Money needed for economic development

City, chamber eye financing options

By GEORGIA TYLER
Staff Writer

Two groups of Hereford citizens Wednesday arrived at a consensus on the main reason economic development in the city is not flourishing, and then agreed that the remedy for the problem is simply more money.

A joint meeting of the City Commission and the board of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce provided the forum for an exchange of ideas and discussion on recruiting new industry and expanding existing business in place.

Mayor Bob Josseland suggested that the chamber board join the commission in studying possibilities for providing a funding base for economic development.

"I think the commission is up to looking ahead, get chamber board approval and then ask people to serve on a committee to take a real hard look at the law," Josseland said.

The law mentioned by the mayor allows cities to levy an economic development tax, on retail sales, to provide a financial base for attracting new industry to the city as well as enhancing existing business.

"We may need to consider going to the tax," said Josseland.

A similar proposal about three years ago was turned down by voters of Hereford.

Lewis McDaniel, chamber president, observed that the chamber supported the tax before... sales tax money may be the only way to go."

Wes Fisher, former mayor, suggested that a committee be formed to study the possibility of putting the tax proposal before voters.

"I believe it's time," he declared.

A brief review of inquiries directed to the chamber of commerce about locating business in Hereford was given by Mike Carr, CoC Executive.

"On two or three inquiries, we could have done better, if we'd had a little better funding," Carr said. "Some want immediate financial incentives, too."

He also noted that soliciting donations to assist in meeting needs of prospects has not been successful.

A chamber director, Mauri Montgomery, called for cooperation of entities involved, saying, "However we decide to pursue it, we need support of governments and the chamber."

City Commissioner Roger Eades echoed Montgomery's opinion and asked for a united front by the city, Deaf Smith County and the chamber.

"In my way of thinking, the chamber needs to take a lead," he said. "I think it's important for the chamber."

The possibility of a city vote on a sales tax levy to fund economic development was reiterated by several participants in the discussion.

"We have to sell the tax," declared Bill Lyles. "The last time, the public saw it as just another tax increase."

A half-cent sales tax to be used for economic development was turned down in 1990 by city voters by a count of 481 in favor of the levy and 1,137 opposed.

Carr reported that studies in cities that have enacted the tax show no (See COMMISSION, Page 2)

Senate debating strengthening ban on homosexuals in military

WASHINGTON (AP) - Congress is determined to have the final say on homosexuals in the military as it moves toward adopting a policy that is tougher than President Clinton's compromise plan.

Nine months after Clinton announced his intention to keep a campaign pledge and lift the 50-year ban, the Senate today tackles the question of whether gays can serve.

The provision on homosexuals in the military is part of the defense budget for the fiscal year beginning Oct. 1. The House and Senate began work on the overall package Wednesday with hopes of completion by Friday night or early next week.

Clinton's first budget, a $263 billion blueprint that calls for defense spending of about $12 billion less than this year's, reflects the decline in post-Cold War defense spending but retains a number of Bush administration weapons in a one-year, standpat plan.

The Senate Armed Services Committee trimmed the overall request by $1.8 billion while the House panel reduced the amount by $571 million.

This year, the fate of weapons took a back seat to the thorny issue of homosexuals in the military.

Confronted with opposition from Congress and the Joint Chiefs of Staff, Clinton abandoned his pledge to lift the ban and instead accepted a compromise in July.

That policy ended the practice of questioning recruits and service members about their sexual orientation, but allowed the military to continue to discharge those who engage in homosexual acts, state that they are homosexual or bisexual or marry or attempt to marry someone of the same sex.

Senate and House committees took the policy one step further, writing into law for the courts and commanders that homosexuality is incompatible with military service.

A major change embodied in Clinton's policy, an end to the questioning of recruits, would be continued by the legislation, but the bill says a future defense secretary could reinstate the question.

A leading proponent of the ban, Senate Armed Services Committee Chairman Sam Nunn, D-Ga., pushed for the more restrictive policy, and it won the support of conservative Democrats as well as Republicans on the House side.

The legislation cites Section 8, Article 1 of the Constitution that Congress exclusively has "the powers to raise and support armies, provide and maintain a Navy, and make rules for the government and regulation of the land and naval forces."

Sen. Barbara Boxer, D-Calif., is proposing an amendment today that would eliminate the provisions from the Senate bill and leave the policy to the discretion of the president, as it has been up until now.

The House, meanwhile, considers amendments on funds for the D-5 missile that will be launched from nuclear submarines, requiring U.S. allies to pay for a greater share of defense costs and economic conversion.

On Wednesday, the House rejected Democratic attempts to cut deeper into Clinton's budget for Ballistic Missile Defense.

By a vote of 227-202, the House turned aside a measure to slash $1 billion from Clinton's request of $3.8 billion for the program once known as the Strategic Defense Initiative.

The House, voting 272-160, also rejected an amendment sponsored by Rep. Ron Dellums, D-Calif., the House Armed Services Committee chairman, to reduce the missile defense budget to $1.5 billion.

Special interests should be avoided to make government more efficient

AUSTIN (AP) - The only way to gain approval of a plan to make the federal government more efficient is to bypass special interest groups and garner bipartisan support, state Comptroller John Sharp says.

"Behind every inefficiency, behind every stupid thing the government does, there is a special interest group that knows it's inefficient, knows it's stupid and is making money off of it," Sharp said Wednesday.

Sharp acted as an adviser to the task force responsible for the national audit, which President Clinton and Vice President Al Gore unveiled Tuesday. The plan recommends cutting the federal bureaucracy by reducing the government workforce and merging numerous agencies. The White House said the changes could save $108 billion by the end of the century. The federal review was modeled after similar audits in Texas in 1991 and 1993, which has been credited by the comptroller's office with $6.2 billion in savings.

The panel has targeted several government programs with significant Texas ties, including the wool and mohair subsidy, which largely goes to Texas producers. The task force estimates $923 million in savings through 1999 if the program is killed.

The federal helium program, centered outside Amarillo, also would be examined to evaluate the need for government involvement. In addition, the task force recommended that the Customs Service and the Immigration and Naturalization Service improve their management of the border.

"Every state is going to have to take some hits," Sharp said.

"What is good for the country is to lessen the costs and to better the way the government operates," he said. "If we have to take some hits in Texas, whether it be wool, whether it be mohair, whether it be helium or whether we have to reorganize NASA, the good far outweighs the bad for the state of Texas."

Sharp said the White House should sell the plan by taking it directly to the people.

"You have to go outside the Beltway, you have to go outside the established political structure and you've got to tell the American people what's in this report," Sharp said. "I think if you do that, you're going to force Congress to vote for it."

The task force, which included some of the Texans responsible for masterminding the state reviews, has recommended cutting out 252,000 jobs in the federal bureaucracy, largely through attrition, buyouts, early retirement and retraining for private-sector jobs.

The task force also proposed closing hundreds of government offices outside Washington, merging some agencies, overhauling the budget process, making it easier to fire incompetent employees and treating taxpayers like customers.

Number of unemployment claims down

WASHINGTON (AP) - The number of Americans filing first-time claims for jobless benefits unexpectedly dropped by 10,000 last week to the lowest level in more than four years, the government said today.

The Labor Department said new applications for unemployment insurance totaled 316,000, down from a revised 326,000 during the week ended Aug. 28. The original Aug. 28 estimate was 324,000.

It was the lowest level of initial claims since 314,000 were filed during the week ended June 3, 1989. Many economists had predicted in advance of the report that claims would be up last week by about 6,000.

The less-volatile four-week moving average of jobless claims, which analysts prefer to track because it more accurately reflects the labor situation, also fell to a four-year low.

The average totaled 324,250, down from 328,000 during the period ended Aug. 28 and the lowest since the average was 322,500 during the period ended Sept. 23, 1989.

The Labor report also said 25,850 applications were filed under a federal emergency unemployment program during the week ended Aug. 28, down from 29,207 during the previous week and the lowest since they totaled 24,063 during the week ended last March 6.

One Lotto ticket matches numbers for $40 million

By The Associated Press
One ticket bought in Irving correctly matched all six numbers in Wednesday night's Lotto Texas game with an estimated $40 million jackpot, the state lottery said.

The pot is the largest to date that will go to a single ticket holder. The previous record was $21.7 million, Lottery spokeswoman Carmen Luevanos said.

In July, three winners split an estimated $50 million jackpot. The Irving store where the ticket was purchased will receive an estimated $400,000, or 1 percent of the jackpot, she said.

The numbers drawn Wednesday night from a field of 50 were: 1, 17, 18, 21, 29 and 39.

Sales from Saturday to Wednesday's draw were $22.7 million. On Wednesday alone, $17.4 million worth of tickets were purchased, Ms. Luevanos said.

Donors received T-shirts, hot dogs, popsicles and soft drinks after they gave blood.

Study of procedures indicates safety need

AMARILLO, Texas (AP) - The Pantex Plant's dismantlement procedures should be altered to prevent possible leakage of low-level radiation similar to one last fall when a nuclear component cracked, a published report says today.

No workers were contaminated in the Nov. 12 incident, but officials have recommended the changes to prevent similar incidents during future Pantex dismantlement work, according to the Amarillo Globe-News.

Pantex, located about 17 miles northeast of Amarillo, is the nation's primary assembly and dismantlement plant for nuclear weapons. It is operated for the Energy Department by contractor Mason & Hanger-Silas Mason Co.

The recommendations, included in a federal report obtained by the Globe-News, arose out of a nine-month Energy Department investigation into the Nov. 12 incident.

Federal scientists analyzed a plutonium pit from the incident to find out why its metal covering cracked during a routine disassembly operation of the W-48, a nuclear artillery shell. A pit is the radioactive core of a nuclear weapon used to trigger a nuclear chain reaction.

The pit covering developed a hairline crack while technicians were removing high explosives from it last fall.

The report shows that the crack was caused by a combination of heat stress and a large welding flaw. During dismantlement of the W-48, hot water is used to remove high explosives surrounding the pit. The document also said X-rays would not have revealed the welding defect.

"The dismantlement process raised the temperature of the pit to a point where stresses between inner- and outer-shell materials were sufficient to crack the already-weakened structure," the report said.

Recommended changes include limiting temperatures of special nuclear materials to prevent possible metal stress during dismantlement and testing all units before future pit use or reuse.

Baptist group seeks flood relief donations

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) - The money for Midwest flood victims is starting to trickle in as conventioners stop by J.D. Williams' Home Mission Board table at the National Baptist Convention of America Inc.

The board has decided to try to raise at least $100,000 to help victims of this summer's flooding, but Williams doesn't expect much of that to come this week.

"I'm looking for the big money to come in after the convention," Williams said Wednesday. He knows the goal is not going to be easy to reach.

When the flooding is not so prominent in the news, it will be harder to get people to keep giving, said Williams, secretary-treasurer of the NBCA's Home Mission Board, which helps struggling or young churches and needy individuals. He hopes the flood-relief money can help fill in where the Federal Emergency Management Agency does not.

"We're looking at the home that may have been flooded that doesn't qualify for FEMA, ... maybe we can come in and rent the machines to dry the house out," he said. "... Or clothing might have been destroyed and we can come in and suit up or provide clothing for the family," he said.

Williams planned to try to sell the assistance program to conventioners this afternoon. It has already been approved by the board but to be successful needs support from members of the convention, the second largest group of black Baptists in the United States, with 4.5 million members in 32 states.

The relief will not be limited to members of the convention's congregations, either, and that will also make it more difficult to keep the donations coming, Williams said.

"I think we're going to find that most of the victims are not African-Americans," he said.

SBOE has hearing on sex education, AIDS prevention

AUSTIN (AP) - Several groups are urging the State Board of Education to recall sex education materials on AIDS prevention.

"I don't think most parents want their children getting a lecture on condoms and spermicides, when they're supposed to be learning arithmetic," said Jeff Fisher, executive director of the Austin-based American Family Association of Texas.

The materials were developed by the state for supplemental use in Texas classrooms at school districts' discretion.

Other groups opposing the materials include Concerned Women for America, Texas Council for Family Values and Texas Eagle Forum.

The board scheduled a Thursday public hearing on the matter.

Controversy arose over the materials when a 7th-grade teacher in the Houston area mistakenly distributed to students explicit information that was intended only for teachers.

An advisory group including parents and medical professionals was appointed to review the "Education for Self-Responsibility" series, which includes the materials.

The sex education materials already have been sent to elementary campuses and were made available to middle schools upon request, said Texas Education Agency spokeswoman Della May Moore. The high school version hasn't been distributed, she said.

Texas Education Commissioner

Lionel "Skip" Meno is recommending that the board approve the materials after making changes based on the advisory group's input.

- Updating information on AIDS cases.

- Eliminating from a grade 6 student worksheet titled "HIV: Myth or Fact" the statements, "Knowing your sexual partner and their past practices will help prevent the spread of HIV (the human immunodeficiency virus)," and "Using a condom will reduce the risk of the spread of HIV."

- Eliminating from teacher resource material a suggestion to operate a weeklong telephone hotline providing AIDS information to students.

If the materials are changed, Ms. Moore said, officials would decide whether to reissue them automatically or send the new ones out on request.

If they are rejected altogether, she said school districts would be notified of that action. However, she said, school districts are free to use material that hasn't been adopted by the Education Board.

But Ms. Moore said officials decided to delay action until November after the agency received numerous calls from members of the public saying they hadn't had enough time to review the changes.

Among recommended changes, according to Ms. Moore, are:

- Putting the statement, "Emphasize that the only safe sex is abstinence," in bold letters in teacher resource material.

Birthday bash to help Richards' re-election

AUSTIN (AP) - Gov. Ann Richards, who turned 60 last week, will celebrate her birthday in style Friday night at a fund-raising party expected to generate some $1.5 million for her re-election effort.

Willie Nelson, Lyle Lovett, Nanci Griffith and Don Henley are among the Texas musicians scheduled to perform at the bash that's to be hosted by author Larry L. King and actress Alfre Woodard, who starred in the movie "Passion Fish."

While the governor won't be announcing for re-election during the party, she will be putting the money it raises toward a 1994 campaign, spokesman Chuck McDonald said.

"There will be no announcement there. Obviously, this is the kickoff of her fund-raising efforts. The actual re-election announcement will be around the filing date" in December or early January, McDonald said. He said organizers hope to raise $1.5 million or more.

Richards, elected governor in 1990, has indicated that she will bid to become the first governor to win re-election since Democrat Dolph Briscoe did so in 1974.

George W. Bush, managing partner of the Texas Rangers baseball team and son of the former president, is expected to seek the Republican nomination.

Richards actually turned 60 on Sept. 1, celebrating the day by obtaining her motorcycle drivers' license.

McDonald said "thousands" of tickets for the affair ranged from $25 up and went fast.

About 100 tickets were left Wednesday night at $1,000 apiece, said Richards spokeswoman Margaret Justus. The expensive seats allow a better view of the show and entitle people to a pre-performance reception with the governor, she said.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Several months ago, you printed a letter from my mother, who signed herself, "Heartbroken in Texas." She told what it was like to have her son falsely accused of rape. You might be interested in how things turned out.

Just before the case was to go to trial, all charges were dropped. Prosecutors found conclusive evidence that the woman was lying. So after 14 months of a living hell and nearly $20,000 in legal fees, my nerve-racking ordeal is over.

I consider myself lucky. Unlike most men falsely accused of rape, I was fortunate enough to have proof that the woman was lying. I hired an attorney, and we filed hefty lawsuits against the woman and the police department that investigated her claim. My nightmare is over, but hers is just beginning.

The frightening thing about all this is how easy it was for her to get me arrested, charged and indicted by a grand jury. I was only one more bad break away from prison. I now know that if a woman is a halfway decent liar, she can destroy a man's life.

The political climate is changing. Once upon a time, authorities greeted claims of date rape with skepticism. Now they blindly believe almost any claim, no matter how improbable.

I have no doubt that at this moment, there are many men in prison on rape convictions who are as innocent as I am. My heart goes out to all of them. - Lucky in New England

DEAR N.E.: So does mine, but I'll bet an equal number of men who are guilty of rape are walking around, free as the breeze.

Too often, the woman is reluctant to file charges and risk the publicity, so she keeps quiet. Or she files, the court is not convinced of the man's guilt and he's off the hook.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I was pleased with the letter from the woman who wrote to say "gum chewing is a right" because an irate colleague had just explained to me that feeding pigeons is "a right." (He was feeding pigeons in the parking lot of the building in which my office is located.)

It should be noted that every right carries with it a responsibility. If you have a right to chew gum, you have a responsibility to refrain from annoying others with the snap, crackle and pop. And you must place the used gum in the proper receptacle. If you want to exercise your right to feed pigeons, you must accept the responsibility of cleaning up the mess they make on the 11th floor balcony. (The pigeons did NOT frequent this balcony until they started to be fed.)

I hope you will print this letter, Ann. Too many people don't have a clue. P.S. When this letter appears in the paper, I'm putting the column up on the office bulletin board.-- Jacksonville Reader

DEAR JAX: Here's the letter. I hope it helps.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: What has happened to good manners? Yesterday, I received a printed postcard in the mail that read as follows:

"We are glad you are coming to our wedding. Since we have both been married before, we have plenty of kitchen appliances, bed linens, etc. What we really need is MONEY. Thank you.--'Jennie' and 'Benney.'"

What do you think, Ann?--Nebraska
DEAR NEBRASKA: In a word, TACKY. (P.S. I wouldn't send them anything.)

Drugs are everywhere. They're easy to get, easy to use and even easier to get hooked on. If you have questions about drugs, you need Ann Landers' booklet, "The Lowdown on Dope." Send a self-addressed, long, business-size envelope and a check or money order for $3.65 (this includes postage and handling) to: Lowdown, C/o Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562.

Kile hurls no-hitter as Mets flail at curve

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ
AP Sports Writer
HOUSTON (AP) - Darryl Kile's curve ball was much closer to the target than his prediction.

Kile outperformed higher paid pitchers on the Houston Astros staff Wednesday night with baseball's second no-hitter in five days, as the Astros defeated the New York Mets 7-1.

"I saw him out in the bullpen (on Tuesday) and he told me he was going to throw a four-hit shutout," Astros manager Art Howe said. "He fibbed on both cases."

Kile (15-6) struck out nine and walked one, adding sparkle to a season that already had earned him a surprising All-Star appearance.

"It was the best control I've had," Kile said. "When I did make a mistake, my teammates were there to make the out. A lot of luck goes into a no-hitter."

Kile got excellent plays from third baseman Ken Caminiti and shortstop Andujar Cedeno in the seventh inning to preserve his no-hitter. It was Houston's first no-hitter since Mike Scott clinched the NL West championship with a 2-0 victory over San Francisco on Sept. 25, 1986.

"To tell the truth, he's had better stuff two or three times this year, but location wise and curveball wise, it was one of his top games," catcher Scott Servais said.

In other NL games it was Atlanta 8, Los Angeles 2; Montreal 6, Colorado 1; Chicago 8, Philadelphia 5; Cincinnati 6, St. Louis 2; and San Diego 3, Florida 2.

Kile's performance came after Jim Abbott pitched a no-hitter for the New York Yankees against Cleveland on Saturday.

"He's had that kind of stuff several times this season but you have to be very lucky to throw a no-hitter," pitching coach Bob Cluck said. "It certainly wasn't me. I didn't say a word to him after the fourth."

It was a night for dreams to come true for a couple of young Houston Astros not far removed from the minor leagues, Kile pitching and Servais catching. "We've come a long ways through the minors together," Servais said. "He really deserves everything he's gotten."

It's something neither player will forget.

"When we're both 55 years old and hanging out on the golf course, he's going to tell me he went against my call to pitch some key out and I'm going to tell him it was all my calls that did it," Servais joked. "We'll always be talking about this one."

The celebration didn't progress too long until someone asked if Kile had thought about his father, who died five days after spring training started with a blood clot to the brain.

Of course, he had. "It's something I wish he could have been here to see and be a part of, and who knows, maybe he did," Kile said.

Seattle's Chris Bosio pitched the other no-hitter in the majors this year, against Boston on April 22. The last NL no-hitter was by Los Angeles' Kevin Gross on Aug. 17, 1992.

Kile got a standing ovation from the Astrodome crowd of 15,684 as the game ended on a routine grounder to Todd Hundley and a strikeout of pinchhitters Tito Navarro and Chico Walker.

"You won't see a better breaking ball than that and you won't see a better pitched game than that," Mets manager Dallas Green said. "That's not a cheap fastball he's got, either."

"You could have put a lot of clubs up there against Darryl Kile tonight and he still would have thrown a no-hitter. They made three great plays behind him," Green said.

It was the ninth no-hitter for an Astros pitcher and the sixth no-hitter against the Mets, the first since San Francisco's Ed Halicki did it in 1975.

Kile, a 30th round draft pick by Houston in 1987, pitched himself onto the All-Star team, going 10-1. He also won his first decision in the second half for a major league-best nine-game winning streak.

Kile retired the first 10 batters he faced before walking Jeff McKnight with one out in the fourth. McKnight wound up scoring with two outs.

Kile's pitch appeared to hit Joe Orsulak on the foot, and the ball bounced away from the catcher. Servais apparently thought the ball hit Orsulak and did not attempt to retrieve it, and McKnight ran to third. First baseman Jeff Bagwell recovered the ball and threw wildly to third, allowing McKnight to score.

Fielding plays by third baseman Ken Caminiti and shortstop Andujar Cedeno preserved Kile's performance in the seventh inning.

With one out, Eddie Murray grounded sharply down the third base line, and Caminiti dove and back-handed the ball. He scrambled to his feet and his throw beat Murray by a half-step.

"You try not to think about no-hitter," Caminiti said. "I tried to stay calm. I wanted Darryl to look at me and not see any pressure in my eyes. I was trying to be as relaxed as possible and let it happen."

Orsulak followed with a grounder deep in the hole between third and shortstop. Cedeno went to his right, threw off-balance and Bagwell scooped the one-hop toss, barely ahead of Orsulak.

Orsulak argued the call and was ejected by first base umpire Mark Hirschbeck.

"I was safe," Orsulak said. "Then the umpire said it wasn't even close. It's one thing if he says it's a close play. But then he gives me a smirk and says it wasn't even close."

"Kile wasn't the only guy out there trying. Just because a guy's throwing a no-hitter, it's not up to the umpire to determine the outcome. Don't tell me that wasn't a close play," he said.

Caminiti hit a solo home run, his

A's shock Blue Jays again

By BEN WALKER
AP Baseball Writer

The Oakland Athletics, knocked out of the playoffs by Toronto last year, are doing their best to prevent the Blue Jays from making postseason plans this season.

For the second straight game, Oakland used a late rally to overcome the Blue Jays, winning 2-1 Wednesday night with two runs in the ninth inning.

Toronto matched a season high with its fifth consecutive loss. The AL East-leading Blue Jays remain one-half game ahead of New York, 4-1 losers to Texas, while Baltimore moved within one game by beating Seattle 6-3.

"I don't know what the answer is," Blue Jays manager Cito Gaston said after the A's scored twice off Duane Ward in the ninth inning. "Other than our starting pitching, (relief pitching) has probably been the biggest disappointment this season."

In other games, Chicago beat Boston 8-1, Detroit downed California 4-2, Cleveland trounced Minnesota 15-8 and Milwaukee defeated Kansas City 2-1.

The Athletics' rally came a day after they erased a five-run deficit and won 11-7 in 11 innings at the SkyDome.

Toronto starter Juan Guzman pitched 7 2-3 shutout innings, and Ward got the last out in the eighth.

But in the ninth, Dave Henderson singled with one out and Troy Neel and Mike Aldrete drew two-out walks.

Ward (2-3) was one strike away from a win when Brent Gates hit a hard grounder up the middle. Shortstop Tony Fernandez dove and made the stop, but rolled over on the ball and couldn't get the forceout at second base.

Neel never broke stride and scored from second base.

Ward, who has 38 saves, blew his sixth chance. Bobby Witt (10-12) was the winner and Dennis Eckersley got the last out, making him the first player to record 30 saves in six straight seasons.

Rangers 4, Yankees 1

Kevin Brown enhanced his reputation as a Yankee killer, helping Texas complete a three-game sweep of New York.

Brown (12-11) improved to 11-2 lifetime over the Yankees. His winning percentage of .846 is the best among pitchers with at least 10 decisions against New York.

Tom Henke got the last five outs for his 34th save.

Juan Gonzalez hit his 42nd home run, most in the majors, giving the Rangers a 2-0 lead in the first inning against Domingo Jean (1-1).

Orioles 6, Mariners 3

Chris Hoiles homered and hit a go-ahead, two-run single in the eighth inning at Camden Yards.

Jim Poole (2-1) was the winner and Kenny King (0-1) the loser.

Fernando Valenzuela started for the Orioles and gave up three runs on six hits in 6 1-3 innings.

Seattle's Roger Salkeld made his major league debut and allowed two runs on six hits in 4 2-3 innings. Jay Buhner hit his 25th home run for the Mariners.

White Sox 8, Red Sox 1

Jason Bere struck out 13, tying the White Sox rookie record, and Chicago beat Boston at Comiskey Park.

Bere (8-5) gave up only two hits and walked none in eight shutout innings. His 13 strikeouts matched the mark set in 1910 by Frank Lange against New York.

George Bell and Lance Johnson each drove in two runs.

The White Sox beat John Dopper (7-10).

Brewers 2, Royals 1

Ricky Bones pitched a two-hitter and retired the final 21 batters as Milwaukee won at Kansas City.

Bones (10-9) walked none and struck out four.

STILL NOT READY FOR PRIME TIME.

Rangers extend Kennedy's deal

DALLAS (AP) - Texas Rangers manager Kevin Kennedy will receive a one-year contract extension after the season, the Dallas Morning News reported today.

Kennedy, who is close to having the most successful managerial debut in the team's history, is signed through the 1994 season. The Rangers' recent procedure has been for the manager to begin a season with two years remaining on his contract.

Fresh faces dominate scene at U.S. Open

NEW YORK (AP) - The faces are familiar - just unexpected. All four women semifinalists have been there before, but only top-seeded Steffi Graf and No. 2 Arantxa Sanchez Vicario were expected to be around when the U.S. Open reached its next-to-last round this year. They are joined by Helena Sukova, a finalist in 1986, and Manuela Maleeva-Fragniere, a semifinalist last year.

In the men's field, Pete Sampras, the 1990 winner, dominated the final two sets against Michael Chang to move into the semis, where he will face 14th-seeded Alexander Volkov of Russia.

The men's semifinals were to be completed today when eighth-seeded Alexander Medvedev of Ukraine plays No. 15 Cedric Pioline of France and Sweden's Magnus Larsson takes on Australian Wally Masur in a battle of unseeded players.

Gone are top-seeded Jim Courier, No. 3 Stefan Edberg, No. 4 Boris

Becker and most of the other big hitters. The same is true of the women's field, where Monica Seles never entered and No. 3 Martina Navratilova, No. 4 Conchita Martinez and No. 5 Gabriela Sabatini have been shunted to the sidelines.

After most of the Wednesday's matches were washed away by rain, Sanchez Vicario posted the quickest victory of the night - and the tournament - sweeping through the first three games of her match before her opponent, Natalia Zvereva, called it quits, saying she was ill.

"I was praying, praying for it to be raining at 7:30, which didn't happen, unfortunately," Zvereva said. "I thought that if I would come out tomorrow, I'd have a better chance. But it didn't rain, so I guess I had to just go out and try."

"But after three games, I don't think I was able to give her a good fight, as I always try to do. I did not 'tank.' I had to go out and try."

Chang tried, but it wasn't enough as he fell before an overpowering Sampras 6-7 (0-7), 7-6 (7-2), 6-1, 6-1. Sampras lost just nine points on his serve in the last two sets.

"I had to make something happen," Chang said. "In the last two sets, I think I ran out of gas a little bit."

Sampras has a way of doing that to opponents. He was hitting 125 mph serves and groundstrokes nearly as hard. While Chang matched him stroke for stroke through most of the opening two sets, the eventual loser finally wore down.

"At the start, he was taking it to me, and that's not my style," Sampras said. "I'm not used to being on the defensive. Then I got in a good rhythm and Michael started missing some shots. I think I was a little uncertain at the start. I wasn't sure I should come in or what."

It took Volkov 3 hours, 36 minutes to outlast 12th-seeded Thomas Muster of Austria 7-6 (8-6), 6-3, 3-6, 2-6, 7-5 in a heavy-hitting duel of slugging baseliners. The battle ended at 1:39 in the morning and made Volkov the first Russian to reach the U.S. Open semifinals.

It was a heartbreaking loss for Muster, who twice had match point on Volkov's serve in the ninth game of the fifth set.

Sukova, who knocked Martina Navratilova out in the fourth round, will play Sanchez Vicario after beating Katerina Maleeva 6-4, 6-7 (7-3), 6-3.

ASTROS

12th, in the second off Frank Tanana (6-15). Cedeno hit a solo shot, his seventh, in the fifth inning.

The Astros scored twice in the second. Cedeno doubled, Casey Candaele hit an RBI single and Bagwell doubled.

Houston added three runs in the eighth on a two-run single by Luis Gonzalez and an error by third baseman Butch Huskey.

NL East as the host Expos moved within 6 1/2 games of the NL East-leading Phillies.

Rookie Kirk Rueter remained unbeaten by allowing one run in 6-3 innings, and the Expos won for the 12th time in 13 games. Rueter (7-0) has won his last five starts.

Larry Walker's 19th homer, a two-run shot, capped a three-run first against Armando Reynoso (9-10).

Braves 8, Dodgers 2

Visiting Atlanta pulled within two games of NL West-leading San Francisco on the strength of a five-run third inning at Los Angeles.

Fred McGriff and Dave Justice drove in two runs in the third as Tom Glavine (18-5) coasted to his fourth straight triumph and eighth in nine decisions.

With the Braves leading 1-0, the first five batters in the third inning reached base off Ramon Martinez (9-10).

Cubs 8, Phillies 5

Kevin Roberson's pinch-hit triple with the bases-loaded capped a seven-run rally with two outs in the eighth inning as visiting Chicago won a season-high sixth consecutive game.

Steve Buechele hit a game-tying two-run single to set up Roberson's hit.

David West (6-4), who walked the one batter he faced, took the loss, with Greg Hibbard (12-11) earning the victory.

Padres 3, Marlins 2

Brad Ausmus singled to lead off the eighth inning and scored the winning run on pinch-hitter Billy Bean's groundout for host San Diego.

Ausmus reached off Marlins' starter Chris Hammond (10-10) and went to third when Archi Cianfrocco doubled off reliever Matt Turner.

One out later, first baseman Jeff Conine bobbled Bean's grounder and had to settle for the out at first, allowing Ausmus to score.

Frank Seminara (2-2) worked the eighth inning for the victory and Gene Harris got the last three outs for his 22nd save.

Farewell reception set Friday

Deaf Smith County Extension Homemakers will host a farewell reception for Corda Glover, county extension office secretary, from 9:30-10:30 a.m. Friday in the Heritage Room of Deaf Smith County Library. Glover has served as secretary for 12 years working with all phases of the program.

All friends are invited to the farewell reception.

During World War II, meat, butter and cheese rationing in the United States began in 1943.

GEORGE, Wash. (AP) - Up to 2,000 fans rushed the stage at a Pearl Jam concert, causing a chain-link fence to collapse onto a crowd. About a dozen people were injured.

"They just started their head-banging routine," Sheriff William Wiester said. "There was a particular song they were getting into and the momentum caused the fence to collapse."

More than 19,000 people attended Sunday's sold-out concert at the natural Gorge at George Amphitheater.

Ten to 15 injuries were reported, including a broken arm, the sheriff said. "We were traumatized," said one fan, Mike Rain. "It totally ruined it."

ATLANTA (AP) - No longer in the White House, former President Bush says he now has time for the important things in life, including learning to play Nintendo.

In a speech Saturday to a gathering of 75,000 Amway distributors, Bush said he has been playing video games with his 8-year-old grandson and listening to the screams of another grandson, just 4 months old. "Such lung power," he told the crowd. "I'm convinced he will be an American senator."

Bush got a six-minute standing ovation. The Atlanta Journal-Constitution reported Sunday he was paid $100,000 for the speech.

Amway, headquartered in Ada, Mich., uses a worldwide network of 2 million distributors to sell thousands of household products.

PUBLIC NOTICE

BRIEF EXPLANATORY STATEMENTS
 OF PROPOSED
CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS
 SPECIAL ELECTION
 NOVEMBER 2, 1993

PROPOSITION NO. 1 ON THE BALLOT

Senate Joint Resolution 9 proposes a constitutional amendment that would authorize the Texas Legislature to provide for the issuance of bonds for the state financing of start-up costs for historically underutilized businesses. The amendment provides that the legislature by law may establish a Texas historically underutilized business capital growth and start-up fund. The money in the fund may be used without further appropriation and only for a program established by the legislature to aid in the start-up costs of a historically underutilized business, as defined by the legislature. To carry out the program, the legislature may issue up to $50 million of general obligation bonds to provide funding. The legislature may require review and approval of the issuance of bonds, the use of the bond proceeds, or of the rules adopted by an agency to govern use of the bond proceeds. Bonds authorized by the amendment constitute a general obligation of the state.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:

"The constitutional amendment authorizing the legislature to provide for the issuance of $50 million of general obligation bonds for the recovery and further development of the state's economy and other benefits for Texas residents through state financing of the start-up costs of historically underutilized businesses."

PROPOSITION NO. 2 ON THE BALLOT

House Joint Resolution 86 proposes a constitutional amendment authorizing the legislature, by general law, to exempt from ad valorem taxation all or part of real and personal property used, constructed, acquired, or installed wholly or partly to meet or exceed rules or regulations adopted by any environmental protection agency of the United States, Texas, or a political subdivision of this state for the prevention, monitoring, control, or reduction of air, water, or land pollution. The amendment applies to real and personal property used as a facility, device, or method for the control of air, water, or land pollution that would otherwise be taxable for the first time on or after January 1, 1994. The amendment does not authorize the exemption from ad valorem taxation of real or personal property that was subject to a tax abatement agreement executed before January 1, 1994.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:

"The constitutional amendment to promote the reduction of pollution and to encourage the preservation of jobs by authorizing the exemption from ad valorem taxation of real and personal property used for the control of air, water, or land pollution."

PROPOSITION NO. 3 ON THE BALLOT

House Joint Resolution 3 proposes a constitutional amendment to clear land titles in which the State of Texas relinquishes and releases any claim of sovereign ownership or title to an undivided one-third interest in and to the lands and minerals within the Shelby, Frazier, and McCormick League (now located in Fort Bend and Austin counties) arising out of the interest in that league originally granted under the Mexican Colonization Law of 1823 to John McCormick on or about July 24, 1824, and subsequently voided by the governing body of Austin's Original Colony on or about December 15, 1830. Title to such interest in the lands and minerals is confirmed to the owners of the remaining interests in such lands and minerals.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:

"The constitutional amendment providing for the clearing of land titles by the release of a state claim in a fractional interest, arising out of the voiding of an interest under a Mexican land grant, to the owners of certain property in Fort Bend and Austin counties."

PROPOSITION NO. 4 ON THE BALLOT

Senate Joint Resolution 49 proposes a constitutional amendment that would prohibit a state personal income tax without voter approval and would dedicate the proceeds of any income tax, if enacted, to property tax relief and education. The amendment provides that a general law enacted by the legislature that imposes a tax on the net incomes of natural persons, including a person's share of partnership and unincorporated association income, must provide that the portion of the law imposing the tax not take effect until approved by a majority of the registered voters voting in a statewide referendum held on the question of imposing the tax. The referendum must specify the rate of the tax that will apply to taxable income.

The amendment also provides that a general law enacted by the legislature that increases the rate of the tax, or changes the tax in a manner that results in an increase in the combined income tax liability of all persons subject to the tax, may not take effect until approved by a majority of the registered voters voting in a statewide referendum held on the question of increasing the income tax. The referendum must specify the manner in which the proposed law would increase the combined tax liability of all persons subject to the tax. The legislature may repeal, or amend without increasing, a tax approved by the voters without submitting the amendment or the repeal to the voters. If the legislature repeals a tax approved by the voters, the legislature may only reenact the tax without voter approval if the effective date of the reenactment of the tax is within one year of the effective date of the repeal of the tax.

The amendment also provides that, in the first year in which an income tax is imposed, and during the first year of any increase in the tax, not less than two-thirds of all net revenues from the tax shall be used to reduce the rate of ad valorem maintenance and operation taxes levied for the support of primary and secondary education. In subsequent years, not less than two-thirds of all net revenues of the tax shall be used to continue such ad valorem tax relief. The net revenues of the tax remaining after the dedication of money for reduction of ad valorem maintenance and operation taxes shall be used for support of education. The maximum rate at which a school district may impose ad valorem maintenance and operation taxes is reduced by an amount equal to one cent per $100 valuation for each one cent per $100 valuation that the school district's ad valorem maintenance and operation tax is reduced by the minimum amount of money dedicated under the amendment, provided that a school district may subsequently increase the maximum ad valorem maintenance and operation tax rate if the increased maximum rate is approved by a majority of the voters of the school district voting at an election called and held for that purpose. The portions of the amendment relating to dedicating tax revenues to reduce the rate of ad valorem maintenance and operation taxes apply on or after the first January 1 after the date on which an income tax takes effect, except that if the income tax begins to apply on a January 1, the amendment applies to ad valorem maintenance and operation taxes levied on or after that date.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:

"The constitutional amendment prohibiting a personal income tax without voter approval and, if an income tax is enacted, dedicating the revenue to education and limiting the rate of local school taxes."

PROPOSITION NO. 5 ON THE BALLOT

Senate Joint Resolution 18 proposes a constitutional amendment that would authorize the legislature to prescribe the qualifications of sheriffs. Currently, the constitution authorizes the legislature to prescribe the duties, perquisites, and fees of office, but not the qualifications for the office of sheriff.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:

"The constitutional amendment to allow the legislature to prescribe the qualifications of sheriffs."

PROPOSITION NO. 6 ON THE BALLOT

House Joint Resolution 21 proposes a constitutional amendment that would abolish the office of county surveyor in Jackson County. The amendment also provides for the powers, duties, and functions of the county surveyor to be transferred to the county officer designated by the commissioners court.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:

"The constitutional amendment abolishing the office of county surveyor in Jackson County."

PROPOSITION NO. 7 ON THE BALLOT

House Joint Resolution 57 proposes a constitutional amendment that repeals article XII, section 6, of the Texas Constitution, which currently provides that no corporation shall issue stock or bonds except for money paid, labor done, or property actually received, and that all fictitious increase of stock or indebtedness shall be void.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:

"The constitutional amendment repealing certain restrictions on the ability of corporations to raise capital."

PROPOSITION NO. 8 ON THE BALLOT

House Joint Resolution 22 proposes a constitutional amendment that would authorize the commissioners court of McLennan County to call an election to abolish the office of county surveyor. The office of county surveyor will be abolished if a majority of the qualified voters of McLennan County voting on the question favor the abolition. If the office of county surveyor is abolished, the amendment requires the maps, field notes, and other records in the custody of the county surveyor to be transferred to the county clerk of McLennan County. After abolition, the amendment also grants the commissioners court of McLennan County the authority to employ or contract with a qualified person to perform any of the functions that would have been performed by the county surveyor if the office had not been abolished.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:

"The constitutional amendment to abolish the office of county surveyor in McLennan County."

PROPOSITION NO. 9 ON THE BALLOT

Senate Joint Resolution 19 proposes an amendment to article VIII, section 13 of the Texas Constitution that would modify the provisions for the redemption of real property sold at a tax sale. The amendment deletes current language in article VIII, section 13 that allows the legislature to provide for the sale of property without trial to pay for delinquent taxes. It also states that the deed to the new owner vests a good and perfect title subject only to redemption as set out in this amendment or impeachment for fraud. Language is added limiting application of the current two-year redemption period to former owners of residence homesteads and land designated for agricultural use sold for unpaid taxes. When property is sold as the result of a suit to enforce collection of unpaid taxes, the amendment would allow the legislature to limit redemption to property used as a residence homestead or designated for agricultural use at the time the suit was filed. The amendment creates a second year of redemption for former owners of real property when property is neither a residence homestead, nor designated for agricultural use. These owners would have a six-month period in which to redeem their property by paying the amount of money paid for the property, including the Tax Deed Recording Fee, all taxes, penalties, interest, and costs paid plus an amount not exceeding 25 percent of the aggregate total. The amendment applies to redemption of properties sold at a tax sale for which the purchaser's deed is filed on or after January 1, 1994. For redemption of properties sold at a tax sale for which the purchaser's deed was filed before January 1, 1994, the former law is applicable and remains in effect.

PROPOSITION NO. 10 ON THE BALLOT

Senate Joint Resolution 34 proposes a constitutional amendment that adds a

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:

"The constitutional amendment to modify the provisions for the redemption of real property sold at a tax sale."

PROPOSITION NO. 11 ON THE BALLOT

Senate Joint Resolution 31 proposes a constitutional amendment relating to the duties of trustees of local retirement systems which provide retirement and related disability and death benefits for public officers and employees and that do not belong to a statewide retirement system. The amendment provides that the board of trustees of such a system shall (1) administer the system of benefits; (2) hold the assets of the system for the exclusive purposes of providing benefits to participants and their beneficiaries and defraying reasonable expenses of administering the system; and (3) select legal counsel and an actuary and adopt sound actuarial assumptions to be used by the system.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:

"The constitutional amendment providing that the trustees of a local pension system must administer the system for the benefit of the system's participants and beneficiaries."

PROPOSITION NO. 12 ON THE BALLOT

House Joint Resolution 23 proposes a constitutional amendment providing that any person accused of a violent or sexual offense committed while under the supervision of a criminal justice agency of this state or a political subdivision of this state for a prior felony may, after a hearing and evidence substantially showing the guilt of the accused, be denied bail pending trial. If the accused is not, however, accorded a trial within 60 days from the time of his incarceration upon the accusation or indictment, the order denying bail shall be set aside unless a continuance is obtained upon the request of the accused. In the amendment, the term "violent offense" means murder, aggravated assault (if a deadly weapon was used or exhibited during the commission of the assault), aggravated kidnapping, or aggravated robbery. The term "sexual offense" means aggravated sexual assault, sexual assault, or indecency with a child.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:

"The constitutional amendment permitting the denial of bail to certain persons charged with certain violent or sexual offenses committed while under the supervision of a criminal justice agency of the state or a political subdivision of the state."

PROPOSITION NO. 13 ON THE BALLOT

Senate Joint Resolution 13 proposes a constitutional amendment that amends article VII, section 17(a), of the Texas Constitution to provide that, of the $100 million currently appropriated by that section for the use of public institutions of higher education during each fiscal year, those institutions may also utilize this money to pay for acquiring, constructing, or equipping or for major repair or rehabilitation of buildings, facilities, other permanent improvements, or capital equipment used jointly for educational and general activities and for auxiliary enterprises to the extent of their use for educational and general activities. For the five-year period beginning on September 1, 2000, and for each five-year period thereafter, the legislature, during a regular session that is nearest, but preceding, a five-year period may, by a two-thirds vote of the membership of each house, increase the amount of the $100 million constitutional appropriation for the five-year period. The amendment also reflects name changes that have been made to some of the institutions of higher education for which such funding is available. The amendment adds the Texas State Technical College System to those institutions eligible to receive such funding, but limits its allocation of the annual appropriation to 2.2 percent of the total appropriation each fiscal year. The amendment also provides that each governing board authorized to participate in the distribution of money under article III, section 17, may also issue bonds and notes for the purposes of refunding bonds or notes issued under that section or prior law for the purposes of acquiring capital equipment, library books and library materials, paying for acquiring, constructing, or equipping or for major repair or rehabilitation of buildings, facilities, other permanent improvements, or capital equipment used jointly for educational and general activities and for auxiliary enterprises to the extent of their use for educational and general activities. The amendment deletes language in article III, section 17, which authorizes the legislature to designate a single agency to issue such bonds or notes in lieu of the governing bodies, and to transfer to that agency the authority to collect and pledge money to the payment of such bonds and notes as directed by the governing body of each eligible institution. Funds appropriated under article III, section 17, may not be used for the purpose of constructing, equipping, repairing, or rehabilitating buildings or other permanent im-

PROPOSITION NO. 14 ON THE BALLOT

Senate Joint Resolution 45 proposes a constitutional amendment that adds a new subsection (e) to article III, section 49-h, of the Texas Constitution. The new subsection provides that, in addition to the amounts authorized by subsections (a) ($500 million), (c) ($400 million), and (d) ($1.1 billion) of section 49-h, the legislature may authorize the issuance of up to $1 billion in general obligation bonds and may use the proceeds of the bonds for acquiring, constructing, or equipping new corrections institutions, including youth corrections institutions, and mental health and mental retardation institutions and for major repair or renovation of existing facilities of those corrections and mental health and mental retardation facilities. The amendment also provides that the provisions of subsection (a) of section 49-h, relating to the review and approval of bonds, and the provisions of subsection (b) of section 49-h, relating to the status of the bonds as a general obligation of the state and to the manner in which the principal and interest on the bonds are paid, apply to bonds authorized by this amendment.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:

"The constitutional amendment authorizing the issuance of up to $1 billion in general obligation bonds payable from the general revenues of the state for projects relating to facilities of corrections and mental health and mental retardation institutions."

PROPOSITION NO. 15 ON THE BALLOT

House Joint Resolution 37 proposes a constitutional amendment that would authorize the county commissioners court of a county to call an election to abolish the office of county surveyor. The office of county surveyor is abolished if a majority of voters of the county voting in the election approve the measure. If the office of county surveyor is abolished, the maps, field notes, and other records of the county surveyor are transferred to the county officer or employee designated by the commissioners court.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:

"The constitutional amendment to permit the voters of a county to decide, at an election called by the commissioners court, whether to abolish the office of county surveyor in the county."

PROPOSITION NO. 16 ON THE BALLOT

Senate Joint Resolution 44 proposes an amendment to article III, section 49-(b) of the Texas Constitution, which currently limits the principal amount of bonds outstanding at one time for the Texas agricultural fund to $25 million and for the rural microenterprise development fund to $5 million. The amendment would raise the principal amount limit for the Texas agricultural fund to $100 million. The amendment would also make the principal amount limit for each fund apply to the total principal amounts of both bonds and notes issued or sold rather than just the principal amounts of bonds outstanding at one time.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:

"The constitutional amendment authorizing up to a total of $100 million in bonds and notes to be issued or sold to finance the Texas agricultural fund for providing financial assistance to develop, increase, improve, or expand the production, processing, marketing, or export of crops or products grown or produced primarily in this state by agricultural businesses domiciled in the state."

Hints from Heloise®

Annoying Phone Solicitations

Dear Heloise: Please help if you can! I've seen the address for stopping unsolicited mail, but is there somewhere I can write to have us removed from all telephone-solicitation lists? I am interrupted sometimes two or three times a day. Some are companies I have a credit card or an account with and others are companies we don't even deal with. How can this be stopped? I pay for privileges to a phone, but how can I enjoy it without suffering from these intrusions? — T.L. Tharp, Mt. Vernon, Ohio

Help is on the way! There is a free consumer service sponsored by the Direct Marketing Association (DMA) called the Telephone Preference Service (TPS). The service will help reduce national solicitation calls, but will not stop all solicitation calls.

You will need to register with TPS by sending your request, including your name, address and telephone number (with area code) to: Telephone Preference Service Direct Marketing Association PO Box 9014 Farmingdale NY 11735-9014. After you have registered, your name is added to the name-removal file and is made available to business subscribers four times a year. Your name will stay on the removal file for five years, then you will need to renew your request. Also, if you move or get a new phone number, be sure to send the new information to TPS.

TPS can help reduce the amount of national marketing calls, but it will not affect local marketing calls and computerized calls. They can only be stopped by addressing each individually with a letter to the telemarketer requesting name removal. I tell them my phone number and not to call again or I'll report them to the attorney general!

I hope this helps you. It helped me. I know how aggravating those calls can be. — Heloise

CONSERVING WATER

Dear Heloise: A lot of water runs down the tub drain while we wait for it to get hot enough for a shower or bath. Since I've been collecting it in gallon milk jugs, I've found that it can be as much as half a gallon. (Or much more!) — Heloise

I use the water for my many houseplants and garden, but of course it can be used for cleaning and for many other purposes. — A Fan in Maryland, Gaithersburg, Md.

NOTIFY OF DEATH

Dear Heloise: Let me strongly suggest that a family member or friend go over a deceased person's address book and notify or write those included with the news of the death. Some friends keep in touch only once or twice a year, making it impossible for them to learn of their friend's death in a timely manner. — L.J. Wathen, Jr., Houston, Texas

I've had the sad experience of finding out just this way. Thank you for a "heart hint." — Heloise

If steak is what's for dinner, the types can cover any occasion

BY RAY WESTBROOK
Lubbock Avalanche-Journal

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) - If steak is what's for dinner, there is an individual type for virtually every purpose that a chef could wish to serve.

Versatility characterizes beef selections in most local retail markets, and the Chicago-based National Livestock and Meat Board describes as many as 17 different portions of meat that are typically sliced into steaks. The board list another 16 kinds of roasts, plus briskets, ribs, beef for stew and cubes for kabobs.

The variety that is available literally from every quarter of the beef animal ranges from packages of meat that preserve a budget to those that sink it out of sight.

Consumers also get to choose from meats that offer relatively low levels of fat, or they can throw caution to the wind and dine on steaks as they often were before nutritionists turned fat into a four-letter word.

Add a wide range of palatability choices, and the meat market begins to resemble a forest. But an intelligent course has been charted through the quality, nutrition and cost labyrinth by the Texas Tech Meat Laboratory, the Texas Agricultural Extension Service and the National Livestock and Meat Board.

For example, the tenderness of a beef steak depends initially upon what part of the animal it comes from, and subsequently upon the way it is prepared.

The more palatable cuts of meat also cost the most.

Mark Miller, director of the Tech Meat Lab, said the types of meat available in Lubbock retail stores often fall into either "choice" or "select" labels.

"If you look at the choice quality grade, it has 5 percent or less fat in it," he said. "Or if you look at select, it will have somewhere around 3 percent fat."

According to Miller, the choice grade, although sometimes disapproved by the nutrition profession, is often a more pleasant dining experience than select.

"Basically, the choice grade - because it has a little more fat in it - will be more consistent for its tenderness, its juiciness and its flavor. So, your overall satisfaction from the standpoint of how well it eats will be higher with choice than with select," Miller said.

The choice grades also sell for a bit more. "If you believe that choice is worth the extra few cents a pound they would charge, then you would buy that. But on the other hand, select doesn't taste bad. Select is a good product too; it is just not as consistent," he said.

"Basically, if you buy 100 select steaks and 100 choice steaks, your chances of getting an unpalatable steak that you wouldn't be quite as satisfied with in choice, might be five or six times out of the 100. If you look at select, it might go up to 15 times out of 100, or you might be twice as likely to get something that is a little tougher or a little drier," he said.

According to Miller, consumers now are leaning toward the purchase of leaner meat. "What we are finding is that there is more select being sold than ever before; but there is still a high demand from consumers who want a really high quality beef product, so it (choice) is pretty well maintaining itself."

According to Linda S. Lynch, Lubbock County Extension agent-home economics, current grades of steak at the retail level can range from "commercial" up to "prime."

Under the U.S. Department of Agriculture labeling system, the grades are "commercial," "standard," "select," "choice" and "prime," from lower to higher quality. Grades that are below "commercial" are "utility" and "canner," but they are not usually found at retail stores.

Some grocery stores do not label their meat with a particular grade, but that information is usually available by asking someone in the meat department. Miller believes that knowing what cut to select for what purpose is the most important thing a customer can do.

"If you are going to try to impress your family or your boss, or have someone over and it means a lot, then you want to buy a filet mignon, a tenderloin, a rib-eye, a New York strip or the T-bone. And you'll spend a little money doing that," he said.

"If you are on a limited budget, and you are a pretty doggone good cook, there are a lot of recipes out here where you can take some inexpensive cuts - for example, beef chuck roast - and you can crock pot cook that; you can marinate it; and you can make a really exquisite meal from a beef standpoint with a low value cut."

For grilling steaks, Miller recommends a cut of meat from among those that are especially tender to start with. Those include cuts from the loin section of the beef carcass. Club, T-bone, porterhouse, strip loin and filet mignon tenderloin steaks all come from that section.

Miller recommends special preparation for skirt steak. "You want to cut that thin because you know it's going to be tough." He suggests marinating it with some solution that has a tenderizing enzyme in it.

"Something that comes from the pineapple plant or the papaya. A lot of the tenderizers have an enzyme in there that basically degrades protein, and that's what makes it tender."

The consumer should remember, he said, that "if you buy chuck steak and it cost $2.25 a pound, don't expect that to be as tender as T-bone steak that you paid $4.95 a pound for. It's just a relationship of value."

According to Miller, some of the tenderest meat is in the chuck, but also some of the toughest.

"Out of an entire chuck steak, as large as it is, you are going to have certain muscles within the steak that are going to be very good, and you may have others that not going to be quite as good. You need to basically understand that, and give the tough ones to somebody else!"

Texas' only 'exemplary' school district has just 29 students

By RALPH WININGHAM
San Antonio Express-News

DOSS, Texas (AP) - When yours has been recognized as the only exemplary school district among the 1,048 in the state, handling a 12 percent increase in enrollment the first day of classes is easy: add three desks.

"Smallness is the key. We have three teachers and 29 students, so we can see the students one-on-one and can tell if they are having problems," said Carrie Bierschwale, who has been teaching at Doss School District the past nine years.

The 109-year-old Doss School is considered the heart of this community of about 80 people just 40 miles northwest of Fredericksburg in Gillespie County.

Ms. Bierschwale, who'll teach 12 fourth-, fifth- and sixth-graders this year, talked about the district's exemplary program as students from the small community in northwestern Gillespie County filtered in for the first day of school Aug. 24.

In addition to Ms. Bierschwale, the students are taught by Clairlean Friedrich, a five-year veteran, and Eileen Whited, who's starting her second year here.

Their efforts and the performance of the students earned the one-school district recognition this month as the top district ranked by the Texas Education Agency.

The first-time ranking by the education agency was based on the Texas Assessment of Academic Skills (TAAS) achievement test results of fourth-, eighth- and 10th-graders; dropout rates; and other variables used to determine how effectively children are being educated.

The news surprised the teachers who hold classes in what they affectionately call "the Little Room, the Middle Room and the Big Room."

No effort is made to gear studies toward passing the TAAS tests, the teachers said, adding that six Doss students in the fourth and eighth grades took the examination last year.

There are no classes above the eighth grade at Doss School, and area youngsters transfer to nearby Fredericksburg or Harper for high school classes.

"If we teach all the stuff that is in the books, we believe they will know what is on the tests," Ms. Bierschwale said.

"We have to spend a lot of extra hours and work all summer long just to keep prepared," she said, adding she has to teach 21 subjects.

Ms. Friedrich, who teaches 24 subjects to students in kindergarten through third grade, said repetition and immediate attention to problems also helps the students.

"When we get through with one class, they start their homework as we go to the next class. If there is a problem, we can immediately work with them," she said.

"This is a group of top-notch kids who want to do well and have the support of their parents," said Ms. Whited, who teaches eight seventh- and eighth-graders.

"There is a back-to-basics attitude," she added.

The school is a sharp contrast between old and new, with computers just steps from antique furniture used as closets and storage cabinets.

Three desks for the new students already were on hand.

On a long, wide shelf stretching halfway across the school's long hallway, the children place insulated lunch boxes containing their day's snacks and lunch.

The entire school takes a snack break from 10:10 a.m. to 10:30 a.m. each day.

All of the teachers said parental support and interest in student performance are key factors in the outstanding rating of the district.

"We know a lot of these kids from the time they are born. The old-time values are here, and if anyone causes a problem, the whole community knows about it," Ms. Friedrich said.

"It is just so relaxing to have no disciplinary problems, no drug problems, and we don't have any truancy," she added.

Marjorie Garrentson, a teachers' aide and music instructor, said the school has a well-deserved reputation of producing quality students, many of whom have gone on to perform well in college.

"Quite a few of our students go on to college, graduate and return to this area," she said. "There is a high value system here."

Ms. Garrentson was quick to point out, however, that Doss shouldn't be considered unique.

"The students here are no different from anyone else. It is just a case where we can give them one-on-one attention and a family involvement," she said, adding she attended the school from 1938 to 1949.

The Newspaper BIBLE

WOULD YOU LIKE A FAITH WITHOUT FRILLS?

While Paul and Barnabas were at Antioch, some men from Judea arrived and began to teach the believers that unless they adhered to the ancient Jewish custom of circumcision, they could not be saved.

Paul and Barnabas argued and discussed this with them at length, and finally the believers sent them to Jerusalem, accompanied by some local men, to talk to the apostles and elders there about this question.

After the entire congregation had escorted them out of the city the delegates went on to Jerusalem, stopping along the way in the cities of Phoenicia and Samaria to visit believers, telling them -- much to everyone's joy -- that the Gentiles, too, were being converted.

Arriving in Jerusalem, they met with the church leaders -- all the apostles and elders were present -- and Paul and Barnabas reported on what God had been doing through their ministry.

But then some of the men who had been Pharisees before their conversion stood to their feet and declared that all Gentile converts must be circumcised and required to follow all the Jewish customs and ceremonies. So the apostles and church elders set a further meeting to decide this question.

At the meeting, after long discussion, Peter stood and addressed them as follows: "Brothers, you all know that God chose me from among you long ago to preach the Good News to the Gentiles; so that they also could believe."

Ask Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB: What is heart failure? Is there any help for it? I take Bumex. About three hours later, I leak. I wet so bad when I go to the bathroom I can wring my pad out. What are water tablets?

I am so tired. Is there anything that can stop the tiredness? The swelling has gone into my legs and ankles, but I feel so sick. I have angina and use nitro patches.

DEAR READER: Congestive heart failure simply means the heart is not able to pump enough blood rapidly enough to satisfy your body's needs. Without adequate oxygen delivery, it is not surprising that a person feels tired. Often, the accumulation of fluid in the liver and digestive tract limits one's appetite.

Initially, the left side of the heart can't pump enough blood out of the lungs and fluid accumulates in the air sacs. That causes shortness of breath. Later, when the right heart fails, it causes accumulation of fluid in the liver, intestines, feet and ankles.

Bumex, which you take, is a diuretic. Diuretics are often called "water pills." They cause the kidneys to lose sodium. When you lose sodium, it takes water with it. That maintains the right concentration of sodium in the body fluids, which is critical. You have a sudden diuresis from the effects of the medicine on your kidneys to eliminate sodium and the excess water you have accumulated. You can see this is also why people with congestive heart failure must limit their sodium intake.

You will understand better what is happening after reading my new Special Report 138, Heart Failure, which I'm sending you. Others who want this report can send $3 with a stamped (52 cents), self-addressed, No. 10 envelope for it to THE HEALTH LETTER/138, P.O. Box 5537, Riverton, NJ 08077-5537.

A variety of medicines do help control congestive heart failure. There are new medicines just being developed that are even better in improving even a damaged heart's ability to pump more efficiently. In other cases, if the loss of pumping efficiency is from valve damage, replacing the damaged valve is of great value. Avoiding being overweight, limiting your sodium intake and controlling blood pressure are all important aspects of managing congestive heart failure.

The most common cause of congestive heart failure is coronary artery disease and heart attacks. Your history of angina attacks do suggest coronary artery disease.

DEAR DR. LAMB: Please address "stomach viruses." We read so much about colds and flu but stomach viruses are just as prevalent and nothing is ever mentioned about them. I seem to be extremely susceptible to these bugs. Why do some family members develop a cold and others catch it in the gastrointestinal area?

DEAR READER: The overlapping of symptoms caused by the "cold" and "flu" viruses along with viral gastroenteritis has caused so much confusion that most people who have these illnesses do not really know what they have. The viruses that cause gastroenteritis with vomiting and/or watery diarrhea are spread predominantly by food and water: the fecal-oral route. Associated muscle aches, low-grade fever, headache and chills along with nausea, vomiting, diarrhea and abdominal discomfort make many people think they have the flu. They don't. That is a different virus. The cold and flu viruses are inhaled, not ingested.

Swimming pools also are a source of viral gastroenteritis. There is no sure way of prevention other than hygienic measures, and the treatment is limited to support with fluids and symptomatic treatment as needed.

DEAR DR. LAMB: My husband has a kidney disease called nephrotic syndrome and has had a cholesterol level of 600. He has been on medicine which has not lowered his cholesterol. He has lots of swelling of his face and whole body and appears pale. Why does kidney disease cause the swelling and the high cholesterol level?

DEAR READER: There are several diseases of the kidneys that cause the nephrotic syndrome, which is as you described it. They all damage the kidney's filtering mechanism and result in a large loss of blood proteins. In the normal kidney, the blood proteins are not lost. Blood proteins act to suck fluid back into the capillaries. When they are low, the fluid remains in the tissues and causes swelling. As the blood proteins fall, the liver produces more and more cholesterol. The goal of treatment is to correct the kidney defect.

In some cases, prednisone (steroid) therapy is very effective in doing this. In other causes of nephrosis, it may be ineffective.

Contract promises jobs

Buy American. Whether it's American-made goods or services, buying American makes sense. It's an axiom that's bringing jobs back to this country.

Yet evidence of anti-Buy American sentiment can still be found close to home, even in San Francisco. That's where they Bay Area Rapid Transit (BART) district has awarded a base contract for the purchase of automatic fare collection equipment at five new BART stations to a foreign company rather than to San Diego-based Cubic Corporation.

Normally, American companies are supposed to take precedence over foreign companies when job bids occur, nevertheless, the Federal Transit Administration granted BART a waiver in March saying they didn't have to abide by the Buy American requirements. They upheld but clarified the waiver on May 4, then took the waiver away on May 24 after five California representatives wrote to Robert McManus, FTA acting administrator, urging him to reconsider the BART waiver that allowed them to choose a foreign firm over an American firm. The FTA was not sure whether the waiver was appropriate and in keeping with the intention of existing Buy American requirements.

When the FTA asked Congress for its opinion (the FTA is under no obligation to heed the advice), Congress recommended that the money saved by awarding this contract to a German firm will not be offset by the federal tax dollars that will need to be spent on food stamps, unemployment and job training for the Americans whose jobs are at stake. The bottom line, ruled Congress, is that they would rather employ Americans than Germans.

However, despite Congress' recommendation, the FTA ultimately upheld the waiver, ruling that it was okay to award the contract to the foreign firm.

There's Always Been One Good Way To Insure Your Crop Investment. Now There Are Two.

Ask your local crop insurance agent about this year's new Group Risk Plan (GRP).

It's a pilot program being offered in selected counties and it provides an alternative to conventional Multiple Peril Crop Insurance policies.

It could be just right for you.

The cost is low.

The dollar amount of protection is high.

Production guarantees and indemnity payments are based on the county average yield rather than individual farm yields.

There's almost no paperwork and you don't need yield records.

Although GRP may not be for everyone, it's definitely worth looking into.

Get the facts from your local crop insurance agent. But do it soon because the deadline to apply is rapidly approaching.

Crop insurance policies sold or reinsured by the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation are available to all producers regardless of race, color, national origin, sex, age, or disability.
