Farm bill moves out of House committee

WASHINGTON (AP) — A divided House Agriculture Committee patched up its differences at least temporarily, completing and sending to the full House a massive farm bill to replace the law that expires in less than three weeks.

The committee approved its version of the new 1985 farm bill on a voice vote after tacking on a provision allowing wheat and corn farmers to vote on a program giving them higher price-support levels. The provision also appeased a substantial minority on the committee opposed to efforts to ease such supports downward.

While committee members approved a package cutting $11.8 billion in spending from its earlier versions of the bill, the Reagan administration called the cuts "smoke and mirrors" and vowed to seek further changes when the bill comes before the full House, possibly as early as next week.

The Senate Agriculture Committee, meanwhile, picked through farm credit provisions in its version of the bill but remained at least several days away from completing work.

With fewer than a dozen legislative days remaining before current farm law expires Sept. 30 and a strong possibility looming for a bruising conference fight between the two bodies, it appeared unlikely that new legislation could be completed in time.

The wide-ranging bill includes everything from farm price supports and subsidies, to authorization for the food stamp program, foreign food aid and agricultural research.

The heart of the House bill — programs to support farm income and commodity prices and to provide farmers with credit — carried a pricetag of $42.8 billion over the next three years, according to the Congressional Budget Office. That was after the committee made savings required under a congressional budget resolution by deferring some farm payments to later years and trimming back several programs.

Food stamps and other programs are not included in the $42.8 billion, and the final pricetag had not been computed by committee staff. But the $42.8 billion is more than half the expected final figure.

Despite the $11.8 billion cost-cutting, the Reagan administration signaled its discontent because it contended some House provisions move away from the more "market-oriented" policy it seeks.

The bill contains some provisions that would begin to ease downward price-support levels for major commodities that are blamed for pricing the United States out of world markets. To make up for the cuts, farmers are offered increased direct income-protection payments.

But other provisions go against the administration's professed free-market principles. For example, the measure contains a dairy section that would pay farmers not to produce milk and would tie price support levels to farmers' costs of production. The administration is seeking a simple cut in the current $11.60 per hundred pounds support rate as part of its push to make farmers rely less on government purchases and more on the market for their income.

In addition, the House version places a virtual four-year freeze on current levels of "target prices," the income protection subsidy paid to farmers to make up for low market prices. The administration has hinted it will accept no more than a one-year freeze.

Committee formed to study dump issue

A study committee has been formed to take an objective look at the nuclear repository issue, it was announced Tuesday by Amarillo Chamber of Commerce.

The committee is co-sponsored by the Amarillo C of C, the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce, the Amarillo Hispanic Chamber of Commerce, Amarillo College and West Texas State University.

"We are interested in taking an objective look at the arguments for the proposed facility as well as arguments against the federal project," said Wayne Sturdivant, chairman of the newly-established group. "We will come to some rational conclusion on the desirability or undesirability of the repository."

The facility and the testing could have a major economic impact on the area, Sturdivant noted, with more than $600 million in federal funds budgeted for the five-year testing phase alone. "The committee will be asked to take a non-emotional, rational approach to the proposed project and determine what the real facts of the situation are," Sturdivant said.

The committee plans to finish the study within 60 days and report to each co-sponsor's governing body and to the public, he added.

Committee members include Sturdivant, an Amarillo attorney; Jerry Hodge, former Amarillo mayor; Pete Mendez, chairman of the Camara de Comercio Hispanico de Amarillo; Keith Taylor, chairman of the Amarillo Chamber; Doug Manning, a director of the Deaf Smith Chamber of Commerce; Sharon Brown, civic leader and banker; Ed Roach, president of West Texas State University; H.D. Yarbrough, president of Amarillo College; Bill Gilliland, commercial developer and businessman; Eddie Scott, attorney; Dick Brooks, businessman and political leader; Bill Helton, SPS executive; Pete Dallas, oil and gas businessman; and Larry Milner, president of the Amarillo Chamber.

TDC lockdown still in effect

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP) — Texas Department of Corrections officials say some 17,000 inmates at 13 Texas prisons remain confined to their cells today to quiet a war among rival prison gangs.

Department of Corrections Director O.L. McCotter issued the emergency lockdown order, the second in recent weeks, on Monday after four inmates were stabbed to death within a 24-hour period.

Eight slayings, recorded in eight days, brought the number of homicides this year in the nation's second-largest prison system to 26, one more than the record set in 1984. McCotter's lockdown order was indefinite.

Prison system spokesman Charles Brown said some previous lockdowns had lasted for a couple of weeks before the security precautions were eased.

"It's been pretty quiet," Brown said on Tuesday.

A lone incident overnight Monday occurred between two cellmates at the Ellis I Unit and was not gang related, he said. In that altercation, one inmate suffered minor lacerations when his cellmate slashed him with a razor blade during an argument, according to Brown.

But prison officials have labeled the entire system, which includes

Senate vote on apartheid will be close

Says majority leader

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republican leaders, facing a united Democratic opposition and GOP defectors, say they probably hold just enough votes to block a drive aimed at defying President Reagan by imposing economic sanctions on South Africa.

Senate Majority Leader Robert Dole, who said today's showdown vote would be close, accused the Democrats of seeking partisan political advantage by forcing approval of the sanctions bill after Reagan on Monday had ordered sanctions of his own against South Africa's white rulers.

"Maybe after a few days of president bashing we can go back to the real world" and consider ways of really influencing the South African government to end the apartheid system of racial separation, Dole said.

"They see it as a political issue and we see it as something the president has accomplished," Dole said of Reagan's apparent change of policy.

Democrats, who said Reagan's list of sanctions was a watered down and less effective version of the congressional measure, said they would vote as one to choke off a filibuster blocking a final vote on the Anti-Apartheid Act of 1985.

On Monday, an initial attempt to win the 60 votes needed to do that failed, 53-34. A dozen senators were absent, six from each party.

Dole supported the anti-apartheid legislation until Monday, when Reagan ended his long opposition to any sanctions by agreeing to implement many sections of the bill on his own, either in whole or in part, while eliminating others.

Rumbaugh gets death injection

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP) — Charles Rumbaugh was put to death by poison injection early Wednesday for murdering a jeweler when he was 17 years old, the first execution in more than two decades for a crime committed by someone under the age of 18.

Rumbaugh, 28, was pronounced dead at 12:27 a.m. CDT, said Jim Mattox, the state attorney general.

Hours before his death, Rumbaugh was "cutting jokes and laughing" as he visited with friends and relatives in a cell a few feet from the death chamber, said corrections department spokeswoman Sarah Grisham.

Amnesty International, which opposes capital punishment, had protested Rumbaugh's execution, saying it violated international agreements — never ratified by the U.S. Senate — that bar execution of people convicted of crimes committed when they were under 18.

"What that has to do with the death penalty, I don't know," Rumbaugh said a week ago in his last interview with reporters. "It's not going to have any effect."

Nine other prisoners in Texas are awaiting execution for juvenile crimes.

Rumbaugh, who was convicted of robbing and killing Amarillo jeweler Michael Fiorillo in 1975, had twice tried to kill himself and had physically attacked law officers in court, had ordered attorneys not to seek a third stay of execution.

T.V. cameras 'not allowed'

AUSTIN (AP) — Television cameras are not covered by the Texas Open Meetings Act and can be tossed out of public meetings, according to Attorney General Jim Mattox.

In a legal opinion made public Tuesday, Mattox upheld the right of Titus County commissioners to bar TV cameras from their meetings. The 1973 Open Meetings Act covers "sonic" recordings, but does not guarantee video cameras access to public meetings, the attorney general said.

The law says: "All or any part of the proceedings in any public meeting of any governmental body ... may be recorded by any person in attendance by means of a tape recorder or any other means of sonic reproduction."

Mattox said this provision of the law does not give members of the public a right to videotape meetings.

"In the absence of a specific provision permitting a member of the public to record its meetings by videotape, the commissioners court may prevent the videotaping of its meetings held pursuant to the Open Meetings Act," he said.

The Texas Association of Broadcasters said the Mattox ruling could affect television coverage of public meetings throughout the state. The TAB and the Society of Professional Journalists said the ruling highlights the need for the 1987 Legislature to revise the Open Meetings Act.

The Titus County camera battle began earlier this year when the commissioners in the Northeast Texas county voted 4-0 to bar television coverage.

The only camera that had been covering the commissioners was owned by FVP Network, a Mt. Pleasant station that leases time on the local cable channel.

Anti-Communists meet in Dallas

ADDISON, Texas (AP) — Money and power dominated the shop talk around the Registry Hotel as resistance leaders from around the world gathered at the World Anti-Communist League conference.

Those at the meeting Tuesday said they hope to attract financial and political support from the public for their causes.

They also say the conference is a good place to talk shop with their international counterparts.

"Each country has a different way of struggle," said Bee Moua, who belongs to a group aiding Laotian guerrillas. "We hope to share with our friends from other parts of the world and to learn from them."

Representatives of anti-communist movements in Nicaragua, Afghanistan, Angola, Cambodia, Laos, Vietnam, Ethiopia and Mozambique are expected to speak at the five-day conference. About 300 people are expected to attend the conference, organizers say.

"We've come to show the world what they (Soviets) mean when they talk about peace," Afghan rebel Abdul Martin, 20, who recently lost both hands to a Soviet land mine, said through an interpreter.

The league and its American arm, the U.S. Council of World Freedom, hold the annual conference to promote awareness of what they call the "world communist menace" and raise money for fighters, explained retired U.S. Army Maj. Gen. John Singlaub, chairman of both organizations.

"We want to develop an awareness of the fact that there are countries whose people have been so abused that they've decided better dead than red," Singlaub said.

"Our primary philosophy is that we're pro-freedom," he said. "Our greatest concern is the human misery caused in those countries taken over by communism."

Names of senators to be publicized

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Jesse Helms says the evangelical movement will publicize the names of senators who defeated a school prayer bill, but one of those lawmakers contends the public doesn't want government deciding religious matters.

By a 62-36 vote Tuesday, the Senate tabled the Helms-sponsored bill that would have prohibited the Supreme Court and lower federal courts from deciding cases on voluntary prayer, Bible reading or religious meetings in public schools.

Prior to the vote, Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., one of the Senate's leading conservatives, told Helms, R-N.C.: "If I would have written it (the bill), I would be ashamed of it."

The vote most likely killed the legislation. However, a proposed constitutional amendment to allow voluntary silent prayer in public schools is before the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Helms said he brought the bill to the floor to get a roll call vote, adding, "I imagine people in the evangelical movement are going to be willing to circulate it."

Kidnap only an attempt

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Gunmen tried to kidnap the Portuguese ambassador at a checkpoint between the Christian and Moslem sectors of Beirut today, but soldiers from a mostly Shiite Moslem army brigade opened fire and scattered the abductors, an embassy spokesman said.

Anis Abdul-Malak, a Lebanese who serves as the chief of the Portuguese Embassy's consular section, said the kidnap attempt occurred this morning at the Kassass-Masaleh crossing along the mid-city Green Line.

The ambassador, 57-year-old Louis Gonzaga Ferreira, was riding with his wife Maria in a chauffeur-driven Chevrolet when the limousine was intercepted by gunmen on the Moslem side of the Green Line, Abdul-Malak said.

He said the assailants fired into the air, stopping the car moments after soldiers at an army checkpoint waved it through into the Moslem sector. The soldiers from the mainly Shiite 6th Brigade opened fire on the kidnapers, who fled into a maze of alleys.

Car bomb kills one, injures two

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — A car bomb exploded at a roadblock in southern Lebanon today, killing the driver and injuring two militiamen from the Israeli-backed South Lebanon Army, military sources said.

The Toyota car blew up at a checkpoint near the village of Hasbaya, at the edge of Israel's buffer zone about 10 miles north of the Israeli-Lebanon border, said the sources. They spoke on condition they not be identified.

It was not known whether the driver was on a suicide mission, and the sources had no additional information.

It was the seventh car bomb attack in the past two months. The previous attacks were part of a campaign to drive the last vestiges of Israel's presence from Lebanon.

Competitive nature of auto market is up

NEW YORK (AP) — Lured by some attractive promotional bait, American consumers have been buying cars in a frenzy lately.

In the last part of August, they drove new automobiles off dealers' lots at a rate of 40,000 a day. Figures for the first 10 days of September, due out late this week, are also expected to be impressive, if not quite up to the late August pace.

As any industry-watcher who has been asked has been quick to point out, the boom in the business results in large measure from some special, short-term factors.

Most important, domestic manufacturers are subsidizing it with loans at interest rates of 7.5 percent or 7.7 percent on "selected" models from their 1985 inventories. They want to clear this merchandise out so that they can start pushing their 1986 lines.

Their competitors have responded with various promotional campaigns of their own.

Furthermore, some of the business was borrowed from a few weeks earlier, when sales were held down by a strike of truck haulers who ship cars from factories to dealers.

All this comes at a time when sellers of cars normally make their end-of-model-year pitch to bargain-hunting consumers.

A below-market interest rate amounts to a price reduction in disguise — indeed, as shoppers for cars should be aware, it often may be a substitute for a concession in the selling price that a dealer might otherwise be willing to negotiate.

The current offerings are scheduled to expire around the end of this month as the supply of remaining '85 models dwindles. But though the car manufacturers can dictate when and where any specific financing deals are offered, they cannot simply call an end to fierce competition.

And the way the outlook is shaping up for the industry and the economy as a whole, many analysts say more special offers for car buyers are likely in the months ahead.

"The competitive nature of the auto market itself will make sales incentives — cut-rate financing, price rollbacks, dollar days, sellathons, etc. — the rule not the exception," said John Maher in the latest edition of Economic Week, a commentary from New York's Citibank.

In the fourth quarter of the year, domestic car sales, which ran at an annual rate of 13.5 million in late August, "could fall as low as 6.5 million units annualized if no new incentive programs are initiated," declared Donald Straszheim, chief economist at Merrill Lynch Economics.

Forecasts of continuing promotional and price competition are based on several factors. For one thing, many analysts consider prospects for consumer spending to be questionable at best over the next several months.

Import quotas on Japanese-made cars have been relaxed, Korean imports are also on the rise, and more and more Japanese-brand vehicles are being built in this country.

Chemicals at home more dangerous

CHICAGO (AP) — Toxic chemicals found in every home, from paint to common cleaning solvents, are three times more likely to cause cancer than airborne pollutants — even in neighborhoods close to chemical plants, a federal study concludes.

"It was difficult to accept for a while," said Lance Wallace, an Environmental Protection Agency scientist who evaluated data from the five-year study. "But a number of similar studies ... concluded the same thing."

Wallace's report was prepared for delivery to the American Chemical Society's 190th national meeting today.

He acknowledged Tuesday that toxic chemicals found in the home could be responsible for no more "than several hundred deaths each year."

And even then, he added in an interview, scientists would be hard-pressed to determine the role any given substance played in a cancer-related death, and could not say for sure that toxic chemicals in the home directly caused a single death.

But Wallace said the level of toxic chemicals ingested indoors, either through breathing, eating, drinking water or skin absorption, "make the home more of a toxic waste dump than any chemical plants nearby."

The report cited paints, cleansers, plastics, cosmetics and building materials as probable sources of toxic chemicals in the home.

Some sources were as familiar as cigarette smoke (benzene) but others, like taking a shower, came as a surprise, said Wallace, who is on leave from the EPA as a visiting scientist at the Harvard University School of Public Health.

Showering is suspected as the primary cause of elevated levels of chloroform in nearly every home, he said, because of the chlorine in water.

The study generally found toxic chemical levels indoors at three times the outdoor rate, he said, and for some toxic chemicals indoor values were up to 70 times higher than outdoor values.

The EPA study was undertaken to develop methods to measure human exposure to 11 toxic chemicals contained in air, food and water. Wallace said the 11 chemicals were targeted because of their toxicity and the ability of the monitors to register their exposure levels.

He said the agency was dissatisfied with fixed monitors of air quality because they did not reflect a person's total exposure to toxic chemicals. He said an air-quality monitor was developed that could be worn, and that subjects kept them on for 12-hour periods as they went about a normal day's routine.

Additionally, food and drinking water intake was monitored, Wallace added.

The main study group of 350 people — 275 of those tested had at least one smoker in the household — was drawn from the heavy chemical manufacturing areas of Bayonne and Elizabeth, N.J.

The study concluded that people living close to chemical, paint, plastics and petroleum processing plants "showed no greater exposures ... than persons living far away," he said.

Texas Wagon

Train registering

The Deaf Smith County Sesqui-centennial Committee recently learned that prospective wagon masters and riders wishing to participate in any part of the Texas Wagon Train next year need to get applications in soon.

The Texas Wagon Train Association will officially kick off the ride on Jan. 2 in Sulphur Springs, then wrap around the state and include a stop in Hereford.

A representative of the association was in Hereford recently and said that many of the slots in the wagon train were filled. Applications are available at the local Chamber of Commerce Office.

Meet Your Neighbor

By CINDY SMITH
Staff Writer

Theresa Gleeson spent the last four years in Quito and Guayaquil, which is on the coast of Ecuador.

Mary Nolan is from Pueblo, Colo., where she spent five years in pastoral ministry.

Mary Jean Ferry spent the last year in El Paso living with a Hispanic family in order to learn Spanish.

These three women are sisters of Charity of Blessed Virgin Mary and will be working in Hereford.

The sisters' mother-house, (headquarters) is in Dubuque, Iowa. The mother-house is made up of about 1300 sisters in the community, working in 25 different states and South America.

These three sisters are the first of their community to minister in the state of Texas — others have only studied here.

"Our Blessed Virgin Mary congregation was founded in 1833 by Mary Francis Clark," explained Mary Jean, "who had come from Dublin, Ireland, with four other young women to minister to the immigrants."

In 1983, the nuns said the B.V.M. community celebrated its 150th anniversary.

Said the nuns, "When a young woman decides to enter the community, she lives with the sisters and shares their ministry for a year. Then she goes to the mother house for a year of studies." After this, the young woman makes a commitment to God and to the people of God, to live simple and celibate lives.

The mission of the sisters is to seek out and be with those in need, wherever it may be.

Says Sister Mary Jean, "We all feel very drawn to be with the hispanic people, even though we are not Hispanic."

The sisters are trying to bridge the cultural gap found between different races.

"The reason we chose Hereford is because there is an organization called the Ministry Resource Center which suggested Hereford as a place to minister," explained Mary Jean.

The MRC of the southwest is located in Amarillo and they have done research to see where the greatest pastoral needs are. Hereford was designated as an area of great need.

The story of the sisters coming to town began with Father Joe Bixenman, of San Jose Catholic Church, who was working with dominican Sister Angelina Abeyta to find some special sisters to come to Hereford.

From there, interviews took place as Sister Angelina contacted both of the Mary's for the job.

"The first interview, back in January was very short," said Father Joe. He then asked the two Mary's up for a weekend to discuss the needs of the San Jose Catholic Church and a third sister had appeared.

In April, Father Joe introduced the sisters to the congregation. After receiving a very warm welcome, the three sisters agreed to stay in Hereford.

The sisters have been in Hereford for two weeks.

Their first impression was the overwhelming hospitality of the people.

People of the church painted the sisters' house, donated furniture and linens, and helped the nuns to move in.

The church had made available the second floor of the old hospital clinic of St. Joseph in the Labor Camp which was built in 1962.

Over the years, the second floor of the clinic had been used to house a parish priest, a deacon and his family, and now the three sisters.

One of several goals of the nuns is to make "our home and our table available for others to come, enjoy, and simply be."

The sisters have two different kinds of goals which are hard to separate which is which, they are so similar.

"We have those goals that are personal and community goals that are in addition to parish goals," said Sister Mary Nolan. "We all value prayer, communication, global awareness, hospitality and physical well-being."

In addition to being present to the people, the sisters also will be working in the areas of education, liturgy, and social action ministry.

"One of the things we want to accomplish while living in Hereford," said Sister Mary Jean, "is to enable leadership, rather than doing things for people. We want to help people to learn to assume responsibility for ministry."

And all of the nuns agreed. "We're not here to take other people's places or make changes," they said, "just to teach responsibility for ministry."

The nuns said the first year will be spent primarily in getting to know the people, their needs, their talents, and in supporting the people in what they are already doing.

To show their appreciation for the initial hospitality of the church and community, the nuns are hosting an open house Sunday at their home from after Mass to 4 p.m.

4-H Around the County

By LOUISE WALKER
County Extension Agent
What is 4-H?
4-H Is Fun

It's open to all boys and girls age 8 or 3rd grade to 19 regardless of socio/economic background, race, color, sex, religion, or national origin. We have several fun activities throughout the year, which offer something of interest to everyone. You'll meet all types of great people in 4-H.

4-H is Learning By Doing

Whether it's learning to bake bread, raise animals make a leather belt, or grow a garden — in 4-H you'll learn by doing it yourself. Of course we have lots of qualified, helpful 4-H Leaders to guide and teach you, but you'll be proud to say, "I learned all of this myself!"

4-H is Leadership

It's teaching others by several methods such as demonstrations, workshops, talks and exhibits. As 4-H'ers grow in their club, they learn the responsibility of accepting positions of leadership in their own clubs, and at district and state levels.

4-H is also a great deal of responsibility too! You'll learn how to keep records, take care of animals yourself and conduct meetings according to correct parliamentary procedure.

4-H Is Community Involvement

We in 4-H are always eager to get out in the community to help make it a better place to live. You'll see 4-H'ers at livestock shows, fashion revues and community celebrations. We're an involved bunch—Why don't you try us?

There are currently six 4-H Clubs in Deaf Smith County. 4-F's (Food, Fun and Fitness), Pioneers, Showmanship, Horse, Rabbit, and Shooting Sports. If these clubs do not fit your needs, we're always glad to organize a new club.

The 4-H Club program is an educational arm of Deaf Smith County Extension office and Texas Agricultural Extension Service Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socio-economic levels, race, color, sex, religion, handicap or national origin.

THE SET OF THE SOUL
By Bob Wear

IT IS POSSIBLE for us to cope successfully with the problems of life; and it is important to know, and very helpful, that our problems are never too big, unless we make them so. Some of these may seem big, but they will pass. Living is problem solving, perhaps it should be said that "problem solving" is one aspect of living.

IT HELPS to understand that, in the difficulties and problems which may arise or which we may create, it is not so much what is happening to us; but more of what is happening within us that determines whether we succeed or fail; and we can completely control what is happening within us.

IT HAS BEEN well said, "It is the set of the soul that determines the goal, and it is not the calm or the strife." If we act with wisdom, and Gondolas once glided along the canals of Venice in colorful trappings as nobles vied in display. But edicts in 1562 decreed "Henceforth one color for all." To this day, the craft remain unadorned hulls painted black.

Fall Sale

Breakfast served to club members

A breakfast of fruits and cookies were served to members of Garden Beautiful Club when the group met Friday morning in the home of Mrs. J.T. Gilbreath. Mrs. J.W. Witherspoon served as co-hostess.
President Inez Witherspoon called the meeting to order. Minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved and the treasurer's report was given.
Witherspoon gave a report on last year's Tour of Homes and explained that the club netted proceeds of $336. Of this amount, the club donated $310 to the Hereford Senior Citizens for beautification of the grounds.
Ruby Carmichael announced that the club had also donated $80 to Girlstown last year.
Members were asked to give garden tips for the fall. Louise Axe reported on 12 trees that are suitable for fall planting. Also, Rosalia Gilbreath reported that now is the time to spray for peach tree borers being careful not to spray the fruit.

The club voted to make a donation to the cancer fund in memory of Elizabeth McDowell, a former club president.
Yearbooks for 1985-86 were distributed by Marguerite Newell and Helen Spinks reported the work of her committee in revising the constitution. Several changes were approved by members.
Those present included Mmes. W.P. Axe, Ray Cowsert, C.V. Darden, E.W. Dettmann, W.B. Dowell, Bill Emmons, J.T. Gilbreath, W.W. Gilbreath, H.W. Havens, Francis Hill, Wayne Jones, Charles Newell, Charlie Noland, S.H. Sides and J.W. Witherspoon.
Flower arranging will be the subject discussed during the next club meeting planned at 9:30 a.m. Oct. 4 at the Hereford Community Center.

4-H Recruitment Night scheduled Thursday

The public is invited to the annual 4-H Recruitment Night at 7 p.m. Thursday in the Hereford Community Center.
A featured speaker will include Robert Devin of Amarillo, a 4-H specialist. Local 4-H'ers will also present short talks concerning various club activities in the area and each club will have a booth set up to view activities captured in photos.
This year a new club is forming and the club has a place for all kids age 8-12. The club project is to establish youth in a small animal project with baby calves. The local feedlots have baby calves to furnish boys and girls and to raise for market animals. The Young Farmers Stockshow is incorporating a show for these baby calves to be judged mainly on health and maintenance of the calf and over all knowledge obtained by the showman.
Other 4-H clubs to be represented are Horse, Showmanship, Shooting Sports, Rabbits, Pioneer and Food, and 4-Fs (Food, Fun and Fitness).

Each of these clubs offer a variety of fun projects and self motivation is a large feature in every 4-H'er's mind.

Smith of Tech is SWC offensive player of week

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

Timmy Smith isn't in this year's Texas Tech football media guide because it was thought scholastic problems would keep him out of school.

But Smith passed nine hours in the last semester of summer school to become eligible and, boy, is his home state of New Mexico unhappy about it.

Smith, a junior from Hobbs, N.M. rallied the Red Raiders to a 32-31 victory over the University of New Mexico Lobos last week to earn The AP's Associated Press Offensive Player of the Week honors.

Junior free safety Thomas Everett of Baylor returned a punt 75 yards for a touchdown, intercepted a pass, made 12 tackles (3 of them on goaline stands) in a 39-18 victory over Wyoming to earn The AP's Defensive Player of the Week honors.

"He's the best I've ever seen," said Baylor Coach Grant Teaff. "Van McElroy (A starter for the Los Angeles Raiders) was a great one and of course Jerry Gray at Texas was sensational.

"But Thomas can just do more than anybody I've seen. He can return punts. He defends the pass great and makes interceptions. And he tackles like a linebacker.

"Brother, can he hit!"

It was only Aug. 23 before Smith had his first practice in Coach Jerry Moore's wishbone offense, far behind other players who had spring work.

Smith didn't get into the New Mexico game until the second quarter with Tech trailing 14-0. On a third and one, he rushed for 10 yards as Tech marched to a field goal.

Trailing 31-10 late in the third period, Smith ran 31 yards for a touchdown. On the first play of the fourth quarter, Smith dashed 42 yards for a touchdown. He was injured on the play and suffered a left knee injury and will miss this week's Tulsa game.

Smith had 97 yards on 7 carries. Tech offensive coordinator Tom Wilson said, "Timmy played a great game. He is a bigtime back. He definitely broke the game open offensively for us with his touchdown run.

"He helped set our offensive tempo in the fourth quarter. You could see a major lift in the team."

As a runner, Wilson said Smith "produces tremendous leg strength and good open field vision. He does a lot of things the great backs do.

"He has a special knack of running that just can't teach."

Astros score 4-1 win over Giants

Knepper continues his sharp pitching

By The Associated Press

Houston lefthander Bob Knepper and the Astros are both peaking in a late-season surge.

The 67-69 Astros have won 11 of their last 13 games and Knepper has contributed with three straight wins and five wins in his last six decisions.

Knepper, 13-10, was sharp again Tuesday night in the Astrodome as he pitched a three-hitter against the San Francisco Giants in a 4-1 victory that was his sixth straight win over his former team.

Knepper logged six strikeouts, no walks and allowed only three baserunners as he retired the last 14 Giants.

"My last four or five games, I've pitched well," Knepper said. "I've changed my approach to pitching by being more aggressive and throwing more fastballs. I think my improvement is reflected by my lack of walks."

Houston remained in fourth place in the National League West as the Astros have struggled to overcome an 8-18 July.

"We collapsed in July but we're playing well now," Knepper said. "We may not win a pennant but it feels good that we finished strong."

Knepper knocked in one run and Kevin Bass singled in two more runs in the fourth inning.

San Francisco rookie third baseman Chris Brown continued a strong offensive showing as his fourth-inning, two-out homer was the only damage against Knepper.

Brown has 15 home runs and the best average of any National League rookie who has played 100 or more games.

"I normally don't hit lefties that well, but I've done well against Knepper with two homers," Brown said.

Loser Mike Krukow, 8-11, left the game after only 3 2-3 innings when Knepper's infield single struck him on the right thumb.

Cardinals 5, Mets 4

Whitey Herzog isn't in awe of Howard Johnson, but would have to concede that the New York Mets' third baseman does know how to end a dispute. And pick his pitches.

"It was a fastball right down the pipe. That's the only pitch he can hit. He can't hit a changeup or a breaking ball," the St. Louis manager said of the ball Johnson hit for a grand-slam homer Tuesday night.

That grand slam beat Herzog's Cardinals 5-4, gave them their fourth straight loss and removed them from first place in the National League East as the Mets assumed sole control for at least one night.

Johnson was the first batter after a bench-and-bulpen-clearing incident that stemmed from George Foster's being hit by a pitch from Cardinals starter Danny Cox. His ninth homer turned a 1-1 tie in the first inning into a 5-1 lead that Ron Darling and Roger McDowell barely held.

Mets Manager Dave Johnson said the altercation and Johnson's homer helped motivate his players. "You hate to see things like that interfere with the outcome of a ballgame," he said. "But any time a pitcher hits one of your players and the next guy hits a home run, it charges you up."

Padres 3, Reds 2

Ty Cobb's record was built to last, and it survived another night. Pete Rose went 0-for-4 in front of a sellout crowd of 51,045 and still has only 4,191 hits.

Garry Templeton had four hits to lead San Diego over Cincinnati and broke a 2-2 tie with an RBI single in the seventh. The spoilsport shortstop also put Rose out twice, on popups in the first and sixth innings.

Rose flew out to left field in his other two times at bat.

Pirates 2, Cubs 1

Rick Reuschel pitched his sixth straight complete game and struck out 12 batters, just one short of his career high. He gave up only eight hits, walked one batter, and the run he allowed was unearned.

Reuschel is 36 years old and has a rotator cuff injury, so just how is he 12-7?

"He's a lot stronger and a lot sharper with his pitches. A comeback like his happens but it doesn't happen very often," Cubs Manager Jim Frey said.

Reuschel lowered his ERA to 2.24, fourth best in the league. In his last 50 1-3 innings, he has allowed two earned runs for a 0.36 ERA.

Dodgers 10-10, Braves 1-4

Mariano Duncan batted in five runs and Rick Honeycutt pitched a five-hitter as Los Angeles crushed Atlanta in the opener. Greg Brock hit a grand slam in a tie-breaking, five-run seventh as the Dodgers mashed the Braves in the relatively tense nightcap.

The Dodgers are 11-3 against the Braves this year.

Len Matuszek and Mike Scioscia homered in the second game for Los Angeles; Dale Murphy hit his NL-leading 35th for the Braves.

Honeycutt, 8-12, had lost six of his last eight decisions. He also set off a five-run second inning with an RBI single. Pascual Perez, 1-10, lost again.

Phillies 5, Expos 2

Mike Schmidt's three-run homer with none out in the bottom of the 11th was his 27th of the season and No. 452 lifetime, tying him with former Boston Red Sox star Carl Yastrzemski on the all-time list.

Tim Wallach hit his 16th home run for Montreal and Mitch Webster homered for the fourth consecutive game, hitting his ninth of the year. His four home runs in four games is an Expos record.

Rose will try again tonight to break record

By JOE KAY and HAL BOCK
AP Sports Writers

CINCINNATI (AP) — Just because he's got 4,191 hits under his belt doesn't mean Pete Rose can produce one at will.

Not even an uproarious, confetti-flying, flashbulb-popping crowd of 51,045 at Riverfront Stadium could spur the Cincinnati Reds' player-manager into a hit Tuesday night that would make him baseball's most prolific hitter.

Rose came up empty in four heart-stopping at-bats, leaving him to share honors as baseball's hit king with Ty Cobb for at least one more night.

"Sure, I felt I was going to get a hit," Rose said, after popping out twice and flying out twice in the San Diego Padres' 3-2 victory Tuesday night. "I didn't know what kind it was going to be. My first three times up, there was nobody on base, and maybe I was trying to hit the ball too hard.

"A couple of pitches sailed on me, came up and in on me. Usually I don't swing at bad pitches. I might have been a little over-anxious."

With good reason. The capacity crowd had come expecting to see baseball history made with Rose's 4,192nd hit. Some had camped out overnight at the stadium to snap up a limited supply of standing-room tickets.

The crowd rose and chanted his name on each at-bat — a pop out to shortstop Garry Templeton in the first, a fly ball to left fielder Carmelo Martinez in the fourth, a pop to Templeton in the sixth, and another fly to Martinez in the eighth.

Later, Rose admitted disappointment that he didn't come through in his first start since tying Cobb in Chicago on Sunday.

"I hate to disappoint you people," Rose told a room crowded with reporters, "I hate to disappoint the fans, and I hate to lose. Other than that, I couldn't care less."

Rose plans to start again tonight against the Padres' Eric Show, a 29-year-old right-hander who throws a slider, sinker and fastball.

Tonight, he said, "I'll be more patient and concentrate on swinging at strikes."

So it's time to hold the confetti. It won't spoil. Keep the celebration in the on-deck circle. Maybe an extra day of anticipation will make it taste that much sweeter.

Ty Cobb, who's been in a terrible slump lately, rallied unexpectedly Tuesday night, thanks to a pair of San Diego pitchers who refused to give in to Pete Rose and inevitability.

Rose took an 0-for-4 collar from LaMarr Hoyt and Lance McCullers and will try again tonight for that sooner-or-later 4,192nd hit that will thrust him past Cobb as baseball's all-time hit leader.

When it became obvious that Rose would not get his milestone hit Tuesday night, market-minded Reds' management seized the opportunity to flash a scoreboard reminder that plenty of good seats were still on sale for tonight's game.

The Rose soap opera means extra business for the box office and it showed Tuesday night with Riverfront Stadium's first sellout since Opening Day, gathered for what most expected to be the landmark game.

Every time Rose came to the plate, many of the 51,045 fans set off a sea of camera flashbulbs that made the ballpark look like a Hollywood premiere. It might have shaken a mere mortal. It did not, however, upset Pete Rose.

"I might have been a little overanxious," he said. "I might have been trying too hard."

That did not translate to nervous, though, he insisted. No way. "Hey, I've made more outs than anybody in history," he said. "I don't get nervous."

Hoyt and McCullers, however, could be excused if they were a trifle jittery. They were the victims of circumstance, the poor souls who happened to be on the mound, holding the baseball when Rose stepped to the plate, waving that black bat of his at Cobb's record.

It was not an enviable assignment. Both men, however, survived nicely.

Hoyt, the starter, retired Rose three times, getting him to pop up a 3-1 pitch in the first inning, fly to left field on the first pitch in the fourth and pop up to short in the sixth.

Hoyt left for a pinch hitter in the seventh. When Rose next arrived at the plate in the eighth, the pitcher was McCullers, a 21-year-old rookie from Tampa, Fla., who used to watch Cincinnati's Big Red Machine in spring training a decade ago.

This was not a time for reminiscing, however, because Cincinnati had the tying run on second base.

The setting was perfect for the historic hit. It did not happen. Almost, but not quite.

McCullers' first pitch was a ball, which was not according to plan.

"I wanted to make a good pitch and get ahead of him," he said. "Instead I got behind."

So, instead of coming inside with the next pitch, the way he might have preferred, McCullers offered a fastball down and away. Rose swung and drilled a shot to left field.

The immediate reaction was base hit. Even McCullers thought so, for an instant. "He hit it good," the pitcher said.

Rose agreed. "I swung the bat good one time," he said. "The last time. I hit it right on the nose."

Left fielder Carmelo Martinez moved quickly to his right and pulled in the drive. McCullers was out of his jam and Rose's night was over.

In right field, paper flowed down from the packed stands in a premature, mistaken celebration. Some people refuse to cancel a party, no matter what.

When Pete Rose failed to get his 4,000th major league hit on April 11, 1984, in a game played as a member of the Montreal Expos at Cincinnati, the Cincinnati Reds' management was stuck with 28,000 certificates saying, "I was there for Pete Rose's 4,000th hit." Rose got hit number 4,000 on April 13, 1984 against the Philadelphia Phillies at Montreal.

Take the number of Super Bowls that have been played through 1985, multiply by par on the 18th hole at Pebble Beach, subtract the number of rounds fought between Larry Holmes and Carl ("The Truth") Williams, and divide by the number of NBA titles won by the Philadelphia 76ers.

PAYOFF: The above answer is also the number of games won by an infamous 1962 baseball team. Which one?

Yankees to try to work out deal with Tom Seaver

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Yankees have claimed 300-game winner Tom Seaver of the Chicago White Sox and will try to work out a deal for the 40-year-old veteran today, according to a report in the New York Daily News.

The News reported in today's editions that sources close to both Seaver and the White Sox said that details of a trade were being negotiated. A 48-hour waiver period will expire today.

No other American League club lower in the standings than the Yankees had claimed Seaver.

If a deal is not worked out between the two clubs, Chicago will remove Seaver from the waiver list today.

The Yankees, 13-10 winners in Milwaukee Tuesday night, have won 11 straight and 29 of 34. New York trails the Toronto Blue Jays by 1½ games in the American League East.

But despite the winning streak, the Yanks have been looking for help in the pitching department.

"All I can say right now is that the thought of coming back to New York is certainly attractive from a personal standpoint," the former New York Met told the News. "I haven't been told anything, but I'm not totally surprised by this, simply because our club has to decide which way they want to go next year. At least I have a say in this."

Rookie Texas pitcher loses debut

By ERIC PREWITT AP Sports Writer

Jose Guzman, a young right-hander being counted on for big things in the Texas Rangers' pitching future, made a generally good impression in his big league debut.

"He showed me a good arm. I know it was just his first game up here, but he's got a chance to be a good one," said Oakland A's Manager Jackie Moore, whose team broke a six-game losing streak by winning 10-3, scoring the first five runs off Guzman.

Big league hitters, especially Bruce Bochte, impressed Guzman, too. Bochte's two-out, two-run homer in the fifth inning snapped a 3-3 tie.

Guzman, 10-5 for the Rangers' Oklahoma City farm club this year, gave up four hits and just three earned runs in five innings. Two other recent additions to the Texas staff, Matt Williams and Ricky Wright, finished up.

In the A's five-run seventh, Dave Kingman came to the plate with the bases loaded and hit his 15th grand slam homer — tops among active major leaguers — off Williams. Kingman had been in a power slump, with just five homers since the All-Star break.

"He must have come out of it tonight," said Williams, whose fastball on a 3-1 count was pounced on by Kingman, whose 27th homer of the season was a blast to deep left-center.

Chris Codiroli, 11-12, pitched six-hit ball for 5 1-3 innings to get the victory, and A's relievers Keith Atherton, Steve Mura and Jay Howell shut out the Rangers over the final 3 2-3 innings.

The New York Yankees have won 11 consecutive games. No Yankee team has won so many in a row since the 1964 Yankees reeled off 11 straight. And the comparisons with the old Bronx Bombers don't end there.

The Yankees hit three more home runs Tuesday night in outlasting the Milwaukee Brewers 13-10. During the 11-game streak New York has produced 22 homers and now has hit 153 in 137 games.

The victory kept the Yankees 1½ games behind first-place Toronto in the American League East. The two teams meet in a four-game series starting Thursday night at Yankee Stadium.

Blue Jays 2, Tigers 1

In Toronto, Damaso Garcia singled in the seventh inning to snap a 1-1 tie and Doyle Alexander outpitched Jack Morris as the Blue Jays sent Detroit to its sixth straight defeat.

With one out in the seventh inning, Jesse Barfield singled and stole second. One out later Garcia singled to left to score Barfield. Alexander, 15-8, checked the Tigers on seven hits and twice pitched his way out of bases-loaded jams. He struck out eight and walked four.

Royals 6, Angels 0

At Anaheim, Frank White and Lonnie Smith hit two-run homers to back the three-hit pitching of Charlie Leibrandt as Kansas City blanked California to increase their lead over the Angels in the American League West to 1½ games.

The victory was Kansas City's ninth in its last 10 games and the Royals are now 32-15 since July 21, when they trailed the Angels by 7½ games.

Orioles 7-3, Red Sox 5-5

In Boston, Eddie Murray broke a tie with a two-run homer in a six-run Baltimore eighth inning and Mike Young hit a pair of homers in the first game of a doubleheader.

Wade Boggs doubled in the eighth inning of the first game for his 200th hit. Boggs has 200 or more hits the last three seasons.

Boggs came back with a 4-for-4 performance in the nightcap to raise his AL-leading batting average to .368 in support of Dennis "Oil Can" Boyd, 13-11, as Boston gained the split.

White Sox 7, Twins 2

In Chicago, Joel Davis, a 20-year-old rookie, outpitched veteran Bert Blyleven and Ron Kittle snapped a 2-2 sixth-inning tie with his 16th homer in leading the White Sox to victory over Minnesota.

Rudy Law went 4-for-5 for the Sox, drove in two runs, scored twice and stole two bases.

Indians 6, Mariners 5

In Seattle, Joe Carter drove in two runs with an inside-the-park home run and Mike Hargrove added two RBIs in a five-run fifth inning to lead Cleveland over Seattle.

From Rubble To Productivity

We are proud to announce that Hi-Plains Laboratory has returned to its original site at 1502 W. Park Ave. with a brand new home.

We have now rebuilt, 3½ years following the explosion which leveled our previous building, and we would like to extend our thanks to all our valued friends and customers who have shown patience, compassion and concern during this period. Antiques topic of program

Members of Veleda Study Club met Monday evening in the home of Carl and Betty McInroe for their first meeting of the 1985-86 club year.

McInroe presented a program on antiques in which he explained that his interest in the hobby began when he was a small boy. He also said that he had owned his own antique stores until approximately 10 years ago.

The speaker told the group about pre-Civil War pieces including grandfather clocks from Germany, Roman loveseats and stain glass from England. He was quoted as saying, "What our grandparents were anxious to throw away years ago has become our treasures of today."

Margaret Zinser was hostess for the evening assisted by the yearbook committee. They included Norma Walden, Donna Lindeman, Norma Martin and Juanita Brown.

Dinner for the evening was served in brown paper bags with pictures pasted on the sides depicting Texas' heritage. The bags were auctioned off to members for their dinner.

This year's theme for the club yearbook is "Texas Our Texas" and was presented by Walden who read a brief summary on the history of Texas.

President Marcella Bradley presided over the business meeting. It was announced that the group will next

Hospital Auxiliary members receive awards at meeting

Jim Bullard, Deaf Smith General Hospital administrator, presented various awards when members of the Hospital Auxiliary Board met Monday evening for a supper meeting in the Energas Flame Room.

During the awards ceremony, those receiving bars were Etoile Manning, Karen Barela, Mary Lou Spinhirne, Peg Hoff, Baxter London, Theda Seivers and Grace Covington. A total of 4,496 hours were served.

Olga Harris presented the program and several announcements were made. The District I Hospital Convention will be held Oct. 1 in Plainview. The auxiliary board will host the morning coffee at the Episcopal Church in Plainview.

Covington reported 221½ hours were served this month.

Those present included Covington, Bonnie Sublett, Helen Brown, Barela, Bertha Dettmann, Jane White, Lupe Cerda, Hoff, Harris, Irene Reinart, Seiver and Spinhirne.

Keeper of the Home

Public invited to attend workshop Monday evening

Janie Smith of Clovis, N.M. will present a workshop entitled "Keeper of the Home" beginning at 7:30 p.m. Monday at First Christian Church.

All members of Christians Womens Fellowship are encouraged to attend and bring a guest. A $1 donation will be collected to cover expenses. Refreshments will be served during the evening and a nursery will be provided.

To register call 364-0373.

The program will present a Christian perspective on delegating responsibility to children, organizing kitchens, closets and efficient housekeeping.

Wilson calls for dancers

Randy Wilson of Amarillo served as caller when members of Good Timers Square Dance Club met Friday evening for their regular dance at the Community Center.

Besides calling, Wilson also provided between tip entertainment by singing several country western songs.

It was announced that the group will be sponsoring a dance Oct. 25 to be called by Troy Ray of Fort Worth. All area square dancers are welcome to attend.

Members were reminded of the Top of Texas Square and Round Dance Association dance on Sept. 21 in Amarillo with Wayne Baldwin as caller.

The Good Timers next dance will be held Sept. 20 with Larry Barton of Pampa calling. Visitors are welcome.

Refreshments were served by Denise and Jerry Teel and Madeline and Tommy Rosson to those present.

STOP, THIEF!
WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — Summer is here, and prowlers are about.

But some simple home safety tips can help prevent your house from becoming a target, according to James Weaver.

Weaver, security manager for R.J. Reynolds Industries, says homeowners should remember what bothers burglars: noise, delay and risk. If you can make his entry noisy, time-consuming or too risky, you can keep a burglar at bay.

Don't discontinue your mail or newspaper service, says Weaver. Instead, arrange for a neighbor to pick up mail from your house each day, mow your yard, and take your trash to the curb on appropriate days. He also recommends leaving messages on your answering machine that gives the impression you will be back soon.

CLASSIFIED ADS
 Classified advertising rates are based on a minimum of 20 words. One day is 13 cents per word or $2.60 minimum. Rates below are for consecutive issues, no copy change, and apply to solid ad lines only.

TIMES	RATES	MIN.
1 day per word:	.13	2.60
2 days per word:	.22	4.40
3 days per word:	.31	6.20
4 days per word:	.40	8.00

5th day FREE
 Add 9 cents per word for additional days: 10 days (2 free) is 15.20 minimum; 15 days (3 free) is 22.40; month 77.50.

Classified display rates apply for special captions, paragraphing, bold type or larger type, and ads not set with full lines. $2.00 per column inch, $2 a column inch for additional insertions, or $1.75 a column inch per month.

LEGALS
 Advertising rates for legal notices are $3.50 per column inch for the first insertion and $3 per column inch for consecutive issues.

Deadlines for classified ads are 3 p.m. daily for the next day's edition; 3 p.m. Friday for Sunday's edition. Cash is required on advertisements under $10.

ERRORS
 Every effort is made to avoid errors in Classified Ads and legal notices. We will not be responsible for more than one incorrect insertion. Advertisers should call attention to any errors immediately after the first insertion. In case of errors not the fault of the advertiser, an additional insertion will be given.

Elmira seeks help from one of its own-Mark Twain

ELMIRA, N.Y. (AP) — Mark Twain was considered a shaggy dog when he spent summers here — a bushy-browed fellow who would shoot pool and trade yarns at Klapproth's Cafe, then go up to the Elmira Reformatory and talk with inmates. In Twain's day, Elmira was the booming Queen City of the Southern Tier and the knockabout writer had married above his station into the family of wealthy coal dealer Jervis Langdon. Now that Elmira — a city of 35,000 which sits along the middle of the New York-Pennsylvania border — has the most depressed urban economy in the state, with unemployment of 9.7 percent, city leaders hope Twain will come poling down the muddy

Chemung River to the rescue. Twain's crinkly eyes and mustache are showing up this year on everything from welcome signs on the highways to the crests of spoons in the Aloha Gift Shop. Tourism promoters want the world to know what scholars already recognize — that Twain spent some 20 summers in Elmira, writing "The Adventures of Huckleberry Finn," "The Prince and the Pauper," "Life on the Mississippi," and parts of other books, including "The Adventures of Tom Sawyer." Except for the occasional interruption from a visitor such as Rudyard Kipling, Twain found Elmira quieter and more conducive to writing than his winter home in Hartford, Conn. "I think it's largely Elmira's fault that we didn't call attention to it before," said Robert Jerome, director of the local Mark Twain Society. In the 150th anniversary of Twain's birth, the city is making up for lost time with a parade, a raft race, a tall-tales contest and even a Mark Twain Festival of Cats in honor of the author's love of felines. Tourists are pointed toward Twain's octagonal study, which has been transplanted to the downtown campus of Elmira College, and his simple grave in the Langdon family plot in Woodlawn Cemetery. Herbert Wisbey, a Twain scholar at Elmira College, says three cities are now recognized as important in the author's life: "Hannibal (Mo.), where he grew up; Hartford, where he had his home; and Elmira, where he did his writing."

LISTEN TO THE REST OF IT, MY FRIEND!

Arriving at the port of Ephesus, Paul left us aboard ship while he went over to the synagogue for a discussion with the Jews. They asked him to stay for a few days, but he felt that he had no time to lose. "I must by all means be at Jerusalem for the holiday," he said. But he promised to return to Ephesus later if God permitted; and so we set sail again.

The next stop was at the port of Caesarea from where he visited the church of Jerusalem and then sailed to Antioch. After spending some time there, he left for Turkey again, going through Galatia and Phrygia visiting all the believers, encouraging them and helping them grow in the Lord.

As it happened, a Jew named Apollos, a wonderful Bible teacher and preacher, had just arrived in Ephesus from Alexandria in Egypt. While he was in Egypt, someone had told him about John the Baptist and what John had said about Jesus, but that is all he knew. He had never heard the rest of the story! So he was preaching boldly and enthusiastically in the synagogue. "The Messiah is coming! Get ready to receive Him!" Priscilla and Aquila were there and heard him -- and it was a powerful sermon. Afterwards they met with him and explained what had happened to Jesus since the time of John, and all that it meant!

Apollos had been thinking about going to Greece, and the believers encouraged him in this. They wrote to their fellow believers there, telling them to welcome him. And upon arrival in Greece, he was greatly used of God to strengthen the church, for he powerfully refuted all the Jewish arguments in public debate, showing by the Scriptures that Jesus is indeed the Messiah. Acts 18:19-28

Elmira's business community was slow to see the potential in the Twain connection, says Holly Hewitt, director of tourism for the Chemung County Chamber of Commerce. "It's the hometown syndrome," she said. "People don't believe there's anything here people would want to see."

That wariness began to soften when about 20,000 people showed up in the rain to watch the Twain parade on May 17. The Chamber of Commerce has no figures on the economic impact of the tourism push. Ms. Hewitt likes to say that 800 people a week stop at a new information booth just north of the city, and that can't be bad.

"We all recognize that tourism is certainly never going to replace manufacturing employment in terms of importance to the community, but it can certainly bring in outside dollars," said Larry Bowman, executive vice president of the Chamber of Commerce. YOUR ad could be here!
