight - How about a reversible necktie with a 120 decibel side (that's loud) and a more subdued side for business. It would save packing an extra when you travel.

Opportunity Number Nine - I'd like a health insurance policy that pays me back if I work hard at being healthy. Trading pain for premium, so to speak.

Opportunity Number Ten - Would you believe odor absorbing diapers? Well how about odor absorbing wallpaper for bathrooms? The wallpaper would require replacement every two years. That is about as often as my wife likes to redecorate anyway.

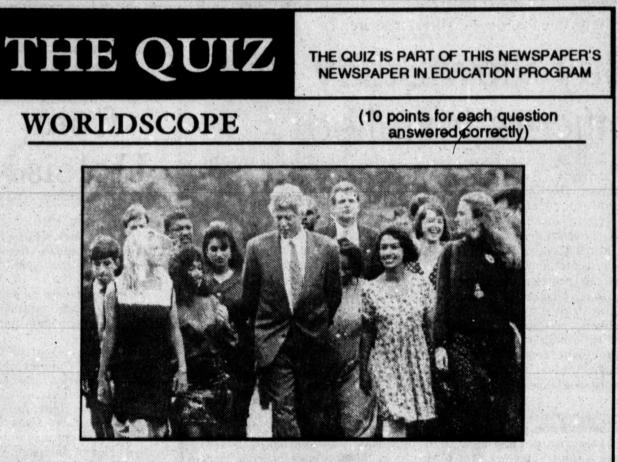

Opportunity Number Eleven - A self-cleaning commode. My wife expressed some surprise that I thought of this one. Since she couldn't recall seeing me on my knees scrubbing the bowl, she thought I assumed ours was self-cleaning!

Opportunity Number Twelve - I'd like to have an expanded briefcase. Not one of those so-called expandable, but a real, "open-up-wide-enough-to-hold-a-basketball" briefcase.

I know some of you are laughing at my ideas. That's okay. Just remember, they laughed at Edison, Bell and the Wright brothers too.

You may write to Don Taylor in care of "Minding Your Own Business," PO Box 67, Amarillo, Texas 79105.

Here's some allergy answers

Q. What's the most commonly used drug to ease the symptoms of hay fever?

A. Hay fever is a type of allergic rhinitis and the most commonly used drugs to ease its symptoms are antihistamines. To be fully effective, antihistamines must be taken regularly. Since antihistamines often make you sleepy, you should never take them if you intend to drive a motor vehicle within the next few hours.

To help make our highways safer, The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration of the Department of Transportation has developed a drug program that trains officers to recognize if someone is driving while impaired. If you do drive after taking antihistamines, you may be stopped by a police officer who can determine that you are impaired.

The not-too-distant future is a warped, violently twisted place to be, according to Wild Palms, the surreal, mind trip of a miniseries beginning Sunday, May 16, on ABC and running through Wednesday, May 19.

The year is 2007. Harry Wyckoff (James Belushi), accepts a job at a television network poised to launch an intriguing new technology into homes around the world. It seems the virtual reality of the future has advanced a step further, allowing the network to convert standard television transmissions into three-dimensional holographic images.

Wyckoff soon falls into a nightmarish underworld led by the network's owner, Sen. Anton Kreutzer (Robert Loggia), and business partner Paige Katz (Kim Cattrall). Kreutzer and Katz eventually entwine Wyckoff's family in their hellish, sensory roller coaster ride, including his angelic wife Grace (Dana Delany), his evil child Coty (Ben Savage) and his violently scheming motherin-law, Josie Ito (Angie Dickinson).

Academy Award-winning director Oliver Stone (Platoon, JFK, Salvador), serves as executive producer of what ABC is calling an "event series." Wild Palms is Stone's first foray into the small screen.

"I would like to do it [again], because you can do something more than a twohour movie," Stone says. "You can take a chance if [the network] is willing to wake a chance. So it offers you that perspective that you can't make a movie out of."

Wild Palms is loosely based on series creator and writer Bruce Wagner's longrunning comic strip of the same name that first appeared in Details magazine three years ago.

"It's much more of a dream diary than our show. A lot of the characters are the same, but you wouldn't recognize the two," Wagner says.

Viewers who have the stomach and the attention span to stay with Stone and Wagner's six-hour hallucinatory soap opera should pay close attention to a constantly twisting storyline filled with a gallery of two-sided characters. Even Stone was often perplexed.

"I have been confused many times looking at the material, and yet I feel that there's an ongoing mood that's always enveloped me." Stone says. "There's some sort of visual tissue that pulls me to the next chapter."

Wild Palms' intensely compelling imagery can be attributed to seamless direction by a team of Keith Gordon, Kathryn Bigelow, Peter Hewitt and Phil Joanou.

"The shows don't look like traditional television," Wagner says. "That's why we got these young filmmakers in-

Stone based his script on the exploits and observations of photojournalist Richard Boyle in war-torn El Salvador during 1980-81. James Woods brings his customary intensity to the role of Boyle, and James Belushi, the star of Wild Palms, plays his foul-mouthed, excitable sidekick. There's plenty of violent history and human drama here, but one wishes the two main characters were a little easier to like. John Savage co-stars, and the script is wisely leavened with humor. The scene of Boyle's first trip to a confessional in 32 years is hilarious and offers a needed break from the film's relentless tension.

NHL conference finals come to ABC

BY MICHAEL SCOGIN

Hockey's biggest bruisers and most prolific scorers take another step toward the elusive Stanley Cup on Sunday, May 16, when ABC continues its inaugural coverage of the NHL playoffs. Two of the game's best teams face off in a conference championship game for the right to battle for hockey's most coveted prize.

ABC Sports is giving viewers the chance to see the NHL playoffs on network television for the first time since 1980 through a unique joint venture with ESPN, which televises the NHL throughout the season. Under the agreement, ABC leases airtime to ESPN, which will draw upon its sizable hockey production staff and announcing crews, including play-by-play announcer Gary Thorne and studio host John Saunders. to produce the broadcast.

"We're trying to incorporate production elements that will appeal to both the die-hard hockey fan and the person tuning in to catch a period or two here and there," says John Wildhack, ESPN's vice president of remote production.

Wildhack says ESPN has been working since the end of the regular season with robotic cameras placed at playing level for an up-close-and-personal view of all the action on the ice. Improved super-slow-motion technology provides crystal clear replays of every goal.

Jews give great content to television

By LYNN ELBER AP Television Writer LOS ANGELES (AP) - Television

isn't playing Jewish characters just for laughs these days.

Flip, arban-hip sitcoms featuring Jewish funnymen make up a sizable part of TV's ethnic community. "Seinfeld," "Mad About You," "Love and War" and "Flying Blind" are leaders of the pack.

But just as Jewish humor has emerged full-blown on television, Jewish culture and history are getting dramatic workouts in network series as well

"Homefront" portrayed the struggle of Gina Sloan (Guiliana Santini), a concentration camp survivor trying to free herself of the memory of Nazi horrors and cling to her faith.

In an episode of the small-town drama "Picket Fences," attorney Douglas Wambaugh (Fyvush Finkel) fought to observe Jewish burial laws for a dumped corpse.

"You're not going to keep me up all night with one of those semiannual, self-hating Jew seminars," the attorney's irritated wife complains as he questions his resolve.

On "Reasonable Doubts," prosecutor Tess Kaufman (Marlee Matlin) struggles to reconcile her professional ethics with her Israeli lover's law-breaking bid to bring a former Nazi to justice.

Morrow), a New Yorker stranded in the tiny Alaskan town of Cicely on "Northern Exposure," is as hard-pressed to make his ethnicity understood as he is to find decent cheesecake.

"I'm not white," Fleischman firmly tells his American Indian assistant. "I may look white, but I am not. I'm Jewish. Jewish. A fellow person of color. A victim of oppression."

Jews, although less than 3 percent of the U.S. population, would have trouble claiming minority status on TV as producers and writers take advantage of increasing creative leeway.

"This year, there's an explosion" of Jewish content everywhere on the dial," says critic Michael Medved. 'If a Martian were to look at television, he would guess that (America) was 20 to 25 percent Jewish.'

This on-screen fascination is relatively new to the entertainment industry, despite the number of powerful and famous Jewish figures woven throughout its history.

In "An Empire of Their Own: How the Jews Invented Hollywood,' author Neal Gabler describes how Eastern European Jews such as Louis B. Mayer and Benjamin Warner founded the movie industry.

The studio bosses guided writers and actors, including a number of fellow Jews, in portrayals of an Dr. Joel Fleischman (Rob idealized American society - one generally devoid of Jewish characters or themes.

'Many years ago, when people wanted to go into show business, you couldn't go in with a name like Fyvush Finkel," says Finkel, who began his career in Yiddish theater before moving to Broadway and Hollywood.

Television continued the tradition. Besides a fling with "The Goldbergs" in 1949-54, even comedies dominated by Jews wore decidedly non-Jewish faces and names.

"The Dick Van Dyke Show," written and directed by Carl Reiner, focused on the very WASP family of Rob and Laura Petrie.

Jewish characters eventually turned up, mostly on comedies. Then, in the 1980s, television began to make serious stabs at Jewish characters and stories, such as ABC's thirtysomething," with family man Michael Steadman.

The new pervasiveness can startle even insiders.

Sam Weisman, co-producer of CBS's "Brooklyn Bridge," and others attribute the trend to human nature and the changing nature of the business itself.

"People are trying to create TV out of their own experience," says Medved. "They are taking television more seriously. It's very clear with shows like (Gary David Goldberg's) 'Brooklyn Bridge.'

"Because so many people working in television are Jewish, that's what's up there on the screen.

Weisman cites, in part, the increasing power those who write and produce successful shows - Jews and non-Jews alike - have over the networks.

"People are more their own bosses than in the old days, and it's more of a free-for-all." he says. "It's harder for the networks to be so dogmatic and say 'Don't do this, don't do that.""

The high ratings of shows such as "Seinfeld" (NBC's only top 10 hit, aside from the departing "Cheers") and "Northern Exposure" seem to indicate public acceptance of Jewish flavor.

But there is, apparently, a limit: Seinfeld's ethnicity is implied, not Jewish woman not portrayed as a explored. And viewer research princess."

conducted for "Northern Exposure" found Jewish-themed story lines to be among the least compelling for viewers.

Some members of the real-life Jewish community have their own qualms about being TV's darlings.

"There's a lot more to being Jewish than bagels," says Rabbi Abraham Cooper, associate dean of the Simon Wiesenthal Center in Los Angeles, who complains that television tends to emphasize the superficial.

There is a rich ethical and philosophical Judaic tradition that could be turned into dramatic fodder, Cooper argues

He also questions TV's delight in pairing Jewish men with women outside the faith.

"If I see one more Hanukkah-Christmas soapbox speech, I'm going to put my foot through the tube," Cooper says. Although the intermarriage rate is high among Jews, he says Jewish families deserve to be depicted as well.

And one more thing, Cooper says, "I would love to see an American

Bob Denver makes a guest appearance on Monday's season finale of Evening Shade on CBS. In the episode, Denver is summoned by mistake to give the commencement address at the town's high school.

Bob Denver turns up in 'Evening Shade'

BY JOHN CROOK

A comical case of mistaken identity brings guest star Bob Denver to Evening Shade Monday, May 17, on CBS.

The episode finds hapless assistant high school football coach Herman Stiles (Michael Jeter) trying to find a commencement speaker for Taylor's (Jay R. Ferguson) graduation. He proudly announces that he has booked singer John Denver to deliver the address - but when Herman goes to the airport to pick up his special guest, he makes a horrifying discovery: He's actually invited Bob Denver, the former star of Gilligan's Island. It looks like Herman's own "three-hour cruise" could turn into a long day of apologies until his guest speaker takes the podium and brings down the house.

mountain home in Princeton, W.Va. The two actors have known one another since the mid-1960s, when Gilligan was taped on a set near Reynolds' program, Gunsmoke. Ironically, the latter show had a direct role in the cancellation of Gilligan. "A lot of people don't realize that we had been picked up for a fourth season." Denver recalls. "Then the 1967 fall lineup is announced and (then-CBS President William) Paley goes, 'Where's Gunsmoke? That's my wife's favorite show!'

Denver credits his old friend Burt Reynolds, who stars in the Linda Bloodworth-Thomason comedy as small-town sophisticate Wood Newton, with the idea for the guest appearance. "I guess Burt just thought it would be fun," says Denver by phone from his

So they bumped us and the next half hour to put on Gunsmoke."

Thanks to reruns on Nick at Nite, Denver is finding an explosion in new fang for his work as beatnik Maynard G. Krebs on his earlier series, Dobie Gillis. He delights in telling of fellow plane passengers who recognize him and scream "Work?!" (Maynard's strangulated yelp every time he confronted a job.). "I love Maynard fans. Maynard fans are very loyal," he says. Expect more of those stories when Denver's book, Maynard, Gilligan and Me, hits stores later this year.

'Blossom' finale heads to Paris

BY SCOTT WHITE

NBC's popular sitcom Blossom has overcome the sophomore jinx with a strong third season and is heading for the fourth with a departure – to Paris.

The title character, played by Mayim Bialik, deals with adolescent frustration by leaving for Paris just before completing her senior year in high school. Sound familiar? The idea is so similar to one recently explored in Beverly Hills, 90210 that Blossom's writers even gave it a nod in the script.

The season finale, which airs Monday, May 17, finds Blossom and her family coming to terms with her decision and departure. The fall season will begin with a two-hour TV movie about her adventures in Paris.

Bialik, who realizes her spunky, resourceful character is a role model for many young girls, stresses the fictional nature of the show.

"I would be frightened if my life could be summed up in 22 minutes a week," she says with a laugh. "It's hard to compare a fictional character to a person who's had 17 years to grow."

Still, she feels the show's female perspective provides a significant departure from the traditionally male coming-ofage story.

"I think that our show is different," she says. "It's showing a lot of the same problems, which is kind of reassuring, but from a different point of view which you don't normally see on television."

Cotton-eyed Joe in the Big Apple

BY JOHN CROOK

The Nashville Network celebrates its 10th anniversary with coverage of a New York City country music extravaganza. Crook and Chase, TNN's weeknight news magazine, will devote its programs for the week of May 17 to live reports on Country Takes Manhattan, a 10-day celebration of country music in the Big Apple.

Co-host Charlie Chase says the show always welcomes a chance to go on the road and meet viewers face to face.

His colleague, Lorianne Crook, says she is "ready for some serious two-steppin' and jammin' in the Big Apple," but she realizes they've got their work cut out for them.

"Anything like this is extremely complicated," she says. "We've done shows from Disneyland and Houston. That means we have enough experience to be scared!"

Crook and Chase will anchor their show live from the outer rim of Rockefeller Center, Crook says.

"We'll be doing news and concert segments like on all our shows," she adds. And, if any of the performers are willing, we'd love to show them running around New York during their time off."

"Some people think that New Yorkers don't like country music," Crook says. "Our viewers have proven that statement false over and over again."

SOAP WORLD

'Another World' at 30: over the hill at NBC?

BY CANDACE HAVENS

When Another World celebrated its 29th anniversary this month, fans worried it might not make it to 30. Over the past few months there has been talk about NBC dropping the soap to develop a new daytime series.

In a recent press conference, AW head writer Peggy Sloane tried to put the rumors aside and give an inside glimpse of what is ahead for the soap in the coming months. Here is just enough of the scoop to wet fans' appetite for more:

"There will be an exciting trial scene for Frankie and Cass, and there will be a big payoff for fans in the end," says Sloane. "We will be doing another one of Cass' dreams, much like the one we did a few months ago, but it will be taken from another genre. .

"There will be a return to the core family, the Corys. We will be dealing with Ada's death (Constance Ford; who portrayed the role, died in February) and it will be done in a heartwarming. funny way, much like the character herself. Rachel will emerge in a powerful new story line.

"The Ryan/Vicky/Grant story line will literally explode the night of the party for Amanda's book. These characters will head in a whole new direction.

"Felicia will be triumphant in her battle with alcohol and will return to her. outrageous, sassy self. Her journey is far from over though, and the alcohol problem will always be there.

"The two new characters on the show, Joy and Ian, will add some interesting twists. Ian is a mystery man. His past and his connection to key people in Bay City will surprise viewers. Joy will be involved with Jenna and Dean, and she is not all she seems to be."

One thing is for sure AW is not going down without a fight. It is an insightful, fast-paced, enjoyable program and it gets better every day.

Let us hope NBC learned a lesson with Santa Barbara after replacing it with game shows that are ratings flops. Of course this is the same network that let the popular Generations go after only a two-year trial, so who knows?
