Not a publicity llama

This llama, loaned to Northwest Elementary School on Friday by Garth Merrick, does not appear to want to talk to the children trying to pet him. "ET" was one of several animals displayed during an informal petting zoo organized by librarian Wanda Nall and her husband, Don. Also displayed were dogs, a raccoon, guinea pig, goats, lambs, puppies and a miniature donkey.

White House cans agency run by cousin of Clinton

By TERENCE HUNT
AP White House Correspondent
WASHINGTON (AP) - Scrambling to end the controversy surrounding the firing of its travel office staff, the White House dropped a politically connected Arkansas travel agency that had been hurriedly named to take over the operations.

The sudden move late Friday came after a barrage of questions about ties between the agency and a senior White House official, and the disclosure of a memo from a cousin of President Clinton suggesting a takeover of the travel office three months before the seven veteran employees were fired.

White House officials privately acknowledged they had mishandled the situation and had created at least the perception of political favoritism and cronyism.

"Things don't always go as planned," said one senior official, speaking on condition of anonymity. For Clinton, it was an unwanted irritant on the heels of new reports of his wife's $275 haircut and his own trim by a Hollywood stylist who regularly charges $200.

"There seems to be some sort of obsession with side issues," White House spokesman George Stephanopoulos complained at a news briefing that was dominated for the third straight day by questions about the firings.

The travel staff was fired Wednesday, accused of mismanaging the money that news organizations pay for charter flights that accompany the president on trips.

Meanwhile, Clinton's Hollywood friend, Harry Thomason, and Thomason's partner sought White House travel business for their consulting firm, according to an undated memo obtained by The Washington Post.

Thomason told the Post that he had had the memo faxed to the White House on May 10, four days before the administration initiated an outside audit of the operations of the White House travel office.

Both Thomason and the memo's author, Darnell Martens, president of Thomason, Richland and Martens, denied that they were seeking business for the company, the Post said in today's editions. However, the memo was phrased in those terms, according to the report.

To buttress its case for the firings, the White House released a Justice Department statement saying the FBI had determined that a criminal investigation was warranted. Also released was a report by an accounting firm that had inspected the travel office's records. The report alleged "significant accounting system weaknesses," including discrepancies in reporting $18,200 in checks from a petty cash account.

"Look at the facts and evaluate the facts and draw your own conclusions," a frustrated-sounding Clinton told reporters Friday. "Are you defending the practices? ... Do you think it's fine to have no-bid plane rides?"

The president said there would be a 25 percent savings for the media on a trip today through the use of competitive bids.

Yet, there were persistent questions about links between the White House and World Wide Travel, the Little Rock agency picked without competitive bidding to take over the operations.

The owner of the agency gave $1,755 to Clinton's presidential campaign, and the company served as the campaign's travel agency, receiving well over $1 million.

The agency also was a client of White House management chief David Watkins when he was in the advertising business. Watkins fired the seven travel employees.

Further, the White House disclosed a memo showing that a distant cousin of Clinton, Catherine Cornelius, had recommended the hiring of World Wide Travel and her own appointment to oversee the travel office.

Cornelius, 25, coordinated press charters during Clinton's campaign and had close ties with World Wide Travel. In her memo, Cornelius complained that the old travel office staff was inefficient and "overly pro-press."

Stephanopoulos said World Wide Travel had voluntarily withdrawn from further service, effective Monday.

Pioneer fete scheduled for May 29

The annual Mid-Plains Pioneer Celebration is scheduled in Deaf Smith County Bull Barn on Saturday, May 29, according to L.J. Clark, president of the association.

The annual "Pioneer of the Year" award presentation will be a highlight of the meeting. A plaque will also go to the oldest man and woman (who have not previously received the award). Registration begins at 9 a.m. at the Bull Barn. Annual dues are $3 a person.

The call to order will be at 11 a.m. and lunch will be served at noon with meat, bread and drinks provided. Those attending are asked to bring a covered dish.

Ministerial Alliance to host '93 baccalaureate

The Hereford Ministerial Alliance will host baccalaureate services for the Hereford High School Class of 1993 at 8 p.m. Sunday.

The service will be held in the Hereford Junior High School gymnasium and is open to the public.

Special speaker will be HISD Trustee Raul Valdez, whose message will be titled "The Rebounder."

Special music will be provided by Greg Coplen, Mandi Douglas and Sherry and Emily Fuston. The Scripture passage will be read by the Rev. Larry Cothrin, while Don Walker will offer the prayer.

Testimonies will be offered by Johnny Cloud and Martha Rincon.

The alliance also will present a special gift to each senior present.

This is the first year the ministerial alliance has sponsored baccalaureate.

The U.S. Supreme Court has ruled that public school districts may not sponsor such services because justices say they violate Constitutional separation of Church and State.

Teachers hang it up after years in class

By GARRY WESNER
Managing Editor

For decades, they have stood before groups of children, imparting truths that would be carried throughout life.

They have strived to show national capitals, verbs and nouns, scientific principles and the Dewey Decimal system.

But now the time has come to say goodbye to four Hereford Junior High School teachers who among them have amassed more than 130 years classroom experience.

Norma Jean Gripp, Pat Montgomery, Rita Burges and Sidney Kerr all arrived at the junior high by different routes, but their final days will be spent together.

For example, Mrs. Gripp is the last staff member who has worked at the school since it originally opened as La Plata Junior High.

Mrs. Montgomery came from out of town 24 years ago to a job at Stanton Junior High, moving when that closed and the junior highs were unified as Hereford Junior High.

Burges has been in Hereford for more than 20 years, but took time off from the public schools to work at St. Anthony's School.

Finally, Mrs. Kerr has spent her entire career in the district.

"I have loved Hereford schools and I think they are a very progressive schools," Mrs. Montgomery said. "I kind of hate to go."

Mrs. Montgomery moved to Hereford with her family 24 years ago. She got a job with the school district, but asked to be placed at Stanton because her son would be an eighth grader at La Plata and she didn't want to teach at his school.

"When I first taught English, (it was) kind of basic grammar, very little literature. And then English classes went to linguistics."

That permutation, Mrs. Montgomery said, is one of many Hereford residents will remember, because of the much-hated Robert's English book.

Finally, the trend returned to grammar. Now, the latest state essential elements for English have been written and "English is going to be literature-based."

Mrs. Gripp started out in the classroom, teaching History for five years at Stanton before moving to La Plata, where she taught five more years before moving to the library.

The principal at the time, she said, discouraged her from moving to the library, saying she would miss her classroom too much.

"I missed the interaction with the kids a long time," she said. "The library's a different place."

Still, over the years there have been changes in the junior high library.

"I have five computers in there now I didn't have before," as well as televisions, VCRs and other equipment.

"I used to have to work on 16mm (films) every day," she continued.

Early voting going on here for Senate runoff election

Early voting in the June 5 special election climbed above the 140 ballot mark Friday afternoon in Deaf Smith County.

Texas voters will elect a U.S. senator in the special election. Kay Bailey Hutchison, state treasurer, is challenging Bob Krueger, appointed by Governor Ann Richards to serve after Lloyd Bentsen resigned to become secretary of the U.S. Treasury.

Statewide, political observers believe the race will attract a light turnout although the two candidates have hardly let up in campaigning since the May 1 special election.

Hutchison claimed a slight edge over Krueger in the May voting. They topped a field of 24 candidates vying for the unexpired U.S. Senate term. Since no candidate received a majority of votes, a runoff was called by the governor for June 5.

Last day for early voting is June

Talking about retirement

These four teachers are among a dozen Hereford Independent School district employees who are calling it quits this year. The women all teach at Hereford Junior High and represent more than 130 years of experience. Norma Jean Gripp, from left, Rita Burges, Sidney Kerr and Pat Montgomery all have differing plans for their retirements and varied memories from their years in education.

Base commission broadens list of military facilities facing ax

WASHINGTON (AP) - An independent commission has broadened a list of military bases that could be closed as part of the Clinton administration's drive for a leaner national defense.

As it added more than two dozen installations to the Pentagon's list of possible candidates for the chopping block, the panel cautioned that its actions are preliminary and that a final decision will come July 1.

"It's one gigantic puzzle," Jim Courter, chairman of the Defense Base Closure and Realignment Commission, said during a marathon session Friday that lasted past midnight.

"It doesn't mean our minds are made up. It means our minds are open. We are not rubber stamps for the Pentagon," said Courter, a former Republican congressman from New Jersey.

New targets included Navy shipyards in Portsmouth, Va., Long Beach, Calif. and the Portsmouth Shipyard in Kittery, Maine.

Air Force bases added to the list were Fairchild in Washington state, Grand Forks in North Dakota and Plattsburgh in New York.

Among the Army bases under consideration for closing are Forts Gillem and McPherson in Georgia, Fort Lee, Va., and Fort Monroe, Va.

But Courter and other commission members said repeatedly that too much should not be read into the expanding list. The bases were added to help draw comparisons with those submitted in March by Defense Secretary Les Aspin, they said.

"I want to make it clear that our job is not to terrorize communities that may have breathed a sigh of relief" when they didn't show up on the March list, said Courter. But, he warned, "The time to breathe easier is July 1."

The added candidates for closure or realignment could end up being substitutes for base closures recommended by the Pentagon, or could be additional installations to be shut down.

The panel said it must weigh the military value of the sites and their impact on the local economy.

Aspin recommended closing 31 major bases this year, realigning 12 others and reducing 122 smaller facilities.

The seven-member base closure commission must decide on possible additions by June 1 and make final recommendations to President Clinton on July 1. By law, the president and Congress must accept or reject the panel's list as a whole.

Representatives of communities surrounding any new candidate for closing will have an opportunity to testify publicly before the final list goes to the White House.

Rain hits Hereford Friday

KPAN Radio reported Saturday that Hereford received 0.47 inches of rain on Friday. Additional rains were predicted for Saturday. For Sunday, the National Weather Service is calling for partly cloudy skies with a 20 percent chance of thunderstorms and a high around 80 degrees. Variable winds will be from 5 to 15 mph.

County announces agenda

Deaf Smith County commissioners will meet Monday, beginning at 9 a.m., in the courthouse. Among agenda items are opening bids for purchase of maintainers, consideration of advertising for bids for a vehicle for the sheriff's departments, consideration of requests for permission to cross county roads with water and irrigation lines and discussion of a right-of-way easement. Concluding the meeting will be a workshop to continue preparation on the county's budget for the fiscal year beginning Oct. 1.

4-H Spring Fling set

The Deaf Smith County 4-H Spring Fling will be held Tuesday in Community Center banquet room. The Parent Leaders and council will begin at 6 p.m., followed by supper at 7 p.m. and the 1993-94 officer election at 7:40 p.m.

Hospital board to meet

The Deaf Smith County Hospital District board of directors will meet in regular session at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday in the hospital board room. Highlighting the session will be the election of officers and appointments to committees. Also scheduled area an administrator's update, medical staff report, emergency room physicians credentialing and operations and financial reports. The session will end with a closed executive session. Any action to be taken by the panel will be taken in open session.

Immunization schedule noted

The Texas Department of Health will have its final May immunization clinic in Hereford on Thursday. Vaccines against polio, diphtheria, lockjaw (tetanus), whooping cough (pertussis), measles, rubella, mumps and HIB (hemophilus influenzae type B) will be offered. Charges are based on family income and size and ability to pay. Funds are used to help keep the clinic open. Hours will be from 9 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. and 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. in the Health Department offices, 205 W. Fourth St., Suite B.

Obituaries

DONALD ADAMS May 21, 1993

Donald Adams, 63, of Hereford died Friday afternoon in his residence after a lengthy illness.

Services will be at 2:30 p.m. Sunday in Foskey Funeral Home of Dimmitt with M.G. "Bud" Corless, pastor of First Christian Church of Dimmitt, and the Rev. Sam Milam, pastor of Frio Baptist Church, officiating.

Burial will be in Westlawn Memorial Park under direction of Foskey Funeral Home.

He was born in Devol, Okla., and moved from Dimmitt to Hereford 32 years ago. He married Pauline Clay on Sept. 6, 1950, in Muleshoe. He was a member of First Christian Church and farmed and worked for Tri-State Chemical in Hereford.

Survivors include his wife; a son, Kenneth of Hereford; a daughter, Diana Korman of Chicago, Ill.; a brother, Douglas Adams of Hale Center; a sister, Patsy Barnes of Fairview, Mo.; and a granddaughter, Amy Adams.

HJH Roundup

By CAROLYN WATERS

"To teach a child what to think you make him a slave. To teach a child how to think you make all knowledge his slave."--Henry Taitte.

One phase of this teaching comes with UIL activities. HJH hosted the area UIL meet last Saturday and came away with Third Place overall. Participants from HJH in the meet were Sara Chavez, Sergio Saenz, Sara Smith, Jory McKibben, Deanna Redelsperger and Bambi Brethour in Calculator Applications; Dawn Mendenhall, Eddie Montoya, Jim Moudy, Tony Garcia and Jason Jesko in Number Sense; Craig Aimes, Jacque Bezner, Brandon Brown, Andrew Feller, Sarah Ramey, Sara Perez, Trip Robison, Lauren Hansen, Melva Valle, Heath Kirkeby and Jason Messer in Science; Willie Rhyne, Mary Solis, Ty Boggeman, David Radford, Jeremy Urbanczyk, Briar Baker and Kendra Wright in Texas History; Matt Artho in American History; Christy Rangel, Jeremy Lewis, Angie Villarreal, and Retha Treadway in Dictionary Skills; Gabe Kelley, Mere Denton and Sarah Melendrez in Computer Literacy; Amanda Padilla, Amanda Rickman, Matt Bair, Nicole McWhorter, Heather Klos Brazil and Irma Herrera in Poetry and Prose; Katie Bone, Kris Daniel and Rob Reinauer in Impromptu Speaking and Sheena Jesko, Lori Praetold, Michele Denning and Tara Cash in Duet Acting. Congratulations to all these fine young people!

Mr. Chand, UIL Director, would like to express his thanks to everyone who helped with the area UIL Meet. This group includes retired teachers, teachers, parents, students, traffic directors and, also, the businesses that helped to make the day a success--Thriftway, Taylor and Sons, Homeland, Pizza Hut and any others who helped with this endeavor.

Two more of our teachers have announced retirement. Mrs. Rita Burges, Resource Teacher, is active in volunteer work and Community Concert and has a busy future planned. Mrs. Sidney Kerr, Computer Literacy and Speech Teacher, is "into" antiques and collectibles and will travel many miles to auctions and antique shows with her husband. Best wishes to two of the best!

We also bid farewell to Mrs. Agnes Betzen, one of our cafeteria favorites. We feel sure she will keep on with her cooking skills as she enjoys her children and grandchildren. Let's wish her that they entertain and cook for her for a while. And besides that, I'll have to try to get her replacement to give me the "corner rolls." Best wishes, Mrs. Betzen!

We inadvertently left out the name of one of our athletes who participated in the Special Olympics. Amanda Vigil won 1st in the 50 meter at Borger; 1st in the 100 meter at Pampa, Canyon and Borger; 4th at Pampa, 1st at Canyon and 2nd at Borger in the softball throw. Congratulations, Amanda!

Hats off to Garry Wesner, Brand Editor, who is so prompt to cover school activities with pictures and information. As a former yearbook sponsor, I can appreciate the different poses he uses for pictures, rather than the "line 'em up and shoot 'em" that is used so much. Thanks, Garry!

And as John Dewey once said, "The aim of education should be to teach the child to think, not what to think." Parents, please continue this for us during the summer.

Kiwanis honor students

TEACHERS

Now the Education Services Center in Amarillo is sending out mostly vide cassettes.

The library is now full every day, as classes schedule time to come in and work with books.

Burges began her career in Kansas City, Mo., teaching religion to handicapped children -- something that had never been done before.

When she moved to Hereford in 1971, she taught at the junior high for 15 years, working with special education children.

She left the district for two years, which she spent as principal of St. Anthony's School, followed by a stint at West Central Intermediate School before returning to the junior high for the last four years.

As a special education resource room teacher, Burges has seen changes in her physical location.

"I started out, actually, in a closet," she said, adding that, while her space has now grown to encompass half a regular classroom, "my door in my classroom opens up into another classroom. Classroom-wise, I can't say I've had the best classrooms."

Still, that small space has had what she needed.

"We've always had ample materials. ... They've always given us everything we've needed to do the job," she said.

Mrs. Kerr has probably seen the greatest technological changes in her quarter century of teaching -- she is retiring as computer literacy teacher at the junior high.

"I started out in the fourth grade and as fourth graders, kids are so motivated about school," she said.

When she moved to the junior high in 1981, Mrs. Kerr said, she was not sure if she would enjoy teaching as much.

"I really like junior high. I like it better than fourth grade. I didn't think I would."

Still, she said, she's not sure how education has changed.

There are a lot more programs now than in the past, she said, but "kids are kids."

Now that the curtain is closing on these four careers, the women are turning their sights to the future.

For Mrs. Kerr, that means time with her husband.

"He wants me to retire so we can do some traveling and antiquing. That is our hobby."

Burges said she plans to spend time with her mother, who turns 93 in August.

"My mother is needing help and I'm having problems with my own personal health," she said, adding that, "I just feel like it's time (to retire)."

Mrs. Gripp quoted former President Bush in informing Superintendent Charles W. Greenawalt she was retiring.

"Mr. Bush said there's a time to go and a time to stay and it's my time to go," she said.

"I have five grandchildren and one is a little baseball player and tennis player and I am very interested in those sports," she said. In addition, another grandchild is learning to ride horses and barrel race.

And, of course, "I will continue reading -- and reading and reading."

Like Mrs. Kerr, Mrs. Montgomery plans to join her husband in retirement.

"I decided I had to quit while I still had my health and do other interesting things," she said. She and her husband plan to travel.

All told, the women are quitting after a combined 136 years.

"That was my chosen career and I've loved it," Mrs. Montgomery said.

Schedule for last week of school noted

This week marks the final days of classes in the 1992-93 Hereford Independent School District year.

Nena Veazey, assistant to the superintendent, said some schedule changes will be in effect for the week.

Because of staff training, Shirley Intermediate School will not meet at all this week. Their school year ended on Friday.

Teachers there will be receiving training for a new Integrated Thematic Instruction program being implemented next year.

In addition, students at Northwest Elementary School will dismiss for the year on Wednesday, two days early.

A waiver has been granted by the state to dismiss early so teachers there can undergo training to implement a new HOSTS language arts program next fall.

For the rest of the district, Mrs. Veazey said, class will be held all week, including Friday, which is a makeup day lost to snow during the winter.

Classes will be held all day on Monday through Wednesday at all schools but Shirley.

At all schools but Shirley and Northwest, students will attend through lunch on Thursday Friday.

Lunch will be served both days, but buses will run on their early schedule after the meal.

School will dismiss for the summer for the rest of the district at noon Friday.

Salute to seniors in this Brand

The Hereford Brand presents its annual Salute to Seniors in today's newspaper.

Photographs of the Hereford High School Senior Class of 1993 are included, as is a picture of the sole graduate of the Community Christian School.

Unfortunately, the name identification on one photograph, which appears on page 5D, inadvertently fell off during production.

That graduate is Irene Lopez. The Brand regrets this omission.

Court rules for phone solicitations

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) - As infuriating as some people may find prerecorded telephone solicitations, a congressional act that banned them amounts to an unconstitutional infringement on free speech, a federal judge ruled.

"Despite the presumed frustration of some recipients ... there is little to suggest that a ban on automated calls delivering prerecorded messages directly advances the interest in residential privacy," U.S. District Judge James A. Redden said in permanently blocking enforcement of the law.

The Telephone Consumer Protection Act, passed by Congress in 1991, was aimed at automatically dialed, recorded calls that pitch products and services. It did not prohibit the vast majority of telephone solicitations, which are done by a live operator.

"Congress is attempting to ban totally a form of commercial speech for the sake of reducing only slightly the number of telephone solicitations," Redden said in siding with a chimney sweep who sued the Federal Communications Commission.

Katherine Moser said her Lucky Leprechaun Chimney Sweep Service and other small businesses depend on prerecorded solicitations and can't afford to pay for live operators.

Redden found that government arguments for privacy rights were diminished by evidence showing that prerecorded telephone solicitations make up only 3 percent of telemarketing calls.

Julianne Ross Davis, one of Moser's lawyers, said she realizes many people are infuriated when their privacy is disturbed by a prerecorded telephone solicitation.

"Our First Amendment protections of free speech are our most important right and in order to protect them, sometimes you have to take the good with the bad," she said.

The FCC referred telephone calls for comment to Joe Krovinsky, a Justice Department spokesman, who said his department had not received the ruling and could not discuss it.

Redden granted a preliminary injunction Dec. 17, blocking enforcement of the law three days before it was supposed to take effect.

Subsequently, Redden issued a clarification saying his ruling applied nationwide. The FCC never began enforcing the law.

Moser praised Redden for protecting constitutional rights to free speech and equal protection under the law.

She said customers she gets through the solicitations keep her business going. "Without it, our business would be cut by 90 percent," she said. "It would seriously cripple us and I'd probably be flipping burgers at McDonald's to stay in business."

Ray Kolker, president of Carlsbad, Calif.-based Kolker Systems Inc., which makes autodialer machines, said the law never should have been passed.

It was "a perfect example of the millions of dollars of taxpayer money being wasted each year on laws that are challenged on constitutional grounds," Kolker said.

Farmers hope for good weather for cotton crop

By JEAN PAGEL
Associated Press Writer
LAMESA, Texas (AP) - Cotton farmer Brad Boyd smiles approvingly at the thick clusters of buttercups bobbing beside his fields in the West Texas wind.

"The old timers say a good buttercup crop means a good year," Boyd explained.

Tender cotton seedlings, planted the first couple weeks of May, are emerging from Boyd's 2,600 acres of sandy red loam. Heavy rains drenched the Texas cotton belt Monday evening.

Boyd and his counterparts across the Panhandle and South Plains are hoping for kinder weather after storms last spring destroyed about half the region's 3.1 million cotton acres.

Agriculture experts say about 3.2 million acres will be planted this year in the region.

In 1992 "we had a season that started out and finished as good as a season ever does, but it was punctuated by about five weeks of the worse weather ever," said Kater Hake, Lubbock cotton agronomist with the Texas Agriculture Extension Service.

Farmers ended up harvesting 1.48 million acres, said Shawn Wade, director of communications for Plains Cotton Growers. Average yield is 2.4 million acres.

"The last part of the year we had excellent growing weather, the temperatures were there, we got some timely rains - everything came together for the cotton that was left," Wade said. "You can't say it was a great year."

But many farmers who lost cotton to hail and rain-induced fungal disease in 1992 started over with alternative crops, including sorghum. That switch caused a pleasant side effect: Acres planted in sorghum last year are now healthier for cotton, Hake said.

"Sorghum is one of the best rotations for controlling seedling disease," he said. "Even though it's awfully early to say, it looks like the disease pressure is light."

Young cotton plants will remain especially vulnerable until about mid-June, Hake said.

Threats come from hail, high winds and blowing sand, which can scorch the soft, succulent leaves.

Hake said many farmers have waited a little later to plant.

"That's beneficial," he said. "We had some cold weather go through while the seed was in the bag - where it should be."

Double presentation

Keith Lindell, a member of Hereford FFA, left, recently was presented a leadership award by HHS ag teacher Kevin Kelley. Lindell in return presented Kelley with a gift of appreciation.

Honorary FFA members

Robert and Camille Beville have been named Honorary FFA members by the Hereford High School chapter. The proclamation was made recently by the group.

Outstanding FFA members

NEW YORK (AP) - George Stephanopoulos returned to Columbia University to pick up an honor from his alma mater and said his job as White House communications director has been a "real lesson in ego deflation."

The 32-year-old recalled boning up on policy questions for his first news conference as spokesman for President-elect Clinton. He was peppered instead with questions about "how many hours did the president sleep last night and what did he have for breakfast and what did Socks have for breakfast."

A 1982 graduate and a Rhodes scholar, Stephanopoulos received the University Medal for Excellence at commencement exercises Wednesday.

— YOUR EYES —

GETTING USED TO YOUR GLASSES

One youngster we know was delighted with her first pair of glasses. Taken to an ice show that day, she kept looking at the stage, first with her glasses, then without. The people on stage had faces! She became accustomed to her glasses right away.

Most people have little difficulty getting used to new glasses, especially if eyes are examined regularly, with prescription changes as needed. But if it's been awhile and this prescription change is a large one, it will take somewhat longer for the eyes -- and the brain -- to get used to the new way of seeing.

Reading glasses or bifocals may take a while to get used to. Your optometrist will help you to learn how to use them effectively, seeing out of different areas of the lens. Even a new frame will require a period of adjustment if it is different from you old one, a little bigger, perhaps, or a different color. If there is any discomfort, of course, see your optometrist right away.

Congratulations to the HHS graduating Class of 1993, and a special salute to the honor grads! Today's edition of The Brand includes special sections to honor the graduates. It was made possible by the businesses and institutions of the community, who take a pride in the youth as they take this big step in life. Photos of the candidates for graduation and a listing of special awards and scholarships are included in the special pages.

Two separate studies indicate that "everyday low prices" do not motivate customers. A survey by Southwest Information Resources (SIR) found that shoppers are turned off by the concept of everyday low prices. A poll in Houston showed that 45 percent preferred to shop at regular stores on special sale days rather than at stores claiming to offer discount prices all the time.

SIR says customers are more compelled to respond to a limited-time offer. The everyday low price concept has another drawback--lack of credibility. Only half of the shoppers in the Houston poll believe that retailers are truthful when they claim to have everyday low prices.

A marketing professor overseeing the study says, "Everyday low pricing goes against what shopping is all about."

Another study by a promotional services company in Chicago had to do with coupons. It revealed that consumers would rather use a coupon worth $1 than send in a refund worth $2. The national telephone survey of 1,000 adults indicated that 83 percent of consumers would rather clip and use a coupon than mail in a refund for twice the value.

More than 70 percent of those contacted regularly use coupons, while fewer than half had taken the time to mail in a refund over the past year. Again, that's shopping is all about.

Christopher must try for substitute policy for Bosnia

By BARRY SCHWEID
AP Diplomatic Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - Allied and Russian disquiet has doomed President Clinton's "lift and strike" plan for ending the war in Bosnia and left the administration casting about in desperation for a substitute that might work.

The trans-Atlantic split has caused other damage, as well - to the inexperienced president's reputation as a leader - and stripped the United States of what might have been a credible, forceful strategy to stem the bloodshed in the former Yugoslav republic.

Secretary of State Warren Christopher, whose trip to Europe and Moscow two weeks ago now appears a fool's errand, is starting over, trying to cobble together a course of action. It's a tough assignment, though he made some headway Thursday in talks with Russian Foreign Minister Andrei Kozyrev.

Whatever Christopher comes up with on the rebound from his false start must both command the support of the allies and promise to be effective.

He may be able to find the magic formula. The focus now is on some combination of pressure tactics, border monitoring and maybe setting up safe havens to shield homeless people.

"At heart, this is a European problem," Christopher told the House Foreign Affairs Committee on Tuesday. It was a polite way of saying "we tried, now it's their turn."

With the exception of Turkey, none of the allies were willing to authorize a lifting of the U.N. arms embargo to provide outgunned Muslims with weapons to defend themselves against Serb "ethnic cleansing."

They also would not endorse bombing the artillery that has terrorized Muslim civilians and helped Bosnian Serbs armed by Belgrade capture more than 70 percent of the country's territory.

Christopher is taking Kozyrev to the White House to see President Clinton, having lunch with British Foreign Secretary Douglas Hurd and meeting French Foreign Minister Alain Juppe on Saturday.

That's a lot of activity crammed into a few days, so maybe Christopher can actually pull a rabbit out of the hat.

At this stage, the administration is taking comfort in small steps: the U.N. Security Council's preparations for a war crimes tribunal and for placing monitors on the Serb border with Bosnia to check on weapons shipments.

Richard Boucher, the State Department spokesman, said Wednesday that the military option - lifting the U.N. arms embargo and bombing Serb artillery sites - remained "the preferred option."

But Clinton has ruled out unilateral U.S. action and the allies will not approve force. Unless there is a total change of heart, that would seem to be the end of it.

In talking to Christopher here, in Europe and on the telephone, European and Russian officials did not readily say no.

They suggested, however, the war might spread if the Muslims were armed and that British, French, Spanish, Canadian and other peacekeepers might be put in harm's way by the bombing.

And, most frustrating of all, they persisted in pinning their hopes - over Christopher's objections - on Bosnian Serb acceptance of the peace plan drafted by international negotiators Cyrus Vance and Lord Owen.

After all, Bosnian Serb leader Radovan Karadzic signed the agreement on June 2 and his backer in Belgrade, President Slobodan Milosevic, also endorsed it.

Christopher considered that a cynical ploy, and the agreement was rejected first by a self-styled Bosnian Serb parliament and then by Bosnian Serb voters.

The allies, meanwhile, temporized and awaited the inevitable results.

Clinton effectively was blocked as the clock kept ticking and the Serbs kept up their offensive knowing they were not running the risk of a military strike against them.

Out of the Blue

By Garry Wesner

By GARRY WESNER
Managing Editor

Well, that final week has finally arrived.

The Senior Class of 1993 at last can see the light at the end of the compulsory-education tunnel.

All their hard work, sweat, toil, labor, agony, exercise, endeavors, travail, struggle and servitude are at an end.

Finally, they can look at the future and declare, "I am an adult. I have arrived. I am the Master of my own Destiny."

Parents (and all the rest of us who are old) stop that laughing!

These children need support, encouragement and our superior wisdom.

They also need a strong dose of reality!!!!

Kids, I hate to be the one to burst your bubble, but life right now is about the best it's ever going to get.

I mean, at what other point in your life can you live rent-free, have a cook prepare your meals, get the virtually unlimited use of a car, work part time and keep most of the money and get all summer off.

For those of you not planning to attend college, the Real World will kick in sometime around May 31 or June 1.

That's when you'll go to work full-time.

You'll have to start finding a place to live before too long, which is immediately followed by rent, utilities, the need to buy furniture and food, buying your own gas and making sure you have insurance.

No longer can you sleep in until noon, take off to Amarillo in the middle of the day to see that girl (guy) you met one weekend, or just "bum around" for a day.

If you're going to college, you probably are going to work full-time until fall, just to pay for school.

Then, Reality sets in.

You will be miles from home, Mom won't be there to cook for you, Dad won't change the oil in your car and NOF ODY will loan you money.

You'll have classes of more than 100 students, where the tender care you received from a high school student is replaced by, "My office hours are 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays. If you have any questions ask the graduate assistant."

You may have a roommate who is opposite (or worse, exactly like) you.

Nobody will have sympathy for what happened to your homework, how lonesome you are, or how hard classes are.

And, after a year of being on "Top" of the school, you are a Freshman once again and despised by everyone.

Plus, just to get a bachelors degree requires four more years of school. A masters, four more years beyond that, and if medical school is your bag, you can forget about being out of school for a LONG time.

But before you sink into total despair, remember (that oft-used platitude), "The Best Years of Life Are Ahead."

Because now you get to think about health insurance, two-week vacations, mortgages, anniversaries, when (and if) to have children, establishing credit and all that stuff.

You may drift from some of your old classmates, but those who remain will be the truest friends.

In addition, you'll make new friends and your relationship to brothers and sisters and your parents will become richer and more personal (because it's true that distance makes the heart grow fonder).

So enjoy today and the rest of high school.

Don't think about Reality for a while.

You'll have plenty of time for that later on.

Congratulations on your making it this far and best wishes for the future.

How many of you remember your high school graduation?

I think every year's commencement makes us think back to those days a little more.

I graduated 15 years ago this May 31. I can't believe that much time has gone by (almost half my life!).

My graduating class in Albuquerque was much larger than the HHS class. I was ranked somewhere around 376th out of a class of 717 people.

Since I had moved before my senior year and changed schools, I only knew 24 people in my graduating class.

I really can't remember anything important from that senior year. I mean, I had Mr. Osborne for Ancient History and Medieval History, I had someone else for Creative Writing and tried to play trumpet in the band with my braces on.

But beyond that, my Senior Year was pretty much a blur.

I guess it was all a matter of perspective.

***

Speaking of momentous events, I got a news release recently that informed me that the McDonald's Big Mac has celebrated its 25th anniversary.

That's right, it's been a quarter of a century since that major burger burst onto the scene.

I didn't realize that (of course, it really wasn't something I thought about that much, either).

There were some things I didn't know in the news release.

For example, Hoyt Axton recorded "The Ballad of the Big Mac." The creator of the sandwich has confessed that he was inspired by a fish sandwich.

Of course, everyone sentient in 1974 remembers the commercial, "Twoall-beefspiciclesonsaucelettuce-cheesepicklesonionsonasesame-seedbun."

I don't know what all this has to do with anything, but ...

***

Anyway, that's all for this week. Have a good week and remember, let's be careful out there.

Meeting behind closed doors again political hot potato on Capitol Hill

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON (AP) - Rebuffing protests against business behind closed doors, the chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee said that's the best way to get the work done on a complex, controversial tax bill. The issue is as old as the United States - the Constitution was drafted in secret sessions.

The uses and abuses of secrecy and privacy have been raised again in Congress, in court, and in newly released tapes recording the early days of the Watergate scandal.

In Congress, the latest round became a political one, with House Republicans protesting a Democratic decision to close committee proceedings on President Clinton's tax increase bill.

At the same time, the Clinton White House sided with former President George Bush's effort to control access to computer records of his Republican administration. Bush had wanted those files of electronic mail and computer memos erased, but a federal court barred that. But Bush gained legal control of "all presidential information" in those records under an agreement with the National Archives the day before he left office.

The Clinton administration defended the agreement in federal court on Monday, opposing the bid of two interest groups to get the material moved from the archives back to the White House. In an earlier hearing on the same case, the new administration argued that the law does not require "every scrap of information be saved..."

After all, Clinton will be leaving office one day, the case will set the precedent on computer data, and no administration is going to want to leave all its records to the custody of a successor, perhaps a political foe.

The National Archives holds Richard Nixon's papers and the Watergate tapes in a warehouse near Washington. Nixon spent years and $3 million in legal fees trying to get them back and keep them secret. Last Monday, the archives released 25 taped conversations, about three hours out of 4,000, with more to come later.

In one, Nixon dismissed the Watergate break-in as an inside Washington story most Americans would ignore. "It sounds like a comic opera, really," he said of the case that ultimately forced his resignation.

The open door argument was raised by House Republicans when the Ways and Means Committee voted, as it almost always has before, to shape the final terms of the proposed tax bill in executive session.

"My goal is to get the work done, and every one of us knows that we get more accomplished when we are eyeball-to-eyeball in executive session and unable to posture for the cameras or lobbyists in the room," said Rep. Dan Rostenkowski, the chairman.

He also said it had been done that way without GOP protests when Bush and Ronald Reagan were in the White House. "As far as I'm concerned, what we considered wise policy under two Republican presidents remains smart today," the Illinois Democrat said.

Not according to the Republicans, who said the Democrats were trying to raise taxes in the dark. Rep. Newt Gingrich, the GOP whip, said the committee sessions should have been televised live.

That would have been a stage for Republican denunciations of the tax bill. Instead, the bill to raise taxes $246 billion over the next five years, was revised in closed-door markup sessions, then approved on a party line vote, 24 Democrats for it, 14 Republicans against.

House reform rules adopted in 1973 require that committees hold public sessions to deal with amendments and final terms of the bills they send to the floor for action, unless a majority votes to close those meetings.

According to Rostenkowski, the Ways and Means Committee has historically done so on tax markups, more than 60 times during his dozen years as chairman, and usually with bipartisan support.

It certainly is more efficient in getting the bills handled. Whether the tradeoff of openness for efficiency is the right one is a question that defies yes or no answers.

"There is nothing novel about governmental confidentiality," Chief Justice Warren Burger wrote in the 1974 Supreme Court decision that forced Nixon to yield incriminating Watergate tapes. "The meetings of the constitutional convention in 1787 were conducted in complete privacy."

And most of the people who framed the terms of the Constitution said it couldn't have been done without secrecy, Burger noted.

Two centuries later, the explanation sounds familiar.

INDIO, Calif. (AP) - Sonny Bono wants a restraining order against a man he says has stalked him, threatened to kill him and asked him for money.

Bono, half of the 1970s pop duo Sonny and Cher, filed a petition in Superior Court this month asking that James Hamlin be ordered to stay at least 150 yards away from him and his family. A hearing is set for May 25.

Police Capt. Gary Boswell of Palm Springs, where Bono lives and was formerly mayor, said that Hamlin "does appear to have some

According to the petition, Hamlin has stalked Bono and his family since 1986 and has sent letters threatening to kill Bono, asking him for money, accusing him of using drugs and asking him to be friends.

Canyon dumps Friona in bi-district game here

The Canyon bats were just too much for Friona, as the Eagles beat Friona 10-0 in a bi-district playoff game Friday at Hereford's Whiteface Field.

Canyon, 28-0 and ranked No. 1 in Class 3A, scored multiple runs in four of the five innings and finished the game early by the 10-run rule. Canyon pitcher struck out eight Chieftains while giving up only two hits and a walk. Only one Chieftain got as far as second base.

Canyon racked up 10 hits as they ended Friona's season for the third year in a row. Friona was 11-14 this year.

"Give 'em credit, they hit the ball," said Friona coach Curtis Cotten, formerly of Hereford. "They made the plays, and we were unable to make the plays to make it a good ball game."

Canyon took a 2-0 lead on an error, two wild pitches, two singles and a sacrifice fly. Friona starter Tony Cuevas escaped damage in the second, but Canyon came back with two in the third on two singles and a two-run double by Josh Conner.

In the fourth, a leadoff walk came around to score on a sac fly, and that was followed by Isaac Padilla's two-run homer to right field.

In the fifth, another leadoff walk led to a run on two straight singles. Two more runs scored on Matt Hicks' second sac fly of the game and a single by Kevin Kraai.

The Eagles will meet Iowa Park in the next round.

Call it a successful debut for Cotten, who got the Friona job after being an assistant in Hereford for only one year.

"It was quite an experience," he said. "We started slow, but there in the middle of the year, we made some improvements and were able to make the playoffs."

Friona had to win three straight games to make the playoffs. The Chieftains swept Muleshoe in a doubleheader on the last day of the season, then beat Littlefield in a one-game playoff for the second playoff seed.

June Low-Ball set

The June Low-ball golf tournament, which benefits the United Way, will be June 5-6 at Pitman Municipal Golf Course.

The partnership tournament, which is open to all golfers, will be flighted by handicaps.

The entry fee of $80 per player includes several extras, plus the opportunity for prizes. The fee does not include green fees, but does include carts, a tee packet and dinner after both rounds. Saturday's dinner will be a family night with hamburgers, and Sunday's dinner will be a steak dinner for golfers, at which prizes will be awarded. Both dinners will be held at Hereford Country Club.

There will be special prizes up for grabs for any golfer who scores a hole-in-one on any of Pitman's five par-three holes. The big prize will be on No. 10, where the Rotary Club will be conducting its $25,000 hole-in-one contest. Qualifying for the Rotary contest will go on all week before the tournament, and the tournament entry fee will include chances to qualify during Saturday's round. The finals of the contest will be Sunday after the round is over.

Other events coming up at Pitman: --Double Couples tournament, June 26-27.

--Golf Camp for young golfers, July 12-16.

--Hereford Men's Golf Association partnership (one player older than 50 partnered with one younger than 50), July 18.

More details for these events will be available later.

Hank Greenberg drove in 183 runs for Detroit in 1937, the most in the history of the team.

Pete Maravich made 1,387 field goals during his basketball career at LSU, setting an NCAA record.

Sanderson picked for Greenbelt Bowl

Hereford's Richard Sanderson has been selected to play in the DSA Greenbelt Bowl, an all-star football game for graduated high school seniors.

Sanderson quarterbacked the Herd to a District 1-4A title during his senior year, and made second team all-district. He ran for 710 yards and passed for 698.

He said he hopes the Greenbelt Bowl will serve as a springboard to a college career.

"I've had some offers (from colleges), but I didn't know if I was going to play," he said. "But being selected to this-it's kind of changed my thinking. I think I'll go ahead and play."

Sanderson joins Hereford teammate Steven Blea, who was named several weeks ago. The Greenbelt Bowl will be played June 5 in Childress.

Henderson's late heroics lift Athletics

By BEN WALKER
AP Baseball Writer

The game was over for Rickey Henderson and the Oakland Athletics. At least, it sure looked that way.

"I'm sitting in here in the clubhouse with my shoes off because I was out," Henderson said. "If something happened, though, the manager said, just stay around and I'll let you hit."

Not only did Henderson wind up hitting again, he wound up winning the game.

Henderson hit a three-run homer in the eighth inning, then hit a two-run triple and scored in the ninth, rallying the Athletics over the Chicago White Sox 12-11 Friday night at Comiskey Park.

The White Sox led 10-4 going into the eighth, and A's manager Tony La Russa was ready to give Henderson the rest of the night off.

"Tony told me after the seventh inning, 'If we don't score, I'm going to take you out,'" Henderson said. "All the time, I'm sitting in here, just sitting back, waiting to see what is going to happen. (La Russa) then told me, 'Hey, you come back out here, you might get to hit.'"

On a big night of home runs and homecomings in the American League, Texas topped California 6-4 in 10 innings, Boston beat New York 7-2, Toronto defeated Minnesota 11-2, Cleveland downed Detroit 10-5, Kansas City stopped Seattle 2-1 and Milwaukee beat Baltimore 9-3.

Rangers 6, Angels 4

Juan Gonzalez hit his second two-run homer of the game with two outs in the 10th inning, and Texas defeated visiting California.

Gonzalez is tied with Albert Belle for the major league lead with 14 home runs. He had his 11th multi-homer game, setting a Rangers record.

Dean Palmer hit his 13th home run for Texas. Tom Henke (4-1) was the winner.

Red Sox 7, Yankees 2

Wade Boggs went 4 for 4, but Boston spoiled his return to Fenway Park by beating New York.

John Dopson (3-2) held New York to one run in seven innings. He fanned eight, twice escaping bases-loaded jams with strikeouts.

Indians 10, Tigers 5

Albert Belle and Cecit Fielder matched monster home runs, and Cleveland won at home against Detroit. The Tigers had won three in a row.

Fielder's seventh homer landed in the upper deck in the top of the fourth, about 430 feet from the plate. In the bottom of the fourth, Belle homered to nearly the same spot.

Mike Bielecki (4-3) was the winner and Cliff Young pitched 3 2-3 innings for his first career save. Bill Gullickson (1-1) lost in his first start since being hit on the right knee by a grounder last Sunday.

Blue Jays 11, Twins 2

Jack Morris won in his return from the disabled list and Toronto hit four home runs to beat Minnesota.

Darnell Coles hit a three-run homer, the first by a Blue Jays pinch hitter at the SkyDome.

Morris (2-4) had been out with tendinitis in his shoulder. He gave up two runs on five hits in seven innings, struck out five and walked none. Jim Deshaies (5-3) was the loser.

Brewers 9, Orioles 3

Kevin Reimer hit the first grand slam of his career, and Milwaukee roughed up ace Mike Mussina to win in Baltimore. The Brewers stopped a three-game losing streak and sent the Orioles to their seventh loss in 10 games.

Hershiser throws first shutout since surgery

By The Associated Press

Orel Hershiser waited a long time for a game like this.

He hadn't pitched a shutout in 81 starts since June 25, 1989, the year before he underwent reconstructive shoulder surgery. Finally, on Friday night, he put one together, pitching a five-hitter to lead the Los Angeles Dodgers over the visiting Colorado Rockies 8-0.

"I'd like to get them more often than once every four years," Hershiser said. "It's almost like Haley's Comet."

Hershiser (5-4) struck out seven and walked none, getting his 24th career shutout in 258 starts and his second complete game this season.

"I'd come close twice this year already and didn't get it," he said. "But I felt good about my stuff tonight."

In other games, Atlanta beat New York 4-2, San Diego beat Houston 3-2 in 10 innings, San Francisco beat Cincinnati 6-0, Florida beat Chicago 5-3, Montreal beat Philadelphia 6-3 and Pittsburgh beat St. Louis 10-8 in 11 innings.

Ripken gives Rangers down-and-dirty spark

By STEVE CAMPBELL
Fort Worth Star-Telegram
ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) - Officially, the Texas Rangers saw the down-and-dirty essence of Bill Ripken two games into the season. His ninth-inning, bases-loaded, hit-the-dirt stop of a sharp ground ball saved a run and the day, putting his new team in position to pull out an extra-inning victory in the most novel of Rangers fashions.

With defense. Unofficially, the essence of Ripken seeped into the Rangers well before then.

"I think Billy set the tone in our first intrasquad game diving for balls," Rangers manager Kevin Kennedy said. "I've seen the diving stops day to day. That's an inspiration to our defense. To have a guy in our infield who can play like that, that's contagious with our defense."

That Ripken could catch on so quickly after the Baltimore Orioles released him during the winter came as little surprise to Rangers infield instructor Perry Hill. When Hill was coaching for Daytona Beach of the Florida State League in 1985, the shortstop was a feisty guy who didn't hit much but would run himself into the ground to make a play.

A guy named Ripken. "From then to now, he hasn't changed a bit," Hill said. "I'm not that old (40), but I've heard stories about the Gas House Gang (of the 1930s). He's not afraid to get dirt on his uniform or knock people down. He'll do anything to win. That's the type of player he is."

"He's the best I've ever seen at diving at balls and catching them. You look at the replays, and the ball is almost past him. Somehow, he stretches out and catches the ball."

To hear Ripken tell it, he still hasn't figured out the how part of it. Nor does he spend much time thinking about it. Or refining it, for that matter.

"That's not something you practice," Ripken said. "You'd hurt yourself. That's something that's basically a reaction play. You want to pick your spots."

"I think everybody can pretty much do it. You see it all the time. I don't know if there's a knack for it or not. It's something that happens."

It happened in the second game of the season. The Orioles loaded the bases with one out in the bottom of the ninth inning and the score tied at 1. Brady Anderson rapped a sharp grounder toward the hole in the right side of a drawn-in infield. Ripken made a diving stop, jumped to his feet and made an accurate throw home for a forceout that helped extricate the Rangers from a desperate situation.

"My father (former Orioles coach and manager Cal Ripken Sr.) always told me there are two parts to a good play: Catch it and throw it," Ripken said. "So, if you're going to make the first half of the play good, you might as well make the second half of the play good and complete the play. No matter who's running, there has to be a certain time to collect yourself. You have to get in control before you can make the play."

"You can do things in a hurry. There's a fine line between hurrying too much and hurrying just right. But in order to get an out on the play, the throw has to go where you want it to. If you throw it away, you never know. There's always going to be that certain split second or whatever it is that you have to gather yourself, and then you have to be under control to make the play."

If those kinds of plays happen often enough for Ripken to be a staple on ESPN's "Plays of the Week," then so be it. But the 28-year-old Ripken, who spent 5 1/2 seasons with the Orioles, prefers a different measurement for his defensive contributions.

"Everybody at this level is going to make great plays," Ripken said. "They're going to happen, and they're going to happen on flat-out reaction and talent. But to keep your concentration up throughout the entire year - every ball that's hit at you, you approach it the same way. The routine play, to me, has to be made. Day in, day out, you have to make all the routine plays to be a good defensive ballclub."

Balls hit in Ripken's direction were so routine last season he committed an error every 134.5 chances and led the league in fielding percentage (.993). His error a week ago last Friday at Kansas City ended a streak of 63 games without a misplay. Rangers second basemen, by comparison, averaged an error every 51.8 chances last season.

The most sure-handed American League second baseman who has played 1,000 games was Milwaukee's Jim Gantner, who committed an error every 66 chances. Ripken has committed an error every 77 chances in 683 games. No wonder Rangers general manager Tom Grieve considers Ripken "probably the best we've ever had (defensively at second base). He dives for balls. He gets his uniform dirty. He plays the game the way fans like to see you play."

So, how does Ripken fine-tune his defense during the season?

He takes about 10 minutes of grounders every day.

That's it. "You go out, you get your ground balls, you take your batting practice, you come in, you goof off in clubhouse, then you go out and take infield," said Ripken, whose demise with the Orioles was his .216 and .230 batting averages the last two seasons. "You come back in, get ready for the game. I kind of like routines."

"You've got a long season, and this year it's going to be a hot one compared to the years I played in Baltimore. You don't overdo it in batting practice and ground balls, but you have to do things to keep you in the flow and rhythm of taking ground balls."

Like his brother, All-Star shortstop Cal Jr., Ripken gets a lot of mileage out of positioning himself to make the plays. Part of Hill's job is to let the infielders know how Rangers pitchers intend to work the opposing hitters. That helps determine how the Rangers position their defense.

"He has a feel - I can't explain it - to adjust from pitch to pitch how he plays a guy," Hill said. "A lot of guys will go, 'We play him two steps to pull and don't adjust beyond that.' He does it by the swing, from pitch to pitch."

An example of that is a play Ripken made behind lefty Kenny Rogers in an 8-3 victory against Baltimore last month. With one out, a runner on first and the Rangers leading in the seventh inning, 7-1, left-handed-hitting Harold Baines pulled a 3-1 pitch to the hole in the right side. Ripken went to his left, made a diving stop and threw out Baines at first - which helped take some of the sting out of a home run by the next batter, Chris Hoiles.

"On a 3-1 pitch, hitters tend to try to jerk the ball more than if they're behind the count," Ripken said. "Baines usually is more of a straight-up hitter. I played a little deeper (instead of shading more toward second base for the double play) because the score of the game was 7-1. The double play is not as important when the game is 7-1 as getting one out is. The fact that I was a little deeper may have enabled me to get the ball."

"You get a feel for how somebody's swinging. There are certain hitters who on certain counts will try and do certain things, so you can move depending on the count. That's more or less being around a little bit and knowing the hitters."

Joe Morgan was around enough to make the Hall of Fame as a second baseman. The two prerequisites of playing second, Morgan said, are "quick feet and intestinal fortitude." The quick feet are self-explanatory. The fortitude comes into play taking a throw at the bag, pivoting, and making a double-play throw to first with a base runner closing in fast.

"You're blind as a second baseman on a double play," Ripken said. "If you're going to receive (the throw) from the shortstop, you can't see the runner. You know over the course of time, and turning so many double plays, who the runner on first base is, how hard the ball is hit, if he is going to get close or not. But there's always the little factor of not knowing quite where he is."

Under those circumstances, Ripken considered former Ranger Brian Downing one of the biggest menaces. Two of the best active players at breaking up the double play, Ripken said, are Toronto's Paul Molitor and Devon White.

"There are plenty of times you get hit," Ripken said. "I believe that if you're a half-inch off the ground, you're going to be OK. A half-inch is high enough (to avoid injury). You're going to hit the ground when you only get up a half-inch, but you don't have to jump over the top of him."

"I would probably be the first one to admit that on a talent level, I'm somewhat short in certain areas. So I try to overcompensate by playing as hard as I can. If that means diving or going head first here or there, then so be it. I feel like I have to play as hard as I possibly can to equal or reach anybody else at this talent level."

Like father, like son: player's homer wins game

By MANUEL MORENO JR.
The Galveston Daily News
 GALVESTON, Texas (AP) - Beverly Monteau, her hair up in a ponytail, stared motionlessly at the oak tree still standing behind the field fence at Scholes Field, the former home ballpark of the Ball High Tors.

And while pondering the Tors' 1971 glory days from what used to be her usual seat along the third-base line with the rest of the student body, she recalled the towering home run her then-high school sweetheart Sammy Monteau hit that spring in the bottom of the fifth inning to tie a bi-district game.

Then, in the bottom of the ninth, her Sammy was the hero again.

Monteau's one-out sacrifice fly to deep center field sent in Rusty Ester with the winning run, advancing the Tors into the regional playoffs against Beaumont Forest Park.

Ball High 8, South Houston 7

Sammy, batting fifth in the lineup, hit .500 that day, going 1-for-2 at the plate, scoring two runs and driving in three, including the game-winner.

Nearly 22 years to the exact day later, another Monteau took center stage, coincidentally in the same grand style.

With the Tors trailing Baytown Lee 7-4, son Chad Monteau hit a two-run homer over the left field fence, also in the bottom of the fifth inning, to pull Ball High to within 7-6.

Then in the eighth, Chad stared at a called ball four with the bases loaded and a full count to force in Avery Matthews with the decisive run, advancing the Tors into Friday's Region III-5A quarterfinals game against Pasadena Sam Rayburn.

Ball High 8, Baytown Lee 7

Chad, also batting fifth in the lineup, also hit .500 that day, going 2-for-4 at the plate, also scoring two runs and also driving in three, including the game-winner.

"It didn't hit me how similar the two games were until the next night when I was reading through some of Sammy's old clippings in his scrapbook," Beverly Monteau said, stuttering momentarily as she relived her late husband's dramatic home run one more time. "I wouldn't call it a miracle. I'd call it unbelievable."

"I remember that particular game as if it was yesterday. I can still see him running those bases, him looking up into the stands to find me and me yelling back at him, 'You did it! You did it!' I was ecstatic."

Even more ironic was that both home runs were first-ever hits by both players. Sammy, pulling his from the right side of the batter's box, and Chad, pulling his from the left side of the batter's box.

"When I saw Chad hit the home run, of course, the first thing that crossed my mind was that I wished Sammy could have been there to see it," Beverly said, noting both sets of grandparents, Joan and Charlie Killebrew and Genevieve and Richard Monteau, were also on hand to witness Chad's heroics.

"Then when I read the article about the game, I said 'Sammy, you were there, weren't you? Did you do that? Did you take that ball out of the park?' I told my friends at (Burnet Elementary) school Monday, 'Y'all missed Sammy at the ballpark Friday night.' I know that sounds silly, but anything we can't explain around our home, we blame it on Sammy."

to my dad and hope that he's watching me when I'm playing. Of course, there are those games I'm hoping he's not watching."

Before the dramatic playoff game with South Houston, Sammy had visited Beverly's house and asked her if he was going to get a hit that game, a ritual the two shared before each home game.

That afternoon, Beverly had even predicted her boyfriend would hit a home run.

"Sammy knew it was going to be his last time to play on this field," she said, pointing at his second base position as she fought off the tears. "I remember him telling me, 'I wish I could hit at least one home run. I'll never get another chance after tonight.' I told him he would."

And he did.

"You see that oak tree out there," she added. "It didn't barely make it over the fence. It went way over the fence."

"Watching Chad play ball a lot of times has been deja vu for me since Chad has a lot of his daddy's qualities - his flexibility in the infield, his batting style, and his ability not to get nervous and upset when he has two strikes on him. He's also a team-oriented player."

So will Sammy Monteau be looking over his son's shoulder one more time Friday night?

"I'm sure he wouldn't miss it," she said with a smile.

And neither would Beverly Monteau, ponytail and all.

Silsbee man finds quick success in weightlifting

By JERRY BRIGGS
San Antonio Express-News
 SAN ANTONIO (AP) - Take the combined weight of two hairy NFL linebackers. Place it on an iron bar. Now lift the bar over your head.

As far-fetched as that may sound, it's not unusual for Mark Henry to hoist 460 pounds over his head in an Olympic weight-lifting session.

What kind of guy is he, besides one of the strongest men in the world?

Well, he may surprise you as much with his honesty as he will shock you with his physical presence (6-foot-3, 375 pounds).

Ask him nicely, and he will admit he may have choked in the Olympics last summer in Barcelona, Spain.

"If you go somewhere to compete and you don't perform like you know you can," Henry said, "you can say it was an off day. Even though I hate the term (choke), that's probably what it was."

Henry, the affable native of Silsbee in southeast Texas, may have passed too harsh of a judgment on himself.

After all, not many athletes go into weightlifting and make it to the Olympics in two years.

He did it, and finished 10th in the superheavyweight class, beating out many competitors who had been lifting for years.

"I am proud of myself," he said. "I think I did a good job. But I could have done a lot better. By far, I wasn't satisfied. That's what drives me."

Henry, who recently won his first national championship, was in San Antonio this week promoting the upcoming U.S. Olympic Festival.

Among his appearances was one for the Dreams for Youth project, raising money to buy Festival tickets for 30,000 under-privileged kids.

"I'm doing this because I was an underprivileged kid myself," said Henry, 21, who will be the star attraction in Festival weightlifting in July. "Kids need to have someone let them know they're important."

Henry's mother, Barbara Mass of Silsbee, steered him through a rough-and-tumble childhood and into the fast lane as America's top hope for a weightlifting medal in 1996.

"I think the biggest thing our mom gave us was the ability to dream," said Pat Henry, Mark's older brother and a former nose guard for the Texas A&M Aggies. "She told us we could do anything if we worked at it."

Mass was always amazed by the strength of her two sons, even when they were toddlers.

"Mark used to move chairs around in the house when he was very young," she said. "Chairs, anything. He was doing this when he was 13 months old."

Both grew into two sturdy, athletic kids. By the time Mark reached sixth grade, he weighed about 210. Two years older than Mark, Pat was well over 200.

Even at that age, they played football in the neighborhood with varsity athletes at Silsbee. Some of the older boys taunted Mark because of his size. They tried to rough up Mark and Pat regularly.

Once, Pat was tackled so hard on a play that the force of the blow knocked him through a wooden fence. He scored on the next play, however. Mark would defend himself the only way he knew how.

"There were a lot of fights," he acknowledged.

Mark lettered in football and track at Silsbee, but he always knew he could be a force on the weights. Henry won several junior powerlifting titles.

In 1991, he earned a ticket to train in Colorado Springs and learn the art of Olympic lifting.

NL ROUNDUP

Braves 4, Mets 2
 New York lost Dallas Green's first game as manager of the Mets, their 19th loss in 24 games. Green was hired as the Mets' 15th manager Wednesday night after Jeff Torborg was fired with the team in last place at 13-25.

Greg Maddux (4-3) pitched a six-hitter at Shea Stadium, struck out five and walked none in his first complete game with Atlanta. Eric Hillman (0-2) gave up four runs and seven hits in five innings, walked three and struck out one.

Cardinals 10, Pirates 8
 Visiting St. Louis blew a 7-2 lead in the ninth.

Hill (5-0) gave up both runs, walked six and struck out three, working out of a bases-loaded jam in the fifth by getting John Kruk to hit into a double play. Reliever Mel Rojas pitched two-hit relief for his sixth save.

Danny Jackson (4-2) allowed four runs and seven hits in 6 2-3 innings, struck out five and walked two.

Padres 3, Astros 2
 Derek Bell tied the game with a two-run homer off Doug Jones (1-3) with two outs in the ninth, and Guillermo Velasquez drove in the winning run in the 10th at San Diego.

Rich Rodriguez (2-2) relieved with runners on second and third and two outs in the 10th and retired Eric Anthony on a groundout.

Giants 3, Reds 0
 Bill Swift (6-1) won his sixth straight start, allowing three hits in eight innings as San Francisco won its seventh straight.

Rod Beck pitched the ninth for his 10th save, sending the visiting Reds to their fifth consecutive loss overall and seventh in a row on the road.

Tim Belcher (1-4), making his first start in 10 days, allowed two runs and six hits in seven innings. He missed his previous turn because of a bruised right forearm.

Marlins 5, Cubs 3
 Right fielder Junior Felix nearly cost Florida the game by dropping a flyball in the top of the eighth, then broke a 3-3 tie with a two-out, two-run homer in the bottom half.

Benito Santiago singled against Paul Assenmacher (1-1) with two outs, and Felix followed with his sixth home run.

Trevor Hoffman (2-1) pitched one inning at Joe Robbie Stadium, and Bryan Harvey pitched a scoreless ninth for his 13th save in 14 chances.

Expos 6, Phillies 2
 Ken Hill won for the first time in four starts, allowing two hits in 6 1-3

Discussing recent seminar

Pioneer Study Club members, Catherine Gripp, at left, and Helen Langley, discuss the recent Hugh O'Brian Youth Foundation Panhandle Leadership Seminar with Taylor Sublett. Sublett was sponsored by the club and was chosen to attend the seminar by Hereford High School Principal Terry Russell and high school teachers. The annual seminar, which is held for high school sophomores, was held in Amarillo. Gripp serves as the club's chairman of school issues and Langley is the chairman of education.

Sublett attends leadership seminar

Hereford High School sophomore, Taylor Sublett, daughter of Troy and Susan Sublett, recently participated in the Hugh O'Brian Youth Foundation Panhandle Leadership

Seminar in Amarillo.

Taylor, who was sponsored by the Hereford Pioneer Study Club, was selected by HHS Principal Terry Russell and teachers. She was among 90 sophomores from North Texas who attended the seminar which focused on "America's Incentive System." The purpose of the annual event is to seek out, recognize and reward leadership potential in high school sophomores.

Taylor has served as a board member for the HHS Keywanettes, is the team captain of the junior varsity tennis team and is actively involved in her church youth group. She has been involved in honors and gifted and talented classes and says, "I have many opportunities to share knowledge with others in my honors history, algebra and English classes. I often work in cooperative learning groups and I am presently working on a semester-long research paper."

The Hugh O'Brian Youth Foundation (HOBY) Leadership

Seminar is the nation's only program exclusively for high school sophomores. The seminars are offered at no cost to students or to the school. They provide an excellent way to recognize and encourage youth during an important period in their lives.

In 1985, Hugh O'Brian returned from Africa inspired by his visit with Dr. Albert Schweitzer. Motivated by his remark, "The most important thing in education is to make young people think for themselves," Mr. O'Brian established the Youth Foundation. From 1958 to 1967, leadership seminars took place in Los Angeles for sophomores from California.

In 1968, the scope of the foundation program grew to include national and international participants and the seminar locations expanded to major cities across the United States. In an effort to include more students in the program, weekend state seminars were instituted in 1977.

Greg Coplen to perform in recital

Greg Coplen, piano student of Evelyn Hacker, will be presented in a senior piano recital at 2:30 p.m. Sunday, May 30, in the First Presbyterian Church. All friends are invited to attend.

Greg, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Coplen, has been Hacker's student for 11 years and has earned 11 consecutive superior ratings in the Annual Junior Music Festival.

During high school, Greg was active in football, basketball and tennis and was in the PALS class his senior year. He is also active in the church youth and music ministry.

Local students inducted

Three Hereford residents were among 60 members of West Texas State University's junior and senior classes to be inducted into the Texas Zeta Chapter of Alpha Chi during recent ceremonies.

Local inductees include Angela Banner, a junior mathematics major; Elizabeth Rains Sears, a junior computer information systems major; and Bryan Watts, a senior management major.

Membership in Alpha Chi, a national honor scholarship society, is by invitation only and is limited to students who have a grade point average of 3.50 or higher on a 4.0 scale.

Conklin presides at meeting

Noble Grand Anna Conklin presided over the Hereford Rebekah Lodge #228 meeting Tuesday evening.

Reports of the sick and distressed were made including reports of 21 visits, 45 cards, 15 dishes of food and five flowers.

Nominations of new officers were held and plans were discussed for placing memorial flags at the graves of deceased members.

Frankie Ruland sent refreshments which were enjoyed by Conklin, Verna Sowell, Mary Lou Weatherford, Sadie Shaw, Susie Curtisinger, Ben Conklin, Irene Merritt, Genevieve Lynn, Marie Harris, Faye Brownlow, Leona Sowell, Ocie Bolton and Rosalie Northcutt.

WASHINGTON (AP) - The United States is donating $1.7 million worth of butter oil for use in Mexico.

A private U.S. voluntary organization, Project Concern International, will sell the 1,000 metric tons of butter oil in the Mexican private sector. Proceeds from the sales will be used to improve the health and nutrition of participants in maternal and child health programs sponsored by the Mexican government.

CARLA FRYE, COBY MCGEE

Wedding date set

Lubbock residents, Carla Delaine Frye and Coby Lin McGee, plan to exchange wedding vows June 25 in Trinity Church of Lubbock.

The bride-elect is the daughter of Kenneth and Linda Frye of Route 2, Hereford, and the prospective bridegroom is the son of Jackie N. Butler of Lubbock.

Miss Frye graduated from Baylor University and received her bachelor of science degree in nursing. She is employed by Methodist Hospital in Lubbock.

McGee is a graduate of Texas Tech University and received a B.S. degree in exercise and sports sciences. He is self-employed in Lubbock.

Engagement announced

Mr. and Mrs. Sammy Morrow of Irving announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Chris Ann, to William Eugene Compton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gene Compton of Borger and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Kerr of Hereford.

The couple plans to wed at 1:30 p.m. Saturday, July 17, at the Robert Carr Chapel at Texas Christian University in Fort Worth.

Miss Morrow received her bachelor of business administration degree from Texas Christian University in Fort Worth in 1992 where she majored in accounting. She is employed by the Summers Group in Dallas as a financial systems accountant.

Her fiance is a 1990 graduate of Texas Christian University with a BBA in accounting. He is a C.P.A. and senior associate for Coopers and Lybrand in Fort Worth.

Local DAR chapter officers installed

New officers for the Los Ciboleros Chapter Daughters of the American Revolution were installed during the organization's recent May luncheon and business meeting held in the dining room of Deaf Smith General Hospital.

Special guest, Mrs. Sidney A. Parnell, Division I chairman, Texas Society DAR, installed: Mrs. Abel Ruga, regent; Mrs. Austin Rose, vice-regent; Mrs. Stanford Knox, chaplain; Mrs. Carroll Newsom, recording secretary; Mrs. LeRoy Williamson, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Charles Bell, treasurer; Mrs. Jess Robinson, registrar; Mrs. Gid Brown, historian; Mrs. Luther Norvell, librarian; and Mrs. Jack Gilliland, curator.

Parnell also gave the highlights of the annual Texas State Conference held in Houston and the Continental Congress at Washington, D.C. She spoke of the patriotic opening ceremonies which were climaxed by the dropping of a huge American flag into position behind the speakers' table. Shirley Temple Black was the opening night speaker who told of her experiences as an ambassador.

Parnell said that one of the main points of the Congress was the discussion of the President General's Project, the restoration of the Constitution Hall, which is a popular place for concerts and other affairs, is in violation of the American Disabilities Act, the Environmental Protection Agency and Washington's Fire and Election Codes.

Before the installation of officers was held, Regent Charlotte Clark opened the meeting with the DAR Ritual, assisted by Chaplain Helen Rose. The Pledge to the Flag of the United States of America was led by Mary Williamson. The reading of the "American's Creed" was led by Juanita Brown and Leta Kaul led the singing of "America."

Helen Rose reviewed the President General's Message in which Mrs. Blair wrote of contributions made by the Society toward preserving and promoting those ideals which have made the United States of America such a force of good in the world.

Regent Clark, for the National Defense Committee, reviewed "The Missing Issue", an article in the National Defender written by William E. Simon. A quotation from the article was recited, "Just as rapidly and rabidly as we embrace sex in its lowest forms, we are turning away from the sanctity of life. And we are turning away from God. To judge by media focus, we apparently live in a society where the Madonna most worshiped is the one who appears naked in a metal-covered book, not the one written about in the Bible. Who would have foreseen American schools where the dispensing of family values is replaced by the dispensing of condoms, where sexual deviation is embraced and god is expelled."

Ruth Newsom, DAR School Committee chairman, for her DAR School Minute, showed a newsletter from Hillside School which had a section with DAR news. The bad weather this past winter was such that the children were inside much of the time, a challenge to their teachers. Kate Duncan Smith and Tomasi schools reported similar problems.

The Comancheria Chapter DAR at Canadian invited Los Ciboleros members to its annual Flag Day luncheon planned June 12. Billie Jo Lovett, librarian general, National Society DAR, will be the speaker.

Charlotte Clark showed the finished queen-size quilt which was cut and pieced by Laura Blackburn. Tickets for the quilt and a drawing is planned this summer.

The chapter received a citation from the National Society DAR for attaining the honor roll. Regent Clark was awarded a citation in recognition of leadership and outstanding service to Texas Society DAR while serving as chapter regent.

Following the installation of officers, the retiring regent pinned the regent's pin on Mrs. Ruga. A past regent's pin was pinned on Mrs. Clark by the new regent who spoke a few words of appreciation to Clark on behalf of the chapter.

Guests present included Mrs. Parnell, Traci Blackburn and Nicole Clark. Members present were Kathryn Ruga, Mildred Drake, Lois Gilliland, Argen Draper, Ruth Newsom, Patricia Robinson, Mary Williamson, Margaret Bell, Charlotte Clark, Leta Kaul, Juanita Brown, Helen Rose, Laura Blackburn and Margaret Ann Durham.

Local Pilot members attend convention

Six members of the Hereford Pilot Club recently attended the Texas District of Pilot International District Convention held at the Wyndham Greenspoint Hotel in Houston.

Local members in attendance were President Betty Taylor; President-elect Anna Solomon; and members, Irene Mullins, Marcie Ginn, Vesta Mae Nunley and Linda Minchew.

As governor of the Texas district, Shirley Bailey of Nacogdoches presided over the convention which was highlighted by the election and installation of officers to serve for 1993-94. Among the 490 Pilot members and guests attending was Executive Committee Representative Joan Wuterich, second vice president, Pilot International who is a member of the Pilot Club of Boston, MA.

Among those taking office beginning July 1 is Linda Minchew who will serve as regional lieutenant governor of Region I District of Pilot International. Her responsibilities will include making official visits to each club in Region 1 which include Dumas, Dalhart, Odessa, Midland, Hereford, Lubbock, Amarillo and Alpine. Minchew will take part in officer training in June in Longview and will attend the international convention planned in July at the Bally Hotel in Las Vegas, Nev.

Minchew is an accountant having been employed by the accounting firm of Gerhardt & Puckett where she has served as a CPA for six years. She is a charter member of the Hereford Pilot Club and has served as president, president-elect and director. She has also served as coordinator for the projects and internal affairs division and has attended six district conventions and one international convention. The local club honored her at the regular business meeting where she was presented a dozen red roses.

Pilot International is a global organization of executive, business and professional leaders working together to improve the quality of life in local communities and throughout the world. Local projects include Hereford Satellite Work Training Center, Big Brothers/Big Sisters, United Way, scholarships to Hereford High School seniors and the Lifeline program as well as and other projects.

Convention participants

Several Hereford Pilot Club members recently attended the Texas District of Pilot International Convention held in Houston. Among those present were, from left, Anna Solomon, Linda Minchew and Betty Taylor. During the convention, Minchew was elected as the regional lieutenant governor of Region I district of Pilot International.

CAROL LIPPINCOTT, REGGIE SALAZAR

Warm weather workout hints

Here come cool ideas for warm weather workouts:

- Even though the weather's warm, don't neglect your warm up. Muscles still need to stretch before they're subjected to strenuous exercise.
- If the temperature really starts to soar, you might want to forego a grueling jog in favor of an invigorating swim. If you do run, aerobicize, play tennis or engage in some other sport that really works up a sweat, don't forget to take regular breaks and drink plenty of fluids.
- Look for comfortable workout gear that can help you get in shape. Happily, local stores have a fine selection of tops, shorts, leotards and socks that make working out a pleasure.
- The best have one thing in common - they're acrylics or acrylic-blends. They offer warmth without weight, keeping muscles warm without weighing you down in bulky workout gear. Other high performance features include wickability, which draws moisture away from the skin and keeps you feeling dry, shape retention, built-in elasticity, as well as easy care and comfort. These features make the garments a pleasure to wear when you're resting up as well as working out.
- For instance, acrylic socks retain their shape, won't bunch around the ankles and keep feet dry and comfortable.
- After your workout, always cool down with stretches and deep breathing exercises. You may want to take a sauna or a steam if you're at the gym. It's also a good idea to replenish body fluids with water or fruit juices, not sugary soft drinks.

Poppy Day scheduled

Bea Cargo, at left, and Clara Trowbridge, members of the American Legion Auxiliary Unit 192, watch as Mayor Bob Josslerand signs a proclamation declaring Wednesday, May 26, as Memorial Poppy Day. Auxiliary members will be distributing the poppies to local citizens. All donations received from the annual program go directly for aid to the disabled veterans or members of their families.

American Legion Auxiliary planning annual Poppy Day

Memorial Poppy Day in Hereford has been designated for Wednesday, May 26, with headquarters to be located in the Hereford State Bank. The event is being sponsored by members of the American Legion Auxiliary Unit 192. Volunteers will be distributing the poppies throughout town and will accept donations. Money received from the annual program is used for disabled veterans or members of their families. Veterans who are hospitalized in the V.A. Hospital in Amarillo often receive aid from the poppy funds.

A spokesperson for the local auxiliary said, "The basic purpose of Poppy Day is to offer the American public an opportunity to honor the war dead and assist the living. Traditionally, there has never been a price fixed to the poppy donations. All contributions are gladly accepted. We hope the public will wear the memorial poppy to remember and honor our veterans."

The Hereford unit was organized in 1930. The Poppy Day activities were immediately started. The unit has not missed a year of distributing the paper flowers which are made by the disabled veterans. The material is furnished by the American Legion and the patient is paid for the flowers he makes. The unit welcomes eligible members to join the local group. To date, the unit has six World War I members.

The American Legion was the first national organization to adopt the poppy as its memorial flower. This action was taken by the American Legion at its national convention in Cleveland, Ohio Sept. 27, 1920. The auxiliary adapted the memorial poppy at the organization's first national convention in Kansas City in 1921. After taking this action, the auxiliary pledged 100 percent of Poppy Day contributions to go to welfare work for servicemen and members of their families.

Bippus Club travels to Tulia

Members of the Bippus Extension Homemakers Club recently traveled to Tulia to visit the Kenneth Wyatt House and the cotton factory.

The women also enjoyed a Mexican food lunch. Club members present were Sue Thweatt, Kate Bradley, Alta Mae Higgins and Lou Hall.

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) - Sir Edmund Hillary says climbers are causing a traffic jam on Mount Everest and destroying its once-pristine beauty.

"To me that's terrible, because many of these people are not the slightest bit interested in a love of mountains," the conquerer of the world's highest peak said in an TV interview shown Wednesday. "All they want to do is pay very large sums of money to be led up the mountain, to stand up top, so they can go back home and tell all their friends they stood on top of Mount Everest." Hillary and with his Nepalese guide reached Everest's 29,028-foot peak on May 29, 1953, becoming the first people to scale the mountain. The frenzy of climbers has increased with the approach of the 40th anniversary of Hillary's feat. Earlier this month, a record 38 people reached the peak in a single day.

Petroleum provides nearly half the energy used in the world.

New security system installed at manor

Completion of the security system at King's Manor Retirement Home, with major support from King's Manor Auxiliary, was reported at the quarterly meeting of the auxiliary Tuesday morning in the Lamar Room.

Payment in full for the system has been made with substantial contributions from the craft departments in the Manor and Westgate Nursing Home, the auxiliary and a project for sale of dolls handmade by Rosalie McGowen, an auxiliary member.

The system includes photographic surveillance as well as new door locks. It was installed after recent intrusion and theft in the manor. Appreciation was expressed by Chaplain Lanny Wheeler, Bea Noland and Administrator Joyce Lyons.

Guests were present with members to hear a special program after coffee was served. Virginia Garner, program chairman, introduced Joe Weaver from Deaf Smith County Library, who enacted, in costume, a member of the crew in Columbus' voyage to America in 1492.

Ruby Stevenson presided for business, including assignment of volunteers to replace some who have moved. Pearl McLain will be the new chairman of delivering birthday cards to Westgate residents since Jo Wade has moved to Albuquerque, N.M. and Jean Streu will take Retta Ramp's place on the telephone committee.

Ruth Robbins reported the start of service on the transportation committee, assisted by Joe Williams. Mrs. McGowen and Sue Coleman volunteered to man a tent to sell souvenirs at the annual King's Manor barbecue in July.

MR. AND MRS. I.C. HUDSON

Reception planned for Hudsons

Family and friends are invited to a reception honoring I.C. "Dugan" and Alta F. Hudson Saturday afternoon, May 29, at Avenue Baptist Church. The event, which will be hosted by the couple's children and grandchildren, will mark the Hudsons' golden wedding anniversary.

PFC Dugan Hudson and Alta F. Rieger were married May 29, 1943, in Plains. During Mr. Hudson's tour with the U.S. Army during World War II, the couple was stationed at Kingman, Ariz. and Marysville, Calif. After the war, Mr. Hudson returned to ranching and farming in Carlsbad, N.M. and in later years settled in Hereford and Happy. The couple has resided in Hereford for 22 years.

Mrs. Hudson, who is a housewife, and her husband have five children. They include Ocie Carl Hudson of Berkeley, Calif., Walter Hudson of Friona, Stan Hudson of Brownfield, Lorraina Moya of Spring and Katie Hudson of Amarillo. Stan and his wife, Julie, have four sons.

Mr. Hudson is retired from his lifelong occupation in farming, ranching and trucking. The couple hold membership in the Avenue Baptist Church and the American Legion.

One step at a time

Here are some fun ways to use the brown bags accumulating in your "to recycle" box at your house. Kids will have hours of fun with these easy projects, which won't cost you a dime.

MAKE A FRISBEE-LIKE TOY

Take a standard paper lunch bag and carefully roll down the sides to the base of the bag. The bag will be flat with a rolled edge. Decorate the paper-bag frisbee with stickers, or draw designs with crayons and markers. Toss the paper bag frisbee to a friend outside and watch it soar. This is a great last-minute idea when you're on the road this summer and the kids need a "let the wiggles out" activity at a rest stop.

MAKE A DALMATIAN PUPPET AND TELL AN ADVENTURE FROM "101 DALMATIANS."

Paint or color black spots on a two-sided paper bag. For ears, pinch the top two corners 2 inches from the edges and wind rubber bands or tie string around the twists. Paint a face on one side. TO use the puppet, place your hand in the bag and wrap a rubber band over the bag at your wrist. (Be sure the rubber band isn't too tight!)

MAKE GIANT-SIZE BUILDING BLOCKS FOR PRESCHOOLERS.

Stuff several brown paper grocery-size bags to the brim with crumpled newspaper. Fold the top down flat and seal closed with a strip of masking tape. For extra fun, paint the outside of the bags to resemble facades of houses, a fire station, the library and a gas station. Your kids will enjoy playing with their dolls.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have a 16-year-old daughter. "Marie" is very upset with me and her stepfather because we refuse to sign for her so she can get married.

We told her fiance, "Nicky," who is 20, that they must have a place to live before we will agree to their marriage. He now lives with his parents. Marie decided to go live with him. We warned her that if she moved out she would be on her own, but she went anyway.

We believe Marie is too young and unsettled to be married. We can't make her come home and attend school, but we CAN refuse to sign for her marriage. Please understand that we love our daughter very much and want her to have a decent life. She told her three brothers that she hates us because we are being very mean to her.

I was 17 when I was married, and it lasted eight miserable years. Marie's father is on death row now. It's because I don't want my child to make the same mistakes I made that I am being so stubborn. For nine years, I struggled to raise five kids on my own.

It was not easy. Please tell me if I am doing the right thing. I'm so upset I'm not sure of anything.--Feeling Miserable in Jacksonville, Fla.

DEAR MISERABLE IN JACKSONVILLE: The list of mothers who hope and pray that their daughters won't make the same mistakes they made would reach from Maine to Spain.

I believe you are right to refuse to sign for Marie to get married since you feel that she is too young and immature. She may do it anyway, at the first legal moment, but at least you did everything within your power to prevent it, and that should give you some comfort.

Thank You

We want to thank all our friends and loved ones for the great outpouring of love we have received during R.D. Lance's sickness and at his home going. We say a special thanks to all the nursing and bathing personnel at Hereford Home Care Inc. You were all so great and caring. Also a very special thanks to Dr. McBrayer for his help and kindness during his illness. We were so grateful for all the delicious food brought to our home and to the ladies who served such a fine meal at the First Baptist Church. Thanks to Rev. Ron Cook for the beautiful service. Thanks to Gary Phipps for his kindness. I'm sure I may have left someone out, but thanks to all.

We love you,

THRASHING THIEVES

I arrived at the store that morning while it was still dark outside. As was my normal routine, I went to the checkout area to place the day's operating cash in the drawer of the register. In the dim glow of the security lights at the rear of the store, I could see that the cash register wasn't in its usual place. I found it smashed on the floor behind the counter.

My first thought was how stupid it was to break into an empty cash register. My second thought was, who ever did this might still be in the store waiting for me.

I quietly took an ax handle off the pegboard hanger for protection. After a thorough and somewhat apprehensive search, I found that no one was in the building. I did discover that the burglar or burglars had kicked in a back door to gain entry. The door opened into an isolated and seldom used alley. After phoning the police, I checked for missing inventory: The thief or thieves had taken some hand tools and an electric chain saw. However, the biggest single loss was the mangled cash register. Later, when the police arrived, I learned that I could have prevented the losses entirely.

A growing problem

Crime is a growing problem for small businesses. A burglary is committed every 10 seconds in the United States. Small businesses are usually easy targets.

However, law enforcements experts agree that business owners could prevent many break-ins. In fact, more than half might be eliminated with simple, commonsense measures. Burglars are basically lazy. If you make it difficult for them to gain entry, thieves will often look for an easier mark.

10 prevention tips

- Never lock an empty cash register or safe. A closed cash register or safe may cause a burglar to believe there is something of value inside.
- Take excess cash to the bank daily.
- Install high security deadbolts and locks. Deadbolts with three-inch throws are best. Locks with a least five pins in the tumbler are the hardest to pick.
- If you live in a high-crime area, burglarproof glass, security alarms and barred windows will reduce risk.
- Steel doors with steel casings are excellent deterrents.
- Make sure that all possible points of entry are visible and well-lightened. Burglars like to work in dark, out-of-the-way areas where there is little chance of detection. Lighten up.

- Keep expensive, portable items out of display windows to prevent smash-and-run thefts. Cameras, stereos, guns and jewelry are favorite targets.
  - Security systems are available in many types and price ranges. Some units silently notify police departments or security companies. Others turn on lights and ring loud alarms. Get advice from a professional on selecting the type that is best for your business.
  - Check with your insurance carrier to see if the company offers discounts rates for security systems or services. You may be able to recover some of the expense if you select a type of security approved by the insurance company.
  - If you suspect that your business has been burglarized, don't enter the building. Go to the nearest telephone and call the police. Let the officers secure the building. A cornered burglar can become a lethal weapon. In my case, the investigating officer made this point very clear. He said that a big guy with an ax handle is no match for a little guy with a gun.
- Many police departments and sheriff's offices offer on-site security evaluations. Call your nearest law enforcement office today. Let them show you how to beat a burglar and ensure that crime doesn't pay at your expense.

Niznik, Bunch vows exchanged Saturday

Wedding vows were exchanged by Jeanette M. Niznik of San Antonio and Bobby Chet Bunch of Acworth, Ga. during an early evening ceremony Saturday in the Chapel of the Hills Baptist Church at Boerne.

Officiating at the wedding was Pastor Richard F. Page of the church. Scriptures used in the ceremony included Corinthians 1:13, Ephesians 5:21-23, Ruth 1:16 and Matthew 19:6.

The wedding date marked the groom's brother's birthday and the groom's maternal grandparents' anniversary.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Larsen of Boerne and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Bunch of 130 Star.

The church altar was decorated by two floral arrangements and the pews were marked by lace and bows. The sidewalls were adorned with silk leaves and crystal candles.

Serving as maid of honor was Gratuella Bella Mondini, and the groom's brother, Kevin Bunch, was best man.

Bridesmaids included the bride's sister-in-law, Cindy Lynn Niznik; the bride's sister, Kristy Lynn Larsen; and Lauren Krock. Groomsmen were Matt Melton, Brad Murff and Bennett Murff.

Kristy Lynn Larsen was the junior bridesmaid and flower girl was Sophia Mondini, daughter of Angela Mondini. Ring bearer was Hadley Bunch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kevin Bunch.

Candles were lit by the bride's brother, Doug Niznik, and the bride's nephew, Michael Niznik.

The bride's niece and nephew, Amanda Niznik and Robert Niznik, sang "Love Me", accompanied by Beverly Shirley.

Presented in marriage by her father, Robert Larsen, the bride wore a white satin and lace gown which featured a back bustle and chapel-length train. A white satin bow marked the mid-back of the gown. To complete her wedding ensemble, the bride wore lace and pearls in her hair and carried a bouquet of roses, carnations and baby's breath accented with lace and pearls.

Her jewelry consisted of pearl earrings and a pearl necklace given to her by her aunt.

Attendants were attired in peach dresses with pearl accessories. They carried bouquets of roses and carnations.

Lisa Mings invited guests to register at the reception held in the ballroom of the Kendall County Fairgrounds.

Pauline Phillips served cake, and punch and coffee were poured by Patti Longoria. Others assisting were Vicki Hall, Terri Moore, Pauline Phillips and Patti Longoria.

Refreshment tables were covered with white cloths accented with peach ribbons. Centerpieces consisted of straw hats filled with small sacks of birdseed and tied with lace.

The couple left for a wedding trip to New Orleans, La.

The bride has completed the spring semester at the University of Texas at San Antonio and will be attending the summer session at Kennesaw State College in Marietta, Ga.

The groom attended Texas A&M University where he majored in agronomy.

Deaf Smith County nets top honors

West Texas State University was the contest site for participants of the Panhandle District I-4-H Fashion Show as they practiced their skills by "Window Shopping for 4-H Fashion."

4-H'ers participated in the construction division or comparative buying area. Deaf Smith County 4-H'ers took three of the top district wins with Kinann Campbell in casual buying; Lee Harder, formal wear; and Karon Harder, active sportswear. Jami Parker placed in the top four winners spot of the dressy construction category and won the best wool award for senior division. Cady Auckerman participated as a senior in the dressy buying division.

Junior top four winner was Craig Campbell in junior buying. Emily Parker competed in junior dressy construction.

Intermediate winners were Cindy Harder in buying; Erin Auckerman, active sportswear; and Jaime Steiert, casual daywear. Steiert also won the intermediate best wool award.

Senior winners will compete at the State Roundup June 8-9.

Kinann Campbell was awarded the Clarendon College Scholarship presented by Leslie Schnauer, director of theatre arts. Kinann netted this scholarship on the basis of high point participant for the 1993 District Fashion Show.

Between The Covers

By JOE WEAVER

There's only a week left this month, but still plenty of time for you to get in to see our displays for May. We have mentioned who they are in previous columns, but we haven't told you much about them or their displays.

Don Nall, instructor of industrial technology at Hereford Junior High, is showing samples of his "flat-metal" silhouettes. You see Don's work in such places as mailboxes, yard signs, ranch gates, and the courthouse lawn. Don creates his deer, fishing scenes, cowboys and what-have-you with an electric cutting torch called a plasmacutter. His favorite among those displayed are the turkeys.

Judy Williams, an aid at Tierra Blanca, has been collecting pigs of all kinds for about nine years. She doesn't have a favorite, as every one is "special" because it was given to her by someone special. Judy is active at First United Methodist Church, in La Madre Mia Study Club, and she's learning to make quilt tops. She enjoys reading mysteries and historical fiction, and collects cookbooks.

Congratulations to West Central School, with a special "hats off" to librarian Bera Boyd. The Hornets were challenged by Mrs. Boyd to read 2,000 books between March 1 and May 7, in a program she called "Win with Reading." Not surprisingly, they responded with excellence, reading over 2600 books! Now the principal, vice-principal, counselor, and librarian Boyd must make fools of themselves before an assembly of those students who achieved individual goals. Good going, Hornets! (And thanks to Mrs. Schriber who made me aware of the achievement).

Summer, unofficially, is just around the corner. Summer Reading Club begins in a couple of weeks and everyone at the library is getting ready for it in some way. Rebecca and I have been hitting the schools to let the kids know what's up. This past week we got to Aikman, Community Christian, Shirley, and St. Anthony's. The remainder will be informed this week. If you need information on the program, come by the library for an information sheet.

With the end of school come thoughts about vacation. Don't forget the library! We have books to improve your vacation in just about every way - where to go, what to do, how to get there, what to eat, what to do at home if you can't get away. We also have some books on activities for kids who are driving their parents crazy.

A week from Monday is Memorial Day. This day, originally set aside to honor those fallen in the Civil War, is usually looked upon now as simply another long weekend, if that. Take some time to consider what blessings the sacrifices of others have brought us. The library will be closed Saturday and Monday in observance.

Hendersons host family reunion

Melvin and June Henderson hosted a family reunion May 12-16 in their home. The reunion was held in conjunction with Mrs. Henderson's sister's 80th birthday, Beulah Maes of Houston.

Family members present represented Houston, Mission, Levelland, Amarillo, Vega, Muleshoe, Hereford and Aztec, N.M.

NEW YORK (AP) - Dance teacher Jacques d'Amboise received the Distinguished Service award from the American Academy of Arts and Letters, while Pulitzer Prize-winning playwright David Mamet picked up double honors.

They were among 60 artists and writers honored by the academy on Wednesday.

Make car trips safe

For most of us busy parents, vacations offer a rare chance to spend long stretches of time relaxing with our children.
On the other hand, travel time, especially hours spent in the car, can also be stressful if the kids are bored and restless. Here are a few tips to get you through the "When are we gonna get there?" pot holes.
Before the trip:
-Have your kids read the weather page in your newspaper and look for predicted temperatures and weather conditions in the cities you'll visit.
-Make sure your child's safety seat is correctly installed in your vehicle. For example, check the manufacturer's instructions to determine if the seat belt is correctly routed through the car seat. For comfort, attach a small pillow to the seat to support your child's head if he/she dozes off. Always "buckle up."
-Let your kids pack their own travel activities in a special tote. An old lightweight briefcase is perfect for young executive wannabes. Your child can place coloring books, art pads, activity books, postcards, maps and travel brochures in the file sections and tuck pencils and markers in small compartments. Include a calculator for older travelers to calculate miles and travel expenses. Close the briefcase for a sturdy lap-top desk. And don't forget to fill out a travel I.D. tag to attach to the handle.
On the road:
-Recycle empty, clean containers and use them for handy storage. Baby-wipe containers are ideal to store markers, crayons, playing cards and audio cassettes. A Barbie doll fits perfectly in a Pringles chips container. And use empty film canisters to store coins for road and bridge tolls. Put your kids in charge of finding the correct change.
-Keep a thermos full of cold juice and pour it into sports bottles with plastic straws when the kids get thirsty.

MODEST PLAN EMBELLISHED WITH COUNTRY FRONT PORCH

A covered front porch joins a foyer entrance that connects with the great room or the formal dining room. The deluxe master bedroom suite is a major highlight. It is the ultimate in luxury and comfort as compared to most modestly sized homes. It features spaciousness, a tray ceiling, compartment bath with double vanities and unending closet space. The remaining two bedrooms and guests share a central bath. The great room and breakfast room will accommodate a large family and the kitchen has abundant cabinets, work surface and built in appliances. The laundry room links to the garage entry. The plan is available with crawl space, basement or slab foundations. The country exterior features a genuine front porch complete with wood rail and the exterior finish is horizontal wood siding. The plan is Number Z-701. It includes 1,792 square feet of heated space and is a computer generated plan. All W. D. Farmer plans include special construction details for energy efficiency and are drawn in accordance with FHA and VA requirements. For further information write W. D. Farmer Residence Designer, Inc., P. O. Box 450025, Atlanta, GA 30345.

Question/Answer

Q: I have a built-in metal fireplace. Behind the brick veneer and in the area that encloses the fireplace, I'm heating wasted warm air. I'm wondering if there's a chance that I could connect this compartment to my regular warm-air heating plenum, to transfer this heat to other rooms. I'd use proper air filters of course.
A: Our advice is not to tamper with the area surrounding the rear and sides of your zero-clearance insert fireplace. Although it may seem to you that you are wasting heated air, the risk of introducing a fire into your hot air distributing duct system simply isn't worth the trouble it could cause. Besides increasing the danger of fire you might also compromise your fire insurance by making an unauthorized modification to your heating system. Lastly, the amount of heat you would add to the house would probably turn out to be far less than you hoped.

Financing, Down Payments, Price negotiations. Inspections. All obstacles that could block you from buying a home. But one move could get you right through that red tape. A call to an experienced real estate agent. An expert agent can coach you smoothly through the entire home buying process. From using the sophisticated multiple listing service to find the home that fits your needs and your budget. To tackling financing options. Setting up and monitoring inspections. Negotiating price. And even maneuvering you through closing. So when you need a skilled teammate, get someone who really knows the housing field--a real estate agent. Read The Hereford Brand for more information about qualified agents. Every day, the real estate classifieds list many properties and agents. And on Sundays the housing section examines the latest market trends and home buying opportunities. Getting the right coaching now could mean the difference between confusion and closing.

Will 'Smoldering Lust' kindle audience affection?

BY JOHN CROOK

A disheveled private eye is drawn into a farcical murder case in Smoldering Lust, the new "sitcom noir" from Jay Tarses premiering Saturday, May 29, on NBC.

Sultry Margo Cody (Kate Capshaw of Indiana Jones and the Temple of Doom) hires sleuth and part-time used-records store owner Dave Brodsky (Bradley Whitford) to bird-dog her philandering husband, Chris (John Calvin), an outdoors-wear tycoon. But when Chris arrives at a hotel room for an assignation, he finds a very dead young woman. Brodsky's investigation is complicated by the fact that mercurial Margo has eyes for him ... as has the lovely Eve Saskatchewan (Alison Elliott), the Other Woman.

Romantic triangles, rectangles and other configurations evolve, and the plot grows more and more outrageous. Helping Brodsky sort it out is Cookie (Maggie Han of Teech), his deadpan assistant at Brodsky Used and Difficult-to-Locate 33 1/3 LP Record Shop and Detective Agency.

Tarses, who wrote and directed the two episodes that make up the series' debut, has a reputation for creating innovative programs that Middle America ignores. Buffalo Bill's aggressively abrasive title character turned off a lot of viewers, and the subtle mood shifts in The Days and Nights of Molly Dodd confused them ... including then-NBC programming chief Brandon Tartikoff. Smoldering's broader comic style and engaging cast make this new offering a little more audience-friendly, although the writing remains pure Tarses.

"You've chosen to strap our marriage into a chair, pry open its mouth and yank its teeth out, like a heartless periodontist!" Margo angrily tells her husband in one scene.

"I think it's a very funny show, but not in a mainstream, Home Improvement sense," says Whitford, who adds that Tarses is revered by actors in a town where writers usually "are treated like fire hydrants." He hopes the network will give the series the careful handling it needs.

"You can't put a semi-groundbreaking show on without really supporting it," he says. "If NBC had just thrown Seinfeld out there without supporting it, that show wouldn't have had a chance. This is the same kind of show. It's different, offbeat - it's going to need strong support."

Whitford, who came to California after completing his run in A Few Good Men on Broadway, says he had qualms about taking a series because "you can wind up spending seven years playing a bunny rabbit on TV, and then one day you wake up and you're 46 and in the Betty Ford

Center, and you haven't accomplished anything.' His take-the-money-and-run attitude soon changed on the set of Smoldering Lust, which he wryly describes as 'a combination of Get Smart, Love American Style and Twin Peaks.'

'About three weeks into the shooting, I realized I was having more fun than I ever had had on anything before. And I said to Jay, 'You know, I'm upset... because now I care whether this show makes it or not.' And he said, 'This one is either going to do nothing or be absolutely huge. If it's huge, you have to remember. If you're doing well on television, there's probably something wrong with you.'

Whittford says NBC is expected to let the cast know the show's fate by June, and he remains hopeful. 'I think there really is an untapped hunger for an intelligently crafted farce like this.'

HIGHLIGHTS

Sunday, May 23, on NBC, the docudrama In the Line of Duty: Ambush in Waco stars Tim Daly (Wings) as Branch Davidian leader David Koresh. The telefilm documents the events leading up to the February shootout in Waco, Texas, between members of the cult and agents of the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms. Filmed near Tulsa, Okla., the movie had begun pre-production within days of the tragic event. As with other In the Line of Duty telefilms, Ambush in Waco focuses on the behind-the-scenes police work involved in preparing for the operation.

Accepting 1981's Best Song Oscar, Carole Bayer Sager told Bette Midler, 'I love getting this from you.' 'I know you do,' Midler snapped.

'Tonight Show' doing fine after first year

By LYNN ELBER
AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) - One year ago, Jay Leno was crowned successor to Johnny Carson as host of NBC's "The Tonight Show." He quickly found himself settling into a hot seat, not a throne.

Critics sniped that political humor weighed down his monologue. They called him too deferential to guests. His producer, Helen Kushnick, was fired amid reports of tirades and booking wars with rival shows.

And then the nadir: In January, NBC executives messily toyed with the idea of dumping Leno as "Tonight" host in favor of David Letterman, who was threatening to bolt to CBS.

Letterman went. Leno kept his hold on the venerable talk show. He's also managed, he insists, to keep his perspective intact.

"I'm an adult," Leno says flatly. "This is a job that pays a lot of money, and a business that pays a lot of money."

"I mean, were some nasty things said about me? Yes. Were some nice things said about me. Yes. I'm not someone who holds a grudge. I'm product, and people argue about product."

And the product, Leno says, is doing fine. Under the new host, the show has garnered ratings close to those earned by "Tonight" with Carson and nightly audiences of 4 million-plus.

The 43-year-old Leno is putting his stamp on a four-decade-old television institution that's been stewarded by near-legends: original host Steve Allen, Jack Paar, Carson.

Audiences at NBC's Burbank studios see it first. Other talk shows use an announcer for the preshow warm-up; at "Tonight," a jeans-clad Leno saunters out to joke with the crowd and sign autographs.

Leno - who still counts high school classmates as close friends - never plays the role of prima donna, says his musical director, jazzman Branford Marsalis.

"The philosophy of any show starts at the top," Marsalis says. Leno never lost his cool, he says, even during the worst moments of "a tough year."

When asked to describe how he is shaping the new "Tonight Show," Leno veers away from first-person pronouns.

"If you said to people, you know, Jay's the only white guy on 'The Tonight Show,' they go, 'No, he's not.' Then they go, 'Oh, yes, he is,'" Leno says.

About the house musicians, he says, "There is one white guy in the band. I'm proud of the fact that the show has a very urban look, and everybody interacts."

The guest list is racially varied as well. And behind the scenes, such top "Tonight" jobs as director and producer have gone to women in a business generally dominated by men.

The music has changed, Leno says, rattling off the names of recent acts such as Sting, David Bowie, Tina Turner. "I don't think those people would have been on before," he says.

But he's skittish about appearing critical of previous regimes.

"Anytime I answer a question like this, it's like I'm calling the old show square," Leno says. "You're not. You do what works in your time. Like people who say Muhammad Ali could have beaten Rocky Graziano, I have no idea. These are two different times."

He also dismisses early complaints about his own performance.

Leno says he came on last May 25 in the middle of a presidential campaign, so political jokes made up a bigger chunk of the monologue. And if he seemed overly polite, he says, that was by design.

"Hosting 'The Tonight Show' for the first four or five months is a bit like going to your girlfriend's house for dinner," he says. "You can be a wise guy a little bit, but not too much."

"You have to wait until the old man gets to know you a little bit, and then you can have fun."

That meant letting big-name guests such as Clint Eastwood and Tom Cruise learn to trust him as an interviewer and host.

"I think the show now, as opposed to a year ago, is more comfortable. It's looser, everybody's more relaxed... We take a few more chances, and we'll take more and more."

Leno's work pattern is established and demanding: on the set by midmorning, taping from 5:30-6:30 p.m., a break and then a midnight round table, at home, working on the next day's monologue with his writers.

Leno says his wife, Mavis, "is in bed by that time. She doesn't realize there are strange men wandering in and out of the house at all hours."

Weekends are for the club performances he used to pursue year-round.

Asked how "Tonight" will respond to its new competition when Letterman's show debuts in August on CBS, Leno jokingly sidesteps an answer.

"Yeah, the monologue will be gone and I'll be doing modern interpretive dance," he says.

Leno insists more talk shows draw a bigger audience to late-night television, allowing for more than one success. He calls Letterman, a longtime friend and colleague, a "gentleman."

"Personally, I feel we'll both be on for a long time," Leno says. "If I wind up getting my head kicked in and losing all the viewers, well, I lost to a guy I highly respect. And if it was the other way around, I'd like to think he'd feel the same."

NBC releases next fall line-up

By FRAZIER MOORE
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) - NBC has eight new series and old favorites John Larroquette, Kelsey Grammer and Roy Scheider on its lineup next fall. Six comedies and two dramas make up five hours of new programming, along with an old-and-new movie anthology on the NBC schedule unveiled May 14.

New shows for NBC's 1993-94 season:

- "Against the Grain," a family drama about a former high school football star who becomes coach of the high school team in a small town outside Dallas.

- "Cafe American," a sitcom with Valerie Bertinelli ("One Day at a Time") as a resourceful American divorcee who follows her dreams to Paris for a new beginning.

- "Frasier," with Kelsey Grammer reprising his "Cheers" role as Frasier Crane. This comedy takes the psychologist from his Boston home and broken marriage to Seattle, where he fills the airwaves with advice at a radio station.

- "The John Larroquette Show" brings the "Night Court" star back to a sitcom as a recovering alcoholic who lands a job as the night manager of a St. Louis bus station.

- "Mommies" stars the comedy duo Marilyn Kentz and Caryl Kristensen in a sitcom about the realities of life, love and motherhood in the '90s.

- "Saved By the Bell: The College Years" brings Mark-Paul Gosselaar, Mario Lopez and Dustin Diamond to prime time from the Saturday morning series "Saved By the Bell" - but they have graduated from high school and entered college.

- "seaQuest DSV" is an action-adventure series that explores the ocean frontier 25 years in the future aboard a Nautilus-like submarine operated by its captain and inventor, played by Roy Scheider. Executive producer: Steven Spielberg.

- "The Second Half" stars stand-up comedian John Mendoza as a divorced father trying to adapt to his status as a weekday bachelor and weekend father.

In addition, NBC will present its "Friday Night Mystery" cycle of two-hour movies starring Kenny Rogers, Larry Hagman, Raymond Burr as Perry Mason, and an updated version of "Hart to Hart" with Robert Wagner and Stefanie Powers.

The schedule also includes "Getting By," currently an ABC series starring Cindy Williams and Thelma Hopkins.

Return to Guadalcanal, Tiffany's

BY JOHN CROOK

The man who found the wreckage of the Titanic leads an expedition in search of The Lost Fleet of Guadalcanal, a special two-and-a-half-hour episode of National Geographic Explorer airing Sunday, May 23, on TBS.

Actor Stacy Keach (Mickey Spillane's Mike Hammer) narrates this account of undersea explorer Dr. Robert Ballard's search of 300 square miles around Guadalcanal. Some 38,000 Allied and Japanese soldiers lost their lives there in 1942 during six months of bloody combat-over-a-strategic-airstrip. In a special introduction to the program, former President George Bush pays tribute to what he calls "one of the defining moments of World War II."

Using state-of-the-art naval equipment, Ballard and his team aboard the Laney Chouest eventually locate more than a dozen of the ships littering Guadalcanal waters.

Encore showings of The Lost Fleet of Guadalcanal are set for Monday, May 24, and Saturday, May 29, on TBS.

Blues and jazz standards get the Diana Ross treatment in Stolen Moments, a 90-minute Disney Channel special, also on Sunday.

MONDAY

Monday on ABC, The American Television Awards honors the season's best TV shows and performers from network, cable and syndication, chosen by a selected group of journalists and observers.

STAR NOTES

U.S. audience meets Michelle Wright on TNN

BY SCOTT WHITE

"It's a lot of concert footage and interviews," says country singer Michelle Wright of her hourlong special, Michelle, which airs Monday, May 24, on The Nashville Network. "It's a very personal look at some of the ups and downs of being on the road."

American country fans know Wright from her single "Take it Like a Man," which climbed into the top-10 last year. However, fans in her native Canada know she's no newcomer.

"I've been on the road 12 years now, about 10 years before the first [American] single came out," says Wright, who calls Chatham, Ontario, her hometown. "I literally drove the truck and set up the PA system for several years, and my focus was there. I'm able to manage my time a little differently these days."

Taped in November 1991 before a sold-out crowd at Toronto's King Street Opera House, Michelle will give U.S. fans a taste of Wright's heritage.

"That special was filmed right at a point in my career where I was really getting a strong focus on myself, and I was growing and developing as an artist," says Wright. "It will help inform the American people about my past and let them know I'm not someone who just came out of the middle of nowhere and decided to become a country singer... It's certainly part of my past and something I wanted to share."

Disasters top week at NBC; CBS invites 'Mafia Family' to home screens

BY SCOTT WHITE

Nancy McKeon and Eric Roberts play Rosalie Profaci and Bill Bonanno, a pair of Mafia children whose marriage unites two of the largest crime families in New York, in part one of Love, Honor & Obey: The Last Mafia Marriage, airing Sunday, May 23, on CBS. The conclusion airs Wednesday. On ABC, Raquel Welch plays a glamorous movie star who encounters romance with a rugged fireman (Jack Scalia) while dealing with her own alcoholism in Judith Krantz's Torch Song. Timothy Daly (of NBC's Wings) looks unconvincingly similar to cult leader David Koresh in NBC's In the Line of Duty: Ambush in Waco, which kicks off three nights of reality-based, made-for-TV disaster movies on the peacock network.

On Monday, May 24, NBC looks at stories of human courage in the face of a devastating natural disaster, the costliest in U.S. history, in Hurricane Andrew. The movie, which stars Veronica Cartwright and is directed by four-time Emmy-winner Marvin Chomsky, uses news footage to document the grim tragedy of the storm.

Then, on Wednesday, May 26, Susan Rutan stars in NBC's timely version of the World Trade Center bombing, which trapped more than 100,000 workers in New York City's huge office and hotel complex in February. The docudrama is titled Terror in the Towers.

David Strathairn stars as brilliant physicist J. Robert Oppenheimer in CBS' three-hour movie about the race to develop the first atomic bomb and its attendant moral dilemmas in Day One, airing Thursday, May 27.

Patrick Swayze makes a pleasant career departure when he plays a burned-out American surgeon who finds purpose in the slums of Calcutta, India, in the uplifting 1992 film City of Joy, airing Saturday, May 29, on HBO. Also Saturday, Leslie Nielsen and Lloyd Bridges star in David and Jerry Zucker's rapid-fire 1980 comedy Airplane! on the USA cable network.

Beverly Hills, 90210 co-star Gabrielle Carteris is host of Face the Hate, a one-hour documentary special airing in syndication in May and June. The program looks at the problem of bigotry in contemporary society.

Carteris looks for solutions to bigotry in 'Face the Hate'

BY SCOTT WHITE

Face the Hate, which airs in syndication in May and June, is a challenging show to watch, and even more difficult to absorb. Its stark images of bigotry are hard to believe, yet too poignant to ignore.

Host Gabrielle Carteris, who plays activist overachiever Andrea Zuckerman on Fox's Beverly Hills, 90210, uncovers the roots of hate with passionate reserve, and then tackles the more difficult task of presenting answers to the problem of bigotry in America.

"This is a show of solutions," says Carteris. "We only dedicate a piece of the show to exposing the hate, and then we start talking about what we can do to be more tolerant."

Footage from locations including a Pennsylvania hate-church and Los Angeles' newly-opened Museum of Tolerance alternate with dialogue segments from a multi-cultural panel.

Carteris, every bit as socially conscious as her 90210 character, is active in programs such as D.A.R.E. (Drug Abuse Resistance Education) and the Extraordinary Teen Awards. However, none of her experience prepared her for the emotional toll of working on Face the Hate.

At one point, Carteris, who is Jewish, is informed by a teenage girl and her pistol-wielding father that she would be killed on the spot if they thought God wanted it done.

"I was really frightened," Carteris says of the incident. "The whole experience was almost surreal. You almost think they're pretending."

Despite the intensity of scenes like these, Face the Hate steers clear of exploitation and presents a strong, hands-on approach to addressing the problem of bigotry. Though targeted at the MTV generation, the style of the program shouldn't exclude any viewers.

"In order for us to change things, we have to face the hate," Carteris says. "You have to confront the problem and accept that it exists. If you're always in denial, how can you change anything? This is our world. It's not about the next person; it's about each one of us."

NBA, NHL continue playoffs; tennis in Paris

BY MICHAEL SCOGIN

This week in television sports the road to the NBA Finals grows narrower, the NHL's Stanley Cup is within reach and the best in men's and women's tennis battle in the second leg of the Grand Slam.

A long basketball season begins to wind down as NBC continues its NBA playoff coverage with a doubleheader on Sunday, May 23. TNT takes to the hardwood on Monday, May 24, Tuesday, May 25, Wednesday, May 26, and Friday, May 28. Magic Johnson, Marv Albert and the rest of the NBC gang return with the Eastern Conference Finals on Saturday, May 29.

ESPN is on hand as the world's top-ranked tennis players challenge each other and the red clay surface of Roland Garros Stadium in Paris as the 1993 French Open begins on Monday. The all-sports network has second-round coverage on Tuesday, the third round on Wednesday, the fourth on Thursday and the fifth on Friday. NBC's broadcast team of Dick Enberg, Bud Collins, John McEnroe and Chris Evert take over for coverage of the women's final on Saturday.

The weather may be getting warm, but the ice isn't melting in the NHL playoffs. ESPN skates toward the Stanley Cup as the Campbell Conference Championships continue on Sunday.

Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, with the Wales Conference Finals airing Monday, Wednesday and Friday.

HIGHLIGHTS

Raquel Welch and Jack Scalia star in Judith Krantz's 'Torch Song', airing Sunday, May 23, on ABC. In the drama, movie star Paula Eastman (Welch) enters a rehabilitation clinic to gain control of her alcoholism, which has reduced her career to cameo roles and appearances in B pictures. There she meets Mike, a fireman also dealing with his alcohol dependency, and their friendship evolves into romance. Once they leave the clinic, however, their happiness is upset when Mike's family and Paula's friends question the motives behind the couple's romance.

Hayden keeps cool under Emmy pressure

BY CANDACE HAVENS

"And the winner is ..." These words would jangle the nerves of the most experienced actor or actress nominated for a coveted acting award.

On Wednesday, May 26, there will definitely be some nail-biting thespians attending the 20th Annual Daytime Emmy Awards, airing nationally on ABC. But there is one actress who has resolved to stay cool. She's Melissa Hayden, who plays Bridget Reardon on Guiding Light.

Hayden looks at things differently than most people. She is nominated for the Outstanding Younger Actress award and says she bet the makeup man a dollar she wouldn't win.

"The way I look at it, there are only two possibilities with this nomination, you win or you lose," says Hayden. "If you win, the only thing you are required to do is go up on stage, say thanks as graciously as possible and then get off. If you lose, you get to sit in your seat, and you don't have to worry about tripping on your dress or forgetting to thank your mom."

"I am excited about the whole thing, but you just can't take it all too seriously. I was talking to Beth Ehlers (Harley, GL); she and I are up for the same award. We both basically said the same thing to one another. 'Isn't it amazing that out of all the talented actresses in the world who are working or not, they picked us as two of the final five? What an honor. There is no jealousy; if one of us wins, it will be great.'"

Viewers shouldn't be surprised to see the fun-loving Hayden turn up in full costume, much like those in Dangerous Liaisons, for the Emmys.

"My cast mates would laugh hysterically if I showed up in a costume and wig. The people I work with are so down-to-earth. We don't have any of those big diva attitudes on our set like they do on some of the other ones. We encourage each other to take risks."

Whatever Hayden wears to the Emmys won't really matter, because whether she stays in her seat and smiles graciously or forgets to thank her mother, she is a winner.

HIGHLIGHTS

CBS recalls one of television's funniest families in The Legend of the Beverly Hillbillies, airing Monday, May 24. Buddy Ebsen (right), who played patriarch Jed Clampett, appears along with surviving cast members Max Baer Jr. (Jethro Bodine) and Donna Douglas (Elly May Clampett) to offer favorite memories of the 1960s sitcom. The late Irene Ryan (seated), who portrayed Granny, is given a special tribute. Guest stars recounting their Hillbillies experiences include Ray Charles, Roy Clark, Eddie Albert, G. Gordon Liddy, Louis Nye and astronaut Scott Carpenter.

President's Corner

BY SHIRLEY GARRISON
HSCA President

The Center has really been a busy place lately. We have had several groups from out of town. Among them were a part of the Good Sam Club from Portales, N.M. They came to town for a tour of the community. While they were here, they had some meals at the Center. They utilized the Center as a meeting place, took part in recreational activities, and visited with the local folks.

We really enjoyed hosting this group as they visited several local sites, such as the Cowgirl Hall of Fame, Deaf Smith County Museum, Black House, Ramirez Tortilla Factory, Bar G Feedyard, Arrowhead Mills, the old prisoner of war memorial, and other sites. They seemed to enjoy being in Hereford.

During the Pioneer Day celebration, we expect more out-of-town and local visitors. We will be having our annual Pancake Supper during this event. It will be held Friday evening, May 28. We invite the public to come out with their families and friends to enjoy a good meal and good fellowship.

A special thanks goes to those who have been working to improve the landscape of our Center grounds and are getting the yards in good shape for the summer and fall.

We invite all of you to spend some of your summertime at the Center.

Margie's Notes

BY MARGIE DANIELS, EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR
Hereford Senior Citizens Association

The time is flying so fast, I can't believe it! This year will soon be half gone. Our years go faster than we think. Last week, I had the privilege of attending the Lion's Club meeting as a guest of Judge Nelson. I got to do something I've always wanted to do--throw paper airplanes. It cost me a 25-cent fine, but it was well worth it!

Poppy Hulsey, a friend of mine from Tulia, was the guest speaker. Poppy is our Silver Haired Legislator from this area and also the state director of AARP. She is really a great advocate for the elderly and we are really fortunate to have her in these positions. She can also tell every younger person that the years are going by faster than you think, and you'll soon be one of those "older people," and you better be preparing for it.

We've had a wonderful and busy week with out-of-town guests. They said they had no idea Hereford was such a neat place. One made the comment that driving through on Highway 60, "you don't have a very pretty face." Of course all who have been trying to promote our community knows that. I think we need a large colorful sign at the beginning and end of Hwy. 60 and 385 that says something like: "Stop! Off the Beaten Path is a Wonderful Community With Very Friendly People: Arrowhead Mills, Ramirez & Sons Tortilla Factory, H&R Manufacturing, National Cowgirl Hall of Fame, Deaf Smith County Museum and Black House, Prisoner of War Memorial, YMCA, Senior Citizens Center, Municipal Golf Course, Ladies' Dress Shops, Gift Shops, Restaurants, Hospital, Feed Yards, Shopping Areas and Nice Homes...WELCOME!"

I am making arrangements for several short trips this summer. The sights we'll see are the musical, "OKLAHOMA," in Tulsa; "The Promise" at Glen Rose, then to San Antonio; and we also have reservations for "TEXAS." If you are interested in any of these, please let me know.

There are no limits to our opportunities. Most of us see only a small portion of what is possible. We create opportunities by seeing the possibilities and having the persistence to act upon them. We must always remember...opportunities are always here, but we must look for them. See you at the Center!

Arthritis sufferers helped by replacing diseased joints

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) - In just a few years, opening a door, grasping a pencil and buttoning a shirt had become nearly impossible for Claire Baumel. Rheumatoid arthritis had crippled both her hands and left her in chronic pain.

In 1989, Baumel, 63, of North Andover, Mass., underwent surgery that replaced the diseased joints in her right hand with flexible hinges made of silicone. It corrected the deformities caused by her dislocated bones, which had made her fingers swing out sideways, and restored almost all her mobility.

It also erased the pain. Artificial joints for hips and knees are relatively well known. That's not the case with the hand joint replacements, although Grand Rapids hand surgeon Alfred B. Swanson developed them nearly 30 years ago.

"The predominant surgery for orthopedic surgeons is with the hips and knees, because the first thing you want to do is restore mobility for the patient," said Gene Jakubczak, director of marketing of silicone devices for Dow Corning Wright of Arlington, Tenn., which markets the small joint implants. They are manufactured at Dow Corning's plant in Hemlock, Mich.

"Hand surgery is very complex," Jakubczak said. "Essentially, it's like doing five little knees."

About 16 million people in the United States suffer from osteoarthritis and 2.1 million from rheumatoid arthritis, the forms of the disease for which the implants are designed. About one-quarter of them have cases severe enough to be considered for surgery, Swanson said.

But of the millions of Americans who potentially could benefit from the small joint implants, only about 200,000 have had the surgery, Swanson said.

Worldwide, the rubber-like artificial joints have been used in more than 1 million operations in 83 countries since Swanson performed the first surgery in 1964.

Osteoarthritis, which afflicts about half the population over 65, is caused by damage to cartilage. Rheumatoid arthritis, apparently a disease involving the immune system, is an inflammation of the lining of a joint. As the cartilage and ligaments of the joint are destroyed and bone begins to rub against bone, the person begins feeling chronic pain.

Swanson is a surgery professor at Michigan State University and director of an orthopedic research and hand surgery fellowship at Blodgett Memorial Medical Center in Grand Rapids.

He became interested in joint replacement in 1950. As a student at Indiana University, he assisted in the development of an artificial hip implant.

In 1961, Swanson heard about a medical-grade silicone developed by Dow Corning. He began experimenting with the implants on test machines and animals in a subbasement at Blodgett.

"The normal joint is so sophisticated and the ligaments around it so much in tune that you really can't simulate nature," Swanson said. "My idea was to make a functional joint, one that was pain-free and restored most of a person's mobility."

Previously, doctors would remove the diseased joint and leave a gap, hoping it would be filled with scar tissue that didn't cause as much pain. "It was totally unpredictable. My goal was to make it predictable," Swanson said.

After surgery, reconstructed tissues heal and surround the implant to function as ligaments while the bone around the implant improves. Relatively few complications from the surgery have been reported, Swanson said.

The surgery does not cure arthritis. But most patients regain 50 percent to 75 percent of the hand's original mobility, he said.

Surgery for one hand generally costs about $2,000 and is covered by most insurance plans, he said.

Swanson also has made implants for three wrist bones, as well as the shoulder and elbow.

Social Security

By JIM TALBOT

Important disability protection under Social Security is available to one of the most vulnerable groups in the economy--homemakers who devote their lives to raising a family and have not acquired enough work credits under Social Security for disability coverage. The protection is available on the basis of the work of the deceased spouse and means that widows, widowers and surviving divorced spouses between 50 and 60 who become disabled are not without disability insurance.

A recent change in the law makes this protection available to more people by permitting them to work and earn more money before their work would disqualify them for benefits. Now a disabled widow or widower can earn up to $500 per month--the same amount used for disabled workers--before the claim is reviewed to determine if benefits will continue. Before, any amount of earnings indicated that the applicant could work.

To qualify for disability benefits, a widow or widower must be at least age 50 and the disability must have started before the worker's death or within 7 years of death. A widow or widower caring for minor children of the worker may qualify for disability benefits before age 50 if she/he becomes disabled while still caring for those minor children or within 7 years after those "child care" benefits end.

It's important to note that, even if the marriage ended in divorce, benefits may be payable if the marriage lasted at least 10 years.

Homelessness has also focused attention on this type of protection.

Many homeless individuals are mentally disabled and if they cannot qualify for benefits on their own work, they may be able to do so on the basis of a deceased spouse.

For additional information, call Social Security's toll-free number, 1-800-772-1213, business days between 7:00 a.m. and 7:00 p.m.

NOTE OF THANKS

To everyone who remembered me with cards, letters, phone calls, visits, flowers and prayers, I am deeply grateful.

SOCIAL SECURITY QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q: I am a 66-year-old woman who receives SSI. Several of my neighbors have asked me to babysit occasionally while they go shopping or tend to other matters. If I accept, will I lose my SSI because of the additional money I'll receive?

A: Not necessarily. You can earn up to $65 a month without a reduction in your SSI benefits. If your total income exceeds the $65 allowed, your SSI benefit will be reduced $1 for each $2 of earnings over that limit.

Q: My doctor advised me to get a flu shot. Will Medicare pay for it?

A: No. Medicare cannot pay for immunizations except pneumococcal vaccinations or those required because of an injury or immediate risk of infection.

Q: How long should I wait before contacting my Medicare carrier to check on the status of a claim?

A: Allow 30 to 45 days for the claim to be paid. If you have not received a check or an Explanation of Medicare Benefit (EOMB) payment statement after 45 days, call the Medicare carrier for your area.

Q: My mother has been in a nursing home for several weeks. She has Medicare, but I've been told that Medicare won't pay her bill because she's receiving "custodial" care. What does that mean?

A: Care is considered "custodial" when it is primarily for meeting personal needs and could be provided by people without professional medical skills or training. Custodial care includes, but is not limited to, help in walking, getting in and out of bed, dressing, eating, bathing, or taking medicine. This kind of care is not covered by Medicare.

Q: I am a 50-year-old welder with a deteriorating heart condition. I have a wife and two small children. My doctor has advised me to leave my job and to apply for disability benefits. Will my family be able to get benefits too?

A: Yes. If Social Security determines that you are disabled and entitled to Social Security benefits, your spouse and minor children can also receive benefits on your record.

If you wish to have your questions answered in this column, please write to Jim Talbot, District Manager, Senior Scene, Social Security Administration, 3501 W. 45th, Suite E., Amarillo, Texas 79106.

Nutrition Notes

By CHARLOTTE R. CLARK
MS RD/LD
FOOD GUIDE PYRAMID

The Food Guide Pyramid is new, different, and designed to make the basics of a healthful diet easier to understand. Published by the United States Department of Agriculture (USDA), the pyramid demonstrates how healthy Americans 2 years of age or older can piece together a healthy diet.

As the Food Guide Pyramid is a guide to help you meet your nutrient needs. It is not a rigid set of dos and don'ts that denies you favorite foods and leaves you unsatisfied. Instead it offers an eating outline that enables you to add food choices to fit your taste and budget.

Let's take a look at the Food Guide Pyramid's overall message and at its individual pieces. The overall message from the Pyramid is to select foods that together give you all the essential nutrients you need to maintain health... -without eating too many calories or too much fat (especially saturated fats). Read the Pyramid one piece at a time.

The "Bottoms Up" message is that the Pyramid's pieces represent both the basic five food groups (levels 1-3) and the fats, oils, and sweets commonly found in our diets (level 4). The size of the food-group piece corresponds to the recommended number of daily servings from that food group. For example, the Bread-Group piece is the largest in size and it has the greatest number of recommended servings.

The triangle and circle shapes scattered throughout the Pyramid's pieces represent the added and naturally occurring fat and oil in certain foods, as well as the added sugars. Many triangles and/or circles in a food-group piece mean that many of the foods in that category contain a large amount of naturally occurring or added fat and oil, and/or added sugars.

If you start at the bottom of the pyramid and work your way up, you will see how selections from the food groups and other foods can be pieced together to form a healthful overall diet.

Each day:

Level 1-Choose plenty of foods that come from plants. Bread, cereal, rice, and pasta form the broad base of the Pyramid and should make up the bulk of your diet.

Level 2-Also important is an ample variety of fruits and vegetables. Fruits and vegetables are full of vitamins, minerals, carbohydrates, and fiber you need to stay healthy.

Level 3-Add a moderate amount of lower-fat/lean foods from the Milk Group and the Meat Group. Dairy products provide calcium that's important for a healthy skeleton in everyone. Foods from the Meat Group provide needed protein, iron, and zinc. When they are included in your diet as a side dish to accompany cereals, grains, fruits, and vegetables-as opposed to the meal's main focus-you'll make a step toward healthful eating.

Level 4--Go easy on your selection of foods containing fats, oils, and sweets. In moderation, these foods can fit into a healthful diet. They should not, however, replace the nutrient rich food choices found throughout levels 1, 2 and 3.

Are you at risk for diabetes?

Are you among the millions of Americans at risk of getting diabetes - the fourth leading cause of death by disease in the United States?

The American Diabetes Alert, an annual program sponsored by the American Diabetes Association, can help alert you to your risk of developing the disease.

Common diabetes symptoms include:

- Excessive thirst
- Extreme fatigue
- Blurry vision
- Unexplained weight loss
- Frequent urination

For a complete diabetes risk test, more information about the American Diabetes Alert, diabetes or how to become a member of the association, call your local American Diabetes Association Office.

Each day:

- Eat a VARIETY of foods from among all five food groups (levels 1-3).
- Choose a MODERATE amount of food to meet your calorie needs.
- Follow the PROPORTIONS of the Pyramid. That is, choose more servings each day from the larger food-group pieces (eg, Bread Group, Vegetable Group, Fruit Group). Choose fewer servings from the smaller food-group pieces (eg, Milk Group, Meat Group).

Eye Openers

By HUGH B. CURRIE, M.D.
Currie Eye Institute

Its time to talk about glaucoma again for a moment. As you probably remember, glaucoma is increased pressure in the eye that leads to damage to the optic nerve in the back of the eye. This damage in the back of the eye is manifested as a decrease in vision, particularly in areas of the side vision.

It has been difficult in the past to decide on border line glaucoma patients the exact point when treatment should be instigated. We look at 3 things to decide if a patient has glaucoma:

1. The intraocular pressure;
2. The appearance of the optic nerve in the back of the eye; and
3. A visual field test or side vision test to map out the state of the side vision.

Intraocular pressures are easy to test, but we only get to sample them very sporadically. We do not know

Crime dog offers precautions

How can you ruin your summer vacation? It may be all too easy according to McGruff the Crime Dog, symbol for the National Crime Prevention Council. But he has some ideas for a few easy precautions to take so that your fun isn't spoiled.

Before leaving on your trip, stop deliveries, store valuables in a safe deposit box and ask neighbors to watch your home.

Carry as little cash as possible. Use travelers checks and your credit cards.

Keep tickets and hotel keys hidden in your jacket or purse, and don't wear your best jewelry.

Don't advertise that you are a tourist, so read maps before you leave your hotel or car and keep them in the glove compartment or tucked out of sight.

Use the auxiliary locks in your hotel room and ask who is knocking before you open the door. Always keep cash and credit cards with you and leave extra cash and valuables in the hotel safe.

If you are on a tour or traveling in a group, spend your free time in the company of another traveler if apart from the group and remember to take off your badge.

When traveling overseas, ask your travel agent or the U.S. State Department about common crimes and places to avoid. Be wary of strangers who seem too eager to help you and know exchange rates so you're not cheated.

For more information about preventing crime and the McGruff education campaign write: The National Crime Prevention Council attn: NUSA, 1700 K Street, N.W., 2nd floor Washington, D.C. 20006.

The Eastman Dry Plate and Film Company of Rochester, N.Y., manufactured the first commercial motion-picture film in 1885.

what the intraocular pressure is in between these test times. It has been shown that the intraocular pressure is usually higher at night than in the daytime. We never get to test the intraocular pressure at night.

The visual field test also has its difficulties. It is a very sensitive test and shows quite a bit of variability from day to day. We often have to have two or three visual field tests to compare to be certain that there is a deterioration in the visual field of a patient. These tests are difficult on a patient because of the length of time that they take and they are also expensive.

In the past we have examined the optic nerve visually and written down comments and descriptions of it in our notes. Recently new tools are available to follow the state of the nerve. There are photographic techniques to record the appearance of the optic nerve. Computer techniques calculate the cupping or depression in the nerve that is made by increased pressure. These techniques are allowing a much more accurate following of glaucoma patients. Probably in the future people with glaucoma can expect to have special photographs made of their optic nerves on regular intervals. This promises to be one of the best ways to evaluate glaucoma patients.

If you have not had your pressure tested and/or had an examination for glaucoma and you are over forty years old, you stand a significant change of losing your vision to this insidious disease. Take care of your eyes and have regular checkups.

Share leisure time with grandchildren

As many grandparents have more leisure time and plan trips, they are discovering the joy of traveling with their grandchildren and building up a store of great memories that they can share. Trips that are shared with grandchildren can strengthen a wonderful relationship and also be educational and fun. Often, places you have visited offer new and fresh excitement when seen through the eyes of grandchildren exploring them for the first time.

Tour operators have recognized this growing market and are offering discounts on some trips for grandchildren, and also designing special trips for the two generations. There are a number of exotic destinations such as Kenya, the Galapagos Islands, China and Japan, but also plenty of opportunities to take group tours with your grandchildren closer to home - in the American West, to Alaska, and, of course, to Walt Disney World and Epcot Center. There are also several books that describe places that will appeal particularly to children.

Experience seems to show that the best age for such trips is from 11 to 13, although, if you choose your destination carefully, much younger children will enjoy travel if they are naturally curious. Children do not generally want to pack up each day and move on, so try to stay at a place from which you can take in several different activities.

Part of the fun of any trip is the anticipation. Grandchildren enjoy books, television specials, and videos about their destination and then joining in the planning.

One piece of advice that many well-traveled grandparents pass on is that time apart during the trip is good for both grandparent and child. Look for activities that each can pursue separately for part of the day and then enjoy meeting up afterward and hearing all about it. Some resorts, hotels and cruise ships advertise special children's programs, but always check ahead to be certain that they will be operating. So netimes these special programs are cut back if advance arrangements are not confirmed. This could throw off even the best made vacation plans.

If you take a group tour with sightseeing, your grandchildren should be interested and old enough to understand the tour guide. A trial day trip to a local historical sight or museum is a good test to determine if a longer trip would be enjoyable.

So think about giving your grandchildren a very special gift - The gift of time together, memories and new experiences shared.

Meeting patients' needs

BY JAMES S. TODD, M.D.
Executive Vice President,
American Medical Association

The headlines shout about skyrocketing health care costs. More than 35 million individuals are uninsured. Health system reform is a national priority. But, when it's you or a family member that's sick, the only priority is getting the best possible care.

The American Medical Association understands that health system reform must do more than cut costs. It must address the concerns of patients. As you evaluate the various reform proposals ask yourself the following questions.

-Does it ensure access to care for all Americans? Access to health care should be guaranteed to all, not just a select few.

-Does it ensure quality care for patients? The United States offers the best medical care in the world. This high quality of care must be maintained as we cut costs.

-Does it ensure patient choice? A good relationship with their physician is important to patients and generally results in better care.

-Does it address the root causes of health care cost inflation? Defensive medicine, widespread use of technology and societal problems such as tobacco, drug and alcohol abuse, all contribute to the soaring cost of health care. Any effective plan must address these issues.

For more information about health system reform write: John Clowe, MD, President, American Medical Association, 515 North State St., Chicago, Ill. 60610.

Hereford has a number of excellent retail stores who make every effort to fill your needs or services. Shop at home with the local folks. They help support your church, your kids, your entire community.

High fiber cereals and fruit can help you stay fit and may reduce the risk of certain types of cancer.
