HISD defers decision on detention center funding

By GARRY WESNER
Managing Editor

The Hereford Independent School District board of trustees put off a decision Tuesday on funding for a juvenile detention facility, postponing consideration of the matter until a last-day budget meeting next week.

Juvenile probation officer Lou Serrano had asked the district for $32,000 this year, which would cover the district's portion of funding the office and add another $8,000 to build a detention home here.

Serrano said when the juvenile office and its advisory juvenile board were formed in 1980, the city, county and school district agreed to split all funding evenly, with the exception of transportation and housing, which would be paid by the county.

However, since then, federal law has changed to prohibit the housing of juvenile in the county jail and the county has had to pay to transport juvenile lawbreakers to detention facilities as far away as Lubbock.

As a result, the juvenile probation department exceeded its transportation budget by $30,000 this fiscal year.

Serrano said several local alternatives were discussed, with the juvenile board settling for building a home-based facility here, which would house up to 10 youth and would house the juvenile probation office.

The $8,000 is needed to add an 800-square-foot office to a house already owned by the county, Serrano said.

Much of that construction will be done by jail inmates, he said, which will lower building costs.

However, board president Ron Weishaar questioned the school district picking up part of the tab for housing juvenile offenders.

"I don't know if it's the responsibility of the school district," Weishaar said. "We're responsible for education, not housing."

Serrano said if the facility is opened, the district would need to provide someone to go to the lock-up and teach inmates, rather than allowing them to be released to the regular schools for class.

Corky Lockmiller, assistant superintendent for education support services, said using the district's homebound program for the incarcerated students would involve several faculty members.

He said in that program, the regular teacher puts together class work, then delivers it to the home-bound teacher to take to the student.

However, said superintendent Charles W. Greenawalt, having those students enrolled in HISD would count toward state funding for the district, which is based on the number of students.

No decision was made on the request.

Trustees will consider it at a special meeting set for 6 p.m. Tuesday, Aug. 31, when they meet to give final consideration to the 1993-94 fiscal year budget.

Greenawalt told trustees that the only change in the budget is that the state has informed the district that it will receive $27,000 less revenue than anticipated.

He said because of the new state education funding law, the district has not received any final funding figures from the state.

However, the most recent numbers presented are considered "preliminary final" figures.

The board is required by law to have a budget approved by Aug. 31, in order to begin operating under it the next day.

In an item that was added to the agenda as an amendment, Weishaar called for the district to look into charging Walcott ISD students to attend junior high and high school here.

Weishaar said Walcott is a separate taxing entity that operates a school through sixth grade.

After that, the students transfer to Hereford ISD for junior and senior high.

In the past, Weishaar said, because of the County Education District, "we've kind of overlooked the expense of these kids."

However, with the CEDs eliminated in the new school funding law, Weishaar said, some sort of financial arrangement needs to be made.

Greenawalt said it costs $3,952 per student to educate secondary education youth.

The district receives $2,895 per student in state funds, which leaves about $1,050 for the HISD to absorb in costs for the Walcott students.

Executive secretary Carolyn Hiltbrunner said 16 students are attending Hereford schools from Walcott this year.

Greenawalt said districts may charge tuition for out-of-district students to attend school, citing the Bushland ISD, which pays Amarillo $1 million per year to send their high school students to Amarillo.

Weishaar said the problem is that HISD and WISD are offering grades K through six, but that "we're absorbing the most expensive part in the last six years" and that is isn't quite right.

Weishaar said he brought up the situation to get trustees thinking about it and that action would be taken during the regular Sept. 28 board meeting.

Greenawalt said that would give him time to notify Walcott ISD Superintendent Bill McLaughlin that the district is considering the matter.

Gen. Slobodan Prljak, deputy head of the Bosnian Croat army, told the AP's bureau in Zagreb, Croatia, by telephone that he "had information" the Muslims had rejected the cease-fire. But there was no such indication from the Muslims.

That would be the first substantial amount of aid to reach the Muslims since the Croat siege of the city began two months ago. Another 50 tons is earmarked for the Croat sector, across the river from the Muslims.

Early today, the U.S. Air Force made its first airdrop of food into Mostar, an expansion of its six-month-old program of airdropping food and supplies into Bosnian areas under attack.

Two Air Force C-130 cargo planes flew from Rhein-Main Air Base in Germany to drop more than 13,400 military rations - known as meals ready-to-eat - into the city, U.S. military officials said in a statement.

Thornberry said the Croats also agreed to an exchange of bodies and to a truce. There were no reports of Muslim-Croat clashes after the cease-fire took effect around midday Tuesday, but dozens of cease-fire accords have been violated in the 17-month-long war that has left up to 200,000 missing or dead.

Gen. Slobodan Prljak, deputy head of the Bosnian Croat army, told the AP's bureau in Zagreb, Croatia, by telephone that he "had information" the Muslims had rejected the cease-fire. But there was no such indication from the Muslims.

Despite a Bosnian cease-fire signed Aug. 11 and last week's peace talks in Geneva, sporadic fighting was reported across Bosnia on Tuesday, and the Muslim-led government ordered all conscripts to report for military duty.

The Croats had backtracked for days on promises to let the convoy into Mostar. It was stuck Tuesday in this Bosnian Croat stronghold, 12 miles south of Mostar.

Sturgeon given prison term in district court

A five-year prison term has been assessed a defendant on revocation of probation given in a 1987 burglary.

During the 22nd District Court session Monday, Willie Sturgeon was sentenced to serve the term in the Texas Department of Criminal Justice institutional division. The original sentence was six years.

Mrs. Nolen will remain on the board while working as interim director, Hatley said.

The United Way is set to kick off its 1993 fundraising campaign at the Sept. 16 Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce Fun Breakfast.

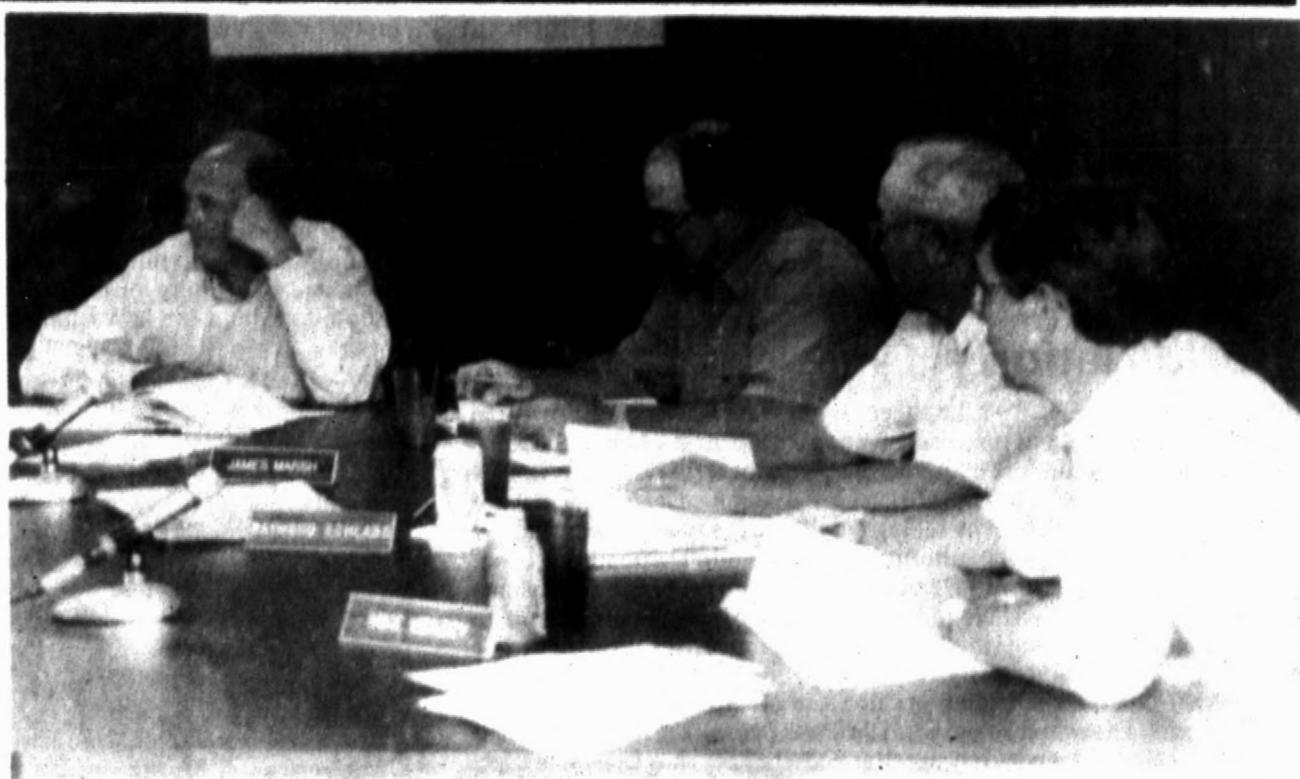

The campaign will last at least six weeks, which means it will be at least October or November before a search for Brooks' permanent replacement can begin.

In addition, Hatley said, the board is faced with replacing some of its members and is seeking volunteers for this year's campaign.

Hatley said a volunteer training session will be held at 6:30 p.m. Thursday in the Community Center.

HISD trustees listen to a report during their meeting Tuesday night. Among items discussed by the trustees was their decision last week to abandon negotiations to purchase the former Smith building. Trustee Mike Veazey, right, said he supports purchase of the facility, but made the motion to drop the issue on Aug. 16 after negative input from members of the public and from the board. The board also heard a request from county Juvenile Probation Officer Lou Serrano for $32,000 from the district to fund office activities and construction of a detention facility here. Action on the request was deferred to an Aug. 31 meeting. Shown with Veazey are, from left, board president Ron Weishaar, James Marsh and Raymond Schlabs. Other trustees are Raul Valdez, Joe Flood and Steve Wright.

School trustees to look at building purchase again

By GARRY WESNER
Managing Editor

It was not on the agenda for formal discussion, but Hereford Independent School District trustees spent time Tuesday defending their decision to abandon negotiations to purchase the Smith building.

They then agreed informally to place the item on their next regular meeting agenda to reconsider the matter.

The informal discussion began during the public comment portion of the board's meeting when radio newsman Chip Formby asked the board to reconsider its decision not to purchase the building.

Trustees met on Aug. 16 and toured the 50,000-square-foot facility, which they have offered to purchase from Furr's Inc. for $500,000.

They met in a closed session from 9:30 p.m. Monday until 12:30 a.m. Tuesday, finally voting to call off the whole deal.

Trustee Mike Veazey said he was the one to make the motion that passed, even though he supports purchase of the building.

In his remarks, Formby said that a couple of weeks ago, when it became public that the district was considering the purchase, "I was kind of surprised by some of the meanness and viciousness" behind public comments regarding the purchase.

He said people were saying the building would cost $1 million, that taxes would be increased to fund the purchase and that additional administrators would be hired so the district could "set up their own private little fiefdom over there."

"I think the process you all went through to drop consideration of the building was ... not in a good atmosphere," Formby said. "I felt like the board was pressured" to act the way they did.

Board president Ron Weishaar admitted that "I really wasn't too happy the way we handled it," adding that the board did not try to keep their decision out of the public eye, just that the vote was taken after all public and media representatives had left.

"I was in favor of the Smith building," Weishaar said, saying the timing was right to make the purchase, the money was there and "I also felt the value was definitely there."

Weishaar said the final vote to abandon the talks was 4-3.

Trustee Joe Flood amended that, reading from the minutes that the vote was 4-2-1, with one abstention.

Flood said he abstained from voting because the initial negotiations were made by a board on which he did not serve.

Flood said there were questions in his mind about the purchase. He did not elaborate on those questions at Tuesday's meeting.

He said he abstained until "some of the missing pieces could be put in."

Veazey agreed with Formby about the mood of the community prior to the Aug. 16 vote.

"The atmosphere in this town is totally different" since the vote was before, Veazey said.

Veazey said he made the motion to abandon the deal when, during discussion with board members, he realized there was no support on the board to buy it.

Trustee Raymond Schlabs agreed with Veazey that the purchase "is a good thing."

"I still think it is a good buy," he said, adding that he has had several telephone calls since the vote urging him to reconsider.

Trustee Jim Marsh said he opposed the purchase because some costs involved had not been figured.

Spending $500,000 for the building "may have been a good price for the school if we had been fixing to go out and build one," he said.

However, costs for moving into the building and renovating the current central office and second floor of the Stanton Educational Support Center into classroom space were not figured.

No costs for utilities in the new building were calculated, either, he said.

"Somewhere down the road, that money's going to be used for something," he said.

Trustee Raul Valdez said his concern with the purchase was how it would benefit the education of children.

Veazey then asked that it be placed on the Aug. 31 special meeting agenda, which Marsh disagreed with, saying that session should be devoted to the budget.

Veazey and Schlabs then said the matter could be discussed at the regular September board meeting, which is scheduled for Sept. 28.

He said that as members of the school board, trustees must vote the way people in their districts feel.

"Personally, the deal sounds good," he said, but he had to consider the needs of the school children.

Trustee Steve Wright said the price is good, but that HISD would lose $16,000 a year in tax income generated by the building if it were bought by the district.

Also, he said, trustees last year climbed up onto the roofs of all district schools, examine the condition of them. They also toured the second floor of Hereford High School, feeling for themselves how hot the building gets without air conditioning.

"It became quite evident to some of us we need to get the learning environment a little more in line for our children," Wright said. "Although I believe purchase of the Smith building would be an excellent move, we need to take care of the learning environment."

Veazey made a motion that the district reopen negotiations, but Superintendent Charles W. Greenawalt cautioned Veazey that the action could not be taken since the discussion had not been on the agenda.

Veazey then asked that it be placed on the Aug. 31 special meeting agenda, which Marsh disagreed with, saying that session should be devoted to the budget.

Veazey and Schlabs then said the matter could be discussed at the regular September board meeting, which is scheduled for Sept. 28.

He said that as members of the school board, trustees must vote the way people in their districts feel.

Attorney General Dan Morales in July issued a legal opinion that he said would avoid the specter of mass resignations while supporting lawmakers' efforts to beef up the conflict-of-interest prohibition.

But the Texas Association of School Boards, which is backing the board members' lawsuit, said that the lack of a definition of "significant interest" in the law made it impossible for Morales to resolve the issue.

"A school board has no way of knowing for certain whether an interest is 'significant' under this law," said Frank Battle, legislative counsel for the association.

Ron Dusek, Morales' spokesman, said the attorney general had hoped his opinion would clarify any questions about the law.

"Now that there has been a lawsuit filed, our attorneys will have to defend that law as recently interpreted by the attorney general's office," he said.

Vacation provides time 'to rest brain'

Clinton gets needed break from problems of world

By NANCY BENAC
Associated Press Writer

EDGARTOWN, Mass. (AP) - The headlines are relentless: more bloodshed in Bosnia, the killing of Americans in Somalia, and Russia and Lithuania once again at loggerheads. Not to mention the latest embarrassments for the U.S. space program.

On and on the world turns, sending a never-ending stream of crises to the threshold of the White House.

And, perhaps, all the more reason for the still-new president to take some time off. Time to think, or, just as important, not to think.

"One of the things you miss in the minute-to-minute life in Washington is time to reflect," says Press Secretary Dee Dee Myers. "One of the things a vacation allows you is time to think ... but I think he's trying to give his brain a rest."

Historian and Pulitzer Prize-winning author David McCullough, a year-round resident of Martha's Vineyard, seconds that thought.

"I think he's getting a very needed break," McCullough said of Clinton, whom he has visited with the last three days. "And I think time in the mountains, or time at the ocean, or time off in some wonderful wilderness also helps put things in proportion."

The daily newspapers offer Clinton a stark reminder of what's ahead. Questions shouted to him at the golf course invoke the unrest in Somalia. Briefing papers from his national security staff chronicle the latest developments in Bosnia.

This week brought the resignation of yet another State Department official disillusioned and disappointed with U.S. policy on Bosnia, where bloodshed and ethnic hatred continue at the boiling point.

Three times this month, American soldiers have come under attack in Somalia. Another 400 troops - elite Rangers trained at ferreting out elusive command posts - are now scheduled to join them.

Even in outer space there are problems: NASA lost contact with the $980 million Mars Observer this week just as it was about to begin a lengthy orbit around the red planet. Closer to home, a new weather satellite also apparently failed last week.

Back on Earth, there are big challenges ahead on Clinton's domestic agenda as well, particularly with the health-care reform plan that he hopes to make the centerpiece of his presidency. The very foundation of the plan - requiring employers to provide their workers with health coverage and pick up most of the tab

- is under attack from Republican critics.

Clinton faces an uphill battle, as well, in getting the North American Free Trade Agreement past considerable opposition from congressional Democrats attuned to the complaints of organized labor.

Thomas Mann, a scholar of government at the Brookings Institution, said Clinton's 11-day retreat at Martha's Vineyard may be just the tonic to help him put all these problems in perspective.

"It's easy to see all of these problems and all of these daunting obstacles and say it's so hopeless, it's so awful," Mann said. "But the fact is, there are no immediate solutions to any of these problems. And the beauty of democracy is that we just keep working at them and there's something to be gained from that effort."

CIA memo relates psychiatric record of Kennedy killer

By JOHN DIAMOND
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - Lee Harvey Oswald fantasized about killing people even as a teen-ager, according to newly released documents.

A CIA memo written four months after President Kennedy was assassinated in Dallas describes the assassin's psychiatric history.

"It is abundantly clear from all the materials reviewed that Lee Oswald was psychiatrically disturbed from his earliest youth," Arthur Dooley wrote in the memo dated March 20, 1964.

By that time, investigators into the JFK killing were zeroing in on Oswald as the lone assassin. "All available evidence points to a solitary act of a mentally unstable person."

Dooley had access to secret material, including transcripts of a psychiatrist's examination of Oswald at age 13.

"That he had a compulsive urge to kill people at times showed its beginnings in the aforementioned psychiatric reports in which he acknowledged fantasies about being all-powerful and being able to do anything he wanted," Dooley wrote. "When asked if this ever involved hurting and killing people, he said that it did on occasions."

The memo says that when Oswald's mother received the diagnosis that Oswald was suffering "serious personality damage," she ignored it.

Also among the stacks of documents released Monday at the National Archives were grisly photographs taken at Oswald's autopsy after he was shot in the basement of the Dallas jail by Jack Ruby days after the assassination.

The photographs reveal scars on Oswald's left wrist that, according to the documents, resulted from a suicide attempt in 1959 shortly after Oswald defected to the Soviet Union.

Other documents that are part of the 300-plus boxes of CIA material included a letter purportedly from a Cuban to Oswald 12 days before the assassination praising his marksmanship.

Addressed to "Friend Lee," the letter was written in Spanish and signed by someone calling himself "Pedro Charles."

"You ought to close the business as soon as possible, like I told you before in Miami," the letter states according to the CIA's translation. "Do not be foolish with the money I gave you. ... After the affair I am going to recommend much to the Chief."

The writer says he told the unidentified "chief" that Oswald "could put out a candle at 50 meters."

The CIA memo questions the letter's veracity, noting that it is postmarked Nov. 28, 1963, six days after the assassination. The memo notes that the type face and handwriting match that of another letter also postmarked from Havana, Cuba, on Nov. 28 and addressed to then-Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy, the slain president's brother. The text of the letter to RFK was not included in the memo.

Assassination experts said the letter may have been a fake, perhaps designed to falsely implicate the Castro regime in the assassination.

"I suspect it's a fabrication or something that could have been used to set up Oswald," said James Lesar, director of the Assassination Archives and Research Center, a private, Washington-based trove of assassination records.

Gaeton Fonzi, a staff member of two congressional investigations into the Kennedy assassination, said the letter was probably connected to an elaborate misinformation campaign directed by "assets" of the CIA and designed to discredit Castro.

Don Cumpton, left, is presented a certificate and box of golf balls by school board president Ron Weishaar during Tuesday's board meeting. Cumpton was honored as August Employee of the Month for his efforts at getting Hereford High School ready for school to start despite ongoing construction on a heating and air conditioning system.

LOS ANGELES (AP) - The child sex-abuse investigation of Michael Jackson began after a 13-year-old told a therapist the pop star fondled him, a source says.

Jackson, in Thailand to launch a world tour Tuesday, denied any wrongdoing.

Police have refused to comment on the case except to say that an investigation of the 34-year-old singer began Aug. 17. Investigators with the county Department of Children's Services also refused to comment.

But the source who saw confidential police documents told The Associated Press that the investigation began after the son of a Beverly Hills dentist told his therapist that Jackson sexually abused him.

The source also said police seized photos and videotapes in a search over the weekend of Jackson's Century City condominium and Neverland ranch.

Anthony Pellicano, Jackson's security consultant, said the allegations followed a failed attempt to blackmail the singer for $20 million.

"I am confident the department will conduct a fair and thorough investigation and its results will demonstrate that there was no wrongdoing on my part," Jackson said in a statement read by his lawyer, Howard Weitzman.

In another development, KCAL-TV reported that court documents show the boy's father, who is a second concert in Bangkok, Thailand, today before traveling to Singapore, Taiwan, Japan, Moscow, Israel, Turkey and the Canary Islands. In his statement, he vowed to continue the tour.

"I am grateful for the overwhelming support of my fans throughout the world. I love you all. Thank you, Michael," he said.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am on vacation, but I have left behind some of my favorite columns that you may have missed the first time around. I hope you enjoy them.--Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband and I have been married for 61 years. We had a good marriage--not without problems, but it was solid, and there were more good times than bad.

Two months ago, John (not his real name) suffered a massive heart attack. For several days, he hovered between life and death. The priest was called to give the last rites. That same night, John said he had something he wanted to tell me. He then confessed an affair he had had during World War II. He was 23 years old at the time, and we had been married only 15 months. Although he saw the girl only twice, hearing about it broke my heart.

John made a miraculous recovery and is now gardening as I write this letter. Whenever I look at him, I think of his unfaithfulness, and it makes me sad. Please tell people not to make death-bed confessions. They might get well.--Know Too much

DEAR MUCH: Such confessions (even made in good health) may be therapeutic for the confessor, but they seldom help the one who has to listen. My advice for people who want to clear their consciences is tell it to a clergymen.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: The problem's my husband, "Chester." He used to be the nicest guy in the world, he would take me anywhere, do anything I wanted to do and buy me little gifts for no special reason. The past two months or so, he's been a changed person, and I can't figure him out.

If I ask a simple question, like "How's your brother?" Chester jumps down my throat and says, "If you want to have an affair with him, I'll arrange it." (His brother has been happily married for 10 years).

He tells me to get out of his house if I don't like the way he acts because he paid for the house and it's his.

Five minutes later, he's crying his eyes out, telling me he's sorry and begging me to forgive him.

When I'm sick, he gets mad because I can't cook for him. He says I have no right to be sick because he "works all week." What kind of reasoning is that?

This morning after Chester went to work, I sat down and cried. I love my husband very much and do everything I can to please him, but lately, it just isn't enough. Please help me.--Red-Eyed in Riverside

DEAR RED: Chester's problem is either physical or emotional. In any event, he should be examined, first by a neurologist to rule out a small stroke, tumor or other factors that could produce personality changes.

If he's OK physically, he should talk to a counselor and find out why his behavior is so erratic. If you have noticed it, others have, too. The poor guy needs help.

DEAR ANN: Since a great many people treat dogs like humans--they teach them to sit up, speak, play ball, fetch slippers, guard stores, lead the blind, play dead, beg for their supper and do any number of tricks--why can't they teach them to use the bathroom? It certainly would make a lot more sense than ticketing citizens who refuse to follow their pets around with those silly superduper pooper scoopers.--Mad in Chicago

DEAR MAD: Your idea is not as crazy as some people might think. In fact, a Long Island woman did just that. And guess where she lived? So help me -- in Flushing!

Cross-age tutoring a success

CLEMSON, S.C. (AP) - School children in South Carolina have improved their reading and writing skills by teaching one another.

Older students teach younger ones in the South Carolina Cross-Age Tutoring Project, and both age groups learn more, says Elspeth Stuckey of Clemson University, the project director.

About 40 schools in the state participate with students from kindergarten through the 12th grade. Formal tutoring goes on during the school week, and the older students keep journals and correspond with each other and outside coordinators to report their progress.

"By its very nature, cross-age tutoring incorporates mechanisms of self-assessment--the letters, journals and reports students write. But beyond that, the documents the students produce defy the notion that students cannot or will not write. They write voluminously and often when they have a purpose," says Stuckey.

"We see writing that reflects simplicity or sophistication, that conveys clear, powerful messages."

Stuckey says the communication builds bonds of trust and confidence.

"Once they begin to trust each other, they can begin to see that they can trust others outside the system. And their sense of being needed, of having something of value to offer others--self-esteem, in other words--emerges in their work and their behavior."

The program is being expanded to other states--Maine, Idaho, Vermont, Massachusetts, New Jersey and Mississippi--with Stuckey as national coordinator-consultant. The South Carolina program is funded by the Bingham Trust and affiliated with REACH (Rural Education Alliance for Collaborative Humanities).

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Actress Joan Collins claimed victory after settling a $20 million lawsuit against The Globe tabloid for publishing revealing photos of her with a boyfriend.

"Everybody is entitled to their privacy," the 58-year-old former star of the steamy TV soap opera "Dynasty" said Thursday at a news conference at her home.

"If a non-invited person comes in and intrudes on you, I think you have the right to say, 'Hey, this is wrong and I'm going to do something about it and make sure it doesn't happen again.'

The settlement came as jury selection was set to begin for the libel and invasion of privacy suit.

Terms of the settlement were confidential.

The lawsuit was filed two years ago after The Globe published photographs in which the actress, apparently topless, was seen with her 32-year-old boyfriend in the back yard and bedroom of her French villa.

Globe attorney Anthony M. Glassman said the tabloid did not admit any wrongdoing and was happy with the settlement.

Spikers whip Monterey, Brownfield

The Hereford volleyball team picked up a pair of wins Tuesday in Brownfield, beating both the host team and Monterey.

Hereford, now 6-1, beat Monterey 15-0, 15-11.

"In the first game, Monterey made a lot of unforced errors," Hereford coach Brenda Reeh said. "I'd like to say we made all our points, but Monterey made a lot of unforced errors. In the second game, we overcame a 9-0 deficit. That was the first time this year the kids had to deal with beating someone badly and then keeping the intensity level up. We didn't do that."

Hereford beat Brownfield 15-12, 15-10 in a match that went back and forth, Reeh said, with Hereford failing to score on too many rotations.

No statistics were available for either match.

Hereford's junior varsity also picked up two wins in Brownfield: 15-4, 15-9 over Brownfield and 15-4, 15-3 over Monterey. In one of the Monterey games, Jennifer Rampley served for 13 points, Reeh said.

Hereford's freshmen A team played just one match, but won it 15-12, 7-15, 15-12 at Brownfield. Shawna DonJuan served for 12 points in the match, and Jessie Salazar served for 10 points, coach Kristi Lyle said.

The Lady Whitefaces will play in the Amarillo Invitational Friday and Saturday at Caprock High School. Pool play starts Friday, and here is Hereford's schedule: El Paso Eastwood at 8:45 a.m.; River Road at 11:45; and San Angelo Central at 2:45.

Bracket play will start Friday night, so Hereford will play another match after 5 p.m. Friday. The time will depend upon Hereford's performance in pool play.

The junior varsity team will play in the Perryton Invitational Saturday, starting at 11 a.m. against Garden City, Kan. This tournament is a varsity tournament.

The freshman A and B teams will host Dumas Saturday in Whiteface Gym. The B team will start it off at 10 a.m., and the A match will follow.

Tech hires former California AD

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) - Californian Robert Bockrath quips that his toughest challenge moving to arid West Texas just might be figuring out what to do with his boat.

Bockrath, athletic director at the University of California at Berkeley, has accepted the top sports job at Texas Tech.

Texas Tech president Robert Lawless announced Bockrath's hiring Tuesday evening.

"This was a happy choice," said Lawless, who had interviewed the five top candidates named by a search committee. "He is a man of outstanding integrity, quality and background."

Bockrath, 50, replaces T. Jones, who announced in June that he would step down Aug. 31 after eight years as athletic director.

"What he's done is going to be a hard path to follow," Bockrath said of his predecessor.

Bockrath has been athletic director at California for two years. He said he hopes to assume his new duties by Sept. 3.

Lawless said Bockrath agreed Monday to a five-year contract at $125,000 a year. Jones resigned with more than 14 months remaining on a contract that paid him $107,112 annually.

Bockrath said he accepted the offer because he likes Lubbock's small-town feel and the support that Texas Tech administrators give to athletics. But Bockrath said he is "not quite sure" what role he will play in the Southwest Conference.

"I just am what I am, and hopefully that'll be enough," he said.

Bockrath seemed ambivalent about being named last week in a $5 million federal lawsuit filed by California basketball coach Lou Campanelli, who was fired early in the 1992-93 season.

"That left no bad taste in my mouth," Bockrath insisted. "We went to the Sweet 16."

Bockrath was not among the 52 applicants who applied for the Texas Tech job. But the search advisory committee added his name after he was recommended highly by various athletic directors across the nation, Lawless said.

The other finalists were Nora Lynn Finch, 44, associate director of athletics at North Carolina State; Judith Holland, 53, senior associate athletic director and women's athletic director at UCLA; Rick Dickson, 38, athletic director at Tulsa; and Jerry Hughes, 44, athletic director at Central Missouri State.

Dickson announced earlier Tuesday that he had withdrawn as a candidate.

Texas Tech won the NCAA national women's basketball championship last season, but the school also is facing a federal investigation into allegations of discrimination against female athletes.

Lawless called Bockrath, Texas Tech's 11th athletic director, a "team player" with a stellar record in gender equity.

At California, Bockrath appointed three women to athletics senior staff and replaced various male coaches of women's programs with female coaches.

Bockrath oversaw a number of other changes during his tenure, including the merging of separate men's and women's athletic departments and the department of recreational sports.

Cowboys cut to reach roster limit

IRVING, Texas (AP) - The Dallas Cowboys reached the NFL's 60-man roster limit Tuesday by placing two players on injured reserve and designating another as physically unable to perform.

Tight end Fallon Wacasey and guard Brian Nielsen were placed on injured reserve, and linebacker Godfrey Myles was named physically unable to perform. Wacasey and Nielsen will be unable to play for the Cowboys this season.

Wacasey has a separated shoulder while Nielsen sustained a sprained knee. Both are first year players. Myles, a third-year player, has a torn ligament in his right knee.

The Cowboys had made most of their moves on Monday, cutting seven players and placing cornerback Clayton Holmes and tight end Alfredo Roberts on injured reserve.

The most significant cut on Monday was Mike Middleton, the Cowboys' third-round draft choice from Indiana. He was having trouble moving to safety from cornerback.

Middleton was one of three rookies who were cut. Free agent quarterback Brad Bretz of California State-Hayward and free agent defensive tackle Rob Wagner of Northern Illinois also were waived.

Other cuts included two-year veteran tight end Greg Briggs of Texas Southern, two-year guard Melvin Evans of Texas Southern, second-year tight end Todd Young of Penn State and free agent running back Judd Garrett of Princeton.

Some of the players who were cut could find themselves on the practice squad. Teams can carry six players on the practice squad.

100th Anniversary

NORTHAMPTON, Mass. (AP) - This year was the 100th anniversary of the first recorded women's basketball game.

The game was played in March 1893, between the Smith College freshmen and the school's sophomores.

It was a hard-fought contest and close guarding kept scoring to a minimum. The final score was the Freshmen 5, the Sophomores 4.

Herd to scrimmage AHS; varsity roster announced

The Hereford High school football teams will scrimmage teams from Amarillo High Thursday and Friday in the last tuneup before the real season starts.

The freshman, sophomore and junior varsity teams will all scrimmage in Amarillo Thursday, starting at 5 p.m. The JV will scrimmage at Amarillo High, while the freshmen and sophomores will play at Bonham Middle School.

The varsity squads will scrimmage at 7 p.m. Friday in Whiteface Stadium. The Herd's varsity roster, announced this week by coach Danny Haney, includes 29 seniors, 11 juniors and one sophomore.

The seniors are Justin Wright, Elias Reyna, Brandon Gearn, Stacey Sanders, Cameron Betzen, Chris Vallejo, Hondo Nava, Todd Alexander, Justin Lueb, Russ Watts, Chad Carlile, J.J. Rico, Robert Jimenez, Gabriel Medrano, Ben Celaya, Eric Ross, Joe Ballejo, Chris Williams, Ricky Mendez, Joey Rodriguez, Andrew Tijerina, Jason Cole, Joey Garza, Aaron Stevens, Ray Hastings, Brandon Holcombe, Josh Tice, Mark Kuper and Hayden Andrews.

Inventor of wishbone to retire after season

HOUSTON (AP) - Emory Bellard, the man who invented the wishbone offense 25 years ago, will retire from football coaching at the end of Houston Westfield High School's season.

Bellard, 65, who will have coached for 45 years, told the Houston Chronicle Tuesday that this season will be his last.

Bellard invented the Wishbone offense as an assistant coach at the University of Texas. Delegated by Texas coach Darrell Royal in 1967 to come up with a new offensive set, Bellard studied the triple option and came up with his variation.

The new offense turned out to be a ground-eating monster that helped the Longhorns win an SWC co-championship in 1968 and consecutive national titles the next two years.

Bellard, who started out at Alice in 1949, has built an impressive resume. He coached Breckenridge to Class 3A titles in 1958 and 1959 and won a 4A championship at San Angelo Central in 1966.

Bellard also assisted on two national championship teams at the University of Texas (1969 and 1970) before moving on to head coaching positions at Texas A&M (6 1/2 seasons) and Mississippi State (seven years).

After a brief retirement, Bellard took over the Westfield program in 1988.

Bellard's Westfield teams have used the wishbone offense in compiling a 34-17-4 record. They finished last year at 10-1-2, advancing to the quarterfinals of Class 5A Division I. They tied Arlington 14-14, but Arlington had an 18-15 edge in first downs.

"Yeah, I reckon I'm going to shut it down," he said. "I'll tell you, 45 years is enough. I'll be 66 on my next

Padres blow Cards away with 13-run burst

By The Associated Press

For one game, anyway, the San Diego Padres didn't look so bad.

The Padres scored 13 runs in the first inning against visiting St. Louis and went on for a 17-4 victory Tuesday night.

The 48-78 Padres, tied for last in the NL West with Colorado, sent the Cardinals to their fifth straight loss and dropped them 10 games behind first-place Philadelphia in the NL East. St. Louis has lost nine of 13, and is 0-5 at Jack Murphy Stadium this season.

Tim Teufel, Phil Plantier, Phil Clark, Arch Cianfrocco and Brad Ausmus hit homers for the Padres to match a club record. The Padres also hit five homers against St. Louis on April 18, a 10-6 victory.

"I wouldn't say it was a manager's dream," San Diego skipper Jim Riggleman said. "It far exceeded any dreams a manager might have about putting together an inning."

Clark drove in four runs, including three in the first inning, Teufel drove in three and Plantier hit a three-run homer.

Padres starter Andy Ashby (2-7) allowed two runs and five hits in seven innings. Allen Watson fell to 6-1, lasting two-thirds.

It was an interesting day on the West Coast.

At Candlestick Park, Terry Pendleton's two-run homer and a strong performance by Tom Glavine helped the Atlanta Braves pull within 5 1/2 games of the NL West-leading San Francisco Giants with a 6-4 victory in a day game.

It was the closest the Braves have been to the lead since June 8, and the win gave them the chance to be the first team to sweep the Giants this season.

The Braves won for the 13th time in 15 games despite a seventh-inning, two-run shot by Robby Thompson, who homered in his fifth consecutive game.

Tom Glavine (15-5) gave up three runs, one earned, and nine hits in seven innings. Bryan Hickerson dropped to 6-5.

At Los Angeles in a night game, Eric Karros hit two three-run homers and Pittsburgh manager Jim Leyland sparked a bench-clearing brawl in the third inning when he went after winner Kevin Gross as Los Angeles beat the Pirates 13-4 for their sixth straight victory.

Gross hit rookie Kevin Young with an 0-2 pitch leading off the third inning. Leyland exchanged words with Gross and charged the Dodger pitcher as both dugouts and bullpens emptied.

Bob Walk (8-12) retaliated with in the bottom of the inning by plunking the Dodgers starter in the left leg with his first pitch.

"I don't want to talk about it," Leyland said. "I only have one comment: Just look at the tape of the pitch that hit Kevin Young. It hit him right on the base of the neck. I have no qualms with anybody. Just look at the tape. You guys make your own conclusions."

Elsewhere in the NL it was Philadelphia 4, Colorado 2; Houston 4, Florida 0; New York 5, Cincinnati 4; and Chicago 6, Montreal 5.

Phillies 4, Rockies 2

Danny Jackson became the fifth Philadelphia starter to win 10 or more games this season, pitching 7 2-3 strong innings to help the Phillies beat visiting Colorado.

Jackson (10-9) gave up one run and four hits. Mitch Williams got the last three outs for his 36th save.

Astros 4, Marlins 0

Greg Swindell (10-9) struck out 10 in seven innings and combined with two relievers on a six-hitter as Houston beat Florida at Miami. Craig

Biggio hit a three-run homer for Houston.

Florida starter Jack Armstrong fell to 7-13.

Mets 5, Reds 4

Jeff McKnight hit a pinch triple in the ninth inning off Jerry Spradlin (2-1) and scored the winning run on Kevin Wickander's wild pitch to give New York a victory at Shea Stadium. The Mets snapped a four-game losing streak despite squandering a two-run lead in the top of the ninth.

Reliever Mike Maddux (2-6) was the winner.

Cubs 6, Expos 5

Randy Myers saved his 37th game to tie Bruce Sutter's club record set in 1979 as Chicago beat Montreal at Olympic Stadium. Derrick May scored twice, including the go-ahead run, as the Cubs took advantage of a sloppy Montreal defense.

Dan Plessac (1-1), the fourth Chicago pitcher, tossed one inning for the victory.

Chicago scored twice in the fifth against starter Ken Hill (7-5) to take the lead.

Last-place A's, Brewers still fighting

By The Associated Press

The Oakland Athletics are in last place in the AL West and the Milwaukee Brewers are last in the East. That doesn't mean either team is playing out the season without a fight.

The teams played 17 1/2 relatively uneventful innings Tuesday night before things started happening to make the doubleheader a memorable one.

Milwaukee won the opener 9-2. The second game, a 7-6 Brewers victory in 13 innings, got crazy after nine innings. A brawl broke out in the nightcap after Milwaukee rallied with two runs in the ninth to tie the game 6-6. Reliever Dennis Eckersley and manager Tony La Russa were ejected for arguing with home-plate umpire Dale Scott, and the commotion drew Brewers manager Phil Garner out of the dugout.

"I don't like to be critical, but to be honest, I wish he (Garner) wouldn't have come out. We felt we had it resolved," said umpire Dave Phillips, the crew chief.

Garner exchanged words with La Russa as both benches emptied. Oakland's Troy Neel tackled Dickie Thon, sparking several fights. The biggest blow was struck by Oakland's Edwin Nunez, who bloodied B.J.

Surhoff with a punch. The game was delayed for 25 minutes.

The extra innings featured pitcher Ricky Bones, the winner of the opener, playing right field and pitcher Matt Maysey delivering a key hit in his first major-league at-bat.

In the 13th, the Brewers loaded the bases on a one-out single by Kevin Reimer and two-out singles by Maysey (1-1) and Listach. Dave Nilsson then sliced a 1-0 pitch from Kelly Downs (3-9) down the left-field line, scoring Reimer.

As far as La Russa was concerned, Garner's involvement sparked the brawl.

"As long as I've been in the league, when one manager is out there, the other manager doesn't belong," La Russa said. "My reliever gets ejected, I go out there, I get ejected. The other manager comes out. He had no business doing there. I have no other comment."

Reimer went 6-for-6 with a walk.

In the first game, Bones (9-8) allowed two runs on six hits over eight innings, and Rick Honeycutt (0-4) took the loss.

Rangers 4, Red Sox 3

David Hulse drove in two runs and Rafael Palmeiro hit his 32nd homer to send visiting Boston to its fifth straight loss.

Roger Pavlik (8-6) allowed 10 hits over eight innings but was able to work out of trouble with 10 strikeouts. Danny Darwin's (13-9) four-game winning streak ended.

Blue Jays 8, Cleveland 6

Joe Carter hit his fifth home run in the last three games for host Toronto.

Carter hit his 28th home run of the season in the first inning, a two-run shot.

Todd Stottlemyre (7-9) gave up five runs over 5 1-3 innings. Duane Ward got his club-record 35th save. Julian Tavarez (2-2) gave up seven runs in 2 1-3 innings.

Royals 5, Twins 3

Brian McRae hit a two-run triple in a three-run seventh inning and David Cone (10-11) got the win for host Kansas City. Jeff Montgomery got his AL-leading 39th save.

Eddie Guardado (3-6) pitched seven innings and allowed all five runs.

Tigers 4, Mariners 1

John Doherty pitched a three-hitter, and Mickey Tettleton and Dan Gladden hit seventh-inning homers as host Detroit stretched its winning streak to four.

Doherty (11-9) snapped his two-game losing streak in pitching his second complete game of the season. Erik Hanson (10-10) gave up four runs on seven hits.

White Sox 4, Yankees 2

Ellis Burks' two-run double in the seventh inning snapped a 2-2 tie.

Tim Raines opened the seventh with a single off Jim Abbott (9-11) and Frank Thomas walked one out later. Burks followed with his game-winner off reliever Bobby Munoz. Wilson Alvarez (9-8) won.

Orioles 1, Angels 0

Jamie Moyer (9-6) allowed three hits in eight innings and Cal Ripken drove in the game's only run for host Baltimore.

Chuck Finley (13-10) struck out 10, matching his season high, and gave up only two hits in his ninth complete game.

Madison Square Garden in New York is the third arena to have that name.

Tony Canzoneri, at different times in his career, won eight boxing championships, pro and amateur.

Chiefs lose Okoye for season after surgery

By The Associated Press

When the run-oriented Kansas City Chiefs acquired Joe Montana, the idea was to junk the power game for a more diversified offense.

That, and a knee injury, helped lead to the departure of Christian Okoye, the team's career rushing leader. He was placed on injured reserve Tuesday.

The 260-pound Nigerian may have played his last game for the Chiefs, who not only have Montana but are going to a San Francisco-type offense based on short passes and slashing runs rather than the bull-like rushes of Okoye.

"This offense is geared to a different style," coach Marty Schottenheimer said. "We're headed in a different direction and we have to be concerned with the guys who are with us right now."

"The thing that makes this particularly difficult is when it involves a person like Christian. I don't know when I've been associated with an individual that I've had more fondness for as a person."

"But you have to make tough decisions sometimes. You make decisions that affect people's lives. But sometimes you don't make the right ones. You have to do what you think is right."

Okoye started only five games last season, when he had a career-low 448 yards, which brought him to a career total of 4,897.

In other NFL news Tuesday, Keith McCants became remembered by Tampa Bay fans as another in a growing list of first-round flops.

Bucs coach Sam Wyche didn't say the team's top 1990 pick was being waived for poor play. Wyche said the linebacker was cut because of the team's changing defensive philosophy.

"In our style of defense, we need more cover linebackers, and less linebackers," Wyche said, noting most of Tampa Bay's opponents this season use three wide receivers. "I have nothing but good things to say about Keith. It just didn't work out."

At 6-foot-3 and 265 pounds, McCants simply lacks the quickness to cover the pass.

Many thought McCants, who starred at Alabama, would be the first player selected in 1990. But he slipped to No. 4 amid reports he had a suspect knee.

Drew Bledsoe, No. 1 pick in the NFL draft, appears on the verge of becoming the No. 1 quarterback of the New England Patriots. But coach Bill Parcells retracted a previous statement that the starter in final preseason game - Friday night against Kansas City - would open the season Sept. 5 at Buffalo.

"I reserve the right to change my mind," said Parcells, who will start Bledsoe against the Chiefs.

Bledsoe has completed 28 of 52 passes for 323 yards and three touchdowns in three exhibitions. The Washington State rookie played the entire game Friday against Green Bay, completing 19 of 29 for 245 yards and two touchdowns in a 21-17 victory.

Saints
Running back Vaughn Dunbar, New Orleans' top choice in 1992, was placed on injured reserve with knee injury. Among those waived was running back Gil Fenerty.

Bills

Eleven-year veteran Keith Willis and five-year man Chris Hale were among 18 players waived. The Bills also put wide receiver Al Edwards, who injured a shoulder in the preseason opener, on injured reserve.

Giants

Veteran kicker Matt Bahr has stayed off another challenge. Todd Peterson, a seventh-round draft choice, was cut by New York.

Linebacker Corey Widmer underwent arthroscopic knee surgery. There was no immediate word on how long he will be out.

Jets
Guard Tom Thayer, one of Chicago's few holdovers from its 1986 Super Bowl championship team, will miss the first six weeks of the season with an ailing back. He was placed on the injured reserve after missing all of the preseas.

Browns

Wide receiver Hassan Jones, a starter with Minnesota for five years, was released. Jones signed with the Browns as a free agent, retired early during training camp, then came back a few days later.

Raiders

The Raiders traded former Olympic sprinter Sam Graddy to the Rams and tight end David Jones to Cleveland, for conditional draft choices.

Graddy had been with the Raiders for five seasons as a wide receiver and kick returner. Cut was Anthony Bell a one-time No. 1 pick of the Cardinals who was the starting middle linebacker last year.

Chargers
Safety Delton Hall was cut because he failed his physical due to an Achilles' tendon injury. Third-string quarterback Pat O'Hara and safety Anthony Shelton also were among 15 players waived.

Ask Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB: I have had a life-long struggle with the worst problem on earth, having foul-smelling breath. When I exhale, my breath is foul and it's even worse when I talk. My co-workers described the odor as like sewage. I had never thought that my problem could have anything to do with flatulence. Then I read your Special Report on gases and took it to my doctor. He made me take Pepcid, Mylanta and simethicone. The following day I was practically free of the smell.

There have been days when I am free of the smell but when I eat protein, especially cheese, the following day I will notice I am bothering my co-workers.

Please help me with my problem, which has caused me to make three attempts on my life, for it really is too humiliating.

DEAR READER: If you have made three attempts on your life, I hope you are getting professional help.

Many chemical changes in the body can cause bad breath. That is why it is often so difficult to find the cause. The mechanism is the same as in the alcohol breath or the odor from eating onions. The alcohol is absorbed from the digestive system and carried to the lungs. There it is exhaled. That is the principle of breath analysis to determine blood alcohol levels. The only difference is that a malodorous chemical is produced in the body, enters the bloodstream, passes to the lungs and is exhaled. Of course, this has nothing to do with the many other local causes of bad breath such as dental problems.

Chemical changes associated with kidney failure, liver disease and diabetic coma are but a few examples of bad breath associated with changes in the body's chemistry. Some people do form malodorous gases, indole and skatole products, from the amino acid tryptophan. These are the two main causes of malodorous flatulence or bowel movements. Malodorous gases can be absorbed by the circulation and passed to the lungs.

I am sending you Special Report 109, The Breath Problem, for more information that may help you. Share it with your doctor. Others who want this report can send $3 with a stamped (52 cents), self-addressed, No. 10 envelope to THE HEALTH LETTER/109, P.O. Box 5537, Riverton, NJ 08077-5537.

Identifying the foods that may cause the problem could help. Incidentally, cheese is high in tryptophan, as are other foods that contain aged protein.

DEAR DR. LAMB: I have severe fibrocystic breast disease and have had at least 12 surgical biopsies. I continue to get new lumps and cannot possibly have all of them biopsied. My gynecologist suggested I consider having a subcutaneous mastectomy with the transfer of abdominal fat tissue as an implant. I would like to know how safe this procedure is and what kind of results could be expected.

DEAR READER: Fibrocystic disease of the breast is a poor term and includes many different changes in the breast. Lumpy or cystic breasts occur in at least half of women during their childbearing years. As few as 4 percent of these are at risk of becoming malignant, those that have atypical cells. Removing the breasts simply for lumpy or cystic changes is rather drastic, although it may be indicated in some cases.

Transplanting fat tissue is questionable. For fat tissue to survive it needs circulation, and good vascularity to the tissue may not occur. In that case, the transplanted fat may simply be absorbed in time. You might wish to talk to a plastic surgeon about that.

DEAR DR. LAMB: Would you write about the probable cause of fuzz hair coming out on a woman's chin after age 70 years? Is progesterone a male hormone? Does it have anything to do with facial hair? Does the thyroid have anything to do with facial hair? Several of us will be watching impatiently for your reply. I can't include my name because it would embarrass me.

DEAR READER: In most older women, the development of facial hair is related to a change in hormone balance. Even in younger women an increased level of male hormone appears to be the stimulus for increased facial hair. There are two sources of the male hormone: the ovaries and the adrenal glands over the kidneys. Many people are surprised to know that the ovaries produce testosterone as well as estrogen. Yes, progesterone can be converted to testosterone.

The testosterone from both the adrenal glands and the ovaries is acted upon by an enzyme that converts it to a slightly different form called dihydrotestosterone. It is the product that stimulates the hair growth.

Women normally have as much facial hair as men, but it is so fine and microscopic in most cases that it is not apparent. But when the production of dihydrotestosterone is increased, that fine hair develops and becomes prominent.

I have explained in greater detail how this happens in Special Report 107, Hirsutism: Women's Unwanted Hair. If you had included your name and address I would have sent a copy to you. Those who want this report can send $3 with a stamped (52 cents), self-addressed, No. 10 envelope for it to THE HEALTH LETTER/107, P.O. Box 5537, Riverton, NJ 08077-5537.

How can excess facial hair be treated? There are many hormonal approaches. Both prednisone and oral contraceptives have been used. About 75 percent of young women can be helped with the right oral contraceptive.

Both of these hormones limit the pituitary gland's (under the brain) ability to stimulate the adrenal glands and the ovaries. Spironolactone (Aldactone), a diuretic often used to treat high blood pressure, has an anti-male hormone action and is often helpful. Various medicines that block the action of testosterone and are used to treat enlarged prostates and cancer of the prostate may prove to be useful by preventing the action of and production of dihydrotestosterone.

DEAR DR. LAMB: I met a woman at the doctor's office who has identical twin daughters. I have fraternal twin boys. She insists mine are inherited. No one in my family ever had twins before. I think mine are from having two ova fertilized. Before I conceived, I was having female problems and had a D and C and my cervix cauterized. I think it is more likely to inherit identical twins. It would be very hard for anyone to make me believe my twins are inherited.

That lady was ready to beat me up because she insisted mine were inherited, so I agreed. What's your opinion?

DEAR READER: Twinning can run in families, but it is not a directly inherited tendency. If your boys are fraternal twins, that means two different ova were fertilized. But a tendency to release two ova could have a weak inherited characteristic. Today, that often happens when a woman takes fertility pills and perhaps is more common today because more women are having children later in life.

Identical twins occur from one ovum. The ovum splits after it has been fertilized, which is why the twins have identical genes. I hope this avoids a future alteration.

Dr. Lamb welcomes letters from readers with health questions. You can write to him at P.O. Box 5537, Riverton, NJ 08077-5537. Although Dr. Lamb cannot reply to all letters personally, he will respond to selected questions in future columns.

Hamilton named best speaker during Toastmasters meeting

Dee Hamilton was named the best speaker during the Hereford Toastmasters Club meeting held Thursday morning at the Ranch House.

Art Gonzales was named the best evaluator and Linda Minchew was the best topic speaker.

Rick Jackson led the pledge and Joe Weaver gave the invocation.

Presiding Officer Jackson reminded members that membership dues need to be turned in by Sept. 16.

Gayla Sanders served as Toastmaster; Clark Andrews, timer; Stan McCabe, "ah" counter; Dennis Printz, grammarian; Jackson, wordmaster; and inimitable, the chosen word.

Charles Minchew was topmaster and topic speakers included Dan Hall, Dave Kimmel, Wayne Winger and Linda Minchew.

Mike Harris spoke on "Our Seventh Inning Affair," evaluated by Dr. M.C. Adams; Dee Hamilton, "Life and Death, The Decision Is Yours," evaluated by Art Gonzales; and Muhammad Arshad, "My Icebreaker," evaluated by Sharon Cramer.

Weaver served as general evaluator.

Dan Hall was recognized as a special guest.

Hints from Heloise

Dear Heloise: I think I can help others find their long-lost relatives.

Scenario: Mrs. X at the age of 5 accompanied her mother and father to settle in the far West. In only a year or two her mother tragically died and eventually all contact was lost with her mother's family. Over 40 years have elapsed. She has many cousins and other relatives who, if known, could add interest to her life.

What can she do to make contact with her mother's family? She can use what she knows (her maiden name) and the approximate area from which she originated.

To get an address, she can search through phone books of that area for the surname of her mother's family. Most likely that name has been passed down and with a little perseverance and luck she will be able to find a long-lost cousin.

Phone book collections are usually found in the public library or, if not there, the library can likely steer her to the nearest supply. — Arthur W. Lindholm, Terre Haute, Ind.

One of my secretaries, Kelly Moravits, did this very thing when she was doing some family genealogy. She received all types of information!

This sure would be well worth a try. — Heloise

KITTY TRANSPORT

Dear Heloise: I was recently reminded of a situation several years ago which illustrates the importance of using a carrying cage when taking a cat in the car.

I was driving our cat to the vet when she got between the pedals and the floor board. I finally got her to budge just before I had to step on the brake. — Dee Rasmussen, Winter Park, Fla.

Wow! I'm sure glad you both are OK. Cats are great pets, but they do require some special care. I have a pamphlet on cat care that may answer some of those questions. To receive a copy, please send $2 and a long, self-addressed, stamped (52 cents) envelope to Heloise/Cat #12, PO Box 795001, San Antonio TX 78279-5001. — Heloise

POCKET DATE BOOK

Dear Heloise: Before my daughter got married, I bought a pocket date book in which I and her mother-in-law entered all family birthdays, anniversaries and other important dates for the year.

Now neither husband nor wife can forget to buy and mail cards. — Alice L. Cohen, Ellicott City, Md.

PLANT WATERING

Dear Heloise: This is for all those who seem to have so much trouble watering their hanging plants. All they have to do is put a few ice cubes in the plant.

The cubes melt slowly with no drips. This is an extra-good idea if you are going away for a few days. — A Reader, Manchester, N.H.

HEREFORD, TEXAS 79045

Dear Hereford Cablevision Customer:

Hereford Cablevision will add two new channels and restructure rates on September 1, 1993 in an attempt to adhere to recent cable legislation passed by Congress.

The two new channels will be, The Learning Channel which will be seen on channel 35 and The Cartoon Network which will be viewed on channel 36. Both will be available for 24 hour per day entertainment and we believe both choices will provide a new dimension of viewing.

Several rate changes will also occur.

*We will no longer charge for additional cable TV outlets for residential customers. If you have any additional outlets now, your bill will go down $3.15 per outlet.

*The Dial Converter will now rent at $3.33 per month and the Digital Remote Converter will now rent for $2.13 per month, down from the current $3.00 per month rate.

*Rate for the new Basic service will increase from $18.45 to $18.85 per month.

*All Premium Channel rates will remain the same.

*All rates and fees are subject to sales tax.
Hereford Cablevision now offers 31 channels of news, educational programs, sports, entertainment and movies. We feel that the addition of The Learning Channel and The Cartoon Network further enhances the value of our Basic Cable service by providing another exceptional source of entertainment and informational opportunity.

Keeping an eye on Texas

Lower crime rates in Texas' cities

In Texas' top six cities the crime rate fell in 1992. Overall, the crime rate—the number of reported offenses per 100,000 population—in Texas declined by 8.2 percent. The violent crime rate—murder, rape, robbery and aggravated assault—fell by 4 percent, while the property crime rate dropped by 10.4 percent when compared to 1991.

U.S. eyes sanctions for sale of missile

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is considering imposing economic sanctions against a Chinese firm for selling sophisticated missile technology to Pakistan, administration officials say.

U.S. intelligence agencies have been trying for months to determine whether China violated international guidelines by selling M-11 missile technology to Pakistan.

The State Department said Tuesday the Clinton administration was still "reviewing the evidence" to determine whether sanctions were called for.

But officials speaking on condition of anonymity said sanctions under serious consideration would be applied to the Chinese government-owned company that manufactures the missile and the Pakistani company alleged to be purchasing the technology.

U.S. law requires that sanctions be applied in cases of violations of the Missile Technology Control Regime, which bars the transfer of missiles with a range in excess of 186 miles or a payload of more than 1,100 pounds.

The New York Times and The Washington Post reported today that the administration was considering barring certain high-technology trade with China because U.S. intelligence officials concluded that Beijing had sold M-11 missile components to Pakistan.

The newspapers quoted unidentified officials as saying the State Department was making a last-ditch attempt to persuade China to abide by the missile technology agreement.

China asserts that the M-11 is not covered by the missile protocol. China has not signed the agreement, but has pledged to abide by it to avoid trade sanctions.

Sanctions could hinder efforts by American companies to open business with China, which has the world's fastest-growing economy.

President Clinton pledged during the election campaign to take a hard line against Chinese rights violations, but he has sought to continue trade with China. Clinton in May granted a one-year extension of China's most-favored nation trade status, but conditioned any future extensions on improvements in China's human-rights record and adherence to arms-control guidelines.

The State Department noted Tuesday night that U.S. law requires an "expeditious" U.S. response in the event of violations of the missile technology accord. It also pointed out that U.S. concerns about Chinese behavior have been raised repeatedly by U.S. officials in recent months with Chinese authorities.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — If you live near Madonna, don't expect quiet, especially if she's throwing a birthday party, neighbors say.

Several neighbors summoned police Saturday as a live rap and funk band at Madonna's 35th birthday bash kept them up into the wee hours. Some neighbors have been peeved since the pop diva bought the $5 million Hollywood Hills castle.

"I had to close all the windows of my house to get to sleep," one neighbor, who refused to give his name, told the Daily News of Los Angeles.

Sgt. William Davidson who responded to a second complaint said the party was starting to break up about 12:20 a.m., Sunday.

Madonna bought the 20,000-square-foot castle last year.

Russian revolutionary Vladimir I. Lenin was born in 1870.

The Oklahoma land rush took place in 1889 as thousands of homesteaders staked claims to government-controlled land.

Cuba likes no-attack warning

WASHINGTON (AP) — Officials at Cuba's small diplomatic mission here were all smiles a few weeks ago when the State Department issued a warning to Miami-based exiles not to engage in armed attacks against their homeland.

The diplomats never were sure about the attitude of Republican administrations toward such illegal activities, and the U.S. warning was viewed as a welcome gesture by Havana's envoys.

Examples of that kind of neighborliness have been rare over the years, but there is general agreement that the tone of Washington-Havana relations is more amicable now than at any time since the early months of the Carter administration.

As Cuba's economic crisis has deepened with the collapse of its prime benefactor, the Soviet Union, Cuban officials have been especially eager for some sign that Washington wants a more congenial relationship.

But the Clinton administration's less-abrasive tone has not been matched by changes in substance. The centerpiece of U.S. policy toward Cuba continues to be the trade embargo, now more than 30 years old, and President Clinton is showing no interest in lifting it.

The administration has been firm in its insistence that President Fidel Castro scrap his one-party state and move toward a democratic system.

The administration also is concerned that China is attempting to sell ingredients for chemical weapons to Iran.

of a new approach to Cuba.

U.S. officials dispute that statement, but Gillian Gunn, a Cuba expert at Georgetown University, says, "There definitely has been an improvement in tone. Both governments are choosing to emphasize the more courteous aspects of their policy and choosing to de-emphasize the more belligerent aspects."

Some analysts believe the Clinton administration is pursuing this approach to make it more difficult for Castro to blame the United States for the catastrophic economic conditions on the island.

The magnitude of Cuba's internal problems has had an impact in Washington. Officials are searching for ways to help the Cuban people without bolstering the regime.

Cotton use increases through increased T-shirt, jeans sales

By PHIL WEST

AP Business Writer

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Jim Howell's mind starts calculating every time he sees a music video performer wearing a fashionable T-shirt and jeans or boxer shorts.

That's nearly 15 ounces of cotton for jeans, five to six ounces for the T-shirt and about that much for the boxer shorts.

The tally counts toward the record 9.9 million bales of cotton consumed in the United States last year, said Howell, senior market analyst for the National Cotton Council of America in Memphis, Tenn.

The casual wear trend pushed cotton's share of the U.S. apparel market from 62 percent in 1991 to 64 percent last year.

Jeans and T-shirts are primarily responsible, Howell said.

"It's the continuation of uphill gains cotton has been making in the market," Howell said.

Cotton Council research showed more than 877 million T-shirts were produced in 1992, 25 percent more than the year before.

More than 758 million of those cotton T-shirts were classified as men's and boys', though many were worn by girls and women.

"In the 1960s, polyester double knit was running crazy, and people were going nuts over easy wear, that type of thing. Cotton did reach a new low. But it's been growing... A new generation has become acquainted, and others have become reacquainted, to make the market grow like it has," Howell said.

Cotton consumption hit a low of 5.4 million bales in 1982, the last big year for polyester double knit, Howell said.

Consumption of staple cotton—the material used in apparel, home furnishings and industrial purposes—rose from 36 percent of the U.S. textile market in 1991 to 37 percent last year.

"The textile industry had a very good year in 1992. It came back strongly from the recession," said David Link, chief economist for the American Textile Manufacturers Institute in Washington.

"Denim has been a very strong product in the past year or so, and most of denim is 100 percent cotton."

Cotton is the No. 3 crop in dollar value in Arkansas, after rice and wheat.

Ten end-use markets account for 71 percent of cotton use, Howell said.

Tops on that list are men's and boy's shirts, 1.4 million bales; men's and boys' trousers and shorts, 1.3 million bales; towels and wash cloths, 1 million; drapery, upholstery and slip cover fabrics, 700,000 bales; and boys' underwear, 700,000 bales.

Other uses include women's slacks and jeans, 600,000 bales; sheets and pillowcases, 500,000 bales; women's blouses and shirts, 300,000 bales; retail piece goods, 200,000 bales; and children's slacks, dungarees and jeans, 200,000 bales.

Wrinkle-free cotton pants will join denim and T-shirts on the popularity parade by year's end, Howell predicted.

"A national trend to allow office workers to dress casually at least one day a week may push that market along," he said.

From the Animal Shelter

Hereford Animal Control Officer Mark Loyd has announced the following animals are available for adoption from the city Animal Shelter.

All dogs listed will be destroyed after 8 a.m. Thursday if they are not adopted. Dogs might be held additional days if the department is contacted in advance.

PUPPIES
One brown mixed breed.
One white and brown mixed breed.

ADULT DOGS

One black male Shepherd mix.

One Dalmatian Labrador mix.

KITTENS

One black and white mix.
One black Shorthair.

One tan and white Shorthair.

The cost for adopting puppies is $4, which includes a $3 pound fee and $1 city registration fee.

The cost for full-grown dogs is $15, including $11 for rabies vaccination, $3 pound fee and $1 city registration fee.

There are no cat or dog traps available at the shelter this week.

Those interested in getting a cat or dog trap can have their names placed on a waiting list.

Pet owners are reminded that they should check with the animal shelter if they have a lost pet.

Information about animals or to find out about adopting them is available by calling the Hereford Animal Control Authority at 364-2323.

YOU'RE INVITED

Arrowhead Mill's Annual Growers Appreciation meeting will be held:

Thursday August 26 • 8 p.m.
Hereford Country Club

This year's keynote speaker will be Mr. Bob Birkenfeld from Nazareth, TX. He will share his experiences in converting 4,000 acres of wheat, cotton and corn to organic production. His operation is both irrigated and dryland and is certified by the Texas Department of Agriculture. Included in his talk will be the importance and application of compost and green manures on the high plains.

Anyone who is interested in hearing Mr. Birkenfeld's talk is invited to attend.
