Chamber board reviews industries, Jubilee plans

BY SPEEDY NIEMAN
Publisher-Editor

Directors of Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce heard a report from Lewis McDaniel, industrial development chairman, and discussed plans for the annual Town & Country Jubilee during a regular monthly meeting Thursday evening.

The industrial development committee met Wednesday, said McDaniel, to define goals and renew activities. Members received an update on several industrial prospects and discussed the proposed frozen-food facility with Larry Malamen.

McDaniel said the chamber had been in contact with a horse meat plant seeking to re-locate, and had studied a proposal for a plant to produce paper from grain stubble. While both are being considered, he said the committee had problems with the debt load required by the packing plant, and the city does not have adequate waste disposal facilities at this time for a paper plant. The committee is planning a seminar in September to inform interested citizens about industrial development.

Malamen, who has announced plans to build a frozen-food facility here, Season's Prime, also attended the board meeting. He told directors he was still working on equity capital for the $7 million project.

Mike Carr, executive vice president, said plans "are falling into place" for the annual Jubilee celebration, scheduled Aug. 5-12. He also reported the Farmer's Market opened Wednesday with a large crowd turning out to buy local produce. The Market will open at 5 p.m. each Wednesday this summer on the parking lot at the Ranch House Restaurant.

James McDowell, legislative committee, reported that Congressman Larry Combest will be here Aug. 15 for a "Town Hall" meeting, and that a meeting with State Sen. Teel Bivins recently drew a large crowd.

Directors attending the session were Doug Josseland, president; Waldo Baxter, Carol Gerk, Bobby Moore, Temple Abney, James McDowell, Diane Holscher and Scott Keeling.

Souter finding out about life as justice candidate

WASHINGTON (AP) - Judge David Souter is completing his first week as President Bush's Supreme Court nominee seemingly unawed by the crush of attention and with potential critics still looking for ammunition.

Watching Souter court the senators whose votes will decide his confirmation, reporters have found a picture of consistency - maybe too much consistency.

"If I could ask you a personal question... Someone pointed out that you seem to be wearing the same suit," one reporter asked.

For that one, the quiet jurist made an exception to his no-comment policy.

"I came down on very short notice... Frankly I had no expectation of staying for very long, so they're right, somebody's got good eyes. It's the same suit.

"I'll have a different suit soon," he promised.

Souter is returning home to New Hampshire this weekend where, among other things, he'll renew his wardrobe.

For the most part, Souter has brushed aside both legal and personal questions.

Was he troubled, one reporter asked, by suggestions "that because you're a bachelor and unmarried... that this calls into question whether you understand the family problems of America?"

"Well, I think by the time I'm through answering the appropriate Senate questions, any concerns about that I hope will be allayed," he responded.

Then, asked simply to describe himself, he said, "modesty forbids."

Sen. Warren Rudman, R-N.H., Souter's longtime friend, told reporters he objected to anyone trying to insinuate something scandalous into the fact that the judge was 50 years old and never married.

"I think it's offensive," said Rudman, whose personality is the opposite of his reserved protégé. "He is a perfectly normal man of the age of 50."

Souter impressed senator after senator as a scholarly man, and apparently scored points in his closed-door meetings by letting the lawmakers do what they love to do - talk.

Sen. Arlen Specter, R-Pa., a Judiciary Committee member, listed at length and in flowery legal terms the topics covered in his conversations with Souter.

"He made a very good impression on me," Specter said.

But how did he do that? Did he express his views on the issues of the day, such as abortion and civil rights rulings?

"He did not. I did not press it. He did not volunteer it," Specter said.

Sen. Patrick Leahy, D-Vt., exchanged good-humored barbs with the judge about their neighboring states before shooing reporters from the room. Leahy said afterward he told the judge he'd be reading all his decisions before the hearings begin in September.

"He said, 'Then you'll probably sleep well in the month of August,'" Leahy said.

Sen. Orrin Hatch of Utah, a senior member of the committee, said, "It's very important for senators to like the nominee."

"If they do, they have a much greater tendency to support the nominee. And he is very likeable, very unassuming, yet very bright, and he listens very carefully," Hatch said.

"I'd be surprised if he has any difficulty" being confirmed, he said.

Texas highest in US monoxide emissions

WASHINGTON (AP) - If Texas were a country, it would rank ahead of such industrial nations as Britain, France and Italy as a source of carbon dioxide emissions, an environmental group says.

The Natural Resources Defense Council reported Thursday that several states are among the world's top producers of the gases blamed for the "greenhouse effect" said to be warming the entire planet.

This means state governments can make a major contribution to fighting global warming, it said.

The 10 states with the highest emissions account for half the total carbon dioxide put into the air in the United States, the NRDC study said. Those states together would rank third in the world as a source of carbon dioxide.

Texas alone would rank seventh, behind the United States, the Soviet Union, China, Japan, West Germany and India.

A buildup of carbon dioxide in the atmosphere is one of the chief reasons scientists expect global temperatures to increase in coming decades with possibly disastrous consequences.

The NRDC, a public interest environmental organization, said its study, "The Statehouse Effect: State Policies to Cool the Greenhouse," was timed to influence the annual meeting of the National Governors' Association next week in Mobile, Ala. Ideas for fighting global warming are on the agenda.

Daniel A. Lashof, senior project scientist at the council, recalled at a news conference that President Bush promised during his 1988 campaign to counter the greenhouse effect with a "White House effect."

"So far, all we've gotten is the whitewash effect," Lashof said. But he said state governments can step in to take the lead.

Environmentalists say the Bush administration is blocking international efforts to force cuts in emissions of carbon dioxide and other gases blamed for global warming, while calling for further study.

Other industrial countries, such as West Germany, Canada, Britain and France, have pledged to stabilize or reduce carbon dioxide emissions and have pressured the United States to take similar actions.

"The principal finding of our report is that states are big players when it comes to global warming," Lashof said.

The study recommends that state governments promote energy efficiency with tough building codes and appliance standards, call a moratorium on investing in new coal-fired power plants, encourage utilities to invest in energy efficiency, reduce harvesting of state forests and plant more trees.

"The good news is that states can do a heck of a lot in reducing their carbon dioxide emissions," said Robert Watson, an expert on energy efficiency at the NRDC.

Energy-saving policies, he said, generally are cheaper than building new power plants and create more jobs within the state.

The study, based on 1988 figures, put Texas at the top of the state-by-state list in carbon dioxide emissions with 553 million metric tons, well ahead of California's 310 million metric tons.

Texas put out more carbon dioxide than Britain, Italy or Canada, while California ranked ahead of France and Mexico.

The rest of the top 10 emitting states were Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Louisiana, New York, Michigan and Florida.

Watson said California, New York and Florida, although they rank in the top 10 because of their large populations, were leaders in promoting energy efficiency and scored well on per capita emissions.

"Texas is a hopeless cause," Watson said. "There's something of a frontier mentality. People are very resistant to adopting energy standards because they don't like to be told what to do. They don't want to do it, they're not going to do it, even though it's probably costing their citizens billions of dollars and thousands of jobs."

Texas was eighth-highest in per capita carbon dioxide emissions, as well as highest in total emissions. Per capita emissions were highest in Wyoming, but Watson said the result could be misleading.

"Wyoming has a very small population and it has a coal production industry and some coal-fired power plants whose electricity is probably consumed out of state. Wyoming is something of an anomaly," he said. "It may also be inefficient, but it's hard to tell."

For its study, the NRDC analyzed national carbon dioxide data from the Oak Ridge (Tenn.) National Laboratory, and calculated state-by-state figures based on energy consumption data from the U.S. Department of Energy. Emissions from power production for electricity consumed in other states are included in the exporting state's figures, rather than that of the importing state.

Governor proclaims Burger Day Saturday

Saturday has been proclaimed "Texas Hamburger Day" by Gov. Bill Clements in recognition that the first hamburger ever cooked was cooked in Texas.

Clements' proclamation said: "A Texas original, the first hamburger was cooked in Athens, Texas, about 100 years ago by Fletcher 'Old Dave' Davis, and introduced to the world at the 1904 St. Louis World's Fair."

The proclamation noted that the 5th annual Frank X. Tolbert World Championship Hamburger Cook-Off is to be held in Dallas on Saturday to commemorate Davis' deed and "to perpetuate the true history of the hamburger for future generations."

Clothing travel tips given

When selecting clothes for your trip, stick to wrinkle-resistant fabrics such as knits polyester blends, and soft wools. Spun silks and crepe wrinkle less than most sheer silk and rayon.

To help prevent wrinkles, fold your clothes around white tissue paper before putting them in your suitcase.

Once you reach your hotel, take clothes out of your suitcase as soon as possible. It's best not to hang sweaters like a shirt—they can stretch and may show hanger marks. Instead, fold them smoothly in half and hang over the crossbar of the hanger, or pack loosely in a drawer.

To rejuvenate a wrinkled wool suit, hang it in a steamy bathroom. The moisture from the steam will remove the wrinkles.

Perspiration contains salts that can damage fabric, particularly silk, if left too long. Remove perspiration stains by washing or drycleaning as soon as possible, preferably within a few days.

Beverages such as soft drinks, white wine and mixed drinks contain sugar. Spills may be colorless and disappear when they dry, but surprise-left, alone, the sugar can cause yellow or brown stains, especially if exposed to heat. Be sure to wash these out as soon as possible, and if the garment must be drycleaned, point out any such "invisible" stains so the drycleaner knows to pay special attention during cleaning.

Next to foods and beverages, ink stains are probably the most common. So watch those pens while keeping your travel log or taking notes in your business meeting. Ink is particularly stubborn, and may not come out with regular machine washing. But don't worry—professional cleaners have solvents to safely remove most inks and other stains from fabric.

We usually take raincoats when we travel. Perspiration, dirt and body oils often weaken the fibers around the collar and cuffs. Wearing a scarf to protect your coat's collar will help.

When you return home, consider having your raincoat drycleaned, and point out any stains to your drycleaner when you bring it in.

When in doubt about how to care for a garment on the road (or at home), check the care label. Manufacturers are required by law to tell you the best method of cleaning your clothes.

After you return home, be sure to remove stains from fabrics before storage to prevent fabric damage.

Andrews waits past last minute before taking Babe Ruth tourney

By SAM W. WALLER
Sports Editor

The 1990 West Texas State Babe Ruth Tournament went down to the wire and beyond Thursday before the Andrews All-Stars downed Graham to claim the title and a berth in the Southwest Regional Tournament in Santa Fe, N.M.

Graham, coming out of the losers' bracket by virtue of a 10-0 win over Hereford on Wednesday, forced the tournament to a ninth game with a 17-4 romp before Andrews came away with a 7-1 win in eight innings.

Andrews will advance to the Southwest Regional, the final step before the Babe Ruth World Series, to take on teams from Texas, New Mexico, Louisiana, Arkansas and Oklahoma.

Graham 17, Andrews 5

Graham made the "if necessary" game necessary with its third straight run-rule win as the game was called after six innings.

Graham put together three five-run innings and almost ended the game in the fifth before Andrews scored four times to pull within 12-5. Graham racked up 23 hits in the game while Toby Dollar and Michael Whitfill combined to allow three.

After both teams scored once in the first inning, Graham broke loose with its first five-run outburst in the second using five singles and three Andrews errors to take the lead.

Graham added another run in the third and then went up 12-1 with its second eruption in the fourth. Justin Burgess had a two-run homer in the inning to knock Andrews starter and loser Jaime Emiliano off the mound. Reliever Rudy Madriles gave up back-to-back doubles to Nathan Robinson and Pee Wee Shifflett as three more runs crossed the plate before the inning ended.

Andrews was two outs away from having the game called before rallying to stay within 10 runs in the fifth. Emiliano singled in two runs and scored on Rolando Martinez's sacrifice fly. Heath McBeth added the final run with a solo home run.

Graham put the game out of reach with one more big inning keyed by Brad Ribble's three-run homer.

Whitfill picked up the win with three innings of relief for Graham.

Andrews 7, Graham 1

The tourney's final game was everything it should have been for seven innings before Andrews decided the issue with six runs in the eighth.

In a pitchers' duel that featured 30 total strikeouts and only two scratch singles through the seventh, the teams came away tied 1-1. Tournament rules prohibiting a pitcher from going more than seven innings over two consecutive games proved to be the deciding factor.

Rene Barrientes hurled 6 1-3 innings of no-hit ball for Andrews before Shifflett pulled a single just inside the bag at third to drive in Dustin Dunnam with the tying run.

HRC holds playday

The Hereford Riders Club held a Playday Saturday at the HRC Arena.

Playday events included ring around the pole, barrel race, boot race, rescue race and steer daubing.

High point winners were Brandon Gresham in the mini pee wee division, Trent Barber in pee wee, Cameron Esqueda in junior, Nikki Messer in intermediate and Toni Minyard in senior. Division winners were awarded saddle pads.

NL East still tight, West race heats up

By BEN WALKER
AP Baseball Writer

In the National League East, there's already a race. At this rate, there might be one in the West, too.

New York and Pittsburgh wound up tied for first place Thursday after the Mets split a doubleheader with St. Louis and the Pirates lost to Philadelphia. Montreal, meanwhile, is just four games back.

"We feel good about our position," Mets manager Bud Harrelson said.

Cincinnati, however, is struggling. The Reds lost their fourth straight, 4-3 to San Francisco, as the Giants pulled within 8 1/2 games.

"We've put ourselves in a position where we have to put something together," said Rick Leach, who hit a two-run homer and singled to set up the go-ahead run in the seventh inning.

New York beat St. Louis 6-1 in the first game and then lost 3-1. Philadelphia trounced Pittsburgh 12-4. Montreal defeated Chicago 3-2 in 10 innings. San Diego stopped Houston 8-2 and Los Angeles downed Atlanta 8-1.

Cincinnati got off to a good start in the opener of a four-game series as its first three batters scored. Eric Davis hit a two-run double and Luis Quinones had a sacrifice fly off Trevor Wilson.

But the Giants rallied against Jose Rijo in the third as Leach hit his first home run since May 26, 1989. Brett Butler's single in the fourth made it 3-3.

In the seventh, Butler led off with a single against Rijo (6-4) and took third on Leach's hit-and-run single. Butler scored when Will Clark grounded into a double play. (See NL ROUNDUP, Page 5)

Freak play sends Jays past Royals

By The Associated Press

Perhaps it was the metric system that made three strikes equal three runs in Toronto.

At any rate, Blue Jays manager Cito Gaston couldn't remember seeing three runs score on a strikeout.

"I can't recall," he said after the strange play helped the Blue Jays beat the Kansas City Royals 7-5 Thursday night. "But I've probably seen everything. I played in San Diego."

The average fan probably is unaware that a catcher who fails to handle a third strike with the bases loaded and two out can end the inning simply by stepping on home plate for a force play.

Toronto trailed 3-1 in the second inning when Greg Myers and Mark Whiten had one-out singles. The bases were loaded when loser Kevin Appier (5-4) fielded Manny Lee's comebacker and threw wildly to second. Glenallen Hill popped out and Mookie Wilson struck out on a 3-2 pitch.

Inning over, right? Wrong. The ball rolled a few feet away from catcher Mike Macfarlane, who fired to first but threw the ball away. All three runners scored.

"I picked up the ball with my foot on the plate," Macfarlane insisted. "I wasn't real sure of the call, and when I didn't hear anything from Derryl (plate umpire Cousins), I panicked and threw a (lousy) ball to first."

The gift runs helped the Blue Jays take a one-game lead in the American League East over Boston, a 10-4 loser to Detroit. Elsewhere, California beat Oakland 4-2 in 11 innings and Seattle defeated Minnesota 6-4.

Toronto trailed 4-3 when Appier walked Fred McGriff with one out in the third. He took second on John (See AL ROUNDUP, Page 5)

Short-lived jubilation

The Graham All-Stars celebrate Pee Wee Shifflett's game-tying single in the bottom of the seventh inning of the West Texas State Tournament's final game against Andrews Thursday at Kids Inc. Park. The Graham emotions made a quick reversal when the winning run was stranded at third and Andrews came up with six runs in the eighth to win 7-1.

Madriles, the second batter of the game, scored what looked to be the only run of the game without benefit of a hit. Madriles walked, stole second and moved to third on a ground-ball out. With two out, Martinez struck out, but the ball got away from the catcher, Robinson. Madriles crossed the plate and Martinez reached first before Robinson tracked the ball down.

Barrientes made the lead stand up, recording 15 strikeouts through the seventh.

Robinson almost tied the game in the third after walking and advancing two bases on wild pitches, but a third wasn't wild enough as Andrews catcher Craig Sweet got the ball to Barrientes covering the plate in time for the out.

Dollar, who came on in the fourth, kept Graham in the game with a pitching performance equal to Barrientes'. Dollar faced the minimum 12 batters in his four innings, giving up only a walk to Sweet who was thrown out trying to steal.

Graham loaded the bases in the sixth on two walks and an error, but Madriles got pinch-hitter Chad Bates swinging to end the inning.

Graham finally got to Barrientes in the seventh when Dunnam walked and Robinson's grounder to short was thrown away. Shifflett followed with his single and Graham had runners on second and third with one out. Barrientes came back to strike out Whitfill and Smith to send the game into the eighth.

That was all Andrews needed as Dollar was forced from the mound by the rules and Burgess returned to walk the first two batters on full counts.

Whitfill took the mound and gave up three straight singles to Barrientes, Madriles and Emiliano. McBeth applied the final blow with his second homer of the night, a three-run blast that cleared the left-field fence by 50 feet.

Emiliano preserved the win for Barrientes, allowing a walk and a single before Dunnam grounded into a force play to end the game.

Johnson returns Newton to offensive line at right tackle

AUSTIN (AP) - Nate Newton, the Dallas Cowboys' rotund guard who was removed from the starting lineup last week, moved back in as the first-team right tackle, coach Jimmy Johnson announced.

Newton, the subject of Johnson's wrath after reporting 16 pounds overweight last week, replaces last year's starting right tackle, Kevin Gogan, Johnson said Thursday.

Johnson's decision came after what he felt was a lack of effort by Gogan in the early workouts.

"Kevin Gogan can be a much better player than he's performing," Johnson said. "Kevin knows he can do much better."

Gogan did not agree with Johnson's assessment.

"I took this whole off-season and I worked my tail off," Gogan said. "For him to say that, I don't think it's very fair. It's hard for me to take if he says I'm not working hard."

Johnson said he has been impressed with Newton's play and with his attempts to get his weight down to the assigned 315 pounds. The club fined Newton $400 last week for failing to meet the weight clause in his contract.

"From day one, Nate has worked harder than at any time since I've been with the Cowboys," Johnson said. "He's committed himself and his performance has shown it. As long as he continues to perform like this, he'll be hard to beat out."

Johnson and the coaching staff seem to be changing their thinking about Newton, whose weight problems have been an ongoing theme in his five seasons with Dallas.

"We're pushing him as hard as we can to make sure he becomes what he's capable of doing," Johnson said. "We're monitoring his food intake. But Nate is an amazing athlete."

The Cowboys' morning workout was highlighted by the play of Newton, linebacker Ken Norton and fullback Tommy Agee.

Defensive tackle Dean Hamel, in his second workout since reporting four days' late Tuesday night, got into a fight with center Mark Stepnoski during the morning practice. Hamel felt he had been clipped by Stepnoski.

AL ROUNDUP

Olerud's groundout and scored on Myers' single, tying the game 4-4. Whiten hit Appier's next pitch over the center-field wall for his first major-league home run.

Myers hit a sacrifice fly to make it 7-4 in the fifth and offset Macfarlane's home run in the seventh.

Boston cut the lead to 4-3 in the sixth on Mike Greenwell's home run and Tony Pena's RBI single. But Moseby homered off the facing of the press box on the right field roof in the sixth and the Tigers added four runs in the seventh.

"That's a situation where you put all the personal stuff aside and say, 'This is for the team,'" Clark said. "I've been struggling and my goal was not to strike out and not to pop up. I was feeling terrible at the plate and all I wanted to do was put the ball in play."

Mark Thurmond (2-2) got the victory with 1 2-3 innings of scoreless relief. Jeff Brantley pitched two innings for his 16th save, picking off pinch-runner Herm Winningham at first base for the first out in the ninth.

Mets 6, Cardinals 1

Cardinals 3, Mets 1

Ron Darling pitched a four-hitter and New York won the opener at Shea Stadium. But with a chance to take over sole possession of first place, the Mets lost the second game as St. Louis' Ken Hill allowed three hits in 7 2-3 innings.

Darling (4-5) won his second straight start since being put back into the rotation. He struck out six and gave up an unearned run in his first complete game.

Darryl Boston went 4-for-4 and Darryl Strawberry drove in two runs. Bob Tewksbury (5-3) took the loss.

Hill, recalled from the minors a day earlier, won his first decision for the Cardinals. Bob Ojeda (4-5) was the loser.

Willie McGee extended his hitting streak to 18 games in the opener, but did not play the second game for St. Louis.

Phillies 12, Pirates 4

Charlie Hayes hit a two-run homer and Philadelphia scored five times in the first inning to knock out Neal Heaton. Lenny Dykstra scored three runs in the first three innings as the Phillies took a 9-0 lead at Pittsburgh.

Heaton, an All-Star, lost his fifth straight decision and fell to 10-7.

Terry Mulholland (5-4), helped by Philadelphia's 14 hits, pitched his second complete game. He allowed 10 hits.

Facts About The BIBLE BY JOHN LEHTI

MEAT AND MILK NOT TO BE EATEN AT THE SAME MEAL!

THREE TIMES THE BIBLE SPECIFICALLY STATES "THOU SHALT NOT SEETH (BOIL) A KID IN HIS MOTHER'S MILK." (EXODUS 23:18, EXODUS 34:26, DEUT. 14:21). THIS WAS GOD'S LAW LAID DOWN TO ISRAEL BY MOSES AND, TO THIS DAY, THE ORTHODOX HAVE NO MEAT AND MILK AT THE SAME MEAL. MANY PEOPLE THINK THIS WAS A DIETARY LAW—THAT MILK AND MEAT TOGETHER WOULDN'T DIGEST WELL, ESPECIALLY IN THE HOT DESERT CLIMATE—WHICH IS NONSENSE! MILK AND MEAT, BOTH HIGH PROTEIN FOODS, DIGEST AS EASILY TOGETHER AS THEY DO APART—HOT WEATHER OR COLD... BUT THERE WAS A GOOD REASON, IN MOSES' EYES, FOR THIS LAW—VERY UNDERSTANDABLE WHEN WE EXAMINE A CUSTOM OF THE IDOL WORSHIPPERS WITH WHOM THE ISRAELITES CAME INTO CONTACT IN THEIR DAILY LIVING....

MOSES CONSTANTLY ADMONISHED HIS PEOPLE TO STAY PURE IN GOD'S EYES—TO HAVE NOTHING TO DO WITH HEATHEN IDOLATERS. THE YOUNG MEN WERE FORBIDDEN TO "GO WITH THE DAUGHTERS OF BAAL," WHICH MANY OF THEM DID! MOSES COULD FORSEE THE DANGER OF HIS YOUNG NATION DISAPPEARING FROM EARTH, NOT BY WAR, BUT BY THE SIMPLE PROCESS OF INTER-MARRIAGE—SO HE ORDERED ISRAEL TO AVOID ALL CUSTOMS OF THEIR HEATHEN NEIGHBORS TO PREVENT ANY OF THEIR WAYS CREEPING INTO THE LIVES OF HIS PEOPLE. JUST AS ISRAELITES BROUGHT SACRIFICES TO GOD'S ALTAR, SO DID THE HEATHEN TO THEIR IDOLS—A POPULAR OFFERING WAS A TASTY DISH OF BOILED YOUNG KID OR LAMB IN ITS MOTHER'S MILK (OR ANY MILK FOR THAT MATTER). THE MEAT JUICE AND THE MILK BOILED INTO A SAVORY SAUCE SO DELICIOUS THAT THE PRIESTS AND TEMPLE PROSTITUTES COULD HARDLY WAIT TO GRAB AND EAT IT BEFORE THE DONOR, WHO HAD BROUGHT IT, LEFT THE TEMPLE!

NEVER A DAY WENT BY THAT SOME HEATHEN FAMILY DIDN'T TURN UP AT THE TEMPLE WITH THIS DELECTABLE DISH, CONVINCED THEIR GODS WOULD ENJOY IT AND SO SMILE DOWN ON THEM WITH FAVOR! IS IT ANY WONDER, THEN, THAT MOSES ORDERED HIS PEOPLE TO HAVE NOTHING TO DO WITH THIS DISH AT ANY TIME—EVER! THE IDEA THAT SOME ISRAELITE MIGHT OFFER TO GOD THE SAME THING THAT WAS GIVEN TO A STONE IDOL WAS UNTHINKABLE! YE SHALL NOT DO AS THE HEATHEN DO, WAS THE ORDER OF THE DAY SO THAT ISRAEL MIGHT CONTINUE... "A PECULIAR (SPECIAL) PEOPLE... ABOVE ALL THE NATIONS THAT ARE UPON THE EARTH." (DEUT. 14:2)

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Have you ever known a clam? Probably not. Well, I am married to one. This husband of mine cannot or will not carry on a conversation. Here's the way it goes:

Me: What do you think about the government's plan to raise the price of postage stamps again?
The Clam: I have no idea.

Me: I read in the paper that there was a flood in the Sahara desert.
The Clam: Oh really?

Me: His stock, all-purpose comments are: "Is that a fact?" "You can't win for losin'." "That's the way the ball bounces." "Well, ain't that one for the books!" His responses are a boring assortment of worn-out cliches and platitudes.

Me: Half of the time he tunes me out totally. For example, last night I said, "I just got back from a trip on the space shuttle." He replied, "That's nice."

Maybe it's genetic -- not on his side of the family, but mine. My mother also married a clam. I remember one day when I came home after school she was yelling (and I do mean yelling) at my father, "You never talk to me! Something must happen at work that you could tell me about!" He replied, innocently, "Why are you hollering? What do you want me to say?" Then he walked into the next room and plugged his eyes into the TV for the rest of the evening.

When I asked my mother why she married him, she said, "Because he was the quiet type." I now know what she meant, because I made the same mistake. Women tend to think that quiet men are thoughtful and smart. Now that I'm older I know they might just be dumb.

There must be other women out there who have the same problem.

How do they cope? Can you offer any advice, Ann? Please don't tell me to leave the drip. I have no place to go. -- Augusta, Maine

DEAR AUGUSTA: It's impossible to change the clam, so you'd better change yourself.

Don't live your life around him. Develop some outside interests. Get out of the house during the day. How about a part-time job or some volunteer work? You sound like an outgoing lady who could cheer up veterans, live up a retirement home or work with the handicapped. Call the Chamber of Commerce and ask for suggestions. Find you niche and make a life for yourself.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I know that a letter in your column will be read by millions. Please print this one. It could save a lot of heartache and anxiety.

Tell your readers that if they must make a phone call in the middle of the night and then reach a wrong number to please say something -- anything. "Sorry I misdialled," or "Oops, I made a mistake."

We are an older couple with children who live on both coasts. This morning a call came at 4:05 a.m. Whoever it was just hung up.

We couldn't go back to sleep and called each of our children before they left for work to make sure they were OK. We were worried sick until we reached them, afraid something terrible had happened. Thanks for passing the word, Ann. -- Mrs. D.B., Port Clinton, Ohio

DEAR MRS. D.B.: This is an excellent example of how a little common courtesy can prevent a great deal of anxiety. I'll bet a lot of readers who used to hang up will say something now.

Do you have questions about sex, but no one to talk to? Ann Landers' booklet, "Sex and the Teen-Ager," is frank and to the point. Send a self-addressed, long, business-size envelope and a check or money order for $3.65 (this includes postage and handling) to: Teens, c/o Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562. (In Canada, send $4.45.)
