Poindexter wants no North testimony

WASHINGTON (AP) - John Poindexter's lawyers are trying to stop Oliver North from testifying that Poindexter destroyed a politically embarrassing document concerning Iran and directed North to mislead Congress.

The court fight over North's upcoming testimony emerged Wednesday as a jury of seven women and five men was sworn in for the former national security adviser's last-Confess trial.

North, a former aide to Poindexter at the National Security Council, was to be the government's leadoff witness following today's opening statements in U.S. District Court.

Judge Harold Greene said he would resolve the dispute over North's testimony before the retired Marine officer took the witness stand.

Many of the jurors said they had heard of North but knew little about Poindexter, except that he was North's boss.

Intervenors want more concessions from Bell

AUSTIN (AP) - The state advocate for utility consumers, who claims Southwestern Bell is earning $595 million in excessive profits a year, asked the Texas Supreme Court Wednesday to force the Public Utility Commission to proceed with a full hearing on the telephone company's rate case.

The PUC has set an expedited hearing schedule, beginning March 19, that will focus on a proposed settlement in the case that supporters say is worth $1.2 billion in customer benefits over four years. A second, hearing is planned if the settlement is not approved.

The dual-hearing process means parties supporting the settlement "get another whole hearing if they lose," while those who oppose it do not, said Assistant Public Counsel John Laakso.

The Office of Public Utility Counsel, which represents residential and small commercial ratepayers, and a coalition of cities served by Southwestern Bell are among settlement opponents. They have said it does not go far enough, nor reduce local residential rates.

Most of the parties in the case support the settlement, including long-distance companies, the PUC general counsel and various cities.

Laakso also said setting rates based on a partial settlement does not meet state legal standards for utility regulation.

Assistant Attorney General Steve Baron, representing the PUC, said he had not seen the petition filed with the Supreme Court and had no immediate comment.

Open meetings laws are reviewed

AUSTIN (AP) - The Texas Supreme Court is reviewing what is known among journalists as the "bathroom meeting" case, which tests the Open Meetings Act against another state law, the Administrative Procedure and Register Act.

The case was taken under advisement Wednesday, following arguments over whether the Texas Water Commission had violated the Open Meetings Act in denying a waste water treatment permit sought by Charles Acker for his Huntsville mobile home park.

Acker was before the three-member commission in 1986 for a permit. During a break in the hearing, two commissioners allegedly were overheard discussing Acker's application in a restroom.

When the meeting reconvened, one of the commissioners voted to grant the application. The remaining two commissioners voted to deny it.

Acker claimed in Travis County state district court that the commissioners violated the Open Meetings Act, which he argued requires agency decision-makers to conduct their deliberations in public without any private discussions among themselves.

Judge Jerry Dellana declared the commission's order null and void, and sent the case back to the commission for further proceedings.

But the 3rd Court of Appeals in Austin overruled Dellana in May, citing a 1977 amendment to the Administrative Procedure and Register Act that "explicitly permits such communications."

The open meetings law was enacted in 1967. The administrative act became law in 1975.

The nine-member Supreme Court reviewed the case Wednesday, with all justices except Jack Hightower present for the arguments.

J. Bruce Bennett, an attorney representing Acker, said the two commissioners never denied the restroom meeting but said they could not recall it.

Bennett said the discussion was key to the case because there was no discussion at the public hearing on the permit application. "It was the only debate held in the case, and it was by accident we found out about it," he said.

Bennett also said the written order denying the permit was signed by all three commissioners, which indicated the possibility of additional private discussions among the commissioners.

Since the Open Meetings Act restricts verbal exchange among members constituting a quorum, Justice Nathan Hecht said if the water commission had five members and two had talked about the case in the bathroom, there would be no problem.

"That's correct," Bennett responded.

Assistant Attorney General Linda Secord, representing the water commission, said such a discussion would not fall within the definition of "deliberation." Such exchanges, she said, assist people in performing their state functions.

Ms. Secord also said the third commissioner had not changed his vote, that "everybody signs the order no matter how they voted."

"It is something that can cause confusion," she said.

Church, community involvement desired

By KAY CRISMON
Staff Writer

Mark Twain and the Rev. Randy Garner have one thing in common; they both were raised in Hammond, Mo.

Rev. Garner, the new pastor of the Church of the Nazarene in Hereford, and his wife Joy are now residing at 249 Greenwood. They have two daughters, four-year-old Amanda, and seven-year-old Lindsey. Lindsey attends the Nazarene Christian Academy.

Rev. Garner began his pastoral ministry in Ponca City, Okla. after graduating from Mid America Nazarene College in Olathe, Kan. He ministered for five-and-a-half years in Ponca City before moving to Memphis, Tenn. and was pastor for four-and-a-half years there before coming to Hereford.

"At this stage in our lives, with two small children, we are thankful to be able to come to a small community like Hereford," Rev. Garner said. "My hometown population was about 18,000, and Ponca City was 35,000. Memphis had a population of about a million but was a small community rather than a big city. Memphis wasn't such a tremendous adjustment except for the somewhat slower lifestyle and the good part about it, was that you didn't have to travel so far to get somewhere."

"The church has been very active in the community and the congregation desires to continue that course. One of the goals the church is working toward is to develop the fact that the church is not just youth, senior adults and children but we are all together caring for one another with unconditional love. This feeling of unconditional love is in the church and goals are to spread this throughout the community.

"Members have an all-rounded ministry and want to include anyone in the community to become a part of the activities including worship services. The goal is to become involved with the community as much as we can and the community to benefit from the church being here. We feel as if we are here to serve the community and express Christian love and to be a service to them.

"Another goal we hope to attain is to administer to the senior citizens more than in the past. So often senior citizens are neglected. We all need to realize that someday we will become senior citizens. They need to be appreciated for who they are. There is a special value they give to others and we want to be sure they realize we feel this way about them. Margie Daniels, executive director of Hereford Citizens Center, will be working with me and giving ideas on what the church can be doing to better this part of the community.

"Plans are also being made to increase the ministry to the youth, providing a lot of avenues of not just recreation but spiritual emphasis, too. This will not center on any particular age group but to all youths. Youths today are going through a time and some of the things they face we have never been through before. Everyone is aware of that but there is not many of us willing to do anything about it because we don't totally understand the situation.

"We want to use individuals who have been trying to understand the youth and love and care about them; to develop something with them and their parents that will be effective for them and help in everyday living; keeping them involved in activities that will help them grow spiritual and physically will help them to be a better person.

"The church has approximately 585 members and has been without a pastor for almost six months. This tells me that the stability of the church is strong. We are not so much interested in the number as we just want to minister to the people and show unconditional love. We want them to know we care and love people and if they need a place we are here. We realize we are not the only church in town and there is no reason to try to think we are, but we are all together ministering for a purpose."

Program presented by Bradly

Marcella Bradly presented a program on stress to members of the La Aflatus Estudio Club recently when they met in the home of Virginia Beasley.

Bradly explained how stress effects people in different ways and that good health is essential to avoid stress. She demonstrated different ways to relieve stress.

Alberta Higgins served as co-hostess with Mary Williams opening the business meeting. Lydia Hopson lead the members in the club collect. Roll call was answered by a story of interest.

The club voted to send membership collection to the Friends of the Library. Nell McEachern and Linda Cranmer, relatives of a former member, sent a donation of $50 in memory of Mrs. Allyne Johnson who died three years ago.

New officers elected were Emily Suggs, president; Lydia Hopson, vice president; Virginia Beasley, secretary-treasurer; Pet Ott, reporter and Mary Williamson, parliamentarian.

Members attending were Bea Hutson, Della Stagner, Ott, Hopson, Louise Kinsey, Alberta Higgins, Aileen Montgomery, Williams, and Beasley.

The first automobile show was held in new York City in 1900.

Aggie Mothers Club elects new officers

The Golden Spread Aggie Mothers Club met in the home of President Diane Hoelscher recently when officers were elected to serve two-year terms.

The following officers were elected to serve terms beginning in September. Wanda Nelson of Dimmitt was elected first vice president in charge of projects; Martha Jo Hyman of Dimmitt, treasurer; and Terri Johnson of Hereford, historian.

President Hoelscher called the meeting to order. Secretary Jane Coplen of Hereford read the minutes of the previous meeting and the treasurer's report was given by Joy Bunch of Hereford.

Parent's weekend at Texas A&M, April 7-8, was discussed with plans made to rent a booth at the boutique to display the handmade quilt. The quilt will be sold to fund the annual scholarship project. Tickets may be purchased from any club member for $1 each or six tickets for $5.

President Hoelscher appointed the following members as the 1990 scholarship committee: Marilyn Birkenfield, Nazareth; Margaret Ann Durham, Hereford; Shirley Wilson, Hereford; Connie Nelson, Dimmitt; and Martha Jo Hyman, Dimmitt. Scholarship applications may be picked up from the high school counselor's office and are to be returned by April 6. The application is open to any high school senior who has been accepted for enrollment at Texas A&M University. Interviews will be held at 242 N. Main in Hereford.

Plans were finalized for the district meeting of the Federation of Texas A&M Mothers Club to be held March 31 at the E.B. Black House in Hereford.

Thirteen members were present with the following Hereford members in attendance: Hoelscher, Coplen, Bunch, Johnson, Durham, Wilson, Virginia Jackson and Ruth Robbins.

NEW YORK (AP) - "When it comes to an elaborate dinner, I like a centerpiece that's grand in scale," says Martha Stewart.

Stewart, a Family Circle magazine contributing editor, says, "I extend it almost to the place settings and use flowers and vegetables or anything I can find for that extra personal touch."

Here are some tips from Stewart:

- Use different kinds of flowers and herbs.
- Play with color.
- Use sherry glasses as vases for tiny blossoms, then place them among the rest of the centerpiece.

Hints from Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

We've found that one of the best ways of recycling those mammoth computer printouts is to run the stacks back through the printer and use the blank reverse side for a second printing. The quality is more than acceptable for test runs and other informal jobs. — Raymond Goyette, Holmdel, N.J.

We do the same in our office with the cover sheets for materials that we fax. We always use both sides.

Another use for those piles of computer paper if you can't run them back through for a second printing is to cut them up and use the clean sides for scratch pads.

There are always ways to use and reuse things to get the very most out of them. Thanks for sharing yours. — Heloise

LAUNDRY AIDES

Dear Heloise: I've devised a method for teaching my children to sort their clothes for the washer.

I have three hampers — the kind that hang on a frame — and each one is made of a different material. One is made from old jeans (which I cut in pieces and stitched together) and is for jeans, pants and heavy clothes.

The second is made from an old sheet and holds sheets, towels and whites. The third is print fabric, and of course is for lightweight colored clothing.

My children each have their own laundry basket and bring their clothes to the laundry room on the way to breakfast. Even the youngest can easily sort dirty clothes into the bag that's made of the same kind of fabric.

When the laundry is done, I put the clean clothes in each basket, which the children take to their rooms and put away, along with any of their belongings that have strayed into the living room, family room or kitchen.

This helps me with laundry and housekeeping, and hopefully my kids will learn how to separate their laundry and pick up after themselves by the time they go off to college! — Tammy Toothaker, Hampden, Maine

Good training for them and help for you. Sounds good to me! — Heloise

PACKAGE DROP

Dear Heloise: It happened again! A friend of mine drove off after placing a package on top of the car. I found a way to prevent this.

If you must put down a package to open the car door, instead of putting it on top of the car, put it on the hood in front of the steering wheel. You'll be sure to see it before you drive off! — Charles Wilson, Port Hueneme, Calif.

Golf teams host tourney

Hereford's Super Sports Weekends get underway at 9 a.m. Friday with the start of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce Invitational golf tournament at Pitman Municipal Golf Course.

The first of the Super Sports Weekends includes Saturday's DSCCCI boys track meet, scheduled for a 9 a.m. start at Whiteface Stadium, and the second round of the golf tournament, which will have another 9 a.m. shotgun start. The DSCCCI tennis tournament and girls track meet will be held March 16-17.

Eleven boys and girls teams will tee off with a shotgun start, according to Stacy Bixler, head golf coach and tournament director, including Hereford A and B teams in both divisions.

"This gives all our kids a chance to play," Bixler said, "and they all need the competition right now."

Bixler said other schools participating in the event include Levelland, Dumas, Perryton, Vega, Nazareth and Bovina in both boys' and girls' divisions while Randall, Canyon and Claude round out the boys' field and Pampa, Borger and Spearman fill the girls.

"It should be a pretty competitive tournament," Bixler said. "The Pampa and Borger girls went to regional last year and Spearman's girls went to state in 2A."

"In the boys, Canyon went to state in 3A and Randall and Levelland have some really good players back from last year."

Bixler said the two-day format of the event will make the competition even closer.

"When you play two days," he said, "one bad round doesn't hurt as much. Everybody will have a shot to win up to the end."

Bixler added that improved weather conditions this week have given Herd golfers a chance to spend more time on the course.

"Unless we have a storm blow up all of a sudden today," he said "we'll have a full week of practice for the first time this season. We had two days of practice before we went to Fort Stockton and only one last week, so we've tried to get a lot of work done this week."

Bixler said he expects the course to be in good condition for the tourney, which should give his teams an added advantage.

"With the temperature warming up, the course has had a chance to dry out a little and green up some," he said. "And since our kids have been able to play on it all week, they'll have a pretty good idea on how to handle certain situations."

Admission to the tournament is free and open to the public. For more information about attending, contact the Pitman Pro Shop at 364-2782.

Get in there

Cory Newton of the Hereford Whiteface golf team sends a put home during a round at Pitman Municipal Golf Course. Newton and the rest of the Herd linksters will host golfers from 12 other schools for the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce Invitational on Friday and Saturday as part of Hereford's Super Sports Weekends.

Moulton downs Vega, 67-43, at state tourney

Moulton's Bobcats used a high-pressure defense and several offensive runs to defeat the Vega Longhorns 67-43 in the State Class A basketball semifinals this morning at the Frank Erwin Special Events Center in Austin.

The loss was the first of the year for the Longhorns, who finish 29-1. It was the first state tournament appearance by the Longhorns since the 1979 state Class 2A championship team.

Moulton iced the win in the last half of the third quarter with a big offensive run.

In the third period, Moulton jumped to a 26-16 lead before the Longhorns got hot. Led by Roger Brorman and Adrian Monzingo, the Longhorns closed to 26-23 on a three-point play by Brorman with 4:53 in the quarter. Moulton then went on a 13-4 run to grab a 42-29 lead after three quarters.

The Longhorns got off to a shaky start, and trailed 12-8 with a minute to play in the first quarter. Cody Walker scored on his own offensive rebound with 25 seconds left in the period to cut it to 12-10, then Monzingo broke free on a play after a Moulton turnover with six seconds left and scored at the buzzer to tie it at 12-11.

Cody Walker scored his 10th point of the game with 4:45 left in the first half to tie the score at 16, but Moulton scored two quick baskets to run to a 20-16 lead midway through the period. Neither team scored again until Moulton hit two free throws after time expired in the first half to take a 22-16 lead.

Neither team shot the ball well in the first half: Vega was 8-of-26 for 30.7 percent; Moulton was 9-of-28 for 32 percent. Moulton hit all four attempted free throws, while the Longhorns never went to the line in the first half.

Moulton stayed hot early in the fourth quarter, going up 46-29. The Bobcats had been 12-of-12 from the free throw line until missing two straight with 6:49 left when Walker was whistled with his fourth foul.

Walker picked up his fifth foul with 5:03 to play. The Longhorns went to a full-court man-to-man defense to try to force the action. It worked for a while as the Longhorns cut the lead to 12 points at 51-39 with 4:50 left. Moulton then went on another 6-0 run to put the game completely out of reach for the Longhorns.

Walker led the Longhorns with 16 points. Monzingo added 10, Brorman 9, Kevin Osuna 5 and Jeff Joyce 3 for the Longhorns.

Tee times limited

Friday and Saturday tee times at Pitman Municipal Golf Course will be severely limited while the course hosts the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce Invitational.

Head pro Brent Warner said golfers will not be assigned time before 2:30 p.m. each day, the expected finishing time of the high school tourney. Warner added that reservations for tee times for the weekend will be taken today and Friday. To reserve a tee time, golfers should call the pro shop at 364-2782.

Oilers lose third player to Plan B

HOUSTON (AP) - The Houston Oilers lost its third player under Plan B when tight end Chris Verhulst agreed to terms with the Denver Broncos, Verhulst's agent said Wednesday.

Verhulst, the Oilers fifth-round draft pick in 1988 from Chico State, agreed to terms on a two-year contract with the Broncos, agent John Maloney told KRIV-TV.

"Chris chose Denver because they've been in the Super Bowl three of the past four years, because of (quarterback) John Elway and because the Broncos needed him," Maloney said.

Maloney said "19 of the 28 NFL teams were interested in him (Verhulst) and 10 had already made offers."

During the 1989 season, Verhulst caught only four passes for 48 yards. Other Plan B players from the Oilers signing with other teams include tight end Bob Mrosko to the New York Giants and safety Tracey Eaton to Phoenix.

76ers beat NY to take division lead

By BILL BARNARD
AP Basketball Writer

It took nearly two months for Philadelphia to make up a six-game deficit against the New York Knicks. Swingman Derek Smith says the 76ers have been stalking their Atlantic Division rivals even longer than that.

"We were playing against the team we've been chasing for two years," Smith said after Philadelphia took a half-game lead over the Knicks by beating New York 110-93 Wednesday night. "We deserve to be in first place."

Charles Barkley had 15 points, 12 rebounds and 11 assists and Hersey

Hawkins scored 26 points for the 76ers, who trailed New York by six games before starting a 12-game winning streak on Jan. 13.

The victory also marked the first time the 76ers have led their division after 60 games since their 1982-83 NBA championship season.

Philadelphia scored the last 15 points of the first period to take a 31-14 lead, holding the Knicks scoreless for the last four minutes of the quarter. Hawkins led the surge with 12 points, including a pair of 3-pointers.

Elsewhere in the NBA, it was Portland 130, Boston 117; the Los Angeles Clippers 119, New Jersey 115; Phoenix 113, Washington 111; Miami 122, Orlando 105; Denver 86, Minnesota 73 and the Los Angeles Lakers 103, Mavericks 91.

Johnny Newman scored 26 points, Gerald Wilkins 23 and Patrick Ewing had 20 points and 14 rebounds for the Knicks.

The closest the Knicks got in the final quarter was 85-70 with 10:40 to play.

Trail Blazers 130, Celtics 117

A night after scoring a season-low three points, Clyde Drexler scored a season-high 39.

Drexler also had 11 rebounds and 12 assists. The Trail Blazers led all the way against the slower Celtics. Boston was led by Larry Bird with 22 points. Lakers 103, Mavericks 91.

James Worthy scored seven straight points late in the fourth quarter, blunting a Dallas rally.

Worthy led the Lakers with 24 points and Orlando Woolridge came off the bench to score 22.

Derek Harper scored 24 points for the Mavericks.

Nuggets 86, Timberwolves 73

Danny Schayes scored 24 points and Denver tied a franchise record for fewest points allowed.

The Nuggets, whose average yield of 112.7 points is the third-worst in the league, held Minnesota - the league's lowest-scoring team with a 95.3 average - to 30 percent shooting.

Pooh Richardson had 19 points for Minnesota.

Suns 113, Bullets 111

Kevin Johnson rebounded his own miss and scored with 2.7 seconds left.

Tom Chambers scored 44 points, 32 in the second half, to lead the Suns. Johnson scored 25 points and had 14 assists.

Bernard King led the Bullets with 34 points.

Clippers 119, Nets 115

Charles Smith scored 22 points and Tom Garrick had 14 of his 15 in the second half as Los Angeles rallied from 15-point third-quarter deficit.

Purvis Short led New Jersey with 25 points.

Heat 122, Magic 105

Scott Haffner scored 10 points with five long-range jumpers in the first 5:08 of the fourth quarter to defuse an Orlando rally. Haffner finished with 14 points, matching his career high.

Rony Seikaly led Miami with 31 points and 21 rebounds as the Heat controlled the boards 57-34.

The Magic was led by Reggie Theus with 31 points.

Gathers would have played anyway

LOS ANGELES (AP) - A longtime teammate and friend of Hank Gathers believes the late Loyola Marymount basketball star followed doctors' orders for treatment of a heart condition. But Bo Kimble also thinks Gathers would have continued playing even if he knew his life was at risk.

A newspaper reported Wednesday that, even after doctors warned him not to play, Gathers continued to do so and probably quit taking his heart medicine before his death last Sunday.

Gathers, who had been diagnosed as having an irregular heartbeat, also didn't appear for his weekly treadmill test in the days before he died, the Los Angeles Times reported, quoting a cardiologist who wasn't identified.

Kimble, however, insisted again that Gathers was taking his medication and "would have done whatever he was told to do" to ensure his health.

"I know he was cleared to play," Kimble said. However, Kimble added, "If you told me that every time I stepped on the court I had a 50-50 chance to survive, I wouldn't play. Hank would."

A statement released Wednesday afternoon by two doctors who examined Gathers after he fainted during a Dec. 9 game said his treatment was "closely monitored on a regular basis and we were in communication with Hank, his trainer and his coach at all times."

The Times quoted the heart specialist as saying of Gathers: "He was told not to play, you're through as an athlete."

"We told Hank that if he wanted to live the best he shouldn't exercise. Hank Gathers was going to play basketball. It didn't matter what some doctor told him."

"He was known to have cardiac arrhythmia, no question about it," the doctor said. "But it was well treated and well controlled and it had been well tested every time. We don't know if Hank took his medicine the last week; in fact, we're pretty sure that he didn't."

"And we know that he didn't show up for his testing, which is supposed to be done on a weekly basis. And we know this was the week he was out to show the NBA scouts that he was big stuff."

Gathers, a 6-foot-7 senior center from Philadelphia, died Sunday night after collapsing in a West Coast Conference tournament game against Portland.

Results of an autopsy aren't expected before next week. Arrhythmia is a condition involving an irregular heartbeat and is often a symptom resulting from cardiomyopathy.

Brian Quinn, Loyola Marymount's athletic director, said Gathers was cleared to play by Dr. Michael Mellman, an internist at Centinela Hospital in Inglewood.

Quinn also denied any knowledge of details which appeared in the Times story.

Mellman and Dr. Vernon Hattori, a cardiologist, released a statement through Inglewood's Daniel Freeman Memorial Hospital:

"The rumors and speculations surrounding Hank Gathers' death are as disturbing to us as they must be to his family, his friends, and the general public. Although full disclosure of the details surrounding his medical evaluation and therapy would serve to end this ongoing speculation, we are inescapably bound by the strict confidentiality of his medical records. His family has not given us permission to release any information, and until such permission is provided, further details cannot be released."

Kimble was interviewed on campus, where he and other teammates voted unanimously Wednesday to accept a bid to the NCAA tournament. The team at first wasn't sure it wanted to continue playing after Gathers died, but decided to go ahead because "Hank would want us to play."

When he spoke of Gathers, Kimble expressed the opinion that his friend followed doctors' orders.

Texas renews Brown pact

ARLINGTON (AP) — Pitcher Kevin Brown has blasted the Texas Rangers for not paying him what he feels he's worth.

The team completed its contract negotiating season Wednesday, but in the process irritated Brown, the team's rookie of the year last season.

Brown and his agent, Scott Boras, couldn't reach an agreement with the team, so the club exercised its option to renew his contract. The $200,000 the Rangers reportedly settled upon is not in line with the market for promising second-year pitchers, Brown and Boras said.

"I don't know if they're just being plain pigheaded or if they just care so little about their players that they don't want to pay them fairly," Brown told the Dallas Times Herald. "If anybody is provided with the information and stats of the people you could be comparing me to, I think they would reach the same conclusion."

Boras said he sought a deal that would have compared more favorably with those given to John Smoltz by the Atlanta Braves and Bob Milacki by the Baltimore Orioles. Smoltz reportedly received $210,000 with $55,000 in potential incentive bonuses. Milacki reportedly will be paid $235,000 with $40,000 in incentive bonuses.

Brown, a rookie last season, reportedly sought a base salary of $225,000 with incentives after he went 12-9 with a 3.35 ERA and 104 strikeouts in 191 innings.

Smoltz went 12-11 last year with a 2.94 ERA in 208 innings to bring his career totals to 14-8 with a 3.54 ERA. Milacki was 14-12 with a 3.74 ERA in 243 innings.

"I guess the Rangers just felt Atlanta and Boston paid too much for their pitchers," Boras said. "I don't think what he received was in line with the market."

The Rangers disagreed, but Brown said there are at least two things that are not debatable. He will remember this contract in future dealings, and he will remain hopeful that the players' association stays adamant about gaining an extra year of arbitration eligibility.

Brown would be eligible for arbitration after this season if the players receive their demand that the three-year qualification is diminished to two years, as it was in 1985 before the players gave up that concession in labor negotiations.

"I think this is a huge example of why arbitration should be available to as many players as possible," Brown said. "It's just one less year teams can treat players more or less however they want."

Brown said he wasn't sure whether the bitterness would last long and cause him to seek free agency at the earliest possible moment.

"All I've heard in the past from management is how important I am to the organization and to the future," Brown said. "This is pretty contradictory. Let's just say I hope I get the chance to treat them as nice as they've treated me in this deal."

Perkins may leave Mavs

DALLAS (AP) — Mavericks forward Sam Perkins isn't forgiving or forgetting the team's hard-line stance on contract negotiations last summer.

The six-year veteran becomes an unrestricted free agent at the end of the season, and could stay with the Mavericks, for the right price.

But Perkins said he also wouldn't mind going to another team, especially in light of the bitter negotiations with Dallas.

Perkins had sought a five-year deal, but the Mavericks offered no more than three. He grudgingly signed a one-year contract.

"I have some favorites like the Lakers, Chicago, and maybe New York and Charlotte," Perkins said.

"But I just want to see what happens, and I don't want to limit my options. I'm going to play it by ear."

"It would be fun to play with Jordan again, or Worthy," he said. "New York is appealing because it is home, and I heard that Charlotte was really interested before this season. That wouldn't be too bad since I played college ball there."

Perkins told the Fort Worth Star-Telegram he still harbors bitter feelings toward management over the contract negotiations last year. Former coach John MacLeod's decision to sit him on the bench as the sixth man for the team's first six games didn't help matters.

"There definitely are some hard feelings about them not signing me before the season," Perkins said. "There definitely is some static, and I felt more hurt last summer than ever before."

"They talked about my value to the team until it was time for them put up the money. All of those things come to mind, and that will have a lot to do with my final decision. There are a lot of little things that went unsaid that people don't know about. And I have to take all of that to heart."

Perkins is having his best year, and increasing his value on the free agent market.

He said the Mavericks' retaining Richie Adubato as coach would increase his chances of staying with Dallas.

Psychologist to speak at WTSU March 26

The West Texas State University counselor education department will host the Fifth Annual Kenneth Waugh Conference Monday, March 26, at the Virgil Henson Activities Center. Featured guest H. Stephen Glenn will conduct the workshop "Developing Capable People" from 9 a.m. - noon and will present "Counseling with Families" from 1:45 - 4:15 p.m.

Glenn is an internationally acclaimed family psychologist and author of more than 100 scholarly publications. He has produced several television and film programs including an award-winning educational television series on the family called "Involved." He is also a primary contributor to the internationally acclaimed training programs "Developing Capable Young People," "You've Got to Be Kidding!," "Lions/Quest Skills for Adolescents," and "Basic Substance Abuse Counseling."

He has received many national service awards and has shared his expertise on juvenile justice, training, education, alcoholism and drug abuse with agencies throughout the United States. He has been appointed to numerous national task forces and served as a consultant to the Congressional Select Sub-Committee on Children, Youth and Families and the Senate Select Sub-Committee on Narcotics.

Glenn's lectures are attended by more than 200,000 people each year. He was a featured speaker at the White House and was honored by Nancy Reagan as one of the nation's most outstanding family life and prevention professionals.

Glenn's morning session, "Developing Capable People," will focus on a goal-oriented, positive approach to teenage alcoholism and drug abuse, pregnancy, suicide and other problems confronting today's youth. Preventative guidelines and strategies will be discussed.

He will follow with a presentation on developing "builders" and replacing "barriers" to create a family atmosphere of trust and respect during the afternoon session.

Although offered primarily as a professional growth conference for counselors and human service workers, the workshops, according to WTSU Coordinator of Counselor Education Programs Janice Roberson, would be very beneficial to anyone interested in working with children or interacting with people.

The workshop has been approved for a six-and-one-half hours of continuing education units for Licensed Professional Counselors and National Certified Counselors.

Preregistration fees, including lunch, coffee and donuts, are $25 ($10 for currently enrolled WTSU students, faculty and staff), and on-site registration is $30 per person ($12 to WTSU students, faculty and staff). Registration forms are available from Janice Roberson, College of Education and Social Sciences, West Texas State University, Canyon, Texas 79016

The deadline for preregistration is March 15. On-site registration will begin at 8:15 a.m. March 26 at the Activities Center.

The conference is named in honor of Dr. Kenneth Waugh, who served with distinction in the College of Education and WTSUs Testing and Counseling Center for nearly 30 years. He continues to teach at WTSU on a part-time basis.

For more information on the Waugh conference, contact Roberson at 806-656-2612.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I know you don't run newspapers, you only work for them, but since you have access to a lot of editors and publishers, maybe you will deliver this message from some very important people -- their subscribers.

Most folks get their news these days from TV. True, TV doesn't cover events in depth the way newspapers do, but many of us are too busy to read detailed news stories anyway. We buy the paper for the comics and the columns. These we can't get on TV.

My pet peeve, and the peeve of lots of other I'm sure, is when the paper is changed around so we can't find our favorite columns, especially yours. Why don't they leave things alone? It is frustrating to pick up the paper and discover that they have changed the format around, and nothing is where it used to be.

I used to be able to find you in a minute because of your picture. Well, now that's gone, you're in a different place every day, and I am --One Disgusted Reader

DEAR DISGUSTED: I am a reader of newspapers as well as a columnist, and I appreciate your comments.

Some papers need to be redesigned, and when a new editor comes in, he or she does the job. There are instances, however, when the paper looks great, and simply for the sake of change, the paper is ripped apart. This often upsets subscribers, because they don't like the new look.

Be that as it may, my editors do not tell me what to write, and I would not presume to tell them how to put out the paper. I will print your letter, however, because it is important that your opinion be considered. Thanks for writing.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I disagree with a column you printed recently advising visitors not to bring articles to sick people telling of cures and new methods of treatment.

One Sunday afternoon, two years ago, I was having a wonderful time sailing. Two hours later, I was in a hospital facing the amputation of my lower left leg.

Your column said visitors should not bring articles or give advice to hospitalized friends. I don't agree. I can't tell you how many wonderful, thoughtful friends brought articles that really helped me. They told of amputees who had won sporting events. I was especially thrilled to read about a college quarterback who had lost a foot and is now playing football. These success stories gave me the encouragement I needed to face the future with hope and optimism.

Today, two years later, I have a prosthesis and am back at the gym six times a week. No one would know that I wear a prosthesis unless they happened to be in the locker room.

Ann, please don't tell people not to bring articles to sick people. Those articles helped me recover, and I am ever so grateful to the people who brought them. -- DM (Boston)

DEAR DM: What an upbeat letter! I'm so glad you wrote to tell your story.

Maybe we shouldn't quibble about semantics, but there's a difference between being sick and being injured.

The articles I object to are those that describe some half-baked cure and shake the patient's confidence in his or her doctor. I'm sure you will agree that there's a difference. Meanwhile, a big bravo from Chicago!

What's the truth about pot, cocaine, LSD, PCP, crack, speed and downers? "The Lowdown on Dope" has up-to-the-minute information on drugs. Decorating ideas given at meeting

Members of Alpha Iota Mu Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority met recently with Noel Hutson presenting a program. The art of decorating using memorabilia from the past to make framed pictures and decorative wall hangings, was presented to eight members and two guests, Kim White and Cathy Avery.

Each committee chairman gave a brief report of the activities of that committee for the year and presented the guests with a small memento representing the committee.

Jaime Borman will present the program for the March 15 meeting. Wanda Huseman and Janice Betzen will be the hostesses.

The club will elect new officers and choose a Girl-of-the-Year at the next meeting.

Members present were Betzen, Camille Beville, Hutson, Ruby Lee, Marrie Leverett, Dee Ann Matthews, Jane Meiwes and Patty Frerich.

The first baby to be born in the White House was James Madison Randolph, born Jan. 17, 1806. He was a grandson of then President Thomas Jefferson.

Take precautions to help prevent falls in elderly

Falls are a leading cause of death among people 65 and older. Those at greatest risk of falling may not be the most feeble, says the Texas Medical Association, but those who have not yet recognized or adapted to the changes associated with aging.

Physical changes include loss of coordination, weakness in the muscles that control the knees and ankles, and impaired vision and hearing. Diseases or conditions such as arthritis, stroke, Parkinson's disease, Alzheimer's disease, and diabetes (leading to reduced sensation in the legs) also can increase the chances of falling.

Medications may create many problems. For example, blood pressure prescriptions can cause light-headedness and diuretics can result in weakness. Tranquilizers, antihistamines and barbiturates can slow mental and physical processes. Alcohol, the most common self-administered sedative, also can play a role in falls.

Most falls occur during ordinary daytime activity. Contrary to popular belief, living rooms and bedrooms—not the bathroom—are where most falls occur. Going down stairs can be especially hazardous.

The elderly and their families can take steps to reduce the risks of falls. Get regular physical exams to check vision, hearing, balance, strength and mental status. Have the physician review all prescriptions, including automatic refills, to take into account the older persons' changing physiology.

At home, clean out the medicine cabinet to get rid of any outdated prescriptions. With current prescriptions, follow dosage and administration instructions exactly. In some cases, elderly people may need help working out a system for remembering where to locate their medicine, when to take it and how much to take.

The high cost of medications hits the elderly hard and sometimes results in their choosing not to get prescriptions filled, omitting doses when they feel okay, or sharing prescriptions with a spouse or friend. Financial help may be necessary.

Other precautions include a thorough evaluation of the elderly person's home. Check for proper lighting, repair stairs or walkways, install grab bars and non-slip surfaces in bathtubs, and remove loose rugs, for example. Finally, encourage the elderly to wear shoes that fit properly and get regular physical exercise, such as walking.

NEW YORK (AP) - Dustin Hoffman's new lead role is real-life drama: He's helping a terminally ill student who needs a bone marrow donor.

The Oscar-winning actor has made a six-figure donation and a plea for Allison Atlas, who learned in August she had three to six months to live unless a marrow transplant checked her leukemia.

Pol. Adv. by Charles Bell for Margaret Perez Campaign

Ask Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB: My husband's cholesterol is 281. He had a quadruple bypass operation four years ago. He does not smoke, is not overweight and has been on a low-salt, low-fat diet for five years. He is also taking Lopid. We don't know what else to do.

According to several articles there seems to be some confusion whether shellfish is good or bad. Practically everything contains "hydrogenated" soybean oil, which I did not think was good. There seems to be a difference in opinion about allowable foods. Are sweets detrimental?

DEAR READER: Despite diet modification and, when possible, a good exercise program, it is not always possible to lower the cholesterol to satisfactory levels. That is when medicines are needed for additional help.

Sometimes diets fail because the modification is not strict enough. The American Heart Association has set up three levels of diet plans. If the first one doesn't work, you try the more strict diet plan. I have discussed these in Special Report 48, Preventing Heart Attacks and Strokes by Diet, which I'm sending you. Others who want this report can send $2 with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to THE HEALTH LETTER/48, P.O. Box 18622, Irvine, CA 92713. A very, very low-fat, low-cholesterol diet as in a strict vegetarian diet may work when other diets fail.

Shellfish is low in fat, but shrimp and lobster are moderately high in cholesterol. Other shellfish such as oysters, crab and scallops are low-fat, low-cholesterol foods. Part of the confusion is because of original data years ago that incorrectly reported oysters and some other foods as being high-fat, high-cholesterol foods.

Dr. Lamb welcomes letters from readers with health questions. You can write to him at P.O. Box 19622, Irvine, CA 92713. Although Dr. Lamb cannot reply to all letters personally, he will respond to selected questions in future columns.

The Right Nutrients

Have you ever stopped to think about what you are eating? Well, if you don't, you should. If you eat junk food like chocolate candy bars, coke, potato chips, etc., you aren't giving your body the right nutrients for your body to be healthy. The right nutrients are protein, Vitamins A, C, B1, B2, B6, D, and K, and minerals, calcium, iron, iodine and phosphorus. You can find them in a lot of foods. Here are just a few examples where you can get these.

You can find protein in meat, milk, fish, poultry, eggs, cheese, dry peas, beans, peanuts, whole grain bread, flour and cereals. Protein is needed for your body structure to repair tissue, for bones and for energy.

Carbohydrates are found in bread, cereals, rice, pasta, grits and potatoes. Carbohydrates are needed for energy and heat.

Fats are found in margarine, butter, shortening, oil, mayonnaise, salad dressing, nuts and many other foods. This is needed for energy, heat, and for the cell structure.

Vitamin A is found in liver, sweet potatoes, cantaloupe, dark green leafy vegetables, carrots, squash, pumpkins, apricots, tomatoes, egg yolk, margarine, milk and cheese. Vitamin A is needed for the skin, eyes, nose, the linings of the mouth, and for body cavities.

Vitamin C, also called ascorbic acid, is found in oranges, lemons, limes, grapefruit, tangerines, strawberries, pineapple, tomatoes, cantaloupe, cabbage, broccoli and sweet potatoes. Vitamin C is needed for the teeth, bones, tissues, and the blood vessels.

Vitamin B, also called thiamine, is found in lean meat, poultry, fish, dry peas, beans, nuts, liver, potatoes, enriched and whole grain bread, flour and cereals, and green leafy vegetables. This is needed for growth, appetite, digestion, nerves and muscles.

Vitamin B2, also called riboflavin, is found in milk, cheese, liver, lean meat, fish, eggs, enriched whole grain bread, flour and cereal, and green leafy vegetables. It is needed for growth, eyes, cells and skin.

Vitamin B6, also called pyridoxine, is found in meat, whole grain cereals, dry beans, potatoes, and dark green leafy vegetables. This is needed for the nerves.

Vitamin D is found in milk, liver, cereal, egg yolk, oily fish and sunshine. Vitamin D is needed for the skin, bones, teeth, and efficient use of calcium.

Vitamin K is found in spinach, kale, cabbage, pork, and liver. This is needed for the blood.

Calcium is found in milk, cheese, sardines, dry peas or beans, salmon, crab, clams, broccoli, collards and turnip greens. This is needed for bones, teeth, fluids and soft tissues.

Iron is found in liver, lean beef, pork and lamb, dry beans, prunes, eggs, enriched and whole grain bread, flour and cereals, leafy green vegetables and shellfish. Iron is needed for the blood.

Iodine is found in iodized salt, and seafood. This is needed for the thyroid gland.

Phosphorus is found in milk, cheese, sardines, meats, eggs and bread. This is needed for bones, teeth and for energy.

Well here are just some of the nutrients found in foods and what they do for you. But I'd like you to remember to stay away from those sweets. Because they are empty calories and have no nutrients.

Eating Right For Yourself

People have started eating right for a long time and those people turned out to be professional football players, basketball players, movie stars and people who feel good about themselves. By eating right for yourself you pick the foods that will help you and your body become healthier. There are four food groups that help many parts of your body. If you eat right, you will feel better about yourself and people will complement you more often.

The bread and cereal group contains protein, Vitamin B, magnesium, phosphorus, iron and fats. The iron in bread and cereal helps your blood system. Fats are helpful for energy and heat; protein helps your body structure, bones and helps the body repair tissue.

The meat group contains a lot of protein and phosphorus. We should have at least two servings each day. Phosphorus is very good for your bones and teeth.

The fruit and vegetables group is very important. It helps you have healthy skin and helps your eyesight for those of you who don't want to wear glasses. This group contains Vitamin A and C which help strengthen your blood vessel walls. It also helps in healing your wounds.

The milk group is also very important. It helps babies and children develop their bones and muscles, it also provides energy for the mind and body. You should have at least four servings each day. Milk contains protein, Vitamins B and D and calcium. These minerals are good for your skin, bones and teeth plus fat which are essential for energy, body heat and for transporting fat soluble vitamins to body cells.

If you eat right and from the four food groups, you will feel very good about yourself.

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) - Bob Hope, unable to attend a charity event, bought five raffle tickets at $1,000 apiece to help out - and one of them won him the grand prize, including a $50,000 car.

"When host Jimmy Stewart picked Hope's name Sunday, he said, 'You're not going to believe this. It's Bob Hope.'"

The prize was a luxury BMW, a set of luggage and a trip to Germany. "Isn't that amazing? I never win a thing," Hope said from his desert home Monday.

Hope was performing Friday night in Texas and couldn't appear at the Beverly Hilton Hotel's "An Evening of Elegance." He bought five of the 100 tickets sold for the benefit for abused and neglected children.

Protect your lungs

"Woodn't" you love to cozy up to a beautiful, blazing fireplace or warm your hands at a wood-burning stove on a cold winter day? Although wood is a "natural" fuel, like other fuels it creates air pollution and health hazards, both indoors and out—especially if it isn't burned correctly. Here from the American Lung Association are answers to some of your most burning questions about using wood to heat your home:

Why should I worry about pollution—isn't wood smoke "natural?" Pollution from wood stoves and fireplaces is no more natural than if you burned oil or coal. Woodburning produces more than 100 types of chemicals, including carbon monoxide, organic gases and polycyclic organic materials known as POMs. Some of these are cancer-causing and pose a serious health threat. Wood smoke can also aggravate lung conditions such as bronchitis, emphysema and asthma.

Is there anyone who shouldn't use a wood stove at all?

Burning wood robs the air of moisture and produces very dry heat. People with asthma, allergies or chronic lung disease may find this causes discomfort and probably should use a wood stove or fireplace occasionally, if at all. One possible alternative—a masonry stove. The masonry acts as the storage medium, soaking up the fires' heat and then distributing it slowly and steadily.

How do I choose the most efficient wood stove for my home?

Buy the correct size stove for the area to be heated. A stove that's too big will waste wood, be uncomfortable and create a dangerous buildup of creosote. Creosote is a tar-like substance that forms inside your chimney and can cause a fire. Also, look for an EPA certified stove. These stoves promote complete burning of your wood and reduce air pollution.

How do I choose the proper fuel?

Choose clean, thoroughly dried wood. It should be aged for at least six months, preferably a year. Freshly cut wood contains too much moisture and will produce a smoky fire with little heating value.

What else can I do to burn wood more safely and efficiently?

If you don't want your hard-earned dollars to go up in smoke:

1. Replace worn dampers.
2. Clean your chimney to remove creosote.
3. Make sure your stove or fireplace meets safety standards.
4. Install glass fireplace doors to keep heated air from escaping up the chimney, and a wood-burning fireplace insert.
5. If your existing wood stove firebox is too large, you can line it with firebrick. This will make your firebox smaller and more efficient. Also, place heat-holding materials near your wood stove such as water, rock or brick. This will help hold the heat from the fire and create a more comfortable room.

Bake sale planned by lodge

Hereford Rebekah Lodge #228 met in regular session with 17 members planning an Easter bake sale. Bake goods and stew will be featured.

Noble Grand Rosalie Northcutt presided as reports were made on the sick. Twenty-nine visits to the sick, 36 cheer cards, six memorials and flowers were reported.

Seven members from Hereford attended Friona Rebekah Lodge #308 meeting held recently. Nita Sue Garrison, president of Rebekah Assembly of New Mexico, was guest of honor. Lodges represented from Texas were Friona, Hereford, and Muleshoe. New Mexico lodges present were Las Cruces, Clovis, Hobbs, and Albuquerque. Also represented were members from Davenport, Iowa.

Anna Conklin was hostess to Northcutt, Dorothy Lundry, Faye Brownlow, Susie Curtsinger, Irene Merritt, Sadie Shaw, Jo Irlbeck, Tony Irlbeck, Peggy Lemons, Lydia Hopson, Verna Sowell, Ben Conklin, Erma Loving, Jim Loving, Genevieve Lynn and Gene Bishop.

ASBURY PARK, N.J. (AP) - The town where Bruce Springsteen got his start is losing the museum that documented his rise to fame.

The Asbury Park Rock 'n' Roll Museum will not reopen, its curators say.

One of the biggest thrills of Bill Smith's life was the day in 1987 when Springsteen sauntered into the museum that claims the world's largest publicly displayed collection of Springsteen memorabilia.

Within a year, the Palace Arcade that housed the collection of rare posters and recordings was closed. Now Smith and his partner have put the items up for sale.

"We looked into the possibility of reopening, but we couldn't find any place to move to," Smith said. He said more than 35,000 fans from all 50 states and 18 other countries had visited the museum since it opened in 1986.

Accent on Health

Officials of the Texas Department of Health (TDH) have reassured Texans that the state's fluoridated water systems provide safe drinking water.

"At the level of fluoride in natural and 'adjusted' drinking water systems, no evidence of increased health risk has yet been documented," Dr. Donald Crow, D.D.S. said. "Only the health benefit to humans is evident—that of decreased tooth decay in all population groups at all economic levels."

Dr. Crow is chief of the TDH Bureau of Dental and Chronic Disease Prevention.

He said that recent media reports, suggesting possible adverse health effects of fluoride, are based on "premature, and incomplete data, leaked from a study being conducted by the National Toxicology Program."

Early data from the study showed that in a two-year test, groups of laboratory rats drank water with increasing levels of fluoride concentration. After the fluoride dose was increased to 45 times the normal amount in municipal water, the first abnormality in one rat out of 50 began to occur. When the rate was raised to 79 times the normal concentration, four out of 80 rats developed abnormalities, Dr. Crow explained.

He said that state and national officials found no cause for public alarm, since the fluoride concentrations affecting the test rats had been so much greater than that of water fluoridated at levels sufficient to reduce tooth decay in children and adults.

"Those same authorities also noted that if fluoride had been a significant cancer causing agent, there would be higher than normal cancer rates in areas of the country where the naturally-occurring fluoride level in drinking water is several times higher than the ideal," Dr. Crow said.

He explained that repeated National Cancer Institute studies using human subjects—including a study in Texas—show that cancer mortality neither increases nor decreases with the presence of fluoride in community drinking water.

In Texas, more than 70 percent of the population drinks fluoridated water. This includes water systems with naturally-occurring fluoride, plus more than 185 cities where fluoride is added.

Dr. Crow said that in the last 45 years, water fluoridation—combined with better nutrition, better education programs, fluoride in toothpaste, and greatly improved dental care—has dramatically reduced the tooth decay rate in both children and adults in Texas.

He added that all Texans benefit from a fluoridated water supply, whether or not their economic status allow the added benefits of good nutrition and dental care.

HIGHEST LAKE

LIMA, Peru (AP) - Lake Titicaca, the largest lake in South America and the highest major lake in the world, is located 12,507 feet up in the Andes Mountains on the Peru-Bolivia border.

The lake is 130 miles long, about 30 miles wide and covers an area of more than 3,200 square miles.

In 1955, William Mordorf, an American deep sea diver, discovered the ruins of a submerged city in the lake.
