Strain is arrested on new charges

By KAY PECK
Staff Writer

An area farmer who was once the county Democratic party chairman has been arrested on charges of receiving stolen property.

Robert Strain, 57, was arrested Saturday on a warrant for violation of probation and on charges of receiving stolen property.

While being held in Deaf Smith County Jail following his arrest, Strain became extremely ill. On Sunday he was admitted to High Plains Baptist where he is scheduled for open heart surgery on Wednesday.

Strain was convicted of felony theft by a 222nd District Court Jury in May 1984, and later pleaded guilty to three more of the 16 indictments remaining against him.

Strain was sentenced to four concurrent seven-year probated prison terms plus a $10,000 fine.

The case against Strain was revived when he allegedly purchased property from an undercover officer after being informed that the property was stolen. A search warrant was served along with the arrest warrant on Saturday. In the subsequent search, officers found a VCR and car stereo -- both allegedly purchased from the undercover officer -- among items stored in a barn behind Strain's rural home.

Stolen items stored in a barn near his home were instrumental in Strain's 1984 conviction.

Two allegations were included in the probation revocation arrest, according to District Attorney Roland Saul. In addition to being accused of receiving stolen property, a second allegation against Strain involved participation in prostitution, legally defined as agreeing or offering to engage in sex for a fee.

Frito-Lay will offer contracts

Representatives of Frito-Lay will meet with area farmers May 30 at 9 a.m. in the banquet room of the Hereford Community Center to discuss contracts for raising canola seed.

The meeting will begin with a general presentation at 9 a.m., then break into question-and-answer and one-on-one discussions from 10 a.m. until noon.

The company has added canola oil to its list of alternative oils for making potato chips after testing canola-fried chips during the past year in a special test market. The company will test canola in the company's other snack products later.

During the past two years, Frito-Lay has contracted winter canola with area farmers, and hopes to significantly increase the number of contracts for the 1989-90 growing season.

For winter canola, farmers would plant the crop in early September and harvest it in the spring of 1990.

Lane Burtz, director of oil purchasing for Frito-Lay, said the 1989-90 program features several points of difference from previous contracts.

"The oil market has shown great variance over the past year. Therefore, we plan to offer growers prices that will adjust to reflect market fluctuations," Burtz said. "These prices will be competitive with other oilseed offers by moving with the soybean oil futures."

Burtz said the grower can lock in a flat price on half of the crop before Oct. 13, 1989, and can set the price on the remainder of the crop anytime between March 5 and June 15, 1990, Burtz said. "The grower can pick his timing to set the price of the crop, since the price will move with the soybean oil market."

Research has shown that canola seed can be a profitable alternative as a rotation crop with wheat. It doesn't share the same diseases as wheat, so it works well in a rotation. It requires the same planting and harvesting equipment as wheat, and direct input costs are virtually the same.

Canola is also drought-tolerant and since it is an oilseed its value is set by vegetable oil markets, not the grain market, providing further diversification.

The demand for canola oil by U.S. food companies is increasing dramatically, according to Frito-Lay officials, because of its excellent nutritional profile. Canola oil has only six percent fatty acids, less than half that found in corn oil. Of the 94 percent unsaturated fatty acids, 58 percent are monounsaturated fatty acids which have been shown to have a favorable impact on blood cholesterol levels in individuals who have to reduce their intake of saturated fats.

Burtz said that unless domestic canola production increases, foreign farmers will, by 1991, be growing over 800,000 acres of canola to meet U.S. demands. He said that Frito-Lay would prefer to contract directly with U.S. farmers, as they have for potatoes and corn, than to purchase canola oil from Canada or other countries.

County eyes tough budget

By KAY PECK
Staff Writer

Deaf Smith County commissioners have started taking a close look at the 1989-90 budget, and no matter which course the commissioners take, it could mean tough times for county taxpayers.

"We're arriving at a point where we've either going to have raise taxes substantially or cut services substantially, or a combination of both," said Deaf Smith County Judge Tom Simons.

A deficit of $645,100 must be cut from the proposed budget compiled by County Auditor Alex Schroeter using preliminary figures supplied by county officials. Before a budget can be finalized, this gap must be eliminated.

A budget workshop begun during the May 8 commissioners meeting continued during Monday's regular meeting. At the close of the workday on Monday, extensive analysis of the proposed budget was still needed. The meeting was recessed and will reconvene on Friday morning at 7 a.m.

In addition to the difficult task of analyzing what expenses to cut where, commissioners were also involved in a brief discussion concerning the organization of the budget.

"I'm interested in seeing a budget by precincts," said Commissioner Troy Don Moore (precinct 3).

At present, the road and bridge portion of the county budget is designated by precincts as a part of the county budget. Moore indicated that he would like to see each precinct maintain a budget for its own administration as well.

Judge Simons felt that precinct budgets would serve little benefit.

"It's not like we're four little fiefdoms," Simons said.

Moore stated that he believed such an organization of the budget could be a "management tool."

Early in the budget considerations, commissioners turned their attention to the Deaf Smith County Jail. Because of state and federal requirements, the proposed budget includes a drastic increase in salaries for jailers. At present 11 jailers are employed at the county jail. It has been suggested that the number of jailers be increased to 23.

Additional salaries for the new personnel would increase the jail's budget by $2 million.

Alternatives are being considered which would allow the county to hire fewer new jailers and still meet required standards. Commissioners hope to cut approximately $160,000 from the jail's budget.

Office by office, item by item, commissioners will continue to scrutinize the upcoming budget until arriving at final figures for the upcoming fiscal year.

The resignation of Assistant County Extension Agent Davy Vestal was accepted by commissioners on Monday.

Four individuals were appointed to the County Historical Commission. Judge Simons was authorized to appoint three more. Those selected for to the commission were Ruth McBride, Glen Nelson, Bill Bradley and Vesta Mae Nunley.

Commissioners tabled a discussion concerning crossing a county road in Precinct 2 with a water line. They also delayed a decision concerning a need for ventilation and air conditioning in the computer room of the county clerk's office. A Telets System is also under consideration for the sheriff's office.

YMCA kicks off '89 drive

The Hereford YMCA kicked off its 1989 Sustaining Contribution Campaign Monday night in the Community Center with national YMCA leader Ron Hibner as guest speaker.

Primary purpose of the ice cream social was to hear Hibner's message and distribute packets to volunteer workers who will seek to raise $40,000 to supplement the cost of youth programs and scholarships offered by the YMCA throughout the year.

Mike Bowles, campaign chairman, announced that 55 volunteers will be involved in the campaign this year. Board members and staff have already shown their commitment, says Bowles, by pledging almost 20 percent of the goal.

Dave Hopper and Garth Merrick are serving as co-chairmen of the major gifts division, while Pat Lawson is chairperson of the general teams division. A.T. Griffin is '89 board president.

The Hereford YMCA reaches many people each year through programs, leagues and classes. Daily use of the "Y" facility ranges from 70 to 300 people a day, according to Weldon Knabe, executive director. This year, there will be more than 1,500 registered program participants in YMCA youth programs, and more than 2,000 in adult programs.

Knabe pointed out that sustaining contributions are needed to make possible a greater and more effective YMCA program for youth, adults and families. Most of the fees in youth programs are subsidized. If fees were raised to make youth programs self-supporting, said Knabe, the fee would be unaffordable to many the YMCA serves.

The sustaining contribution campaign also enlists a large group of individuals as members to support the "Y" according to their interests and abilities. "We discover and develop leadership and give men and women an opportunity to render significant service to others," added Knabe.

The "Y" campaign will have a report meeting each week, and the project is scheduled to be completed June 19.

Schedule changed for wheat field day

Because of last week's severe weather which hailed out the wheat crop at the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station at Bushland all portions of Thursday's annual Wheat Field Day will be held at the Texas A&M University Center on Amarillo Boulevard West in Amarillo.

The morning schedule will remain intact, but instead of touring wheat during the afternoon, the experts originally scheduled to speak on the tour will address the crowd at the Center, said Dr. Alan Wiese.

During the day, commercial and noncommercial Certified Pesticide Applicators can get four Continuing Education Units (CEUs) required for license renewal. Five CEUs are required by Dec. 31.

Information will be presented on a variety of growing and tillage techniques, weed control, and varieties.

All producers and other interested persons are urged to attend.

Police look for theft clues

By KAY PECK
Staff Writer

Jewelry valued at approximately $6,000 was taken in a burglary in the 700 block of Avenue G sometime between 7:30 p.m. and 8:30 p.m. Sunday.

The home's resident told police she had left her home to go for a brief drive Sunday evening. When she returned, she found that a screen had been pulled away from a window in the back bedroom and a television on a stand had been moved in that room. Further investigation found that portable steps normally kept at the back door of her mobile home had been moved to a position below the window.

Police were called after it was discovered that a jewelry box was missing. That box contained approximately $6,000 in jewelry.

Reps' honoraria hits near $5.9M

WASHINGTON (AP) - The honoraria system that narrowly avoided extinction earlier this year cranked out nearly $5.9 million in 1988 for House members who wrote articles and gave speeches to special-interest groups.

The honoraria figures, compiled by the public interest group Common Cause, came from the annual House financial disclosure statements that were released Monday.

The final honoraria figures for the year could surpass the 1987 total of $6.7 million once financial disclosure forms are received from an additional 20 lawmakers. The 20 reports not yet available included that of House Ways and Means Committee Chairman Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill., the 1987 honoraria leader with $245,000.

The annual disclosure forms filed by all 535 members of Congress provide a look at members' wealth and outside income. Each form lists a member's money received, assets and liabilities. The Senate reports were released last Friday.

Rank-and-file House members were allowed to keep $26,850 in honoraria in 1988 - leaders slightly more. The amount over the limit, more than $1 million, was donated to charity while nearly $4.8 million was kept for personal use.

Most lawmakers also supplemented their $89,500 salaries with investments, while others made money in more unorthodox ways.

Rep. Ben Nighthorse Campbell, D-Colo., a Northern Cheyenne Indian, earned $5,000 last year for his jewelry designs.

House Speaker Jim Wright, facing House ethics committee charges of 69 rules violations, reported income between $188,183 and $203,579 and assets ranging from $31,005-$100,000.

SPS files for credit rebate

Southwestern Public Service Company (SPS) filed Monday to distribute $13 million in credits to its Texas retail customers, primarily representing these customers' share of proceeds from SPS's sales of electricity to other utilities.

A residential customer who uses 1,000 kilowatt hours a month would receive a credit of $10.21.

These new credits are separate from and in addition to previously announced credits related to recent SPS rate reductions.

As a participant in an experimental market program, SPS has been able to sell electricity to western utilities as far away as California on a competitive basis, said Jerry Diller, SPS's group manager of rates and regulation. Under the program, 75% of the difference between the cost of production and the sales price is to go to customers in the SPS service area, Diller said.

"Previously, these sales required time-consuming approvals of individual transactions and a rigid price formula established by the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission," Diller said. "Under the experimental program, utilities are able to buy and sell electricity utilities made in the traditional regulated manner."

SPS has been successful in the bulk-power market because it is a low-cost producer, Diller said.

"Demand has been high because several power plants in the western United States have been out of service for various reasons," Diller said. "Also, hydro-electric power from the Pacific Northwest was limited due to relatively dry conditions."

These circumstances will change, Diller said, so it is difficult to predict if SPS sales at past levels will continue.

SPS filed the requested credit with the Public Utility Commission of Texas (PUCT). If approved, the credit would be recognized in August electric bills.

"We also are requesting that the PUCT establish a procedure whereby we can pass on any future credits from such sales on a periodic basis as they accumulate," Diller said. "Under present PUCT procedures this is not possible."

The proceeds from these bulk-power sales to other utilities are treated as a fuel-cost credit. The $13 million credit requested by SPS includes approximately $2 million in traditional fuel savings resulting from lower costs for coal and natural gas. The credit also includes interest at 11.7%.

Woman scheduled to leave cave

CARLSBAD, N.M. (AP) - After four months and 10 days in a sealed cave with no human contact, Stefania Follini now must face researchers who will poke needles in her arm and electrodes in her head to see how it affected her.

The 27-year-old Italian interior decorator volunteered for the isolation experiment that began Jan. 13 in an effort to learn how people may be affected by the long solitude of interplanetary travel.

In the absence of night, day or timepieces in 30-foot-deep Lost Cave, Miss Follini's menstrual cycle stopped and her sleep-wake cycle changed radically. She tended to stay up 20 to 25 hours and sleep about 10.

She believed two months had passed, not four.

Those were the most obvious effects of her isolation from the sun and other people, but not the only effects.

Researchers believe her muscle tone and the level of calcium in her bones decreased, that her immune system is depressed and that she is able to concentrate more deeply.

Scientists will find out for sure in the days following her departure from the cave this afternoon.

Coming out will be a shock. The temperature in Carlsbad was expected to reach 100 degrees, as it did Monday - a big difference from the cave's constant climate of 74 degrees and 99-percent humidity.

When experiment coordinator Maurizio Montalbini notified Miss Follini via computer Monday that the experiment was almost over, she reacted at first with disbelief, then with delight.

"Are you really serious?" she replied through the computer linking her to researchers in a house trailer above the cave.

Montalbini assured her he was, then wrote: "We will not ask you for any more data." It was a reference to the physical and mental tests she was asked to perform periodically.

Miss Follini laughed and clapped at the news as 40 reporters watched her over two TV monitors inside the cramped trailer house.

Then, for the first time in 129 days, Miss Follini heard a human voice other than her own. It was from the man upstairs.

State

HOUSTON - A Texas death row inmate is hoping the U.S. Supreme Court will halt his scheduled Wednesday execution after an appeals court refused to grant him a stay.

DALLAS - Cable television must provide more quality and not just quantity in programming, key executives said at the opening session of the National Cable Television Association's annual meeting.

HOUSTON - The Houston branch of the NAACP has threatened to take its lucrative national convention elsewhere in two years unless the Greater Houston Convention & Visitors Bureau makes changes to help minorities.

IRVING - Authorities were planning today to capture and relocate a seven-foot alligator stranded in a manmade lake in Las Colinas, a high-tech business complex north of Dallas.

DALLAS - A state Vietnam Veterans group building a memorial in Dallas to Texans who fought in the Vietnam War is dismayed by lawmakers who budgeted $300,000 toward building a similar monument in Austin.

COLLEGE STATION - While the oil industry seems to be on a rebound in Texas, the real estate market has not reached the long-awaited recovery despite a rise in sales of existing homes in March, housing industry analysts say.

AUSTIN - The issue of workers' compensation moved a step, but lawmakers were trying to determine if it was a step forward or backward in avoiding a special legislative session; State Treasurer Ann Richards says her latest list of people with unclaimed property is a star-studded one. Frank Sinatra, Dinah Shore, Harpo Marx, Gene Kelly, George Burns, Gracie Allen, Edgar Bergen, Tony Martin and Jane Russell, or their estates, all are owed money dating back 40 years; Consumer groups called on insurance policyholders to contact state legislators and urge them to restore "meaningful insurance reform."

Senate passes workers' comp bill

AUSTIN (AP) - The issue of workers' compensation moved a step, but lawmakers were trying to determine if it was a step forward or backward in avoiding a special legislative session.

House workers' comp leaders said Monday they would have preferred the Senate had endorsed an earlier proposal by Sen. Bob Glasgow, D-Stephenville.

"We're farther behind in the area of compromise and consensus than we were (with Glasgow's bill)," said state Rep. Richard Smith, R-Bryan, who authored the House workers' comp bill.

"I would certainly would have hoped that they would have adopted Mr. Glasgow's version," said House Speaker Gib Lewis.

But the Senate didn't. It approved a bill that supporters called a fair solution, but opponents said lawmakers were trying to "rearrange the chairs on the Titanic."

Sen. Ted Lyon said the measure would decrease employer-paid workers' comp insurance premiums, increase benefits to injured workers and make sure contested claims were fair to both employees and employers.

"No single group is happy, and that probably means it's fair," said Lyon, D-Rockwall.

With one week remaining in the regular session, the Senate bill was approved on a voice vote after previously gaining a 22-9 vote.

But opponents of the bill said it fails to correct problems in the current system and is so radically different from a bill approved by the House that the issue will have to be confronted again in a special legislative session.

In the 22-9 vote, Glasgow opposed the bill and lashed out at his colleagues for wresting control from him in the behind-the-scenes negotiations between special-interest groups.

Glasgow attacked almost all critical points of the bill and warned that a rate rollback provision will chase insurers out of the state.

"What you may have is not one insurance company in Texas writing workers' compensation benefits," Glasgow said.

"What we have done here is rearrange the chairs on the Titanic. What we have done here is simply go back to a system that is in crisis today," said Sen. Bill Ratliff, R-Mount Pleasant.

Anderson, Baker earn scholarship

The Texas Tech University Dads and Moms Association has announced scholarship recipients for the 1989-90 academic year.

Local recipients include Keith Wayne Anderson, a junior accounting major, who was awarded the James G. Allen Scholarship for $1,640. He is the son of Donnell D. Anderson of 318 16th St., Hereford.

Robert Lee "Bobby" Baker III, also a junior accounting major, received the Dean Lewis N. Jones Scholarship worth $430. He is the son of Bob Baker of 341 Douglas, Hereford.

Renee Mercer to receive scholarship

Renee Mercer, a senior at Hereford High School, earned a full tuition scholarship to McMurry College.

President of this year's graduating HHS class, Mercer has been awarded the tuition scholarship for four years in the amount of $4,350 per year.

The four-year award will be at least $17,400 according to an announcement by Dr. Thomas Kim, president of McMurry College. "McMurry College is proud to have an outstanding student such as Renee choose the college and believes her high achievements will continue in the atmosphere of McMurry," said Dr. Kim.

McMurry College, founded by the United Methodist Church, is located in Abilene. It is represented in this area by Mr. Shirley Garrison, who will be returning to the board of trustees this fall. He had served nine years prior to this term.

Mercer is the daughter of Robert and Thelma Mercer of Hereford.

Band Boosters to meet

The Band Boosters will meet Thursday at 7 p.m. in the Hereford High School band hall.

Installation of new officers will be featured and plans for next year discussed.

Parents of band students in grades 8-11 are urged to attend this meeting.

Military Muster

Spec. Keith A. Beddingfield has completed a U.S. Army primary leadership course.

Students received training in supervisory skills, leadership principles and small unit training techniques essential to a first-line supervisor in a technical or administrative environment.

He is an infantryman with the 8th Infantry Regiment, West Germany.

Beddingfield is the son of Billy F. Beddingfield of Merkel, Texas and Mary R. Hale of Adrian.

The specialist is a 1983 graduate of Merkel High School.

During 1964-80, Latin America had an uninterrupted economic expansion that saw the region's gross domestic product (GDP) grow each year by at least 4 percent, according to the Inter-American Development Bank. The bank said that because of the slowdown in the '80s in nearly all the countries of the region, the 1987 per capita GDP was lower than in 1980.

Cooked to perfection

Gary Ferguson of the Pitchfork Ranch in Guthrie, Texas, prepares the T-bone steaks that won the Western Heritage Chuckwagon Cook-Off May 13 in Abilene.

Pitchfork Ranch wins Chuckwagon Cook-Off

A mouth-watering T-bone steak basted with a rich barbecue sauce and served with baked potato, sourdough bread and apple cobbler won first place in the fifth annual Western Heritage Classic Chuckwagon Cook-Off May 13 at Abilene for Pitchfork Ranch of Guthrie, Texas.

Pitchfork, one of the state's oldest and biggest cattle operations, defeated 15 other chuckwagon crews from Texas, Nebraska and New Mexico for this year's crown.

Second place went to Outtagrass Cattle Company of Clyde, Texas, for its ribeye steak. The third place chuckwagon crew was Long X Cattle Co. from Kent, Texas, for a Dutch-oven cooked prime rib recipe.

The chuckwagon cook-off, sponsored by the Texas Beef Industry Council, Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association, and the Abilene Restaurant Association, was part of the week-long Western Heritage Classic. The majority of its competitors are from working ranches where chuckwagons are needed to feed cowboys during roundup. The Pitchfork Ranch chuckwagon, for instance, is used approximately two months each year during spring and fall roundups. For this competition, chuckwagon cooks Gary and Marilyn Ferguson used a mesquite-wood fire, cast-iron skillets and Dutch ovens, and readily available ingredients to prepare their award-winning entry.

The T-bones were seasoned with garlic salt and black pepper and cooked for 20 minutes over medium hot coals until they were medium rare. It was basted with a "soppin' sauce" named for another large, old Texas ranch, the four Sixes at Guthrie. A baked potato wrapped in bacon, sourdough bread, apple cobbler and composite coffee rounded out the winner's entree.

All cooks competed with their chuckwagons set up exactly as they would have been to feed working cowboys on the range. The most authentic campsite award went the Haythorn Ranch of Arthur, Neb.

There's a new (sports) guy in town

By Sam W. Waller
Sports Editor

Hidy, folks. How's yer mom an' them?

Well, I've been in town a whole week now, and I thought I might ought to introduce myself to the community.

The name is Sam Waller, and, for those who didn't notice, I'm the new sports editor over here at The Brand.

As far as being qualified for the job, I would like to point out that I grew up down at Breckenridge, which seems to be home to more high school football experts per capita than any place on earth.

That covers the sports end of things. Concerning the editor part, I've just finished three semesters on the editorial staff of the student newspaper over at West Texas State, including this past one as THE editor. (Any frat boys out there should have fond memories of me.)

When I first enrolled at WT, I considered Hereford to be a place that I would probably wind up in sooner or later. I just never thought it would be in the newspaper business. I came up here to study feedlot management and beef production and stumbled into journalism by accident.

Back in 1986, my big sister went off to England for six months on the International 4-H Youth Exchange. Not being the kind of guy to be outdone by a sibling (especially a girl sibling), I sent in my application for the next year with the intent of going down to Australia to play cowboy for half a year. And since part of the program is to write articles back to the hometown paper, I figured it might be a good idea to learn how to write one.

That's where things got out of hand. Some kid from Massachusetts got my spot on the trip down under and I got packed off to Portugal for the duration. When I came home in December of 1987, I was offered a staff position for the spring.

The way things turned out, I know more about ruminant nutrition than any other sports writer I've met.

My background isn't that different from anybody else that was raised in a small town in West Texas. My dad is a rancher and my mom works for an accountant, I've got the aforementioned big sister and a little brother and I spent several years showing 4-H club calves.

I would like to take the opportunity to point out to Mom that memorizing all those sports statistics instead of my algebra didn't hurt when it came to getting a job.

As I said, I grew up in a football-crazed town. Unfortunately, I committed the unpardonable sin of liking baseball more. Something about being a 130 pound tackle just did not appeal to me. I looked forward to the games so I could recover form practice.

But I did stay active in athletics after the coaches advised me I would spend more time on the field playing in the marching band.

Over the years, I did manage to compile an impressive list of athletic achievements.

I showed my awesome ability on the basketball court, scoring a total of two (count 'em -- two) points in two years. That sent my career scoring average soaring all the way to 0.25 points per game.

Well, maybe basketball wasn't made for short, slow guys who can't dribble, pass or shoot.

In track, I did manage to set the school record in the 3200 meter run. Of course that was the first year the UIL had that race. And I was the only one on the team dumb enough to think he could run that far in one day. It was my record and it stood for a whole year. Then some freshman came in the next year and broke it. By three minutes.

But it was baseball where I really stood out. Since Breckenridge I developed myself into a steady .300 hitter. Of course everybody else in the league as hitting .600 so nobody noticed. My fielding ability wasn't the greatest either. Being stuck in the outfield my entire career only emphasized the fact that I had the weakest throwing arm in history. And having an astigmatism made judging fly balls an adventure.

But my greatest (lame) claim to athletic fame came after I finished high school. I went to Baylor with the intention of becoming an athletic trainer. To give you an idea of how important I was to the Bears' success, I was immediately put in charge of washing Grant Teaff's shorts. Which, now that I think about it, might have been important to him.

During my season of major-college football, I had the distinction of being an official Southwest Conference ball retriever, a job which could be done by a Labrador retriever.

Early in the third quarter of the season opener against Lamar, Walter Abercrombie took a pitchout near mid-field and headed for the Baylor side of the field. The defense strung the play out and about three tons of football players and equipment rolled over the sideline and one terrified ball boy.

I did try to get out of the way, but somebody behind me wouldn't let me move.

Two days later as I was cleaning out the coaches dressing room, one of the assistants told me I needed to come watch the game film. There on the screen was Abercrombie and half the Lamar defense converging on a ball boy, who was desperately trying to run away. And there was Coach Teaff with his hand in my back so I wouldn't run over him. I still think I should have gotten at least a letter jacket for saving his life.

Anyway, I'll be around here for a while, and I'll try to make sure things get the coverage they deserve. I can't promise that every little event will have 30-inch stories and lots of pictures, but I'll do what I can. And if anyone has information, they can call me at the paper.

And be sure to say hi to yer mom an' them for me.

Herd to meet Brownwood in regional series

The Hereford Whitefaces will meet District 7-4A champions Brownwood Lions in a three-game regional playoff series Friday and Saturday at Lubbock Christian University's Chaparral Stadium.

Game One of the series will be played at 7:30 p.m. Friday with the Herd (23-2-1) being the home team.

Game Two is slated for 1 p.m. Saturday with Brownwood having home-team status. A third game, if necessary, will start immediately following Game Two. A coin toss will decide the home team.

Admission to the games will be $3 for adults and $1 for students. Saturday's admission will cover Games Two and Three if a third is needed. Brownwood (21-10) advanced to the regional round by defeating the Everman Bulldogs in a three-game set played last week. The Lions knocked off the Pflugerville Panthers in bi-district action after posting an 8-2 district record.

In other regional playoff action, the Lubbock Estacado Matadors (21-7) will face the Leander Lions (21-5) in a best-of-three match at Hunter Field in Abilene.

Estacado advanced by beating the Anstrews Mustangs in three games. Leander, champions of District 8-4A, downed Granbury and Crowley to reach regional play.

Hough gains first May win as Texas downs Royals, 4-1

ARLINGTON (AP) - Charlie Hough has been through the wars in his 17 years in the major leagues but seldom has the Texas Rangers knuckleballer experienced such a slump.

Monday night Hough showed signs that he's snapping out of a season-long swoon, combining with Ceciliano Guante and Jeff Russell on a six-hitter as the Rangers handed the Kansas City Royals their fifth straight defeat, 4-1.

Hough, 3-5, had his knuckler dancing, striking out four and walking two. Guante pitched one-hit ball over 2 1-3 innings before giving way to Russell, who got the final three outs in the ninth for his seventh save.

Hough, 0-5 with an 8.53 ERA over his previous seven starts, pitched 5 2-3 innings of four-hit ball before giving way to Guante with runners on first and third in the sixth.

"It was a heck of a win," Hough said. "Considering what I had in the bullpen warming up before the game, I was lucky to win."

"Charlie had the knuckleball going as good as he's had it going all year," Rangers manager Bobby Valentine said.

Texas led 2-1 in the sixth when Pete Incaviglia hit a two-run homer, his sixth of the season, off Royals starter Charlie Leibrandt, 3-5, scoring Julio Franco ahead of him.

Leibrandt threw a five-hitter in his second complete game of the season. The Rangers snapped a two-game losing streak and had dropped six of their previous eight before Monday.

Hough's season-long inability to throw strikes with the knuckleball prompted Valentine to lift him.

"I wasn't ready to come out but I understand it," said Hough. "I was behind in the count 2-1 and they didn't want me to throw a fastball or slider."

Guante completed a walk to Bob Boone that was credited to Hough, then escaped the bases-loaded situation when Frank White flied to center.

"Without Guante, no way we get that win," Valentine said. "He did a

Golf tourney set for June 3-4

The Hereford Low Ball Partnership Tournament has been scheduled at Pitman Municipal Golf Course June 3-4, with an entry fee of $110 per team.

The field will be limited to first paid 80 teams--eight flights with 10 teams per flight. Entry fee includes green fees, no carts. Shotgun starts will be at 9 a.m. and 2 p.m.

Gift certificate prizes of $850 per flight will be awarded--$425 for first team, $255 for second and $170 for third. A cocktail party and dinner will be held immediately following Saturday's round.

For more information, or to enter, write Mike Horton, golf pro, Box 814, Hereford, TX. 79045.

Hereford YMCA to hold fitness check

Jack Johnson, former fitness director for the Hereford YMCA and now a fitness consultant with the Thornton YMCA in Tulsa, Okla., will be at the local YMCA Wednesday and Thursday to offer advice on getting and staying fit.

Johnson will perform free fitness evaluations, design individual exercise programs, analyze existing routines and counsel interested persons about individual fitness needs.

Appointments may be made for 10 a.m. to noon and 1 to 4 p.m. Wednesday and from 7 to 11 a.m. and 2 to 6 p.m. Thursday. Interviews will be scheduled at 45-minute intervals.

To make an appointment, call the Hereford YMCA at 364-6990 between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m.

YMCA membership is not required to take part in the program.

Cubs drop Astros, 5-3

HOUSTON (AP) - The Chicago Cubs are adjusting well to life without All-Star Andre Dawson, according to rookie Dwight Smith.

Smith was called up from the minors on May 1. Dawson has been out since May 6 with an injured right knee that is expected to sideline him for another month.

"When Andre got hurt, a lot of guys were down, but we've decided not to feel sorry for ourselves and do something about it," Smith said.

Smith did his part with a three-run, pinch-hit triple in the fifth inning as the Cubs beat the Houston Astros 5-3 in the only National League game played Monday night. St. Louis at Cincinnati was rained out.

The Cubs, 23-19, now have won six of their last seven games and are 11-3 against left-handed starting pitchers.

Houston left-hander Jim Deshaies lost for the first time since April 16, after having won four straight decisions.

"I just didn't have command at all," Deshaies said. "I had a terrible change-up and a terrible slider."

Deshaies, 5-3, allowed six hits and four walks in 4 1-3 innings before leaving with the bases loaded in favor

"I took a chance and put up a couple of lefthanders," Zimmer said. "Darwin's as tough on righthanders as anyone."

Varsho struck out, but Smith cleared the bases with a drive over the head of center fielder Gerald Young, scoring Vance Law, Mark Grace and Damon Berryhill.

"Smith got hold of my fastball," Darwin said. "I tried to go up and away and he did what he was supposed to do."

Darwin used his fastball to strike out Varsho and got ahead 0-2 on Smith.

"He was getting confident and he tried to get another one by me," Smith said. "I had to be looking fastball. I'm a line-drive hitter and I try to use the gap and my wheels (legs). That's my game."

Rick Sutcliffe, 5-3, won his first game since April 21, working 7 1-3 innings.

Sutcliffe faltered in the eighth when Craig Biggio, Louie Meadows and Young had consecutive singles.

All three scored after reliever Mitch

Dimmitt girl crowned '89 Riding Club Queen

Stephanie Major of Dimmitt was crowned Hereford Riding Club Queen at the Hereford Junior Rodeo held Friday and Saturday at the HRC arena. Major, a four-year member of the HRC, is the daughter of B.J. and Janice Jordan of Dimmitt.

The HRC also awarded all-around titles in six divisions for the rodeo.

Monty Lewis of Hereford won the 8 to 11 age group. Tadpole

Jones of Tell took the 9 to 12 age group.

In girls competition, Chasity Rickman of Hereford won the 13 to 15 division while Amy Cockrell of Pampa was best in the 16 to 19 group.

Winners in boys competition were Cody Cleavinger of Bushland in the 13 to 15 age group and Daniel Gruhkey of Adrian in the 16 to 19 division.

Senator Bivins Reports

AUSTIN - One of the highlights of serving as your State Senator is the opportunity to help make good things happen to deserving people. I would like to share with you a portion of a letter I received from a retired teacher in District 31.

"One day when I was at the beauty shop and several were talking about teacher testing and various other items, I remarked about how fortunate teachers were today compared to the first year that I taught for $60.00 a month (1934). The teacher to whom I addressed my remark laughed at me and said, 'You've gotta be kidding! No one worked for $60.00 a month.' Little did she know that there were 50 applicants for that position which I was very happy to receive. Any job during the Depression was appreciated."

This letter was written by a 75 year old widow. She has served as a valued member of our society, enriching the lives of countless children and their parents. House Bill 85 by Representative Jim Rudd, is a comprehensive bill that amends the years and age at which an individual may retire under the Teacher Retirement System (TRS). The bill reduces the Rule of 95 to 55/30. Instead of years of service combined with the age of the individual totalling 95, this would be reduced to 85 allowing those educators reaching 55 years of age with 30 years of service to be eligible to retire with full benefits. The bill provides for a reduced benefit if a member retires before 30 years of service has been reached. A key provision that I believe is critical to the bill, and one that I supported strongly, provides for annuity increases to retired teacher and educators ranging from 16% to 4% depending on the date of retirement.

As I traveled throughout District 31 during the campaign, and daily as I review your letters and telephone calls, I am reminded of the importance of compensating our teachers and educators. All of us can recall how a teacher opened a window in our minds or instilled within us a gem of truth that has aided us in our daily lives. A number of bills dealing with education are being considered by the Legislature during these last several weeks, but in my opinion, none are more important that adequately compensating those outstanding individuals who have given so much to our society. It is because of our commitment to our children that Texas can achieve her future goals and dreams.

So, from all of us that have benefited from the dedicated service of our education professionals, I am proud to have been a Senate sponsor of this legislation.

Historical drama set

A cast of more than 80 people will stage the musical drama "TEXAS" at Palo Duro Canyon beginning June 14. The annual event plays nightly except Sundays through late August and has since 1966. For reservations, call (806)655-2181.

Graduate economics course offered to area teachers

The West Texas Center for Economic Education will offer the special graduate credit course "Economics in the Social Sciences" July 17-Aug. 1 on the West Texas State University campus in Canyon.

The course, designed for kindergarten through sixth grade teachers, emphasizes the Texas essential elements and relevant basic concepts. Attention will be focused on the review, illustration and application of proven audio-visual and other resource materials for effectively teaching economic concepts in the elementary classroom.

Classes will be conducted from 8:15 a.m. until noon Monday through Thursday, July 17-Aug. 1. The fee for the 10-class sessions is $26.50, including tuition and classroom support materials. The center is able to sponsor the course at this reduced fee because of a grant by the Amarillo Area Foundation with funds from its supporting organization, the Don and Sybil Harrington Foundation.

Although the course may be taken without formal admission to the WTSU graduate program, it is encouraged for those who may want to apply credit toward a WTSU degree.

The course is limited to 20 participants.

The West Texas Center for Economic Education will also offer the "Second Annual Panhandle Energy Institute for Educators," designed for junior, middle and high school teachers, June 5-23 and "Teaching the Economics of the Food and Fiber System," designed for kindergarten through sixth grade teachers, June 26-July 12.

For information on any of these programs, contact Daniels at 806-656-2509.

Hints from Heloise

HOUSEPLANT HELP

Dear Heloise: My roommate and I are having a disagreement about watering plants. She says that the water should be hot and I say the water should be cold. Who is right? It will sure make things better when you answer our question. — Sheila and Lynn, Arlington, Va.

I'm afraid I have some bad news. Neither of you is correct. When watering plants, use lukewarm water. Using water that is hot or cold can shock the roots of the plants and damage them. — Heloise

NEWSPAPER DELIVERY

Dear Heloise: Our newspaper delivery boy collects every week or so for our home-delivered paper. I could never keep up with the little ticket stubs that are our receipt. Whenever he would come to collect, I was never sure how much I owed him.

I purchased a small plastic wallet-size calendar that shows the whole year. I attached it on the back of the front door. When the paper boy comes to collect and I pay him for one or two weeks, I mark it off on the calendar. This way I know exactly how much I've paid or how much I need to pay.

This also helps remind me to always have the correct change on hand. — Marie Brandt, Little Rock, Ark.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: This is prompted by the letter from the woman in West Virginia who was concerned about letting her young son visit her father-in-law, who had molested his daughters when they were young. You said, "Under no circumstances should you permit your son to be alone with that man, no matter what he says. It's too big a risk." Bless you for that answer, Ann.

I am not a psychologist, but I know something about this subject, both as a victim and as an offender. I've had several years of therapy and have been judged safe to be around children. But I still avoid situations where I might be tempted. I know myself too well.

I wish the woman who wrote could talk to my younger brothers and sisters, or to my cousins or to me. We all were molested by Grandpa. If you saw the man and listened to him, you would say he was everybody's idea of the perfect grandfather—the last person in the world you would pick out as a child molester.

I looked like the perfect father. But I molested my two young daughters over a period of seven years. When they said, "No more," I started in with my young son. He was 2 years old at the time. Please, Ann, tell the mother who wrote not to back down an inch. If Grandpa tries to talk her into letting the child visit him, she should look him in the eye and say, "The answer is no, for now and forever. Don't ever bring up the subject again."—Traveled That Road in Tennessee

DEAR TRAVELED: My mail on this subject was incredible. And nearly everyone said the same thing-- "Tell her not to fall for it, no matter what Grandpa says. Don't trust him! Child molesters are also great liars."

I hope the mother sees this column and is firm in her resolve to keep Grandpa away from all the children. That, of course, was the advice I gave and the readers validated it.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Who on earth started that incredibly vulgar custom of the bride and groom shoving the first piece of wedding cake into one another's face?

At a reception where this was done recently, the groom looked positively foolish with icing and cake stuck in his mustache and clouding his eyeglasses. The bride did not fare much better. But they both laughed heartily and carried on as if it was all one huge joke. I might add, the parents looked horrified and most of the guests didn't think it was funny.

In my opinion, such childish behavior detracts from the beauty and dignity of the occasion, and it makes the bride and groom look like a couple of nitwits.

At one reception, the groom did this to his bride after they had promised each other that they wouldn't. She kept her promise but he did not. The bride ended up in tears. Everyone felt embarrassed and sad for her. What a way to start married life! I hope you will comment, Ann.--I.P., Sonora, Calif.

DEAR SONORA: There is nothing funny (or loving) about newlyweds shoving cake into one another's face. I believe it's an attempt to mask hostility, and I would worry about a couple who engaged in this idiotic practice.

The youngest first lady in the nation's history was Frances Folsom Cleveland. She married the President in the Blue Room of the White House when she was 21 years old.
