Leaders consider tax hike

AUSTIN (AP) - Legislative leaders say a sales tax increase might be the easiest route if more money is needed for court-mandated school finance reform, but Gov. Bill Clements is standing firm on his vow to veto new taxes.

Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby and key senators filed a bill Thursday that would require $780 million in new money next school year. The action was taken to address the Texas Supreme Court's ruling that the school finance system is unconstitutional because of funding disparities between property-rich and poor school districts. "There's lots of taxes I'd vote for for the sake of education. I could support a half-cent temporary increase in the sales tax," said Sen. Carl Parker, D-Port Arthur, chairman of the Senate Education Committee.

While there is no agreement on the level of funding, lawmakers said if new revenues are needed, a sales tax increase would probably be the easiest to pass.

But Clements remained opposed to new taxes in the special session he called for lawmakers to reform the school finance system and state judicial selection, which is under a federal court order for change.

"There will be no tax increase. I can tell you that," said Clements, a Republican. He predicted Hobby's education bill, costing about $3 billion over three years, "is not going to go anywhere."

The legislation - co-sponsored by Hobby, Parker and Sen. Kent Caperton, D-Bryan, Finance Committee chairman - also would weaken the authority of the State Board of Education.

Hobby, who has opposed Education Board Chairman Monte Hasie's strong support for vocational education, called Hasie a "disgrace to the state" and the board "a shame."

Hasie, of Lubbock, who was appointed chairman by Clements, said he was disappointed by the attack and didn't think lawmakers should take away the elected board's power.

"I would be disappointed if politicians would overturn what the will of the people is," he said.

Clements said he was surprised by Hobby's comments but agreed that changes should be made in the administration of education. He said Hobby's proposal to have the governor appoint the education commissioner, from legislative leaders' nominees and with Senate approval, "wouldn't be a bad idea."

The commissioner is now appointed by the Education Board.

Education legislation being prepared in the House also would shift board rule-making power to an education commissioner appointed by the governor. There is no agreement on the House proposal's price tag, said Rep. Kent Grusendorf, R-Arlington, who is working on the measure.

With Clements' veto threat, and with primary elections looming on March 13, House Speaker Gib Lewis said lawmakers will balk at a tax increase.

"Members will be very hesitant about voting for a tax bill and having it vetoed, and then having it used against them in an election year," Lewis, D-Fort Worth, said.

But if new money is needed, Lewis said he would vote for a tax increase and added, "If that's the case, maybe increasing the sales tax or expanding the sales tax is something that I could support... It probably is the easiest."

Hobby and Caperton also said the sales tax increase looked the most likely. But Hobby instead favors a corporate and personal income tax, coupled with limitations on school property taxes and repeal of the corporate franchise tax.

"We have a hostile business climate in Texas because we tax investment three times. We tax it through a sales tax, we tax it through a franchise tax and through a property tax. That surely is wrong, and ought to be replaced by an income tax," Hobby said.

Caperton said a half-cent increase in the state sales tax would raise $500 million to $600 million. The state sales tax is 6 cents per dollar, and local tax entities can add up to 2 cents.

The state could get another $100 million by using money set aside for future Capitol restoration projects, Caperton said.

Rep. Bruce Gibson, D-Godley, said some lawmakers believe they should pass a tax increase if needed to pay for education, regardless of the governor's opposition. Tax bills must originate in the House.

"I think the only one we can pass, get 76 votes for (in the 150-member House) would be to raise the sales tax rate," he said.

Williams wants two term deal

DALLAS (AP) - Clayton Williams, the front-runner for the Republican nomination for governor, concedes he is looking ahead.

"I hope when I finish my eight years in the governor's office..." Williams said in his closing remarks at a televised debate Thursday night.

But Williams was quick to explain after the debate, televised statewide, that he isn't counting his political chickens just yet. He said he only wants GOP voters to know that if he's chosen, he intends to serve two terms. "That's my commitment to them," he said.

And Williams wasn't approaching The Texas Debate like a man running out front. On his way into the studio, he handed out campaign brochures to police officers and bystanders. He was the only candidate to do so, the Dallas officers said.

Observers had expected the other top GOP contenders to directly challenge the Midland multi-millionaire on Thursday in what is expected to be the last head-to-head-to-head confrontation among the four men.

But lawyer Tom Luce, Railroad Commissioner Kent Hance and former Secretary of State Jack Rains chose kid gloves over boxing gloves.

"I don't think the public wants a Hulk Hogan wrestling match," said Luce, in explaining why he and the others thought it more important to stress their own priorities rather than trying to knock down those of Williams.

"We need to talk about issues and not personalities," Rains agreed.

Luce reminded the audience that he has been named in 12 of 15 endorsements issued by some of the state's largest newspapers, and said he doesn't believe Williams has a lock on things.

"It's not over until March 13," he said. "Daniel Ortega (the outgoing Nicaraguan president) led in the polls, too."

Hance said he thought he had done well in the candidates' showcase, and believes he will get the nod over the others because of "the experience factor."

"I'm ready to be governor," he declared in his closing statement.

But on a night when studio lights glaring off his eyeglass all but obscured his eyes, much of what he had to say also seemed to get lost. What was clear, however, was his resolute opposition to raising taxes or restructuring the taxing system, and a mild swipe at Williams' intention to pay prisoners minimum wage for busting rocks in boot camps for young offenders.

"It's unheard of in this state, or any other state," said Hance, who spent most of the night tightly gripping his podium.

Rains was the most animated participant and uttered the most pointed lines.

"I'm running for the kids - mine and yours," he dramatically exclaimed in summary remarks, seconds after declaring, "We're in a state of crisis in Texas."

Asked about campaign reform, Rains said, "There's an odor coming out of Austin, and we need to deal with it."

Rains also said someone must start listening to teachers' complaints before the state's beleaguered education system could be improved.

Conceding afterward he was more relaxed in this debate than a similar one in Houston, Luce seemed to make a concerted effort to punctuate some of his statements with dramatic hand flourishes. Unfortunately, most of them fell under the range of the camera, leaving only his thumbs jabbing into view at times.

"I'm learning how to smile," Luce said when responding to what he was learning about himself during the campaign.

Williams said charges that he has ducked the issues are false, explaining he has widely circulated fliers detailing his positions.

Richards' speech source feels point missed by media

WACO (AP) - The man who brought to light an alleged racial slur in a 14-year-old copy of an Ann Richards speech says what's important isn't where it came from but what it says about the Democratic candidate for governor.

"The media missed the whole point," said Peter Johnson of Dallas, who identified himself as the source who gave a handwritten copy of the speech to Tiempo, a Waco-based newspaper targeted to Hispanics.

The paper reported Feb. 21 that a handwritten text of a 1976 speech by Ms. Richards, who was running for Travis County commissioner, referred to undocumented alien workers as "wetbacks."

Ms. Richards at first denied it was in her handwriting, then said she may have written it, but never said it. She blamed Democratic gubernatorial rival Jim Mattox for "planting" the story. He denied the charge and said Ms. Richards was trying to deflect the blame.

Mattox accused Ms. Richards of racial insensitivity and called for her to apologize to the Hispanic community.

Johnson said, "The issue was not who provided the information, but that Ann Richards has always had this hostility in her heart toward minorities. The issue is her mentality toward minority."

Johnson, the regional director of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, refused to divulge who gave him the speech, saying, "I don't want to see her get hurt."

Johnson said he didn't even believe such a document existed when first told about it. After seeing it, he distributed copies to several newspapers, he said.

Johnson said the SCLC does not endorse candidates in political races, but said he personally supports Mattox.

"But whether Jim was in the race or not, I would still have the same hard questions about Ms. Richards," Johnson told The Associated Press.

Greyhound goes on strike

By JOHN A. BOLT

AP Business Writer

Greyhound's 6,300 drivers went on strike early today at the nation's only nationwide bus company, stopping their buses outside terminals and stranding thousands of travelers.

The walkout over wages began after contract talks in Scottsdale, Ariz., between Greyhound Lines Inc. and the Amalgamated Council of Greyhound Local Unions failed to reach an agreement by the 12:01 a.m. MST strike deadline.

No new negotiations were scheduled.

"We went on strike because the company has refused to bargain in good faith, and we have struck because the company insisted on imposing" its

At the TNM&O bus terminal in Hereford, business is expected to continue pretty much as scheduled.

The company has informed local depot operators throughout its system that traffic could be slowed because of the Greyhound strike, but runs are expected to continue close to schedule for the time being.

original offer, said union spokesman Jeffrey Nelson.

Besides the 6,300 drivers, 3,075 maintenance workers, whose three-year contract expired at midnight, are on strike.

Dallas-based Greyhound carried 22 million passengers last year, an average of about 60,000 a day. Some customers stranded at terminals across the country complained that Greyhound hadn't warned them before they bought their tickets.

The union told its drivers to continue only as far as their next destination as the strike deadline passed. The company said it didn't know how many passengers were stranded, but estimated the number in the thousands.

Greyhound said it would operate a limited schedule today using replacements hired and trained during the past few weeks and any employees willing to cross picket lines. It said it hoped to offer full service by the end of the month.

"We will give preference to mainline service connecting major urban centers," said Greyhound Vice President P. Anthony Lannie, the company's chief negotiator.

Antrak told ticket agents to honor Greyhound tickets when buses are unavailable, railroad spokeswoman Sue Martin said in Washington, D.C.

Greyhound serves about 9,500 destinations, including about 9,000 where it is the only intercity transportation.

It offers a $68 one-way ticket anywhere in the country and generally caters to people seeking the cheapest form of mass transit.

In Dallas, more than 40 pickets encircled the downtown bus terminal and blocked two incoming Greyhound buses, cheering when the drivers abandoned their vehicles.

Today in History

By The Associated Press

Today is Friday, March 2, the 61st day of 1990. There are 304 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On March 2, 1939, Roman Catholic Cardinal Eugenio Pacelli was elected Pope. He took the name Pius XII.

On this date:

In 1793, the first president of the Republic of Texas, Sam Houston, was born near Lexington, Va.

In 1836, Texas declared its independence from Mexico.

In 1877, Republican Rutherford B. Hayes was declared winner of the 1876 presidential election over Democrat Samuel J. Tilden.

In 1899, Congress established Mount Rainier National Park.

In 1917, Puerto Ricans were granted U.S. citizenship.

In 1923, Time magazine made its debut.

In 1939, the Massachusetts legislature voted to ratify the Bill of Rights, the first 10 amendments to the U.S. Constitution.

In 1949, an American B-50 Superfortress, Lucky Lady II, landed at Fort Worth, Texas, after completing the first non-stop flight around the world.

In 1951, the East beat the West 111-94 in the first NBA All-Star Game.

In 1977, the U.S. House of Representatives adopted a strict code of ethics that limited outside earnings and required detailed financial disclosures by its members.

Ten years ago: Yigal Allon, a hero in Israel's 1948 war of independence who later served as foreign minister and deputy prime minister, was buried with military honors, two days after his death at age 61.

Five years ago: Secretary of State George P. Shultz met with Nicaraguan President Daniel Ortega in Montevideo, Uruguay, where the two officials made little progress toward easing tensions between their countries.

One year ago: Representatives from the 12 European Community nations agreed to ban all production of CFCs (chlorofluorocarbons) by the end of this century.

Crimestoppers has challenged other civic groups in the county to contribute to the reward fund.

Atlantis mission said to be going 'satisfactorily'

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) - Atlantis streaked toward a Sunday landing after its crew put into orbit a spy satellite designed to fly over parts of the Soviet Union never before observed from a shuttle-launched craft, NASA sources said.

The five-man, all-military crew released the $500 million, 37,300-pound satellite from the shuttle's cargo bay Thursday, a day after liftoff, the sources said.

"The crew is doing well and orbiter Atlantis continues to perform satisfactorily," the space agency said in a statement.

Because of a Pentagon blackout on the secret mission, the only other word from NASA was that the shuttle is expected to land Sunday at Edwards Air Force Base, Calif. Sources speaking on condition of anonymity put landing time at 1:34 p.m. EST.

NASA technicians planned to spend several days assessing the shuttle's solid rocket boosters, which arrived Thursday at a NASA hangar at the Cape Canaveral Air Force Station, said agency spokesman Bruce Buckingham.

The boosters dropped off two minutes after launch, as expected, as the spacecraft lifted off early Wednesday on the highest inclination ever traveled by a shuttle. The boosters fell into the Atlantic 169 miles from Kennedy Space Center and were towed back by two ships.

A failed joint in a booster was blamed for the Challenger disaster in 1986 that killed seven astronauts.

The 62-degree inclination allows the satellite to cover most of the Soviet Union, including far northern regions with heavy concentrations of ships and submarines and several missile bases. The satellite is designed to take high-resolution photographs and eavesdrop on electronic communications around the world, sources said.

The satellite and other reconnaissance spacecraft will be involved in verifying whether the Soviets are complying with U.S.-Soviet arms agreements. The Soviets have similar satellites over the United States.

Atlantis is the sixth of 34 shuttle missions dedicated solely to the military.

Navy Capt. John O. Creighton is Atlantis' commander. The other crew members are Air Force Col. John H. Casper, the pilot, and mission specialists Marine Lt. Col. David C. Hillmers, Air Force Col. Richard M. Mullens and Navy Cmdr. Pierre J. Thuot.

Opponents Phillips and Mauzy trade insults

AUSTIN (AP) - Texas Supreme Court Chief Justice Tom Phillips, a Republican, and Supreme Court Justice Oscar Mauzy, a Democratic rival, traded verbal jabs over the significance of a bar association poll.

Tobin Armstrong, Phillips' state campaign manager, said Thursday the Dallas Bar Association's support of Phillips shows. "Justice Mauzy has been decisively rejected by those who know him best, his professional colleagues in Dallas."

Mauzy, a former state senator from Dallas, however, described the Dallas Bar Association as "the country club, Republican crowd."

He said the organization does not represent the political beliefs of most voters. "Phillips is running to be the fat-cat lawyers' judge and I'm not. I don't want to be the rich lawyers' judge. I want to be the people's judge."

But Armstrong disagreed, saying, "Tom Phillips' excellent service as chief justice has earned the support of Texans of all political parties and philosophies."

In the Dallas Bar Association's judicial preference poll, Phillips received 1,447 votes; Mauzy, 401 votes and Daniel Rutherford, Phillips' GOP primary challenger, 19 votes. MAUZY has no opponent in the Democratic primary.

In other political developments:

- Republican gubernatorial hopeful Kent Hance announced members of his statewide Hispanic Steering Committee, which will be chaired by Juan Perez of Dallas.

- Voter registration in Texas has reached an all-time high with nearly 8.3 million people registered to vote for the March 13 primary elections, according to Secretary of State George Bayoud.

Of the state's estimated 12.5 million people who could register to vote, 8,285,308, or about 66 percent, are registered, Bayoud said. More than 100,000 new voter registration applications have been processed since Jan. 1, he said.

Although the deadline to register for the March 13 primaries has passed, Bayoud urged those who are not registered to do so in time for the April 10 runoff elections. The deadline to register for the runoffs is March 11.

Andy Rooney gets his old job back

NEW YORK (AP) - Andy Rooney is bringing his weekly gripe session back to "60 Minutes" on Sunday after CBS lifted his suspension early with the blessing of the NAACP.

"I'm very pleased," Rooney said Thursday after CBS News president David Burke reinstated the 71-year-old humorist, whose show-ending commentary has been a curmudgeonly "60 Minutes" feature since 1978.

Burke on Feb. 8 had suspended Rooney for three months without pay after The Advocate, a gay magazine, quoted him as saying that blacks had "watered down their genes" - a remark Rooney denied making.

On Thursday, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People said it believed Rooney was misquoted, didn't object to his return to work and considered the matter closed, spokesman James Williams said.

Rooney also had drawn fire from homosexuals for a Dec. 28 CBS special in which he cited "homosexual unions" as among things that cause "self-induced" death, and for a letter to The Advocate in which he said he found male homosexual acts "repugnant."

Burke said of the suspension, "Painful though these events have been, we have all learned a great deal about how sensitive and fragile our society is - how thoughts and words can be misunderstood."

He said Rooney "has consistently stated publicly that he is not a man who holds prejudice in his heart and mind towards any group in our society. Those of us who know him and work with him know two things - first, that is true, and second, it is time that Andy returned to his proper place on '60 Minutes.'"

Bentsen wants EPA guarantee

WASHINGTON (AP) - Sen. Lloyd Bentsen is asking the Environmental Protection Agency to weigh the concerns of rural Texas communities when it issues stringent new regulations on municipal landfills.

Officials of sparsely populated communities in Texas fear severe financial problems, including higher bills for taxpayers, if forced to comply with the proposed rules. EPA is scheduled to publish final regulations governing municipal landfills in May or June.

While Bentsen agreed garbage disposal regulations must be "shored up" to protect the environment, he warned EPA Administrator William Reilly that if Texas is denied a role in establishing regulations that are effective and less costly for small communities, "we risk doing more harm than good."

According to Martin County Judge Bob Deavenport, the county and the city of Stanton could operate a landfill for an annual cost of $100,000 if variances are granted taking into consideration low water table, soil conditions, and the average rainfall.

"Complying with all proposed regulations could readily double this figure," Deavenport told Bentsen in a letter. "If provided, it is very possible that we will see a return to the dumping of solid waste adjacent to rural roads and in isolated caliche pits."

"Donnell Mayor David M. Smith told Bentsen his city would never be able to fund a landfill under the proposed requirements.

"I have researched the cost of garbage collection by private contractors extensively," he said. "Our citizens, many of whom are elderly, underprivileged and on fixed incomes, cannot pay residential garbage rates which might be in excess of $100 per month."

Bentsen, D-Texas, said more than 100 elected officials from Texas have sought his help in ensuring they would be able to meet the new requirements. A coalition of 48 counties and 35 cities, the Sparsely Populated Entities Coalition, has also been formed in response.

"They are concerned that the particular situations in their areas may make it difficult, if not impossible, to comply with regulations for garbage disposal that are being discussed," Bentsen told Reilly in a letter Thursday.

Bruce Weddle, director of the EPA's municipal solid waste program, said the agency is reviewing the concerns of rural communities and can allow some flexibility in areas such as landfill design or location of groundwater monitoring wells.

He said it is not clear whether EPA has the same flexibility on groundwater monitoring and the agency is attempting to determine how much latitude it has.

The proposed rules on groundwater monitoring have generated much concern in West Texas and other remote arid areas, where officials say it would be extremely costly to drill monitoring wells into a very deep water table.

"The diverse geology and low population of many counties of my state are sound reasons why Texas officials must have flexibility to structure effective, realistic landfill programs that meet the unique needs of our state," Bentsen told Reilly. "What makes sense in New Jersey does not necessarily make sense in West Texas."

LOS ANGELES (AP) - The Walt Disney Co. threatened legal action against the source of a bogus news release that claimed Michael Jackson had signed a five-year movie deal with Disney.

Disney said it began an investigation to find the author of the release, used as the basis for a story in the Hollywood Reporter. Among other things, the story said Jackson was negotiating to leave CBS Records and Disney's new Hollywood Records and would design theme park rides for Disney.

National Nutrition Month highlights eating right

NEW YORK (AP) - This March, in recognition of its National Nutrition Month, the American Dietetic Association in Chicago stresses that having it all - when it comes to food choices - is well within everyone's grasp. Its theme for the month encourages Americans to "Enjoy the Taste of Eating Right!"

"Too often people think that eating right means depriving themselves of the foods they enjoy," says Nancy Wellman, president of the American Dietetic Association. "In reality, healthful eating opens the door to a wide range of tasteful experiences."

Wellman says there's no need to think in terms of "good" foods and "bad" foods. Instead, think about eating a balanced variety of wholesome foods - and remember moderation.

Registered dietitians define a healthy diet as one that includes many different nutrient-rich foods, without too many calories or too much fat, especially saturated fat, cholesterol, sugar or sodium.

Eating a wide variety of wholesome foods helps ensure an adequate intake of essential nutrients, Wellman says. For example, dark green leafy vegetables provide vitamin A and magnesium; citrus fruits, melons, strawberries and green peppers are good sources of vitamin C.

While registered dietitians recommend that many Americans limit the amount of fat, sugar and sodium in their total diet, not every food needs to be low in these items.

"If you do eat a food that contains a lot of fat, sugar or salt, plan to balance your diet by eating other foods that aren't high in these areas," says Wellman.

"Don't eliminate favorite foods from your diet. The key is how much of these foods you eat and how often you eat them. Even if your favorite food is prime rib smothered in gravy, you don't have to give it up entirely. Just eat it less often and try a smaller portion with less gravy."

Wellman says that if you are making changes in your diet, make them gradually. Among her suggestions:

- Substitute low-fat milk for whole milk first, rather than jumping directly to skim milk.

- Substitute non-fat or low-fat yogurt for half or more of the mayonnaise when making tuna salad sandwiches.

- Incorporate new, healthful foods into some of your old stand-by recipes.

Most important, Wellman says, as you make alterations in your diet, remember the word "enjoy" is a key component of the National Nutrition Month message, "and a key element in helping you make lasting changes that will improve the quality of your life."

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I was very close to my grandmother in my younger years. She was a major influence in my life, motivated me to go to college, and helped me financially when she was able.

Grandma is quite old now, but she is still in fairly good health and active. That dear woman lives on such a small pension, I don't know how she makes it.

My problem is that Grandma refuses to take anything from me, not money, not a plane ticket to visit, not even a birthday present. I have given up trying to pay her heating bills or buy her groceries. She is fiercely independent, and I respect that.

Her fondest wish is to hear the Boston Pops Orchestra in person. She is saving pennies for it and refuses to let me help. I don't know what to do. I am in a position to give her anything she wants or needs without depriving myself or my family. My wife says this is Grandma's way of keeping me a child, so I will continue to need her.

It would give me so much pleasure to be able to give something back to this woman who has sacrificed so much for me. Any ideas? -- Frustrated in Omaha

DEAR OMAHA: I admire Grandma's independence, but what she doesn't understand is that she is being extremely selfish by denying you the pleasure of doing something nice for her.

Buy the plane ticket and the ticket to the Boston Pops. Give them to her, along with this column, and tell her to drop me a postcard from Boston.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I just returned from the hospital, where I visited two friends who were in a bad accident. Thank God they will both recover, but it's going to be a long time before they can resume normal living.

I just remembered something that I clipped out of your column a while back. I reread it a few minutes ago. Please, Ann, run it again. It might save me a few more trips to the hospital. -- Mr. X. in Petoskey, Mich.

DEAR PET: Thanks for asking. Here it is. With pleasure.

A Word To The Wise
If everyone who drives a car would lie a month in bed,

With broken bones and stitched-up wounds,

And fractures of the head,
And there endure the agonies that many people do,

They'd never need preach safety any more to me or you.

If everyone could stand beside the bed of some close friend and Hear the doctor say "No hope" just before the end,

And see him there unconscious, never knowing what took place,

The law and rules of traffic I'm sure we'd all embrace.

If everyone could meet the wife and children left behind,

And step into the darkened home where once the sunlight shined,

And look upon the vacant chair, where Daddy used to sit,

I'm sure some reckless drivers would be forced to think a bit.

If everyone who takes the wheel would say a little prayer,

And keep in mind those in the car depending on his care,

And make a vow and pledge himself to never take a chance,

A great crusade for safety would suddenly advance.

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) - Mr. Blackwell, who annually compiles a list of the nation's worst-dressed celebrities, says he doesn't dress down movie stars; he's merely offering critiques.

"Is it insulting to critique theater? To say Nureyev can't get two inches off the floor? ... If they take it seriously, the hell with them," he said Wednesday.

Blackwell, who does not use a first name, was in Indianapolis at several social functions and visiting friends.

Pictures tell all

Every picture tells a story and many overweight people are none too happy with the tale their photo albums tell of passing years and added pounds.

But did you know that photos can help you lose weight?

Start a weight loss program and then compare photo images of yourself: how you looked before weight loss and how good you look as the pounds come off.

While the ultimate indicator of weight has always been the scale, many of today's professionals are using a new tool to fight fat-an instant camera. Seems that many overweight people have a tendency to deny their true size and shape. Polaroid instant photos bring the dieter face to face with reality, quickly and privately, providing an extra incentive to start a weight loss program.

When starting a diet, a "before" shot serves as a benchmark for measuring results through the often long and grueling process. More eloquently than words, the re-diet picture is testimony to what the dieter never wants to look like again. Taken at regular intervals during the diet, instant photos, marked with the stages the shots were taken, offer the added advantage of an ongoing visual progress report. They can be assembled in a special photo album dedicated to documenting personal weight loss. Seeing the image immediately and comparing it to all previous photos can provide a real sense of accomplishment.

Diet counselors and clients agree that maintaining motivation is one of the toughest acts in the dietary fight. Referring to "before" photos provides many dieters with the will to continue and the healthy mental attitude required to succeed. Some diets even like to "mark-up" instant photos by highlighting areas of their bodies that need work.

Whether used as a reality check-before or after- or as a motivating tool at any stage of the game, instant photos can help dieters win the war against weight.

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) - Many of the Miss USA contestants want to meet Donald Trump, and one lists bologna-wrapped pickles as her favorite food.

The likes and dislikes of the contestants are covered in detail in pageant-produced biographies.

The contest's 12 quarterfinalists will compete Friday to be Miss USA 1990. The winner advances to the Miss Universe pageant.

What was the worst thing that ever happened to them?

"When my skirt fell to the floor during a dance performance. However, I kicked it off and kept right on dancing," said Miss Arkansas, Kathryn Harris.

"When my Pekingese was stolen," said Miss Michigan, Carole Gist.

Their likes: Cosmopolitan magazine, football games and Meryl Streep.

Miss Indiana, Meri Lyn Buker, likes the bologna-pickle combo.

Calallen, Midway in 4A finals; Naz in 1A

AUSTIN (AP) - Since 1986, Calallen has stood by and watched as Levelland walked off with the Class 4A state championship.

Levelland finally was stopped in its quest for a fifth consecutive title, leaving Calallen to deal with Waco Midway, the team that eliminated Levelland.

The Lady Wildcats will try to shake a 13-year monkey off their backs Saturday when they enter into battle with Midway in the 4A finals of the 40th University Interscholastic League Girls' State basketball Tournament.

In Calallen's 13 trips to the final four, they have yet to claim the big prize despite appearing in the final game three times.

Midway, which won its 24th in a row to improve its season mark to 34-2, jumped out to a 21-point cushion early against tournament newcomer Mayde Creek and never looked back in a 51-42 victory.

The Pantherettes, who won their first state championship back in 1955 followed by four more in '69, '73, '75 and '76, counted on Judy Holcomb's 16 first half points for the win.

Tasha Gordon and Missy Palacios each logged 10 points for Mayde Creek, which ends its season with a 24-11 record.

Calallen converted seven free throws in overtime, six by senior guard Stacy Sherman, to get past Dallas Lincoln Thursday night 68-62.

Sherman had 16 points to lead Calallen, now 38-1 on the season and winner of 27 consecutive games. Angela Aycock who came in averaging 30 points a game in the playoffs, rallied the Tigers with 32 points, 26 of those coming in the first half. Lincoln ends the year 24-7.

Abilene Wylie and Edna—two teams that ended 20-year droughts of state tournament appearances—will face off in the Class 3A finals.

Wylie, 31-2, used a 21-point cushion in the first quarter to roar past Groesbeck 68-42, while Edna, 31-3, stopped Canton's winning streak at 23 with a 64-52 victory.

Edna's last final four appearance was in 1965 when they won it all, while Wylie's last trip to Austin came in 1970 when they also won the state championship.

Missy Davis, finished with 26 points. Melinda Ray led Groesbeck with nine points, 13 under her average.

Senior Laurie Hamilton sparked Edna to a 41-18 lead in the first quarter with 14 points and was perfect from the field on seven shots.

The 5-11 center finished with 17 points, behind Lisa Gerdes' game-high 20.

The trio of Christi Cox, Darra Springer and Kathy Medley each hit for 10 points for Canton, 33-5, which lost to eventual state champion Hardin-Jefferson in last year's semifinal round.

The Nazareth Swiftettes will try for their third straight state championship and 11th overall Saturday when they face Moulton in the Class A finals.

The Swiftettes, 32-3 and winners of 23 in a row, had no trouble disposing of first time entrant Zavalla 67-38 in the semifinals, while Moulton held off a late surge by Munday for a 51-39 win.

The last time the two teams met, Nazareth defeated Moulton in the 1989 state semifinals.

Moulton, 34-4, has been to the tournament 13 times and to the final game five, but has never won it all and holds the tournament record for losses with 13.

Nazareth got 18 points from 6-0 senior center Darla Leavitt, who had 14 points in the first half and played sparingly in the second half due to a leg injury.

Nigel Boyles led Zavalla, 33-6, with 12 points. Moulton won despite a heroic effort by Munday's Mindy Meyers, who fired in a game-high 26 points. Although she is only 5-5, Meyers also ripped down a game-high nine rebounds.

Kristie Simper paced Moulton with 20 points.

Elks Hoop-Shoot winners

Fehr willing to resume talks

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Although the gates to spring training camps remain locked, Donald Fehr wants the door for negotiations to remain open.

"I'll be back in New York over the weekend and I hope we'll be able to schedule at least a meeting or two next Monday or Tuesday, before the owners go to their meeting in Dallas," the head of the players' union said Thursday.

Both the players and the owners drew fire from Congress on Thursday, with the Senate voting 82-15 to adopt a resolution calling for the sides to "settle their differences promptly and begin a complete spring training and regular season as soon as possible."

Sen. Steve Symms, R-Idaho, said the dispute showed baseball had forgotten "those of us who buy tickets and make billionaires out of owners and millionaires out of players."

Talks in the dispute had broken off Monday, with Fehr leaving New York to meet with the players' executive council in Phoenix, then briefing players in Los Angeles and Florida.

Although he again said that the players "don't intend to buckle in to the owners' demands," Fehr seemed to take a more conciliatory line Thursday following a two-hour meeting with players in Los Angeles.

"Certainly there are negotiable items, but the owners, at least a couple of them, haven't been willing to negotiate," he said.

Asked if the ball was in the owners' court, Fehr replied, "The ball in their court, in our court, who calls the next meeting, all those are niceties that make for headlines but don't have much relevance in the bargaining process.

"There has been some communication on the staff level on the outlying issues and I expect there will be more tomorrow (Friday)."

In New York, lawyers for the sides were fine-tuning the language of points that have already been agreed upon.

Arizona and Florida have said the lockout will result in more than $100 million in lost tourist revenue in each state.

Chuck O'Connor, the owners' chief negotiator, said spring training communities had asked baseball to consider moving Class AAA exhibition games to the big-league spring training parks if the lockout continues.

"There's no decision made on it," O'Connor said. "It's something that will not happen immediately."

Minor league exhibition games start in mid-March. Any decision would be made jointly by Commissioner Fay Vincent and Sal Arriaga, the head of the governing body for the minors.

Hornets sting Clippers in OT

By BILL BARNARD
AP Basketball Writer

The Charlotte Hornets, who have played like lambs this season, started March playing like lions.

The Hornets, losers of 17 of their previous 18 games, scored the last nine points of overtime Thursday night and beat the Los Angeles Clippers 118-109.

Charlotte already has as many victories in March as in February, when the Hornets were 1-11.

"I'm going to celebrate this one for the next 12 hours like it was a month," said Gene Little, who is 2-12 since becoming the Hornets interim coach on Jan. 31. "But I'll be ready for practice at 10 tomorrow."

Rex Chapman and Armon Gilliam scored 21 points each for the Hornets, and Tyrone Bogues had 17 assists in a career-high 47 minutes.

"Our guys showed a lot of guts in overtime," Little said. "We could have rolled over, but we didn't. We made the key stops and got the rebounds we needed at the end."

"We were so tired of losing that we turned it up a notch in overtime," said Chapman, who scored six points in the extra period. "We raised our level of play and did what it took to get the win."

In other NBA games, it was Philadelphia 105, New York 100; Detroit 99, Washington 85; Sacramento 114, Orlando 100; Houston 112, Phoenix 104; Utah 119, Portland 102 and Denver 131, Cleveland 125.

Charles Smith scored 19 of his 29 points in the fourth quarter for the Clippers before fouling out with 2:06 left in overtime.

The Clippers scored two quick baskets in overtime, but did not get a point in the last 3:28. They missed their last five shots and committed two turnovers in the last 2:45.

Tom Garrick's layup with one second left in regulation tied the score 105-105 after Smith led the Clippers back from a 10-point deficit in the final period.

Rockets 112, Suns 104
Houston ended Phoenix's nine-game winning streak as Akeem Olajuwon had 41 points, 14 rebounds and seven blocked shots.

The Rockets outscored the Suns 11-0 during a 3:40 span of the final quarter, giving Houston a 107-97 lead with 1:07 left.

Otis Thorpe had 24 points and 15 rebounds for the Rockets and Tom Chambers led the Suns with 23 points

Beavers, Spartans close to NCAA bids

By The Associated Press

Oregon State and Michigan State control their own destinies as far as getting automatic bids to the NCAA tournament.

No. 16 Oregon State earned the No. 1 seed in next week's Pac-10 tournament by defeating Arizona State 73-59 Thursday night.

"We're now the No. 1 seed in the Pac-10 tournament, that's the big thing," Coach Jim Anderson said. "We accomplished our goal."

Arizona can share the regular-season championship by defeating Oregon State in Tucson on Saturday but the Beavers have clinched the tie-breaker for the top seed.

Meanwhile, Steve Smith matched his career high with 36 points in leading No. 14 Michigan State to a 78-70 victory over No. 8 Michigan, giving the Spartans undisputed possession of first place in the Big Ten. Because the Big Ten doesn't have a postseason tournament, the regular-season champion gets an automatic bid to the NCAA tournament.

Michigan State (23-5, 12-3) has a half-game lead over Purdue, which was idle. The Spartans have won seven straight and ended a five-game losing streak against Michigan (20-6, 10-5).

"We're in the driver's seat. We control our own destiny," said Jud Heathcote, who coached the Spartans to the NCAA championship in 1979.

Eisewhere, it was No. 2 Nevada-Las Vegas 84, Utah State 82; No. 17 Minnesota 75, Indiana 70; No. 21 Louisville 86, Cincinnati 71; No. 23 Arizona 84, Oregon 58 and No. 24 New Mexico State 68, Pacific 55.

Gary Payton scored 22 points and Earl Martin had six of his 17 in a 24-8 second-half run as Oregon State (22-4, 15-2) clinched a tie for the Pac-10 title against Arizona State.

The Beavers trailed 29-28 at halftime and 34-31 with 16:23 to play before mounting their decisive run and beating the Sun Devils for the ninth consecutive time. Martin's 3-point shot gave Oregon State a 40-34 lead and his second 3-pointer made it 55-42 with eight minutes left. Alex Austin had 23 points for Arizona State.

No. 14 Michigan St. 78, No. 8 Michigan 70

Smith scored 25 points in the second half and 13 in a 19-6 surge that put Michigan State ahead 67-53 with 7:01 remaining.

Terry Mills, who equaled a career high in scoring 31 points for Michigan, scored 10 in a 13-2 run that brought the Wolverines to 69-66 with 2:47 left.

Matt Steigenga gave the Spartans a lift when he stripped the ball from Michigan's Michael Talley and scored on a dunk for a 72-66 lead. Two free throws apiece in the final minute by Steigenga and Mark Montgomery clinched the victory.

No. 2 UNLV 84, Utah St. 82

Larry Johnson scored 18 of his 31 points in the second half and David Butler added 24 points for UNLV, which survived despite missing 12 of 13 3-pointers. Utah State hit seven of 11 from long range, but led only once, 37-36.

The Rebels staged a 9-2 run and took their biggest lead of the second half at 72-64 on Greg Anthony's driving layup with 8:11 left.

No.17 Minnesota 75, Indiana 70

Willie Burton scored 26 points, including nine of Minnesota's last 10. Minnesota led 62-56 with 7:22 to play. But Eric Anderson and Pat Graham scored five points each as Indiana went on a 10-1 spurt in the next three minutes.

Kevin Lynch had 15 points for Minnesota. Graham had 21 for Indiana. No. 21 Louisville 86, Cincinnati 71

Seven-foot Felton Spencer anchored Louisville's inside attack with 16 points as the Cardinals clinched their fourth Metro Conference title in five years.

Louis Banks, Cincinnati's leading scorer with a 19-point average, had just one point in the first half and finished with eight.

No. 23 Arizona 84, Oregon 58

Sean Rooks ignited a 23-7 second-half run and was one of six Arizona players in double figures.

Rooks scored 12 of his 15 points in the second half. Matt Othick made six of seven 3-point attempts and led Arizona with 18 points. Matt Muehlebach had 14 points as the Wildcats shot 58 percent.

No. 24 New Mexico St. 68, Pacific 55

Michael New led four Aggies in double figures with 16 points.

Pacific trailed 30-29 at halftime as Dell Demps scored 13 of his 27 points. New Mexico State pulled away with a 10-0 run early in the second half.

Faculty calls for Valvano's ouster

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) - At the moment, investigations of allegations of point-shaving at North Carolina State center on two men and their money: New Jersey Nets forward Charles Shackleford and New Jersey businessman Robert Kramer.

The outcome of the probes, which involve 11 states and will be turned over to prosecutors next week, could cost N.C. State almost $1 million.

But many are not waiting for the investigations to end and are already calling for the ouster of Wolfpack coach Jim Valvano.

"The bottom line is, there are just too many unfortunate things that have happened during his tenure," university system Board of Governors member emeritus William Johnson told The Charlotte Observer. "I think in order to wipe away the stain, there's got to be a general cleaning out."

Johnson's wasn't the only call for NBA ROUNDUP and 10 rebounds. Pistons 99, Bulls 85

Detroit won for the 16th time in 17 games by holding Washington to a season low in points.

Isiah Thomas had 24 points for the Pistons, who are the first team in the NBA to be guaranteed a winning season.

Jeff Malone scored 19 to lead the Bulls, whose previous low for the season was 88 on Jan. 6 against Boston and again on Tuesday at Minnesota. 76ers 105, Knicks 100

Philadelphia pulled within a game

Valvano's dismissal.

Some N.C. State faculty members began circulating a petition Thursday calling for the coach's ouster. The Technician, the student newspaper, planned a front-page editorial in today's edition calling for the same.

"Our editorial's going to say that we need to impose the death penalty on ourselves," editor Dwuan June said. "As long as any remnant of Valvano remains, the university's reputation is shot."

Acting chancellor Larry K. Monteith wasn't ready to pass out judgments. But he said the school's basketball program is still under a review that began nearly a year ago and which has already forced Valvano to give up his job as athletic director.

The N.C. State basketball program has been under scrutiny since university and NCAA investigations uncovered academic abuses and NCAA violations involving players selling complimentary shoes and tickets.

During the investigations, former chancellor Bruce Poulton resigned and Valvano was dismissed as the university's athletics director. The university was placed under two years' probation by the NCAA.

ABC News, citing unnamed "inside sources," spurred the new investigations Wednesday night by reporting that as many as four Wolfpack players, including Shackleford, conspired to hold down the scores of four games for betting purposes during the 1987-88 season. Shackleford's lawyer and agent, Sal DiFazio of Bridgewater, N.J., has said his client never shamed points.

Last Sunday, after word had leaked that ABC News was working on the story, Shackleford told The News and Observer of Raleigh that he had taken money while playing for the Wolfpack.

On Thursday, DiFazio provided N.C. State with copies of two checks, saying the documents support their contention that Shackleford repaid money loaned to him. The News and Observer of Raleigh reported in today's editions.

One check copy, for $20,014.46, is dated Nov. 29, 1988, and made payable to Shackleford. It appears to have been endorsed over by Shackleford to Kramer.

The second check copy, for $40,000, is dated May 17, 1988, and made payable to Larry Gillman. Gillman is a Connecticut sports agent who wanted to represent Shackleford when he turned pro, DiFazio said.

On Wednesday, DiFazio gave university officials a copy of a general release signed by Gillman, dated May 19, 1988. Gillman released Shackleford and his relatives and girlfriend from any claims he might have in exchange for the $40,000.

In other developments Thursday: A man identified as Charles Shackleford was arrested on a charge of possession of a small amount of marijuana, authorities said. Shackleford was arrested by police at 6:12 p.m. EST in Orange, N.J.

Police said they received an informant's report about 5:35 p.m. and dispatched four detectives to the location, where they found Shackleford sitting in a 1989 Ford Thunderbird. Police approached the car, stopped it and ordered the three adults and two minors out of the vehicle, Orange deputy police director Anthony Benevento said. The detectives said they found the small amount of marijuana after a routine search.

Shackleford was taken to the Orange Police Department headquarters and released after posting bail.

Denville, N.J., Police Chief Howard Shaw said his investigation has involved the states of California, Florida, Illinois, Massachusetts, Nevada, New Jersey, New York, North Carolina, Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia. Prosecutors would have to decide whether the case should be heard in New Jersey, North Carolina or the federal courts, he said.

The North Carolina State Bureau of Investigation received a formal request from Wake County District Attorney Colon Willoughby Jr. to conduct an investigation into allegations of gambling and point-shaving.

N.C. State and the NCAA are still asking questions about when Kramer and Shackleford began exchanging money.

"That's our interest - how that relationship began, how long it occurred, and whether any of these individuals are connected with the institution in any way," Dave Didion, an NCAA enforcement representative, said.

He said the Wolfpack "might have to return 90 percent of the money they received from playing in the NCAA tournament. That would be determined by the Executive Committee."

Didion said the school could be made to return money from the 1986, 1987 and 1988 tournaments, totalling almost $1 million.

of New York in the Atlantic Division as Charles Barkley had 32 points and 15 rebounds.

The 76ers expanded the margin to 82-73 with 6:24 left on a 3-pointer by Derek Smith. The Knicks responded with a 13-6 run to make it 88-86 with 2:45 remaining on a turnaround by Patrick Ewing, who led New York with 30 points.

Barkley put the 76ers back in control with a three-point play and a jumper on the next two possessions. Jazz 119, Trail Blazers 102

Utah won its sixth consecutive game behind John Stockton's 26 points and 21 assists and Thurl Bailey's 18-point third quarter against Portland.

Bailey finished with 24 points. Jerome Kersey and Kevin Duckworth scored 21 points each for the Trail Blazers.

Nuggets 131, Cavaliers 125

Denver featured a rare inside attack as 7-footer Joe Barry Carroll scored 23 points and 6-11 Danny Schayes added 21.

The Cavaliers made 56.3 percent of their shots, led by Mark Price's 31 points.

Leading 102-97 entering the final period, the Nuggets went 3 1/2 minutes without a point, and the Cavaliers pulled ahead 103-102 with 8:44 left in the game. Alex English put Denver ahead to stay with layup 23 seconds later.

Kings 114, Magic 100

Sacramento outscored the Magic 20-10 in the last seven minutes.

Wayman Tisdale had 24 points, Antoine Carr 21 and Danny Ainge 20 for the Kings.

Terry Catledge led the Magic with 27 points.

Top ten reasons diets fail

Are you on a diet? The answer is probably yes. At any one time, one out of two women and one out of four men are trying to lose weight. Yet, nearly two-thirds of Americans are overweight.

Here are the top 10 reasons diets fail.

1. Unrealistic expectations. You need to lose 20 pounds to look and feel better, but you aim to lose 35 because you've always wanted to be "model thin." Don't! You're setting yourself up for failure. Instead, set a realistic goal you know you can achieve.

2. Missing programmatic approach. Diet, exercise, behavior modification—a truly effective weight loss program must include each of these elements. Choose a diet adapted to your lifestyle. Exercise to burn calories, trim and tone. And watch your behavior: if you always tend to snack while watching TV, eat a crunch apple or some unbuttered popcorn.

3. Boredom. Some diets limit your food selections; a few call for large quantities of just a few foods. This is boring and could cause nutritional deficiencies. Follow a well-balanced diet with a variety of foods.

4. Restrictive diets. These programs oblige dieters to eat specific foods at pre-set times, or to exercise excessively. During the work-week or on vacation, these diets can easily be sabotaged, leaving dieters feeling guilty and discouraged, which can lead to overeating.

5. Requires too much food preparation or purchase. Some diets require the dieter to purchase pre-packaged foodstuffs or to concoct unusual meals. These foods can be expensive and often lack variety, as well as flavor. A diet that is difficult to follow may cause the dieter to simply give up.

6. Doesn't include favorite foods. Eliminating favorite foods can make any dieter feel deprived, and thus more apt to binge. Stick with your food favorites, but eat them less often and in smaller portions. Choose lower-calorie substitutes for high-fat foods (try low-fat frozen yogurt instead of ice cream).

7. Too few calories. Some people follow diets that are so low in calories, they leave the dieter constantly hungry and may even cause nutritional deficiencies. Don't follow diets of less than 1,200 calories without a doctor's supervision.

8. Weight loss not quick enough. Every dieter wants immediate results, but weight lost too quickly often returns. Have patience! Steady but gradual weight loss, combined with behavior modification, can help ensure long-term success.

9. Too expensive. Pre-packaged foods, diet supplements and fees for personal weight loss assessments add up to a financial burden some dieters can't maintain.

10. Necessitates health club visits. Some dieters become convinced that the only place to exercise is at a health club. But swimming, brisk walks and bicycle riding provide a good workout and don't cost a penny.

Losing weight, whether it's five pounds or 50, can be a difficult task. Learn the diet hang-ups and don't get hung up on them.

Hints from Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

I am looking for a recipe for colored sugar. I know you combine sugar and food coloring, but don't know the details. — B. Litsey, Russellville, Ark.
Simply put some white granulated sugar in a pie plate and trickle food coloring over it. Mix the sugar until all of the food coloring is absorbed. You may need to add more food coloring to get a darker shade.
When dry, put it in a sealable container or a bottle with a sprinkler top. That's all there is to it. — Heloise

HANDY COFFEE FILTER

Dear Heloise: We love tacos, but boy, oh boy, do the kids make a mess — meat, lettuce, tomatoes, cheese and sauce everywhere.
Now I place a taco in a coffee filter and hand one to each kid. All the falling food lands in the filter and the kids eat all the taco. Clean-up is a snap too. — J.O., El Paso, Texas

Man Caught With Classified Information

Claims information regularly published

Neighbors today were surprised to learn Melvin Kline, a seemingly quiet, well-mannered man was making extra money with classified information. When questioned earlier this morning, Kline professed surprise that everyone wasn't using the classified section to earn extra income and get rid of unwanted items. "It's common," he said. Recent studies tend to bear Kline out. Consumer Data Service reported that over 85% of the public read the newspaper and over 80% of those read the classifieds. Kline claimed widespread use was being made of the classified information. "But you have to act quickly," he remarked. "If I have something to sell, I can be in the paper by tomorrow. I do that a lot now," he confessed. "With classified, whether I'm buying or selling, I can reach a large market instantly. And it's easy...just pick up the phone." When asked if price mattered at all, Kline stated he was in possession of Consumer Data Service documents that indicated newspaper readership increases as income increases. "The more money they make, the more they read the paper," he said, "and I can prove it." Asked for a last comment, Kline replied "No matter what you're looking for, a new job, a great car, merchandise, or even a home, take a long look at the classified section.

Local confesses he profited from classified information in newspaper

"Sure, I've made some money from classified information, but so can anyone who reads the paper."

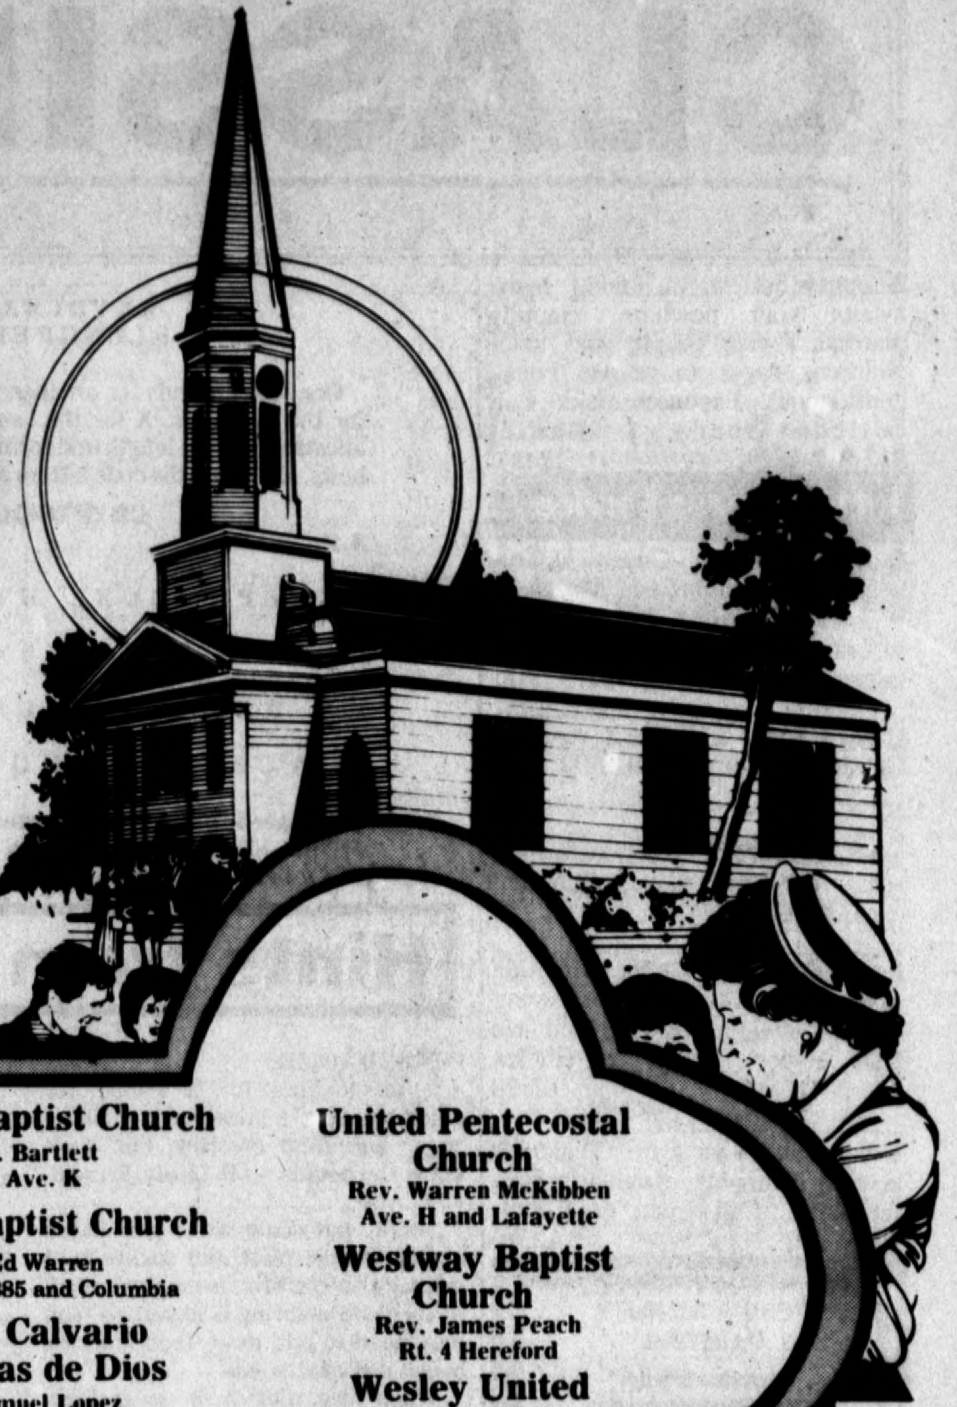

The information's all there." Response Analysis Corp. studies indicate the public does exactly that, with 98% preferring the newspaper over radio and 68% preferring the newspaper instead of TV. Kline was last seen in the company of an unidentified man carrying two outboard motors.
