Bivins: School finance may stay in court

Rains lash Panhandle

By The Associated Press

As much as 10 inches of rain drenched portions of Collingsworth County in the eastern Panhandle during the night, triggering flash flooding on almost every road in the county.

A flash flood warning was in effect most of the night in Collingsworth County. Authorities reported that a bridge on Texas 338 between Wellington and Dodson was closed because of flooding.

Golf ball-sized hail was reported over the eastern half of the Panhandle and some baseball-sized hail pelted Borger and Miami.

The storms moved eastward into Oklahoma before dawn, but authorities expected the flooding to continue for several hours.

Isolated showers and thunderstorms are expected in West Texas and North Texas tonight and Thursday. In South Texas, the precipitation will be limited to the coastal plains and Lower Rio Grande Valley.

Lows tonight will be in the 60s and 70s in West Texas, the 70s in North Texas and in the 70s and 80s in South Texas.

Highs Thursday will be in the 90s except in the Big Bend area where readings will climb to near 105.

Early morning temperatures were in the 70s in West Texas and in the 70s and 80s elsewhere. Extremes ranged from 65 at Marfa to 84 at El Paso.

Other early morning temperatures around the state included 68 at Amarillo, 75 at Wichita Falls, 80 at Fort Worth, 78 at Waco, Austin and San Antonio, 80 at Houston, 79 at Corpus Christi, 79 at Brownsville and San Angelo, 76 at Lubbock and 78 at Midland.

Calvin moves north; 28 die in hurricane

ACAPULCO, Mexico (AP) - Dangerous winds and pounding seas closed seaports and airports as Hurricane Calvin crept northward today along Mexico's Pacific coast. Storm-related accidents killed 28 people and 14,000 were forced from their homes by floods, the government news agency said.

Civil defense officials reported three of the dead drowned off this famed resort as heavy rain and winds up to 100 mph lashed many of Mexico's most famous beach retreats.

At 5 a.m. EDT today, Calvin's center was about 30 miles south of Punta Tejupan, and the storm was moving northwest at about 12 mph, according to the National Hurricane Center at Coral Gables, Fla.

The center said the hurricane was expected to follow a northwest course about 40 miles off shore through tonight, but a "slight wobble" could bring it to shore.

The storm is nearing Lazaro Cardenas and the Playa Azul resort area, where a Norwegian tanker carrying 4,000 tons of corrosive sulfuric acid has been beached for days. The navy said there was no immediate danger of leakage.

Water was waist-deep in some places.

Grand jury to continue

A Deaf Smith County grand jury that was impaneled in January for a six-month term has been extended to complete an investigation initiated before the term ended in June.

Deaf Smith Criminal District Attorney Roland Saul, who normally would present evidence to the grand jury, withdrew from the investigation on June 28.

Terry McEachern, Hale County district attorney, is conducting the grand jury investigation "concerning Whiteface Ford-Lincoln-Mercury."

Saul said he withdrew from the investigation because of acquaintance with some of the people involved.

The grand jury will meet again on July 22 to consider evidence and information.

A new grand jury for the July-December term will be impaneled on July 15.

Post-meeting discussion

Tokyo summit begins with trade agreement

TOKYO (AP) - In ritual as elaborate as a Japanese tea ceremony, leaders of the world's richest industrial democracies today convened their annual economic summit buoyed by a last-minute agreement on trade.

"We're off to a good start," President Clinton declared as the three-day, seven-nation meeting got under way. He cheered the agreement to lower trade barriers on a wide range of manufactured goods.

Designed to prod stalled world trade negotiations, the pact was reached a mere hour before the 19th annual economic summit opened with a reception at the Akasaka palace in the heart of Tokyo. Details of the deal were sketchy.

Despite the trade breakthrough and the opening day pomp, leaders acknowledged economic uneasiness at home and tensions among themselves.

"This will certainly not be a summit of quick fixes," said Dieter Vogel, a spokesman for Germany's Chancellor Helmut Kohl. "It will be a summit of sober reflection and it will be rather hard to find common ground for all of our decisions."

Summit partners - the United States, Britain, France, Germany, Canada, Italy and Japan - are battling stagnant economies and have found themselves hamstrung by crises like the war in Bosnia.

Today's talks were focusing on the strife in the former Yugoslavia as well as other political issues such as the spread of nuclear weapons, Iraq's belligerence and international terrorism.

Summit partners also were expected to discuss helping the struggling government of Russian President Boris Yeltsin, who formally addresses the gathering on Friday.

Japan's Prime Minister Kiichi Miyazawa looked every inch the general host, chatted with each of the arriving leaders before ushering them into the palace's Hall of Flowers and Birds.

Miyazawa lost a parliamentary vote of confidence three weeks ago that brought down his government. He is expected to lose his job after a July 18 election.

While Miyazawa marked the end of his time on the world stage, others were making their summit debut - President Clinton, Canada's Prime Minister Kim Campbell and Italy's Premier Carlo Ciampi.

The United States and the other countries hailed the trade agreement as a breakthrough that would allow them to return to Geneva next week and resume bargaining in a final effort to get an international trade agreement by Dec. 15.

"This represents the largest tariff cut in history," said U.S. Trade Representative Mickey Kantor.

But it remained to be seen whether developing countries that are also part of the 114-nation negotiations would be as pleased. One possible sticking point: a U.S. refusal to fully commit to a 50 percent reduction in tariffs that protect U.S. textiles.

Clinton called the breakthrough "very encouraging news."

Yet he was more stern on a separate trade issue - America's annual $50-billion trade deficit with Japan.

"Our economic relationship is not in balance," Clinton told students at Waseda University in downtown Tokyo. "It is clear that our markets are more open to your products and your investments than yours are to ours."

The imbalance has "fueled resentment in our country both from workers and from businesses," he said, calling for strong measures to reduce the imbalance.

On the eve of the summit, both U.S. and Japanese officials raised the possibility of finally agreeing to a market-opening framework agreement. Clinton said further delay on the agreement could increase trade tensions and poison the U.S.-Japanese relationship.

Others, however, said portraying homosexuality as normal behavior promotes it or is part of an effort to improperly set values.

For example, Austin parent Michael Cochran said, one book up for state adoption defines "homophobia" as "an irrational fear of homosexuals," which he said would lead students to believe that those who oppose homosexuality border on being mentally ill.

"The choice of words, teaming 'irrational' and 'fear,' make the normal people appear abnormal and the abnormal people appear normal," said Peggy Bower of the Eagle Forum of Austin.

Paul Lindsey, associate education commissioner for school support, described such testimony as "a pretty typical debate" about sex education.

"The overall quality, I think, of all the textbooks is improved from years past," Lindsey added.

The textbook adoption process has undergone intense scrutiny since late 1991, when numerous errors were found in proposed U.S. history books. Publishers were fined and required to make corrections.

The Texas Legislature had 30 days to come up with a school finance plan and they used a "baling wire approach to repair a barbed-wire fence," State Sen. Teel Bivins told a small audience at a town hall meeting here Tuesday afternoon.

About 30 citizens attended the meeting at Hereford Community Center Tuesday from 4 to 5 p.m.

Bivins, Republican senator from Amarillo, said the school finance issue may remain in court until the legislature comes up with a constitutional amendment that the people will accept.

On a brighter note, said Bivins, "West Texas may be as well situated, politically, as it has ever been in state government." The senator pointed to key chairman posts held by Panhandle and South Plains legislators, including House Speaker Pete Laney of Hale Center, Sen. John Montford of Lubbock, Rep. Robert Junell of San Angelo, and Rep. John Smithee of Amarillo. Bivins also has key spots in appropriations and agriculture.

While this area is outnumbered, Bivins said the people "get more involved with the issues and that also helps our cause."

For the first time in 10 years, said Bivins, the legislature approved a budget that holds the line and has no new taxes. He said Gov. Ann Richards and Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock helped with the budget procedure when they took a stand against any new taxes.

The senator said the recent legislative session produced some giant strides in workers insurance compensation reform, product liability reform, and the trucking industry. He added that a plan to build regional state jails, if bonds are approved by voters in November, "may help us to turn the corner on the criminal justice crisis."

If that plan is approved, convicted felons would start serving about 75 percent of their sentences, instead of the average of 20 days for each year of their sentence now.

Commenting on the controversial bill on the right to carry a gun, Bivins said both houses finally approved a bill, but Gov. Richards announced she would veto it. The Senate and House worked out a compromise plan that would have presented the issue to the voters, but Gov. Richards said she would veto that measure, also. He criticized the governor for that decision.

Bivins held a brief question-and-answer period at the close of the one-hour public meeting.

Michael Salinas 'doing great' following surgery

A Hereford man who underwent a transplant of a kidney after the death of his mother is reportedly "doing great" in a Dallas hospital.

Rose Lee Salinas died June 27 but left her vital organs for transplant. Her son, Michael Salinas, 29, a dialysis patient, was determined to be an appropriate beneficiary of a kidney from his mother and underwent the surgery on June 28.

Lorena Condarco, sister of Rose Lee Salinas, said Tuesday that her nephew is progressing satisfactorily and was allowed short furloughs from Methodist Hospital over the July 4th holiday.

"He's been depressed some, about the death of his mother," said Mrs. Condarco, "but he's doing better. He wants me to bring his video tape collection to him."

Salinas has showed no symptoms of rejection of the organ, his aunt said, adding, "the kidney is working perfectly."

She said Salinas probably will remain in the Dallas area for several months after discharge from the hospital because of continued monitoring of his condition. Her daughter, Leticia Gomez of Grand Prairie, is assisting with his recuperation.

Perot supporters shun call for 'radical middle'

WASHINGTON (AP) - Ross Perot's supporters are ignoring entreaties from the major political parties to form a powerful "radical middle" in American politics anchored by a deep alienation from government, according to a study released today.

The national survey of 1,200 Perot voters showed strong allegiance to Perot despite doubts about his own ability to serve as president and many policy differences within the Perot constituency.

More than loyalty to Perot, the research attributed this solidarity to a distinct reluctance of these independent-minded voters to align themselves with the Democratic or Republican parties.

The study was commissioned by the Democratic Leadership Council to help it map a strategy for Clinton to court Perot supporters.

The poll and a series of subsequent "focus group" discussions with Perot supporters in California, Ohio and Maine showed many shared Clinton's policy goals and were open to supporting him - if he delivered on deficit-reduction, welfare reform and other major promises.

But it also showed Perot supporters are skeptical that Clinton can produce, that they are full of doubts about his leadership abilities and experience and also deeply pessimistic that any president can tame Washington.

"They fully expect a corrupt, gridlocked system to keep any leader from succeeding and helping people," said Stanley Greenberg, who conducted the research for the DLC and who also works as Clinton's pollster.

The DLC, a maverick, moderate party organization Clinton led before entering the presidential race, is often at odds with the party's traditional liberal ideology.

Using Greenberg's research, the DLC said Clinton's proposals to streamline and "reinvent government," limit most welfare recipients to two years' benefits and allow students to repay college loans with national service had the collective potential to win over many Perot backers by proving to them Clinton can make government work.

The poll, which was conducted in late April and with the focus groups in May, said alienation from government was the glue holding together the diverse coalition that gave Perot nearly 20 percent of the vote last November.

That solidarity defies the history of past independent and third-party candidacies, whose supporters began trickling back to the major parties soon after elections.

"The Perot bloc is radical in its alienation from the established parties - forming a kind of radical middle bloc - divided evenly between conservatives and liberal-moderates," Greenberg wrote.

Below the shared anti-establishment sentiment, however, Greenberg found considerable divisions within the Perot bloc.

This group split evenly, for example, when asked whether the Democrats or Republicans were best suited to run the economy, cut wasteful government spending and improve family values.

Republicans had an edge among Perot voters on the issue of taxes, and among Perot supporters who believe the middle class gets a raw deal from its government.

But despite a largely Republican voting history, most Perot voters share Clinton's support of abortion rights and are "worried about a Republican Party preoccupied with abortion and the Christian right," Greenberg wrote.

The poll and focus group reports also suggest that conventional analyses casting Perot supporters as obsessed with cutting the federal budget deficit are too simplistic.

Lottery ticket sale attracting buyers from other states

AUSTIN (AP) - Folks spilled over into Texas from several states and even from Mexico in hopes of going home with tonight's $50 million Lotto Texas jackpot.

Lottery officials were watching closely to see if the single-day sales record of $24 million would be broken today. That mark was set May 1, helping the state reach the previous record jackpot of $48.6 million.

"May 1st was on a Saturday and this jackpot falls on a Wednesday, so we will see how many people take a break from work to go buy tickets," said Carmen Luevanos, a lottery spokeswoman.

Delsie Scott, a clerk in a gas station in Waskom, an hour's drive from Shreveport, La., said folks from as far as Florida had come looking to take a Texas-sized jackpot back home with them.

"We had some vacationers from Florida who said they heard about the jackpot and immediately looked for a place to buy tickets," said Ms. Scott, who could barely grant a telephone interview because she was so busy ringing the cash register.

"They just keep coming," she said. "Most of them are coming across the border from Louisiana."

"It's just crazy, and I'm sure it's only going to get worse" as the drawing nears.

Ms. Luevanos said more than $3.1 million worth of tickets had been sold by 3 p.m. Tuesday.

The $48.6 million jackpot of May 1 was split by 14 winners, many of whom said they were relieved to be sharing the winnings because $50 million was too much for one person.

Several lotto players in Austin said they would have no problem spending the money.

"I could handle it," said Matt Jones, a 38-year-old attorney who bought four tickets. "So could my family because I would make them millionaires too."

Die-hard lotto players will stop at nothing to get to a ticket outlet.

But $50 million could even help Donald Trump pay a few bills and so usual lotto spectators suddenly become players.

"I'll play for $50 million, but I don't want anyone at work to know I'm playing because I usually poke fun at the people who play," said an Austin woman who asked not to be identified. "I always tell them they will never win, but, gosh, I hope I win."

The big stakes also bring a closer look at the lotto game.

Lotto Texas claims there is a 1-in-16 million chance of winning. If there are only 16 million combinations for the six number sequences, what's to keep a tycoon from strolling into the local gas station and plopping down $16 million to ensure buying the winning ticket?

Any financial adviser would tell you $16 million for $50 million is a no-brainer investment.

But Ms. Luevanos says there is an informal safeguard against such a maneuver - human patience.

"First of all, you have to pencil in all the playslips and stand there the whole time the clerk is going to ring up 16 million tickets," Ms. Luevanos said. "It's doubtful a retailer is going to let you ring up $16 million worth of sales because it would take all day and they all have to be done individually."

"Not only that, the other Lotto Texas players behind you would probably lose their patience," Ms. Luevanos said, chuckling.

Flooding spreads along Mississippi

WEST ALTON, Mo. (AP) - With the Mississippi River two miles out of its bed, the 500 residents of this town were the latest ordered to evacuate because the surging river was threatening levees.

The deadly flooding, which has spread to other rivers in the region, has been blamed for 12 deaths throughout the Midwest and billions of dollars in damage.

In West Alton, a group of 150 volunteers gave up the fight against the rain-swollen river Tuesday after more than two days of stacking sandbags when the National Weather Service decided the river would crest 2 feet higher than they first thought.

"It's going to wipe the whole town out," said Paul Luster, who moved some of his furniture out of his house Sunday and the rest of his belongs to the second floor. "What they're predicting, it's not going to be safe."

That's getting to be the case all over the Midwest. At St. Louis, the Mississippi was at 38.1 feet, 8.1 feet over flood stage and within range of the record 43.3 feet reached during what has come to be known as the Great Flood of 1973.

The water isn't likely to recede soon. Rain keeps falling upstream and the Mississippi hit record levels Tuesday at some Iowa towns and kept rising. The Red Cross opened three new shelters in Missouri and six in Iowa.

Missouri Gov. Mel Carnahan toured some of the flooded areas of St. Charles County in a National Guard helicopter Tuesday and later toured West Alton by car.

Iowa Gov. Terry Branstad toured the Burlington area Tuesday and called up 80 more National Guard members for sandbagging, bringing the total in that state to nearly 600.

The Guard also was helping out with evacuations and sandbagging in Illinois and Missouri.

Some of the worst flooding was in Davenport, Iowa, which has no levees or flood walls.

The Mississippi appeared to have crested there at 22 feet Monday and was down slightly Tuesday. But because of more heavy rain in Iowa, Wisconsin and Minnesota, it was expected to rise again today, cresting at 22.4 feet, just short of the record 22.5 feet set in 1965. Flood stage is 15 feet.

Downstream, the river hit a record 22.5 feet Tuesday at Burlington, Iowa, and was expected to climb another foot by Friday. Flood stage is 15 feet. The river also hit a record 23.8 feet at Keokuk, Iowa, with an additional 2.7 feet expected by Friday. Flood stage is 16 feet.

In Keokuk, the flood even chased the Coast Guard from its control center, forcing workers to relocate to a hotel.

Farmers are taking the worst financial hit with farmland too wet to plant in some places and crops underwater for days in others.

Agriculture Secretary Mike Espy, who toured Iowa, Minnesota, South Dakota and Wisconsin last week, said Tuesday he would let farmers use certain farm programs to cut their losses.

People who make their living transporting goods up and down the Mississippi also have suffered.

A 436-mile stretch from East Dubuque, Ill., at the southern edge of Wisconsin, to near Lock and Dam No. 26 just north of St. Louis remained closed indefinitely.

Even motorists and gamblers were affected. A stretch of Interstate 80 in Iowa was closed Tuesday after water from the Iowa River flowed onto the highway.

Rail and truck traffic has been rerouted around submerged areas in Iowa and Illinois, and overflowing rivers have restricted or shut down the operations of four riverboat casinos in Iowa and Illinois.

The environment is the top concern among today's young teenagers, followed by pregnancy issues and drug and alcohol abuse. The ranking of concerns is derived from more than 12,000 letters written by seventh and eighth-graders to their U.S. representatives through the RespecTeen "Speak for Yourself" social studies curriculum.

While the top issues have been fairly consistent since the program began in 1989, there are a few newcomers to the 1993 list. Students recognize discrimination as an increasingly important problem. Forty-five percent of the students who addressed this issue have experienced racial discrimination firsthand. Criminal justice also received greater attention this year with students expressing their concerns about car-jacking, rape, murder and kidnapping. Domestic policy also appears on the top ten list for the first time this year. According to the letters in this category, the issues surrounding domestic policy are both challenging and emotional. Students are faced with problems from family unemployment to breaking the welfare cycle.

Following are the top ten issues in the students' letters and the number of letters written about each issue:

- 1) Environment
- 2) Pregnancy Issues
- 3) Drug/Alcohol Abuse
- 4) Education
- 5) AIDS/STDs
- 6) Discrimination
- 7) Criminal Justice
- 8) Homelessness
- 9) Gun Control
- 10) Domestic Policy

"These letters show that young people are concerned about major issues and are committed to improving the future," said Barbara Glass, author of the "Speak for Yourself" curriculum. "They forge ahead in their letters and offer practical, insightful solutions to the problems facing their generation."

The RespecTeen "Speak for Yourself" curriculum was distributed nationwide last fall. The curriculum encourages young people to examine issues that affect their lives, teaches them how to express their views on public policy and works towards change in social issues.

The RespecTeen National Youth Forum is part of a nationwide program sponsored by Lutheran Brotherhood called: "RespecTeen: Helping Parents and Teens Respect Each Other and Themselves." The RespecTeen program includes two primary components: 1) needs assessment research and programs to address youth needs at the community level; and 2) a national public information campaign which includes the National Youth Forum, public service announcements, service learning and family volunteerism.

Lutheran Brotherhood is a fraternal benefit society with more than one million members nationwide. It offers a broad range of financial products and services to Lutherans. Through its fraternal (charitable and benevolent) resources, it aids its members and their communities.

LONDON (AP) - Mel Gibson got a public apology from a tabloid newspaper that said he criticized other movie stars for accepting risqué roles, his lawyer said Tuesday.

The Daily Express published a story in April saying Gibson was critical of such stars as Madonna, Sharon Stone, Kim Basinger and Richard Gere for accepting "obscene" movie roles.

Gibson's lawyer, Michael Skrein, told the High Court the Australian-born actor did not make those remarks or any like them.

Gibson wasn't in court to hear the apology. The newspaper agreed to pay his legal costs.

Rampley performs well in national AAU tourney

The Young Guns, a basketball team that included Hereford's Julie Rampley, won three games but didn't place at the national AAU 12-and-under girls' basketball tournament, which was held June 25-July 2 in Hartford, Conn.

Rampley's team won two out of three games in pool play and advanced to the double elimination bracket in good shape. The team won the first game 38-28 over a team from Virginia, but it lost the next two games and was eliminated.

Rampley had her best game in the second game of bracket play, a 51-50 overtime loss to the Shooting Stars from Duncanville, near Dallas. Rampley hit two free throws to give her team a two point lead with 24 seconds left, according to her father, Doug Rampley, but the Duncanville team came back to tie and win in OT. Julie totaled 21 points, 12 rebounds and 7 steals in that game.

A 45-40 loss to an Oklahoma team knocked the Young Guns from the tournament.

The Young Guns was mostly made up of girls from the New Mexico towns of Clovis and Portales. The team won the New Mexico state tournament, then picked up Rampley and two girls from Colorado just for the national tournament. AAU rules allow a team to pick up as many as three players for the national tournament.

Julie, the daughter of Doug and Sherree Rampley, played with the Hereford Heat during the regular AAU season. The Heat finished third at the regional tournament in Amarillo, narrowly missing a berth in the 58-team national tournament.

Aikman's rehab going quickly

IRVING, Texas (AP) - Troy Aikman's doctor predicted 12 weeks of rehabilitation before the Dallas Cowboys quarterback could safely return to action after back surgery.

After about two of those 12 weeks, the Super Bowl's most valuable player made his own schedule.

Aikman, who underwent surgery June 19 to repair a herniated disc, says he'll be in Austin when the team opens training camp next week. He expects to play in two preseason games so he'll be in shape for the Sept. 6 opener against Washington.

"I am anticipating reporting with the team come a week from Thursday and begin some light throwing at that time," Aikman said Tuesday in a conference call from Los Angeles, where he is recuperating.

Dr. Robert Watkins, who performed the surgery, has said Aikman could play it safe and stay out for close to three months.

But under Aikman's timetable, he'll go through his first full workout in five or six more weeks - leaving him plenty of time to be ready for the Washington game.

"I've been joking around with the therapist and the doctor," Aikman said. "I've kind of set my own schedule for myself and I've just got to keep them informed as to what it is."

On Monday, Aikman began a rehabilitation regimen of strength and flexibility exercises that don't stress his lower back.

Therapists told him he started workouts a week earlier than most people would after such surgery.

"I think they (therapists) were a little surprised that I was able to do some of the exercises," he said.

The resilient quarterback added he doesn't understand the pessimism surrounding his comeback.

"No one seems to be as optimistic as I am, is what the problem is," he said.

Aikman said he'll continue light workouts until about the first week in August, when the Cowboys leave for London to play the Detroit Lions.

Aikman said he plans to spend that week rehabilitating in Los Angeles before meeting the team back in Austin to start full-speed workouts.

"If coach (Jimmy) Johnson tells me I need to get in two preseason ball games in order to be ready to play, then that's what I'm going to try to accomplish," he said.

Aikman said he occasionally felt pain in his lower back dating back to his college days at UCLA. He sought medical help after feeling a strain while squat lifting 300 pounds this spring.

Pats sign Bledsoe to big-money deal

By HOWARD ULMAN
AP Sports Writer

BOSTON (AP) - Drew Bledsoe needs time to get used to his overnight rise to riches, just as he'll need patience before New England Patriots coach Bill Parcells lets him quarterback the team.

He hopes the second adjustment comes sooner than the first.

"Money doesn't bring status," the top choice in April's NFL draft said Tuesday after signing a six-year contract. "A big goal of mine is to change as little as possible because I'm pretty happy right now."

The contract "is the heaviest commitment that a team has ever made" to a draft choice, said Leigh Steinberg, Bledsoe's agent.

Steinberg said the deal, signed nine days before training camp, is worth an average of $2.48 million per year, placing its value at $14.88 million. A $4.5 million signing bonus was paid up front.

Parcells, who was not at the news conference, has said he "won't throw him to the wolves" by using Bledsoe before he is ready.

The quarterback, who left Washington State after his junior year, said he wants to make a speedy transition to the pro game, then leave it up to Parcells and offensive coordinator Ray Perkins to decide "when I'm ready to make a contribution."

After attending camps with other

Patriots rookies, Bledsoe said, "I'm pretty comfortable (with the offense). It's not mine yet. I haven't gotten to the point where I think about the language of the offense."

Nor does he speak the language of affluence.

Before the news conference, he bought a red and blue tie for his powder blue shirt. But the jeans he wore showed his recent status as a 21-year-old college student.

So did his plans for the rest of the day.

Bledsoe had been driving his Chevrolet Suburban across country from Washington state with three friends when he was interrupted in South Dakota with word the agreement was near.

He flew to Boston Monday night, but was eager to rejoin his friends in Chicago to complete the journey to his new hometown.

"I'll meet them there, probably find the wreckage (of the truck) on the side of the road," he joked.

"There's no way I can say (wealth) doesn't change you as a person, because there is a great deal of responsibility to young people," he said. "I'm still going to be the same guy" to his parents and friends.

Bledsoe said he plans to set up a scholarship at Washington State and help pay for a new track at his high school. Bledsoe also intends to contribute $5,000 for each Patriot win to a Boston charity, Steinberg said.

Rangers surge despite injuries

MILWAUKEE (AP) - Less than two weeks ago, the Texas Rangers were a mess.

Sitting in his office at Arlington Stadium, rookie manager Kevin Kennedy bemoaned a disastrous road trip. The day before, he held a mandatory practice on an off day. That night, he put slugger Jose Canseco on the disabled list for the rest of the season.

Things seemed to be slipping away fast, but Kennedy refused to get down. Like most managers, he muttered a few encouraging cliches and vowed that a turnaround was imminent.

So far, he's been right. The Rangers have since gone 8-2 and moved back into contention in the American League West. An 11-1 thumping of the Milwaukee Brewers Tuesday night gave the Rangers a 40-41 record at the season's halfway point, two games behind division co-leaders Kansas City and Chicago.

Though teams traditionally reflect on their seasons at the All-Star break, Texas can build on its recent success as it charges into next week's midseason layoff.

"You can't play any worse than we played in June and we're still in a pennant race," Kennedy said after Tuesday night's victory. "That's very encouraging.

"I think we've seen a lot of plusses - No. 1, we've been in almost every single game we've played, even throughout a tough, tough month of June. Sure, it's obviously our division, but it's a credit to the ballclub and the players because they've never quit."

Big league manager Lou Piniella was the American League rookie-of-the-year in 1969.

Ex-Jet Byrd to join CBS

NEW YORK (AP) - Six months ago, Dennis Byrd literally took the first step in his recovery from a broken neck. Now, he's taken the first step toward a new career.

CBS Sports announced Tuesday it had signed Byrd as a football analyst for six games this season. Byrd's football career with the

New York Jets ended abruptly last Nov. 29 after a scary collision with a teammate in a game against Kansas City.

Ryan aims to return July 19

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) - Texas Rangers pitcher Nolan Ryan is expected to throw about 90 pitches at full-speed Wednesday for the first time since going on the disabled list two months ago.

"He's going to throw all his pitches at high intensity for the first time," Rangers spokesman John Blake said Tuesday from Milwaukee.

Ryan has been throwing for several days and has not felt any stiffness in his right arm or hip during his workouts at Arlington Stadium with former Texas pitching coach Tom House, Blake said.

Various injuries have limited Ryan, the all-time strikeout and no-hit king, to three starts this year. He's scheduled to return July 19 at home against Milwaukee.

"It's not etched in stone or anything. That's only a target date if everything works out," Blake said. Ryan was slowed early this season by arthroscopic surgery to repair damaged knee ligaments, then went on the disabled list May 17 after straining his left hip.

A few weeks later, he accidentally cut his foot by stepping on the blade of a water ski.

Stewart's pitching puts end to Toronto's slide

By The Associated Press
Just when it seemed Toronto was about to waste the rest of its lead in the AL East, Dave Stewart came through with the type of game that made him a four-time 20-game winner.

"Stewart certainly built up a reputation for picking guys up in Oakland," Paul Molitor said.

That's what he did for the Blue Jays on Tuesday night. Stewart allowed five hits in six shutout innings and Pat Borders drove in two runs as the Toronto beat the Chicago White Sox 5-1 Tuesday night and stopped its season-high losing streak at five games.

"I've always felt that the players had confidence in me in those situations, and that helps my concentration," Stewart said.

Toronto increased its lead to two games over the second-place New York Yankees, who are struggling on the West Coast. Stewart (4-3) allowed baserunners in the first six innings, but pitched out of trouble all night for his 150th career victory.

Rangers 11, Brewers 1
Dean Palmer drove in a career-high six runs as visiting Texas got 17 hits and won its fourth straight.

His three-run homer capped a four-run first inning and his bases-loaded double highlighted a five-run sixth.

Julio Franco was 4-for-4 with three runs scored and two RBIs. Charlie Leibrandt (8-4) won for the first time in four starts since May 15, allowing one run and six hits in seven innings with six strikeouts and one walk.

Bill Wegman (4-14) was tagged for five runs on nine hits in two innings.

Tigers 4, Twins 1
John Doherty (8-4) allowed six hits in seven-plus innings and Mickey Tettleton hit his major league-leading 23rd home run as Detroit stopped a 10-game road losing streak.

Twins starter Willie Banks (5-6) committed two run-scoring errors in a three-run fifth, walked two batters and allowed two hits.

Mike Henneman pitched two innings for his 13th save.

Mariners 12, Yankees 4
Dave Magadan drove in four runs at the Kingdome, including a three-run triple in a six-run seventh. Bill Haselman had three hits, including two doubles, and Mike Blowers hit his fifth home run this season.

Erik Hanson (7-6) gave up four runs and seven hits in eight innings, struck out four and walked none. Jim Abbott (5-8) gave up six runs - four earned - and six hits in five innings with five walks.

Orioles 8, Royals 0
Jamie Moyer (5-3) pitched a four-hitter for his first complete game since Aug. 3, 1990.

Jeffrey Hammonds drove in three runs, and Mark McLemore and Mike Devereaux drove in two each as visiting Baltimore snapped the Royals' four-game winning streak.

Mark Gardner (4-6) allowed five runs and seven hits in four innings.

Indians 11, Athletics 8
Pinch-hitter Carlos Martinez connected for a three-run homer off Vince Horsman in the ninth as visiting Cleveland won for the 13th time in 16 games. The Indians wasted leads of 6-1 and 8-5.

With the score tied at 8-all, Felix Fermin singled off Rich Gossage (4-4). One out later, Kenny Lofton reached on an infield single and Martinez followed with his fifth home run.

Angels 3, Red Sox 2
Gary DiSarcina singled home the winning run in the ninth, and Chuck Finley (10-6) pitched a six-hitter for his sixth complete game as California stopped Boston's five-game winning streak and won for just the second time in nine games.

Joe Hesketh (3-4) relieved Danny Darwin to start the ninth and walked pinch-hitter Damon Easley. J.T. Snow sacrificed, and Ken Ryan struck out Rene Gonzales before DiSarcina's single.

Davis drives in 3 in Dodger win

By DICK BRINSTER
AP Sports Writer
Who said Eric Davis is washed up? Practically everybody.

But a closer examination of the numbers - at least on the Los Angeles Dodgers' current road trip - shows the 31-year-old outfielder may have something left after all.

"I think I'm headed in the right direction," Davis said Tuesday night after leading the Dodgers to a 7-5 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies.

Davis is 7-for-18 on the road trip, a .388 pace. He had three hits Tuesday, including his eighth homer - he hit just five all of last season - and drove in three runs. But Davis, now batting .235 after a dreadful start, knows he has a long way to go to approach the kind of numbers he put as one of the league's most feared hitters in the late 1980s.

"You have to do it two, three weeks, not two, three days," he said.

But Davis is encouraged by his recent improvement, which has him at 37 RBIs exactly halfway through the season. He finished with 32 last season.

"I'm not missing my pitches," Davis said after the Dodgers ended a seven-game Veterans Stadium losing streak. "I'm swinging at strikes, taking balls. That's the key."

Elsewhere, it was San Francisco 13, Montreal 5; New York 9, San Diego 7; Chicago 3, Cincinnati 2; Pittsburgh 10, Houston 3; Colorado 8, Florida 3, and St. Louis 5, Atlanta 4.

Pedro Astacio (7-4) worked six-plus innings to win his fourth straight decision for the Dodgers. He allowed four hits, four runs, struck out four and walked five. Jim Gott got the final five outs for his 15th save.

Curt Schilling (8-5) lasted five innings. He gave up six runs on nine hits.

Giants 13, Expos 5
Mark Carreon had a two-run double, and winning pitcher Bryan

Hickerson a two-run single for visiting San Francisco.

Mike Benjamin had a pair of RBI doubles in a 13-hit attack, and Hickerson (2-1) worked into the sixth.

Moises Alou hit two homers, his eighth and ninth, in Montreal's third straight loss. Kent Bottenfield (2-5) took the loss.

Pirates 10, Astros 3
Don Slaught and Jeff King homered, and Jeff Ballard got his first National League victory. The Pirates have just three wins in their last 19 road games.

Ballard, recalled Monday from Triple-A Buffalo, gave up three runs on 10 hits in 8 2/3 innings while striking out four and walking three.

Slaught was 3-for-5 with two RBIs and two runs scored, and King was 2-for-3 with three runs scored and two RBIs.

Pete Harnisch (7-6) went five innings, giving up seven runs on eight hits.

Know the facts about brain, spinal cord tumors

Research suggests new brain tumors arise in more than 40,000 Americans each year. About half of these tumors are primary, the remainder are metastatic, which means they have spread. Spinal cord tumors are less common, arising in about 10,000 Americans each year.

Brain and spinal cord tumors are abnormal growths of tissues found inside the skull or the bony spinal column. No matter where they are in the body, tumors are usually classed as benign (non-cancerous) if the cells that make up the growth are similar to other normal cells, grow relatively slowly and are confined to one location. Tumors are considered malignant (cancerous) when the cells are very different from normal cells, grow relatively quickly and can spread to other locations.

In most parts of the body, benign tumors are not particularly harmful. This is not necessarily true in the brain and spinal cord, which are the primary components of the central nervous system (CNS).

Brain and spinal cord tumors may cause many diverse symptoms. Some of the more common symptoms of brain tumor include:

Brain and spinal cord tumors may cause many diverse symptoms. Some of the more common symptoms of brain tumor include:

- Headache
  - seizures
  - nausea and vomiting
  - vision or hearing problems
  - motor and balance problems
- Symptoms of spinal cord tumors include:
- pain
  - sensory changes
  - motor problems

The three most commonly used treatments for these tumors are surgery, radiation, and chemotherapy. Scientists are attacking central nervous system tumors through biomedical research which ranges from benchside studies on the origins and characteristics of tumors to bedside studies that test new tumor-killing drugs and innovative treatments.

Hereford Animal Control Officer Mark Loyd has announced the following animals are available for adoption from the city Animal Shelter.

All dogs listed will be destroyed after 8 a.m. Thursday if they are not adopted. Dogs might be held additional days if the department is contacted in advance.

PUPPIES
One red Chow mix, female.
Four Heeler mix, various colors.

ADULT DOGS
One red and white Heeler mix, female.
One white Shepherd mix, male.

One large white Shepherd mix, male.
Twin black Chows, male.
One black Labrador mix, male.
One red Shepherd mix, female.

The cost for adopting puppies is $4, which includes a $3 pound fee and $1 city registration fee.

The cost for full-grown dogs is $15, including $11 for rabies vaccination, $3 pound fee and $1 city registration fee.

There are no cats or cat traps available at the shelter this week.

The shelter has dog traps available to place at residences. Those interested in getting a cat trap can put their name on a waiting list.

The public is invited to the shelter to see its newly remodeled facilities.

Pet owners are reminded that animals need lots of clean, fresh water during the summer months. Pets can suffer heat-related injuries just like people.

Information about animals or to find out about adopting them is available by calling the Hereford Animal Control Authority at 364-2323.

Spotlight on health

Some encouraging news for sufferers of a common back disorder has arrived.

For the first time in the Northeast, back-pain sufferers requiring spinal disc operations, can choose endoscopic laser-TV surgery as an option. Laser surgery, used in many medical specialties, vaporizes damaged tissue between spinal discs with fine precision, and affords the back pain sufferer a quicker recovery with minimal post-operative pain.

The department of Neurosurgery at St. Vincent's Hospital and Medical Center of New York has set up laser-TV capabilities for spinal disc operations, under the direction of Shermoo Jacobson, M.D., the neurosurgeon specializing in the procedure.

Dr. Jacobson notes that St. Vincent's is one of only about ten facilities in the country using lasers for this type of spinal problem. "People with extreme back pain caused by abrading tissue between two spinal discs are the most likely candidates for this procedure. The laser approach is very precise, allowing the surgeon to vaporize the excessive tissue. Lasers leave little to no scar tissue, as in other surgical approaches, which helps to alleviate post operative pain," said Dr. Jacobson. He notes that patients usually remain in the hospital no longer than overnight and can resume a normal routine in about a week.

Known as a laser discectomy it's one of two approaches that requires only a local anesthetic, the other being "percutaneous discectomy," which removes excessive tissue via suction.

Medical experts predict that these two approaches will account for a considerable portion of all spinal disc operations by the end of the decade.

LOS ANGELES (AP) - A new award named after Richard Pryor will be given to Arsenio Hall at the debut of the Soul Train Comedy Awards.

Hall was chosen for the Richard Pryor Entertainer of the Year Award because he is "a great entertainer at the zenith of his career and is currently the most visible example of success in African-American comedy," producer Don Cornelius said Monday in a statement.

The show will be taped Aug. 3 for broadcast on syndicated TV at an undecided date that month.

LIVINGSTON, Mont. (AP) - Garrison Keillor's weekly public radio program will return this fall to its original name, "A Prairie Home Companion."

The show will shed its current title, "The American Radio Company," to rekindle the tradition it established under the original name from 1974 to 1987, Keillor said.

"Prairie Home Companion represents the Great Plains, the heartland, and people on the coasts expect us to uphold everything that's decent and good in America," Keillor said during a visit to Livingston this weekend.

He left the weekly variety show in 1987, and after living briefly in Denmark and New York City, revived it under the current name.

Keillor also just finished another book, "The Book of Guys," which will be released in November.

HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams and Ed Sterling
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

According to a copyright story in the New York Times, the ruling could be "a potentially far-reaching setback for blacks and Hispanics."

In-State Processing Pushed

Texas farmers and businessmen need to concentrate on processing agricultural products within state lines, state Agriculture Commissioner Rick Perry told Texas Press Association members at the group's 114th Annual Summer Convention last week in San Antonio.

With only 8 percent of processing, or "value-adding" of Texas products currently taking place in Texas, if Texas businesses would do 5 percent more of the processing, it would have a $2.5 billion economic impact, Perry said.

Since Perry was elected in 1991, the state Agriculture Department has lent $25 million for value-added processing plants, including pinto beans, cotton and aquaculture. He urged TPA members to support a state ballot issue in November that would finance loans to businesses in value-added industries.

Perry said the Agriculture Department's "Naturally Texas" program promotes products that are at least 60 percent produced or processed in Texas. More than 80 counties have joined the program, he said.

Academic Skills for the first time lag behind white students who took the exam, according to a report in the Austin American-Statesman.

Fifty-one percent of 208,000 high school sophomores failed at least one portion of the exit-level exam this spring. Students have six chances to pass the three-part exam, which tests reading, writing and mathematics skills. Students must pass all three portions of the exam in order to receive high school diplomas.

In May, 13,377 or 7.4 percent of the state's 180,206 seniors did not graduate because they failed to pass at least one portion of TAAS.

Failure rates were highest among black and Hispanic students, with about two-thirds of minorities failing the exam.

Insurance Policies in Spanish

The State Board of Insurance last week voted 2-0 to tentatively approve a proposal that would require auto insurance companies to make available copies of policies printed in Spanish.

Sen. Gonzalo Barrientos, D-Austin, said he favored the proposal, but added that U.S. residents should be fluent and proficient in the use of English.

Under the proposal, the Spanish version of the auto policies would contain a disclaimer stating that the English version every policyholder receives is the legally binding version.

Barrientos and Sen. Carlos Truan, D-Corpus Christi, said insurance companies should be willing to provide the Spanish version if they wish to compete for Spanish-speaking customers' dollars.

Sen. Marshall Eyes AG Race

State District Judge John Marshall says he will seek the Republican nomination for Texas attorney general in the March 1994 primary. Marshall, 49, a civil court judge in Dallas, will attempt to unseat Dan Morales, a Democrat, who is expected to seek a second term.

If elected, Marshall said he would revamp the administrative structure of the office and "bring it into the 21st century." He has presided over the 14th District Court since 1981.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: A second-grade teacher from Sacramento wrote to you and explained some of the problems today's teachers are struggling with. You told her to hang in there because help was on the way. The teachers of America would like to know exactly what kind of help you were referring to. Throwing more money at the problem is certainly not the answer.

Americans who went to school in the 1950s recall that they had to get good grades or they would catch hell from their parents. Their parents backed up the school, and there was no more goofing off or smart-aleck behavior. There was zero tolerance for disobedience and academic inertia. Then came the 1960s. Parents began to listen to the behavioral scientists and their permissive approach toward child rearing. Administrators catered to the vocal parents who, in turn, catered to their kids. We were told that students must be permitted to act out their feelings of anger, and there must be no repression, the result? The students got control of the schools, because teachers had no real authority. Student self-esteem has never been lower, and boredom has never been higher. Today, many students who graduate from high school are illiterate.

The argument goes that private schools can educate students better than public schools and can do it with less money. Most private schools run their schools in the way public schools were run before the 1960s.

LA CROSSE, Wis. (AP) - Ted Turner and Jane Fonda are speaking their minds on yet another matter: buffalo.

The media mogul and the movie star are to be featured speakers at the first International Bison Conference and Trade Show.

Fonda is to address a July 30 luncheon on the health benefits of eating buffalo meat, known for its relatively low fat content. Turner delivers a dinner speech the same day on the inside workings of the bison industry.

The couple own about 4,500 bison on ranches in New Mexico and Montana. Bison growers advocate raising the native buffalo as a hardier, healthier alternative to beef cattle.

The lesson to be learned is that "nouveau education" is an abysmal failure. Why don't Americans get the message?--Covina, Calif.

DEAR CALIF: I cannot argue with a thing you've written. In fact, I have a stack of letters on my desk making the same points.

If anyone out there has a solution, I'd love to hear it. Schools all over the United States are in terrible trouble, and one of the reasons is that dedicated people aren't going into teaching anymore.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: In a recent column, one of your readers stated that European men make better lovers than American men. She asked for an explanation.

The reason is obvious. European men have partners who are less inhibited and much more open about their sexuality.

Here's another question your readers may debate: It is no secret that women from all over the world are actually cataloging themselves as mail-order brides in hopes of acquiring an American husband. If American men are such lousy lovers, why are they also the world's most desirable husbands?--RMK from the USA

DEAR RMK: Surely you jest. Simply a matter of dollars and cents. In many parts of the world, America is considered a paradise. Those women think the streets are paved with gold, and everyone lives like a millionaire. They get this idea from old movies and TV. As for American women being "inhibited"--have you seen the bathing suit ads lately? Read on for a beef about American men:

DEAR ANN: I moved here from Mexico City and cannot understand American men. They wouldn't dream of getting on the tennis court if they didn't know how to hold a racket, but they think nothing of getting on the dance floor without the slightest idea of what they are doing. Please explain this phenomenon.--Senorita XXX

DEAR SENORITA: Lousy dancers don't have rhythm and are unteachable because they are unaware that they have this deficiency and often don't believe it when told. Take it from me--they are hopeless unless they have lovely dispositions and will let the woman lead.

Americans speak out on health care financing

Americans want a health care system that ensures their long term needs will be met. They also feel private long term care insurance should play a larger role in paying the nation's long term care bills, a recent national survey on health care financing found.

According to the survey, conducted by The Gallup Organization for the American Health Care Association (AHCA):

-Four out of five Americans believe private insurance should play a more prominent role in paying for nursing home bills.

-Nearly 90 percent agreed Medicaid should be preserved to meet the needs of the poor. Medicaid currently is the main source of funding for nursing home care.

-Most agree that a public-private partnership based on the availability of long term care insurance would be an effective way of dealing with our health care financing problems.

Such a partnership is promoted in AHCA's health care plan, "Quality Care for Life."

"Our message to the Administration is that long term care financing reform doesn't have to bring with it a major new tax burden," says AHCA Executive Vice President Paul Willging. "By creating a partnership between the public and private sectors, we can reform the long term care financing system at minimal cost."

"A private-public partnership is the only socially and fiscally responsible approach to financing long term care," Willging adds. "Long term care insurance allows individuals to plan for their long term care needs while preserving the Medicaid system for the truly poor."

Long term care insurance policies are affordable for the vast majority of Americans, Willging says. The keys are consumer education about what type of policy best meets an individual's needs, consumer protection to assure the availability of quality policies and tax incentives to encourage Americans to purchase long term care insurance.

"I believe that these surveys show clearly that Americans are willing to take responsibility for their long term care needs," says Willging. "Hopefully, President Clinton and Congress will take steps to enable them to do so."

Get facts on pension

In a move to encourage workers to get smart about ensuring their financial security, the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants (AICPA) is urging employees to use the three P's of pensions.

The AICPA has also unveiled, at a Congressional hearing, a set of proposals that would, if implemented, ensure workers more complete answers to the three P's.

-The Promise. What will your pension be when you retire?

-The Plan. What is the financial status of your plan? Does it have enough money now to pay all it has promised?

-The Protection. If for any reason your plan can't pay what it owes you, is your pension insured?

The AICPA urges all employees to get answers to these questions from their employers, so they can better plan for retirement.
