Marine base surrounded

Anti-government forces surrounded the U.S. Marine base at Beirut airport today after Druse insurgents linked up with Shiite Moslem militiamen and took control of the highway into the city.

A Druse advance overnight seized the last area, south of the airport, in which the bat-tered Lebanese army acted as a buffer between the Marines and militia forces. Shiite militia controlled the areas north, east and west of falling apart, President Amin Gemayel today was reported ready to give in to opposition demands that he scrap Lebanon's troop withdrawal pact with Israel.

But Druse leader Walid Jumblatt said today he would demand Gemayel's removal from power even if the withdrawal accord were abrogated.

"Amin Gemayel has to step down. There will never be any talks, any dialogue, any reconciliation with the Phalangists or Amin Gemayel while he is in power," Jumblatt said today at a news conference in Damascus, Syria.

Israel, which invaded the nation in 1982, has warned that it would keep its army in southern Lebanon if the accord is scrapped. Although it signed the pact last May with Lebanon, Israel refused to remove its troops from Lebanon until the Syrians pulled out their forces. Syria has refused to do so and the U.S.-mediated agreement that was designed to get foreign troops out of Lebanon has not gone into effect. The Druse militias captured a strategic mile-long corridor to the sea after defeating government troops on Tuesday. It was the second defeat in eight days for the Lebanese army, which was pushed out of Moslem west Beirut last week.

The U.S. Marines cou depart on amphibious landing craft from the beach near the airport. They would have to cross the coastal highway to get to the beach and Amal, the largest Shiite militia, has checkpoints along that stretch of highway.

1980, Rolland de Beaudignies came to the United States searching for a parcel of land. He was here eight days, looked at 12 farms, and returned to Belgium the proud owner of 2,600 acres of irrigated cropland located in the Westway community of Deaf Smith County.

Thus was born the Westway farm division of Kerkom Corporation's farm and cattle operation. To farm the land and feed the cattle, Beaudignies sent a procession of European's, mostly oung men, across the waters to the Texas Panhandle. Some stayed longer than others, some used better English than others. But every year, the wheat, corn, milo, cotton and various vegetables have been planted and harvested.

The current manager is son Hubert de Beaudignies, who laughed and looked embarrassed Monday when asked his age. "I'll be 23 on Valentine's Day," he said. He joined the American operation in November of 1982 after graduating from a special farming school in Ciney, his home town.

Young Hubert now runs operations

His father, who has farm and timberland in Belgium and never intended to live at the farm here, has been visiting since last week. He brought with him Steven Nore, a 22-year-old Frenchman who just finished studying at a similar farming school in his native country. A friend of the family, Nore said he came to join the operation because "I wanted to see another country and I wanted to farm." The older Beaudignies, a mayor for 12 years in his native country, said he "finally got too busy for the Belgium has a democratic form of government with a king, "like England," he explained.

When Beaudignies purchased the farm, located about 12 miles west of Hereford, it took 29 Belgian francs to obtain a United States dollar bill. Now, the exchange rate is 58 to one. "I knew that was happening," he said. "That's why I bought when I did. I wanted to invest in America, and farming was what I knew best, so I bought a farm."

Beaudignies said the economy is not real good in his country right now, but is "on the way up. The people were living too well for a while and that couldn't last. Now we're learning to con-

The corporation has encountered the same problems other Deaf Smith farmers have, namely increasing irrigation costs. "We must find crops that give a better return per acre, and use less water," Beaudignies said. 'We have been using pipe irrigation, but this year we will switch to surge."

One such crop, to be test planted this year by Hubert and Nore, is a vegetable called witloof. Eaten as a salad vegetable or cooked and topthe European variety is grown only in California and Florida in the United States.

Using hybrid seed obtained from overseas, the pair expects to plant in April. The vegetable grows underground as a large root until around October, when it can be harvested with the same equipment used here to remove carrots from the ground.

Then, the roots are placed in water and refrigerated until they sprout. The top portion of the plant, which looks something like a tall, slim Brussels sprout, is what will be sold. Beaudignies said they will plant just a few rows of witloof this summer to learn the best growing and watering techniques for this soil and climate.

Beaudignies said there is a market for the witloof in Dallas. However he has not contracted with anyone there for the 1984 crop.

"It is really just an experiment this year, but we know these are the crops we need to start planting," he said. "Things have changed since came here, so we will change too."

Hubert is the youngest of four children who grew up in the family castle on a 200-acre farm in the Frenchspeaking part of Belgium. His father produced a color snapshot, an aerial view of the majestic gray and white home and outbuildings surrounded by manicured green lawns and neat rows of trees. Asked if he missed such enchanting scenery, the son replied, "it is different here.

But I'm not really homesick and I want to stay."

No PLO policy changes planned

WASHINGTON (AP) Reagan administration officials say there won't be any relaxing of the U.S. policy toward the Palestine Liberation Organization, despite Egyptian President Hosni Mubarak's appeal to President Reagan for "a direct dialogue" with the PLO.

Mubarak appeared to lecture Reagan in a statement following a meeting at the White House on Tuesday.

"The Palestinian people are entitled to your support and understanding," Mubarak said with Reagan at his side. "There is no substitute for a direct dialogue with them through their chosen representative, the PLO."

major change in U.S. policy.

The administration continues to pin its hopes on Jordan's King Hussein, encouraging him to work out a deal with PLO leader Yasser Arafat to represent Palestinian interests in peace talks with Israel.

Reagan met jointly with both Hussein and Mubarak at the White House Tuesday and officials said both voiced concern that the administration had become sidetracked on the Lebanon issue.

But Mubarak also appeared to criticize American policy in Lebanon, saying "the key to a viable solution is the prompt and unconditional withdrawal of Israeli forces. The Israeli invasion is the root cause of the present sad situation in the area."

Washington supports Israel's position that it shouldn't have to withdraw until the Syrians also leave.

In his statement in the White House East Room following the meeting, Reagan voiced anew his support for the Middle East peace initiative he first proposed in Sept. 1, 1982. Success for the initiative depends in large part on getting Hussein to join peace talks with Israel representing both Jordanian and Palestinian interests.

Mubarak, who spoke after Reagan, said the Reagan initiative doesn't go far enough because it doesn't give the PLO a large enough role.

He also said, "Mr. Arafat is a responsible leader who has demonstrated tremendous courage under the most difficult circumstances." The Egyptian president met with Arafat recently in Cairo.

Mubarak, head of the only Arab country officially at peace with Israel, was asked later if he really thought the United States would bow to his appeal and talk to the

Contracts facing board

Administrative contracts are to be considered and acted upon Thursday evening during a regular meeting of the Hereford Independent School District Board of Education. The school board, set to gather at 5 p.m. in the 700 Union administration building, is also to consider air conditioning of Bluebonnet Intermediate School. Approval of management board policy and procedures for special education and use of the La Plata Junior High School gymnasium are other items on the agenda.

As usual, several reports are to be considered. Among them are committee, personnel, professional organization and assistant superintendent for instruction.

Brand mistakes noted

At least two false statements printed in Tuesday's Brand deserve to be corrected.

In "Commissioners give more to center" on page 1, it was reported Property Enterprises has been handling Deaf Smith County's insurance matters for the last several years. Actually, Plains Insurance has that distinction.

Also on the front page, in "Top teacher named," it was stated Pat Ferguson was the Teacher of the Year nominee from Northwest Primary School. Selected instead was Nancy Ferguson, wife of realtor Pat Ferguson.

Urbanczyk shows champion

Chris Urbanczyk, son of Tony and Loretta Urbanczyk, exhibited the champion Simmental steer at the Wednesday through Sunday San Antonio Lavestock Exposition.

According to Brad Morrison, Deat Smith County extension agent, the animal was home-raised, is a Chi Cross Angus and weighs 1,250 pounds.

Urbanczyk is to fly back to San Antonio Thursday to sell his prize-winning steer at an auction. Morrison guessed $4,000 to $5,000 would be the going price.

Grand champion steer of the exposition was shown by a young girl from Stanton. It was a Mainanjou breed, according to Morrison, who added the reserve grand champion was a Limousin steer.

Joining Urbanczyk as Deaf Smith 4-H participants was Joni Hicks, who exhibited the third-place middleweight Polled Hereford. Jeremy Myers showed a Limousin breed which earned eighth place.

Morrison anticipates 25 area 4-Hers will attend the Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo, for which the youngsters would leave Feb. 25 and not return until March

For two days, Geter's lawyers have probed police proedure and retraced the trail of suspicion that led to the 5-year-old black engineer's arrest, identification in a Balch Springs armed robbery, conviction and life

Lucas secretly comes to El Paso

EL PASO, Texas (AP) - Law enforcement officials say a secret visit self-confessed mass murderer Henry Lee Lucas made to El Paso to lead police to two of his alleged victims' bodies has turned up nothing.

El Paso Sheriff's Capt. Alfred Bonilla said Lucas, 47, was flown into El Paso Monday about 11:30 a.m. "to show us where he had hidden these bodies."

However, at the two spots Lucas located, no bodies were found, Bonilla said.

Lucas, who says he is responsible for the slaying of more than 150 women nationwide, was taken back out of El Paso by two Texas Rangers Tuesday about 8 a.m.,

"He was returned to Georgetown, where he's being held right now," Bonilla said.

David has ulcer, can't eat

HOUSTON (AP) - Doctors treating David, the "bubble boy," have found he is suffering from an ulcer as well as the diarrhea and vomiting which have plagued him for weeks, a hospital spokeswoman says.

The 12-year-old, brought out of his sterile environment last week for the first time, was in "serious but stable" condition Tuesday, said Susannah Griffin, spokeswoman for Baylor College of Medicine.

The boy was also unable to eat Tuesday after several days of being able to take at least some food normally, Mrs. Griffin said. He was being fed intravenously.

Bleeding from the ulcer has been stopped, she said. David has been receiving blood transfusions as doctors searched for the source of his internal bleeding.

Secretary says what he thinks

WASHINGTON (AP) - Navy Secretary John Lehman, in hot water over his remarks about the U.S. shelling of Lebanon, is one of the most outspoken of the nation's civilian military chiefs even though his job is outside the chain of command and removed from operations and strategy.

The assertive, 41-year-old Lehman was prodded Tuesday, none too gently, into repudiating an earlier statement that conflicted with the Reagan administration's current policy line on using naval firepower in Lebanon.

Lehman had told reporters "there's very definitely been a shift in emphasis" to make clear the U.S. Navy will provide supporting fire to the tottering Lebanese government forces, not just for American Marines and the U.S. Embassy in Beirut.

Not so, retorted White House spokesman Larry Speakes. He contended U.S. Navy guns had been shooting at Syrian-controlled positions only to protect Americans in and around Beirut.

Under Salvadoran law, the five accused men can file a final appeal with the Supreme Court. Twice previously, appeals blocked the case from going to trial, and the delays have been widely criticized in the United States.

Earlier appeals centered on a defense claim that there are not enough witnesses to initiate a case under Salvadoran law.

Men have similar backgrounds

WASHINGTON (AP) The differences between Konstantin U. Chernenko and Ronald Wilson Reagan are as wide as the steppes of Russia.

When Chernenko, the new Soviet leader, berates Washington's "primitive anti-communism" he is talking about Reagan. When Reagan questions the Soviets' commitment to peace, he is referring to people like Chernenko.

And yet, there is much in the background of these leaders of the two superpowers to share.

It begins with their ages: both were born in 1911 -Reagan is seven months older - and both are the oldest to ever head their governments. It continues with their backgrounds: humble.

Reagan's father was a sometime shoe salesman and sometime alcoholic and young Ronald's childhood was one of constant moving and poverty. He remembers it as being happy.

And so it was with Chernenko, in Siberia.

Reagan's ideas of success are rooted in the Horatio Alger legend and so, in a way, are Chernenko's.

The New York Times observed that "woven through Mr. Chernenko's published thoughts is the belief that if he could make it through hard work and loyalty, others could too ... and a belief that ideology - if only it is properly served up should be capable of inspiring young Russians the way it inspired him."

Neither man had World War II combat experience, unusual for politicians of their generation. Reagan was in the service, but his bad eyesight caused him to fight the war in California as part of the Culver City Commandos, the first motion-picture unit of the Army Air Corps. Reagan turned to politics when his movie career turned sour, registering for the first time as a Republican in 1962 when he ended a stint as spokesman for General Electric. He was elected governor in 1966 and again in 1970.

According to the report, Texas has already suffered extensive cuts in federal aid over the past three years - of 50 percent in economic development assistance, 47 percent in bilingual education aid, 18 percent in energy conservation assistance and 50 percent in funds for job training for the unemployed.

However, under the proposed budget for next year, Texas would receive increased funding for Corps of Engineers water projects, primary and secondary education block grants and criminal justice assistance, the report said.

Following are some of the major areas where Texas is likely to feel the greatest impact of Reagan's budget proposal, according to the report:

- Elimination of Economic Development Administration programs, which help communities throughout Texas pay for local projects to reduce unemployment and weather economic hard times. Texas would receive nothing for the programs next year, compared with more than $12 million this

- A 54 percent reduction in money for Texas for the Soil Conservation Service's watershed and flood prevention program, which is intended to reduce erosion and improve land conservation. Texas would receive $8 million under the president's request, compared with more than $17 million this year.

- A 13 percent cut in funds for migrant education programs in Texas. About 100,000 students in Texas are currently served by the programs, which are designed to help children of migrant workers. The state's share of migrant education money would drop from $59 million to $51 million under the proposed budget.

 No expenditure next year of $30 million to help local school districts nationwide to educate alien children. The administration is also refusing the provide the money this year, even though Congress last year approved its expenditure. The administration contends Congress has yet to authorize establishment of a program through which the money can be spent, the report said.

- A 38 percent increase in Texas in money for elementary and secondary education block grants, from $28.2 million this year to $38.9 million next year. The funds, administered by the Texas Education Agency, are used for such activities as improving basic skills, helping the gifted and talented and providing emergency school aid for desegregation.

- A 12 percent increase in works projects by the Army Corps of Engineers, or $210 million compared with $188 million this year. Included are 39 flood control projects, 12 navigation projects and six flood damage prevention pro-

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I suggest you rethink your attitude toward fat people. You are far too generous. The truth is that they choose to be Consider, please, the problems of the spouse. I am married to a living breathing tub of lard. The only subject on which he can speak eloquently is "hunger." You and I both know he is not hungry. He just wants to eat AGAIN. The feelings he is experiencing are anger, frustration or boredom. Consequently, he is in no shape to deal with real problems such as a financial crisis or a sick child. I must do these things while Fatso eats.

Because of his obesity I am denied sex. I used to enjoy sitting on his lap. Now he has no lap. I can't even get a hug. His arms don't extend beyond his belly and I can't get close enough. This doesn't bother him at all because he has no energy for sex. It's all he can do to waddle from the dining room table to the big chair in the library and watch TV.

He drinks a six-pack of beer every night and eats potato chips by the hour. Before he turns in he is in the fridge looking for leftover dessert or ice cream.

The man weighed 185 in college and looked terrific. Today he refuses to get on a scale, but I'll bet he's over 250. He's 36-years old. I have no sympathy for him. He is fat because he'd rather eat than do anything else in the world.-Disgusted

DEAR ARIZONA: Your husband sounds like a compulsive eater - and this is not a matter of choice. He is out of control. Let's hope he gets sick of himself soon and gets professional help by joining Weight Watchers or Overeaters Anonymous. You can't do a thing for him. He must do this himself.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You have never been a waitress, or you would not have taken the side of the parents who wrote to complain about being barred from a restaurant because their child threw a spoon that missed a patron and hit the window. The owner had every right to tell them not to come in with the child ever again.

I have been a waitress for 22 years. The worst experiences I had were caused by children who were permitted to run wild while their parents sat unconcerned, as if they belonged to someone

One "family restaurant" I worked in closed down because they couldn't keep help. I quit after two weeks. Screaming kids ran into food carts and tackled waitresses carrying heavy trays. The yelling was unbelievable. After that experience I became a cocktail waitress. The hours were terrible, but there were no brats to put up with. Just sign me-Three Of My Own And Have Never Been Barred From Anyplace

DEAR NEVER: Many readers agreed with you. I was fascinated by the fact that almost all who wrote were waiters and waitresses.

I still feel the parents should have been given a second chance. To be barred from the best restaurant in a small town is pretty stiff punishment for a first offense. But I understand where you are coming from, and I thank you for writing.

Final home game

Herd beats Dons in overtime, 71-69

Sports Editor
The Hereford boys varsity basketball team broke a jinx game, 71-69, over Palo Duro

the year Tuesday.

The Herd had lost in overtime to Caprock, Coronado and Monterey earlier in the of sorts, as it won an overtime

The Whitefaces dominated High in its final home game of the first three quarters and even held a 17-point lead in the waning moments of the third period, 57-40. But HHS appeared to tire and allowed the Dons to catch up.

"I kind of had a feeling that was going to happen. We half, as good as we can play. There becomes a point where things are not going to fall and we start turning the ball over," an emotionallydrained HHS coach Bobby Decker said after the game.

Palo Duro coach Ed Smith said his Dons could have won the game if it were not for such a superb first-half effort by the Herd, who led 43-28 at halftime.

"If it hadn't been for that first half, I think we would have won the game. Our kids worked hard just to catch up. They started to get up their confidence down the stretch," Smith said.

"Hereford might have been a little tired in that final period but they had enough poise to win in overtime,"

HHS looked like a team vying for a playoff position as it came out gunning in the first

The Herd took a quick 12-2 lead after senior Jeff Streun and junior Lee Brockman each sank one of two free throws, Streun hit two buckets, then juniors Mike Scott, Sammy Suarez, and Kevin Redus each netted two points apiece.

The Whitefaces took a 15-point lead going into halftime after a jumper by senior Leonard Nikkel toward the end of the second period.

The Herd kept up the scoring pace and took a 57-44 lead into the final stanza.

HHS appeared to stray form its game plan in the

"What happened was the kids started thinking about it, (the lead) and were trying to protect it," instead of playing the kind of ball that got the Whitefaces the lead in the first place, Decker explained.

The result was a number of HHS turnovers against the Don press. Palo Duro's junior guard Ronnie Stiger also caught fire and hit for 10 points in the fourth period.

The Dons took the lead on a Stiger jumper with 1:01 left in regulation time, 63-62. Brockman was then fouled and hit one of two free throws to knot the game at 63.

Palo Duro called time with 53 seconds remaining in the fourth quarter and tried to work for the last shot but threw the ball away with 17 seconds left.

HHS then threw the ball away but the Dons could not get a shot off and the game went into overtime.

With the score deadlocked at 67-67, Brockman hit two free throws, and moments later Streun was fouled and hit two more to give the Herd a 71-67 advantage with 33 seconds remaining in over-

Stiger hit a jumper with one second left to pull the Dons within two, but time expired on the inbounds pass.

The win lifts the Whitefaces' season won-lost record to 8-17 and 4-11 in District 3-5A competition. Palo Duro falls to 8-7 in the district and 14-14 overall.

Houston falls to Pistons Thomas, 126-119

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ AP Sports Writer

HOUSTON (AP) - It became obvious early that the Houston Rockets' best chance to defeat Detroit was to stop Isiah Thomas.

It also became obvious almost as early Tuesday night that the Rockets could not stop Thomas with a bulldozer.

He drove the lane and popped in baskets from the outside to score 39 points - including 17 in the fourth guarter — to lead the Pistons to a 126-119 National Basketball Association victory.

"We didn't give him all those points, he got a lot of them with us doing a good job on him," Rockets Coach Bill Fitch said. "He's just a helluva shooter and he's only going to get better."

Thomas' shooting clinic, plus supporting efforts by Terry Tyler and Kelly Tripucka, enabled the Pistons to even their record at 1-1 on the current road trip and dulled several outstanding individual performances by the Rockets.

"My shot was falling, but most important tonight was Kelly Tripucka," Thomas "When he's able to score a little bit, it opens a lot of things up for me."

Tripucka scored 21 points for the Pistons while Bill Laimbeer hit 18 and John Thomas made the big plays in the final minutes that kept the Rockets from getting into the game.

He drove for a layup with 48 seconds left in the game and added a free throw to give the Pistons a five-point lead after the Rockets had closed within two points on back-to-back baskets by Allen Leavell.

A pair of free throws by Thomas with 15 seconds to play expanded on another two-point lead.

Elvin Hayes rolled back the years for a season-high 21-point performance for the Rockets while Phil Ford turned in a season-high 18 points. Allen Leavell and Caldwell Jones each added 18 points and Lewis Lloyd had 12.

"Isiah's a great player," Laimbeer said. "In the second half, he just took over. He made all the shots, all the passes, all the steals. He handles the ball very well. He's been so phenomenal lately. I can't say enough about him."

Houston made its only challenge in the third quarter when Hayes scored 12 of his points and Ford hit a 60-foot three-pointer at the buzzer for a 92-88 lead going into the fourth quarter.

But the Pistons regained the lead by outscoring the Rocket 9-0 to open the quarter with Tyler hitting seven of

Doctor advises

Leonard should not fight

By SUSAN ESSOYAN Associated Press Writer

BOSTON (AP) — Sugar Ray Leonard would be wise not to fight again, in the opinion of the doctor who performed preventive surgery on the former welterweight champion's right eye.

Dr. Edward Ryan said Tuesday, however, that while he didn't believe it was a good idea for Leonard to resume his boxing career, there was no medical reason to prevent him from doing so.

"I wouldn't recommend that he fight, but if the eye heals up properly I could not prevent him from fighting" said Ryan, a retinal specialist at the Massachusetts Eye and Ear Infirmary.

Ryan operated on Leonard Monday after a checkup showed the retina in his right eye was becoming loose.

Ryan said the routine procedure involved freezing part of the eye to form scar tissue that would make the retina adhere better. The surgery, performed under local anesthesia, took five or six Leonard had an operation on May 9, 1982, to repair a partially detached retina in his left eye, and he retired from boxing the following November. He announced his comeback last December.

The latest problem has caused an indefinite postponement of what was to have been Leonard's first comeback fight — on Feb. 25 against Kevin Howard in Worcester, Mass.

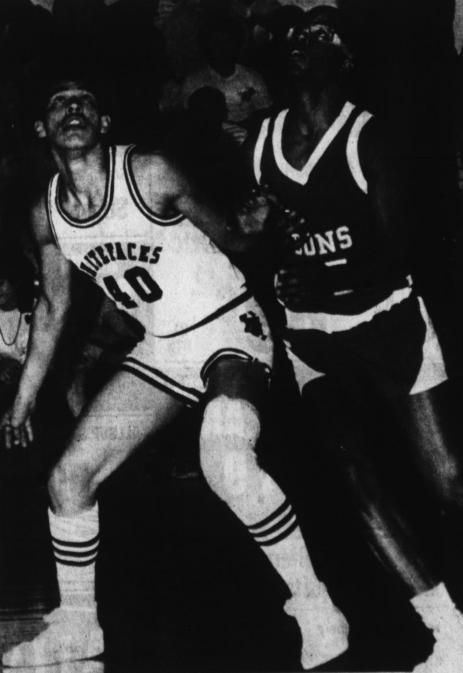

Ryan said Leonard, 27, will have to take it easy for two weeks to allow his right eye to heal before he can start training for the Howard match.

"Sugar Ray tolerated the procedure very well," said Ryan, who had never examined the boxer before. "His eye will be a little sore."

Ryan said Leonard's left eye is fine but noted that without the surgery in his right eye, the boxer could not have fought safely against

"There could have been further damage," Ryan said. "We decided right away that he should not fight."

Leonard was resting in the Washington area, and the secretary of Mike Trainer, the fighter's attorney, said there would be no statement until the end of the week and no news conference was Stormie Jones of Cumby, Texas, was moved into an isolated room in the hospital's intensive care unit after the operation ended Tuesday morning. She was listed in critical but stable condition today, considered normal for recent transplant patients.

Donnie Millsap, 25, Mrs. Jones' fiance.

Dr. Thomas Starzl, the "She seems to be doing bet-ter than other liver headed the surgery along with heart transplant surgeon Dr. Henry T. Bahnson, hailed the operation as a milestone.

"It's a very important case, of course for the child, but also in that the amount of information that will be obtained from that kind of situation is really overwhelming," Starzl said in an interview at his Pittsburgh home following the operation. Mrs. Jones, who has not yet learned whether her insurance will cover the costly operation, came to Pittsburgh with Stormie 11/2 months ago to await a compatible donor. Stormie's sister, 9-year-old Misty, is staying with relatives back home, where residents have raised $7,000 for the family. Liver transplants alone average at least $70,000.

Recently Stormie made a red-and-beige valentine for her mother and pasted her own photograph on it. In the picture, she is holding a cake that reads "I love Mom."

It's the time of year when the nation's cattlemen need to put up their guard against a pest that annually pilfers their pocketbooks of $100

Lice are the culprits, and they begin to reproduce rapidly with the onset of cool weather. They reach peak populations in late winter and early spring.
Uncontrolled, lice can soon infest a whole herd. Because with cold weather, cattle tend to bunch up more and the pests can easily move from one animal to another. Heavy hair coats on animals during cold weather also afford protection for the parasites and allow increased reproduc-

Costs to the cattlemanboth in control efforts and dramatic production lossesincrease as lice populations build.

There are two types of licebloodsucking and biting-and both infest cattle. Sucking lice pierce the animal's skin and suck blood while biting lice feed on particles of hair, scale, scab and skin

Lice infestations irritate animals, causing itching, scratching and rubbing on fences or anything else available. This produces denuded areas, bruises and lacerations on the affected animal. Heavily infested animals will have an unthrifty appearance and will suffer even death. Lice infested animals may also be more subject to respiratiory diseases such as pneumonia. Heavy lice infestations often stunt calves. Undernourished cattle of any age usually have the heaviest weight reduction, decreased milk production, anemia or

Some cattle appear to be psyciologically more susceptible to lice than others and thus have higher pest populations. Such animals are called "chronics" or "carriers" and are usually instrumental in reinfesting the herd annually in spite of repeated insecticide treatments. Culling "carrier" animals is a helpful management practice in reducing lice problems. Insecticide control of lice is not difficult to achieve but there are some problems. Most insecticides don't kill eggs; therefore, retreatment is required in two to three weeks to prevent another buildup. However, if the initial treatment comes late enough in the season, there may not be enough time for lice to build to economic levels again before warm spring weather.

Spraying and dipping infested animals with proper insecticides is an effective means of controlling lice. However, control measures are usually required when winter conditions are most harsh-a time when cold stress is a good possibility and respiratory diseases prevalent. Some of this problem can be prevented by treating animals on a day when they can be dry before sundown.

Pour-on and spot-on grubicides labeled for lice are effective and considerably reduce the problem of cold stress associated with dips and sprays. However, the possibility of a host-parasite reaction is always a threat if the material is applied after the cut-off date for grub con-

Systemic grubicides labeled for lice control usually recommend a lower rate than that to control grubs, which would help reduce the hostparasite reaction.

Use of nonsystemic dust applied by hand or in dustbags would eliminate the possibility of host-parasite reaction. But because of a lack of penetration of heavy hair coats, dusts do not provide as effective lice control as dips or sprays.

Self-treatment devices. backrubbers and dustbags, properly placed and maintained in a preventive program offer effective lice control. These devices should be placed early in the fall prior to lice buildup in order that cattle will become accustomed to using them. They should be placed in areas that cattle frequently use or placed in such a manner that cattle are forced to use them.

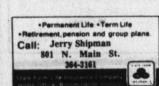

The spot-on formulation of chlorpyrifos is a product that has been effective against lice. The product kills all stages of lice eggs, nymphs and adults. One application is adequate for season-long control if the entire herd is treated and no untreated animals are later introduced into the herd.

Only a small amount of the material is required, thus eliminating cold stress from soaking animals with sprays and dips. The insecticide is not a grubicide, so it can be used anytime without fear of a host-parasite reaction. However, this product is not labeled for dairy animals, bulls over 8 months, or purebred exotic breeds.

Whichever lice control program is used, the cattleman should be certain to read label directions and pay particular attention to warnings, restrictions and preslaughter intervals.

Additional information on control of lice and other external parasites of cattle is available in the publication, 'Suggestions for Controlling External Parasites of Livestock and Poultry," at the county extension office.

The first dynasty of China, the Hsia, reigned from approximately 2000 B.C. to 1500 B.C.

Changes seen in grain market

WASHINGTON (AP) -With U.S. feed stocks reduced sharply because of last year's drought and acreage controls, the world grain situation is assuming even greater importance for American farmers.

The Agriculture Department says there have been "significant changes" in the global outlook in just the past month for coarse grains, which include corn, sorghum and other U.S. feed grains.

Of major concern are crops in the Southern Hemisphere, where the peak summer growing season is well under

"Deteriorating crop prospects in some Southern Hemisphere producing countries has focused attention again on the extreme swings in yield and production characterizing the region and the significant impact on world grain trade," the department's Foreign Agricultural Service said

In Argentina, a competitor of the United States in major grain markets, the production of coarse grains, mostly corn and sorghum, is estimated at 19.1 million metric tons, the most since the 1980-81 harvest of 21 million tons.

The larger Argentine prospects - up half a million tons since last month - mean a greater availability of grain for export.

"On the other hand, prospects for the South African corn crop have rapidly deteriorated with hot, dry weather this month and further deterioration likely if rains do not arrive soon," the report said.

The forecast for South Africa's corn harvest is now about 6.5 million tons and could drop to last season's drought-reduced level of just under 4 million tons if there is no quick relief.

"The current forecast virtually eliminates South African corn exports, with the exception of some small exports to surrounding areas" and could lead to substantial increases in the country's import requirement, the report said.

On a global basis, coarse grain production in the international marketing year that ends on June 30 is estimated at 686.8 million metric tons, down 12 percent from a record 783 million tons in 1982-83.

Much of that was due to the decline in U.S. production, which was put at 138 million metric tons or about 20 percent of the world total.

farmer, was first-place winner in the legume division of the State Hay Show held at the Sheraton Crown Hotel in Houston on Jan. 24.

The show, sponsored by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, was one of the largest ever with a total of 320 entries from throughout Berend's alfalfa entry won the first place award over 40 other entries. The alfalfa had a protein of 25 percent which translated to a score of 100 points. The entry received a physical score of 96.5 out of a possible 100 points.

Don Dorsett, state extension forage specialist and coordinator of the 1984 Hay

Ray Berend, a Hereford Show, explained, "the physical score given by the judges was based on the size of stems and the quantity and quality of leaf material that does not shatter." He went on to say that the smaller the stems the higher the score.

Dorsett stated that the quality of the 1984 show was the best in years with 80 percent of the 320 entries receiving blue ribbons. He went on to say that this was a good indication that people were harvesting and selling better quality forages in Texas.

Berends received a placque and a cash award from Bill Lyles of George Warner Seed Company of Hereford sponsors of the 1984 State Hay so that it's easier to stretch.

The kind of stretching you do is important. The long, slow stretch that stretches the muscles to their full length without pain is the one you should use. Once you have reached the maximum amount of stretch, hold it for 30 seconds. Warm ligaments and tendons stretched in this manner will lengthen prop-

SUGARITE SKI BASIN on Waltons Mountain

Nestled in a picturesque canyon that our family homesteaded back in 1903. Sugarite is truly a pleasant departure from the pace with, among other things-17 trails, a certified ski school. a top of the line rental equip-ment shop and a KinderSki Program for the wee ones.

We've found a home here on the mountain. This winter, let it be yours.
